FOREWORD

IN compiling this commercial dictionary, the aim has been to include all the words and expressions which are generally used in commerce, excluding those which do not come under this category. That the work is thoroughly up to date will be readily seen by reference to such words as "wireless telegraphy, Marconigram, aeroplane, typist, taxi-cab, underground railway, etc.," which are not to be found in most Spanish-English dictionaries published hitherto.

Many difficulties have been encountered in the preparation of this work, and the greatest of these was that constituted by words of doubtful etymology, or words borrowed from other languages. Some words are used in commerce, particularly with the Spanish Americas, which are not recognised by the dictionary of the Royal Spanish Academy. If such words were excluded entirely from a commercial dictionary, this would lose much of its practical utility and value as a reference. Moreover, it frequently happens that words which are first introduced by commercial men are admitted into the language in course of time. In the present work it has been deemed expedient to include many such important words; and in cases where they are purely local, or South-American, a note to that effect has been given.

Like ourselves, the Spaniards employ many words which they have borrowed or adapted from the French, such as: garage, chauffeur, bon marché, début, buffet, grippe, etc.; and many others relating to articles of dress, such as crêpe (Spanish version: crepê), moiré, etc. From the English language the Spaniards have also borrowed many words, such as "bar (in a public-house), club, detective, inch, jersey, sweater (garment), lock-out (in trade disputes), etc., record, reporter, trust (an industrial combine), hall, arrowroot, etc., etc." They have, of course, their own versions of many of these words (e.g., bufete, bar; círculo or equipo, club; pulgada, inch; salón, hall; etc.). There are also certain coined or adapted versions of English words, such as boicotar (or boicotear), to boycott ; entreviú, interview ; entreviuar, to interview ; mitin, meeting ; etc. The English word "stock" is extensively used by Spaniards in commerce, and is sometimes spelt stok ; but their own word existencia is more general. Many of these adapted words are included in the present work and, in most cases, are italicised to show that they are not recognised Spanish words.

Spanish spelling offers little difficulty as a rule, but attention might be called to words beginning with the prefixes : trans, ob and sub. The "n" of trans, and the "b" of ob and sub, are often dropped, and thus one may write transporte or trasporte, oscuro or oscur, subscribir or suscribir ; etc. There is likewise some confusion between the prefixes "ex" and "es," and one often meets with estraño for extraño, estranjero for extranjero, etc.

The use of the dash and brackets may be briefly explained. The dash represents the key-word, or the word in heavy type, and means : "repeat." The brackets are used in some instances to contain the preposition which is required by a certain verb or adverb ; in other cases they contain an alternative or additional rendering ; and sometimes they contain words explanatory to the type.

IRREGULAR VERBS.

The irregularities of Spanish verbs are for the most part in the Present Indicative and the Past Definite tenses, and the tenses derived from these, viz. :

From Present Indicative:— Present Subjunctive and Imperative.
 „ Past Definite:— Imperfect, Future, and Conditional of the Subjunctive.

For both Regular and Irregular verbs it is a simple matter to ascertain the Subjunctive tenses, once the Present Indicative and the Past Definite are known.

The Present Subjunctive is formed as follows, with a few exceptions. Change the final “o” of the 1st person of the Present Indicative to “e” for the 1st Conjugation, and to “a” for the 2nd and 3rd Conjugations, thus :

Compro, I buy.	Pres. Subj. (que) compre.
Temo, I fear.	„ „ (que) tema.
Parto, I divide.	„ „ (que) parta.

This gives the 1st person singular of the Present Subjunctive. The other persons are formed by adding the following terminations :

s for the 2nd person singular ; mos for the 1st person plural ;
 is for the 2nd person plural ; n for the 3rd person plural.

The 3rd person singular is the same as the 1st person singular. In the following tables of Irregular Verbs the Present Subjunctive is only given when it is not formed according to this rule.

A study of the preceding table of Regular Verbs, also of the Irregular Verbs, will show that, for all the tenses of the Subjunctive, and most of the tenses of the Indicative, once the 1st person singular is known, the following letters are added for the other persons :

1st person singular	—
2nd „ „	—s
3rd „ „	—
1st „ plural	—mos
2nd „ „	—is
3rd „ „	—n

The Imperfect, Future, and Conditional of the Subjunctive are formed from the Past Definite, for all verbs whether Regular or Irregular, in the following manner. Take the 3rd person plural of the Past Definite, say “Partieron.” Suppress the final letters “ron” and substitute the following :

se	for the Imperfect Subjunctive, i.e. ,	Partie se ;
re	„ „ Future	„ „ Partie re ;
ra	„ „ Conditional	„ „ Partie ra.

Thus we get the 1st person singular, and the other persons are formed by the additions mentioned in the preceding paragraph. These tenses will, therefore, not be given in the table of Irregular Verbs, which follows.

SPANISH DICTIONARY

IMPERFECT.

All Spanish verbs are regular in the Imperfect of the Indicative, except : Ser, to be ; Ir, to go ; and Ver, to see ; also their derivatives, such as : Prever, etc. Consequently, the Imperfect will not be mentioned in the following tables, except for the three verbs indicated.

FUTURE AND CONDITIONAL.

For all Spanish verbs, regular or irregular, the Future and Conditional of the Indicative are formed by adding the following terminations to the Infinitive :

Future.	Conditional.
é	ía
ás	ías
á	ía
emos	íamos
éis	íais
án	ían

EXCEPTIONS.

There are twelve exceptions to the above rule (apart from derivatives), which are :

Caber, to be contained, which drops the	e , viz. :	Cabré, etc.
Decir, to say,	" " "	ec , " Diré, etc.
Haber, to have,	" " "	e , " Habré, etc.
Hacer, to make,	" " "	ce , " Haré, etc.
Poder, to be able,	" " "	e , " Podré, etc.
Poner, to put,	" substitutes	d , " Pondré, etc.
Querer, to wish,	" drops the	e , " Querré, etc.
Saber, to know,	" " "	e , " Sabré, etc.
Salir, to go out,	" substitutes	d , " Saldré, etc.
Tener, to have,	" " "	d , " Tendré, etc.
Valer, to be worth,	" " "	d , " Valdré, etc.
Venir, to come,	" " "	d , " Vendré, etc.

In the following tables, the Future and Conditional of the Indicative will, therefore, only be given for the above exceptions.

PARTICIPLES.

The following is the list of verbs, which have an irregular past participle :

- Abrir, abierto ;
- Cubrir, cubierto (also derivatives, descubrir, etc.) ;
- Escribir, escrito (" " describir, etc.) ;
- Exprimir, expreso ;
- Decir, dicho (also derivatives, predecir, etc.) ;
- Hacer, hecho ;
- Imprimir, impreso ;
- Morir, muerto ;
- Poner, puesto (also derivatives, reponer, etc.) ;
- Romper, roto ;
- Ver, visto (also derivatives, prever, etc.) ;
- Volver, vuelto.

SPANISH DICTIONARY

Also all verbs which terminate in "olver," as: Absolver, absuelto; Resolver, resuelto, etc.

The Present Participle is irregular in the following verbs: Decir, diciendo; Pedir, pidiendo; Reñir, riñendo; and several others.

The participles are, therefore, only mentioned when irregular in the table of Irregular Verbs.

IMPERATIVE.

This is always the same as the Present Subjunctive, for the 3rd persons singular and plural, and as these are the forms used with "usted" and "ustedes," the Imperative is not given in the table of Irregular Verbs.

EUPHONIC CHANGES.

1. Verbs which end in car change the c into qu, when the first letter of the termination is e.
 2. Verbs which end in cer change the c into z
 3. " " " civ " " c " z } When the first letter
 4. " " " ger " " g " j } of the termination
 5. " " " gir " " g " j } is o or a.
 6. " " " quiv " " qu " c }
 7. " " " guir drop " u }
 8. " " " gar add " u } When the first letter of
 9. " " " zar change " z " c } the termination is e.
 10. " " " llir and ñir drop the i } When the first letter
- of the termination
is i.

VOWEL CHANGES.

The majority of Spanish irregular verbs, apart from those mentioned under the heading of Euphonic Changes, undergo a vowel change in the singular of the Present Indicative, and the 3rd person of the plural, as:

Acordar, to remind.	Acuerdo	acordamos
	acuerdas	acordáis
	acuerda	acuerdan
 Acertar, to guess.	 Acierto	 acertamos
	aciertas	acertáis
	acierta	aciertan

N.B.—The 1st and 2nd persons of the plural are regular for almost all Spanish verbs.

Car and Gar.—Verbs which end in "car" and "gar" are not considered irregular, and are therefore not included in the list of Irregular Verbs. These verbs take "qu" and "gu" respectively, as indicated in the table of Euphonic Changes, when followed by "e." Example:

Toqué, I touched (from Tocar);
Pagué, I paid (from Pagar).

The Present Subjunctive of such verbs is: Toque, toques, etc.; Pague, pagues, etc.

SPANISH MONEY.

Until recent years the monetary unit of Spain and her former colonies was the real de vellón,¹ which is equal to about 2½d. (2.45d.) in English money; and 20 reales de vellón formed the duro or peso (which was the foundation of the United States' coinage). The French decimal system has, however, brought about the introduction of the new currency, based on the peseta (or franc), which is valued approximately at 9½d. in English money, and is divided into 100ths, or céntimos.

In the Spanish-speaking American republics the peso or dollar is the principal unit, and this is valued at a figure ranging from 2½d. to 4s. 4d., according to the particular republic or place. Like the peseta, the peso is reckoned under the decimal system, and the centavo is the 100th part of a peso.

The Spanish peseta contains 4 reales, or 100 céntimos, and the Spanish dollar (or duro) contains 5 pesetas, i.e., about 4s. The American dollar or peso contains 100 centavos, and the American peso contains 8 reales.

The American dollar or peso varies considerably in value in the different Republics. In Chili the peso is generally valued between 7d. and 9d., in Mexico at about 2s., in the Argentine Republic at about 1s. 9d. In Ecuador the coinage is based on the sucre, which is valued at 2s. In Panama the American gold dollar is in use, i.e., about 4s. 2d., and the balboa (or gold dollar) is current, value about 4s. In Salvador the peso is worth from 1s. 8d. to 1s. 10d., and in Costa Rica about 1s. 8d., whereas in Nicaragua its worth ranges from 2½d. to 4d., and in Colombia the United States currency (or English gold) is in general use.

¹ "Moneda de vellón." This was the name given to the old Spanish currency, and may be compared to the English expression "sterling."

SPANISH DICTIONARY

In Peru the sol (silver) value about 2s. is in use, also the libra esterlina (or sovereign) and the media libra. In Bolivia the principal unit is the boliviano, value about 1s. 7d. In Cuba the coinage of the United States has been adopted, the dollar being worth 4s. 2d., and the centavo about $\frac{1}{2}$ d. In Uruguay the dollar is worth about 4s. 3d., and is divided into centésimos, and in Venezuela the principal coin is the venezolano, worth about 4s.

These particulars are merely given to show the approximate value of the coinage in English money, but as the current value of these moneys depends on the exchange, and is liable to fluctuate very much, they must not be accepted implicitly as the exact value. Needless to say, the English equivalents indicated above are, in most of the cases, much below the par value of the respective currencies. The actual equivalent of the various currencies can generally be ascertained from the money column of certain newspapers.

SPANISH WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

WEIGHTS.

For the most part the metric system has been adopted by the commercial parts of Spain and Spanish America, although the old Spanish weights are still used. The Spanish pound (libra castellana) is equal to about 1·014 lb. English, i.e., practically the same. There are 16 ounces (onzas) to the pound (libra), 25 libras to the quarter (arroba), 4 arrobas to the hundredweight (quintal), and 20 quintales to the ton (tonelada).

100 Spanish lbs. = 101·443 English lbs.

100 English lbs. = 98·577 Spanish lbs.

MEASURES.

As in the case of weights, the metric system is largely used in commerce, but the old Spanish system is still used in Spain and America. The Spanish foot (pie castellano) measures 10·96 English inches. There are 12 inches (pulgadas) to the foot (pie), and 3 feet (pies) to the yard (vara).

100 Spanish yards = 91·318 English yards

100 English yards = 109·388 Spanish yards

It is often said that, roughly, 35 varas equal 32 yards. Also, 100 varas are equal to $83\frac{1}{2}$ metres.

N.B.—In selling textiles to Spanish and Spanish-American houses, the majority of houses in Great Britain sell by the English yard, which is translated by “yarda” and not “vara,” as the “vara” is less.

DRY MEASURE.

The fanega contains 1,527 Imperial bushels. There are 4 cuartillos to the celemín, 12 celemínes to the fanega, and 12 fanegas to the cahiz.

100 fanegas = 152·667 Imperial bushels

100 Imperial bushels = 65·502 fanegas

SPANISH DICTIONARY

LIQUID MEASURE.

The cántara contains 3,552 Imperial gallons. There are 4 copas to the cuartillo, 4 cuartillos to the azumbre, 2 azumbres to the cuartilla, and 4 cuartillas to the cántara.

100 cántaras	=	355·20 Imperial gallons
100 Imperial gallons	=	28·16 cántaras
