Officials warn residents of scams | Groups set up methods

Some may try to cash in on local citizens

By JEFF MOORE

The News-Democrat

With Carroll County now declared a disaster area by President Barak Obama, local residents must be on guard against scams linked to charities, contractors and others who seek to cash in on the destruction and damage left by the March 2 tornado and storms that swept through the area.

County officials say five homes were destroyed in the county and 52 other structures received limited to moderate damage from the EF-1 tornado that is believed to have packed winds of 95-105 miles an hour.

Some local residents report having received calls from companies looking to repair roofs, while others hit by the storm have had out-of-state people show up offering to help with their cleanup in return for hauling away any metal.

Kentucky's Department of Financial Institutions warns residents that there will be people looking to take advantage of storm victims who will receive insurance settlements or federal assistance. The department says consumers must watch when they are offered special "storm damage deals" and offers that appear too good to be true.

"Con artists pay attention to the headlines and don't hesitate to take advantage of a terrible situation in order to scam victims in need of food, clothing and shelter," state DFI Commissioner to donate in county, state

By JEFF MOORE

The News-Democrat

Local residents have options for making donations of needed items and money to aid their local community.

Carroll County Judge-Executive Harold "Shorty" Tomlinson said the county is working with the Carroll County Chamber of Commerce and all local banks to set up accounts where local residents can donate money to assist people here in the community. Any leftover funds would then be considered to aid some of the other harderhit counties in Kentucky.

Additionally, the Northern Kentucky Community Action Centers are accepting donations for the tornado relief. Items needed are clothing, non-perishable food items, toiletries, diapers, wipes, gift cards for other needs and cleaning supplies.

Group seeks fiscal court funding for 4-H agent

By JEFF MOORE

The News-Democrat

Carroll County's Extension Council and its volunteers want the county to provide the funding to help get a full-time 4-H agent back on the job here.

At Tuesday morning's Carroll County Fiscal Court meeting, council members, volunteers and the county's Extension agents came seeking "stop-gap funding" of up to $46,350 for the 4-H position's salary over the next two years.

But the group got no action as fiscal court delayed a vote until its next meeting after a lengthy discussion where there was disagreement on whether the coun ty should take on the expense because it could turn into an on-going item they would have to fund beyond the two years.

Judge-Executive Harold "Shorty" Tomlinson explained that the county was poised to fill the 4-H agent job when agriculture agent Tim Hendrick decided to retire. At that point, the University of Kentucky moved to fill his job, meaning the 4-H position would drop back down to the bottom of the vacancy list that takes about two years to move to the top.

Tomlinson said, "they just left us hanging.'

Since that time, the county has moved from the bottom at 29th to 24th, Tomlinson said. Extension council president Mike Lewis said the county might be up to 22nd.

With the problems facing local youth, including crime and drugs, Tomlinson said, 4-H is a program worth investing in. Under a UK program, local communities fill the job as the position moves up the vacancy list through "stop gap funding," he said. Thirteen of the 29 counties with vacancies are now providing funding for the third

Council considers plan to extend wifi

By KRISTIN SHERRARD

The News-Democrat

Carrollton City Council is considering a proposal from tech company Powered On that the company says will fix the current issues with the citywide Wifi.

Powered On owner Brent Graves presented council with a quote for $2,912.90, which would include the purchase of seven outdoor repeaters and the installation of eight antennas, one per week. He also provided council with a map of the current antennas and proposed locations for the new antennas.

Councilman Robb Adams asked later in the meeting if the company ordered all of the antennas at once and had permission from every location to put them up if it could take less than eight weeks to complete the project. Graves agreed that it could take less than eight weeks, but it all depends on how long it takes to get the property owner's permission. He said the antenna installation takes a few hours to complete, but it took up to a month in some cases to get permission from the property owners to install it. Graves also gave council a wireless network installation and maintenance agreement, effective for 12 months, stating that the city will purchase all of the required equipment for installation and will negotiate and secure the property owners' permission to install the antennas. The total service cost is $2,940 and will be paid in monthly installments of $245, according to the contract. Powered On will provide ongoing service and maintenance to each antenna every week, according to the contract. Graves said they will provide a website where citizens can report outages, and they will respond within 24 hours.

Mayor Gene McMurry said he wants City Attorney Nick Marsh to look over the contract before council votes on it.

Graves said he has been talking to Councilmen Kevin Craig and Mike Gordon the last couple of weeks about what changes need to be made. He said one of the issues was miscommunication between the city and his company as to who was responsible for what.

"Bottom line, there is no technical issue preventing this from happening," Graves said. He said the issue with the wifi system was bandwidth. The antenna at city hall is the most popular, and there are too many devices using it. This is why he proposed adding additional antennas and bandwidth to the network.

He said he can give council a list of the number of devices using a particular antenna, but at one time there were 300 active devices using the Internet in a three-day period. This was near the beginning of the school year when the Carroll County High School juniors and seniors received their MacBooks. Graves said he thought the original purpose of having wifi was to allow students who might not otherwise be able to afford it to use the Internet at home. McMurry said he gets numerous calls from Carrollton Village asking about the Internet because their children use it for schoolwork. "There are more people using it than any of us would have expected," Graves said. However, he cautioned those who do pay for cable modems not to run out and cancel their service in favor of the citywide wifi. "This is never going to replace Insight in this community," Graves said. "(The purpose is for) people that don't have access to it otherwise."

While the citywide system does not have content restrictions, it does have bandwidth restrictions, meaning people cannot use it to stream video on websites like YouTube.

Graves said this project 'has not been a money-making venture for Powered On. This has been something we wanted to do." McMurry confirmed the city has not paid the company for installing the first wave of antennas.

"We are making a commitment to you guys that we want to make this work," Graves said.

Gordon made a motion to pay Powered On $1,000 for their initial work and Craig seconded it. It was approved 5-0, as Councilman Adam Raker was absent from the City to re-bid contract for manager

After opening two bids, Carrollton City Council decided to re-advertise for the Two Rivers Campground manager contract. Bids are due to city hall by 4 p.m. on March 23 and will be opened at the next council meeting March 26.

City Attorney Nick Marsh opened the two bids, one from Buster and Frances Wyman and the other from William F. Ward. The city ran the bid advertisement for one week in The News-Democrat only.

Councilwoman Ann Deatherage motioned that council re-bid the contract. The motion was amended to specify that the city adver-

Cton Fire Department bathroom delayed

Carrollton City Council decided to table the construction of a bathroom for the Carrollton Fire Department in order to solicit additional plumbing bids. The city rejected a $4,500 bid from Hawkins Plumbing. Council also wanted to see bids for the wall construction around the new bathroom.

Mayor Gene McMurry said the plan is to hook the plumbing in to the back of the bathroom currently in Carroll County Dispatch, which is not accessible to the firefighters due to security purposes.

can assist with determining if a contractor is licensed in some of the specific trades. But he said the best way to have work done is to work with local contractors that they know.

DFI offered these tips on protecting oneself from

- · Don't give out personal or financial information unless it's absolutely necessary. Ask for identification before doing so.
- Don't pay in cash. Using a check or money order will ensure your donation or payment goes to the correct organization and you have a record for tax purposes.
- Don't pay for service work until the service is complete and you're satisfied with the results.
- Get more than one estimate for repairs or service.
- · Read and understand a contract before signing. All promises should be made in writing.
- Shop around, but be careful of "disaster" sales that may be gimmicks.
- Be suspicious of great and fabulous promises offers.

Kentucky agency warns that there are many common scams that crop up during times such as these, including:

Charity scams: Many people are ready to give after a storm, and scammers are ready to cash in on sympathy for victims. Only donate to charities you know and trust. Ask what percentage of the donation goes to the charity. Check out a charity with the Better Business Bureau at www.give.org.

Insurance fraud. Don't let anyone pressure you into filing a phony insurance claim. Lying to an insurance company in an attempt to get money is fraud and illegal.

Spam, phishing attempts. Emails that appear to come from your bank, creditor or a charity may actually be an attempt to steal your identity or account information. Remember that financial institutions will never contact you requesting this information.

"If you suspect fraud, report it to local law enforcement, the Better Business Bureau or a state regulatory agency," Vice said. "Reporting fraud is the best way to keep others from falling victim."

House approves 2012-13 budget based on governor's spending plan stretch that money a little For the last several years, and other critical services during this trying time. We also avoided the drastic steps many other states have taken, some of which have laid off thousands of teachers and state employees and raised taxes

We haven't had to do either, and the proposed budget for state government that the Kentucky House of Representatives passed on Wednesday maintains that positive trend for the next two years.

The House budget largely follows Governor Beshear's plan, which he gave the legislature about two months ago. Like he recommends, the House agrees that we must live within our means, but to do that, most state agencies would see cuts of 8.4 percent, though some areas would see less or even a modest increase. For example, we don't cut the overall total for the per-pupil funding formula known as SEEK, but we understand a growing student population means schools would have to further.

The House trims postsecondary schools by about six percent, and we also limit how many new facilities they would like to build with their own revenue. We want to make sure our debt level remains reasonable and the schools don't take on more than they can handle financially, given the state's limited resources.

There are no proposed cuts to student financial aid in the House budget, and that includes the lotterybased KEES scholarships that high schoolers earn for college. The House budget differs slightly from the governor's in a couple of key areas in education. We provide more money for schools' family resource centers and programs like gifted education, and more would be given to KET, because further cuts could significantly hamper its ability to meet its statewide mission.

We also believe more money is needed for Meals on Wheels and other services helping the elderly, and we add more money to help spruce up our state parks.

There are some other bright spots in the budget. Last year's major reforms of Medicaid and the criminal justice system, for example, are starting to show some serious savings. Moving most of the state's Medicaid population to managed care something the 16-county Louisville region has had for more than a dozen years – is expected to save $372 million in the upcoming budget.

The criminal justice reform, meanwhile, is expected to reduce our prison population by 4,600 inmates over the next two years, which is a far cry from 2007, when we led the nation in prison growth. The savings from this smaller population will enable us to close a private prison; increase treatment options for substance abuse; and allow us to send nearly $9 million to our counties to help with their jail expenses

Elsewhere in the House budget, money would be available for a fourth veterans nursing home, if it's given the go-ahead by the federal government, and we lay the groundwork for an adult abuse registry, which will ensure those convicted of harming the elderly do not work in jobs involving care of our older citizens.

To help raise money, Governor Beshear and the House also recommend a tax amnesty program, in an effort to get those who owe back taxes to come forward without paying as high a penalty. Our hope is that this will bring in about $55

The overall theme of this budget is fairness. We recognize that some areas, such as the classroom, need to be protected as much as possible, but in other cases, we tried to spread the cuts as broadly as possible. That means all three branches of government are taking the same reduction, and that state employees and their retirees alike will not see any raises.

The next two years will be difficult, but there is hope that, if state revenues continue growing, it's possible that the outlook will brighten in the months ahead. For now, the House awaits whatever changes the Senate might propose. If all goes as scheduled, a compromise will be voted on by the end of the month. Rick Rand, D-Bedford, of the driver manufacturing methamphetamine.

On March 8 at approximately 10:30 p.m.,

Kentucky State Police

Josh stopped a vehicle driven by Corey Wardrup, 21, of Campbellsburg, Ky. on Rowlett Avenue in Bedford, according to a news release. A meth lab was allegedly discovered during a search of the vehicle. Troopers also allegedly found two ounces of finished methamphetamine inside the vehicle. No children were present during the stop.

Wardrup was charged with first-degree manufacturing methamphetamine, possession of a controlled substance, first-degree driving under the influence, careless driving and possession of drug paraphernalia, according to the release.

Noble is leading the ongoing investigation.

Vincent to challenge dismissal by Trimble County schools

By DAVE TAYLOR The Trimble Banner

Former Trimble County Survivors include a educator and athletic coach Jeff Vincent will appeal his dismissal by the Her parents, Buell Dixon Trimble County School and Roberta Wright Abbott system under the proviand her husband, Wilburn sions of Kentucky Statute KRS 161.790 regarding the "Termination of contract by board—Administrative hearing tribunal— Sanctions. Lisa Y. Gross, Press

Secretary, Kentucky Department Education Division Communications, confirmed Monday that an administrative tribunal hearing for Vincent has been scheduled.

"A tribunal hearing for Mr. Vincent has been set for April 26-27, at the Trimble County central office building, unless another location is preferred," Gross said in an email.

Dunaway, Marcia Survivors include his Superintendent of Trimble daughter, Louisa Oder of County Schools, verified Walton, Ky.; a son, Robert Monday that Vincent's contract with the school system was terminated on Jan. 27, 2012. Vincent had been suspended with pay by Dunaway on June 20, 2011, stating she was "aware there is an investigation concerning possible criminal conduct by Jeff."

The Kentucky State Police confirmed in July that Vincent was the target of an investigation then ongoing by the KSP Special Investigation Unit in Frankfort. The investigation involved a complaint by parents of a female student, alleging misconduct with their daughter and other female students. Moore,

R i l e y Commonwealth Attorney for Trimble County, told The Trimble Banner vesterday that based "on the things they (KSP) sent to me my office has not taken anything before a grand jury. There is no felony presented before me at this Moore said evidence and statements presented to him indicated that Vincent had a "consensual relationship" with a female but that "she was of age at that time. Since then the laws have changed." Moore said the KSP is still conducting "an ongoing investigation and I cannot comment further on any investigation that is ongoing." According to the provisions of state law regarding Vincent's procedure to seek a tribunal hearing, "the commissioner of education shall appoint a three member tribunal, consisting of one teacher, who may be retired, one administrator, who may be retired, and one lay person, none of whom reside in the district, to conduct an administrative hearing in accordance with KRS Chapter 13B within the district. Priority for selection as a tribunal member shall be from a pool of potential tribunal members who have been designated and trained to serve as tribunal members on a regular and ongoing basis, pursuant to administrative regulations promulgated by the Kentucky Board of Education. Funds appropriated to the Department of Education for professional development may be used to provide tribunal member training. The commissioner of education shall name the chairman and set the date and time of the hearing."

Upon hearing both sides of the case, the tribunal may by a majority vote render its decision or may defer its action for not more than five days, according to state statute. The tribunal decision shall be a final order and may be rendered on the record. If after the hearing the decision of the tribunal is against termination of the contract, the suspended teacher shall be paid his full salary for any period of suspension.

The teacher shall have the right to make an appeal to the Circuit Court having jurisdiction in the county where the school district is located in accordance with KRS Chapter 13B. The review of the final order shall be conducted by the Circuit Court as required by KRS 13B.150.

Citing the advice of the Trimble County Board of Education's attorney, Dunaway declined Monday to comment on the hearing except to verify Vincent's termination occurred in January.

A Trimble County High School graduate, Vincent began employment in the Trimble school district as a kindergarten teacher at Bedford Elementary School in 1998. In 2003, he became the BES counselor and served as the district migrant advocate from the beginning of his employment until his suspension last June. Vincent also served as head coach of the high school track and cross country programs for several years.

On Monday, Vincent on the advice of his attorney declined an invitation to comment on the hearing.

hen I was a kid, I wasn't all that interested in history. It was one of those subjects that never really caught my imagination. I think that's true of most people; when you are young, everything seems like ancient history - even if it happened only a few years before you were born.

As we grow older, we gain perspective. For instance, I remember when I was in high school in the late 1970s, we would have

"50s days" – the girls would wear poodle skirts and the boys would wear white T-shirts with pretend cigarette packs rolled into the sleeves. And we'd all dance to Chuck Berry and Elvis records 45s, of course.

At that point, the 1950s were just 20 years in the past, but to me that era may as well have been a zillion years ago. And that's the amazing part: Today, thinking back more than 30 years to my high school days has totally the opposite effect. It all seems like yesterday, not a zillion years ago.

So, with that perspective, combined with being a journalist and an avid genealogist, I have developed a love for history that I never really expected. I marvel at old photographs, and I can get lost looking at old volumes of The News-Democrat and other

If I had a time machine, I would go back to see what people really looked like, how they dressed and talked, and what they ate. I would ask them tons of questions about what their lives were like.

Recently, I've gotten the opportunity to combine all of my loves - writing, photography and history - into one project. I am working on a photographic history of Carroll County that will be published later this year by Arcadia Publications as part of their "Images of America" series. The series is extensive and already includes books on Madison, Ind., and several on Louisville history, alone.

I am extremely excited about this project, and I'm hoping that everyone in the county will be too. Because I'm going to need Online, I've already been able to locate a lot of great photographs at the Kentucky Historical Society and other archive collections.

And Jimmy Supplee has provided me prints of workers building the existing Kentucky River bridge between Carrollton and Prestonville.

I know from my time as editor of the paper that there are dozens - if not hundreds - of great old photographs that exist in private collections here in the county, and I'm asking everyone to dig them out and consider allowing me to use them in this new book. I am happy to give credit in the cutline to whomever owns the photo or to the photographer who took it, if known.

I'm looking, of course, for pictures that go as far back as possible and show what was happening in the county in various time periods.

I will need the obvious photos - churches, schools, businesses,

Milton firefighters seek donations, help

Editor:

On March 2, Milton Fire and Rescue Station No. 2 in Milton was hit by an EF-3 tornado. We lost the station, a 1983 Spartan fire engine, a mobile fish fry trailer, some gear, radios and pagers, and some other items that were stored at this station. Our fire department is all volunteer and relies on donations only since we are not a taxing department.

Losing our fish fry trailer is the biggest loss we have as this is what brought in about 50 percent of our operating budget each year. We had already had 20 booked events for this year that we are not able to do now. We are worried about how we will make payments on our bills without this source.

We are currently working with our insurance company at this time to see what, if anything, they can do for us. Our members take great pride in this department as they work hard for everything we have. We do want people to know that we will rebuild and we will continue to serve our area in the event they need us.

We are asking for help funding our department and would like to let people know that they can mail donations to us at: Milton Fire and Rescue, P. O. Box 256 Milton, Ky. 40045 or you can go to our website and donate at

Drivers who hit animals should stop, tell owners

My wife and I would like to thank the lady who stopped and let us know that our dog had been hit by a car. Weezer was a 14-year-old dog with hearing and sight issues.

Her venture into Hwy. 55 cost her her life. I am dismayed that the person that struck her did not stop, as is the case with many people who hit animals. The people who stopped allowed me to bury her as a dog and not as a heap of roadkill. Again our thanks to her and shame on those that continued on as if it didn't matter.

> With the disaster weighing heavily on all our minds and reeling from the testimonials of both constituents and legislators, the business of the legislature continued under a somber cloud. There are three bills I would like to briefly discuss. Senate Bill 88 makes an allowance for Kentucky high school students earning Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship, or KEES, money. Currently, students who transfer from an eligible to an ineligible non-public high school forfeit their KEES earnings. This bill would allow them to keep the KEES funds they earn while at the eligible school as long as they obtain a high school diploma or GED within two years of their presumed graduating class. It also may be of help to children whose parents are in the military because of their frequent moves. Senate Bill 58 addresses an increase in hospital emergencyroom violence. Similar to the exception made for misdemeanor shoplifting and domestic-violence situations, the bill would allow police officers to make an arrest, based on probable cause alone, for misdemeanor assault occurring in an emergency room. Under current law, the police officer would have to witness the crime before being allowed to make an immedi-

Senate Bill 157 aims to clarify the wording of administrative regulations. It provides for greater transparency and accountability of the many regulations that oftentimes bedevil small businesses.

Finally, the House passed its budget proposal. As I have discussed, small budget groups have been meeting for several weeks now in anticipation. I have begun to review the document and while, as of this writing, I haven't delved into all of the details of this 288-page document, it is our understanding that the debt level is at 6.8 percent of General Fund revenues. This is a matter of great concern to me. It is my hope that the House would consider Senate Bill 1 which we passed to cap the state's debt at 6 percent. I will continue to keep you apprised of the situation.

Seniors lead youthful track team

By KRISTIN SHERRARD The News-Democrat

Carroll County High School's track and field team returns five statequalifiers from last season to this year's squad: seniors Andrea Hardesty, Devin Gray, Evan Mefford and Dylan Jack and sophomore Taylor Byrd. However, the team overall will be very young and smaller in numbers than usual.

Head coach Joe Creager said he has 35 students signed up so far this year, including three middle school students. Last year, he had 80 students, not including any middle school students. Until this year, the team had increased every year of Creager's tenure.

Creager has been reaching out to the K-fourth grade students to come out for the elementary school races to help build the program. He said he will be relying on the middle school students to help fill spots in the individual events, freeing up the high school students for the relay races. Athletes are only allowed to participate in four events, including relays, per meet.

Creager said the lack of turnout from the football team also hurt his numbers in the relays and field events. The team will be loaded with freshmen and sophomores, with a handful of juniors and seniors to round them out.

Before he took over the role, Creager said the team had had multiple coaches for just a year or two at a time. Having recent consistency in the head coach position "has allowed kids to come back out year after year" because they know in the fall who the track coach is going to be.

Joining him on the sidelines this season will be his wife, Danna Creager, and Dan McCrocklin. Danna was the assistant cross country coach this year and will help with the long distance runners. She is also pole vault certified, so she can help take those athletes to practice at Henry County this season. The head coach said, last year, he was the only person pole vault certified, so practice was canceled for the rest of the team when the pole vault athletes practiced.

Originally Indianapolis, McCrocklin participated in the shot put, discus and javilin when Connecticut. He will be focusing on the throwers.

Creager became head coach four years ago when

ELEMENTARY TRACK

Elementary students, boys and girls, in grades K-4 (5th grade will already compete with the Middle School team) will now have the opportunity to participate with the Carroll County High School Track and Field teams. Students will need to have a KHSAA physical on file at the high school with Coach Creager before they can practice. Students will also need to have a permission form with parent/guardian contact information and signature before they can participate. Practices will be Mondays at CCHS from 3:30-4:30 p.m.

Those who are interested in participating in the first meet at Henry County on Thursday March 22 must have their forms turned in my Friday, March 16. If you have not signed up and turned in your forms by Spring Break you will not be able to participate this from season.

On the permission form please indicate a t-shirt size in either youth or adult size he was in high school in as this is how we will order athlete uniform tops. There will be no cost for those and the athlete will be responsible for them throughout the season. At the end of Please see TRACK, Page 11 the season if there is any lost or damaged items, the replacement cost will be $20. Athletes will need a pair of light weight running shoes (any gym shoe would be acceptable), a pair of solid black shorts (or as close to it as possible). No other equipment or supplies will be needed.

Practices will start Monday, March 19 from 3:30-4:30 p.m. at the Carroll County High School track. We will then practice every Monday at the same time (weather permitting) unless otherwise stated by the coach. Please make sure to listen to the announcements at the end of the school day for weather permitting cancellations.

Please fill out a form as well as a KHSAA physical form (these can be found at the High School or Middle School offices) and return both to the high school. If you have any questions please call Coach Creager at (502) 732-7075, ext. 6217 or email him at joseph.creager@carroll.kyschools.us

Seasoned Panthers ready to compete for NCKC crown

By KRISTIN SHERRARD The News-Democrat

With the addition of a lifelong tennis player to the roster, the future looks bright for the young but already-experienced Panthers.

Head coach Juan Fernandez said senior Sergio Pascual, who transferred to Carroll County High School from Christian Academy of Carrollton, has been playing tennis since he was little and both of his parents also play. "I don't see anyone from the NCKC tournament that is going SHERRARD The News-Democrat to beat him," he said.

Pascual, the lone senior on this year's squad, joins a team of one junior, three sophomores and the remaining freshmen and middle school players.

Adding Pascual to the roster allowed Fernandez to move his lineup around and let his players try different positions. As of now, the lineup stands with Pascual in the No. 1 singles spot and Josh McCarty as No. 2 singles. Joe Gemmer, Thomas Hill, Gabe Kates and Zeke Kates will all rotate in at both singles and doubles. Gemmer and Dakota Corbin will most likely anchor the No. 1 doubles spot, with the Kates brothers playing No. 2 doubles.

"We're going to have a good team this year," Fernandez said. "Most of them have been with me since middle school."

The fourth year head coach said the earlier the better with teaching children how to play tennis because they do not have any bad habits to break. In addition to coaching both

Juan Fernandez will be pulling double-duty this year as the head coach of both the boys and the girls tennis teams. This will be his first year coaching the girls, but he has had previous experience helping former head coach Larry Morgan with the team.

Fernandez said he has had to develop a new coaching style with the girls versus the boys. More than anything, he has found that the girls need more encouragement from him during practices.

"I've seen a lot of progress," he said. The first step was getting rid of lingering bad habits and focusing a lot of time on footwork and technique, he said.

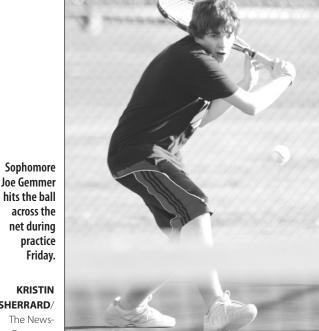

The middle school girls have blown everyone else away as far as progress goes, Fernandez said. Among the high school girls, junior Andrea Williams has shown the most progress by far and has been hitting the ball very consistently and at top speed, he said.

Junior Lyndie Burns and eighth grader Sarah McArter will lead the team in singles matches, but Fernandez said he is still figuring out who will play No. 1 and who will play No. 2. He said he is counting on junior Megan Harris to be a leader on the team. She will be playing No. 1 doubles with, most likely, fellow junior Pooja Patel. Seventh graders Taylor Courtney and Jesse Dermon will likely play No. 2 doubles.

"This year is going to be about getting a feel for the girls' more than anything," Fernandez said. He also is Henryville holds memories for former resident have mentioned in many of my past columns, with very fond memories, of the years we lived in Henryville, Ind.

Words cannot describe what my whole family feels about the devastation they have gone through, and yet they have

Lonnie's Lagniappe

Lonnie Sundermeyer picked themselves up and are going forward as best they can. Even though we moved many times when our children were growing up (due to job transfers), our children consider it their hometown.

We have many good friends there, people we truly cherish. People who have helped to form my children's lives and people who have helped to form me. Hardworking, dedicated people who will stop and help you at the drop of a hat.

The first time we moved there, strangers would stop by our house and invite us to their church. It's also the place where we learned to wave at people as we drove by because they did that for us, even if they didn't know us.

We had regular weenie roasts with our neighbors down the road from us, and that's when my children learned all about snipe hunts. We bought our first horse from the neighbor across the street, and he taught all of us how to care for her. A dog, a calf and two ducks came to us from different members of our church because they wanted their animals to go to a "Christian home." I felt honored they considered us to care for these animals, but most of all, my children were thrilled to care for them.

The first time I ever spoke in front of a group of people I was president of the PTA. Now, some of you who know me well might think that it isn't a good thing these days, but what I learned back then has certainly carried me on to this very day. You all know that I have no problem speaking in front of a group of people now, and maybe a little too much.

Our church smorgasbord was the perfect example of good cooking. We would have people from all over who would attend because the food was so good. The last one we attended was last fall, and I don't think the prices have changed since we lived there and neither have the people. They are amazing.

To honor my friends in Henryville, I give you one of the most favorite cookie recipes from one of my PTA friends there, one that I have served on my cookie plates many times when I was catering. They are pretty, easy and very tasty. I give you:

Henryville Lemon Cookies 1 package lemon cake mix 4 ounces Cool Whip (room temperature)

Confectioner's sugar

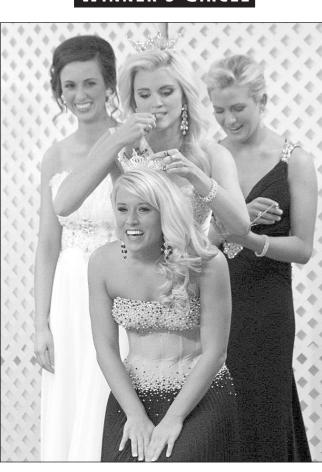

Mix all ingredients together in medium bowl (do not beat). Roll about a teaspoon of batter (or larger, if you prefer) into a ball, then roll into confectioner's sugar. Place each ball on a parchment paper lined cookie sheet, about 1-inch apart. Bake at 350 degrees for about 8-10 minutes. You don't want them to get brown, just a slight tinge of brown on the underside of the cookie. Just be sure to check them before the 8 minutes are up. Roll them again in the confectioner's sugar after they are baked, but still slightly warm. Note: These cookies are shown in the picture with the recipe card in front of the cookies. Notice how stained the recipe is, a sign of a very good recipe. This is so simple to make and easy for children to help with, as well. Enjoy!

WINNER'S CIRCLE

Hayley Franklin was crowned "Miss Heart of the East 2012." This is a preliminary that she won March 10 for Miss Kentucky America. She competed in a 10-minute panel interview, opening number featuring Derby attire, a talent portion where she sang "Temporary Home" by Carrie Underwood and an evening gown portion that included a question on stage. For this pageant, she has a platform — the American Cancer Society Relay for Life. She will bring awareness to the cause as she completes for the title Miss Kentucky America in July.

Cleanup set for March 24

Carrollton Main Street Association, Friends of Butler and Carroll County Girl Scouts are joining forces to help clean up Carroll County. On March 24, 2012, at 4 p.m., these groups will be meeting at Cartmell Elementary School's parking lot to clean up the highway in designated Adopt-a-Highway spots located in Carrollton.

The Girl Scouts are celebrating their centennial anniversary this year. As part of that celebration, troops around the country are trying to give back to their local communities.

still have addiction problems and have good reports from them later. I believe these addictions rob people and their family of their lives.

People with addictions will steal from others to satisfy their own needs. Who is the real thief and the father of lies, it's satan himself and his evil spirits. So if you don't use the Word of God to attack and come against him there will be no permanent victory. Through the blood and the resurrection of Jesus Christ, deliverance and victory is found. That's the reason Second Chance outreach is working. Everything is based on the word of God.

Saying all this, I have talked to Greg about if he would be led to open a place in our area. First, he said he would like to have a community wide meeting to see how much interest and support there would be. In Jamestown after he got started and people saw it was a success, a businessman gave him an old motel building and another all the supplies to remodel it. He is able to house 40 men and

He is not state or government funded, so he charges $1,000 the first month and $500 each month after. You can stay only a month, but he recommends at least three to six months. The court system in Jamestown and surrounding counties sent court ordered people there. The counselors are people who have been through the program, so they have a better understanding of what people go through. I am praying about having a meeting in

"We gambled on the weather," said John Leeper, principal of Carroll County High School, "and I think it will pay off.' Leeper said the senior trip was moved to March to open it up to more students who have had conflicts with Advanced Placement examinations and spring sports, such as baseball, softball, track, and tennis. Leeper said another factor is that the new state assessment occurs later in the school year than in the past. "We need to maximize our efforts on the new end-of-course assessments, so we wanted to avoid any conflicts with the senior trip during that time," Leeper said.

English teacher Sheena Breeding, the senior trip adviser, said that this year's participation is the highest of the four senior trips she has organized. Breeding also thinks that attendance may be higher now that New York has been established as the destination that Carroll County High School visits for its senior trip.

"Now it's a given that the 8th grade trip is to Washington, D.C., and the senior trip is to New York," Breeding said. Breeding also said that, because students know ahead of time about the trip, it is easier for them to afford the $580 price

She said that students save money ahead of time, work fund raisers, and pay off the trip in installments throughout the year. She also said that generous anonymous donors have provided financial assistance for some students who otherwise might not have been able to go.

Breeding said the trip has also helped some students better maintain their grades because they must have a passing average in all classes in order to go on the trip. Students will depart from Carroll County High School Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. on a motor coach and drive throughout the night to arrive in Manhattan at 7 a.m., Thursday morning, to try and get on the Today Show. They will tour NBC Studio and go shopping and browsing in Times Square. In the evening they will go to "The Top of the Rock," Rockefeller Center.

On Friday, the group will tour Central Park and visit the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the historic South Street Seaport before shopping and browsing in China Town. After visiting Madame Tussaud's Famous Wax Museum, the students will dine at the Hard Rock Café.

Finally, on Saturday, the group will visit the Ellis Island Immigration Museum, the Statue of Liberty, and the 9/11 Memorial. Students will also experience a variety of transportation modes as they board a ferry, ride the subway, and walk. Before returning to Carroll the group will see the Broadway musical, The Lion King. Breeding said that each student has his or her favorite part of the trip, but all of the students are surprised. She said that some students have stereotypes about New York based on what they have seen on television and movies but come away from the experience with a more realistic view.

County High School,

"These trips give students a chance to be exposed to other cultures, things they've never seen," Breeding said. "It opens their eyes.'

Campus. In May, they each will don a cap and gown and collect their diplomas as college graduates. And other family members are following in their footprints. "I like JCTC because of the atmosphere and the people that are affiliated with the college," Angi Walker said. 'The staff makes my family and I feel right at home." Both also credit the convenience, affordability and friendships they found at Carrollton campus for their success.

Billy, who discovered a love for teaching mathematics, spends 30 to 40 hours a week tutoring other math students. His math equations scrawl across the board for a group of students, who benefit from his expertise. Next door, Angi is likely to be taking advantage of the college's computer lab to complete papers and other homework for class.

In 2009 with the idea of creating a better life for their family, the couple decided to pursue their own education, enrolling in GED courses through JCTC's Adult Education program in Carrollton. Earning their GEDs in only six weeks both quickly enrolled at JCTC in college classes and haven't looked back since.

"The faculty, staff, and fellow classmates have been influential in helping me with my academics," Billy Walker said.

Angi, savs she was motivated to further her education because she wanted to "make something of herself as well as to make her family proud." She also understood that an education would allow her to "find work in a higher paying career than what she has had in the past." Billy pursued higher education because he wanted his wife and daughter to "live a comfortable lifestyle," which is always something he has worked hard to do. Billy felt that "without an education, I could never move up the ladder to success."

In the time since, Billy, who once considered majoring in criminal justice, discovered that students who took his tutoring improved their college algebra scores and it sparked an interest in teaching math. Angi, undecided at first, soon developed an interest in human services.

Billy, was asked by an advisor, "Billy, why don't you think about becoming a math instructor since you are helping other students be successful through tutoring?"

It was like a light bulb went off for Billy, that his career choice needed to be something he was passionate about. When Billy isn't in class or offering tutoring sessions, he often spends his free time computing various math problems.

Both have made the dean's list multiple times and have been involved with student organizations such as Phi Theta Kappa and Student Government Association. They also have taken advantage of various leadership and teambuilding retreats

After obtaining their associate in arts degrees, Billy plans to transfer to Eastern Kentucky University to earn a bachelor's degree in math; Angi is headed to Lindsey Wilson to earn a bachelor's degree in human services and counseling.

Billy's goal is to become a math professor at a college or university, Angi plans to find employment in the human services field. Billy and Angi's daughter, Patricia, plans to enroll at JCTC-Carrollton Campus after earning her high school diploma at Carroll County High School.

But the Walkers aren't the only members of their families to enroll at JCTC. Felicia Carter, Billy's sister can be found in the biology lab as she studies muscles and bones for her anatomy and physiology class.

Carter started JCTC in the fall 2011 semester, encouraged by the Walker's achievements. After graduating from Holmes High School 18 years earlier, Carter was ready to pursue a degree in nursing.

She made the dean's list her first semester and qualified for the Phi Theta Kappa college honor society. \Carter hopes to complete the Licensed Practical Nursingprogram at Jefferson and then eventually completing the LPN to RN bridge program. Carter hopes to work in ER when she completes her degree.

Carter was motivated to attend college to make a better life for her family and she, she knew this was the first step in the process. She says her family "motivates me to do the best I can." Setting the example for her children, Carter's daughter, Destiney Carrico, a sophomore at Carroll County High School, is currently taking a dual credit course, college algebra, through Jefferson.

Dual credit courses offered through JCTC allow high school students to obtain high school credit and college credit at the same time. Felicia's son, Tyler also is taking dual credit courses at the Area Technology Center in Welding. Both are getting a head start on their college careers

What are things that all enjoy about JCTC? The small class sizes, close to home, flexible schedules and most important they feel that the faculty, staff, and fellow classmates are like an extended family.

For information JCTC, contact Heather Yocum at heather.yocum@kctcs. edu or (502) 732-4846, ext. 35216 or visit us online at jefferson.kctcs.edu. The ummer semester beings June 6. The fall semester begins Aug. 13.

buildings, events, modes of transportation (railroads, railcars, automobiles, river boats); people at work or play. The best guideline? If you think it's interesting and contributes insight into the story of Carroll County, then it's likely to be interesting to others, too. It'd be great, but it's not required, if you know the names of individuals in each photo. But, at the very least, we'll have to be able to know where the photo was taken, about when, what the people might be doing and why the photo is significant.

Some of the specific things I'm hoping to have are photos of prominent people, as well as from the tobacco markets, tobacco and other farmers and workers, and old-time photos of downtown Carrollton – the old theaters, businesses, festivals and such. I'll need the same from Ghent, Worthville, Prestonville, Sanders and English – and another location that existed in the past, such as the Locust area. I know that Worthville and Sanders drew large crowds of tourists to their springs, and I'd love to be able to include photos of those. I have no idea if they exist; I've never seen any.

That's what I'm looking forward to, too, is learning more about the county and seeing photos of people and places I've never seen before. Caption information with the photos will include credit to any individual or group who provides them, if requested.

To help make this easy on everyone, I plan to bring my personal scanner and computer to the Genealogy Room at Carroll County Public Library. This way, I can scan the photos and get the information directly from the contributors - and the contributors can take them back home with them. The fewer photos I have to return, the happier I will be.

I will announce the dates as soon as I have them lined

You may also drop off photos at the News-Democrat office, 122 Sixth St., Carrollton, during business hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Please place them in envelopes that indicate they are for me, and, most important, include your name and phone number so I can call if I have questions and be sure to get them back to you safely.

If you have trouble getting out and want me to pick up photos from you, please give me a call at (502) 268-5879 or send me an e-mail at pcmclaughlin@writeawayonline.com.

Thank you all, in advance, for any help you can give to this project. Being that it's mostly a book of photos, I still want it to be as comprehensive as possible.

Because he is coaching two teams, Fernandez never stops running. He works 50 hours a week at his full-time job, changes in the car and comes to practice. He also regularly volunteers at church. "I just have to thank my wife for being patient with me," he said.

But despite the hectic schedule, Fernandez, who started playing tennis at four years old, loves being a coach. "It's my passion, for tennis," he said. "I just want to coach. Me and Coach Brian (Hallberg) want to see this court full of kids.'

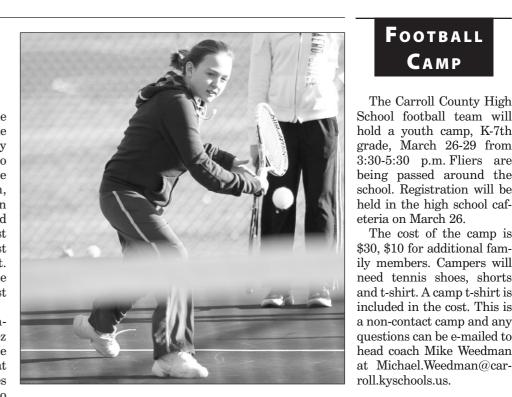

Fernandez also wanted to thank Parks and Recreation for allowing them to practice and play their home matches on their tennis courts. The team is playing at

Goss's wilt in corn

Goss's wilt is a bacterial disease of corn (dent corn, popcorn, sweet corn).

The disease results in long, tan spots of dead tissue anywhere on leaves. These lesions typically have characteristic "freck-

Infected leaves usually become blighted. Crops other than corn are not affected by this disease.

Goss's wilt has a long history of causing problems in several Plains states, especially in Nebraska, Colo., and Wyoming.

In the past few years, the disease has also been found in scattered fields in Indiana and Illinois. Aerobiology models suggest that the bacterium may have spread further last season, so growers along the Ohio River should keep a watch out for this disease in the coming growing season. The disease doesn't represent a dramatic new threat to Kentucky corn.

It can be very destructive, causing losses as high as 60 buchels/acre. However, there are many hybrids with adequate resistance to the disease, so if you have an outbreak, selecting resistant hybrids will dramatically reduce the risk in future plantings. Seed producers may be required to obtain phytosanitary certificates for corn seed export. Of course, fungicides do not provide protection against a bacterial disease like Goss's wilt There is no reason to think that other products applied by spray applica-

March brings the time to "Get Your Plate in Shape" many calories. To "Get your Plate in Shape," include foods from all the food groups every day.

Try the following: · Make half your plate fruits and vegetables.

Eat a variety of fresh, frozen or canned vegetables, especially dark-green, red and orange vegetables plus beans and peas. Choose "reduced sodium" or "no-salt-added" canned vegetables. Eat fresh, dried, frozen or canned fruit in water or 100 percent juice with meals or as snacks.

· Make at least half your grains whole.

Read ingredient lists to choose 100 percent wholegrain breads, cereals, crackers, pasta and brown · Switch to fat-free or low-fat milk.

Fat-free and low-fat milk have the same amount of calcium and other essential nutrients as whole milk, but less fat and calories. If lactose intolerant, drink lactosefree milk or a calcium-fortified soy beverage.

 Vary your protein choices.

Eat a variety of protein foods each week, such as seafood, nuts and beans, as well as lean meat, poultry and eggs. Eat seafood twice a week.

• Cut back on sodium and empty calories from solid fats and added sug-

Compare the salt (sodium) in foods you buy and choose lower amounts. Use spices and herbs instead of salt. Drink water instead of sugary drinks. Select fruit for dessert. Eat sugary desserts less often. Choose 100 percent fruit juice not fruit-flavored drinks. Switch from solid fats to oils when preparing food.

 Enjoy your food but eat Less.

Get your personal daily calorie limit at www. ChooseMyPlate.gov and follow it. Avoid oversized portions. Use smaller plates, bowls and glasses.

If you drink alcoholic beverages, do so sensibly. Women should limit it to only one drink a day and men no more than two a day.

· Be physically active your way.

Pick activities that you like and start slowly at least 10 minutes at a time. Every bit adds up with health benefits increasing as you spend more time being active. Children and teens need 60 minutes or more a day while adults need two hours and 30 minutes or more a week.

Helping children cope with disaster

Disastrous events such as our recent tornados, a flood or terrorist attack are difficult for children. Children don't have automatic reactions to these events. The entire family's life is disturbed. It becomes hard for parents to provide the security needed by children. Children watch adults to learn how to react to these tragic events. When parents and loved ones are having a difficult time adjusting themselves, children are confused.

provide the salary again after the two years. Lewis said the state would not make that assurance because there is the possibility that someone could leave or retire from one of the other positions and the process would have to start over.

District 2 Magistrate Dean Miller said he "agrees 4-H is great." However, he doesn't see funding the position because it can turn into something the county will have to continue to pickup every time someone leaves one of the Extension jobs.

At one point, he said, the amount needed to fund the post is equivalent to a year of the real estate tax and that he would rather do away with that.

Miller said he has a problem with funding a position that gets paid more than fiscal court pays county employees. Plus, he said all hiring decisions on the Extension jobs are made by UK, not locally, meaning they are "not our employees."

But one Extension volun-

Miller said he could support it "if there was a stopping point." But he said there isn't because of the way decisions are made at the state level. "They don't have the guts to do their job," he said.

The county is facing its own issues with expenses, he said, pointing to the earlier discussion on spending up to $300,000 to replace the heating and cooling system in the courthouse. He said the county also is going to face expenses with the jail because it is aging and not producing the revenue it

Lewis picked up on that and said the investment in the 4-H position can save money in the long run if it can just help prevent two children from getting on the wrong path and ending up in the legal system.

District 3 Magistrate Mark Bates said the county's 4-H post has been open since September 2009. He said he believes UK is not taking the need to fill it seriously. Plus, he said he doesn't believe he gets a clear answer, other fka UNKNOWN SPOUSE OF JOHN T. BOOTH, II McNEAL'S, INC. CARROLL COUNTY, KENTUCKY, ET AL., DEFENDANTS

NOTICE OF COMMISSIONER'S SALE

By virtue of a Judgment and Order of Sale entered in the Carroll Circuit Court on the 4th day of January, 2010, I will sell at public auction on the front steps (south door facing Highland Avenue) of the Carroll County Courthouse, the property described herein located in Carroll County, Kentucky, on FRIDAY, MARCH 16, 2012, at the hour of 9:00 a.m., prevailing time, and more particularly described as follows:

Property address: 1015 Seventh Street, Carrollton, KY

The following described property located in Carroll

County, Kentucky, to-wit:

Beginning at the Northeast corner of Seventh and Meade Street, thence running Northwardly with the Eastern boundary of Seventh Street a distance of fifty feet, thence at right angles East a distance of One Hundred Four Feet Eight and One-Half inches, thence at right angles South a distance of Fifty feet, thence at right angles West with the Northern boundary line of Meade Street to the point of beginning.

Being the same property conveyed to John T. Booth, II, and Karen E. Booth, husband and wife, joint with right of survivorship, from Lloyd Wogsland and Mary Jane Wogsland, husband and wife, by Deed dated July 12, 1982, of record in Deed Book 94, Page 253, in the Office of the Carroll County Court Clerk. Upon the death of Karen E. Booth on May 5, 1990, John T. Booth, II, became the sole owner of the above described property pursuant to his right of survivorship.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale is the sum of $46,689.53, together with accrued interest thereon to July 11, 2007, and with interest thereafter at the rate of 11.2% per annum or $14.32 per day until fully paid, together with reasonable attorneys fees and court costs as follows:

interest due of $21,258.93, corporate advance (taxes paid) of $16,516.49, corporate advance (insurance) of $1,048.68, corporate advance (legal paid) of $7,559.22, inspection/appraisal fees of $514.00 and unapplied funds of $276.27 for a total owed due as of November 14,2011, of

The real estate shall be sold on the terms of ten (10%) percent cash at the time of the sale, except that said deposit shall be waived if the Plaintiff is the successful bidder at the sale, and the balance on a credit of thirty (30) days bearing interest at the rate of twelve (12%) percent per annum from date of sale. When the purchase price is paid in full, the deed will be delivered to the purchaser. It is further provided that the property sold includes insurable improvements and the successful bidder at said sale shall, at bidder's own expense, carry fire and extended insurance coverage on said improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, to the extent of the Court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price whichever is less, as a minimum, with a loss payable clause to the Commissioner of the Carroll Circuit Court or the Plaintiff herein. Failure of the purchaser to effect such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the purchaser's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, the Plaintiff Woodford Finance, LLC, to effect said insurance and furnish the policy or evidence thereof to the Commissioner if it so desires, and the premium thereon or the proper portion thereof shall be charged to the purchaser as purchaser's costs.

The aforesaid property shall be sold free and clear of all liens and encumbrances, except the following:

- a. All unpaid state, county and city real estate taxes for the year 2012;
- Easements, restrictions, and stipulations of record:
- cord;
 c. Assessments for public improvements levied against the property;
- d. Any facts which an inspection and/or accurate survey of the property may disclose.

For further information, see the Final Judgment and Order of Sale and pleadings of record in the Office of the Circuit Court of Carroll County.
