Lowell Students kick off State Sesquecentennial

Serving Lowell Area Readers Since 1893

The Michigan Sesquicentennial celebration got underway Monday. Several events were held in Lowell to commemorate the day. All classes at the Runciman Elementary School were asked to bring in a cake for a special project. Parent volunteers Ellen Lietzke, Lori Smith, Joanne Groeneweg and Nancy Shortsle then fashioned the cakes into a huge map of the state that measured approximately six feet by six feet. Throughout the day students from the various classdecorated the cake with indigenous to certain reas. There were cherries for Traverse City, navy beans for Bad Axe, a car for Detroit, Furniture for Grand Rapids and, of course, a Showboat for Lowell. There were even gobs of frosting to depict Beaver, Mackinac, Manitou, Drummond and other Islands. Each class planned to get a look at the completed cake on Tuesday, then it was time to break out the plates and forks for a taste of the edible masterpiece.

To coincide with the cake project, Runciman third grade teacher Linda DeCator had her class paint a giant birthday card for the gymnasium wall.

Along Main Street

All students at St. Mary's Catholic School took part in the Sesquicentennial. One group of students fashioned 150 candles from construction paper and arranged them into the shape of the state. Enough cupcakes for the whole school were arranged into the number 150 and special classroom assignments were scheduled for Monday. In response to the question, "Why do you like living in Michigan?", second grader Stacy Klahn wrote, "I like living in Michigan because snow is fun to play in for me."

The steeple bells at the Methodist Church were rung at noon on Monday to acknowledge the Sesquicentennial celebration.

Events such as these marked the beginning of the Michigan Sesquicentennial that will be celebrated with hundreds of events around the state in the coming months. Lowell will be part of the celebration with events planned for the weekends

Several Runciman students gather around a huge Michigan-shaped cake in celebration of the state's Sesquicentennial. The cake is actually several cakes that were furnished by each of the school's classrooms. Major cities and points of interest were labeled with frosting.

The new skating rink at Creekside Park is now open! The lighted rink is open to the public from 4:00 until 10:00 p.m. The lights will be turned off at 10:00 each evening.

-- Your body is producing too much uric acid, or -- Your kidneys are not excreting the uric acid well enough in he urine.

If your doctor suspects that you have gout, he will perform blood and urine tests to determine the cause of the gout. Therapy with medication is directed at lowering the level of uric acid in the blood. Some medicines (Zyloprim<sup>R</sup>) will cut down the production of uric acid while other medications (Benemid#, Anturane*) will help the kidneys remove the uric acid from the bloodstream. These medicines may be needed on a long term basis to keep the uric acid level normal Diet can play a role in healing gout also:

-- Don't eat large amounts of foods that are very high in purines (anchovies, bacon, salmon, sardines, trout, turkey, venison). -- Don't eat red meats more than 2-3 times a week; they are high in purines.

-- Don't have more than 1-2 alcoholic beverages per day. -- Drink at least 2 quarts of fluid per day. Keeping urine diluted helps prevent the kidneys from uric acid crystal damage.

GOUT

Gout is a medical condition caused by an excess of a substance called uric acid in the bloodstream. Uric acid is present normally in our bodies, but when it accumulates in higher than normal amounts, it may crystallize and give the signs and symptoms of

When uric acid crystals form in the blood they may collect in certain parts of the body, usually where the blood flow is not strong enough to move them away. Crystals often collect in the joints of the fingers and the toes, most particularly in the big toe. Once in the joints, crystals cause the characteristic pain, swelling

> Urban pollution fighters are taking to the trees in their battle against dirty air, according to National Wildlife magazine. Recent research has demonstrated that some trees absorb huge amounts of pollutants. Red maple and white birch, for example, seem almost to thrive on sulfer dioxide, while white oaks are especially good at absorbing ozone. Los Angeles city planners say that by the year 2000. the million trees planted for the 1984 Olympics will remove 200 tons of dust and smoke from the air each day.

- Indaratur cozy corner .......... .....

Super Bowl XXI is now history. By the way, that XXI means twenty one, for those of you who have as much trouble with Roman numerals as I do. If you can remember Super Bowl I, then you are really dating yourself. Unfortunately, I remember it. The Green Bay Packers played the Kansas City Chiefs, if my memory serves me. The Packers won easily. I was sixteen, and was really into football. The following year the Packers won in it again, but I don't recall who they played. Heading into the third year, everybody was talking about NFL dominance over the AFL. The NFL's Baltimore Colts played the New York Jets with their upstart quarterback, Joe Namath. Broadway Joe promised a Jets victory to the media, and to everyone's surprise, he delivered.

I remember that game vividly. I was at a friend's house, and a bunch of us young guys and our dads sat around the tube hooting and hollering for our favorite teams. As I recall there were only a couple of us with money on the Jets and their big mouth quarterback. To the best of my recollection, that's the last time I won any money on a Super Bowl.

My enthusiasm for the sport, especially the Super Bowl, has waned over the years. I can probably attribute my attitude to the fact I've been a loyal Lions fan all this time, with never a glimmer of hope of ever seeing them in the Super Bowl. Last year my interest was tweaked just a little because my number two team, the Chicago Bears, were playing in it. Apparently I wasn't too excited, because I went skiing that weekend. I did listen to the game on the way home, though.

Consequently, I couldn't have been less interested in Sunday's contest between the Giants and Broncos. I did my usual Super Bowl Sunday thing, and went skiing. We skied near Traverse City, and planned on leaving about game time. I figured I could listen to the game on the radio if I found a decent station. If not, I'd plug in a Jimmy Buffett tape and forget about it. No big deal.

As things turned out, I got a chance to watch the game anyway. At least the first half. One of my nieces had gone skiing with us, and just before it was time to pack it up, she took a nasty fall and hurt her leg. The Ski Patrol people took her to the first aid station for an examination. The area below her right knee was bruised, and possibly broken. They sent us to a Traverse City Hospital for x-rays. Terese stayed with my niece while Casey and I sat it out in the Emergency Room waiting area.

It was a terribly busy place. A young couple brought in their two year old daughter to have a nasty cut by her eye stitched up. There was a woman whose husband had been in a snowmobile accident. She had been waiting for over two hours for some word on his condition, and was understandably distraught. A shaken family listened to a doctor explain the condition of the mother who had suffered a heart attack and was still in a coma. There seemed to be a never ending parade of people with all sorts of injuries and illnesses. Throughout all this drama, Casey and I sat quietly in the corner watching the Super Bowl, trying to stay inconspicuous. I guess I felt kinda stupid, just sitting around watching a football game while everybody else is suffering through some sort of a dilemma.

Finally, the x-rays were completed, and my niece was found to have only a bad bruise. The doctor wrapped her leg in an ace bandage, and we were on our way home at half time. I listened to part of the third quarter, but turned it off when the Giants blew C bio the game open. Even though I tried to ignore it, I'm sure Super Bowl XXI will be one Super Bowl I'll always remember.

Florida has become a haven for unwelcome wildlife from other countries, according to National Wildlife magazine. These "exotic" species include rhesus monkeys descended from the stars of early Tarzan movies filmed in the state. Many exotic parrots and parakeets dine on the state's citrus and other crops. Among the most bizarre species is a giant South American marine toad that secretes a strong poison and likes to lay its eggs in swimning nools
