Maj. Gen. Joseph Bergantz receives his second star from Lt. Gen. Paul Kern and Bergantz's wife, Helen, during ceremonies at Redstone Arsenal on July 31. Bergantz became program executive officer for aviation replacing Maj. Gen. James Snider, who is now deputy chief of staff for RD&A, U.S. Army Materiel Command, Alexandria, Va.

Fort Rucker, Ala., has been honored as one of the Army's top installations with presentation of the U.S. Army Chief of Staff Communities of Excellence Award. Post officials shared the credit with the installation's team of military personnel, civilian employees, contractors, and surrounding cities and towns. Twenty-six military personnel and civilian employees and eight specific groups also received the Commander's Certificate for developing and implementing best practices that contributed significantly to Fort Rucker's selection.

A new CH-47D Chinook unit was recently activated at Fort Hood, Texas. The 7th Battalion, 158th Aviation Regiment, is comprised of the battalion headquarters and a company at Fort Hood, along with a company based in Olathe, Kan., and a platoon at Fort Carson, Colo. The Chinooks will be able to provide support to local units at ranges during training, and will assist with fighting range fires. There are still positions available with the unit, including slots for MOS 67U (CH-47D repairer, all grades), 77F (refueler, E-3 through E-5), and 93P (flight operations specialist, E-3 through E-6). For more information call the unit's personnel office at (254) 288-3842.

FlightSafety International has ordered a UC-35 full-flight simulator for installation in the firm's Daleville, Ala., training center. The simulator will be used to train Army pilots for the UC-35, the latest aircraft to join the Army's air-transport fleet. The simulator, classed at the FAA's level D, will be capable of the highest standards of flight replication.

Four CH-47C Chinooks from the 179th Aviation Company at Fort Carson, Colo., recently completed their first self-deployment of helicopters from North America to Europe. The aircraft — manned by 31 crewmembers and observers from the 179th, the California and Texas Army National Guards and U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command — made the nine-day, 5,000-mile flight to Germany via Labrador, Greenland, Iceland, Scotland and England.

Task Force Saber — OH-58D Kiowa Warrior helicopters and personnel from the Hawaii-based 3rd Squadron, 4th Cavalry Regiment, 25th Infantry Division — recently completed a month-long counterdrug operation along the California-Mexico border. Operating from the Chocolate Mountains Range Complex in El Centro, the aircrews used the advanced thermal imaging capabilities of the OH-58D to spot drug smugglers at night. TF Saber's efforts, both direct and indirect, resulted in the capture of 98 illegal aliens and the seizure of 831 pounds of narcotics.

avionics

Smiths Industries Aerospace provides a single source for all the different forms of aircraft data management: uploading data from the ground, recording and displaying data in flight, data downloading and post-flight analysis, and in-flight data storage in media from ruggedised PC cards to crash-resistant 'black boxes'.

Smiths' Health and Usage Management System (HUMS), which monitors the condition of transmissions, bearings, turbine blades and rotors, has been selected for all of the UK's military helicopter fleet. HUMS shows how real-time data management by Smiths not only cuts operating costs, but adds a critical safety margin.

THE SOLUTION.

Spatial Disorientation in ARMY AVIATION

By Maj. Gen. Anthony Jones and Col. John Powell

Army aviation has a problem. Spatial disorientation continues to be a significant cause of rotary-wing aviation accidents, despite our continued training emphasis on crew coordination during initial-entry rotary wing (IERW) training and instrument flight training for our aviator soldiers. Let's discuss the magnitude of this problem and the factors that influence its appearance in flight, and introduce some innovative and highly effective training countermeasures that can reduce its threat to our aircrews.

The Problem

According to the U.S. Army Safety Center, spatial disorientation (SD) was considered to be a significant factor in 291 (30 percent) of Army Class A-C helicopter accidents between 1987 and 1995. One hundred and ten lives were lost, and these accidents resulted in materiel losses of nearly $468 million. Although the monetary cost of SD accidents is high, the fatality rate is between one and one-half to two times that of non-disorientation accidents.

What is SD?

The human body is structured to perceive changes in movement and orientation on land in relation to the center of the earth. In 1978 researcher A.J. Benson stated "a pilot in an aircraft may fail to correctly sense the position, motion or attitude of the aircraft or of himself within the fixed coordinate systems provided by the surface of the earth and the gravitational vertical." This condition can be caused or exacerbated by numerous factors singly or in combination, leading to SD. Factors such as loss of situational awareness, task overload, poor aircrew coordination and marginal weather may all contribute to SD.

In a definitive 1997 review of SD issues U.S. Army Aeromedical Research Laboratory (USAARL) scientists M. Braithwaite, S. Groh and E. Alvarez concluded that:

- SD is an important source of attrition in Army helicopter operations, costing an average of $58 million and 14 lives each year.
- SD accidents increased significantly during the Gulf War. The grave implication for the military is highlighted by the fact that 81 percent of nighttime accidents in Saudi Arabia could be attributed to SD.

- The contribution of SD to the overall accident rate is not getting smaller. The increased risk associated with the use of night-vision devices compared to day flying is of particular concern.

- The helicopter SD accident is not one of classical vestibular or visual illusion giving the pilot "vertigo," but is one of loss of orientation cues leading to a ground or object strike.

- These accidents might have been prevented by reinforcing proper crew coordination and scanning techniques. Continued aircrew SD training will heighten the awareness of the risks associated with distraction and the limitations of human orientation senses.

Countermeasures

As countermeasures to continuing attrition to SD, USAARL has developed and fielded several programs to heighten awareness of SD in the aviation community. An in-flight demonstration sortie originally designed by the British Army for the Gazelle was modified and tested by USAARL in the UH-1. The sortie was clearly beneficial for demonstrating the physical limitations of the human orientation system.

The in-flight training sortie was approved by ATB and incorporated into IERW training in 1997. Due to anticipated funding and asset changes at the U.S. Army Aviation Center, Fort Rucker, Ala., flight training may be affected and may undergo revision. In an effort to be responsive to future training requirements and as the developer of this SD flight training, USAARL is in the process of publishing a report containing the SD demonstration flight lesson plans for the TH-67, UH-1 and UH-60 helicopters.

While aviators may have some experience with recovery from unusual attitudes during initial flight training, many disorienting circumstances cannot be demonstrated safely during actual flight. However, it is possible to demonstrate these circumstances safely in a flight simulator. Using data taken directly from real SD accidents, it is possible to recreate and demonstrate these particular orientation problems in a controlled environment in a very realistic manner.

Simulator flight scenarios have been developed by USAARL for use in training Army aviators to recognize factors, which may lead to spatially disorienting situations. These scenarios are designed to stress situational awareness and proper aircrew coordination techniques to overcome SD once it is encountered. This unique simulator training package permits the trainer to take the aviator through each scenario, and uses the experience as a basis for reinforcing the principles of good situational awareness and aircrew coordination.

This training package has been distributed to aviation units both within and outside the continental United States, and has received overwhelmingly positive feedback from the Army aviation leaders. We are confident that these scenarios contain valuable training material, and that their use will help decrease SD mishaps.

Training Our Aviation Soldiers

by CSM Edward Iannone

Soldiers attend Advanced Individual Training (AIT) in 1st Battalion, 13th Aviation Regiment, 1st Avn. Brigade, at Fort Rucker, Ala., to train in four of the 19 aviation MOSs. The MOS 93C, 93P, 67N and 67V are taught here, generating an annual student population of approximately 1,500 soldiers. After receiving their training these soldiers will fill the ranks of both active and reserve-component units around the world.

The 1-13 Avn. Bn. is different from most training units in that students and instructors are assigned to the same battalion. The school is divided into two training sections: the Air Operation Training Committee (AOTC), which is responsible for 93C/P courses, and the Maintenance Training Committee, which is responsible for the 67N/V and Aviation Life Support and Equipment (ALSE) courses.

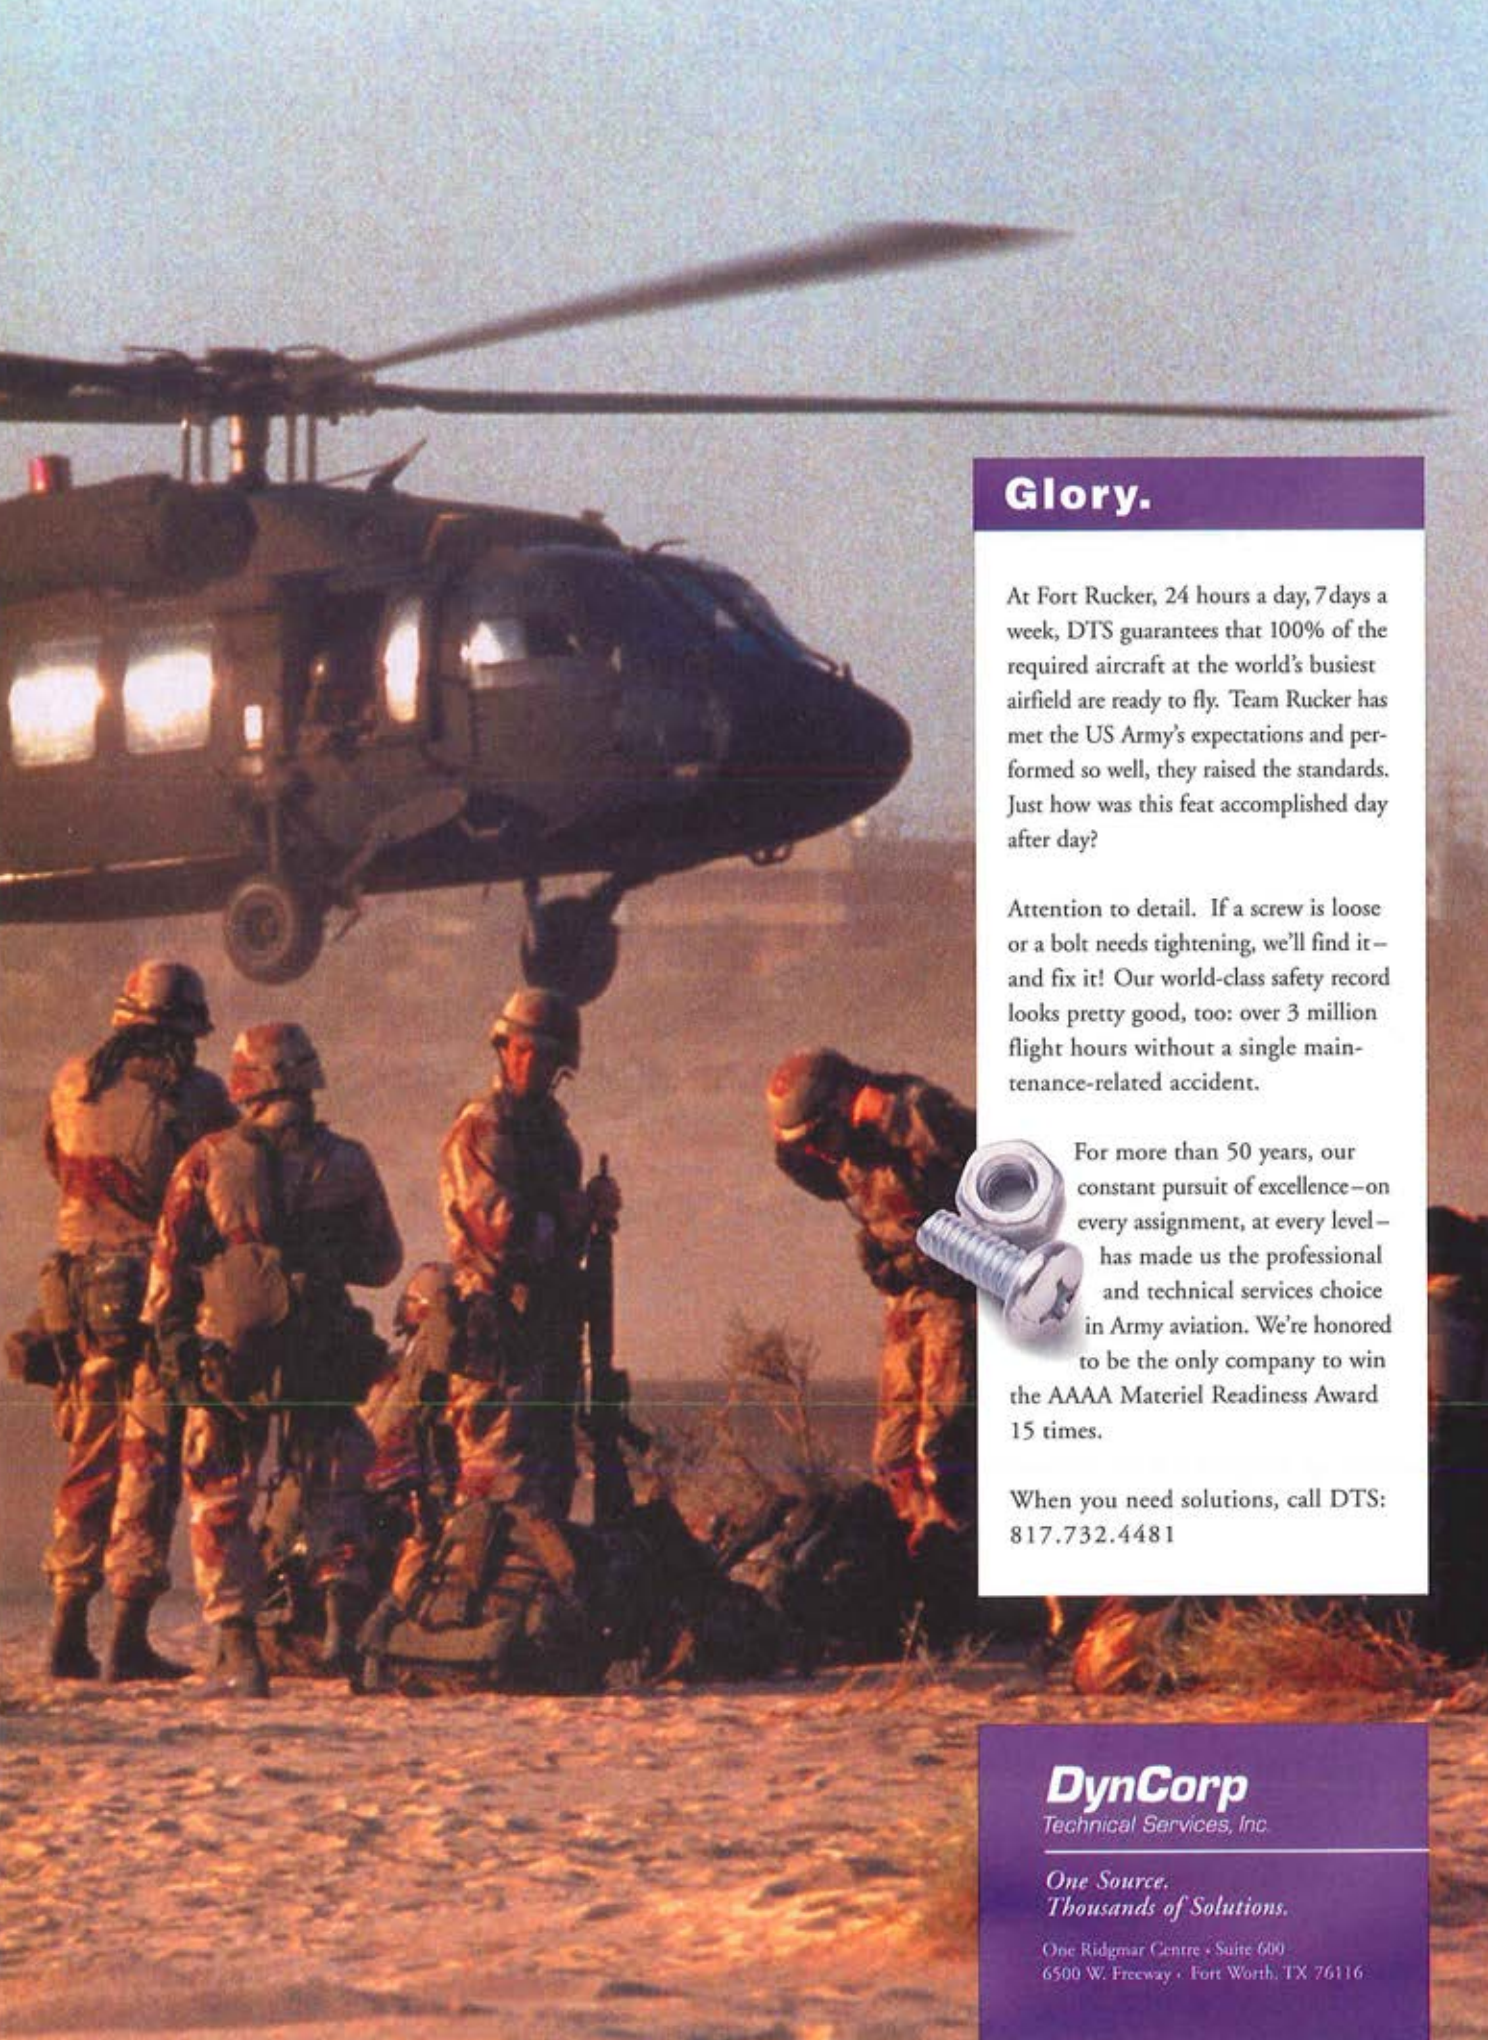

All platform instructors are assigned to Headquarters and HQs. Company (HHC). Additionally, HHC has overall responsibility for the Combat Skills Training Branch (CSTB) which conducts the weekly Field Training Exercise (FTX). It is here that the soldiers participate in valuable tactical equipment training along with MOS and common soldier task training that reinforce their survival skills during an FTX. The FTX reinforces previously learned common soldier tasks and skills in a realistic austere environment that replicates the stress, sound and conditions on today's battlefield.

Soldiers arrive at Fort Rucker for AIT after nine grueling weeks of Basic Combat Training (BCT). They are in phase IV of the five phases of Initial Entry Training (IET) "soldierization" training model.

By definition, soldierization is a tough, comprehensive process, which totally immerses an IET soldier in the positive environment established by active, involved leadership. This environment sets high standards, provides positive role models and uses every training opportunity to reinforce basic soldier skills. In phase IV, soldiers continue this process but control measures are somewhat lessened. In this phase, soldiers receive reinforcement training of common skills, values and traditions taught in BCT, and for the first time they are introduced to their MOS tasks. Soldiers may be granted limited on-post privileges in phase IV, which includes wearing of a prescribed uniform when not in the company area, the opportunity to

Glory.

At Fort Rucker, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, DTS guarantees that 100% of the required aircraft at the world's busiest airfield are ready to fly. Team Rucker has met the US Army's expectations and performed so well, they raised the standards. Just how was this feat accomplished day after day?

Attention to detail. If a screw is loose or a bolt needs tightening, we'll find it—and fix it! Our world-class safety record looks pretty good, too: over 3 million flight hours without a single maintenance-related accident.

For more than 50 years, our constant pursuit of excellence—on every assignment, at every level—has made us the professional and technical services choice in Army aviation. We're honored to be the only company to win the AAAA Materiel Readiness Award 15 times.

See farther.
See clearer.
See the tactical advantage.

On the darkest nights of the year.

When night falls, soldiers clearly see the advantages of ITT Night Vision equipment for critical operations where the ability to distinguish friend from foe is imperative. Our new GEN III image intensifier tube for OMNI IV delivers the highest technical performance available. Improved resolution. Higher signal-to-noise ratio. Increased photosensitivity. No other night vision device comes close.

These advancements have earned us 100% of the U.S. Army's OMNIBUS IV procurement, as well as comparable programs in Australia and Switzerland. We are committed to enhancing nighttime situational awareness for U.S. and allied military forces. ITT Night Vision. Clearly, the leader in image intensifier technology.

MISSION: Safeguard aircrew lives. Both U.S. and allied aviators look to Sanders for the very best electronic countermeasures for rotary and fixed-wing aircraft. In more than 40 years of combat-proven experience, we've produced more self-protection systems for military aircraft than any other company.

A high-contrast, black and white photograph of two pilots in flight suits standing in front of a military aircraft. The aircraft's canopy is open, and the scene is lit from the side, creating strong highlights and deep shadows. The pilots are looking towards the camera with serious expressions.

We protect those who protect us.

SANDERS
A Lockheed Martin Company

SUCCESS: For future aircrews, our heritage of success will continue with next-generation, Sanders-built systems. These will include Advanced Threat IR Countermeasures for U.S. and allied helicopters; the Common Missile Warning System; EW Suites for the F-22 and JSF; and IDECM RF Countermeasures for the F/A-18E/F, B-1B and F-15.

We Don't Blink.

Their camouflage is better. Their SAMs are faster. So your look-around has to be quick, but accurate. That's why our new Apache video system has 40% improved resolution, freeze frame capability, 120 minute record time, and uses standard videotape formats – with an option for video burst transmission.

When you only have an instant, keep your eye on TEAC.

IF IT'S WORTH A MISSION, IT'S WORTH A

One Common Heritage, One Simple Goal: Supporting the Soldier

Mass Memory Unit

Mission Planning and Rehearsal System

Airborne Video
Solid-State Recorder

In today's high tech Army, systems that don't work together put soldiers at risk. Fairchild Defense's hardware and software systems support a wide variety of Army aircraft and ground vehicle system requirements and share a common heritage, so they are instantly compatible without modifications or additional programming. In the end, that means fewer technical glitches, lower cost of use and maintenance, and most importantly, it means that they work in the field, providing soldiers the performance they need to achieve their objectives.

ALL THE EYES OF THE DARKEST NIGHT

Advanced Solutions for Advanced Army Cockpits

Visit Litton at
AUSA 16-18 Oct.
Washington, D.C.

Litton's AN/AVS-6(V)3 features our patented OMNI V GEN IV image intensifier resulting in 20% increase in SNR over OMNI IV on the darkest nights. Its Auto-Gated Power Supply provides a 200% increase in resolution over OMNI IV during high light level MOUT operations.

The goggle objectives include an improved 4-knob focal ring with 338 degree turn. AN/AVS-6(V)3 uses a new low-profile power pack with an aircraft power interface or a clip-on power supply that directly attaches to the goggle for pre-flight, egress, or dismounted operations.

Litton's Eye-Cam slips directly on the AN/AVS-6 eye-piece for night vision video recording. The new Day-Cam attaches directly to the helmet mount for color recording.

What do these platforms have in common?

A path to lower O&S costs, increased mission readiness, and enhanced safety through use of the BFGoodrich* IMD-HUMS.

The BFGoodrich next generation Dual-Use Integrated Mechanical Diagnostics-Health and Usage Management System (IMD-HUMS) has been selected for the S76 and S92 civil helicopters, the US Navy SH-60 and CH-60 fleet, the USMC/USN CH-53E Superstallion fleet, the USMC Bell AH-1Z and UH-1Y Upgrades, and the US Army UH-60 Blackhawk.

The BFGoodrich solution is different...find out why by contacting:

The Phantom Warrior® is Here...

You need our patented Phantom Map Lights and Phantom Warrior® Flashlights. Here are three reasons why:

1. The Phantom Lighting System is NVG Secure & Compatible

Using our lights in the cockpit alongside NVGs is no problem. Phantoms don't emit the light waves that blind the NVGs. And if you are on the ground, our lights won't make your position vulnerable to enemy eyes.

SOLDIER WITH PHANTOM FLASHLIGHT AS VIEWED THROUGH GENIII NVGS.

SOLDIER WITH RED-FILTERED MINI AA FLASHLIGHT AS VIEWED THOROUGH GENIII NVGS.

2. The Phantom Lighting System is Color Accurate

Try to read a map with a blue or green or red filtered light—and hope that nothing important is written in a color you can't see. Our Phantom lights look white to the naked eye so you see all of the colors on a map or chart clearly. This reduces the possibility of flying into an improper area due to navigator error. Your maintenance crews will be much better off trying to tell the difference between the different colors of fluids and wires with our Phantom White® light.

3. The Phantom Lighting System Saves Money

You have better things to do than replace old burned out incandescent bulbs every couple of hours (more often if they are exposed to shocks and vibrations.) Our bulbs are vibration and shockproof and have been jumped by our awesome U.S. Airborne troops—without failure. You probably won't ever have to replace them.

Our Phantom Warrior flashlights last for an average of 180 hours on one set of 4 AA batteries—that is right—180 hours! You can actually take "dead" AA batteries out of a competitors' flashlight and still get 10-20 more hours of light out of them. Now that is money savings!

Plus, our lights do not damage NVG tubes like other lights damage them—so you can use our lights right next to them and you won't have to spend money replacing burned out tubes.

Be a Phantom Warrior® or Become a TARGET!®

A soldier in full combat gear, including a helmet and camouflage uniform, is the central figure. Overlaid on his chest is a semi-transparent image of a Bell OH-58D helicopter in flight. The helicopter has the call sign 'SF17R' on its side. The background behind the soldier is a landscape with a cloudy sky.

Your Mission Is Our Mission.

You assess every situation as if lives depend on it. So do we. That's why we're adding the Safety Enhancement Program to the OH-58D. What was already the most versatile armed reconnaissance helicopter in the world, is now being improved. And who better to upgrade a Bell than Bell. After all, we both put safety first.

Black Hawk Gyro Replacement

LCR-92H "FOG" AHRS Retrofit in the UH-60

The LCR-92H is a solid-state strapdown "fog" (fiber optic gyro) AHRS (Attitude Heading Reference System) which replaces older mechanical gyros. A single LCR-92H replaces three older gyros in the UH-60 with a highly reliable, accurate & cost effective system. The retrofit can be accomplished with a minimum of effort, without altering aircraft wiring. An adapter harness mates with the aircraft connectors, and the mounting hardware uses existing mounting holes. The existing compass flux valve and cockpit control unit remain, and are utilized by the LCR-92H AHRS. The procedure is as follows:

- Remove pilot side VG (CN-1314, CN-1497/A, or CN-811), the DG (CN-998) & the Rate Gyro (TRU-2/A)
- Bolt the connector mounting bracket of the adapter harness to top front of the DG shelf.
- Harness tie the VG, DG and Rate Gyro harnesses and reroute them to the connector mounting bracket.
- Plug the existing gyro connectors into the mating connectors on the mounting bracket.

VHPA MEMORIAL AT THE WALL

Joe Galloway made the following remarks during a July 2 memorial service for helicopter pilots and crewmembers killed in Vietnam. The service was held at the Wall of the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, D.C. With Joe's kind permission, we at Army Aviation magazine would like to share them with you.

Is there anyone here today who does not thrill to the sound of those Huey blades? That familiar whop-whop-whop is the soundtrack of our war, the lullaby of our younger days. To someone who spent his time in Nam with the grunts, I have got to tell you that that noise was always a great comfort.

It meant someone was coming to help ... someone was coming to get our wounded ... someone was coming to bring us water and ammo ... someone was coming to take our dead brothers home ... someone was coming to give us a ride out of hell. Even today when I hear it I stop, catch my breath and think back to those days.

I love you guys as only an Infantryman can love you. No matter how bad things were, if we called, you came - down through the green tracers and other visible signs of a real bad day off to a bad start.

I would like to quote to you from a letter Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman wrote his friend Gen. Ulysses S. Grant at the end of the Civil War: "I knew wherever I was that you thought of me, and if I got in a tight place you would come - if alive."

That was always in our minds and that is how we thought of you. To us you seemed beyond brave and fearless ... that you would come to us in the middle of battle in those flimsy thin-skinned crates, and in the storm of fire you would sit up there behind that plexiglass seeming so patient and so calm and so vulnerable, waiting for the off-loading and the on-loading.

We thought you were God's own lunatics, and we loved you. Still do.

We are gathered here this morning to appreciate the lives and honor the memory of 2,209 helicopter pilots and 2,704 helicopter crewmen who were killed while doing their duty in the Republic of Vietnam between May 30, 1961, and May 15, 1975. Theirs are some of the names among the 58,220 on this precious Wall. So many good men, so many good friends.

Before I come here I always remind myself of what another good friend - Capt. B.T. Collins, who is now gone - liked to say at gatherings like this:

"No whining and no crying! We are the fortunate ones! We survived, when so many better men gave up their precious lives for us. We owe them a sacred debt: to live each day to its fullest, trying to make this world a better place for our having lived and their having died."

So we come here today to remember them, and to celebrate their lives and their deeds. I like to come here at dawn, or around midnight, when things are so quiet you can hear their voices. What they are saying, when you listen hard enough, is this: We are at peace; so should you be, so should you be.

I would like to close by reading you from something written by a World War I poet named Lawrence Binyon:

"They shall not grow old, as we that are left grow old, Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.

At the going down of the sun, and in the morning, We will remember them!"

God bless all our absent friends, and God bless you.

CCAD SUPPORTS THE ARMY

By Ralph Yoder

Workers at Corpus Christi Army Depot recently squeezed two of the Army's largest helicopters into the Air Force's largest aircraft, the C-5A, for the long flight to Korea. CH-47 flights in Korea were stopped several months ago by a Safety of Flight message concerning some flaws in the transmissions.

CCAD has been repairing the Chinook transmissions and for each set completed another Chinook could fly. However, in Korea they needed not only working transmissions, they needed two additional Chinooks, recently worked at the depot, to increase Army heavy-lift capabilities.

About a month ago, said Richard Caballero, a CCAD quality-assurance representative, "We knew which two helicopters were scheduled. They had been test flown by CCAD and Korea-based pilots, and accepted. It took about seven days to make them ready for the transpacific flight.

"We disassembled the back pylons and removed the transmissions, blades and other parts," Caballero said. "The transmissions and blades were put inside the aircraft, and the pylons were wheeled into the C-5A on dollies.

"It was a tight fit," he added. "This is the first time that CCAD has airlifted Chinooks, packed like this, to the customer. A C-5A can carry three Chinooks, but we only loaded two."

During a recent visit to CCAD Army Chief of Staff Gen. Eric Shinseki told CCAD commander Col. Mitch Dockens how important a strategic tool CCAD is for the Army. Being able to move recently overhauled large helicopters long distances is a vital part of the depot's mission.

"If we had not been here, the Chinooks and Apaches would not be flying today" said CCAD Bearing Shop supervisor Manuel Torres while leading a tour of his unique facility. He was talking about the grounding of both the CH-47 Chinook and AH-64 Apache fleets because of flawed transmissions. Part of the work undertaken by the CCAD Bearing Shop was the replacement, inspection and repair of the CH-47 first- and second-stage planetary gear bearing assemblies, and the AH-64 transmission bearings, sprag clutches and hanger bearings.

Hundreds of forward and aft transmissions from the big twin-engine Chinook and hundreds more transmissions and hanger-bearing assemblies from the Apaches had to be checked and, when necessary, fixed at CCAD between last fall and this spring. The Bearing

Section processed and restored to serviceable status more than 3,300 first- and second-stage planetary gear bearing assemblies for the CH-47 special operations aircraft program. This was quite an accomplishment, as the shop normally processes only 100 each of the first- and second-stage planetary gear bearing assemblies a year. The bulk of the gear-bearing assemblies were turned around within one week.

"My folks did a terrific job; but we also had super support from Tom Long's and Frank Munoz's Non-Destructive Testing shops, which performed the 200 percent NDT inspection requirement on the gears" Torres said. The NDT section also processed more than 700

sprag clutches and reclaimed more than 2,500 critical transmission and hanger bearings for the AH-64 programs during this same time period.

The Bearing Section is the only facility of its kind in the Army, and one of only three within the Department of Defense that are authorized to perform complete overhaul and repair on aviation bearings.

The section currently processes more than 4,000 different vendor part-numbered bearings, gear assemblies and sprag clutches — ranging from 28 inches to one quarter inch in diameter — that are vital to helicopter engines, transmissions and other systems. Bearings are tough and some can have as many as 30,000 hours on them. Torres has seen bearings come through again and again. And in all the years that Torres has been there no crash has ever been traced to one of the section's bearings.

Jim Welch, a retired CCAD director of maintenance and now an Allied Signal contractor representative, said: "Manuel Torres and his team are recognized as a 'center of excellence' for bearings by DOD and throughout the aerospace private sector. I would much rather fly in an aircraft equipped with bearings they inspect and repair than I would fly in one equipped with new bearings fresh from the factory."

Bearing work is hard work and Torres rotates his shop personnel frequently so they can become familiar with the individual bearing characteristics and end-item applications. The bearings, gears and clutches are inducted and precision cleaned, buffed, polished and extensively tested before undergoing a detailed visual examination. Those that pass the visual exam are then processed through a Class 100 clean room (the workers wear white suits and head covers) where they undergo a detailed dimensional inspection to blue-print specification. The bearings are then lubricated, preserved and packaged for delivery to the customer.

Besides helicopter bearings the Bearing Section is also currently processing F-15, F-16 and B-1B gearbox bearings and gear bearing assemblies for the Air Force.

Longbow Maintenance Recognition Division Parade Field June 19, 2000

Maj. Gen. Dick Cody, commander of the 101st Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Ky., recently honored the division's first AH-64D Apache Longbow battalion for outstanding maintenance performance. The 2nd Battalion, 101st Aviation, was able to train for and execute an aerial gunnery while overcoming three major Safety of Flight messages affecting the AH-64D.

SUBJECT: Search for Army Aviator — Centurion 20

On 3 April 1996, an Air Force CT-43A aircraft crashed into a mountain near Dubrovnik, Croatia, killing all 35 passengers and crew onboard the aircraft, to include Secretary of Commerce Ron Brown. During the initial search and rescue efforts following the disappearance of the aircraft, various Army aviation assets were employed to locate the aircraft. These assets were primarily from Vicenza, Italy, and possibly operating out of Camp Ederle at the time of the crash and part of a task force with the 2nd Brigade, 325th Regiment.

Within one or two days after the crash, the Air Force Accident Investigation Board requested the assistance of an Army Chinook helicopter crew to fly both the actual mishap flight path of the CT-43A on its final approach to the Dubrovnik airport and the Jeppesen Sanderson published approach to the airport. An Air Force video operator made a videotape of the two approaches. The videotape, however, does not identify the helicopter crew, tail number or unit, although the callsign Centurion 20 can be heard on the audio portion of the tape. One of the crewmember's helmets appears to have the name Friar marked on it.

Twenty-seven of the 35 families of those killed in the crash have filed a lawsuit against Jeppesen Sanderson, Inc., the publisher of the Dubrovnik approach plate. The United States is not a party to the lawsuit. Plaintiffs' counsel has requested assistance from the Air Force to identify and locate the pilot and crewmembers of the Chinook helicopter that flew this mission in order to question them about this flight.

If anyone has any information about this flight or the names and location of the crewmembers, request they contact me at the above address, by telephone at (703) 696-9055 or DSN 426-9055, or by email at paul.cormier@pentagon.af.mil.

Dear Editor;

By now you've probably received several comments regarding the Army's recent decision to award the Aviation Aircrew Members Badge to MOS 93P (flight operations) enlisted soldiers. I thought I would add my two cents worth.

As a member of an aviation organization that includes several assigned 93Ps, I am proud to see them being recognized for the hard work and dedication they apply to the unit's mission.

At first I was skeptical of the idea, and knew it would create dissension between the crew chiefs/flight engineers and the flight operations personnel. I honestly believe it will take some time for the attitudes to mellow. Something to keep in mind is that the 93Ps don't receive any additional flight or incentive pay.

I personally feel that a different type of badge could have been designed to represent the MOS, but the bottom line is that 93P soldiers are an integral part of the overall Army aviation mission. They deserve to be recognized for their devotion to duty.

CWO 3 Keith D. Genter

Dear Editor,

I read with great interest the May article "The Army's Utility Helicopter Program," which said the UH-60 Black Hawk is in its 24th year of production and in the fifth year of multiyear contracting.

I would like to point out that the very first multi-year contract for Black Hawks, lots VI-VII and VIII for 314 helicopters, was signed in April 1982. The inception of this first ever multiyear contract for a major Army system was achieved by the hard work and dedication of a "Should Cost Team," which evaluated the manufacturers' proposal and demonstrated the savings of multiyear contracting through the halls of the Pentagon and congressional staffs leading to congressional approval of multiyear funding.

In particular, two government civilians on that team, Messrs. Gerald Erickinson, deputy team chief, and Charles Trendley, the contracting officer, were instrumental in making the first major systems multiyear contract a success. The 314 Black Hawks were bought without engines and in the following year another Should Cost Team achieved a second multiyear contract for the T-700 engines that would power the Black Hawks for our soldiers throughout the world.

Should Cost Team Chief

ARMY AVIATION

BOOK REVIEW

DUSTOFF: The Memoir of an Army Aviator

by Michael J. Novosel

(Presidio Press, 326 pages)

Reviewed by

Maj. Gen. Ben L. Harrison, U.S. Army (Ret.)

An interesting and inspiring memoir of a man who early on showed his courage by repeatedly seeking difficult challenges and opportunities to serve his country. Bad career breaks in the Air Force did not deter his determination to always do what was right. After flying as aircraft commander of a B-29 in World War II, commanding a squadron of these mighty bombers and reaching the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the Air Force, Mike (I've known him for many years) was inspired by President John Kennedy to volunteer his flying skills and experience to the Army. His first assignment was with Kennedy's favorite force, the Green Berets of Special Forces, in 1964.

Mike tells of his on-duty and off-duty experiences the way he served — straight forward, determined to let it all hang out. Clearly he contributed to the professionalism and effectiveness of every unit in which he served; especially in combat. His instrument and night-flying skills were particularly suited for the bad weather, 24-hours-a-day medical evacuations of DUSTOFF.

This will be the only place you will ever read of a father (age 47) and son flying pilot and copilot in combat; of the father rescuing the son and a week later, the son rescuing the father.

As I have said many times, any decoration you see an Army aviator wearing, he probably deserved at least 10 of them. In Mike's case, the Army finally got it right. He was awarded the Medal of Honor for one of his many, many heroic actions.

There are several reviews of the book on amazon.com. Two I found of special interest. One said the great strength of this book is that Mike wrote it himself without a ghost writer. Another reviewer said the author really needed a ghost writer. I vote with the first reviewer! Read this book. Give it to young people who need a role model for selfless service.

The BFGoodrich Co. and Dartmouth College are working together on the development of a potential breakthrough technology for aircraft ice protection. The research is based on patented technology developed by Dr. Victor Petrenko, a professor at Dartmouth's Thayer School of Engineering. Petrenko's work uses electric currents to reduce or prevent ice formation, and was recently honored by Discover Magazine as the most innovative invention for the aerospace industry in the year 2000.

The Army has awarded Rockwell Collins a contract to upgrade two C-12F3 aircraft to meet Global Air Traffic Management requirements, with the upgrade of an additional 21 aircraft to follow. The upgrade includes the installation of Collins WXR-850 weather radar, Traffic Collision and Avoidance Systems and an Integrated Avionics Processor System (IAPS). The IAPS includes a dual FMS-3000 Flight Management System, dual GPS-4000A GPS systems and an ADC-3000 Air Data Computer. A fifth MFD-255C multifunction display will be added for weather radar, flight plan and Enhanced Proximity Warning System overlay information.

The Army will activate the 1st Squadron, 14th Cavalry, at Fort Lewis, Wash., on Sept. 15. The unit will be reflagged from the existing 1st Battalion, 32nd Armor, and will become an element of the new Interim Brigade Combat Team. Another squadron is to be activated later.

Westar Corp. has completed its acquisition of COBRO Corp., a logistics services firm with offices at several Army installations worldwide. This transaction will extend the reach of Westar's rapidly growing Aerospace and Defense Group. Founded in 1986, Westar Corp. is a privately held, diversified technology company providing engineering services and specialty products.

Royal Air Force Chinook HC Mk 2 helicopters played a vital role in Operation Palliser, the support of British and United Nations peacekeeping forces operating in war-torn Sierra Leone. Four of the aircraft self-deployed to Africa, undertaking the three-day, 3,000-mile flight from Oldham via France, Portugal, the Canary Islands and Senegal. Once on station the aircraft flew humanitarian relief and noncombatant evacuation missions, as well as undertaking troop transport and reconnaissance flights.

Thanks to engine replacements made by the maintenance crews of the 3rd Squadron, 17th Cavalry Regiment, and Company C, 10th Aviation Regiment, on some of the 10th Mountain Division's OH-58D Kiowa Warriors, full cavalry support for division soldiers is up and flying again. Mechanics began installing 12 new "R" engines on July 7 during block leave in order to assure that the 3-17 Cav. would be able to provide 100 percent support to the division at Fort Polk, La., during the upcoming Joint Contingency Force Advanced Warfighting Experiment. Soldiers will replace about three engines a month, until every Kiowa Warrior helicopter is completed by this time next year.

Here is a website with some great Vietnam photos of Army Aviation and the 173rd Airborne Brigade in action.

$244,000.00 in Scholarships Awarded

Brig. Gen. Stu Gerald (Ret.)

President, AAAA Scholarship Foundation, Inc.

The 2000 AAAA Scholarship Program exceeded all expectations in number of awards made and dollar amount of those awards. Thirty-eight members of the AAAA Awards Committee voted 150 applicant files on Saturday, July 22, 2000, and assigned a record $244,000 to the 107 outstanding students listed on these pages. This translates to 71 percent of applicants winning average awards of almost $2,300 each.

All the applicants had their names and the names and ranks of their AAAA member relatives removed from their files and all files were voted on the basis of academic merit, not need. The average winning freshman had a 3.86 grade point average, ranked in the top 10 percent of their class, and scored 617 on their SATs. The upperclassmen and graduates were of similar quality.

After the awards were made and the identities of the successful applicants established, the demographics revealed that a record 27 warrant officers and 15 enlisted AAAA members or their families had received awards. In addition, five company grade officers were rewarded.

As a reminder, every dollar donated to the AAAA Scholarship Foundation, Inc., goes directly to scholarship awards or principal. All expenses of the foundation are absorbed by the Army Aviation Association of America, Inc. In addition, the AAAA also donates $25,000 in cash each year to the foundation itself.

AAAA supports the best and brightest among the youth of America through this membership benefit. If you know AAAA members or their spouses and children who might wish to apply, encourage them to contact the AAAA National Office and make their application before the May 1 suspense.

Again, congratulations to all our 2000 AAAA Scholarship Program winners!

The AAAA Scholarship Foundation, Inc. (AAAASF) is now part of the Combined Federal Campaign (CFC), a workplace charitable fund drive conducted by the U.S. Government for all federal employees. It is the single largest workplace fund drive in the country, raising approximately $195M in pledges annually.

In 2000, the AAAASF received a total of 145 applications and awarded more than 107 grants and loans totalling over $244,000. These awards are made on the basis of academic merit only and the applications are scrubbed to remove all references to the names and ranks of their AAAA member relative.

Don't forget, all overhead costs are borne by the AAAA so that 100% of your contribution (net CFC charges) go directly to AAAA Scholarship Foundation, Inc. awards. Help us reward more of these outstanding students with larger awards.

Aviation Center Chapter

Corpus Christi Chapter

Blaine Withers (left) deputy to commander of Corpus Christi Army Depot, Texas, congratulates Albert Cantu, winner of a $750 Army Aviation Association of America/CCAD scholarship during a July 14 awards ceremony. The son of Harry and Lynn McAllister, Cantu has also won a $1,000 scholarship to Jamestown College, N.D.

CCAD also awarded two $250 scholarships, which went to William Krimmel, son of Frank and Joanne Sijansky, and Melany Poldrack, daughter of Jon Poldrack.

Lifelong AAAA members Dr. Kirit and Judith Bhansali have established a new AAAA Scholarship, the Justin Bhansali Memorial Scholarship in memory of their son, Justin. He died Jan. 7, 2000, in an automobile accident in Guinea, West Africa, where he was teaching high-school level math and physics on assignment with the Peace Corps. He was 24.

Because Justin felt very strongly that an engineering education was the very best to obtain, and because he wanted to become a medical doctor, the scholarship is for engineering undergraduate students or engineering/medical graduate students.

A permanent website — <http://planet.rtec.org/justin> — has been established in Justin's memory by Planet Innovation, where he worked as an undergrad.

Persons wishing to contribute to the scholarship fund should make checks payable to the AAAA National Scholarship Foundation. Where it says "For" on the check write "Justin Bhansali Memorial Scholarship." Send it to AAAA, 49 Richmondville Ave., Westport, CT 06880.

Tennessee Valley Chapter

Al Carreon, treasurer of AAAA's Tennessee Valley Chapter, presents a check to Redstone Arsenal's NCO of the Year, SSgt. Kimberly Jennings. The installation's Soldier of the Year, Spec.

Arvin Dewberry (not pictured), also received a check. Both winners were announced at a July 13 luncheon that drew 260 guests to the Officers' and Civilians' Club. Jennings is a supply sergeant for Company B, 832nd Ordnance Battalion, and Dewberry is a medical laboratory technician at Fox Army Health Center.

Second Generation

Past AAAA President Maj. Gen. Ben Harrison, reports that while attending the recent 4th Brigade, 1st Cavalry Regiment, change of command he noted that all three battalion/squadrons are commanded by sons of great army aviation leaders. They included Lt. Col. Paul Funk, 1/7 Cav, Lt. Col. Dave Molinelli, 1/227 Avn and Lt. Col. Don MacWillie, 2/227 Avn.

Tennessee Valley Chapter Corner

The Tennessee Valley Chapter (TVC) has experienced tremendous growth over the past three years, but the levels of excitement and participation have exceeded the numbers. Initially due to the BRAC decision to relocate U.S. Army Aviation and Troop Command from St. Louis, Mo., to Huntsville, Ala., a large number of Lindbergh Chapter members transferred their AAAA membership to the Tennessee Valley Chapter. Both the Department of the Army and the Department of Defense have recognized the merging of the two communities as a major success story, and AAAA has been a significant contributor to that success. During the last three years the TVC has grown from 102 to 747 members, and has become a major contender in the professional organization arena that characterizes Redstone Arsenal and Huntsville, the Rocket City.

This process was not easy, but under the leadership of then Brig. Gen. Joe Bergantz and past TVC president Col. Mike Boyd (Ret.), the merger was smooth and effective. Boyd volunteered to step down as president and Bergantz became the first president of the new TVC. Other board positions were selected and represented a synergism of former Tennessee and Lindbergh board members. Through adept leadership and a genuine concern for all concerned, Bergantz held monthly board meetings to ensure that activities, charities and responsiveness were in keeping with what the new TVC should establish. His clear and concise guidance is always a product of board consensus and he has devoted his efforts to helping the board carry out those decisions.

Obviously, this new TVC has been successful, as we were selected as the AAAA Chapter of the Year at the AAAA National Convention in Fort Worth, Texas, in March. This followed selection as the Master Chapter for Membership in 1999. In addition to the phenomenal growth of individual and corporate membership, the chapter has accomplished the following:

AAAA Military Appreciation Night Ice Hockey Game

The TVC sponsored a Huntsville Channel Cats ice hockey game in celebration of Armed Forces Day. The chapter provided free tickets to 200 Redstone Arsenal soldiers and their families in appreciation for their dedication, selfless devotion and duty to their country. In honor of the occasion the Channel Cats players wore camouflaged uniforms.

AAAA TVC Spring and Fall Bass Tournaments

Held at the Redstone Arsenal Recreational Area and Lake

Guntersville, more than 20 boats were in the water for each event. Cash prizes were awarded to the top three places.

25th & 26th Annual Joseph P. Cribbins Product Support Symposium

The TVC was proud to host the 25th and 26th annual event sponsored by the newly formed Army Aviation and Missile Command of Redstone Arsenal. The Product Support Symposium is a landmark event for aviation logistics, providing a professional forum for government and industry to explore improvements in the reliability and supportability of aviation systems and technologies. The 25th PSS was hosted by chapter President Bergantz and included a celebration of not only the PSS, but also a celebration of Mr. Cribbins' birthday. The birthday bash was attended by many of those he mentored. The 26th PSS was hosted by Col. Bob Birmingham and featured exciting new panel discussions on Army aviation's hottest topics. More than 300 Government and contractor personnel attended each of these events, and collectively they raised more than $20,000 for the AAAA Scholarship Foundation.

Scholarship Program

The chapter made several enhancements to its scholarship program. The Board completed the planning, coordination and funding necessary to put in place five new $2,000 awards to be available beginning in the year 2000! This will bring the TVC's total scholarships to six $2,000 awards available to its membership. The chapter also supports the Coleen Hipp Scholarship. Through continuous TVC AAAA 50-50 raffles, golf mulligan purchases and Huntsville private donations, the scholarship is now self sustaining.

The TV Chapter also supported RSA soldiers and the local Huntsville community at the 1999 Veterans' Day Parade. The Chapter sponsored several Veterans' Day celebrations that contributed to a successful AMCOM event. In 1999 the chapter supported a variety of events that returned more than $8,000 to the membership and community.

For the future, the TVC anticipates continued growth of both corporate and individual membership. We want to continue to direct our energies toward raising more money for the AAAA Scholarship Foundation, support soldiers and NCO awards, and become the most dynamic organization of its kind in the Tennessee Valley area.

Most people automatically think of the awards presented at the AAAA annual convention as comprising the total awards program. They do not.

During the course of the year, the AAAA also presents various "functional" awards at various venues. Among the most important are the awards presented each year at the Aviation Center Chapter Awards Banquet that recognize excellence in Air Traffic Control, Air/Sea Rescue, Fixed Wing Units, and Medicine among other areas.

The calendar year 1999 awards were presented last February 2 at the Fort Rucker Officers Club. Under the leadership of then Chapter President Col. Lee Gore, the event proved to be an outstanding occasion to recognize the efforts of our soldiers and their families.

Congratulations to all the winners and to their award sponsors: FlightSafety International, Gentex Corporation, Hughes Training, Inc., Link Division, Lockheed Martin, and Lucas Aerospace, for their support.

WARNER AMENDMENT COMPARED WITH FEHBP

Since both Rep. Ronnie Shows (D-MS) and Sen. Tim Johnson (D-SD) were unsuccessful in getting bills adopted as amendments to the National Defense Authorization Act, and since the last-minute Warner Amendment is such a significant step forward, The Military Coalition (TMC) and The Retired Officers Association (TROA) are focusing their efforts on getting it enacted this year.

If enacted, and made permanent, the Warner Amendment would mean TRICARE would establish TRICARE for life as a wraparound (second payer) for Medicare. Except for some minor differences, TRICARE for life generally would be equal to - and with respect to prescription drugs better than - FEHBP as a supplement to Medicare. The following provides a side-by-side comparison of the Warner Amendment with FEHBP (using the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Standard - the most popular plan with federal retirees):

- Annual enrollment fee: TRICARE none; FEHBP $781 single; $1,736 family in 2000. These rates will increase by about 16 percent by 2002.
- Medicare provider automatically qualifies as authorized provider. Yes for both programs.
- Pay excess charges up to 115 percent of the Medicare allowable (the maximum allowed by law): Yes for both programs.
- Pay full Medicare copay if a Medicare provider is used: Yes, for both programs.
- Skilled nursing home care, home health care and hospice care: Yes, for both programs.
- Care while traveling outside of the United States: Yes, for both programs, with standard copays.
- Coverage for retirees residing overseas: No for TRICARE; Yes for FEHBP with standard copayments. We've recommended to the House and Senate Armed Services Committees that TRICARE act as primary payer for those who reside overseas.
- Mandatory participation in Medicare Part B: Yes for TRICARE; No for FEHBP, but the National Association of Retired Federal Employees encourages its members to participate in Part B because copayments and deductibles apply to nonparticipants. In addition, TRICARE is actually less expensive than FEHBP because the Part B premium ($546 per year) is 30 percent less than the FEHBP premium.
- Medicare deductible ($100 per year) waived: No for TRICARE; Yes for FEHBP. In addition, a service member could be subject to an additional $50 TRICARE deductible.
- Mail-order and retail prescription-drug coverage: Yes for both programs, but TRICARE is less expensive. For mail-order services, TRICARE's copay is $8 for a 90-day supply compared to $10 for generic drugs and $20 for name-brand drugs under FEHBP. For retail pharmacy services, TRICARE's copay is 20 percent for network pharmacies and 25 percent in non-network pharmacies, while FEHBP has a 25 percent and 45 percent copay for network and non-network pharmacies, respectively.

In addition, a significant advantage of the Warner Amendment is that it is premium-free for all retirees and not just for those who entered service before June 7, 1956, which is the case with Shows' and Johnson's bills.

Long-Term Care Insurance Legislation

On July 28 Congress sent President Bill Clinton legislation that will authorize group long-term care (LTC) insurance for all active and retired federal government employees and their family members.

Because of the personal efforts of Reps. Connie Morella (R-MD) and Joe Scarborough (R-FL), and Sens. Max Cleland (D-GA) and

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

Col. Sylvester C. Berdux, Jr. (Ret.)
AAAA Representative to
The Military Coalition (TMC)

Charles Grassley (R-IA), working in close coordination with TMC and TROA, the National Association of Retired Federal Employees and the assistant secretary of defense (force management policy), this historic legislation includes members and families of the uniformed services.

The principal advantage of government-sponsored LTC legislation is that the large, group-buying power is expected to reduce the rates by about 20 percent below rates for individual commercial plans. While this legislation does not provide a government subsidy, it is a major first step in giving federal employees the opportunity to enroll in a long-term group plan. Due to the growing cost of skilled nursing care and home health care (services that are limited under Medicare), many members are now seeking LTC coverage in case they become unable to care for themselves due to disability or mental incapacity.

Scarborough, chairman of the House Civil Service Subcommittee, fulfilled his promise to include uniformed service members in the government's group LTC insurance program, and shepherded his bill (H.R. 4040) to House approval in May. Grassley's companion bill (S. 2420) passed the Senate in July.

Even though the president was expected to have signed this initiative into law earlier this month, it will take up to two years to negotiate plans with insurers, develop program materials and get them out to eligible beneficiaries. Thus, officials project that it will be October 2002 before the 13 million potential eligibles will have a chance to physically sign up. More details to come.

Help Build A Grassroots Tidal Wave For Health Care

The timing is perfect to build a grassroots tidal wave to convince Congress that its legislative imperative is to honor the lifetime health-care commitment to military retirees, their family members and survivors. There are several ways you can help drive the message home and have health care equity included in the fiscal year 2001 National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA).

1. Visit your representative or senators in their district (or state) offices. If you can't visit, call their local offices. Local office numbers can be found on TROA's web site at www2.troa.org/search.html.

2. Send an e-mail and/or letter to each of them at their Capitol Hill addresses. The address for all U.S. representatives is: U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, DC 20515. The address for all senators is U.S. Senate, Washington, DC 20510. E-mail addresses are located on the TROA website above.

3. Use TROA's toll-free hot line to Capitol Hill [(877) 762-8762] and ask the operator to connect you with your representative's or senator's Capitol Hill office. Once you are connected, identify yourself and tell the staff member you are calling to urge your legislator to support the TRICARE-for-life provision in the Senate version of the FY 2001 National Defense Authorization Bill.

4. If possible, have your spouse and friends participate in the first three initiatives. Whatever you do, make more than one contact.

Program to Ease TRICARE Credit Hassles

In July the Department of Defense announced a new debt collection assistance officer program to help servicemembers, retirees and their eligible family members with TRICARE-related debt problems. For the first time, an assistance officer located at each military treatment facility (MTF) and TRICARE lead agent office will be the single point of contact when a TRICARE beneficiary needs help with these kinds of problems.

Identification of the assistance officers and training will begin immediately. The new program will begin within 30 days and the information on the assistance officers will be published in a future update.

Once contacted by a TRICARE-eligible beneficiary, the debt collection assistance officer will intercede with all agencies involved, including military personnel offices, the MTFs, lead agents, network and non-network providers, TRICARE Management Activity, managed-care contractors, and even debt collection agencies when appropriate, to resolve a collection issue arising from a TRICARE claim.

Service members in remote locations may contact any debt collection assistance officer who is convenient for them. These points of contact will be identified by the military services before implementation of the program.

Beneficiaries also can call claims processors using their toll-free telephone numbers. Additional information about TRICARE claims processing can be found on the Military Health System/TRICARE Web site at www.tricare.osd.mil.

Hastert Hears Concurrent Receipt Case

Nine representatives of TMC and other military and veterans associations met recently with Speaker of the House Dennis Hastert (R-IL) and Rep. Mike Bilirakis (R-FL) to urge leadership support for the Senate proposal to authorize full concurrent receipt of uniformed service retired pay and veterans disability compensation.

Bilirakis, the perennial champion of concurrent receipt legislation, arranged the meeting to let association representatives make our case to Hastert face-to-face. In the past, House leaders have not embraced legislation to end the dollar-for-dollar offset of retired pay by any amount the retiree receives in VA disability compensation, largely because the various legislative proposals carry costs up to several billion dollars a year. Leadership support is critical, because congressional rules leave the Armed Services Committees little flexibility to increase retirement outlays. To make such improvements, the leaders have to agree to allocate more so-called "entitlement" spending for this purpose, or have to influence enough votes to waive the normal spending rules.

TMC representatives made the case that many retirees with 20 or more years of service lose their entire retired pay to the offset, ending up with the same disability compensation as a similarly disabled member with a relatively few years of service. This unfairly denies any recognition for their decades of arduous service. With the Senate having approved a provision to repeal the offset entirely in the FY 2001 Defense Authorization Bill, with more than 300 cosponsors in the House, and with ever-growing budget surpluses, association representatives asserted that part of the surplus needs to be devoted to correcting long-standing inequities such as the retired pay/VA compensation offset.

Hastert listened and made notes, but made no funding commitment at the meeting. Bilirakis indicated he would follow up with Hastert, and testified himself in support of the Senate initiative before the House defense authorization conferees.

Humana Subsidiary Offers Online Claims Reports

Humana Inc. announced in July that its wholly-owned subsidiary, Humana Military Healthcare Services (HMHS), now has claims status reports available to physicians through its Internet site at www.humana-military.com. These new e-business reports are offered to all TRICARE civilian and hospital-based physicians in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, eastern Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee. Updated weekly, these provider-specific reports list all claims that are in process, have been resolved or were returned for additional information.

Each year, businesses and private groups in Corpus Christi, Texas, provide volunteers who visit the homes of disabled or elderly residents to clean the yards and paint the outsides of the houses. # Army Aviation Hall of Fame

*The Army Aviation Hall of Fame sponsored by the Army Aviation Association of America, Inc., recognizes those individuals who have made an outstanding contribution to Army aviation. The actual Hall of Fame is located in the Army Aviation Museum, Fort Rucker, Ala., where the portraits of the inductees and the citations recording their achievements are retained for posterity. ## Lt. Col. Arthur W. Barr Army Aviation Hall of Fame 1980 Induction

In July 1950 Lt. Col. Arthur W. Barr, was assigned to Division Artillery, 1st Cavalry Division, in Japan. On the displacement of the division to Korea for combat, Barr conducted the move by flying all of the division's liaison planes to Korea, assembling the equipment there and preparing the aircraft for combat.

He subsequently was in charge of the operation of all 1st Cav Division planes in the Division Artillery Air Section for a protracted period in combat. This duty involved many personal flights and operations under hazardous conditions, limited supply support and a most difficult maintenance environment.

He flew numerous demanding missions, many within easy range of the enemy, and was frequently under fire. It was necessary for him to make numerous difficult landings and takeoffs on unimproved roads, river beds and makeshift landing areas.

In early 1951, due to a sizable buildup in Army aviation in Korea, including helicopters, Barr, based on his ability and experience, was moved to a higher level assignment to assist in the organization and maintenance of Army aviation within Korea.

While assigned to the Transportation School after the Korean conflict, he almost singlehandedly wrote two manuals: the "Army Aircraft Field Maintenance Shop" and "Supply Operations and Fundamentals of Army Aviation and Maintenance," and then arranged to have these manuals published.

A truly outstanding combat pilot, Barr balanced his operational expertise with broad logistical knowledge, a desire to innovate and constant leadership.
