2007–08 St. Francis College Board of Trustees and Alumni Board of Directors

We are grateful to those who offer leadership and vision in creating a meaningful and relevant experience for students, faculty and alumni of St. Francis College.

Sustaining a Vibrant Community Asset

DEAR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS OF ST. FRANCIS COLLEGE,

The St. Francis experience is about more than becoming an accountant, teacher, scientist or lawyer. Over the College's 150-year history, our aim has been to produce graduates who not only contribute meaningfully to their fields but are also community-conscious critical thinkers. We strive to produce people who do good while doing well.

The character of our institution reflects what we expect of our students. With economic and social indicators forecasting uncertain times ahead, St. Francis College remains stalwart in its ability to continue the tradition of offering a quality education to our students, many of whom are first generation attending college. We are committed to individual personal attention, a low student/teacher ratio, knowledgeable well-trained faculty, small classes and a generous financial aid and scholarship program. Fortunately, over the years, our alumni and friends have provided extraordinary support to allow others to experience what means so much to them. We are poised for a future that continues to build upon our Franciscan tradition and at the same time allows us to graduate students who are well prepared for the exciting and dynamic marketplace of New York City and beyond.

To assure that today's students succeed, we have recently invested approximately $50 million in our infrastructure, technology, faculty development and program enhancements. To remain current and relevant, we will need to double our expenditures on these items over the next five years.

As the College continues to evolve as a vibrant and valuable community asset, we are blessed to have the expertise and energy of Dr. Frank J. Macchiarola '62, who stepped down this past summer after a remarkable 12-year term as president of the College. In his new role as chancellor, Dr. Macchiarola will remain a significant presence in the College's fundraising effort. His many talents will be applied to exploring new and nurturing existing relationships with individual donors, foundations, corporations and key political figures whose contributions will support programs, facilities and scholarships.

St. Francis College is proud of and indebted to its involved and supportive alumni and friends and deeply appreciates the contributions of many private foundations, and government and community partners. It is this generosity that allows us to faithfully uphold the mission that guides all our work and decision making.

Sincerely,

Brendan J. Dugan '68
President

Assuring a positive experience now and for the future

The bar has been set high at St. Francis College. A decade ago, administrators, faculty and trustees set forth a new vision in the form of a master plan to improve academic excellence, attract qualified students, strengthen resources and enhance community relations at St. Francis College. Bolstered by a common commitment to carrying out the plan's hard work and unprecedented support from alumni and friends, these goals have been achieved.

That doesn't mean, however, that our work is done. Although St. Francis College might look different than it did in years past, our purpose remains unchanged. As it has been for 150 years, our mission is to provide students a high-quality, affordable, liberal arts education. And as ways of delivering that continue to evolve, so must St. Francis College.

The day-to-day aspects of this responsibility fall to those who teach our students and manage the institution. But it is not possible without the continuing support of those who love St. Francis College and understand its value to the community at large. Of course, contributing to the College financially is only one form of support. Alumni and others have countless opportunities to "come back to St. Francis" this time with the wisdom and other benefits of life and professional experience.

A positive response to these opportunities offers reminders about the reasons St. Francis College is special and helps grow our desire to support the institution in ways that match our interests and talents. In this spirit, the College is fortunate in its choice for new president, Brendan J. Dugan '68. An alumnus and longtime trustee and board chairman, Brendan assumes the presidency with an insider's knowledge of St. Francis College and its priorities and brings a business perspective necessary for success in today's competitive higher education environment.

This fall, as Brendan inherits from former President Macchiarola a day-to-day operation that is thriving academically and financially strong, the trustees of St. Francis College can promise the entire St. Francis community continuity in its purpose and innovation in its leadership. One will keep us grounded while the other allows us to set new goals and achieve even greater heights.

FACULTY: ALWAYS LEARNING

Since 2001, St. Francis College has increased the size of its full-time faculty by 35 percent, a move that corresponds to the introduction of new academic programs and courses. As of the 2007-08 academic year, 78 full-time faculty members were in place, with 85 percent of them possessing the highest academic degree available in their disciplines.

“We have the elements in place to attract motivated, high-quality faculty members,” said Dr. Timothy J. Houlihan, academic dean and vice president for academic affairs.

Essential to recruiting and retaining committed professors is an environment that offers the latest in teaching technology, support for managing information out of the classroom and training that brings all faculty members to the highest possible level of technological proficiency. At St. Francis College, where all these are present, faculty members receive their own laptops when they complete a training program designed to familiarize them with all available interactive hardware and software. So far more than half of all professors have signed on—and the rest are in the pipeline.

In addition, opportunities for developing interdisciplinary programs with their colleagues and providing release time from the classroom to do so—something Dr. Houlihan describes as “not the wave of the future, but now”—is vital for continuous learning among faculty.

For example, faculty from several academic departments are currently developing an American Studies program, an interdisciplinary certificate program that will complement a variety of majors.

“This is an enormous undertaking that involves not only the development of new courses, but also time-consuming administrative work,” said Dr. Athena Devlin, assistant professor of English. “Temporary freedom from teaching allows us to be more thoughtful and creative with the program rather than simply getting it done.”

►► Faculty members from all disciplines utilize state-of-the-art classroom technology.

Academics

Continuous academic improvement is a priority at St. Francis College. The cornerstone of all we do, a high-quality academic experience influences a student's relationship with the College before and after graduation.

A state-of-the-art facility is only one element to a complex equation whose parts add up to satisfying teaching and learning. A superior faculty, engaging programs and exceptional extracurricular opportunities round out what is exchanged in the classroom. St. Francis College is tackling this in a number of ways.

ACADEMICS MEET REAL WORLD DEMANDS

"To be successful managers in today's business environment, students must understand completely the ways information technology operates and drives business decisions," said Dr. Allen Burdowski, associate dean for graduate and professional studies, as he explained reasons behind the recent merger of the Departments of Management and Information Technology (IT). "They must have the technology skills to make informed management decisions."

To give management and IT majors a leg up in demonstrating to potential employers that students have the skills to manage the symbiotic relationship of these disciplines, St. Francis College has developed a mentored internship program that offers ways for students to apply what they learn in the classroom to real life business situations.

"The reality of the workplace is that management opportunities exist for those who are technologically savvy," said Dr. Barbara H. Edington, assistant professor of management, who is the program's primary developer. "IT is no longer seen as a skill in and of itself; rather it is part and parcel of every profession. This program provides a viable template for mentored IT-related internships in a variety of disciplines, including healthcare and nursing, education, communications, accounting and the social sciences."

PSYCHOLOGY LAB HEIGHTENS POST-GRAD OPPORTUNITIES

Innovative technologies in the Department of Psychology, in particular a program called SuperLab, are making research and data collection exciting and the process of teaching and learning more dynamic. Now, faculty and students are able not only to design their own computer-integrated software for experiments, but the computers in the newly renovated psychology lab can run powerful statistical software, a process that originates in students' statistics courses and continues during their study of research methods.

"Students always have an eye toward the future," said Dr. Michele Hirsch, associate professor of psychology and director of the Center for Women's Studies. "Knowing they can conduct meaningful, original research gives them confidence to explore uncharted scientific territory. They certainly realize that these experiences matter when applying to graduate programs."

The success of the psychology lab bodes well for other upcoming projects. One of these is the Life Science Center, an updated facility for students studying not only the social sciences but also biology, chemistry, health professions, health promotion and criminal justice. In this environment, cutting-edge technology will be as important as high-quality academics, assuring that students will remain competitive with their peers.

"Faculty are very happy with the upgrades to the Psychology Department's capabilities," said Dr. Hirsch. "Most important, though, the students are thrilled and eager to learn."

SFC STUDENTS BY THE NUMBERS

1,643 } For Fall 2007, St. Francis College received 1,643 new applications, its highest number ever—topping the previous year by 14 percent.

5 } U.S. News & World Report ranks the St. Francis College student body fifth most diverse and recognizes the College itself as one of the top baccalaureate colleges in the North.

60% } St. Francis College's graduation rate at 60 percent is higher than ten of its New York City competitors whose average graduation rate is 42 percent.

1/4 } Since August 2006, one-quarter of St. Francis College graduates have been accepted to graduate or professional programs.

30 } Thirty St. Francis College athletes, each of whom earned a grade point average of 3.2 or higher, were named to the Northeast Conference Academic Honor Roll for Spring 2008.

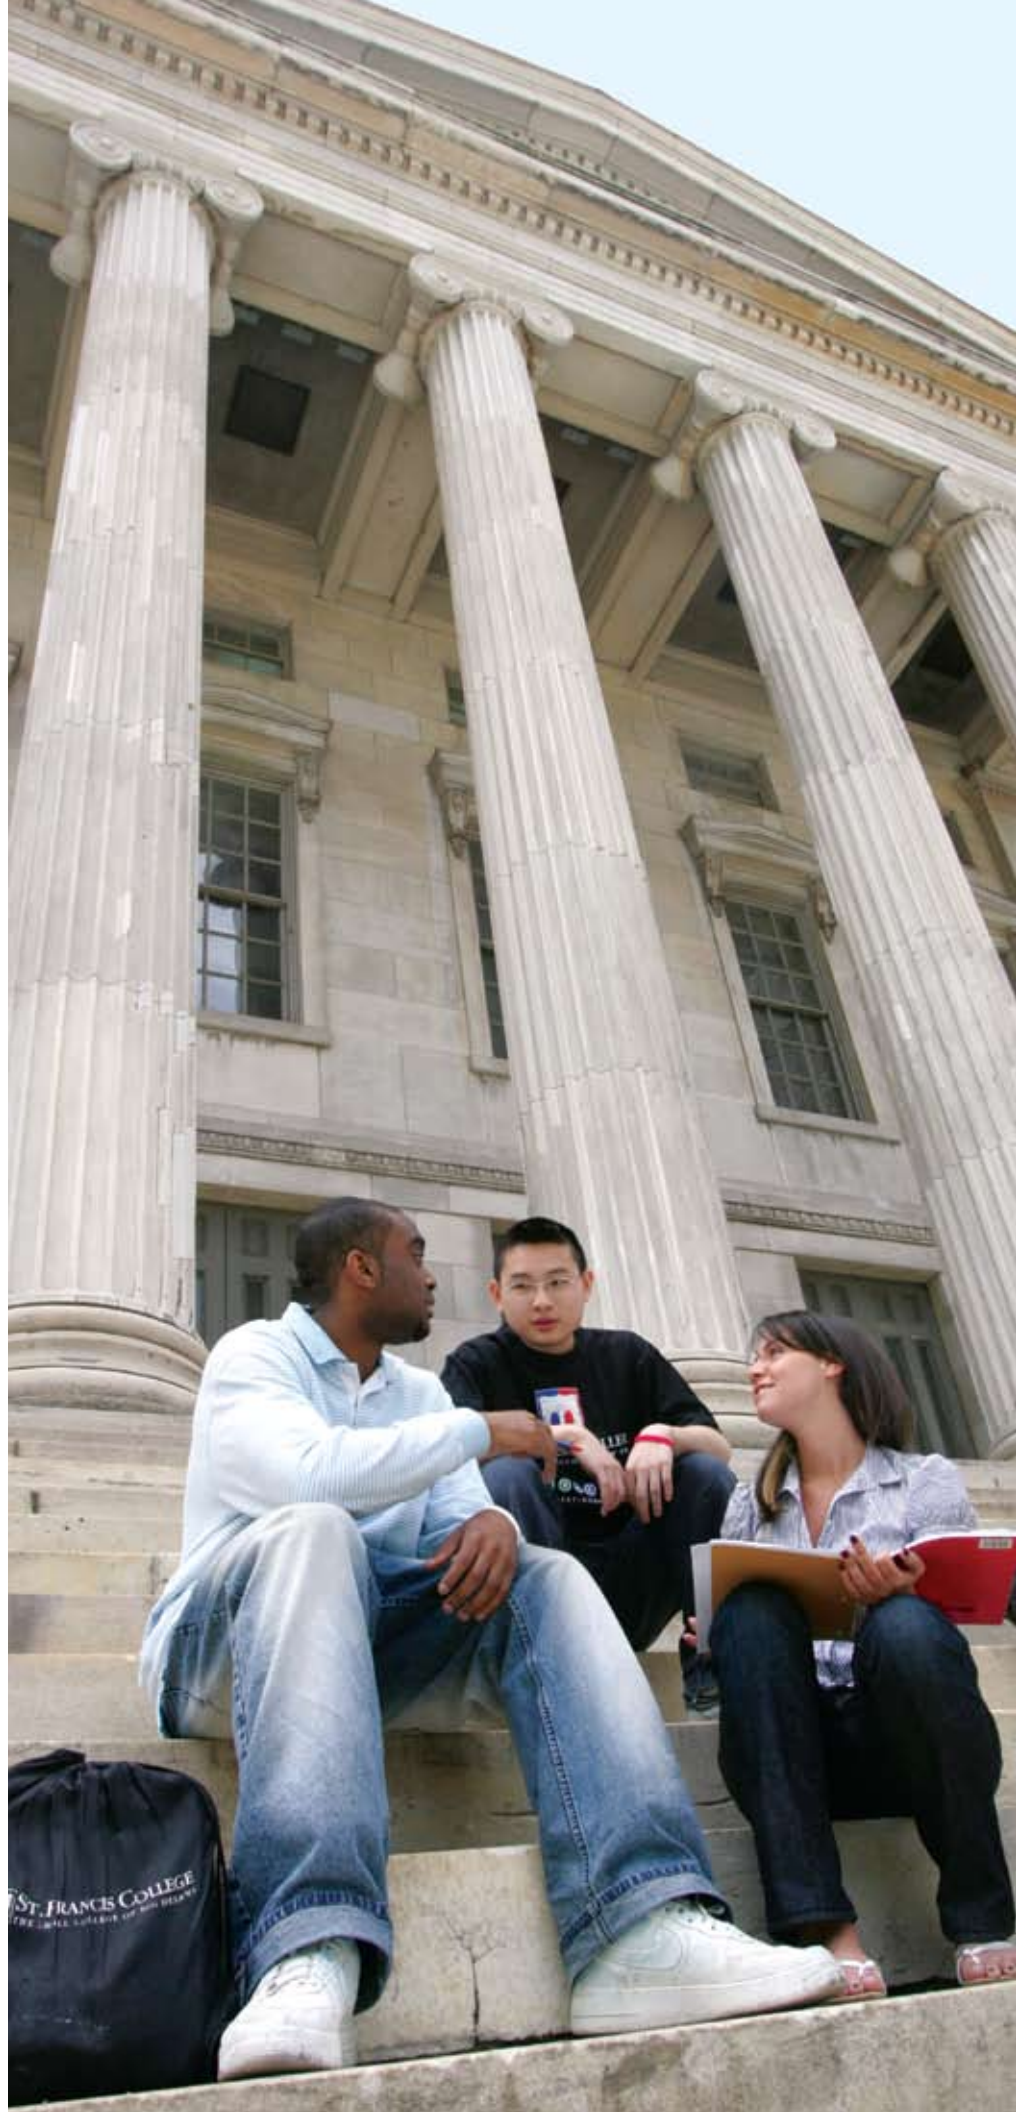

3.73 } The 2007-08 men's water polo team posted the highest GPA in the nation with a 3.73. The women's water polo team was honored by the NCAA for posting multi-year academic scores in the top 10 percent of all squads in their sport, an achievement reached by only five other colleges.

200 } Through the College's new agreement with Educational Housing, Inc., and Hotel St. George, a historic site on Henry Street, students may now live "on campus," making it possible for the College to recruit students from beyond the five boroughs. Currently, 70 students are accommodated, with potential for as many as 200 students in-residence by 2012.

⊖ } At St. Francis College, minority students graduate at virtually the same rate as non-minority students, effectively closing the "achievement gap" faced by most colleges and universities nationwide.

Students develop leadership and organizational skills through clubs, athletics, internships and study abroad opportunities.

Students

Students who apply to St. Francis College are accepted based on a combination of high school grade point average, SAT scores, extracurricular interests and an intangible the office of Admissions works hard to recognize: Potential.

"A variety of indicators suggest a well-rounded student," said John McAuliffe, director of admissions. "It's our job to recognize those who, given the opportunities available to them, will become more than they ever imagined they could be."

Once enrolled, students may get involved in activities they know will further develop current interests as well as those that introduce them to new opportunities. From athletics to internships and clubs to community service, motivated students understand the value of connecting with others outside the classroom.

"Involvement outside the classroom complements the academic element of higher education and enhances the overall college experience," said Cheryl Howell, dean of students. "Clubs, activities and internships provide opportunities for young people to strengthen their leadership, problem-solving, interpersonal communication and time management abilities—qualities that employers look for in new employees." Students themselves agree.

"Through my activities and internships I've built valuable networking relationships and strengthened my leadership, team work, problem solving and organizational skills," said Salvatore P. Demma '09. "All of these are very important to my future success."

"Studying in England and having the good fortune to travel throughout Europe certainly have broadened my horizons. This kind of opportunity, combined with commitment and hard work, can help anyone grow. I recommend it highly to anyone who wants an experience that will take them places they never dreamed of going."

— Alex Gallo '09

"I'm proud to be affiliated with St. Francis College, knowing that for 150 years a lot of people have poured their sweat and hard work into this place. It has stood the test of time."

— Jamaal Womack '09

president,
Student Government Association

"I have no doubt that opportunities I've embraced, particularly my internship at JPMorgan Chase and helping to organize the College's phone-a-thon, will have a positive effect on my career path."

— Salvatore P. Demma '09

MANY FACES OF THE ALUMNI EXPERIENCE

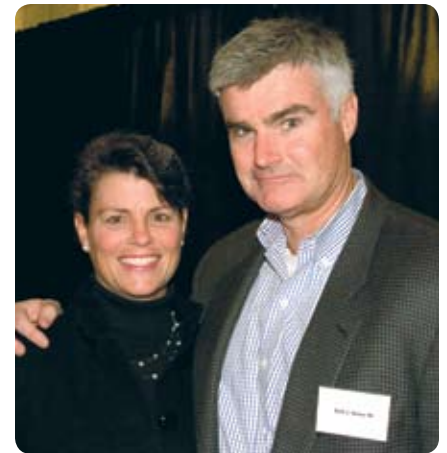

23 } Twenty-three alumni whose graduation years range from 1970–2000 serve on the College’s alumni board of directors; their purpose is to consider and implement meaningful participation opportunities for the entire community of St. Francis College alumni.

🏆 } Arthur Gorman ’76 was inducted in March into the Commission on Independent Colleges and Universities Hall of Distinction. This annual honor recognizes graduates from private colleges and universities across New York State who made significant contributions to their communities. Previous St. Francis College alumni inductees include President Brendan J. Dugan ’68, Congressman Peter T. King ’65 and Emmet J. Agoglia ’52.

12 } John ’51 and Mary McCarthy, who have endowed 12 full scholarships since 1987, were honored on Charter Day with the St. Clare Medal in recognition of their commitment to the College. A portion of their most recent gift of $1 million to the College will be used to complete and fully endow scholarships named for four Franciscan Brothers, and replenish a fifth scholarship.

▶▶ Alumni and their families show their support for St. Francis College by participating in events that bring them back to campus.

Alumni

The St. Francis College experience doesn't end when a student graduates. "It's really a lifelong relationship," said Dennis J. McDermott '74, director of alumni relations. "The opportunities to stay connected are limitless."

Every year, hundreds—some years thousands—of alumni return to campus for reunions, athletic events, fundraisers and speaker series. Dozens contribute their time and talent to boards and committees, mentoring students and speaking at events.

For example, last June the Meadow Brook Golf Committee organized a pre-tournament clinic to increase participation among female golfers at St. Francis College's annual golf outing at the Meadow Brook Country Club in Jericho, N.Y. Twenty-one alumnae, most of whom had never participated in the event, signed up. With positive feedback to the clinic, ideas are already brewing for bringing back even more alumnae in 2009.

"Historically, this important outing has been attended predominately by male golfers," said Phyllis O'Neill '81, an executive with Bloomberg who helped organize the clinic. "With the College's student body currently even represented by gender and with growing numbers of alumnae, it makes sense to reach out to women."

Phyllis O'Neill '81

A pre-tournament clinic drew more female golfers than ever before to the annual Meadow Brook Golf Outing.

REWARDS TOO MANY TO COUNT

"If you can give, you should." That is the driving philosophy of Jesus Linares '84, who has been a member of St. Francis College's board of trustees since 1998.

"So many students need help to make a college education a reality," he said in reference to the board's focus on scholarships for deserving students. "It's wonderful to work with a group whose first priority is always the best interest of the students."

In addition, Mr. Linares, owner of Business Relocation Services, Inc., which specializes in commercial moving and storage, frequently leads classes on entrepreneurship at St. Francis College to future business owners.

"A helping hand goes a long way," he explained. "By each of us sharing what we can, we continue the legacy of the Franciscan Brothers who give so much."

Mr. Linares's wife, Noreen (Incorvaia) Linares, also a member of the class of 1984, has observed over the years that the same intimate culture that students experience is available to alumni as well, no matter what stage of life they return to the College.

"Always warm and welcoming," she said. "Whether students remain involved from graduation or return after focusing on building a family and career, there is always a place for them in the St. Francis College family."

Now that their nephew is enrolled, the Linares family has yet another reason to remain connected to the College.

"The rewards keep coming," said Mr. Linares. "For the faculty, staff, administration, trustees and, especially, the students."

SUPPORTING THE FUTURE OF ST. FRANCIS COLLEGE

Institutional Advancement encompasses a variety of fundraising and alumni activities throughout the year. Here are a few highlights that helped raise awareness and funds for St. Francis College.

46} On March 7, alumni and friends honored Dr. Arthur Hughes, professor of history and chairperson of that department, as he retired after 46 years of service to the College. In honor of the event, $23,000 was raised for the Dr. Arthur J. Hughes Scholarship, bringing it closer to full endowment.

110} On September 18, 110 alumni and friends raised $42,000 for the College at the annual Brother Urban Gonnoud, O.S.F., Memorial Golf Outing in Dyker Heights.

10} Participants and sponsors of the annual Meadow Brook Golf Outing helped the golf committee realize a goal set a decade ago to raise $1 million over ten years.

362} On May 9, 362 alumni and friends attended the Annual Alumni Dinner/Dance held in the Anthony J. Genovesi Center. This popular event raised $72,000 for St. Francis College.

200} One of the College's most endearing annual traditions, the Memorial Mass on February 2, drew more than 200 alumni and friends, who worshipped with one another to honor the memories of loved ones lost.

⌘} Along with their families, scholarship students met their benefactors at the annual Scholarship Reception on November 13.

Roger Hertog announced at the 2008 Charter Award Dinner that he and his wife, Susan, intend to commit $1 million to St. Francis College.

Institutional Advancement

“Fundraising is what makes possible so much of what is special about St. Francis College,” said Sharon L. Kerrigan, vice president for development and alumni affairs.

In addition to the 2008 Fund for St. Francis College, which exceeded its goal with a total of $752,210—a 35 percent increase over last year—notable gifts in 2007-08 from alumni, friends, corporations and foundations include:

- $2 million raised at the annual Charter Award Dinner, held on April 8 at Cipriani 42nd Street to honor former President Frank J. Macchiarola '62. This includes a $1 million commitment by Roger Hertog, vice chairman emeritus, AllianceBernstein, L.P., and his wife, Susan.
- $364,000 raised for scholarships. This support helped complete nine scholarships, bringing the number of those fully endowed to 157. Overall, the total number of scholarships—newly established, complete and awaiting completion—grew from 180 to 206.
- A gift of $1 million from John '51 and Mary McCarthy, a portion of which will support the College's scholarship programs.
- $100,000 raised for scholarships at the Meadow Brook Golf Outing on June 23.
- On-line gifts totaling $26,000, kicking off this new mode of giving.
- A $25,000 grant from The Independence Community Foundation for continued support of the College's Young Journalists in Training program.
- Generous reunion gifts from the classes of 1958 and 1968. With more than 70 percent of members participating, the class of 1958 contributed $35,000 in celebration of its 50th anniversary. The class of 1968, with 25 percent of members participating, celebrated its 40th anniversary by contributing $50,000.
- Twelve new documented planned gifts to the College, bringing the number of St. Clare's Society members to 21.

SCHOLARSHIPS LEAD TO STUDENT SUCCESS

For most St. Francis College students and their families, access to tuition support is key to a satisfying experience and is as important as any other tool for academic success. In fact, 85 percent of incoming students qualify for financial aid. For this reason and because the College's mission states affordability as a priority, a vibrant, sustained scholarship program is necessary to ensure students' ability to cultivate and achieve their potential.

Many students receive full or partial scholarships originating from the College's operating budget; others benefit from endowed scholarships set up by donors in honor or memory of loved ones or someone significant to St. Francis College. These funds often allow students to reduce the need to work full or part time, enroll in a greater number of courses each semester or graduate with little or no debt.

“After my freshman year I was awarded the Joan and Thomas Meade Endowed Scholarship,” said Dominic J. Palastro '09, an honors program student who is pursuing a double major in business management and economics and a minor in information technology. “This is a tremendous gift that has allowed me to take summer courses so I can complete my workload in four years.”

Recently the College set out to complete existing scholarships as well as initiate new ones. Alumni and friends responded generously as the number of endowed scholarships jumped from 180 to 206, with 157 now fully endowed. New completed scholarships are added to those long established that are already assisting deserving students.

Among them is the Betty and Leo Giancola Scholarship, set up by Lawrence '77 and Elizabeth '78 Becker, in memory of Elizabeth's parents. The Beckers, who met as students, decided that creating the scholarship was a good way for them to “give back” to St. Francis College.

“This is a perfect fit for us as St. Francis was the emotional and social center of our world,” Elizabeth explained. “For us and our children, my parents live on through the scholarship. Truly, we receive as much from it as the students do.”

Likewise, the Michael P. Donovan '81 and Kelly J. Quinn '80 Scholarship was established and completed by its namesakes to help students prepare for their futures. Friends since before their days at St. Francis College, they often reminisced about their positive undergraduate experience and the ways it shaped their careers and lives.

“We decided that investing in a scholarship would be a great way to share the experience we had with someone who is otherwise unable to afford college,” said Mr. Donovan.

“As a strong believer in merit-based rewards, I find this to be a satisfying way to invest in the College and its students,” added Mr. Quinn.

“As a student assistant in the Office of Development and Alumni Affairs,

I witness firsthand the tremendous efforts to bring in funding that allows so many deserving students to attend St. Francis College on scholarship. As a scholarship recipient myself, I couldn't be more delighted to be a member of the St. Francis family.”

—Gessyca Leonard '11

ALUMNI RALLY TO COMPLETE SCHOLARSHIPS

Thanks to dedicated alumni, two of St. Francis College's existing endowed scholarships recently were completed and a third was established. With this support, 75 percent of the College's 206 scholarships are fully endowed and assisting deserving students.

James Konkel and Albert Doumar, both from the class of 1957, reached out to Duns Scotus Society alumni to complete a scholarship designed to help a student member of this prestigious academic organization. At the same time, they initiated a second Duns Scotus Scholarship to honor Dr. Frank J. Macchiarola '62, who retired in June as president of the College.

Similarly, Edward P. Aquilione '60 solicited the support of alumni to encourage participation in completing a scholarship named for Monsignor John Kean, a dear friend of St. Francis College who died in 1999.

“The scholarship needed only $15,000 to be complete,” said Mr. Aquilone, who was the College's director of athletics from 1996-2007. “Happily, there was a tremendous response, and now a student will benefit from the Monsignor John Kean Scholarship.”

Donor Confidence Sparks Banner Year

As St. Francis College celebrates its 150th year, it is immensely gratifying to know that so many people care deeply about the College's well-being and capacity for growth. The faith in the institution demonstrated by our donors, combined with the College's skilled and committed faculty and staff, promises an optimistic future.

This report reflects highlights from 2007-08 that include unprecedented generosity from alumni and friends, an ever-growing number of scholarships, several new bequest intentions and other major gifts, and many contributions from donors both new to and familiar with the College.

With gratitude, we acknowledge on the following pages those who contributed to the past year's remarkable success. All that St. Francis College is able to accomplish would not be possible without your support.

"I believe that in the world everything is in perfect equilibrium: nothing is lost and nothing gained. I receive so much from St. Francis College, in particular, my endowed scholarship. But when I give back, even the smallest amount, the energy between the College and me is preserved. I know so because of the way I feel inside."
