

Ingenico Group appoints Pierre-Antoine Vacheron EVP ePayments Nathalie Lomon Chief Financial Officer

Ingenico Group (Euronext: FR0000125346 – ING), the global leader in seamless payment, today announced the appointment of Pierre-Antoine Vacheron as EVP ePayments and of Nathalie Lomon as Chief Financial Officer.

Pierre-Antoine Vacheron will be responsible for development of online payments, a business spanning the resources of GlobalCollect and Ogone. In his new role, he will be in charge of worldwide deployment of that business, supported by Ingenico Group's network and presence in all world regions. He will also be overseeing all technologies and platforms for Ingenico Payment Services. The appointment of Pierre-Antoine Vacheron fully reflects Ingenico Group's strategy to position itself as the leading provider of innovative payment solutions across all channels so that the company can play an active part in new trends in commerce as they emerge. Aligning sales and technology issues will be a key differentiator in the coming stages of Ingenico Group's history.

Nathalie Lomon has been appointed Chief Financial Officer, and will thus be taking over responsibility for Group financial management from Pierre-Antoine Vacheron. She will be reporting to Philippe Lazare, Ingenico Group's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer.

Philippe Lazare, Chairman and CEO of Ingenico Group, commented: "I'm extremely pleased to be putting Pierre-Antoine in charge of our ePayments division. Since he joined us in 2009, initially as Chief Financial Officer and subsequently as the head of our Europe-SEPA region, where he handled the development of payment services, Pierre-Antoine has helped to expand our business and to strengthen our omni-channel offering. This change will enable Ingenico Group to step up its growth and transformation. Nathalie Lomon has shown energetic commitment and professionalism for the past five years. In her new role, she will help strengthen our strategy for achieving profitable growth."
