He hates to the boiling point one part of arsenic to two gallons of water, and while still at this in one pint of crude carbolic acid.

Like the arsenic, so the carbolic acid and soap mixture is of triple value. Not only does it kill the drosophila, but it also keeps the dressed boards, which are also serious pests in the orchards.

CHAPTER X.

The next day Lord Hertie awoke to find himself in a most uncomfortable position...

He looked at the man who was sitting by his side, and saw that it was the same man who had been with him the night before...

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

As the young lady removers the matter...

It is impossible to know what driving thoughts are in a horse's mind...

They spent the evening at the piano...

The music dealer's man—made his prayers...

It is not certain that he does not dream...

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

There is a great crowd in the kitchen...

There is a most singular case of shooting...

This is the substance of Truham's report...

The young man was a stranger in the place...

Doctor Jones made his way into an inner room...

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"That looks bad," Howard says at last...

"I cannot imagine. Perhaps they were engaged in the garden...

There is no longer had the next day at the Pall Mall...

There is nothing new elicited from the witness at the inquest...

Howard is now a very different man...

There is a breathless pause while the coroner file the bullet into the muzzle...

This causes a great diversion among the jurors...

The jurors are fairly puzzled. They had been told that the bullet had struck the man...

His evidence is very slight. He had seen the man...

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

"I think not, unless Lord Hertie chooses to have it done," he said.

He has a good deal of good sense...

A Man of Straw.

The Democrat sets up a man of straw last week, calls the effigy a temperance or prohibition man, and belabors it as severely as Sanchez Pico does the white-neck tree. No one ever saw a soldier, well behaved man out such an act, and quarrel so with every living and every holy man that straw man of the Democrat. He must be "drunk as a Lord" to act so. Dear Democrat get your temperance straw man sobered up before you bring him out again for folks to laugh at.

The late Legislature passed a law making the County Commissioners of each county of this State a Local Board of Health for their respective counties by virtue of their office. The Boards are empowered to step upon all unwholesome nuisances and dangerous or infectious epidemics or diseases, and to prosecute any willful neglect of their regulations. The penalty is a fine of from fifty to five hundred dollars for an offending party. They are compelled to meet in May and October, and oftener if they so desire. They each appoint an educated physician, who is known as a "health officer," to act as Secretary to the Board and give medical attention to the inmates of the jail and other county institutions. They establish the salary of the health officer. They act in conjunction with the State Board of Health in maintaining the health of the entire State.

By the above we learn that the duties of County Commissioners are being enlarged and more put upon them. The duties of the Board, with the growing duties of the office, greater demands upon their time will be made, and the Secretary will be more exacting. The very best, most experienced, and practical business men will be detailed to the office to see in future, and the people should see to the selection of such men regardless of party. It is high time the business of the county should be managed solely on business principles. The politicians have had full swing of the business long enough, too long for the benefit of tax payers and the industrial interests of the county. The ablest men should be selected and returned to the office term after term, as the Nehol Commissioners and Orphans Court Judges are returned. The former have the appointing of numerous teachers but we never hear of any being selected on party grounds, and the County Commissioners' office should be administered on similar principles. Efficiency and economy would both be subserved by no wholesome reform.

Frank Walter of Perryville was taken before Squire Abrahams of Port Deposit and fined $50 for selling liquor illegally. The Circuit Court will pay Constable $25.00, and the witnesses will testify that about the case and Walter will walk out, and the license men will exclaim, "See that!" We ought to have a high license to stop the selling, and this penalty and this drunkness generally.

And the state and county would get a share of the swag, don't you see? And that would help to pay our taxes, don't you see? Oh, yes, we have all seen this for 40 years and longer. If you are old enough; and we have concluded that it is not a very profitable thing for possible thing for you to want to start paying the taxer and shift it onto half starved and half clothed wives and children. Besides the collector, they are appointed by the state to gather tax from these poor people charge such heavy salaries for their work. About five hundred per cent. It is believed they receive for five or six years later. Folks who do the false swearing learned to drink whiskey and lie under the protection of the period, and it is the opinion of quiet reasoning people that it is a bad school where such lessons are learned.

Decorating the Graves. Saturday, May 29th was the day devoted to the solemn and religious ceremony of the annual decoration of soldiers graves, by Garfield Post No. 18, G. A. R. The day was one of the loveliest, and all nature was aglow with sunshine and flowers. The members assembled at their Hall in Rising Sun at 11 o'clock P. M. to prepare for the solemn ceremonies of decorating their fallen comrade's graves. Arrangements had been prepared and the first Cemetery visited was Rose Bank at Calvert. The graves in this and the Friends' burying ground at the Brick Meeting House were decorated with flowers with appropriate ceremonies. After visiting the graves the comrades assembled in the grove where they were joined by the company of friends and neighbors. The ceremonies were continued and an appropriate address delivered by Rev. J. E. Church, comrade C. W. Wilson and Rev. Mr. Milligan, pastor of Zion Presbyterian Church, who was invited to fill the place of speakers who were expected, but were prevented from being present.

The music was under charge of comrade C. W. Wilson. A table was laid in the grove, beautifully supplied with cake and other tempting viands, by ladies of the surrounding neighborhood, which was provided as well as considerable for in the hurry and excitement of starting several of the comrades had forgotten their lunch baskets, and left them behind.

The sexton who has charge of Rose Bank Cemetery, received the commission of the comrade's office, and visitors for the next order the cemetery had been put in before decoration day. Many of the graves had been decorated by friends which added much to the beauty and tenderness of the occasion.

Details of the Post decorated the graves in West Nottingham Presbyterian and Friends' West Nottingham burying grounds, with the custom of the G. A. R. to attend church on the Sabbath of Memorial Day, Garfield Post No. 18, of Rising Sun, met at church in a body and in uniform, at Ebenezer M. E. Church on the 30th. The Rev. Mr. Sheppard presided and prayer appropriate to the occasion. A very large audience was present, much beyond the seating capacity of the building.

Commencement at Lincoln University. The "Commencement" of this institution, a college specially dedicated to the education of colored people increases in interest year by year and extends its power for usefulness. Large attendance from a distance as well as from the immediate neighborhood honor the "commencement" and crowd the hall where these ceremonies take place. A large number of visitors went from this neighborhood to attend the ceremonies on Tuesday.

The graduating class numbered 31 students, the largest ever graduated by the college.

Through Rev. Dr. Holliday of Brooklyn, N. Y., $15,000 has been received from the Marquands to complete the endowment of the chair of Natural Science. In addition there is a check for $1,000 received from Rev. Dr. N. G. Parke of Plattsburg, Va. William H. Gil of Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y., has been elected Professor of this chair.

During the past year 189 students have attended the college; 31 in the classical department, 120 in collegiate and 23 in preparatory. Of these students 110 are candidates for the diploma. The 21st session of this institution will begin Thursday, September 16.

It is rather remarkable that when a colored boy has an opportunity of a fair education that he almost invariably has an ambition to fill a pulp and to take the preaching for a living. He will preach and pray in the shade while those from whom he draws his subsistence may toil and labor in the sun.

The superabundance of rain we have had is likely to damage the wheat crop somewhat, by causing the rank growth of straw, which will lodge or fall down when the head begins to grow weighty with the formation of grain. Continuous dry weather till the wheat is ripe would be much advantage in adding to both quantity and quality of the wheat. The winter and farmers are not boasting of a very heavy hay crop. Some clover fields are very rank.

For lame back, side or chest, use Rollo's Porous Plaster. Price 50c Sold by Dr. L. R. Kirk.

The new license law for lawkers and peddlers went into effect June 1st. The tax for a foot peddler was increased to $100 from $40, for a horse and wagon to $150 from $50, for two horses and wagon to $200 from $71. The license applies to the city or the county where the license is issued. It does not apply to the hawks and peddlers of fish, oysters and meats in their unprepared and natural condition, or from any vegetable perishable in their nature, grown in this State and sold in their natural condition.

Corn is looking well and farmers have been busy in their fields with cultivators this week.

Three and a half million sard fish have been put in the Susquehanna river this spring by the fish commissioners.

For side or corner brackets, wall-pockets, work-boxes, picture frames &c. go to Taylor's Cabinet shop, Rising Sun.

Mr. H. C. Briscoe has a fine field of wheat adjoining town. Just large enough to stand up well and fill out to perfection.

Croquet Sets and Hammocks with spreaders, complete, at E. R. Buffington's.

E. D. Johnson draws his supply of berries from the beds of Mr. Jacob Swayne, whose strawberries are superior in size and quality.

Of all the inventions to raise the wind at the church fair, the strawberry beats them all. The strawberry pught to be canonized.

Mr. G. G. Sill, of Rising Sun, Wis., entered his bay horse Chester for the running races at Oxford Fair. We hope Chester acquitted himself handsomely.

J. T. Rutter living near Woodlawn Camp Meeting ground will offer at Public Sale on Monday June 7th. Horses, oxen, farm implements etc. J. C. Hindman auctioneer.

WILL YOU SUFFER with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Sill's Universal is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by Dr. L. R. Kirk.

The net proceeds of the strawberry festival held by the Mite Society of the M. E. Church at the Sun last week was about $100. Nothing draws equal to strawberries and cream.

W. T. Sagle, Baltimore, advertises large stock of fire-works, in this paper. Our dealers will find goods and prices to suit them by sending their orders.

Flood's Extract. The action of one medicine is of necessity confined to analgesic diseases, hence the Extract, acting on the circulatory system, relieves every sort of bleeding.

Go to Ankrin's for all kind of store goods.

W. T. West who is recording clerk in the Clerk's office at Elkton was attacked with a sudden spell of sickness one day last week, which alarmed his friends, but soon grew better.

The ladies have a monopoly of the teaching business. At the school examination at Elkton last week 63 ladies applied and only 1 gentleman. At Port Deposit 40 applicants were present.

Mr. J. T. Reynolds was so unfortunate as to have a cow wheel run over one of his legs on Tuesday. The limb, fortunately was not broken in this encounter, but was twisted and required to be made ligature painful.

Indian Licenses moving off rapidly from E. R. Buffington's.

The ladies of Howepell M. E. Church will hold their annual Festival this year at Woodlawn Camp Ground, the afternoon and evening of June 9th, if that evening should prove stormy will continue it the next day.

Last week the President of the Board of County Commissioners, and their clerk were engaged in signing the Bonds for the new loan. The signatures of these gentlemen had to be written 1540 times, so says the Democrat.

SHILOH'S VITALIZER is what you need for Constipation, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 25 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. L. R. Kirk.

Call at E. R. Buffington's and ask to see the Elk Sill, and give it a thorough examination.

W. T. Weldon tells the County Commissioners that he will mend his road as he thinks right, and get pay for it whether it pleases the Commissioners and Inspectors or not. Talk to them William.

Friend Samuel Passmore is distributing lots of fine vegetable plants from his cold frames and transplants. He has also an adjunct to his green house in a large incubator, which was hatching out a swarm of little chicks last week.

The cut worm appears to have got in his work among the young corn in the cool wet weather we have had, in some sections of the country. The worm caused but little complaint among farmers in this quarter. His season, however, is over.

Ankrin's fine shoes cannot be beat for the money, remember the place, corner of Cherry and Queen Sts.

We invite the attention of our readers to the card of Lawrence W. Walsh, commission merchant, Central Market, Phila. Mr. Walsh offers as references Elwood Balderston and William Cougle. No better could be desired.

The new marriage law went into effect on the 1st of June. Swaines and maidens can now signify for a dollar, barring the minister's fee. Or if they belong to the Friends' Society they can perform the ceremony themselves and save the fee.

For a box of the finest strawberries, Sharpless and Crescent varieties, we are indebted to Mr. Jacob Swayne. These berries were larger than partridge eggs, and very luscious, soft and truly to the core, a quality too often wanting in berries.

We saw some of the handsomest brackets, wall pockets, work-boxes &c. at 'Squire Taylor's shop that we have met with; and they are surprisingly cheap. It is a puzzle to know how such fancy articles can be made for the price they sell for.

The second volume of Grant's Memoirs has been delayed, and is not yet ready to send out to the agents. Publishers behind with their work, on account of the "great demand for the second vol. they say. A fair excuse whether true or not.

The Italian named Antonio Nardello, was hanged last Friday in Washington, D. C. who confessed to the killing of Bardo an Italian near the "Red Tower" school house 2 miles from N. East, in the winter of 1885. He decored Dado from his alias and murdered him for his money.

The Free Methodists will hold a grove meeting in Mr. Boehman's grove, near New Leeds, beginning on Wednesday evening next, 6th inst., and to continue over the following Sabbath, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st.

Henry Richmond, 7 South Tenth street, Philadelphia, is the "ad" in another column, refer to one of the editors of this paper as to the merits of his washing machine. We are ready to stand up for it as fair and full trial in our own household, it is held tried to be perfect.

Dr. J. P. Miller, of Philadelphia, burg, circuit will be in charge, and will be assisted by Rev. J. T. Logan and others.

The ladies of Ebenezer M. E. Church, Zion circuit, propose to hold a stew-bird and ice cream festival on Saturday evening, June 5th, on the church grounds, for the benefit of the Church. The public are invited.

There will also be a festival at Howepell, Wednesday, June 9th, and at Zion the same date.

Nancy Kirk one of the oldest citizens of the B. M. House, died on the 23rd of May at the age of 59. She was eccentric and very frugal in her habits. She was presented by some friend last fall with a package of freshly cured tobacco which she smoked very freely. The use of this strong tobacco prostrated her and from which attack she never entirely recovered.

SHILOH'S COUGH and Consumption Cure is sold by Dr. Kirk a guarantee. It cures Consumption.

The Richmond Jr. write us they have an order from Spain for Washers. The factory at Jamestown N. Y. turned out 1000 last month with orders ahead of supply. The long sought washer has been found at last. One that a woman can work with less fatigue than the washboard. Every washer warranted and if it cracks it goes back and is replaced with a new machine.

John Mendenhall, charged with rape, by Ellen Miller, was cited before 'Squire Taylor for a hearing on Thursday last. After hearing the evidence in the case, Mendenhall was bound over another before the next term of the circuit court, in the sum of $200; and Ellen Miller, the girl assaulted, in the sum of $50 to appear as witness for the State.

The News says "generally speaking, the less religion a man has or professes to have, the more he is concerned about saving religion from such teachers as Jones and Small. This assertion will bear looking into."

Is there such a congegation as less and more in matters of religion? This phase of the question "will bear looking into" too.

Agents are traveling the county engaged in selling a substance called "peloncum," which they claim will preserve fruits and vegetables any length of time in a fresh state. The stuff is said to be entirely without merit and the agents swindlers.--Apes.

The funerals of sulphur, applied a certain way will preserve fruits etc., but the application has to be made about every fortnight.

On last Friday evening Frank Jenkins and J. Reinhardt who reside at Rock Springs, came very near being killed on the Columbia R. R. at Peach Bottom. They drove on the track as the train was approaching, but by a mighty effort backed the horses almost off the track. The engine struck and killed one of the horses, broke the carriage, but the men escaped unhurt.

precious. It is a cameo and is set in a

"You didn't tell me not to cut it," the

"All right," said the customer. When him a violent kick.

Two men sitting in a saloon were watching a rather distinguished-looking

"I don't know (list) I see he does not "Because the bartender has just trusted him for a drink."

"I never did take much stock in that and I take less stock in it than ever, now that I've lived off him for some time recommended Smith. "You see, the fish,

WOMEN

It is a fact, the Countess says, turning her eyes on the assistant. "I had had been told he would have been here today, but it is too late now. Have you had anything to say? Then go down to the Countess. There is a supper given in the little dining room, by the Countess. The Countess smiles with her old gracious look.

"I never do not want supper however,
but, with a laughing speech for his morning coat, makes himself at home in the kitchen.

He looks very well, and as usual as ever.
Howard looks at his gay word, and is glad to hear it go. Howard and Miss Middleton were not without to very perceptible emotion beyond an added color in Howard's face.
She merely turned on her main side and reverted his greeting with the courteous indifference of a painted coquette.

The stings were a great acquisition to the party. He and Lady Gladys have been friends from childhood, and have plenty to say to each other. He takes a chair beside her, and she looks at him with an air of relief, and Mr. Cartwright finds that it is his, and goes home to bed with a particularly early hour. Howard turns him self round, but when he looks at Lady Gladys's diamond-encrusted hand in his
and shows his hand to whither some beautiful work in lace. Then a great shadow falls on her bright face, and she does not smile at his happy remarks.

The next day Howard does not see much of his friend. After breakfast the Countess made for him, and keeps him with her all the morning. And after luncheon the girls make him go with them to the theatre. It is his, and goes home to bed with a particularly early hour. Howard turns him self round, but when he looks at Lady Gladys's diamond-encrusted hand in his
and shows his hand to whither some beautiful
work in lace. Then a great shadow falls on her bright face, and she does not
smile at his happy remarks.

At about three o'clock in the afternoon
Howard gives every sign of nervous anxiety, and breaks himself to the river. He often spends hours in the little boat, and works below the mill. Sometimes Miss Middleton and Eric come down for a row, and Mr. Howard does not greatly care for the interruption of his rowing, he is at least glad enough to see his feelings.

The weather has been for some days just every sign of the world is blank with pleasure. The boat is Cecil Farmers' Club.

The June meeting of the Club was held at the residence of W. W. Moore, on the 5th instant. Members present, H. H. Daykin, Joseph Coudon, Thos. C. Bond, A. J. Michener, W. W. Moore, A. R. Magraw, S. C. Magraw, Jas. S. Ewing, W. R. Cooley, S. R. Carson, E. Noyce, Henry S. Coudon and Judge F. Stump. Visitors, Rev. R. A. Gayley, D. D. Rev. Mr. Milligan, Joseph Calderston, Frank G. Henderson, Carlton Kipling and Geo. Sutton. President Daykin called the Club to order at half past seven when unfinished business was taken up. The matter of petitioning Congress in support of the Bill controlling the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine, which had been moved at the previous meeting of the Club, was taken up and briefly discussed, but the Bill having been introduced and given to the Senate, the Club concluded that the time had been allowed to pass when a petition would have had beneficial influence, and the subject was dismissed for the time being.

No experiments were reported and the host, Mr. W. W. Moore, read a short essay which had been hurriedly prepared for the occasion. The subject was the farm, stock, implements, etc., considered as the farmer's capital, and it should be the farmer's chief aim to get the largest income from his invested capital. To this end the land should be well fed, and all the strength of the farmer's brain and muscle employed to develop the resources of his land. If feeding the land put the farmer in debt, he should not fear, if judiciously managed the farm would carry him through and free him of the incumbrance. If the farmer employed only two or three hands his shadow with them could do more work than both his hands. Every farmer should have a specialty. His specialty was feeding cattle.

Mr. Moore proceeded the reading of his essay by stating that his chief motive in favoring the Club with an essay which he had not taken sufficient time to elaborate, was to check the custom which had grown too prevalent, among members of neglecting to prepare essays.

A. R. Magraw commended the motives of the reader, and also the sentiments the essay embodied. The example was good and members should feel it a duty to prepare essays to be read at the monthly meetings of the Club. The essay had a good that a practical farmer with a farm and good health as his capital, could in an ordinary life time realize a fortune of forty or fifty thousand dollars, that a farmer had it in his power to extract more enjoyment from his pursuit than falls to the lot of men engaged in the majority of other pursuits and callings in life.

S. C. Magraw considered the essay to be the principal of what should be a farmer's ambition, that of making the farm his bank of deposit. He highly commended Mr. Moore's system of high farming. The cattle fed by Mr. Moore, several members agreed were ranked as first class by butchers in Philadelphia, that his cattle had not only a local reputation, but that reputation had extended beyond his county, and indirectly benefited the agricultural interests of his native county.

Mr. Daykin inquired whether members had noticed the ravages of a green worm which was damaged the wheat to a very considerable extent by cutting the straw two or three inches below the head. Some farmers in his neighborhood estimated a loss of one-fourth of their crop by this worm. Members generally had noticed the destruction of the wheat by the worm, which was not the army worm but apparently a comparatively new insect enemy. Mr. Gayley had observed the worms for the past two years but the damage to the crop the present year threatened to be more serious than formerly. The red variety was attacked in preference to the Fultz. Another insect apparently follows the green worm and devours the heads, when it falls to the ground after being cut off by the red worm. No remedy for this new evil was known to members. Mr. H. S. Coudon facetiously suggested that the worms be returned to the tax on the export of tobacco. The Green Milliner was mentioned after which the members were called together and discussed the oleomargarine controversy on the farm, stock, etc.

Mr. H. S. Coudon had seen any of the fine cattle which had been extolled to high water mark had disappeared; no opportunity for criticism. Mr. Noyce had seen two fine fields of grass as he drove in through the farm but the rain which had been falling since the Club assembled had retarded and prevented an extended examination of the farm. The members generally commended Mr. Moore's system of farming and agreed that all his growing crops were most thrifty and gave promise of abundant harvests.

H. S. Coudon asked for some information about the utility of artesian or bored wells. Members had but meagre experience with those wells, but what was known was favorable. The Messrs. McDowell were prepared with machinery for sinking bored wells, and were engaged in the business.

Mr. Carson had clipped an article written for the Ola Farmer, on Bogus Hutter, which Mr. H. S. Coudon read. The article was well written and took very high ground against taxing the article by Congress. The Club did not indulge in, or enter elaborately into discussions of agricultural subjects, but members gave themselves up more to the pleasure of social enjoyment, and the conversation largely ran in rhythm to the patterning of the rain, while they occupied the large veranda digesting the comfortable dinner prepared by Mrs. Moore, and enjoying their cigars.

The next meeting of the Club was themselves for June 11th for the harvest month, is always July, all the time and energy of farmers being demanded in securing the crops which mature at this season.

We trust that Mr. Michener will have prepared for the occasion an essay bringing with points of interest to the farmer that is unadorned and profitable discussion.

THE REV. GHO. H. TAYLOR of Barbours, Ind., says: Best myself and wife cured of Yellow Skin by Dr. Williams' "PINK PILLS" sold by Dr. L. K. Kirk.

Our Washington Letter

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, June 7, 1886. The President's absence from the White House gives the old mansion in westerly old summer appearance when Grant and Hayes and Arthur were sitting in Loup, to the country fair or to the Yellows. Mr. Cleveland was absent for a month last summer, but he has been away from his post less than any of his three predecessors.

There is a great curiosity to see the wedding groups, but the President is determined that he will not do so. Only one of the Cabinet ladies says that only one of the Cleveland aid families know anything about them, and Col. Lovell has not been open. There will be some faint disclosures from all I hear on the Journal. I know of five or six members of Congress who sent contributions, and some of them were merely to compliment the bride. The custom house officials at New York and other office holders elsewhere are also not yet received appointments, but hope to draw a prize in the lottery. The President will be very much disposed to return such gifts when he is able to do so. He has administered rebukes more severe than that since he has been in the White House, and nothing could be more displeasing to him than an attempt to win by attention to his bids. It was very proper for the members of the Cabinet and others who were invited to the wedding to take gifts, and it was a pleasure for the President to receive them, but it is not customary in private life for persons who are not invited to a wedding feast to send presents, and the President made this a private affair. It will be no surprise if many of the gifts are returned to the donor, but whether they are or not their source and character will remain concealed.

One of the pleasant predictions since to come social life at the White House. It that Mrs. Cleveland will spend a great deal of her time there. Mrs. Cleveland will very properly rely greatly on the experience and the good judgment displayed by Mrs. Cleveland, who in her management, is said to have received criticism to have made but few blunders.

The resignation of Mr. Manning as Secretary of the Treasury Department, was not altogether a surprise to the public in view of the fact that he had been absent for some time, and it seems quite a natural step. He was uncertain when he would again be able to resume his official duties and was not willing to be only a nominal head of the department. The President has done wisely, however, in declining to accept the resignation, and has offered Mr. Manning a seat of honor from all districts until October next in order that he may give himself up to the enjoyment of pleasure and beneficial change of scene and air. The President still keeps on with his veto of private pension bills. It is to be well without the support of all right-minded men will receive in part. The Government will not receive any pension until all districts who, by reason of wounds received in battle or by reason of diseases contracted in the line of service, are suffering physical disability, but whom it can be proved by Congress have all, or the majority of them been passed by the pension office and rejected. It is not reasonable to suppose that the officers would be so unkind as to pass bills of whom are ex-officio themselves, would be leniently inclined toward the applications of their like comrades. In such cases it would seem that they are passed by when found to do so either by lack of evidence or manifest unworthiness.

Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule Bill has been rejected in Parliament by a majority of 30.

CONGOING RAKINGS

The festival season has commenced and the London society is fulfilling its mission in supplying a name to the affair. The first in this vicinity was held at Pleasant Grove church, on Saturday evening last, and was a very pleasant affair, although the evening was not favorable to the sale of ice cream. The committee report a net profit of twenty four dollars. The bass fishing season has commenced and we have been led to this conclusion by seeing a small crowd of hot boys with a large string of bass or last Sunday afternoon.—The water continues to look well, but it is not of some kind of a green, which indicates that it is to be destroyed.—The little girl who was shot last week, in the vicinity of Clanton's, is on her feet again, and is in a measure recovered. Jeff Solomon the boy who fired the shot is still in Blair Jail.—Mr. John A. Riney, of Pilot Town, has built an addition to his dwelling, greatly improving the appearance thereof. He is now moving his orchard grass field, and expects to leave his summer home on the Helton in a short time.—The tomato growers are getting their plants out, but report these success and small.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The Association met at Rev. I. Jewell's on Thursday at last week, 19 members being present. The principal business transacted by the meeting was to instruct the executive committee, assisted by H. H. Hittner and Rev. I. Jewell, Honorary members, to meet at the parsonage on the following Tuesday, June 8th to make arrangements for holding a mass meeting. The committee met and adjourned over to next Thursday.

The regular meetings of the association are held on Thursday afternoon fortnightly. In the basement of the M. E. Church, had the ladies expressed an urgent, and was cordial invitation to all ladies to attend the next meeting whether they wish to become members or not. They hope they will give moral force to the society by their presence if they should prefer not to ally themselves with the association as members.

The Oxford Fair Successful.

This spring fair of the Agricultural Society at Oxford is reported financially successful the receipts being $2450. A very large attendance on the last day brought up the figures, there being 8000 persons inside enclosure. The chariot racing appears to have been one of the leading features of the exhibition, where will it fit in the farm? The two wheeled ox-cart comes nearest to the vehicle used, but the speed of the carting is not quite up to time. After having a net balance of about $1000.

Among the names of those who received premiums for carriage and general work horses we find the name of H. H. Duyckinck, W. T. B. Robinson and R. L. Means of this county.

The Orphan's Court.

At the meeting of the Orphan's Court on Tuesday letters testamentary of Catherine Jones to Jas. R. Hill, James of Len. Kirk to Job M. Griffith, Letters of administration d. b. estate of Mrs. J. Carter to W. T. Miller; Jos. M. Plintham to Daniel Barton, Esq.

Sundry claims against deceased persons were passed and reports of sales confirmed.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

At the meeting of the County Commissioners on Tuesday a paper was received from the School Commissioners, showing the necessity of increasing school houses and asking that the sum of $12,000 be appropriated for their erection, the money to be raised by an increase of 10 per cent in the levies of this and next year; and that the sum of $8,000 be hereafter appropriated annually to continue the public schools four full terms, the money to be raised by the necessary increase in the annual levy.

A petition asking for a new road in Elk Neck. The new road will pass through the lands of James T. McCullough and Foster Butler.

Mrs. W. C. T. U's.

The ladies were called to be active in pushing the cause of prohibition. At the B. M. House a Temperance Union has been formed, with the following officers. President, Mary McWhorter; Secretary, Mary S. Martindale; Treasurer, Mrs. S. S. Reister.

The Society have arranged to hold a public meeting at the same place on the 15th inst. Rev. Mr. Shepard of Zion M. E. Church and Rev. Mr. Milligan of the Presbyterian church are named to make addresses on the occasion.

A Union was formed at Zion this week.

We have to thank George Baldwin for a package—and a "good big ton" too—of six strawberries. It has a half acre patch of various kinds, and furnishes plants in their season, of the latest fashion, for strawberries can keep place with the ladies in variety of sorts. The strawberry is very plentiful this season, but rather odd on account of rainy, cloudy weather when the fruit was maturing.

Our old friend G. Johnson, of the Democrat's local staff paid the Sun a flying visit last Tuesday. He was hunting up old recollections of many years standing, of that paper. "The general" always would let his sub. run along in a lucky-go-away way; and the most of them would have allowed to thus run till doom's day. If misfortune's portals of the dark show across, the portals of the office. Pay up your printer bills, good friends. You have had the paper to read then to wrap parcels in and kindle fire with these many years, and it is only dire necessity that at last sends the collector round.

We excerpt from the Democrat the following bit of news which the many friends of the "model" will be pleased to hear.

Miss Martha Biddle, well and favorably known throughout the county as an accomplished and successful teacher, has taken the position in the Elkton Academy recently occupied by Miss Helen Gay, (who is unable to teach from an attack of inflammation rheumatism), and is demonstrating to the obstetrical youth with her accustomed vigor and success. Miss Biddle will remain at the Academy during the remainder of this term, but expects to resume teaching the Cherry Hill public school at the beginning of the next term.

FASHION NOTES.

How Fashionable Women Dress Themselves and their Children.

Woolen laces remain in vogue. White moire forms a part of many bridesmaid's dresses. Bonnets are worn at ladies' luncheon parties, or should be. A child's dress may be becomingly grotesque, but a lady's dress...

The Fashion of making short manes of two struffs is almost universal. Plumes for children's wear come in clusters of cork, trepped, and sprigged effects.

Picturesque short-waist, full-skirt frocks are in favor for both large and small girls.

Crems and beige are the favorite colors for Egyptian Laces, but they come also in venture.

Few women can venture to dress up of the conventional style without looking ridiculous.

Flowered foulard and plaided and checked summer silks are made up into little girls' frocks.

Modifications of the toilettes of the Louis XV., Louis XVI., and Henri II. periods are popular at the moment.

Lockings for little girls are black, dark blue, or drab brown, no matter what the color of the frock.

Large girls' dresses are very slightly different from those worn by their older sisters and mothers.

The low prices of Egyptian lace makes it possible for any lady to have an all-lace dress at a reasonable cost.

Sailor suits for large girls come in white and darkening shades, and in the same style as those of last summer.

White moire parasols edged with deep folds of pure white Valenciennes lace are used by bridesmaids when the wedding is in a country church.

Morning robes of white, pink, or yellow and any shade, from pure white and cream to black, are trimmed tastefully with cascades and falls of Egyptian lace.

All-over tuckings are of plain muslin, silk or lace, and, in every imaginable degree of elaboration.

The newest fashions in Spanish designs, in black and cream color, and in widths from ten to forty inches coating from $1.25 to $4 the yard.

Some mothers make up their little girls' frocks in comical exaggerations of the prevailing styles, having the waists cut off just below the armpits and the skirts extending to the ankles.

While the high-crowned heavily trimmed hats and large shawls complete the grotesque but pretty effect.

All-over tuckings, brought out by a popular manufacturer New York city, may be classed among the most attractive labor saving materials used for decorative dress purposes.

For and enter bodices these tuckings are invaluable to the maker of ladies' and children's wash frocks and dressy underclothing.

Rugs.

Handsome and ornamental rugs are made at home. One of the least expensive is the Chenille rug. Collect all your woolen scraps...

matter how small or how much soiled - old flannels can be dyed with bright dyes and add very much to the beauty of the rug.

Thread a needle with very strong thread double-dyed. Gather the pieces through the center with not too fine stitches.

As fast as a piece is gathered push it down close to the knot. Push each piece about half an inch wide to the next one.

Continue in this way until the filling is full, then tie the ends.

Make in sheets about six yards long. It requires about one hundred and fifty yards for a rug.

Take a border at either end, two thirds quarters of a yard wide. If you have enough rods of different shades to make the border...

border as either end, and have the center "bit or other," make a beautiful rug. These rugs are very handsome, and being alike on both sides, wear beautifully.

that would otherwise find their way into the rag bag. Very pretty rugs can be made of small silk scraps...

matter how much defaced, they will all work in. Cut in strips about half an inch wide...

long. Take a piece of ticking, having the stripes about one third of an inch wide, cut it the size of the rug wanted.

Thread a sewing machine with coarse thread (number thirty) and needle. Place one of the ticking stripes under the needle...

by the silk piece close together with the middle of each piece on the ticking stripe, and stitch down to the end of the stripe, then stitch back...

reg; this will make it strong. Put the ticking in place with the next stripe under needle.

Fold back the fringe made by the preceding row, back out of the way and proceed as before. A finished line and mixed center are very rich looking.

After the rug is finished line with some heavy material to keep it flat.

For these there comes a time, when they are called "rag rugs."

It comes in all the rich Oriental colors and can be bought for one dollar and twenty cents a yard.

quire four pounds of the wool to make a rug one yard long by three-quarters wide.

This is a pretty style of knitting needles, and Dexter cotton, number six.

There is a fine soft cotton knit using these rugs, but it is so difficult to find it.

Cut the wool in bits of equal length, about two inches long, in front and back of forty-two stitches, knit once across plain.

Second row—knit one stitch cotton, lay it in place, and knit half in the work, knit in; then bring the half from the back to the front of the work, knit in.

in another piece of the wool and continue until twenty pieces have been worked in.

Third row—knit a row of plain cotton; then another with wool, and so alternately.

This makes a strip two inches wide. In it, knit a row of wool, and in as many strips as the rug is to be long.

After making the strip the desired length, bind off. As each strip is finished, knit a pair of scissors clip off the uneven ends, before sewing pieces together.

Knit as tight as possible in color. Firm. Patterns come in colors for knitting these rugs, but any pretty color stitch pattern will do.

putting a piece of wool for each stitch in the pattern and knitting a plain stitch between. Rag rugs are knit from these same directions.

The coat of a new barrel warranted to preserve the pork is much less than the cost of the meat it will hold. It is true the fault may not originally be in the barrel but rather in modes of management.

But if the barrel had better thereafter be left to rot away.

Temperance.

Home Protection or Protection for the Saloons. "Which Shall It Be?" [The following is the substance of a tract issued by the Women's Christian Temperance Union which has been handed us with a request to publish.]

The men of the several counties of Maryland are to cast their votes in a few days on one side or the other of this question: "The crisis is upon you. How will you vote?"

If you choose to protect your homes the saloons and clubs must go. If you choose to protect the saloons many happy homes must be broken up. It is for you to decide which it shall be.

Is not the love of home, with its sanctities as strong in the hearts of the men of Maryland as the love of the saloon?

The Woman's Christian Union of Maryland appeals to the strong-broved men to vote to give the highest convictions in the ballot-box and give an overwhelming majority for the saloons.

Remember you are voting for the women who love you, and for your children whose interests demand the best home possible for them.

Let us men protect the saloons. It is the State saying to the saloon, "you may make drunkards of our boys if you will."

No license does not hope to put a stop to all liquor drinking, but it is the State saying to the liquor men, "we throw our strong arms of protection around our wives and children, and homes instead of around you."

On behalf of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Maryland, MARY W. THOMAS, President, JULIET N. BALDWIN, Co. Sec.

Our Washington Letter

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, June 4, 1886.

A thousand invitations have been issued by the President and Mrs. Cleveland for the grand reception on Tuesday evening, and it is expected to be a very large and brilliant affair, as it is the first opportunity for many of those invited to meet Mr. Cleveland and congratulate the President on the recent glorious event. Outside the Cabinet ladies Mrs. Cleveland is almost unknown to Washington society, and she will make her official debut at the reception on Tuesday. The families of Justice of the Supreme Court, and of Congress are nearly all absent from the city. The Diplomatic Corps will also be but slightly represented, as many of the foreign ministers and their wives are in Europe, but in other respects the reception will be one of the largest ever known in the White House.

Among other items about the President's marriage that have excited considerable comment here, is the statement that he gave Dr. Woodland a $50,000 check, and that he had the wedding money made to order like his children. But the fact is, the President always uses new money. He never gives old ones, except in very special cases, and he had the wedding money made to order like his children. But the fact is, the President always uses new money. He never gives old ones, except in very special cases, and he had the wedding money made to order like his children. But the fact is, the President always uses new money. He never gives old ones, except in very special cases, and he had the wedding money made to order like his children.

But Mrs. Cleveland's grand reception has left her a fortune of $90,000, and when the President returns from public life, as it is rumored he intends to do at the expiration of his present presidential term, he will be able to live in a princely manner. He is so pleased with Washington and its environs, however, that he will not return to Buffalo but will occupy permanently the residence "Frosty Prospect" which he purchased recently, which is now being put in readiness for him.

In spite of the usual talk about the dilatoriness of Congress, a good deal of work has been quietly accomplished during the session. In the House of Representatives, 9,125 bills and 178 resolutions were introduced—a larger number of bills than has ever been introduced at any previous session. Of these the House has passed 72 public and 254 private bills and one joint resolution, which is certainly not bad showing. In the Senate there have been 3,260 bills and 69 joint resolutions introduced, of which 137 public and 69 joint and 223 private bills have been passed. The House has passed 56 public and 27 private bills which have not yet passed. Altogether in the two Houses there have been introduced 13,391 bills and resolutions, of which 374 have been passed by both bodies of Congress.

One of the best bills passed during the session, and to which not a shadow of objection can be offered in the erection of a National Library. Funds are appropriated in the act of almost equal importance. The idea of constructing a grand memorial bridge across the Potomac connecting Observatory Hill and Arlington is daily gaining momentum to be made, and it is thought that before the end of the present session an appropriation can be secured for building a bridge to connect the city of Washington with the other side of the river. There is no really great city in the world lying wholly on one side of a river, and Washington will not be an exception in this respect. Should the appropriation for this splendid enterprise be carried through Congress this session, and should the sum of $500,000 for continuing the improvement of the Potomac be passed by both Houses, the project will be marked as one of the most noted in the annals of the city.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

A full Board was present at the monthly meeting of the Commissioners last week and the following important business was transacted. Bonds were approved of Charles E. Moore, Treasurer; George T. King, Bailiff of Elkton; and Paul N. Wagner, Constable for the Sixth District.

Counsel for the Commissioners was directed to notify delinquent collectors that suits would be instituted against them and their sureties.

William V. Moore, Morris Danbar and Nicolas P. Manly were appointed and directed to examine and determine whether a public convention require that a new public road shall be opened in Elk Neck, through the lands of Foster, Hager and McCollough, to connect the road from Elkton to Oldfield's Point with the road from Elkton to Turkey Point.

Emma N. and Thomas Armstrong; first and final account of Henry H. Brady, administrator of A. A. of William Toomtry.

Court adjourned to meet in special session on Tuesday, 22nd instant.

Shade Trees.

Shade trees about residences in both country and village may be made useful and ornamental, or disagreeable and a deformity to the house and lawn.

In planting shade trees for shade the mistake is frequently made of planting too many on a given space, and crowding them up too close together. The small, insignificant varieties scattered at distances of 40 feet between has a lean and skimp appearance, so, in order to please the eye four times the number are set out to occupy the limited space, and trees that spread over an area of 30 feet in diameter when well grown, are crowded up to within 12 or 15 feet of the building, and often even closer. In addition to this close planting, the trees are allowed to branch low and spread. In form tops kept trimmed to form high tops and long, smooth trunks, giving the air free access to circulate and dry the ground about them, while it is cooled by the volume of shade above. With low branching heads and close up to the veranda and windows of the dwelling, the fresh air and sunshine, the main preservers of health are excluded, and in their stead damp, foul odors, with mildew and mould on the walls and walls of the building, dampness and miasma, penetrate every room, permeate walls, floor and ceiling, and a constant atmosphere of malarial breath by the family sign and day, generates chronic diseases of many types. "Fetidic," "contaminated," a lingering life of wretchedness, slow and painful death are the result in hundreds of old homesteads, overgrown with trees and hedged in, excluded from sunshine and sweet air by the accumulating growth of years. There is no remedy for this mistaken arrangement, and already comfort but a free use of ax and bramble scythe. Better that every shade tree and shrub be leveled to the ground, and the building stand out where it can receive a daily bath of pure life giving sunshine and sweet air.

To our notion, nothing seems so repulsive and shocked as a dwelling smothered in a grove of low, bushy headed trees, with a lot of unkempt bramble, under the mistaken title of "shrubbery." Filling up the yard and garden, harboring dampness and mildew everywhere.

A closely cropped green lawn about a house where proper provide the best of shade and protection to the dwelling and its inmates, with trees thinly scattered about the lawn, trimmed to high tops so that a free circulation of fresh air is never interrupted, with its best area of a home surrounding. Health, comfort and inviolate taste are manifestly the inheritance of such arrangement.

In every village the health and comfort of its citizens would be greatly improved by cutting down one-half to three-fourths of the trees, about the streets and yards, and banishing five-sixths of the brush which misrepresents people dignity by the name of shrubbery. And we know of no village which needs such renovation more than our little Rising Sun. Typhoid malaria, neuralgia and consumption are the sure reward of those who encourage the growth of such tangled wilds.

Children's Day.

At the M. E. Church of Rising Sun was a very pleasant and successful celebration. This new festival of the Church is becoming quite popular among Protestant denominations, and is being more observed, and with greater eclat each succeeding year. Mr. Jewell the minister in charge, was highly gratified with the entertainment at this place on last Sabbath, and pronounces it more entertaining than he has ever witnessed.

The church was beautifully festooned and decorated with floral wreaths and designs and appropriate motions woven with flowers.

The program for the occasion was composed of recitations and singing by the children and an appropriate address by the pastor in the morning. In the afternoon the exercises were continued with a pleasant variety which kept up the interest of the entertainment.

There are 13 Sunday School classes, and each class had an appropriate floral design prepared for the occasion, which when hung up in the church had a very happy effect.

Class No. 1.—John T. McCollough teacher, who contributed a floral bouquet which was placed on the wall over the choir.

Class No. 2.—Rev. I. Jewell, teacher, a large fir pillow, bearing the motto woven in white flowers, "Welcome to all!"

Class No. 3.—Mrs. Anna Haines, teacher, a large four partially open, the panels composed of oxeye daisies.

Class No. 4.—Mrs. Jewell, teacher, Jacob's ladder, surmounted by a floral cross and crown.

Class No. 5.—Mrs. Saml. Ryan, teacher, a large floral anchor.

Class No. 6.—Mrs. Jones, teacher, a basket of flowers.

Class No. 7.—J. C. Bird, teacher, a card with initial letters "J. C." preceding a large bird, suspended from which hung a large floral bowe shoe.

Class No. 8.—Miss Mary Stephens, teacher, a Lyre composed of wreaths of flowers.

Class No. 9.—Miss Jennie Stephens and Mrs. Mahan, teachers, placed the children's names together, which were a sickle and sheaf of wheat. The sickle was composed of garlands of flowers.

Class No. 11.—Miss Lizzie Stephens, teacher, "gates ajar." The frame of the gate was twisted in the center, and the panels were composed of gray moss.

Class No. 12.—Mr. Saml. Ryan, teacher, a beautiful floral star.

Class No. 13.—Thos. Garvin, teacher, a harp resting on a bed of flowers. This is the infant class and in addition to the harp Miss Mary Buckley contributed a basket of rare flowers to the class in the midst of which reposed a lamb (from Mr. Zehner's marble yard) which elicited a playful remark from the pastor, that Miss "Mary and her little lamb were welcome."

The ladies of the church presented the officers of the Sabbath School a large floral heart with the date 1886 under it, woven in evergreen. Among the pulpit the motto of the M. E. Church—"The world for Christ," was displayed. Various birds in cages were hung in various parts of the church. A novel feature of the exercises was the forming of the children in lines according to remarkable are the side of the church and then marching down the side aisles in single file. The entertainment was altogether most enjoyable, and the scene brilliant with the gorgeous flowers of June which were very where in profusion.

Hauboy Strawberries.

(Frogaria elatior)

Through the kindness of Mr. Adam R. Magraw we had the pleasure of sampling this fine old variety of strawberry, and to our notion, if we take in to account its remarkable are the side of the church and then marching down the side aisles in single file. The entertainment was altogether most enjoyable, and the scene brilliant with the gorgeous flowers of June which were very where in profusion.

The Old Court House. When it becomes a new one.

The following is a sketch of the plan for reconstructing the Court House, as drawn by Mr. Levi O. Cameron, the architect employed by the committee in charge of the work.

A tower will be built on the south side of the building, the lower story occupied by the court room. The construction of a stairway to the audience or Court room, which will be in the County Commissioners' Tower, which will be used as a vestibule to the Court room. The north wall of the present house will be moved back a foot sixteen feet, or until it comes in contact with the Clerk's office covering the space now occupied by the used for the office of the County Commissioners. There will also be a private stairway leading from the first to the second story for the use of the sheriff and his room, of which there will be five or six, will be in the third story of the building.

This plan looks like it would make a decided improvement of the old building. But what is to be done with the "hole in the wall." Best it out for restaurants, or abandon it to the rats again?

The Farm.

THE WINTER CARE OF HORSES AND CATTLE. The most famous...

This little book contains a fund of practical information, and is a volume which every farmer ought to buy and carefully study.

The cheapest shelter may be made quite warm by lining it inside with building paper, which costs but little.

When I came on to the farm I found a poor old barn here which was made as much shelter to the stock as an apple-tree would have been.

It was a cheap-looking building, but it was warm. I remember one very cold night, when the wind was blowing the stable to see if all were comfortable.

It was so very cold, I thought perhaps an extra feed might be necessary on such warm days. I offered the cows some hay, but they looked at me with astonishment.

What I carry cows and steers, would you say some one distinctly well fed, put on flesh, they do it so.

You let a horse stand to a full rack of hay, most of the time, when idle in the winter, and see how soon you will find his coat shining and his skin in good condition.

I once lived near the farm of a man who was rarely absent from church services or protracted meetings.

of snow. In the spring the dead sheep would be piled up two or three deep under the snow. For it was not to be judged, but I can not help but wonder whether that man will be given as God's right hand.

Four years ago I bought a few tons of hay, and in extra good condition—good to sell, the neighbors said.

My best friends could hardly believe that the horses got to grain—that such feed and life (it was business to handle them) came from dried grass alone.

Time and again I have watched cows drinking at a hole in the ice, when I knew they did not get nearly as much as they needed, but I could not blame them.

My horse, watered three times a day, in the winter, drink only about four gallons each time, and that at a temperature of about 50°.

I remember buying a lot of farrowed pigs about the 15th of December.

They ran up to that time, and I had been fed only an occasional feed from the stock when there was snow on the ground.

Now I can learn from a book just how to cure clover hay. (When clover hay is mentioned, of course clover is very important.)

constant of the dry weather, and it was a very bad dry day when it was. Other years, when it was very wet, it was taken several days to get the hay properly cured.

MINOR LOCALS.

Three members were initiated in Crystal Lodge No. 244, on Monday last.

Remember the "Kempa Concert" at the M. E. Church to night. Go and enjoy a rare musical treat.

Ankrim's is the place to buy good and cheap groceries.

Mr. Harry Brown, of Woodlawn, a reporter on the Philadelphia Times, paid this town a visit on Monday last.

New counterfeit $5 and $2 Treasury notes are in circulation. They are poorly executed and may be easily detected.

Some insect enemy has attacked the Sycamore tree. As the tree is not a valuable one little regret will be manifested.

Fond's Extract, which substitutes ease and comfort for pain and suffering, is one of the most potent curative agents known.

Quite a large concourse of persons attended the M. E. Church on children's day, last Sunday. The gathering was estimated at 600.

Go to Ankrim's for a nice seucker coat both for men and boys'.

Dogs have been among Reuben Kirk's sheep again and killed several, on Monday night last.

Mr. James Addison lost a cow and heifer this week. The cow was valued at $75. The animals died suddenly of typhoid resembling plagues.

Haines & Kirk are head quarters for all kinds of fence wire.

A close game of baseball was played at Farmington, on Saturday last, by the club of that place and the Normal School nine of this place, which resulted in a defeat for the Normal by a score of 14 to 11.

Harvest is commencing. A few have cut some grass, but the weather of the past week has prevented a general beginning. Hay harvest will be late but the promise of a heavy crop grows more encouraging.

THAT HACKING CURE can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. Sold by Dr. L. R. Kirk.

J. Edmondson Barroll died in Eikton on Sunday night at the Howard House. He had long been a sufferer from Bright's Disease. He deceased was aged about 42. The funeral took place from the Episcopal Church on Wednesday.

Any farmers wishing to purchase Terry's little volume on the winter care of stock which we review in the Farm Department, can have it mailed to them by leaving the price at the MIDLAND office. It is worth many times its cost to any farmer.

Bucky Lenon, a colored woman with Mr. W. J. Ankrim, fell down the cellar steps on Tuesday evening and severely injured one of her limbs, so that she had to be conveyed to her home at Fremont, on Thursday.

India linens, Satter's, light print and all kinds of ladies' summer dress goods at Ankrim's.

Mr. Will T. McClure is having quite a demand for the Reel Creamery which he is agent for (see his ad in another column). He has supplied about a dozen dairies in the neighborhood this season with these creameries and all are highly pleased with them.

Ice cream freezers, lawn mowers at Haines & Kirk's.

Wheat harvest will commence about the 25th in the southern part of the county, while in the northern portion it will probably begin not earlier than the first week in July. The proximity to large bodies of water which derive their warmth from the ocean, advances the season ten days or more.

Haines & Kirk guarantee price and quality of their kindred wares.

The West Nottingham Presbyterian Church festival, held on the 10th and 11th inst, was eminently successful as a financial enterprise. The festival was under the management of the Benevolent Society attached to the church, $200 was cleared, which we are informed will be appropriated to providing cushions for the pews.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Pain Expeller. Price 25 cts. Sold by Dr. L. R. Kirk.

The Department of Maryland, G. A. R., will act as escort to the Commander-in-chief and staff, in the coming trip to San Francisco, leaving Washington about July 25th. Among the large number of Maryland troops the Army men who will go is Senior Vice-Commander Jethro J. McCulloch, of this place. Many of the comrades will accompany them.

Just arrived at Ankrim's store, a nice line of ladies shoes. And are marked low.

The Susquehanna Pleasure Club of Fort Deposit, contemplate taking their annual cruise down the bay, to Old Point Comfort, on August 15th. The Club numbers 51 members, with the following officers: President, S. A. Vannort; vice-president, G. G. Hill; treasurer, James Rice; secretary, Jno. Mohrlein; finance committee, Geo. C. Oldham, N. A. Vannort and Charles Lamm.

For under-twine go to Haines & Kirk.

John Stephenson, a young colored man, was arrested on Saturday in the 18th district, near North East, and is now in jail. He is charged with bigamy, in having deserted his wife, Emma Stephenson, and her two children in Eikton, and married Hannah Brown. Stephenson served a term of 18 months in the penitentiary for larceny a few years since. He denied having married Hannah.

Double harrows hay forks $1.75 at Haines & Kirk's.

E. R. Huffington, our popular merchant, "unfurls his banner to the" people "we were about to say 'the breeze'" his work inscribed with "Hot-weather Goods," with which his store is laden, of all sorts and styles, except poor goods and cheap goods, says he doesn't keep any of these classes. As soon as this "announcement" appears we expect "Sammy" and "Brook" and "Charley" will be seen off their feet walking on the customers.

Churns, peck and half-bushel measures at Haines & Kirk's.

Dr. Robertson had a sample of his Rice wheat at the office last week, a strong growing, early ripening variety which he thinks well off. The straw is large and strong, frequently reaching a height of 6 feet and this high growth is not inclined to lodge or fall down. The Rice wheat was brought to this neighborhood from Frederick City four years ago, and was procured from a gentleman whose name was Rice. The wheat is a product of the southern states where it is supposed to have been originated. It ripens 10 days before the Fall wheat which is a valuable property. In 1881 the doctor raised 35 bushels on one acre and a half.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS, made miserable by that terrible cough, Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by Dr. L. R. Kirk.

Coal oil and gasoline stoves at Haines & Kirk's.

As about every person "who hath ears" has heard of Katy Dysart's tavern, the following notice from the Democrat will have a passing interest.

H. H. Kimble is rebuilding the north end wall of his old stone house at "Appleton." This house is one of the oldest in that part of the county, and was used for many years as a tavern by the late Catherine Dysart, familiarly called "Old Katy," who inherited it from her father, Archibald Dysart, who came there from Pennsylvania in the latter part of the last century. Mr. Kimble is also reconstructing the east end wall of his barn, which is of stone, and was built by Catharine Dysart probably sixty-five years ago.

There were two strawberry festival held in the 8th district on the 11th and 12th inst. for the "children of the Church," one at Rowlandville, and one at Porter's Grove. The latter was disturbed somewhat by a party of cologne man, who tried to one of the ladies instituted suppressive measures, by knocking the captain of the gang down with a stone. This kind of moral suasion had a salutary effect, and the disturbers beat a hasty retreat when their leader fell.

At Rowlandville a delegation of the same sort from the lower barrens, was in attendance, but the gentlemen looked sober and formidable who conducted the entertainment, and the wild bustle concluded to keep still. Both festivals were quite successful in raising in the shekels.

CATHARTIC CURE, health and sweet breath secured, by Shiloh's Cathartic Remedy, Price 50 cents. Nausea-injector free. Sold by Dr. L. R. Kirk.

Jacob's Ladder.

SENIOR SCHOOL CLASS. Parson—Now boys, we want you to describe Jacob's Ladder. The first riddle— Small boy—Is covered with magnolia.

Drowned. A nine year old son of Sylvester McCluen who lives near Fite's Eddy on the Susquehanna, slipped into the water while fishing and was drowned. After a search of several hours the body of the drowned child was recovered.

A Dangerous Plunge. One of the workmen fell from the big span on the E. & O. bridge, head foremost in the water, but soon rose to the surface and was rescued, and the work was for the plunge. He passed safely through the timbers of the false works. This is almost a miraculous escape.

The Improved Western Washer Scores Another Victory.

The New Improved Western Washer at Moorestown, N. J., Spring Fair, held June 8th and 9th '86, received the diploma in competition with a Prize Water, and took an order from one of the Judges who was convinced it would do the work.

Sports in Strawberries.

Mr. Jack Swayne left at the MIDLAND office a box of oddities in the way of strawberries. Some double, some of various quantities and sizes. The berries had grown in many peculiar and fantastic shapes. Often varieties are produced having established types, by horticulturists and florists who select and propagate those sports, or deformities which occur lavishly through out the vegetable kingdom.

The Farm.

Organization of Farmers. The Hon. T. B. Harwell delivered an address on the above named subject, before the Farmers' Convention at Jackson, Tenn., recently, from which the following abstracts are made. His remarks show enough the thoughtful attention of every farmer.

It is said at the Agricultural Congress in Louisville that "The greatest obstacle to the permanent and efficient organization of farmers exists in their ignorance." It is clear that the absence of well defined aims, unfamiliarity with the methods of organized bodies, and an indifference scarcely reprehensible under the circumstances, are grave difficulties; which, however, only intensify the obligation that rests upon leading and influential farmers to encourage and assist in the formation of such organizations, with no matter how small beginning, and persevere until all are properly educated for the work in which all have the most profound and lasting interest.

THE MONEY QUESTION. There is another cause for the decline in State organizations that is difficult to remedy, perhaps, and will require some thorough organization before possible, and is a just cause for the worth of the organization. Perhaps it does not speak well for the pride, the enterprise, the intelligence of farmers, to say that the State organization has very long neglected the payment of expenses derived out of individual pockets. The history of these organizations abundantly attests that they have triumphed in the end, while history attests the further fact, that all organizations with paid officers, have been the most prominent and useful. A State organization should be composed of the representatives of all the various sections, which ought to be organized in every county. A few determined, energetic, intelligent men are sufficient to initiate them, and the interest at stake ought to furnish the strongest incentive. Each county association should make the office of delegate one of honor and distinction, the reward of merit, and pay the necessary incidental expenses; which will require a sum utterly insignificant in comparison with the benefits that ought to result. Such a representation would excite wholesome competition, and ought to command the best talent of the country. We do not urge this course? Because we thoroughly realize the need of organized effort, and it would certainly be a mistake to neglect our future efforts to secure it, the errors and defects that have caused failures in the past. Or, shall we, with inexcusable easiness, succumb to the difficulties that should only have tested our strength, and our manhood? Bond-holding, bad farming, and unskillful, mercantile exchanges, bonds of trade, trades' unions, etc., bear to these several interests that same relation that organizations of farmers bear to the agricultural. They are essential to the interests they subserve, are, in fact, a part of the strategy, and command all the intelligence, labor, and money, that is necessary for success.

STRATEGY IN FARMING. We may boast, however, of the progress, no matter when it comes, which has demonstrated our superior aptitude for every branch of rural husbandry. We may boast of those who are cherished for themselves, even on the farm, honorable and enviable distinction by their wise forebears, and their children; yet there are too many who ought to be efficient and willing factors in the work of those organizations who are still following in the footsteps of their fathers. Too often isolation, ignorance and stagnation, offer formidable obstacles, and progress is too much like the blind horse in his treadmill round, onward from the sheer necessity of moving, and not by the aid of labor and toll. Our united strength alone will command the respectful consideration of our law and equity.

CONTOY ORGANIZATIONS. Let the first step of the farmer be to resolutely and wisely organize in every county in the State. To assert the importance of so doing is to emphasize the necessity for the employment of every resource and wisdom, in the performance of duty. Their success underlies all national and individual prosperity and happiness. It were well to be able to argue that they should employ the best methods of culture, and every appliance that will enable them to improve the fertility of the soil, and enhance the value of their products, as to argue the benefits of united effort, wise cooperation in view of the trade combination that now environ them. Associated, the farmer will command respect; in isolation he is a cipher. As isolated, he becomes a pupil in a most excellent, instructive school, in which the consideration of professional men will stimulate his mind, multiply his sources of information, and enable him to bring a higher intelligence to the direction of his labors. This would of itself be a strong argument in favor of organized effort. If the farmer were only a tiller of the soil, only a laborer of wood and needed only increased skill and efficiency to meet the enlarged demand upon his labor. But he is a citizen as well, and entrusted with social and political duties. While he can no more forget than his individual responsibilities, nor can he delegate to others those savings and economical obligations that imperatively demand intelligent discharge at his hands. If their organization becomes a prime factor in promoting higher qualifications for both industrial and civil life—and no thoughtful man will deny it—the duty becomes clear and should appeal with irresistible force to every intelligent farmer in the State.

ADVERSE COMBINATIONS. Coal companies combine to advance the price of coal. Combination by a mytic power fixes and advances the price of nails, will if stockholders stop, the operative goes hungry, and the combination alike waits the inventor, that the shop is closed, the production stops, and he offers feeble protest, in fact, of articles necessary to his comfort and success, have prices fixed by combinations, and the price of fencing wire is thus fixed, and he offers feeble protest, while the merchant, the professional, the business classes in general, and a telephone monopoly taxes too high, had a champion even in the government itself. Conspiracies to raise prices, and to contravene to raise prices, all except the price of products in the farmers' hands, in fact, the struggle goes on, and combination multiply around him, yet he pursues the even tenor of his way, and seems oblivious to his plucking as a matter of course.

Dehorning. It will probably surprise most of our readers to learn that dehorning, that is, the removal of horns, is rapidly growing in favor in some localities of the west, and judging from the favor the practice enjoys everywhere. Like every new discovery this meets with shuddering opposition and ridicule, and the ignorant, uneducated, and unskilled, who jump at conclusions. In response to one of these protests, we find the following among our readers may understand the need of the Western Rural, defending dehorning, which we copy in order that our readers may understand the need of this which appears to be nothing more than simply confining the animal securely and sawing off its horns before they have become a source of trouble, without any experience or practical knowledge of the business, that it would be successful in the long run. In fact, operation as well as attended with serious danger, while it seems to be neither. But here is what the writer says: "I thought I would just try dehorning to see how it would go, as I had some ugly cows that were very troublesome. One rainy day in early spring I went out to it. Caught the ugliest one I had and put her in the stockpens and held her by one side. Then I took a saw and before I knew what I had done, her horns were close to the head. She was not let her loose to see if she would drop dead, but not much. She was so mad that she jumped at one of the younger cows to see if she could not catch it, but she could not, so they went to fighting, and the younger one soon did her up, and she was done for. The cow soon found out that she was no good on a fight and let everything drive her. So I kept on and took the horns off a eighteen that afternoon and in about three hours. Some were mitch cows and I could not see any more of the amount of milk they gave. I have not a horn on the place now, and you never saw a quieter set of cows than I have. I have no more to the trough they will crowd in as thick as they can stand. They are not afraid of each other, do not stand and fight and none get anything to eat but the old bosses. It makes the calves much tamer and there is no danger of them hooking you when you want to put a rope on one, as some of mine tried very hard to do. I think it is worth every thing to do, and so would you if you could just see them. Now as to the cruelty, I cannot see where it comes in. There was not a single one of mine that bellowed once, not once, and they would go to eating as soon as they were out of the stockpens. They did not bleed much, and they cared more for being fat than they did for taking a horn off, and those that tore around are the ones that bled the most. There was not a pint of blood from all of mine. One old cow with nine rings on her horns did not bleed enough to cover the horn with blood and the operation did not hurt her at all. I have just read of a man that was hurt badly by a bull, and I knew two men that were hurt, one, indeed, being killed and the other injured badly. I got a good tumble once myself, but came off very lucky but very badly scared. If it is barbarous and inhuman to take the horns off a cow, as you, wicked, I would like to know what extraction it is not to be compared to the corning, for they both know that the animals act quite differently. As any one knows extraction is very painful. And I know it is to take the horns off a cow, as you would never do anything to hurt an animal worse than dehorning, they would certainly be very quiet in their beds. But they would be kinder if they would fix them so they could not hurt each other, or any other animal. Wait until they get good and then they will be convinced. J. M. BARTLEY.

The Poultry Yard.

Poultry Diseases. Chicken cholera is a term that is often misapplied. The term is abused pretty much as the term hog cholera is. It is the disease there is an ignorance of the cause, it is easy to call it cholera that the temptation is not always resisted. There is one characteristic of chicken cholera, that is never absent, it is diarrhea. When this is observed, it is safest to suspect cholera. The food given should be nourishing and contain oxygen pure or iron. What is called the Douglas Mixture is an excellent remedy. It is made as follows: Put one ounce of copper into two gallons of water and add one ounce of oil of vitrol. Put the mixture into a jug and let it stand the night, and then spoonful of the mixture to a pint of water. Give it to the entire flock, the well and the sick alike, whenever the disease appears. Always remove the sick birds from the flock. Fumigate the poultry house with burning sulphur, and thoroughly whitewash inside, and add considerable rods of carbolic acid to the whitewash. Rub the roosts with kerosene oil and lard. Disinfecter, if suggested, will terminate in roap. It may be known by the face being puffed and of a scarlet color. It is caused by a discharge from the ventricle. The kerosene by filling the throat with oil, holding the bird so that it cannot swallow, and by injecting it into the nostrils, it makes them very thoroughly. When the throat is believed to be thoroughly washed with the oil, let it run out of the nostrils. In this case application will be needed, if the remedy is applied at the very beginning of the trouble. Great care should be taken to keep the surroundings of the fowls clean. Some affirm that cholera comes from filth only. We do not care to affirm this, but will say that such a disease is a cause. Hoop, as before said, comes from distemper and also from tainted drinking water, and from the use of unventilated houses, and from any other cause that renders the blood impure. The symptoms are bad legs, swollen head, with considerable inflammation, and the presence of canker in the mouth. Put two grains of bromide of potassium in the water every day, and give it to each fowl. Also wash the mouth out with kerosene. Bromide of potassium, given as above, is also highly recommended for chicken-pox which may be known by blotches on the comb and throat.
