Church Health care for one another

Remembering Dr. Pat Wall

Dr. Morris reflects on a dedicated friend and advocate

When I first came to Memphis in 1986, my goal was to open Church Health. The only problem was that I didn't know anyone. I had completed medical school and seminary and was working as the doctor for the city's health department. Dr. Sherman Kahn introduced me to a pediatrician he thought would help me achieve what I set out to do. I never imagined I would meet someone as selfless and dedicated to the mission of Church Health as Dr. Hershel P. "Pat" Wall.

The day we met, he fully committed to helping open the doors of Church Health. To say he was a well-respected doctor in Memphis would be an understatement. He helped train almost all the pediatricians in Memphis, so he made sure there was a volunteer pediatrician working at Church Health every Tuesday and Thursday from 6:00–9:00 p.m. He wouldn't ask for their availability; he would call and say, "You're working next Tuesday." No one ever said no. If there was a night he couldn't fill with a volunteer, he would work. He loved interacting with our patients, greeting them, caring for them, and treating them, all with a smile.

Dr. Wall didn't stop at scheduling volunteers. He agreed to be the chair of our board and remained in the role for our first ten years. He was so dedicated to helping us with volunteers and his own work, he never stopped, even when he became the chancellor of UT Medical School. I tried to let him off the hook, but he asked, "Are you firing me?" I said no, and he responded, "Then let me do my job."

When he retired, he would regularly come by Church Health to check on us. He always showed up wearing both his white coat and his bowtie. His heart was with Church Health. There have been so many people who have helped us over our 35 years, but Dr. Wall is one of the reasons our doors first opened. From day one, he was committed to our mission to serve our neighbors and deliver quality health care with the dignity and respect that everyone deserves.

We will miss you Dr. Wall.

Dear friends,

At Church Health, we are committed to serving our neighbors, day after day and year after year. While we've already seen too many reminders of the hate that exists in our world, caring for one another with dignity and respect remains a constant for all of us.

Thanks to your generous support, we are able to conduct more than 60,000 patient visits per year. Beyond the numbers, it is touching to hear from patients that come through our doors each day. One patient, Marybelle, said, "I wouldn't go anywhere else."

Our post-pandemic world feels almost normal, but more patients than ever depend on Church Health. We continue to deliver a comprehensive care approach that spans all ages and extends from head to toe. Your donations make it possible for more Memphians to access the quality health care we all need to live our lives with hope and joy.

It feels like it was yesterday we opened our doors for the first time on Peabody Avenue. It's hard to believe the growth we've achieved in 35 years. Thanks to your support, we welcome more patients than ever into our vibrant facility at Crosstown Concourse. I am grateful for each of you and ask for your continued engagement in our work. We know we can only do this work with the help of our entire Church Health team and our devoted community.

Please find our fiscal year 2022 financials and impact numbers beginning on page 10. To read Marybelle's story and more like it, visit ChurchHealth.org/stories.

With hope for healing,

Scott Morris, MD, MDiv

Hands-On Experiences with Health

It was two days before

Thanksgiving 2022, and a Church Health patient was leaving a medical appointment. While many Memphians were starting holiday cooking, this woman had no food at home—and seemingly no means of getting any.

That's when Gabriella Huffstetler, Church Health nutrition education coordinator, went into action. Thanks to volunteers from the Make a Meal, Share a Meal program, Church Health had healthy, tasty meals ready for Gabriella to send home, free of charge, to this woman in need. When Thanksgiving dinner rolled around, the patient's family wouldn't go hungry.

During 2022, Church Health patients enjoyed 2,850 servings of nutrient-dense, flavorful foods prepared through Make a Meal, Share a Meal. Here's how it works. Groups of six to 12 participants come to the beautiful, spacious teaching kitchen in Church Health's Nutrition Hub. Each group makes between 50 and 100 servings of a healthy food item like jambalaya or black bean tortilla casserole. Every meal has high vegetable and protein content and is low in sodium and fat—meeting the dietary needs of most Church Health patients. The items stay fresh in a medical clinic refrigerator, where patients and their families are free to take as many as they need, whenever they need them.

In 2022, 351 volunteers participated in Make a Meal, Share a Meal. Some groups came for corporate team building, while others used the time as a service project. The program attracts all ages with no cooking experience required. Each volunteer pays a $25 fee, which helps cover the cost of ingredients.

Boy Scout and Girl Scout groups are a favorite of Gabriella. The kitchen staff loves sharing with them why Make a Meal, Share a Meal matters, explaining Memphis realities like food insecurity and food deserts. "We explain what these meals are doing, and their faces change; they realize the importance of their volunteer project," says Gabriella. "When they see how many meals they made and how many people they're feeding, they look so proud."

Cook Well, Be Well is another Nutrition Hub program that offers a hands-on cooking experience to Church Health patients and community members alike. In this four-class series, participants learn Mediterranean Diet principles, cooking skills and Church Health's Model for Healthy Living, a life balance tool. By the end of four weeks, participants are comfortable in the kitchen and can build flavorful meals, stock a healthy pantry and cook on a budget. These free classes are offered during the day and evening both in English and Spanish. Virtual and self-paced options are available too.

“Every meal has high vegetable and protein content, is low in sodium and fat, and stays fresh in a medical clinic refrigerator where patients and their families are free to take as many as they need, whenever they need them.”

“We try to make it as accessible as possible,” says Elaina Kaufman, kitchens operations manager.

Nutrition Hub staff developed Cook Well, Be Well during the early days of the pandemic, and they’re seeing it make a real difference. In 2022, 457 individuals participated in Cook Well, Be Well. Of those, 117 were Church Health patients.

Cook Well, Be Well equips patients to practice the healthy principles they hear about from Church Health providers. “They go to their appointments and hear these things, and then they can go to the classes and have someone walk them through it,” said Gabriella. “They get a hands-on experience with their health.”

Participants come from diverse backgrounds. Some are retirees; others are experiencing food insecurity and appreciate learning budget-friendly cooking skills and enjoying the free meals they prepare in class. Parents and older children sometimes attend together. For teens interested in food careers, Cook Well, Be Well is often their first cooking class. And individuals with mental, emotional or physical differences find acceptance in the class.

Elaina believes, especially after difficult pandemic years, the social experience people have in class is critical. “You can just see that it changes their week,” she said. “They leave so much happier than when they come in.”

Gabriella has watched teenagers blossom during Cook Well, Be Well. “The first week, they’re very nervous and reserved because they’re in a class full of adults,” she said. “It’s really interesting to see them become confident in the kitchen and comfortable in a group setting. You see them chopping an onion like a pro. We’re introducing cooking and healthy food to them at a young age.”

Through both Cook Well, Be Well and Make a Meal, Share a Meal, Church Health patients and community members are becoming healthier in body, mind and spirit.

“Through Church Health’s teaching kitchen, we have the opportunity to see patients and community members walk away with more security and control of their health, while also getting a positive social interaction that connects the people of Memphis,” said Gabriella.

Volunteer Spotlight: Dr. Indu Tejwani

Retired OB/GYN specialist and volunteer provider

In 1968, Dr. Indu Tejwani immigrated from India to Memphis to follow her father's path as a physician. She had a big heart, a drive for education and few other resources. Her father's commitment to medicine inspired her to help others.

When Dr. Tejwani was nine years old, the country of India was partitioned into India and Pakistan. "Our family moved to Mumbai for a better life," she said. "I always went to the slums with my father to make house calls, check on patients and deliver whatever meds we could."

"After I moved to Memphis, I had to settle in and find a path to continue helping the sick, poor and needy. Helping others is deeply ingrained in me by my father. Because I was a foreign medical graduate, I had to retrain to be licensed and specialized. During those years, my salary was $450 a month, but I still found ways to serve."

Thirty-five years ago, when Dr. Scott Morris approached her with his new model for addressing the needs of the working poor, Dr. Tejwani was drawn into giving what she could of herself.

"For me, volunteering helps me respect myself. I know I was put here in life for the purpose of caring for others who are not so blessed," Dr. Tejwani said. "I am selfish in being selfless, earning 'brownie points' for my next life."

Now Dr. Tejwani is enjoying retirement as an OB/GYN specialist and volunteering at Church Health. Countless women in Memphis have experienced her commitment of care as part of her cultural legacy in serving others in need.

“ I know I was put here in life for the purpose of caring for others who are not so blessed.”

Supporting a Church Health Scholar Changes Lives

Thanks to the legacy of Dr. Marvin Skaggs

Marvin Skaggs dreamed of being a college chemistry professor, but a change in plans landed him at the John Sealy School of Medicine in Galveston and an internship and residency in anesthesia at St. Joseph's Hospital in Houston. During the Vietnam War, he was assigned to the Naval Air Station Memphis, Millington where he began moonlighting at Medical Center Anesthesia. When his service to his country was complete, he decided to remain in Memphis as a member of their group.

Dr. Skaggs was a man of many talents. He could repair anything and had endless passions including hunting, fishing, duplicate bridge, cooking, gardening and a deep appreciation for classical music. But teaching was always in his blood. Throughout his prestigious 30+ year medical career, Dr. Skaggs maintained his enthusiasm for teaching and mentoring residents and nursing students.

When Dr. Skaggs passed away in 2020, his wife, Cecile, decided to honor his legacy and commitment to medicine by sponsoring a Church Health scholar.

The Church Health Scholars program is a gap-year, service-learning fellowship for recent four-year college graduates interested in serving underserved populations and exploring the intersection of faith and health. During a year of meaningful work, scholars are exposed to what it means to work in an equitable health care setting to serve the underserved populations of Memphis. The program has helped participants launch careers as medical providers, community leaders and health care professionals.

Adam Martinez was the first recipient and is attending medical school at the University of Tennessee Health Science Center in Memphis this fall. Martinez said, "The Scholars program provided connections with many talented retired volunteer doctors. These mentorships have allowed me to continue growing in my medical profession. My mentors have given me tools to advance and excel in my clinical competencies, and I look forward to becoming a leader in health care in Memphis."

Nicholas Sharp is this year's current scholar. "I am interviewing at East Tennessee State University's College of Medicine and waiting to hear back from other schools," Sharp said. "Meanwhile, being a scholar at Church Health is giving me the opportunity to learn from and work with our volunteer cardiologists and ENTs."

Cecile believes her late husband would not only approve but be honored to be leaving a legacy that allows his passion for mentoring young medical professionals to live on. If you would like to support a scholar, contact Aarti Bowman at bowmana@churchhealth.org.

“ The Scholars program helped me grow as a medical professional and work towards becoming a future leader in health care in Memphis. ”

Church Health’s Patient Assistance Program

Our patients have improved quality of life with worry-free prescriptions

It’s enough of a challenge for Memphians without health insurance to obtain high-quality, compassionate medical care; treatment with high-cost medications adds an additional financial burden and stress to their health care.

Our neighbors shouldn’t have to choose between affording their prescriptions and paying their bills. Underserved and uninsured Memphians can find hope in Church Health’s Patient Assistance Program (PAP), to help fill in the gaps of affording costly, brand-name prescriptions.

Church Health PAP is centered around what the name suggests, our patients. We don’t want them to return home without the care and treatment they need.

The PAP team at Church Health, Fernando Salazar, Sharee Edwards, Eduardo Urbina and Ellen Morris, connect patients to the programs offered by pharmaceutical manufacturers. These programs help uninsured patients obtain necessary medications at no cost or minimal fees.

Our team streamlines the application process to access costly medications for treatment and health management. They also complete and submit patient applications to pharmaceutical programs for processing.

The PAP team regularly meets with patients to complete eligibility applications, follows up to reestablish their eligibility, reminds them about refills and requests refills on a patient’s behalf as needed.

Maria Ortiz needed her oral oncology medication refilled while receiving care at a specialty clinic. Her application to the pharmaceutical manufacturer’s assistance program had been incorrectly filed. Fernando identified this issue, and Maria’s application was resubmitted by Church Health

PAP with the correct information for processing and approval.

“If I’m sick and not able to work, how can I earn my income?” Maria asked. “Thank you, God, because I found help. When my friends get in the same situation as me, I recommend Church Health and this program.”

Uninsured Memphians can stay on the path to wellness with Church Health’s PAP team steering patients to improved health, chronic disease management and improved quality of life.

Damien Morris is being treated for chronic conditions including diabetes, respiratory issues and high blood pressure. He is free from the mental burden of planning how to afford costly prescriptions. He’s at ease relying on Church Health to manage his health needs.

“That’s a blessing to wake up every day knowing I have help getting my prescriptions,” Damien said. “Once, I ran out of my prescriptions for a whole week. I called Church Health, talked with a nurse and had my medications filled quickly. Everything was taken care of. Without my medication, I’m not the same. It’s a comfort when I can get back to normal.”

“ Our patients don’t have to choose between affording their prescriptions and paying their bills. Church Health’s Patient Assistance Program fills in the gaps of affording costly, brand-name prescriptions.”

The work and service of our PAP team is never complete. The persistent management of our patient’s accessibility to critical and essential medicine is a daily act of compassionate care.

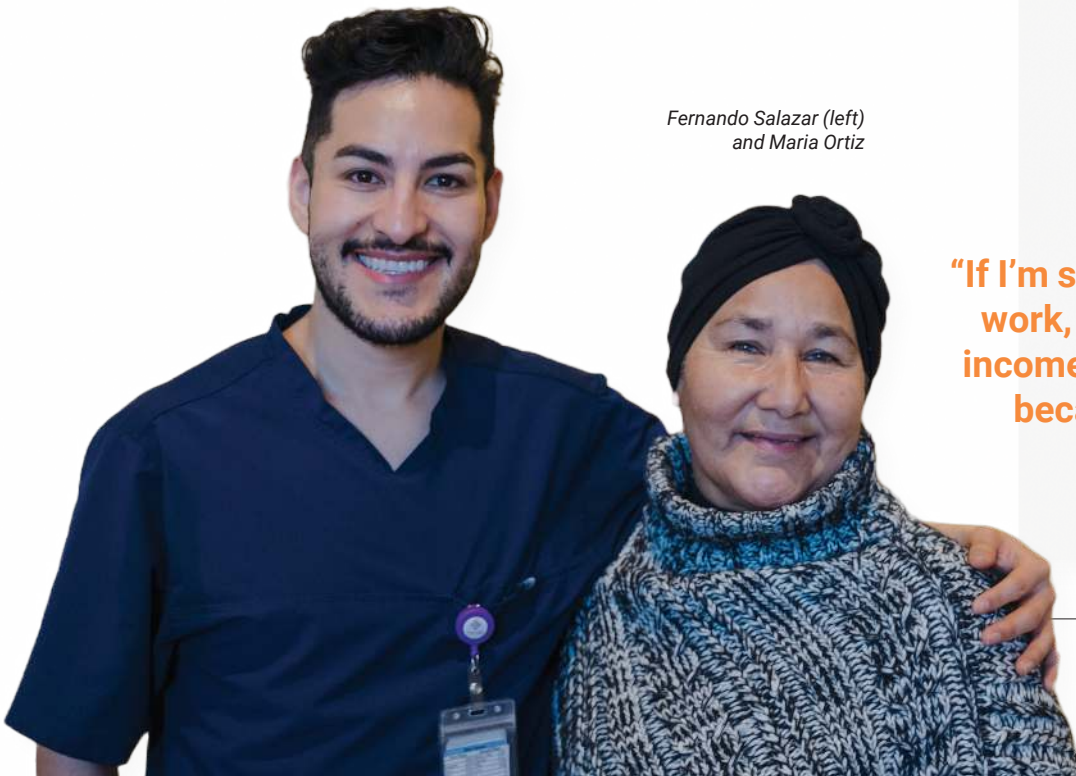

“A majority of our patients are diabetics and on some kind of insulin,” the PAP team’s medication coordinator, Sharee Edwards explained. “One vial of insulin in major pharmacies is around $200–$300. Who can afford that, especially living paycheck to paycheck?”

The team navigates 7,800 prescriptions each year, saving about 9.3 million dollars for uninsured patients who are enrolled. For the past year, the team improved efficiency of their key processes for completing patient paperwork while a patient is on site. The time to enroll a patient has been reduced from an average of 56 days to nine.

The top five medications currently prescribed through Church Health’s PAP treat Type I and II diabetes and airway disease. These medications enable our neighbors to manage their blood sugar levels and breathe easier, improving their quality of life.

Our patients can live without the burden of choosing health care or quality living because of your investment in a healthier Memphis. Our shared belief in caring for others as we all like to be treated allows our neighbors to see brighter days. Support to Church Health and its resources allows others to experience life-altering care and reconnects those struggling with their health to quality wellness for a healthier Memphis.

David Jennings, MD, retired from Church Health after 20 years of practicing in our primary care clinic. Not only is he an excellent doctor, he has an incredibly kind and generous soul. His even-keeled demeanor never changes, which is a true gift. Pictured with Dr. Jennings (right) is patient Pep Peppers.

Church Health's physical rehabilitation clinic saw a 32 percent increase in FY 22 with 4,281 patient visits. That's why our exceptional physical therapy team at Church Health is great at what they do. They keep us moving.

Church Health has earned a 2022 Gold Rating from the NAFC Quality Standards Program

In May 2022 we earned a Gold Rating from the National Association of Free & Charitable Clinics (NAFC) Quality Standards Program. This top rating highlights our organization's dedication to providing quality health care. We are honored to receive this rating for the whole-person care we provide day after day for our friends and neighbors in Memphis.

More than 500 runners showed up for the 2022 Crosstown 10K & 5K! Thanks to all the staff & volunteers for doing so much to help make this event happen so smoothly. We especially appreciate all the support from our SPONSORS Paragon Bank, Pickering Firm, Inc., Ugly Mug Coffee and Crosstown Brewing Company—and to all 500+ of you who showed up to support Church Health; your generosity means the world to us and our patients.

A big thank you to the customer experience team at First Horizon Bank. As part of their team-building day, they lent their time to make delicious and nutritious meals for our patients. Thanks for helping us build a healthier Memphis.

In honor of the late Lois Ruleman, the longest-serving volunteer for Church Health, an art space has been created in the primary care clinic waiting room where she faithfully served. The first show in the Lois Estes Ruleman Gallery of Art was installed in September 2021 featuring photographs from Dr. Tom Gettelfinger (pictured)—an artist and long-time medical volunteer.

On the first Tuesday of each month, a rotating panel of musicians, clergy and thought leaders meet in the Green Room at Crosstown Concourse to sing, share stories and find community. We are grateful for all our past and present panelists including Rabbi Micah Greenstein, Kirk Whalum, Rev. Dr. Lillian Lammers and more.
