Kitimat's heavy rainfall keeps plants

By ANN DUNSMUIR
Herald staff writer

At last - someone has found something good to say about Kitimat's heavy rainfall.

Dr. Clancy Gordon, an expert on plant diseases, told a sparse audience at Riverview Lodge Tuesday that a plentiful water supply helps trees survive the effect of fluoride pollution.

Gordon, director of environmental studies at the University of Montana, has conducted surveys of damage of vegetation near aluminum smelters in the U.S., Germany and Canada.

In September, 1976, at the request of the Canadian Association of Smelter and Allied Workers Local 1, Gordon collected samples of vegetation in the Kitimat area.

Pollution is always bad news, but compared to damage near some other smelters Kitimat has been lucky. The same weather that leaves Kitimat residents looking pallid gives trees an edge in the fight against pollutants.

Loss of vegetation near smelters is greater when trees must also fight the effects of drought.

"In dry areas, damage is more severe due to the double stress of drought and fluoride," Gordon said.

He described damage caused by one aluminum plant which is located in an area devoted to orchards. Growers had to give up apricot crops entirely - the trees proved highly susceptible to fluoride - and now lose 40 to 50 percent of their cherry crops as well.

Orchard owners took the aluminum company to court and collected.

"The Italcop plant near Bellingham Wash. had to pay $3 million in damages to farmers," Gordon said. The company then spent $12 million in cleaning up their act.

"In all cases to date government agencies have never made the companies clean up pollution," Gordon said. "It has always been the result of action by people being damaged by fluoride emission."

He pointed out that 80 percent of fluorides released will be taken in by plants.

"Fortunately for Kitimat vegetable growers the plume of emissions from the smelter doesn't get to town too often," he said.

Plants grown in local back yard gardens tested at about three to four parts per million - not high, but higher than normal.

He said that his research also showed excessive levels of sulfur emissions mostly from the Eurocan pulp mill, in plants in the area. "If Kitimat becomes an oil port, the combination of oil, fluoride and sulphur could result in a real disaster," Gordon said.

"Kitimat Mountain will die over and over again unless the plant is cleaned up," he said, meaning vegetation is being constantly killed by the emissions and growing back.

Gordon illustrated his talk with slides showing damage to vegetation, domestic animals and wildlife near aluminum smelters.

Snowshoe hares near a plant at Long Harbor, Nfld., show excessive bone growth with fluoride levels as high as 12,000 parts per million compared to the normal rate for animals of 200 parts per million.

"The Canadian government should be doing studies in the Kitimat area," Gordon said, "especially on animals because the effects are cumulative as you move up the food chain."

He said he had found less damage to vegetation this year than last. "It all depends on the weather," Gordon said.

Air emissions of fluorides eventually soak into the soil where the chemical becomes bound up, he said and becomes harmless. Not nearly enough fluorides leak into the water to cause significant water pollution.

Local animals with high fluoride concentration have symptoms that include teeth stained brown with the nerves exposed making it painful to drink cold water. Animals that don't drink can't flush out the fluorides so the concentration increases.

Fluoride emissions from the Alcan mill in the background may damage vegetation in the surrounding area, but these kids don't seem to think the problem's very serious. They're busy finding all sorts of aquatic life in nearby tide pools.

Cabinet inept, says Liberal

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal back-bencher Hal Herbert has complained to Prime Minister Trudeau that Trudeau's cabinet is inept and contributes to the division of Canada's two linguistic groups.

"In the past years we have seen many of the strong men in your government leave for various reasons and little or no effort has been made to find competent replacements," the MP for the Montreal area riding of Vaudeville said in a letter to Trudeau. The letter, dated Sept. 19, was released today.

"What remains is surely the weakest federal cabinet since prior to the war years.

"Undoubtedly, it is a cabinet ready to say yes but it is not a group that can inspire this nation in a time of its deepest trouble."

Herbert, a frequent critic of his own party, said that many federal government actions have "divided our two cultures and encouraged the cry for greater provincial autonomy."

The federal government stopped a program to move public servants to Quebec from Ottawa because of the province's restrictions on enrolment in English schools. But it "gave no prior thought to the plight of francophone public servants" being transferred to Charlottetown from Ottawa.

'Unproven allegations' U.S. money man quits

Write off BCR debts — Bennett

VICTORIA (CP) — Former premier W. A. C. Bennett said today the current Social Credit government will have to tack to square one if it wants to get the financially-troubled British Columbia Railway back on the track to economic recovery.

"They have to do what we did in the beginning," Bennett said in a telephone interview from his home in Kelowna.

"In 1954, we had to write off all losses, all the debts — they'll have to do it again in the same way."

The balance sheet for the crown-owned BCR shows the railway's accumulated deficit totalled $197.7 million in 1976.

A royal commission now probing the railway's affairs has been told that BCR's current loss figures are about $125,000 a day.

WON'T RESPOND

Bennett, who recently submitted a written report to the commission blaming most of BCR's ills on the railway's management, refused to respond to criticism from BCR lawyer Darrell Roberts.

Earlier this week, Roberts attacked the former Social Credit premier for his submission, saying that most of the railway's problems stemmed from the losing propositions launched by the W. A. C. Bennett term in office.

Bennett, whose son bill now is premier, said his written submission to the commission still stands.

"Read that my friend," he said. "I put it out in black and white."

In his report, Bennett attacked the post-1972 BCR

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter announced Wednesday he has accepted the resignation of Bert Lance as director of the office of management and budget.

Carter said the constant controversy creates doubt about the integrity of the White House and the government. He said those doubts are unjustified. Carter said he believes many of Lance's problems stemmed from "the extraordinary standards that we have tried to set in government," and from the expectations raised by pledges made during the presidential campaign.

"I think it was a courageous and also a patriotic gesture on Bert's part to resign," Carter said.

The president said it was hard for him to say whether he might have sought the resignation had Lance not volunteered it. Carter also said he doesn't know how much his own credibility might have suffered as a result of the Lance case.

"I would guess to some degree an unpleasant situation like this would be damaging somewhat, but I just have to accept that," he said.

In a letter to Carter, read by the president on national television, Lance cited "the amount of controversy and the continuing nature of it" over his private banking practices and personal finances.

Lance said he felt his name had been cleared and that "my conscience is clear," but "I desire to return to my native state of Georgia."

He said he was convinced he could continue to be an effective budget director but "because of the amount of controversy and the continuing nature of it I have decided to submit my resignation as director of OMB."

Carter said he accepted the resignation "with the greatest sense of regret and sorrow" and insisted that his friend has done no wrong.

SAYS DECISION CORRECT

Carter said Lance told him Tuesday that he planned to quit the administration. The president said he believed Lance made the correct decision.

"Bert Lance is my friend," Carter told the news conference. "I know him personally as well as if he was my own brother. I know him without any doubt in my mind to be a good and honorable man."

Carter, who delayed the news conference by two hours so Lance could draft his letter of resignation with the help of lawyer Clark Clifford, said he believes the budget director succeeded in clearing his name before stepping aside.

The president referred to "against Mr. Lance" and added:

"I think he proved that our system of government works because when he was given a chance to testify on his own behalf he was able to clear his name."

Oil firms test laws

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Eight major oil companies and shippers have filed suit in federal court here, challenging the constitutionality of Alaska's new tanker safety standards, state officials disclosed here Wednesday.

The suit filed last Friday in U.S. district court in Anchorage asked for a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against enforcement of the regulations pending a final decision on the constitutional challenge.

Without court intervention, the suit said the oil companies and shippers who are transporting Prudhoe Bay oil from the trans-Alaska pipeline terminal at Valdez will suffer "great and immediate irreparable injury."

No hearing date has been set on the complaint.

The suit alleged that the Alaska tanker safety standards, which went into effect last Friday, and the 1976 laws upon which they were based are illegal because they violate the federal supremacy, due process and commerce clauses of the U.S. Constitution.

Similar Washington state laws and regulations have been struck down as unconstitutional by a three-judge panel, and the case currently is on appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Alaska Commissioner of Conservation Ernest Mueller said, however, that the state would "fight as hard as it can to insure the validity of this law is upheld."

But Mueller noted that "many of not most of the vessels carrying Alaska oil meet almost all of the requirements" of the acts and regulations in question.

Rain could damage milk

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — A radioactive cloud from a nuclear detonation in China moved toward farm lands in the U.S. Midwest on Wednesday.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency warned that radioactive debris in rain could contaminate the milk of dairy herds by affecting the grass they eat. Rain is forecast in the area.

The agency said its air monitoring stations are taking daily measurements to determine the extent of the fallout, from a Sept. 17 explosion, and it plans to begin testing milk samples next week.

It said the radioactive levels of the cloud will weaken as the debris deteriorates. The air mass is expected to move into the North Atlantic on Saturday, heading toward Europe.

Selective growth

Conservator society the key to licking inflation

By ALEX BINKLEY
OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian work practices and lifestyles have to change to make better use of natural resources and to protect the environment, but that does not mean that government bureaucracies have to grow, Josef Kates, chairman of the Science Council of Canada, said Wednesday.

"A conservator society can lean as much on individual initiative as does the consumer society," Kates said at a news conference for the unveiling of a council report on actions needed to move Canada into conservator practices.

"I would deplore any implication that what is proposed is an increase in Canadian bureaucracies," he said. "We have enough of that already."

Increasingly costly and dwindling natural resources plus serious concern about the environment should tell the public and governments that the wasteful ways of a consumer society should be changed, the report says.

Ran Ide, one of the report's authors, said a heavy price tag could be attached to undue delay in changing economic habits.

However, he said he feared Canada will be slow in changing "while the rest of the world becomes more sophisticated about the inter-relationship of resources, energy and human needs. If we neglect forces now in action in the world, our competitive position will worsen."

Ursula Franklin, chairman of the council committee that prepared the report, said adopting a conservatorist lifestyle "isn't a sacrifice but an act of sanity."

Switching to a conservator society would help break the twin economic nightmares of unemployment and inflation which are gripping Western countries, she said.

Ide said many people fear a conservator society would mean a no-growth economy.

"We're really not in favor of no-growth but we are in favor of selective growth. There are all sorts of opportunities which we have outlined in the report."

The report calls on government to remove legislative roadblocks to energy saving, such as insurance policies which hinder use of car pools for commuters. Homeowners who want to use solar-heating equipment need to have their access to sunlight protected by law from highrise buildings.

Promoting staggered work hours would reduce rush hours in cities and also the need for public transit to have excess equipment to handle peak periods, the report said.

More funds should be directed into research and development of alternate energy sources and equipment.

Home insulation programs need to be promoted, the report said, noting that if 70 per cent of Canadian homes are insulated during the next 12 years, the energy equivalent of 40 million barrels of oil can be saved annually.

In Brief

Gas discovered

CALGARY (CP) — Some preliminary tests are being conducted at three wildcat wells in the Beaufort Sea, a spokesman for Dome Petroleum Ltd. said Wednesday.

The spokesman said natural gas had been encountered at all three wells being drilled by Canadian Marine Drilling Ltd. (Canmar).

The spokesman said more information will be released when available, probably within a few days.

The spokesman said complete testing to determine the size of the gas finds content and size will not be done until the wells have been drilled to their target depths.

The gas finds are understood to have been made within the last few days at depths ranging from 7,000 feet to 8,000 feet beneath the Beaufort Sea floor.

Uranium find

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Government geologists have found significant concentrations of uranium in sediment samples from a series of springs and streams about 50 miles northwest of Fairbanks, United States Bureau of Mines officials disclosed here Wednesday.

John Mulligan of the bureau's field operations center here said the samples came from within a 20-square-mile area near Mount Prindle and the headwaters of Little Champion Creek.

The area falls within the Carter administration's proposed Beaver Creek National Wild and Scenic River designation. But under the administration proposal, mining could be allowed in the area.

The uranium concentrations were discovered during a Bureau of Land Management study of the region, conducted to assess the mineral potential of land proposed for withdrawal under various lands recommendations.

A report on the discovery said up to 400 parts per million of uranium were found in stream sediments and up to 570 parts per million in spring sediments in the area.

However, Mulligan stressed that the source of the uranium has not yet been located and warned that it "may or may not" prove to be a commercially workable deposit.

"It could be located deep underground or up the mountain side," Mulligan said.

Efforts to identify the source are now underway, Mulligan said.

Magazine obscene

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — A county court judge has found the September issue of Penthouse obscene, saying the magazine is "a dirty old book" that demeans and dehumanizes men and women.

Judge Chester Misener released his findings on the obscenity trial of the magazine late Wednesday, two weeks after prosecuting and defence lawyers had rested their cases.

In the written ruling, he ordered that 85,000 copies seized by police on Aug. 9 from InterCity News Co. of nearby Mississauga—distributor of Penthouse for the Toronto area—be forfeited to the attorney-general for disposal. The copies have a market value of $170,000.

The judge found that virtually all photographic spreads in the issue exceeded community standards of obscenity, including the Penthouse Forum letters to the editor, Xaviera Hollander's advice column and a feature called Couples, written by a doctor.

"What this magazine advocates is a sexual orgy of infinite variety and exhausting proportions," the judge wrote.

Lang travelling

SINGAPORE Reuter - Canadian Transport Minister Otto Lang arrived here today for a two-day official visit.

Lang will hold talks with Communications Minister Ong Teng Cheong Thursday before touring Singapore Harbor, the fourth largest in the world.

Lang, who is leading a team of Canadian officials, will receive an official briefing on Singapore plans to convert a former British air base here into a new civilian airport.

To be built at a cost of $570 million, the new airport will be almost five times larger than the existing Paya Lebar airport.

Lang, who is also the minister responsible for the Canadian Wheat Board, will later visit a big flour mill here for discussions with officials associated with the grain trade.

He told a news conference before leaving Canberra for Singapore earlier today that formal negotiations on a new wheat agreement would begin next year.

A new agreement would benefit both producers and consumers by giving producers a decent standard of living and ensuring permanent supplies for the consumer, he said.

Lang and his delegation will leave Friday for Long Kong, China and Japan. He will be the first Canadian minister to meet China's new leaders.

Prisoner stays

BONN (AP) - West Germany has informed Italy's ambassador to Bonn that it refuses to extradite Herbert Kappler, the Second World War Gestapo chief in Rome who escaped from an Italian prison hospital, a government spokesman said today.

Kappler, a former SS colonel, was serving a life sentence for ordering the wartime execution of more than 300 Italian civilians. He escaped last month.

The spokesman said Italian Ambassador Corrado Orlandi-Contucci was advised Tuesday that the Bonn government cannot meet Italy's request for his return because the West German constitution prohibits extradition of a German citizen to foreign courts.

Marathon talker keeps pounding

VICTORIA (CP) — Rosemary Brown continued her filibuster Wednesday in the British Columbia legislature, saying thousands of Vancouverites backed her every word.

By the time the house adjourned its afternoon sitting, Brown (NDP-Vancouver-Burrard) had spoken for just under seven hours in her attempts to delay passage of Bill 65, the Community Resources Boards Amendment Act, 1977, which would dismantle the Vancouver Resources Board.

She said Monday when she started the speech that she had enough material to continue for up to 100 hours, but wasn't sure whether she had the stamina to last that long.

However, she said Wednesday she will certainly speak for the remainder of this week and intends to continue the filibuster next week for as long as it takes to convince Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm to withdraw the bill.

NOT DISCOURAGED

She said she wasn't discouraged, and would continue trying to buck the odds, just as she did during her nearly-successful campaign for the leadership of the national New Democratic party.

Brown sported a black T-shirt during Wednesday's speech, which had "Kill Bill 65" written in white letters across its front.

About a dozen spectators in the public galleries wore similar T-shirts.

"This is not a political slogan, surely," Brown said of her attire. "This is a hope, and a wish . . . for a miracle."

Before her speech, Brown was presented with a bouquet of flowers from Gary Lauk (NDP-Vancouver Centre), who said it came from one of her backers. Brown kept the bouquet at her desk during the speech.

SHOULD SEND THORNS

Lauk suggested that "Rosemary can keep the roses, but send the thorns to Vander Zalm."

Brown, speaking in a soft and deliberate voice, restated her previous arguments that the dissolution of the VRB would be an immoral act, one that would greatly

Bennett splicing deals

By CHARLES LA VERTU BONN, West Germany (CP) Premier Bill Bennett of British Columbia said Tuesday that the economic mission he is currently leading through Europe is like a computer dating service which would link European countries with B.C. companies.

Bennett said he foresees an association between coal companies to market B.C.'s metallurgical or develop a steel industry in the province.

Germany and Japan may no longer be able to handle some of the labor or wage requirements of steel manufacturing, Bennett said, and "these are the areas in which we are looking: marketing of coal and more processing."

Bennett said that the main follow-up to the economic mission will be "with us involving our private sector companies with private sector companies here."

"We already have a number of associations that we intend to put in touch with each other because of their scope and size."

"There are some logical partnerships, a very logical pairing — it's like computer dating — and we feel the government can make these sort of arrangements."

The premier said his government will also follow up the associations "to make sure the private companies carry out the discussions."

Claims meeting cancelled

A meeting between GC and rnrars kbt a r leaders and government officials scheduled for this Monday in Kispiox Village has been cancelled because of the federal cabinet shuffle.

Land claims co-ordinator for the seven native bands Neil Sterritt said he had been informed by Hugh Falkner's office that the newly appointed minister of Indian Affairs would not attend the meeting which had been set up by former Indian Affairs Minister Warren Allmand.

"We're very disappointed," Sterritt said, but added that the cancellation was understandable in light of the fact the Falkner is unfamiliar with the and claim negotiations of northern B.C. natives.

Tribal council members are proceeding with plans to set up another meeting with Falkner, hopefully by the beginning of November, Sterritt said.

Leaders of the seven bands from the Upper Skeena and lower Bulkley Valley rivers will go ahead with a scheduled meeting with Brian Hartley, negotiator for the office of native claims of the department of Indian Affairs on Monday.

The cancelled meeting was to have been the first step in land claim negotiations for the Gitksan-Carrier tribes involving an aboriginal claim of 20,500 square miles from outside Cedarvale to the head water of the Skeena River.

Negotiations will involve about 4,500 native people in that area from the villages of Kitwanga, Kitseguicia, Kispiox, Glen Vowell, Gitanmaax, Moricetown and Hagwilget.

Weather blamed

FORT NELSON, B.C. (CP) — A coroner's jury Tuesday found that the United States pilots of two private airplanes that crashed 160 kilometres south of here July 11 killing eight people were negligent by flying in bad weather.

Coroner Jim Thompson said evidence during the 3 1/2 hour inquest showed that the weather was so bad July 11 that cloud cover came down to tree top level.

Provincial court proceedings On the docket

A terrace man was fined $100 in Terrace provincial court yesterday after pleading guilty to a charge of prowling.

The woman who answered refused to let him in and shortly after found that a screen had been removed from a window.

She locked herself in the bathroom until the morning.

Desjardins admitted to having removed the screen, but gave no reason for doing so except that he had been drinking.

Michael McNaughton was fined $5 for being in possession of alcohol when underage.

McNaughton, 17, was discovered by police in a parking lot at Furlong Bay with a case of beer.

IWA allies with NDP to restore power

VANCOUVER (CP) — The International Woodworkers of America voted Tuesday to launch a political action program aimed at restoring a New Democratic Party government in British Columbia.

elimination of the present $4 a day hospital co-insurance fee charged to all patients; and the takeover of the B.C. Telephone Co. by the provincial government.

Earlier, delegates were addressed by Jean Bedard, president of the IWA's regional council No. 2 Eastern Canada.

Delegates to the annual convention of the Western Canadian Regional Council No. 1 approved the program after several speakers admitted that many of the union's members support other political parties in both provincial and federal elections.

But G.A. Stoney, president of Local 1-357, who proposed establishing the program, said that 95 percent of all the resolutions currently before the convention would be unnecessary "if the New Democratic Party was in power today."

His motion urged the IWA to "reaffirm its all out support for the NDP" and urged all union locals to affiliate to the party. The motion also called for a political action program to be started as soon as possible "to co-ordinate the activities of all union locals."

The delegates also approved resolutions calling for:

- a reduction in the rate of provincial sales tax to five percent from the present seven per cent;
- all workers to be allowed an income tax allowance for travel expenses incurred in getting to and from their jobs;
- support for the Canadian Labor Congress in its refusal to agree to the federal proposed program of voluntary controls;
- no discrimination against workers on the basis of race, creed, sex, religion or political belief in the Quebec issue.

"You have before you resolutions which could clearly indicate where you stand," he said.

GREAT CONTRIBUTION He mentioned one resolution which calls on B.C., together with Quebec, to ensure reasonable opportunity for educational instruction in either French or English to those who desire it.

"If all the provinces agreed to this principle, you will have made a great contribution in adapting our federation to our times."

Gauthier said he hoped the future of Canada wasn't to have French spoken in Quebec and English spoken in the rest of the country.

"If it is, I'll have no part of it," he said. "I want to feel at home everywhere in Canada."

"I am a Canadian and the Canadian society will, like all other societies in the world, be judged by history by the way it treats its minorities, be they racial, linguistic, social or economic."

One resolution before the UBCM says bilingualism should be wholly voluntary. However, Gauthier said some motivation, in the form of mandatory bilingualism, is desirable.

"Universities, at least at the undergraduate level, should insist on some knowledge of the second official language," he said.

Candidates to be residents

VERNON, B.C. (CP) — Delegates at the Union of British Columbia Municipalities' convention Wednesday approved a policy statement calling for local residency as the sole qualification for holding locally elected office.

By a 198 to 173 margin, delegates voted that property-owners non-resident in a community be denied the right to run for office.

Alderman Harry Rankin of Vancouver said he was pleased the UBCM had chosen to remove ownership of property "as the sole basis for running for office."

"I think it recognizes the problem of the urban reality."

Rankin said the policy, which will be forwarded for consideration by the provincial government, prevents a person who lives in Burnaby and owns a business in Vancouver from running in Vancouver where his interests might be in conflict with those on local residents.

MOTION APPROVED

However the convention decided that property ownership was sufficient qualification to allow a person to vote in a community.

MOVE REJECTED

Delegates rejected an amendment to another policy statement that would have denied a vote to those owning property but not living in a community, then defeated a motion allowing voters to vote in only one municipality.

Jim Campbell of Satuma Island said the votes of non-residents usually work against improved services for locals.

"Summer visitors and those who own summer camps come to vote against any move to increase taxes," he said.

Alderman George Turner of Valemount in east-central B.C. said property-owning qualifications allow some people to run all over the province.

"I could be mayor of three of four communities," he said, "as long as they didn't have meetings on the same nights."

"ONE MAN, ONE VOTE"

But the majority of delegates agreed with Marilyn Baker of North Vancouver district as they defeated the amendment that would have supported removing the vote from non-resident property owners.

"I don't feel that when we have taxpayers we shouldn't remove from them the right to vote," she said.

However Baker moved an amendment that would have made it UBCM policy to support the restriction of each voter to one voters' list.

Said Ian Case of Saanich, supporting the motion: "It's a simple matter of whether we believe in one man, one vote."

However, the delegates, by a margin of 177-148, supported the rights of a property owner to vote in the community where he owns property, whether or not he is a full-time resident.

All policy statements passed by the UBCM will be forwarded to the provincial government

UBCM—Gf,obk VERNON, B.C. (CP) — The Canadian constitution should be rejuvenated to include a declaration of fundamental human rights and liberties. Jean-Robert Gauthier, parliamentary secretary to federal Urban Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet, said Wednesday.

"Each province should also adopt a charter which would respect the rights and liberties of its linguistic minorities and be liberal in their support towards them," he said.

Gauthier, MP for Ottawa-Vanier, made his remarks during a speech, made entirely in English, to the annual convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities (UBCM).

Gauthier, noting that the delegates will consider three resolutions on national unity, urged the UBCM to provide leadership on the Role of districts to be studied

VERNON, B.C. (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis Wednesday announced the formation of a five-member committee that will examine the role of regional districts in British Columbia.

Curtis said the committee would include Phil Farmer of Kaledon, Rendina Hamilton of Penticton, Alfred Hood of Victoria, Daphne Phillips of Dawson Creek and Ron Thompson of Galiano Island.

"Each member of the committee brings extensive knowledge and background in local government or regional districts," Curtis told delegates attending the annual convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities.

Farmer served eight years as chairman of the Okanagan-Similkameen regional district while Hamilton is past president of the B.C. School Trustees Association. Hood was a Victoria alderman for five years, Phillips was a Dawson Creek alderman for 18 years and Thompson was Vancouver's city clerk for 28 years.

Curtis said the committee will begin its study next month.

There are 28 regional districts in the province, set up under legislation introduced by the Social Credit government in 1967.

VIPS TO MEET DELEGATES

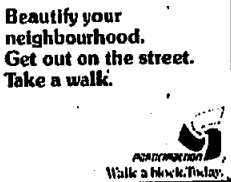

VERNON, B.C. (CP) — Representatives of 20 federal and provincial government departments are on hand to meet with delegates to the annual convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities UBCM, union president Pat Duke of Lumby said today.

Duke said the number of government departments attending this year's convention, which started today, is up slightly from last year.

"A lot of individual municipalities have their own problems that don't come up on the floor," said Duke, "and this gives them a chance to meet without the expense of going to Victoria."

The largest contingent is one from the ministry of municipal affairs who will have at least 20 senior staff persons available for meetings with the delegates. Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis is also scheduled to attend the three-day conference.

Five-year plans needed to stabilize growth

VERNON, B.C. (CP) — Local governments should put more emphasis on five-year capital planning, Jim Stuart, chairman of the Municipal Finance Authority (MFA) of British Columbia, said Wednesday.

Stuart, a Kelowna alderman and chairman of the Central Okanagan Regional District, told delegates attending the Union of B.C. Municipalities' convention that the MFA has raised $364.4 million since its first issue in 1971, and has just received approval to raise another $44.5 million.

The MFA borrows capital funds on behalf of municipalities and regional districts, he explained.

He said five-year capital planning would help ease the concerns of national and international investors.

"More emphasis on a five-year capital planning would not only make our borrowing job a bit easier, it also makes good sense insofar as the municipality or regional district itself is concerned."

The will to change

We dare say most Canadians would gladly participate in the change to a conservator society if the government was truly committed to such a move.

But it isn't. Because changing this nation from a bunch of wasteful consumers to citizens who value their environment and are aware of the earth's finite resources isn't going to be accomplished by federal programs which subsidize insulation of use taxes to penalize the purchase of a gallon of gas. That isn't even a start.

The changes that are necessary, according to the Science Council of Canada's report on today's front page, involve fundamental modifications at the grass roots. That means public meetings in community halls in which citizens trade information on how their regions work - what resources they have and how they could be used most efficiently.

It means citizens discussing their problems with government representatives and reaching decisions with the power to act. Local people know best how their communities work and where waste can be eliminated. Government representatives should be there to supply the money and the technical knowledge.

Small changes would come out of meetings like these, but their effect would be massive if reflected in every community in the country. And the biggest change issuing from such meetings would be the positive feeling a community would get by taking its future into its own hands.

What we don't need is the government telling us what to do. What we do need is the will to change. Together, we have the answers and we should be telling the government.

News isn't worse just more of it

It's hard to quarrel publicly with someone you respect. And Dr. Viktor Frankl has won respect around the world. He is to psychiatry today what Freud and Jung used to be; from the horror of his experiences in Nazi extermination camps, he developed a new school of psychiatry called Logotherapy, based on each person's need to find meaning to life.

But recently Dr. Frankl stated, in Toronto, that the world is getting worse, not better.

"In former times," he said, "our activity was based on optimism... that there is something like automatic progress, and that all the evils will sooner or later be done away with. But this has now been shown to be a complete illusion. There is no automatic progress but rather an automatic regression in which things keep getting worse."

He suggests that only pessimism—realistic awareness of how bad the world is—offers a creative minority the will to fight on. That's Biblical and theological concept too—Abrahamic minorities who persevere with the truth while society self-destructs.

Today, the news seem to justify pessimism. Dictators like Idi Amin seize headlines and hostages, while British democracy (according to conservative economist Milton Friedman) has a 50-50 chance of being dead in five years. But the news now includes many things it used to ignore. War massacres like My Lai have happened before. But no one cared about them. Now they get reported, and for the first time a people repudiated their own armies.

Political dirty tricks were around before Watergate. But this time, a nation's moral indignation forced a president to resign.

When Biafrans were starving a few years ago, people all over the world helped them. A century earlier when the Irish were starving, neither their government in Westminster nor their neighbor in England bothered caring. Greece and Spain have both moved from dictatorships to free elections recently. And while China and much of Africa and Asia may not practice Canadian-style democracy, at least their people can now have influence on national policy than they could under their tyrannical warlords of former centuries.

Maybe the world isn't perfect, Dr. Frankl. But it's not as cruel and callous as it used to be. And more people than ever before know what's going on in Canada and elsewhere—and care about it, and are trying to improve it. Surlay that's grounds for optimism, not pessimism. United Church.

Gentle bouncer never gets into fights

TORONTO (CP)- Tom Lennox, 30, former bouncer at the rowdy Jarvis House hotel bar and part-owner of the new Ports of Call bar, says he never had a fight at the Jarvis House.

The six foot, five inch college graduate said, "As long as I was the doorman at the Jarvis House I never hurt anyone. I have never even hit anyone yet. There's always the chance you might kill someone."

"Most people I can just pick up. Besides, most of the rowdy people a houseman gets involved with are drunk, and you shouldn't take advantage of someone who's drunk." He said the bar room fight is not the John Wayne brawl you see in the movies. Most of the disturbances are over in 30 seconds. The important thing is to move quickly and get between the two parties who are having an argument.

"I remember one time the barmen were trying to eject some guy who was standing there in a karate stance, moving around making motions with his hands. 'What the hell's going on' I said, rushing up. Then I see this weird guy standing there and I tell him, 'All right, cut it out before somebody gets hurt.' So he says, 'OK' and he walks out."

Lennox said one of the problems a bouncer has is that "some people have the misconception that a public drinking house means it belongs to the public and they can do anything they want."

He said he would talk to trouble-makers first, explain that they had to behave, but if that failed he had to use physical force such as "laying hands on them and removing them bodily."

A good barman, he said, can "feel the tempo of a room just by walking through it."

"There are basically two types of people. One guy goes into a bar and he drinks and becomes mellow and happy. The other type becomes sullen because he's not getting the girl or he has a problem at work. These are the guys who give you problems. If you see them getting upset, you have to keep an eye on them."

Lennox said he is in the people business. "It's not a captive environment by any means. What you're doing is bringing people together so they expose themselves to others, whether by talking with other people or standing there and trying to look beautiful. The whole idea of this business is to allow each individual to express himself personally without disrupting anyone else. Violence should never enter into it."

Brains rather than brawn have brought Lennox a long way from the Jarvis House. In January, 1976, he joined three other young men in forming their own company, Consortina, Inc.

A year later, acting as a subsidiary of the giant mining concern, Conwest Exploration Co. of Toronto, they purchased the Ports for $3 million, had it resigned and redecorated and opened it last spring as a combination of restaurants and a bar.

Consortina has purchased three other bars and two restaurants.

Public service strikes the main issue

BY RICHARD JACKSON

Ottawa—Unless the chronic crisis in Quebec becomes explosive, unemployment runs widely out of control, or terminal illness threatens the econo economy and the dollar, strikes in the public service will erupt as the issue for the Fall session of Parliament.

And if an election later should intervene, upsetting Parliament's scheduled nine-month sitting, the strike could be one of the two big issues—national unity the other—of the campaign.

Stripped of all the rhetoric and pared down to the basics, the issue—in Parliament or in an election campaign—will be: who runs the country, the government or the public service unions?

In London, two governments in turn at Westminster, the Conservatives and Labor, have faced the same issue and question, and backed off.

So "over 'ome," The British disease threatens to rage on.

When former Prime Minister Pearson, in his innocence—judging the new, younger and more militant public service by his own lifetime career as a civil servant—promised Parliament and the people that government employees were "just too responsible" to exercise the right to strike that he was giving them, he simply didn't know the score.

Since then the public service has come to regard striking as not only its right, but its obligation to keep submissive governments on their knees and taxpayers at their mercy.

There is talk in the Cabinet—and a split among the ministers—about doing something to curb the right to strike, at least in the essential services, when Public Service Staff Relations Act comes up for revision this next session of Parliament.

And not a moment too soon. For although it is improbable—it is definitely not impossible that rail, air and postal workers will all be "out" by year-end.

They know their strength. They are aware that 90 percent of the million and a half of them across the country are unionized.

And they're militant. Parliament has only to legislate them back to work? Like it recently did with the Air Traffic Controllers, and then watched them defy the law in spite, if not in fact, by a slow-down inconveniencing thousands.

What's more, they're ready to defy Parliament. Defy not merely back-to-work legislation but any attempt to curb the "right" to strike.

Bill Findlay, president of the usually reasonable Letter Carriers Union, swears "nothing" Parliament does ever will stop his people from striking when they feel "justified."

Jor Power, president of the Union of NATIONAL Defence Employees, is one record with the public threat that the government "will have one hell of a battle" if it attempt ampering with the public service specifics.

Finally, getting down to specifics union leaders, as a collective and protective group, warn the government that regardless of what sanctions Parliament may apply—fines or imprisonment—for defiance of legislation, there really is no defence against the wildcat strike.

So the battle is being joined on the question: who runs the country?

New plan for north

By JIM POLING

OTTAWA (CP) — Hugh Faulkner, the new northern development minister, said Wednesday he will try to introduce a different concept of development to the North.

It will involve putting environmental issues into the development planning process, rather than simply tagging them on at the end, he said in an interview.

"I have no particular objection to development ... " Faulkner, who was named to the Indian affairs and northern development portfolio last Friday, said in an interview.

But planning only for development and facing the consequences later was a disastrous approach.

A problem with all development is that each sector pushes its own interests without anyone looking at the total picture, he said. As an example he cited urban areas, where transport, housing, industry and other sectors often developed separately. LOOK AT TOTAL.

"We have to start looking at the total community." Faulkner, a 44-year-old former Peterborough, Ont. teacher, takes over his new job under difficult circumstances.

His predecessor, Warren Allmand, was widely liked and respected by Indian groups, but was not admired by developers who felt he was too tough on development. Allmand's shift to another department has left some Indian groups suspicious that Faulkner has been appointed to put more emphasis on development than on Indian affairs.

Faulkner indicated that is not the case. "I think my attitude towards the Indians is best reflected by the work I did at the secretary of state. I'm very sympathetic to their cause. ..."

Elected to the Commons in 1965, Faulkner served as secretary of state from 1972 until 1976, when he was appointed minister of science and technology. As secretary of state he was responsible for many of the core financing programs Indian groups receive today.

"A lot of my thinking has been developed in consultations with them."

"I never appreciated the real value of education till the kids returned to school."

Business spotlight

Food magnate gets us both ways

TORONTO (CP)- V.J. Housez doesn't cry the blues because more Canadians are eating out these days.

But he said he wouldn't complain if everyone ate at home either.

As chief executive officer of Standard Brands Ltd., Montreal, he gets the business both ways.

Housez, who is also chairman of the Canadian Grocery Products Manufacturers Association, said in a recent interview that one of three meals is eaten outside the home in Canada. The ratio may eventually reach two of three.

One of the reasons why the increase in eating out is "not really a cloud on the horizon" for manufacturers is that the food they don't sell through retail chains will be sold through restaurants.

Another is that retail stores, in order to combat the trend to eating out, may require manufacturers to produce "convenience food" of high quality and nutritional value to win back customers.

He said two trends may develop - an increase in the number of meals eaten out and an increase in the number of high-cost, ready-to-eat dinners sold by retailers.

Grocery products constituted a $20 billion a year business and new trends in eating would help maintain the industry's five to seven percent annual growth rate.

Housez said that two or three years ago national brands produced by leading grocery manufacturers appeared to be suffering from falling market shares. This was because so-called house brands packaged for chain grocery stores began taking an increasing share of the business.

But that trend appears to have halted. "I don't say that house brands are falling out of favor, but they're at least stabilizing."

Some house brands had not been properly researched or were of lesser quality than national brands, he said, and this has been reflected in pricing and acceptance.

Housez said house brands are packaged by the leading manufacturers in competition with their own national brands but the manufacturers have never made a major commitment to them.

"We do not, for example, build new manufacturing facilities to produce house brands, we do use them, however, to fill in valleys in our own production."

Companies will duplicate a national brand for a house brand if the customer so specifies, he said. Housez also said that although the costs of transportation are rising, the Canadian food manufacturing industry will hold back on any major effort to decentralize its manufacturing operations.

While a manufacturer might find it appropriate to build a plant in New Brunswick or Alberta to save on transportation costs, he would not immediately receive the return on capital to justify the investment.

A Bureaucrat's Wink

by JIM SMITH

Q: How does a bureaucrat wink?

A: He opens one eye.

Q: Why doesn't a bureaucrat look out his office window in the morning?

A: Because he needs something to do in the afternoon.

And on. And on. You've heard your fill of bureaucrat jokes by now. Perhaps - after all, it's hard to resist the temptation - you've made up a few of your own. At the very least, you keep a supply of bureaucratic horror stories on hand to amuse your friends.

No one really likes a bureaucrat. For that matter, even the bureaucrats themselves don't like one another. But stop and think for a minute: where would society be without some career civil servants to make the tough decisions?

You see, for all its attractive features, democracy has one major flaw: it doesn't work.

That is, democracy doesn't work without the civil service. The politicians - who, it says on paper, should be running the country - are more concerned with getting elected and re-elected than with making the tough decisions that will have profound impact on the shape of society a decade or more from now. So the civil servants are left with the thankless job of ensuring that there will be a country held over for the next generation.

Consider, for a moment, the politicians' approach to the twin problems of unemployment and inflation. The politicians want to hand out more subsidies to firms which will buy more machinery and buildings (which, incidentally, would tie those firms to more consumption of energy). That's the way these problems have always been solved in the past and that's the way big business and big labour would like to see them solved today. Sure, this sort of policy will blow up in our faces in a few years' time but six or eight months is a long time to a politician.

They call this kind of piece-meal approach to planning "band-aiding". And it works - when the problems aren't very serious. But, as the Canadian Federation of Independent Business points out, when the wound is deep, band-aides alone won't do the job; only major surgery can provide a cure.

The bureaucrats - who aren't nearly as dumb as their popular image suggests - understand the limitations of band-aiding only too well; they know that they'll be around when the economy collapses in a few years' time. But, even though the bureaucrats are scrubbed and ready for surgery, they can't go into action without the politicians ready to wield the economic scalpel.

Too much bench time slows you down. Get active. Get in shape and put yourself in the clear.

Inside homer puts Cards over Expos

By GLENN COLE
MONTREAL (CP) — Lou Brock's second home run of the season—an inside-the-park hit with a runner aboard—capped a three-run outburst in the fourth inning and St. Louis Cardinals went on to defeat Montreal Expos 8-2 for a split of their National League baseball doubleheader Wednesday night.

In the opener, run-scoring doubles by Dave Cash and Warren Cromartie helped the Expos defeat the Cardinals 4-2.

In the second game, Montreal took a 1-0 lead in the first when Chris Speier tripled to the rightfield corner and scored on a throwing error by right fielder Dane Iorg.

But St. Louis, 1-7 at Olympic Stadium this year, tied the score in the second on Mike Tyson's RBI single to shallow centre.

They took a 3-1 lead in the third when Jerry Templeton tripled and scored on a base hit by Keith Hernandez while Hernandez eventually scored when Iorg grounded into a double play.

Tyson scored the fourth Cardinals' run on a wild pitch by loser Hal Dues, 1-1, in the fourth before Brock delivered his homer later in the inning, scoring behind winning pitcher Eric Rasmussen, 11-16.

Rasmussen reached on a fielder's choice when catcher Gary Carter fielded his bunt and threw it into centre field trying for a force on Tyson at second.

A two-run homer by Ted Simmons off reliever Fred Holdsworth in the seventh provided the other two Cardinal runs before Larry Parrish's sacrifice fly in the bottom of the inning produced Montreal's second run.

TOOK OPENER
 In the opener the Expos took a 1-0 lead in the first when Cash doubled, went to third on an infield out and scored when Cards' catcher Dave Rader threw the ball into centre field trying to thwart Andre Dawson's attempted steal.

Rader's sacrifice fly in the second and his first home run of the year in the fifth put the Cardinals ahead 2-1 before Cash collected his 40th double of the year to score Cromartie, who had singled and stolen second.

The Expos took the lead for good in the bottom of the sixth with a pair of runs off loser John Urrea, 7-5.

Jays shut out

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lee May cracked a two-run homer and Ross Grimsley pitched a four-hitter as Baltimore Orioles defeated Toronto Blue Jays 4-0 Wednesday night and continued their belated stretch drive for the American League East title.

Grimsley, who had lost three of his last four decisions, got Velez to ground into a double play after Doug Rader singled off the glove of third baseman Doug DeCinces to open the second.

Bowling then beat out a hit to second baseman Rich Dauer and Rick Cerone walked before Grimsley retired Dave McKay on a foul pop.

Velez and Bowling drew walks in the fourth with two out, but Cerone hit into a force play.

Byrd, looking for his first complete game in 16 starts, picked Eddie Murray off first base in the fourth after he followed May's homer with a single. Catcher Cerone also picked Dauer off first in the opening inning.

DeCinces hurt his right thumb while fielding Rader's hard grounder in the second and left the game after batting in the third.

Billy Smith, who drew the fourth walk off Byrd to open the inning, went to third on the play and scored on a wild pitch. Belanger came across on Al Bumby's sacrifice fly.

Grimsley, 14-9, allowed two infield hits in the second when he was aided by a double play. He issued a pair of two-out walks in the fourth and then retired 14 Blue Jays in a row before giving up singles to Doug Ault and Otto Velez in the ninth.

Sox sweep Yanks in two

BOSTON (AP) — George Scott snapped a 2-2 tie with his 33rd home run with two out in the sixth inning, then turned in a spectacular double play at first base to end the American League baseball game as Boston Red Sox edged New York Yankees 3-2 Wednesday night.

The victory enabled the Red Sox to sweep a two-game series and move to within 2½ games of the leading Yankees in the East Division. Boston trails New York by two games in the loss column with 11 games to play.

After the Yankees pulled into a 2-2 tie on Lou Piniella's two-out single in the sixth, Scott unloaded his first homer since Sept. 8 against starter Mike Torrez, 16-13, a line drive into the right-centre field bleachers.

Luis Tiano surrendered a homer to Piniella to open the fifth inning and then needed relief help from Jim Willoughby after Thurman Munson singled, Reggie Jackson walked and Chris Chambliss lined to centre, all in the sixth.

Munson, who took third after the catch of Chambliss' drive, attempted to score as Graig Nettles grounded to third baseman Butch Hobson. However, Munson was caught in a rundown for an easy out.

Piniella followed with a single, scoring Jackson, before Willoughby ended the uprising by getting Willie Randolph to ground out.

Relief ace Bill Campbell took over in the seventh and checked the Yankees on three hits the rest of the way. Willoughby was credited with his sixth win without a loss while Campbell posted his 28th save, tops in the AL.

Mickey Rivers singled in the Yankees' ninth, but Scott dove to his right to spear Roy White's line drive, then beat Rivers back to first for the game-ending double play.

Cubs shutout Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ray Burris and Bruce Sutter combined on a seven-hit shutout as Chicago Cubs defeated Philadelphia 2-0 Wednesday night and slowed the Phillies' pennant push.

The Phillies began play with an eight-game lead over Pittsburgh in baseball's National League East and a magic number of four, but Ivan DeJesus and Steve Ontiveros delivered run-scoring singles off Randy Lerch, 9-6, in the second and third innings.

With one out in the second, Lerch walked Mick Kelleher, Burris sacrificed and DeJesus singled the run home. Bill Buckner opened the third with a double, went to third on Gene Clines' single and scored on a single by Ontiveros.

The Cubs then turned matters over to Burris and Sutter, who held off several threats.

Burris, 14-15, lasted until the seventh when he yielded a single to Garry Maddox and walked Bob Boone after retiring the first two batters.

Record for Sixto

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixto Lezcano of Milwaukee Brewers hit the 3,430th homer of the year in the major leagues Wednesday night, breaking the all-time single season home run record.

Lezcano's homer surpassed the record of 3,429 set in the 1970 baseball season.

The Milwaukee outfielder hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the first inning of the Milwaukee-Seatt game.

Moments earlier, Baltimore first baseman Lee May hit a homer that tied the record.

Going into Wednesday's games, a total of 3,427 homers had been hit in the majors this year. Dave Rader of St. Louis hit the first homer of the day at Montreal to get within one of the record.

Punching boss brings lawsuit

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Former baseball manager Frank Lucchesi of Texas Rangers filed a civil damage suit Wednesday against Lenny Randle, the player who punched him in a spring exhibition game in March.

James E. Shepherd, Lucchesi's Orlando lawyer, filed the suit in circuit court here and said the papers would be served on Randle in New York, where the infielder plays for the National League's New York Mets.

Although Lucchesi is reported to be seeking $200,000 in damages, Shepherd said: "We are certainly not bound to that figure."

Under Florida law, a circuit court suit need only state that it is for damages in excess of $2,500.

"We will ask for a compensatory amount for my client's medical expenses and punitive damages, and that is a jury question," Shepherd said. "I don't know right now how much Randle is worth. The more he's worth, the higher the punitive damages can be."

Randle was playing for the Rangers under Lucchesi when the incident took place at Orlando's Tinker Field before an American League exhibition game on March 23 between the Rangers and Minnesota Twins.

BROKE CHEEKBONE
The 50-year-old Lucchesi suffered a fracture of the cheekbone, a cracked rib and other cuts and bruises. He was in hospital for five days.

Randle was suspended from baseball for a month, fined $10,000 and eventually waived out of the American League. He then signed a five-year contract with the Mets.

Randle entered a no contest plea in July to a reduced misdemeanor battery charge and was fined $1,000 by circuit judge Maurice Paul.

Lucchesi was replaced as Texas manager during the season after an inauspicious start.

The former manager has contended that the Randle attack was planned since Randle discussed the consequences in advance with his team-mates.

Randle, frustrated over losing his second base job, claimed he was repeatedly provoked by Lucchesi.

Drugged football player sues Argos, Riders

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Supreme Court was told Tuesday that symptoms of a former professional football player described himself as having been identical to those caused by large doses of amphetamines.

Joe Vijuk, who played for Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Football League from 1970 to 1972, said he suffered from grinding teeth, speech difficulties, depression, headaches, dizziness and fatigue.

Dr. Arthur Leblanc, associate professor of pharmacology at the University of Toronto, told the court these symptoms, when they occur together, are textbook examples of side effects to overdoses of "pep pills."

Vijuk is suing the owners of the two clubs and several individuals connected with them for alleged negligence. He said that "knew or ought to have known that such consumption would seriously and permanently disable" him.

Vijuk earlier testified he was taking between 30 and 300 milligrams of amphetamines before and during games. Dr. Leblanc said a normal therapeutic dose is five to 15 milligrams.

Dr. Leblanc said amphetamines were used by many athletes in the 1960s, but by the 1970s doctors knew they were dangerous.

He said the depression that comes from large doses of amphetamines can last for years.

Vijuk told Mr. Justice R. E. Holland he is still being treated and is required to take medication.

The case continues.

Giving speed is indefensible

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Walter J. Cassidy, a psychiatrist who treated former football player Joe Vijuk, testified Wednesday that the distribution of amphetamines to players by football teams was "indefensible."

Dr. Cassidy was testifying in a case in which Joe Vijuk, who played in the Canadian Football League for Ottawa Rough Riders in 1970 and for Toronto Argonauts in 1971 and 1972, is suing the clubs and some of their officials and physicians for getting him to use pep pills to increase his performance. Vijuk claims this has caused him physical and mental harm.

Dr. Cassidy told an Ontario Supreme Court judge that the system used by the Rough Riders in 1970 for supplying drugs to team members "could be described charitably as indefensible."

Seven will try for Canadian driving cup

QUEBEC CITY (CP) — Seven men will have a shot at the Canadian driving championship in Sunday's seventh and final race of the $400,000 Labatt Challenge Series, the windup to a weekend of auto racing through the streets of this old city.

Bill Brack of Toronto, the reigning champion, leads with 87 points but he is closely followed by Gilles Villeneuve of Berthierville, Que., the 1976 champion, with 84.

The other five drivers who still have a chance to finish on top are Keke Rosberg of Finland with 78 points, Price Cobb of Dallas, 73, Bobby Rahal of Wheaton, Ill., and Tom Gloy of Walnut Creek, Calif., with 68 each, and Kevin Cogan, another Californian, with 59.

A total of 155 points are awarded to the top 15 finishers in each race, with 30 for first place, 24 for second and 19 for third.

If the 41-year-old Brack wins Sunday's 80-lap race he's home free but if the 25-year-old Villeneuve finishes first he retains his title.

If Rosberg should win the final event and Villeneuve place second, they would be tied on points but the 28-year-old Finn would win the championship because he will have finished higher than Villeneuve in other races this year.

Lakevill Miss by a neck

NEW YORK (AP) — Lakeville Miss charged through the stretch Wednesday to score a neck victory over favored Stab in the 71st running of the $87,225 Matron Stakes in record time at Belmont Park.

The two-year-old daughter of Rainy Lake-Hew, ridden by Ruben Hernandez, was clocked in 1:22.45 for the seven furlongs test, a fifth of a second faster than the stakes record set by Alpine Lass in 1974 and equalled by Optimistic Gal in 1975.

It was the second stakes victory for the filly, owned by Randolph Weinsier of Great Neck, N.Y. Earlier in the meeting, Lakeville Miss won the Astarita.

Stab, owned by Mrs. Marcia W. Schott, appeared to have a winning edge deep in the stretch when Lakeville Miss closed the gap, drew alongside, ran head-and-head and grabbed the victory in the final stride.

Third money, 6 1/4 lengths back, went to Akita. Then in order came Northern Meteor, Caption, Miss Magnetic, Randy La Fabuleux, Sweeping View, Temperamental Pet and Cindy Gayle.

All carried 119 pounds. Lakeville Miss earned $49,335 and increased her winnings for year to $80,595.

The third choice in the betting with a crowd of 12,640, Lakeville Miss paid $7.20 $4.40 and $2.80. Stab returned $4.20 and $2.60 and Akita paid $2.40 to show.

Lakeville Miss, who didn't come to the races until June 30 when she could have been claimed for $25,000, registered her third triumph in five starts. She has a third and a fifth.

Stab had won the Arlington Lassie and Sorority and had finished second in the Spinaway.

Former champ may not drive in Formula I

TORONTO (CP) — Gilles Villeneuve of Berthierville, Que., the 1976 Canadian driving champion who was to have raced for Team McLaren in the Canadian Grand Prix at Mosport, Ont., Oct. 9, may be without a car for the Formula 1 race.

Villeneuve, 25, who made a spectacular debut in Formula 1 racing this year, had been expected to drive a McLaren in both the U.S. Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, N.Y., Oct. 2 and the Canadian a week later.

But Mosport officials have received a telegram from Team McLaren manager Teddy Mayer saying it is "highly unlikely" that Villeneuve will be in one of his cars at Mosport.

Also, Villeneuve is not among the 29 drivers entered at Watkins Glen.

Villeneuve was nosed out in a bid to drive for Team McLaren next year by Frenchman Patrick Tambay, currently leading the Can-Am series. Tambay was picked because he brings to the team a lucrative contract from a French oil company.

Mosport officials say there is a chance Villeneuve will be in another car for their race.

"I know he has talked to several teams," said Mosport vice-president Bernie Kamin. "But he refuses to drive for just anyone. He wants to be in a good car or not race at all." Kamin said Mosport officials had talked to Lotus one of the teams Villeneuve would consider - but Lotus wants a sponsor to put up $50,000 for the use of its car.

Several other teams, including the Wolf team owned by Montreal industrialist Walter Wolf, have expressed interest in Villeneuve but the issue is clouded by the driver's contract with McLaren.

There have been unconfirmed reports that McLaren offered Villeneuve $200,000 to sit out next year, with a guarantee of full-time employment in 1979.

Grand Prix teams are bringing 10 spare cars to North America, said Watkins Glen press director Bob Kelly, so it's possible Villeneuve will end up in one of them.

Ladies head for playoff after equal golf scores

The Skeena Valley Ladies Golf Club were treated to some unusual excitement of the weekend when Gloria Clarkson and Leona Wilcox finished the regulation 36-hole tournament with identical gross scores of 181.

The Ladies, accompanied by the gallery, headed into a playoff with Gloria winning on the second playoff hole. An exciting finish to a fine weekend of golf under very favorable weather conditions.

The tournament included two days of golfing with an excellent banquet and social on Saturday evening. There were three flights with gross and net winners in each flight along with several novelty prizes. Twenty-nine club members participated in the tournament and the following is a list of the winners.

Club Champion and overall score winner for the tournament Gloria Clarkson with a 181. Overall winner for low net, Georgie Morrison with a new score for 36 holes of 134.

Championship Flight: 1st gross, Gloria Clarkson. 2nd gross, Leona Wilcox. 1st net, Marilyn Davies. 2nd net, Jean Sandover-Sly.

First Flight: 1st gross, Doreen Hill. 2nd gross,

Sharon Brewerton. 1st net, Georgie Morrison. 2nd net, Bonnie Shaw.

Second Flight: 1st gross, Gail Sharples. 2nd gross, Donna Graf. 1st net, Cathy Hansford. 2nd net, Ann Carmichael.

Low putts on Saturday's play went to Marilyn Peterson with 27 for 18 holes. Long drives on Sunday's play went to Moo Neale, Sharon Brewerton and Jan Burwill. Most honest player award went to Rhonda Fedderson. Most improved handicap for the season went to Marilyn Peterson with a 40 per cent reduction.

Final organized women's event will be the TOMBSTONE TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD ON Thursday, Sept. 29.

Prank gets winning goal

TORONTO (CP) — Johnny Bower and George Armstrong used to play practical jokes on each other when they roomed together with Toronto Maple Leafs in their glory days in the National Hockey League in the 1960s. And things haven't changed much.

Armstrong, coach of the junior Toronto Marlboros, and Bower, a Leafs scout and goaltender coach, were behind the benches in an inter-squad game Tuesday.

With the score tied - in the third period, Armstrong sneaked in behind the bench of Bower's team and tossed a towel on to the ice. That brought Bower's team a bench penalty and Armstrong's side scored the winning goal.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake
FOR THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1977

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been a serious weight lifter for several years and have a few questions concerning muscle development. What effects on muscle tissue does weightlifting have? How does a muscle grow in strength and size due to weightlifting? How long does an exhausted muscle take to rejuvenate itself, that is, how much time should be put in between completed exercises of a particular muscle group? On a daily basis, how much protein is necessary to complement heavy weight lifting?

DEAR READER — Resistance type exercises such as weight-lifting cause the muscle fibers to enlarge. It does not increase the number of muscle fibers. The larger fiber is stronger. The muscle made up of larger fibers is then able to contract with greater force (increased strength) and lift larger weights. Depending upon your dietary program, the muscles will eliminate fat between the fibers and become tougher and harder.

The sequence seems to be that when a muscle is contracted against resistance it stimulates the production of creatine, a protein manufactured by the muscle cells. The creatine then stimulates the muscle fibers to grow, enabling them to contract with greater force and release more creatine. The muscle grows and changes until it is large and strong enough to manage the weight it is challenged with.

The best training effect for strength is not achieved by exhausting the muscle. The best results are obtained by training, not straining. It only takes a few minutes for a group of muscles to recover if you don't exhaust them. You also get better results by letting the muscles rest a day before a second training session. For more details on this I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-4, Weight Training for Energy and Weight Control. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

If your total calorie intake from carbohydrates, fats and proteins is enough for your energy requirements then you need less than 100 grams of protein a day in your diet to grow a pound of muscle a week. A pound of lean muscle contains only 100 grams of protein. That is a fact regardless of what you have been told by trainers and people selling protein supplements.

Eating excess protein is not helpful. The excess is just calories and is not used to build muscles. Of course, if you need the calories because your diet doesn't supply them then they will help your muscles grow. If you don't take in enough calories the proteins you do eat will be used for energy. The point is that you can get your total calorie requirement from good food, including carbohydrates.

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) Review the inner forces that drive you. Are you sure you are on the right course? Day's influences call for better-than-average effort.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21) Bright new opportunities indicated. Rewards may not be immediate, but day can be more than just satisfying, and can lead to bigger returns soon.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) If not making the progress you should, stop, investigate, ask questions and, if necessary, retrace your steps. Much can be done to step up advancement.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) Before you take off in any direction, wait long enough to carefully gather necessary data and DO keep your wits about you. This is no day in which to act blindly.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) Familiar matters favored rather than new ventures. You may encounter tense feelings in some areas. Maintain your balance and look at the bright side of things.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) Endurance and stability needed. Be ready for changes. Don't make unnecessary ones, but accept those which are desirable. Alertness and self-mastery will be important.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Stellar aspects not entirely friendly. Much will depend upon your adaptability, willingness to alter plans and perceptiveness. Don't follow false leads.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) Face realities and correct deficiencies in your schedule as promptly as possible. Don't wait for snags to appear. A thorough study of details needed.

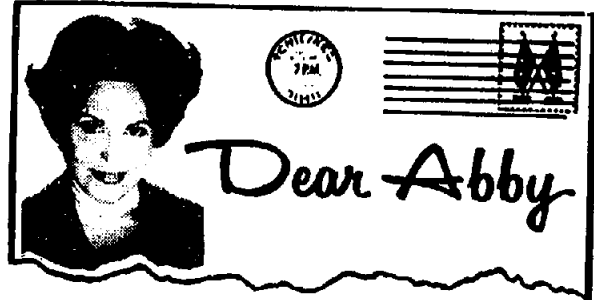

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Tact and utmost discretion needed now. Your approach to others will be most important. In all situations, display good sportsmanship.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good influences! Activities should be handled evenly so as not to lap over too much in any one direction. Start with a suitable tempo and maintain it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Look for the "loopholes" that trick needlessly; be alert to misrepresentation; sift carefully for truths. Once sure you are on the right track, make your moves — confidently.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You should have no trouble carrying out necessary requirements, but this is no time to take on "extras" or to scatter energies. In general, stick to routine.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a wealth of personality, are artistically inclined and will work hard to achieve your goals. At times, however, you can be very set in your ways, thus frustrating loved ones and business associates. You are extremely versatile and could succeed in many fields; would make an outstanding scientist, an able statesman or diplomat. In the theater, you could shine as actor or director, and you could also excel as an educator or historian. Cultivate your talent for music, painting or sculpture — if only as an avocation. Birthdate of: Michael Faraday, world-renowned physicist.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This is to thank you for your enlightened attitude about homosexuals.

I am the father of two sons and a daughter. My youngest son is gay, and when I first learned of it, I spent a lot of time worrying and wondering why. His mother died when he was 7, and his older brother and sister and I might have overprotected him, but I doubt if that was the cause. I think the pattern was set much earlier.

Whatever the reason, he was my son with his first breath, and he will be my son until his last. I am as caring and proud of him as I am of my other children. With minimal effort, I soon became as comfortable with his friends as with those of my other children. We all live some distance apart, but there is warmth and affection whenever the family is together.

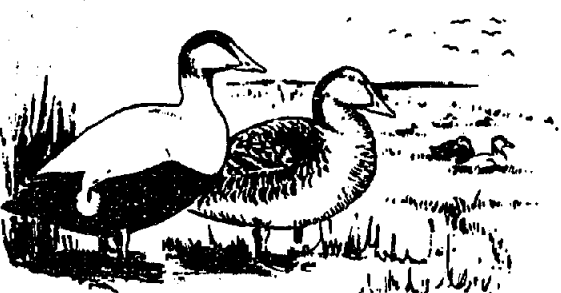

My second grandson is named for him—and this was done after we learned the news.

Just as his brother, sister and I take for granted his standing by one of us if the need arose, so can he be certain we will stand by him. We are a family. What a wonderful feeling.

SIGNED, BUT NAME WITHHELD

DEAR SIGNED: Your youngest son is fortunate to have a family such as yours. What a pity there aren't more people with your understanding and compassion.

THE COMMON EIDER — This large sea-duck nests colonially on coastal islands in eastern Canada. To protect her clutch of 4 - 5 eggs from nearby nesting gulls, the female eider remains on her nest almost constantly during incubation. Such fasting causes a loss of 40% of her body weight. To recover this weight loss, the ducks form creches, whereby they pool their young so that one hen looks after several broods, allowing other hens to feed and return to their normal weight.

Defence: Walk, jog, run, skate, ski, swim, paddle, pedal... don't let life catch you with your head down.

Fitness is fun. Try some.

NEW YORK (AP) — It's not often a child can hug a boa constrictor, stroke a ferret or see eye-to-eye with an owl. But this summer a day camp called Animal Kingdom Zoo Camp will allow them to. Under the guidance of trained counsellors and professional zoo staff, children aged eight through 12 will explore the Bronx Zoo.

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Boy Scouts in Troop 151 have collected more than 1,500 old tires for a retreader in nearby Orange and have earned more than $600 for troop projects. The recycling drive not only rid the landscape of discarded tires, it helped save oil because it takes three times more oil to make a new tire than it does to make a retread.

IMPORTANT NEWS ABOUT CANADA SAVINGS BONDS.

For over thirty years, Canada Savings Bonds have provided millions of Canadians with a safe, secure investment that earns good interest. Since the first issue in 1946, Canada Savings Bonds have always kept pace with the times. And this year, even greater steps have been taken to ensure that Canada Savings Bonds remain a very attractive savings instrument.

THE NEW FEATURES:

- 1. A CHOICE OF TWO NEW BONDS. Canada Savings Bonds will be offered in two new forms starting this Fall. There will be a new Compound Interest Bond and a new Regular Interest Bond.
- 2. INTEREST ON YOUR INTEREST. Interest on the Compound Interest Bond is left to accumulate, earning interest on your interest after the first year at the average annual yield to maturity of the Series.
- 3. DIRECT DEPOSIT OPTION. The Regular Interest Bond, which pays interest each Nov. 1, offers the desirable option of having interest deposited directly into your chequing or savings account.
- 4. DENOMINATIONS. The Regular Interest Bond comes in denominations starting at $300, while the minimum denomination of the Compound Interest Bond is $100.
- 5. ADDED CONVENIENCE. Since the new bonds do not have coupons, there is nothing to clip, handle, or possibly lose.
- 6. A NEW SIZE. The new bonds are smaller in size than those previously produced. This makes for easier handling and safekeeping.

THE TWO NEW BONDS:

- A. THE COMPOUND INTEREST BOND. This bond re-invests your interest automatically, earning interest on your interest after the first year, at the average annual yield to maturity of the Series. Interest is payable only when the bonds are redeemed or at maturity. If left to maturity, a $100 bond will grow to $200.97 in just 9 years.
- B. THE REGULAR INTEREST BOND. This bond pays you a regular annual income each Nov. 1. You have the choice of receiving your interest either by cheque or by direct deposit into your chequing or savings account.

A SECURE INVESTMENT

Both new bonds retain the features that have helped to make Canada Savings Bonds the favourite investment for millions of Canadians. They're a secure investment and they're instant cash anytime.

AVAILABILITY

You may sign up now for the new Compound Interest Bond on the Payroll Savings Plan at participating plants and offices across Canada. Starting October 11, both new bonds can be purchased for cash wherever you bank or invest. The Compound Interest Bond may also be purchased on the Monthly Savings Plan.

YOUR SOCIAL INSURANCE NUMBER IS IMPORTANT

This year, your Social Insurance Number will be requested when you purchase Canada Savings Bonds. This number will provide accurate identification of your Canada Savings Bond account and will be a single lifetime account number for you no matter how many bonds you buy or when you buy them. It will thus enable the Bank of Canada to provide you with better and faster service in the event that you write to enquire about the status of your writes.

A REMINDER TO PRESENT HOLDERS OF CANADA SAVINGS BONDS

The introduction of the new bonds has not reduced the attractiveness of the Canada Savings Bonds you now own. They are as valuable as ever and continue to provide very attractive yields.

THE TERMS

New Canada Savings Bonds are dated November 1, 1977 and yield an average annual interest of 8.06% when held to maturity in 1986. Each new bond begins with 7% interest the first year and earns 8.25% interest for each of the remaining 8 years. The combined total purchase limit for this issue is $15,000.

MORE INFORMATION

For more information, ask for the Payroll Savings Plan folder where you work—or, after October 10th, obtain the Canada Savings Bond fact folder wherever you bank or invest.

Lode mining has only been in progress about 25 years, and only about one-half of the Province has been prospected; 200,000 square miles of unexplored mineral bearing lands are open for prospecting.

The mining laws of this Province are more liberal and the fees lower than any other Province in the Dominion or any Colony in the British Empire.

Mineral locations are granted to discoverers for nominal fees. Absolute titles are obtained by developing such properties, security of which is guaranteed by crown grants.

Practically all British Columbia mineral properties on which development work has been done are described in one of the Annual Reports of the Minister of Mines. These containing mining investments should refer to such reports. They are available without charge on application to the Department of Mines, Victoria, B.C. Reports covering each of the six Mineral Survey Districts are published separately, and are available on application. Reports of the Geological Survey of Canada, which Building, Vancouver, B.C., are recommended as valuable sources of information.

CHANGE PUBLICATION DAY

Beginning with our issue next week, the fourth issue in October, the Omineca Herald and The Terrace News will be printed on Wednesday of each week instead of Friday as has been the custom for the past twenty years. It has been found necessary to make this change on account of the mail service to all parts of the northern interior, which these papers serve. In future the paper will go east on Wednesday night and go west on Thursday morning. The change will be better for all advertisers and will get the news of the district into the hands of the readers several days earlier. We ask our correspondents to co-operate with us to the extent of sending their copy in that much earlier. Copy from the east should be mailed to reach New Hazelton on Tuesday morning train. Copy from the west should be mailed to get to New Hazelton by Monday night mail. Copy for advertising should be in this office by Tuesday.

BIG TORY CONVENTION

J. C. Brady, M. P., returned to Rupert the first of the week after attending the big Conservative convention at Whudque and he brings back a most glowing report of the success of that meeting. Not only was it a great convention, but it was one of the biggest ever held in Canada and one of the most representative. It was a great event in the history of the Conservative party and Canada is going to benefit greatly from that meeting. Of course one of the most important features of the convention was the selection of the new leader, and there is no doubt but that the party made the best choice. One of the most brilliant men in Canada was chosen in the person of R. B. Bennett of Calgary. He has had long experience in public life and is a brilliant lawyer and one of the greatest orators in Canada today or in any other period of its history. The gathering was one of inspiration to all delegates from every section of Canada and with the whole party working together again much good should result to Canada. The new leader is a man of considerable wealth and he has undertaken to dispose of all his commercial and professional interests and devote his entire time to the welfare of Canada and leading the Conservative party.

ARE USING MORE WOOD TODAY

In spite of the increasing use of substitutes for wood the people of the world never have used as much of that material every week as at the present time. The modern steel ocean passenger ship has much more wood in its decks and fittings than would have built an entire wooden ship sixty or seventy years ago. It was with all seriousness and without any idea of a play on words that a noted Canadian conservationist pointed out recently that in spite of all modern inventions man is still surrounded by wood in every stage of his progress from the cradle to the grave.

The chief botanist from the National Museum at Ottawa, explored the Arctic the past season and secured 4 thousand sheets of flowering plants ferns that abound in that part of Canada. The day is not far distant when the white race will inhabit the far northern regions.

McLean's Magazine in its last issue carried a picture of some of the totem poles at Kitwanga.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emption is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that range.

Applications for pre-emption are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emption must be occupied for five years and improvements made to the value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

For more detailed information see the Bulletin, How to Pre-empt Land.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 16, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

MBL factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 10 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 2 1/2 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and the land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by any one person or company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts, and the range administered under the Grazing Commission. Annual grazing permits are issued, based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, camera and

Big boozier blames wife

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband drinks from eight to 10 beers and sips on a bottle of whisky every day. He works six days a week and drinks after work. He also smokes three packages of cigarettes a day. Some days he drinks lots more.

We have no sex life and I have heard drinking and smoking would cause a man to lose his desire for sex. My husband says I am wrong that the reason we have no sex life is because I have had a hysterectomy and that I am no good. He insists that once a woman has this operation she is not a woman anymore.

I do not feel that the operation had any effect on me. Instead I think it helped and I have more of a desire for sex than before.

This is making me extremely nervous and I find myself turning to eating for some satisfaction. Now I am gaining weight which I don't need as I already have high blood pressure.

DEAR READER — Your husband needs professional help and soon. You may both need some help to improve your marriage.

Your husband drinks far too much for his own health. He would be classified as an alcoholic by many. Alcohol is a serious problem. The fourth most common cause of death in the United States in men between the ages of 35 and 54 is cirrhosis of the liver and 60 per cent of these cases are caused by alcohol.

The three packages of cigarettes a day significantly increases the likelihood that he will have a heart attack, a stroke or drop dead — and at an early age.

While I can't say what he associates with your hysterectomy, there is no reason such an operation should decrease his normal desire for sex. The removal of the uterus has no significant effect on the vaginal canal or any other aspect of a woman's ability to be a satisfactory sexual partner.

Women react differently to the operation but there is no physiological reason why a woman should not enjoy sex as much as before the operation. Most women respond as you have. The freedom from the fear of pregnancy often enhances a woman's desire.

I think you should encourage your husband to seek professional help. He may wish to see his family doctor as a starting place. His habits are harmful to his health and the situation you describe is not normal.

A TRIP to India is one of the last true travel bargains left in the world today. It's now virtually impossible to travel in Europe on $5.00 a day, but in India, this is a very reasonable travel budget. And on a cost per mile basis, the air fare to India compares favourably with the costs of flying from Toronto to Paris.

For the adventurous traveller, one of the most economical and interesting ways to get from Toronto to India is through tour operators like Bruce Hodge of Go Way Travel in Toronto. He'll book your tour from London, England to Nepal by bus and truck. Not exactly the Orient Express, but a fascinating experience for the person looking for the unusual.

A great idea for the budget minded traveller is the "Indrail Pass", which works the same way as the Eurail Pass. You can purchase these for a variety of time periods, anywhere from a week to three months. The pass allows you unlimited travel on India's excellent railway system and is easily obtained at major rail stations in Bombay, Calcutta, Madras and New Delhi.

The Indrail Pass is one of the best travel values anywhere in the world. A second class pass reserves a seat for you in a non-air conditioned coach, is valid for three weeks and costs for adults $21.00 (U.S.) and for children $11.00 (U.S.). A first class pass gives you a private, air conditioned compartment, is also valid for three weeks and costs $125.00 (U.S.).

AIRPORT 1975

Pilot of a small private plane has a heart attack and crashes into the cockpit of a 747 en route from Washington to L.A. Stars Charlton Heston, Helen Reddy.

ROLF HARRIS SHOW

BIONIC WOMAN

WILD KINGDOM

"The Cheetahs Shall Survive" On the brink of extinction, the cheetah, the beautiful spotted cat of the African grasslands, is studied by Marlin Perkins and Dr. George Frame of Utah State University.

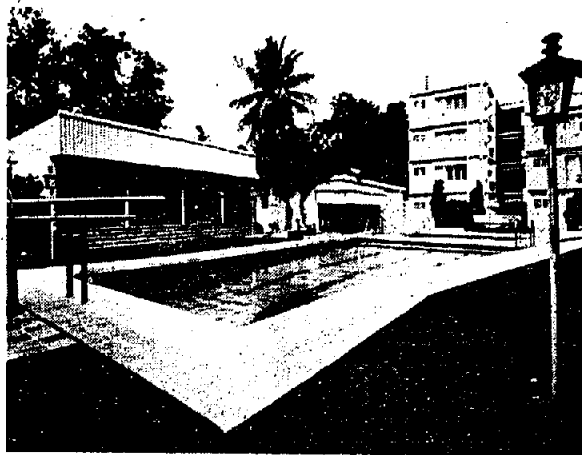

ANIMAL WORLD "The Brizzly's Last Stand" We're in Chihuahua, Mexico, for a look at a 7-foot-tall grizzly bear and his encounters with a jaguar porcupine, skunk and rabbit.

THE BIONIC WOMEN

"Fembots in Las Vegas". The son of a deranged scientist reactivates his father's army of feminine robots to capture America's first directed-energy ray weapon. Filmed at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., and the Dunes Hotel, Las Vegas. Lindsay Wagner and Richard Anderson star.

FIVESTAR MOVIE "Love Hate Love"

Ryan O'Neal, Lesley Warren, Peter Haskell, Henry Jones, Jeff Donnell, Jack Mullaney. Newlyweds find themselves living through a reign of terror brought on by jealous ex-sultor of the bride.

The Woodlands Hotel in Madras, pictured above, has rooms as low as $3.00 a night, including private bath and air conditioning.

India - a budget conscious traveller's delight

If you insist on keeping cool, but don't want a private compartment, 3 weeks costs $63.00 (U.S.). Compare this to the $18.00 price tag on a one way train ticket from Toronto to Montreal!

Getting there may be half the fun, but once you're there, where are you going to stay? With accommodations one of the major expenses in a holiday budget, you'll find India has hotels to accommodate every traveller's pocketbook.

Railway retiring rooms offer terrific accommodations for the railway traveller, at very reasonable rates. In Jaipur, the pink city, a single room costs 85¢ (CDN) or 7.00 rupees for 24 hours. At the same station, a bed in a twelve bed dormitory costs only 40¢ or 3.50 rupees - a great way to meet people, and after all, isn't that what travelling's all about? Many stations have restaurants or refreshment rooms available.

If price is no object to you, a double, air conditioned room is priced from $2.50 to $7.50. Still a steal!

Excellent accommodations aren't limited to the rail stations, Jaipur also boasts the beautiful Rajasthan State Hotel. A double air conditioned room plus three meals a day will cost you only $18.00 (CDN). At prices like that, the North American hotel rates seem exorbitant! If you'd prefer your meals outside the hotel, an air conditioned double at the LMB Hotel will cost you $6.85 to $9.35.

Keeping in mind that you've already allotted money for travel and accommodation, the only item left to worry about is food. And once again the budget minded traveller will find the food inexpensive and the cuisine exciting to say the least. In an Indian style restaurant, cereal or porridge (Indian style) and coffee can be enjoyed for a mere 25¢. With the price of coffee in Canada today, that indeed is a bargain. 75¢ will buy you a full lunch consisting of a curry dish like chicken, with the bread, rice, a vegetable and coffee. More exotic than McDonald's and you also get change.

Dinner is a three course meal consisting of a soup appetizer, followed by a curry and rice dish as the main course, dessert which could be some of the delicious fresh fruit, grown locally and of course, coffee. The price for this gastronomic extravaganza, $2.00! Even the most seasoned bargain seeker will be delighted by the food values anywhere in India. However, should you be in the mood to really live it up, India has many fine, luxury restaurants where you can expect to pay the lordly sum of $20.00 on a dinner.

Europe on $5.00 a day, including transportation is no longer possible. But, in India, you can travel very comfortably on a budget like this.

Rail Travel via
Indrail Pass	-$1.00
Accommodation	-$.85
Breakfast	-$.25
Lunch	-$.75
Dinner	-$2.00
	$4.85

For the student wishing a last fling before settling down to work or anyone wanting a truly unique travel experience, India is the place to go. It's an experience that will last a lifetime. An experience that you can have for less than $5.00 a day!

OECD favors controls

The Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) has urged Canada to consider extending its wage and price controls in light of an expected increase in unemployment this year to eight per cent.

The OECD, made up of 24 member countries, says in its annual review of Canada that unemployment will rise to eight per cent this year from 7.2 per cent in 1976 and prices will climb 7.25 per cent compared with a 7.4 per cent increase last year.

Noting that the expected increase in unemployed represents "a cause for serious concern," the OECD says Canada's Anti-Inflation Board has succeeded in keeping wages and prices down, but "a relatively strict policy stance still seems necessary."

THE NAKED CIVIL SERVANT
A filmed dramatization of an autobiography by Quentin Crisp, stars John Hurt as Crisp, an effeminate homosexual who made a decision in his early 20s that he would live his life according to his nature... and that his life would be a testimony to that nature. The film is a cavalcade of Quentin Crisp's life and times over five decades; a recreation of how society's views about eccentrics in general and homosexuals in particular have changed over those years; and an introduction to some of the people who knew him. It is also a vivid and humorous representation of one man's struggle towards self realization and his crusade to be allowed to live openly as the person he found himself to be. Quentin Crisp who lives in Chelsea, England, introduces the film produced by Thames Television.

Menzies on inflation

"If we are going to beat inflation then we have to talk about it", says June Menzies, Vice Chair of the Anti-Inflation Board.

The AIB and the Canadian Home Economics Association are doing just that in a pilot project to help people to learn how they can fight inflation on a personal, individual basis.

In a recent interview, Ms. Menzies described how the Board had prepared a 90-page workbook designed specifically as an aid to group discussions about inflation.

The Canadian Home Economics Association will set up study groups to examine and discuss the booklet, entitled Conversations About Economic Change, this year, and report on the experience to the Association's national meeting next year, Ms. Menzies said.

"Actually, the workbook is only an element in what we hope will become a large-scale, shared project with a number of national organizations," Ms. Menzies said. "The AIB is providing a framework for group discussion and encouraging the organizations involved to make the project work."

Others who have expressed interest in the project are Councils of Women across Canada, the Jaycees, the Consumer Association of Canada and the Native Women of Canada. "Many groups are watching the progress of this project closely to see how it develops," Ms. Menzies added. "We're hopeful they will become involved later on."

The loose-leaf binder size workbook is now in production and will be made available after the middle of September.

Covered in the material are a number of topics such as how to handle money and credit, substitution shopping, comparison shopping, and the importance of having good information as a consumer, along with basic information about what inflation is and how it develops in a national economy. The material is organized to stimulate group discussion and activity.

Can individuals get the workbook? "Yes", said Ms. Menzies, "but we would much prefer that interested people talk to their associations about it and have them get in touch with the AIB."

Education . . . expensive business

If outfitting one child for school is an eye opener, try welcoming back millions.

Families and provincial departments of education alike have to budget for the return to classes. Education is no longer the growth industry it was. Enrollment is down in most elementary schools across Canada and the dizzying spiral in education costs so common in the sixties are moderating.

Here are a couple of examples:

This September, the province of Manitoba began its task with an education budget of $373 million for the 1977 school year, an increase of 10.1 per cent over 1976. The 1975 to 1976 increase was over 14 per cent, and 1974 to 1975 was a hefty 20.1 per cent. School boards, teachers and parents are all vitally concerned in the struggle to hold down the increases.

Ontario's experiences have been similar, if not quite so dramatic. The rate of increase in the education budget has declined from 16.6 per cent for 1975 over 1974, to an increase of 11.1 per cent for each of the following two years.

Teachers' salaries account for a major portion of the total education budget. Since October 1975, these salaries, along with those of most other provincial civil servants, have been under the restraints of the anti-inflation program. This restraint has contributed to a slowing down in the annual increases of the education budgets of most provinces.

But teachers' salaries are only part of the story. For school boards, there are mountains of erasers, pencils, paper and books; everything from basketballs to soccer nets, snow shovels to thermostats. Supplies come from many industries, and many of these companies must report to the Anti-Inflation Board and keep prices in line with costs. The AIB does not control municipal taxes, but many of the costs of education which must be met with tax revenues, are being carefully monitored.

For parents still preparing the family for school, major clothing and shoe manufacturers also report to the AIB. It may pay off if consumers getting ready for the school year ahead watch the newspapers for announcements of excess revenue cases which require companies to either reduce prices or absorb increasing costs. These can translate into bargains for consumers.

A glance at the economy

Total Gross National Product output fell at an annual rate of 2.4 per cent during the second quarter, Statistics Canada reported last week. While it was still too early to say that Canada was in recession (generally defined as three consecutive quarters of decline in GNP), the agency said "recession cannot be ruled out."

Among other statistics released by Statistics Canada: wage and salary incomes grew at an 8 per cent annual rate, down from nearly double that rate on a quarterly basis last year; business investment in machinery and equipment, real private investment in new production operations and pre-tax profits for business were all down during the second quarter.

Exports, which had risen 7.2 per cent during the first quarter, dropped 1.3 per cent in the second and Canada's current dollar deficit in balance of trade rose to a record $6.5 billion at annual rate. Total revenue of all governments declined by 9.2 per cent while expenditures increased by 10 per cent at annual rates.

Wholesale Prices Down

Statistics Canada reported September 1 that wholesale prices declined four tenths of one per cent between May and June, although they remained 8.3 per cent higher than a year previously. The decline was led by lower prices for vegetable products, textiles, iron and non-ferrous metals.

$1 per Gallon Gas

A survey conducted for the Canadian Automobile Association indicates that the national average price for non-lead gasoline will rise to just over $1, due to the 3.2 cent-a-gallon increase authorized by the government.

As well, the AIB has allowed six major oil companies an additional increase of between .2 and 1.5 cents in the price of gasoline and heating oil.

Your heart works harder when you're not in the game. Get fit — and turn the clock back.
