WSRC closes, but complex staff is not laid off work

Although the nine workers are reporting for their jobs, no one can shoot trap, skeet, pistols or archery at the World Shooting and Recreational Complex in Sparta. There is also no camping.

The complex closed at the end of the day Wednesday.

Governor Bruce Rauner said he would close the complex unless a budget was approved. Speaker of the House Mike Madigan has made no move to get a budget compromise approved.

The Illinois Department of Natural Resources, which operates the complex, said this week that the complex will remain closed while a court case is arbitrated regarding the associated workers' layoffs. Workers at a state museum are also involved in the court case.

The worker layoffs have been suspended indefinitely due to an agreement between the state and labor unions representing the affected employees.

"While employees will return to work, the facilities will remain closed to the public during the suspension," states an IDNR news release. According to media reports, workers will be winterizing the complex while it is closed. As previously reported in the County Journal, the restaurant at the complex, retail businesses that operate there, the Trapshooting Hall of Fame and boat docks on the the Trapshooting Hall of Fame and boat docks on the property will remain open. Only the shooting sports and camping, two revenue-producing aspects of the complex, have been stopped. Democrat state Representative Jerry Costello said closUnion has case pending; layoffs have been suspended indefinitely ing the complex to shooting while employees remain on the job makes no sense.

"The matter in front of the courts could take months to resolve, and in the meantime. the WSRC will sit idle with no shooters and no campers while the state employees will be paid but not allowed to do their jobs," said Costello. "Any revenue that could have been brought in by shooters and campers will be lost as the state continues to pay its employees, as it should, resulting in an overall loss for the state. This decision is not fiscally sound and continues to add to the air of uncertainty in the state as the budget impasse continues.'

Costello said the Amateur Trapshooting Association is on the verge of seeking an alternate site for next year's Grand American, taking jobs and $14 million away from southern Illinois.

"We need clear, decisive leadership that protects southern Illinois economic drivers and doesn't leave businesses in a bind," said Costello. "I urge Governor Rauner to reconsider his decision and keep the WSRC open, not only while the courts decide the legality of the proposed layoffs, but permanently to provide stability to southern Illinois."

Attorneys argue motions in Drew Peterson case

By Travis Lott Convicted murderer Drew Peterson—who is now charged with trying to hire someone to kill the Will County state's attorney—appeared in court again Tuesday for another motion hearing.

Judge Richard Brown heard court-appointed defense attorney Lucas Liefer make a passionate case for two motions he previously filed on behalf of Peterson.

While one of the motions, a motion to reconsider, was quickly denied, the other was continued for consideration by Brown.

Liefer's motion to reconsider was filed after Brown ruled that the state did not need to provide the defense with certain evidence regarding the recording device used to eavesdrop on Peterson in prison during the investigation.

Liefer originally filed a motion to attain information about the type of device used, the procedure used in procuring the evidence and who handled the device.

Brown struck down that motion, citing law enforcement's investigatory privilege-meaning that the investigators in the case have privilege from disclosing that information based on the information's sensitivity.

Liefer said that there is no case precedent set that applies investigatory privilege to a criminal case.

"Investigatory privilege is only precedented in a civil case," Liefer said.

Furthermore, Liefer argued that this prevented Peterson

Lucas Liefer of Red Bud is the court appointed attorney for Peterson from receiving a fair trial because it withholds evidence that could be cross examined by the defense.

"How can I do my job if I can't see the evidence that will be presented against the defendant?" Liefer asked.

However, State's Attorney Jeremy Walker contested that any investigatory privilege is up to the interpretation of the court.

Brown upheld his previous ruling that investigatory privilege does apply, stating that the methods of investigation within a state prison should remain confidential so as to not interfere with future investigations of the same nature.

The second motion was far more complex.

Liefer made a case to have the evidence attained from the recording device suppressed, as the initial investigation did not follow proper court pro

Stolen vehicle cases in Percy and Sparta were related

Sparta, Steeleville, Willisville and Percy police worked together last week to arrest two people charged in related incidents of stolen vehicles.

Sparta Police Chief Sean Lukes said it started September 26 when a Sparta police officer saw a boy driving a Chevrolet SUV at about 3 a.m. The officer knew whose vehicle it was, and it was not the driver's. However, he did not stop the vehicle.

At 6:30 a.m. Tim Ogilvie called police and reported that his SUV had been stolen from his Sparta home.

"Our officer called Steeleville police because he thought the young man he had seen in the vehicle was from Steeleville. He wasn't, but Steeleville police went to Percy where they found the vehicle at the suspect's house," said Lukes. "The young man was in the house, and he was arrested."

The 15-year-old boy is charged with theft over $500 and possession of a stolen vehicle. He was taken to the St. Clair County Juvenile Detention Center.

There was minor damage to the Ogilvie vehicle.

Meanwhile, Percy police had a report of a stolen vehicle. That vehicle is a Dodge pickup belonging to Travis Daniels of Percy.

Percy police officer Levi Nellis said he called Sparta police and asked them to be on the lookout for the Daniels truck.

Nellis said he figures that the Percy vehicle was stolen first and driven to Sparta where it broke down and had to be pushed. It was found on the Hardee's restaurant parking lot. The Ogilvie vehicle was then stolen and driven back to Percy by the alleged thieves.

For that theft, police arrested Kenneth Smith, 20, of Cutler. He is charged with theft of a motor vehicle and possession of drug paraphernalia. He posted $150 cash and was released from jail.

Nellis reminded people to always take the keys out of their parked vehicles and lock the doors.

Carlos Barbour will run for Randolph Co. coroner

Carlos Barbour of Steeleville has announced that he is a candidate for Randolph County coroner in the Democrat primary in March.

Barbour has been the deputy coroner since 1984, serving as the lead homicide investigator and as a forensic death investigator.

He says he has conducted thousands of death investigations, ranging from natural. accidental, suicides and homicides.

"I feel well trained and highly qualified, thanks to the trust and the experience Coroner Randy Dudenbostel granted me," said Barbour. "He gave me the opportunity to receive training from the Carlos Barbour state of Illinois, the Illinois Fire Service Institute and the St. Louis School of Medicine. Now I want to put all of that training and expertise to work for the citizens of this county."

Dudenbostel announced September 17 that he would not run for re-election in 2016. Barbour serves on the Steeleville City Council. He is also a member of the Steeleville Fire Department and has been chief since 2005. He has been an Illinois licensed funeral director and embalmer since 1981 and holds a degree from the SIU School of Mortuary Science. He has worked for Wilson's Funeral Home in Steeleville since 1979.

Barbour is married to Janice Becker Barbour, and they have six children and two grandchildren.

He is a lifelong Steeleville resident and is a graduate of Steeleville schools.

The primary election is March 15, and the general election is November 8. 2016.

Percy father, daughter charged with drug offenses

A Percy man and his daughter face drug charges after their arrest last week.

Randolph County Sheriff Shannon Wolff said Ronald G. Williams. 62, and Kendra A.M. Williams, 21, were taken into custody after a search warrant was executed September 23 at Williams' home on Goalby Street. Ronald Williams was arrested for growing cannabis plants and possession of between 500 grams and 2,000 grams of cannabis.

Percy Police Chief Levi Nellis, who assisted with the search, said four cannabis plants were found.

Kendra Williams was arrested for possession of heroin. The amount was not released.

Ronald Williams posted bond and was reRonald Williams

Rauner's shooting complex decision makes no sense

G Rauner continues overnor Bruce to use the World Shooting and Recreational Complex in Sparta as some kind of example to those, i.e. Speaker of the House Mike Madigan, who don't want to settle a state budget.

Why is the shooting complex a whipping boy?

This summer, Rauner announced that he would lay off the nine workers at the complex September 1. Then it became September 30. Now, they will not be laid off because the union is involved and is taking the layoff issue to court.

Rauner doesn't k n o w about the work Sparta people and others put in to get it and the Amateur Trapshooting Association here.

As expressed before, Rauner is basing his ill feelings for the complex on erroneous Chicago area news media reports.

Workers stay on the job, but shooters are out

> He just doesn't know the but the complex will still whole story, and he still has not seen our extensive facility.

Now, the man who doesn't know diddly about the shooting complex is doing something that is just downright crazy.

According to an IDNR news release issued Monday, the complex workers will report to work,

be closed to shooters and plex that bring in revenue. Does that make any sense at all? No.

Yes, we know there needs to be more happening at the complex to bring in more revenue. (However, it's a state park, and other state parks bring in little if any money at all.)

The governor should use some common sense and let the complex operate as it has for the last 10 years. It does bring in money from shooters and campers, but not now.

Hands up! Don't shoot!

A rchery deer sea-son opens today, October 1. I have a home remodeling project under way, so I doubt I'll be out there amongst 'em, but here's a deer-hunting story from many moons ago.

My first year as a deer hunter was 1964. Ol' Uncle Marv got me access to some private land between Little Grassy and Devil's Kitchen lakes. I bagged a big 10-pointer opening morning.

The next year, my buddy Keith Johnson went along for the ride. I hunted alone Friday morning but took him with me that afternoon. We jumped a couple does, but I couldn't get a shot.

"I'll circle around and see if I can run 'em back toward you," Keith said. So away he went. It wasn't long before I heard something heading my way. I steadied my nerves and readied my Remington, but what came into view was no deer. It was Keith, with his hands up. Behind him was this mean-looking dude pointing a long-barreled, bolt-action, military-surplus rifle (8mm Mauser, most likely) right at my buddy's back.

Keith's new acquaintance introduced himself as Mr. Storm (a fictional name, just in case he's still around and still in possession of the aforementioned firearm), the landowner, and promptly demanded to know who in the world (not necessarily this world) I was. I told him my name and my uncle's name and my parents' names and my grandparents' names and my great-grandparents' names and...

"That's enough! You're OK!" he said. "I know all about you! But who's this polecat? I'm huntin' trespassers, and if he's one of 'em, I reckon I'll just have to drill a hole clean through him! Is he with you, or ain't he?"

To the best of my recollection, I instantly, without regard for life or limb, answered, "Yes, sir, Mr. Storm. This here is my dear friend and colleague, and he's one of the most honest, loyal, decent, upstanding, kind-hearted, public-spirited, law-abiding, hard-working, charitable, courageous, intelligent all-American boys in these here United States of America, and if you shoot him, you'll have to shoot me, too!"

Time stood still as the ages rolled by. Then Mr. Storm nodded, lowered his weapon, wished us luck and walked away. Keith and I simultaneously breathed a sigh of relief and mutually agreed we'd better head back to town right away, because we both distinctly remembered Aunt Josie saying supper would be ready early that evening

I went back the next morning and, just after daylight, heard hooves crunching leaves just over a hill. I dropped to one knee and raised my trusty 870. A few seconds later, a long, lean, mean-looking six-point buck with a long-barreled, bolt-action, military-surplus rifle (8mm Mauser, most likely) pointed right at me appeared on the crest. This was a shooter, in more ways than one.

His bullet whistled past my left ear as my rifled slug took him through his boiler room. And the rest, as they say, is history.

Hair today, gone tomorrow

H ave you noticed that beards are really big right now among young men? There are some really big beards out there. Beards that are grown for a year are called yeards. Men who grow yeards take on the appearance of a Civil War general or even giant lumberjack Paul Bunyan.

What is the motivation behind all of this facial hair? Scientific research has a few theories. For one, it seems that being an alpha male is a lot harder nowadays. Many men feel that beards make them more attractive to women and more dominant to other men. Bushy beards are not just for the wild outdoorsman. Executives wearing suits are proudly sporting their beards as a sign of masculinity. Beards are said to be the padded bra of masculinity.

But according to research, 92 percent of women surveyed prefer men without beards. It has been said that women don't like beards because they can't grow them.

That may be true, but even if a woman could. would she really want to? Consider how much time women spend getting rid of hair. We shave, wax, pluck, use depilatories and lasers to remove unwanted hair from all sorts of places.

The hair on our heads is another matter. We make sure it's clean, conditioned, colored, blown dry, curled or straightened.

Men don't seem to fuss with beards. Hopefully, they wash them or is the proper term shampoo? How do they comb out food crumbs? Knowing what a sloppy eater I am, my beard would be a cornucopia of wayward cookie crumbs, chips, peanuts and popcorn.

Have you noticed that eyebrows are back, too? Many of us waxed, shaved and plucked our eyebrows until they were arched and pencil thin. Those of us who had a unibrow spent hours in front of the bathroom mirror trying to separate one bushy eyebrow so there would be equal amounts of hair on each side. Now, we wish we had those brows back. Unfortunately, after all these years, our brows just gave up the fight.

Men don't worry about unibrows. They have eyebrows that tend to get course and bushy as they get older.

When Bill's eyebrows need trimmed, they get in the way of his glasses. He always tells me that it feels like his hair has blown over into his eyes.

"What hair?" I ask.

Bald is beautiful, too. Many guys who have hair shave their heads. This is just something that guys who are going bald don't understand. Why waste a perfectly good head of hair? What is really ironic is that many of these shaved bald guys often grow huge beards.

It's just a guess, but in warm weather, beards have to be uncomfortable, itchy and hot. One day I saw a shirtless guy with a long fuzzy beard walking down the street. From a distance, it looked like he was wearing a fur collar. It was not attractive.

On the other hand, I suppose it's better than him wearing a padded bra.

W ith the cool weather coming, many of the big motion picture studios bring out big movies. When it's cold, people usually want to do something inside, like go to the movies.

Do you go to many movies?

Who are the big stars of today? Socalled stars don't seem as big as they once did.

In the really good ol' days of Hollywood, the stars were easy to name–John Wayne, Frank Sinatra, Humphrey Bogart, Rod Steiger, Gregory Peck, Jimmy Stewart, Gary Cooper and William Holden—just to name a few.

On the female side we had Audrey Hepburn, Katharine Hepburn, Lauren Bacall, Ingrid Bergman and Barbra Stanwyck.

The music came from such giants as Henry Mancini, Cole Porter and Dimitri Tiomkin.

The stars were not only big names, but were good actors. They were worthy of the title movie star. Their movies were well received because they were good and wholesome. They were movies that the entire family could watch without anyone being embarrassed.

Today, many people over 50-like mecan't name the stars of today unless those actors have been on the news for doing something really stupid.

One does stand out as someone worthy of mention with people such as John Wayne. He is Tom Hanks.

Hanks appears to have a conscience. He can act, direct and produce quality motion pictures.

I'm not saying don't attend movies of the day, but those who enjoy modern films should also take a look at the real movie stars of the past.

Who's your bestest buddy?

What I mean is, who is your ace, your road dog, the yin to your yang? I mean, a wingman is an important person in everyone's life, so who you got?

And as much as I hate this worn-out and ridiculous term, I guess I have to use it. I'll just bite the bullet and ask: Who's your BFF?

I know you've got one, and you probably just pictured them. We seemingly all have that one person who is somewhat of a non-family family member.

You might not share the same blood, but you're pretty sure you have the same DNA. You know who I'm talking about.

Unlike most people, I don't have a partner in crime. He's actually more like one who prevents them. My best friend is a police officer, so he tells me all about his adventures busting bad guys and serving the public.

For my part, I discuss with him how hard it is to type with a hangnail.

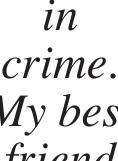

Like with all friendships, there has to be some give and take. He won't get me out of a speeding ticket, but he'd loan me the money to pay for one.

That arrangement is just fine with me. We make concessions like that and work like a team, like brothers, even.

That's kind of what a best friend is-the person who can call you out on your darkest, most embarrassing secrets, yet they never would. They are that 2 a.m. phone call you make when you are knee deep

It's that one person in the world that you don't have to think, you already KNOW, is going to be there. Like the mail, you're pretty sure they will show up as soon as they can; and when they do, they usually a deliver a package filled with love, concern, and when it's needed, a harsh dose of reality.

It doesn't matter what role they have to play, either. He's the ride home from the bar. She is the shoulder you cry on. They are our support systems.

So put down this column and call your best friend. Check on their day, their health, and their family. Before you hang up, tell them thanks for being the person that they are.

As a matter of fact, tell them you love them, too. You'll be glad you did.

Remember, It's always best to use the buddy system.

(P.S. Thanks, Sean. I couldn't ask for a better friend.)

Jackson County buys smaller ambulance

A Mercedes

Jackson County Ambulance Service has taken delivery of a 2014 Mercedes Benz Sprinter 2500. This marks a return to the Type II, or van-size ambulance that made up the majority of the fleet 20 years ago.

Over the past two decades, all of the service's van ambulances were replaced with much larger Type I and Type III chassis units because of their large boxes capable of carrying payload in addition to the patient care area.

The payload was in the form of heavy vehicle extrication equipment commonly known as the jaws of life.

"We had a full set of extrication equipment in the Carbondale and Murphysboro primary response ambulances, and most of us had formal extrication training," said to Derek Misener, director of the ambulance service. "As those units reached the point that they needed to be replaced, they would be moved off to a secondary response status, and a new large ambulance was put in its place."

What is different now is that Jackson County Ambulance has not carried extrication equipment on the ambulances for the past 10 years. As fire departments throughout the county acquired the necessary equipment and training, the need for paramedics to provide extrication service was eliminated.

The existing jaws of life, along with other specialized equipment, were moved to a dedicated rescue truck that can be dispatched from the service's Carbondale facility in the event that it is ever needed.

"Without the need to carry heavy equipment, it made sense to adjust the vehicle size to our primary mission, which is patient care," Misener said. "The vans are less Liefer's argument had three main points.

First, there were issues with the consent form signed by the prisoner who served as a witness in attaining the audio evidence. Liefer said the consent form in which the informant signed never mentioned Peterson's name as the suspect.

Instead, the consent form named a different suspect, Steven Nardi.

"This means that the informant was giving consent only to Steven Nardi's investigation," Liefer said.

Steven Nape, the assistant attorney general who is assisting with the prosecution of this case, contended that Peterson's name appears in every other document surrounding the case and that the omission of Peterson's name from the consent form was nothing more than 'scriptor's error."

However, Liefer said that this mistake could have been corrected but never was.

The second issue was the document authorizing the eavesdropping investigation. Liefer said Will County State's Attorney James Glas-gow signed the authorization himself, which is a conflict of interest, as he was the alleged target. "We don't have an unbiased state's attorney signing the authorization," Liefer said. "There's nothing wrong with being a witness as a state's attorney, but you can't be a witness and a state's attorney at the same time." Furthermore, Liefer said he believes that Glasgow is obsessed with Peterson and obsessed with finding evidence against him, leading him to violate the law in order to do so. Liefer said that since Glasgow is the intended target, his position in the case should be reserved to being a witness, and he cited the case of People vs. Lang, in which the court found that the prosecuting attorney cannot serve as both an attorney and a witness. "The state requires that recordings should be suppressed if they were improperly or unlawfully obtained," Liefer said. Liefer also said that in this instance, he doesn't even have to show that impropriety definitely existed, merely the appearance of impropriety.

Liefer's third point claimed that Will County improperly pursued the evidence against Peterson.

According to Liefer, the circuit judge in Will Richard County. Schoenstead, went with law enforcement to speak with the potential informant 20 days before an application was filed in court for the eavesdropping to take place.

Liefer argues that this is outright inappropriate, to which Brown seemed to agree.

application "The should come first, and then further investigation should take place,' Liefer said.

Liefer said he doesn't know why Schoenstead did what he did.

"It doesn't matter," Liefer said. "What matters is the appearance of impropriety.

"He stepped out of his judiciary role and into a role as part of the investigation. We operate on a system of fair trial, and we have to remain in our roles.'

Liefer said he had a hard time filing this motion because he doesn't like to attack the conduct of judges, but felt he had no choice.

Nape responded that this wasn't even Will County's investigation.

We have 2,427 pages of discovery and not one of them authorized by Will County," he said. "This was not their investigation."

Furthermore, Nape argued that Glasgow's conflict of interest is irrelevant because Glas-gow is not prosecuting the case.

"It wouldn't make any difference who signed (the authorization)," Nape said.

Nape also responded to the allegation that Schoenstead stepped out of his judicial role.

"What the judge was doing was not acting as a law enforcement officer," Nape said. "He went there to examine the witness in order to protect the defendant."

Brown again interjected that he still could have waited for the application to be filed, as is standard procedure.

"It doesn't matter, there is no time limit," Nape responded. "It can't be a violation of the statute because it isn't a requirement of the statute.'

Once Brown heard the arguments from both sides, he informed the parties that he would need time to consider expensive to purchase and have better fuel efficiency, while preserving the patient care area.

There's nothing like a local connection.

"As reimbursement rates for ambulance services decrease and the cost to provide the services are increasing, we have to be constantly adapting to keep up."

The new ambulance cost the county $86,310. Prices for the larger Type I and Type III ambulances start at $140,000. The cost of ownership when comparing maintenance costs on common parts for Ford, Chevy and Mercedes ambulances are within the same range overall.

The Sprinter is replacing a 2000 ambulance which was remounted onto a new chassis in 2006 to extend its service life.

Sign up now for trapping privileges

The state will soon conduct the annual drawing to allow game trapping at three local sites. The drawing will be held Wednesday, October 21. Two trappers will be allowed at the Randolph County State Fish and Wildlife Area. two at Turkey Bluffs State Fish and Wildlife Area and two at Kidd Lake.

Those who are interested in entering the drawing should submit their name, address and telephone number to Randolph County State Fish and Wildlife Area, 4301 South Lake Drive, Chester, Ill. 62233.

Overall, Liefer's argument for the motion to suppress was that the court that gained authorization to record Peterson did so improperly and, therefore, violated Peterson's right to due process.

"We're not in Will County, your honor. You don't have to allow this to stand," Liefer told Brown during the hearing. 'From start to finish. they didn't get anything right. This whole thing stinks."

However, Nape argued that none of the cases that Liefer cited during his argument were relevant.

"The problem is that the cases he relies on to make his point are Fourth Amendment cases," Nape said. "None of the cases apply to eavesdropping.

However, Brown interjected that Liefer wasn't arguing specifics of those cases but rather the principal of law.

As Brown did not issue a ruling, Liefer requested to push the date of the trial back once again.

While Walker said he would be ready to go to trial in November, he had no problem with changing the date.

"Peterson is not going anywhere anytime soon," Walker told the County Journal.

Walker also said that pushing the date of the trial back will allow him to focus on several other trials that are coming up. The date of the trial is now February 29.

Peterson will appear in court for a case management hearing November $\mathbf{24}$

Bluegrass, history at Fort Kasky

Bluegrass fans and musicians should mark their calendars for October 3 and 4 at Fort Kaskaskia north of Chester.

Music starts at noon both days. Musicians can bring their banjos, fiddles, mandolins or whatever else and jam all day long.

The free event includes parking, primitive camp sites and about 40 sites with electricity, but it does not include refreshments or seating.

For more information, call Madonna Williams at 314-3205.

Making way

Work began this week on clearing ground that will eventually be the site of an addition to Dave's Food Center in Steeleville. Here, a crew of Bannister Excavating of Sparta is shown demolishing the rear of the former Memory Lane/Sew Calico building. The construction of the addition, which will almost double the size of the current store, is expected to be completed by next summer.

Pinckneyville's roundabout road work will not start until next spring

By Jeff Blair

There will be no traffic detours on the west edge of Pinckneyville this year in conjunction with the proposed roundabout.

An IDOT sign in that area states that road construction will begin October 5, but city Commissioner Sam Peradotta told his fellow council members Monday night that transportation officials told him that, at this time, work would only be conducted on the grassy center area at the intersection of Route 13-154.

"Actual road work on a roundabout will not start until spring at the earliest." Peradotta said.

In other notes, Commissioner David Stone said he had talked with CTS Technology regarding the phone system for the utility departments. The cost is $5,376. The commissioners had actually approved purchasing the system at the previous meeting but had asked Stone to see if he could get the monthly maintenance fee lowered.

Stone said the initial monthly maintenance agreement cost was quoted at $60. He said CTS has agreed to lower that to the original $54. No other action was needed Monday night.

The commissioners, on a 4-1 vote with Mayor Robert Spencer voting no, approved the purchase of a 2016 F250 pickup from Vogler Ford in Carbondale. Stone said he received two bids for the purchase of a truck, one from Vogler and the other from the state purchasing contract through CMS in Springfield.

Vogler's bid was $18,892. Stone said the price through the state contract was only $400 less, and if they purchased through the state, the city would have to pay someone to go to Chicago and drive the vehicle back.

Spencer said he believed all large purchases, especially vehicles, should have a minimum of three bids.

The commissioners approved a resolution declaring the burned out building on the town square an unsafe structure. This allows the city attorney to send the building owner a letter stating he has 15 days to contact the city regarding his plans to clean up the property.

If the owner does not respond, the city can take steps to demolish the building and place a lien on the property until the owner repays the city's expenses.

The commissioners approved the purchase of fencing for the city baseball field. The fences being replaced are the one that runs along the foul line and the one that runs along Ballpark Road.

The baseball league agreed to install the fencing if the city purchased it. The cost for the fencing is $1,806.

Chartres in October

World War II, French-Indian War and a race

Fort Chartres will give visitors a glimpse of two wars in two different centuries this month.

World War II comes first, on October 3 and 4, as historic re-enactors set up camp, display the gear and weapons used by soldiers and stage mock battles. The event features both Allied and Axis troops.

Then October 10 and 11, the fort will celebrate the 250th anniversary of France's withdrawal from the fort and the Illinois territory, the final act of the French and Indian War.

A third event for the month comes October 13 when the fort hosts the Les Coureurs des Bois cross-country race for high school and middle school students.

World War II Days is organized by the 2nd Ranger Battalion of St. Louis, a group dedicated to accurate presentations and re-enactments about the war of the 1940s. The event includes mock battles, living history campsites and sales of food and military items.

On Saturday night, the group will hold a 1940s dance at the Prairie du Rocher American Legion hall. Historic interpreters will be there in period dress, but anyone is welcome to take part, costume or no costume. The cover charge is $5.

Next, the fort jumps back to 1765.

This year marks the 250th anniversary of the French giving up fort to the British

France and England had battled around the globe in the Seven Years War, known in North America as the French and Indian War. France lost in 1763 and agreed to withdraw from the area that would later become the United States.

It took two years, but October 10, 1765, France officially turned over its final fort, Fort Chartres, to the British.

The fort will celebrate the anniversary with a weekend of period crafts, music, food and military demonstrations. Costumed historic interpreters will stage mock battles and re-enact the moment when the French flag came down at the fort, and the Union Jack went up. The free celebration is sponsored by the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency and the Randolph County Historical Society, with additional support from Les Amis du Fort de Chartres and the Prairie du Rocher Chamber of Commerce.

ord

Les Coureurs des Bois. or Runners of the Forest, will be at the fort Tuesday, October 13. It will be a three-mile race for high school students in southwestern Illinois, and this year, a race for junior high students is being added.

Registration is $25 for a high school team or $10 for an individual. There is no charge for participants in the junior high race.

For details, contact Bob Ashley at Red Bud High School.

Fort Chartres was built by the French military in the 1750s. It served as the seat of government and chief military installation in Illinois when France controlled the territory.

The British then took it over and used it until 1772.

The site was declared a national historic landmark in 1960. The fort's powder magazine is the oldest building in Illinois.

For more information. call the fort at 284-7230.

A lot of activity at Fort Carrothers honored

The Cutler park that was once part of the grade school play area is now officially Carrothers Park. The dedication was made Saturday honoring retired long-time Village Clerk Melvin Carrothers, who helped do the work to build the park and obtain grants to pay for it.

"Melvin was in the background; that's the way he liked it," said Mayor Rick Hepp, who served as master of ceremonies. "He did his job and never complained. If he was disgusted or aggravated, it never showed. He showed us how to treat other people."

Hepp said that for all of those years as clerk, Carrothers was basically doing the job of a municipal manager. He also dealt with the EPA and checked the water daily.

Carrothers retired earlier this year after suffering a stroke. He worked for more than 46 years for the village, mostly as clerk.

Hepp also complimented Jackie Carrothers, Melvin's wife, for her years as a teacher and helping her husband in his village endeavors.

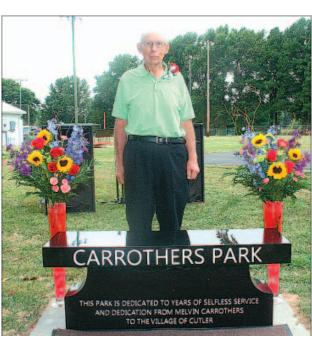

Kim Rasnick, the owner of United Ironworkers and Iron Ford, said that the Carrothers did an outstanding job in developing the park.

"I don't know of anyone who has given so much to a town," said Rasnick.

Hepp summed up the ceremony.

"I don't think Melvin was ever thanked for what he did. This is thank you, Melvin," said Hepp. First National Bank of

Steeleville CEO Bob Koopman also spoke and made a donation to the park in Carrothers' name.

"(Melvin) is an example of good citizenship," said Koopman.

Others who spoke were town board member Shane Helvey and Cutler engineer Armin Asaturian.

Carrothers thanked the people of Cutler and current Clerk Pat Boyce, who worked with him in his final days as clerk.

He remembered others who he said helped along the way, including Paul Hepp, John Rednour and Wilford Brawley.

At the end of the ceremony, a granite bench. with the words Carrothers Park etched on it, was unveiled. It will stay in the park area as a reminder of the work Carrothers did to bring the site to Cutler.

Chester school board hears from sexuality group

By Dan Zobel

A proposed Diversity Alliance group at Chester High School has been causing a stir.

Ashley Wagner, a student who helped distribute a petition in favor of the group, spoke to the Chester school board at its September 24 meeting.

"I would just like to have a group for kids who are struggling with their sexuality, need to talk to someone or need a social group where they know students won't judge them for their orientation can come," Wagner said. "I would like this to be a place for kids to go to be able to feel safe.'

Wagner said the group would essentially act as a support group for lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender students at the high school.

"DA would be open to any student who is invested in making CHS a safer and more welcome environment regardless of their orientation," Wagner said.

Some controversy over the group stems from when a petition was passed during home room August 24.

Student Lake Fogerson, son of Baptist Church Pastor Mike Fogerson, told the board he was bullied when he chose not to sign the petition because it was against his core values as a Christian.

"Bullying is never appropriate," Lake Fogerson said. "In my opinion, this group does not bring our student body closer together, but further apart."

Fogerson alleged he was called a fag hater and other names by classmates when he refused to sign the petition.

Wagner told the board she was unaware of any bullying or harassment, and she doesn't tolerate bullying in any form.

"It's regrettable, and it wasn't done by myself or any student who supported the petition," Wagner said. "To the best of my knowledge, I thought I was going about things the proper way. I apologize if I did anything wrong."

'We were shocked in the setting where the petition was passed out because the pressure of peers was put upon the child to sign it as opposed to putting it in a hallway or the cafeteria," Mike Fogerson said. "Even at a collegiate level, that particular approach is not acceptable."

Mike told the board that he and his wife were shocked that they were not notified that a homosexuality or transgender issue was going to be presented to Lake by other students.

"If we had been notified, Lake would have been opted out of that particular class," Mike said.

Mike stated no one should be bullied or singled out, regardless of sexual identity, gender, religion or race.

He posed two concerns to the board when the board considers the approval of the DA group.

"Bullying should not be permitted or shown to any student," Mike said, "even to those who embrace a traditional view of marriage and Biblical sexuality. Bullying in no way should be accepted, and discipline should be given swiftly.'

He also told the board, due to the maturity and sensitivity of the issues that are at the heart of the proposed group, a student who is a part of the group should receive parental consent.

"If our children will be part of a group that condones behavior and embraces values that are contrary and even divisive to what us as moms and dads are trying to teach our children, then we should at least give parental approval or disapproval for our child to be a part of that group,' Mike said.

Board President Mitch Hammel said the board and administration will take the matter under consideration.

"There is a sticky situation going on,' Hammel said. "I just want both parties to know, this is not falling on deaf ears."

In other news, Superintendent Bill Rilev said the board has to decide if it will stay with block scheduling at the high school or go to a modified block or traditional schedule.

Board member Troy Clendenin stated it is his understanding a block schedule gives more class options, but he thinks an 88-minute daily planning period for teachers at the high school is ridiculous.

Grade school Principal Tim Lochhead reported that the new band room is expected to be completed by the end of October.

Lochhead also said he has received many compliments on how well the after-school student pickup has worked this year.

The preschool program received gold star status from the state. which means the program is in the top 10 percent of the state.

The main school fundraiser, Fitness Day, raised nearly $16,000.

A change order for the grade school band room renovation from Faber-McGee was approved for $90.834.

Quivey Sanitation of Sparta was approved for trash removal services at $665 per month.

Theoldgradeschoolcafeteria tables will be labeled as surplus inventory and advertised for sealed bids.

The board approved Grace Church Ministries to use the high school parking lot October 4 for Family Fun Day activities.

St. Mary's School PTO was approved to use the track October 26 from 3 to 6 p.m. for a spookwalk fundraiser.

Several grade school coaching positions were approved. Erin Belton will coach seventh and eighth grade girls basketball, Tyler Search eighth-grade boys basketball, Danny Valleroy seventh-grade boys basketball, Joe Kassebaum volleyball and Hunter Queen cross country volunteer.

A special meeting will be held Wednesday, October 7 with the IASB, regarding the superintendent search.

Bikes and chili in Marissa Saturday

Some 55 bike riders took part in Tootin' Around Marissa last Saturday.

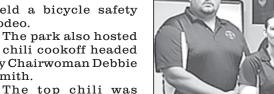

Riders could pedal for10, 25 or 40 miles through a marked course that started at the Marissa park. There was no race; it was all for fun.

Also during the day, Marissa school cheerleaders and Girl Scouts

Run for Big Brothers, Sisters

This year's Little Big Challenge four-mile run around Lake Murphysboro will be October 17. It is expected to be a challenge to the runners who will enjoy scenic views but face a hilly terrain.

The run raises money for Big Brothers Big Sisters of Southern Illinois, which offers a mentoring service for at-risk children in Jackson, Williamson, Franklin, Union and Perry counties. Over 100 children 6 to 16 living in poverty or distressed circumstances are teamed with dedicated volunteers to provide needed attention.

The race begins and ends at Lake Murphysboro Access Road off route 149, about two miles west of Murphysboro.

Park staff and volunteers will be on hand to direct traffic and help runners find parking spots. Overflow parking will be available at Big Oak Campground. The registration fee is $20 by October 10, which will ensure a teeshirt. On-site registration is $25 at 8 a.m. the day of the race. Runners or walkers must be at least 15. To register, go to bbsofsi.oreg/the-littlebigchallenge.html.

Tootin' Around Marissa riders started from the park.

Items needed are canned goods, tents, coats, sock hats, gloves, boots, personal hygiene items, non-perishable food such peanut butter and ready to-eat foods.

Items will be distributed to veterans during an event November 7 in Evergreen Park in Carbondale.

Military designation now on license

There is a new veteran designation on Illinois driver's licenses and state ID cards that will allow veterans more convenient access to various programs and services.

Illinois veterans wishing to receive the designation must provide a copy of their DD-214 or Certification of Military Service to the Illinois Department of Veterans Affairs. The designation will eliminate the need for veterans to provide such paperwork for future proof of service.

State Representative Jerry Costello II cosponsored the bill, which exempts returning combat mission veterans from vehicle registration renewal fees for the year following their return.

"Our veterans have made tremendous sacrifices for our country, and these changes will better support them when they return home," Costello said.

women plan ahead

By Carol Mercer The Marissa Business and Professional Women held its September 14 meeting at Antique Station.

Debbi President Smith thanked the ladies for their work at the Marissa Coal Festival and led the group in a discussion of the next big project, trunk or treat.

BPW, under the chairmanship of Jeannie Schmierbach, started the Halloween trunk or treat in Marissa several years ago, and it has reportedly been successful. City authorities close two blocks of North Main in the downtown business section. Trucks and trunks of cars parked in the area are decorated by individuals or organizations, and treats are handed out to costumed children.

This year trunk or treat is October 30 from 6 to 7:30 p.m., with a rain date of November 1. Vehicles are expected to be in place and ready for business well before the children come through at 6.

A lunch with Santa is being planned for the first Saturday in December.

Marissa business Shiloh Hill Tavern hosts an afteroon and evening of ribs, wings and eggs

The Shiloh Hill Tavern held a barbecue cookoff last Saturday.

Competition was held for ribs, hot wings and anything but wings. A pickeled egg-eating contest was also a feature that evening.

Winning the ribs and anything but wings competitions was Rod Lively of Royalton. Brian Jeffers of O'Fallon won for his hot wings.

Steve Couch of Willisville won the eggeating contest. He consumed 16 hard-boiled, pickeled eggs in 15 minutes and collected a trophy.

Slight change for Sparta ordinance

A slight change has been made to an ordinance approved September 14 by the Sparta City Council.

That law sets up bonding procedures for landlords whose tenants cause excessive problems for neighbors or the city. After three complaints, the landlord must be bonded for $500 to $5,000.

At the September 28 meeting, city attorney Alan Farris said that a new state statute takes effect November 19 that excludes certain offenses from being a part of the landlord law.

It states that criminal activity or local ordinance violations occurring in a dwelling that is directly related to domestic violence or sexual violence will not be considered a substantiated complaint.

In other action at the short meeting, the council heard from Brandon Lanton who wants to take the high school football team and certain members of the Li'l Dawgs to a Northern Illinois University football game in Dekalb October 24.

Lanton said he will talk to the school about transportation and seek donations from businesses in town to pay for the trip. He did not mention an amount he hopes to get from the city, but he hopes for some help. He will need a total $1,505. The council took no action.

Responding to a question, Farris said he could give no information about a meeting he recently attended in Springfield about the future of the shooting complex. He said he did not attend as the city attorney but as an attorney for the Amateur Trapshooting Association.

"It was reasonably

Oiling and chipping of streets will be cut back not being delivered positive," said Farris, referring to the meeting. Casey's at 701 W. Broadway is adding to its expansion plans. The council previously approved a building addition to the store. It approved another building permit Monday night to allow for two more fuel stations covered with canopies.

As required by law, the school has given the city a list of projects for which it would like to use TIF funds. They include an underground water retention project, the completion of a softball concession stand and restrooms and demolition of what remains of the old school. Although the cost estimates are low, they added up to $445,000.

City manager Corey Rheinecker said the city has not been able to oil and chip as many streets as hoped because it has not been able to get the rock it needs. He said he might have to reduce the number of streets that will be oiled and chipped because cool weather is upon us.

Trick or treat was set for October 31 from 6 to 8 p.m. for children 12 and younger. Police Chief Sean Lukes reminded registered sex offenders that they are not to turn on their porch lights to welcome kids that night.

Marissa story hour

Linda Henson and her daughter Bailey presented a story about libraries at the September 17 story hour as part of library's card sign-up month. The children also made their own bookmarks.

Jackson County Historical Society Volunteers are needed

The Jackson County Historical Society is looking for volunteers to help with a wide variety of tasks.

Work includes repairing or replacing light fixtures, light carpentry, interior painting or manning an informational table at area events.

Help is also needed in cataloging photographs, lawn care, assisting with computer technology and maintenance issues, greeting visitors and helping them with basic genealogical research, public relations/outreach, transcribing handwritten historical documents and transcribing the county's cemeteries.

For the majority of the work, on-the-job training is provided.

To volunteer, contact Laura Cates Duncan at 684-6989.

Percy sets TIF hearing dates

By Travis Lott During a special Percy Town Board meeting September 24, the dates were set for the upcoming hearings regarding TIF.

With board members Ron Coleman and Jackie Young absent, Mayor Mark Prange voted on the meeting dates, establishing a quorum.

The first of the two meetings will be the creation of the joint review board for the Percy Redevelopment Project Area. That meeting is for all of the taxing entities in Percy. It will take place at village hall Tuesday, October 13 at 1:30 p.m.

The public will get a chance to weigh in on the TIF district November 12 at 6 p.m.

Prange noted that when the board receives Darryl Wittenborn's resignation, it plans to appoint Russ Robertson to fill the vacancy.

In other news, the board approved the purchase of a 12-inch backhoe bucket for $700.

'The good thing about a 12-inch-wide bucket is that we won't have to rent trenchers anymore," Prange said.

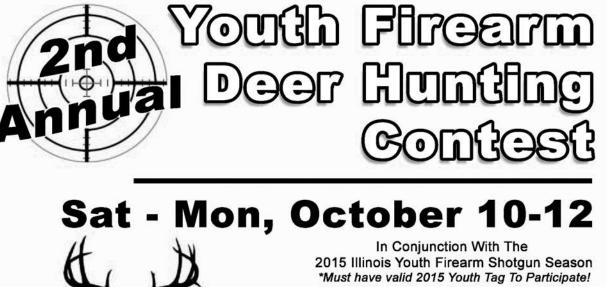

The board also approved the destruction of audio recordings from closed sessions conducted on or before December 31, 2014.

The last hour and a half of the meeting was spent reviewing potential changes to village ordinance codes, which will likely be voted on at the next regular meeting.

Randolph SWCD will meet Oct. 8 in Sparta

The next Randolph County Soil and Water Conservation District board meeting is set for October 8 at 8 p.m.

It will be held at the Randolph County office complex, 313 West Belmont Street in Sparta.

We are opening another chapter in our lives. For quite a while, Don and I have been talking about downsizing. Our kids are grown and have homes of their own and are busy raising their children. Our present home has three bedrooms.

Although each bedroom is furnished, two are used mostly for storage.

We have bought a smaller home in Sparta and have been going through our stuff.

When we got married 45 years ago, everyone used real dishes and cooked on a real stove.

We both come from large families, so whenever we had company, out came the china and good silverware.

We had several sets of china and several sets of flatware. Over the years, our lifestyles have changed. Now when we have company, we get out styro-foam plates, throw-away cups and plastic ware. When was the last time you used a real tablecloth on your table? I used to do a lot of baking and had many cake and bread pans, muffin tins and measuring cups.

We have found many items that we don't even remember buying or using. We have been boxing up many things like all of those sheets and bed clothes that we don't want to take to the smaller house. and we have been pitching a lot of things that I can't remember why we even kept them.

The good news is that our hearts are still in Evansville, and I will continue to write the Evansville News and keep up on all of the activities that go on around town, thanks to our computer and email.

Happy 21st birthday to our first grandchild, Elizabeth. You make us so proud of you each and every day. Elizabeth is a junior at U of I and is on the dean's list. She also is a first lieutenant in the Air Force ROTC and works part-time. She excels in whatever she does.

Congratulations to Michael Rains and Emma Porter on their marriage September 26.

Happy birthday to Emily, Nelson, Marilyn, Leslie and Greg Kueker, Edda Dufrenne, Allene Becker and Michelle Miller.

We extend our sympathy to the families of Clara Heck, Katherine Michalk, Ted Lerch and Donald Jany.

St. Boniface will host its Italian Fest October 4 with serving from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. There will also be a fall country store.

St. John's Lutheran Church in Ruma will host its deep fried chicken dinner October 4 with from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The menu also includes German and American potato salad, slaw, baked beans and a dessert. Chicken may also be purchased by the bucket.

The famous apple butter will also be for sale. The library's birthday club is for children 2 1/2 to 12. Just sign-up, get a library card, read and return two books per month.

If you come to the library the week of your birthday, you will receive a free book.

Chester will hold a Friday, October 2 at 3 Scarecrow Festival this Saturday at Cole Memorial Park.

Scarecrow judging in several categories will be at 11 a.m. First-place winners in each category will receive $25.

Scarecrows are to be whimsical, humorous, mischievous or lovable, but not frightening or gruesome.

The displays can be removed after 7 p.m. Saturday or left until October 18.

Registration forms, available at city hall, must be submitted by Red Bud discusses closed campus

Closing the Red Bud High School campus at lunch time continues to be a point of discussion.

At the September 17 school board meeting, Principal Dustin Nail updated the board about the possible change with the 2016-17 school year. The campus is open, allowing students to leave for lunch if they wish.

Nail said he has talked to the Red Bud Chamber of Commerce about any effect on business if the campus is closed.

Nail said he feels that the cafeteria can accommodate the increase in students eating lunch at school if they can no longer leave. Also under consideration is an outdoor fenced area where students could eat.

In other action at the meeting, Red Bud Alderman Clem Esker and code officer Jeff Mueller talked about the drop off and pickup of students on Locust Street.

The school has been meeting with the city, looking for ways to make student pickup more efficient.

At the meeting, several suggestions were discussed. The board is reviewing the possibility of expanding the drop off section in front of the grade school to allow more spots for cars. That would be a drop off area only with no parking allowed.

The board took no action but discussed the possibility of more enforcement of parking rules and installing more signs.

Grade school athletic director Chris Miesner talked to the board about establishing a cross country team for the grade school for the next school year.

There would be 10 meets plus state competition.

Junior high students were surveyed, and an average of 25 students per grade showed interest.

The board hired Morgan Logsdon as a technology assistant, as needed, at minimum wage for a maximum of 24 hours a week.

Senior Kara Puntriano gave a slide presentation about the Enabling the Future project she and other students are involved in using the school's 3D printer.

Enabling the Future provides prosthetic hands to disabled children at no cost.

The group will submit a prototype of a prosthetic hand this month, and a child will be matched to the prototype.

The students will then customize the hand to meet the child's needs.

The project is supervised by Terry Meyer and Jared Piel.

Yellow Jackets keep rolling, rally over Indians

By Dan Zobel

Chester and Johnston City each turned the ball over four times September 25, but the Indians miscues proved to be more costly as the Yellow Jackets grabbed control of the game in the second half, en route to a 34-21 home win in Black Diamond Conference action.

"The red zone turnovers were extremely key on the defensive side of the ball, but we have a lot to work on the offensive side," said Chester coach Jeremy Blechle. "Both sides were fine when they needed to shine.

"Turnovers for both teams, though, caused a lot of issues. I was telling them that turnovers can determine the difference between a win or a loss. Fortunately, for us, we were able to get the victory with a handful of turnovers.'

Chester improved to 5-0 overall and in the Black Diamond Conference, while Johnston City (4-1, 4-1 BDC) suffered its first loss in the battle of unbeatens. The Yellow Jackets are now just one win away from clinching a playoff spot.

Chester, Against Johnston City lost two fumbles in the red zone in the first half but still led 21-14 at the halftime break.

"It seems like we gave the football game away tonight," said Johnston City coach Dan Mings. "We should have been up 35-0 at half. I'm not really happy with the way that game played out. We should have put 35 points on the board in the first half. We didn't, and that's our bad. We got beat tonight, but I'm not sure we got beat by a better football team.'

On the Yellow Jackets' first drive of the second half, Chester took the ball nearly seven minutes before Blake Eggemeyer found the end zone on a three-yard plunge with 1:42 to play in the third, capping off a 12-play drive. The extra point was missed.

Eggemeyer rushed 30 yards on the drive, including converting a 4th-and-3 with a four-yard run that included a second-effort dive for the first down.

Two plays into Johnston City's ensuing possession, the Indians botched a handoff, losing the fumble.

Chester scored four plays later on a Jordan Berner 12-yard sweep to the right with 11:06 to play in the game. The two-point conversion failed, but the Yellow Jackets led 26-21, their first advantage of the evening.

Chester's defense stepped up again three plays into the Indians' next drive, when linebacker Wyatt Roth tipped the ball, and 255-pound lineman Garret Hoffman snatched it out of the air for an interception.

The Yellow Jackets sealed the victory with 5:00 to play when Eggemeyer ran four yards into the end zone with his second touchdown of the game. Berner ran the ball in for two, putting Chester up 34-21.

Eggemeyer finished with 84 yards on 22 carries. Fellow running back Chris Lang ran 12 times for 145 yards, including a 32-yard touchdown run in the first half.

"Lang plays with a lot of emotion," Blechle said. "He loves the game, and he loves the team. He holds blocks better than anybody. That's what it's about, you can be the fastest guy out there, but if the offensive line can't hold a block or block the right person and if your other backs can't hold blocks, then that would never happen. He ran the ball great, but he also blocks. They love to block for each other."

The game was not trending Chester's way in the first half, as quarterback Curt Meyer was intercepted by Coleton Jeralds on the first drive of the game.

Jeralds returned the ball to the one, where Nicolai Gualdoni later scored with a rushing touchdown.

quarter and six plays into a drive, Meyer pumpfaked before tossing his second pick of the game, this one being returned 55 yards by Gualdoni into the end zone.

Trico tourney

If Trico was notching points last week during the Trico Invitational Volleyball Tournament, one could just about bet Bailey Witthoft had something to do with it

Witthoft was strong in all facets of the game for the Lady Pioneers, leading the team with 35 assists and 14 aces, helping Trico go 5-0 in the round-robin tournament to claim the title.

"Her serving (stood out)," said Trico coach Julie Rathert. "Even the serves that weren't aces put lots of pressure on the opposition.

"She had good placement. Her setting is awesome. She knew who to set when and made good decisions at the net. She communicated well and showed a lot of leadership." Cobden, a Lady Pioneer victim September 23, placed second with a 4-1 mark. Chester (2-3) was third, Sparta (2-3) fourth, Steeleville (1-4) fifth and Marissa-Coulterville (1-4) sixth.

Golf regionals

Golf regional matches for boys and girls will begin next week.

On the boys side, Pinckneyville will host a Class 1A regional Tuesday, October 6 at Red Hawk Golf Course.

The regional is part of the Class 1A Anna-Jonesboro Sectional, and 13 schools will compete.

Trico, Chester, Marissa-Coulterville, Red Bud, Sparta and Steeleville will all be at Pinckneyville. Joining them will be Anna-Jonesboro, Nashville, New Athens, Okawville, Valmeyer and Waterloo Gibault.

The Pinckneyville girls will head to the Class 1A Mt. Carmel Regional Wednesday, October 7 at Mt. Carmel City Golf Course.

The Lady Panthers will be joined by Carmi-White County, Centralia, Du Quoin, Eldorado, Fairfield, Lawrenceville, Hamilton County, Nashville, Okawville, Waltonville, West Frankfort, Woodlawn and Zeigler-Royalton.

Trico, Chester and Steeleville will be at the Class 1A Anna-Jonesboro Regional October 7, teeing off at Union County Country Club.

Other teams in the match will be, Carterville, Cobden, Goreville, Harrisburg, Herrin, Massac County, Murphysboro and V ienna. Meanwhile, Marissa-Coulterville, Red Bud and Sparta will travel to Belk Park in Wood River for the Class 1A Roxana Regional. The Lady Meteors, Lady Musketeers and Lady Bulldogs will be joined by Alton Marquette, Belleville Althoff, Bethalto Civic Memorial, Columbia, Jerseyville, Mascoutah, New Athens, Staunton, Waterloo Gibault and Waterloo.

The Trico Lady Pioneers posed with their title trophy after beating Sparta.

After winning two matches September 22, the Lady Pioneers defeated Cobden in two sets (21-14, 21-11) and Steeleville in two (21-13, 21-11) September 23 before taking care of business against Sparta in two (21-19, 21-6) September 24 in the tournament finale.

"Kelly Hamilton had nine block points in the tournament," Rathert said. "She was crucial in beating Sparta. She's a monster at the net. We had different girls shining in different moments. It was a complete team effort. We have three setters; everybody can hit, and everybody can pass."

Hamilton also had 21 kills. Jade Kranawetter led the team with 37 kills. Witthoft added 10 kills and four block points.

Despite another huge game on the ground September 25, Red Bud running back Addison Gunter came up short on a two-point conversion attempt in the first overtime against Freeburg, leaving the Musketeers a point short in a 42-41 home loss.

"The best decision we had was to go for two,' said Red Bud coach Dave Lucht. "Gunter had been running hard, and he's hard to bring down. He made a good read, but couldn't get to the goal line."

Gunter finished his day with 190 rushing yards on 26 carries and two receptions for 12 yards. He found the end zone in the second quarter on a 54-yard carry to pay dirt.

"He's starting to settle in," Lucht said. "We knew he was capable of doing some big things for us. He was sidelined last year with an injury, but the offense has started to jell a little now, and the offensive line has been blocking well."

The teams entered overtime tied at 35. The Musketeers (1-4, 1-3 Cahokia Conference) won the toss and chose

"We opted to play defense, so we knew what we had to do," Lucht said. "They ran the swinging gate then got the extra point. They threw the pass to the center. We worked on the swinging gate, but not on the center catching the ball."

Joseph Wolf's touchdown pass was followed

Pinckneyville took a double-digit lead early in the second quarter September 25, but Du Quoin's Cole Hopkins returned an interception for a touchdown late in the period to help turn the game in the Indians favor, en route to a 40-24 Du Quoin victory.

"It was a big momentum switch." said Pinckneyville coach Todd Thomas. "We took the ball, drove it down and scored, but that interception later was a momentum change."

"It was basically the same as Carlyle had done two weeks ago,' Lucht said. "If we could take the first five minutes of most of our games away, we'd be in better shape. It looked like the game could be over by half, but the kids came back and never gave in. We're pretty happy with the character of our team after Friday night."

Freeburg was able to retake the lead with 51 seconds left in the second, when Will Hogan was on the receiving end of a Wolf touchdown pass from 16 yards out.

Red Bud again answered, this time taking a 27-21 lead with 5:14 left in the third after Hess and Rensing each caught Ziebold touchdown passes.

The Musketeers led 35-28 after three when Freeburg's Davon Gravot ran in a 46-yard touchdown, but Hess took a seven-yard run over the goal line just over a minute later.

Wolf took things upon himself in the fourth, scoring from five yards out on a carry with 5:59 left in the game to tie it up.

Red Bud was 1-for-3 on extra points in the game but did convert a twopoint conversion.

"It's one of those games where a lot of people were saying, Great game,' because with the up-and-down scoring, it had to be exciting," Lucht said. "We appreciate the effort, but we prefer the win.

"We got better last week. If we continue to get better, we'll be headed in the right direction."

That direction takes the Musketeers to Breese Central Friday at 7 p.m. to battle the Cougars (4-1, 3-0 Cahokia), who suffered their first loss of the season last week, a 34-14 nonconference trouncing by Breese Mater Dei.

"(Breese's) defense has been really stingy so far," Lucht said. "They are hard to score on and are fundamentally sound. They beat Freeburg 16-10 and shut out Carlyle. We have to be ready.'

For the first time all season, the Sparta Bulldogs will enter play coming off a loss.

County Journal's Game Of The Week

 $Watching \ how the \ Bulldogs \ respond \ could \ tell \ a \ lot$ about the rest of the season, but with coach Rob Kirk at the helm, there is no doubt Sparta will be ready.

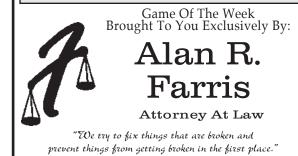

The Bulldogs will have to be prepared, because they will be up against a high-powered Du Quoin offense that has averaged 38.6 points in its three wins. In the Indians' losses, though, Du Quoin has only mustered 16 per game, losing by an average of 4.5 points.

Sparta has put up points in chuncks, as well, but has shown the ability to win with their defense, evidenced by a 13-6 win over West Frankfort in week three.

If the Bulldogs want to inch one step closer to an automatic playoff berth, they will need to slow down the Indian running game of Zayne Fornear, who topped 200 yards last week against Pinckneyville.

This game has the potential to be a fast-paced backand-forth one, but on its home field, Sparta will get back on track.

Prediction: Sparta 28, Du Quoin 24

possession between the interceptions, when Meyer threw a swing pass out to Luke Hartman on his right. Hartman found the sideline and bolted toward the end zone for a 77-yard pass and catch for a score.

Johnston City went up 21-7 when Alec Blades hit Luca Gualdoni for a 13yard second-quarter touchdown. Both teams fumbled away their next possessions before Chesterputtogetheradrive that ended with Lang bouncing out right and sprinting 32 yards into the end zone at the 2:39 mark of the second quarter, leaving Chester behind 21-14. "At halftime, you have to keep it positive," Blechle said. "We have a sophomore quarterback who is going to have a lot of growing pains. Itold him, 'Curt, we have your back, we're going to help you out. We have 10 people out there that will pick you up, carry you down there, and we'll take care of this.'

Defensively, Chester stymied Johnston City in the last two quarters, forcing a punt, lost fumble, interception and two turnovers on downs.

"They were blitzing up the middle," Mings said. "We didn't have an answer for it last year, and we didn't have an answer for it this year. By the time (Chester) came to that realization, the game should have already been over.

"The second half belonged to them, there's no doubts about that, but it

Meyer finished his day for Chester 4-for-12 for 108 yards, a touchdown and two picks. Berner carried the ball five times for 33 vards and a score.

The Yellow Jackets will host Carmi-White County Friday.

"I believe there are two steering wheels, two gas pedals and two brakes right now in the driver's seat (of the conference), because the Eldorado game is looming like a huge game," Blechle said. 'We're not looking past Carmi and CZR by no means, but this was big.

"We have a lot of confidence already, but we can't get a big head, because that's the point where you feel like you're invincible then someone is going to get you. By beating a 4-0 Johnston City team, our players understand they can play with anybody."

Randolph denies zoning change for brewery

By Dan Zobel

There will be no microbrewery near Eden.

The Randolph County Board of Commissioners agreed at its September 25 meeting with the zoning board of appeals, denying a proposed zoning amendment to allow a microbrewery to be built at 12371 Moffatt Road.

"I was very disheartened (about the decision)," said Eric Ogilvie, the man who proposed the amendment. "We've spent about six months preparing to make things work. It's a setback, but we'll pick up the pieces and keep going."

The amendment would have rezoned a five-acre tract of Ogilvie's land from agriculture to commercial in order for him to construct a microbrewery and sell the product.

"I think the biggest issue was that the property owners who were adjacent to it were against it," said Chairman Marc Kiehna. "We have a really good group of members on the zoning board of appeals. They weighed their decisions and we agreed with it."

Two of the reasons the zoning board was against the proposal was because adjoining property owners were against it, and neighbors were too close to the tract of land for this type of business.

"The four neighbors were definitely against it," said David Walter, director of land use management in the county. "The board basically went with the neighbors' request. Six of the seven board members were present, and the vote was unanimous."

The other big reason the zoning board did not recommend the business was that there was no other commercial business near the property.

"That's what they call spot zoning," Walter said. "The board didn't want spot zoning throughout the county. They prefer something else close to a business, and there is nothing on Moffatt Road that is commercial." Ogilvie said this will not stop him from his pursuit of a microbrewery, but it does change the location.

"We're still planning to do something," Ogilvie said. "Right now, we're regrouping and collecting our thoughts. We have some possibilities about going elsewhere, but we're still trying to figure out our options."

In other news, tax season in Randolph County is winding down.

Treasurer Justin Jeffers reported at the September 25 county board meeting that he recently sent out around 1,100 delinquency notices, which is about 4 percent.

Jeffers said if taxes are not paid by October 7, names of people who are delinquent will be published in the newspapers, according to state statute.

He expects 500 to 600 properties to be available during the tax sale in November.

Circuit Clerk Sherry Johnson informed the board about an ordinance she will propose at the next meeting.

Johnson said the access to justice fee was amended August 5 statewide, allowing an additional fee of $2.

She said the county has several filing fees that are maxed for civil cases, but for other cases not maxed out, $2 will be added to the fee. Where the filing fees are maxed out, the money will come out of the clerk fees.

Johnson told the board that the county has well over 300 civil cases pending. They file about 1,500 to 1,800 per year, the majority being small claims and minor lawsuits.

Overall, the county has closed 3,300 cases since January and has 3,500 pending.

"There are many steps to one case," Johnson said.

Randolph County Health Department administrator Tom Smith told the board they collected on two tobacco fines at establishments in the county for allowing smoking indoors.

Time-Out and Pistol City Restaurant in Coulterville were charged, with each fined $250.

The fines are set by state statute. The health department and state each receive half of the fine.

The board approved an amendment to rezone a 30-acre tract from agriculture to rural/residential in Evansville.

The Hess family intends to divide the property among their three sons, one of whom already lives there.

County engineer Mike Riebling said mowing will take place on the right-of-ways over the next few weeks throughout the county. He cautions drivers to be aware of the people mowing.

Baby changing tables will be added to the men's and women's bathrooms in the courthouse.

General assistance of $1,711 for the period was approved.

Commissioner Ronnie White said the first talk to promote county businesses and business ideas throughout the county was recently held at a Steeleville Chamber of Commerce meeting.

He said there was good reaction from the chamber, but no residents were in attendance. He encourages the public to attend these meetings to bring their ideas forward to the county.

The presentations will coincide with five other chamber meetings throughout the county over the next month and a half:

Sandra's Comfort charity brings big crowd to Raddle

By Travis Lott

More than 1,200 people flocked to St. Ann's churchyard in the little community of Raddle Sunday afternoon for a full day of music, auctions, raffles, fried chicken, pork parfaits and family fun.

The crowd gathered to support the fight against a common enemy, cancer, and proceeds of the day went to local charity Sandra's Comfort.

Sandra's Comfort was founded in memory of Sandra Sanders, who died of pancreatic cancer in 2007. Sanders was concerned for others who went through what she did and their ability to receive the medications they need to make their disease more bearable.

After her passing, friends and family came together and founded the organization and the Raddle the Bottoms charity concert.

Sandra's Comfort helps pay for some of the astronomically expensive medications that cancer patients need to live comfortably. The charity also helps with some costs related to cancer treatment such as gas to appointments and lodging.

Andrea Dilday of Rockwood is Sanders' daughter and founded Sandra's Comfort nine years ago.

She said that the nonprofit pays for individuals' medications directly, rather than giving the patients the money to pay for them.

Dilday said she had no idea how to even go about starting a charity when this all began.

"Everything just fell together," Dilday said. "I just got hooked up with the right people. I am very pleased with how it's turned out."

Dilday roughly estimates that the festival raised about $25,000 this year. This is up from $16,000 last year.

The music lineup featured some local and national acts, including Chicago Farmer, Jenny Johnson Band. Eisenhauer Band, Rural Kings, and Ol' Fishskins.

The bands played a mixture of bluegrass and folk, offering up full helpings of originals and standards.

While most of the acts that played in Raddle are southern Illinois local favorites, Cody Diekhoff, AKA Chicago Farmer, traveled four hours from his home in Bloomington to play a blistering hour-and-ahalf set for the crowded event.

The Eisenhauer Band is a native southern Illinois family band but currently resides in Nashville, Tennessee, where they are playing and recording.

Jenny Johnson Band headlined, jamming with members of the Whistle Pigs, who are a staple of the festival. As the sun set. Johnson's band drew more people out to dance in the space between the stage and the chairs.

The festival began at 11 a.m. and ended at 8 p.m., but the crowd was still pouring in during Chicago Farmer's performance from 5 to 6:30.

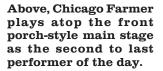

T-shirts sold out long before the end of the night, and festival staff began taking orders for more.

If anyone is facing costs from cancer treatment and would like assistance from Sandra's Comfort, call Dilday at 559-4287.

Chester church hosts 30-hour famine in a show of solidarity Around 65 teens and adults in Chester recently went 30 hours without food in a show of solidarity with the people of Ethiopia.

The event, held at Grace Church in Chester, is part of World Vision's 30-hour Famine in which participants go hungry to get a taste of what it's like to be in such dire need.

Each year, the Famine focuses on a different country living amidst third world conditions. This year it was Ethiopia.

During the month leading up to the event, youth began fundraising by asking for sponsor donations and hosting a chili cook-off. This year the theme of the Famine was Make it your Fight from the story of David and Goliath.

The youth took that message to heart and in four weeks raised $6,607. That is enough to support 15 children for a year through World Vision.

Every day, 18,000 children die from malnutrition and preventable diseases. That number is more than the entire population of Marion.

The fast started Friday at noon, and participants did not eat until 6 p.m. Saturday. They built a cardboard city to sleep in overnight to help understand the plight of refugees in crisis areas of the world. Games helped them see the struggle many face to get clean water and fight to protect their food source from drought or theft.

Participants were given firsthand accounts of life and struggles in Africa from local residents Charles and Betty McGee, who shared personal experiences from their book "Led by Fire" that tells their life story, which includes 22 years as missionaries in Lesotho and South Africa.

For more information about the program, go to worldvision.org.

Around 65 local residents participated in World Vision's 30-day Famine at Grace Church in Chester last weekend.

Happy Retirement Brian Beattie 37 Years at USPS Brian will walk his last day on the mail route on October 2, 2015. Be sure to wish him well. It is hard to figure the exact miles he has walked because many years he was out there 6 days a week. A round about figure would be about 150,000 miles.

He has been a hard working dedicated employee, even entertainment to his co-workers. Brian has made many friends in this town and maybe even a few four-legged enemies. Fortunately he has kept the dog bites at just a few. He has discussed the weather with many and says, "You never really get used to it, especially the cold."

Now onto another chapter in life, enjoy it Brian! With love, your family and friends

Marissa school board acts on deficit budget numbers

The Marissa school district has a budget, but it continues deficit spending in the education and building funds.

The ending balance for the education fund is estimated to be $270,960, building fund $234,788, transportation $24,567 and working cash $170,580.

Mark Heuring will receive a pay increase as the junior-senior high school principal. His pay will go up by 2 percent, the same increase that all certified and noncertified staff received.

The board discussed

two bills that could have a negative impact on the school's tax levy if they become law. The bills, one in the Senate and the other in the House, would freeze the amount taxing bodies can levy for three years.

The board approved a change in the latchkey program cost to parents. Those costs were cut by $20 in each category. The salaries for latchkey personnel were then cut to $11 an hour.

Latchkey supervisor Robin Geralds resigned, and the board accepted her resignation. In other personnel news, the board hired Susan Stork as a bus monitor for the second special education route at $8.25 an hour.

A boys freshman basketball coach will be hired if at least eight boys participate.

The board hired Laura Laumbattus as a custodian at $10 an hour.

Jason Smith was hired as the high school varsity basketball coach, Kacie Bruncic as the high school girls JV basketball coach and Ryan Cathcart as the junior high boys JV basketball coach.

Chester alumni seek donations

At Chester High School honors night each spring, a graduating senior is awarded a scholarship on behalf of Chester alumni.

This is made possible by donations given to the Alumni Scholarship Fund, which was created by the Class of 1944.

The money is invested with 80 percent of the earnings for the year given as a scholarship and the remaining 20 percent reinvested to help the fund grow.

Class reunions are encouraged to contribute to the scholarship to honor members who have passed on and to promote the education of future alumni.

Donations of any amount to honor a friend or relative's birthday, anniversary or other special occasion are appreciated.

Checks can be made payable to Chester High School Alumni Scholarship Fund and mailed to 4486 Diamond Cross Road, Chester, IL 62233.

Tax deductible receipts are available on request.

GED classes are suspended

The Illinois budget struggle will now take its toll on a communitybased education program.

Monroe-Randolph Regional Superintendent of Schools Kelton Davis was recently forced to suspend the Illinois high school equivalency exam preparation classes, commonly known as the General Education Diploma, or GED, classes.

"We have several funds, primarily grants, that are on hold because there is no mechanism for the state to make payment without an appropriations bill being passed," Davis said. "It is not legal for us to use other grant funds to cover the costs."

For schools, there are restrictions for certain funds that limit their use to specific purposes or transfer of money from one to another. While one educational program or service expands, another could be eliminated.

"It is frustrating for schools and confusing for our communities when an important program is cut while another is overwhelmed with resources," Davis said.

Davis is concerned that when funding is released for the GED classes, the state will prorate the grant, and any classes held will not be reimbursed. Volunteer tutoring program will still be offered Organizations are not able to assume that past practices with delayed funding will be the same, thus Davis is concerned he will not have enough unrestricted reserves to cover all essential services.

Adult tutoring will continue, however. With over 50 volunteers in two counties, the ROE will continue to coordinate volunteer tutoring for adults preparing to further their education.

"I simply refuse to stop a volunteer program to which so many amazing people have dedicated themselves," Davis said. "We will invest, reimbursement or not, in coordinating the tutoring. Some things are nonnegotiable, and this is one of them. It is the right thing to do to honor the work of so many and continue the support."

The ROE has provided adult and family education services for nearly 40 years, funded through state and federal grants. Shari Crockett has served as the coordinator of those programs for over 30 years.

"In all my years, I have never seen anything like this, where essential services are forced to shut down," Crockett said. "We are closing a huge door of opportunity for so many."

The ROE will still provide online GED preparation.

The Right Track Truancy Prevention Program coordinated by Chelsea Wesselmann will focus on services for dropouts.

"Regardless of the circumstances that led to the drop from enrollment, we want to extend services to these young adults," Wesselmann said. "There is a chance for educational and career advancement by getting a GED."

The ROE believes there is a chance some students will re-enroll in school.

"The new GED exam is not as easy as some may believe," Davis said. "We have had students realize that finishing high school is the path of least resistance."

Davis added, though, that for some, the GED classes and passing the test are the best educational option.

Anyone interested in tutoring or GED classes may call the ROE in Chester at 826-5471 or Waterloo at 939-5650.

NOTICE OF SALE

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale entered in the above cause on the residential real estate whose rights in and to the residential real estate arose prior to the sale. The subject property is subject to general real estate taxes, special assessments, or special taxes levied against said real estate and is offered for sale without any representation as to quality or quantity of title and without recourse to Plaintiff and in \"AS IS\" condition. The sale is further subject to confirmation by the court. Upon payment in full of the amount bid, the purchaser will receive a Certificate of Sale that will entitle the purchaser to a deed to the real estate after confirmation of the sale. The property will NOT be open for inspection and plaintiff makes no representation as to the condition of the property. Prospective bidders are admonished to check the court file to verify all information. If this property is a condominium unit, the purchaser of the unit at the foreclosure sale, other than a mortgagee, shall pay the assessments and the legal fees required by The Condominium Property Act, 765 ILCS 605/ 9(g)(1) and (g)(4). If this property is a condominium unit which is part of a common interest community, the purchaser of the unit at the foreclosure sale other than a mortgagee shall pay the assessments required by The Condominium Property Act, 765 ILCS 605/18.5(g-1). IF YOU ARE THE MORTGAGOR (HOMEOWNER), YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO REMAIN IN POSSESSION FOR 30 DAYS AFTER ENTRY OF AN ORDER OF POSSESSION, IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 15-1701(C) OF THE ILLINOIS MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE LAW. You will need a photo identification issued by a government agency (driver's license, passport, etc.) in order to gain entry into our building and the foreclosure sale room in Cook County and the same identification for sales held at other county venues where The Judicial Sales Corporation conducts foreclosure sales. For information, examine the court file or contact Plaintiff's attorney: CODILIS & ASSOCIATES, P.C., 15W030 NORTH FRONTAGE ROAD, SUITE 100, BURR RIDGE, IL 60527, (630) 794-9876 Please refer to file number 14-15-04201.
