The Popeye Picnic in Chester is this weekend, and the city is sprucing up its streets for the crowds descending on the community. Matthew Snider, 17, of Chester is snown painting the front window of Sweet Pea's ice cream snop. Snider can be seen decorating the windows of businesses throughout the city.

It's Popeye weekend

By Travis Lott

Following last month's eclipse, Chester has seen more traffic than it has in years, and it has no plans of slowing down for this weekend's Popeye Picnic.

The spinach-eating sweetheart of Chester will take over the town once again, bringing with him all of the festivities that Chester residents young and old have grown to love.

In the parade, crowd pleasers such as the wackydressed Banana Brigade and the Ainad Shriners mini-cars will return.

Debbie Brooks of Spinach

Can Collectibles said that, to the best of her knowledge, there will be more floats this year.

The parade begins at 11 a.m. at Chester High School and will end at the courthouse.

For the picnic, there will be some new events as well as popular old ones.

Local Boy Scouts will raise money with a dunk tank at the corner of State and Spring streets.

First Baptist Church will once again provide free inflatables for the kids to enjoy Friday and Saturday.

The parking lot of Peace Lutheran Church will have laser tag every evening from 6 to 10 p.m.

An artist drawing caricatures will once again be a part of the festival grounds. Caricatures will be drawn by Haram Ahn.

Stewart Minor will perform his comedy show and escapology show several times throughout the picnic. Times for his performances can be found in the schedule included with this issue.

Friday and Saturday nights will conclude with Popeye cartoons from the early 1960s on a 25x15-foot inflatable screen in Gazebo Park from 9 to 11 p.m.

Red Bud eatery on the hook for $30,000 gas use

By Travis Lott A popular Red Bud business is in a tight spot after the city made a mistake on its utility bill.

Matt and Missy Stines, owners of The Office Bar and Grill, spoke to the Red Bud City Council Tuesday night about their issue. Matt said they received a notice in February about owing past-due gas bills.

Over the course of the eight years the Stines have been in business in Red Bud, they had not been paying for gas in their utility bills because the city had not been including it on that bill.

The mistake led to the Stines owing almost $30,000 in past-due utili-

"That's a hard pill to swallow," Matt Stines told the council.

Matt Stines said the business keeps its revenues and expenditures on a flow, adjusting bar prices to match what they will owe so the business can continue to thrive. When a large expense arises out of the blue, it causes issues with the entire operation. He said that the company doesn't comb through its utility bill to make sure the city is charging the right amount.

"We trust that city staff does its job," Matt said.

After the city sent a notice to the business that it must pay, the Stines contested. Correspondence continued until the city offered to waive its profit from the bill, knocking off a little more than $8,000, bringing the cost owed by the Stines to $21,030. The Stines still felt that paying that amount was excessive. Matt asked that the city consider a split in which the Stines would pay $10,500, and the city would cover the rest.

The council did not immediately respond to Matt's request.

School districts expect better funding with new bill

By Travis Lott

Illinois' schools will now be funded.

Not only does the comptroller have the ability to release funds to schools, but local superintendents said this is the first time they've been sufficiently funded in years.

"I'm thrilled to death." said Gabe Schwemmer, Sparta school superintendent. "This is the first time in decades that our kids will be adequately funded."

Schwemmer said she has been notified that her school district will see its first payment from the state within the next couple of weeks.

"That's a breath of fresh air," she said. "This provides enough money to provide the resources that our students need."

Schwemmer said Sparta approved the issuance of a tax anticipation warrant in order to offset any lack of state funding. Now that the state has a funding plan, she said she doesn't believe the school will have to move forward with that. Another element of the funding bill that Schwemmer supports is the mandate relief. Under the mandate relief, the school doesn't have to provide as many days of physical education, and it can outsource driver's education to cut costs. While Schwemmer doesn't expect to outsource driver's ed, she said the option is helpful.

A previous school funding bill was vetoed by Governor Bruce Rauner at the end of July. Rauner issued an amendatory veto, claiming that the funding bill was a bailout of the Chicago public school district due to the money it would provide to the Chicago teacher pension system.

That funding bill was formulated by a team of legislators and school administrators as an evidencebased funding formula.

Rauner's amendatory veto listed several changes to the bill, which did not pass the required three-fifths majority.

The new bill is almost identical to the one Rauner vetoed, however, one change does remain from his amendment. The normal cost of pensions was moved out of the funding

Stoker trial is set

The date for the trial of Jason Stoker has been set.

Stoker is charged with first degree murder in the death of Chester police officer James Brockmeyer.

Stoker appeared before Judge Richard Brown in Randolph County court August 31 with his attorney James Kelley. Both Kelley and State's Attorney Jeremy Walker said they were ready to go to trial. However, Walker said that, due to the nature of the case, a special trial setting would be necessary because he believed the trial would last more than one day. The trial was scheduled to begin December 11 at 9 a.m.

Stoker alsofaces distribution meth charges in federal court, which is supposed to go to trial before December.

Randolph County court

Randolph County State's Attorney Jeremy Walker has released his latest court action.

Russel Asbury

Russell R. Asbury, 48, of Chester pleaded guilty August 27 to a reduced charge of battery.

Asbury admitted causing bodily harm to an individual in Chester May 14. Asbury was previously charged with aggravated battery, but the charge was reduced to facilitate the plea.

"The victim was a police officer who was not significantly injured," said Walker. "With the permission of the officer, we amended the charge to a misdemeanor and took the bond posted by Asbury as a fine." Justin Gutierrez

On August 29, a charge of deceptive practice was dismissed regarding Justin E. Gutierrez of Johnsburg, Illinois.

Shortly after the filing of the criminal charge, Gutierrez completed the state's attorney's bad check program by making full restitution to the victim and paying an administrative fee to the bad check program.

"Our first priority in a deceptive practice case is to put money back into the hands of a victim, which was accomplished in this case," said Walker. "Additionally, we attempt to get a fee for our program." Isaac Hyte

Isaac Hyte, 29, of Mounds pleaded guilty August 30 to a reduced charge of theft.

Hyte admitted to using a credit/debit card of an ex-girlfriend in Sparta without her permission in March. The charge was reduced from a felony to a misdemeanor to facilitate the plea.

"Hyte had no prior felony convictions in his criminal history before this incident," said Walker.

Restitution will be ordered to the victim at a later hearing, after she is given time to verify her exact loss.

Brandy Webb

Brandy Webb, 33 of Irvington, Illinois was sentenced August 31 to two years of probation following a sentencing hearing.

The state requested a five-year prison term, while the defendant argued for probation.

Webb was facing sentencing for delivering methamphetamine in Chester November 16, 2016.

"I absolutely agree with the sentence handed out by the court," said Walker. "First of all, it was a drug transaction, and without exceptional circumstances. I do not believe in probation for drug deal-

Additionally, the defendant had a significant criminal history, including two prior trips to prison." Dillon Hill

Dillon Hill of Jerseyville, Illinois received court supervision August 23 in a DUI case. He also must pay a fine and attend DUI school.

Meet the candidate

JB Pritzker, a Democrat candidate for Illinois governor, has a new campaign office in Belleville. On hand for the opening September 1 were, from left, Gary and Connie Rowley of Sparta, Pritzker, and Brenda and Bob Pautler of Walsh.

Sachtleben will run for Randolph Co. assessor

Douglas Sachtleben of Red Bud has announced his intention to run for Randolph County supervisor of assessments in 2018.

Current assessor Wayne Voss is not running for re-election to the office.

Sachtleben is in his 12th year of private real estate appraising in Illinois.

He has served two years on the Randolph County Board of Review, including serving as chairman in 2017.

Doug Sachtleben

Prior to appraising, he spent 11 years in sales and management in the transportation industry.

Sachtleben is an alumnus of the Red

Bud school district and has a bachelor's degree in marketing from SIUC.

"Private apppraisal practice over the last 12 years has provided the opportunity to appraise hundreds of properties in Randolph County, and I assisted in a wide variety of commercial property and farm appraisals through-out Illinois," Sachtleben said. "I am truly looking forward to working for the citizens of Randolph County in the public

55-year reunion full of memories

Irecently attended my 55-year high school class reunion. (Yes, I am really that old.) It was fun to see and visit old—no, strike that—see and visit my high school friends. As we may appear old to our children and grandchildren, on that night, we were 18 again. We reminisced. We bragged on our children and grandchildren. We tried to see who had the most grandchildren. And in our case, who had the most great-grandchildren.

It was fun.

Nevertheless, I began to think how so much has changed since 1962. A most sought after, newfangled item was the transistor radio. Rather than desktop and floor model radios, you could place a radio in your shirt pocket. Imagine, you could listen to WHCO or KXOK or KMOX anywhere, even as you walked down

Speaking of radio stations, we listened to Johnny Rabbitt on KXOK. You were not cool unless you listened to the top 10 on KXOK. And you could call in and make requests—all you had to do was "Blab it to the Rabbitt." It was broadcast on AM radio, as FM back then was some new gimmicky radio frequency.

I can only recall three or four television stations in St. Louis: KSD now KSDK, KMOX now KMOV and WTVI in Belleville, which became KTVI in St. Louis.

On many afternoons, we subjected our parents to Dick Clark's American Bandstand. On Saturdays, we subjected them to Russ Carter's St. Louis Hop.

And oh yes, we watched our TV programs in black and white. Though there were some color TVs, they had not yet been refined, and no station had live, color cameras. In 1962, we still lifted the phone's receiver and heard a voice ask, "Number please." We then asked the operator to call a particular person or business. The dial phone did not arrive in Sparta until after I left home.

There was no mobile phone back then.

Indeed, you went for a ride in the evening to get away from the phone. Today we take our phones everywhere.

St. Louis had two newspapers, the Globe Democrat in the morning and the Post Dispatch in the evening. Sparta had its own newspaper, the Sparta News Plaindealer. I delivered the Globe for spending money. I was paid couple of weeks ago, Judy and I went Adown to Cape Girardeau.

My 'antique' shoes

We visited the casino, a bad idea, then stopped in at a couple of bar/restaurants.

After that, we walked around the old town of Cape and went into an antique store.

It was very clean and well laid out. I didn't intend to buy anything, then I saw a shelf with a few pairs of shoes on it.

They were not antique shoes, but one pair was modern, black dress shoes, the kind I like. Recently, I bought a pair of shoes, and they cost me about $100, a price I think is too much for any pair of shoes, but nowadays, that's just about what they all cost. This pair of shoes was $15. I tried them on, and they fit like a glove. I bought them. Judy saw me paying for them and could not believe I was buying a pair of shoes in an antique store.

"They are brand new shoes," I said in disbelief of her attitude. "The soles are spotless, and the interiors are clean and new. They are Hush Puppies brand."

You're not going to wear those, are you?" she asked.

"No, I'm just going to look at them," I said. So I have been proudly wearing my new, black Hush Puppies for the past several days, and I love them. I really believe I am the first person to wear them. Judy still rolls her eyes when I tell her how proud of them I am.

As for me-I just made the deal of the cen-

Local schools happy

Illinois will finally adequately fund its schools. It seems like something that shouldn't have taken decades to achieve, but it has.

School superintendents throughout the County Journal coverage area are singing the praises of the funding bill that was passed last week by the state legislature and signed by Governor Bruce Rauner.

For the first time, school districts will be funded through evidence-based system that requires the state to examine how much money a district needs to adequately educate students and how much money the district receives through property taxes. State aid will be prioritized by which districts need it the most, and no school loses money with this system.

Schools throughout our area have slipped further and further into the abyss over the past decade due to a lack of adequate funding and missed payments by the state. This has caused programs to be cut, teachers to lose their jobs and our children to face going to schools that are in poor condition.

Here's to finally something getting done about it.

However, the bill is not without what some see as drawbacks. Local superintendents fear that the new program giving tax credits to those who donate to private school scholarships will decrease future enrollment in public schools and hurt those schools in the long run. Supporters of this measure claim it provides more school choices. What is strange about this bill is that it provides about $150 million more to Chicago public schools than the original funding bill. This is odd, considering Rauner vetoed that bill because he called it a bailout of Chicago really

When asked why Chicago receives more money in this bill than the one he vetoed, he seemed visibly surprised, stammering through nondescript political rhetoric.

"This bill is a compromise that's reasonable and was worked out on a basis," bipartisan Rauner said.

That completely dodges the question and doesn't give us any indication why Rauner backed off yet another stance.

Just like the budget agreement that he held out for with demands for tort reform, workers' compensation reform and tax cuts, Rauner backed away.

Johnie Bon Jovi has his first birthday

Before our first grandson Johnie Michael Mason was born a year ago, we got the call from our son-in-law around 3 a.m. on a Friday morning that Allison's water had broken. They needed me to come and watch Kate so they could head to the hospital.

I remember that early-morning drive to their house on the winding Bald Knob Cross road outside Alto Pass.

I have nicknamed him Bon Jovi, but on any given day, I might call him Vonnie, John Von, Von Johnie, Bon John and, when he's in a cuddly mood, Foofee.

If my dad were still around, with his sense of humor, he would have probably called him Rockefeller.

Bon Jovi is learning to walk pretty well and loves to climb. Unfortunately, house is a tri-level. Having two sets of stairs to worry about is a full time job chasing him around. This weekend, while ba-bysitting, Bill and I time, locking the stair gate and baby-proofing kitchen cabinets.

Kate, who is 5, is good with him, although she's always trying to pick him up and be a little mother.

This past weekend, she must have heard him wake up before we did, because when I awoke, I noticed Kate was not in her bed. I found them both in his crib playing. At least she crawled in and didn't attempt to get him out. He thinks she's the

As far as Johnie goes, he's too young to make any predictions, but it will be interesting to know what he will call himself. Will it be Johnie or John, or will Bon Jovi stick?

I'm sure his parents hope that doesn't hap-podium, the council continued on with regular business. However, an action item was listed under the finance committee report, asking that the city give authorization to hire an attorney in the event that the Stines' case went to court.

Aldermen balked at the proposal, not making a motion to hire the attorney.

Alderman Glenn Linnertz asked if the city would have to hire an attorney if the authorization was given, suggesting that there was still room to compromise with the Stines.

Alderman Mike Reed said that, in the past when similar mistakes were made, the city sought full payment. He said it could set a bad precedent for the city to compromise with one business while having sought full payment from oth-

City attorney Paul Ray said the authorization does not require the city to hire a private attorney. It only gives the city permission to do so.

The motion was then made for the council to discuss the matter in executive session.

However, the Open Meetings Act clearly states that going into an executive session requires the imminent or probable threat of litigation. The law states that litigation has to be filed or pending, or that the likelihood of litigation is imminent or probable. It could be illegal for the city to enter executive session if litigation is merely possible. Ray said that since offers from the city have been made and declined, that allowed the city to enter executive session under the guise of probable litigation.

When this statement was made, Missy Stines seemed shocked, remarking that the business has never threatened the city with litigation.

After 20 minutes in executive session, the council returned to the public setting. The council passed two resolutions: the first allowing Mayor Tim Lowry to present a final offer to the Stines and the second allowing the city to hire Sparta attorney Alan Farris in the event that the Stines declined the

During the motion to make the final offer, Alderman Susan Harbaugh gave an indication of what the final offer would be. She suggested that the offer would allow the Stines to repay the money over a period of seven and a half years but would still require that the full $21,030 be paid by the Stines.

After the meeting, Matt said he will reserve judgment until he sees the final offer in writing.

Matt said the offer that Harbaugh indicated sounded like the same one that was presented to them before.

"We'd just like to have a reasonable resolution with the city," he said. "We'll think about Live WellFREE6 WEEK Be Well Anyone living with a Chronic Illness OR anyone who is a caregiver for someone with Chronic Disease. · Building a more effective relationship with your doct Solving problems

The special airs Sunday, September 17 at 7 p.m. There are 10 episodes featuring nearly 80 interviews with American soldiers, anti-war activists and Vietnamese civilians and combatants from both sides of the conflict.

"The articles the exhibit is based on, although they're news stories, are very emotional as written,' Gangloff said. "The date of their deaths is displayed prominently in the exhibit and drives home how many losses were suffered in a very short time period. By reading the stories of where

Honoring veterans

In conjunction with the countywide exhibit on Vietnam, the libraries in Chester, Coulterville, Red Bud, Sparta and Steeleville will have lapel pins and certificates of appreciation available for any U.S. military veteran who served between November 1, 1955 and April 30, 1975.

To register a veteran for this recognition, call one of the participating libraries.

In addition, the United States of America Vietnam War Commemoration has established a recognition program to honor the unique service and sacrifice made by veterans' families.

Special requests must be made for these designations of pins and certificates of honor. The public has been asked to help in identifying anyone who meets the following criteria:

•Immediate family members of American military personnel listed as missing or unaccounted for by the Department of Defense.

•Immediate family members of a veteran who is listed on the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial in Washington, DC and is not listed as missing or unaccounted for by the DOD.

•Surviving spouse who was the spouse at the time of death of a veteran who served active duty in the military at any time during the period of November 1, 1955 to May 15, 1975.

It is asked that people who meet these categories notify the librarian of the name, rank, date of death and branch of service of deceased military members, along with the name of the family member who is to be placed on the certificate and their relationship to the deceased.

The events are sponsored by the Liberty Bell of the West Chapter of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.

pension code. This ac- to pass two separate schools to receive $150 million more than was allowed in the previous formula.

The basis of the funding formula takes two items into account. The first is how much money it requires to adequately educate a student. The second is how much the district receives in property

Additionally, the bill provides a safeguard for schools, requiring that each district receive at least as much in state funding as it received last year.

Most districts, especially ones in the poorer rural areas, such as those the County Journal covers, will receive more.

All things considered, Schwemmer said Sparta could receive up to $500,000 more than it did last year.

Trico Superintendent Larry Lovel said he was relieved that the funding bill passed.

"The Trico school district is heavily reliant upon state funding,' Lovel said. "Since 2010, our district has used up most of its fund reserves, reduced faculty and staff members ually allowed Chicago working cash resolutions to fill the gaps created by flat funding levels and prorated state funding.'

However, some saw drawbacks in the amended school funding bill. The bill includes a controversial element. That is providing tax credits to people who donate to private schools or charities that give scholarships to private schools. Up to $75 million will be given in tax credits to those who donate.

State Representative Jerry Costello II voted against the funding bill, basing much of his decision on the tax credit issue.

"I think it's wrong to put public dollars into private schools when we haven't been funding public schools adequately," Costello

Aside from the principle of the matter, Costello said the tax credits amount to an unfunded liability. "There is no identified revenue to pay that $75 million," Costello said.

hat was vetted over a four-year period of time," Costello said. "That one had a lot of public input.

The add-on (the funding bill that passed) was formed in less than a week behind closed doors."

The tax credit provisions allow an individual to donate up to $750 to a private school and up to $1 million to a non-profit group that funnels funds to private schools. The tax credit is worth up to 75 percent of the funds donated. So, if an individual donates $1 million to a non-profit, that individual could receive up to $750,000 in tax

Costello said the entire basis of the new school funding formula is helping out public schools that have not been adequately funded.

"Until those schools are adequately funded, we shouldn't be pushing public dollars into private schools," Costello said.

State Senator Paul Schimpf voted in favor of the funding bill. He said the bill isn't perfect, but necessary. Special P'ville blood drive

"I'm relieved that the funding impasse is

He gave three reasons for his choice: The bill ended the Chicago block grant, which he said was a major factor in Chicago receiving a disproportionate amount of funds. The state was able to remove most of the Chicago teacher pension costs from the general funding bill. The state is still required to pay $40 million for pension costs.

His third reason was that it allowed public schools to remain

Stellhorn back from homebuilding trip to Dominican

Working shoulder to shoulder with her team members and local volunteers in San Juan de la Marguana, Dominican Republic, Thrivent Financial's Julie Stellhorn of Baldwin recently returned from a homebuilding trip.

Stellhorn was able to work alongside the future homeowner and other members of community.

The week-long Thrivent Builds Worldwide trip is part of the partnership between Thrivent and Habitat for Humanity International, called Thrivent Builds with Habitat for Humanity.

"It was such a remarkable experience," Stellhorn said. "It was an unforgettable way to live out my faith and to live generously in a different setting."

Stellhorn worked in the community of El Capa, where many of the homes were made of a mixture of sticks, mud and discarded wood. Most homes had dirt floors.

Stellhorn's team worked on many projects, including painting a previously constructed home, digging footings for a future home and pouring concrete floors in homes that previously had dirt

"Even though there was a language barrier, we were never at a loss for communicating with these families," Stellhorn said. "Their joy is apparent in all they do. This was a very emotional experience for the entire team."

Stellhorn's team also visited families living in Habitat homes, touring the area and visiting landmarks.

The need for simple, decent housing in the Dominican Republic is great, and Thrivent members are making a positive impact through this program.

Water, sewer, trash bills are going up in Campbell Hill

Campbell Hill residents will soon see an increase in their bills for water, sewer and trash collection. The town board held a special meeting in August and approved to raise the rates. Kinkaid recently increased the amount it charges towns for water by 30 cents per 1,000 gallons.

In town, the cost for water will increase by 50 cents for the minimum first 2,000 gallons to $13. The next 1,000 will be $5 and each additional 1,000 gallons $4.50.

For out-of-town customers, the initial charge will be $13.50.

For sewer, the first 2,000 gallons will be $7.50 then $2.50 per 1,000 afterwards.

Trash pickup goes up 25 cents a month to $15.50.

The increases take effect with the October bills.

The board also entered into a contract with J.T. Blankinship engineers of Murphysboro to apply for a water improvement

Aerial herbicide to be applied at Turkey Bluffs

During the latter part of September, people in the vicinity of Turkey Bluffs State Fish and Wildlife Area might see a helicopter applying herbicide to certain parts of the site. The application of the herbicide Transline will be applied to kudzu that is slowly devouring the woods. Use of a helicopter will allow a more precise application and provide better coverage for greater kill of the plant. Kudzu has always been a part of Turkey Bluffs since state ownership. Unsuccessful efforts to control the exotic plant over the years has, to a certain extent, made it seem like the kudzu patches were not getting any larger. However, monitoring over the last five years has shown that patch sizes are growing. Since kudzu vines have the ability to grow one foot a day, patch size could easily double in a few short years if left untreated. The primary concern would be for hunters and hikers on site at the time of application. The application of Transline will not create any environmental hazards and will be made within forested areas only. Application will also only be made during the best weather conditions to avoid any off-target damage. Transline does target legumes, making soybeans susceptible, but it should not be an issue, since all target zones are within the interior of the site.Neighboring landowners or farmers should not need to be concerned. However, if damage is suspected after application, notify staff at the Randolph County State Recreation Area.

Because spraying is weather dependent, a specific date cannot be made at this time. Signs will be posted at the Hunter Check and Information Center as far in advance as is possible to warn any site users and at the site entrance on the day of spraying.

While the herbicide that is being used is not dangerous, people should avoid areas when it is being applied.

C'ville changes property maintenance procedures

By Jeff Blair

Coulterville residents who violate the village property maintenance ordinance will no longer receive a certified letter giving them a certain number of days to remedy the violation before a citation is issued.

Town board members voted Tuesday night to approve a change in the ordinance. Now residents will receive a citation from police with a court date on it if they violate the property maintenance ordinance.

If the violations are corrected in an allotted number of days specified in the citation, the resident will not have to go to court.

It was noted that the village has been receiving complaints on how long it is taking for some people to clean up their properties.

Board members believe the change in the ordinance will save the village time and resources. The revised ordinance will hopefully make the process faster and more efficient.

In other notes, the asphalt areas and walking track at the ballpark need patching and sealing ing and sealing.

Board member
Tabitha Knope said
she met with a contractor and has one quote. She will check with several other contractors and see if she can get more quotes and present the information at the next board meeting.

tronics recycle day.

It was announced that the Chamber of Commerce fall festival will be September 23.

Baldwin residents question summons

By Jeff Blair

The village of Baldwin has been cracking down on property maintenance issues recently. Several residents have received citations and court dates for not keeping their properties in satisfactory condition.

Tara Warren and Tim Goodman were recently notified that they would be required to appear in Randolph County court due to property maintenance issues at their home. Warren and Goodman attended Tuesday night's village board meeting.

Warren said they did

Warren said they did not receive notice that they were in violation of the village property maintenance ordinance.

"The first thing we heard about it was when we got the court summons," she said.

Village President Jimmie Niemeyer said a notice had been mailed prior to the issuance of a citation.

"It was mailed," Niemeyer said. "We can't be held responsible for what happens to the notice after we mail it. That is a postal service issue.

Several received citations for not keeping their properties in satisfactory condition

"We are just wanting the property cleaned up."

Village attorney Lucas Liefer was in attendance and told Warren and Goodman that if they were willing to meet with a board member to go over the issues that need corrected and comply with the village's request, he would postpone the court date, which is set for September 14.

Goodman agreed to meet with a board member Friday evening.

In other notes, board members heard from Sacoyya Davis with Ameren. The village's natural gas franchise agreement with Ameren expires October 31. Davis asked the board to consider renewing a 20-year agreement.

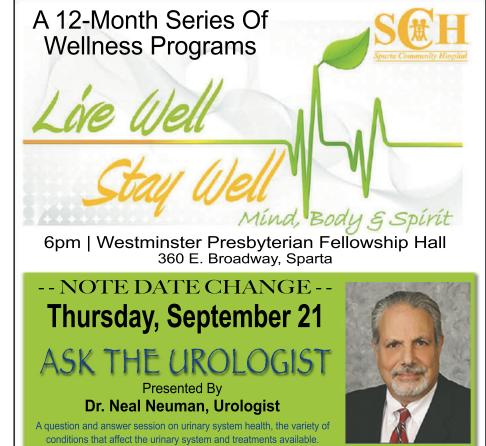

One change in the agreement is that, in the past, the village received free therms. Under the new agreement they will get cash compensation in the amount of $830 a year.

The board voted to approve the new agreement.

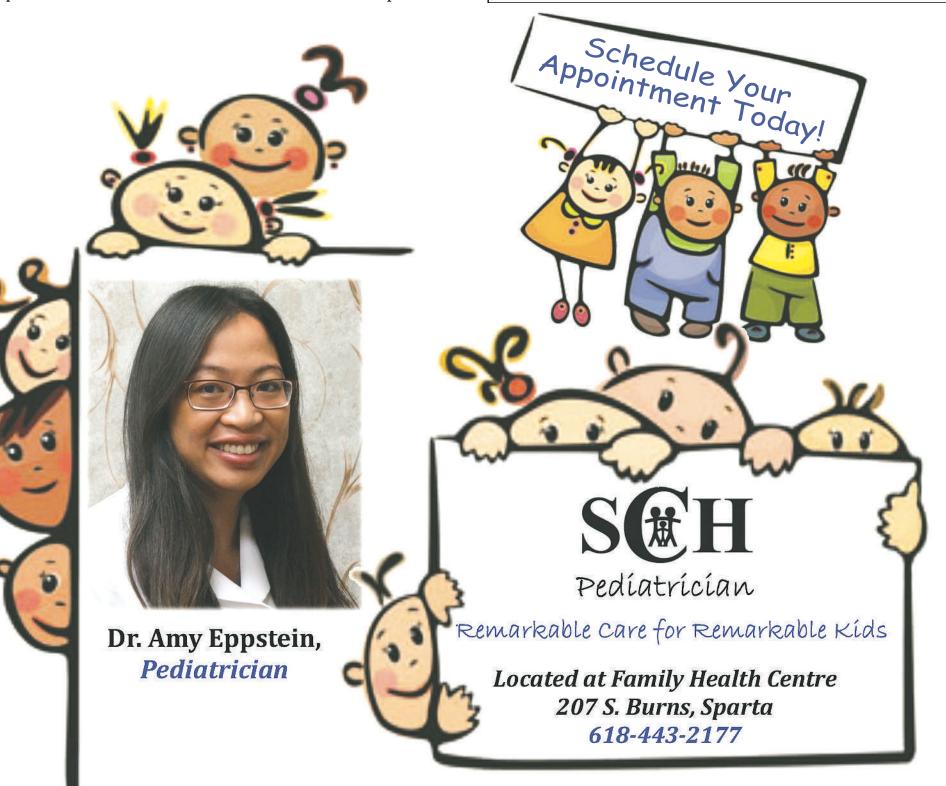

Liefer presented a draft of the new water bill ordinance. He noted that the current ordinance states that residents who are having difficulty paying their water bills should meet informally with the village clerk.

Liefer said it is not good to have the word informal in the ordinance. He recommended having it read that residents who want to discuss their water bills should request to be put on the meeting agenda and bring their questions and concerns to the board.

Board members will review the ordinance and possibly vote on it at the next meeting.

Battle of the trenches

Benton too much for Sparta

The Sparta High School football team came out on the losing end of the score September 1 at home, falling 29-13 to Benton at home, but the Bulldogs were able to put together a better overall effort than in their Week 1 loss to

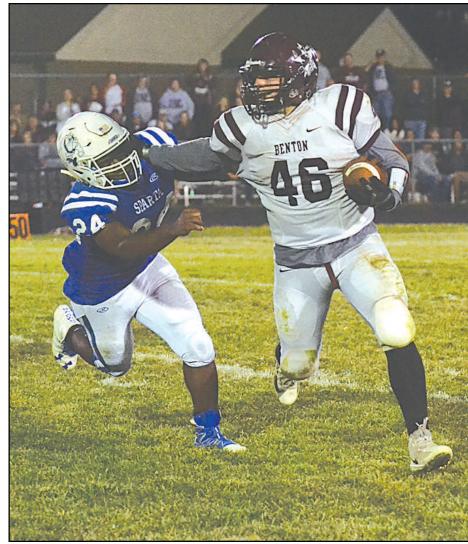

"It was a much better game defensively," said Sparta coach Rob Kirk. "We were able to play better offensively and control the ball and take some time a couple of pass defensive errors early, and (Benton) had to go to their ground game once we made some adjustments."

The 16-point margin of defeat for Sparta was the tightest game the Bulldogs have been part of since a 14-7 loss to Pinckneyville in Week 4 last

In this game against Benton, Sparta held the Rangers scoreless in the second half.

"We tightened up in the second half, and they didn't get on the scoreboard," Kirk said. "It's been a long time since we've shut down a team in part of a competitive game like that.'

Benton built a 6-0 lead on a Hamilton Page 78-yard touchdown pass before Sparta found the end zone to knot the game up at 6-6.

Benton running back Blane Pankey stiff arms Sparta defensive back Jonathan Williams during a run in the second half of the Benton victory over Sparta.

The Rangers scored several more times to close out the first half with a 29-6 advantage.

The Bulldogs were able to tack on a score in the second half to make it 29-13, but neither team scored again.

Kijah Banda tossed touchdowns to Carlos Keen and Seth Berry for Sparta.

"We had much better blocking on offense," Kirk said. "We had our best blockers in the game, and that helped us sustain drives. We preached all week to better blocking and taking better angles on defense. That helped us keep the game close.

Defensively, Kirk also liked what he saw from the unit.

"It was good to see better angles taken and better tackles,' Kirk said. "I think they were more committed to team ball. We didn't really do anything different compared to the Freeburg game, but we made some personnel adjustments and benefitted from that."

Sparta will host West Frankfort (1-1), a team the Bulldogs are 2-1 against under Kirk, Friday in its final nonconference bout before SIRR Mississippi play begins in Week 4.

"I think we match up well with West Frankfort with our speed against their size," Kirk said. "We still want to strengthen our inside run to help us get on the edge a little more and use our speed."

Middendorf gives verbal to JALC

Area softball stalwart

Steeleville senior Lexi Middendorf, one of the area's top prep softball players, made her verbal commitment last week to play softball at John A. Logan College in Carterville.

"It's very exciting," Middendorf said. "It's just a great relief for me. I can focus on all my schoolwork now, and it makes me a lot more excited for college." Middendorf has been a staple for the Lady

Warriors at shortstop and in the middle of the Steeleville lineup for the past three seasons, as she was named to the Illinois Coaches Association all-state second team as a freshman and junior and to the first team as a sophomore. "For the last three years, Lexi has been one of our best hitters," said Steeleville coach Andy Gerlach. "I think she has Division I talent. I think John A. Logan will be super happy to have her there.' Middendorf's three-year statistical totals include 27 home runs, 29 doubles, 109 runs scored and 129 RBIs. She has also stole 44 bases, while walking 29 times compared to just 33 She has never hit lower than .464 in a season. In her first-team all state season, Middendorf batted .584 with .625 on-base and 1.089 slugging percentages. "I think she'll go down there and play very well at John A. Logan," Gerlach said. "The game just comes to her, and how she presents herself on the field is outstanding. She's a great Middendorf said one of the reasons Logan stood out to her is how close it is to home.

"Last year, John A. Logan had a successful program," Middendorf said. "I really like their coach (Taylor Orsburn). I liked the idea of getting my general (studies) taken care of there, and I wanted my family to be able to come watch me.

Middendorf will not be the only Lady Warrior playing for the Lady Vols, as Steeleville teammate Josie Raby is also slated to join the club.

"It makes me feel a lot more at home," Middendorf said. "I think it will be a blast there. I'm very excited and looking forward to it." With her softball future taken care for the foreseeable future, the three-sport athlete, who also plays volleyball and basketball, will turn her attention to her senior season of prep sports, including avenging a disappointing end to last softball season. The Lady Warriors finished 23-4 last year, including a Cahokia Conference Kaskaskia Division title, but lost in the regional semifinals in an upset by Elverado.

The team, though, is just two years removed from a sectional championship appearance, and Middendorf believes this team can make a deep run this year.

"Last year, we didn't do as well as we hoped," Middendorf said. "I think we'll be even better

Chester's Mason Westerman (21) gets sandwiched between a pair of Fairfield defenders in the Yellow Jacket loss to the Mules.

Air attack sparks Fairfield in 56-22 win over Chester

No answer for Mule offense

By Dan Zobel Fairfield up over 400 yards on the ground with its smash mouth tripleoption style of offense, but it was two key pass plays that vaulted the Mules past Chester, 56-22, on the road in Black Diamond Conference football action.

"We pride ourselves in having six or seven guys who can run the ball," said Fairfield coach Justin Townsend. "We had a couple of guys cramping up, so we used all six or seven tonight. It just goes back to some of our system and trusting our offensive line. They did a tremendous job.

"Our quarterback did a great job staying in there on those passes. He got hit on both of them and he stayed in the pocket and completed them."

The 34-point margin was hard to foresee during a wild second quarter that saw Fairfield outscore the Yellow Jackets 24-22 to take a 32-22 advantage into halftime.

Chester rallied to take the lead in that quarter before seeing Fairfield gain it back in a hurry.

Leading 8-0, the Mules were on the verge to go ahead two scores late in the first quarter, but the Yellow Jacket defense snuffed out a Fairfield drive when Keith Kiner and Erik Cowell brought running back Wyatt Gilbert to the ground at the Chester two-yard line on a fourth down play.

The Yellow Jacket offense then turned the tables and drove 98 yards on 12 plays to find the end zone, when Nick Meyer passed to Curt Meyer for a 10-yard touchdown pass with 11:17 to play in the second quarter.

Nick Meyer completed six passes for 72 yards on the drive. The two-point conversion failed, leaving Chester behind, 8-6.

Fairfield answered with a touchdown of its own, coming on the ground when Gilbert scooted 31 yards up the middle for a score. The two-point conversion was good to make it 16-6.

Gilbert finished with 174 yards on 16 carries.

Chester fired back with a quick threeplay strike when Meyer found Kiner for a touchdown 54-yard pass down the right sideline, to bring the Yellow Jackets back within 16-14.

Fairfield muffed the ensuing kickoff, and Chester recovered the ball at the Mules' 37.

Three plays later, Meyer hit Clayton Richelman with a 31yard touchdown pass. Richelman made an over-the-shoulder catch on the run near the right pylon as he went into the end zone.

The two-point conversion was good to put Chester ahead, 22-16, with 7:10 remaining in the half.

"We have some big weapons on the outside and a pretty good quarterback," said Chester coach Billy Belton. "Keith had a big reception down the sideline, and Clayton had a few under-neath. The Meyer to Meyer connection was also good for us tonight. We have a lot to build on. It will just take some time to put it all together."

Nearly three minutes later, having not thrown a single pass all game, Fairfield quarterback Pruitt unleashed a toss down the right sideline targeted for Dylan Heifner, who juggled the ball but secured it in the end zone for a 35-yard touchdown reception.

The Mules again added the two-point conversion to take a 24-22 advantage, one they would never surrender. 'We felt like we needed a little bit of a spark," Townsend said. "(Chester) had 10 guys in the box essentially committing to our run, and we were still having success running the football. We felt like we needed to do some things in the passing game to soften them up and also kind of switch the momentum." On Fairfield's next possession, Pruitt dropped back to pass on a second down play before finding a wide open Kobi Dagg down the middle of the field for a 40-yard touchdown pass, giving the Mules the 32-22 lead with 2:35 left in the half.

'They run the ball so well, so we had people in the box, and they found us in a cover-two and hit us down the middle," Belton said. "It was a good play call by their coach. When a team runs the ball that well, it's hard to guard the play ac-

Pinckneyville's ofremained work in progress September 1, as the Panthers were defeated 36-14 by West Frankfort in a road nonconference bout. 'We did a much better job not turning the ball over," said Pinckneyville coach Tod Rushing. "We did have some key penalties and some missed blocks that stalled drives, though. We're implementing our new system, so sometimes when players get tired, they go back to old ways of doing things."

The Redbirds were able to use their size and physical nature to wear down the Panthers and control the trenches on both sides of the ball.

West Frankfort (1-1) ran for 469 yards, including a 213-yard and three touchdown performance out of Madison Allen. Sophquarterback Connor Eaton was also a stalwart on the ground, adding 168

Red Bud will enter this matchup after a wakeup call last week when Trenton Wesclin took it to the Musketeers to give Red Bud its first loss of the season. Quarterback Griffin Ziebold continues to shine for the Musketeers, but Red Bud will need someone else to step up in the running game particularly to take some heat off of Ziebold. For Carlyle, the Indians are off to a 2-0 start with wins over Nashville and Freeburg.

Quarterback Alex Huels has found wide receiver Tyler Siever for four of his six touchdown passes, though he has thrown three Siever has added two interception returns for touchdowns, as well as a kick return for

Red Bud faced run-first opponents in the first two weeks, but this week should prove different against the pass happy Indians. The Musketeers need this game and will bounce back with a much needed victory. Prediction: Red Bud 33, Carlyle 28.

Red Bud football falls to Wesclin

Wesclin bruising rushing attack September 1, and Warriors blew past Red Bud for a 49-14 win over the Musketeers in a Cahokia Conference matchup at Wesclin.

"It was an eye opener," said Red Bud coach Dave Lucht. "Generally, we were outplayed and out coached. It was a big check for everybody. We need to make sure the kids work hard during practice and are healthy for game night. For the most part, it's working for health, but it might have caused some bad habits. We need to get back to some physical-Wesclin (1-1) chalked up 422 yards on the ground against the Musketeer defense, including 149 by Gavin Bilbruck and 128 from R.J. Kattenbraker.

That Warrior running game totaled six touchdowns, two each by Kattenbraker and K.J. Corley and one apiece from Bilbruck and Brandt Goings.

"They were physical and we were not," Lucht said. "They did a good job of getting after us. They punched us in the mouth and kept doing it. Once they got up two scores, they made it difficult for us to come back. We didn't force a punt all night, and they just kept pecking away. Every time we made adjustments, they made an adjustment."

Wesclin led 13-0 after one quarter and 27-14 at the half. The Warriors extended their advantage to 42-14 after three. Musketeer quarterback Griffin Ziebold spent most of his night on the move, as Wesclin defenders kept him scrambling.

Still, Ziebold managed to complete 13of-15 passes for 140 yards and a touchdown, as well as to rush for 87 yards on 19 carries.

Those yards were not gained easily, however, as he had a target on his back with Musketeer runners only picking up 46 other yards on the ground.

"The rushing besides Griffin was nonexistent," Lucht said. "He got most of his rushing off of scrambles and a lot of his yards were off of failed pass plays. Even though we're in the spread and we like to pass, the running game has to be there.

"(Wesclin) sent five rushers every time and put linebackers at the line of scrimmage, giving everybody fits. That being said, Griffin did a pretty good job of getting completions, though there was hardly a pass play when he was not scrambling or had someone in his face."

The duress that Ziebold was constantly under was magnified by seven sacks recorded by the Wesclin defense.

Offensively for the Musketeers, Alex Birchler picked up 35 rushing yards on six carries, while Gage Baldwin and Logan

Houba had one carry apiece. "We're just not being physical enough, whether it is not taking on the lead blocker, not being aggressive on our tackles or not swarming to the ball," Lucht said. "We also need to block down field on offense better. They all know what to do, and they are in the right spots for the most part; but they have to be more physical."

Birchler led the Musketeers with four catches for 58 yards. Austin Melliere caught three passes for 57 yards. Seth Bass led the team with eight tackles and Logan Houba was next with seven.

Red Bud will come home for the first time this season Friday to square off with Carlyle (2-0).

second half, and that was (Fairfield's) game plan.

"Overall, I'm happy with our play. I thought the defense played well, and our offense showed some signs of sustaining drives.

The Mules scored their final two touchdowns in the fourth quarter, as Heifner ran from four yards out for a score with 10:29 to play, and Lance Jolly scored from nine yards out at the 6:07 mark.

Heifner finished with 81 rushing yards and Jolly 57. Pruitt was 4-for-5 passing the ball for 112 yards and the two touchdowns. The Mules defense recorded nine tackles for loss, including three sacks.

"I think Chester is going to be a playoff team," Townsend said. "They are very good offensively and will give a lot of teams

Nick Meyer had a stellar game throwing the football, as he completed 10-of-16 passes for 201 yards threeand touchdowns. He added 22 rushing yards.

Hobeck Tristin led the team on the ground with 38 yards on 12 carries. Ethan Bert had one carry for 22 yards.

Richelman hauled in three passes for 70 yards, while Curt three Meyer had catches for 37 yards and Nick Heffernan two catches for 25.

Ethen Eggemeyer paced the team in tackles with 13.

After falling to Eldorado and Fairfield in the opening two weeks, Chester will travel to Hamilton County Friday.

"The good thing is we played with both of those teams," Belton said. "The score got away late, but in the first half, we were hitting with them and they were hitting with us. Somehow, we have to get rid of those big plays. If you take away those big plays, it's a one-score game against both of them."

Claims to have held more reunions than any other Chester High School class

Celebrating 64 years since graduating Chester High School, the Class of 1953 held its 15th reunion at a Chester restaurant August 26, with 19 classmates attending.

The class claims to have held more reunions than any other graduating class from Chester.

The group also announced that 11 classmates have been married more than 50 years, including Harold and Ruth Tiller, 63 years; Ned and Darlene Gillilan, 62; Danny and June James, 62; Roland and Betty Wagner, 60; Joe and Ruby Schirmer, 60; Don and Jeri Wing-erter, 60; Phil and Sugar Smith, 56; Don and Mary Alice Welge, 55; and Joe and Edna Thompson, 53.

Also attending the reunion were Nick Colbert, Gladys Zang Carter, Jack Lindsey, Carol McConkey Hardy and daughter Carla, Barbara Usher Davis, Darlene Eggemeyer Claussen, Violet Luedemann Dierks and guests Paul Guebert and Dale Grott.

During social hour, the group discussed stories from their high school years, the eclipse and traffic congestion that came with it, and local news such as the purchase of the Landmark and the Chester Bridge project.

Class President Ruth Tiller recognized Bet ty Wagner for her citizen of the year award and Don Welge's manufacturing company Gilster-Mary Lee being named 29th out of 150 top private companies in the St. Louis area by the St. Louis Business Journal.

As in the past, the class contributed to the high school band trip to Florida in 2021. This year's donation exceeded all others with a total of $300.

Next year's reunion is scheduled for August 25.

SEPTEMBER 8, 9 & 10

Dear Friends:

The City of Chester is excited to welcome you to the 38th Annual Popeye Picnic on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, September 8, 9 & 10, 2017.

We have entertainment for all age groups and numerous food and game stands. A carnival and inflatables highlight this year's picnic, along with the seventh annual Popeye Car Cruise. Once again, the 5K Run and 1 1/2 Mile Walk will kick off prior to the spectacular Popeye parade on Saturday. There is an incredible list of live music acts and lots of free entertainment, including Poopdeck Pappy's Magic Show, Wimpy's Wiener Dog Race, Popeye's Pet Show, Stewart Minor Escapology Show and much more, which can be viewed at www.popeyepicnic.com.

We are thrilled to present the latest life-sized granite character statue on the Popeye Character Trail. This year's statue is the King Blozo III at the city hall.

Thanks to the Popeye Picnic Committee for an excellent job preparing for this year's picnic. On behalf of the City of Chester, I would like to welcome you to the Popeye Picnic, "Where Friends Meet."

Sincerely,

pearance, Blozo would appear again as a recurring character in the 1948 comic book series by Segar's assis-

Elzie Segar's wife Myrtle, left, and their daughter Marie visited the dedication of the Popeye statue in Chester June 25, 1977. Son Tom Segar was also in attendance. That statue started the celebration of Popeye in Chester. It was a project of Xi Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Making the catch

This photo is from last year's Popeye parade. A young boy is just about to catch a small bouncy ball thrown out of this 1923 T-Bucket vehicle. The car's driver is owner Danny Helfrick of Smithton. Seated with him is his good friend Norman Grau of Chester. The T-Bucket will be in the parade again this year.
