NEW STUDENTS

NAMES AND ADDRESSES OF STUDENTS WHO HAVE LATELY ENTERED THE UNIVERSITY

A necessarily incomplete list of new students in the different departments gives a total of 50 who enter this term—16 in the Law Department, 33 in the Collegiate Department and 1 in the Homeopathic Department. The university attendance for the fall term was 1394 divided as follows:

Collegiate 679
Law 209
Medical 238
Homeopathic 76
Dental 136
Pharmacy 56

Some few students have dropped out of the university since the close of the fall term, but the number will hardly exceed ten or a dozen. The registration today is therefore, 1430 or more.

The names of the new students, with their classes and city addresses when given, is as follows:

GOV. SHAW'S MESSAGE

THE MANAGEMENT OF THE UNIVERSITY COMMENDED—NEEDED APPROPRIATIONS APPROVED

Governor Shaw transmitted to the General Assembly, Tuesday, his second biennial message. Following are extracts from the message referring to the university:

The general assembly will, of course, carefully examine the report and recommendations of the Board of Regents of the State University. Here increased appropriations are also asked, and are much needed. I think it can be safely said that no university has ever accomplished more with such limited means. Certainly no money has been squandered, and the results have been phenomenal. In view of the existence of a large number of denominational institutions in the state, most of them furnishing excellent opportunities for the acquisition of what may be called a collegiate education, it would seem to me unwise to leave our state university a university in name only, but a college in fact. Professional departments do not differentiate a college and a university. The state should provide that which private enterprise and philanthropy do not. The State University should be made the center around which all public and denominational schools and colleges should cluster, and it should be able to furnish the graduates from all these institutions university advantages. The people of Iowa are prepared, in my opinion, to welcome a new era of university influence. This can be brought about only by a more liberal policy, which will be found conservatively outlined in the report of the board of regents.

The Twenty-sixth General Assembly directed the levy of a special tax of one-tenth of one mill per annum for five years for the improvement fund of the university. The Twenty-seventh General Assembly continued this tax for one year. This enabled the board of regents to act intelligently and with full knowledge of the amount to be realized from the appropriation. The result is a much needed Collegiate building, which, when completed, would be an honor to any educational institution in the United States. I think this special tax can be safely continued for an additional five years, lest it appear excessive, it may be well to know that even with this special appropriation the University of Iowa is not being dealt with very liberally. The present income of this institution can be doubled and still be below the average of similar institutions in other states. Nebraska expends annually over $280,000 in support of its university; Minnesota and Illinois each expends over $350,000; Wisconsin over $400,000; and Michigan over $500,000; while the annual income of the University of Iowa is $150,038. Iowa cannot compete with other states without fearlessly meeting the conditions.

I doubt the wisdom of duplicating unnecessarily the departments of our three great educational institutions. They should be in no sense rivals. The university should not be a school of polytechnics, but in fact a university. The normal schools, assuming we must have more than one, should not be colleges of liberal arts, and neither the University nor the College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts has place or room for chairs of pedagogy. Let the special field of each be kept distinct, and each perfected by liberal appropriations. Then all shall know where the object of their quest can be obtained, and the state will be able to furnish as good as the market affords.

Pharmacy Items

Dean Boerner is on the sick list.

J. W. Senn has been quite ill. Though not entirely recovered he is attending classes.

Miss Miller, of Amana, spent several days the first of the term with her brother, F. W. Miller, '00.

R. H. Gates, '01, returned Monday night. He was late on entering school on account of illness.

C. H. Carroll, of Marcus, was called here by illness of his boy Berdine. He returned home last week.

Rumor has it that one of the members of the Junior Class renounced single blessedness to enter the wedded state during vacation. We have not yet learned the particulars.

A most excellent treatment of municipal problems of today is found in the December number of Progress, the official organ of the University Association of Chicago. The two articles, "Municipal Monopolies," by Dr. Edward W. Bemis, author of a volume on the same subject, and "Municipal Government," by C. R. Woodruff, Secretary of the National Municipal League, are interesting, up-to-date writings on the subject of municipal reform that will interest all students of modern politics and economics.

Assistant Professor Shimek left Tuesday for Crete, Nebraska, to deliver a series of lectures before the Saline County Farmer's Institute. He will talk upon botany, forestry, and upon what science has done for the farmer. After concluding these lectures Mr. Shimek will spend a few days in the western part of Nebraska, looking up some botanical points of interest.

The three literary societies of the university, Tabard, Ivy Lane, and Polygon, will bring to Iowa City, Mr. Hubbard, of East Aurora, New York, to lecture on The Work of the Roycrofters. Mr. Hubbard is the Head Persian, the Fra Elbertus, of the Roycroft community and should have some things of interest to impart to university students. The lecture will occur at Close Hall, January 22.

The Phi Kappa Psi fraternity has entered into a contract whereby they will have the fine residence on College street, now occupied by J. L. LeFevre, for a chapter house. The dwelling being large, well arranged and equipped and pleasantly located will make for Iowa Alpha a most enviable home. The property will be vacated some time during the coming summer and the chapter will begin life in their new home at the opening of next fall term.

The Governor's Message

Governor Shaw in his second biennial message transmitted to the General Assembly Tuesday, endorsed the increased appropriations asked for by the regents of the university and also the continuance of the one-tenth of a mill building tax for a further five-year period. The governor commends highly the management of the university by the regents. The regents have asked that the present annual income of the university be increased by $50,000 for the next biennial period. The governor points out that an increase amounting to three times that sum would still leave the university with an income below the average of universities in surrounding states. The regents have made a very modest request of the General Assembly, only asking for an appropriation barely sufficient to carry on the work of the university for the two years to come. Compared with increase asked by the regents, the State Normal School and the State Agricultural College, two departments, have asked for twice as much as the regents have said would suffice for their six departments. The General Assembly should find no difficulty in giving the regents of the university the amount asked for without abridgement or reduction.

The governor makes an excellent suggestion that the different educational institutions of the state should not encroach upon each other, that they should not become rivals for students in the same branches.

The different institutions of state instruction should be built up along the lines for which they are founded and supported and no one of them should needlessly offer courses of study intended to rival those of another institution to which the courses properly belong. The harmony which exists at present between the other state institutions—and, indeed, all the colleges of the state—and the university will naturally lead to less of this in the future than there has been in the past.

It is doubtless true that when the four proposed normal schools have been effectively established, there will be less need than there is at present for a chair of pedagogy at the university. But the statement of the message that there should be no chair of pedagogy at the university is inconsistent with the recommendation that, in lieu of desired normal facilities, the denominational colleges of the state should be allowed to grant state certificates to graduates of their normal departments who have passed the requirements of the state board of educational examiners. If such a necessity as this exists, it would seem that it furnishes sufficient reason for the temporal continuance, at least, of a chair of pedagogy at the university.

A Brilliant Paragraphist

For some time we have remarked an elegant paragraphist on the staff of the Kansas University Weekly. The sparkling things that appear in its columns are not usually hampered by any regard for the facts of the case nor by any fine consideration for the feelings of the gentlemen who may chance to read them. His meaning, too, is frequently quite as obscure as the ordinary run of short paragraphs furnished by the editorial page of the Daily Republican. But nevertheless, we must admit that for wit and good writing, breadth of vision and earnestness of moral character, the things that this brilliant stylist has written are unapproachable.

Some time ago a stray copy of a University of Iowa paper wandered into its sanctum and forthwith we heard some keen and witty sayings about Iowa's charging $5 admission for every foot-ball game and then complaining about the small attendance at the games.

Another paragraph noting that Iowa students had to obtain permission from the president to leave town and wonder how long free and independent Kansas would stand that sort of thing, was copied by the VIDETTE-REPORTER and was alluded to by President MacLean at the last convocation.

Since then this paragraphist has run along in the usually bright tenor of his way. While he was doing this it happened that an unlucky wright on the staff of the Kansas City Journal wrote out what he thought would make a good all-round western team—made a horrible mistake at it too, and of course he had to suffer for it as follows:

It is very evident that the sporting editor of the Kansas City Journal ought to take a day off and learn the game of foot-ball since neither Wilcox or Krebs are given any mention in his all-western team. If there is any man on the Missouri valley who is ahead of Wilcox as a tackle we should like to see him. Mr. Washer of Kansas City is not so many, in spite of Coach Arthur St. Leger Mosse to that effect.—K. U. Weekly.

It is just such nice bits of English as these which this brilliant fellow gets off that make us feel proud of him as a representative of college journalism, for he is a fellow that knows more now than his father or even Solomon in all his glory ever knew.

It is so seldom that we are given the opportunity to see a really good performance of the good old plays that we cannot afford to miss the opportunity when it is afforded. The performance of the William Owen Company at the Opera House, on the evenings of Monday and Tuesday, January 15th and 16th will undoubtedly be dramatic treats. Mr Owen has a great reputation for his portrayal of the character of David Garrick in the play by that name, also for his Richelieu, Bulwer Lytton's masterpiece. Special attention is paid to the stage settings in all of Mr. Owen's productions, and the costumes are magnificent and all historically correct as well as all the special scenery that is carried by this company. The Polygon was entertained by Professor and Mrs. Ansley last evening.

The Hesperians will give a special program on Saturday evening, Jan. 20.

Chas. Foy, '01, has left the university. He has been offered a position on the road.

The Junior Laws began moot court on January 10th. Struble was appointed clerk.

Miss Amy Loizeaux, who has been spending a week with her sister, has returned to Des Moines.

Thompson, I, '00, is having an addition put upon his chin. Weaver, I, '01 has had his taken off.

The University Museum has received an excellent collection of relics and curiosities from the Philippine Islands, the gift of Harry M. Griffith, '01, who was in the islands with the 51st Iowa and has returned to enter the university this term.

The Hesperian Society's representatives on the Cornell debate are Misses Fesenbeck, Gow, and Lodwick. The question chosen for debate is: Resolved, that Every City of 8000 or More Inhabitants Should Provide a System of Employment for its Dependents. Cornell has chosen the negative.

Hesperians have chosen the following debaters for the Erodolphian-Hesperian contest: Misses Baughman, Shuck and Waller.

The Sophomore Cotillion this year promises to be the largest ever given in history. In view of the fact that it is the only social event before Lent an unusually large number have already signified their intentions of going.

The Wisconsin preliminary debate will occur Wednesday evening, January 17th, at the Opera House. Chancellor McCain, Professor W. C. Wilcox, and Judge Wade have been chosen as judges, but have not as yet signified their acceptance.

The high school teachers and scholars of Cedar Rapids will be the guests of the university Saturday. A excursion will be run from Cedar Rapids to Iowa City and the day will be spent in looking over the university campus, museums and laboratories.

Frank Russell, '93, will lecture at Close Hall, February 7th, on the Snake Dance of the Moki Indians. Mr. Russell is a distinguished alumnus who made several explorations for the university, the results of which he published last year in a book entitled Explorations in the Far North, issued by the University Press. He is now instructor of auteropology in Harvard. He lately made a trip to the homes of the Moki Indians under the auspices of Harvard College. He will present some of the results of this trip in his lecture in Iowa city.

Miss Brown will organize a beginner's class in dancing Saturday night, Jan. 13, at Smith's armory. Any who desire to master the waltz and two-step will find this a splendid opportunity.

Professor Harris' prose translation of Goethe's "Hermann and Dorothea" is for sale at Lee & Ries' Bookstore for 45c. It gives an accurate rendition of the work.

Dr. Gilchrist will lecture on Westminster Abbey at Close Hall, January 15th. Proceeds for the benefit of Y. W. C. A. and the Episcopal church. Admission 25 cents.
