Magee Pardon Legal Says Supreme Court

SANTA FE, N. M., Dec. 21 (AP)—Carl C. Magee, Albuquerque editor, tonight stood cleared of all charges of contempt of court arising from his utterances both verbally and in print during his fight against political conditions in New Mexico for the past few years.

He was freed today when the state supreme court upheld the power of the governor of New Mexico to pardon persons convicted of direct contempt of court.

The decision came in habeas corpus proceedings instituted by Magee's counsel by which they secured his freedom under bond from the county jail of San Miguel county after the sheriff refused to recognize a pardon, issued by James F. Hinkle, then governor of the state while Magee was held in jail at East Las Vegas after being sentenced by District Judge David J. Leahy for contempt of court.

Colorless Frocks Passe in Riot of Hues

In the world of fashion this season, somber things are passe. The woman who formerly sought to attract attention with a perfectly plain black gown that made her look like a young widow is no longer present at our social gatherings.

When milady does wear a black frock she trims it with some colorful stuff to take away the gloom. This truth is illustrated by the model on the left above. It is a two-piece frock of black Carmen crepe and consists of a Russian blouse trimmed with silver and jade green beads.

A formal dancing frock (center) for the debutante is a riot of delicate colors. Petunia and rose colored tulle is worn over a slip of flesh satin.

1-2 degrees, which accounts for the variation in length of the days. Sun Vertical at 23 1-2

During the winter solstice at noon, the sun's rays strike the earth vertically about 23 1-2 degrees south of the equator. Thus, since the equator is always bisected by the circle of illumination, 119 1-2 degrees of the northern hemisphere will be in shadow at the same time that the same amount is illuminated in the southern hemisphere.

When the sun's rays strike the latitudes north of the equator vertically, the days are longer than the nights in the northern hemisphere, and the sun's rays strike the surface in the northern hemisphere less obliquely than in the southern hemisphere. On the other hand, when they are vertical south of the equator, nights are shorter in the southern hemisphere.

SANFORD'S PASTE

"Choose Foreign Language to Supplement Major," Says Bush

"Make your choice of a foreign language fit with the major you have selected," is the advice of Prof. Stephen H. Bush, of the romance language department.

"Besides being important in itself, Latin makes a very good background for French. French, in the first place, is important internationally. It is used more, perhaps, in international circles than any other modern language and for this reason, it has its practical value. However, to speak a foreign language, extensive study must be taken, and to acquire true native correctness, it is necessary to live in the atmosphere of that language."

"French, as taught in the University of Iowa, has its importance more in the reading of French writings than of the spoken language. A more extensive course than we are now giving must be taken to enable a student to have a good speaking knowledge of the French language."

"The importance of French to the individual rests in the fact that the better French writings have not been translated. We have some translations of general subjects but the specialties have not been translated. There is no subject of general and scientific interest to which France has not made some important contributions. Also, French lit-

Kansas U. Student Flays Cramming in Declining Phi Beta Kappa Key

"To get an 'A' grade requires a degree of docility and useless industry that is fatal to the independence, initiative, and spirit of adventure which are the life blood of the true scholar and scientist," said Floyd Simonton, a senior at the University of Kansas, refusing a membership in Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, according to a report in the Columbia Missourian.

Simonton's attitude towards the society was made public in a letter which said in part: "I honestly believe that in the circumstances of our state universities today with their large classes and unindividual treatment of students, to strive for high grades is detrimental to the best interests of scholarship."

"In short I feel that the grade system of our schools is a false criterion of scholarship and is a dangerous foundation for intellectual idealism and achievement."

"I recall my own experience with grades, for I sadly admit that many of the 'A's' came through the patch of 'grinding,' 'cramming,' doing what the 'prof' expects, and working for grades. I have sacrificed my own development for the empty honor of a grade."

"In our academic system, where so much of the educational system is formal, I do not see how it is possible for a student to be a 'straight A' man without wasting much of his energies on the forms and husks which are inevitable in courses which are taught, not to individuals, but to classes of 30, 50, 100, and even 150."

small bells in connection with the clocks which in the fifteenth century came to be an essential part of the municipal towers of the Low Countries.

It was not long before the mechanism was arranged to play a little tune. More satisfactorily musical effects were sought as the instrument progressed. When a city bought a carillon it was formally welcomed by the burgomaster and people, and amid rejoicings the bells were consecrated with elaborate ceremony.

The bells are tuned to the intervals of the chromatic scale, the compass being three or more octaves. The lowest bell is often many tons in weight with each succeeding bell smaller so that in the highest octaves the weight of each bell is but a few pounds. All the bells are hung so as not to swing. They are connected with a keyboard by which the carillonneur (the musician) causes the clapper to strike the inside of the sound bow of the bell. Frequently there also is a clock work mechanism and a revolving drum which causes a hammer to strike the sound bow from the outside.

House Asks Probe on Manipulation of Crude Rubber Cost

Hull Charges England With "Bad Faith" in Speech

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — A charge of "bad faith" was made against Great Britain today as the House ordered an investigation of alleged manipulation of crude rubber prices by the English colonial governments.

Representative Hull of Tennessee, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, made the charge and declared England "is openly proclaiming that it intends to collect four billion dollars from us in increased rubber prices to pay its war debt."

"Ma" Wins Again; Texas Legislature Will Not Convene

(By The Associated Press) AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 21—Immediate prospects for a special session of the Texas legislature for investigation and possible impeachment of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson were dispelled today by Speaker Lee Satterwhite of the state house of representatives.

Declaring that a special session of the legislature might complicate litigation started by Attorney General Dan Moody in connection with state highway contracts, Mr. Satterwhite declined to call the session as requested by more than fifty members of the house.

Numerous persons offered to "underwrite" a special session, but the attorney general declared this to be illegal. The calling of a special session was put directly up to Iowa's economic and business ill-would disappear.

Rail Presidents Vote to Abolish U. S. Labor Board

CHICAGO, Dec. 21 (AP)—The Association of Railway Executives today approved legislation which would abolish the United States railroad labor board and set up substitutes. President Coolidge's recommendation in his last message that "a serious effort be made to reach an agreement" with labor on legislation was given credit for the action in an official statement of the association.

This statement announced "marked progress toward the adoption of a joint plan," as the result of conferences with representatives of the four engine and train service brotherhoods. It is understood the plan is designed to promote adjustment and conciliation between managements and employees, while reducing to a minimum governmental intervention.

Congress Tackles Farmers Problems

McNary-Haugen Export Bill Re-Introduced in Senate

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Demand for more extensive farm relief legislation than proposed by the administration was voted in the House today coincident with introduction of Secretary Jardine's cooperative marketing measure.

This bill, the only farm measure bearing the endorsement of President Coolidge was introduced in the Senate by Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, and in the House, by Chairman Haugens of the agriculture committee.

Dickinson Asks Legislation Senator McNary, however, reintroduced the McNary-Haugen export corporation bill, frowned upon last session by the President. Representative Dickinson, Republican, Iowa, declared in the House, that farmers demanded some legislation aimed to regulate the sale of surplus crops.

THE MACAULAY CENTENARY

A hundred years ago in August The Edinburgh Review published Macaulay's "Milton," the first of a series of brilliant if not flawless essays. Millions have read them without caring whether Macaulay's prose was perfect, or his facts derived from authentic sources, or his judgment sound.

Particularly the last statement will make the critics gasp. Macaulay's essay was written ostensibly as a review of Gleig's life of Hastings, but what the great Whig did was to tell the world what he thought of Warren Hastings as an Indian administrator.

Macaulay believed that Hastings had removed "the most formidable of his accusers by a process which was strictly legal but arbitrary in his hands. Much as Macaulay admired Burke, the passionate arranger of Warren Hastings, he dared to say that the Viceroy was a statesman of genius, an administrator of rare skill and resolution, and one of "the most remarkable men in our history."

I have not heard a single generalization about women that was not true—Robert Lynd. Christianity does not consist in being good, but in doing good—Robert Quillen.

Basket Ball, Cinder Candidates Take Much Needed Vacation

Cagers Given Only One Week's Layoff

Defensive Performance at Notre Dame, Far Above Par; Chicago, First Big Game

During the next few days the Hawkeye cage squad will get a much needed rest.

The boys returned from South Bend, Indiana, Saturday after suffering their first defeat of the season, at the hands of the powerful Notre Dame quintet. Undaunted by their first set back of the year they worked out in the men's gym for the last practice before the Christmas holidays.

Look Good in Defeat

Although beaten by Notre Dame by the margin of a single point, Coach Barry's team showed such an improvement in defense that the result of the game is almost forgotten. Prior to the Irish game, an average of twenty-six points had been registered against the Iowans by St. Louis, Wabash and Butler and the feat of holding down Notre Dame, which scored 36 points on Minnesota and 30 points on Northwestern, is regarded as encouraging. Hawkeye fans will remember the championship team of 1922-23 recall the fact that Notre Dame trimmed the men of Barry on the Iowa floor, 24 to 23. Then the Hawkeyes rallied and won eleven consecutive conference games and tied with Wisconsin for the championship of the Big Ten. The latest Irish defeat may be a good omen, inasmuch as the more optimistic followers of Old Gold.

Return, December 25

Every member of the squad is expected to return to Iowa City on Saturday, Dec. 26. Although the rest is very short it will no doubt do the men a lot of good as they looked a bit stale in both the Butler and Notre Dame games. With this brief break in training the men should return to practice with the same drive that characterized their playing in the Wabash game.

On Returning

On returning, the squad will work out in the men's gym twice a day. In the morning, practice will be held at 9 o'clock and in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. In this way Coach Barry will be able to smooth out the rough spots that have been so noticeable in the early season games.

Maroons, Week, January 9

Just one week after the squad returns they will journey to Marquette, Wis., where they will meet Marquette University. This will mark Iowa's last practice game and they will then turn their attention to quintets of the Big Ten conference. Chicago will be the Hawkeye's first conference rival. They will be played in the Windy City on the night of January 9.

St. Patrick's Five Will Take Vacation

A two weeks' rest will be given St. Patrick's basketball squad before they will be called upon to resume training. No practice will be held until after New Year's Day, when intensive drilling will begin again.

The next cage contest on the Irish schedule is the game with Immaculate Conception high school of Cedar Rapids. It will be played on the St. Patrick's floor Jan. 2. A game may be arranged for Jan. 3, as two teams are now trying to secure a game with the Irish on that date. Father Yala, the coach of St. Patrick's cagers has not decided whether he will schedule a game for this date.

The Irish had a successful pre-holiday campaign when they defeated four teams. The Alumni, Kinross, St. Mary's of Iowa City, and the Muscatine Preps were the victims. St. Mel's of Chicago, national Catholic prep champs, had a game scheduled with St. Patrick's but they were obliged to call off their entire western tour at the last minute.

U. High Swimmers Taking Long Rest

With their next contest, a dual meet with East high of Des Moines, not carded until sometime in February, the University high swimming team has been vacationing since their defeat by Omaha tech. Besides the meet with East high the prep tankers may swim Clinton high's tank but the meet has not been definitely arranged as yet. They will also probably swim in the state prep meet.

The meet with Omaha tech marked the end of the prep school swimming days of Bert Nelson, a Black and White backstroke star, for the eighth semester. rule will bar him from further competition.

Dempey, Fitzsimmons in New Contract for Wills' Battle

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21 (AP)—Jack Dempey, champion heavy-weight fighter, and Floyd Fitzsimmons, promoter of the Dempsey-Wills title match, today agreed to new terms for the bout set for next fall whereby Fitzsimmons will pay a considerable amount "on account" to the champion and the latter will post a large bond to insure his appearance in the ring. The new articles of agreement are to take the place of those signed last summer, under which a South Bend syndicate was to back Fitzsimmons in staging the fight at Michigan City, Ind.

Under the new agreement, which is tentative until it is approved by Fitzsimmons' latest acquired backers in Chicago, the champion is said to have the same purse guarantee which was promised him for the fight at Michigan City. The bout, according to the latest plans, may be staged in Michigan City or in any other town of several states, where conditions and boxing regulations are favorable.

Ernie Johnson Gets Portland Manager Job

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Thirteen years ago Ernest Johnson made his debut as a big league outfielder with the Chicago White Sox. Last year he stepped back to the minors. Nine of the 12 intervening years Ernest spent trying to win a regular honest-to-goodness berth as a big league player. He failed, however. The most that can be said of his major league career is that it was spent in waiting for somebody to fall into a slump or a coal hole.

Ernie got his start with the Dubuque club in the Three-Eye League. After a year there he was ready for a big league trial, but first of all took a fling in the short lived U. S. League.

He joined the White Sox at the close of the 1912 season and played short in 18 games, only to find himself sent to Los Angeles the following season. Two campaigns later, a short period of service with the Federal League and Ernie got another chance in the big show—with the St. Louis Browns, where he played second and short ever and anon until shifted back to the coast to join the Vernon team.

That club sent him to Salt Lake and Ernie put in two good years at short for the seat team. Then he was called back to the big show for another trial with the White Sox. He started out as the regular shortstop for Comiskey's crew but eventually found himself filling a utility role. Two years later—1923—he was traded to the Yankees and again found himself on the bench. He played just 31 games in 1923 and 64 the next season.

No one ever questioned Johnson's ability as a fielder. It was his poor stick work that kept him out of the regular lineup.

When the Yankees decided to let Johnson go they turned him over to the St. Paul club, and the Portland club, seeking a manager, put over a deal with the Saints for the infielder. Johnson will not only play an infield position, probably short, but will pilot the team.

There is nothing unusual in the selection of Johnson as manager of a fast minor league team. Many players who failed to hit the high road to fame in the big tent have stepped into the ranks of the minor league mentors and made names for themselves.

Hall First Donned Gloves at Age of 16; Never Taken Count

"Sweet sixteen and never been kissed." When Roscoe Hall was sixteen he could vary that saying to this: "Sweet sixteen and never kissed." Roscoe, a professional boxer, has never kissed the canvas for the count of ten yet; for that is when Hall started professional fighting. And now at the age of twenty-two he still has the same record for in the more than one hundred battles he has been in since then he has never been knocked out.

Hawk History on Grid Outstanding in Past 5 Years

Win 18 Conference Games, Lose 7 and Tie One

An edge on six of the eight western conference football teams played in the past five seasons is in possession of the University of Iowa. The Hawkeyes stand even with the other two and one, Chicago, has not been played. Eighteen games won, six lost and one tied is the record.

Sports historians throughout the country are busy in the holiday fever before the big basketball games start and Iowa's have unearthed the fact that Illinois, Ohio State, Minnesota, Northwestern, Indiana and Purdue have lost more games to the Hawkeyes than they have won. Michigan and Wisconsin have taken an even break. Ohio State, Northwestern, Indiana and Purdue have failed to beat the Hawkeyes over this period.

Card Annual Track Mixer, January 5

First Practice Slated January 6; Relay Carnival to be First Big Meet

Hawkeye track men, both varsity and freshmen will start their long season immediately after Christmas vacation. A track mixer, open to any man in the university has been scheduled by Coach G. T. Bresnahan for Tuesday, January 5, at 7:30 p. m. in the men's gym.

The mixer has been an annual affair for years and is the means of getting the men out to hear the season's plans and to arouse their interest in the sport. Short talks are on the program and training refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the affair.

Wrestlers Wind Up Pre-Holiday Drills

Coach Mike Howard's mat candidates wound up their pre-holiday workouts last night with every man in the best of shape. Coach Howard expressed his satisfaction with the condition of the men and impressed upon them the necessity of continuing their training through vacation, if they are to be ready for the initial match of the season with Wisconsin. The tryouts for this match will be held shortly after the return of the men to school.
