Prologue.

Mortal, of the many ages compassed by the lapse of time,
But a single fleeting moment you can designate as thine.

'Tis thy duty, then, in life time, while as yet 'tis early day,
To accomplish just a little, just that little which you may.

But fulfillment of thy duty, the performance of thy task
Should consist of some achievement which the ages cannot blast.

In the pyramids of Egypt, lasting monuments sublime,
May be seen the great achievements of an ancient by-gone time.

In yon temple of Athena, brilliant gem of Grecian art,
You can find a lasting record, 'tho existing but in part.

Find example yet again in the tales the poet sings,
Where across the Trojan plain the clash of battling armor rings;

Or take the everlasting epic of high Juno's vengeful ire,
Of the wanderings of Aeneas, and of Dido's funeral pyre.

These are but a few examples of the deeds which men have done,
To fulfill their social duty to the ages yet to come.

Hence it was we zealous Juniors, took upon ourselves the task,
To give unto the waiting public something which shall always last.

And it is with greatest pleasure, that at last we can present
Our never-dying Oriflamme, with its light from heaven sent.

Reader, as you wander thro' this book of college lore,
You may find some little errors, but with kindness pass them o'er.

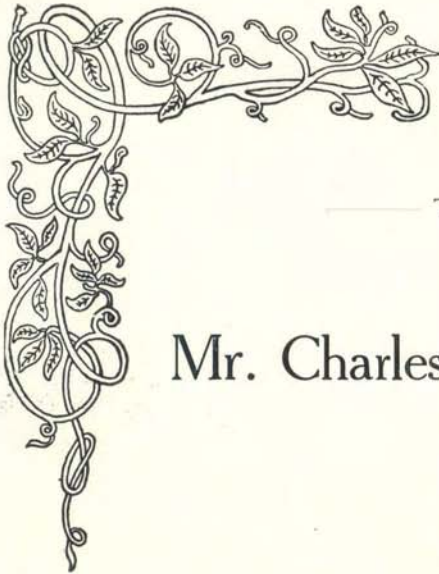

For it was our chief endeavor, in preparing you this book,
To do our best, regardless of the sacrifice it took.

If you do not like the nature of the life it represents;
If you think it rather cutting in the "roasts" that it presents,

Do not censure, but remember 'tis not we who are to blame,
For it is the truth we give you, as before our eyes it came.

Then in kindness scan these pages, in the kindness of your heart,
And remember, in the scanning, that we tried to do our part.

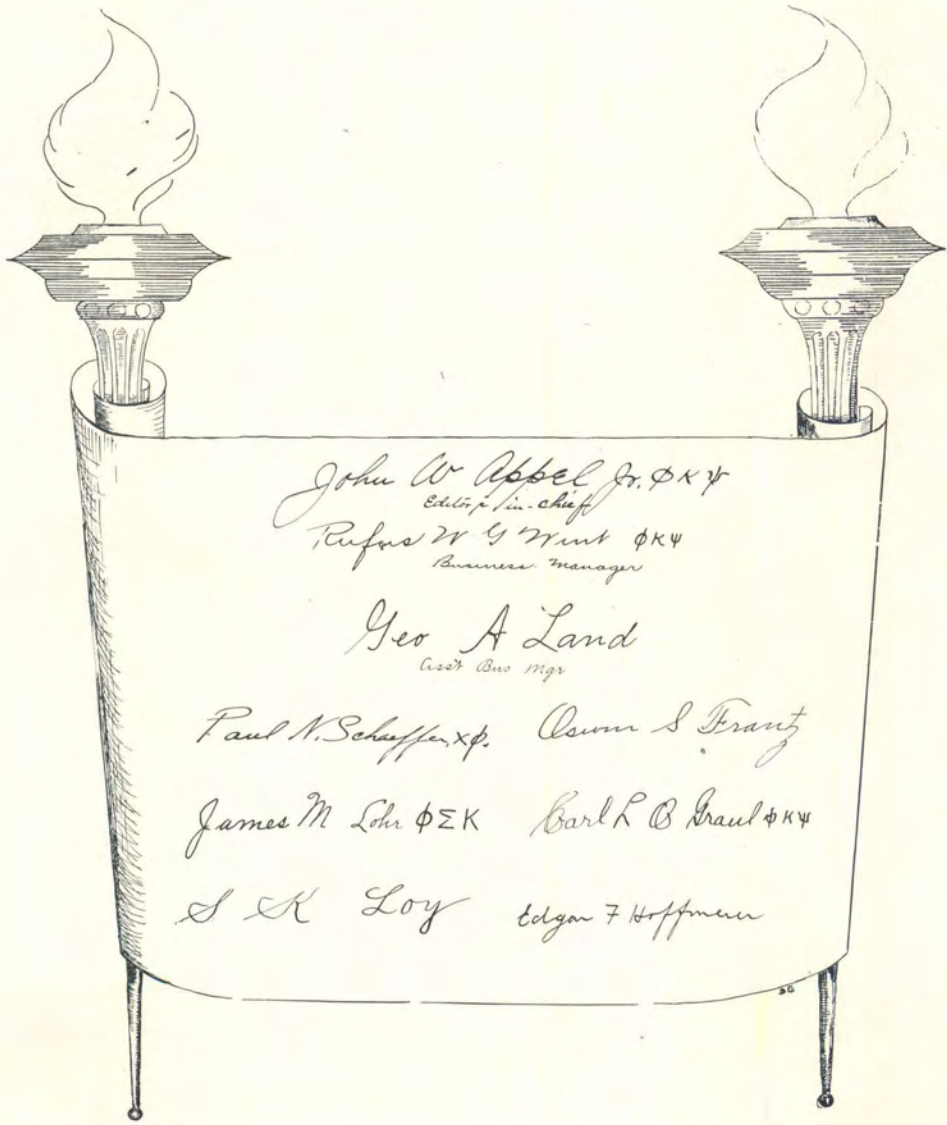

————— To —————

Mr. Charles F. Rengier.

IT IS our privilege to give to the world the twenty-second volume of the Oriflamme, and we do it hoping it will give you as much pleasure as it gave us work. Such as it is we leave it to you judge and criticise. We offer no apologies; we make no excuses for its shortcomings. If you don't like it, that is your misfortune; if you don't like your roast, that's your fault. We see you as you do not see yourselves. What you like, praise, and tell us about it; what you don't like, criticise, but don't let us hear you. We detain you no longer. The book is yours.

Senior Poem.

And has it come—our Senior year!
And must we part so soon,
Say farewell to the friends we love,
And leave these halls in June!

Yes, it has come, our Senior year—
The time we longed for—when
We shall step forth, in labor's ranks,
To march along as men.

Our hearts are full of youthful hope,
We're eager for the fray;
The world demands our services,
We must no longer stay.

And yet we wish our Senior year
Had not come quite so soon,
To part us from the friends we love
And from these halls, in June.

THE WORLD IS MINE THE SENIOR CRIES,
SINCE HE WITH COLLEGE NOW IS THROUGH;
 x x x x
LOOK OUT, WISE SIR, AND PEEL YOUR EYES,
FOR THE WORLD WON'T DO A THING TO YOU.

Senior History.

M. W. Witmer.

ONE more class at Franklin and Marshall—the Class of 1904—has almost completed its undergraduate history. For those of us who belong to that class this history needs no recording; we shall remember, as long as we remember anything, the stirring events of these four important years. The Faculty, too, will remember us without the aid of this chronicle, for they keep a record of their own—as some of us have reason to know. It is important, however, that we record the principal events of our course for the benefit of classes yet to come.

We came to Franklin and Marshall in the autumn of 1900 and are therefore the last offspring of the nineteenth century. There had been rumors that we were to be “the largest class in the history of the institution.” On counting noses, however, we found that we numbered only forty-five. By the end of the year, owing to the law of “the survival of the fittest” we didn’t even number that many.

The principal events of our Freshman year were our matriculation at Franklin and Marshall (thanks to the catalogue—Total Expenses, $189.50); the cane rush, in which we were defeated by superior weight and numbers; the foot-ball game, which we lost by a score of 5-6 because our opponents averaged twenty pounds heavier than we; the base-ball game, which we won by the score of 19-4 because we outplayed our opponents; the reception at the President’s home, where we made our debut in Lancaster society; and, finally, the banquet at York, which was called, by those who could remember it, a "howling success."

Owing to a few unusually heavy men in the Freshman class and an unfortunate accident the athletic history of our Sophomore year was a repetition of the preceding, i. e., defeats in the cane rush and the foot-ball game, but a well-won victory in base-ball. This victory called forth a celebration at the Roof Garden that evening and a demonstration on our Botany trip to York County the next day. After we had learned to bear the smell of alcohol, to swear in German, and to copy drawings fairly well we held a public cremation of our worst enemy, the locust (or was it a grass-hopper?). This was Franklin and Marshall's first public Zoology cremation, and it was witnessed by thousands of people. We also published the first Franklin and Marshall calender. Then, of course, there were in those days (or rather nights) many madcap pranks, but they had better remain unrecorded a few months longer.

Since the beginning of our Junior year we have been the largest class in college. From that time on dates, invitations, opera tickets, and midnight lunches became more frequent. We had many "blowouts," in the laboratories and elsewhere. We also began an evening course in Sociology and Physical Measurements. This course naturally led to the Junior Hop, another of our innovations. Of the "Big Four," and divers other secret organizations, who, if they chose, could "tales unfold," the less said here the better. But in spite of such harmless pastimes we were ever mindful of the needs of our Alma Mater and were therefore the first class to adopt the present honor system.

At the beginning of our Senior year we assumed, with dignity and a due sense of responsibility, the leadership of the student body. We started the movement which resulted in the building of the new bleachers; we added one more function to the social life of the college—the Reception to the Junior Class; and we shall probably renew the custom of wearing caps and gowns during the spring term. "Greenness," "general slubberdegulliousness," "social-cointegration," "wisdom and dignity at last"—these are the meta- morphoses in the evolution of a college man. We all began with the first stage and we believe that we have all reached the last. We are ready to graduate in June, forty-seven cultured men, the second largest class in the history of the institution.

Looking backward along the path whence we came we are proud of the records made by our men in the class-rooms and in all college spheres of activity, proud that so large a number of those who entered as Freshmen remain to graduate and especially proud that we have no married men upon whom the degree of Bachelor will be conferred. Looking forward along the separate paths we must tread we realize that although our undergraduate history is at an end yet our class history has just begun. What that history shall be depends upon each of us individually but with "Persistence" for our watchword and the culture here obtained as an unfailing source of "Power", we hope and trust we may all prove worthy of the institution to which we must so soon bid farewell.

Junior Poem.

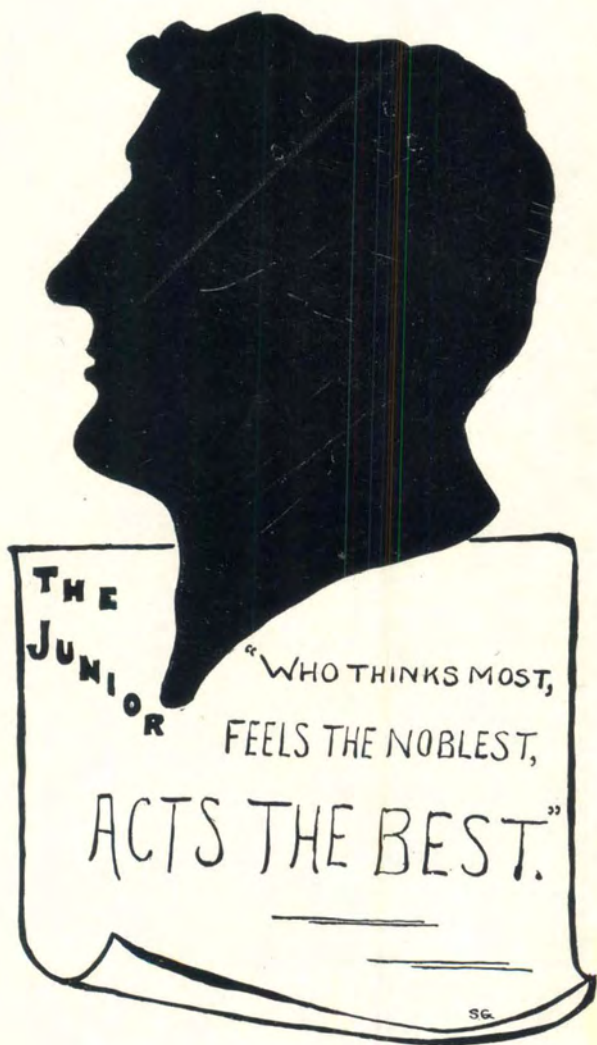

Men whose lives shine forth as jewels,
Through the deeds which they have done,
Never reached their lofty station,
By a single bound or run.

But they labored without ceasing,
Labored long their goal to win,
And at last through patient effort,
All was lost to "Might have been."

Two full years their paths were followed,
By the Junior of today,
And upon the road to victory,
By degrees he wends his way.

Upon the field, athletic,
With the freshman's aims at heart,
Works the sympathetic junior,
Coaching them in foot-ball art.

At assemblies in the ball-room,
With a city maiden, fair,
Always happy, always jovial,
Ah, the junior! Yes, he's there.

Junior History.

James M. Lohr.

THE wings of time have borne us forward so rapidly and with a transition so smooth and easy that it is with saddened hearts that we turn our thoughts backward to review, once more, the past. For, in doing so we come to realize more and more the fact that we are Juniors, yes, Juniors. We have crossed that immortal line which, for ages, has given existence to the two divisions of students, known as upper and lower classmen. Can it be true that we, who, just a short while ago were a terror to the Freshmen, and the very life of Franklin and Marshall with our songs in the college halls and our good behavior in the oratory class room, have passed to that new life of the college student—in which he is usually pictured in evening dress with social engagements by the score—in fact the real man of society. Indeed, after two years of the kind of life which the first half of a college course affords to the members of a class, we find it somewhat difficult to adapt ourselves to the atmosphere of the Junior year, but we pledge our word of honor that we will fill our new role in a manner worthy of ourselves.

To continue unbroken the thread of past events, it will be necessary to carry the reader back, for a short time, to the events of last year. We passed the later months of the winter in providing original entertainment for the Freshmen. We found this necessary in order to keep them from feeling disappointed from a lack of attention on our part. In due order the time for our annual banquet arrived. We found it unnecessary to go to a distant city. Nor were we obliged to keep it a hidden mystery to the Freshmen. As we anticipated, they were contented to group themselves at one corner of the street and watch our progress on the opposite side.

Previous classes have boasted of their zoology cremations, but it remained for the class of 1905 to cap the climax. The class spared neither trouble nor expense in making this cremation the most successful of them all. The immense throng of interested spectators which witnessed the progress of the procession through the streets and the last rites over the remains of Vermes on the field, attested its great success.

Of course, we all anxiously awaited the coming base-ball game with the Freshmen, as probably the last inter-class contest of the year. From the minute the ball first left the pitcher's hand, there was not the shadow of a doubt how the game would result. It was one more victory for the supremacy of the class of 1905.

Still under the soothing influence of victory we, in company with our dear Professor of Zoology, took our botany trip. With undaunted courage and minds eager for knowledge we explored the wild regions of Wild Cat and Chickies, drinking in the beauties of nature, etc., and storing our minds with botanical lore, which may sometime serve to startle the world. Jubilee and commencement week saw us do our duty as worthy Sophomores, assisting in our humble way with the various forms of entertainment and activity which characterized that occasion.

With bright and cheerful hearts we returned from our summer vacation to greet one another at the opening of the third year of our course. However, we were startled by the revelation, that seven of our number failed to appear. But we were fortunate in having two additions to our decreased membership. Immediately upon our arrival we entered upon our duty of taking the Freshmen Class—just fresh from the outer world—under our especial protection and having them properly cared for. On the gridiron we upheld our brilliant record of former years. One of our number led the Blue and White—an honor of rare occurrence. In tennis our class was well represented, into the hands of one of whom fell the championship. It is needless to say that the present Basket-ball team would be compelled to cancel its schedule, if the class of 1905 should cease to exist.

In the social circle also, have we always shown ourselves worthy, and have invariably manifested an active interest in that phase of college life. Soon after Christmas we held the characteristic social feature of the year the Junior Hop. This was of course our supreme social event, and was a fitting tribute to the class. In every respect it stands conspicuous as a grand success. Following close upon this we were enabled to present the third annual German Play, with such success as to insure the permanence of this feature of Junior work.

With this meager account of the events of the class of 1905—the half of which has never been told—we leave you, dear reader, to your own sweet reveries, knowing as we do that sufficient has been related to insure a proper place for the present Junior class in your estimation.

The Sophomore Poem.

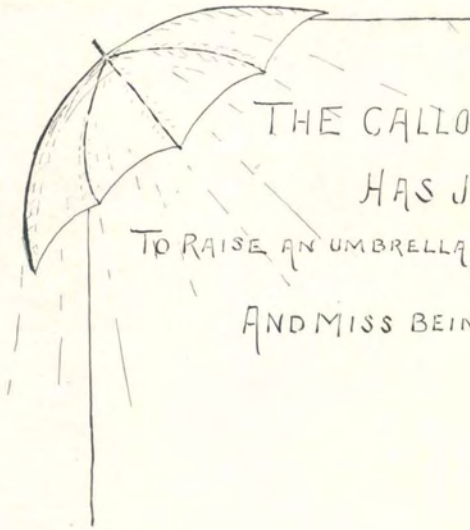

Two years we've passed at F. and M
And now we've finished half our course.
Our work has never been too hard
Nor have we had much idle time.

Sometimes "the profs" make work seem all
That ever enters true men's heads,
But when our tasks before us rise
To heights that truly touch the skies,
We seem to think a bluff's the thing
To save a "poker" in disguise.

But now, remember that this is true—
The instructors are our truest friends
"A friend in need is a friend indeed."
Then when we run or when we play
We do it, as the boys would say,
With might and main, with zest and zeal.

Our sojourn here will soon be past,
And out to our life's work we'll go
With strengthened hearts and hopes built high
To bring great fame to F. and M.

Sophomore History.

By Wm. F. Kosman.

WHEN we were Freshmen the word "Sophomores" meant for us a class of beings altogether egotistical and overbearing. We heartily agreed with one of the Professors who defined the word as meaning "wise fools," and usually when referring to them substituted a word of our own for the first word of his definition.

However, they have now become Juniors and, though we can't help but think that we are a Superior class, yet we are still "Sophomores" to the Freshmen.

Whatever dignity has been allowed to remain in being Sophomores has been handed down to us. We have tried to make the most of it and realize very well that we are Sophomores. We are no longer dependent upon any one. In addition to this we are the advisors and overseers of the Freshmen. It is true that we do not often manifest our authority in this direction but that is because they have always been submissive to our commands.

To show that this is not an idle statement and that they really are submissive to our wishes, we need but refer to an incident that occurred after the inter-class foot-ball game last fall when we had our pictures taken in full view of the entire Freshmen class. When, before, was any class known to do this unmolested under the very nose of the enemy? The mere sight of us inspired them with fear and in spite of the goadings and threats of the Juniors they refused to attack us.

That memorable battle between our forces and those of 1905 after the inter-class base-ball game last spring, in which, regardless of the superior weight and numbers of our opponents, we carried off the victory and 1905's pennant at the same time, is still fresh in the minds of all who witnessed it. Even the Freshmen, who were at that time doing addition in the kindergarten, have repeatedly listened with open-mouthed wonder while some upper classmen related tales of the courage and heroism we displayed that day.

This incident lives in tradition as a sample of our physical strength. Tradition likewise furnishes proof of our skill as strategists. We refer to the banquet we held at York. The manner and completeness in which we outwitted 1905 was a decided victory in strategy for us. No doubt they are still wondering how we did it, but long before they became aware that the "birds" they had been watching had flown, the Mayor of York had resigned the ownership of the town to us. When they awoke from their stupor, they surrounded the Pennsy depot and looked with longing eyes upon every train bound for York. But they lacked either the nerve or the coin (we presume the former) to follow. The only thing remaining for them to do was to slink home, completely outwitted.

In athletics we admit that we have not been unconquerable. However we have always had some representation on the various athletic teams and the reason why our class teams lost when they did was not because we lacked grit or courage or because we did not play as well as our opponents did, but because the advantage of weight and luck invariably lay on their side.

And at least one member of 1905 owed much of his speed on the track team to the practice in cross country running he obtained one night while attempting to allude some of our men. At the same time his place at the class banquet held that night was vacant.

The first thing we did on coming back to college last fall was to post bulletins of fatherly advice to the Freshmen. We did this successfully and without interference from anyone—excepting the weather man. Our predecessors, you remember, bungled at it and fell into the hands of the police.

The next day, for we had heard faint rumors that there was an aggregation of green looking individuals in town, we started out to discover the Freshman class. We found them huddled together very closely under the protecting (?) wings of the Juniors, and it was at the instigation of the Juniors and under their guidance that the Freshmen determined to even things and post bulletins of their own. After spending the night at it and leaving one of their number in the police station they went home, smilingly thinking of the triumph that was awaiting them on the morrow. Imagine their surprise and chagrin when next morning they were unable to find a single poster anywhere. We had discovered their designs and unawares had dogged their tracks and destroyed all posters excepting those we kept as samples of poor English and bad spelling.

In closing this brief history of the exploits and accomplishments of the class of 1906 we should like to mention some of the many individual members who are worthy of distinction. However time does not permit us to refer to more than to one who knows more about Trigonometry than the Professor in charge and to another who has discovered how to go to college and keep in regular standing without going to classes.

Freshman Poem.

In the time that we have spent here,
Since to F. and M. we came
Our great class has made herself an
Everlasting glorious name.

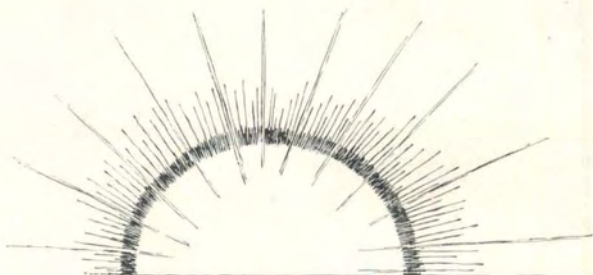

With unparalleled achievements,
To the front we fought our way,
In athletics we've maintained an
Almost undisputed sway.

Is it needed that I tell you,
With what ease we won the fight,
Won from 1906 the cane-rush,
Laughing at their puny might.

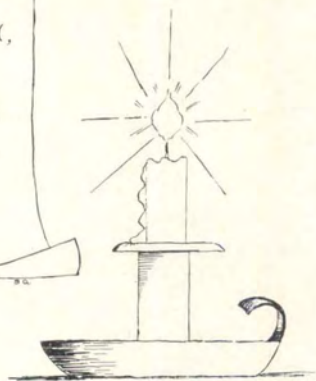

Six—nothing tells the football story,
Shows you what a cinch we had,
How we made the Juniors happy,
Sophomores and Seniors sad.

These are victories we're proud of,
But there are others we have won,
All but portents of the honors,
We'll have gained here ere we're done.

As in the past so in the future,
Victories of hand and head,
Shall fall on F. and M's best banner,
1907's Blue and Red.

THE FRESHMAN, POOR DELUDED ONE,
IN HIS OWN MIND SHINES LIKE THE SUN,
BUT IN REALITY, I WIS,
HE SCARCELY SHINES AS BRIGHT
— AS THIS

Freshmen History.

Waldimer Krumbine.

IN the Fall of 1903 there appeared in the Franklin and Marshall constellation of the intellectual firmament a new star whose coming had indeed been foretold by the celebrated astronomer of the Scholl observatory, but whose degree of magnitude far impressed his expectations. In brilliancy it equalled the constellation of the famous seven and by way of distinction was named the class of '07. The nebular mass of which it was formed had gathered from the four corners of the universe, but all its heterogeneous elements had united into one bright luminous body. And yet the coming of this star was not heralded by shouts and blasts of trumpets, but it came rather as a quiet lot of fellows meaning to do no harm to anybody.

We timidly entered the historic campus of old Franklin and Marshall just then in the resplendent garb of its Fall beauty. After we had settled ourselves comfortably and had recuperated from the effect of the excitement which was a natural result of our inexperience and verdancy, we began to take strenuous measures to organize our class. Forty-two senators presented themselves at our first legislature. At this meeting there was manifested that spirit of virility and enthusiasm which has ever since characterized our class.

This spirit was kindled into a flame when we heard the ominous call, "Fresh! Fresh!" which issued from groups of students gathering in the college halls. These students eyed us in a peculiar manner and showed an authoritative disposition toward us. We soon learned that this domineering sect was the Sophomore class composed of those who, in the near future, were destined to be not only our rivals but also the object of our sympathy and compassion.

We met them for the first time in battle array on Williamson Field where many hundreds of spectators had gathered to witness the traditional cane rush which decided the supremacy of Sophomore or Freshman. Though doubtful of the outcome, yet undismayed, we marched with bold step and heroic courage upon the field of conflict. Led by our valiant captain, we rushed into the fray. Although struggling against experience, our superior leadership and undaunted courage soon told on the endurance of our stalwart opponents. Slowly but surely we pushed the coveted cane nearer and nearer to the beckoning goal. But just as the irresistible cohort of the brave '07 was within two yards of victory a misunderstood signal disconcerted our lines and redoubled the onslaught of our opponents. Backward and forward within a few yards of the goal the battle moved. Determination to win on our side and desperate efforts on the part of our opponents to prevent it made the struggle fierce and bloody. Within one yard of the goal and victory almost within our grasp, we heard the shrill and disheartening sound of the referee's whistle. The struggle ceased. Slowly the mass of humanity untangled itself. Torn and battered and almost exhausted, we stood in front of that longed for goal, officially not victors indeed, but virtually more than victors. Smarting under this defeat, the Sophs sought for an opportunity to recover their lost prestige. On highways and byways, by day and by night they gathered in grounds and files to catch by chance a lonely Freshman and impress upon him superiority of numbers.

When they had recovered somewhat from the humility to which they were subjected, they resolved to avenge themselves by challenging us to a game of foot-ball. Encouraged by our previous success, we eagerly accepted. The memorable contest took place on December, 3. The ground was covered with snow and it was with difficulty that the yard lines could be marked off. There were eager efforts on the part of our opponents to have the game postponed, but neither storm nor snow could interfere with our determination. Promptly at the appointed hour our eleven warriors appeared on the field of battle. During the first half the struggle was desperate but but without avail. Neither side scored and the ball remained practically in the middle of the field. But we entered in the second half with the spirit of win or die. The onward rush of our line was furious. We ploughed through the enemy with signal success. On and on the ball was pushed toward its destination until after a last effort the precious pig skin rested securely beyond the towering posts. There was a moment of dead silence and then the air reverberated with the echoes of a mighty yell. The day was won and a fresh laurel added to our crown. The Red and the Blue waved triumphantly over the field of contest and even our gallant opponents found themselves marching though reluctantly under its beneficent shelter as they retreated to the gymnasium.

This victory alone would suggest the athletic quality of the class. We indeed take pride in stating that, having contributed our share to the varsity teams we justly claim a share of the honor attained by that famous football eleven and a share in the triumphs of our basket ball five. Not only have we as a class added to the sum total of athletic fortitude and skill, but we have also represented our Alma Mater in the realm of the beautiful. For among the sweet singers of the college glee club are numbered members of the Freshman class.

With becoming modesty we are silent about our intellectual achievements. We leave these to the superior judgment of our honored professors.

Looking into the future, we cannot but see the brightest prospects for the class of '07, an ever deepening interest in all that is best in our college life, in its manly sports, in its charming graces, in its intellectual pursuits, and in its moral ideals.

PROF JOHN M. CHAMBERS.

Professor John M. Chambers instructor in English and Oratory, was graduated from the Northwestern University, Evanston Illinois in the class of '96; receiving the degree of A. B. From 1896 to 1899 he took special work in Garrett Biblical Institute, graduate work in English at the Northwestern University and a course in Cumnoch's School of Oratory, graduating from the latter in 1899 at the same time receiving the degree of A. M. from his Alma Mater.

From 1899 to 1901 he was Professor of Oratoy in Wooster University, Wooster, Ohio, and the next year was Professor of Oratory and Assistant Professor of English in Denver University, Denver, Colorado.

During the first part of 1902 he took special work in English at Harvard and the rest of the year he taught Oratory at William College, Mass. During the summer of 1903 he pursued a special course at Harvard University. He took charge of the department of Oratory at F. and M. at the opening of the present school year, and in his year's work among us he proved himself a courteous gentleman and valuable instructor.

DAVID R. BROWN.

David R. Brown our foot-ball coach for the season of 1903, is a graduate of Lafayette College Class of 1903. He was born and brought up in South Dakota. He took his preparatory course at Yorktown Academy, Yorktown, South Dakota, and Cutler Academy, Colorado Springs. At both places he took a prominent part in foot-ball and base-ball. During the fall of '98 he played foot-ball in the University of Nebraska team, distinguishing himself as an end.

In the fall of '99 he entered Lafayette, where he was pitcher and left fielder on the base-ball team and right end on the foot-ball team for four years.

In Mr. Brown we found an experienced player and a coach who knew the game thoroughly.

Charles F. Rengier.

ALUMNUS, TRUSTEE, PATRON, FRIEND.

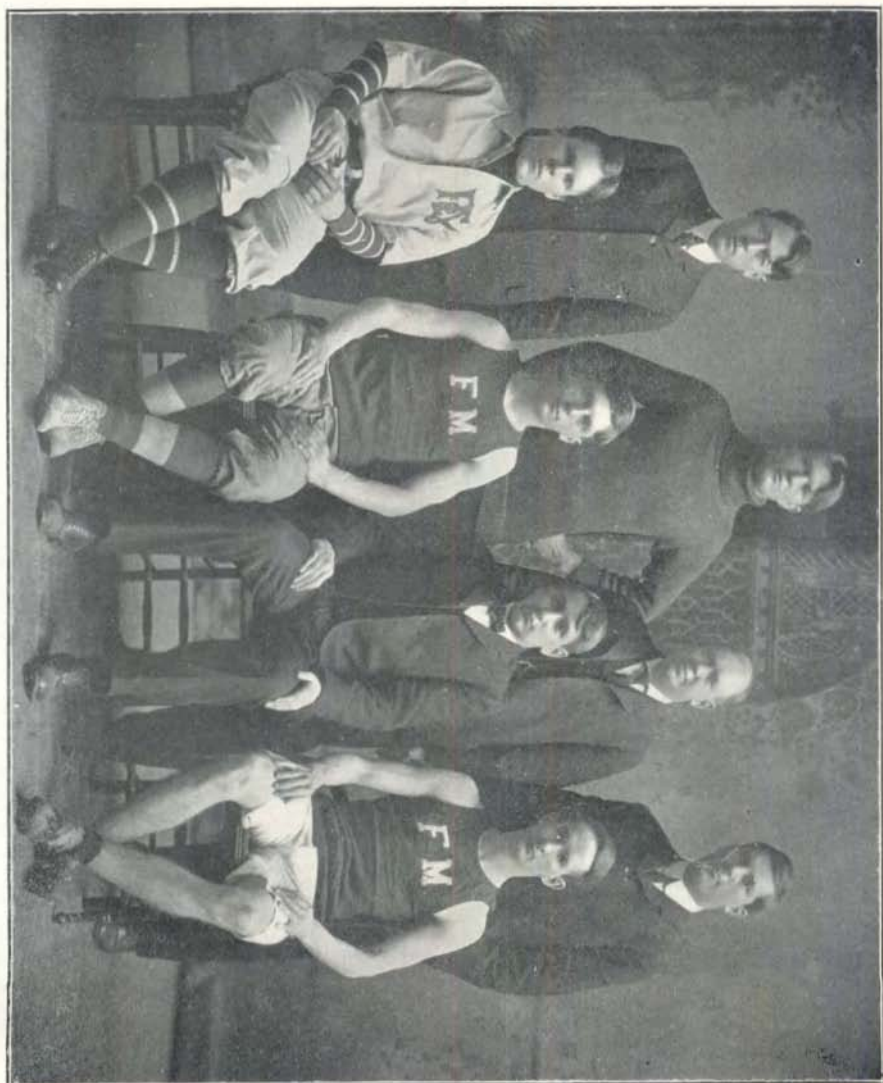

CHARLES FREDERICK RENGIER, to whom this volume of the "Oriflamme" is dedicated, is a native of Lancaster. He was born February 25, 1846. His father, the late Charles F. Rengier, Sr., was long time one of the members of the famous firm of George M. Steinman & Co., the leading hardware house of the county, and from which so many of the brightest business men of Lancaster have been graduated. The younger Rengier, after his education in the common schools and at Franklin and Marshall College, 1861-62, had his earlier experience in the Steinman store; but about 1869-70 he engaged for himself in the special line of carriage and saddlery hardware, which was the first attempt to specialize that branch of trade here. From the start his business has been a success and it has steadily broadened and increased in extent and strength.

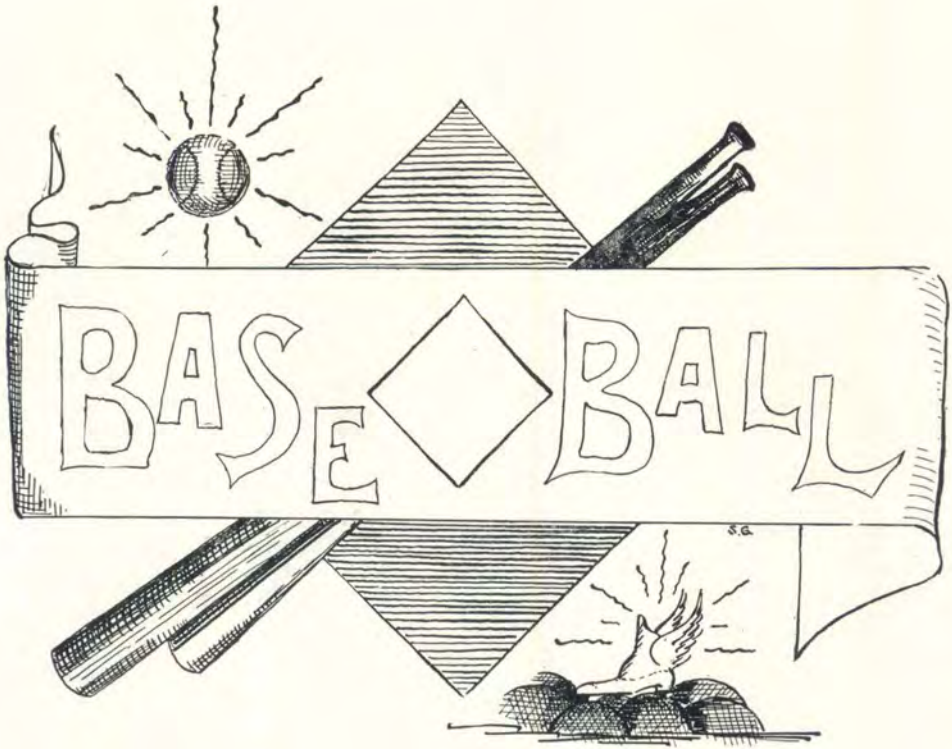

As a business man of Lancaster City and County Mr. Rengier has made for himself a foremost place, and he is sole proprietor of a house than which no other ever had more substantial foundation, higher credit or surer prosperity. He never allowed commercial cares or material interests to so absorb his time or attention as to interfere with social relaxation, literary and musical culture and a general interest in everything that makes for the moral elevation or material advancement of the community. He has always been distinguished for civic spirit, though never consenting to take public office; for liberality, without extravagance; for generous hospitality, with rigorous standards of elevated social life; for tolerant catholicity in religion, with steadfast orthodox faith. Descended from Lutheran forebears, affiliating closely with the Church of the New Jerusalem (Swedenborgian), he has been the firm friend of the Reformed institutions located in Lancaster. For four years he has been a member of the Board of Trustees of the College, serving with rare fidelity and ability on the Finance Committee, where his sound judgment makes him invaluable, and on the Committee on Grounds and Buildings, where his vigilant attention and practical ideas come into useful exercise.

He was the moving spirit in the "outside" work of the Semi-Centennial Commencement of 1903, and to his generous contributions, his faithful labors and his unique power to create enthusiasm was largely due the brilliant success of that event. He keeps constantly in touch with the student body, and as President for a time of the Alumni Association in Lancaster City he made the banquets of that Society most notable occasions. He is in many respects the first and most popular citizen of Lancaster, and in him the "elements" are so well "mixed" that nature can surely say "This is a man." Town and gown may well be proud of him.

Foot Ball Review, Season of 1903.

FRANKLIN and Marshall in her football season of 1903 played eleven games, of which number she won six, lost four, and tied one. Franklin and Marshall scored 127 points and her opponents 99. During the season of 1902 there were ten games played, eight of which were won and two lost; points scored by Franklin and Marshall 299, opponents 59. Without more knowledge than the above figures a reviewer would be inclined to say that the season of 1902 was far more successful than the season of 1903, using the word "successful" by its general acceptance of meaning. One however changes his view somewhat when he notes that the opponents of Franklin and Marshall in 1903 were of a preeminently higher class than in 1902. Franklin and Marshall scored a total of 249 points in 1902 against the teams of Muhlenburg, Columbian University, Gallaudet and Lebanon Valley College. These teams were supplanted in 1903 by Susquehanna University, St. Johns, Carlisle Indians, Dickinson, and Rutgers. It is needless to assert that the calibre of the teams played is an essential factor to be reckoned with when the critic comes to determine the success or failure of any contest or season of contests. Every fair-minded man justly knows also that, the success does not rest solely with the team scoring the greater number of points. There are countless other circumstances to be duly weighed and considered. Unmindful of nothing, therefore, we pronounce the football season of 1903 one of great credit and honor to Franklin and Marshall.

The schedule of games was excellent, the weather conditions favorable and the management faithful and devoted to its every duty. The coach, though often times misunderstood, had the welfare of the team ever in mind and did his work to the best of his knowledge and ability. The captain was a player of preeminence, although he was required to do too much work. All the men on the teams performed their duty well. The best of spirit pervaded the players with possibly a few exceptions. There were no serious injuries, although there were the usual minor ones. An injury doubtless saved Pennsylvania from defeat. From the beginning of the season to the end thereof the men who formed the Scrub Team were loyal and faithful. Not during the history of football at Franklin and Marshall was the field in better playing condition. There was never better order, and the comforts of the spectators were well provided for. A gratifying feature was the able, efficient, and impartial character of the officials in all the contests on the home field. Whether in victory or defeat the visiting teams and their supporters were unanimously accorded the utmost courtesy and respectful regard on the part of the blue and white.

The most serious proposition which confronted the coach in the make-up of the team during the season was the selection of the proper men for the positions of tackle and quarterback. The efficiency of the team's work was accordingly much affected throughout the entire season by successive changes in these positions; not to speak of the changes made by stress of injuries to various players from time to time.

In arranging a schedule we believe it best that the first game should be played on the home grounds if possible, and that game with a team not reckoned as our superior. This was done, and our first game was with Susquehanna University on September 26. The score was 29 to 5 in our favor. The first half ended with the score 6 to 5. In the second half our team completely outclassed the visitors, evidencing a grim determination and speed which became later in the season characteristic of the team's work. The game showed two things, that we were weak in defense and powerful in attack on the opponents' line.

The game with University of Pennsylvania on Wednesday, September 30th, was both glorious and disheartening. Glorious because we outplayed the Quaker giants in speed and skill; disheartening because of the many injuries sustained by our players, which necessitated substitutions. To this latter fact the score against us may be directly attributed. Pennsylvania was profoundly thankful that she had escaped defeat. Franklin and Marshall was happily content with the valiant deeds and splendid exhibition of her men. The score was 17 to 0 in favor of Pennsylvania.

Somewhat torn and crippled, and possibly with too much confidence, the blue and white the Saturday following the Pennsylvania game entered into a contest with St. Johns' College. If anyone deemed the collegians from Annapolis to be novices in the craft of football this erroneous opinion was suddenly dispelled with the opening of the game. The visiting cadets played football as it should be played, and our team played what is known in the parlance of the sport a "ragged game." With a full realization however of the true worth of her opponents the blue and white in the last minutes of the struggle by sheer grit and force scored the only touch down of the game from which a goal was kicked.

To the honor of the "red men" from Carlisle we were defeated at their hands by the largest score of the season, 30 to 0. The Indians had not disturbed our peace since the fall of 1894 when Franklin and Marshall scalped them after a bitter struggle. Whether it was the memory of that defeat or the burning desire to outdo University of Pennsylvania, that incited the Indian warriors, we know not; however their football "machine" proved to be a veritable whirlwind to the blue and white. Notwithstanding the result, however, our attack and defense at times were heroically brilliant.

Like unto the year before the game with Haverford was played in a downpour of rain. On both occasions the Franklin and Marshall men proved themselves to be the better "navigators." The "log-book" discloses practically the same score upon each "voyage." The score last fall was 12 to 0. Let it ever be thus as to the score, but not as to the weather.

In speaking of the Dickinson game at Carlisle the reviewer will leave many things unsaid. It was scheduled and advertised as a football game, but perchance it was diverted into a prize-fight. At the end of the first half the score was 6 to 0 in our favor. The final score was 18 to 6 against us. Franklin and Marshall excelled in the tactics of football, Dickinson excelled in the tactics of the ring. Our team took her punishment gamely and stayed the limit.

Swarthmore 17, Franklin and Marshall 0, tells the story of a Franklin and Marshall siesta. Every point scored by the Quakers was the direct result of a trick, which at all times should have been frustrated. Franklin and Marshall is to be credited with superiority in "straight football." For the time being however, it was "overlooked" that there are other things besides straight football. Fakes are legal and occasionally win games.

The game with Jefferson Medical College brought forth a new quarterback. It was considered a practice game and with a number of substitutes Franklin and Marshall scored 17 points to the embryonic doctors' 6.

Next came Ursinus confident and boastful. Words are inadequate to express the scenes enacted that day. The blue and white played terrific football, and be it said to the credit of the vanquished our onslaughts were not lamely resisted. Never on Williamson field were our colors more gloriously defended, and never were her supporters more thoroughly appeased. The game was clean and hard as we desired it should be. The result alone made the season a success, this, in view of the nature of the defeat received by us the year prior. The decisive victory, the loyalty of the students, and the gentlemanly treatment of the visitors, all contribute to make this one of the most distinguished contests in our annals. The score was 27 to 0.

Resting on her laurels won in the Ursinus game. Franklin and Marshall seemed satisfied to play Rutgers a tie game of 0 to 0. Our team was listless and erratic. We offer no excuses, it might have been worse.

The season closed on Thanksgiving Day in a radiant blaze of glory and enthusiasm. Gettysburg was defeated 29 to 6 in a well-played and sensational contest. At the end of the first half the score was 23 to 0. The second half was evenly contested. With no apologies:—

Here's to the team of nineteen-three, gallant defenders of the blue and white;
She won games and she lost, she won more than she lost,
Here's to the games she won, here's to the games she lost;
Her opponents were all worthy, her opponents found her worthy,
Here's to her opponents worthy, here's to all men who are worthy.

An Ode

ON THE

SEMI-CENTENNIAL OF FRANKLIN AND MARSHALL COLLEGE,

June, 1903,

LLOYD MIFFLIN.

Now, on this memorable day,
Within this fertile garden of the land
Blessed with perennial streams,
Swatara, Octoraro, and Pequea,
And hundred brooklets clear as they
With which the region teems;
Rich with alluvial valleys, that the hand
Sprung from the German, diligently tills,
And where the cattle on a thousand hills
Browse ankle-deep in clover-bloom,
Or by the Conestoga margin wade
Far in the willowy shade;
Now, when the green illimitable vales
And dimpled slopes and dells
Shed round the rare perfume
Of coming harvests with their wealth replete,
And here, returning to the dales
Amid the fruitful heat,
June, reminiscent of the rippling sea
And all its rolling swells,
Waves with her breath our ripening fields of grain
And makes a billowy ocean of the wheat;
Now, when the lambs are in the flock
And call across the green;

And when the red-winged blackbird on the dock
Sings as he settles down, serene
In cloudless ecstasy,
And the dear lark, with joy akin to pain,
Floats o'er our fields—a feathered song—
Pathetically sweet;—
In such a time—so joyous—it were meet
That we, ephemera of an hour
Who to the living still belong,
Should lift our voices through the lips of Song
In recognition of the price,
In recognition of the faith—the power,
The courage and the sacrifice,
The struggles, often threatening defeat,—
The final triumph of the men now dead,
English and German bred,
Whose effort and whose aid
Made possible this studious retreat,
These College Halls, cresting the gentle glade,
These Academic bowers,
These stately Walls in classic shade
Crowned with their clustered towers!

Honor the Scholar, and the Good, the Just!
Honor the silent dust!
Yea! honor them—the dead! as time withdraws
We see they bravely battled in their cause.
Duty hath still her heroes—valiant Knights
Unblazoned by the world, but in men's hearts
Their silent deeds, like beacon-lights
Shine on, and guide us from afar.

The mortal comes; he labors, and departs;
But strongly girt with spiritual powers
His soul beams on us like a star
That still doth shed
Its first effulgence though the star be dead—
Though gone, the light survives:
And if our lips are sealed
From plaudits for the living, none the less
Time, the recorder, on his scroll revealed,
Will show the morrow they fulfilled their trust
With honor and with nobleness:
Teachers of fervid zeal;
The guardian mentors in an age complex;
Torch-bearers of the future's weal;
True to the motto on their chosen Seal—
Lux et Lex!

Mother of Learning, hail!
Oh, mayst thou, prosperous, rejoice
For years recurrent of thy Jubilee!
Long may thy turrets beckon, and thy voice
Summon the youth from many a distant vale!
Long may men find in thee,
Within thy classic pale,
Blessing of studious serenity—
The ethereal fruit and flower of the Wise!
And when this age shall pass, as pass it must,
And crumble into dust,
Thy towers shall still arise, gladdening the eyes
Of true men yet to be,
And by the side of these
Grouped 'mid the gracious trees,—
Mater of sweet amenities!—

May added Halls and new-built spires
Lift their enlightening crests above the lawn;
And the still Greater College rear her head—
 Greater, not dearer than the old,—
 And wider radiance shed,
And by her lustrous effluence manifold
 Illumination spread,—
True harbinger of the new-born world's desires,
 Forerunner of the hoped-for Dawn
 That ever in the future glows,
 To which the soul aspires;
And as the depths of Ignorance decrease
 And the dense darkness goes,
Oh, mayst thou, filled with potency anew
 The sacred cause pursue
 Nor with the Century cease,
But still may Learning blossom as the rose
 And all thy paths be peace!

The Torchlight Procession.

Motto:—Our thoughts take wildest flight even at the moment
when they should array themselves in pensive order.

Byron.

IT was a memorable night, unique not only in the life of Franklin and Marshall and her alumni but also in the life of the old town of Lancaster. The very heavens participated in the grand jubilee; a vastless array of lights thronging the firmament vied with each other in brilliancy, and the atmosphere covered the earth in majestic calmness. As the shadows of the evening lengthened the highways and byways of the city became astir with a great commotion; the long expected, much discussed and wildly longed for moment of the 10th of June, the climax of the great jubilee festivities had arrived. From the East and the West, from the North and the South from farm and factory, from hut and palace a throng of people, old and young, patriarchs and prophets, men, women and children poured forth, moving towards the heart of the city, crowding the pavements, climbing the trees and telegraph poles and impeding the general traffic. Messengers arrayed in blue and white hurrying hither and thither on horseback, on bicycles, in carriages announced the approach of the hour, when the great torchlight procession should set the streets ablaze. By and by the houses along the line of march sent forth a veritable flood of light from every window and transom, illuminating the streets and exhibiting their gorgeous attire in the academic gala colors. Wagonloads of torches and multitudes of flags arrived and heightened the expectation of the throng. The old Courthouse clock struck nine, a subdued murmur like that of the rolling ocean waves arose from the mass of humanity packing the streets. Suddenly the clatter of hoofs and the rumbling of many wagon wheels announced the beginning of the great spectacle, three horesmen adorned with the blue and white insignia of leadership, their mighty plumes waving in the air and the golden scabbords of their formidable swords showing in the glare of the electric lights, came tearing down North Prince Street, hardly able to control their prancing chargers. Hartman the chief marshal and organizer of the movement, lead the way towards Fulton Opera House, followed by his aids Buchheit and Heine, the latter on his superbly trained horse, so keenly alive to the scenes of the great parade, and carrying with pride its master, Lancaster's greatest chief marshal. Following them came in quick succession a half a score of floats, representing and symbolizing the great events in the life of Franklin and Marshall. Almost at the same moment the doors of the Fulton Opera House were thrown open and an enthusiastic throng of undergraduates, alumni, dignitaries of the Board of Trustees and foreign representatives fairly rushed out into Prince Street, but so precise were the orders and arrangements of the chief marshal that almost immediately every man found his place in the great procession. At definite intervals men had been stationed carrying transparencies with the respective class numerals; all along Princ^e Street from South end to North end this line of more than three score of illuminated posters stretched and beckoned all the loyal classmates into line. As each one took his position he received a torch, a genuine pitchtar torch, and in a short while hundreds of mighty columns of fire shot into the nightly air. In quick succession one, two, three, four, five, six bands of music swung into line each taking up the marshal strain of its predecessors and bringing new life and enthusiasm to the waiting crowd. In less time than it takes to tell, the magnificent pageant was set into motion.

Headed by a squad of stalward policemen on horseback, the parade under the leadership of the chief marshal and his aids began its effulgent march up Orange Street to Lime, along Lime Street, past old Franklin College, with countermarches to Walnut and Duke, up Duke Street to James, out James to the Athletic Field. Such a sight old Lancaster had never beheld. Immediately behind the commanding officers there followed a cavalcade of standard bearers; slightly ahead in the center Old Glory wafted in the evening breeze, greeted by the thousands upon thousands of fervant patriots, a short distance behind a huge silken flag of blue and white loomed into view and on either side the richly embroidered Goethean and Diagnothean emblems respectively. Then came a band of music succeeded by a number of open carriages containing the president of the Board of Trustees, the College president, the judges of the court, the high City officials and a number of the representatives of other colleges and universities, protected in the rear by the stern upholders of the college discipline viz. the members of the present faculty together with some of the more jovial adjuncts of the administration chief among whom Mr, Charles Rengier, the ruling spirit of the great jubilee. Then came the long line of the various class representatives from '37 to 1903 interspersed by the bands and the historic floats. Ahead of each class marched a standard bearer carrying the highly cherished colors and aided by a flag officer with unsheathed sword and plumed hat on either side. First among the floats was the emblematic representation of the laying of the cornerstone of old Franklin College by Benjamin Franklin; a second one showed Chief Justice Marshall baptizing Marshall College; a third and chief one celebrated the wedding and golden wedding of Franklin and Marshall; a fourth one eulogized the philosophy and theology which made old Marshall famous; a fifth one commemorated the death of the heroic sons of the college who sacrificed their lives in behalf of the Union; a sixth showed the solitary figure of Henry Harbaugh the immortal poet, and a seventh one symbolized the mysteries of the fraternal organizations, surrounded by four stalward standard bearers who carried their respective colors high aloft. The procession was closed by the gay throng of undergraduates dressed in white duck trousers and shouting the college songs and yells.

All along the line, which covered fully a mile, there was manifested an irrepressible tendency to play again the role of the undergraduate; whenever the bands were silent an incessant shouting, yelling and singing was kept up each class competing with the other for the supremacy, and the crowd packing the streets along the whole route of the march caught the spirit of the jolly academicians and applauded each new feature of the procession with unbounded enthusiasm. At the windows of the illuminated houses which were greeted with vigor by the marching men, fair ladies vied with each other in showering their sweet approval upon the procession while at short intervals along the side walks, Bengal lights of various colors transferred the whole pageant into a scene of magnificent beauty, especially so in front of the old Franklin building on Lime Street, where neither pains nor cost had been spared to show appreciation and attract attention. On and on the procession went until it had reached the athletic field. Here a mass of spectators numbering from 20,000 to 30,000 almost brought confusion into the ranks of the paraders; finally the line broke into single file, forming a complete circle around the center field, the burning torches were thrown into a flaming heap, the alumni clasped hands and accompanied by the bands they all joined in the old and yet ever new academic song, known so well by every true academician: "Gaudeamus igitur, juvenes dum sumus." As the last words of the great song were wafted to the midnight air the first rockets of the brilliant fire works, which were to close the memorable exercises of the day, illuminated the horizon, and the undergraduates, led by the irrepressible Pilgram of the class of '98, began a series of new songs from the steps of the grand stand. Thus ended a pageant the like of which had never been witnessed in America.

JOHN WILBERFORCE APPEL, Jr., Φ K Ψ
Lancaster, Pa.

John Wilberforce Appel entered college with a family reputation to sustain. His brother made a "howling" success out of his course and John has followed so closely in his melodious ways that he has well earned his name "Hot-air." His ambition is boundless and encompasses everything within the range of human possibility, but we think he is best suited for a ticket seller for Welsh Brothers circus. As editor-in-chief of this book he helped us considerably and to him we refer you in regard to all mistakes and bum jokes.

GEORGE ALLEN BICKEL,

Rohrersburg, Pa.

Goethean; Lessing Verein (3), Prepared
Reading Classical School.

This picture has the appearance of a perplexed philosopher but that you may not be deceived we shall name him George Allen Bickel. He is a veritable bookworm and an awkward clown in the Gymnasium. He suffers from "physics" (Tuffy's kind) ever since he was compelled to take the exam. He came to college when a boy and rues it to this day because he is "green," always showing his ignorance of the practical side of life. He wishes us to state that he is more of a ladies' man than is generally known, yet he does not go "out" at all, differing in that respect from Levan who is never "in." His awkwardness plus the dry jokes he murders, eminently fit him to become a college president some day.

THEODORE CLARENCE BROWN,

Summit Station, Pa.

Goethean; Class Foot Ball Team (1);
Scrub Foot Ball Team (1) (2) (3); Recording Secretary G. L. S. (2); Lessing
Verein (3); Prepared at Perkiomen Seminary.

As you notice in the picture, T. C. Brown is somewhat bald headed. Can you guess why? He is married. Brown is not much of a singer, but whenever he comes back after having spent a few days at home, he is frequently heard singing a sweet lullaby. His favorite object of study and discussion is the monkey, for as he says, everyone ought to take pride in learning about their ancestors. He is a hard student of the Bible but he cares more for what he himself puts in than what the printers do. In leafing through his Bible you will frequently find a newspaper clipping telling all about a big horse race, prize fight, or boxing match.

He plays Football, "somewhat," but being from "Berks Co." he is only on the scrub. He will take charge of a kindergarten upon graduating.

COLIN CAMERON, Jr., $\phi K \Sigma$

Lochiel, Ariz.

Class Foot Ball Team (1); Class Base
Ball Team (1) (2); Scrub Foot Ball
Team (3); Prepared at F. M. A.

Our friend who claims to be from the wilds of Arizona. Perhaps he is; we do not know. Nevertheless, let merciful Heaven have pity upon the locality that really did place such as he among us. A lot of unadulterated impetuosity, and a very persevering stab at a society man. Our friend who thinks the college can't do without him. Poor boy! he can't help it. As to bluffing, he lacks that wise look of Eckert and Dayhoff. A good fellow at times, however, and worthy of much forbearance.

JOHN DENLINGER CHARLES,

Millersville, Pa.

Diagnothean; Lessing Verein (3); Prepared at Millersville S. N. S.

We wish to state that John Denlinger Charles is really a student at F. & M. If you doubt the statement we refer you to the Secretary of the Faculty. John is an innocent boy. Don't look too closely at his picture, it may blush. He made such a good woman in the German play that one young lady in the audience took him for a member of her own sex. He belongs to the "Millersville gang" which fact will explain why he "cuts" so little and was never known to "fake." His friends of the "gang" say he has a girl. We think this a joke for we can't imagine him even thinking about such a thing.

LEON DRILL DAYHOFF,

Smithsburg, Md.

Entered Junior; Prepared at Hagerstown High School.

What a plague descended upon us this year, when Leon Dayhoff appeared! Many thanks that we have but one Dayhoff. What would we do if there were as many Dayhoffs as Schaeffers or Snyders? Did you ever ask yourself why it was that a boy such as Leon should ever come to a college where there is an honor system. Some say it is because Lancaster is a larger place than Gettysburg—in Gettysburg he knew all the girls, and had no further chance of conquest. Be this as it may, he is fast becoming Ewing's equal in rounding out Lancaster's fair lasses.

WERNER ELSTER DE TURCK,

Douglassville, Pa.

Goethean; Asst. Business Manager Y. M. C. A. Hand Book (2); Asst. Business Manager Lessing Verein (3); Y. M. C. A. Editor College Student (3); Press Association (3); Censor G. L. S. (2); Reviewer G. L. S. (3) Entered Sophomore, Prepared at Kutztown S. N. S.

In W. E. De Turck we have redness in the superlative degree. His redheadedness, however, is far less objectionable than his "mule"-headedness. For further information concerning this particular characteristic ask the Northfield delegates or the officers of the Goethean Literary Society. De Turck come to college confident of leading the class but he was sadly disappointed when the marks appeared. He comes from what may be called purely English stock; at least when he did not get an important part in the German play, he said: "It is only dose fellers dat can schpeke de Pennsylvania Dutch dat can get on de cast." He used to have "Bright" love affairs while at Kutztown, but they seem rather gloomy since he is at college.

PAUL YOUNG ECKERT,

Hanover, Pa.

Diagnothean; Chaplain D. L. S. (1);
Cor. Sec. Democratic Club (2); Rec. Sec.
D. L. S. (2); Local Editor College Student
(3); Prepared private.

The way Young Paul Eckert tries to put on the bearing of a man would be amusing were it not pathetic. Paul acts Young, talks Young, looks Young, and is young; in fact he was altogether too young to send to college, as his subsequent history has proved. He has developed a remarkable liking for Haefer's, whist, Heefner and other wicked things and as great a dislike for everything like work. His opinions are numerous, windy and valueless and are endured only as necessary evils. He will become a politician after the stamp of Matt Quay.

FRANCIS THOMPSON EWING,

Mifflinburg, Pa.

Manager Class Basket Ball Team (1);
Class Pres. (2); Manager Class Foot Ball
(1); Class Basket Ball Team (2); Varsity
Basket Ball Team (2) (3); Captain Basket Ball (3); Prepared at Mifflinburg
H. S.

Francis Thompson Ewing is an enigma. Some folks say he is a very good boy; others, quite the opposite. Francis has several accomplishments, plays a little basket ball, uses "trots" once in a while, always puts up a good "bluff," and, well, he is most accomplished in the art of "picking up." Picking up what? Oh, why nothing, but all sorts of knowledge. Indeed! He is quite an encyclopedic of facts (?). He rooms with a Seminarian, thinking that he will have a friend in He— or —, as the case may be. He likes the other sex, and would prefer a co-ed college, but the co-eds don't want him.

OSWIN STRICKER FRANTZ, Cressman, Pa.

Goethean; Vice-Pres. G. L. S. (2); Poet Goethean Anniversary (3); Lessing Verein (3); Oriflamme Staff (3); College Student Staff (3); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (3); Prepared Perkiomen Seminary.

Oswin Stricker Frantz does not come from Germany. Oh no! he comes from Bucks Co. He has a studious look about his eyes but don't be deceived. This picture was taken when he was attending Perkiomen. His mother thinks he studies hard but she does not know that he flunks even for "Johnny." Never mind, Oswin, you are not entirely to blame. But take a little advice. Leave the girls alone, even if you have to stop teaching that delightful Sunday School class. Somebody tells us he can sing. Maybe he can. We never heard him. He stayed in Lancaster last summer for some unknown (?) reason but now he is rather anxious to leave. We wonder why (?)

JOHN SHOWALTER GALT, $\phi K \Psi$

Terre Hill, Pa.

Class Treasurer (2); Calender Staff (2); Class President (3); Asst. Foot Ball Manager (3); Relay Team (2); Capt. Relay Team (3); Director Athletic Association (3); Prepared at F. M. A.

Let us behold the picture of a once illustrious lad John Showalter Galt. A eulogy would not half make up what brightness his mind has lost since he first came to college. His ability in the running line was acquired in frequent retreats from the Freshmen last year. A good bluff, to look wise when you know nothing, cut judiciously, and say "yes" are his mottos. Lately "Jack" has branched into other lines among which is taking private lessons in shorthand and typewriting in the President's private office, the president of course being "in absentia." A second look tells you that he looks like a manager of foot ball and he should emphasize this fact and we hope the result of the season will give more credit upon the Manager than usual. He says (?) he has no use for the ladies but let us think for ourselves and keep the change.

CARL L. O. GRAUL, Φ K Ψ, Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

Mandolin Club (1) (2) (3); Chairman
Calendar Staff (2); Oriflamme Staff (3);
Lessing Verein (3); Asst. Basket Ball
Manager (3); Sec. Directors Athletic Association; Prepared at Mt. Pleasant Institute.

Here is my friend from Germany (American) and when you once know the motto of Carl L. O. Graul "Ein glas Rhein zur gesundheit," you will affirm our belief. But who doubts the sincerity and amiableness of this man. The ladies took special delight in his impersonation of Champagne in the German play. He is going to boom Basket Ball next year and organize a "lager" club at college. His 'possum instinct rendered it necessary for "Otto" to administer a bracer before he took his picture. Carl needs no coaching for his lessons and knows more without studying than "Sister" Dayhoff after a long siege. (Carl asked us not to put this in, but "truth will out.")

WILLIAM WILSON HEINITSH, Α Φ,
Lancaster, Pa.

Calendar Staff (2); Prepared at F. M. A.

Evidently the photographer must have given William Wilson Heinitsh a piece of candy to keep him quiet while this picture was being taken. "Bill" is a star in Oratory. He made such progress (?) under John Quincy Adams last year that he decided to continue the study through his Junior year. He was very noisy in his Freshman and Sophomore years, but has at last decided to take life seriously. We should like to predict for him a great future, but have grave fears that some day he may fly off on a tangent and forget to return.

EDGAR FRANKLIN HOFFMEIER,

Jeannette, Pa.

Diagnothean; Class Historian (1); Calendar Staff (2); Winner C. Z. Weiser Prize (1); Manager Class Base Ball Team (2); Oriflamme Staff (3); Iessing Verein (3); Asst. College Librarian (3); Y. M. C. A. Handbook (1); Recording Secretary D. L. S. (1); Corresponding Secretary D. L. S. (2); Vice-President D. L. S. (3); Prepared at Mercersburg Academy.

This is the picture of Edgar F. Hoffmeier. It is here the young face on old shoulders but often he gets on his dignity and tries to act papa. He is the chief attraction at the library and if F. and M. were co-ed, the library would be crowded, but as it is, there is only one "co-ed" (?) who goes there. He has learned to cut classes, smoke a pipe, hot air, bluff, and put on the face of a good boy and say he is going into the ministry. He is Dutch from the word "go," but a Dutchman from Western Pennsylvania and hence more Dutch than the Berks Co. Dutch, if possible.

NORMAN LEWIS HORN,

Ashland, Pa.

'Varsity Foot Ball Team (1) (2) (3); Capt. Foot Ball Team (3); Scrub Base Ball Team (2); Basket Ball Team (1) (2); Capt. Basket Ball Team (2); Prepared at Ashland H. S.

What shall we say of this unpolished gem? It is Norman Lewis Horn and he is such a bundle of inconsistencies that we don't know where to class him. A man in statue but a child in conduct. A case of misdirected vitality. Six feet three of shambling, awkward humanity, and a never ceasing boisterous noise and 'cheese and rice' you have the whole man. "Googie" expects to go to the Seminary where we hope some good may yet come of him.

ARTHUR HAMBLETON HULL, ϕ K Σ ,
Millersville, Pa.

Mandolin Club (2) (3); Basket Ball Team (2) (3); Capt. Class Basket Ball Team (2); Prepared at Millersville S. N. S.

What! don't know this young man? Why! he is Arthur Hambleton Hull. Never heard of him? Don't tell him so if you haven't. He came from Millersville. Thinks F. and M. ought to have lady teachers and "co-eds." Artie's an athlete too. Used to play tennis. We never heard why he stopped. He's learning basket ball now. He also puts up a big bluff as being a society man, but owing to Millersville environments he is laboring under great difficulty. We have nothing (?) bad to say about him. He studies hard (?) and was never known to "fake". In fact his whole conduct shows that he has taken well to heart his mother's instructions.

ALLEN KILHEFFER, ϕ K Σ , Millersville, Pa.

Base Ball Team (1) (2) (3); Foot Ball Team (1) (2); Capt. Class Foot Ball Team (1); Capt. Base Ball Team (2); Board of Directors Athletic Ass'n (1) (2) (3); Basket Ball Team (3); Prepared F. M. A.

Allen Kilheffer is the foxiest man in the class; his smile is innocent enough, but it hides a worldly nature, aside from that his vices so nearly balance his virtues that we will have to let him go only half browned. To judge from the graceful swagger of his shoulders one would think he has a very good opinion of "Killie." At his special request Otto made an extra effort to get those same shoulders on this picture, but be not deceived, all is not muscle that the coat covers.

GEORGE ALBRIGHT LAND, Millersville, Pa.

Goethean; Class Base Ball Team (2); Glee Club (3); Lessing Verein (3); Class Sec. (3); Oriflamme Staff (3); Prepared at Greensburg Seminary.

No, gentle reader, George Albright Land is not a wild man as you might judge by that gigantic pompadour; he is however a poet, but his effusions are such painful efforts (to the reader) that they seldom appear in print. He is a "knocker" first, last, and always and to him nothing is "to the good," (as he would say,) except G. A. Land, an opinion he has formed since he has been permitted to accompany the Glee Club on their warbling expeditions to Manheim and similar large cities, and has become Assistant Business Manager of the Oriflamme. He found the Lancaster business men a pretty stiff cold proposition but succeeded in pulling their legs in a very successful style.

ROY MUMMA LEHMAN, Mountville, Pa.

Goethean; Prepared at F. and M. A.

The enlightened and cultured looking young gentleman whose lineaments the gentle reader sees portrayed at this stage of the game, is Roy Mumma Lehman. Roy Mumma entered the classic halls of Franklin and Marshall in the fall of 1901, bearing with him the best wishes of his host of friends in Mountville, Pa. He made his debut in society on the occasion of the reception given by the Senior Class to the Juniors last fall, but has since decided that such a life is not for him and has cut it out. Would that there were more like him! He generally takes a nap in class wherefore we won't disturb him with any mention of text-books.

WAYNE KALBACH LEINBACH, $\phi K \Sigma$,
Reading, Pa.

Goethean; Class Base Ball Team (2);
Glee Club (3); Lessing Verein (3); Prepared at Reading Classical School.

Wayne Kal"bach" Lein"bach" comes from Reading over. He was a simple Pennsylvania Dutchman when he first struck Lancaster, but he has since been converted, and now when he is seen strutting along with his high hat and cane, people instinctively look to see whether one of the Vanderbilts or Goulds, or perhaps the Prince of Wales, is not following meekly behind. He is one of the Glee Club "stars," and even would have liked very much to have been Manager of it. He has distinguished himself in the Dutch show and elsewhere.

Prepared private. Entered Sophomore.

Next to Eckert our most conscientious man is James Martin Lohr. Jim neither smokes nor chews, neither drinks nor swears, never cuts classes or chapel and never uses any of Hinds and Noble's animals. In fact all this is just what is going to make him a good President of the Y. M. C. A. Jim's only weak spot is his heart as cupid and the girls know. On the "Oriflamme" Staff he has done all his work as befits the second most conscientious man in the class of 1905. He had a mustache when he arrived in Lancaster but as you see by his picture, he has outgrown such "childish" things.

SYLVESTER KLINE LOY,

Virginsville, Pa.

Goethean; Class Vice-President (3);
Press Club (3); Lessing Verein (3); Critic
G. L. S. (3); Reviewer G. L. S. (3);
Oriflamme Staff (3); Prepared at Kutztown S. N. S. Entered Sophomore.

S. K. Loy is a native of Berks County. He distinguished himself as one of the leading characters in the German play. The part that he performed most efficiently was the swearing; it seemed to come so natural to him. If he had a little higher sense of honor—as well as a little more common sense—Mr. Loy might make a good college president, for he has such an authoritative air about himself. If you hear him talk, you might think that he is one of the men; but be not deceived, not all that glitters is gold. He also is one of the glittering stars in the Kutztown "Club." "Enough said."

HERBERT HOFFER RISSER,

Florin, Pa.

Diagnothean; Chaplain D. L. S. (1);
Lessing Verein (3); Prepared at F. M. A.

Herbert H. Risser is a peculiar little duck. He is the smallest and lightest member of the class. But then what else can you expect from a boy that is "sick" so frequently. If you wish to know how often he is affected with his disease, don't try to find out from the number of meals he is absent from the eating club (for they are few), but look in Doc. "Johnny's" excuse book. He is striving hard to win the "booby" prize of the class. He can feel pretty sure of getting it, unless Dayhoff should happen to cut him out. It is said that he used to smoke, chew and drink but since he is under Walter's care he has abandoned those evil indulgences.

PAUL N. SCHAEFFER, $\lambda \phi$, Reading, Pa.

Goethean; Class President (1); Capt. Cane Rush (1); Calendar Staff (2); Rec. Sec. G. L. S. (2); "College Student" Staff (3); Oriflamme Staff (3); Manager Glee and Mandolin Club (3); Asst. Mgr. Base Ball (3); Scrub Foot Ball Team (3); Prepared at Reading High School.

Paul Nicholas Schaeffer almost led his class in his Freshman year, and was then too innocent to miss a single recitation. But, alas! now he needs a secretary to record his "cuts". "Petey" attends college as a diversion when the Glee and Mandolin Clubs are home for a rest. He excels in Chemistry, having spent one and three quarters afternoons in the Laboratory this year, and is reported to have lost his way thither not long ago. However, he is never lacking in good intentions. As one of the Art Editors of the Oriflamme, he proved himself especially valuable in always "being about" to get sketches. A corking good (?) fellow in his own opinion.

PHILIP FRANCK SCHOCK, $\phi \kappa \psi$,
Mount Joy, Pa.

'Varsity Foot Ball Team (1) (2); 'Varsity Base Ball Team (1) (2); Captain Base Ball (3); Capt. Class Base Ball Team (1) (2); Director Athletic Ass. (3); Prepared at F. M. A.

If you think Philip Franck Schock is as bashful as he looks in this picture you are badly mistaken. You do not know him well. He attends college primarily for athletics and incidentally for study. He usually comes late to class and sits well back in the corner to avoid being called upon to recite. Not long ago, without much persuasion the Faculty unaminously gave him permission to retire for two weeks to Mt. Joy in order to recuperate for the coming Base Ball season. He also plays Basket Ball and even sings a little tenor. They say he has a "girl" but nobody can "tell," what her name is.

MORTIMER LAWRENCE SHUFORD, ϕ κ Σ ,

Goethean; Mandolin Club (1) (2) (3);
Leader Mandolin Club (3); Glee Club (2)
(3); Scrub Foot Ball Team (2); Vice-
Pres. G. L. S. (3); F. and M. Weekly (3);
Class Foot Ball (1); Sub. on Track Team
(2); Prepared at Hagerstown High School.

Mortimer Lawrence Shuford is an example of what they produce in Maryland. He says he is descended from an old Southern family, but we hope the descent will not continue much longer. He is a little fellow with a big ambition, not to mention his big opinion of himself. The former is being satisfied by his own self-sufficiency and the latter increased by his success. Bold of speech, independent in action he ought to make a success as a second Carrie Nation.

WARREN EDWARD SNYDER, ϕ κ Ψ ,
Lancaster, Pa.

Diagnothean; Mandolin Club (1); Green
Room Club (1); Prepared at Lancaster
High School.

Take a good look at Warren Edward Snyder and you will see a first class, Simon pure, A No. 1. "bluffer." His chief victim is Tuffey in Physics, but the other Profs. and the Literary Society also suffer very frequently. He is not "Dutch," as his name would indicate. However, he does aspire to become assistant some day in the German department, because of his accurate translations in that branch. He is by no means as slow as his arrival every morning in the class room at half past the hour would indicate. He will make his mark in the world some day.

JOHN BAER STOUDT,

Fleetwood, Pa.

Goethean; Critic G. L. S. (2); First Prize Sophomore Oratorical Contest (2); Lessing Verein (3); Prepared Kutztown S. N. S. Entered Sophomore.

This is John Baer Stoudt. He came to F. and M. from Kutztown. "Does he speak English," do you ask? Maybe he understands it. Nobody ever heard him speak it. He is somewhat of an orator, at least he thinks he is. He likes Greek but is most brilliant in economics. Here when he begins to pour forth his luminosity, even "Tubby" has to stop in amazement. Yet we don't call him "heisse Luft." How strange! They say he has a girl whom he leaves college to visit every two weeks. All we know is that when we ask him about this matter he turns red and says something no one can understand.

LLOYD EPHRAIM STROHM, Fredricksburg, Pa.

Capt. Cane Rush (2); Class Foot Ball Team (1); Varsity Foot Ball Team (1) (2) (3); All F. and M. Foot Ball Team (2); Director Athletic Association (3); Pres. Athletic Association (3); Prepared at F. M. A.

Lloyd Ephraim Strohm is a specimen from Fredricksburg, Pennsylvania. Lloyd started in with the class of 1904, but immediately saw the error of his way, and so he very wisely decided to wait for the appearance of 1905 above the horizon of prep. schools, etc. "Strohmy" takes this means of emphatically denying the rumor, current around college, that he is a full blooded Irishman. He claims German descent, and a committee especially appointed to investigate the matter, finds some truth in what he says. Lloyd expects to become a milk wagon driver after he has received his degree. He has recently married. We need say no more.

GEORGE MYRON SWAN, $\phi \Sigma \kappa$,

Lancaster, Pa.

Diagnothean; Green Room Club (3);
Glee Club (2); Class Vice-President (2);
Prepared at F. M. A.

George Myron Swan is a bird. He was one of the best chirpers on last year's Glee Club, and it has been a source of regret to those having the aesthetic interests of Franklin and Marshall College at heart, that a multiplicity of other interests prevented his trills and warblings being heard this season. George is very liberal in his views, as is attested by the fact that while being one of the most loyal sons of Franklin and Marshall, he still is broad-minded enough to take an interest in what transpires at Wilson College. He is somewhat of an orator, but owes it all to the training of J. Q. A.

LANDIS TANGER,

Strasburg, Pa.

Diagnothean; Entered Junior, Prepared
at Millersville S. N. S.

Landis Tanger is one of the last arrivals in the class of 1905. He started to college sometime ago but fell asleep on the way and awoke at the beginning of the present year. He is an assiduous poler but another year of strenuous college life will probably serve to cure this. He studies and dissects Old English "Roots," just for fun. As he rarely speaks much we must pass on, leaving his virtues and faults a hidden mystery.

JOHN ROBERT TITZEL, Lancaster, Pa.

Prepared at Lancaster High School.

This is a picture with a meaningless expression but as a matter of compliment we shall proceed to name him John Robert Titzel. He was one of those four illustrious ones who gave advice to freshmen in the form of posters; the city authorities thought it unnecessary and you must imagine the rest.

He takes Greek for fear the wrath of "Zeus" should inflict vengeance upon him, he also cultivates absenting himself from classes at times. He does not take his college course seriously enough, looks very innocent with his nice red cheeks and practices the art of blushing continually. He longs to live out of town because as he says he could have more fun and less danger of mamma finding out.

SAMUEL HIGBEE WHITMORE, Pottsville, Pa

Goethean; Critic G. L. S. (3); Lessing Verein (3); Entered Sophomore; Prepared at Pottsville High School.

This vacant expression belongs to Samuel Higbee Whitmore. His melancholy look is due to the fact that Tuffy has only given him ninety-five in Physics. His life is bounded by the covers of his text books, his room and the recitation halls. He thinks, acts, talks, and lives only to make a good mark. As a girl in the Dutch play he was more natural than in the character nature has given him. He will become a mark in some mountain monastery.

RUFUS W. G. WINT, ϕ K Ψ , Catasauqua, Pa.

Diagnothean; Chaplain D. L. S. (1); Class Secretary (1); Class Foot Ball Team (1); Class Base Ball Team (1) (2); Mandolin Club (1) (2) (3); Class President (2); Lessing Verein (3); Business Manager 1905 Oriflamme; Varsity Base Ball Team (1) (2); F. and M. Weekly (3); Prepared at F. M. A.

This cynical face is that of R. W. G. Wint. Small of stature but of exceeding great nerve, he impresses one as a cock-sparrow but like that self important bird he looks dangerous, but is really harmless. His bluffing powers are magnificent; his words in Psychology staggered even Johnny. He never had a good chance to use his nerve until he tackled the job of Business Manager of the Oriflamme where he had full use for it. His flaxen locks and sparkling wit have made him extremely popular with the ladies.

WILLIAM NEVIN YEARICK, Shenadoah, Pa.

Goethean; Class Vice-President (1); Mgr. Class Foot Ball Team (1); Chaplain G. L. S. (1); Cor. Sec. G. L. S. (2); Rec. Sec. G. L. S. (2); Green Room Club (2) (3); Vice-Pres. G. L. S. (3); Pres. Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Union (3); Goethean representative Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Union (3); Salutatorian Goethean Anniversary (3); Librarian G. L. S. (3); Prepared at F. M. A.

When William Nevin Yearick was a freshman, he used to hold his class-mates spell-bound by the flow of eloquence coming from his lips in class meeting. During his Sophomore year, there began to arise vague rumors of "hot-air," and his influence in the affairs of 1905 began accordingly to diminish. Since last fall he seems to have sunk entirely below the horizon. What he will develop (or degenerate) into in his Senior year, the good Lord only knows.

Senior Roasts.

Althouse.—Were it not for the fact that Walter's friends might see this, we would say that he is sometimes a little bit "cranky." Walter expects to get his A. B. at commencement and his A. B. (Anna B.) expects to get him shortly after commencement.

John Walter Baker.—He went to sleep in Prep. school and has never wakened up. He joined his class a year and two months behind time and has been behind ever since.

Frank Gilbert Beam.—An example of what college life will do for a green country lad. Frank has out grown all that and is now quite a society man. As Editor-in-Chief of the "Weekly," he avoided controversy by his pointless editorials.

John Warfel Beyer.—Bobby's brother and guardian. As one of Tuffy's protege's he will no doubt make his mark in the world some day. He is "coming" also in the social "whirl" of the college life.

Robert Arthur Beyer.—Johnny's brother and guardian. He has "come" in the society of F. and M. He is quite popular with the girls. No doubt he will one day be a College President for which he is eminently fitted in dignity and stature.

Jacob Foster Bitner.—An innocent farmer boy gone to the "bad". Jake began by playing solitaire and eating pretzels, now he plays anything from old maid to poker, but prefers pinochle, and takes his pretzels only with a lubricant.

Boehm.—Talks much but says little. Easily started on any subject, but difficult to stop. Has a strong affinity for gas. (To test him just lead him into a quarrel)

Brilhart.—He has recently learned to like "skating" by moonlight. His favorite occupation is playing whist. He studies in his leisure moments.

Brendle.—A hot (air) debater. He has been making strenuous efforts to justify and uphold his kinsmen, the "Russians" in their recent struggle. He feels sure that the Ch (J)aps will be defeated. If he can find nothing that will require less ability, he expects to enter the ministry.

Henry Wadsworth Brubaker.—You would not know that this young man is Dutch were it not for his dialect, his short fat stature and his love for beer. As good natured as an Irishman to which race his red hair would assign him.

Erdman.—Some men are born great, some men achieve greatness, and some men think they are great; to the last class belongs Mr. Erdman.

Herman Edgar Fegley.—From Kutztown over. He joined the class in the Sophomore year and immediately began his social conquests. His charms are known as far south as Millersville and as far west as Columbia Avenue.

Freed, From study, enslaved to pleasure. He has a hard time of life for he is always stuck on himself. He is extremely fond of ladies and thinks it strange that they do not lavish their affections on one who is an almost perfect type of the Aesthetic.

Fulton.—The fact that John Fulton carries his head higher than any other member of the class does not say that he knows more than the ordinary. He has, however, distinguished himself as an orator, but was always generous enough to permit several others to get ahead of him.

John Mitchell Garbrick.—Came to college with the intention of being true to his "sweetheart" at home, but alas for human weakness the charms of the present were stronger than those of the absent and—well some poor girl is lonesome to-night.

Josiah William Gitt, Jr.—The Jr. is not necessary to tell that he is the younger. His innocent smiles, however, hide more worldly wisdom than he would have the Sr. know.

Ralph Hostetter Gochnauer.—This young lady like most of the sex has an inexhaustible supply of words but a deficiency of ideas.

Gregory.—It is too bad! Since Gregory does not have a chum, he has turned for the worse. He plays cards (not old-maids, however,) almost every night, which he would not think of doing while he was under Walter's thumb.

Groff.—Is witty but the man who wrote Snow-bound was Whittier, he says. Porkie is well versed in all kinds of slang and witty sayings. He expects to be on exhibition at St. Louis this summer as a type of the innocence of youth.

Peter Monroe Harbold.—Is the guardian of Paradise Club and the spiritual advisor of the Senior Class. It is rumored that his mild disposition was brought about by a disappointment in love—but we won't expose his heart affairs here. His class needed at least one stable character.

Herr.—Better known as Punk. He is like Miles Standish, small in stature but mighty in battle—provided the tongue only is needed. Punk is also quite a whist shark. Another boy gone to the dogs.

Robert Keller Hershey.—We hate to roast so delicately tinted a specimen of sweet innocence as Robbie. We only hope his heart is as innocent as his face.

Martin Clement Hoffman.—Came to F. and M. in his Senior year. We wonder why? He is neither a poler, an athlete, nor a society man. He rooms with Erdman, that is sufficient for him.

Hosterman.—He takes great pride in trying to make others believe that he can sing. He thinks he is succeeding wonderfully in his efforts. "Host" looks fine (?) in Westerman's high hat.

Hower.—He is Longfellow taken literally. His trouble is he has spent all his youth in growing vertically at the expense of a growing brain. He has learned, however, that a big ship with no pilot is of little use, and he is now endeavoring to make up his deficiency.

Ara Amram Kauffman.—We found his name in the catalogue therefore concluded that he really goes to college, though we have never heard him. Yet the catalogue never errs(?)

Amos Engle Kraybill.—A dear motherly old soul who by his spicy wit and convincing logic helped win the State debate. His mature mind makes up in part for the giddiness of "Kid" Schaeffer.

Joseph Sell Lawrence.—Will argue on either side of any question and with such an air of conviction that he persuades both himself and his hearers that he really believes what he says.

John Nathan Levan.—Ned has become the successor of a certain '02 man to the retreat under the "Walnut and the Pines." He is a nice fellow, but he labors under the delusion that he is good-looking. We won't disillusion him.

Lightner.—To say that he was lazy would hardly do him justice for he is quite active in playing cards. He attends college whenever he can't persuade Georgie, Porkie and Punk to cut classes and join him in his favorite diversion.

Moyer.—In the class room a bluffer, in the dining room a stuffer. He used to be an all around athlete before he had his leg pulled by the Indians. He expects to study medicine and practice other 'sins.'

Edwin Allen Nace.—As curious as a woman, and as dense as an Englishman. His puns are insufferable.

Peterson.—A hard worker—to stay awake. Goes to college once in a while to get his excuses. They say Pete is married, but we don't believe it.

Rupp P. B.—Paul's cranium is very much like a plate of vegetable soup; it contains almost all kinds of ingredients. It is filled with a little music (little enough, too,) to enable him to be leader of the Glee Club, enough nerve to make him editor-in-chief of the College Student, and plenty of hot air to give him a place on the debating team.

Rupp, Theo.—One of the most sensible things about Teddy is that he takes a rest whenever he gets tried. That is why he graduates this year instead of last year.

John Ahlum Schaeffer.—A grave mistake was made in sending this young boy to college instead of to kindergarten. We agree with his father who said that John's college course was not worth five cents.

Schaeffer, A. A.—He can't understand how he always gets so many demerits. He can generally account for only thirty-eight when the faculty has credited him with fifty. He sleeps away the rest.

Forest Grimm Schaeffer.—Silent as a sphinx and grouchy as Tuffy in Freshman algebra. His words are few but expressive.

Robert L. Schaeffer.—Came over from Kutztown to study Catalogy and and Human Anatomy, but he fell in with Fegley and Bitner and has changed his course, which now includes only Sociology and practical work in physical measurements.

Sipple.—Dennis spends more time in talking and thinking of the girls than of his lessons, which accounts for the fact that he also plays a little football and expects to enter the ministry.

Edgar Appel Slagle.—“Regie” conceals his lack of intellect by silence and a look of wisdom. “Doncher know,” he look awfully nice when he “cawwys” a cane.

Sprecher.—This young man does not talk very much which is certainly a quality of great value to himself as well as to his companions.

Stick.—Stick easily gets stuck on girls as well as in class. He has a strong affinity for Y. M. C. A.—when they have a banquet. Pride 4 † Bluff 2 † Excitability 3 † Fat 5 = Stick.

Roland Brubaker Styer.—Is one of the silent partners of the class. It would require a telepathist to get at his thoughts if he has any. He's as tight with his bivalves as a clam.

Truxal.—“Trux” and Society are synonymous at F. and M. His chief occupations are smoking, sleeping and dancing. He is never troubled with demerits. He intends to study law and then enter the ministry.

Luther Ferree Witmer.—Is not French as his name implies. He is only physical instructor, assistant in chemistry and general good fellow. Does not like the GIRLS, but only the singular number.

Martin Weaver Witmer.—A married man (?) So Report has it. Marty denies it. He is quite a literary man and also takes the part of the fool well (in the Merchant of Venice).

Sophomore Roasts.

Aston.—An entirely too presumptuous young man. He ventures to teach “Tubby” Mathematics.

Adam.—Oh Adam! Who art thou? Neither masculine nor feminine. Go on thy way for thou art a model for Freshmen.

Berkey.—He thinks more facts in a day than Gochnauer talks in a week. Very modest, but is funny behind the curtain.

Bissinger.—His engagement is being announced, that is as catcher on the class base-ball team.

Bitner.—An escaped “kid” from the M. S. N. S.—not yet weaned, “fresh” from the griddle, needs seasoning.

Dotterer.—The lone poler of the Sophomore Class. The only student who couldn't find time to witness the Ursinus Foot Ball game.

Fallon.—Likes the girls better than his books, the Opera House better than the girls, and Bill Read best of all.

Frantz.—A little man with big ideas. Spends some time in studying Zoology, but most of it in managing the finances of the Sophomore class.

Gardner.—An ambitious Sophomore. The less seen of him the better off.

Ginder.—The father of the class. He tried spying when '07 banqueted but found nothing. Good for nothing else so we'll send him to the Seminary.

Hartman.—An heart-man last year, but time softens virtues and hardens ills so this year he divides his time between opera and cutting.

Heefner.—Less disirable than he thinks. Music and ladies have cracked his brains. Too much hot air for the capacity of his ability.

Helman.—A mighty warrior was he. He is fast becoming a college man. They say he has a “girl.” Don't tell anybody.

Henneberger.—Unassuming and apparently a dear good boy. But you do not know him.

Hershey.—An unsophisticated country lad. His lips have a close affinity for each other; hence he is never heard to talk.

Herman, J. L.—Altogether too fast for F. and M. He will make an A No. 1 Cat Doctor.

Hull.—Would like to, but can't. Fresh from Millersville and better suited to the Freshman Class.

Kosman.—Sometimes awake—but more often asleep. His customary period for sleep is twenty-three hours a day.

Lurio.—A human interrogation mark. He has gotten so far ahead of his class that he must stay out of college until the others catch up to him.

Lequear.—The mainstay of his class. An all round athlete with a professors face when he is among the "Preps."

Missel.—Here in body, but not in spirit. A picture in his room tells the tale. A poler, for nothing else appeals to him.

Mueller.—His course does not include Biology so he took Freshman year at Muhlenburg. "Know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

Nicholas.—A typical "Sopho—more." He contemplates a partnership with Brown as an information bureau.—A comic philosopher.

Peters.—Has ability but does not show it. A wolf in sheeps clothing because he will enter the Seminary.

Ranck.—"Abe." A familiar name at College and he wonders that he is not recognized through it. A fleet tongue hitched to a flighty mind.

Reninger.—Flunks in Greek, sleeps in Chemistry, chews tobacco in History and attends college when he isn't "sick."

Rieser.—"Dutch." Don't get scared when you hear him talk. Tried the shell game on Ursinus last fall. Remember him as captain of cane-rush and class foot-ball.

Rupp.—"What's trump?" So vastly different from our Rupps. Prefers solitaire, applejack, and Lehigh to going to college.

Schnebley.—A great debator and destined to some day outshine Lincoln and Douglas.

Sheetz.—Reads, studies and plays tennis. When spoken to, he answers in monosyllables. Quite an adept at cards.

Shupe.—Too bashful to say grace at the table. He remains outside until it is over.

Snyder, L. H.—Follows with a lighter grace,
His brother's much abandoned pace.

Snyder, A. F.—O, Rot !!. A great improvement over his Freshman year. His favorite word in Latin is "Ego."

Snyder.—"Lank," For information about the faculty consult him. A would be athlete. To get his share he uses steins and stogies.

Wareheim.—His conceit makes him look clownish. He is reserved and modest which is in full keeping with his stature.

Wingerd.—The only Sophomore at the Freshman Banquet. More eager to leave than to remain; more willing to fast than to eat..

Workman.—A good specimen of unadulterated brass, more valuable than gold when viewed from his own mind.

Freshman Roasts.

- Aungst.—The wild man from Borneo.
- Barley.—“A lad of mettle! A good boy.”
- Beamensderfer.—The boy with the map of Germany on his face.

- Ewing.—“Oh, mirth and innocence; oh, milk and water.”
- Fisher.—Objects to the obstreperous manner in which he was handled by the Sophs.

- Frailey, W. O.—“Lax in his gaiters, laxer in his gait.
- Frankhauser.—The joke of 1907, also the most prolific cutter in the bunch.
- Frantz.—He found the pace too fast.
- Fraser.—“I’s wicked I is; I’s mighty wicked, anyhow.”
- Gilbert.—“But mamma must go too.”
- Graul.—His constant thought—“The girl I left behind me.”

- Irwin.—“What have we here?”
- Jenkins.—A fleeting phantom.
- Jones.—The Horace Greeley of 1907.
- Kauffman.—Little troubled with the disease of thinking.
- Kreider.—“A mighty man, and meek withal.”

- Springer.—Gone, but not forgotten.
- Strauss.—Shut up in measureless content.
- Uish.—Should strive not to display his verdancy so prominently.

- Whitmore.—Was good when he came to college, but is learning. Rooms with Hoffmeier.
- Zacharias.—“Ah, that's a colt, indeed.”

Our Only Co-Ed.

Miss N—— R.—— To forget this modest (?) young lady would be to neglect the most interesting feature (to some fellows) around college. In the few months she has been among us she has distracted three Seniors, driven one Soph. off with a broken heart and played havoc with the whole Freshman class.

We know not whence she cometh, nor whither she goeth (unless it is to the bad), her name is not in the College catalogue (another error) but may be found in the reading room register every day for four months past. Here she pursues her studies of such heavy literature as F. & M. Oriflammes and Nevonians. Her company is eagerly sought after at 5 P. M. and we even know of one Senior who hid in the basement to escape her irresistible charms; a modern Ulysses and the Siren. We all admire her for her maidenly reserve, her sense of propriety, and her devout nature.

She is the only one we have. We pray Zeus to give us no more.

The Faculty and Their Favorite Expressions.

"Johnny" Stahr: "Young gentlemen, you will find this both profitable and instructive."

"Katy" Dubbs: "Of course you young men understand how to take all this." "You know we want to get a general knowledge of the subject."

"Zeus" Kieffer: (In a big bass voice). "Well now what's your name?" "Are you a pretty good boy?"

"Tuffy" Kershner: "Efidently." "Not so." "Aindt."

"Georgie" Mull: "The signification of the word taken in an etymological sense confines us to this interpretation."

"Dicky" Schiedt: (To the Sophs) "Vell, you act like a set of plockheads."

"Englishman" Wagner (soothingly): "You know you can't get anything out of this work unless you study it before class." "Perhaps that will do there."

"Tubby" Hiester: "That's plain English; isn't it?" "The practical way is to make correct kackilations."

"Heller" Heller: "Do you think you can improve on this Greek?" Some more too sharp for paper.

"Dutchman" Powell: "You may take the next ten pages. I don't think that's too much; do you?"

———— Beck: (To the Qualitative men): "What did you find in your bottle? No, that's not quite right."

"Doc." Stahr: (Just married) "My wife."

———— Brown: In absentia.

A Dinner at the Franklin Club.

WHEN on a visit to Lancaster this spring, I was invited to dine with a friend, who is a member of the Franklin Boarding Club; I accepted the invitation, and he took me to their headquarters, on the S. W. Cor. of James and Mary Streets. The sights I saw there were such as greatly impressed me, and I want to tell you a few of the things I noticed.

The members of the club, twenty-four in number, were the hungriest-looking set of Dutchmen I ever saw; evidently all were only too glad to hear the signal of the cook when all was ready. Frantz, who holds the honorable position of filling DeTurck's waterglass, sat at the head of one of the two tables, and called on Brown to say grace; but Brown immediately answered: "Not prepared; I brayed this morning." So, to avoid confusion, Schaeffer said four or five words by way of grace, and Brown responded with a hearty "Amen," while Scheetz exclaimed "Gee, that's a swell one." All this while Rupp was giggling and DeTurck was sizing up dishes, and planning how to get first help of everything.

Grace over, Stoudt began to dilate upon the latest (?) political news as published by the "Reading Weekly Eagle." But I don't suppose he knew very much about it; at anyrate, his verbosity failed to elicit any response from the other members; or perhaps it was because of weightier matters at hand that there was no response; for, in a moment, there was a noise and confusion such as would challenge Babel. From here on I can not give an orderly account of everything, for so many things happened at once, but I can tell of only one at a time. So I give a few facts noticed.

By the time the majority began, DeTurck was filling his plate for the third time, and was asking for the fifth glassful of water. The Rev. Leinbach, at the head of the second table, saw chicken dished up, so he took half, and left the other members to the mercies of God, that he would miraculously multiply the remainder. George Bickel appreciated the fact that he lost time on account of the distance between the plate and his mouth, so he humped himself, camel style, which position he retained all through the meal. At the other end sat Stick, stuck on himself, and wondering whether he is in a "Gristian Institooshun," While Stoudt was shooting hot air, Billy Rupp was yelling "Great boy! Bravo!" and Risser was grumbling something about how he faked Tuffy. Jones kept asking "What's that?" to everything that was said; evidently he is very inquisitive. Judas Gregory, with money-bag in hand, kept saying between gulps, "Levy, poys, the levy, don't forget the levy." Berkey was trying to tell the boys something about a "post-mortem statement" a friend of his made. Over at another corner Adam was quietly praying to his Eve for another piece of apple, while his neighbors, Aungst and Nicholas were getting angry in an argument about the Fresh-Soph base ball game, played 10 weeks later. Nicholas lost, so he said something about Ephrata, at which I noticed a smile spread over Frantz's face; I don't know why it did, unless he is interested in the "Glass-works" there. Hertzog was promising how many Sophs he would kill in a fight, while Marshall was trying to get Geo. Bickel to say something in answer to his unintelligible Womelsdorf Dutch. Of course I should not forget to say that Stoudt was hot airing all this time, and Billy Rupp was trying to lose his temper. The only boys who were quiet and modest were Freshmen Bickel and Irving.

By the time I was ready to begin, I found (to my surprise, for there had been lots) that all the victuals had been eaten; so I went to the Harbaugh Club, but there they had eaten even the dishes and linens, and had started eating the tables, too; that was too much like army hard-tack, so I went to Hoster's and bought a dinner.

I will always remember that dinner at the Franklin Club.

A Junior's Toast.

Here's to the grapes that make the sparkling wine!
If you'll pledge me your love, I'll pledge you mine.
If you'll be constant, I'll be true.
I'll leave friends, home, everything;
All for you;—just for a little while.

Chemistry.

Dayhoff:—"Say, Land, have you any litmus paper?"

Land:—"No, but here's some filter paper; it will work as well. It will turn green in acid."

Dayhoff, takes it and returns ten minutes later:—"Land, that paper won't work; I tried it."

Beck:—"Mr. Shock, what is an atom?"

Shock:—"An atom is one of those things of which all things are made."

Bobby Beyer's Potassium Experiment.

Purpose:—To show Bobby's knowledge of chemistry to the Juniors.

Manipulation:—Bobby slings his loose jointed elbow against a jar of potassium upsetting in a pint of water and a gallon of potassium permanganate.

Result:—A brilliant and startling display of fire-works, a badly frightened Bobby and a bill of $3.65.

Bobby consoles himself thus:—"Well now you know father gives Johnny and me spending money and I may as well spend it that way as any other."

Boom! !: Mueller blows up the gasmeter. Experiment I each year.

Risser:—"writes, CuS '04.

Tuffy (to the class in Physics):—"Wat iss die temperature of dis room?"

Shuford (who tried to raise a window once):—"About 180 Centigrade."

Tuffy:—"Aw, git oudt, ve don't vant none of your chokes here."

Truxal (leading the yelling at the Indian game):—"Pray hard, F. & M! Pray hard F. & M., !! Play hard F. & M !!!

DeTurck (explaining why we lost Ursinus game of 1902):—"Ve lost because dey tantalized us too much."

Zacharias (explaining to some upper classmen):—"And three of them were twins."

Prof. Beck, (assigning lesson in Chemistry):—"You may cut out pages 261 and 262:" Lohr: "Prof. do you mean omit?"

Prof. Hiester, (to Aston who is explaining a problem in trig):—"What are those letters?"

Tubby Aston:—"They are Greek letters. I ran out of English letters so had to use Greek."

The 'Phone Girl.

"Hello!"

"Hello! (aside) What can be the matter with this 'phone again?"

"Hello! Hell: Is Mr. Sporty Junior there?"

* * * * *

"Oh, is that you, Mr. Junior? Something is wrong with this horrid 'phone. Well, how are you by this time?"

* * * * *

"Better? Well, I am glad to hear it. Take my advice, and the next time you go to a dance, go straight home afterwards. Maybe then that nervous headache won't bother you so much. But listen, can you come down Friday evening?"

* * * * *

"Oh, you, with your old Oriflamme meeting! I don't believe that your old book will be any good when it does come out. Oh, say, wasn't it just perfectly dandy that F. & M. won that basket-ball from Lehigh?"

* * * * *

"Yes, and doesn't that Schock man have just the loveliest hair?—Oh, tell me, when is the next college dance?"

* * * * *

"Not until after Lent? Why the idea. What is the matter with Sam Moyer, and "Red" Brubaker, and Truxal, and the rest of that religiously inclined dance committee. You just tell them that they ought to go to China, and propagate their ideas concerning the keeping of Lent among the Boxers and"——

At this point, a business man, who has been for the past five minutes an impatient listener to this edifying conversation, gently butts in, and informs the long-winded couple that he also contributes some little to the support of the telephone company, etc.

"All right, I'll see you again. Good-bye."

ZOOLOGY

Zoology: Last Year.

ATURDAY morning, Biological laboratory, ten minutes after nine and Sophomore still straggling in. Dickey begins to lose his temper, pulls out his roll-book: "Vell dis glass meets at nine o'clock, ve can't wait all day for a few sleepy headts." Calls the roll, Brubaker absent as usual, "Iss Mr. Brubaker getting dis stuff py inspiration." No answer and he proceeds, Charles is out also. "Does anyone know iff Mr. Charles is going to dis college. I wouldn't know him anymore iff I'd see him." Proceeds and the roll is finished with a few more such remarks.

Dicky:—"Ve hadt last time—vat did ve haf last time, Mr. Eckert?"

Eckert, begins:—"We had—"

Dicky:—"You don't know nodings about it; you vas'nt here. Some of you men only come enough to keep your names on the roll and den ven you hand in your books you haf everyting der. Got goot imaginations."

Somebody whispers, "Fishing-worm."

Dicky:—"Vat idiot said, 'Fishing-worm,' der iss no such ting on Godt's eart. Why don't you learn tings by der right names. Some people tink dese tings come down in the rain; dey're fools like de man vats calls an eart-worm a fishing vorm. Vell get oud't your microscopes anyhow."

Stampede to the lockers follows, with the Sophomores' customary noise. All finally get back to their tables and Dicky begins his tour.

De Turck:—"Oh say, doctor issn't dis de vas deferens of the earth -vorm."

Dicky:—"Vere did you learn dat? At Kutztown? Dey don't know any zoology at Kutztown. Dey're dummys ofer dere."

Somebody kicks one of the crocks; a hollow sound results.

Dicky:—"Vell vat idiot is beating his headt now," silence for two seconds. "Now ve vill study de Histology." Goes for the slides but can't find his keys. "Did anyvon eat my keys," No reply and no keys. "Vell I guess a spirit must haf taken dem. I vonce hadt a conversation mit a spirit, but you don't know anyting about such tings, dey're too deep for Sophomores." The keys are still missing and Dicky's patience is giving out. Lifts up a book and finds them. "Vell ,in de meantime ve vill use dese."

All go to work (?) on the slides. Dicky looks in one of the mircoscopes. "Yes, yes, dats a goot one, see de epithelial cells; see, see, see, " The owner sits by looking on but not in , and replys doubtfully, "Yes, sir; yes, sir."

At this moment a stream of water from a pipette flys across the tables.

Dicky:—"Some fool is squirting his brains away. If I could catch de shackass vat does dose tings, I'd tell hiss fader immediately. A man vot does tings like dat ought to be in a lunatic asylum. Here Mr. Bickel has a fine slide, excellent, dat's great. I vant you all to see dis. "

A grand scramble for Bickel's microscope. Somebody makes a remark about certain organs of the worm. Dicky, (overhearing it)—"Ach! Talk about students being gristians; dey're de biggest heathen on eart." A loud laugh from the rear of the rowd, "Yes, Mr. Hoffmeier you're de leader of de ganglion, your fader ought to know how worthless you are. 'Bei viele lachen man weiss ein Narren.' Vell now take your own seats and hunt someding for yourselves vonce." Goes to another fellow's microscope. "Use de fine achustment! use de fine achustment! Can't you learn dat? Der put your fingers der. Can't you turn dem around? You can't see nodings unless you do."

A few minutes silence follows and it is time to adjourn.

Dicky:—"Now I vant efery note-book in next Saturday, and make drawings dat look like somedings, some of dem look like ink blots and some don't look like anyting, dey're shapeless, and do your own vork, don't uss somebody elses brains, vat do you haf your's for? Ve haf an 'Honor system' here. Dat vill do."

"Zoo" Cremation Chant.

Now our time has come,
And our will it must be done,
For this criminal has mocked us,
By its actions it has shocked us,
But its course is run.

Once it had its day,
When it held us 'neath its sway,
When it forced us to assemble,
Made our joints and members tremble,
As we'd tribute pay.

Oh, it used its powers,
Made our moments seem like hours,
All our pleasures were forgotten,
And our joys became as nothing,
Were as faded flowers.

But our woes are past,
For we've got the best at last,
Oh, we'll make this culprit suffer,
Oh this "elongated duffer,"
Now its die is cast

M C M V Legion of Evil Spirits

WHEREAS, we the Legion of Evil Spirits of Nineteen Hundred and Five, learn from that magnificent volume, entitled "The Principles of Zoology," which is the culmination of Dr. Schiedt's biological researches, that the branch of vermes, to which the Lumbricus Terrestris belongs does not form a very homogeneous or natural division of the animal kingdom, and its characteristics are therefore largely negative;

WHEREAS, in the course of the most accurate and painstaking research, in which we have skillfully used both the compound and dissecting microscopes, the fine and coarse adjustments, the high and low power objectives, and our own imaginations, highly developed by continued previous use, we have not been able to find in the Lumbricus Terrestris a strictly localized central organ of the blood system, heart, and have been obliged therefore to come to the conclusion that the animal has no such organ;

WHEREAS, the Lumbricus Terrestris has but few setae, which are never disposed on special parapodia, and the animal, by continually appearing before us in a state of almost absolute nakedness, shocks our finer feelings, and exerts an influence detrimental to our moral welfare;

WHEREAS, most of the Lumbrici Terrestres which have come under our notice have been hopelessly and shamefully under the influence of alcohol, and therefore we are lead to believe that the whole family is degenerate, and unfit to exist in the sight of man;

WHEREAS, the family name, Annulata, of the Lumbrici Terrestres, most indisputably proves that these animals are "ringers," and therefore flagrant offenders against the principle of pure athletics, which we hold so dear;

WHEREAS, the Lumbricus Terrestris has proven itself a direct opponent of our Honor System, inasmuch as it has induced many to repudiate the principles thereof;

INASMUCH as, any individual, which does not belong to a homogeneous or natural division of the animal kingdom, and whose characteristics are therefore largely negative; which has been proven heartless; which does not have any sense of modesty; which is an alcoholic degenerate, and by setting a bad example, influences many of our youth to inebriation; which tends to destroy purity in athletics; and which tends to be a potent factor in extripating the principles of our Honor System; therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED, That we the Legion of Evil Spirits of Nineteen Hundred and Five, do summon the Lumbricus Terrestris to appear before a judge and jury of our august body, and if found guilty of the accusation herein made, to be condemned to suffer the torments and agonies of the penalty to be inflicted by us.

SICK AND HELPLESS COME UNTO ME!

I have discovered the Marvelous Secret of Life and I give it to you FREE. 🍀 🍀 🍀

MY MISSION ON EARTH IS TO HEAL THE SICK AND CURE THE WEAK AND HELPLESS.

Liquified Sulphur, the Elixir of Life.

Dr. Schiedt wrote his name highest of all on the scroll of medical fame when he put Liquified Sulphur into form for Universal use and brought it within reach of everybody. It will cure love for Greek, Latin, German, Physics, History, Psychology, the Woman's Missionary Society, English, John Quincy Adams, Calculus, and, last and greatest of all, hate for zoology.

It will make a good bluffer It will make one "sick".

It will make a good "hot-airer." It will make one a "faker." It will snatch you from the very jaws of Suspension and put in the First ten. All classes and conditions of "polers" are alike to me. What Johnny fails to cure I can and will cure. When the "Honor System" fails I am still able to save you. I can make good athletes. I can make good students, I can make good "sports." All ye who are in any manner afflicted with any college "sickness" come unto me and I will cure you FREE of charge.

TESTIMONIALS.

Lancaster, Pa., March 10, 1904.

Dr. R. C. Schiedt.

Dear Sir:—

I suffered for three long years with that well-known disease, "polar-isus." I tried all medicines and best available athletic instructors had given me up in vain. After two weeks steady use of "Liquified Sulphur" and reading your "Elements of Zoology" the cure was complete. I commend your preparation to all like sufferers.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 14, 1904.

Dr. R. C. Schiedt.

Dear Sir:

For many years I have been suffering from rheumatism or rather "gout." I was given up by several class after 5 minutes waiting, but owing to your grand and superb "Liquified Sulphur" I am now able to be there on time and teach history by the aid of "stories" which practice I had to discontinue ere I found your Elixir of Life.

Hades, H. E. L., Jan. 16, no time.

Dr. R. C. Schiedt.

Dear Sir:—

I was dead or unborn, but your elixir of life brought me into being again.

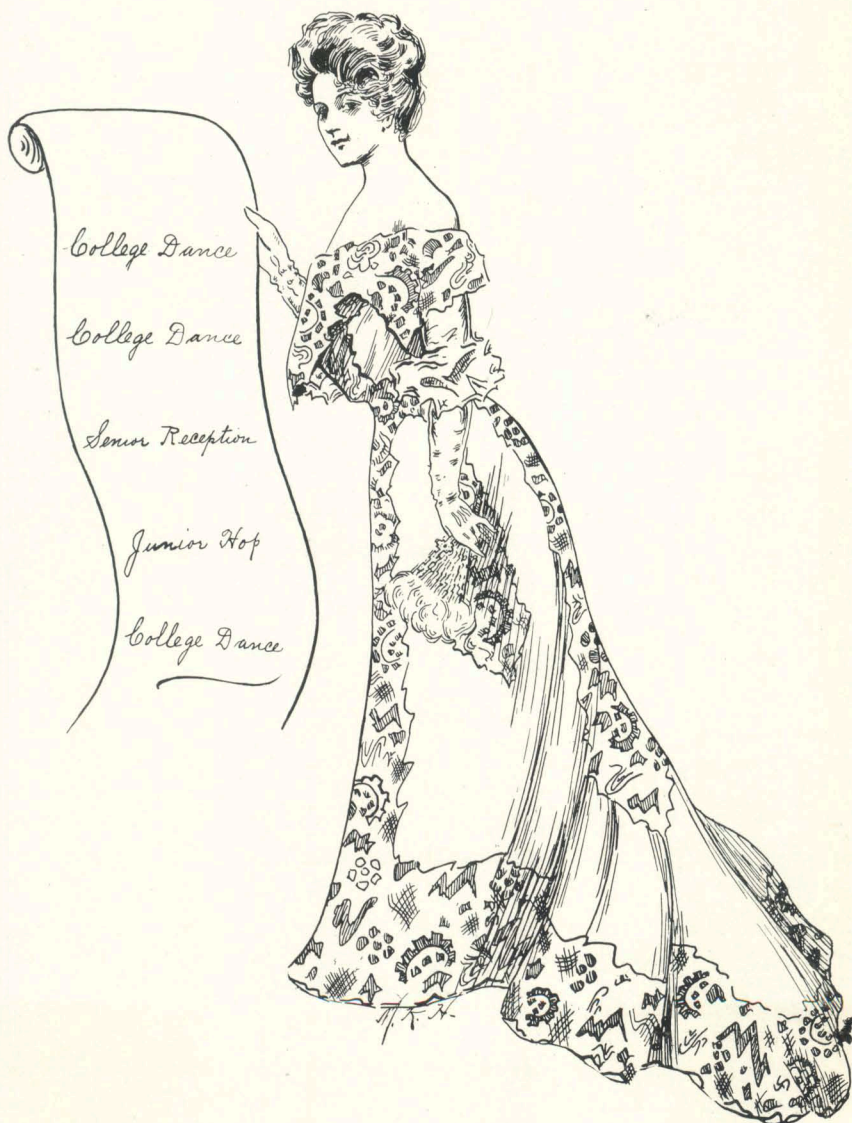

Yours truly,

The Cane Rush.

UT on the athletic field the green grass had taken on an air of hope and cheerfulness after its long emancipation from the desecrating feet of destructive athletes. Every blade seemed to be pointed directly upward with renewed determination to reach the sky above. Even the old bleachers and the more sedate grandstand appeared benefited by their three months vacation from the "madding crowd," and creaked pleasant greetings across the grid-iron to one another in the gentle September breezes and at either end of the field the goal posts, happy that they had been forgotten for a few months at least, nodded peacefully and drowsily to the whole scene. This was the calm before the storm.

Out in the darkness, in the mysterious hours of the night, ghostly bands might have been seen at this same time stealthily creeping to secret meeting places, each group walking in the shadows where the moon threw a too brilliant light upon their movements; fearful lest they should unexpectedly come upon a similar band of the enemy, and watching closely for expected squads of friends. The old corn fields and empty tobacco plots were well haunted by those mystic bands and witnessed many a strange scene as they were again left in loneliness.

Here to the west a band of prowlers had gathered in a close body,—a subdued delivery of direction, a sharp signal and the band springs forward suddenly, to halt, form again, and repeat the operation. Likewise to the north a like crowd were thus engaged. Thus were preparations being made to disturb the peaceful air of the athletic field, and to satisfy the traditional hatred between the Sophs. and the Fresh.

The day of the battle has come. The two hostile classes are arrayed, between them stand their champions at the cane, and around on all sides are the eager spectators. The whistle sounds and the cane rush is on. A crash, a groan and the mass goes down and bedlam arises. Cries, shrieks, howls, yells come up in confused uproar from the heap of struggling humanity. "Ouch!" "Get off my leg!" "Oh! my head!!" "D—— it, can't you get up?" "H——l," "Oh! Oo!! ugh!!" "Ouch!" "Oh, Lord!" "Pull them off, why don't you!!" Slowly the conglomeration dissolves, a gleam of hope flashes over the faces of the frightened Freshmen for they have gained; and when the next rush results in a similar advance the Soph's confidence begins to wane. Now the cane goes one way, now the other but ever nears the Freshmens goal.

Enthusiasm among the Juniors runs high. Will they see their last year's enemies again defeated? Another rush and the cane but two feet from Freshman victory, another, and—oh, irony of fate with victory all but won, the cane is seized by a wary Soph. and pushed back. The whistle calls time and the rush is a draw. The honor of the combatants has been satisfied, and the crowd withdraws. Silence once more reigns as the sun sinks in the west. Rome had her gladiators, Spain her bull-fights and the savages of F. & M. their cane rush.

Another Scene on Third Floor.

Time 10 minutes after the hour.

Juniors scattered in various attitudes about the hall;

Hot Air Appel (loudly yells).:—"I long there to be where some-one waits for me—".

Prof. Wagner (suddenly appearing):—"Mr. Appel I'm waiting for you in the English room."

Class vanishes, and all is still.

Dicky:—"How fast does the temperature increase as you go down into the earth.

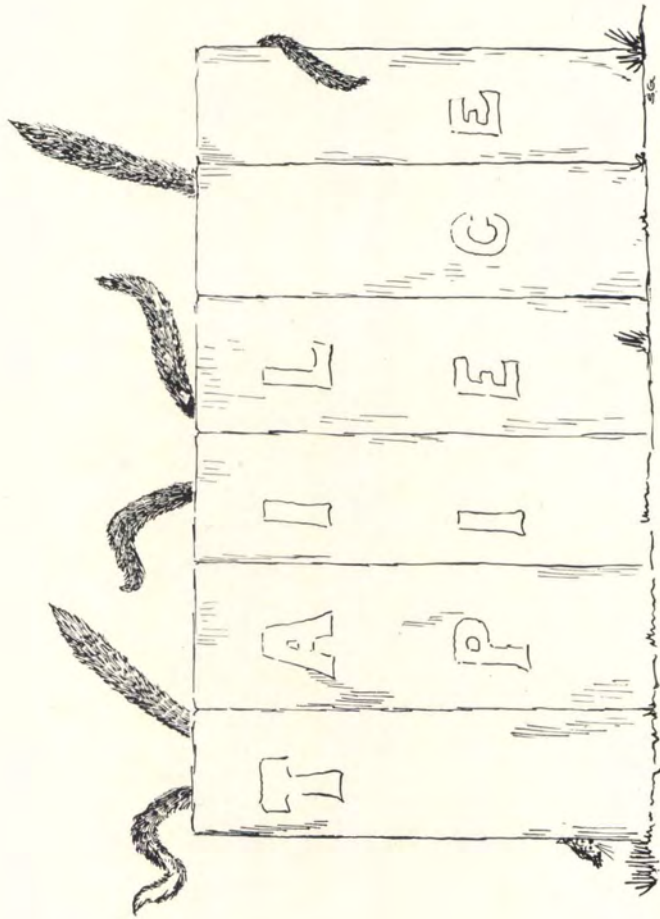

Bobby Beyer:—53 degrees to the foot.

Dicky:—"Get to hell in a hurry, wouldn't you?"

Brendle:—(translating New Testament Greek) Oh! ye chinerations of wipers.

"Mary" Musser:—"I wonder if the Sophs wouldn't let me raise my mustache again. I think the girls like me better with a mustache."

New Edit. with 104 songs added for 67 other colleges. Over seventy college presidents have actually purchased this volume to have at their own homes, so they tell us, for the students on social occasions. Ten editions have gone into many thousands of homes. If you have a piano but do not play, the PIANOLA and other "piano players" will play many of these songs for you and your friends to sing.

Songs of the Western Colleges

Notable and durable cloth binding, $1.25 postpaid.

Songs of the Eastern Colleges

Novel and durable cloth binding, $1.25 postpaid.

Ideally complete portrayal of the musical and social side, the joyous side, of the student life in our Western and Eastern colleges respectively. Plenty of the old favorites of all colleges, while crowded with the new songs which are sung—many never before in print. To own all three of above books is to possess the most complete, the most adequate illustration ever attempted of this phase of the genius, the spirit, of Young America.

New Songs for College Glee Clubs

Paper, 50 cents, postpaid.

Not less than twenty humorous hits, besides numerous others, sentimental and serious. Not a single selection in this book but has been sung by some glee club locally to the delight of an "encoring audience." Never before published, they are really new.

Glee club leaders will appreciate a collection every piece in which, by the severe test of both rehearsal and concert, is RIGHT—the musical notation, the harmony of the voice parts, the syllabification, the rhythm, the rhyme, the instrumentation, and last, but not least with the audiences, the catchonativeness.

Warley's Boiler Cleansing Compounds.

For removing and preventing grease and incrustations or scale and preventing corrosion and pitting in steam boilers.

These Compounds save fuel, labor and time; are a safeguard against explosions; will not pass over with the steam; preserve the metal of which boilers are constructed; neutralize any corrosive acids in feed-water, and are absolutely economical and safe remedies for keeping boilers clean. Their action upon old scale is gradual, but certain, and a strict adherence to their use under our instructions will bring success. Write for descriptive circular.

Theological Seminary

Of the Reformed Church in the United States,

FOUNDED AT CARLISLE, 1825.

LANCASTER, PENNSYLVANIA.

THE institution is under the supervision and direction of the three (English) Eastern Synods: the Synod of the Reformed Church in the United States, organized in 1747; the Synod of Pittsburg, organized in 1870; and the Synod of the Potomac, organized in 1873.

Its financial affairs are managed by a Board of Trustees, consisting of eighteen Elders or Laymen. Instruction and discipline are subject to the authority and oversight of a Board of Visitors, consisting of twelve ministers. The Visitors and Trustees are chosen by the three Synods; by each, from among its own ministers and members.

The course of Instruction embraces three years, and includes all the branches of a complete education for the Christian Ministry. The confessional standard of doctrine is the Heidelberg Catechism.

The Seminary year begins on the second Thursday of September.

Boarding can be obtained at $3.00 per week.

The seventy-ninth Anniversary will be celebrated on Thursday, May 7th, 1904.
