TEXAS UNDER SIX FLAGS

In early days, "when knights were bold, and Indians stalked their prey," to the land of the Tehas' trackless wilderness and boundless prairies, came an adventurous explorer and dreamer, La Salle, from over the uncharted sea, sailing westward into the beautiful harbor of Matagorda, bearing aloft the Fleur de Lis flag of France.

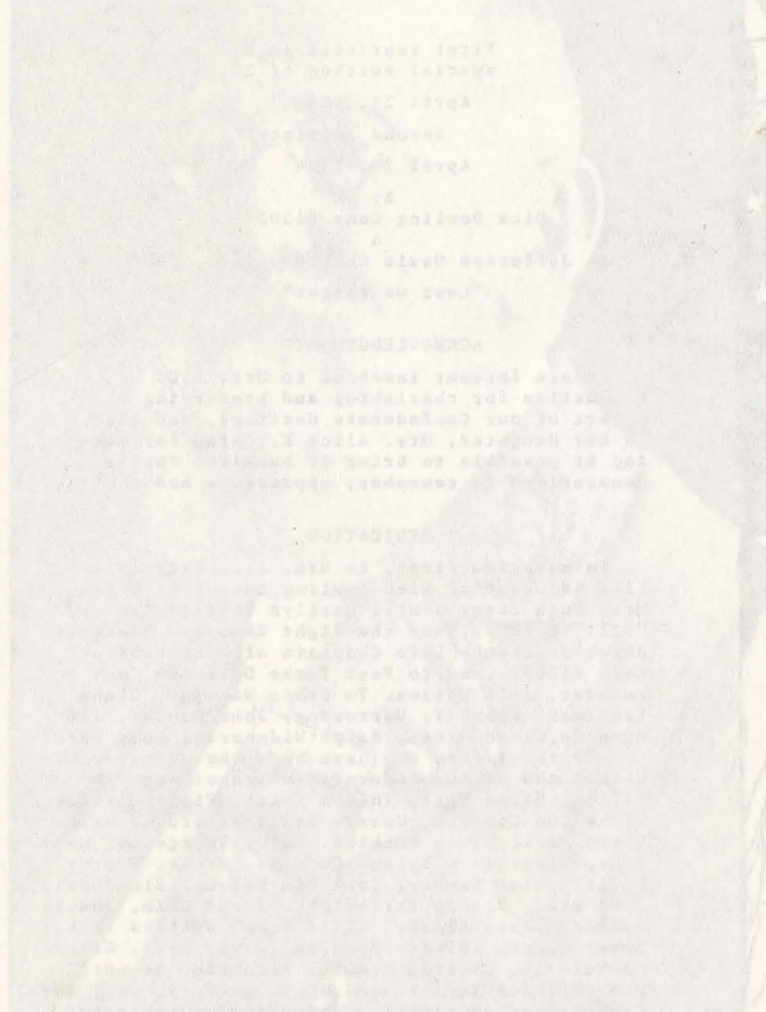

Out of the Golden West went to Spain tidings that this savage territory to which she laid claim had been invaded by France. But the hostile Indian's deadly arrow, hunger and hardship, left few of the French colonists for Capt. De Leon and his soldiers to conquer. The folds of the Spanish flag fluttered triumphantly over the mission of San Francisco.

Many years followed of bitter struggle, heroic sacrifice and cruel bloodshed for Texas' pioneers under Mexico's despot flag 'til victory was their's, and Texas independence was won.

The "Lone Star Flag," waving over wind-swept mountains and plains, rivaling in glowing colors the bonnie blue bonnets, the wild flower blossoming prairies, of a great republic, the grand old State of Texas. May your bright star of victory, catching the sunbeams of the dawn of this new day, continue to reflect the triumphs of San Jacinto's battles won, and tint with jewel rays a glory crown, for that sacred monument to Texas' martyred men, her Thermopylae—the Alamo!

The "Stars and Bars," the flag of Dixie—wreathed in glory, christened with the blood of heroes, anointed with the sacrificial tears of women, emblazoned with the valorous deeds of bravery and gallantry of Southern men who wore the gray, in defense of Southern rights, may you ever be tenderly shrined in the alabaster box of memory sacred to that glory-crowned chapter of our history, the hallowed days of the Confederacy!

The flag of "Stars and Stripes," the grand old flag immortalized in song by a son of the South; the Star-Spangled Banner of our forefathers—their pride and glory. Our country's flag, borne so bravely through war's deadly perils by the sons of the Blue and the Gray—America's sons of freedom. Old Glory, we honor and salute you! May your folds always float proudly over our united land, while Southern zephyrs waft the fragrant incense of holy memories of these beautiful honored flags, borne by a nation's bravest warriors ever ready to uphold their principles, liberty and justice.

The Honorable General E. S. ... and Major A. ...
U. S. Army (Retired) General J. C. ...

HONOR AND JUSTICE FOR JEFFERSON DAVIS

"Truth is standing like a sentinel, Waiting Justice to open wide her gates."

Jefferson Davis, first and only President of the Confederacy. Born June 3rd, 1808, in Christian (now Todd) County, Kentucky. Died December 6th, 1889, in New Orleans, La. The uncrowned ruler of an invincible empire of loving and loyal hearts spent his twilight years at Beauvoir-by-the-Sea, in Mississippi, and his final resting place is in Richmond, Va., Mount Hollywood Cemetery.

"No country e'er had a truer son, no cause a nobler champion. In his honor impregnable, in his courage sublime." The embodiment of chivalry, refinement and culture, this gallant soldier and brilliant statesman of the United States was the chosen leader of a cause which was overcome, but never lost. He was "the deathless martyr of our kingdom of the twilight," for with patience and fortitude he bore his country's woes and "caviled not at fate."

Broken in health in his lonely old age, secluded apart, with the sorrows and burdens of his country engraved on his heart, he retired to beautiful Beauvoir-by-the-Sea, in Mississippi, to spend the sunset days of his eventful life writing his "History of the Confederacy" with that Christian fidelity to duty and truth and firm conviction of the rights and the justice of the Confederate cause which he had so faithfully and loyally espoused.

"The evening bell and one clear call at twilight to cross the bar" came to the South's loved chieftain, Jefferson Davis, while he was visiting in the home of a friend in New Orleans, Mr. E. C. Fenner.

"Life's battles bravely fought and nobly won,
He laid him down content at set of sun
As twilight shadows fell."

May 20, 1875—Honorable Jefferson Davis, on a visit to Dallas, received a great ovation. From the railroad station to the "San Jacinto House" a stream of people, eager to welcome him, surged about his carriage and escort. In New Orleans, when his body lay in state in the City Hall all day, the people came in great numbers to take a farewell look upon the face of the South's beloved leader, and thousands followed the funeral cortege to the Metairie Cemetery. Stores were closed and the entire city paid homage to him.

"His monument is the adoration of the South,
His shrine is in every Southern heart."

ARTICLES OF ASSOCIATION

Name

Article 1. The name of this Association shall be the Southland's Memorial Association.

Purposes

Art. 2. The purposes of this Association shall be: To raise funds, purchase lands, establish, maintain and operate a first class Institute of learning to embrace all departments of Science, Art and Literature, to be open at all times on like terms and conditions to all white students of the United States. Such Institute to be established, maintained and operated on a strictly non-sectional, non-partisan, and non-sectarian basis; and when ready for matriculation of students, shall be dedicated to the memory of the "Women of the Confederacy," in consideration of the hardships endured, the sacrifices made and glorious service rendered by them in behalf of their own dear Southland from 1861-1865, inclusive.

Membership

Art. 6. The membership of this Association shall consist of two classes, viz: Regular and honorary. The regular members shall consist of all ex-Confederate Soldiers and their relations by blood or marriage, who shall apply for membership and pay the stipulated membership fee.

LINCOLN PROPAGANDA

A wave of Lincoln propaganda, like the dangerous influenza, has swept over the country since the late war, even invading our Southland—this Lincoln hysteria disregarding and over-riding facts of record as evidenced by historians even of the North; attributing to him characteristics and sentiments which his closest associates never discovered. He has been so idealized, if not deified, his virtues so magnified and his admitted faults so modified or glossed over, that there has been built up a mythical Lincoln which is hardly human—instead of a plain man of the people who was endowed with intellectual power above the average, with a full share of virtues and faults.

Monuments and beautiful, costly memorials have been erected throughout the North to honor him—many of which, like the great Lincoln Memorial building in Washington, were constructed with public funds raised by taxation of the people at large—we of the South contributing our share without complaint—it is fitting that the people of the North should thus honor those whom they regard as of heroic mould.

But we of the South are not wanting in heroes of our own—the pages of our history are filled with names of men of the South who have achieved great things, in war and in peace, and until full justice has been done to these we must reject any suggestions or efforts of misguided worshippers at the Lincoln shrine, to erect in our places of honor, memorials to Abraham Lincoln.

President Davis could have won the war for the Union, had he been in Lincoln's place—the fact that he held out for four years against overwhelming forces is sufficient evidence of superior generalship. Certainly then Jefferson Davis is entitled to honors equally great at the hands of Southern people, as are given Abraham Lincoln by those of the North. How remiss we have been in according Jefferson Davis the honors which are due him!

HISTORICAL FACTS

Have not Northern historians under-estimated the influence and achievements of the South's great men in the foundation and shaping of the nation's greatness and glory?

Is it not due to the general indifference or lack of interest on the part of the people of the South, that after more than half a century since the war, so little has been done to correct the errors and misstatements of current histories, prejudicial to the South, by assembling, in a serious, dispassionate way, the authenticated facts of history?

The men of the South fought to preserve the Constitution of the Union and the basic principle of the Declaration of Independence, written by Thomas Jefferson, a man of the South, for the establishment of a Union of States, for home rule or local self-government. "Free government, which derives its just powers from the consent of the governed."

The slavery question was not an issue in the war between the States—it was but one of the incidents. Only a very small minority of the men who fought under the banner of the Confederacy ever owned a slave. Stonewall Jackson owned but two—and these were purchased by him at the urgent request of these two. General Lee had freed all the slaves held by him sometime before the war began.

The thirteen Southern States were defending their rights just as the original thirteen colonies contended for their colonial rights—the former sought to perpetuate a government, for the people and by the people, embracing the principles and ideals of self-determination, which had been established by the latter.

February 4, 1861—Delegates from the seceding States met in Montgomery, Ala., to organize a Confederate government. Howell Cobb presided, Johnson F. Hooper, secretary. The Constitution of the United States was adopted for the “Confederate States of America.” Jefferson Davis of Mississippi, “the man of the hour,” was elected President, and Alexander H. Stevens of Georgia, Vice President.

February 17, 1861, Jefferson Davis delivered his first speech following his election as President of the Confederacy.

March 8, 1861—The first cannon shot of the war was fired from the Iron Battery on Morris Island, and struck Fort Sumter. The shot was accidental and fired during practice hours of the Washington Artillery of Charleston. Major Stevens was sent to Fort Sumter with a flag to explain the accident.

September 22, 1862—President Lincoln issued a proclamation addressed to the so-called rebellious States, demanding their return to the Union before January 1st, 1863.

April 17, 1864—At Plymouth, N. C., Confederate ram and battery sunk three Union gunboats.

Is it not true that it is the text books and Northern history war records of the sixties that are even now largely being taught our children of the South?

Do the children of today really know the important part the South had in the building of the nation? Have they noted the fact that our Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence? That George Washington, the “Father of His Country,” was a Southern man? That John Marshall, James Madison, James K. Polk—in fact, most of the leaders of the early days of the republic, were from the South?

Do they know that it was Watkins, of Georgia, and not Ely Whitney, who invented the cotton gin? That it was William Longstreet, of Georgia, who first suggested steam as a motive power, instead of Fulton? That James Gatling, of North Carolina, invented the Gatling gun, and Francis Goulding, of Georgia, the sewing machine? That Cyrus McCormick, of Virginia, invented the reaping machine?

Are they familiar with the discoveries in science, medicine and surgery made by Southern men? That most of the early universities and libraries were established in the South?

Have you ever noted the fact that two-thirds of the men who fought in the Mexican War, and many of the leaders and heroes of every battle, were from the South?

Who was the hero of Buena Vista?—Our Jefferson Davis.

Who was the hero of Chapultepec?—Our Stonewall Jackson.

Who was highly recommended for his engineering skill?—Robert E. Lee, our beloved chieftain.

Who planted the United States flag in the City of Mexico?—Quitman, of Mississippi.

Who immortalized these heroes in a beautiful poem, "The Bivouac of the Dead?"—Theodore O'Hara of Kentucky.

Robert E. Lee, Jefferson Davis, Joseph E. Johnston, A. P. Hill, Braxton Bragg, Josiah Tatnall, P. G. T. Beauregard and many others of the South played an important part in the Indian and Mexican wars in the service of the United States.

James K. Polk, 11th President, was born in Mecklenburg County, N. C., November 2, 1795; died June 15, 1849. During his administration, following the war with Mexico, the "Pacific Slope" was acquired.

James Monroe, 5th President, born in Westmoreland County, Va., April 28, 1758; died in New York July 4th, 1831. Author of the "Monroe Doctrine"; his administration added, by purchase, the territory of Florida.

Merriwether Lewis of Virginia and William Clark of Kentucky opened up to the eyes of the world that wonderful section of the Western country, now known as "Yellowstone Park."

Mosely of North Carolina, and Byrd of Virginia gave more than 39 free libraries to those States as early as 1676.

TEXAS HEROES AND HISTORICAL EVENTS

"O Texas, tell the story o'er,
With pride recall each name,
And teach your sons to emulate
Their virtues and their fame;
So shall your grandeur still increase,
Your glory shine afar,
For deathless honor guards the flag
Where gleams the proud Lone Star."

The Battle Flag of First Texas Regiment was made by Miss Lula Wigfall of Marshall, Texas, the daughter of Louis T. Wigfall. It was presented while her father was colonel of the regiment, in 1861, at Richmond, Va., and Mr. J. O. Bradfield, a member of Hood's Brigade, in his interesting story of this flag, says it was on this memorable occasion that President Davis uttered this well known and much quoted sentiment:

"The soldiers of other States had a reputation to gain;
But the sons of the Alamo had theirs to maintain."

This tattered, battle-scarred flag now has an honored place on the wall of the House of Representatives in Austin; it has a thrilling history. Triumphantly it waved over the proud First Texas Infantry through the fiercely fought battle of Seven Pines, Malvern Hill, Second Mannassas and other fields of carnage, until that fatal battle of Sharpsburg, on September 17th, 1862, when these brave Texans of Hood's Brigade faced 12,000 federal troops under General Hancock and his deadly storm of shot and cannon ball. J. O. Bradfield of Austin tells us that "only twenty-nine of Hood's men were left holding the line for Lee," and he was one of the 29; the standard-bearers, one after another, were shot down in the hail of bullets; as the regiment retreated unobserved the last standard-bearer fell and with him lay the cherished battle flag in that blood-stained corn field of Sharpsburg, where it was found by the 47th Ohio, and we are told they rejoiced greatly over the capture of this famous flag. Later it was returned to the State of Texas by the Secretary of War, and is now one of the cherished relics of the Confederacy.

Miss Lula Wigfall made another battle flag out of her mother's wedding dress; this she presented to Colonel Hood for the Fourth Texas Regiment, while they were in winter quarters on the Potomac. On the spear-head this motto is engraved: "Fear Not, For I Am With Thee. Say to the North, 'Give Up,' and to the South, 'Keep Not Back.'" Nine ensign bearers had fallen in battle bearing this Lone Star Texas flag, which bears the scars of many battles, shell and shot. This emblem of the prowess of the Fourth Texas Regiment is another cherished relic in the possession of the U. D. C. Museum at Austin.

TEXAS

"I tell you, sir, what Texas is—the world rolled into one State.
The home that our feet may leave, but not our hearts."

Texas, an Indian word which means friends, or allies.

The terms, "Lone Star State" and "Lone Star Flag" are derived from the solitary star on the coat-of-arms on the Seal of the State.

Texas has no State motto. Lupine (the Blue-bonnet, or Buffalo Clover) is the State Flower. Texas was the 28th State to be admitted into the Union, on December 29th, 1845.

Texas was the 7th State to enlist in the Confederacy, on February 1st, 1861; the ordinance of secession was submitted to the vote of the people. On March 2nd, 1861 (Texas Independence Day) Texas seceded from the Union and joined the Confederate States of America.

Texas ratified the Confederate Constitution on March 23rd, 1861.

On March 5th, 1861, the Texas State Convention received instructions from the Secretary of War of the Confederate States that President Davis desired that a reasonable length of time be given the Federal Government troops to withdraw from Texas and other territory of the Confederate States—an international courtesy to them—but should the Federal Government refuse to withdraw their troops, then all the power of the Southern Confederacy should be employed to expel them.

On January 1st, 1863, General Magruder captured the "Harriet Lee," in Galveston harbor.

On January 26th, 1863, Major O. M. Watkins captured a Federal gunboat at Sabine Pass, containing one million dollars worth of provisions and thirteen cannon.

On April 25th, 1861, Colonel VanDorn of the State Troops of Texas captured 450 United States troops at Saluinia.

January 1st, 1825—Birthday of General John Morgan; born in Huntsville, Ala.; died in Greenville, Tenn., September 4, 1864.

May 13th, 1865—The last battle under the Confederate flag was fought at Palmetto Ranch, near Palo Alto battlefield.

March 20, 1870—Texas returned to the Union, just nine years, one month and 29 days after she seceded.

January 8th, 1836, the Georgia Battalion landed on the Texas coast to reinforce Fannin at Goliad. They bore a banner—a white star on a field of blue—made and presented by Miss Joanna Troutman, of Georgia. This single-star flag sank with Fannin and his men on Palm Sunday, March 27th, 1836, but rose again with Houston and his men at San Jacinto. On the 13th of January, 1839, the Congress of Texas adopted this star on a blue field, with two stripes, white and red, as the flag which still waves over Texas.

"Terry Texas Rangers"—It was in 1861 that the "Terry Texas Rangers" were sworn into service at Houston, Texas, and ordered to Bowling Green, Ky., where the organization was perfected and B. F. Terry was elected colonel, J. S. Lubbock lieutenant colonel, Thomas H. Harrison major. The regiment was then placed under the command of General Albert Sidney Johnston, and through their heroism and valor in the battle of Shiloh and many other desperate battlefields of the War of the Sixties won for themselves eternal fame. Out of a membership of 1,700 only about 150 survived at the close of the war. Such was the patriotic sacrifice the Terry Texas Rangers paid for their Southland's cause. Colonel Terry, their gallant commander, made the supreme sacrifice December 17th, 1861, while leading a charge in the battle of Woodsonville, Ky. He fell mortally wounded in the moment of victory. Lieutenant Colonel Lubbock died of typhoid fever. John A. Wharton was elected colonel, Captain John T. Walker lieutenant colonel.

Sam Houston, of Tennessee, later President of the Republic of Texas and first governor of the State of Texas, was the leader and acknowledged hero of the war with Mexico for the independence of Texas. He was born near Lexington, Va., March 2, 1793, and died in Huntsville, Texas, in 1863.

Oran M. Roberts, jurist and statesman, was born in Laurens District, S. C., July 9, 1815. Was president of the "Secession Convention" in 1861; elected United States senator in 1866, but was not seated; was for several years Chief Justice of the State; governor of Texas from 1879 to 1883 and subsequently professor of law in the State University. The "Old Alcalde" was the author of numerous books relating to Texas and the Confederacy.

John H. Reagan was born in Sevier County, Tenn., in 1818; on completion of his education removed to Texas. Elected to the United States Congress in 1857; delegate to the Provisional Congress of the Confederacy at Montgomery, Ala.; postmaster general under President Jefferson Davis until close of the war, when he was captured with President Davis and imprisoned at Fort Warren. For many years served in United States Congress and Senate, resigned in 1891 to become chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission. Died at Palestine, Texas, in 1905.

General John B. Hood—Born in Owenville, Ky., June 1st, 1821; died in New Orleans, La., August 30, 1879. Was educated for a military career at West Point, served with distinction in numerous fights with the Indians. Resigned in 1861 to enlist in the cause of the Confederacy, attaining rank of lieutenant general. Was several times desperately wounded, being disabled in one arm at Gettysburg and losing a leg at Chickamauga. Many of our Texas Veterans served throughout the war in "Hood's Brigade."

General William P. Hardeman, "Old Goth," was presented with a cane by the "boys" of Hood's Brigade, as a token of their love and esteem, during the U. C. V. Reunion in Houston in 1895. Miss Lydia Kirk, "daughter of the brigade," made the presentation address. Overcome by the sentiment of the occasion she, as well as the general and the Veterans, shed tears. One of the latter said, "Did you ever see such a gang of blubbering old fools as we are?" But they were holy tears of patriotic feeling. Thomas M. Menefee of Troy, Alabama, a private, wore the priceless old gray coat at this Reunion, which he had taken off to pillow the head of General Gordon as he lay severely wounded at Sharpsburg.

General William Cabell was commander of the Trans-Mississippi Division, U. C. V., and was present at the Houston Reunion with his official staff. General Cabell had known active service in the United States army, as well as that of the Confederacy, winning distinction and promotions from second lieutenant to captain in the 7th Infantry of the United States army. He resigned to offer his services to the Confederacy when he saw the inevitable. He was commissioned major and was ordered to Richmond to organize the quartermaster, commissary and ordnance departments. In 1861 he was ordered to Manassas as chief quartermaster of the Army of the Potomac. In 1862 he was transferred to the Trans-Mississippi Department at Jacksonport, Ark., and soon afterward was given the rank of brigadier general in command of troops on the White River. After the battle of Elkhorn another army was ordered to Kentucky and General Cabell was transferred to an Arkansas brigade, which took part in many battles, and he was wounded while leading his troops on the breastworks of Corinth, Miss., and at Hatchie Bridge. When sufficiently recovered he was placed in command of all the forces in Northwest Arkansas and with recruits organized one of the largest cavalry brigades. On a raid into Missouri he was taken prisoner on October 24, 1864, and taken to Johnson's Island, Lake Erie, and later to Fort Warren in Boston Harbor, where he was confined until August 28, 1865. A very beautiful portrait of General Cabell holds a place of honor in the home of Mrs. J. C. Muse, his daughter, of Dallas.

HISTORY OF DICK DOWLING CAMP NO. 197, U. C. V. HOUSTON, TEXAS

The Dick Dowling Camp was organized in July, 1892. When the Veterans organized the Camp in Houston, and named it for the gallant young Irishman who achieved so notable a victory at Sabine Pass, they deemed it equally appropriate to make that historic date, September 8th, the occasion of their annual meetings and election of officers, and fittingly observe the occasion with proper ceremonies. On the third anniversary, in 1894, in their newly equipped hall at 403 Main street, upstairs, Commander Will Lambert was presented with a handsome silk flag, the handiwork of Mrs. Robert Rutherford and her neices, Misses Cardwell. This flag was taken to Birmingham Reunion by the Veterans and it was conspicuous in the Winnie Davis wigwam during the sessions. When General Gordon announced that Houston had captured the next Reunion, the enthused color bearer joyfully and triumphantly waved this flag in celebration of the victory. This tattered and worn old flag is still loved and prized by the Dick Dowling Camp and is only used on the death of one of the Confederate Veterans; the Adjutant pins the death notice on the furled flag and it is placed at the Dick Dowling monument that day in memorial.

An oil painting of Dick Dowling, the work of a Houston artist of much note, Thus. Donnellant, was presented to the Camp by him, and on December 5th, 1900, Mr. P. C. H. Brotherson of Galveston presented the Camp with the sword which was carried by Lieut. Dowling during the battle of Sabine Pass. In order to preserve those highly prized relics, the Camp, by unanimous vote, authorized Commander Fall to present them to Mrs. M. A. Harris, Vice Regent of the U. D. C. Museum in Richmond, Va., to be placed in the Texas Room.

HISTORY OF DICK DOWLING MONUMENT HOUSTON, TEXAS

For many years the members of Dick Dowling Camp No. 197 at Houston devoted much time and earnest effort to accumulate a fund for the purpose of erecting a suitable monument to Dick Dowling and his little band of 42 Irishmen, heroes of Sabine Pass. Early in 1897 this fund amounted to only $40, when Capt. Fall offered a resolution that the Camp subscribe $50 additional to the fund, which was unanimously passed. Renewed efforts to increase the fund were made, letters written to other Camps and the newspapers. Dick Dowling Camp of Beaumont contributed about $100, the Hibernian Society of Houston raised several hundred dollars; John H. Kirby gave his personal check for $250 and many subscriptions of smaller sums were made by individuals; entertainments were given by the Daughters of the Confederacy; the Emmett Council and other Irish societies made contributions and finally the hope and dream of Dick Dowling Camp was realized, and on St. Patrick's Day, March 17th, 1905, the Dick Dowling monument was unveiled on the site donated by the city of Houston in the City Hall square.

The statue, of Italian marble, is a splendid work of the sculptor. On the base is the following inscription:

Erected to the Memory of Dick Dowling and the Davis Guards

By

Dick Dowling Camp No. 197, U. C. V.

Ancient Order of Hibernians, Divisions 1, 2 and 3

and

Emmett Council

On the sides are the names of those engaged in the Battle of Sabine Pass, September 8, 1863.

THE FIRST ORGANIZATION OF U. D. C. IN HOUSTON

"A daughter of the Confederacy,
One thought upholds her courage
In storm and stress and gloom,
She will not fail or trifle,
Will bravely play her part:
Because she knows a hero's blood
Is beating in her heart."

The first Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy in Houston was organized in May, 1894, and was named "Mildred Lee Chapter." Captain S. D. Moore, of Dick Dowling Camp, U. C. V., assisted in the organization work. His daughter, Miss Jennie S. Moore (now Mrs. Bud. A. Randolph) was elected President; Miss Lou Salter, Vice President; Mrs. A. G. Henry, Treasurer; Miss Molly Glass, Corresponding Secretary; Miss Maida McLeod, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Dr. Robt. Rutherford, Adviser. There were fifteen charter members. Co-operating with the Dick Dowling Camp, U. C. V. (Mr. Will Lambert, Chairman) they sponsored an "Illusion Show," bearing the title "The Flying Lady," to raise money for a monument fund. An interesting feature of this entertainment, which ran for a week (held in a building on the site now occupied by Levy's dry goods store), is that the charge for admission was 5 and 10 cents, the net results being $175.00. This sum was divided equally between the two organizations. Sufficient additional donations were secured by the Mildred Lee Chapter to bring the monument fund up to a total of $100 and was the first definite subscription to the fund for the monument, "Spirit of the Confederacy," in Sam Houston Park in Houston.

A beautiful letter of appreciation was received by the President from Miss Mildred Lee for the compliment paid her in the naming of the Chapter for her. The Mildred Lee Chapter took an active part in the entertainment of Veterans and visitors to the U. C. V. Reunion which met in Houston May 22nd, 1895.

The Robert E. Lee Chapter, U. D. C., was organized November 17th, 1897, at which time the Mildred Lee Chapter disbanded. On May 8th, 1908, the monument fund of $100, which had been raised by the Mildred Lee Chapter, was turned over to the Robert E. Lee Chapter for this monument, after years of effort on the part of the latter had resulted in collection of sufficient funds to assure the building of that beautiful monument, which may today be seen in Sam Houston Park, "Spirit of the Confederacy."

Officers duly elected were: Mrs. J. C. Hutcheson, President; Mrs. M. G. Howe, First Vice President; Mrs. T. R. Franklin, Second Vice President; Mrs. M. H. Foster, Secretary; Mrs. J. A. Huston, Treasurer; Miss A. A. Dunovant, Historian.

ORAN M. ROBERTS CHAPTER, U. D. C.

Oran M. Roberts Chapter No. 440, U. D. C., Houston, was organized in February, 1901, by Miss Adelia A. Dunovant with sixty charter members, increasing to 314 members the first year.

Officers

Miss Adelia A. Dunovant.....	President
Mrs. S. F. Carter.....	First Vice President
Mrs. T. W. House.....	Second Vice President
Mrs. Wharton Bates.....	Third Vice President
Mrs. W. B. King.....	Fourth Vice President
Miss Jennie Criswell.....	Recording Secretary
Mrs. Jonathan Lane.....	Corresponding Secretary
Mrs. B. M. Stephens.....	Treasurer

This Chapter's work has been devoted especially to the interests and the welfare of the Confederate Veterans and to preserve a record of the truths of Confederate history.

ORGANIZATION OF TEXAS DIVISION, U. D. C.

During the Reunion, United Confederate Veterans, held in Houston, Texas, May 22, 1895, which met in the old Auditorium, corner Main and McGowen (and which was named the Winnie Davis Auditorium), the members of the Mildred Lee Chapter, U. D. C., held a meeting in the rooms of the Dick Dowling Camp, corner of Main and Texas, partaking much of the nature of a reception. The two large rooms were crowded with visitors, national officers and members of U. D. C. Chapters (at that time known as "Camps") from other Texas cities and towns. The main purpose of this meeting was to effect a State organization of the Daughters of the Confederacy. Representatives of the National organization, U. D. C., were welcomed by the officers of the Mildred Lee Chapter; Miss Jennie Moore (now Mrs. Bud Randolph), the President, was introduced by Judge Sam W. Jones of Galveston. Her beautiful address of welcome, which was printed in full in the Houston Post of May 25th, 1895, was followed by response by Mrs. Kate Cabell Curry (Mrs. J. C. Muse), who was introduced by Captain S. D. Moore, who fitly designated himself as the "godfather of the Mildred Lee Chapter." Miss Jennie Moore then introduced Mrs. Sterling Price Willis of Alvin, who stated the object of the meeting and urged the necessity of a State organization in Texas of the Daughters of the Confederacy. Organization was then, after some discussion, effected, with the following officers: Mrs. Kate Cabell Curry (Mrs. J. C. Muse) of Dallas, President; Miss Jennie Moore (Mrs. Bud Randolph) of Houston, First Vice President; Mrs. P. J. Willis of Alvin, Second Vice President; Mrs. Annie Dowling Robertson of Austin, Third Vice President; Mrs. C. W. Brann of Sherman, Fourth Vice President; Mrs. J. M. Bronson of Victoria, Fifth Vice President; Mrs. Judge C. S. Cleveland of Galveston, Treasurer; Mrs. Sarah Fountain Sampson of Alvin, Secretary.—(Houston Post, May 25th, 1895.)

During the U. C. V. Reunion in Houston many social courtesies were extended to Miss Winnie Davis, General John B. Gordon, Commander-in-Chief of the Confederate Veterans; General Ross, General Cabell, General Longstreet and Governor C. A. Culbertson.

The U. C. V. Reunion of 1895 was invited to meet in Houston by the following committee, which attended the Birmingham Reunion in 1894: Mayor John T. Browne, chairman; B. R. Warner, secretary-treasurer; J. H. Bright, W. H. Crank, Sr., Will Lambert, Norman G. Kittrell, R. M. Johnson, C. C. Beavens, G. H. Bringham, J. R. Waities, S. D. Moore, Robert Adair, L. W. Lubbock and Governor J. S. Hogg, who was the invited guest of the convention.

The committees formed for arrangements and plans for the entertainment of the U. C. V. Reunion in Houston contain the names of many of the most influential men and women of the city: Capt. William Christian, W. A. Childress, W. D. Cleveland, H. W. Garrow, T. W. House, F. A. Reichardt, Spencer Hutchins, J. M. Cotton, H. B. Rice, Harvey T. D. Wilson, H. F. McGregor, R. D. Gribble, Mrs. S. W. Sydnor, Miss Mary Root, Mrs. J. C. Hutcheson, Mrs. J. F. Dickson, Mrs. J. A. Huston, Mrs. L. T. Noyes and many others.

CONFEDERATE HEROES

GENERAL ROBT. E. LEE AND GENERAL THOMAS J. JACKSON Birthday Anniversary, January 19th

"Lee and Jackson! We hallow the day
That gave these men to our Southern land.
Together forever, side by side,
On the heights of glory, where all may see,
Adown the ages, our heroes ride
Stonewall Jackson and knightly Lee—
Together forever, side by side,
Our land's palladium and guide." (Edith C. T. Lessing.)

General Robert E. Lee, Commander-in-Chief of the Confederate Army. Christian Cavalier, peerless man, unrivaled soldier. Born in Stratford, Westmoreland County, Virginia, January 19th, 1806. Died October 12th, 1870, in Lexington, Va.

General Robert E. Lee, the embodiment of knightly chivalry, whose Christian fidelity to duty, honor and truth, charm of personal character, purity, refinement and gentleness, blended with the matchless genius of the soldier, have placed him on the highest pinnacle of fame. Like vivid flashes of lightning, his life pierced the storm-tossed clouds of reconstruction and lighted the way for the sons of the South, seeking the pathway of knowledge; by precept and example taught them life was not a failure, that defeat was only the spur for higher endeavor, led them away from the valley of despair to the sun-kissed mountain peaks of renewed hopes and courage for the battle of life before them.

"He sheathed his sword with patient pride
And lived his life to its stainless end,
Crowned with honors and white with years
He passed, beloved of foe and friend.
In the hall of fame there is none like he,
A nation wept at the grave of Lee." (Edith C. T. Lessing.)

General Thomas Jonathan (Stonewall) Jackson. Born at Clarks-ville, Va., January 21st, 1824. Died near Chancellorsville, Va., May 10th, 1863. His last words were, "Tell Major Hawks to advance the commissary train. Let us cross over the river and rest under the shade of the trees"

"A rugged "Stonewall," barring the way
To the surging ford of fanatical wrong.
He knelt, on the eve of battle, to pray--
That was our Stonewall Jackson's way."

January 24, 1806—Matthew Fontaine Maury, "Pathfinder of the Sea," whose character was blameless, whose life of romantic wandering and achievements in science and navigation entitle him to a high place on the roll of fame. Died at Lexington, Va., February 1st, 1873.

General Wade Hampton—Born in Charleston, S. C., May 28th, 1818; died in 1902, on April 11th, at Columbia, S. C. He was the grandson of Wade Hampton, a general in the Revolutionary War, and was the eldest son of Colonel Wade Hampton, who was equally distinguished during the War of 1812. His first military service was as aide-de-camp to Governor Butler in 1836; later he was captain of the Richland Light Dragoons. He was, in turn, member of the State legislature and State senate, resigning this latter post in 1861 to enter the Confederate military service, organizing the "Hampton Legion," which he served as colonel. In 1863 he became major general and on February 14th, 1865, was made lieutenant general. Wade Hampton was a great cavalry soldier, and was equally as efficient during the dark days of reconstruction in service to the people as governor, United States senator and as United States railroad commissioner.

General Joseph Wheeler—Who with honor wore the gray of the Confederacy, and ennobled the blue of the United States in patriotic service in the Spanish-American War. Born in Augusta, Ga., September 10th, 1836; died in Brooklyn, N. Y., January 25th, 1906. Author of "History of Cuba," "Kentucky Campaign."

Brigadier General Felix Zollicoffier—Born May 19th, 1812; killed in action January 19th, 1862, in battle at Mill's Springs, Ky. Of noble ancestry, whose military service to the Confederacy, while brief, was distinguished.

General Patrick Ramoyne Cleburne—Born March 16th, 1828, near Cork, Ireland; died in battle at Franklin, Tenn., November 30th, 1864. As he was about to enter the battle he encountered a barefoot private; he stopped at once, removed his boots and presented them to the private. This incident gave inspiration for the poem, "He'll Not Need Them Again."

General Albert Sidney Johnston—Born in Macon County, Ky., February 2nd, 1803; killed in action at the battle of Shiloh, Tenn., April 6th, 1862. He was one of the most aggressive of the Confederate generals, with conspicuous ability in leadership of his men in action.

General John B. Gordon—Born in Upson County, Ga., February 6th, 1832; died in Biscayne, Fla., his winter home, January 9th, 1904. He succeeded Stonewall Jackson in command of the Second Army Corps of Northern Virginia, and was wounded five times in the battle of Sharpsburg in 1862. At the close of the war he settled in Atlanta; was elected governor in 1867, but counted out by the reconstruction machinery; became United States senator in 1872; governor from 1886 to 1890; again United States senator in 1890.

SOUTHERN HEROES AND HISTORICAL FACTS

Raphael Semmes—Admiral, lawyer, statesman; born in 1809; died in 1877. His parents having died in his early youth, he was taken into the home of his uncle, Raphael Semmes, and his wife, Matilda, who had thirteen children of their own, one of whom was the late Thomas J. Semmes of New Orleans. In his "Memoirs" and his "Campaign of General Scott in Mexico" he displayed exceptional literary ability, while his record as admiral of the Confederate Navy establishes his standing among the greatest of naval fighters.

General Sterling Price—Born in Prince Edward County, Virginia, September 11th, 1809; died in St. Louis, Mo., September 29th, 1867. He loved his men, and they were enthusiastic in their devotion to him—he was always accessible to even the humblest private in the ranks. Considerate and humane, the federal prisoners in his charge had only words of praise for General Sterling Price.

July 14th—The birthday anniversary of Nathan Bedford Forrest is observed as a legal holiday in Tennessee, in memory of her famous son. He was born in Chapel Hill, but his home was in Memphis, where in the beautiful park which bears his name, a handsome equestrian statue of Nathan Bedford Forrest, "the wizard of the saddle," has been erected.

"And in that blessed Valhalla
Where fame greets warrior bands,
High upon its gleaming casements
Shall the name of Forrest live!"

(Mrs. Virginia F. Boyle.)

General Edmund Kirby Smith—Born at San Augustine, Fla., May 16, 1824; died at Sewanee, Tenn., March 28, 1893. His life was worthy emulation; a brave and true son of the South, a gentleman and a patriot, he deserves to live always in the hearts of his countrymen.

General Jubal A. Early—Born in Franklin County, Va., November 3, 1816; died in Lynchburg, Va., March 2, 1894. Entered the Confederate service as a colonel and was prominent in command in the battle of Bull Run, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, etc.

Judah P. Benjamin—Born August 6, 1811, in the island of St. Thomas; died May 6, 1884, in Paris, France. Soon after the family removed to the United States and located in North Carolina. In 1825 young Benjamin was sent to Yale College, remained there only two years, when it became necessary for him to make his own living. In 1828 located in New Orleans, where he acted as notary-clerk and private tutor, in the meantime studying law, being admitted to the bar four years later. His success was rapid. He was elected to the State Legislature in 1842, was a delegate to the convention to frame a new State Constitution in 1844 and in 1852. In the same year he was elected State senator and soon after to the United States Senate, where he was quickly recognized as a leader in that day of intellectual giants. In forming his cabinet President Davis appointed him Attorney General, and in September, 1861, he became Secretary of War; six months later he was made Secretary of State. When the Confederacy fell, he made his escape to London. In 1883, his health failing, he removed to Paris and died the following year.

General James Longstreet, known as "Old Pete," was born January 8, 1821; died January 2, 1894. Considered one of the hardest fighters in the Confederate armies; entered the Confederate service in 1861 as major general, in charge of the Army of Northern Virginia. He had also seen service in the Mexican war.

THE SOLDIER-POETS OF THE CONFEDERACY

Dr. John Allen Wyeth—Soldier, surgeon and poet. Distinguished for exceptional bravery as a boy scout with Generals Morgan and Wheeler. While in prison he wrote an account of his experiences, "Cold Cheer at Camp Morton." Born at Missionary Station, Ala., May 26, 1845.

Clifford Anderson Lanier—Soldier, poet and blockade runner for the Confederacy. Younger brother of Sidney Lanier; born in Griffin, Ga., April 24, 1844; died November 3, 1908.

Sidney Lanier—Born in Macon, Ga., February 3rd, 1842; died at Lynn, North Carolina, September 7, 1881. "Whittier has not been more faithful to the rocky coasts in his snow stories of New England than was Lanier to the South."—(Ward.)

"The Tampa Robin," "Christmas," "Corn," "Trees and the Master," much liked poems of his.

Henry Rootes Jackson—Soldier, poet, diplomat. One of his beautiful poems is "The Red Old Hills of Georgia." Born in Athens, Ga., June 24, 1820; died in Savannah May 23, 1898.

John Banister Tabb (Father Tabb)—His poems have been called "Cameos." "A Cradle Song" is one of his best known poems. Born in Amelia County, Va., March 22, 1845; died November 19, 1909, at St. Charles College.

James Barron Hope—The Virginia laureate, who wrote many splendid war ballads and poems. Born in Virginia in 1829; died in 1887. "A Wreath of Virginia Bay Leaves," "The Future Historian," especially pretty.

John Ryder Randall—Born in Baltimore, Md., January 1st, 1839; died in Augusta, Ga., January 15, 1908. His delicate health prevented him from entering the army, but he wrote in support of the cause. "Maryland, My Maryland," written after reading news of the passage of the Massachusetts Volunteers through the streets of Baltimore, has been called the "Marseillaise of the Confederacy," as he was called the "Tyreus of the Confederacy."

Abram J. Ryan—"Father Ryan," soldier-poet, was born August 15th, 1836, at Norfolk, Va.; died in a Franciscan monastery at Louisville, Ky., April 23, 1886. He was an enthusiastic Confederate; his poems, "The Sword of Robert Lee," "The Conquered Banner," "A Land Without Ruins," drew sobs from every reader's heart. The South honors his memory.

THE BOY AND GIRL HEROES OF THE CONFEDERACY

Dixieland of the long ago, from your flower-bordered pathway we gather these blossoms of history to weave a chaplet of glory to crown the boy and girl heroes of the South in the sixties.

David O. Dodd—The boy hero of Texas was born in Lavaca County, Texas, November 10th, 1846, and was hung as a spy in Little Rock on January 8th, 1864, when he refused to betray his country and save his life at the cost of honor.

"Behold this boy whose dauntless heart quailed not,
And in your ranks of glory grant him room;
Stern virtue found no holier abode
Than in the boyish heart of David Dodd."

Sam Davis—The boy hero of Tennessee, who chose death rather than betray his country. What finer proof of spartan courage and allegiance than these, his last words, "Had I a thousand lives to give, I'd lose them—nay, I'd gladly die, before I'd live one life a lie."

"To us they live, an inspiration and a glory;
The flight of years can bring no rust to dim
Their fame in song and story."

V. M. I. Cadets of Lexington, famous for heroism in the Battle of New Market.

Jackson Foot Cavalry, 1st Arkansas. A regiment of boys under 18 years of age, from the St. John's College of Little Rock, Ark.

Jefferson Davis Artillery. Alabama school boys.

The Boy Brigade of South Carolina.

Lola Sanches, John Jonet, Thomas Jackson Watts, John Thomas Mason and John Krenn, each conspicuous for heroic service to the Confederacy.

CONSTITUTION

Article I.

The name of this Association shall be Dick Dowling Camp No. 197, United Confederate Veterans, and its headquarters at Houston, Texas.

Article II.

The object of this Camp shall be for social purposes, to perpetuate the memories of our comrades, to eschew politics and religious discussions, to preserve and maintain that sentiment of fraternity born of the hardships and dangers shared on the march, the camping ground and the battlefield, to aid its members who are in indigent circumstances, to relieve the wants of the sick, and in case of death to give our comrade a respectable burial; to instill into our descendants a proper veneration for the spirit and glory of their fathers, and to bring them into association with our organization, that they may aid us in accomplishing our objects and purposes, and finally succeed us and take up our work where we may leave it.

Article III.

The officers of this Camp shall be one Commander, one First Lieutenant Commander, one Second Lieutenant Commander, one Third Lieutenant Commander, and one Fourth Lieutenant Commander, one Adjutant, one Orderly Sergeant, one Surgeon, one Chaplain, one Officer of the Day, one Vidette, and one Color Sergeant.

Article IV.

The annual meeting of the Camp shall be held on the 8th day of September, the anniversary of the battle of Sabine Pass, of each year, for the election of officers and the transaction of any other necessary business. Other business meetings may be held as provided in the By-Laws.

Article V.

All officers shall be elected by ballot on the 8th day of September, and annually thereafter.

Article VI.

The Commander shall have the power to call the Camp together on the death of a comrade, or any other occasion when a meeting is deemed necessary by him.

BY-LAWS

Article I.

Regular meetings shall be held on the first and third Sundays in each month at 3 o'clock p. m.

Article II.

All persons who served in the Confederate Army or Navy, with an honorable record of citizenship, and are satisfactorily identified, are eligible to membership, except those who deserted or were dishonorably discharged. The wives, sons and daughters of any member of this Camp are entitled to honorary membership.

Article III.

All members are expected to attend the funeral of a deceased comrade, wearing the Camp badge.

Article IV.

Regular dues shall be twenty-five cents per month. Any comrade falling in arrears six months, and failing to pay when called upon, if able, shall be notified by the Adjutant.

Article V.

The duties of the Executive Committee shall be such as may be delegated to them by the Camp.

Article VI.

The duties of the Finance Committee shall be to audit all bills before being paid.

Article VII.

The duty of the Historical Committee shall be to report such facts as are deemed of interest to the Camp.

Article VIII.

The duties of the Relief Committee shall be to visit the sick members and extend such aid as is needed.

Article IX.

The duties of the Mortuary Committee shall be to report the death of a comrade, assist in locating graves of our dead and superintend decoration of their graves.

Article X.

The..... day of..... in each year shall be observed as Memorial or Decoration Day. All comrades are expected to participate in these ceremonies.

Article XI.

Defining the Duties of Officers

Section 1. All vacancies in office, other than Commander, Lieutenants Commander and Adjutant, shall be filled by appointment by the Commander. In the event of a vacancy in the office of Commander, the First Lieutenant Commander shall be promoted to the office for the unexpired term.

Sec. 2. In the absence of the Commander, one of the Lieutenants Commander shall preside, and, when presiding, his duties shall be the same as those of the Commander.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the Commander to call and preside over all meetings, to fill vacancies in office authorized to be filled by appointment, and generally to exercise the functions of presiding officer.

Sec. 4. It shall be the duty of the Adjutant to keep the minutes of the Camp in writing in a well-bound book, to publish all notices by order of the Commander. All communications of this Camp shall emanate from the Commander. The Adjutant shall collect all dues, giving receipts for same. He shall also make entry in minute book of all receipts, and by whom paid, at each meeting reporting the amount on hand at close of meetings.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the Orderly Sergeant to take care of all the property of the Camp, and to take charge of all picnics and outings for benefit of the Camp, and to generally look after its physical interest.

Sec. 6. The duties of the Surgeon shall be such as are usually performed by a surgeon of such an association.

Sec. 7. The duties of the Chaplain shall be to attend the funeral of any deceased comrade when requested, and to perform such other duties as are required of such officers in a similar association.

Sec. 8. It shall be the duty of the Vidette to look after the interest of the Camp during its sessions, to meet visitors and to see that all are comfortably seated, if possible to do so.

Sec. 9. It shall be the duty of the Officer of the Day to take charge of and to manage all parades and gatherings of any kind pertaining to the general welfare of the Camp.

Sec. 10. The duties of the Color Sergeant shall be to attend the funeral of any comrade when requested, and to carry the flag or banner upon all public occasions.

Article XII.
