

K of C to raise funds statewide for mentally retarded

The 10th annual fund drive to assist the mentally retarded locally and in Michigan will be conducted by Our Lady Star of the Sea Council No. 7780, of the Knights of Columbus on March 29, 30 and 31, Eugene F. Scherr, council Grand Knight said.

Last year the Knights of Columbus, a Catholic men's fraternal society, collected more than $959,000 in the three-day weekend drive in the state. Locally $5,037.24 was collected and donations were made to Grosse Pointe Neighborhood Club (Mentally Retarded Program), Foundation for Exceptional Children, Inc., and the Division for Exceptional Children, Archdiocese of Detroit for local projects.

Under the program, which is carried out in most of the 275 K.C. councils in Michigan, people are asked to donate money to the mentally retarded and are given a Tootsie Roll candy in appreciation of the gift.

Eighty percent of the net income from the donations is retained by the local council for distribution to local groups and agencies. The rest is forwarded to the state council of the Knights of Columbus to meet expenses of the program and to make donations in behalf of all the 72,000 knights in Michigan.

A principal beneficiary of state council funds is the Michigan Association for the Mentally Retarded Citizens. Other gifts also are given to organizations assisting the mentally retarded.

State Deputy Robert J. Klein, the highest ranking elected K of C official in Michigan, said there are more than 300,000 mentally retarded citizens in Michigan. He said contributions from the public in the March 29, 30 and 31 drive will go toward lessening the handicaps of the mentally retarded through training and professional services.

Citizens will be able to recognize members and their helpers during the drive because they will be dressed in colorful hats, carrying canisters and wearing bright yellow aprons emblazoned with "K of C Help the Mentally Retarded."

Julian F. Joseph, a past state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, is fund drive director. He noted that in the nine years the group has been conducting the drive, almost $6,000,000 has been collected for the mentally retarded. This year's target is $1 million.

The local Knights of Columbus council will hold its 10th annual drive this weekend to aid the mentally retarded. Local groups which benefited from last year's fundraiser are represented by, seated from left, Elizabeth Johnson of the Neighborhood Club and Sister Mary Choiniers, Archdiocese of Detroit; standing, from left, are Albert Couvreur, drive chairman, Charles Baisch of the Foundation for Exceptional Children, Inc., and Eugene F. Scherr, grand knight of Council 7780.

Firm to study administrative salaries

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The Board of Education has hired a management consulting firm to develop administrative salary and fringe benefit guidelines for the district.

At a special meeting Tuesday morning, March 19, the board unanimously adopted the recommendation from an eight-member study committee which has been working on the issue for three months.

The study, to be completed in 12 weeks, is to be performed by Towers, Perrin, Forster & Crosby at a cost not to exceed $21,000.

An eight-member committee was appointed by the board in December to review the current administrative compensation package. Members were board trustee Fred Adams, board President Joan Hanpeter, administrators Bernard LeMieux, Roger McCaig, Leo Warras and Ronald Tonks, and residents Malcolm Denise and Eric Truhel.

Adams, reviewing the activities of the committee, said it became clear after the panel's third meeting the issue was more complex than first imagined and might require some expert consideration.

"The deeper we got into the problem, the more convinced we became we were right to go with a consultant for the problem," Adams said.

The board decided to hold a special meeting to consider hiring the firm so it could get the study under way before the end of its fiscal year June 30, when a new budget will take effect, Mrs. Hanpeter said. Compensation for the administrative staff is usually set at that time, Tonks added.

Trustee Jon Gandelot said the study's recommendations will come after the board has approved its budget. Any changes adopted from the Towers Perrin study will require amending the budget.

"I'm concerned we're charging into this thing . . . and it's not going to do us any good this fiscal year," he added.

A representative from the consulting firm said the company board could be supplied with rough figures in six weeks from which it could develop its budget. By then, Towers Perrin should be able to tell school officials how the district compares to other schools and private industry, the representative added.

Mrs. Hanpeter said she sensed some uneasiness among the administrators because the board was taking so long with its work. There are some inequities in administrative compensation that should be addressed, she added.

"I had no idea when we began that the issues involved would be so complex," Mrs. Hanpeter said. "I think we have a real commitment to our administrators to complete this study as expeditiously as possible."

The study doesn't necessarily mean increases, trustee Ernest Buechler said. The study may recommend cuts.

Although Towers Perrin was not the lowest bidder for the study, the board awarded the firm the contract because the low bidder hadn't included in its estimate the expenses it may incur while doing the study, officials said.

The board appointed its committee to review the administrative package in December after it completed its search for a new superintendent. During its screening of candidates for the post, the board discovered that other districts offered a variety of fringe benefits that Grosse Pointe did not. It was decided then to review the current package in the district to make sure Grosse Pointe was fairly compensating its administrative staff.

Class of 1999

Now enrolling for this fall's kindergarten class are the future members of the last graduating class of the 20th century. Among the youngsters who registered last week at Mason Elementary School were Kelly Griffin, left, and Bradley Koczara. They don't appear to be too concerned about being the Class of 1999. After all, it is a long way off. Or is it?

Foundation makes a game of fundraising

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The Grosse Pointe Foundation for Academic Enrichment is planning its first public fundraiser since the organization was founded 14 years ago.

Under co-chairmen Ann Nicholson and Peggy Davis, the foundation hopes to develop and market a local version of Monopoly featuring local businesses and localized messages on game cards.

It is a plan that has been successful in other areas of the country, the two said. One foundation member saw a version of the game in another community and decided it would be a perfect fundraiser for the area, Mrs. Davis said.

The game will reflect the character of the foundation, Mrs. Nicholson said. It will be an educational tool for children and parents that will be representative of the community while promoting the sense of community, she added.

The foundation hopes to sell about 1,000 of the games starting in September through the school system. The price is expected to be $15 plus tax, they said.

The first step in developing the game is finding businesses that are readily identifiable with Grosse Pointe to purchase spaces on the board. The two said they are making contacts with businesses to ensure there is representation from all segments of the area.

They said they hope to sell the spaces around the board within two weeks.

There are three companies that can print the game board, they said. The original copyright for Monopoly ran out a number of years ago and the courts refused to extend it, putting the idea into the public domain, Mrs. Nicholson said.

In studying the idea, the foundation found a number of communities that had put a similar game together, Mrs. Davis said. In an eastern seaboard resort town, residents and visitors have bought the game and squirreled it away for posterity. In some cases, the board was framed and hung on walls.

begin marketing the game by Christmas, she said. In another case, the local police chief purchased the "Jail" space, she said.

Mrs. Nicholson said she was chosen to become a board member when she had children in elementary, middle and high school and became interested in enrichment programs. She and Mrs. Davis met

Ad space has sold quickly in other communities, Mrs. Davis said. One group began selling space in October and was ready to as part of their involvement in programs for students at Kerby School and became friends.

Both women say they were chosen for the foundation because they were interested in education and involved in their local school, the criteria for membership invitations.

The foundation was established in 1971 with a bequest. At the time, the amount of interest earned from the bequest was enough to fund the foundation's programs, Mrs. Nicholson said. As the years passed, prices have gone up and the foundation has become more active. The foundation had a choice of seeking public help or depleting its reserves to continue funding the variety of enrichment programs it brings to the schools, she added.

In its 14-year history, the foundation has brought about 75 programs to local schools to supplement and enrich the available curriculum.

Most recently, Living Science, which is making the rounds of elementary schools, was brought to Grosse Pointe with the help of foundation funds. A variety of speakers have also been scheduled to appear to discuss a number of topics with students and teachers.

Wrong-way driver leads police in chase

By Tom Greenwood

For the second time in three weeks, Grosse Pointe police were involved in a high speed chase that involved squad cars from the Shores, City, Park and Farms.

According to reports, the chase began in the Shores at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, March 21, when Officer Michael Kortas reported seeing a 1982 blue Lincoln proceeding southbound in the northbound lane of Lakeshore Road at Fontana Lane.

Kortas said cars were driving to the side of the road to avoid the vehicle, which began to speed away when he activated his overhead lights and tried to stop the car.

According to reports, the driver swerved at the Shores police car which had to pull over to avoid being hit. The vehicle allegedly continued south toward Detroit, still in the wrong lane. The Lincoln reportedly pulled over into the southbound lane of Lakeshore at Stratton Place, then at Lochmoor crossed back over into the northbound lane.

Police say the car then switched again into the southbound lane of Lakeshore at Clairview. When Kortas attempted to draw abreast of the vehicle, he reported the car swerved and tried to strike him. Reports say the same thing happened at Deeplands and Woodland Shores and that speeds at this point were 60 mph.

one point forced Reichling's car off the road.

Just south of the double lane past Lake St. Clair, the Lincoln was again reported driving on the wrong side of the road. The car was finally brought to a halt by a seven-car roadblock manned by police from the Park and City.

Once the vehicle was stopped, the driver reportedly refused to leave his car and was forcibly removed by the police. Before the vehicle was towed away, it was searched by Kortas who reported finding a nearly empty bottle of Seagram's whiskey.

A 54-year-old Mount Clemens man was arrested for driving under the influence of liquor and with fleeing and eluding police.

He was released after posting a $300 bond.

Marilyn MacKay's message: Work hard

By Tom Greenwood

It's been 10 years of fun and hard work for Marilyn MacKay. Petite, blond and friendly, she is instantly recognizable as the hostess of Channel 9's popular "Around Town" and "This is Hollywood" programs viewed in the Detroit-Windsor area since 1981.

Ms. MacKay makes the daily trip to the CBET studios in Windsor from her Shores home, where she and her family have lived for the past 15 years. The large and spacious home comes complete with a wooded backyard, two friendly Brittany spaniels and a bookshelf crammed with photos of her and a few of the people she's met and interviewed over the past few years. People like Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra, Anthony Quinn, Burt Reynolds, Harrison Ford, Jack Lemmon, Carol Burnett and Steven Spielberg. Most noticeable about the photos is their lack of a "grip and grin" quality where someone famous puts up with a photo with a complete stranger. Peter Ustinov, shown giving her a hug, wrote "Marilyn, I loved our time together in New York and can't wait to see you again in Grosse Pointe."

"The interviews with movie stars are nice, but it hasn't been all glitz," she said. "I've also done a number of very tough, serious shows that can tear you up emotionally. Interviews with cancer patients, the chronically unemployed and the children of alcoholics, to name a few."

"I'm also very proud of profiles I did on Ken Taylor, the Canadian ambassador to Iran who smuggled five Americans out of Tehran during the hostage crisis and with Terry Fox, another Canadian hero and cancer victim who died after attempting to run across Canada."

Perhaps the documentary closest to her heart was "The Day of Sadness," a program devoted to the history of Windsor's St. Mary's Academy and its ultimate demolition. The program was special because St. Mary's was the alma mater for the Windsor-reared woman. Seen across Canada, the program won a national Anik Award as one of the best programs of the year.

Ms. MacKay, who's currently involved in negotiations with two Detroit stations, will be bringing her expertise to Kerby Elementary School this Saturday, March 30, as part of the school system's Second Annual Young Authors conference. The seminar provides a forum for students from kindergarten through fifth grade to share writings while providing an enrichment experience through the use of resource professionals as presenters.

"I'm very flattered and honored that I was asked to participate," she said. "I don't want to just stand there and talk, so I've been lining up video equipment so the kids can put together an actual newscast. It should be a lot of fun."

She'll also be on hand to answer questions from future newshounds hoping to enter the TV marketplace. "I'll know what to say when they ask how I got started," she said. "There was a little bit of luck initially, but mostly lots and lots of hard work. I had done a bit of guest-hosting with Dennis Wholey some time ago, when Channel 9 saw me and asked if I'd be interested in doing my own show. I was ready and jumped at the chance. But it isn't always that easy."

"I believe in the saying, 'The harder I work, the luckier I get.' The secret to getting ahead is to do your homework. Research and then more research. I know as do. On the other hand an attractive woman who knows her stuff often has to work twice as hard to prove that she wasn't hired because she's pretty."

"Also, there's sometimes a double standard. I've seen plenty of overweight, out-of-shape men before the camera, but that's not allowable for women journalists."

She believes versatility and adaptability have helped her succeed in her 10 years before the cameras. "There are many rewards in this business," she said. "High pay, travel and recognition among the top, but there's no security. You can be popular one minute and out the next. If you can't deal with that, you can't survive."

"That doesn't mean you have to be nasty and cut-throat to make it. Sincerity and a genuine interest in your subject goes a long way. Harrison Ford and Frank Sinatra are notoriously tough interviews, but they talked to me. Sinatra really hates the press but we got along fine. He was gracious and courtly. I'm also proud of having the only one-on-one taped interview with John Belushi. He didn't trust the press and always came with a friend like Dan Ackroyd, but with me it was just the two of us."

That sincerity often extends to the viewers who have watched her over the years. She receives letters from those touched by a particular program, often telling her of their problems and asking her advice.

"It's amazing the way you can get through to people," she said. "It makes you feel good. I always try to answer the letters, to follow up and let them know I'm interested. It's always fun, too, when I'm recognized. Usually it's the voice they recognize first. What's funniest is when they say 'I know you! You're Marilyn...' Turner! You mean you actually do your own shopping?"

"I've been in Windsor for 10 years and it's time to move on," she said. "I've enjoyed myself and developed some really solid contacts in the area. I think that says and means a lot. I hope to stay here if possible. I love my work and I've been able to raise a family too. I'm a very fortunate person. I just hope I can get this all across to the students at the conference."

Marilyn MacKay and Candy

much as I can about the person I'm going to interview long before I get there. I also believe in doing as much as you can in the business, both in front of and behind the camera. I can write, interview, research and edit film. I've spent many long nights editing a tape that had to be ready the next morning. The more you do, the more you learn."

"Another point I want to get across is that it isn't as easy as it looks," she continued. "One of my interviews with Ken Taylor took place in a hansom cab as it rolled through Central Park in New York City. It all looked so smooth and easy, but hours of preparation went into that program. And potential newpeople shouldn't count on their looks getting them in either, although sometimes that's what happens."

Attractive and still in her 30s, she is well aware that many people think good looks is an open invitation to television journalism and wishes it were sometimes otherwise.

"Good looks are a double-edged sword," she said. "We're seeing more and more people hired for looks with no experience behind them. They get on location with film crews and don't know what to

U of D plans media reunion

A reunion of journalism, public relations, English, marketing, advertising and communication studies graduates and students of the University of Detroit is planned for Saturday, May 4.

Billed as "A Media Event," Detroit Free Press Senior Managing Editor Neal Shine will be master of ceremonies. The event will be held in the Student Union Fountain Lounge at U of D's main campus, 4001 W. McNichols.

It will be a special homecoming for graduates who served with the University's student media — the Varsity News college newspaper, The Tower yearbook, radio station WVOD — and local members of professional organizations such as the Public Relations Society of America, the International Association of Business Communicators, the Ad-craft Club, Alpha Epsilon Rho, Women in Communications, and American Women in Radio and Television, among others.

More than 250 communications professionals — including print, radio and TV reporters and editors, public relations practitioners, and advertising and marketing executives — will join University President Robert A. Mitchell, S.J., faculty and students at the reunion. Attendees will wine, dine and dance to the sounds of a jazz quartet from 6:30 to 11 p.m. on May 4. Courtesy parking will be provided in the University's faculty lot.

The cost — $25 for patrons (partially tax deductible) and $15 for regular admission — includes an open bar, hors d'oeuvres, parking and entertainment. For additional information, contact Sarah Saltzman at the Alumni Services Offices, (313) 927-1008, or Freda Fenner, Alumni Services Committee Chair, (313) 823-0997.

Hill store robbed

Maria Dinon, a women's clothing store on the Hill, was robbed March 24, according to Grosse Pointe Farms police.

They said the theft occurred between 8:30 and 9:55 a.m., when intruders gained entry by throwing a large piece of concrete through the plate glass in the front door.

Dresses, purses, sweaters and cash were taken according to the still-incomplete inventory, they added.

Foundation elects officers

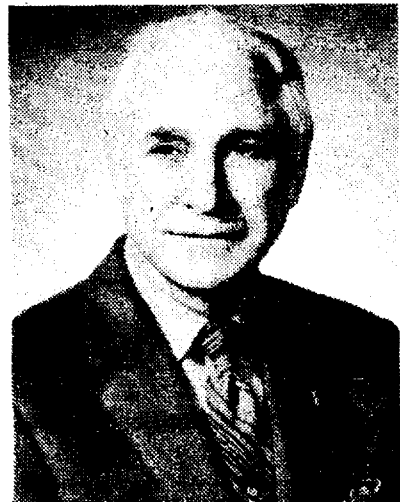

Charles S. Tompkins Sr., vice president of the Grosse Pointe Park Foundation was elected president of the group to replace Matthew Patterson who died recently.

Douglas Graham, former mayor of the Park, was elected vice president. Three new trustees were elected: Shirley J. Kennedy and Ann McDonald to three-year terms and Alfred B. Thomas to a one-year term.

About 200 Park residents have responded to the foundation's first fundraising effort — the renovation of the old bathhouse at Windmill Pointe Park — by donating $12,000. The goal is $200,000.

Renovation plans include a kitchen, restrooms and a glass wall addition to enable the building to be used year-round as an activity center.

Persons interested in more information about membership categories and contributions can call city hall at 822-6200.

Garage sale in 4th year

For the fourth straight year, Grosse Pointe's Greatest Garage Sale is scheduled for the Memorial Day weekend in the Carriage House Parking Garage behind Jacobson's in the Village.

Held May 26 and 27, the sale features individuals selling household white elephants and treasures, artisans, antiques and T-shirts.

In the past, church groups, hospital auxiliaries, neighborhood groups, community service clubs and individuals have participated. Last year, approximately 30,000 people attended the sale.

The purpose of the sale, sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Village Association, is to raise money to sponsor the Santa Claus Parade, held in the Village.

Rental for a 9x18 space for two days is $50, with an additional refundable $10 cleaning fee. This year the public will be asked to donate a minimum of 50 cents toward the parade fund, for which they will receive a two-inch button designed for the sale by Detroit Free Press cartoonist Richard Guindon. Children under 12 may enter free.

Any individual or group wanting to rent space should call 885-1900, leaving name and telephone number. A member of the association will call back with information.

All food service will be provided by non-profit community organizations.

Woman robbed

A 24-year-old woman had her purse snatched about 4:30 p.m. Saturday, March 16, on Wayburn, according to Park police.

The woman was walking on Wayburn near Kercheval when she was approached by a man coming in the opposite direction. As he passed, the man grabbed the woman's purse and took off running, reports said. The woman chased after the thief and yelled for him to take the money and leave the purse, police said.

The thief ran behind a party store, where the woman found her purse, minus the undetermined amount of money.

BRYANT OFFERS YOU TWO THINGS YOU'VE ALWAYS WANTED. MONEY AND POWER.

If you're shopping for a central air conditioning system or heat pump, call your participating Bryant dealer first. He can give you money and power. Just by letting him submit a written bid on a deluxe unit (the 345, 544 Heat Pump, 568, 568 or 567 Air Conditioner), your Bryant dealer will give you a $50 U.S. savings bond after you buy an equivalent unit. Even if it's a competitive brand!

But if you do buy the Bryant system, and have it installed by August 15th, you'll get the bond plus new electricity. One half of your largest monthly bill for the summer, after installation, will be reimbursed by Bryant. And your energy efficient unit will keep on saving money for you year after year.

Offer expires August 15, 1985. To be paid, send highest monthly utility bill after installation to Bryant's redemption center before December 31, 1985. Call your nearest participating dealer for complete details.

Bible integrated with academics at Christian school

By Pat Paholsky

Tucked away in a corner of Grosse Pointe Park on Maryland near Mack is the Grosse Pointe Christian Day School. Located behind the First Christian Reformed Church, the school is not readily visible to passing motorists, however, it's in its 56th year of educating youngsters through the eighth grade.

There are 82 students taught by five teachers. The classes are combined with first and second grade together, third and fourth, fifth and sixth, and seventh and eighth grades.

A kindergarten class was begun in 1983 and it is held three full days a week rather than on a daily part-time basis. Gayla Batts, who is a member of the school board of directors, said the full day was instituted to accommodate parents who drive their children to school and have other children attending.

While the school building is attached to the church by a connecting passage and was founded by church members in 1929, it's privately controlled by parents and supporters, Mrs. Batts said. They elect an eight-member board of directors which operates the school, sets policy and hires faculty.

The school is a member of Christian Schools International, a service organization for about 300 Christian schools in the United States and Canada. Its headquarters are in Grand Rapids.

There are no restrictions to creed, race or nationality and Mrs. Batts said the school has a mixture of students. They come from Roseville, Harper Woods, St. Clair Shores and Detroit as well as Grosse Pointe.

The philosophy of the school is that a Christian cannot be separated from everyday life, Mrs. Batts said. "Each subject is taught with the idea that God is a part of everything you learn. He is the source of it."

A pamphlet put out by the school says that the doctrinal beliefs of the teachers are based on a reformed interpretation of the Bible, but every effort is made to respect the beliefs of children and parents who have differing views.

The school offers a full curriculum, including art, music and computers, and is state-accredited. The teachers are certified by the state. One of the teachers has a master's degree and three others are working toward one.

Funds to operate the school come from tuition and gifts. The church also provides a subsidy, Mrs. Batts said.

Two of her children now attending are third generation students. Their father and grandfather before them were students. There are two other families with a third generation student, Mrs. Batts said. One, Rob Dann, will graduate from the eighth grade this year.

The school is unique, Mrs. Batts said, due to several factors. "We have excellent teachers who have a real Christian commitment and an ability to interact with the children. There is also a great deal of parent support. We are a small school and we need the support."

The Women's Christian School Circle, the equivalent of a PTO, raised $1,700 for playground equipment, she said. The students, through a reading marathon, raised more than $1,000 for the equipment, which was installed three months after the project was proposed.

The students were involved last week in the production of "The Music Machine." The entire student body is participating in the play which will be performed tonight and tomorrow, March 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the church. It's open to the public and there is no admission charge.

"There have been lean years," Mrs. Batts said, "but we're encouraged. We're growing now."

This is the third in a series about the schools of Grosse Pointe.

Liquor question stirs residents' ire

the use of liquor, Weber said. The Community House in Birmingham has held a license for more than 10 years and has felt it to be a positive improvement, Weber said. Birmingham police have no reports of problems related to the facility's license, he added.

The Community House isn't in a residential area, Marco said. Besides, the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, also in Grosse Pointe, is operated without need for a liquor license, he added.

The Ford House requires all outside groups to obtain permits, attorney George Miller said. The Ford House has never needed to obtain a permit for a function is sponsored, he added.

The War Memorial holds functions for which the center is the benefactor, Weber said. For those, it must get the 24-hour permit.

The Farms heard all of the arguments before, Marco said. The city considered and rejected the associations' request for a license in 1975. There are no compelling reasons to reconsider that decision, let alone reverse it, he added.

Were the city to approve the license, the committee will consider going to the Liquor Control Commission to appeal the issuance of a license, Marco said. It will use the signatures on its circulated petitions as evidence that the public is against the license, he added.

Control remains the key, according to Monahan. There is more reason now than ever to give the center the tools to control liquor on the site.

Before the matter comes to a public hearing in the third or fourth week of April, the Farms city hall will be flooded with mail from both sides.

The association two weeks ago sent out 3,700 postage-paid postcards to the Friends of the War Memorial, along with a letter and pamphlet explaining the request. The association asked recipients to sign and mail the card if they approved of the measure.

As of Friday, March 22, the city has received 725 of the cards in the mail, according to City Clerk Richard Solak.

In this edition, the committee has taken out an ad in which they ask residents to clip the coupon and mail it to the Farms city hall if they oppose the measure.

No date has been set for the public hearing.

Cape Cod trip

Persons interested in a week-long getaway to Cape Cod that does not require air travel have until Friday, April 12, to reserve space on the War Memorial's sponsored trip May 26 through June 1.

Wanda Gierlach, the center's travel coordinator, says that the trip is "ideally suited for senior adults and others who like to see a lot, but not at a frenetic pace." The fully guided tour, which costs $589 per person based on double occupancy, includes a whale watch cruise, a turn-of-the-century train ride, and visits to Chatham, Wellfleet, Sandwich, Hyannis and Newport. Travelers will also visit the Heritage Plantation, the John F. Kennedy Memorial, and St. Francis Xavier Church.

A deluxe motorcoach will take travelers to and from the destinations. For a brochure detailing the itinerary, call 881-7511.

Get in shape

Bon Secours Hospital's Health and Fitness Center in St. Clair Shores will offer three exercise programs beginning Monday, April 8.

• Fitness in Motion — simple aerobic dance steps and floor exercises to tone muscles and strengthen heart, lungs and circulatory system.

• Aerobic Alternatives — for the beginning exerciser. Work at your own pace, walking, biking or playing aerobic games.

• Personal Conditioning — an advanced fitness course combining aerobic activity with light-weight training on Nautilus machines. Flexibility, muscle tone and enhanced heart and lung functions are emphasized.

All classes meet three times a week at the Center, 22300 Bon Brae, west of Jefferson, between 10 and 11 Mile roads.

Registration deadline is March 30. For times and course fees, call 779-7040.

A mixture of milk and horseradish comprised the ingredients entirely of a home-made cosmetic commonly used in the countryside less than 100 years ago. It was supposed to give the skin a rosy tint.

Correction

In last weeks' Grosse Pointe News, it was incorrectly reported that the Detroit Symphony Orchestra would make an appearance at Trombly School in May. In reality, two members of the DSO will make an appearance in April. The Grosse Pointe News regrets the error.

Federal government summer jobs pamphlet available

Congressman Dennis Hertel (D-Harper Woods) currently has available in his local offices copies of a pamphlet which outlines "Summer Jobs for 1985" that are available with the federal government.

The publication lists summer job opportunities with numerous federal departments and agencies both locally and nationally. Opportunities include jobs which range from clerk-typist to engineer. The majority of the jobs are in large metropolitan areas, including Detroit.

Anyone interested in obtaining a copy of the brochure may obtain one from one of Hertel's offices.

located at 28221 Mound Road, Warren, MI 48092 (telephone: 574-9420) and 18927 Kelly Road, Detroit, MI 48224 (telephone: 526-5900).

Hertel urges individuals to contact his offices soon since most of the agencies have an April 15 (or earlier) application deadline.

Bon Secours offers health classes

Two classes, managing stress and cooking for health, will be offered by Bon Secours Hospital's Health and Fitness Center in St. Clair Shores.

A six-week stress management program will begin Monday, April 8, 7 to 9 p.m. Recognizing stress, easing stressful situations and developing options will be covered.

The Culinary Hearts Cooking Course will start Tuesday, April 9,

7 to 9 p.m. The basic principles of nutrition, food selection and preparation will be taught in the six-week course.

The fee for each class is $35. Center members pay $17.50. Registration deadline is March 30.

The center is located at 22300 Bon Brae, west of Jefferson between 10 and 11 Mile roads.

For more information, call 779-7040.

Fifth-graders at middle school

From February through June, Grosse Pointe middle schools start a program designed to insure that fifth-graders coming to the middle schools are ready for their future environment — the building, curriculum, student activities, counselors and counseling staff and school staff.

Early in the new year, middle school principals and counselors also visit their feeder schools and outline a typical school day and the curriculum offerings. Frequently, sixth-graders are also available to provide a student's perspective on middle school life. Enrollment forms are distributed so students and their parents may select their electives.

Administrators and counselors also visit their feeder schools to meet with parents of fifth-grade students and to respond to their questions and concerns. Occasional evening social programs are also held to bring fifth-grade students and parents to the middle schools for a get-acquainted experience.

Fifth-graders are invited to spend a half-day at the middle school to visit classes and have lunch. They are often accompanied by a sixth-grade host during the visit. Final orientation activities for fifth-graders and their parents will take place just before schools open in the fall. Students and parents will be able to visit the school, pick up official schedules, walk through their schedule to get acquainted with the building, and meet the staff and administrators.

Bands rate highly at March festivals

Bands from the high and middle schools had a good month of festivals in March. Both high schools took top ratings March 9, while Brownell took a I rating and Pierce and Parcels took IIs at a March 16 performance.

At the March 9 competition held at North High School, the high schools' symphonic bands took I ratings. Adjudicators rate the performances from I to IV, with I the best.

South's symphonic orchestra took another I rating March 16 at a Stevenson High School festival performance. North's band took a I at a Parcels performance March 16. The middle school bands also performed.

East directory out in April

Michigan Bell's 1985-86 East Area telephone directory will be distributed in April, according to Reggie Gibbs, local corporate affairs manager.

The directory's yellow pages section features full and three-quarter page ads, and a separate listing of ZIP codes for nearby communities.

Scattered throughout the yellow pages are numerous consumer tips such as how to measure a room for carpeting and how to purchase items on credit.

Tax tips

Q: My mother died last year and my brother was executor of her estate. He sent me a check for $25,000, saying this was my inheritance from mother's estate. How much tax must I pay on this?

A: You pay no income tax on the $25,000 when you receive it, since it is an inheritance from your mother's estate. However, if — for example — you put this money into a certificate of deposit, you would pay income tax on the interest income you get from the C.D.

Q: My husband was killed in an auto accident last year, leaving me to raise our 10-year-old son. I understand that I can file a joint return with my husband for the year of his death and for the two following years because I must support a minor child. Is this correct?

A: Yes and no. Yes, you may file a joint return with your husband for the year of his death. No, you may not file a joint return for the two following years. However, you are entitled to use the joint return tax rates for those two years.

FACTS OF LAW

by Ellen C. Wallaert

A lawsuit that is begun solely to injure the defendant, without any other good reason except to see if the case can be won, is malicious prosecution, and can subject the plaintiff to legal action.

The "man in the house rule" stated that poor families could not receive welfare payments if there was a man living in the house. It is no longer valid.

Couples preparing to marry are generally required to take a blood test to determine the existence of venereal diseases, or other health problems which could result in health or childbearing problems.

If an employee who learns trade secrets on the job reveals them to an outside party, after having agreed not to do so, is in violation of an employment contract.

Any person who is involved in a traffic accident is required by law to file an accident report, if the accident has resulted in injury or death.

Up, up and awaaaay

What a nice way to greet the first day of spring. One hundred sixty-two students at St. Paul's School released their balloons to the winds last week to welcome the warm weather and also to participate in a "Weekly Reader" pen pal contest. Sister Mary Plunkett, organizer of the event, is displaying a map in the school hall so students who receive a reply to their balloon will be able to place a pin wherever their messages were received.

Park police arrest burglar

Grosse Pointe Park police say they have arrested a 30-year-old Detroit man who they believe committed a number of house break-ins in the Park.

The man was arrested last week and bound over for examination in Municipal Court yesterday. Bond was set at $50,000 cash or surety, police said.

The man was arrested by Park officers about at 8:35 p.m. Wednesday, March 20, when the officers answered a report of a prowler in the St. Paul/Nottingham area.

Police obtained a description from a homeowner in the area. Officers spotted a man from the description provided and place him under arrest, reports said.

After first giving officers a false name, the man was correctly identified, police said. Latent fingerprint evidence linked the man to a number of break-ins in the Park, police added. A search of the man's apartment turned up a variety of stolen items, police added.

Latin experiment
 More than 30 7th- and 8th-grade University Liggett School Latin students recently learned to make replicas of Roman terracotta lamps with the help of Norma Goldman, an adjunct assistant professor of Latin at Wayne State University and an expert on the customs of ancient Romans. The small oil-fed lamps are one of the artifacts that Mrs. Goldman found as an archaeologist in the Mediterranean region and were the focus of the workshop she presented through the Michigan Council for the Humanities.

Actors workshop scheduled
 The Michigan Young Actors' Workshop will be offered at Mercy College Saturday, April 13, from 8:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. The cost of the workshop is $25 which includes lunch. The workshop will provide a realistic overview of theater in America and the opportunities available to aspiring actors and actresses. Participants will also learn a systematic marketing approach to accomplish career goals. Playwright-in-residence Joe Marrocco, a native Detroit who has performed extensively in the metropolitan Detroit area as well as New York, Chicago and Hollywood, is coordinating the workshop.

Ecumenical Good Friday services set at St. Clare

An Ecumenical Tre Ore Service will be held on Good Friday, April 5, from noon until 3 p.m. at St. Clare of Montefalco Church on Whittier and Mack in Grosse Pointe Park. This program concentrates in the Jefferson-Chalmers area of Detroit. The scriptural readings, meditations and prayers of the Tre Ore Service will be led by the Rev. David Abbott, Pastor George Scheiter, Pastor J. Philip Wahl, Paula Miller, the Rev. Donald Lichtenfeld, the Rev. Louis Thompson, Patricia Bakeman, the Rev. Robert Boley, the Rev. Off-road cycles

Secretary of State Richard Austin asked all individuals who plan to operate All Terrain Vehicles this year to "throttle down." Citing statistics from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission in Washington, Austin said nationwide ATV-related injuries treated in hospital emergency rooms, jumped from 8,600 in 1982 to 27,600 in 1983. Statistics for the first nine months of 1984 show an estimated 53,000 injuries. Since January, 1982, 80 deaths involving All Terrain Vehicles have been reported. The majority of injuries and deaths resulted from operating at too high speeds over unfamiliar terrain and colliding with rocks, tree limbs, holes, ditches and bumps or with motor vehicles on roads where the ATV is not permitted. All Terrain Vehicles are relatively new, small motorized recreational cycles with three or four large, soft tires, designed for off-road use on all types of terrain. Austin, Chairman of the State Safety Commission, advised all ATV owners to obtain proper operating instructions, wear helmets, familiarize themselves with special handling characteristics of the vehicles, don't drink when operating and slow down. All off-road vehicles must obtain off-road permits from the Department of State unless they are operated on land owned by the operator. All law enforcement agencies are responsible for enforcement of laws affecting All Terrain Vehicles.

Social Security

A recent change in the Social Security law is important for many people with mental impairments. Persons who want more information about the new rules for evaluating mental impairments or about other changes in the Social Security law for disabled people should contact the office at 17420 Mack Ave. or call 965-1500, the general information number.

Community Events

Easter Seal Telethon

The Easter Seal Telethon will be broadcast from 11:30 p.m. Saturday, March 30, to 7 p.m. Sunday, March 31 on Channel 4. Co-hosts Mort Crim, WDIV-TV news anchor, left, and Gary Danielson, Detroit Lions quarterback, are shown with Eric Wilbur, 11, of New Baltimore, who is the 1985 poster child.

St. Matthew Passion PWP dance

The "St. Matthew Passion" by J.S. Bach will be performed at Christ Church, 61 Grosse Pointe Blvd., on Good Friday, April 5, at 7:30 p.m. by the Christ Church Choral, the Boys and Girls Choirs of Christ Church, double orchestra and soloists.

The narration, taken from St. Matthew's Gospel, tells the story of the Passion of Christ. Soloists include Paul Nelson, of Ann Arbor, as the evangelist, John Paul White, head of the vocal department at Oakland University, as Jesus, and aria soloists Jeanne Heller, soprano, Sharon Babcock and Kathleen Operhall as alto soloists, and David Ludwig as bass soloist.

The double choruses are made up of 50 singers of the Christ Church Choral and the Ripieno soprano part will be sung by 30 boys and girls of Christ Church with double orchestra from the Warren Symphony, conducted by Frederic DeHaven.

Tickets are $7 and are available at the church office. Reservations can be made by calling the church office at 885-4841.

Parents Without Partners, Eastern Michigan Regional Council 57, will sponsor a March of Dimes kick-off dance for WalkAmerica on Saturday, March 30, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. The event will be held at the Georgian Inn, 31327 Gratiot, Roseville, on the east side, and at the 300 Bowl, 100 S. Cass Lake Road, Waterford, on the west side.

Admission is $3 for members and $4 for guests. Proceeds will benefit the March of Dimes. For more information, call Jim Bernhardt at 521-2247 or Carole Green at 521-1890.

Control stress

A three-day workshop, "You Can Control Stress," will begin Wednesday, April 3, and continue April 10 and 17, 7 to 10 p.m. It will be held in the nurses' residence at the rear of the hospital parking lot, 159 Kercheval Avenue.

Lecture, discussion and small group sessions will be used in the workshop conducted by Susan Connell Becker, R.N.

Enrollment is limited. The fee is $15. For reservations, call 884-8600, ext. 2390.

Spring concert

Grosse Pointe South High School's Instrumental Music Department will present a spring concert Thursday, March 28, at 8 p.m. in South's auditorium.

The Concert Band will begin the program with the Semper Fidelis March by Sousa, followed by Symponic Overture, Beguine for Flutes, and Seacliffe Overture. The Jazz Band will then perform several popular selections, including Sentimental Journey, Salt Peanuts, Killer Joe, and Hey Jude.

The concert is free and open to the public.

Hospital bake sale

The Bon Secours Guild will sponsor a bake sale Thursday, April 4, from 7:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the hospital's cafeteria and private dining room.

Home baked goods will be for sale. Proceeds will benefit the hospital.

GP Singles

Mary Ellen Tappan, local society photographer, will be the guest speaker when the Grosse Pointe Singles Group meet Friday, March 29, at 7 p.m. in the library of the War Memorial.

A dance for members and guests will take place at 9:30 p.m. at the Gabriel Richard Knights of Columbus Hall at 18000 E. Warren.

Cancer lecture

Did you know that the National Cancer Institute in Washington says cancer may be one of the most preventable of all chronic diseases?

Nearly 80 percent of all cancer behavior are related to environment and lifestyle and many are associated with personal behavior such as cigarette-smoking and eating habits.

To learn more about cancer prevention attend a lecture tonight, March 28, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Public Library, Central Branch, on Kercheval Avenue at Fisher Rd.

Program speaker is Allison Boomer, M.P.H., R.D., health educator and registered dietitian for the Michigan Cancer Information Service, Comprehensive Cancer Center of Metropolitan Detroit.

Blood drive

Bon Secours Hospital will host a Red Cross blood drive Wednesday, April 3, from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the hospital's Science Hall. No appointments are necessary.

The hospital is located at 468 Cadieux on Jefferson. For more information, call 343-1663.

Taste of Denmark

Armchair travelers can see and get a taste of Denmark Monday, April 1, at the War Memorial. The film, which begins at 8 p.m., will be preceded by a regional dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the Fries Crystal Ballroom.

The menu will feature vinbowl, curried macaroni and herring salad, Danish beef and ham, red cabbage, carmalized small potatoes, and Veiled Country Lass, a dessert of pumpernickel crumbs and applesauce.

Tickets to the film only are $4.15; the complete evening costs $16.75. Dinner reservations must be made with full payment at least three days in advance.

For additional information, call 881-7511.

Life, death

A lecture, "Who Should Live and Who Should Die," will be delivered Sunday, March 31, at 11 a.m. at Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee.

Richard W. Carlson, M.D., professor of medicine and chief of the Division of Pulmonary/Critical Care Medicine at Wayne State University and chief of medicine at Detroit Receiving Hospital, will address this issue.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

To commemorate its 107th anniversary, the Lutheran Ladies' Auxiliary for the Deaf will return next Tuesday, Apr. 2, to the site of its founding: Historic Trinity Lutheran Church at Rivard and Gratiot in Detroit. It was here, in 1878, that a group of women met to organize a support group for the Lutheran School for the Deaf. Today, that support group remains a strong, viable organization, with granddaughters and great-granddaughters of the founders among its present members.

The anniversary celebration will begin at 10:30 a.m., with a service in Trinity's sanctuary. The Reverend Karl H. Trautman, associate pastor, will deliver the sermon. The Reverend David Eberhard, pastor, will then conduct a tour of the church building, rich in symbolism and history.

The anniversary luncheon and program follows, at 12:30 p.m., and is open to friends of the Lutheran School for the Deaf as well as auxiliary members. Reservations for it, at $7.50 per person, may be made by contacting Vi Lieberenz at 884-9126 or Colette Cejka at 891-8002. Friends of the School are also welcome at the service and the tour, of course; in fact, if they only go to the luncheon and program, they'll be cheating themselves of a very special experience.

Adult Service Centers Benefit

Mrs. Lyle Heavner, Mrs. William Grierson, Mrs. John Prost, Mrs. Pieter Van Horne, Mrs. Tom Bagno, Mrs. Richard Miller, Mrs. Richard Marsh, Mrs. William Gard, Mrs. Ben Robinson, Mrs. Douglas Roby Jr. and Mrs. Edward Allardice are among the many Grosse Pointe members of the Assistance League of Adult Service Centers, Inc. who'll be down at the Roostertail this Saturday, Mar. 30, for a Millionaire's Party and Silent Auction ASC benefit.

One of ASC's big supporters this year is the WJBK-TV/Channel 2 News Staff. They'll be auctioning many hours of their time "for the cause," so if you've always wanted to spend a few hours with Nikki Grandberry, Al Allen, Chuck Gaidica, Virg Jacques, Ted Textor, Steve Still or Normal Sinclair, this is your opportunity.

The party runs from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Roostertail's Palm River Room. Ticket information is available from Mrs. Grierson, 884-6689, or by contacting ASC, a non-profit, tax-exempt, Torch Drive Agency which has provided 31 years of unduplicated services to senior citizens, mentally impaired and developmentally disabled adults in the Detroit metropolitan area, at 924-7860.

Last year, ASC helped over 4,000 needy adults — but somehow or other, despite all the good it does and all the people it reaches, its profile remains low. The Assistance League, developed as a project of the Senior Concerns Focus Committee of the Junior League of Detroit, was formed to promote and advance Adult Service Centers goals by increasing public appreciation of ASC's value to the community.

Dr. Thomas E. Singelyn is pictured at left, above, applauding the performance of the Kenneth Jewell Chorale, right, at a wine and cheese tasting Chorale benefit held earlier in the month at the Pointe home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Kerry Crenshaw. Flanking hosts Denise and Kerry Crenshaw and young Master Crenshaw in the picture below are Terry Stocker (far left) and Marilyn Stocker

photos by Elizabeth Carpenter/Lions Gate Unlimited

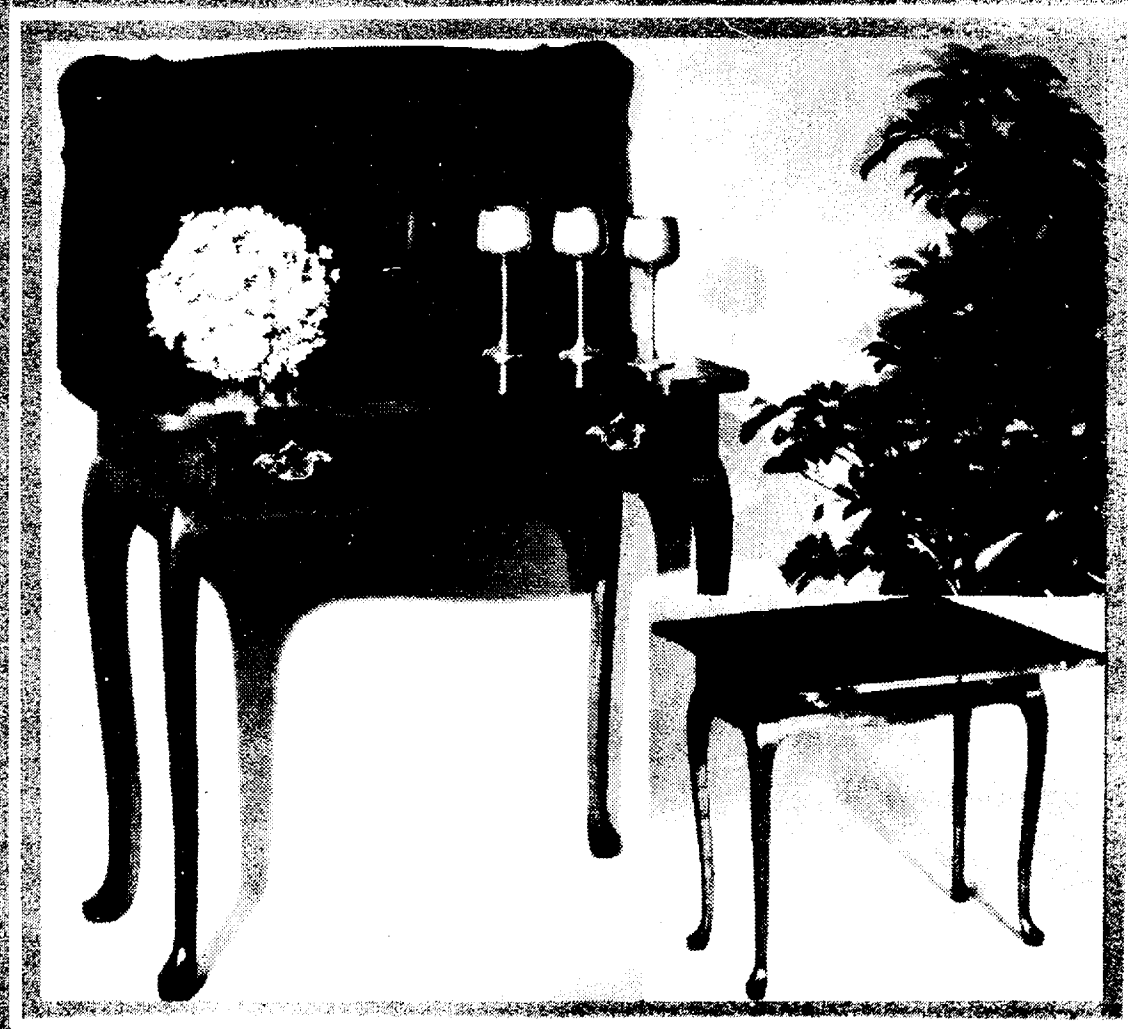

The evening's activities launched the 1985 financial development campaign of the Kenneth Jewell Chorale. The cultural contribution the Chorale makes to the metropolitan Detroit area was described by members of the KJC board, with the case for financial support made by KJC Director Lawrence R. Van Til, President Charles W. Babcock and Treasurer Robert C. White. Babcock and Van Til are both Pointe residents.

Guests enjoyed chatting with the performing-artist Chorale members and consulting with East Side wine master Larry Shade — but the highlight of the night was, of course, the mini-concert, for the repertoire of the Chorale embodies the great masterpieces of sacred and secular choral music and its programming embraces the stylistic spectrum, ranging from the Renaissance through 20th century music.

It's recognized as one of the outstanding choral groups in America — and Detroit is lucky to have it.

ABT presents lovely, lavish Romeo-Juliet

Mikhail Baryshnikov's American Ballet Theatre (ABT) returned to Detroit's Masonic Temple Auditorium yesterday for six performances of its new, lavish, full-length production of one of the most beloved ballets ever staged: "Romeo and Juliet."

ABT's presentation of this work is set to the legendary choreography of Sir Kenneth MacMillan. It's the first time an American company has staged MacMillan's masterpiece to the musical score of Soviet composer Sergei Prokofiev, and is being presented as part of the company's 45th anniversary season and national tour.

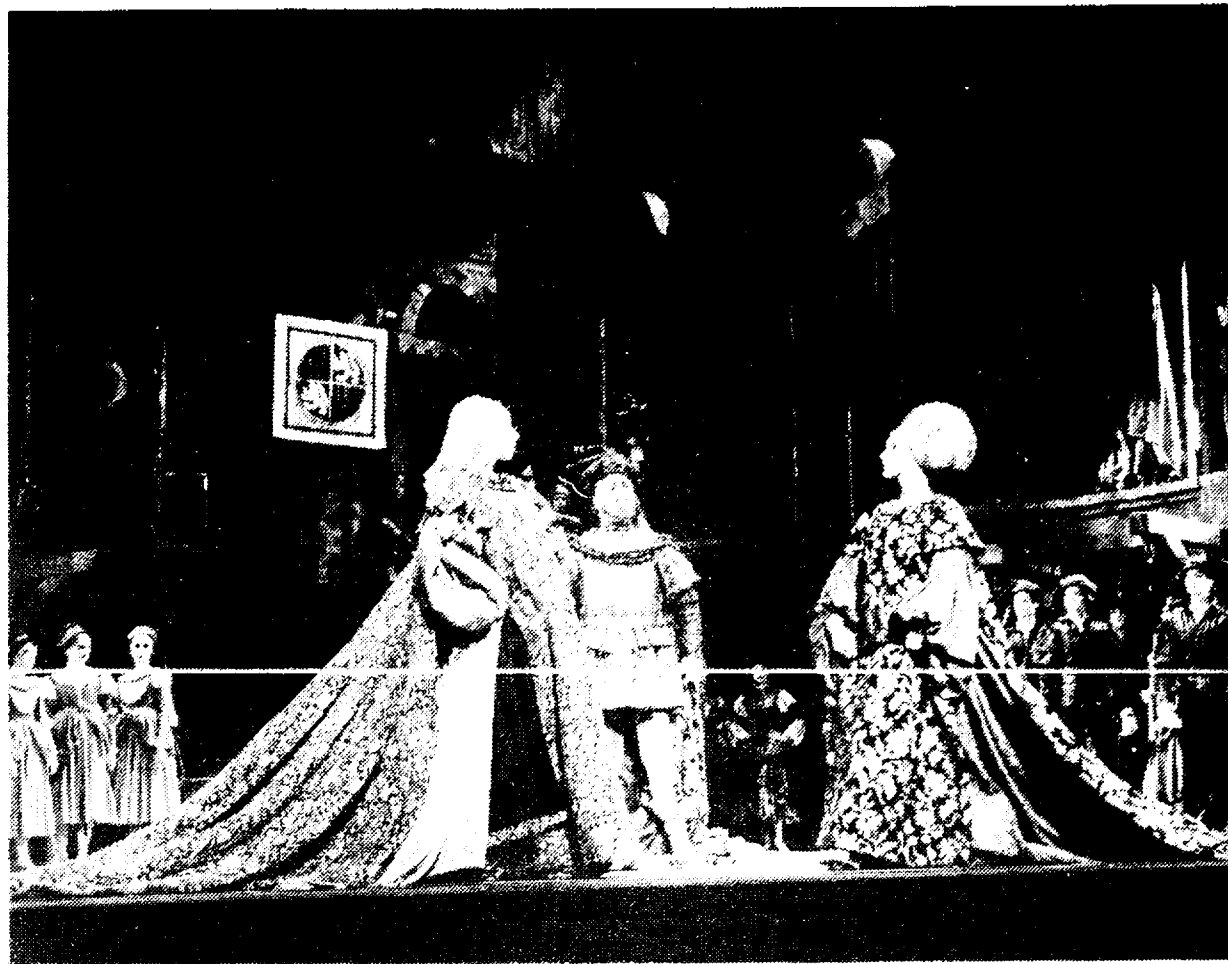

Last evening's opening night performance, starring Kevin McKenzie and Susan Jaffe as the doomed young lovers, was the traditional Gala Night Benefit. Proceeds from it help support ABT's annual engagement in Detroit and also assist WTVS/Channel 56, Detroit's public television station.

Two performances are scheduled for today: a 2 p.m. matinee starring Robert Hill in his ABT debut as Romeo and Marianna Tcherkasky as Juliet, and an 8 p.m. performance starring Ross Stretton and Cynthia Harvey.

Robert LaFosse and Leslie Browne will appear as Romeo and Juliet at 8 p.m. tomorrow, Friday, Mar. 29. John Turjoman and Bonnie Moore make their ABT role debuts as the star-crossed pair at the 2 p.m. matinee Saturday, Mar. 30. The final performance, Saturday evening at 8 p.m., will star Patrick Bissell and Susan Jaffe.

Appearing as Lady Montague in all six performances is Harriet Clark, who left Grosse Pointe North High School in her sophomore year to enroll in the School of American Ballet in Manhattan. Harriet never wanted to be anything but a dancer. She started ballet lessons in Texas, at the Houston Ballet Foundation. She was 10 when her family moved to Michigan; here she continued her lessons with Sandra Severo at the Severo School of Ballet, until, finally, she HAD to go to New York for advanced training.

Harriet completed her formal education at the Professional Children's School, graduated from the School of American Ballet and was accepted at Yale, but, deciding that what she really wanted to do was dance professionally, she joined ABT in the early fall of 1980. She's been with the company ever since.

ABT's new production of "Romeo and Juliet," settings and costumes by award-winning Greek artist Nicholas Georgiadis, C.B.E., lighting design by Thomas Skelton, premiered at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts on Jan. 3, 1985. It has been nationally acclaimed as "dazzling, colossal, breathtakingly beautiful and phenomenal!"

Shakespeare's famous love story has intrigued composers and choreographers for more than 200 years. The first recorded ballet performance of "Romeo and Juliet" was in 1758, in Venice by Eusebio Luzzi.

Next came Vincenzo Galeotti's 1811 choreography, set to the music of Claus Schall for the Royal Danish Ballet. Nijinski's choreography, with an entracte by George Balanchine and music by Constant Lambert, was unveiled in 1926 for the Diaghilev Ballet Russes.

Some 20th century interpretations of the "Romeo and Juliet" ballet have been set to music by Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Gounod and Delius, but Prokofiev's brilliant musical score continues to dominate most productions based on the famous tale.

Prokofiev's dramatic and intense music was choreographed in 1940 by Leonid Lavrovsky for the Leningrad Kirov Ballet, and featured Konstantin Sergeyev as Romeo and Galina Ulanova as Juliet. The production was revised and produced for the Bolshoi Ballet in December of 1946, and was given its American premier at the Metropolitan Opera in 1959 with Yuri Zhdanov and Ulanova in the title roles.

Sir Kenneth MacMillan's choreography was created in 1965 and given its premier by Britain's Royal Ballet. Originally intended for Lynn Seymour and Christopher Gable, the premier starred Rudolph Nureyev and Margot Fonteyn as the young lovers. The production premiered in America some two months later, at the Metropolitan Opera House with the same Royal Ballet cast.

According to dance writer Clement Crisp, MacMillan's choreography represents something of a "concern with the larger implication of the theatre as a significant element in ballet... (he) has sought to show that the classic dance, like the modern dance, can explore the interior landscapes and labyrinths of the human psyche."

Information on tickets for ABT's "Romeo and Juliet" performances at Masonic Temple may be obtained by calling 423-6666. For information on group rates or theatre parties of 20 or more, call 832-5533.

Accentuating the positive to eliminate the negative

Preschool children are constantly testing the limits of their world: behavioral limits as well as the physical ones. This testing is natural and normal, but it can become a problem unless parents recognize and know how to handle it, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

Four problem behaviors often seen in preschoolers are whining, temper tantrums, sulking and clinging. Parents can most effectively deal with these by ignoring negative behaviors and rewarding positive ones.

Whining

Some children seem to whine all the time. Nothing ever pleases them. They will whine for an ice cream cone—but when the parent produces it, the child will whine that the flavor is not right. When the parent produces the right flavor, the child will whine that it is melting and sticky. No matter what the parent does, it does not please the child.

Whining is a negative behavior. If parents consistently reward it by trying to always please the child, they will produce a chronic whiner. If they consistently ignore the whining, it will soon stop.

Temper Tantrums

What do you do about a child who screams, rolls on the floor, kicks and bites? Temper tantrums are certainly negative behaviors!

The general advice is to ignore them, too. If you get involved in the tantrum or try to stop it, you are rewarding bad behavior with attention. Of course, it is difficult to ignore a noisy, violent tantrum; at first, it may embarrass you and drive you up a wall. But be patient. If you succeed in ignoring the tantrum you are not rewarding them, and they should quickly stop.

Sulking

A sulky child withdraws from any challenging situation. He will not try.

Slate East Pointe Adelines' fish fry

The East Pointe Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc. presents its second annual fish fry tomorrow, Friday, Mar. 29, from 5 to 10 p.m. in the cafeteria of Lakeview High School, located on 11 Mile Road in St. Clair Shores. Admission is $4 (children under 12, $2.50) for "all you can eat" plus entertainment by the East Pointe chorus and quartets.

Parents need to ignore the withdrawal and at the same time insist that the child try his best, even if it means "putting him through" or "forcing him through" certain tasks.

Clinging

The clinging child is too dependent on his parents. He cannot do anything by himself. Again, the advice is to ignore the dependent behavior. At the same time, encourage the child to do things on his own and reward independent actions with praise and attention.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month from birth to six years old. For more information and a free sample newsletter, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Ind 47902. Include your child's birthdate when writing.

Inter-Related Arts Experience

Trisha Brown and her post-modern dance company, appearing at the Music Hall Center Apr. 10 to 14, are the focal point of an ingenious project conceived by J. Roland Wilson, Music Hall's executive director, in association with Jennifer Noyer and Ed Jacomo of University Liggett School's Creative and Performing Arts Department.

The project, sponsored by the Michigan Council for the Arts in association with a consortium of local educational and arts institutions, will give students from Cass Tech, the Center for Creative Studies, the Cranbrook Educational Community and University Liggett the opportunity to participate in an inter-related arts experience when Ms. Brown and her company are joined by sculptor Donald Judd and avant-garde composer Robert Ashley in a week-long residency at the schools.

The artists are being brought together to share their collaborative creative efforts, a piece for Ms. Brown's company titled "Son of Gone Fishin'", with the students. Residency activities will include seminars, panel discussions, lecture-demonstrations, master classes and hands-on experience at each of the consortium member institutions.

It's a first for the state of Michigan, bringing together students from diversified backgrounds for a common experience in the arts, and the majority of the residency activities are for the students... but there are two opportunities for the general public to participate in the project. On Wednesday, Apr. 10, Judd will lecture on his works at 11:30 a.m. at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

And on Thursday, Apr. 11, Brown, Judd and Ashley will join forces for a panel discussion following a lecture-demonstration of their "Son of Gone Fishin'" at 2 p.m. at the Music Hall. Admission to this is by ticket only; ticket information may be obtained by calling the Music Hall business office, 963-7622. General ticket information for the Trisha Brown Company performances at Music Hall is available at the box office, 963-7680.

Care to Take Home the Cake?

The Detroit Science Center is celebrating its 15th birthday and its seventh anniversary in its award-winning building on John R at East Warren Avenue, and there's still time (but just barely) to run down and sign your name to the giant birthday card on display there. People who give gifts to the Center before Saturday, Mar. 30, are eligible for prize drawings. Those who sign the card place their name in one of the birthday cakes on display for the drawing which takes place Saturday, Legislator's Day. You need not be present to win.

The Science Center began as an experiment in 1970, opening in a building on East Forest Street in Detroit. Outgrowth of a concept proposed in the early '60s by a group of interested citizens, the organization enlisted the assistance of Grosse Pointe's Dexter Ferry, who became the president and whose efforts made the Science Center a workable concept.

Heads of leading national and international science centers assisted as advisors in the original design concept of the present facility, which opened in January of 1978. The D.M. Ferry Jr. Trustee Corporation provided an initial $2.5 million. Other corporations and foundations participated in providing funds totaling $5.5 million.

The Science Center has always been dedicated to the participatory concept, concentrating on exhibits the visitor can examine and manipulate to illustrate basic scientific principles. The present building, designed by William Kessler and Associates, contains a plaza level and a hall with over 50 hands-on exhibits, two kaleidoscopic escalators and one of the largest elevators in southeastern Michigan, plus a Space Theatre showing Omnimax films in wrap-around sight and sound.

It is the first section of a major complex which, when completed, will comprise a comprehensive public science facility, and is open daily except Mondays. Admission includes the Space Theatre and exhibits as well as demonstrations. Further information may be obtained by calling 577-8400.

Higher prices for vegetables

Higher retail prices were forecast for fresh citrus fruits, most fresh vegetables and eggs during March. There are several reasons why fresh vegetables have disappeared from produce departments. Although the freeze has affected the prices of green beans, soft shell squash and sweet corn, among others, today's rapid transportation system makes it possible to obtain replacements from other areas. Heavy buying of the short commodities in those areas has driven prices up, however.

Following increases in the prices of most fresh vegetables in early March, look for prices to ease late in the month as supplies increase. Fresh vegetable supplies will be normal by early April, heavy during late April and early May, at which time prices should decrease.

We're moving into spring, when fresh potato prices increase seasonally. Cabbage and carrot prices are moving down, however, as new crops from several areas come to market.

Naval orange prices have been running about 10 percent higher than those of a year ago. Look for these prices to increase slightly during March. Branded frozen orange juice concentrate has shown a 13 percent price increase to date: imports from Brazil are the key to price movement on this item.

The higher meat prices which have been predicted for months are becoming a reality.

Minter-Ralph rites are read

Lisa Ralph, daughter of Mrs. Herbert D. Ralph, of Radnor Circle, and the late Mr. Ralph, and Steven A. Minter, son of Mrs. Jean Minter, of Warren, and the late Allen Minter, exchanged marriage vows Friday, October 12, in Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church.

Dr. Robert Boley and Dr. Charles Swan officiated at the 5 o'clock ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The newlyweds vacationed in Hawaii.

They are at home in Houston, Tex., where the bridegroom, a Wayne State University graduate, is employed by Kirkhill Inc. The bride is a graduate of Albion College.

For her late afternoon wedding, the former Miss Ralph selected a gown of daeron polyester sheer and silk Venice lace. Pearls studded her fitted lace bodice, styled with a high, ruffle-edged neckline, and her long, fitted sleeves, ending in lace wrist points. Three rows of ruffles edged her skirt and cathedral length train.

Her waltz length veil was accented with matching lace and fell from a pearl-trimmed Juliet cap. She wore an heirloom cameo at her neck and carried a cascade of white carnations, Sweetheart roses and baby's-breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven A. Minter

Honor matron Mary Leah Marshall, of Radnor Circle, and bridesmaids Lynn Prisk Sa, of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Laurie Angell, of Grand Rapids, and Audrey Minter, of Mount Clemens, in handkerchief-hemmed dresses of mauve chiffon, styled with long, bishop sleeves and high necklines, carried arrangements of rose carnations and baby's-breath.

Best man was Clarence Farber, of Saginaw. Ushers were Stanley Minter, brother of the bridegroom, Ben Slick, Jeff Wiess and Tom Slick. Ring bearer was Teddy Marshall, a neighbor of the bride. Vernon McGiverin served as the bride's escort.

The mother of the bride wore a waltz length dress of violet chiffon and pinned a single orchid to her small, clutch purse. The bridegroom's mother chose a gown of beige silk crepe, collared and belted in satin. She, too, carried a matching clutch purse with a single orchid.

Susan Leverenz

Pair planning summer rites

Susan K. Leverenz and James E. Dixon whose engagement was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Leverenz, of Bishop Road, at a cocktail party for family and friends in early December, are making plans for an August wedding.

Miss Leverenz was graduated from Grosse Pointe South High School and holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Albion College, where she majored in Home Economics and affiliated with Alpha Xi Delta sorority.

Mr. Dixon, son of Mrs. Barbara Dixon, of Utica, and Elbert Dixon, of St. Clair Shores, was graduated from Austin Preparatory School and holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Education from Northern Illinois University. He is employed by C.N.A. Insurance Company of Birmingham.

'Tribute to MCF' benefit evening

Penna's of Sterling Heights' second annual "Tribute to MCF" (Michigan Cancer Foundation) will run from 6 p.m. to midnight Sunday, Apr. 14. It's an evening of cocktails and dinner, dancing to the music of a six-piece band, "The Rhodes," and entertainment by soprano Imogene Bird.

Hosts are MCF's East Regional Board of Trustees. Proceeds will aid cancer patients, their families and members of the communities of Eastern Wayne and Macomb Counties.

Information on tickets for the benefit, to be held at Penna's on Van Dyke Avenue, north of 16 Mile Road, is available now by contacting the MCF's East Regional Service Center, 294-4430, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Phase I plans potluck party

Phase I, the single, young adults, ages 25 to 40, who gather regularly for Sunday evening program meetings at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, will hold its annual Palm Sunday Potluck Dinner and Dance there this Sunday, Mar. 31, at 6:30 p.m.

Persons bringing a dish of food to serve 8 to 10 will be admitted free. Others will be charged $5 for the meal. Those coming to the dance only will be charged the regular Phase I program fee of $3. Those whose names begin with the letters A through I are requested to bring vegetables. Desserts are requested from those whose last names begin with the letters J through Q, salads from those whose last names begin with the letters R through Z.

The Phase I Council will provide ham and potatoes, beverages and rolls.

Church Circles meet Tuesday

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Women's Association Circles meet next Tuesday, Apr. 2, at 9:30 a.m., 1 or 7:30 p.m., according to their regular time schedules.

Serving as hostesses are Bernice Penz, in her Charlevoix Avenue home, Nancy Stevens, in her Ballantyne Road home, Julie Martin, in her Westbrook Court home, Mary Jo Traviitian, in her Manor Avenue home, Ruth Collins, in her Bishop Road home, and Liz Aiken, in the church lounge.

Refreshments and fellowship precede Bible study at these monthly circle meetings. Visitors are welcome. Further information may be obtained by contacting Pauline Dykstra, circles coordinator, at 882-5330.

Sober advice for a drinker

Most drinkers think that "going on the wagon" is a desperate act: almost a confession of alcoholism. But one expert suggests that occasional "holidays" from drinking may actually help prevent alcoholism.

Dr. Nicholas A. Pace, assistant professor of Clinical Medicine at the New York University School of Medicine, says in the March Reader's Digest that a respite of a few days to a few weeks can give the liver and brain a chance to bounce back from daily exposure to alcohol.

Dr. Pace, who has helped many people overcome drinking problems, believes (as do a growing number of researchers) that over-exposure to alcohol is as likely a cause of alcoholism as genetic susceptibility, psychological and social factors, brain chemistry and other variables.

"With a lot of drinking and a little neglect almost anyone can develop the disease we call alcoholism, just as any of us can contract pneumonia by foolishly exposing ourselves to its causes," he says. "While some people are more susceptible than others, it's dangerous for anyone to hope for some kind of built-in immunity."

"But people who are alert to the dangers of alcohol can more easily avoid them."

In addition to taking holidays from drinking, Dr. Pace recommends the following program to guard against "unsafe" drinking:

- Analyze your drinking behavior. Review the typical situation in which you drink alcohol. Write down when you drink, what you drink, how much, how often and where. Be alert to ritualistic drinking — two drinks before dinner, for example, or a few beers while watching the ball game on TV.

Convene School of Government

The School of Government, Inc., a non-partisan organization founded in 1940 by the late Mrs. Wilber M. Brucker, has established a 45-year record of bringing outstanding speakers to its membership.

Continuing that tradition yesterday, Wednesday, Mar. 27, at the Country Club of Detroit, the School presented S.D. Lokken, Detroit's Postal Inspector, speaking on "Mail Fraud and How Not to be a Victim." His program followed a social hour at noon and luncheon at 12:30 p.m.

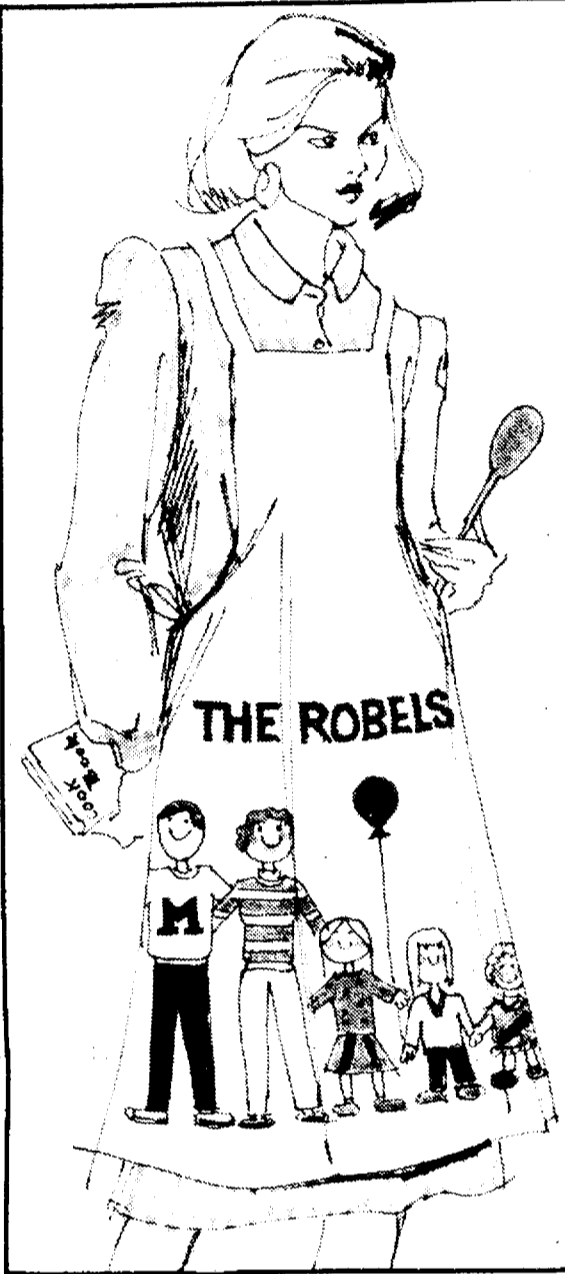

Mrs. Harry Taylor, the organization's current president, presided. Mrs. Ralph Mason, immediate past-president and program director, introduced the chairman of the day, Mrs. Eugene Hunter, also a past-president.

DKG to celebrate at birthday party

The Metropolitan Council of Delta Kappa Gamma will gather Saturday, Mar. 30, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial for DKG's annual birthday luncheon, this year celebrating the 56th anniversary of the founding of the society for women distinguished in the field of education.

June Randall, recipient of DKG's State Distinguished Service Award, will be guest speaker. A candlelight birthday celebration is also on the afternoon's agenda.

DKG's Beta Delta Chapter is providing the invitations. Beta Xi Chapter is making the arrangements. Each of the council's 10 chapters will be contributing to the society's Educational Foundation as well as participating in the program.

Give students CPR training at South High

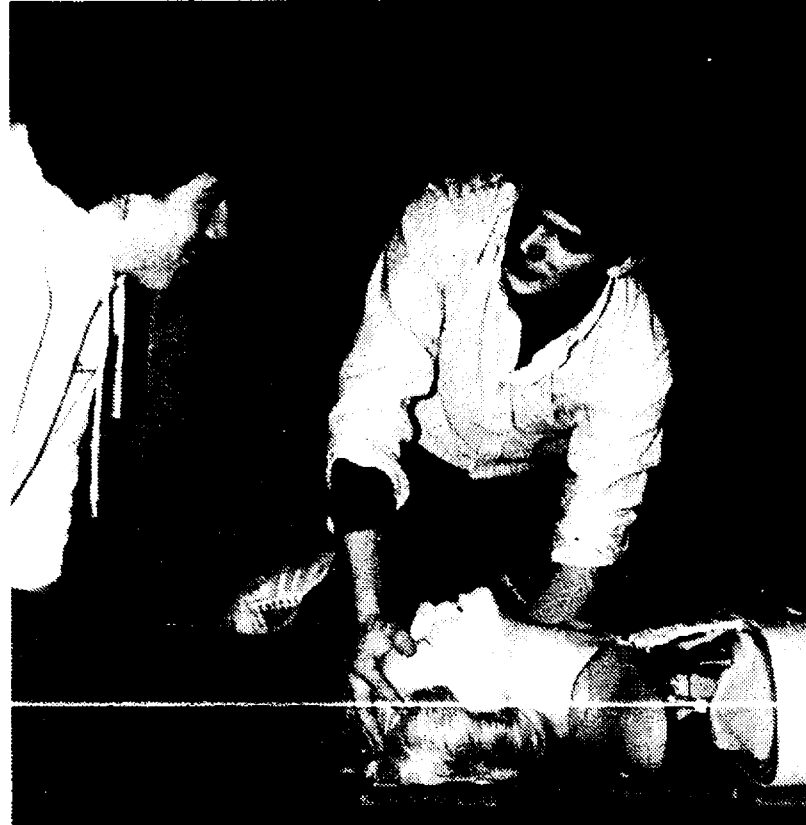

The Health Education Council of Grosse Pointe, celebrating its 40th year of service to the community, continued its sixth year of offering Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation training to young Grosse Pointers by sending 29 volunteer instructors to Grosse Pointe South High School to teach this important life-saving skill.

The volunteers worked in shifts of eight at a time with South High 10th graders Mar. 12 through 22. The instructors, trained by the American Red Cross, worked with the students during their physical education periods.

Each student receives four hours of training and gets a Red Cross "Race for Life" certificate upon successful completion of the course, in which the primary teaching aid is "Resusci-Annie," a mannequin upon which the students practice their CPR skills.

CPR is offered in some other Michigan schools, but Grosse Pointe is the only known community in the state where it is taught by an all-volunteer group.

Health Education Council volunteers in the South High CPR program under Kathy Frakes, chairman, were Ann Berschback, Kathy Bidigare, Donna Bramlage, Vanna DeDona, Cecele DesRob-erts, Mary Jo Eleccko, Rita Harrington, Susan Hinsby, Judy Huntington, Suzy Kazul, Ellen Kerfoot, Marian Kuntzman and Karen Marshall.

More were Jane Young, Agatha McCormick, Helen McKnight, Sheila McNamara, Barbara Monahan, Phyllis Osler, Gerri Plansker, Eleanor Pugliesi, Faith Remter, Lynn Rowley, Pat Sanchez, Barbara Schwartz, Betty Strzempek, Amy VanPoelvoorde and Karen Winger.

The Health Education Council provided CPR training to Grosse Pointe North High School 10th graders in the fall.

Farm, Garden Club is busy

Members of the Grosse Pointe Farm and Garden Club welcomed spring at an early March meeting in the home of Mrs. Charles A. Bigelow. Mrs. Russel McNair Jr. and Mrs. Robert F. Weber shared honors as co-hostesses of a light luncheon.

Pat Adams, daughter of one of the founders of Meldrum and Smith, opened her program with remarks on the major color values and four basic color schemes of floral painting, then presented this year's five flower and two vegetable All-American Winners.

She also discussed the merits of numerous other annual and perennial 1985 introductions.

The club will hold its annual flower show Apr. 10, the Wednesday after Easter, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. This year's theme is The Four Seasons. Competition will be in both fresh and dried floral arrangements, as well as plants.

Shores Garden Club to meet

Members of the Grosse Pointe Shores Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association gather Friday, Apr. 5, at the Colonial Court home of Mrs. David Martin who will be assisted by co-hostesses Mrs. Phillip Dickinson, of Grayton Road, and Mrs. Bernard Whitley, of Radnor Circle.

The meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. instead of the usual noon and will feature International Farm Youth Exchange speaker Jean Wild, of Oxford, reporting informally on her experiences while visiting Belgium. A business session and luncheon will conclude the day's activities.

Hanna and Bonnier to perform at DIA this Saturday

Jazz pianists Sir Roland Hanna and Bess Bonnier, together again for the first time since 1981 when they participated in a New York City recital, will perform duets in the Detroit Institute of Arts Recital Hall this Saturday, Mar. 30, at 8 p.m. Tickets for the performance, at $8, are available through the museum's ticket office, 832-2730.

Hanna and Bonnier are both natives of Detroit. He's a Cass Technical High School graduate, a veteran of the Charles Mingus Jazz Workshop and the Thad Jones/Mel Lewis Orchestra, has performed with Benny Goodman and Sarah Vaughn and was knighted by the President of Liberia in 1970. Bonnier, formerly associated with vibist Jack Brokensha, performs regularly on Sundays in the DIA's Crystal Gallery.

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

Things I'd like to see this spring . . .

The varsity baseball teams at North and South to start out with 35-5 records or some ridiculously unbelievable figure like that. Nahhh, can't be done.

To actually see the University Liggett School Knights win a state tennis title. They do it every year and every year something comes up and I don't get to go up to Kalamazoo and watch the finals. Of course, they haven't needed me there the last 13 consecutive years, have they?

The varsity soccer teams at North and South finish in a tie in their league — for first place.

An April night game in the cold at Tiger Stadium.

North versus South in boys' tennis.

South versus North in girls' soccer. I'm telling you, these two teams should really be something to watch. If you don't believe me, ask David Backhurst, University Liggett School's first-year girls' soccer coach.

Every varsity team win at least a regional championship.

An entire pro golf match on TV. I still can't make myself sit still long enough to watch the whole thing on TV.

A high school baseball no-hitter.

A 1-0 Little League game which features 48 walks.

A month go by in which no one complains that some Detroit or St. Clair Shores kid is violating the infamous "boundary rule" by playing soccer in Grosse Pointe.

A new slogan for the World Champion Tigers. (Bless You Boys? II? Son of Bless You Boys? Bless You Boys . . . Ditto? How about Bless US, Boys?)

An invitation to the spring sports awards ceremonies at North and South.

Before the NCAA basketball finals are over, I'd like to see somebody (like the University of Michigan) insist (beg, if they must) that the shot clock be instituted in next year's tournament. Or was I the only local viewer who just about went into cardiac arrest watching first Fairleigh Dickinson University, then Villanova, hold onto the ball and slow the game down to a standstill against U of M in the recent regionals? And if my blood pressure was going up, Wolverine coach Bill Frieder must have been just about ready to chew the paint off the basketball floor.

Al Ament pitching for the Blue Devil baseball team. (Would you want to face a 6-6 basketball center perched on a pitching mound?)

I'd also like to shoot out to Farmington Hills to the Church of Jesus Christ and Latter Day Saints and see the carpeted basketball floor a caller told me about. Seems the cushy wall-to-wall basketball court is the only one of its kind in the state, although lots of churches are installing it for their basketball teams. The caller adds that the floor is a lot quieter and that it makes for better ball control. (Not to mention what it does for the feet when coming down with a "monster" rebound.)

Tom Shook and Bill Babcock have excellent, injury-free seasons while pitching for their minor league baseball teams.

A raise-the-roof party at the Pontiac Silverdome. We could get the same folks who have done such a marvelous job on the People Mover to come knit the Dome roof back together. (A little Scotch tape goes a long way, right boys?)

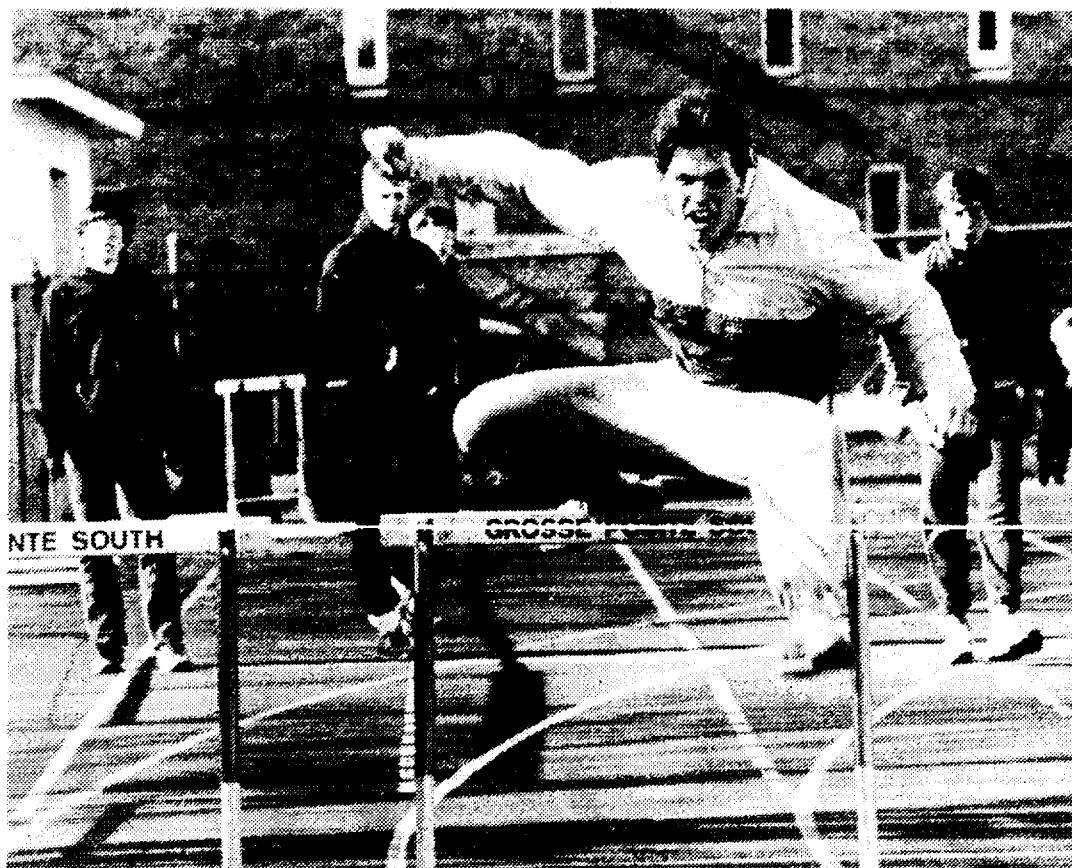

No further reports from big-time sports reporters on how awful the Tigers are going to be this season and how great the Toronto Blue Jays will be.

A combined meeting of the "Free Denny McLain" and "Ban the Blue Boat Covers" groups. With an afterglow at the Pontiac Silver Hole, maybe.

A North, South or ULS track meet. Still haven't been able to stay all the way through one of those. I'll give it another shot this year.

Another excellent spring sports season at St. Clare. Pretty good odds on this one, since St. Clare is fast becoming the Dallas Cowboys — New York Islanders — 1927 Yankees of the CYO League.

A two-week vacation before all the spring craziness begins.

The surest sign of spring . . .

. . . is when the local spring sports athletes hit the practice field to get the winter kinks out. At South High last Friday, the boys' and girls' track teams were in full practice mode under an in-and-out early spring sun. That's Blue Devil trackster Tim Estes (above, left) taking on the hurdles; Matt Aldrich, Wayne Bessler and Ilya Snyder (above) limbering up for the pole vault; and at left, dozens of hamstrings begging for mercy. The spring sports schedule begins next week. The News will publish its annual Spring Sports Previews on April 4. (Photos by Tom Greenwood).

It's tee off time again in Grosse Pointe

By Peggy O'Connor

The Farmers' Almanac has it all wrong. Just ask any Grosse Pointe golfer.

"I was one of the crazies in the first foursome. . . —Lochmoor's Tracey Jones

They'll tell you that any almanac worth the paper it's printed on should have two listings for the beginning of spring: one for when the actual vernal equinox occurs and one of the season's first tee off time. In Grosse Pointe, that was early Saturday morning March 16, as the Lochmoor Club shook of the effects of a long, cold winter with a few brisk rounds on opening day.

"I was one of the crazies in the first foursome," said Tracey Jones, golf course supervisor at Lochmoor. Around 30 early golfers celebrated opening day with Jones on March 16 after he and his crew had spent a week getting the course ready after a winter that wasn't as hard on the greens as it was on the golfers' putting game.

"A couple of years ago we had a really bad winter, then an April snowstorm came along and killed the grass seedlings we'd just put down," Jones said. "But this winter wasn't too bad, we've just been cleaning up the major things like limbs and branches."

The ground isn't ready to take heavy machinery, so Jones and his five-man crew have been out on foot raking and picking up winter's debris. Other than that, the five-year veteran supervisor says that it's just a matter of time and a few sunny, warm days until the Lochmoor course is ready for the influx of dufers which will accompany the warmer temperatures.

"The grass is still dormant, but we've got a pretty good playing surface right now. The golfers figure the conditions in their scores anyway," Jones added.

Country Club of Detroit members waited a saner four days to open the golf year; Green Superintendent Carey Mitchelson said 10 diehards showed up for the noon tee off on March 20.

"That's because it was a pretty nice day; we haven't had that many since then," Mitchelson said on Friday.

Mitchelson, who hired on as an assistant in 1979 and moved up the top job in 1982, has had a crew of 15 working on the grounds of the Farms golf course.

"It's been a fairly dry spring and we didn't have any water problems or ice damage this winter so we're in pretty good shape," Mitchelson said. Mitchelson hasn't played the course this year himself, but went out on opening day and talked to a few of the members who did play.

"The thing about early spring is getting in the work that needs to be done. I can't send the heavy equipment out until the ground firms up, but we paint on cold and rainy days

THE BEST JAGUAR EVER BUILT:
Breeding tells. While trends in automotive design come and go, the 1985 Jaguar XJ6 remains defiantly true to its heritage: lithe, graceful and utterly distinctive.

It is the nature of automotive styling to be transient. While fashions have come and gone, and a dozen other design gurus, as well as Jaguar, has consistently produced cars of great stature and style that have earned Jaguar the status of a classic. While carrying on this tradition, Jaguar's designers have created a car that has an all-time classic appeal.

And all of its engineering systems team up to fulfill that athletic promise. Come, experience the many pleasures that have been bred into the best Jaguar ever built.

SPRING Fashion '85

Grosse Pointe News

Thursday, March 28, 1985

Spectrum of spring '85 styles: Conservative to adventurous

Three easy pieces tailored by Chanel of crepe de chine. Available at Jacobson's.

Geoffrey Beene's controlled suit. Beige linen tunic over slim gabardine skirt.

Pauline Trigere's sculptured suit in black and white matching blouse and tie.

Flirtatious fashion favorites are certain signs of spring

The absence of the groundhog's shadow and the crocus may be the traditional signs of spring but, on Seventh Avenue, indications that spring '85 is fast approaching have less to do with the flora and fauna than with the sudden emergence of bright colors, short skirts and dramatically full jackets, for a stylistic counterpoint that's as flattering as it is fashionable.

Indeed, up and down the Avenue, designers who cater to conservative and adventurous dressers alike, are predicting that, for spring, 1985, American women are going to want to kick up their heels (frequently flat), and bask in the pleasures of clothing that is fun to wear, first and foremost.

The favored silhouette is the knee-high narrow skirt, topped with a jacket that is roomy, boxy even, and ranging in length from waist-covering to hip-skimming.

Chic suits shared the runway with carefully-matched separates and a smattering of dresses. Even from designers renowned for their mastery of feminine details, fuss and furbelows run a distant second behind dominance of line and color, and a vibrant dynamism which expresses, as words often do not, a sense of freshness, optimism and daring. Lots of brights usually mean lots of white, and spring '85 is no exception to this rule, with a crisp fashion palette that invokes the traditional nautical colors of red, white and blue, as well as sizzling shades of every description.

Solids and stripes

Other trends include a preference for solid colors and color-blocking over elaborate patterns, a flair for geometric forms, eye-catching asymmetrical closures, and the springtime venture onto the high seas of maritime-inspired fashion.

Stripes are still popular, because of their boldness and simplicity, and dots and checks — perennial favorites — command their fair share of the fashion spotlight.

There's a plethora of pants for spring, many with fullness at the top, and tapering down to a flirtatiously narrow ankle.

A dazzling season

At the same time, those designers whose names are synonymous with elegant, menswear-inspired fashions in subtle neutrals, are doing what they do best, and supplying their large and enthusiastic followings with easy-to-wear, flattering, durable classics with understated lines, stylish enough to remain safely in the fashion vanguard, without screaming for attention.

Yet, even they have raised hemlines, narrowed skirts and redefined the silhouette with sensational results. The overall picture? A season that dazzles with brightness, demands a close look at its new angle on proportion and, in short, is very long on fashion, in the very best sense of the word.

St. John knit resort suit features elbow sleeves, slim skirt. Available at Maria Dinon.

Chanel's beige dust coat, a classic made dramatic in gabardine for Spring '85.

Suiting the situation

With all the words that have been written about dress for success, the sensible, down-to-earth working woman may well wonder what all the fuss is about. Can clothes really be that important? Isn't what you know and how you do your job what counts?

Well, yes. And, no. Because snap judgements are in fact made on appearances, it's possible you may never get a chance to show off your sales presentation ability or your negotiating skills if you don't look the part.

And there are still situations where the tried and true formula of a tailored suit with white blouse and bow neck tie is still perfectly proper. In fact, some occasions make anomalous dressing a genuine requirement. Mrs. Jeanne Findlater, Vice President and General Manager of WXYZ-TV7 describes corporate meetings in New York where she may be the only woman at the table, where business at hand is high powered and esoteric. "To be taken seriously in this environment means that clothes should not call personal attention to the wearer," Mrs. Findlater says. "I don't wish to be remembered for what I am wearing. I choose good quality clothes and wear them with great restraint."

This is a classic example of position dictating dress and the same restraints apply to many professional women in high positions and their executive secretaries.

But even within these strict confines, one can make the case for a little individuality. The discreet addition of perhaps an antique brooch to the lapel of a jacket, the mix of tweed skirt and rich cream, silk blouse, a really good quality snake skin or alligator belt are all ways to add interest to business dressing to prevent it becoming a "uniform."

For those lucky enough to work in an environment where individuality is fostered, the task is both easier and more difficult. The sheer number of choices can seem overwhelming and that's where some guidelines can be useful.

If you consider your work a career not just a job, you'll probably be following the trend observed by retailers across the country; a move towards more upscale dressing with women deliberately appearing perhaps a little above the position currently held. Clothes are a reflection of ambition.

Age is not a big factor in effective dressing. It's more a matter of attitude and body type. The long line in skirts and matching longer proportion in jackets look elegant at any age and this look is new for spring 1985, right alongside above-the-knee skirts. That's the best news of the season: hemlines can be any length you want them, so at last your figure and not fashion dictates where they stop. Trumpet skirts are particularly youthful and fun to wear and look best with some length.

One or two good raw silk jackets can be worn virtually year 'round. One beige, one navy would be safe, but consider a vivid fuchsia or turquoise as the alternative.

Look for the new drop-collar necklines on dresses and blouses. The deeper collar shape is flattering, particularly for those not blessed with the swan-long neck of some models.

Mix textures, even prints. Put knits with linen, cotton with light-weight wool, silk with everything. Take time to look at the new ways of rayon. It's now being worked in a crepe de chine weave and has excellent drape.

A slab of neon bright color can enter your individual picture on occasion. It can be done with tact via a scarf just peeping out from a pocket, with earrings or one bold bracelet. (More than one rattles and that IS considered inappropriate for work).

Ties can match your image as well as your suit

By CAROLE JACKSON
Carole Jackson is the author of the recently-published book, Color For Men (Ballantine Books).

Your tie can make or break your image. When chosen wisely it brings color to your face, style and class to your dress, and individuality to your business "uniform."

Yet many men shop for a tie as if it were to be worn by their shirt and suit alone. They bring the suit and shirt to the counter and start trying the ties on the items of clothing, not thinking to try each tie on themselves.

I have often demonstrated to my clients how much impact — or how little — a tie has by having them "try it on." The better men's stores where I live are quite used to seeing men holding shirts and ties under their faces in front of a mirror.

Naturally a tie must look good with your suit and shirt, but never at the expense of your face or personality. If possible, buy the suit first, then the tie, and then choose a shirt to match both.

There are eight basic types of patterns: Solid, Rep (Striped), Foulard (Ivy League), Club, Plaid, Geometric, Dots, Paisley.

• Solid: Solids go well with solid suits, patterned jackets, and all shirts. They are versatile, and can be either bold or conservative. Dark silk solid ties have a quiet elegance, while casual wools and knits bring either subtle or bright color to your wardrobe without being busy or loud.

recognizable. A tie with big, bold figures on it is not a club tie — and it is generally considered tacky.

• Plaid: Plaid ties are usually considered casual. In heavy wool they are appropriate in the wintertime with tweeds and muted herringbone. They do not go with pinstriped suits or the sleeker worsteds.

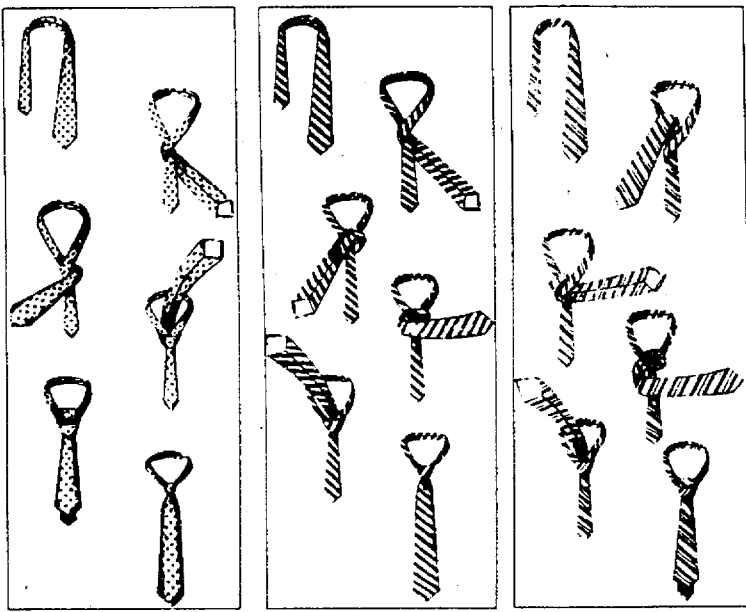

They can go well with flannel suits, however and, when made of linen or cotton, plaid ties go with summer suits as well. Just remember to avoid garish or loud plaids at any time of year.

• Geometric: Geometric ties cover everything from the enlarged diamond pattern that is similar to an Ivy League tie, to criss-crossed or vertical striped patterns.

The large diamond shapes are more casual than the smaller versions, but either brings a pleasing angularity to your appearance — particularly useful for the large man.

• Dots: Dots range from polka-dots to pin-dots. Traditionally a very elegant tie, the polka dot is almost as versatile as a solid tie. Very small pin dots are even more formal, and are used for evening or with more elegant business suits for special occasions.

• Paisley: Paisley ties are useful because they combine so many colors that they can mix and match well. In stronger colors they are too sporty for a business look, but when the colors and fabric are restrained paisley ties are elegant and dressy.

The Four-in-Hand

The Half Windsor

The Windsor

Some solids have a same-color pattern — a red-on-red stripe, for example. These are considered solids as long as they are subtle. Silk solids have a sheen, which adds richness to the tie, but stay away from very shiny or brocade versions.

• Rep (striped): Striped ties are based on the old regimental patterns. These days any diagonal stripe is called a "rep." This is the classic American business tie. The stripes may be quite thin, of varying widths, or even wide.

Your selection will depend on your body proportions and personality. With clear-colored suits, keep the stripes crisp; with suits in muted tones, the stripes should be softer.

• Club: The club tie can be sporty or conservative. It has a regular pattern of "club-like" motifs — such as heraldic shields, sporting insignia, or animals — against a solid background. The pattern should be small, subtle, and not instantly exciting new shape or style as a perfect pick-me-up for pants or a dress with at least one more season's wear in it.

The art of using accessories to highlight (or, in some cases, create) a wardrobe requires very little cash and a lot of creativity and imagination.

Clunky and colorful costume jewelry are perfect dress-up accessories in themselves and their colors are sure to say spring, and make you feel your best and most stylish as this exciting season begins.

The art of accessorizing

Never underestimate the importance of an accessory. Pocketbooks, shoes and other accessories can do more to add style or just plain rejuvenate a great portion of last year's clothing, and best reinforce the fashions of 1985.

Try the acquisition of a bright and colorful scarf. Patterns are even better, as a perfect way to highlight last season's pastel shades and lighter colors.

There is nothing like a new belt in an exciting new shape or style as a perfect pick-me-up for pants or a dress with at least one more season's wear in it.

Computerized, Precision Haircoloring

Progressive salons are now offering high-tech haircoloring with the new Color Command F-5000 Computer, manufactured by Roux Laboratories, Inc., professional haircoloring and hair care pioneers for over 50 years.

Computerized haircoloring is a real plus for the consumer because stylists can now offer prescription type haircoloring formulas programmed for total compatibility with each client's personal hair characteristics. The client simply chooses the desired color and that is the color achieved. No more fear of trying something new. A client can become the exact shade of blond, brown or red with great coverage of gray and even, overall haircolor results.

The trained professional simply programs the client's natural haircolor information, porosity, texture, percentage of gray (if any) and desired color result into the computer. The computer then analyzes the information and reads out the correct color formula to use. It also indicates the amount of time necessary for processing the color on a particular client's hair.

The F-5000 computer compensates for the various conditions existing in each individual's hair. For example, a client who spends a lot of time in the sun usually has porous, sun-bleached ends. Therefore, a special formula would be required for the hair because porous hair absorbs color more quickly. It also requires less time to process or it will get too dark on the ends.

The Color Command F-5000 is virtually an encyclopedia of over 30,000 color formulations and variations. The best thing about the computer, is that it saves valuable time and is so precise and predictable that clients leave the salon totally satisfied.

The Color Command F-5000 is now available at all Jacobson's Beauty Salons.

Tips for giving your feet a treat

According to a study conducted by the Gallup Organization of the state of America's feet, three-quarters of all Americans (especially women) report that their feet ache.

It's no wonder! Your feet take you an average of over four miles each day, support twice your body weight with every step you take, and are confined to rigid shoes all days.

Pamper yourself
To help you put your best foot forward this spring, here are some tips that will help you exercise, massage, beautify and pamper your feet.

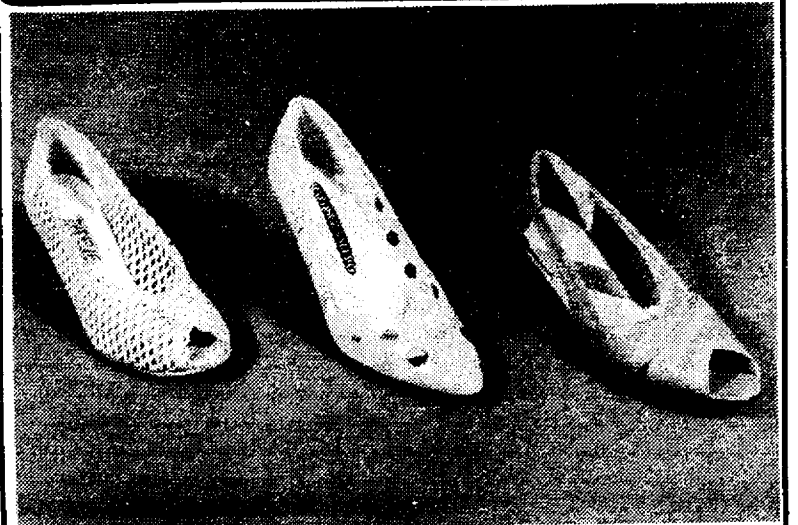

- Wear shoes that fit properly — it's the first "step" to comfort. Alternate between heels and flats to keep tendons flexible.

- Relax tired muscles by massaging your entire foot. Grasp your foot with fingers on top and thumb on sole. Apply firm thumb pressure in a circular motion over the entire sole; then switch positions with thumb on top. Grasp each toe and gently tug — enough to straighten and stretch the toe. Also try to twist each toe in a gentle side to side motion.

- Soak both feet in warm water for a few minutes to soften skin. Dry feet thoroughly, especially between the toes. Gently and carefully, smooth off calluses and rough spots with a wet pumice stone. Apply cream, then powder.

Feet first
Although women are willing to sacrifice their feet in the name of fashion, they don't have to suffer the consequences any longer. For more tips, write for the free brochure, "Tips for Tired Feet." Aris Isotoner Inc., Dept. SM, 417 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10016.

Mixtures of metals, stones characterize spring jewelry

Imaginative and dramatic, new fine jewelry for spring blends metals, colored stones and pearls in impressive necklaces, geometric earrings, and large bold rings and bracelets, reports Kae McCulloch, fashion director of the Jewelry Industry Council.

"Bracelets tend to be larger, achieved either with large gold bands, or several strands of pearls and chain or colored stone beads," she declares.

Lengths of new necklaces make news too, with choices ranging from very short choker lengths with unique center treatments where the clasps are part of a decorative centerpiece, to longer "twister" necklaces that combine several different strands of pearls or beads for eye appeal and texture.

Gold is used to enhance colored stones and pearls, and often two or three hues of gold appear in one piece of jewelry, such as a bracelet in pink, gold and white.

Both rings and earrings take on a bolder appearance, with large geometric shapes for daytime earrings, and elongated drop earrings for evening.

Mabe pearls grace earrings, rings and necklace centerpieces, and baroque pearls often set the mood for the designer's creation, serving as a design inspiration by its shape. Many are set off with small diamonds, seed pearls or tiny colored stones, and set in gold.

New styles add kick to spring

As women kick off their winter boots, they can look forward to slipping into the new footwear of spring. And spring '85 offers enough styles to please a wide range of tastes.

While the classic plain pump is always desirable, the newest pumps are anything but plain. Softened with draping and shirring, they lean toward very feminized styling. Scalloped top lines are popular as are open toes or "sandalized pumps."

Draped, pleated and wrinkled designs are important women's dress shoe looks this season. There are also a lot of ornamental treatments, such as bows.

More big news is in heel heights. Whether a woman's preference is flat, medium or high, all are available and work well with today's clothing.

While high heels are traditionally considered dressier, flats and mid-heels now fit into this category.

White is "far and away" the number one color, and neutrals such as beige and bone, and soft pastels are all very popular. Vivid colors like royal blue and fiery red are also exciting.

With the many choices of color and styling, women can delight in packing away winter's boots for spring's fabulous footwear.

Spring at Eastland

Eastland Center retailers are featuring great looking spring fashions with hot colors and easy free shapes for the exciting upcoming warm season.

"This spring will reflect the bold and fun personalities of everyone who shops here," according to Susie Zaun, Center Manager of Eastland Center. "Fashions are double and triple toned in medium to the brightest hues that sparkle of self confidence." Zaun continued, "yellow will be featured and receiving most of the attention this spring. Combined with accessories of bright blue, this will be a definite plus for your spring 1985 wardrobe. Bold prints, soft plaids and relaxing big shirts worn with baggy shorts and skinny pants will be popular this spring for city or beach."

For warm nights ahead, bare U-backed and strapless sarong dresses in silk, rayon matte, and lightweight wools will be available. A favorite will be bare armed shirts in cotton and linen with big buttoned fronts or backs. Cotton knit dresses will rise above the knee while skirts with patch pockets will continue to fall past the knee.

The oversize jacket and pleated trouser outfit with padded drop shoulder work well for the contemporary woman. The longer than 7/8 coat of linen or cotton fit beautifully over a layering of big shirts, mesh tank tops and cotton crop pants.

Along with yellow and blue, reds with hints of orange and softer pastels will be perfect for a complete spring and summer wardrobe. Accessories this spring will be as hot as ever. Bold and fun shapes are evident in sun glasses and goggles, sizzling colors, some without lenses! The carry over, or main stay, will be gloves, side-vented, silk lined and even formal four buttoned length gloves of python and napa leathers will be featured. Sharp colors are a must! The comfortable mid-heeled, sling backs and strappy flats of multi-tones and mixed leathers will finish off your accessories.

Menswear for spring will take a comfortable attitude toward dressing for business. Jackets will be fuller with a roomier fit overall. Coats have wider drop notch lapels, pants are pleated and often cuffed. Cotton and linen will prevail. Mixing items together will be done with personal flair. Plaid suits, striped shirts and paisley ties with style can be elegant and interestingly fun!
