Probably because the issue has been overstated. Probably because now it's become in the eyes of the more vocal Syracuseans a battle between progressive, enlightened and broad-minded heroes and the mentionaries. It would be equally hateful, reactionary.

People who do not advocate the boycott of certain fraternities but who are not bigots surely should resent the interferences made against them. If a fight for liberation and justice from within could have been morally right a few years ago, why is it suddenly disgraceful today?

Surely there are respectable people who do not demand instant and complete reform, or death. Such people should not be smeared with nasty innuendoes spouted with great moral fervor.

Yes, at least a few Syracuseans this term have broken whatever terms of apathy might have been binding; them. But that is hardly enough. It is not enough to raise a storm, to violently denounce certain groups. The denouncers and the organizers should be a little more reasonable and should refrain from inflammatory exaggerations and extravaganzas.

Syracusans should stop oversteering every issue in one long counter. To depict the political or the Greek issue or any other issue solely as one between the heroes and the villains increases the lust for battle, but it does not help the people and does not really get at the heart of the question.

I hope that Syracuseans have the maturity to face the issues more squarely.

To the Editor: Allow me to commend the Daily Orange, Professors Wiley and Reagan, et al., for their stand against racial discrimination in every and all aspects of the American society.

Further, I would like to support the appeal to rushing frosh to exercise moral integrity in choosing to blot out segregation within the existing fraternal framework or refusing to become a part of that framework.

There would be no honor in any other choice, for such would fail to recognize the dignity and "the right of each individual to be judged by his own personal qualities."

Most persons who kill "in a fit of rage" are not executed and make model prisoners; it has been stated. Since they need no defense, those who favor the abolition of capital punishment need not include this category in their listings of reasons.

To the Editor: In regard to your recent articles and editorial on capital punishment, I hope that you do not presume to be the spokesman for the student body on the matter. I do not feel strongly about this question, but the first ten students I talked to felt that this system should be retained. Unless you have conducted an unbiased poll I assume that this policy is merely that of the editorial staff and a handful of journalism students.

If there is a cancer in our society, then that malignancy must be removed either by killing or confinement. We are given the rules to the game and those who do not follow the rules must be removed from the game.

To the Editor: Although I sent a check for a full year's subscription to the Daily Orange, to date I have only received four issues. However from these I get the very distinct impression that the subscribers should be expelled, if at all, to the so-called "conservative" point of view.

Under ordinary circumstances this might be justifiable, however we are not experiencing ordinary circumstances today. Today there is a very great question that this nation "conceived in liberty under God" can much longer survive the attacks and infiltration of the international Communists.

I am an old man, and thus conquest by the Communists does not pose the problems to me that it must to your readers. There is not the slightest evidence that this is a matter of concern to your readers. I am extremely curious to know why. One of two things must be true: either they are ignorant of their impending doom or they have full knowledge of it and are completely indifferent to it.

To one who has lived a life of freedom, the thought of a regimented, controlled existence devoid of individual initiative is intolerable. Probably I am just an old "fuddy-duddy."

This, however, does not prevent me from asking answers to the above questions. I look forward to answers from your readers. Laurence C. Smith Syracuse Chapter Organizer for Survival of Small Business

'Weekend With Lulu' Opens With Heavy Handed Humour

If you pin us right down to it, we did laugh a few times at "Weekend with Lulu" which opened yesterday at the Riviera Cinema.

Behind us was a rather obnoxious fellow with a contorted laugh, and we felt guilty not giggling at a few sequences. We certainly didn't laugh at the film.

First of all Lulu isn't a girl, it's a trailer, or a caravan as the Britishers say in the movie. The girl is Deirdre, a rather well built blonde, walked through by Shirley Eaton. Her fellow, a rather foppish ice cream executive, rents Lulu so he doesn't have to use the water tower or whatever they use in London.

He, and his voyeur friend plan to make the weekend scene, though Heaven knows what the friend intends to do while Timothy Gray and Deirdre make love.

Needless to say, Mama, well played by Irene Handl, and her dog whose name we forgot, are along, the four and a half of them pile into the Yum-Yum ice cream truck wagging their Lulu behind them.

To no one's surprise they get lost, but last because they end up on a train, truck, Lulu and all, exiting through France.

Deirdre decides, now that she's in France, to wear her conservative wardrobe, consisting mainly of shorts and dresses the conservative British can look down. Mama complains about "dirty foreigners," and we are all prepared for a merry romp through France.

They meet any number of Frenchmen, all played by English actors who speak either a broken English or French with a high school French accent. Also, the country side seems more like Wales, plastered with signs on francais, than Provence.

Soon, they encounter an all

French bicycle race. The stock newsreel footage of this is very funny, but the group's encounters with it aren't. Finally, they make to the coast and again to no one's surprise all ends happily. J.E.G.

Question 7 Examines Communism, Religion

It seems the Protestants, or the Lutherans at least, have always been in trouble. First, in Martin Luther, it was the Catholics who bothered the Protestants; now, in "Question 7," which opened yesterday at Shine's Eckel Theater, it's the Communists' turn.

Both the Catholics, and the Communists, control all forms of political, social, economic and religious life. And while the Protestants don't necessarily have any monopolies on truth, their right to express their beliefs is undeniable.

And this the issue of Question 7.

The film takes place in East Germany, and concerns a Protestant minister trying to run his parish despite any number of government restrictions.

Musie vs. Party Line His mysteriously talented son wants to go to improve his musical education and opportunities. But to do this he must mouth the party line, symbolized by a seven part questionnaire, the boy must answer. Needless to say the boy cannot answer the questions honestly without ruining his chances of becoming a musician.

The boy and his father must decide where conscience ends and lip service to an undesirable system begins.

Around this conflict is interwoven a bit of daily life under the East German regime. We see vividly how the Communists are trying to control all aspects of life; how viciously they try to destroy the church; how well they organize to achieve their ends.

Scenes of youth festivals, collective farms, marching, singing students, are powerful. The idea of an all powerful, completely organized state, with the sense of futility, if not fear, that it can install is well presented.

Escape to the West Eventually, the boy goes to Berlin to appear in the music competition of the Youth Festival. Realizing he is being used to prove that religion is not repressed in the East, he escapes to the West, while his parents remain, doing what they can to preserve religion in East Germany.

The cast, headed by the gothic looking Micheal Gwynn, does a fine job. Stuart Rosenberg's direction has great facility and never becomes maudlin, as films about suppression often do.

Regent to Show Film on Sweden

"Life in Sweden," personally narrated by Hjordis Parker, will be the first film in this year's World Adventure Tours series at 8 p.m., Monday at the University Regent Theatre.

Through the eyes of the aristocratic farmer of Skane, the craftsman of Smaland, the drama student of Stockholm, the old peasant woman of Dalarna and other people in the various parts of Sweden, Mrs. Parker gives us a picture of this beautiful Scandinavian country.

Mrs. Parker was decorated by King Olav of Norway in 1951 and by King Gustav VI in 1961 for her outstanding films about Scandinavia. Tickets for single shows and for the series are available from the University Regent Theatre, 820 E. Genesee St.

View From Archbold

By MILT JOFFE

CHUBBY CHECKER is not a freshman at Syracuse. This we know. The rumors flew around for a month but now only the most extreme die-harders have any faith in the story. Nevertheless, Mister Checker is causing quite a stir on campus, and around the nation.

He gets into our column because he is partly responsible for a sad story that reached us this week.

The story is about the fencer who is being forced to give up twisting. This is, indeed, a moving tale. For, this fencer caught in the middle of a traumatic experience happens to be one of the finest twisters we have the pleasure of knowing.

Mr., along with most of the other students at Syracuse, has fallen prey to the national craze started by the dance of our nearly-adopted son, Chubby.

The view from Archbold lately focuses on gyrating, twisting, students going through motions that would put a burlesque queen to shame.

This invigorating dance appears to be quite a body conditioner, if you last through the first attempt. This week we found out differently. And that brings us back to our unhappy fencer.

Our first item of business is to identify our hero. His name is Marty Cohen, a sophomore forestry student from Rochester. Marty stands about 5 ft.-6 in. and his most distinguishing characteristic is his red hair.

As a freshman fencer, Marty was rather successful. This year he was slated to move up to the varsity without much trouble, and continue doubling as team manager.

But between the end of last season and this week's first practice session, something new had entered Marty's life.

This brings us to this past winter and once again to our friend Chubby Checker. As the Twist boom spread across the country, Marty didn't waste much time in becoming one of its exponents. Since it was the fencing off-season he was able to devote much of his time to perfecting the intricacies of the dance.

By the end of spring he was ranked with the best twisters on the Hill. After that must have been a busy, twisting summer, Marty returned to Syracuse with even more variations on Chubby's theme.

And since the twisting craze became so big, he had many opportunities to keep in shape. He became so enthralled in the dance, he somehow forgot about the foil he had packed away in his trunk.

But then came Marty's moment of truth, the sad occasion we referred to earlier. Yes, this week Marty was told he would have to give up twisting.

This may seem to be a trifling incident in the life of a fencer. Not so. This revelation came to Marty this week and he still is not quite sure what to make of it.

This prohibition of twisting was pronounced by fencing coach Alexander Daiko shortly after Marty was easily beaten in his first practice match this week.

It seems that the correct fencing form requires rigid body posture for correct execution of the desired moves. This is learned in elementary fencing. (We believe it's still taught in Heidelberg.)

When Marty took his position in practice his stance was the same as it always had been. But when he made his forward thrusts, he lost the rigid posture and adopted that familiar swaying movement in the posterior regions of his fencing uniform.

Marty was twisting, by habit, in the fencing match.

Couch Daiko and the other team members noticed the peculiarity almost instantly and then came the somber pronouncement. Marty knew he would have to make a tough decision.

It was as if they had told Babe Ruth he would have to give up hot dogs, or Sweetwater Clifton he would have to forego soda pop.

Marty likes fencing and we know he wouldn't think of giving it up. But twisting has also become a favorite avocation of his. So what can he do?

We suggest some sort of compromise. Perhaps he can turn his professional and bill himself as the "Twisting Fencer." Or maybe he can star in "The King of Zerk."

Perhaps it's simpler than that. Marty can be the founder of a new school of fencing, a school that forsakes the conventional rigidity of the past and instead goes twisting on to new frontiers, foils poised and hearts pounding.

Perhaps you, gentle readers, have some sage bits of advice we overlook here. Maybe you can come up with the answer to Marty's problem. If so, why not drop a line of encouragement to Marty at 735 Comstock Avenue. We're sure everything will swing in the end.

Davis Gains Third Place In NCAA Scoring Contest

BY ART ROSSKY

Ernie Davis, who scored two touchdowns in Saturday's rout of Holy Cross, has surged into a third place tie in NCAA scoring. His 56 points, garnered on nine touchdowns and two extra points, have been matched by Utah State's Tom Larscheid, a 160-lb. seatback.

Davis also ranks 11th in national rushing tables. He has gained 461 yards, in 86 carries, for an average of 5.4.

Davis can break two more of Jimmy Brown's records in Saturday's contest with Pitt Panthers. Davis has gained 2024 yards rushing in his career, only 67 yards less than Brown's career total. Davis has scored 182 points in his career and needs just six more points to set a new Syracuse standard.

In addition to his running accomplishments, Davis is the Orangemen's leading pass receiver with 11 receptions good for gains of 114 yards.

Border Stars
Two Border Conference hot-shots, Pete Pedro of West Texas State and Jim Pilot of New Mexico State, continue to lead the scoring race. Pedro has scored 16 touchdowns while Pilot has 15 goal line crossings to his credit.

Dave Hoppman of Iowa State has joined Pilot and Pedro in a three-way rushing contest. Pilot's 756 yards, on 116 rushes, lead the field. Hoppman has collected 720 yards on 138 attempts, to edge out Pedro for the runnerup spot. Pedro has amassed 707 yards on 81 carries. Hoppman moved into a contenting position by gaining 271 yards, the most since the 1951 campaign, in last Saturday's contest with Kansas State.

A quartet of standout athletes from the squads of the Orangemen's opponents also hold positions in this week's tables. Dennis Chiridge of Nebraska ranks third in punting. He has boomed 23 punts for an average of 42.4 yards per boot. Another Cornhusker, Ed Thornton, has grabbed the 12th position in rushing by gaining 453 yards on 81 rushes.

Snyder Pass-Receiver
Holy Cross' Al Snyder, who has collected 23 acrobats for a gain of 273 yards, ranks fourth in pass receiving. West Virginia's Fred Colvard, who has returned nine punts for an average of 38.4 per attempt, is second in punt returns.

Notre Dame and Oregon State rank third and fourth, respectively, in rushing, while Oregon State and Penn State rank seventh and tenth, respectively, in total offense. Holy Cross is third in passing while Maryland ranks seventh in passing.

Nebraska ranks fifth in pass defense. Nebraska also ranks sixth in team punting, thanks to a big assist from Clavidge.

Campbell Leads
1960 pass receiving champ Hugh Campbell of Washington State leads with 35 catches in the aerial grabbing department.

Jerry Gross of Detroit, which plays Army this week, leads in total offense with 1163 yards collected in 5 titles. Gross, who also ranks second in passing, will face Army's Dick Eckert, who is 11th in pigskin pitching.

Gross' favorite target, Larry

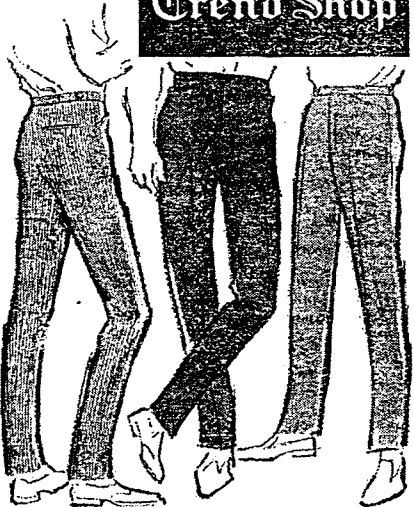

ERNE DAVIS

Vargo, ranks seventh in pass receiving with 22 catches for 381 yards and six TDs, best among the top 15 receivers.

3 Sports Near Finals In Fall Intramural Setup

By KEN DARLING Sports Editor

The fall intramural program is approaching its climax. Intramural Director Milt Howard hopes to have championships determined in three sports, touch football, rifle, and swimming, by next Thursday.

The fraternity touch football flight has reached the semi-final stage. The winner of Wednesday night's Sigma Alpha Epsilon-Phi Gamma Delta contest will battle Zeta Beta Tau next Tuesday, while Sigma Alpha Phi Mu goes against Tau Epsilon Phi. The victors will clash Wednesday for the fraternity championship.

In the living center flight, competition has reached the quarter-final round. In today's action, Watson West 4 will tangle with Watson East 3, while Watson East 2 will meet Hurst. The winner of the Men's Co-op 1-Scott game will take on Watson West 1, while the City men will face either DellPlain 2 or Sadler 8.

Next Monday the living center semifinals will be conducted, with the finals being played on Wednesday. The football campaign will be climaxed next Thursday when the fraternity champion meets the living center victor for the all-university crown.

Swimming
In swimming, Delta Kappa Epsilon and Sigma Alpha Mu have reached the fraternity finals. Marion 1 will be facing either DellPlain 2 or DellPlain 4 for the flight one title, while Penton takes on either Matt or Wilson for the flight two crown. The overall living center championship will be determined next Tuesday, with the all-university meet scheduled for the following day.

In rifle action, quarter-final matches pit Kappa Phi Delta against Kappa Sigma, Sigma Alpha Mu against Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Pi Alpha Chi against Phi Kappa Psi, and Acaia against either Tau Epsilon Phi or Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Living centers in rifle quarter-final matches are Watson East 3, Watson East 4, Wilson, Marion 2, Men's Co-op 1, DellPlain 7, DellPlain 5, and DellPlain 4. Living center fraternity and all-university championships will be settled next Wednesday.

Closed Circuit TV Set For ND Game

Syracuse University has announced that the November 18 football game with Notre Dame will be available to fans via a special closed circuit telecast.

The contest, slated for South Bend, Indiana, will be piped back "live" to the Onondaga War Memorial.

Athletic Director Lew Andreas said that tickets for the game, which will be telecast in its entirety, will be sealed at $2.50 for the public, and at $1.00 for Hill students. There will be no reserved seats.

Andreas said that tickets will go on sale early next week at the Archbold Gym ticket office. Students must present ID cards when purchasing a ticket, and must use both ID cards and tickets for admittance to the telecast in the War Memorial.

Andreas pointed out that the telecast, which has NCAA and Notre Dame sanction, will be produced by the Castleman Chesley Co. of Whitford, Pa. Kickoff time will be 2 p.m. EST.

The Orange athletic director said that special giant screens will be located at center court at the War Memorial auditorium, providing an excellent view from every seat in the arena.

Andreas reiterated that a standard public telecast of the Notre Dame tilt is not possible, according to NCAA regulations, since it would conflict with the weekly NCAA TV package.

Getting back to the more immediate future, the word from the Piety grid camp is that Dick Easley will see action against Pittsburg this Saturday. The team captain, who has been out with a broken hand, will assume his duties at right halfback.

Soggy weather hampered the team's workouts Wednesday, as Coach Ben Schwartzwalder drilled his troops for the tough clash with the Panthers. Saturday's affair will be a real grudge battle, since it was Pitt that snapped the Hillmen's 16-game winning streak last fall with a 10-0 triumph in Archbold Stadium.

THE DATING SEASON

I have recently returned from a tour of 950,000 American colleges where I made a survey of undergraduate dating customs and sold mechanical dogs, and I have tabulated my findings and I am now prepared to tell you the simple secret of successful dating.

The simple secret is simply this: a date is successful when the man knows how to treat the girl.

And how does a girl like to be treated? If you want to know, read and remember these four cardinal rules of dating:

1. A girl likes to be treated with respect.
When you call for your girl, do not drive up in front of the sorority house and yell, "Hey, fat lady!" Get out of your car. Walk respectfully to the door. Knock respectfully. When your girl comes out, tug your forelock and say respectfully, "Good evening, your honor." Then offer her a Marlboro, for what greater respect can you show your girl than to offer Marlboro with its fine flavor and exclusive selectrate filter? It will indicate immediately that you respect her taste, respect her discernment, respect her intelligence. So, good buddies, before going out on a date, always remember to buy some Marlboros, available in soft pack or Bip-top box in all 50 of the United States and also Cleveland.

2. A girl likes a good listener.
Do not monopolize the conversation. Let her talk while you listen attentively. Make sure, however, that she is not herself a good listener. I recollect a date I had once with a good named Greensleeves Sijnofos, a lovely girl, but unfortunately a listener, not a talker. I too was a listener so we just sat all night long, each with his hand cupped over his ear, straining to catch a word, not talking hour after hour until finally a policeman came by and arrested us both for vagrancy. I did a year and a day. She got by with a suspended sentence because she was the sole support of her aged housemother.

3. A girl likes to be taken to nice places.
By "nice" places I do not mean expensive places. A girl does not demand luxury. All she asks is a place that is pleasant and gracious. The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, for example, or Mount Rushmore, or the Taj Mahal, or the Bureau of Weights and Measures. Find places like these to take your girl. In no circumstances must you take her to an oil-cracking plant.

4. A girl likes a man to be well-informed.
Come prepared with a few interesting facts that you can drop casually into the conversation. Like this: "Did you know, Snookiepus, that when cattle, sheep, camels, goats, antelope, and other members of the cud-chewing family get up, they always get up hind legs first?" Or this: "Are you aware, Hoots, that corn grows faster at night?" Or this: "By the way, Leves, Oslo did not become the capital of Norway till July 11, 1024."

If you can slip enough of these nuggets into the conversation before dinner, your date will grow too torpid to eat. So men save up to a half million dollars a year this way.

To the list of things girls like, add the king-size, unfiltered Philip Morris Commander. Girls, men—in fact, everybody with a taste bud in his head—likes mild, natural Commander, co-sponsors with Marlboro of this column.

IFC Convo Changed

The Interfraternity Frosh convocation has been changed from November 5 to November 19, Interfraternity Council President Richard Miller announced Tuesday. The convocation on its new date will be held at 8:30 p.m. in Hinds Halls Chapel.

Miller stated that the reason for the change is that on its previously scheduled date, the convocation would have interfered with the mid-semester examination period and would have been difficult for all concerned to attend.

"Our major concern," Miller stated, "is that we do not for a minute want any of the frosh to think that fraternities will cause any hardship on their studies."

"This is a myth that has been promulgated by nefarious and uninformed individuals who are completely unaware of the extensive programs that all fraternities have in regard to creating academic incentive in all their members. Freshmen and upperclassmen alike," he said.

Panel Concludes All Americans Not 'Ugly Americans'

These rules are necessary to overcome the bad image of the American in foreign countries said Hugo Bianche, Consul of Latin.

Hugo Bianche of Chile said he has found three types of Americans in his country. The first is the embassy officials who do not realize that Latin American countries said have different values than the United States. Bianche said these diplomats are gay people who "know little or nothing" about the country and language, make no attempt to learn, he continued.

A better type is the American big business manager. Bianche said these Americans usually work with "the people of the country and acquire an understanding of their customs and problems."

The last and worst type of American is the tourist, he said. They arrive in a country with a preconceived image of what the country is like, and try to make everything they see fit that image, Bianche declared.

Fatemi based his comments on a quotation "He who knows only his own generation is always a child." He said that similarly, someone who does not know other people can never have the perception and understanding of true maturity.

One reason for the United States' poor image in foreign countries is that it makes great claims it cannot meet in many cases, Fatemi said. Thus, the peoples of other countries lose faith and criticize Americans, he said.

Atomic Survival Series Continues. At Hinds Hall

In the event of an atomic attack, how will a family, living in a small cramped fallout shelter, behave? What are the expected environmental and psychological stresses the family will be put through?

These are two of the questions that will be answered by Edward Murray, SU assistant professor of psychology, when he lectures on "Environmental Stress and Adjustment in Fallout shelters" in Hinds Hall at 4 p.m. Tuesday. Murray's lecture is the fourth of an 11 lecture series dealing with the problems of surviving an atomic blast and the resulting fallout. The series is sponsored by the Hill Civil Engineering Department.

Murray has served as consultant on psychological problems in fallout shelters for the Federal Civil Defense Office. He is also scheduled to appear shortly on "CBS Reports—If War Comes," a public service show on WHEN-TV.

His observations and conclusions about psychological behavior in fallout shelters have been drawn from studies of people during the bombing of cities in World War II and a number of recent experimental studies with groups actually living in shelters.

JSL

Joint Student Government Director of Public Relations Peter Fielding gave two announcements from the government executive board.

The first concerned the establishment of a campus public opinion poll as a vehicle for obtaining campus opinion on any subject deemed necessary by student government. According to Fielding, this will probably be carried out by a committee formed for the sole purpose of gathering student opinion.

Fielding's second announcement described the establishment of a new government training program to replace the present Through the Keyhole and Insight programs. This program will include orientation to all phases of the university and is intended primarily for freshmen and sophomores.

Program Recommended
This program is presently recommended as a prerequisite for all campus activities, including such organizations as Goon Squad and cheerleading. In the future, however, JSG hopes to make it a definite requirement for all activities, Fielding said.

The first meeting of the program is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, in an as yet unannounced room in the Hall of Languages.

The remaining meetings will be held Tuesday, Nov. 14 and Monday, Nov. 20. Students unable to attend scheduled meetings should call Joan Wecker at ext. 2691.

ALAN ANDLER

NANCY WALKER

CHARLES CARTER

Alan Andler, new Class of 1965 vice president, is a resident of Newton, Mass. His campus address is Marion 3. Andler was high school student government parliamentarian, and finance board member. He plans a political science major.

President Douglas Milbray, pictured on page 1, is a Shrewsbury, Mass. and Marion 1 resident. He plans a law career and is a member of the Syracuse freshman crew team.

Nancy Walker, new frosh secretary, is a liberal arts student. She is from Schenectady and is vice president of Nottingham Cottage.

In high school she was drama and pep club secretary. Her party has advocated a 10-15 member executive council, with members chosen solely on merit, and a freshman assembly with representatives from each living center.

Treasurer Charles Carter is a business administration student planning an accounting major. He is from Plainfield, N.J. and a resident of DellPlain 5. In high school, Carter was active in student government.

His party also urges greater freshman unity through cultural, social, athletic and charitable projects.

Until 1870 presses contained no device for folding newspapers as newslays had to fold the papers themselves before starting their routes.

Hillel Holds Contest For Eternal Light

A design competition for an Eternal Light to be affixed to the Holy Ark and Jewish Services in Hillel's Chapel was announced by the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation.

There will be five honor awards of $10 each and a commission of $150 will be given to one of the five honor awards for execution and delivery of design.

Serge Crawshaw, past president of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Advisory Commissions, has donated the prizes in memory of his late wife, Belle Crawshaw.

All interested in the competition should apply to the Hillel Office, Hendricks Chapel. Designs must be submitted to the Hillel Office no later than 5 p.m. Friday, December 15 on one 20 b. 30 drawing board illustrating design and details.

Awards will be made during the week of January 8, and all designs will be exhibited at Hendricks Chapel from January 8 to 19.

The commissioned design will be completed by April 7 for dedication.

The members of the jury for the contest are: Dr. Lawrence Schacter, Director of the School of Art; Jack Schulman, Gloversville, New York; Rabbi Benjamin Friedman, Temple Society of Concord, Syracuse; Rabbi Louis Neimand, Syracuse Hillel Foundation; and Serge Crawshaw.

Entry blanks may be secured from the Hillel Office.

Forester Plans Talk Friday

Dr. William E. Reifsnnyder, associate professor of forest meteorology at Yale University will speak at 2 p.m. Friday in 126 Marshall Hall. Topic of his lecture will be "Current Trends in Forest Fire Research."

Dr. Reifsnnyder is well known in the field of the study of the relationship of meteorology to forest fire control. His visit is sponsored by the National Science Foundation's Visiting Scientists Program.

Colgate Button

ILLUSTRATING THE "LAST HURRAH" theme of Colgate Weekend, these buttons are on sale from sophomore on all over campus until the weekend, Nov. 10, 11, and 12.

Penalty for Fraud: Void Registration

Two students recently had their registration cancelled for misrepresentation of personal facts to university officials.

One of the students, a sophomore, had his registration cancelled because he gave false information regarding his housing status. The other, a junior, was penalized because he was dishonest with a university official.

The difference between cancellation of registration and suspension is that in the former case eligibility to apply to the school for the following semester is automatic, whereas with suspension reapplication of readmission is not.

Because this penalty is automatic, the student court was not called upon to judge these cases, according to Earle Clifford, Dean of Men.

The regulation said Clifford, is that "false and/or misleading statements regarding status or giving false statements to university staff results in cancellation of registration." This rule is found on page 20 of the Orange Guide.

Services Discuss Mixed Marriages

Alpha Sigma Tau sorority is slated to sponsor services at 7 p.m. in Hendricks Chapel, "Interfaith Marriage" is the topic of Rabbi Neirmand's sermon. Student cantor Richard Kohn will be assisted by the Hillel Choir.

Following the service, a discussion based on the theme of the sermon will be held at 8:45 p.m. at the Alpha Sig house, 750 Comstock Ave. All students and faculty are invited to the Oneg Shabbat, which will feature as discussion leaders, Dr. Elizabeth Manwell, associate professor of Family Relations and Child Development, and Dr. Reginald Manwell, professor of zoology.

JSL PETITIONS DUE SATURDAY

All JSL representatives met at Wednesday night's meeting are requested to obtain petitions protesting the execution of the 15-year-old Georgia boy from Helen Miller at Marshall Cottage, 204 Marshall St.

Signed petitions should be returned to Miss Miller before Saturday afternoon.

The petition protests the abolition of the State of Georgia to execute this boy and questions the integrity of the lawyer who failed to file a routine appeal against the court's decision.

Hillel to Present 'Song of Songs'

A dramatic reading of the Biblical book, "The Song of Songs" will be presented at Hillel Sunday.

Prof. Ray Irwin, Chairman of the Dept. of Interpretation, and Mrs. Irwin will be featured in the presentation.

Many different views have been offered as to the meaning of "The Song of Songs." It is known chiefly as a love lyric.

Rabbi Irwin Hyman of Temple Adath Yeshurun will also be on the program and comment on the meaning of "The Song of Songs."

Chorus Honors Ukrainian Hero

The Ukrainian Bandurists Chorus, organized in 1923, will honor the 100th anniversary of the death of the Ukraine's greatest poet, Taras Shevchenko, with a 3:00 p.m. concert, Sunday, November 5, at the Regent Theater.

He will address a Journalism convocation on "The Life of a Columnist." All are invited.

After the lecture, Lyons will be honored at a lunch given by members of the Journalism faculty.

Piety Hosts Pittsburgh In Battle of Eastern Giants

By MILT JOFFE
Junior Editor

"They play the toughest schedule in the country." That's the way veteran Syracuse scout Roy Simmons summed up the Panthers of Pittsburgh this week.

The Orangemen host the Panthers in Archbold Stadium tomorrow with kickoff time set at 1:30 p.m. A sellout crowd in the vicinity of 40,000 is expected.

Simmons, who has been doing the scouting on Pitt, says they're much better than their 2-4 record would indicate. They're the kind of team that could put up a good battle

Pep Squad and Band To Lead Pitt Rally

By ANN CUTLER

The Syracuse University Band, Pep Squad and the Junior Class will combine operations to arouse spirit for this weekend's game with Pittsburgh.

The weekend's activities will begin with a pep rally tonight starting in front of DellPlain at 7:30 p.m.

From DellPlain the rally will follow University Place to Walnut Ave.; go down Walnut to East Adams and then to Walnut Place via East Adams. Arriving at Walnut Place at 7:45 p.m., the rally will cross over, go up Waverly to Comstock and from Comstock to University Place. Marchers will arrive in front of the Main Library at 8:15 p.m.

The rally will be led by the S.U. Band, the cheerleaders and Judy Delp. Living centers along the route are encouraged to participate.

From nine to twelve the Junior Class will give a "twist party" in Watson Lounge. All students are invited.

The party will provide an informal gathering to discuss the future activities of the Junior class, and will initiate a series of class sponsored functions to arouse school spirit.

More than 200 bandmen will participate in the pre-game, half time, and post-time shows for the Pitt game.

As host, the S.U. Band will share the show spots with the visiting Pitt band.

The Syracuse half-time show will be entitled "Say It with Music" and will include popular songs as well as instrument formations, "The Orange Girl", Judy Delp, will be featured in a special "Grand Piano" formation to the tune "I Enjoy Being a Girl". The R.O.T.C. color guard will also participate in the show.

The S.U. Band will also present a short post-game concert for the entertainment of those who wish to stay awhile and avoid the heavy traffic.

ZBT Celebrates 50th Anniversary

All-American football player of the 1911 Hill squad, Dr. A.H. Kallet, will be honored at Zeta Beta Tau fraternity's 50th anniversary celebration this weekend.

The highlight of the weekend is a semi-formal dinner date at the Hotel Syracuse Saturday night.

Arnold Grant, recently elected to the University Board of Trustees, will also be honored. ZBT's national president, Frank Graham, will address the 250 alumni expected for the affair.

Founded in 1911 by eight men, one of whom was Dr. Kallet, the Omicron chapter has moved three times on campus, and is now located at its present site at the corner of Euclid and Ostrom Avenues.

Last Chance For Fix Exchange

According to Football Scouting Commissioner Bill Hyman, people who have not changed their reserve seating stubs for reserve seating tickets will not be admitted to the Pittsburgh game until 1:15 p.m. Saturday.

The ticket booth will be open for exchange from 3:30 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. today in the Men's Gym Trophy Room.

HOLDERS of reserve seating tickets must be in their seats by 1:15 p.m., or their seats will become open to people without reserved tickets.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder is, frankly, pessimistic for tomorrow's contest. The injury jinx is still with him and Pitt has recovered from most of its early-season casualties and is near full physical strength.

Indicative of Pitt's recovery is its 28-14 victory over Navy last week. This win, led by the quarterbacking of Pat Traficant, ended a three-game Pitt losing streak.

Grid Honors

Eastern grid honors could be at stake in tomorrow's game. Certainly, Syracuse win would be a big boost toward the Lambert Trophy.

The biggest thing going for Syracuse will be the return of permanent team captain Dick Easterly. Easterly has been out of action since he suffered a broken hand in the Nebraska game. He will move back into the right halfback spot left vacant again by the loss of Pete Brokaw.

The rest of the Syracuse backfield will remain intact. Ernie Davis, running for Jimmy Brown's rushing and scoring records, will be at left half. Dave Sarette will start at quarterback with Gary Fallon in the fullback slot.

Line Doubtful

The Orange line is still somewhat in doubt, but at latest report it was the same as the line that started the Holy Cross encounter.

Replacement co-captain Bob Stern will be at center. The guards should be Dave Meggysy and George Frankovitch. Dick Feidler and Dave Archer will play the tackle slots with Walt Sweeney and John Mackey at the ends.

Second unit fullback Bill Myers is still in doubtful health for the Pitt game. Sophomore Larry Jones will be in the fullback position with the second unit along with two other sophos, Walt Sorian and Gus Giardi, and junior halfback Don King.

Stuffed Struck

Quarterback Traficant will lead the Pitt attack in hopes of repeating the whitewashing the Panthers handed the Orange last season to snap the national champs' 16-game winning streak.

His backfield consists of Ed Clark and Fred Cox at the halfback positions and Dick Leeson at fullback. Cox, a senior, was letter winner and gainer for Pitt in his sophomore year and was second in rushing last season. He was leading scorer last season with 42 points. Double letter winner Bob Clements should see a lot of action at the halfback slot although he is not a starter.

Five of the Pitt linemen were in the line against the Orange last season when the Panthers stopped the Syracuse attack cold. Outstanding right guard Larry Vignali is a rugged 218-pounder, considered by many the best interior lineman in the East.

A Panel Discussion

Time and again on this campus, ambitious student organizations devote a great deal of time and effort preparing programs and functions of interest to the general campus community, only to be vastly disappointed by an almost complete lack of student support and attendance. Many times guest lecturers, for example, have found themselves speaking to but a handful of students in the likes of Maxwell Auditorium.

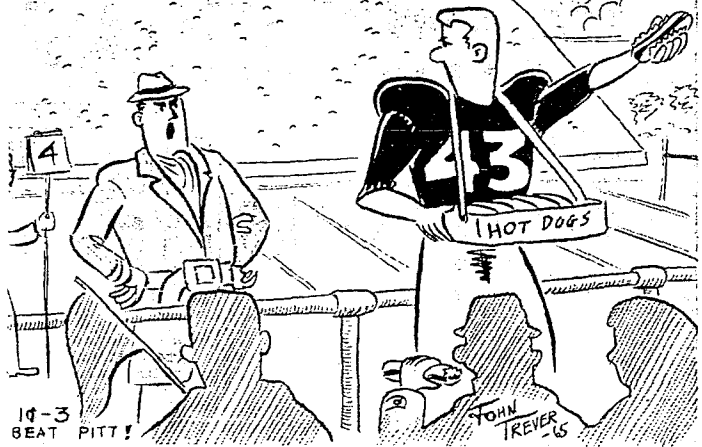

That this was not the case last Wednesday night, when the International Students Organization and the campus political science honorary, Pi Sigma Alpha, presented a panel discussion on the "Ugly American," is an occurrence in itself worthy of note. That the discussion was both stimulating and enlightening, as the near-capacity audience in Maxwell Auditorium can well verify, marks the event as a truly remarkable one for this campus.

The theme of the discussion was "How Ugly is the 'Ugly American?'" Participating on the panel were several international students, a faculty member, and an American student. The audience was almost evenly divided between international and American students.

There was little doubt, at the conclusion of the program, that there are such things as "ugly" Americans, and that, indeed, they are a highly dangerous lot. There was little doubt, further, that these "ugly" Americans are not such intentionally, that they are merely displaying their very obvious lack of knowledge and understanding of people who happen to live, speak and perhaps look a little differently from people to whom they have become accustomed.

There is no telling how many "ugly" Americans became "pretty" Americans as a result of Wednesday's discussion. Probably quite a few. Probably many of the American students who took the trouble to attend the discussion heard for the first time the "foreigner's" point of view; most of them were probably shocked.

The participants and sponsors of the program are to be commended; we look forward to more of the same in the near future.

SU Band Defended Sandburg Speaks Out

To the Editor:

I am writing to you concerning the recent publications in your newspaper criticizing the efforts of the Syracuse University Marching Band. I have observed that several articles have appeared that do gross injustice to the band and its intentions. From the very beginning it has been more than just obvious that the "Orange" is down on the band.

I know that many people who know the real story have written letters to you for publication. I have observed that not one of these letters have found their way into the newspaper. If it is the policy of your newspaper to print only the false and dirt on the ignorant, then congratulations on a job well done!

The present director of the Marching Band comes to you well qualified to do the job. He, with his staff, have given of their untiring efforts to bring you the band you want for the sole purpose of entertaining you and your friends at half-time.

Things were at an all-time low at the beginning of the season. The last director failed upon leaving to contact the incoming freshmen about marching band and there was but a handful of old faithfuls, plus a few freshmen who came at the "last minute" to work with.

Plans are now underway to give Syracuse, in the near future, the best band program it has ever enjoyed. With spirit at an all-time high and an all-out effort being made by everyone concerned I predict that Syracuse will have the best band ever in spite of the efforts of the Daily Orange.

Editor's Note: On this page, from time to time, the Daily Orange will present views and opinions from sources other than the University community. The following is an excerpt from the current issue of "Newsweek" magazine, in which poet-historian Carl Sandburg is quoted on various world personalities.

"Asked if he saw any hope for the world, whether we'd all be blown up, Sandburg replied:

"Khrushchev knows that they lost more than 10 million dead, more than 60 million wounded and crippled . . . And sometimes I think this man of peasant blood . . . can't prove it in any way, but I think he loves people. He's got a sense of humor . . . basically there is a peasant heart there, a something or other that has got him chosen to be a leader. He knows that the next war, if it ever starts, would bring more disaster and death to Russia than the last war. I think that is a factor at all times in his mind." Then he got down to business:

"The chances are that (President Kennedy) is going to rate as one of the great Presidents. He's got an inaugural address that is a poem and a song. Be difficult to frame a better set of words that would lead people toward a spirit of dedication to work and thought about the present world layout.

"He is a great relief from the press conference of Dwight David Eisenhower, who was the most ungrammatical President we have ever had. Shooting off about the Youth Corps here it's begun to have a trial! (Eisenhower) says it's no use. It isn't good sportsmanship. . . With him, the words socialist and socialism are dirty words, very nearly as dirty as welfare state.

"But ever since he left the creamery in Abilene, Kansas, he's never been out of work, never bought a suit, never paid a doctor's bill . . . all the anxieties that go with a man in a free-enterprise system. He has not known them. He has lived in a welfare state ever since he left the creamery in Abilene and went to West Point."

An SU Swinger: A Play

By KENT L. BARWICK

With the approach of the heavy Fall social season, where the Hawaiian Punch flows like Milk of Magnesia, a perennial problem rears its ugly head: where to get a last minute date? In a desperate effort to help dem do it needs it, and to fill space, we present this short morality play set in the sweltering sinus that is springtime in Syracuse.

Scene one: The Sissy Delt Frat Hall.

Gathered for a typical afternoon's frolic are the myopic brothers. The sophomores sit relaxed in the cool of the cellar unmercifully beating in the plectrum, being careful not to get blood on their polished tennis sneakers. The more studious fraters pour over the test files for the marriage exam, while their more ambitious comrades forge literary exercises.

The housemother sits content in front of her TV set among her many bright prizes counting the day's receipts; the house treasurer contemplates suicide as he realizes that unless someone opens the house's Cashmere Chest and the housemother give the house a rebate the brotherhood cannot hold its annual big Sissy Delt Ball at the Hotel Mizpah, for indeed, the coffers are near empty of Raleigh coupons.

Apart from the happy throng, alas, sits one heart-breaker solo, Renosol Creatura. Renosol is not allowed to sit on the front porch or even to use the front door, for poor Renosol has no madras (bleeding or otherwise), no Princeton haircut, no white sneakers, no Man-Tan, no Imperial or Bonville.

In short, Renosol has no personality. What Renosol does have, though, is a 2.7 average and a fraternal love to help his brothers in a pinch. And the pinch is daily, in fact at this moment he is compiling a paper on "Social Strata at the Dutch Haven" for brother Pitts who is out shooting woodchuck with a 30-30.

But it is not his ostracized position that tears at his very heart. It is his secret yearning for Delta Phee, the chic Tri-Alpha who stood next to him in line at Food Service three years ago and who makes his long days writing crib sheets somehow shorter and gayer just by the thought of her flaxen hair, her roman nose, her sophisticated lips, her Casual Miss costumes and her bejeweled circle pin.

"Fahaw!" thought Renosol. "I have been afraid to call Della for three years. I won't miss my chance this year. I'll invite chic Della to the Big Sissy Delt Ball."

After knowing a dime from a housemother, Renosol in a burst of courage called the Tri-Alpha sorority. "Hello. Alpha Alpha Alpha sorority house, a sryppy voice answered, "who's calling please?"

"It-I-I's Rrennosol Creatura. Iiss De-della Phee th-ther?"

"Why this is Della Phee," the heavenly voice answered. "Hello Renny." (Renosol's thyroid breaks as he tears the phone-book in half.) "How have you been? I haven't seen you in so long."

Renosol, heartened by her show of affection, blood stirring inside of him, says boldly: "Della, will you go to the gala Sissy Delt Ball with me next weekend. It will be great . . . we're giving out lemon rings as favors and . . ."

"Of course I will," sighed Della passionately, "I have always admired you from afar and hoped that someday you would ask me out. Ohhhhh, it will be just wonderful."

Renosol was a new man. He tightened his chest, he pulled the sleep from his eyes, he brushed the dandruff off his outgrown confirmation suit, and became a "bon vivant" in his attitude towards Della. "Good, then I'll pick up at eight. Be ready my sweet. Bye now."

Scene two: Tri-Alpha House. The house is garlanded with roses and spies from the Dean of Women's office as Renosol approaches in his rented Impala. He rings the bell of the house that will soon deliver up his queen — the only girl on campus worthy of Renosol — no, Renny — Creatura.

The door opens and Renny beams: Della, my love!"

"Eeekkk!" Della screams, "Are you Renny?"
"Comstarch, hustler. I wouldn't go out with you if you were the last guy on earth. You are a tool," she sneers, as she slams the door.

Movies Concerns

FIRST RUN THEATERS

RIVIERA-CINEMA—The Lu Lu in "Weekend with Lulu" turns out to be a trailer that the fisher feels is better than the wack about his making whoopee. He brings his girl, his mother, and a friend, and all plan on a swinging weekend. We plan on a funny film either way; the pictures end up in France that looks more like England with hurriedly put up French posters, and we end up bored. With it in "Hans in Hand." Here a Jewish and Catholic kid visit each other's places of worship. They forgive each other's differences of worship, admitting that He's the same God. Trailer at 6:45 and 9:25 p.m.; God's children at 8:15 p.m.

LOWES—Another French movie in the suspense tradition of "Diabolique." "Purple Noon" is all about murder committed behind closed doors—none of that slug 'em in the dark alley business. We'd rather see it in the undubbed version (stop moving your mouth when there's no sound, but some suspicion is better than nothing. Noon at 6:12 and 9:30 p.m.

PARAMOUNT—Susan Hayward should be still crying for tomorrow because she's old enough to be John Gavin's mother and here they are playing around on some "Backstreet." Even the fabulous costumes in every scene she should have stayed in the dressing room to prove that clothes don't make the script. John Gavin is handsome but he can't do much with his role since his wardrobe is limited to a black business suit. Vera Miles is long suffering as the alcoholic wife (who wouldn't drink with a role like this), and turns in the best performance in the film. Made for housewives and little old ladies with time on their hands, it should mean lots of money for producer Ross Hunter and many missed meals for Syracuse husbands. Soap opera at 5:51, 7:53 and 9:55 p.m.

KEITH'S—Figure this progression out math fans. "One Plus One" leaves the Keith's and "Two Plus Two" comes in. This one pretends to be neither factual nor accurate. It's cut and dried sex and sadism with TWO beautiful victims instead of one. The same bit, the scenes are low cut, the skirts are pulled above the knees so at least some people won't fall asleep. But don't count on it. Arithmetic at 8:15 and 10:15 P.

ECKEL—We crawl behind the Brandenburg Gate in "Question 7" to get the real truth about East Germany. It seems they are persecuting the church, indoctrinating the youth and generally making things tough all over. This, of course, hinders a local priest and his talented and musically ambitious son, in "The Devil at 4 O'Clock" is a striking spectacle according to the New York Daily News—but even that paragon of journalistic integrity can be wrong now and then. This really misses the mark. All about a priest on an island with some kids who need to be rescued from the side of an erupting volcano. Frank Sinatra—our hero—comes to the rescue and gets blown up for his trouble proving that old crooners never die they just get their way into oblivion.

Eruption at 7:20 and 9:44 p.m.

NEIGHBORHOOD THEATERS

HOLLYWOOD—IBM must be static—the viewers may not be—but about this movie which shows what progress can do. There was a time when people used their brains to try and outwit the gambling casinos at Monte Carlo—nowadays they use IBM machines but unfortunately the results aren't much better. "Please Turn Over" is an English comedy for those who like them—it's pretty good. No times available.

MIDTOWN—"The Wild One" is one of the early Marlon Brando pictures and one of his best. All about motorcycle delinquents in black leather jackets and what they find to do with all their time. A powerful look at youth. "A Private's Affair" is the other feature. No times available.

FRANKLIN—Efrom Zimbalist Jr. is good looking. Lana Turner is still beautiful (we wish she would tell us what she uses to escape the ravages of time) but those are the only attributes "By Love Possessed" has. Taking James Gould Cozzens powerful novel of morality in New England and turning it into a makeshift, maudlin, mushy soap opera is enough to make anyone who read the novel mad—and with good reason. "The Great Imposter" has Tony Curtis playing someone who is supposed to be Fred Demara, real life imposter, but ends up vaguely resembling Tony Curtis. Love at 9:20 p.m., Masquarade at 7:15 p.m.

WESCO—Inerman Bergman says all his current films are mere aperitifs prior to his more meaningful and serious efforts. Well, a walk to the Westcot to see "The Seventh Seal" will prove, to us uninitiated Americans, that Bergman is still hard liquor, worthy of seeing again and again. "Smiles of a Summer" is a wacky Bergman comedy. No times available.

PALACE—"The Tit and Pendulum" should be retitled a "Study in Facial Contortions by Vincent Price." This horror film veteran twitches, grimaces and overacts his way through the papier-mache sets with all the vigor of a man who knows where his next pay check is coming from—it will probably be "Return to the Pit and Pendulum"—heaven forbid. That John Kerr, the hero of "South Pacific," should have sunk as low as to appear in this movie, which bears little relationship to Poe's great story except in title, is one more example of money over mind. They should have left him under the pendulum. The second feature "Anatomy of a Psycho" is the kind that makes the viewer want to get up and have a long (2 hour) drink of water and a cigarette. Pit at 7 p.m. Friday; 9:30 p.m. Saturday. Psycho at 8:25 Friday; 8 p.m., Saturday.

RALLET—Genesee—Cinema- scope and color add little to "Pit and the Pendulum" which is a horror film. It is at the Palace, Vincent Price, in hues ranging from red, green and purple, would do better to have a touch of black and white instead. "Anatomy of a Psycho" is one long yawn and unimpressed giggles—it's supposed to be dramatic but no one told the producers, actors or script writers. Color at 6:45 and 9:30 p.m.; Anatomy at 8:30 p.m.

DRIVE-INS
LAKESHORE—"The Honey-moon Machine" tries to prove that Steve McQueen can turn straight the way a bounty hunter on television (remember) and play a comedy role. Abley assisted by an IBM-machine—how else do you figure the odds to break the bank at Monte Carlo—McQueen comes out second best. Another television retreat David Janssen plays around with a "Ring of Fire" Machine at 8:15 and 10:35 p.m.; Fire at 9 p.m.

DRAMA

SYRACUSE LITTLE THEATER
The Syracuse Little Theater presents Tennessee Williams' prize-winning play "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," 8:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday, University Regent Theater.

CONCERTS—Sigma Alpha Iota, women's professional music fraternity, presents a musical program, 4 p.m., Sunday, Crouse Auditorium.

Hill Harriers Seek Third Win

By ALLAN KORT

Syracuse University's cross-country squad will be out to snap a two-meet losing skid Saturday as they take on Fordham and Villanova at Van Cortlandt Park, New York City.

The Orange harriers, with a 2-2 record, were handed a 26-31 loss by Cornell Saturday at Drumlins, and were toppled 26-32 the previous week by Army at West Point.

An overall win by the Orange-men Saturday would give them a final dual meet record of 4-2, as they will be running separate dual meets consecutively against the Rams and the Wildcats.

Depends on Francello

Coach Bob Grieve will be depending on Captain Joe Francello to pace the Orange squad over the five mile course. "Our team has improved rapidly," Grieve said, "and if some of our potential winners get into shape, we will have a good team."

Looking forward to the five-mile ICA cross-country meet in New York City Nov. 20, Grieve said that Syracuse will do well if runners like sophomore Bob Brown can realize their potential.

Opponents Formidable

But before the ICA comes Saturday's test against Fordham and Villanova. Both teams are riding high on 4-2 records and are expected to be more formidable opponents than the Orange's two dual meet victims, Colgate and Buffalo.

Capt. Francello, who has captured eight firsts in nine dual meets, suffered his only personal defeat at the hands of Cornell's Steve Machooka Saturday at Drumlins. He is expected to have little trouble in finishing ahead of Fordham's top runner, Norbert Sander and Villanova's record-breaker, Paul Zowlak.

Running behind Francello on the Orange squad will be Maurice Ferguson, Mike Guzman, Jack Dailey, Mike McGuire, Steve Killoran, Bob Brown, Dick McHenry, and Dwight Rogers.

"We shouldn't have much of a disadvantage on the Fordham course," Grieve said, "because it is very similar to the setup we have at Drumlins."

The Syracuse frosh squad will be idle this week, having finished their dual meet schedule with a 1-2-1 record. Grieve expects to take his three top frosh runners,

Tom Higgins, Cal Evans, and Tom Driscoll to the frosh ICA, which will precede the varsity nationals.

(Editor's note: This is another in a series of feature articles about members of this year's Syracuse varsity football team.)

By DAN GARR

Filling the shoes of an established star is not an easy task and Gary Fallon knows this only too well. For two years he played in the shadow of Art Baker and it is only now that the 6-1, 210 lb. fullback has the chance to show his wares as a starter in the Orange backfield.

The solidly-built senior from Watertown, N.Y., has left no doubts in the minds of Piety followers that the void that remained after Baker's graduation is being filled by a hard-charging, ball-hawking athlete. And statistics prove this.

Gary is second to Ernie Davis in team rushing with 180 yards in 39 carries - good for a 4.6 average. On defense, he is an agile and feared linebacker, sometimes red-dogging, sometimes dropping back on passes.

Versatility

Fallon's versatility makes him a valued asset on any football club. He's a fine blocker, he runs hard-nosed defensive game leaves little to be desired.

Winning two letters, Gary saw limited action as a sophomore. Last year, however, he was a more than adequate substitute and saw action at halfback in addition to spelling Baker in the fullback slot. Although his appearances were brief, they did not fail to impress. Fallon cracked opposing lines for 191 yards; more important, his average carry was a gaudy 8.7 yards.

The high point of his career came against Miami late last season. Gary ripped off two long-gainers against the hurricanes as Bill Orange triumphed 21-14. This performance earned him a top rating with the Syracuse coaching staff. It is believed that Fallon's great potential should enable him to steal the spotlight from more touted performers as the campaign progresses.

His ball-hawking skills on the gridiron today are not at all surprising when one considers that he was a shifty guard on the basketball team. And, naturally, he achieved his greatest fame taking the pigskin as a high-scoring, hard-running halfback.

With three touchdowns in two games this season and 23 during his varsity career, Syracuse All-America halfback Ernie Davis needs just three more TDs to top Jim Brown's Orange career record of 25 scores.

Pitt Eleven Healthy For Orange Contest

By DAVE DEAN

A pair of physically battered football teams, both well on the way to recovery, meet in Archbold Stadium Saturday in the Orange's grudge contest of the year.

Pittsburgh, which brings a 2-4 record to the Hill this weekend, was the team which ended the long Hill win streak last fall and provided the only loss for the Syracuseans in their last 17 home appearances.

The Panthers, who snapped a four-game losing skein last weekend with a 29-14 win over Navy, are at nearly full strength for the first time in a month.

Like Syracuse, Pittsburgh regained a healthy veteran quarterback for last Saturday's game. Jim Traficant, junior signal-caller, had been sidelined earlier in the campaign and was ineffective during the losing streak.

Traficant led his team last season in passing with 407 yards on 29 completions in 57 attempts; this season he is the current leader with 16 for 43 and 152 yards. Traficant is also tied for team leadership in scoring with 18 points.

Sophomore quarterback Paul Martha, now a second-stringer, has the top rushing average for the Panthers, gaining 135 yards in 19 carries for a 8.2 yard per carry mark.

Another sophomore, fullback Rick Lessner, is the leading ground gainer for the team with 250 yards in 58 attempts.

Another threat of the Pitt team is the possibility of the halfback pass play. Sophomore Bob Roeder, who passed for a TD last weekend, and Ed Clark, are both transplanted quarterbacks who know how to pass.

The Pittsburgh injury list, now practically non-existent, has included up to four starters. Of these only right end Heywood Haser remains a doubtful starter Saturday.

Returning Saturday

First-string tackle Bob Guzik and guard Regis Coustlin are expected to add their bulk to the Pitt starting lineup after missing the Navy contest. Halfback Bob Clemens, who saw limited action against the Michiganmen, will be ready for the Orange; he led Pitt in rushing last season.

Fred Cox, senior right halfback, is the top pass-receiver on the team with 10 catches for 113 yards.

Cox also has a 35.9 yard per kick punting average, and has been successful in six of eight extra-point kicks and two of three field goal tries.

Hill Harriers Seek Third Win

By ALLAN KORT
Syracuse University's cross-country squad will be out to snap a two-meet losing skid Saturday as they take on Fordham and Villanova at Van Cortlandt Park, New York City.

The Orange harriers, with a 2-2 record, were handed a 26-31 loss by Cornell Saturday at Drumlins, and were toppled 26-32 the previous week by Army at West Point.

An overall win by the Orange-men Saturday would give them a final dual meet record of 4-2, as they will be running separate dual meets consecutively against the Rams and the Wildcats.

Depends on Francello
Coach Bob Grieve will be depending on Captain Joe Francello to pace the Orange squad over the five mile course. "Our team has improved rapidly," Grieve said, "and if some of our potential winners get into shape, we will have a good team."

Looking forward to the five-mile ICA cross-country meet in New York City Nov. 20, Grieve said that Syracuse will do well if runners like running sophomore Bob Brown can realize their potential.

Opponents Formidable
But before the ICA comes Saturday's test against Fordham and Villanova. Both teams are riding high on 4-2 records and are expected to be more formidable opponents than the Orange's two dual meet victims, Colgate and Buffalo.

Capt. Francello, who has captured eight firsts in nine dual meets, suffered his only personal defeat at the hands of Cornell's Steve Machooka Saturday at Drumlins. He is expected to have little trouble in finishing ahead of Fordham's top runner, Norbert Sander and Villanova's record-breaker, Paul Zowlak.

Running behind Francello on the Orange squad will be Moun-cie Ferguson, Mike Guzman, Jack Dailey, Mike McGuire, Steve Killoran, Bob Brown, Dick McHenry, and Dwight Rogers.
"We shouldn't have much of a disadvantage on the Fordham course," Grieve said, "because it is very similar to the setup we have at Drumlins."
The Syracuse frosh squad will be idle this week, having finished their dual meet schedule with a 1-2-1 record. Grieve expects to take his three top frosh runners,

Tom Higgins, Cal Evans, and Tom Driscoll to the frosh ICA, which will precede the varsity nationals.

MIRBACH'S, pr. n. (Mecher-box), fine old German name; also the oldest and finest German style restaurant in Central New York. Reputation unexcelled for German cooking and atmosphere.
 Outstanding for such dishes as sauerbraten, haseenfleter, wienor schnitzel, and smorgasbord platter.

Pardon us Webster, Noah, that it, but Mirbach's is a name that should be remembered and pasted in your hat or your dictionary. You see, it's just that the Mirbach family has been serving their schnitzel at the same spot, 419 Butternut, since 1922 and they just can't be beat.

Ach, du Lieber you'd think you were in good old Germany!-their menu is so complete.

And to go along with their true European style cooking, Mirbach's has not forgotten to include that famous product of Der Vaterland that you can order on tap. Direct from Deutschland, it's just the thing to whet your appetite. What more could you ask?

Especially when you're looking for the perfect spot to celebrate our revenge over the Panther. Incidentally, it actually looks like we might see a struggle in Archbol' with our fellas coming around the way they should and the Pitt team acting up as well.

Getting back to Mirbach's, they also put together a pretty fair American menu featuring duck and seafood, if you prefer.
 Well, anyway, anyway you like your food, Mirbach's is well worth a try." Its recommended by Duncan Hines and now we add the TGIF seal of approval.
 Ah-hem. Seriously try Mirbach's
 once and enjoy a fine meal.
 You'll be glad.

News Analysis

Frosh Election In Retrospect

It was a banner day for freshmen last Wednesday.

The upperclassmen were out in the cold as four freshman-nominated, freshman-supported candidates shellacked the grand old United Students and Campus Alliance Parties.

The Reformed Independent Party landslide leaves two questions to be asked: What magic ingredient did the freshman party have that the US and CAP lacked? What are the prospects for the two senior parties, specifically in next spring's elections?

A Advantages
RIP had three factors in its corner, novel issues and the freshmen themselves.

US and CAP were preparing for a routine election when suddenly a well-organized, purposeful new party came on the scene. It was a group that took gleefully to the task of changing the old order and making upperclass politics more uncomfortable than they have been in some time.

RIP's revolutionary nature was undoubtedly a great source of appeal to freshman voters.

For a change there were issues at stake this fall, even if they concerned the parties themselves, and not any goals the Class of 1965 might have.

The freshmen accused US and CAP of planning to "influence" office holders. This accusation was hotly denied by both parties, but whatever the truth in the charge, it cast doubts about US and CAP candidates because they had chosen to affiliate themselves with groups that possibly could be guilty of such signs.

Besides the influence issue, prejudice was in the spotlight. US tried the long-used practice of "balancing" its ticket and the freshmen again revolted. The evidence was pretty damning that US had tried to bring in votes by nominating a girl on the basis of her religious qualification as well as her merit.

The voters had two red-hot issues to mull over.

On the ballot was a reform-bent party promising to do away with all unsavory practices.

The clincher was the fact that the pioneers of purity were freshmen, just like the voters.

Cash and know-how did US and CAP little good. RIP had it in the bag.

The freshman victory was a real blow to US President Ellis Gaskell.

He has a reputation as one of the slickest politicians to hit the Hill, having completed two successful years of campaigning.

If Gaskell had resigned as he said he wanted to early in the year, his record would have been intact. Now he has to stick it out.

SU-NSA Re-affiliation Under Consideration

By AUDREY LIPPMAN

The question of re-affiliation of Syracuse University with the United States National Students Association is being considered by the Joint Student Legislature Committee on Local and National Affairs.

Syracuse was last affiliated with the NSA in 1956. Syracuse University is not presently affiliated with the NSA because of the high cost of membership.

There are several similar national student associations throughout the world whose function is to form a bond among students at various institutions of higher learning and to serve as a source of exchange of student information and opinion through publications and regional and national meetings.

Twenty-five American students attended the World Student Congress of 1946 in Prague. Although they represented 10 universities and nine student and youth organizations, they were not able to participate as official delegates because the United States had no national student organization.

The 25 students succeeded in gathering 750 delegates from schools and youth organizations at the University of Chicago in December, 1946. In August, 1947, the United States National Student Association was formed at the University of Wisconsin.

The supreme legislative body of NSA is the National Student Congress. Its main function is to determine the policies and programs of the association for the coming year and to elect the national officers.

The National Student Congress also provides workshops on over 70 types of student activities that range from student honor systems to international student exchange.

The two vice-presidents of national affairs and international affairs share responsibility for research, action, and programming. The two vice-presidents travel to member and non-member campuses to assist and advise local student governments and student organizations.

Several recent activities of the NSA are:

1. The student responsibility project, which conducts studies and conferences concerning the responsibility a student has to himself, his school and his community;
2. Student government information service, which supplies complete sets of files on all phases of student life;
3. National intercollegiate human relations workshops to improve human relations in the North;
4. A Southern student project (Continued on Page 6).

George Cressey Leaves Tuesday On Antarctic Tour

Geography Professor Invited To Visit South Pole Area

Dr. George B. Cressey, Maxwell Professor of Geography at Syracuse University, is scheduled to leave Tuesday for a tour of the Antarctic. He has been invited to the South Pole by Admiral David M. Tyree, of the U.S. Antarctic Service.

Admiral Tyree said in a letter to Dr. Cressey that the invitation had been extended for the "interest in matters of national prestige, international good will and understanding of our work being done by the United States in Antarctica."

This will be the sixth continent visited by the widely traveled geographer, who has many fields of study in Asia. He is frequently referred to as the "Dean of Asian Studies."

Although Dr. Cressey is best known for his extensive work in Asia, he has long been concerned with both polar areas and has visited several Soviet Arctic Stations in northern Siberia. This trip to the South Pole will enable Dr. Cressey to compare conditions at the opposite ends of the world.

While he is at the Pole, Dr. Cressey hopes to be able to establish short wave radio contact with Syracuse University and give a lecture on ice conditions at Little America.

Since World War I, when he first flew in a wooden and canvas bi-plane, Dr. Cressey has logged millions of air miles and has been in the air a total of 2,250 hours or more than three months. This present trip to the Antarctic will add 25,000 miles and about 36 hours.

DA Has Program For Law Students

Students in the SU College of Law now have the opportunity to gain practical experience in criminal cases, Onondaga County District Attorney Joseph A. Ryan recently announced.

The program, developed with the cooperation of Ralph E. Kharas, Dean of the College of Law, three law students will work in the District Attorney's office as law clerks.

According to Assistant DA Earl J. Boyle, 22 law school juniors have registered for the program already, with another six expected by the end of the school year.

One student is now participating in the program, with another student scheduled to join him next week and another student set to participate in the following week.

Under the program, a student with three weeks' experience will be dropped from the program and another will be added.

The students will aid in preparation of cases which will be presented before the grand jury, and will interview witnesses and help in other work, said Ryan.

Kaye TV Show Set

Joint Student Court Procedures Now Clarified For SU Students

By MELANIE COHN

Joint Student Court was officially organized in May, 1954 to act as a review board for the university, not as a policy-making body as some SU students frequently conceive.

Before 1954, the SU judicial body consisted of a separate men's and women's court. The present court is one body composed of both groups.

The recent Pinebrook Resolution gave JSC complete authority over all disciplinary cases except those concerning expulsion and suspension. The court can give recommendations, though, on any cases which the University administration reviews.

JSC follows a standard procedure determining students' penalties. To start the procedure, the Dean of Men sends accounts of the case and the student's file to the Court for a review. After all facts of the case have been reviewed, the student is notified to appear before the Court.

Court is held in a very informal setting with no faculty members sitting in. The student is allowed to give his version of the story to the Court Justices. When he has finished, the Justices may ask questions after which the student is dismissed.

When the student leaves, JSC goes over the case and reaches a decision on the penalty. If this decision is not unanimous, a vote it taken. The decision is then turned over to the Dean of Men, or given directly to the student depending on the nature of the case.

Although JSC has received more power, revision is still needed in procedure. Much jurisdiction is unclear and JSC is in the process of deciding what cases will come to Court and what notification the Court will receive.

Election Day

Tomorrow is election day for the citizens of the city of Syracuse, and although of course it is far more important, in at least one way it is very similar to the election day the campus experienced last week.

The voters in the campus election, it will be remembered, were faced with a choice between two parties, which were solidly entrenched in the campus scene, and a new, reformed, independent party. The old parties had "experience" behind them; the new party had spirit and idealism on its side.

In the city, similarly, the voters are faced with a like choice. On one hand, there is a party with more so-called "experience" than it knows what to do with, while on the other hand there is a party with spirit, vitality, and independence very like the frosh. All this party requests is the opportunity to acquire some "experience" of its own.

William Walsh, the Republican candidate for Mayor of Syracuse, is no doubt an able and dedicated man. And, under ordinary circumstances, he could probably serve the city well as mayor. He is not running, however, under ordinary circumstances. He is a boss-nominated, boss-controlled candidate, who, if elected, would certainly be a boss-dominated mayor. Independence of thought and action would be impossible for a Republican mayor in a town so politically dominated by powerful Republicans as is Syracuse.

The Democratic candidate, Henry Norman, on the other hand, owes his nomination and allegiance only to the people of the city he wishes to lead. Like his Republican opponent, Norman is also without question a highly capable and dedicated public servant. But unlike his Republican opponent, in office, independence of thought and action would not only be a possibility, we believe, but a reality.

The freshman voters last Wednesday overwhelmingly chose the reformed, independent ticket; we ardently urge the city's voters to do the same tomorrow.

AS SEEWALD SEES IT

On Drives And Drivers

By BOB SEEWALD

There are not too many things I plan for well in advance, but Thanksgiving is coming up soon and I'm already itching to hit the open road.

There's nothing quite like leaving the myriad of traffic lights which engulf Syracuse and doing a little non-stop travelling. For we certainly stop often enough on the street corners of this town.

Before confronting the typewriter the other night I drove downtown and since I was in a hurry I noticed the startling lack of coordination between most traffic lights. Instead of working in harmonious synchronization, they seemed to be fighting each other—or more correctly, they seemed to be fighting me as I strove to maintain in my split-second schedule.

When I stopped at one red light, the signal at the next block turned green. Shrewd calculations told me that I could make that next light if I took off at the proper signal at a 60 m.p.h. clip, or I could roll along at 5 m.p.h., to evade the temporary barrier to progress. Since I prefer to avoid erratic behavior while I'm behind the steering wheel, however, I took neither course of action. Instead I proceeded at a normal speed and then hit the brake pedal again.

With a few happy exceptions, I encountered such situations all along the route. And of course, the ride back up to the Hill along University Avenue saw me stopped for four lights in five blocks. Two other blocks provided a variation; they had stop signs with which even the game of chance can't be played, for they're permanent red lights.

So I think again of hitting the open road—and this is no plug for Ray Charles and his evictor.

Last year at Thanksgiving I was, though, I almost lost my lust for highway travel. Finally free of the binding local traffic regulations, the only obstacle to progress I encountered on the Thruway was the old man who was plowing along at about a 50 m.p.h. pace in the left lane.

I remember other drivers ahead of me were trying to move him over to the right, but they could pass him, but to no avail. They finally gave up trying to do it the correct way and so proceeded to pass him in the right.

Then it was my turn to enter the roller derby. After dutifully trying to move him over, I started to pass him on the right. I saw him as he leaned intently over the steering wheel, eyes intent on the road ahead. Both hands seemed tightly bound to the wheel, eyes never to focus on the valuable rear-view mirror.

Then he made his move. He decided to move to the right, and since he just flicked his directional signal on, he surely must have assumed that he was safe in pulling over. Meanwhile, he was just peering at the road ahead.

This action certainly necessitates some kind of counteraction, and some noise from the horn—which merely seemed to startle him—a little pressure on the brake and a slight shove in the forward course of my vehicle averted disillusion-

Readers Cite Personal Views Ugly Americans

To the Editor: After listening to the stimulating panel discussion on "How Ugly is the Ugly American?" I feel it is my duty as a friend of the Americans to help them in hunting the "ugly American." To me, it appears that the ugliest American is the American newspaperman.

He presents to the public only partial truth or distorted truth but rarely the whole truth. For example, the American newspapers always printed in bold letters on front pages the news of American planes being high-jacked to Cuba. But they never told the people that a Cuban boat and a Cuban plane were highjacked to the U.S. Only the New York "Times" carried the news in a corner in about five or six lines on the 30th page to which no average American has the patience to get to.

If the newspaperman had not distorted the truth, the average American would not have lost his temper against Cuba and the American Congressmen would not have behaved childishly in shouting at the President: "Go and get the plane!"

Imagine what will happen if a powerful nation like the U.S. goes to war against another country in a moment of righteous indignation which is based on false information. "There is," as Goethe said, "a very terrible sight than ignorance in action." Therefore, the ugliest American in my view is the American newspaperman who is the cause of international misunderstanding— heaven forbid he does not plunge us by his ugly tricks into a third world war.

Conservative View

To the Editor: In reply to Mr. Laurence C. Smith's letter of November 2—no, he is not "just an old fuddy-duddy." At least he is not in my opinion. I believe that Mr. Smith presented his views, which are more widely spread than the DO would have us believe, very well. Perhaps this feeling will label me a "young fuddy-duddy," but I really couldn't care.

Very often the campus newspaper is composed of the few liberal elements on a conservative campus. Only through "letters to the editor" oftentimes can the conservative view be expressed. This is most unfortunate, but having been an undergraduate student at another school, I have seen it happen before. . . .

For the present, however, I am afraid that students generally are both ignorant of the true world situation and very indifferent to it at the same time. Those who do take a view too often become extreme in their position. And this extreme, either conservative or liberal, can only confuse the situation and perhaps endanger it. A moderate, considerate viewpoint is too often lost in the onslaught of wild charges and wilder replies. Action without moderation, can be effective. But patience and understanding must also be employed, and this seems to be too much to ask of people "who are doing something." . . . I thank Mr. Smith for his letter. . . .

A GOP Reply

To the Editor: The so-called "glamour" of the Kennedy Administration evidently has made columnist Alan Millstein give a "knee-jerk" endorsement of the local Democratic candidates, particularly one Henry Norman.

As a resident of Syracuse—Millstein is only a transient—may I point out to him that there are a few issues—aside from Mr. Norman himself—why he is not worthy of consideration.

1. Norman's stand on the revision of the County Charter is short-sighted and infantile. He is trying to play the county residents against the citizens of Syracuse when we are desperately in need of more metropolitanism in government for Onondaga County. The revised charter is but a step in that direction, but Norman is "against it."

2. One of our chief needs as a nation, a state and a county is for water. Norman is against the use of Lake Ontario for a county source because he is certain that there is enough water in Skaneateles Lake for Syracuse. Is the city an island?

3. Norman has not shown any ability as an administrator. After all, does a ward supervisor administer? Mr. Walsh, as county welfare commissioner, has shown this ability well in his relief program.

TV Seen Lacking In Showmanship

By JAN GRIFFIN

Anyone who saw the Ernie Kovacs special on October 28 may have wondered just what was going on. There were a lot of disjointed scenes of the strange and wonderful and, incidentally, the entertaining. Viewers of this show were witnessing a rare appearance of showmanship in broadcasting.

By showmanship, I refer to the efficient use of the television medium for the purpose of capturing and keeping an audience. Ernie Kovacs is more than a comedian, he is a showman. He does not have to tell you laugh hysterically to entertain you. His little scenes, combining Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and a poker game, and other such nonsense produce may be new to Kovacs. He puts together more than a good show. He presents HIS good show. It bears the unmistakable stamp of one man's talent.

This is what is missing in so much of television today. This is why so many of the shows all seem alike. There is no need for the material that can be used, but it takes showmanship to make it worthwhile. Classical music was never considered good material for television, because there was nothing to see. Then along came Leonard Bernstein, and voila! He put on a show with the music, and there was an audience for it. Shows dealing with scientific concepts never got off the ground until the Bell Telephone series added some imagination and drew raves.

Adding some spice and interest to difficult subjects is not commensurate with the high level of the material. Professors know the value of showmanship in the lecture hall, or the crossword puzzle and sleep will steal the audience. The Maxwell School has quite a few good showmen. They realize they can't force feed the students, so they make it nicer to swallow. The same idea applies to television, where program ideas have been replaced for the most part by program formats. A lot could be done with a few more Kovacs' and Serlings and Hitchcocks. Their success is not just from having a good show, but from having a distinctive, personal show.

Borge to Give Concert Friday

Victor Borge, well-known pianist-comedian, will present a concert on the eve of the Colgate-Syracuse game at 8:30 p.m., Friday at the War Memorial.

Called the "funniest entertainer in the world" by the New York Times critic Brook Atkinson, Borge is making a return appearance here. He last appeared in Syracuse two years ago and played to enthusiastic audiences.

No previews of the program Borge will present are available because no one but Borge knows what the program will consist of until it is presented—and he often doesn't know until he does the material.

Tickets are available from Famous Artists in the Clark Music Building. Prices are $4.80, $4, $3.60, $3 and $2.40.

Roger Wagner Chorale to Give Concert Tuesday

Tickets are still available for the Roger Wagner Chorale which will present a concert at 8:20 p.m., Tuesday at Lincoln Auditorium. This is one of the attractions in the present Civic Morning Musicals series.

Called a chorale "second to none in the world" by conductor Leopold Stokowski, the group received a "Grammy" the recording industry's equivalent of an oscar, for its album "Virtuoso."

The Chorale has made five tours of the United States and Canada. Last season under the President's Special International Program, the group visited 10 South American countries and nine Central American and Caribbean countries.

Their performances range from classical music to popular standards. Tickets are $3.75, $3.50 and $3, and are available at the University Book Store and from Civic Morning Musicals in the Clark Music Building, HA 2-8915.

Players Attempt To Revive Soccer As Varsity Sport

SU Club Sets Slate Of Games, Owns Win Over Utica

By BILL CRONAUER

Although soccer was dropped as a varsity sport last year, several players showed interest this season and have attempted to revive the sport through the Syracuse University soccer club.

Coached by former varsity mentor Pete Cataldi and organized mainly by two graduate students, Jim Cranfield and Jack Elmer, the club provides an opportunity for interested boys to actively participate in soccer.

The Syracuse squad opened with a 2-1 win over visiting Utica College last week. A second game is tentatively scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 9, at LeMoyne College. Practice will be held next Tuesday at 3 p.m. at Hookway Tract in preparation for the match.

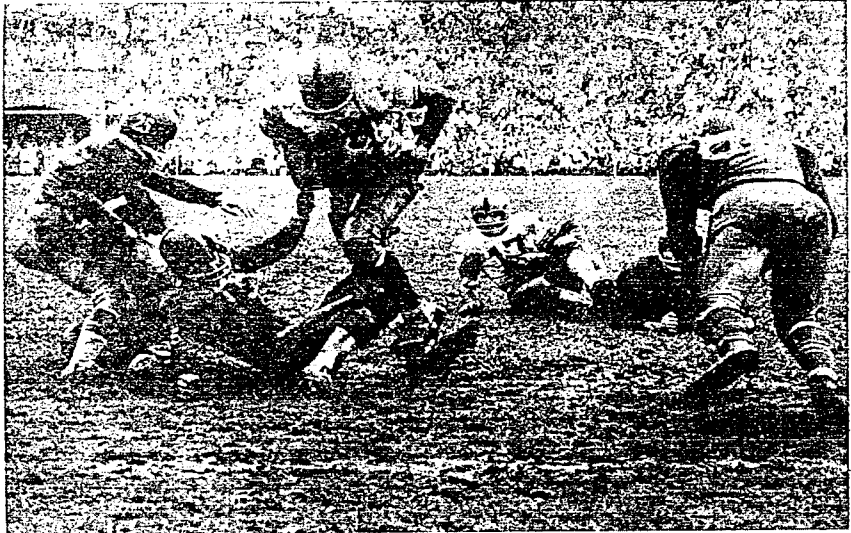

Wing Kal Dolgin tallied both goals for Syracuse in the first victory. Other players include sophomore Al Pillard, Jim Cranfield, Jack Elmer and letterman Dick Woolcock, a native of British Honduras who played with last fall's squad.

At the halfbacks, the soccer team features letterman Bob Ornstein, sophomore Don Cronson, Walt Laramie, one of two freshmen participating, and graduate student Carlton Brownell from Colgate. Maury Walsh and frosh Bob Pike bolster the full-back position.

Guarding the goal for the local boosters is Pete Coc, assisted by Jack Grey. Coc also doubles as goalie for the varsity lacrosse squad.

According to Coach Cataldi, football overshadows soccer as both a spectator and participant sport here. He therefore advocates making soccer a spring activity in an attempt to restore interest. Cataldi explained that in the spring, more players would probably be available and boys would have a longer time to get in condition.

Davis Crashes Pittsburgh Defense

ERNE DAVIS, the pride of Syracuse, shows his All-American form as he spurts eight yards for the Hillmen's first touchdown in Saturday's game with Pittsburgh. The Elmira senior evaded the three Pitt defenders and smashed into the end zone to score his

Piety Pulverizes Pitt, 28-9

By RON ROBERTS

The defense got the ball and the offense moved it, as Syracuse rang up a come-from-behind 28-9 victory over perennially rugged Pittsburgh before 41,000 fans in Archbold Stadium Saturday.

Ernie Davis replaced Jim Brown as the all-time 11th scoring and rushing leader. Dave Sarette ran and threw with the poise and accuracy of a NFL veteran, and broke Pat Starik's record for scoring passes. Gene Stancin was lineman of the game, John Mackey caught four key passes, the entire line fought and blitzed fiercely.

John Snider averaged 40 yards a punt, Dick Easterly ran 56 yards in 11 carries, and Gary Fallon added 65 more in 13 attempts. Bob Stem played his usual inspired game.

Team Victory

To sum it up, it was an all out team victory in the 1962 national champions. "This was as fine a team effort as any team of mine has ever come up with," said Coach Ben Schwartzwalder. "The kids just gave and gave."

But the Orangemen had to spot John Mackey's Panthers a 9-0 lead before they could get untracked.

Two interceptions late in the first quarter thwarted Piety drives and set up the visitor's only touchdown of the game. After Syracuse drove 72 yards in 14 plays to the Pitt 10-yard line, John Yaccino picked off a Sarette pass intended for Walt Swenney on the one.

The Panthers were forced to punt, but got the ball back when Fred Cox short-circuited another Sarette aerial on the Pitt 25 and rambled all the way to the Orange 40.

With Paul Martha calling signals, Pittsburgh pushed to the end zone in five plays, with fullback John Tschiesler going over on the first play of the second quarter. Cox's attempted conversion kick went wide to the left and Pitt fronted 6-0.

Pitt Rolls On

Later in the second period the Panthers began to roll again. They marched from their own 30 to the Syracuse 20 in nine tries, and appeared goallard bound. But on a third and five situation Stancin shot the gap from his linebacking slot to drop Jim Trafletant for a nine-yard deficit.

Cox then booted an amazing 47-yard field goal to give the invaders a 9-0 edge. But Schwartzwalder felt that Stancin's effort was the turning point of the game, since it kept Pittsburgh within shouting reach.

From this point on it was all Syracuse, intercepting passes, recovering fumbles, and scoring.

Davis Shines

Sarette hit John Mackey for 22 yards to set the ball on the Pitt 42 and start the Piety wheeling. Davis and Easterly took two plays to move to the 29. Then Davis took charge. The Express from Elmira rattled four yards, then smashed both the Pitt line and Brown's rushing record with a 17-yard jaunt to the eight.

Davis capped the drive on the following play as he carried the ball over from eight yards out. The score gave Ernie 183 points which eclipsed Brown's old mark of 187. Ericson's kick cut the lead to 9-7.

Midway through the third period the Orange defense burst in on Trafletant as he attempted a pitchout. Mackey knocked the ball loose and Dick Fiedler landed on it at the Pitt 12.

Two plays later Sarette executed a beautifully deceiving fake and connected on an 11-yard scoring pass to Mackey, to put Syracuse ahead to stay.

Slaby Recovers

Len Slaby pounced on a Trafletant fumble with seconds remaining in the third quarter, and the first unit went to work again. They drove 27 yards to the Pitt 3, where early in the final period, Sarette rolled right and flipped an underhand pass to Davis who was all alone in the corner of the end zone. The pass was Sarette's 20th scoring pitch of his career. Stark had 19 from 1951 to 1953.

With a little less than seven minutes remaining, Syracuse got possession again on their own 10. Moving on the ground all the way, and eating up all but 19 seconds of the clock, the Orange went 91 yards to score in 13 plays.

Sarette juggled the ball 13 yards around left end for the fourth Piety touchdown. That was the exact number of counters that Schwartzwalder had predicted he would need to beat Tschiesler's chances.

The win lifted the Orange higher up in the battle for Eastern football supremacy, and kept bowl hopes alive. Davis and Sarette had broken records. Everyone had given a total effort. "The kids just gave and gave."

IT'S A SCRAMBLE for one of the numerous fumbles which marred Saturday's grid contest in Archbold Stadium between Syracuse and Pittsburgh. Diving for the elusive pilskin are Hillmen HENRY HUBBARD (no. 59) and WALT SWENNEY (no. 89), while JOHN SNIDER (no. 14) gets set to enter the fray. (Photo by Bruce Anspach)

Yearling Gridders Have Weekend Rest

Yearling Gridders

The only Syracuse University athletic team to enjoy a rest over the weekend was coach Jim Shreve's frosh football squad. The Tangerines were not scheduled this weekend, but will return to action this Friday. They will be seeking their third win in four contests against the Colgate yearlings at Hamilton.

The Hill cuts opened their season on a sour note Oct. 14, as Coach Shreve's three-year unbeaten streak was snapped by Navy 8-0.

The following Saturday the Tangerines avenged their record with a convincing 39-6 rout of the Buffalo frosh.

On Friday, Oct. 27, the Piety yearlings swept to their second straight win, crushing the Army Plebes by a 28-13 score.

Friday's clash with the Little Red Riders of Colgate will finish this fall's slate of games for the Tangerines.

Players who have been particularly impressive for Shreve's forces this year include quarterback Dick King, fullback Ducky Duckett, halfbacks Herb Etzold, Billy Hunter, and Jim Nance, and ends Paul Houle, Jim Cripps, and Dave Russell. In the last three games, Shreve has also had praise for his linemen.

Ernie Davis, Syracuse's All-America halfback, had his finest day of the young football season against Maryland, gaining 111 yards on 14 carries and scoring two touchdowns.

Listening Is An Art: Lyons

By HOWARD GINSBURG
 "People talk and I listen," was the reason given by columnist Leonard Lyons for his success during the past 25 years. The New York Post's syndicated journalist told journalism students on Friday that the art of listening was rapidly being lost in the United States.
 "It isn't the words that make the writer, but what he notices," said Lyons, who is generally regarded as one of the most accurate Broadway columnists because he gathers his own information instead of hiring a staff. He works 16 hours a day, only two of which are spent writing his column. "The Lyons Den."

 A columnist's prime importance is to combine the news section and the comics in an effort to present news and humor, said the 55-year old reporter.
 Lyons started his newspaper career "with scratch paper and a rented typewriter" and sent small news items to Mark Hellinger and Walter Winchell. In 1932, J. David Stern, owner of the New York Post hired him on a temporary basis for $50 a week.
 In his first week of reporting, Lyons lost 14 pounds, but since then, has taken the work in stride. "I believe my columns get better each day," Lyons observed, and was proud to say that he "never had a lasting conflict with anybody as a result of my column."

 "The Lyons Den" appears in 105 newspapers, including the Syracuse Post-Standard. The column concentrates on Broadway news, but occasionally carries stories of national importance.
 Ernest Hemingway's widow contacted Lyons to reveal the death of her husband during the past summer.
 For the past five years, Lyons has made annual appearances before University journalism classes. Lyons, whose son is a Syracuse University graduate, seldom gives other lectures.
 The two marked advances in American Journalism after the Revolutionary war were the establishment of newspapers and the change in frequency of publication from weekly to semi-weekly, tri-weekly, and daily issues.

JOHNNY MATHIS, who appeared at the War Memorial November 2, is shown with four Syracuse University friends, Sharon Kessler, Carole Fox, Barbara Hoffman and Marcia Feldman.

Mathis Discusses Songs and Success

By REA TURET
"It's all part of the business, posing for pictures and signing autographs." Johnny Mathis commented in his dressing room during the intermission of his recent show at the War Memorial.
A slight, short person, he said that he enjoyed touring. "It's hectic, but I wouldn't do it if I didn't like it."
Mathis finds college students are his best audience. "They are more responsive and more intelligent. We usually schedule college towns, but sometimes we play outside of them to be able to pay the band," he quipped.
Having played Syracuse for the past three years, he said Syracuse was a "nice town," but there never seems to be anything to do. "Chances Are," and "Story of Our Love" are the most technically perfect songs that I've recorded, the singer said.
Recordings
"There are songs, though" he continued, "that I haven't been happy with.
His favorite record album is "I'll Buy You a Star," which he recorded with Nelson Riddle. "By working with Nelson, I learned to exert myself more, and learned a great deal about dynamics."
It takes Mathis four days, working three hours a day, to record an album.
440 Club
Johnny Mathis started his career about six years ago in the "440 Club" in San Francisco, Calif. Commenting on it, he called the place "a dive."
"I knew three songs at that time. Every night I would go to the club and sing those three songs. But I was heard by someone from Columbia records and I got my voice recorded off."
In high school, Mathis was a sports champion, but now he rarely gets a chance to play basketball or high jumping. "I don't and hit the jackpot next spring, or the legend of Boss Gaskell will wither away.

His party has suffered also. As a losing candidate pointed out last week, the frosh elections are just a "warmup" for the upperclassmen. A party that wins in the fall has a reputation to display in the all-important spring elections.

However, HEP will dissolve after the frosh president is inaugurated, so at present US only has to fear CAP and Win Weber.
Dave Chnst, CAP's leader, was congratulating himself election night that his party and US had broken even. That is, though they all lost, CAP candidates polled more votes than US for two offices and US the same for the other two offices.

This is a very shaky comeback, however. Chnst lacks Gaskell's experience, authority and showmanship, and US has a much stronger image on campus than CAP. We'll bet US is still on top of Chnst's group come spring, providing of course that CAP is still around then.

The little faction of seniors in Psi Upsilon headed by Weber, has Gaskell more upset than anything CAP has done. The effort to form a splinter party from some CAP houses proved abortive and Gaskell now charges that Weber actively aided RIP's campaign in hopes of seeing US' nose rubbed in the dirt.

Well, US, and the Boss worries that unsatisfied party members may open their ears to Weber's blandishments in line with forming another new party.

"The Last Hurrah" is the theme of the final dance in the 80-year old, traditional Syracuse-Colgate Weekend. The Sophomores, formerly called the Fifth Quarter Dance, will be held from 9 to 11 p.m. Saturday, November 12, in the Men's Gym.

Jack Kriescher's 10-piece band and the Colgate 13 will highlight the entertainment for the dance. Burr Cain and Nancy Booth are overall weekend chairmen. All other committee chairmen are also members of the Sophomore Executive Council.

A summer business training program in one of 23 foreign countries for qualified graduate and undergraduate students will be inaugurated by the Association Internationale des Etudiants en Sciences Economiques et Commerciales (AIIESEC).

The program is open to any students majoring in business administration or economics desiring to study the operations of a foreign company, and through it, its country's economic system. The student is expected to be proficient in the language of the host country.
The Syracuse committee for the AIIESEC invites all interested students to an orientation meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday or Wednesday in 303 Women's Building.

EVERY COLLEGE STUDENT needs this book

to increase his ability to learn

An understanding of the truth contained in Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy can remove the pressure which concerns today's college student upon whom increasing demands are being made for academic excellence.

Christian Science calms fear and gives to the student the full assurance he needs in order to learn easily and to evaluate what he has learned. It teaches that God is man's Mind—his only Mind—from which emanates all the intelligence he needs, when and as he needs it.

Science and Health, the textbook of Christian Science, may be read or examined, together with the Bible, in an atmosphere of quiet and peace, at any Christian Science Reading Room. Information about Science and Health may also be obtained on campus through the

Talk Held On Greeks Colgate, Syracuse Ban Raids, Scalping

By BEVERLY LURIA
 "Attacking any system will not eliminate personal discrimination," said Brian Fitzgerald, speaker of JSL and president of Tau Delta Phi Fraternity. Fitzgerald opposed Ass't. Prof. George Wiley's stand in the Oct. 23 Daily Orange proposing a "dissolution" of the existing Greek system.

Dr. Wiley, Fitzgerald and Richard Medlish of the Dean of Men's office were members of a panel moderated by Edward McEvoy, Ass't. Professor of the School of Speech and Dramatic Art.

The panel was set up and taped by W.A.E.T. and will be aired later this week.

Dr. Wiley criticized the Anti-Discrimination Board enacted in 1951, saying that it deals mainly with "Discriminatory clauses." He said, "Its merits have been sufficient to merit its existence." The main question, he feels, is, "Do many fraternities and societies accept negroes, and do many Christian houses accept Jews?"

Although the entire panel agreed that the idea of racial or religious discrimination was wrong, Fitzgerald believes "fraternities have the right to discriminate against individuals." He explained that "Fraternities are founded on discrimination."

Since the Anti-Discrimination Board's enactment in 1951, most of the "Greek" houses have eliminated their discriminatory clauses. Dr. Wiley feels that the problem is the actual practices rather than clauses. Medlish summed it up saying, "We can change laws on paper, but we have to change the individuals' thinking" to get results.

"All we are asking for is equal, not equal conditions" in rushing. Dr. Wiley said, Fitzgerald argued that few Negro students rush. "As far as minority groups go, they have to rush to be rejected," Dr. Wiley countered, "these students don't want to go somewhere where they're not wanted."

Only about six Negro students are members of the thirty fraternities on campus. Dr. Wiley pointed out, noting that "all are in nominally Jewish Houses." He said, "Nominally 'Christian' houses have zero Negro members. The only with 'maybe' have one or two, but I haven't been able to find the one or two."

Fitzgerald spoke against fra-

GRADS MUST FILE CARDS

Seniors and graduate students are asked to complete degree requirements for graduation at the end of this semester must file diploma cards with their college or school of enrollment by Friday, Nov. 10.

Students are asked to report to their respective school or college office to clarify scholastic standing and to fill out diploma cards.

All students who are granted degrees in January will be invited to participate in the Commencement Exercises.

Anti-Prejudice Panel Altered

The University Anti-Discrimination Board met Monday afternoon to discuss a necessary reorganization of its membership.

The board, as created by a 1955 Joint Student Legislature act, was to consist of the Deans of Men and Women, the presidents of Women's Student Government, Men's Student Government, Panel and IFC, a faculty representative from the honoraries and faculty representative elected by the rest of the board.

Government Change
 Women's Student Government and Men's Student Government have been consolidated into Joint Student Government since the board's last meeting in 1959, this necessitating a change in the board's student government representation.

Executive Governing Board head Sam Farr represented JSG at yesterday's organizational meeting and will continue to do so until JSG president Elizabeth Evans is able to resume her duties.

Rotation System
 Faculty representation will be set up according to a rotation system established by an earlier anti-discrimination board that was created through a 1951 JSL act.

This system provides that the faculty representative from the honoraries shall be annually selected from a different school within the university, starting with the oldest school and working up to the newest.

This year's representative will represent the honoraries in the College of Engineering and, as specified in the board's records, will be chosen by Ralph Galbraith, Dean of the College.

The board's records also establish a rotation system for choosing the other faculty member. This system asks the dean of each college, starting with the youngest, to submit to the board a list of five faculty members of that college. The board will then ask one of these faculty members to serve a year on the board. This year's representative will come from the College of Business Administration.

Will Meet Again
 The board plans to hold its first official business meeting before Thanksgiving soon after its representation is settled. At this time six proposals from JSL will be presented to the board in an attempt to learn what the group has accomplished and what its plans are for the future.

Prof Horwitz Speaks

Prof. Nahum Horwitz will speak on "Nuclear Explosions and Radiation" before a physics colloquium at 4 p.m. Thursday, 106 Steele Hall.

Reserving the discussion a tea will be held at 3:30 p.m.

Dailey Raps Russians; Claims Communism Poorly Interpreted

By HOWARD GINSBURG
 Few people in America have a thorough understanding of Communism, claimed Dr. Kenneth Dailey of the Russian History department. "Ninety per cent of the teachers in American colleges," he said, "are wrong."

Speaking to an overflow crowd in the lobby of DellPlain Hall, Dailey defined and explained the theories of Communism.

"Only by analyzing Communist theories can we understand the current world situation," he said. "We must realize when we deal with them that one theory espoused by Lenin is that we must be fought for Communism to succeed. Peaceful co-existence is impossible."

"Classical Marxism is outdated. Lenin is the true founder of the modern Communist ideas," Dailey added. "The schooling given to original Marxism has no immediate value whatsoever."

Dailey, who is planning a trip to the Soviet Union next semester, said that the Russian divide the world into two factions: Soviet peacemakers and Western war mongers. "Communists," he said, "believe that they will ultimately conquer the world. They (their believe, he said, that conflicts facilitate their task.

Dailey explained that what is good for the party is moral and will hinder the party in criminal. In other words, the end justifies the means.

"The main thought of Communists," he said, "is to seize and hold power. They do not look for freedom, but they are free people because it only takes a few men to gain control."

Dailey reviewed recent Communist tactics designed to lead neutral countries into the Communist camp. "Colonialism and Soviet aid have both been very influential. Space achievements and herculean explosions, such as the 50-megaton bomb recently set off, have been major reasons for the swing towards Communism by many of the previously neutral countries," he observed.

Dailey appealed for more trade journals to be circulated among backward nations. He hit upon the poor information service of the United States. "We spend pennies compared to the Soviets," he said angrily.

By JOYCE HERGENHAN Junior Editor

Scalping, inter-campus raids and all forms of pre-Colgate Weekend vandalism were yesterday ruled illegal by both Syracuse and Colgate Universities. Both schools also set up measures by which to punish violators.

A Colgate announcement called the first halt to the traditional pre-game hi-jinks and prompted Syracuse to take similar action.

3 Hill Faculty Members Seeking Office Today

The citizens of Syracuse go to the polls today to choose the men who will govern them for the next four years.

Of primary interest to the voters is the mayoral election, but campus eyes are focused on three SU faculty members who are seeking office in today's voting.

Roy D. Simmons, Hill lacrosse coach and assistant football coach, is seeking reelection as President of the Common Council. Political Science Prof. Webb S. Fiser is a candidate for councilman-at-large, and Prof. Robert Burns of the Education Department is running for the office of Commissioner of Education.

Simmons, who has coached SU lacrosse teams for 30 years, is the Republican candidate for President of the Common Council, a position he has now held for four years. On the Hill, he also serves as defensive backfield coach for the football team.

Simmons served two terms as a councilman and for two years was majority leader of the Common Council. In 1957, he was elected.

No Bonfires
 According to its announcement, Colgate will not build its traditional bonfire and will not place guards at the campus gates or on roads leading to the school.

A weeklong car bar has been placed on Colgate students and anyone involved in scalping or other forms of vandalism will be suspended from the university.

At its weekly meeting yesterday, the Syracuse University Joint Student Government Executive Board released a similar statement.

"In deference to Colgate's position, a Joint Student Government executive order hereby bans scalping and other forms of vandalism. All Syracuse University violators will be dealt with through the Joint Student Review Board."

No More Facts
 Starting in 1948, representatives from Syracuse and Colgate have annually signed a "Cazenovia Pact" which established a specific time for scalping and inter-campus raids and ruled illegal other, more serious, forms of vandalism.

This year will see no pact, however, as the schools' mutual ban on scalping removes the necessity for legislation to control them.

Training Program
 Another JSG Governing Board announcement clarified the new government training program.

The program's first meeting has been postponed from today until 7:30 p.m. Thursday because of a conflict with a freshman citizenship exam. Thursday's session will meet in 207 Hall of Languages.

University Director of Information William P. Ehling and Traditions Commission president and vice president Sloan Dugan and Martha Gallagher will discuss "Pride in the University."

"Government Structure" will be the topic of the second session scheduled for Thursday. University JSG president Elizabeth Evans will talk at this meeting.

Governing Board head Sam Farr and AWS president Marilyn Meinhardt will discuss "Leadership" at the third and final meeting to be held Monday, November 20.

JSG ACTIVITY PROGRAM SET

The first meeting of the Joint Student Government Activity Training Program is set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday in 207 Hall of Languages. This meeting has been rescheduled from today to Thursday due to the Citizenship I mid-term. William P. Ehling, director of Information services, Sloan Dugan, president of Traditions, and Martha Gallagher, Vice President of Traditions, will discuss "Pride in the University."

Dailey did not restrict himself to discussion of free world problems. "The Russian-Chinese rift," he said, "will not be permanent. I don't believe that the United States wants them to split." He explained that the Russians could not possibly supply China with enough consumer goods and feed her own people at the same time. "Let them love each other to death," he said.

Continuing with his blunt statements, Dailey refuted and ridiculed the John Birch Society. He claimed they were using tactics worse than the Communists. "I have no use for them at all," he said.

Dailey expounded further on his strong beliefs when he said that "The Fifth Amendment, as it currently is interpreted is utterly ridiculous and a hindrance to the progress of the United States."

"Though we are in a tense period of history, we certainly are not in an insurmountable position," he said. "If he knows, and I think he does, what our capacity of force is, Mr. Khrushchev will think twice before pushing the final button."

Nehru of India

It seems to be a particular trait of Indian diplomats to couch cogent and compelling arguments behind distinctly tactful phraseology. Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru seems to be no exception to this rule. Prime Minister Nehru made the comment this week to reporters on "Meet the Press," "If you want my advice I am dead against any nuclear test whatever happens." And then he added in what seems to be almost a wry statement, "But who am I to advise the United States who has great responsibilities and all that?"

In the light of the recent statements on nuclear testing by Nelson Rockefeller and Richard Milhous Nixon, we think that any advice that the Indian Prime Minister could offer would be of great service to bringing a little bit of perspective and sanity back into this discussion. We are, perhaps, used to rashness on the part of the defeated Republican candidate for the presidency, but we must admit to expecting more from Rockefeller. It is indeed disappointing that the Governor of New York State should have jumped so quickly in siding with those people who would want America to resume testing no matter what consequences result from that action. The Soviet Union is now displaying its ugly and real nature for the entire world. Each time they ignite another nuclear bomb all the gore and hypocrisy of their leaders and their system spreads throughout the world like a thunderbolt. To call for America's resumption of testing would, therefore, be a great propaganda defeat. It would mean that for the helpless Japanese parent, for the Asian whose voice has been completely disregarded in this matter by the Soviets, it would be almost impossible to discern the inhumanity and cruelty of one country from that of another. Perhaps, more important, it may become equally difficult for Americans to discern who is really right or wrong. Atomic fallout is impartial and dangerous no matter who is responsible for it, and American atomic testing is as psychologically and morally devastating to the world as is the Russian nuclear experimentation. Certainly, Americans owe it both to themselves and to all of humanity to refrain from this kind of insanity as long as possible. To us, Nehru's words are important and meaningful and it would be wise for all Americans to think twice before they panic and match Russian depravity with their own.

LEAL AND LOYAL

The Last Hurrah

By KEN NORWICK

They're calling this year's Colgate Weekend "The Last Hurrah," and, for at least some of us, this title has far more significance than merely the termination of a Syracuse tradition. For, indeed, besides representing the last Syracuse-Colgate football game for a while, next Saturday's contest also represents the last "big league football weekend" for those of us who are commonly called "seniors."

For this particular senior, this is a sad event indeed. It is final and convincing proof of what we've been suspecting for a while now, that is, that it's just about "all over" for us. Nothing, save perhaps commencement itself, could bring this point home as clearly as the realization that we'll be seeing our last game as undergraduates Saturday.

With the approach of this last game then, and all that it represents, it is not difficult to think back to the first game, and all that it represented. And, of course, it is not difficult to reminisce over those games, and years, in between.

I remember that first game well. It was a bright, crisp Saturday afternoon in September, 1958, and we freshmen had been on campus no more than a week. It was exciting. Never having been to a school game, much less a college game before, it was an experience for which I was totally unprepared. I had never seen anything like it.

The color, and the noise, and the massive school spirit manifested during that game are unforgettable. The band, and the cheerleaders, and those damn Goons, all contributed to that particular exciting game we've ever seen. And, of course, we won, and won well, which seemed to make the day just perfect.

And then there was the Pitt game, on Parent's Weekend that year, and what a game it was. Without question the most thrilling and exciting game we've ever seen. And, then there was our first Colgate Weekend, when we were afraid to walk the streets at night for fear of being scalped, and when we sat through a pouring rain, just to make sure the Red Raiders got what they deserved.

We were freshmen then, and we were still bewildered by it all. To envision ourselves as seniors was an impossibility—the senior year seemed an eternity away. As we knew our class about was that we were the class of '62 and that we were the best at old SU.

But then, as most freshmen must, we became sophomores. Suddenly we were sophisticated, knew what we were doing, and the youth and folly of the freshmen. We had a pretty good team that year, the nation's

More On Clauses

To the Editor:
A great many words have been bandied back and forth about the discriminatory clauses in the fraternities and sororities at Syracuse University. Some happenings of the past week indicate that the time has come to start coupling action with words.

First, Sam Girgus came out with a fine editorial which should be viewed by the freshmen as a challenge to prove their worth. Second, Girgus' fraternity president, Bill Kofoed, indicated in his letter that houses can take action toward eliminating the discrimination clauses. Third, the freshman elections are now completed, and the freshmen have a formal means for expression and action.

We have all heard the freshmen complaining, and we have heard them praised for their desire to reform the Syracuse student community. Now we shall see if they really have enough desire to exert some effort or if they were merely overcome with a verbal double-talk. We shall also see what kind of class officers they have elected. The issue of discrimination was side-stepped in their campaigns, but it cannot be evaded forever. Can they face up to it??"

But we should not ask them to face up to it alone. It is not only the freshmen who are concerned with this problem, but the upperclassmen as well. Only a coalition of the two (with perhaps the stout-hearted backing of the faculty and administration) can begin to eliminate this Greek blight.

It is up to a few brave upperclassmen to provide the counsel and initiative. It is up to the freshmen to systematize the driving force. It is up to us all to give them encouragement.

Hopefully, the clauses will be fought by people within the system and by those who wish to join the system. Will the IFC take the steps needed to clean up their houses? If so, let us see some indication that they are meeting with the freshmen and their own members to work out a feasible program. If they are not capable of this, I suggest another approach.

You, Mr. Girgus, and your president, Mr. Kofoed, have a valuable experience in waging the type of fight that is needed. In your last year here, can you perform one more valuable service for the school? Meet with the freshmen officers. Perhaps there are other Greeks who would care to join the campaign. Make arrangements to include them, also. Discuss with the freshmen what they can do toward discriminating party clauses. Help them to plan a realistic program of action to persuade houses to change their policies.

OPINIONS ON CAMPUS

By REA TURET

Questions: How do you think student government can be improved?

Bob Davis, '64: One way is to end the "popularity-publicity" racket and have the student leaders take an interest in helping the average student with problems more related to the students themselves and less related to the upper echelons of narrow campus society.

Rudy Seligman, '66: I think that the student officers should write articles in the Daily Orange explaining their positions and responsibilities. Ninety per cent of the students on campus are not familiar with their officers or the positions these officers hold.

Steve Selig, '64: What can the students do, if the administration is going to do it for them anyway? The administration knows beforehand what is going to be done, and what isn't, so why should students bother with student government in the first place?

Jay Choen, '68: To improve it, student government should have more power. The students should be informed that it is their government, and they should be encouraged to get behind it. Politics on this campus is nil.

Carol Sullivan, '65: The upperclassmen should completely run student government. Half the freshmen don't know anything about what's actually going on.

Dede Callic, '64: Most of the students don't actually believe that if they organize something, they can get it done. They believe that the administration runs everything. Students should realize that if they want to do something on this campus, they can.

Russ Service, '62: The only way to improve student government is to abolish it.

Jerry Biesch, '64: I don't know. I haven't seen student government in operation yet. Richard Koppelman, '65: No body has actually told the freshmen anything about student government. We don't know what's going on, or who's running it, or anything.

Lee Godfrey, '64: Student government is in a bad state at this point. What it really needs is a strong leader.

—THE CUTTING ROOM—

Failure of Religious Movies Discussed

Editor's Note: This is the first of a weekly series of columns on films. The writer is a member of the entertainment staff of the Daily Orange.

By JOHN W. GREENWALD

In recent weeks this writer's rather bleary eyes have been subjected to a series of "religious films." I say "religious" because these pictures are not necessarily pious, they just deal with religious subject matter.

These movies were "Francis of Assisi," "Question 7," "Power and the Glory," and a local run-in with "Martin Luther."

The end is not in sight. 20th Century Fox, feeling "King of Kings" would kill the market, dropped their production of "The Greatest Story Ever Told," despite some $3 million spent in mere preparation. Since "King" laid such a critical egg in its premier engagement, Fox has recently directed George Stevens to start shooting "Greatest Story."

What is interesting about this sudden rash of religion in pictures is that most of these films, if not outright artistic failures, have very obvious and serious flaws. And these flaws are not so much the fault of the movie as they are of the film, but rather seem inherent in the medium itself.

Let's take two examples: "Francis of Assisi," and "Question 7." "Francis deals with man's personal relationship with God. "Question 7" was more concerned with theology and conscience.

These are the two areas religious films usually cover: relationship with God, or theology/conscience. "King of Kings" reputedly deals with the former; "Martin Luther" examines the latter. "Power and Glory" mixes them a bit.

In "Francis" and films of this type, it is not enough to say a man was a saint, pious, did great acts, and then have him raise his eyes to heaven every other reel. A man whose relationship with God was as intense as Francis' or Christ's must not be made merely pious, but mystical if not fanatical.

Francis' or Christ's acts were inspiring, not to inanimate objects, but to people. A film must not just show the acts, but present them as people reacted to and were inspired by them. To be effective the atmosphere must be recorded. Newsreel footage of the sermon on the mount, or even the crucifixion would probably appear like any other political rally or execution.

But this is not what they were to be. The only way a film can present this difference is by over-emphasis and almost extreme dramatization. The pious should seem mystical, the real force behind the scenes.

Unfortunately, since the film is so rooted in achieving a sense of what is real, the above never happens. Sometimes the effect is so overplayed we get the impression we're seeing a 19th century melodrama.

More often, the director is unable to shake "realism" and we see a dull, bland "walk-through" of "Francis" or, as we are told, "King of Kings." Any spiritual effect is left to the actors, and acting alone has never made a successful movie.

The other kind of religious films, represented by "Question 7," is the theology/conscience type. Here, it is not so much the personalities that make the story as the issues. They should be placed in the proper context of society, etc., and of course, are dramatized by personal conflicts.

But when issues become personified they also become simplified and distorted. Their complexity is reduced to simple black and white ideas and personalities. This is what occurs in "Question 7."

The issues of "Question 7" involved how far a minister's son should mouth the East German party line in order to advance his musical ambitions before he deserts God, his father and his conscience.

These are not simple problems, nor are they easily resolved. But since they must be put in human terms, within the framework of a rather well done melodrama, the issues are either black or white. The comedies are bad, the minister is good. This spoiled "Question 7."

Just as the nature of the film demands personifications of issues, it overstates them.

Thusly "religious" films, whether they deal with personal relationships with God, or theology/conscience, tend to distort the very nature of the medium tends to underplay the former, making it bland and lifeless, or over-simplify the latter, distorting the issues that are the story's heart.

But Hollywood keeps on trying.

Roger Wagner Chorale to Sing

The Roger Wagner Chorale will give a concert at 8:20 p.m., today at Lincoln Auditorium. This is part of the Civic Morning Musical celebrity series.

The group will sing a program ranging from classical to popular pieces. Tickets are $3.75, $3.50, and $3. They are available at the University Book Store or from Civic Morning Musicals in the Clark Music Building.

Indian Students Elect Officers

Madan Pandita has been elected president of the Indian Students Association for the coming year.

New vice presidents are Betty Saleem and Ved Prakash Kayastha; secretary, Tassim Ahluwalia; and treasurer, Dhanukh Dialal.

Outgoing President Saleem Saaduddin presented a constitution draft. A subcommittee was appointed to consider the draft and make recommendations to the executive committee.

Sigma Alpha Iota Concert Found Partly Successful

With a screeching Rapunzel prima donna, a flute and piano sonata that sounded like little more than an advanced exercise by Hanneb transposed to two instruments, and a horn dance that provoked little more than sympathy, it is surprising that the Sigma Alpha Iota Tri-City Musicales presented Sunday afternoon by the Syracuse School of Music turned out so well.

Perhaps the few pieces quite above the average were responsible for the total pleasing effect. Dorothy Taylor's competent playing of Ernest Bloch's piano poem "Alceste" was the program's highlight. The clashing contrasts of calm and stormy frenzy, the imitation of nature, and the superb suggestiveness of the piece left a deep-cut impression.

Fine Items

Elaine Hatt's clear, and flexible voice, leaving nothing unheard or muffled, together with the strongly combined Sigma Theta Chorus, and the excellent blending of the piano Quintet were other fine items.

The music pieces "Five Sketches in Septet" and the surprising prelude-like Organ Prelude by Hosten gave the presentation an air of variety.

One finds it unusual that at practically every point in the program a soloist who is to hit a high-note just doesn't accomplish it without inciting deafness. Twice during Rapunzel's distress she screamed with such frantic force it almost seemed as though the stained glass windows would shatter from the impact.

And the flute, during the Hindemith sonata, hit such contrasting heights after the monotonous repetitions of rhythmic figures like the sick sounds of train whistles, that one became angry with the spodic annoyance.

But on the whole, the group made an enthusiastic and at least partly successful musical attempt.

Syracuse Foes Win 5, Lose 5 In Tight Games

By DAVE DEAN
Associate Editor

It was a weekend for close games, at least for Hill grid opponents, as six of the nine contests involving Syracuse foes were settled by less than eight points.

Overall, the Piety's opposition came through with another split, five wins and five losses. Oregon State, Maryland and Holy Cross re-entered the win column, West Virginia and Boston College extended streaks, and Penn State, Notre Dame, Colgate, Nebraska and Pittsburgh suffered setbacks.

Maryland scored all its points in the first half, then held off a determined Penn State, to top the Lions, 21-17, and bring its season record to 5-2.

Passes for Three
Sophomore quarterback Dick Shiner tossed three touchdown passes for the Terps and completed 11 of 16 aerials, but the game was not decided until Maryland stopped State inside its 35-yard line late in the final period.

A 93-yard touchdown run with an intercepted lateral gave the Engineers of Lehigh a 20-15 win over Colgate, next week's Hill opponent. The loss snapped a four-game winning streak for the Raiders.

Although it was his bad lateral which lost the game, quarterback Danny Keating kept the Raiders in the contest by passing for one touchdown, running for two extra points and setting up the other TD.

Winning Again
Holy Cross regained its winning ways by topping Dayton, 28-0, showing the aerial game which has gained them the rank of third best passing team in the country. Junior quarterback Pat McCarthy scored on a pair of passes to end Barry Tyne within 3 1/2 minutes in the first half.

Al Snyder, fourth best pass catcher in the country, scored on another aerial. The Crusaders are now 4-2.
The Mountaineers of West Virginia won their fourth game in their last five tries, defeating George Washington, 12-7. Sophomore Glen Holton sparked the victory as he scored once, caught a key pass in the other touchdown drive, and narrowly missed a third score on a 63-yard run.

Boston College spotted favored Iowa State a 10-0 lead, but then came back with two touchdowns in the final period for a 14-10 win. Fullback Harry Crump won the game almost singlehandedly. After recovering a fumble on the kickoff following the first BC score, Crump carried the ball five of eight times, accounting for 24 of the 28 yards before his scoring plunge.

Place-kicker Greg Mather was the star of a 13-10 upset win for Navy over the Irish of Notre Dame. The Middies won the game on mather's two field goals and a 72-yard ricochet pass play. Mather kicked a 42-yarder in the first period and broke a 10-10 tie with a 12-yarder late in the game.

It was Notre Dame's third straight loss after as many wins at the beginning of the season. Nebraska's touchdown drought continued as the Cornhuskers dropped a 28-6 decision to Kansas. It was the fourth straight loss for the Nebians, who have scored only two touchdowns over that span. Bill Thornton scored the only touchdown for the Huskers since the Syracuse game.

Injury-Riddled Harriers Handed Third Setback

By ALLAN KORT

An injury-riddled Syracuse University cross-country squad had trouble in finding five men to cross the finish line as it ran a poor third to Villanova and Fordham in a tri-meet Saturday at Van Cortlandt Park, New York City.

The loss, which gives the Orange harriers a 2-3 record, was the worst suffered by Bob Grievie's thinclads this year. The final score had Villanova in first place with 32 points, followed by Fordham with 44 points and the Orange with 52 points.

Francello Unlucky

"Had Francello had better luck and had Dailey finished the race, we would have definitely have beaten Fordham," Grievie said. "And with any luck we would have taken the whole meet."

Pete Zowlak, Villanova's record breaker, took top honors over the five-mile course with a 25:40, a minute better than Pete Traynor of Villanova. Francello limped to a third with a time of 27:16. Mike Stuzman finished fourth for the Piety and Mounice Ferguson finished eighth.

"This was the first time in nine tries Fordham has outrun us," Grievie said. "I started the season with the potential for SU's greatest barrier squad of all time, and ended with the worst record since I've coached here."

With the dual meet scheduled completed, Grievie's thinclads now have two weeks to "patch up their injuries" and prepare for their IC4A meet Nov. 20 in New York City.

The IC's, which will be run at the same Van Cortlandt Park that saw Syracuse receive its second straight loss in two meets. The Orangemen lost to Cornell last week before previously toppling Colgate and Buffalo.

The Orangemen will center seven runners in the IC4A nationals to compete against at least 350 runners from 66 colleges.

The season's finale for the Orange harriers will come Nov. 27 at New York City as the Piety will be pitted against some of the top country-country teams in the nation.

HUSBANDS, ANYONE?

It has been alleged that coeds go to college for the sole purpose of finding husbands. This is, of course, an infamous canard, and I give fair warning that, small and spunky as I am, anybody who says such a dastardly thing when I am around had better be prepared for a sound thrashing!

Girls go to college for precisely the same reasons as men do: to broaden their horizons, to lengthen their vistas, to drink at the fount of wisdom. But, if, by pure chance, while a girl is engaged in these meritorious pursuits, a likely looking husband should pop into view, why, what's wrong with that? Eh? What's wrong with that?

The question now arises, what should a girl look for in a husband. A great deal has been written on this subject. Some say character is most important, some say background, some say appearance, some say education. All are wrong.

The most important thing—bar none—in a husband is health. Though he be handsome as Apollo and rich as Midas, what good is he if he just lays around all day accumulating bedsores?

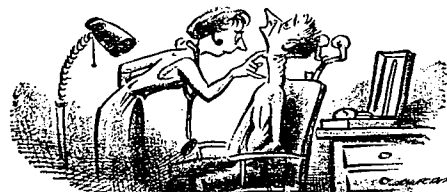

The very first thing to do upon meeting a man is to make sure he is sound of mind and limb. Before he has a chance to sweet-talk you, slap a thermometer in his mouth, roll back his eyelids, yank out his tongue, rap his patella, palpate his thorax, ask him to straighten out a horseshoe with his teeth. If he fails these simple tests, phone for an ambulance and go on to the next prospect.

If, however, he turns out to be physically fit, proceed to the second most important requirement in a husband. I refer to a sense of humor.

A man who can't take a joke is a man to be avoided. There are several simple tests to find out whether your prospect can take a joke or not. You can, for example, snarl his tires. Or burn his "Mud" combs. Or steal his switchblade. Or turn loose his pet meecoon. Or shave his head.

After each of these good-natured pranks, laugh gaily and shout "April Fool! If he replies, "But this is February nineteenth," or something equally churlish, cross him off your list and give thanks you found out in time.

But if he laughs slyly and calls you "Little Minx!" put him to the next test. Find out whether he is kindly.

What should a girl look for in a husband?

The quickest way to ascertain his kindness is, of course, to look at the cigarette he smokes. Is it mild? Is it delectable? Is it humane? Does it minister tenderly to the psyche? Does it coddle the synapses? Is it a good companion? Is it genial? Is it bright and friendly and filtered and full of duct pleasure from cockerow till the heart of darkness?

Is it, in short, Marlboro?

If Marlboro it be, then slap the man to your bosom with hoops of steel, for you may be sure that he is kindly as a summer breeze, kindly as a mother's kiss, kindly to his very marrow. And now, having found a man who is kindly and healthy and blessed with a sense of humor, the only thing that remains is to make sure he will always earn a handsome living. That, fortunately, is easy. Just enroll him in engineering.

ERNIE DAVIS

Davis Replaces Jim Brown In Syracuse Record Book

By KEN DARLING
Sports Editor

Only four years ago, the great Jimmy Brown lunged up uniform no. 44, and Syracuse fans said that his records would never be broken.

But last Saturday, in the rain and mud of Archbold Stadium, Ernie Davis, wearing that same No. 44, broke those records in a highly convincing manner.

The Elmira Express now stands as the all-time Syracuse scoring and rushing leader. With three games left on this fall's schedule, Ernie will be able to add to his career totals of 194 points scored and 2,143 yards gained, rushing.

Brown's Marks
Brown's standards were 187 points and 2091 yards gained. He also held the 1111 touchdown record, crossing the goal line 25 times, but Davis has also eclipsed that mark. The 6-2, 210-lb. senior has netted 31 touchdowns during his three years on the Orange varsity squad.

So far this fall, Davis has been averaging 5.4 yards per carry, with 580 yards in 108 attempts. Last fall he ranked as the nation's third leading ground gainer with 877 yards. His average per carry was 7.8 yards, which stands as a Syracuse season record.

In addition to pacing this year's Pietyemen in rushing and scoring, the fleet halfback has established himself as the team's top pass receiver. Ernie has gathered in 13 passes, good for 127 yards and a pair of touchdowns.

Chief Target

The Elmira Hash has accomplished all this despite the fact that every team on the Syracuse schedule has one thing in mind when they face the Hillmen; stop Davis. But being the chief target of enemy defensive units is nothing new to the halfback sensation. Throughout his high school career at Elmira Free Academy, where he lettered in three sports, Davis received tremendous publicity. The height of his fame was reached when he was named a high school All-American in both football and basketball.

Thus, when he came to Syracuse in the fall of 1958, already he was a marked man. Nevertheless, he paced Jim Brown's fresh team to an undefeated season. As a sophomore, he was the biggest of an arsenal of big guns on the national championship club of 1959.

Ernie climaxed his rookie season on the Orange varsity with a brilliant performance in the 1960 Cotton Bowl game, scoring twice as the Hillmen upended Texas.

Orange-ND Telecast Cancelled By NCAA

Permission to provide a closed circuit telecast of the Syracuse-Notre Dame football game on Nov. 18 has been officially denied Syracuse University by the TV Administrative Committee of the NCAA.

Earlier in the month, Bob Kane, Director of Athletics at Cornell and district representative of the NCAA Television Committee, recommended approval of the program. Kane's letter to NCAA Program Director Asa Bushnell said: "I recommend it as I find no reason not to permit it."

But a wire of denial received by SU Athletic Director Lew Andrews on the day after the announcement of the program had been officially made, stated in part: "Action was taken because of belief that such a program would be hurtful to audiences at games played at Geneva and Hamilton same afternoon."

Andrews expressed regret that Piety fans and students would not be able to see the first Irish-Orange game in many years. "Apparently Colgate was not contacted by the district committee," Andrews said, "and evidently lodged an immediate protest when a public announcement of the telecast was made."

Andrews further said that "we do not feel that the closed circuit telecast . . . would have hurt the Colgate-Rutgers game."

ted president of the Council.
Robert Burns, chairman of the area of Cultural Foundations of Education, has the backing of the Democrats and Liberals in his campaign for Commissioner of Education. He is seeking one of the three vacant seats on the seven-man commission.
The 39-year-old Burns, who has been at Syracuse for two years, was active in "Pat" Brown's election as governor of California.
Also running under the Democratic banner is Webb S. Fiser, professor of political science. He is running for the position of councilman-at-large.
Fiser has served on the Near East Side Urban Renewal Project and the Health Department Review Committee. He also was a member of the Citizens Council on Urban Renewal.

Stepsinging Contest Set to Begin Today

Stepsinging competition will begin at 6 p.m. today, Pam Dillon, chairman of step singing, announced Monday. Sigma Alpha Iota, women's music honorary, and Eta Pi Upsilon, senior women's honorary, are co-sponsors of the event.
The schedule of rounds is: Round I — today, tomorrow, Thursday, Round II — Monday, Nov. 13; Wednesday, Nov. 15, Round III — Tuesday, Nov. 23 (semi-finals.) Round IV — Thursday, Nov. 30 (finals).
Entrants will dress in black skirts, white blouses or sweaters.
Groups are to be seated in the Chapel no later than 15 minutes before they are to sing. If groups are not fully present and in their assigned seats at the proper time, they will forfeit their eligibility to sing. Each group will have an usher direct them to their proper balcony.

The alma mater will be sung first and then the Christmas carol.
The best entries from each division will be picked to return for Round II. Winners will be announced the same night.
In order not to interrupt classes, the rounds have been scheduled as follows:
Today: 6 p.m.—Kappa Delta, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, 6:15 p.m.—Tri Delta, Delta Gamma, Sigma Kappa.
Tomorrow: 6 p.m. Chi Omega, Kappa Alpha Theta, 1:15 p.m.—Haven, Geneva, Shaw.

Fitzgerald And Wiley Disagree In Debate

ternities accepting members of minority groups just to show the weren't prejudiced. "If we said we would welcome all, I doubt it would be helping" to eliminate discrimination — those accepted "would be miserable."
He explained, "We cannot go out and extend our arms to minority groups because it takes an amazing person to come into a house and live there. This man will have a lot of weight on his shoulders." Fitzgerald said that he could definitely see the point of the group Dr. Wiley referred to as the "white Christians." Dr. Wiley used this group as an example of the members of the average discriminatory fraternity.
Dr. Wiley was against the hero approach. "I don't want freedom rides over all issues." He suggested the House accept several of these persons, saying, "Why not open up with a great roar?"
"Sororities are more deeply implicated in this," Dr. Wiley said. Fitzgerald seemed pleased that time didn't allow for discussion of sororities. "So long as I am representing the 'white Christian Protestants,' and not being a 'white Christian Protestant,' I doubt I can represent the sororities."
The first daily newspaper in the United States came into existence on September 21, 1784 in Philadelphia when the tri-weekly Philadelphia Packet and General Advertiser became the Pennsylvania Packet and Daily Advertiser.

Richard the Lion-Hearted says:

I would never have surrendered England ... if I'd had Jockey support

C'mon, Rich! You're rationalizing. Jockey support might never have secured you against the Emperor. But it certainly would have provided snug protection against the physical stresses and strains of your active life. Your armor never tallied a cost of mail more knowingly than Jockey tailors a brief — from 13 separate, body-conforming pieces.

1. Other "imitation" briefs (copies of the original Jockey brand) have no more Jockey support than a limp loin cloth.
2. Richard the Lion-Hearted, 1157-99, surrendered England and a huge ransom to secure his release from Henry VI.

World Government Predicted by Prof In Cit 1 Lecture

"Sooner or later the whole world will be under one government," stated Professor Eduardo Mundlane at a Citizenship lecture on "Conflicting Loyalties" yesterday in Hendricks Chapel. Mundlane, pointing to the United Nations as the organ which could eventually develop into a world government. In response to questions about what ideology would be encompassed in a universal government, he replied, "Unless a common system of economics is developed through compromises, we will continue to have these tensions and conflicts."

The speaker stated that the contemporary brand of American capitalism is a hodge-podge of capitalism and socialism. The professor asserted that the people of the world must look toward the United Nations which was created out of man's desire to achieve peace.

A visiting professor in the sociology and anthropology departments here, Mundlane is a native of Mozambique in southeast Africa. He was educated in Johannesburg, Union of South Africa, and in London, Portugal. Mundlane earned his M.A. degree at Northwestern University and his Ph.D. from Harvard.

Dr. Mundlane said that he had had to make many adjustments as his environment changed from his small self-contained community to the bustling cosmopolitan cities of Lisbon, New York and Chicago.

"Unfortunately," said the speaker, "man is endowed with the capacity for adjustment." As his horizons increased, the professor told how his attitudes and loyalties changed.

Comparing the plight of the American Negro to the position of the African, the lecturer asked how Christians could preach that all men were the children of God and then could turn around and discriminate against Negroes.

No Blue Books, Many Red Faces

At 7:35 p.m. Monday, Robert Piper of the Citizenship 10 staff entered Maxwell Auditorium and told the students that their midterm was locked in a filing cabinet and the key could not be found.

"We thought we might give you an off the cuff exam," Piper continued, "but the blue books are also in the cabinet." He then left to aid the other staffers in search of the key.

Piper returned five minutes later and told the assemblage that the exam had been canceled.

"Be prepared," he said, "to take the exam during the Wednesday lecture." The staff might also give a take home exam or one on the following Monday discussion section, he said.

"We haven't made up our mind," Piper concluded. The overall theme of the semester's work asks, "Is there a future of will in American decision making?"

AEC Selects 3 SU Grads

Three 1961 Maxwell graduates have been selected for the 1961 Management Intern Program of the Atomic Energy Commission. Selected were Alvin L. Alm, William S. Reed and Charles B. Yalish.

The AEC selects 25 college and law school graduates each year to begin a one-year training program in Washington and field offices. The AEC due to special qualifications required does not come under the Civil Service, but instead selects its own recruits, according to George Finger, personnel officer of the New York Operations Office.

Over the years, the Maxwell School has supplied the AEC with more management interns than any other graduate school.

Syracuse graduates have compiled a very favorable record, according to Finger, and he hopes to again visit the Maxwell School again this winter to interview prospective graduates for the program.

Debate Team Wins at Rochester

Varsity debaters Chris Lucas, David Binss, Paul DeSantis and Bill Sittig won half their debates against the University of Rochester, Cornell, Buffalo and the Rochester Institute of Technology at the annual St. John Fisher Debate Tournament last weekend. Debators from eighteen New York colleges and universities were present at the five-round Tournament.

Colgate Posters To Mark Finis Of Long Rivalry

Tau Sigma Delta, honor society in Architecture and Applied Arts, has announced plans for a poster contest during Colgate Weekend. The contest, marking the end of football competition between Syracuse and Colgate, will follow the theme of the weekend—"The Last Hurrah."

Cups will be awarded to winners in each of four divisions: 1. Fraternities; 2. Sororities; 3. Large living centers; 4. Small living centers.

Small men's and women's living centers are permitted to collaborate on the posters.

Applications can be obtained from Sarah Howell, 500 University Pl., GR 6-3249 or ext. 2741. They are due, with a fee of $1.50 at the registration desk between noon and 5 p.m., November 8, on the first floor of Slocum. Judging will take place between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. on November 10. Prizes will be awarded at the Pop Rally on Friday night. This is the last poster contest!

The two most popular features of the first American penny papers, the humorous treatment of police court news and the reports of sensation criminal trials, were borrowed from the English press.

Murray to Discuss Fallout Shelters

In the event of an atomic attack, how will a family, living in a small cramped fallout shelter, behave? What are the expected environmental and psychological stresses the family will be put through?

These are two of the questions that will be answered by Dr. James Murray, assistant professor of psychology, in his lecture on "Environmental Stress and Adjustment I: Fallout Shelters."

Dr. Murray has served as a consultant on psychological problems in fallout shelters for the Federal Civil Defense Office. He is also scheduled to appear on CBS Reports: "In Case of War," on Thursday, November 9 (10-11, p.m. EST) over WIIEN-TV. Dr. Murray's lecture is the fourth of an 11 lecture series dealing with the problems of surviving an atomic blast and the resulting fallout. The series is sponsored by the Civil Engineering Department of Syracuse University.

His observations and conclusions about psychological behavior in fallout shelters have been drawn from studies of people during the bombing of cities in World War II and a number of recent experimental studies of groups actually living in shelters.

UAR Press Chief To Address Arabs

Saadat Hasan, chief of press and public liaison of the Arab States Delegation office in New York City will speak before the Arab Students Association of SU at 7:30 p.m. today in the auditorium of the E.L. White College of Law.

The lecture entitled "The Struggle for Freedom in Algeria," is part of Algerian Week, which designates the end of the seventh year of the Algerian struggle for freedom, according to Nuhad Kanaan, vice president of the SU group.

Walsh Elected Mayor Over 3 Rivals; GOP Wins By 7,557

By ALAN G. MILLSTEIN
Junior Editor

Republican William F. Walsh easily defeated three opponents for mayor of Syracuse yesterday.

Syracuse continued its tradition of electing Republican mayors by giving Walsh a 7,557 plurality over Henry R. Norman, his strongest rival.

Unofficial returns showed Walsh with 37,011, Norman, the Democratic-Liberal candidate, with 29,454, Dr. Joseph Gross, Dynamic party candidate, with 11,892 and Paul C. DeBernardis, the Independent Party candidate, with 1,276.

A Republican victory was apparent as soon as the first returns were available shortly after the polls closed at 7 p.m. Walsh led throughout the vote counting and unofficially carried 15 of Syracuse's 19 wards.

Voting on the clear, brisk election day was moderately heavy with 78,000 people going to the polls.

Sixth ward supervisor Norman conceded the election at 8:50 p.m. before a saddened crowd in his headquarters. Rudy Norman, the candidate's brother and campaign manager, quipped: "I guess the people of Syracuse just aren't ready for reform."

Roy D. Simmons, assistant football coach, was the only Hill faculty member to be elected to office. Webb S. Fiser, associate professor of political science, and Robert W. Burns, associate professor of Education, both Democrats, went down to defeat in their quest for elective office.

Simmons, a Republican, was re-elected President of the Common Council by 4,967 votes. His Democratic rival Richard Moser polled 32,859 and Simmons had 36,946.

Losing in his bid for Councilman at Large was Fiser who polled 33,072 against his opponent's 35,427.

Burns was running for Commissioner of Education in Syracuse and was defeated in a close race. All three Republicans up for the office won.

The county charter proposition appeared to be winning approval by a narrow margin. The hotly contested issue was winning favor in the city, but meeting opposition.

Hill Professor Challenged By Purdy

A member of the Syracuse Board of Education recently took issue with Hill Prof. Robert Burns' criticisms of Syracuse schools made during Burns' campaign for Commissioner of Education.

In a letter to the Daily Orange, Robert D. Purdy, Assistant Director of the Research Department of the Board of Education, said that Burns was "quoted as making certain statements that are not in concurrence with our research findings."

Purdy objected to four statements Burns made at a meeting of the Syracuse University Young Democrats Club Oct. 23.

Purdy disagreed with Burns' allegation that "51 percent of the staff in the Syracuse public schools are not fully certified." Only eight percent of the teachers are improperly certified, according to Purdy.

Burns also stated that "exceptional students and backward students usually go unnoticed." Purdy said that the Syracuse schools have recognized that exceptional children present unique problems and have "embarked on school programs... to meet their needs."

The Board of Education official also condemned Burns' statement that Syracuse public school students fall 20 percent below the national average on the standardized Iowa Test of Basic Skills. Purdy claimed that Syracuse students were in the 97 percent of those who took the test.

Dr. Murray Gives Psychological View of Shelters

By DAN RITEY

If an atomic attack was to come, and even if there was an adequate fallout shelter system for the populace, it is quite possible that many people would not run to the shelters as they should. This was one of many views offered in a lecture given by Dr. Edward James Murray.

Dr. Murray, an assistant professor in the psychology department, gave his lecture yesterday in Hinds Hall. The talk was the fourth in a series of eleven sponsored by SU Civil Engineering Department.

"Environmental Stress and Adjustment in Fallout Shelters" was Dr. Murray's topic. Dr. Murray received his AB at Columbia, his MA at Duke, and did his work for his Doctorate at Yale. He has worked as a clinical psychologist for the U.S. Army, and did similar work for the Civil Defense Office. He has been on the staff of the University for the past three years.

On Television

In addition to the lecture given yesterday, Dr. Murray is scheduled to make an appearance on the television program "CBS Reports: In Case of War." This program will be presented over the air on Thursday, November 9, (10-11 p.m., EST) over WHEAT-TV.

A variety of psychological problems were presented by Murray. They were divided into three broad areas: Pre-shelter, shelter and post-shelter problems. Dr. Murray drew his information from experience gathered from World War II shelter life, literature on natural disasters, studies of men under stress, and the experiences of people who have lived in simulated fallout shelter conditions.

A major pre-shelter problem as seen by Dr. Murray, is the public's general apathy to the (Continued on Page 8)

ISO, Fraternities Battle to Defeat Hill Discrimination

By ADAIR DUFINE

Charges of discrimination on the part of the fraternity system have been dispelled by the recent acceptance of international students as social and board members of various Greek houses, said Tirandez Irani, president of International Student Organization. Beta Sigma Rho is the first house to offer such privileges to international graduate students.

Speaker Tells Of Algerian Freedom Fight

Saadat Hasan, the chief of press of the United Arab Republic and public liaison of the arab state's delegation in New York City, spoke to the Arab Students Organization in the auditorium of the School of Law. His topic was, "The Struggle for Freedom in Algeria."

Hasan confirmed his remarks to describing the phases that took place in the Algerian-Franco conflict and the impact of this conflict on Arab-Western relations.

Even since 1830 when the Algerian-Franco conflict began, said Hasan, "The French have tried a policy of assimilation and have failed."

Finally in 1947, the French government passed a law making Algeria part of metropolitan France. The Algerians were not consulted about this or given any say in the matter and a wave of protests followed the decree, he continued.

Hasan then said, "I feel that no people in the history of mankind have sacrificed more for freedom than the Arabs of Algeria."

On Nov. 3, 1959, the Algerian people declared that they would settle for nothing less than complete independence, including equal rights for everyone and no special privileges for the European colonials.

The extension of full board and social facilities to any international student on the campus has also been provided by Beta Theta Pi, and considered by Phi Sigma Delta. Irani has stated that three other Greek houses have offered these privileges to foreign students on the Hill.

These international social members of various fraternities will also be considered rushing material and freely taken in the house as active brothers, said Irani. Earle W. Clifford, Dean of International students, as well as university contracts for undergraduate international student board. In this way, American students will be able to meet and benefit from close contact with international students, as well as the promotion of cultural relations between both, said Irani.

This new precedent, has taken a major step in opposition to charges of discrimination, Irani stated. The tremendous step taken by Beta Sigma Rho, Beta Theta Pi and Phi Sigma Delta, said Irani, in the light of all discriminatory charges, is "just the beginning for ISO fraternity relations."

International students are strongly urged to "go out of their way and make this plan a success, starting a precedent which is bound to end in mutual benefit," said Irani.

International students may sign up for this program in the International Student office and response should be immediate. The new trend warrants the full support of the entire university student body, Irani stated.

Extending boarding and social facilities to graduate international students, Beta Sigma Rho chancellor, Milton L. Joffe said in his letter last week that Adolpho Lopez has been a part of our house, we have found the mutual exchange of ideas and culture through our contact in the house has already made our experiment successful and rewarding.

Adolpho, an international graduate student from Spain, takes his meals regularly and attends all social functions at the house, said Joffe. This active answer to the question of discrimination, (Continued on Page 7)

COLGATE GAME SEATING PLAN

The Joint Student Government Executive Board has announced the following policy to be enforced for student stadium sections at the Colgate game.

Only students with reserve seat tickets will be allowed in the gates before 1 p.m. At 1 p.m., students without reserve seat tickets will be allowed to enter and may take any seats not taken at that time. ## Professor Off Campus

Maxwell's Michael O. Sawyer

By KEN NORWICK
Editorial Director

A fire crackled in a small, neat fireplace, New Orleans jazz floated about from a radio in another room, and Prof. Michael O. Sawyer spoke.

"Every year I tell myself that next year I'm going to get organized," he said, "and every year I find myself just a little more disorganized."

But it was clear he wasn't complaining.

Currently the director of the Maxwell Citizenship program, Dr. Sawyer is an associate professor of Citizenship and Constitutional Law and a member of over a dozen campus and civic committees and commissions. Among other things, he is a member of the city Charter Commission, the University Senate, and the Maxwell Executive Committee.

He explains his great activity thus: "It's a good thing I wasn't born a woman... I just can't seem to say 'no'."

College Students

Keenly aware of and sympathetic with the activities and problems of today's college generation, the soft spoken educator ardently denied that modern students are apathetic and overly security-conscious.

"I've never known a more able group of people," he said, "When faced with the proper challenges, they are important and exciting." He cited as evidence the overflow crowds of Syracuse students in attendance for such campus visitors as Robert Frost and Ayn Rand.

"College students may not be up to what is needed today," he said, "but then, who is?" He said that modern students haven't the "sense of urgency" needed today, and that "they don't go far enough to take advantage of what they have to offer."

But he maintained that they were "great."

A confirmed bachelor ("How else will I get to the next to bed window?"), Sawyer maintains a comfortable three-room dwelling at 711 Euclid Avenue. He describes the house as "illegitimate American" and "fourly twentieth century ugly." He spends most of his time, however, at his family homestead ("for five generations") 20 miles from campus in Baldwinsville, New York.

Happy Teacher

Obviously happy teaching, Prof. Sawyer can't understand why everyone doesn't want to be a professor. "It's so attractive a life," he mused. He has no intentions of ever leaving the teaching field, except perhaps temporarily, for, as he puts it, "why (Continued on Page 7)

Men on Horseback

It seems that a publisher from Texas told President John F. Kennedy at a Washington banquet that "We need a man on horseback to lead this nation and many people in Texas and the Southwest think that you are riding Caroline's tricycle." In an age where men on horseback brandish atomic weapons instead of swords, in a country that supposedly prides itself on the election of leaders who are men of the people instead of mythical war gods, publisher E. M. Dealey of The Dallas Morning News seems to enjoy living in the past. America's need now is not for men on horseback but for men of insight and intelligence. Our need is for men of a faith and determination that can instill courage and strength for the future in the American populace. Men on horseback become a means of escapism for little men on the ground who are afraid to face reality. This Texas critic of President Kennedy seems to have gotten lost in an illusory vision of an America that should exist only in the minds of romantic young boys who are not yet old enough to play with guns. Publisher Dealey's reactionary kind of prattle is symbolic of a whole train of American thought that espouses military panaceas for problems that are completely un-military in nature. They are people who forget that America's future and her salvation lie not in her armed might but in her institutions and ideas.

Kennedy's answer was simply that he had the responsibility for over 180,000,000 lives and he just isn't as ready as Dealey to throw them all away.

Michael O. Sawyer

Today's Professor Off Campus is Michael O. Sawyer, a man who is particularly endeared in the hearts of Hill students for his warmth and personal charm, but especially for his way of practicing what he preaches—faith in the maturity, intelligence and potential of Syracuse students. We are glad to pay whatever tribute we can to him.

Conservative Comeback

By ALAN MILLSTEIN

The slaps taken at so-called "campus liberals" by another DO columnist a week ago last Friday were indicative of the type of thinking that has overcome a great segment of today's public.

A large segment of Americans who are genuinely frightened of the future have been turning toward conservatism as a possible solution to the growing difficulties of the mid-twentieth century world. In fact, conservatism seems to be making its biggest comeback since the hysteria filled days of the Joseph McCarthy witch-hunts.

Since the death of their vociferous leader the conservatives have had their political role eclipsed by a more moderate Eisenhower type American public. But it now appears that the right set of conditions has caused a lifting of heads from the sand.

A recent poll conducted by the Gallup research team indicates that a far greater percentage of Americans consider themselves to be "conservative" rather than "liberal" in their political outlook. The poll seems to substantiate the claim by leading conservatives that they do form the greatest political force in the land.

Ever increasing world tensions and daily news reports of worsening Russian-U.S. relations seems to have frightened a lot of Americans into thinking that America-first groups, like the John Birch Society, offer better solutions to international tensions than does the liberal leadership at Washington.

The Sunday October 29th edition of the New York "Times" presented a study of "right-wing" conservative groups in Southern California. The "Times" reporter in Los Angeles observes that "not since the pre-World War II heyday of the America-First movement in the Midwest . . . has there been such an upsurge of appealing for adherents—and apparently getting them."

The "Times" indicates that the basic appeal of conservatism is based on anti-communism and pro-Americanism. It is the "Times'" belief that "many of the patriotic pieters also weave in contrapuntal themes—anti-big government, anti-United Nations, anti-integration, anti-income tax, even anti-flouridation of drinking water."

Most of the active groups now operating in California are not composed of run-of-the-mill crackpots. During the latter part of October a dramatic illustration of the resurgence of conservatism was made by the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade before 12,000 people in the Hollywood Bowl.

The Crusade, the "Times" says, has replaced the John Birch Society as the most popular right wing group in Southern California. An estimated 4 million people watched the Crusade's rally in a three-hour television broadcast hosted by movie talent like John Wayne, James Stewart, Pat O'Brien, George Murphy and Jack Wagner.

Politicians like Rep. Walter Judd and Senator Thomas Dodd joined the actors on stage. The publisher of "Life" magazine, C. D. Jackson, told the assembled throng that the "great privilege to align 'Life' magazine with . . . the rest of these implacable fighters."

To the Editor:

There has been much talk of re-evaluating the goals and ideals of the fraternity system on this campus. I would like to bring to the attention of the editors a fraternity on this campus which runs on the principles of service to the campus and the community.

At the mention of this fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega, most students respond with blank faces. This fraternity, which has no racial or religious barrier, combines service on campus with many social activities throughout the year. There services include, to mention a few, helping out in the student infirmary, cleaning up the campus after Colgate Weekend, and sponsoring the Ugly Man Contest for Campus Chest.

If the social fraternities could incorporate just a few service activities for the campus, instead of making their house the whitest and brightest on campus, it would go a long way in bringing up the standards of the fraternity system in general. This, in turn, would help build up a pride in the school which, I feel, is strongly lacking on this campus.

To the Editor:

On Wednesday, November 1, thirty valiant ladies braved Syracuse's chilling weather to publicly express their abhorrence to the potential destruction of mankind by nuclear explosions. They joined the thousands demonstrating in communications across the nation. Telegrams and other communi-ques were sent to President Kennedy underlining their sentiments.

Into Clinton Square marched the Syracuse contingent. They were mostly silent, but the signs they carried spoke loudly of their purpose. Some had brought their infant children.

In due course the ladies returned to the Hill, walking across this apathetic campus. A few occupants of houses along University Place and Euclid Avenue scanned the only curious (and disrespectful) witnesses.

Apparently Mr. Kennedy is as deaf as Klhruschke; even now our very self-righteous nation is plying for resumption of nuclear bomb testing. In case our civilization is to pass away within this generation of one people with gross mutants, I hope that someone will imple his God to bless those who demonstrated and dared symbolize our dying hopes.

If hope is yet alive let us sue the Congress and the President for a referendum. It is just possible that the majority of Americans don't want a better bomb nor even those we have now.

David A. Anderson
Graduate Student

To the Editor:

It is quite obvious that Larry Arnold, the assistant band director, is new to the Syracuse campus, if he can accuse the Daily Orange of printing "only the false, the dirt, and the ignorant." In my four years at Syracuse, the DO has always printed both sides of a story and constantly strives to present controversial views on important topics to make its readers think.

To say that letters aimed against the band are "false," etc. shows ignorance on the part of the writer, as these are opinions and thoughts of interested persons, not mock-making articles to be taken personally by the new band executives. They are constructive criticisms that should be heeded.

Mr. Arnold appears to be making a Helen Trent story out of this year's marching band. What is the real story behind the Syracuse Marching Band? Stay tuned tomorrow to see if the band can brave the barrage of criticism published by that organ of a newspaper, the Daily Orange.

Let's get down to cases, Mr. Arnold. It is not the duty of an outgoing band director to contact freshmen for the following season. It is the duty of the incoming man to procure new recruits, to know what his responsibilities are, and not to wait until the administration spells out these duties.

The band has played at every pep rally that I can remember and there are many men in the band from last year that know this is one of the band's functions. . . .

I certainly hope that the band will become the best even in spite of that mean old Daily Orange, but the only way to accomplish this is to learn by experience. A few bad breaks at the start for a new band director can be very disheartening but with the spirit displayed by his assistant's letter, I am sure the band will make a comeback. And after watching the Penn State march on the vision I am confident that they are on their way.

Verse Play by Fry Given at Lively Arts

Editors Note: This production, one of the series by the Drama Department being presented at the Lively Arts, will be played again Nov. 15 and 17.

Funny and bubbling, the Christopher Fry lyric poured onto the stage of the Lively Arts Coffee House Friday night for a full hour in "A Phoenix Too Frequent." To the delight of the coffee-drinking patrons, the play was found to be well rehearsed and extremely palatable.

Somewhere along the line the feeling that these were only students performing grew indistinct, and disappeared altogether. The humor and dynamic irony was projected from the small stage area with studied theatricality, by those who seemed less like amateurs than true students of the dramatic art.

The play is about the Auntie Mamish kind of grieving widow, more in love with grief than possessing it, who readily forgets her sorrowful loss when she meets a youthful Roman soldier. The situation is made more farcical by the action taking place within the tomb of Dynamonic's dead husband, and by the presence of the dozing servant Doto, who feels it her duty to outdo her mistress in grief.

Burlesquing Antony and Cleopatra, Fry's funny affair was made more effective by the use of verse and stylized characters. And even if there was a little irreverent spoofing done toward Shakespeare and all the high-tragedies, the play was still competent and original in concept.

Yet the drama did more than just poke fun at self-destructive lovers, and well wishing servants. Below the thick humor there lies some pretty strong jabs at the total stupidity of a woman where love is concerned. She is completely and selfishly taken up by it. There is no room for anything else. At the time she has it, she would rather die than lose it.

But as soon as it is lost, the first handsome face she sees will undo all the grief she is sure she feels. Again she will die for love.

Such is the weakness of women as Fry, author of "The Lady's Not For Burning," states it in "A Phoenix Too Frequent." Brilliantly acted and directed the play showed Ann Hatzel as Dynamonic, Marsha Jacobs as Doto, and Rick Miller as Thapfus, with Jack Gilhooley directing.

All gave smooth performances, but Miss Jacobs' Doto came especially to the fore. She gave the character a conspicuous vitality, and in turn gave the play a lot more interest value. The roles were coordinated skillfully under Mr. Gilhooley's direction, and no rough spots could be detected. Indeed, the evening was filled with quality, comedy and thought.

Borge to Present Concert at War Memorial Friday

"The funniest man in the world," according to New York Times critic Brooks Atkinson, is coming to Syracuse this weekend. Victor Borge, world famous comedian-pianist will present a concert at 8:30 p.m., Friday at the war Memorial.

Borge proved that his was a one-man show without precedent when his "Comely in Music" ran on Broadway for nearly three years, chalking up 849 consecutive performances. It was the longest solo run in the history of the theater, both here and abroad. His play, played all over the country and was hailed by the Hawaiian press as "the greatest thing to hit Hawaii since statehood" after his appearance in Honolulu last spring.

Making People Laugh The Oct. 1961 issue of Readers Digest commented in a story on the comedian that "his capacity for making people laugh defies definition."

And so does the program Borge will present here. Exactly what he will do is at the discretion of the artist. He keeps the audience guessing and many times does not appear to quite know himself what is about to come next.

Borge, a native of Denmark, came to the United States in 1940 almost penniless and unable to speak English. A promising career was cut short by the Nazi invasion of Scandinavia and he was forced to catch the last boat leaving Finland for America. Borge has risen from an unknown to a much sought after performer in a short 20 years.

Tickets are $1.50, $1, $3.60, $3 and $2.40. They are available at Famous Artists in the Clark Music Building, GR 1-0462.

Davis, Brown Remain In All-American Race

In the second polling of some 600 head coaches of the American Football Coaches Association, both Ernie Davis and John Brown were again named as candidates for the 1961 All-American football team.

The balloting, taken after six games, reduced the roster of candidates from 76 to 51, and is the last before the final All-American selections are made.

The coaches are polled after three and six games before the final decisions are made by an All-American Board of Coaches.

In addition to the two Syracuse players, six players of Orange opponents were nominated. Notre Dame placed three, with halfback Angelo Daberio, guard Nick Buoniconiti and fullback Mike Lind.

Penn State placed end Bob Mitinger and center Jay Huffman. Gary Collins, Maryland end, was also nominated.

Coaches Await Field House Ready for Use in January

By ALLAN KOET

Four Syracuse University athletic coaches are awaiting the January opening of the George L. Manley Field House.

Although the $2.1 million athletic plant will not be fully completed by January, the main arena will be ready for football, track, lacrosse, and baseball practice sessions.

"The field house will be a help to our entire athletic program, intercollegiate or otherwise," Athletic Director Lewis Andrews said. "For the first time our spring sports will have a place to practice indoors and the basketball team will be able to return to a totally collegiate atmosphere."

The field house, located at the corner of Comstock Ave., and East Colvin St., will consist of one main arena and two one-story wings. The main area of the structure will provide University athletic teams with a fully enclosed and heatable arena 300 feet in diameter.

Permanent seats for 2,000 are being erected in the main arena and 5,000 temporary seats can be put up for home basketball games.

All Sports

University athletic officials emphasize that the field house is being provided for the whole athletic program. "Any idea that the field house will aid only football is totally false," Athletic Publicity Director Val Pinchbeck said. "Obviously such a structure will aid football, but it will be of even greater value to other intercollegiate squads. The structure will also aid intramurals and physical education programs.

Cross-country and track coach

Bob Grieve said that without a field house, the track team has no place to practice. "If you haven't got a place to practice, you can't have a good team," Grieve said. Once the field house is completed, the track team will have a place for indoor meets and will probably have eight dual meets each spring as compared to our present schedule of two dual meets."

"For many years, our first game has been our first practice," baseball mentor Ted Kleinhaus said. "With the practice area, we'll now be able to get under way in February."

Football Coach Ben Schwartzwalder said that such a structure would be a refuge for the gridmen during early spring bad weather. "We have needed that building for a long time," Schwartzwalder said. "It's just as simple as that."

The nudge is permitted when a beautiful girl is sighted in an unusual place or at an unusual time.

LESSON 3 - Concerning self-control

Although we believe that girl watching has it all over bird watching, we feel that these two hobbies do share one important characteristic. They are both genteel. They both respect the rights of the watched. A girl watcher who asks a beautiful stranger for her name and phone number is like a bird watcher who steals eggs. (If the stranger happens to have a pack of Pall Mall Famous Cigarettes, and you're dying for a good, natural smoke, you may break this rule.) Normally, the girl watcher's pleasure is warm, quiet and internal. However, there are cases when a discovery is so dazzling it must be shared. Such a case is illustrated above.

Three On Hill Bone Brigade Return to Play

BILL SCHOONOVER

DICK BOWMAN

BOB LELLI

By MILT JOFFE
Junior Editor

The "bone brigade" of the Syracuse University football team will be cut considerably for the Colgate contest Saturday. Three more castles are off the broken hands and only two remain.

Fullback Bill Schoonover, who suffered his broken hand in the Nebraska game, will be back in the second string slot. He had moved past Gary Fallon before his injury.

End Dick Bowman, another second string sophomore, will be ready for action Saturday as will sophomore quarterback Bob Lelli. Lelli showed fine potential as a field general before his broken hand sidelined him.

The three join captain Dick Easterly, who returned last week after sitting out three weeks. Easterly, known as one of the team's inspirational leaders, took over that role against Pittsburgh and played a typically fine game. Also returning from the inactive list is fullback Bill Meyers, who sat out the Pitt game with a charleyhorse. He and Schoonover will swell the fullback roster back to three, two more than Saturday when Gary Fallon had to carry the full load.

Only two players remain on the cast of casted gridlers. Backfieldman Jim Gaskins and lineman John Paglio will be out another week but should be ready for the Notre Dame contest.

Stock in the Syracuse team and Ernie Davis, in particular, continues to rise in the wake of Saturday's convincing win over Pittsburgh.

Besides the Gotham Bowl bid already extended to the Orangemen, various other bowl committees have indicated interest in the Syracuse team. Latest among those to announce Syracuse as a leading candidate for post-season contests are the Gator and Liberty bowls.

Davis, new SU football record-holder, continues as almost everybody's All-American. This week he headed the list of players on the All-East squad based on last Saturday's games. Ernie's two touchdowns and 119 yards were the key factors in the Orange attack.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder is now looking toward the Colgate contest with what he would term, reservations. As he stated on his television show Sunday, "It's too bad that Colgate lost to Lehigh Saturday. They'll be tougher when they play us."

Ben continued in that dry tone in between humor and seriousness: "If they beat Lehigh they would have come into town with a better record than we have, and they could have been favorites, like they deserve to be."

Whether this was sarcasm or not, Ben should have plenty to smile about Saturday just from the fact that he will be fielding nearly a complete team for the first Saturday in many weeks.

The Pitt game, played under bad field conditions, did not increase the injured list as the Orangemen escaped without any serious ailments.

The Syracuse frosh travel to Hamilton Friday to end their season against the Red Raider yearlings. Jim Shreve's Tangerines have a 2-1 record and will be out to set the stage for the varsity's "Last Hurrah."

Piety Has Lead In Lambert Poll

On the strength of its decisive 28-9 victory over Pittsburgh last Saturday, Syracuse has regained top spot for the 26th annual Lambert Trophy, symbolic of Eastern grid supremacy. The Orangemen also jumped to 11th place in the Associated Press ratings.

Texas succeeded Michigan State as number one in the nation by trouncing Southern Methodist 27-0. The previous leaders fell to 6th on AP and 7th on UPI after dropping a 13-0 decision to Minnesota. Unbeaten Alabama, 24-0 in the ratings, followed by Rutgers and Army. Composing the second five were Villanova, Pittsburgh and Boston College, with Holy Cross and Princeton tied for ninth. The unbeaten Longhorns from Texas collected 473 points on AP, as compared to 410 for second-ranked Alabama and 365 for Ohio State, Louisiana State, 10-7, conqueror of previously second rated Mississippi, advanced to the number four slot, and Minnesota took over fifth on its convincing win against Big-Ten foe Michigan State.

The Spartans dropped to 6th on AP and Mississippi went from 2nd to 7th. Although Colorado won its sixth straight, beating Missouri 7-6, it remained in eighth place, one step ahead of Georgia Tech. Tech rumped over Florida, 20-0, but fell two notches to ninth, while Missouri hung on for the tenth position.

United Press also picked Texas, Alabama, Ohio State, LSU, and Minnesota for the top five spots respectively. Rated on UPI was Georgia Tech, with Michigan State ranked number seven and Mississippi number eight. Colorado and Missouri completed the UPI selections in the top ten.

The second 10 teams consisted of Utah, Purdue, Maryland, UCLA, and Arkansas, followed by Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Northwestern, and Rice. Syracuse gained a tie with Nebraska and Auburn for 21st on United Press.

This week, Texas opposes Baylor in a Southwest Conference game and Alabama takes on Richmond. Ohio State travels to Indiana in quest of its sixth victory, while Louisiana State has a tough assignment at North Carolina. Minnesota and Iowa launch at Iowa City in a crucial Big Ten contest.

Mississippi expects little trouble with Chattanooga. Colorado seeks its seventh straight as it entertains Skyline-conteuder Utah. Georgia Tech meets Tennessee and Missouri faces Oklahoma in Big-Eight action.

Texas, Alabama and Colorado remain the only unbeaten, untied teams in the first ten.

'Russia Has Its Difficulties Too' Says Ex-Dean of Maxwell School

By ANN CUTLER

In spite of current public opinion, Russia has as many difficulties as the free world, said Harlan Cleveland in a recent speech in Binghamton, N.Y.

Cleveland, former Dean of Maxwell School, delivered the speech in Binghamton, N.Y. He adapted it for the New York Times Magazine of November 5, 1961.

The opinion that Russia has no problems nor has met with any setbacks in the "cold war" stems from many sources, said Cleveland.

Disasters always rate more news space than good news, stated Cleveland, thus the public has been treated to a picture of the "unbroken retreat of the West before the juggernaut of international communism."

Cleveland gave three reasons for this bias. First is the prolific output of those who have come to believe that because the communists want to conquer the world "they have a master plan for world conquest and one that must by definition succeed."

Second, is that world affairs are covered as though it were a world series of two teams, one of which must win and the other lose at the end of the game. According to Cleveland this system of world affairs sports reporting has adopted a curious system of scoring. "If our side doesn't bat 1,000 for the season it turns out we are losing."

Thus if the United States is forced to give up 10% of what it wants in order to get the other 90%, the encounter will probably be reported as another Communist gain.

Third, "those who speak the loudest seem to be those who are confident that Khrushchev is confident." Some of them go straight to Communist sources to reconfirm their convictions of the eventual victory of Communism, said Cleveland.

Our historical background too provides reasons for the current American way of thinking on the foreign situation, commented Cleveland.

Our history has not prepared us for setbacks on the international scene, thus we naturally assume that everything must always go just the way we want them to.

We use a largely military vocabulary to describe "the war called peace" complete with weapons, fronts and strategy. This, said Cleveland, leads naturally to talk of victory and defeat.

We approach problems with the idea that if there is a problem, there must by definition be a solution, said Cleveland.

Our conviction that there are only two sides to a problem one of which must be right and the other wrong, leaves no room for mutually exclusive descriptions of the same thing. Both sides are right, thus creating the problem, said Cleveland.

These factors all contribute to a "crisis of confidence" on the part of public opinion, which could be more dangerous to our national security than the arms race, said Cleveland.

If we continue to believe that Khrushchev has a monopoly on confidence and that toughness in U.S. foreign policy consists of belligerence untempered by brains or skill, then the crisis of confidence will grow and we will be continually frustrated, stated Cleveland.

In fact, said Cleveland, if we take a calm clear look at things from the Russian point of view, we may have a distinct advantage.

All this, said Cleveland, leads to the conclusion that toughness in American foreign policy should consist of standing firm against aggression while seeking a basis for negotiation, and that is what our current foreign policy is.

Rogers to Discuss Journey to Russia

By ANDY PORTE
Dean of the School of Education Virgil M. Rogers, who returned from a visit to the Soviet Union last week, gave a preview Tuesday of a talk he will present in Maxwell Auditorium Monday.

Rogers said that he was invited by the National Education Association to lead a group of American educators on a journey to the Soviet Union last month. The purpose of the tour was to examine the Soviet educational system, talk with Russian educators and note developments in Soviet education in the last two years.

The trip marked the second time that Rogers has visited the Soviet Union. His first venture behind the Iron Curtain occurred five years ago when he accompanied a similar expedition.

While in the Soviet Union, Rogers visited not only the large cities, but also some of the southern provinces. Major cities that he visited were Moscow, Leningrad, and Kiev. In addition, the group visited the province of Georgia, near the Caspian Sea, and spent time on several collective and state farms.

The group observed various kinds of schools, both public and private, and visited several universities. According to Rogers, the group observed "significant changes and developments at both the school and university level."

As a sidelight to his trip, Rogers told of the experience the group had in East Berlin after the barrier separated East and West Berlin. When the educators left the United States, it had not yet been constructed.

While the expedition was in Russia, the wall dividing Berlin was constructed. However, Rogers said, the incident was not reported in the Soviet press. Arrangements for the return trip, which had been made many months in advance, called for the plane to land in East Germany.

The East German government did not interfere with the plans, according to Rogers, and the plane was allowed to land at the Schoenefeld Airport, near East Berlin. From there, however, the group was quickly escorted to the Friedrichstrasse checkpoint. Rogers said he was "very surprised" to see the situation in Berlin, since he had heard nothing about it during his stay in the Soviet Union.

The white-haired but youthful Rogers has been at Syracuse for eight years, all as dean of the School of Education. Before coming here, Rogers was superintendent of school in Battle Creek, Mich.

chase after the train once you're on it."

Commenting on his three-times alma mater, Syracuse University, Sawyer said "I like it much . . . it's really a great place." He said that Syracuse has greater variety and diversity than any other college or university with which he is familiar, ("and I know a lot of them"), and that at Syracuse is assembled "a truly fascinating conglomeration of different people."

"And, of course, it has the Maxwell School."
As a Republican, Sawyer considers himself a "non-conformist among social scientists." Although he concludes that there's not much difference between the two major political parties in America today, for what differences there are, he prefers the GOP.

His personal choice as the Republican presidential candidate in 1964 is Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. He explains the current popularity of the conservative views of Sen. Barry Goldwater as a manifestation of the "understandable yearning of a people for a less complicated life, a life in which clear-cut solutions are possible. Young people, especially, are greatly attracted to simple solutions."

Sawyer refers to President Kennedy as "a nice young man who is doing a pretty fair job in incredibly difficult times."

Law Student
Describing himself as a "some-time student at law," Dr. Sawyer expects that by the time he's ready for Social Security he'll receive his law degree. "There is a close correlation between law and the social sciences," he said, "and it should be closer." He defines the law as "a great attempt to make some sense of the human predicament."

He describes the "human predicament" as a race between "they"—the forces of non-civilization—and "us." "They're always gaining on us," he said, "and it takes a great effort to keep a leap ahead."
He is sure "the sun is going to shine tomorrow, or, if not tomorrow, next week."

Borrowing a phrase from university Vice President Frank Flisak, Sawyer described today's college students as "in the process of becoming adults." He feels that American universities are "over-protective" of their students.

He said the main business of a university is to "encourage students to be students," and that enough should be asked of students so that they spend most of their time as such. "A lot should be expected of students, given freedom, and if they do not live up to their responsibilities, they should be separated from the university."

"There is a fine balance," he said, "between expecting a high standard of student conduct in the university community and the avoidance of enforcing standards which are not appropriate to the student population."

When he has the time, Sawyer enjoys sailboating on Skaneateles Lake, 19th century American art and the study of "ancient bachelorhood." He has a "thing" for New Orleans jazz, and reads "the same things everybody else reads."

"I used to look forward to the day that I would have more time to myself, to be reflective, but now such thoughts just make me feel old . . ."

"Oh! is one thing Dr. Sawyer will never be.

Parady asserted that 51 percent of the students of the class of 1959 furthered their education beyond high school and 28.8 percent entered a four year college.

Burns has asserted that a controversy about these statements could only hurt the schools. He added that "if he (Parady) is not concerned that such a give-and-take will harm the schools, then I propose to make my statements and others verified."

"This plan was started last year by a graduating senior, and became reality this Fall mainly through the efforts of Paul Atkins, a junior brother," Joffe said. The house is currently discussing this plan with two other international students from Kenya and the Orient, in an effort to expand the program.

Richard Miller, IFC president, stated that this precedent started with the international students in a "good fight for the future." Fighting the recent rash of discriminatory charges, Miller felt this new trend will be discussed by the IFC and further plans will be made.

These houses and the ISO fully support the change in rushing policy and intend to dispel the accusations of the past few weeks.

'ON' Sponsoring House Contest

The annual house contest has begun. The staff of the 1962 ON announced that eight pages are reserved, two each for fraternities, sororities, independent men's and women's living centers. The underclass house or living center that sells the highest percentage of ON's in proportion to the number of underclassmen will be awarded two pages of free publicity.

Each living center has an ON representative to take orders. The yearbook sells for eight dollars, but students are permitted to make a five dollar down payment now and pay the balance on March 1.

This year the ON staff announced that greater emphasis is being placed on concerts, speeches, lectures and sports than in the past.

Dr. Murray Gives Psychological View of Shelters

typic of fallout shelters. People pretend that the problem does not exist — they prefer not to discuss or even think about such matters.

Reasons

Dr. Murray offered some reasons for this behavior. First of all, he said, up to now the Federal Government has done little to alert the people to the shelter issue. Under the Kennedy administration, this situation is being partly resolved, he said.

Furthermore, Dr. Murray pointed out, people have the feeling of their own invulnerability. That is, they have the feeling that "it can't happen here" or "it won't happen to me." Until a bomb does fall, most people will continue to live by such delusions.

In conjunction with his statement that people probably would not run to shelters in case of peril, Dr. Murray cited the example of all the sirens in Chicago going off to celebrate an event. Many people at that time did not know that the sirens were sounded to celebrate. Yet, when they did sound, most people ran into the street to see what was going on, while others called friends to relay the news.

This is the opposite of what should have been done. People should have sought shelter of some sort instead of running out into the streets. This example, said Dr. Murray, showed that many people do not comprehend the meaning of the sirens and the use of shelters.

Panic Problems

Dr. Murray next discussed the problem of panic on a large scale due to an attack. This panic may take the form of frenzied people running around the streets, it might be people who have lost or forgotten the basic social and moral concepts, or it might take the form of fights dealing with shelter inhabitants—"who am I going to share this shelter with?"

Despite this gloomy outlook, there might be order during an attack, said Dr. Murray. He cited examples which stated that there might not be such great panic, that the main impulse may be to get out of the fallout zone. People would be very frightened, but they would probably retain some sense of control.

Dr. Murray pointed out examples of the heroism of the Japanese people in Hiroshima. Great risks were taken to save a person's life, and, although there were cases of panic, these were in the minority.

Person at Work

The person who might be at work at the time of an attack would have a unique problem, said Dr. Murray. This person's first thought would be his family and how he could reach them. He would be tempted to leave a shelter and go home to be with his loved ones.

A moral conflict would arise concerning the use of one's private shelter, said Dr. Murray. The owner would be faced with the decision of letting neighbors in and overcrowding the shelter, or turning them away and leaving to certain death due to radiation.

Commenting on the Soviet Union's fallout shelter program,

DR. EDWARD J. MURRAY

Dr. Murray said that the belief is that the Russian people are better trained to dash to their shelters in time of emergency than are the Americans.

Little is known about their actual program, but it is believed that they are experimenting with the use of natural fallout shelters. One such shelter would be the middle of a forest, where the trees might screen a lot of the harmful radiation.

Here in America, Dr. Murray pointed out that the administration was planning to distribute fallout shelter information to the populace, while, at the same time, architects were roaming the country to find suitable shelter sites.

Dr. Murray compared the large shelter to the small, or family shelter. The large shelter would be advantageous because of the likelihood of more facilities and the presence of more trained personnel. This type shelter would, however, cause many problems of a social and psychological nature.

The small shelter, on the other hand, would have a family and/or a close knit group of people living in it. This would tend to cut down on problems arising from people not being able to get along with each other. A major disadvantage, however, would be the lack of available services and skills, such as a doctor, in time of emergency.

It was further pointed out that despite the advantages and disadvantages of either type of shelter, if an attack was to come the average person would probably not have much of a choice concerning the shelter in which he will stay. Therefore, despite the various choices, a person may wind up in surroundings completely different than what he had expected or had been told to expect.

tion in some of the outlying towns in Onondaga county.

Republicans captured three Democratic places on the county Board of Supervisors and the Democrats picked up one seat. Minority leader Norman had his sixth ward supervisor's post won by a Republican.

In New York City, Mayor Robert F. Wagner won a smashing third term re-election bid over Republican Louis J. Lofowitz and an independent Lawrence Gerosa.

With 4334 out of 4765 election districts reporting in New York, Wagner unofficially had 1,068,070 to Attorney General Lefkowitz's 697,025 and Controller Gerosa's 290,427.

Wagner's impressive win which was not unexpected in heavily Democratic New York City makes him only the second man ever to be elected mayor for three terms. Fiorello LaGuardia was the first to win three terms.

The holy contested New York

City race pitted Wagner and the reform elements in the Democratic party against the Republican candidate and old-line Democrats who bolted to support Gerosa. Wagner now is a prime contender to run against Nelson Rockefeller for Governor next year.

In New Jersey, the Democratic candidate Richard Hughes appeared to be squeaking out a victory for governor over former Eisenhower Secretary of Labor, James P. Mitchell. The race was still undecided at midnight and it appeared that every vote would count toward a victory.

There have only been three Democratic mayors in Syracuse this century. County Republican Chairman John Hughes told the D.O. that the Walsh victory is "a vote of confidence for the party in the community."

Republicans felt their victory was the result of three things: excellent state of candidates, unusually hard work by party faithful and a good Republican program in capital administration.

IFC Meets Tonight In DellPlain Dorm

The Inter-Fraternity Council will discuss discriminatory clauses at 7:30 p. m. today in the Dell-Plain Lounge.

President Richard Miller said IFC hopes to dissolve rumors and charges with careful investigation of each Greek charter on the Hill.

The housing committee, formed at the IFC fall conference, will give a detailed report on progress made to date. Created to act as an intermediary between the administration and the fraternity system, the committee has presented the views of various houses and suggestions from IFC to the administration.

James Tallon, rushing chairman will report on changes in freshman rushing rules. The IFC freshman rushing convocation, which has been changed to Nov. 19, will be outlined.

Plans for Greek Week, which will combine the efforts of Panhellenic Council and IFC, will be presented by Chairman James Hornell.

IFC Challenge Frosh to Rush

By ADAIR DUFINE

The fraternity system, charged with clauses of bias and discrimination, challenged the freshman class to rush and see, for themselves, if these accusations are firmly based.

This challenge was made at the Inter-Fraternity Council meeting last night at DellPlain lounge. Thomas Rigoli made the recommendation and stated that changes are constantly occurring, especially within the Greek system. The freshmen can evoke these changes and dispel the unwarranted discriminatory publicity, said Rigoli, if they take this challenge.

IFC President Richard Miller urged all Greeks to take a stand in this question, and take on the responsibility of publicizing the good deeds of the system, which will eventually overshadow those which are less desirable, he said. No Need to Defend

"We don't have to defend ourselves," said James Tallon, rushing chairman. "Being all fraternities men, we know the rules and ideals of the system, and uphold them. Rushes should come to all houses and freely ask about clauses and if they decide not to rush, we don't want them," he stated. Recent publicity should only interest freshmen to come and find out for themselves, felt Tallon.

A strong drive, on the part of IFC, was outlined by Jim Tallon for the "Go Greek Weekend." The rushing committee, charged with arrangements, will meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. in room 204, Hall of Languages, to finish all plans.

Allotted one hundred dollars by the IFC, this committee will project a massive publicity campaign for the Greek system during the rushing period. Car stickers and buttons will be provided, said Tallon. The intent of this campaign is to sell the fraternity system on the Hill, not the individual houses, he stated.

Murray Cites Problems Of Fallout Shelter Life

By DAN RITEY

The main problem of Civil Defense experts after an atomic attack would be to keep the living standards in the shelters high enough so that the inhabitants would not leave them until safety was assured.

Dr. Edward J. Murray noted this problem in a lecture given recently in Hinds Hall.

Murray used as examples, the results of two fallout shelter test cases. In both cases, the lack of water, high temperature, the lack of room and privacy were the chief complaints of the test subjects.

First Tests

The first test was given under the auspices of the U.S. Naval Radiological Center. In it, 100 prisoners from nearby rehabilitation center were used as subjects. Fresh with their hair, they were a handful of trained Civil Defense men. The test subjects were kept in a simulated shelter for a two week period (two weeks is considered the average time that people would have to remain in a shelter

An invitation has been accepted by Professor David K. Cheng to attend the Golden Jubilee Convention of Chinese Institute of Engineers, November 13-16 in Taipei, Taiwan, Republic of China.

Cheng, professor of electrical engineering in the Syracuse College of Engineering, will leave Syracuse today and stop in San Francisco and Tokyo en route to Taiwan.

His attendance at this institute has been made possible by a grant from the sin Foundation.

Cheng will participate in symposiums dealing with microwave communication. On November 14, he will present a paper, "Some Recent Points in the Design of Microwave Communication Systems" and on November 15, a paper, "Linear Antenna Arrays as Sampled Data Systems." Both presentations will be given in English since there is a great deal more complexity in using electrical terms in Chinese. Robert McDowell, Assistant to the Dean, College of Engineering, stated.

Cheng will also lecture to students at the Electron Institute of National CHIAO-TUNG University in Taiwan, the only graduate school of electronics in Taiwan, and the National University of Taiwan which is the largest (Continued on Page 7)

Lack of Interest In Student Govt. Cited by Farr

"The fact that students forever complain and gripe about student government but won't lift a finger to work for its strengthening really annoys me," stated Sam Farr, a member of the Executive Governing Board, acting in absence of Elizabeth Evans, president.

He pointed to the fact that the announcement of the open positions for justices of Joint Student Court has appeared every day for the past two weeks and to date there has been two applications. The real crux of this situation, stated Farr, lies in the fact that these positions should have been filled from the freshman class last spring, but due to a small number of applicants then the filling was postponed to the present time.

"These positions provide the best possible opportunity to really get into important positions in student government," he said. JSG controls all cases not concerning cancellation of registration. (Continued on Page 8)

The Board will also hear a report by Dr. Frank Piskor on the proceedings of the University Senate. Vice president Francis Wingate will give the report of the Treasurer.

Student Out For Drinking

A Hill student has been "suspended indefinitely" for "a second violation of university policy on alcoholic beverages while already being on probation for a first offense," according to Dean of Men, Charles Clifford.

The Dean's action came Tuesday morning. The case was not referred to the student court, Clifford intimated, because only one decision was possible in such case where a student is already on probation. The student's name was not revealed in line with customary policy by the Dean of Men's office and the Daily Orange.

Murray pointed out that the persons in the second case had only eight square feet per person. Same Complaints (Continued on Page 7)

By JOHN LINDEROTH Junior Editor

The "worsening" problem of student drinking at home SU football games has prompted pressure from various sources for the administration to take action to resolve it, according to Sam Farr, associate chief justice of the Joint Student Court.

Hill Warned On Drinking

In effect, the students are being given their last chance to demonstrate "self-restraint" concerning drinking at football games this Saturday at the game with Colgate.

Farr stated that resident advisors and the president of IFC have been told of the ultimatum and that he felt that JSG should take action to notify those not in block seating that if the situation does not improve this week, serious preventive measures will be necessary next season.

These measures will be undesirable for all concerned, said Farr, as in effect the students will be asking for "policing measures."

"Everyone is aware of the problem, and all should cooperate in its resolution for the members of the three classes effected next year," he remarked.

Farr emphasized that by student notification of the impending change given to students, he felt that JSG was doing the students a favor by possibly helping prevent behavior that would cause undesirable restriction to be placed on students attending football games.

All Students Involved

He also remarked that it wasn't solely the results of past action by those in block seating, but that students in general were guilty of breaking a policy that students agree to abide by when they enter the University.

He concluded that if the students try to realize the administration's point of view and all cooperate and by themselves, outside restrictions will be unnecessary.

ND Telecast Gains NCAA Approval

Reversing an earlier decision, the NCAA television committee has decided to allow a closed circuit telecast of the Syracuse-Notre Dame football game from South Bend, Ind., on Nov. 18.

Last Saturday, the NCAA committee had denied permission to have the game telecast live into the War Memorial. But Wednesday afternoon the University received a telegram from Asa Bushnell, NCAA TV program director. The telecast status of the problem had been re-studied in the light of new information, and the telecast had been approved.

Athletic department officials hope to have tickets on sale for the telecast at the Archbold ticket office starting this afternoon. The price will be $1 for students, $2.50 for the general public.

Students will need ID cards when purchasing tickets, and also for admittance to the War Memorial Nov. 18. Kickoff will be at 2 p.m. No reserved seats will be sold.

Fraternity Action

Some Hill fraternities along with representatives of the International Students Organization are beginning a program of placing foreign students on board and room contracts. At first glance this would seem to be a progressive step towards further integration. Even more encouraging is the supposed fact that some of these houses are considering pledging such foreign students. These houses are to be highly congratulated for finally coming up with a constructive program towards the abolition of Greek prejudicial practices. It is especially heartwarming that the Greeks are finally waking up to the fact that there are foreign students on campus and that the world does not revolve around ancient fraternity mysticism. Indeed ISO President Tirandez Irani is to be highly congratulated for leading a breakthrough in this area.

There are, however, some questions that remain to be answered. It is imperative that the Greeks make it known whether or not their invitation is open to foreign students from Asian and African nations. And it is also imperative that the Greeks reveal what their future plans are concerning Negro and Jewish students on campus. So far, these questions have not been answered to any degree of satisfaction.

The Election

The surprising victory this past weekend of Texas' liberal Democratic candidate for the House, Henry B. Gonzalez, was indeed indicative of yesterday's sweeping Democratic victories. These election returns seem to show a groundswell of grass roots support for President John Kennedy, especially since Kennedy actively campaigned for many of the candidates. In New Jersey, Democratic gubernatorial candidate Richard Hughes was the underdog but still defeated a former Eisenhower cabinet member. New York City's Robert Wagner, whose opponent was greatly supported by Governor Rockefeller, won by a large margin. And even in traditionally Republican Rochester, N.Y., a Democrat was elected mayor. Only in Syracuse did the Republicans win a significant victory. These victories will be especially important if President Kennedy can utilize them to gain an added impetus in his fight with his moderate Congress.

HANDS OFF

On Votes And Voters

By JACK HANF

During the recent city elections the party workers were seen once again with their perennial cry: "Get out the vote." They swarmed throughout the city cajoling and almost coercing eligible voters. They tried to watch babies while harassed mothers went to the polls, and drove the crippled, aged and infirm to get to their polling places.

This is certainly not bad in itself, but one cannot help but object to certain results it created or helped to create. Many of the voters who did vote in this and in most other elections were ill informed as to the issues and the qualifications of the candidates. They simply made either a random guess as to whom they should vote for, or voted blindly on party grounds, which is probably just as bad.

This type of voting does no good either for the government or the individual. It distorts the real feelings of the electorate and can lead to the election of incompetent public officials. Uninformed voters have no place at the polls if there is to be good government.

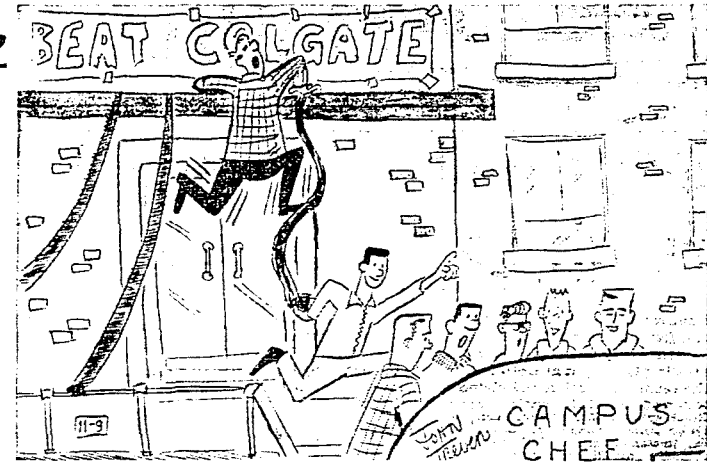

The stigma which the "get out the vote" boys have managed to place on the non-voter does as much harm as it does good. It not only induces much irresponsible voting, but it puts the conscientious protester on the spot. Party propaganda tends to jump all non-voters in one category, apathetic. This term has been bandied around for many years, and careless application has weakened and almost destroyed its significance.

Classed in this nebulous category are not only those who care too little to vote, but also those who care too much to vote for inept candidates. The independent voter gets the right in the neck through this propaganda. Many times these non-affiliated voters hold positions which are not represented by any of the candidates, and they refuse to support voters which they cannot in conscience condone.

Also important is the fact that almost always these voters have no voice in the choosing of candidates. Since only registered party members are allowed to vote in primary elections, the independent is usually left unrepresented and championless. Although there are some cases when informed groups of independents band together to support a separate candidate, the divergent views of such people usually preclude the effectiveness of such "third party" movements.

To those who feel that such people should find their political outlets in working for or with the major parties, one can only say that this is impractical. Since they have no voice in the party councils and the primary elections, the political leaders tend to disregard their efforts to make their views known. These leaders prefer to use the

To the Editor: The recent comments in letters to the editor and in editorials in the Daily Orange have raised several questions regarding discrimination in fraternities and sororities on this campus.

The troubling aspect of these remarks is that there has been a marked lack of clarity from at least two groups who are intimately involved in the question. They are: the Greeks themselves and the personnel administration of the university.

Silence on the part of these groups would indicate that the questions raised by Dr. Wiley and others have considerable merit.

It would be helpful if this central question to the life of this university were aired publicly with representatives from the Greeks, the university administration, and those critical of the situation. Otherwise, it will appear that we are afraid to deal with an issue essential to our humanness.

To the Editor: I wish to thank the Daily Orange staff for selecting so competent and efficient a music critic as it currently employs. It is in line with other such aesthetically endowed people who have held this job in the Past.

I suggest that the anonymous R.L. be allowed to review math, physics, philosophical presentations, etc. since apparent ignorance of the field is the quality necessary for the good critic.

To the Editor: There's not a day of my life that I don't thank God for having attended Syracuse University during the years when Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, that old rugged optimist, was the pastor of the University Avenue Methodist Church!

To the Editor: Last Wednesday in a letter to the editor a Mr. Gordon Hills expressed his shock at the appalling complacency and indifference which American students exhibit regarding the threat of nuclear warfare. Mr. Hills said that students in Europe (where he studied for two years) have organized nationally to protest against the continued nuclear arms race.

It is certainly a poor reflection on American students that we sit here and do nothing while this great threat to mankind goes steadily mounting.

Undoubtedly at least some of the students on this campus must be quite indignant about the present series of Soviet nuclear tests, and especially at the sarcastic, devilish way in which Soviet Premier Leonid Khrushchev ridicules the desires of the peoples of the world and callously breaks promise after promise.

I believe that the first organizations which should take action on this matter are the campus political parties. They should pass some anti-nuclear test resolutions and get vigorous student demonstrations rolling.

In this matter of political awareness concerning the so-called "cold" war, the campus functionaries seem most indifferent in informing the students is the Daily Orange. You will pardon me if I make some comments about last Wednesday's DO, in particular.

That particular issue contained a veritable treasure of an article by a Mrs. Dille, concerning the problems of storing water and food in a fall-out shelter. A more useful and stimulating article for college students I couldn't imagine!

Another article, entitled "How Ugly is the Ugly American," which called attention to a student panel meeting run partly by foreign students to consider "well-intentioned" American efforts in foreign countries that have "backfired," is a prime example of my biggest complaint regarding the whole American outlook.

Why can't we Americans push our own interests into the foreground; why can't we formulate a firm United States policy and give foreign countries a clear picture of our position. Then they would have someone to look up to, instead of worrying about our obvious national indecision. This would have the second advantage of letting the Communists know just where we stand!

The DO seems to be just another one of those sickeningly indeterminate agents of "democracy" who cannot stand firmly on their feet and come down with a decisive anti-Communist policy, recognizing the fact that this country is presently engaged in a very real fight for world freedom.

SU Hockey Club Seeks Financial Assistance, Student Body Support

By RON ROBERTS

The ball was started rolling to provide some form of University aid or assistance to the Syracuse University Hockey Association at a special meeting Tuesday night.

Dick Van Winkle, organizer and president of the year-old club, presented his group's current financial situation and requested the organizational progress of the club to date to Dean of Men Earle T. Clifford, Director of Athletics Lewis P. Andreas, and Assistant Director of Athletics James A. Decker.

Van Winkle said that the organization is naturally eager to become a varsity sport of the University, but that they realized the setbacks and channels to do this are quite involved. Therefore, Van Winkle expressed the club's desire to attain some sort of assistance or underwriting to help them along this season, and work up to a varsity sport in the future.

Need Support

"We are not looking for full financial support," said the president, "but we are looking for some monetary support."

He explained that the team, consisting of 30 students, has been able to rent the ice at the State Fair Coliseum, has purchased an insurance policy of $13.70 a man, and has uniforms costing $26.05 each.

An arrangement has been worked out with the Syracuse Stars professional hockey team for using the State Fair ice rink. Each of the college hockey club's games will be a preliminary to a pro contest. The Hockey Association would like to sell tickets on campus at a student rate of 60¢ for both games, but this must be okayed by the University.

Andreas, speaking for the athletic department, said that he was in favor of such a team, but that his office could take no action until the organization actually became an intercollegiate sport.

Andreas in Favor

"I'm in favor of all sports," Andreas said, "hockey or any other. But all I can do is execute the policies set up by the athletic board."

Andreas stated that if the club is able to become sanctioned as a University sport, then his department would take over full direction and aid, as in all cases.

Dean Clifford also favored the idea, and offered to bring the isssue before the Personnel Committee Thursday. On Friday, Van Winkle and Dean Clifford will meet with Dean John S. Inhofe about the club, and then the plan will be presented to the Student Services Committee.

The main problem at this time is which administrative office should control the account. In expressing his approval of the club, Dean Clifford said "I'd just as soon have this as a point account in my department if this is acceptable."

Account Possible

An account, if established, may provide some financial aid to the organization or may simply provide an account for the club to use themselves, without any University funds.

Voluntary coach of the team, Dick Johnson, told the administrators present that he has taken up the cause of the group because he "finds 30 kids working 250 hours (free rink construction) and no one to help them. It seems to me that somebody in the university must be interested in what these students want to do," said Johnson.

If the organization is allowed to sell tickets, and are able to transact a transportation agreement with the local bus lines, the fate of the sport may well depend upon student interest. If there is enough support behind the new activity, it stands a very good chance of becoming a varsity sport in the future.

The Hockey Association has set up a tentative schedule which includes "home and home" games with Colgate, Rochester Institute of Technology, Hamilton College, Rutgers University and Ithaca College.

how quiet is quiet?

Cats are notoriously silent in their singularly feline way. But even the most stealthily trading tomcat could take lessons from the men at Ford Motor Company whose job it is to track down and suppress unwanted noise in vehicles.

At our Ford Research and Engineering Center in Dearborn, engineers have created a unique room without echoes, virtually duplicating the perfect stillness that exists miles above the earth's surface.

The "Silent Room", as we call it, is a chamber utilizing fiber-glass wedges as sonic "blotters" to soak up noise emanating from subjects undergoing developmental tests. In this acoustically sterile environment, electronic instruments seek out the source of vibrations, rattles, rumbles and squeaks so that they can be eliminated in production.

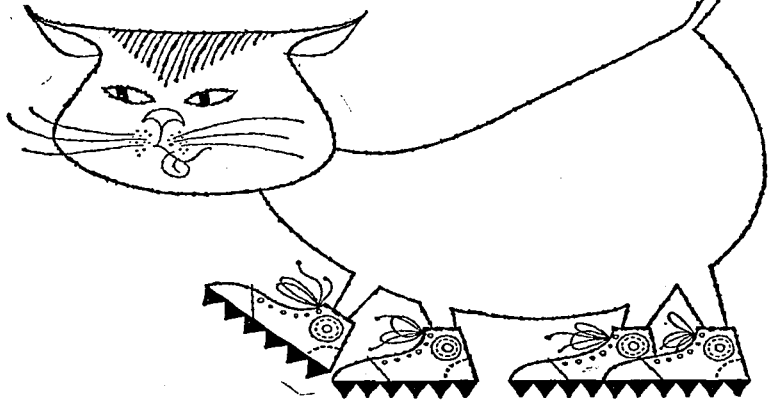

This scientific approach to silence is but a tiny facet of the many-sided program of pure and applied research which goes on daily at Ford Motor Company. It is another example of Ford's leadership through scientific research and engineering.

Fiji, Watson WI Vie For Grid Title

By DICK STOKVIS

The on-side kick, a rarely used "gimmick" in football contests, played a significant role Wednesday evening, as Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and Watson West I dorm scored victories to reach the final of the University Intramural football championships. The teams will decide the title tonight at Lew Carr Field.

Tau Epsilon Phi, which employed the short kick so successfully in trimming Sigma Alpha Mu Tuesday night, saw the same maneuver fail against Fiji, as the Phi Gamers eked out a 7-6 decision. Watson West I trounced East 2, 18-2 in the second game.

With snow falling heavily, and the gridiron covered with a white blanket, Watson West I didn't waste any time in pulling the same trick. Gaining possession of the ball after their surprising short boot, West I marched 40 yards to score their first and deciding touchdown.

Following a safety by East 2, the Westerners scored again on an end sweep. A second on-side kick late in the contest paid off, as Watson West re-gained possession and hit pay dirt on a nifty 20-yard pass play. All three conversion attempts failed.

In the first game, Fiji received a break when TEP was called for pass interference on the two yard line. Two plays later Phi Gam scored and were successful on the conversion try as end Bobby Lewis hauled in an aerial.

TEP, which repeatedly rallied to come from behind and win in earlier contests, appeared to be on that trail again.

With Larry Godman calling signals, TEP methodically marched down field toward the Fiji goal line, but the losers were forced to surrender the ball on downs.

After holding the victors on their own one, Phi Gam punted, and TEP started again at mid-field. Passes to Muley Winkler, Bob Wing, and Ed Mulvan resulted in two first downs and brought the ball to the eight. Two plays later, Goldman arched a pass to end Tom Eversley for the score.

But the boys of Phi Gamma charged in to halt Goldman's conversion pass, and subsequently the last threat by TEP. It was here that the TEP on-side kick went awry, and Fiji gained possession and ran out the clock.

Sigma Alpha Mu faces Dell Plain 2 for the swimming championship this afternoon.

NCAA Lists Ernie Davis 4th In Scoring, 8th In Rushing

Despite scoring two touchdowns in last Saturday's conquest of Pitt, Ernie Davis dropped from third to fourth place in the national scoring race, according to NCAA statistics released this week.

UCLA's Bob Smith, who collected 23 tallies in Saturday's game with California, surged into third place. Smith has a campaign point total of 70, which includes 9 TDs, 10 extra points, and 2 field goals.

Davis has counted 11 TDs and 2 extra points for a point total of 68. By coincidence, Utah State's Tom Larscheid's remained tied with Davis. Davis and Larscheid were tied for third place last week.

Davis' fine rushing performance Saturday enabled him to vault from eleventh to eighth place in the ground gaining race. Davis, who has averaged 5.4 yards per carry, has gained 580 yards in 108 carries.

Dan Keating, Colgate's fine field general, ranks fifteenth in total offense with 806 yards gained.

Murray Cites Problems

Water was the main cause of discontent, followed by the temperature conditions (higher temperature tended to make people sluggish and irritable). Criticism was leveled at the fact that there was little or no room for exercise. The usual complaints dealing with overcrowded conditions and lack of privacy were supplemented by added gripes concerning the behavior of others.

Phases of Adjustment
Murray noted that there were various phases of adjustment to life in the shelters. The first reaction was one of confusion marked by extensive running around. A shelter had Civil Defense men in it, they would move into action soon after the initial confusion. These men would set up work shifts, plans for shelter living and would get the people working on setting up their cots.

After the anxiety period, came the time of great depression among the people. Morale would dip sharply, and people would long to get out of the shelter. This desire increased as the time in the shelter increased.

Claustrophobia
Another prevalent feeling among all the people was that of claustrophobia - the feeling of confinement. As time went on, however, people felt that the walls of the shelter were actually expanding; claustrophobia declined.

It was pointed out that people in these tests could leave if they wanted to, but that in a real situation, of course, this could not happen. In the real situation, Murray said, people in shelters would not regard their plight as a game, on the contrary, they would try their utmost to survive.

The effects of food deprivation would be a slowness in action and concentration, concern for bodily functions and increased worry over their loved ones out of the shelter.

Necessary to Survive
It was stressed that water would be a necessity to survival. One could live for quite a while without food, but after four or five days, one could not go on without water.

A lack of oxygen in the shelter's air supply would lead to depression among the people at first, then this would be followed by a feeling of giddiness. This shortage of oxygen would be more dangerous than a food or water shortage. The effects of an oxygen shortage would be hard to notice, and would come on gradually, while the latter's effects would be readily apparent.

Murray stressed the importance of shelter leadership and communication between shelters. Communication would be valuable as a morale booster, a check on radiation and a way of finding out when people could leave the shelters.

Post-Shelter Problems
Certain post-shelter problems were pointed out by Murray. These were: a loss of social institutions, a loss of moral and social ideals by the survivors, and probable riots due to a shortage of food and water.

It was suggested that the leaders in the shelters prepare their people for the shock of leaving the shelters. Behavior would depend on the person's own moral code and what was left of social institutions.

Murray ended his lecture on a positive note, despite the nuclear war and shelter life, the survivors would probably be closely joined, both in families and in society. Usually, the best in people would be brought out in the actions of the survivors-in and out of the shelters.

Colgate Rally to Feature Twist Party

Winding its way through the campus, the last Colgate weekend pep rally will twist to a halt today at the library steps.

Starting out at Flint Hall at 7:15 p.m., the rally will be led by the cheerleaders and band. The Racoon Squad, sophomore publicity committee for the weekend, will also be on hand to generate enthusiasm.

Traveling down the Mount, to College Place, across University and back toward the main Quad via Comstock, the rally will finally halt at the library.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder will address the crowd briefly and members of the football team will also be introduced.

A twist party will climax the rally on the Quad at 9:15 p.m. Pudgi Paresiense will provide entertainment for Syracuse twist-ers.

The rally kicks off the final Colgate Weekend celebration, now in its 71 year. Victor Borge will perform at the War Memorial Friday and the weekend closes with the "Sophomore Hop" at the Mensa room Saturday. The dance begins at 9 p.m. of Men, Earle W. Chiffert, whose topic is "Administrative Views of the Fraternity System at Syracuse University." Other speakers for the evening are Dick Miller, Mr. Menzies, Jim Tilton, and Gary Davis. A question and answer period will be held at the floor meetings in individual dorms, with visitations of undergraduate and alumni IFC members.

The question of chaperons at fraternity functions was brought up by Warren Kin. He suggested the reconsideration of faculty chaperons by the administration. Fraternities were asked to present this proposal to their houses and invited all suggestions from the Greek system.

The resolution for the formation of a housing committee at the IFC fall conference was passed by the council. This committee will present all housing problems to the administration on the part of the Greek system.

Meet at Houses

It was suggested by various members of the IFC to hold their meetings in individual houses, which could hold the council. Fifteen houses stated that they had the facilities to provide a meeting place for the IFC. President Dick Miller urged this move, since it would project a more suitable atmosphere for discussion and avoid inconveniencing the administration for a meeting hall.

The current recommendation for university membership in the National Student Association was opposed by the IFC. Since the N.S.A. states that "fraternities are economic detriments to equality and should be abolished on every campus," the Inter-Fraternity Council, on behalf of the Greek system, resolved this recommendation be rejected.

Closing the meeting, Dick Miller called for the members of the IFC to bring more constructive ideas and make the council an active part of the Greek system.

tion, he remarked.

Also he mentioned that JSG cooperates with class governments, assigning them certain projects upon which to direct their efforts, such as a list of contents for a student union and the development of an "academic atmosphere."

Farr went on to remark that many students feel that they have no way of getting their views across to those who can have some effect, namely the administration.

But he said that the results of student polls can be passed along to the administration through a personnel committee consisting of several deans and vice presidents.

"There can be no student government without students willing to work for it, and no satisfaction can be derived from ineffective student government," he concluded.

DO CLASS SET

A Daily Orange class for new staffers this year will be held at 4:30 p.m. at prefab 7 today. Attendance is strongly recommended.

Rogers Correction

The Daily Orange yesterday in a story on Dean of the School of Education Virgil M. Rogers misinterpreted Dean Rogers in two instances to Rogers.

According to Rogers, the group he accompanied visited public and boarding schools, not public and private schools, as the DO reported. "There are no private schools in Russia," he said.

Secondly, the DO misinterpreted Dean Rogers' account of his experiences in East Germany. Previous to the landing in East Germany, Dean Rogers had been well aware of the construction of the wall separating East and West Berlin, but he was unaware of any armament movements to the border, because of Russian press censorship.

62-Year Tradition Ends; Raiders Invade Archbold

Visitors to Face Spirited Orange

By RON ROBERTS

When the Red Raiders of Colgate carry their 4-2 record into Archbold Stadium at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, they'll run face to face with a Syracuse team featuring a new spirit and the novelty of depth.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder attributes the new spirit to the return of Dick Easterly to the line-up last week, and is more than pleased with the return of four more ball players this week.

"When we got Easterly back we got a great lift," said Ben. "With Easterly and Stemmie we've got leadership and a new spirit."

"We're always supposed to be the bad guys and the clunkheads, with no spirit," continued Ben. "But we have always had spirit, and it's even better now."

The depth situation, which has hurt the Orange so much this year, is finally back to normal proportions. Sophomore quarterback Bob Lelli, and Dick Bowman, fullback Bill Schoonover, and halfback Charlie Gaskins have all shed the casts from their broken hands and are ready for duty Saturday.

Schwartzwalder thinks the returning ball players will be a great asset to the team, and believes that Schoonover, especially, will make his presence felt. "He'll be a big help to us," said Ben. "He is a real good football player."

End of Series
Saturday's contest will mark the end of a 62-game series between Colgate and Syracuse, and it will be the final Archbold appearance for Eric Davis, Dave

Kennedy Aide Says Four-Fold Problem Plagues Economy

Attempts Under Way To Solve Problems, Bolster Economy

A member of the three-man Council of Economic Advisors, Mr. Kermit Gordon, spoke yesterday at Maxwell Auditorium on the most prominent economic problems that the Kennedy administration has had to face.

The former Rhodes Scholar stressed that the four major problems were full recovery from recession, a higher rate of economic growth, a balance in the international accounts, and price stability.

Mr. Gordon emphasized that the inter-relationship of the individual problems made for a difficult situation. No one problem could be attacked without taking the other three into consideration.

While expressing optimism about the future of our economy, the presidential advisor pointed out that the outlook for the next 12 months was not so encouraging.

Some of the measures already taken to insure the complete recovery of the economy from the recessions of 1958 and 1960 involve the Export Credit Insurance Program and the reducing of foreign discrimination against U.S. products.

Sarette, Gary Fallon, Bob Stem, Dick Easterly and nine other Hill seniors.

Due to circumstances within our control, this weekend may get out of our control. Therefore, we ask your kind indulgence as we take Monday off. Control yourself, the Daily Orange will not appear on Monday so don't tear up the floor boards in the Hall of Languages or dig into the trash barrels in front of the library. You'll only come up with a back issue. In the interim we suggest slumming it and reading some of our competition, like perhaps the New York Times.

Colgate Rivalry Drones to Close

No more scalings! No more bonfires! No more Colgate Week-ends!

This is the "Last Hurrah": the final Colgate-Syracuse Weekend in the 62 year old rivalry. Scaping and bon fires have been banned and the classic rivalry drones to a close after the dance Saturday.

Chimexing the weekend is the Sophomore Hop, formerly known as the "Fifth Quarter Dance".

Clifford Explains University Policy Regarding Liquor

In order to continue clarification of the Syracuse University drinking policy, Dean Clifford has declared the following rules for conduct, in compliance with Syracuse University rules and regulations:

1. There will be no possession or use of any intoxicating beverages on University property—including Archbold Stadium.
2. Failure to comply with the above University rule will result in disciplinary action.

The "self-restraint" which appeared in yesterday's Daily Orange article is to be exercised in not bringing onto the campus or into the stadium any form of liquor, wine, or beer.

Failure to comply with the above policy, as stated in yesterday's article, may result in measures next year to curtail reserved seating privileges for University students.

Jack Kriescher's 10 piece band will provide entertainment at the semi-formal dance, being held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday in Gym A at the Women's Building. The weekend queen will be crowned at the dance, and Orange Key, Junior Men's honorary will put new initiatives.

Festivities began last night with a pep rally and twisting party. Band cheerleaders and mascot squad led the rally. Piety gridders also appeared, and Coach Ben Schwartzwalder addressed the crowd.

Following the final Orangemen-Red Raiders game, Sadler Hall is holding an open house twisting party at 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Many living center parties add to the celebration today, and fraternities and sororities are planning open houses after the game Saturday.

Both Syracuse and Colgate ruled illegal all form of the pre- (Continued on Page 9)

COLGATE GAME SEATING PLAN

The Joint Student Government Executive Board has announced the following policy to be enforced for student stadium sections at the Colgate game.

Only students with reserve seat tickets will be allowed in the games before 1 p.m. At 1 p.m., students without reserve seat tickets will be allowed to enter and may take any seats not taken at that time.

Reserve ticket stubs may be exchanged for reserve seat tickets from 3:30 to 5 p.m. today in the Trophy Room, Men's Gym.

Carol Rondeau to Reign Over Colgate Weekend Festivities

CAROL RONDEAU

Freshman Carol Rondeau of Livingston, N.J. was selected Thursday night to reign as queen of Colgate Weekend.

Members of her court are Elizabeth Goldschmidt, Julia Williams, Cinda Buswell, Susan Grievie, and Kristen Geckler.

Miss Rondeau has held the title of New Jersey Miss. She was a nominee for freshman class vice president and is vice president of Florida 2C.

Miss Williams, a senior art major from Dunkirk is a Joint Student Legislature senator and member of Alpha Phi.

A junior from Washington, D.C., Miss Buswell is a class executive council and Traditions Commission member. She is rushing chairman of Delta Delta Delta.

Miss Grievie is a freshman city student in the School of Nursing.

Miss Geckler, a junior fashion merchandising major from Kenmare, is a member of her class executive council, Traditions Commission and Delta Gamma. A Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge, Miss Goldschmidt is a junior elementary education major from Westbury.

Wiley Questions Greek Move

By ANN CUTLER

"Hurrah for a very small step in the right direction," said Prof. George Wiley, referring to fraternities who are extending full board and social privileges to international graduate students.

"I am a little amused," said Wiley, "by the way everyone cheers for this baby step as though the whole problem has been solved."

There is still a long way to go, continued Wiley. Foreign students always get special treatment. The minute somebody says there is prejudice against them, the administration puts pressure on the students to do something. This is not done in the case of Negroes, he said.

"In principle, the fraternities have a good idea, but I get the impression that it is being instituted on an immature level," stated Wiley.

It is nice that the fraternities want to include the foreign students in their activities, but the fraternities had better take "a hard look" at themselves if the plan is to work, continued Wiley.

The foreign students are serious about academics, whereas the fraternities do not at present put too much emphasis on this facet of university life, commented Wiley.

Differences like this must be resolved if this plan is to work, he said.

"The Greeks have rushed forward to beat the drums whenever something little like this is done, yet there have been many organizations who have invited Interfraternity Council members to defend their position, and in most cases they have not accepted this invitation," stated Wiley.

These refusals, continued Wiley, lend believability to the charges leveled against them.

Hunter Strike

The students at New York City's Hunter College staged a protest strike yesterday in the name of academic freedom. The strike was conducted and led by student leaders who had their own personal demonstration the evening before.

The strike was prompted by a ruling last month of the Administrative Council of the City University, the governing body for all the public city colleges, stating that no known member of the Communist party could be permitted to speak on any of its campuses.

Clearly then, this is not a narrowly partisan political dispute on communism between the students and administrators. As the Hunter College student government vice president exclaimed, "We are fighting for all speakers."

Last Hurrah

Tomorrow marks the end of a tradition that has become an important part of school for countless Syracuseans. However, the tradition has been dying and tomorrow it will be officially declared dead.

By REA TURETT
Question: What do you think of the demise of Colgate Weekend?

Art Irwin, '63: I'm sad. One of the important considerations determining the value of a university is the feeling of unity among the students and alumni, and, although current fads build up this kind of unity, you need traditions like Colgate Weekend to add a stabilizing kind of unity.

Early Tatum, '64: Breaking off relations with Colgate puts us in the class of a large football factory. The Colgate series dates back to the days when we played Ivy League schools and it gave Syracuse an air of being an intellectual institution.

Bill McDonald, '64: As far as Syracuse traditions go, it is very sad. Colgate Weekend has been going on for over 80 years, and I'd have liked to see it continued. But actually, we are just wasting our football team on Colgate.

Liz Lazar, '63: I wonder what they're going to put in its place. Colgate Weekend's been fun in the past and I'm going to miss it next year.

Rick Rudell, '65: Hurrah for the Last Hurrah!

Chris Anderson, '63: I'd rather see a real football game than support Colgate's athletic department.

Peter Farwell, '64: The university is going to have to find a weekend to replace Colgate Weekend, possibly Pittsburgh or Penn State. If they don't, Syracuse students will be missing a great deal.

Wayne Kerness, '65: I'm glad we won't be associated with Colgate any more in a football rivalry. Colgate has gone academic. I'd prefer to see a rivalry with Penn State.

Eoger Price, '64: It is a turn of events. We're getting out of Colgate's football class. We have a much better football team than they do.

Harris Dulany, '61 1/2: I think it is a good thing. There should be another tradition to replace it, and the most logical choice are Penn State or Pittsburgh. Unfortunately, both these schools already have traditional football rivalries.

Henry Lee, '63: I am disappointed that this tradition is ending. It is especially disappointing because in a few years Colgate is going to be a very prominent football power.

Bob Gearhart, '64: We're definitely out of Colgate's football class now and it is right that the tradition is ending.

Editor's Note: The death of humorist James Thurber last week was a great loss to the world of American letters. The following tribute to Thurber, excerpted from the current issue of "Time" magazine, was written by "Time" book critic John Skow.

The unicorn nibbled its last rose, and left the garden. But readers knew well enough what they had seen. James Thurber, who died at 66 last week, a month after an emergency operation to relieve a blood clot on the brain, was an aphorist of sad truths who mourned his times with laughter.

"There is no safety in numbers, or in anything else," he said. And, "It is not so easy to fool little girls nowadays as it used to be." He was a dreamer who knew that any, "ings of ordinary men to stuff their wives and put them on the mantelpiece, to bet the old plantation on an uncaught ace, while the paddle wheel goes round-poke!" He was a bad artist who drew wonderful, lumpy dogs, and was often mistaken for one of them by strangers who had never seen him throw a highball glass.

"Words were Thurber's obsession; in one of his stories drunken friends burst in upon the narrator, forlornly sober, to tell him of the words they had counted locked in other words:

There are lips in pistol
And mists in crystal.
Cats in eyeglasses.

What words are locked in "Thurber"? There is "true" and "her" (Thurber's battle of the sexes, of course); "hurt" (the battle does not go well); "rub" (Walter, Mitty, Waving, Hamlet); "rube" (the author was an Ohio boy); and "true" (it is harder to fool little girls these days).

But words of "brute," locked up with the rest? The answer is that Thurber considered himself, half-correctly, a rough, bruising satirist. "I am in a corner without being backed there," he wrote, "and I often come out fighting." To be thought a nice, lovable old character must have been as hard to endure as the slow conical business. "He bore both afflictions with dignity.

... He became a reporter for the (New York) "Evening Post," and sent funny prose to a feeble new weekly, "The New Yorker," which sent it back. But the magazine, in the 21st piece Thurber submitted, and after this, things moved fast. Harold Ross, the inspired Neanderthal who edited by the town system, promptly appointed Thurber the office Jesus (unofficial title: managing editor). Things fell apart, the center did not hold, and eventually Ross de-sanctified Thurber: "I guess you're a writer. All right then, Goddammit, write."

Thurber wrote, and he also drew. But Ross took no notice of him, not even the lowly little men that Thurber doodled. It was not until Harper & Brothers had paid good money for Thurber's drawings (in the "Sex Necessity") that Ross gave in, and up. He paid good money for the drawings, even defended them when a cartoonist complained about "that bad artist." Ross was severe. "Third-rate," he corrected.

... The humorist, he wrote, "knows vaguely that the nation is not much good any more; he has read that the crust of the earth is shrinking alarmingly and that the universe is growing steadily colder, but he does not believe that any, of the half-bred clowns as he is." Thurber's readers, all paid up members of the age of anxiety, knew very well that they were in bad shape, and so Walter Mitty's adventures were hauntingly their own.

As even his good eye faded, Thurber sketched and wrote with a black crayon on huge sheets of yellow paper. When the fog became too thick, he stopped sketching and learned, helped by his second wife, Helen, to write by dictation. . . The tall, white-haired man loved to walk, he wore mot-crouching wyes, fuddled dogs and all. Pessimism was for a man less wise, but wariness was only good sense.

The world is so full of a number of things, I am sure we should all be happy as kings," he quoted at the end of one of his fables. Being Thurber, and wary, he added, "And you know how happy kings are."

LETTERS

IFC, Reds Cited

To the Editor:
I would like to compliment the Daily Orange on its coverage of the IFC meeting last Wednesday evening. The fact that specific views were brought out that were on the minds of fraternity men is in itself a feat. I, as a member of the Greek system, can quite easily discern the attributes of fraternities.

As was mentioned Wednesday, there is no reason for my being on guard against any organization that has been in existence for many years and, in my opinion, will continue for an even greater number of years.

I hope, and expect, that the new, vigorous, independent-minded freshman class will do and see for themselves the various IFC fraternities, and then decide their value. I also hope they will find out for themselves about the wanting discriminatory clauses of fraternities.

To the Editor:

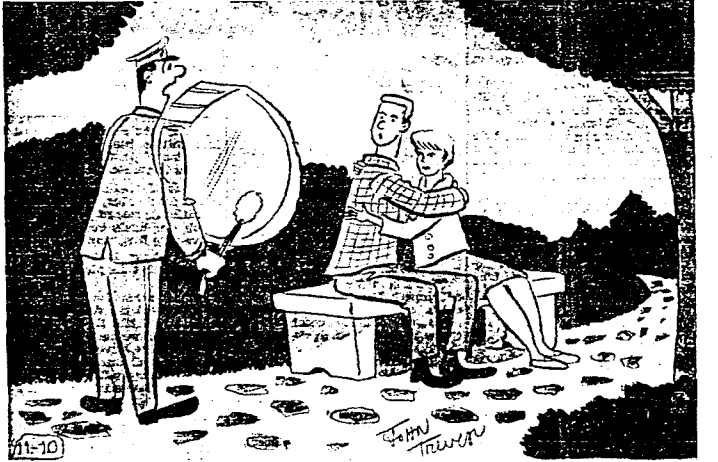

Hate is an ineffective weapon against Communism. Knowledge of the enemy is important.

In order to stimulate research and study about the universal horror of Communism by ALL people who have lived under it, I am sponsoring a contest with a prize of $1000.

This prize will be given for the most responsive answer to the question of why people risk their lives to escape from Communism and the closest estimate of how many persons have fled Communist countries from 1945 to the present.

My response is limited to 50 words and replies must reach me by December 5, 1961.

By the Daily Orange Entertainment Staff

FIRST RUN THEATERS
RIVIERA-CINEMA — "Loss of Innocence" is an English version of Rumer Godden's novel "Greengoose Summer." A sometimes said and often moving portrayal of a girl's passage to womanhood. Sussannah York, an attractive newcomer, and old standby Kenneth More co-star. The co-feature is a fine French number "The 400 Blows." Innocence at 6:45 and 10:05 p.m.; Without at 8:25 p.m.

LEWIS — "Town Without Pity" gives Kirk Douglas a chance to play a mercurial attorney who defends four men against a rape charge. In doing so, he browbeats the victim and ends up having the town's people, who were sympathetic to her at first, ridicule her. A vicious commentary on justice, both legal and social. Play at 6:37 and 9:37 p.m.

PARAMOUNT — John Kerr has all the bad luck. Last week he was trussed by Vincent Price, this time it's the Japanese Army. This one, "7 Women From Hell" is all about these girls who escape from a Japanese prisoner of war camp and make a run for the American lines. It's a chase story with the women chasing Kerr and Caesar Romero, and the Japanese chasing the whole mess of them. Not much on plot, long on running. Hell at 6:36 and 10:02 p.m.

KEIFF'S — Audrey Hepburn plays a New York sophisticate of look, Holly Golightly, in "Breakfast at Tiffany's." She does that breakfasting at Tiffany's gives wild parties, says crazy things, all to our fun and amusement. From time to time, "Breakfast" and George Peppard as the handsome, young writer-type, engage in trying to figure out what makes Holly tick, just so some people can compare the film to Truman Capote's novel. We'll forgive Hollywood for that, but not for the happy ending that almost ruins this one. At: 6:25 and 10 p.m. Friday, 7:30 and 11 p.m., Saturday.

REXEL — Sophia Loren acts her little head off, in Vittorio DeSica's "Two Women." She plays this Italian mother-type who, fearful of her delicate pubescent girl, escapes to the hills during the later moments of WWII. They roam around, meet idealistic Jean-Paul Belmondo and the daughter gets raped by some Turkish soldiers.

SHOPPINGTOWN — Spencer Tracy is still holding out on his volcanic island with convict Frank Sinatra in "Devil at 4 O'clock." All picture goes should know by now that the volcano goes off and so do out two heroes—off to rescue two poor children on the volcano's side. Sinatra is finished off completely in the last reel, but he dies happily, knowing he has done his best. Unfortunately, the producers of this film hurried. Eruption at 7 and 9:25 p.m.

NEIGHBORHOOD THEATERS
HOLLYWOOD — The views of Marxellos in color are enough to make "Fanny" worthwhile but there is much, much more in this picture to excite interest. Maurice Chevalier and Charles Boyer prove that French charm is the most infectious and the others in the cast are also good. Bring along a spare banky, however, for this one's a wet one. "I aim at the Stars" about space and other good things is the co-feature. Fanny at 5:35 and 9:15 p.m.; Space at 8 p.m.

MIDTOWN — Tony Curtis is humming it up in "The Great Imposter." Based on the true story of a scoundrel who succeeded in fooling practically everyone, Curtis succeeds in fooling us one with the possible exception of himself. "Kentucky Rifle" is another Daniel Boone-type story about mountain men and the dangers of the wilderness. No times available.

FRANKLIN — "Raisin in the Sun" is trying to prove that Negroes have the same problems that everyone else does and it does so pretty well.

WENCOR — "Sanctuary," a piece by William Faulkner that even he admits was written to make money, has been turned into a sensational, sordid little melodrama that makes the viewer wish he could find a sanctuary from the movie. "The Big Show," big haul is Esther Williams out of a bathing-suit and in a dress—she should stick to swimming. Pseudo-Faulkner at 9:30 p.m.; Williams at 7:30 p.m.

FALAC — Good news friends, "Francis of Assisi" is being shown only once! at 8:55 only, only, only! Be careful and you can avoid star crossed Bradford Dillman as the ascetic mystique. Also shown only once, at 7:15, and therefore easily avoidable is "Dog of Flanders."

DEWITT — Completing the trilogy of films showing "Francis of Assisi" is the DeWitt. Once again you can watch the rather dull story of how rich, effeminate Bradford Dillman makes the saint scene. Outdoor fans a catch the freeze of "The Canadians." Saint at 7:15 and 10:45 p.m.; Canadians at 9:15 p.m.

NORTH — Readers of "Guts" magazine will enjoy the three war flicks and one Tarzan film whose names we forgot, playing this weekend. The blood flows, the flesh reaks, the action sows up. And if you are bored you can always brand your beloved with the linear heater. No times available.

DRAMA
LIVELY ARTS — Existentialism and dynamic acting combine to stimulate conversation amid the smoke and dim lights with Jean-Paul Sartre's "No Exit." Friday 9 p.m., at the Lively Arts Coffee House, 810 E. Genessee St.

CONCERTS
VICTOR BOJCE — The Danish Born comedian-pianist will present a concert at 8:30 p.m.; Friday at the War Memorial.

SPORTS
FRESHMAN FOOTBALL — The Syracuse (fresh play Colgate, 1:30 p.m., Friday, Colgate.

VARSITY FOOTBALL — The Orangemen game the Colgate Red Raiders in the last of the present Syracuse-Colgate series, 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Archbold Stadium.

Sartre's 'No Exit' Given at Lively Arts

Once again the audience of the Lively Arts was wooed into awesome appreciation by Wednesday night's performance of Jean Paul Sartre's engrossing play "No Exit."

Acted to the hilt with precision and insight, the hour-long, one-act play grabbed one's attention from the beginning and held it unflinchingly until the final flicker of action had gone.

The four performers were so totally convincing, despite the handicap of having to perform without scenery in the midst of some 30 people, that the incredible situation became depressingly real.

What is hell? Is it a place of flames, torture, endless pain? The existentialist, Sartre, pictures it as much more than an abstract theological idea. "Hell is other people," he says. Hell is the eternal vision that other people have of you.

This Kind of Hell
The characters in "No Exit" find themselves in this kind of hell. Three of the characters are dead and find themselves condemned to an after-life of bitter, ironical contact with each other.

They are trapped in an inescapable, one-way triangle of love and hate. Garcin, the coward, needs Inez because she understands his cowardice and sees him as other people would. She is his only link with the reality of his true self. But Inez is a lesbian and can only brush him off as not counting.

It is Estelle that Inez loves, but Estelle loves Garcin because he is a man and can offer her physical ecstasy. Estelle can only brush Inez off as not counting either.

The fun begins when we realize that each person is seen by the one he loves as the failure he really is.

Sartre's own existential philosophy purports to show the ultimate finality of our actions while we are alive. He does not believe in a God or in an after

That's what we want—for a job that offers no limit on earnings and the opportunity to be in business for yourself.

A few minutes with the head of our campus unit will tell you a lot that you may not have realized about the life insurance business. And if you're interested in actual sales training, you can get started now—while you're still at college!

life. So all that exists is ourselves.

We become only the actions we have performed. If we both those up, we must suffer the hell of what we are, which is only what we have done in a world of other people.

The play itself, as opposed to Sartre's other existentialist drama, "The Flies," is dismal because it allows no way out. For those who have wasted their lives in no action, or wrong action, there remains only the hell of what they are as others see them.

The players in "No Exit" were Gary Lewis as the valet of the underworld, Richard Fulmer as Garcin, Blanch Cardier as Inez and Joyce Katz as Estelle. Joe Meltzer directed the show.

Religious Drama Slated at Church

"The Sign of Jonah," a religious drama, will be presented on Friday, Nov. 17 at St. Peter and Paul's Lutheran Church, Butternut and Prospect streets by the Syracuse University Drama Dept.

Following its performance at the church, the play will be presented Sunday, Nov. 19 in Hendricks Chapel. It is being given in cooperation with the Chapel.

'Loss of Innocence' Explores Process of Girl's Growing Up

As part of Hollywood's growing up process, they have flooded the market with a wave of films dealing with the problems and joys of adolescence.

"Loss of Innocence," now showing at the Riviera-Cinema, tells the story of four English youngsters left on their own in the champagne country of France, when their mother is suddenly taken ill.

The children stay at a provincial hotel and are befriended by fellow countryman, Kenneth More, who is the lover of Danielle Darrieux, the owner of the hotel.

The oldest child, Susannah York, at first dislikes More and his paternal attitude. But she, like the rest of the children, is soon captivated by his charm. Gradually, Susannah begins to fall in love with him, but when she questions him about his background, he mysteriously refuses to answer.

Affair Discovered
His mistress discovers the budding affair and she works to stop it. She is unsuccessful and matters come to a head when she hurls a glass of champagne in the girl's face.

Susannah, determined to face the world in an adult style, drinks too much champagne and begins to flirt with one of the hotel employees. She is temporarily rescued by More who takes her to her room but is visited during the night by the servant who attacks her. J.A.F.

Tangerines Face Colgate

By MARK DIAMOND

Syracuse's freshman gridgers invade the Hamilton lair of Colgate today, to play their final game of the season.

Coach Jim Shreve has called the team's attitude "excellent, they have more spirit and pep than at any time all year. They feel that it's not how you begin but how you end up that counts the most."

This last reference was to the opening game 8-0 loss to the Navy Plebes. This defeat had ended an 11-game Tangerine winning streak that had spanned three years.

Teman Improves

Since that loss, however, the team's performances have improved perceptively in each outing. The Hillmen showed an excellent running attack and fine running in their 39-6 victory over the Buffalo Trosh and followed that up with a 28-15 win over Army.

In the Army game, quarterback Dick King's passing was one of the main factors in the triumph, while "Ducky" Duckett continued playing hard-nosed offensive and defensive ball.

Thus the Tangerines bring a 3-1 record into the Colgate tilt. There are many indications that the game will be one of the hardest ever in the long rivalry between the two schools.

Colgate Frosh

The Maroon have amassed a 4-0 record this year, having defeated the Blue Devils, Cornell and Marist. On the basis of comparative scores, there is little to choose between the teams.

The week before the Tangerines scored over Army, Colgate shut out the Black Knights 19-0. Also, each squad has engaged Manlius. The Piety's showing in a pre-season scrimmage equals Colgate's performance against them. The third common oppon-

SU Retains Keg For One Year

The Keg that is presented to either Colgate or Syracuse each year for having accumulated the most points for the preceding season's athletic events will be retained by Syracuse for another year.

Points are counted at the rate of two for each football victory and one for a win in each of the other sports. For the 1960-61 school year Syracuse won the two-school competition by just one point, according to James Decker, assistant SU athletic director.

Giving and receiving the Keg for Syracuse each year are members of Phi Kappa Alpha, senior men's honorary. Participating in the ceremony at halftime of this year's contest will be Kent Barwick, president of Phi Kappa Alpha and George McClemb, president of the Colgate student body.

Grieve Expects Field House To Add Track Meet Attendance

By ALLAN KORT

The opening of the George L. Manley field house in January will provide University spring sports with an enclosed area to improve their athletic prowess. It will also enable track to once again become a major spectator sport at Syracuse University, according to track mentor Bob Grieve.

In the last decade, Grieve has produced six great relay teams, but not one of them ever performed before a Syracuse audience. The Chicago Tribune hailed the 1955 Piety two-mile relay squad as the "greatest relay team of the decade." But only a few Syracuse ans ever got to see the Orange squad that won a dozen major relay meets in 1953.

Grieve expects to be holding track and field meets in the field house, located at the corner of Comstock Ave. and East Colvin St., next winter. "Presently, we are running two dual meets a year. An indoor track would increase our schedule to six dual meets and would finally give my track squads a chance to get ready for the big national spring track meets, and a bigger schedule would create more student interest."

"The track squad should be able to start practicing in the field house by January or February," according to university officials. Other springs sports will also benefit by this winter's proposed opening.

Baseball coach Ted Kleinhaus said that "the field house should really help my squad." In the past few years, the Orange nine has had to play a stiff southern schedule without an "practice." "In most years, our first game is our first practice session," Kleinhaus said.

Roy Simmons' lacrosse club will also be aided by the athletic structure. "It will give my squad a chance to start practice early."

Watson Wins Grid Title 6-0

By BERNIE MacCALLUM

A twenty-yard touchdown pass in the closing minutes of the game gave Watson West I a 6-0 victory over Phi Gamma Delta and the University Intramural football championship last night at Low Carr Field.

Quarterback John Tesa threw the deciding aerial to like Rieger after a 25-yard drive to the Figi 20-yard line.

The game, played in sub-freezing weather, was marked by injuries, mud, snow and penalties. Dick Marcus of Watson West received a mild concussion on the opening kick off and was taken to the infirmary.

The first half saw both teams change possession of the ball with Figi driving to the Westerners 10 yard-line before relinquishing the ball on downs. Running back squad from a tight "I" formation Figi Quarterback Fred Devien relied on short passes in winning yardage.

Rieger received the second half kick-off but could not move the ball as Watson West defenders continually batted down passes.

The lone scoring play came after Tesa and Rieger, alternating as quarterback moved the ball to the Figi 20-yard line before Tesa offed the deciding pass.

With two minutes remaining in the game the Figis tried a pair of desperation passes which were blocked down in the end-zone by Watson defender Barry Kline after juggling the ball with the intended receiver.

The Westerners trounced Watson East 2, 18-2 to gain the living center title Wednesday night. The Phi Gams squeezed by Tau Epsilon lon Phi 7-6 to advance to the finals.

The University Intramural swimming title went to Dell Plain 2 who defeated the fraternity champions Sigma Alpha Mu, 23-10.

Kappa Phi Delta won the rifle championship topping the living center champs Dell Plain 4.

The intramural cross-country meet is scheduled Nov. 18, at Drumlins to decide the Harrier title.

Bowling will continue through the winter months. Basketball, handball, volley ball and skiing will be the other winter intramural sports.

A meeting of all intramural representatives has been scheduled Nov. 16, at 7:15 p.m. in the Trophy Room of the Mens Gym. All fraternities, living centers and independent groups who want to enter teams in the winter intramural sports should send a representative.

Colgate, Good Defensive Team, Brings 4-2 Slate Into Syracuse Contest

By DAVE DEAN Associate Editor

A defensively-oriented team of opportunists invades Archbold Stadium Saturday, as Colgate seeks to end the 70-year-old Orange-Maroon rivalry on a happy note.

Colgate, which has a 31-25-5 all-time lead in the oldest Hill rivalry, will enter the game with a season record of four wins and a pair of losses, a mark already surpassing all preseason predictions for the Raiders.

Although the Red Raiders have averaged only 12 points per game, they have parlayed the 72 points and a strong defense into a respectable record which includes three shutouts.

Total Offense Leader

Junior quarterback Danny Keating, the Raider offensive leader, ranks 15th in the nation in total offense, with a total of 806 yards gained in a total of 148 running and passing plays.

Keating is nearly the entire passing game for the Raiders; in fact, he accounted for all the passing yardage in both the Harvard (46 yards) and the Lehigh (106 yards) games.

In addition, Keating is also responsible for most of the scoring with four touchdowns and three extra point plays via the aerial route. He also added a touchdown and an extra point on his own.

Pass Receiver

Sophomore halfback Jim Heilman, who began the season as the fourth string left half, has proven to be the top pass receiver and one of the top rushers for the Raiders.

Heilman had his best game against Bucknell, a 13-0 Colgate win, when he rushed for 54 yards in 15 carries, and caught five passes for a total of 80 yards. This included a 42-yard scoring pass from Keating. He also hauled in all of the Colgate passes in the Harvard game, one a TD loss.

Keating and junior halfback Jim Deegan also share in the rushing game. Keating led the runners in the Harvard contest with 87 yards in 17 carries, while Deegan dominated the Princeton game.

Two Touchdowns

Deegan starred in the top Colgate offensive effort of the year against Princeton. Colgate won 15-0, and gained 295 yards rushing; Deegan accounted for both of the touchdowns and gained 91 yards in 22 carries.

Sophomore Terry Anker, who has seldom been called upon to apply his talents, has made good on four of four extra point kicking attempts.

The Raiders only tried the placement in four of ten opportunities, and has failed in an extra point attempt once. The team is averaging 1.4 extra points per touchdown.

Orangemen Host Colgate Raiders

The Orange mentor describes his opposition as a team with an ever-changing offense, and expects them to once again come up with something new for Syracuse. "If they came out in the 'shotgun offense, it wouldn't surprise us a bit," said Ben.

"But we have some things for Colgate that we didn't get a chance to use against Pittsburgh," Ben commented. "And we will have as many different defenses as they have sets on offense."

Although the nationals may object at first, in the end they will accept the situation because they desire strong locals in their organizations, commented Wiley.

In a case like this, said Wiley, it is the duty of the university faculty and administration to support the locals taking such an action in defiance of the national's.

"Although I do not feel that the Anti-Discrimination Board has done much to justify its existence, I do not feel that it should be abolished, since any step, however small, in the right direction is good," said Wiley Thursday in correction of an erroneous quote printed in the Daily Orange November 7.

Wiley, advisor to Joint Student Legislature, recently announced his intention of suggesting to the University Senate that fraternities and sororities be abolished on this campus.

LATER CURFEW

Colgate Weekend brings an added treat for Syracuse coeds. For thirty cents a coed may extend her Friday night curfew to 1 a.m. As in previous years the money will be donated to the Campus Chest.

Colgate Rivalry

weekend vandalism that has characterized the weekend since 1891. Colgate will not build its traditional bonfire this year, nor post guards at entrances to halt the invading Syracuseans.

Scorewise in the rivalry, Colgate has won 31 games in the series. Syracuse 25. There have been 5 ties. Colgate had an eleven game winning streak from 1928-37. If Syracuse wins the final game, the Orangemen will tie this record, extending the present year winning streak. Colgate weekend is traditionally the sophomore class weekend. Overall chairman of the weekend are Nancy Booth and Burr Cain.

The Syracuseans have planned the party and dance. Publicizing the weekend, the publicity committees Racoon Squad has worn heavy racoon coats all week.

The red balloon flying below the school flag yesterday was another of the Racoon Squad's publicity stunts.

ATO Observes 50 Years at SU

The Syracuse chapter of Alpha Tau Omega celebrates its fiftieth year as a fraternity at SU this weekend with several events hosting guests and alumni.

A reunion of alumni will be held this evening at Airways Inn. Saturday morning initiation of new members will take place.

The group will sit together at the SU-Colgate football game Saturday afternoon. Climaxing the anniversary weekend will be a dinner-dance at Drumlins Saturday evening.

Attending the affair will be about 250 alumni and the national president of Alpha Tau Omega.

Spirit of Hi-Jinks Fades From Colgate Weekend

Another Colgate Weekend starts today, but somehow this weekend is going to be different from all of the other big weekends of the year. It's the last weekend, the end of a 70-year-old rivalry. Yet something else is different too, no hi-jinks or vandalism will be tolerated this weekend.

Gone is the Colgate bonfire, gone are the inter-campus raids, gone is the traditional scalping. Both Syracuse and Colgate have banned the usual antics and have set up measures to punish violators.

Many SU seniors remember the weekend of 1934, when three Hill students rented a plane and dropped orange dye in Colgate's Taylor Lake. At the same time, the three adventures, representing Tau Epsilon Phi and Lambda Chi Alpha, bombed the Colgate campus with leaflets proclaiming the superiority of the Orange.

The '38 stunt followed one of the most daring escapades ever ventured into by Hill students. In 1957, eight brave freshmen ventured into the land of the Red Raiders and spoiled the Maroons' traditional bonfire, two of the students distracted the guards, the other six crept up to the structure which Colgate had planned to ignite, poured gasoline on it, and ignited the immense construction. Unfortunately, five of the eight were captured and seized by the Raiders. For the group's daring efforts, some other Hill freshmen presented the eight with a plaque commemorating the event.

Colgate had their share in the fun also. Eight years ago, a group of Red Raiders attacked the Syracuse campus and escaped with thirty-two fraternity trophies, the Alpha Tau Omega cannon, and left the campus splashed in shades of red and bright pink.

But that's all over now. There are no shaven heads, and both campuses are intact. Somehow a lot of fun is gone, and it's just another football game.

Hurrah, hurrah, its the last football game with the Colgates and that means no more lopsided scores to suffer through - with them anyway. Would that every game was like Pitt (sigh!)

Oh, well, this is also officially designated the Big Weekend and football game or no it's a good excuse to get away from it all - or stay' away as the case may be.

And with everyone making the Big Move nowadays, the Twist, of course, of course, we thought we would tell you about a spot that was twisting way back last September, before it even really caught on this summer.

The name of this wondrously knowledgeable place is, naturally, the Fayetteville Inn, or better yet, the F.I. Ya man, we mean its been twistin' time out there since C.C. (Chubby Checkers). In other words, Philadelphia, where it's said the whole thing started and has nothing on that sleepy little hamlet east of us. And now things are better than ever.

On Fridays, Lou Fiotta starts out with a name band to get things off to a good twistin' start and this week its the Daquini's. No more to be said.

For Saturdays, Lou has just brought in a group that developed quite a following up in the Adirondacks this summer, called the Techniques - and these guys really swing. Four pieces, a drum, a sax, and two electric - guitars make you really want to get out there and shake it up.

And on Sundays, after you're warmed up, Lou brings in the Profiles for Twist Contests lasting from 7 to 11. They're a five-man combo and throw in a little comedy and singing besides.

Yep, if there ever was a mecca for the twist, this is it, the Fayetteville Inn, and it's all for you.

Golden Horseshoe Tradition Highlights Last Colgate Game

at the Irving Avenue end of Archbold Stadium for good luck.

Although Colgate was highly favored to win the game, the Orange triumphed 38-0 to break a 11 year losing streak in this series.

Since then, at the annual Syracuse-Colgate game, the head male cheerleader tosses the horseshoe over the crossbar into a megaphone held by the head coed cheerleader. If she catches it, she will be good fortune for the Orange during that game, according to tradition.

By AUDREY LIPPMAN
The traditional Golden Horseshoe ceremony will be the highlight of the last traditional football game between Syracuse and Colgate.

Other features of the halftime entertainment will be the placard cheering by the class of '65, and musical presentations of the Syracuse University marching band. The halftime theme for the band will be "Salute to Veterans" and they will play military songs and do a USA and Shield formation.

Included in the placard cheering will be a cheer for Ernie Davis, the band, the "Rolling Orange" that Splashers Little "C" and the "Last Hurrah."

The Air Force Skytop Drill Team will present a drill and salute.

Scalping Tradition Highlights Recalled

"Onondaga, Son of Yale, Tog on your moleskins Jog on, keep on the trail. No heart, look pale Pow Wow and scalps tonight."

Thus in 1947 first mention was made of the long-practiced tradition of scalping. Six years later the tradition, which officially ended last year, began.

Scalping's infancy was quite colorful, as demonstrated by the unfortunate Syracuse men who returned from Hamilton with flaming orange "S" is on their shorn scalps.

In 1948 officials of the two schools signed the Cuzenovia anti-vandalism pact after an especially wild year when overzealous students began scalping two weeks before the prescribed time. But the pact didn't deter blood-thirsty Syracuse men from committing the most infamous prank in scalping's history.

In 1949 a welcoming committee of 60 trench-coated Syracuseans met the College marching band at New York Central terminal and kidnapped them. Police intervened and a riot resulted.

Sophomore Hop, Poster Contest Weekend Features

Bayer and Johnson Tapped Saturday By Orange Key

By BEV LURIA

Colgate Weekend died a slow but far from painful death Saturday as students enjoyed their "Last Hurrah." Carol Rondeau, a freshman in Liberal Arts, was crowned Weekend queen at the Sophomore Hop.

Eleven thousand people attended the dance which was held at the Women's Building. Entertainment was provided by the Colgate 13 and Jack Kreisler's band. Profits from the dance were estimated at 5-6 hundred dollars.

Orange Key, Junior Men's Honorary, tapped two men, Michael Johnson and Ted Bayer. Johnson, an Industrial Design major from Jenkintown, Pa., is a brother of Delta Upsilon fraternity. He is a member of Traditions Squad and the Industrial Design Honorary and is head of placard cheering.

Bayer, a member of Tau Delta Phi fraternity, is a political science major from Baldwin. He is chairman of the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee of Joint Student Legislature, a member of the Junior Class Executive Council and the Steering Committee of Joint Student Legislature.

Ernie Davis was nominated Sigma Alpha Epsilon's Outstanding Player. The award will be presented at a later date.

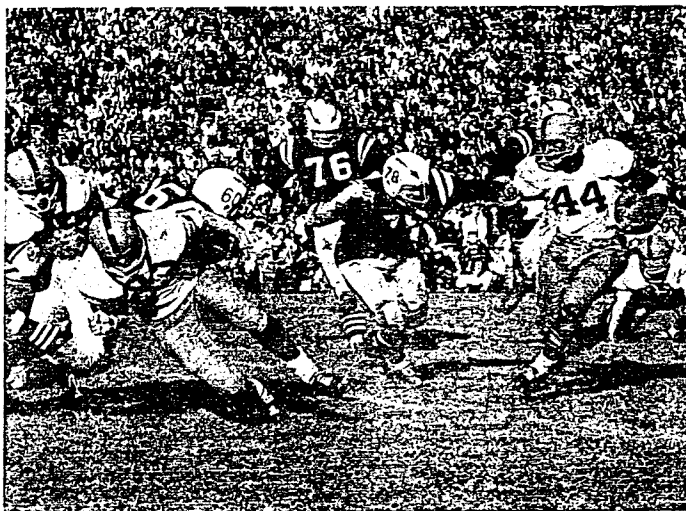

Alpha Sigma Tau sorority, Delta Upsilon fraternity, Wilson Cottage and Dell Plain 8 are first prize winners in their four categories of the Colgate Poster Contest.

Wilson Cottage won the small independent living center category with a poster reading, "Like All the Beats Say, Colgate is the Most Nauseating Team."

"Dell Plain 8 Penthouse Says Colgate is the Last Brushoff," won the large independent living center division.

Clinton Rossiter, Political Scientist, Speaks Tonight

'Crisis of American Political Tradition' Lecture Topic

Prof. Clinton Rossiter, American historian, political scientist and student of the presidency, will speak on "The Crisis of the American Political Tradition" to a day at 7:30 p.m. in Hendricks Chapel.

The Cornell University professor and spokesman for the conservative movement in America will discuss his concern over the growth of extreme conservative movements in the United States. The lecture is one of the Tuesday evening Citizenship lectures sponsored by the Citizenship Department and is open to the public.

Author of a number of books on the American political scene, Rossiter is most noted for "The American Presidency" and "Second Time of the Republic."

"Soettime of the Republic" won the Woodrow Wilson Foundation award for best publication of the year in the field of government and democracy, the Bancroft Prize for distinguished writing in American History, and the Institute of Early American History and Culture Prize for the best book in the field of early American history.

During his career Rossiter has lectured at over 40 colleges and universities throughout the United States. He has also authored more than 35 scholarly articles, many of which have been printed in the Congressional Record and in the publications of the U.S. Information Agency.

Rossiter, born in Philadelphia in 1917, received his bachelor's degree from Cornell in 1939, his master's degree and his doctorate from Princeton in 1941 and 1942, and his LL.D. from Kenyon in 1956. During the war he served as a gunnery officer in the Navy.

At Cornell he holds positions on the Committee on American Studies, the Committee on Educational Policy and the Long-range Planning Committee.

Flu Vaccine Available

A limited amount of flu vaccine has been acquired by the university for distribution to students, faculty and staff, Dr. Frederick Kistler, director of the Student Health Service has announced.

The vaccine will be made available on a "first come, first served basis," starting Thursday at the Health Service, 111 Waverly Ave. The cost will be fifty cents, said Dr. Marty.

He emphasized "there is not an influenza epidemic to cause undue concern," but said some newspaper article and stories had indicated there may be a shortage of vaccine.

Dr. Marty said that should the present supply be used up, additional supplies will be available later in the year.

DellPlain Dedicated In Formal Ceremony

By DAN RIFEY

"I've been looking forward to this day for a long time." This was the reaction of Chancellor William P. Tolley to the formal opening and dedication of DellPlain Hall, the new men's residence building.

Chancellor Tolley's remarks came during the 20 minute ceremony which officially opened the new dormitory Nov. 10.

In the main lounge of the building, a portrait of Dr. Morse DellPlain, for whom the building is named, was unveiled by Mrs. DellPlain. This painting is to hang in the main lounge. It was done by A. Henry Nordhusen.

The DellPlains were presented with a painting showing the dormitory as it will look when the landscaping is finished.

Well-Wanted Born Chancellor Tolley remarked that, in his opinion, this was the best planned dormitory, and that the rooms were very well designed. "The university is very pleased with all of its dormitories, especially DellPlain," he added.

DellPlain was enthusiastic about all the student rooms, but most of all he preferred the partitioned ones. "This is a fine idea—two students can be apart and still be roommates."

Chancellor Tolley, the DellPlains and all the guests for that matter, seemed pleased with the study rooms, which are on every floor.

"They are a tremendous boon to the students; it's good to have a quiet place for study," noted the chancellor.

Family Room

The guests were escorted to the first floor. They were shown the family room—a room for visiting parents to congregate in—and some of the special guest rooms on the west wing which are used as student quarters.

Warren Kinsman, the director of DellPlain Hall, showed the visitors the dormitory library. "The library is one of the nicest rooms in the building—we would like to get some more books as soon as we can," he remarked.

DellPlain commented on the library too, "It is wonderful—now it should be filled with books."

As he was leaving one of the study rooms, the chancellor remarked, "the dorm I lived in was not like this." He added, "I could not have it (the building) without people like you." This praise was directed at DellPlain.

Impressive View

The DellPlains were very impressed with the view from the eighth floor. Chancellor Tolley noted that it was almost as nice as the one seen from Day Hall, supposedly the university's best.

Kinsman praised the residents of DellPlain. "I thought that everything went off very smoothly. I appreciate the cooperation of the students and my resident adviser staff."

Before the tour of the residence hall, Chancellor Tolley praised the architects of the building as well as the landscape men and the contractors.

"I am glad that the dormitory was ready on time, we had no other places for these boys," he said.

The chancellor praised DellPlain as a man of industry, loyalty, great ideas and integrity."

DellPlain remarked that the dormitory was a marvelous piece of work. "However," he added, "what really counts is the boys that live there, and then go out and lead their lives and continue to help Syracuse University. I ask of all: loyalty, accuracy and willingness—this is the law and reason for the success of our organization."

After DellPlain's remarks were over, Mrs. DellPlain stepped forward to cut the ribbon which was on the front door.

DellPlain received a key which he used to "officially" open the front door of the dormitory.

The ceremonies, which were held on a cold, cloudy day, were prefaced by a medley of school songs played by the Syracuse marching band.

During and after the tour of the building, all the visitors—which included the Chancellor's party, school Deans, alumni and local reporters, offered praise for the new residence hall.

Blood Drive Set For Thursday

The annual Red Cross blood drive, sponsored on campus by the junior class, will take place from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday in the Trophy Room of the Men's Gym.

Students must be 18 years of age to donate, and those under 21 must have signed permission from their parents.

Donors also must weigh at least 110 pounds and have had no recent serious disease.

Coeds may give half pints instead of full pints of blood.

Food will be provided to donors by Food Service.

The living center giving the highest percentage will be awarded a trophy.

Chairman are Carol Enke, Madge Greenspan, Beane Deant and Robert Davis.

Chance for Leadership

A constant argument and complaint of Syracuse students, both those who are in positions of leadership and those who have confined themselves to quiet anonymity, is that the university has maintained a matriarchal system that inhibits the student body's growth and maturity. This is often a very apt and valid criticism.

Perhaps nowhere has it been more strongly felt in the past than in the university's policies on student discipline. This is an area of direct concern to all students. It is far more important than drinking, housing or even food service. A university is often organized in such a fashion that a student lawbreaker often has nothing more to fall back on than the temperament and opinions of one university official. This situation is radically different than in a court of law. At a university it is privilege rather than right that predominates.

Therefore, the concept of a student court is of vital importance to this campus. It is trial by one's peers. It is impartial. It breeds greater responsibility and maturity in the court justices themselves. It decreases the possibilities of having narrow minded and restricted decisions because of the availability of more viewpoints. It further means that an offender going before the court cannot easily appeal to the argument that he has been misunderstood and that his position as a young student in a harried world is not appreciated. Other students are on the court and they equally understand the pressures that all of us must face. Such offenders must equally be aware of the fact that to the young student justice the major achievement and the primary goal is fairness. He has nothing to lose by the decision he makes, except a few sleepless nights.

For these reasons, it is rather disappointing that more people have not applied for the open positions on the Joint Student Court. Student court, like all the areas of student government, undergoes a constant test to prove itself. Without student support or enthusiasm it cannot come close to meeting the dynamic challenges facing it. As Associate Chief Justice Sam Farr said, "There can be no student government without students willing to work for it, and no satisfaction can be derived from ineffective student government."

To the Editor:

I wish to point out that the statement: "Charges of discrimination on the part of the fraternity system have been dispelled by the recent acceptance of international students as social and board members of various Greek houses" which appeared in the Nov. 8 issue of the Daily Orange and attributed to Tirandaz Irani, president of the ISO, was not only misquoted but also seems to reflect the wishful thinking of the Greek houses on campus that such a move would erase all recent charges of discrimination.

Acceptance of international students into the Greek houses as Dr. Wiley has pointed out is only a baby-step in the right direction. Irani should be congratulated for his untiring efforts for acquiring such privileges for the international students, but if such privileges are extended only to international students and not to Negro or American students of other religious backgrounds, then this move does not warrant the support of the international students.

After all, we do not want to be accorded special privileges just because we are international students. Such a gesture would only be artificial. If the Greeks are sincere about their intents and purposes, why not open all their houses to students irrespective of race, religion, or nationality.

David V. O'Brien

To the Editor:

There has been interest shown recently in the resurgence wave of the political right. Prof. Sawyer, fountain of youth, and sometime student at law, sees it as a "yearning . . . for a less complicated life . . . in which clear-cut solutions are possible," while "misquote Millstein" screams McCarthyism with all the fervor of Robert Welch yelling Communism.

Both these views are incorrect. The reason behind the new conservatism is the growth of new leaders, writers, and speakers who are bringing a voice to an unrepresented segment of America. Thinking people have not been exposed to intelligent conservative viewpoints and have veered leftward because of that absence.

When William F. Buckley, a leading conservative journalist, spoke here last year, student reaction splashed into the letters column of the DO for months. This year, when Norman Thomas, an old-time socialist, spoke hardly a ripple was seen. The student body has heard Thomas' spiel since their first Citizenship lecture but Buckley's ideas were truly new, novel and thought provoking.

It is interesting to note that one of the aims of the John Birch Society is the creation of reading rooms in which only rightist periodicals would be offered.

Did you ever take a look at the Maxwell library? Along with the liberal "Times" and moderate "Trib," there are the Washington "Post," a daily liberal organ, as well as the "New Leader," "The Nation" and "The New Republic," the weekly troika of liberal kibitzing, and, politically speaking, that's all there is.

I suggest that the "National Review" and the Richmond "News-Leader" be exhibited in place of or along with some of the newspapers and magazines now in the Maxwell library and that conservative speakers be offered platforms on campus. I believe that challenged minds will bring wiser and stronger decisions.

AS SEEWALD SEES IT

Some Second Thoughts

By BOB SEEWALD

"I should have gone to a free city college at home and pocketed the $12,000 spent on my education," lamented the thoughtful senior. "I don't think it's worth $12,000 to have been up here for what will amount to four years."

This Colgate Weekend was a sentimental time for some students and a gala occasion for others. Perhaps lost in the festivities was another voice, the voice of the student who was reconsidering the wisdom of his stay at Syracuse.

So his problem was discussed further; he held no grudge against Syracuse, it was revealed. "I just don't think any out-of-town school is worth all that money when I could have gone to a free school. Of course, this argument doesn't apply to the student who doesn't live in a city with a free college."

Then he divided the student body into two groups: those who "do their schoolwork and little else" and those who try to take as much advantage of the varied aspects of collegiate life as possible.

The first group, he said, should have stayed home. He was a little less sure about the second group, but included himself in that category and of his situation he was sure. "Whatever this place did for me, it wasn't worth $12,000," he insisted. We continued our study just a little further and found a coed who became disenchanted with SU two years ago. After her freshman year on the Hill she returned to the big city. "I came up here expecting to meet adults and found only immature boys and girls," she confessed. During the week-end visit she was convinced this was still the case.

Speaking as a New Yorker, she said that nothing could beat her city for cultural and recreational facilities. And, she continued, she is given more freedom and opportunity for development at home.

After seeing some of the changes made on the Hill and meeting some of the more progressive Syracusans, she was unimpressed.

She said she still thought poorly of the fraternities and societies and the way they function. She claimed that they only add to the immaturity and narrow-mindedness allegedly characteristic of the campus.

A random survey showed that most people on the scene disagreed strongly with this last point. "Joining a fraternity was probably the best thing that could have happened to me," said one student. He cited the constant group activities and interactions as a key to his personal development.

Following demands to elaborate on his statements, he found it difficult. His development was not easy to explain, he confessed, and then decided it was "an intangible item." He expressed confidence that he would be a more effective person after his stay on the Hill.

He was sure that without his college experience, without living in dormitories and a fraternity house and without participating in a few valuable activities, he would not be so optimistic. He was happy he has had the opportunity to encounter different concepts and ideas.

He was sure, moreover, that the student who shunned these non-academic aspects of campus life was wasting his time here. In this he was in general agreement with our first student.

This so-called survey can hardly be labelled as representative of student opinion, but it does raise some interesting questions about the goals of a university and of its students. Different individuals have different needs; how are these diverse needs being met?

These are not easy questions to answer. Barry Goldwater's standard conclusion to his columns seems the easiest and most appropriate way out: How do you stand, sir?

To the Editor:

I have two reasons for writing. One is to express my appreciation to you, as Bill Walsh's campaign manager, for the overall balance of your reporting on the local election. I would certainly single out for praise Alan G. Millstein, who has the maturity and ability to separate editorial comment in a column from a news story. By that I mean that his news stories on Walsh were fair and objective, and he kept his own opinions confined to his own column.

My only possible quarrel with you came over a news story on what you described as "mass distribution" of an unsigned piece of literature concerning Dick Newman, which was alleged to have been passed out by Republican workers. A simple check of Republican headquarters (which was never done in this instance) would have revealed to you that there simply was no mass distribution of any piece of literature on Mr. Newman.

-BETWEEN ACTS-

Little Theater, Lively Arts Drama Productions Compared

Editor's note: This is the first in a bi-weekly series of columns on drama. The writer is a sophomore on the Daily Orange staff.

By ROBERT LA GUARDIA

Who would have guessed that at the most unlikely place for drama on the Syracuse campus, the finest productions would be seen? The Lively Arts Coffee House, at first suggesting those Greenwich Village peculiarities with bougie and well-dressed affected beats, has become itself, ironically, the most important outlet for drama in Syracuse within the last four weeks.

Like the plays presented at the Lively Arts run no longer than an hour, seldom employ more than four characters, use no settings and are not Broadway revivals. On the other hand, the last two plays at the Regent Theater, the other important outlet for drama here, were full length Broadway returns with complete settings.

But both plays at the Regent were failures.

Now why should the more elaborate outlet, namely the little theater groups, fail and the unassuming, simple coffee house productions using only student actors and directors succeed?

Regent Productions
Let's look first at the Regent. The recent little theater production, "Rain," directed by Ken Bowles, seemed promising during dress rehearsal because the leading lady came alive during the second and third acts, and in spots Bowles did a good job of type casting. But on opening night, the play fell through completely.

There was little coordination in the opening act. People spoke their lines as if they were reciting in front of a mirror alone in their bedrooms, devoid of the vital sense of group unity and action. This is certainly the fault of the director, since it is the director's job to assemble all the performances into a smooth, convincing unit.

Williams' Play
The next little theater drama, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," presented by the Syracuse Little Theater, was a ridiculously vile misinterpretation of Tennessee Williams.

"Hot Cat" is a mood piece, with strong impressionistic elements, not the slice-of-life rigamarole presented at the Regent two weeks ago. Maggie and Brick are characters who Williams goes to great length to delineate as remote from the average married couple in order to show, in exaggerated terms, the horror of human beings' inability to understand one another. Yet Maggie and Brick in this production seemed no different than your favorite aunt and uncle in a family squabble. Both characters were presented at the Regent in a sea of superficiality, and therefore misunderstood.

Moreover, the play hit rock bottom in the middle when all characters were on stage together, the horror looked as though they had never been on a stage with other actors before. Each actor, after he had spoken his lines, looked dumb and silent or gawked at various parts of the stage as though he were an unseen spirit. Was the audience supposed to pretend the actor wasn't there once he had spoken his lines?

Players Miscast
Big Mama was deplorably without color. Big Daddy's accent shifted from a New England dialect to a Southern drawl in the third act. The actor who played Brother Man was so nervous he couldn't get his lines out understandably. Besides being directed incoherently, the whole affair was miserably miscast.

Surprising, isn't it, that both plays should have almost the same diseases?

Yet the last three plays seen at the Lively Arts had none of these flaws. The casting always seemed without reproach. The prostitute in "Hello from Bertha" spoke Tennessee Williams lines in a Tennessee Williams manner. Both the actress and the director understood the role of anti-realism and the character study was brought off convincingly.

In "A Phoenix Too Frequent," the mood of flippant satire on human foibles was sustained admirably. The action was not interrupted because of disunity whenever a group of characters had to come together. The same smoothness was seen in Sister's "No Exit." The characters blended their performances with great precision.

Higher Quality
The answer to why the Lively Arts productions are of a higher quality can be attributed to understanding. Because these are students of drama giving performances, it is obvious that their knowledge of theatrical techniques enable them to put across better plays. In their classes they study the plays before performing them, and therefore they show a greater understanding of their parts in the context of the whole play.

The people who give many of these little theater plays seem not to pay enough attention to the technical aspects of their art. If a director doesn't know how to assemble roles properly, he should make a conscious effort to find out how. And the same goes for any actor who doesn't know enough about his art.

It's true that everyone says these are only enthusiastic amateurs trying to get ahead. But enthusiasm isn't enough. One must know the ways in which to channel this energy.

At present, the Lively Arts productions are holding most of Syracuse's dramatic laurels. But we'd like to see these little theater groups get up there on the same level. Syracuse would then have two major quality dramatic outlets from which to profit.

Chance for Leadership

A constant argument and complaint of Syracuse students, both those who are in positions of leadership and those who have confined themselves to quiet anonymity, is that the university has maintained a matriarchal system that inhibits the student body's growth and maturity. This is often a very apt and valid criticism.

Perhaps nowhere has it been more strongly felt in the past than in the university's policies on student discipline. This is an area of direct concern to all students. It is far more important than drinking, housing or even food service. A university is often organized in such a fashion that a student lawbreaker often has nothing more to fall back on than the temperament and opinions of one university official. This situation is radically different than in a court of law. At a university it is privilege rather than right that predominates.

Therefore, the concept of a student court is of vital importance to this campus. It is trial by one's peers. It is impartial. It breeds greater responsibility and maturity in the court justices themselves. It decreases the possibilities of having narrow minded and restricted decisions because of the availability of more viewpoints. It further means that an offender going before the court cannot easily appeal to the argument that he has been misunderstood and that his position as a young student in a harried world is not appreciated. Other students are on the court and they equally understand the pressures that all of us must face. Such offenders must equally be aware of the fact that to the young student justice the major achievement and the primary goal is fairness. He has nothing to lose by the decision he makes, except a few sleepless nights.

For these reasons, it is rather disappointing that more people have not applied for the open positions on the Joint Student Court. Student court, like all the areas of student government, undergoes a constant test to prove itself. Without student support or enthusiasm it cannot come close to meeting the dynamic challenges facing it. As Associate Chief Justice Sam Farr said, "There can be no student government without students willing to work for it, and no satisfaction can be derived from ineffective student government."

AS SEEWALD SEES IT

Some Second Thoughts

By BOB SEEWALD

"I should have gone to a free city college at home and pocketed the $12,000 spent on my education," lamented the thoughtful senior. "I don't think it's worth $12,000 to have been up here for what will amount to four years."

This Colgate Weekend was a sentimental time for some students and a gala occasion for others. Perhaps lost in the festivities was another voice, the voice of the student who was reconsidering the wisdom of his stay at Syracuse.

So his problem was discussed further; he held no grudge against Syracuse. It was revealed that "I just don't think any out-of-town school is worth all that money when I could have gone to a free school. Of course, this argument doesn't apply to the student who doesn't live in a city with a free college."

Then he divided the student body into two groups: those who are the "network and little else" and those who try to take as much advantage of the varied aspects of collegiate life as possible.

The first group, he said, should have stayed home. He was a little less sure about the second group, but included himself in that category and of his situation he was sure. "Whatever this place did for me, it wasn't worth $12,000," he insisted. "I continued our study just a little further and found a coed who became disenchanted with SU two years ago. After her freshman year on the Hill she returned to the big city. "I came up here expecting to meet adults and found only immature boys and girls," she asserted. During the weekend visit she was convinced this was still the case.

Speaking as a New Yorker, she said that nothing could beat her city for cultural and recreational facilities. And, she continued, she is given more freedom and opportunity for development at home.

After seeing some of the changes made on the Hill and meeting some of the more progressive Syracuseans, she was unimpressed.

She said she still thought poorly of the fraternities and sororities and the way they function. She claimed that they only add to the immaturity and narrow-mindedness allegedly characteristic of the campus.

A random survey showed that most people on the scene disagreed strongly with this last point. "Joining a fraternity was probably the best thing that could have happened to me," said one student. He cited the constant group activities and interactions as a key to his personal development.

Following demands to elaborate on his statements, he found it difficult. His development was not easy to explain, he confessed, and then decided it was "an intangible item." He expressed confidence that he would be a more effective person after his stay on the Hill.

He was sure that without his college experience, without living in dormitories and a fraternity house and without participating in a few valuable activities, he would not be so optimistic. He was happy he has had the opportunity to encounter different concepts and ideas.

He was sure, moreover, that the student who shunned these non-academic aspects of campus life was wasting his time. In this he was in general agreement with our first student.

This so-called survey can hardly be labelled as representative of student opinion, but it does raise some interesting questions about the goals of a university and of its students. Different individuals have different needs; how are these diverse needs being met?

These are not easy questions to answer. Barry Goldwater's standard conclusion to his columns seems the easiest and most appropriate: wa out: How do you stand, sir?

To the Editor:

I wish to point out that the statement: "Charges of discrimination on the part of the fraternity system have been dispelled by the recent acceptance of international students as social and board members of various Greek houses" which appeared in the Nov. 8 issue of the Daily Orange and, attributed to Tirandaz Irani, president of the ISO, was not only misquoted but also seems to reflect the wishful thinking of the Greek houses on campus that such a move would erase all recent charges of discrimination.

Acceptance of international students into the Greek houses as Dr. Wiley has pointed out is only a baby-step in the right direction. Irani should be congratulated for his untiring efforts for acquiring such privileges for the international students, but if such privileges are extended only to international students and not to Negro or American students of other religious backgrounds, then this move does not warrant the support of the international students.

After all, we do not want to be accorded special privileges just because we are international students. Such a gesture would only be artificial. If the Greeks are sincere about their intents and purposes, why not open all their houses to students irrespective of race, religion, or nationality.

To the Editor:

I have two reasons for writing. One is to express my appreciation to you, as Bill Walsh's campaign manager, for the overall balance of your reporting on the local election. It would certainly single out for praise Alan G. Millstein, who has the maturity and ability to separate editorial comment in a column from a news story. By that I mean that his news coverage on Walsh was fair and objective, and he kept his own opinions confined to his own column.

My only possible quarrel with you came over a news story on what you described as "mass distribution" of an unsigned piece of literature concerning Dick Newman, which was alleged to have been passed out by Republican workers. A simple check of Republican headquarters (which was never done in this instance) would have revealed to you that there simply was no mass distribution of any piece of literature on Mr. Newman.

To the Editor:

There has been interest shown recently in the resurgent wave of the political right. Prof. Sawyer, fountain of youth and sometime student at law, sees it as a "yearning . . . for a less complicated life . . . in which clear-cut solutions are possible," while "misquote Millstein" screams McCarthyism with all the fervor of Robert Welch yelling Communism.

Both these views are incorrect. The reason behind the new conservatism is the growth of new leaders, writers, and speakers who are bringing a voice to an unrepresented segment of America. Thinking people have not been exposed to intelligent conservative viewpoints and have veered leftward because of that absence.

When William F. Buckley, a leading conservative journalist, spoke here last year, student reaction splashed into the letters column of the DO for months. This year, when Norman Thomas, an old-time socialist, spoke at the Hill, the body has heard Thomas' spiel since their first Citizenship lecture but Buckley's ideas were truly new, novel and thought provoking.

It is interesting to note that one of the aims of the John Birch Society is the creation of reading rooms in which only rightist periodicals would be offered.

Did you ever take a look at the Maxwell library? Along with the liberal "Times" and moderate "Trib," there are the Washington "Post," a daily liberal organ, as well as "the Reporter," "the Nation," and the New Republic, the weekly troika of liberal lightning, and, politically speaking, that's all there is.

I suggest that the "National Review" and the Richmond "News-Leader" be exhibited in place of or along with some of the newspapers and magazines now in the Maxwell library and that conservative speakers be offered platforms on campus. I believe that challenged minds will bring wiser and stronger decisions.

Little Theater, Lively Arts Drama Productions Compared

Editor's note: This is the first in a bi-weekly series of columns on drama. The writer is a sophomore on the Daily Orange staff.

By ROBERT LA GUARDIA
Who would have guessed that at the most unlikely place for drama, some of Syracuse's finest productions would be seen? The Lively Arts Coffee House, at first suggesting those Greenwich Village peculiarities with bongos and weltanschauung-affecting beats, has proven itself, ironically, the most important outlet for drama in Syracuse within the last four weeks.

True, the plays presented at the Lively Arts run no longer than an hour, seldom employ more than four characters, use no settings and are not Broadway revivals. On the other hand, the last two plays at the Regent Theatre, the other important outlet for drama here, were full length Broadway returns with complete settings.

Why do both plays at the Regent were failures. Now why should the more elaborate outlet, namely the little theater groups, fail and the unassuming, simple coffee house productions featuring student actors and directors succeed?

Regent Productions
Let's look first at the Regent. The recent little theater production, "Rain," directed by Ken Bowles, seemed promising during dress rehearsal because the leading lady came alive during the second and third acts, and in spots Bowles did a good job of type casting. But on opening night, the play fell through completely.

There was little coordination in the opening act. People spoke their lines as if they were reciting in front of a mirror alone in their bedrooms, devoid of the vital sense of group unity and action. This is certainly the fault of the director, since it is the director's job to assemble all the performances into a smooth, convincing unit.

Williams' Play
The next little theater drama, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," presented by the Syracuse Little Theater, was a ridiculously vile misinterpretation of Tennessee Williams.
"Hot Cat" is a mood piece, with strong impressionistic elements, not the slice-of-life rigmarole presented at the Regent two weeks ago. Maggie and Brick are characters who Williams sees to great length to delineate as remote from the average married couple in order to show, in exaggerated terms, the horror of human beings' inability to understand one another. Yet Maggie and Brick in this production seemed no different than your favorite aunt and uncle in a family spat. Both characters were presented at the Regent in a sea of superficiality, and therefore misunderstood.

Moreover, the play hit rock bottom in the middle when all characters were on stage together. The people looked as though they had never been on a stage with other actors before. Each actor, after he had spoken his lines, looked dumb and silent or gawked at various parts of the stage as though he were an unseen spirit. Was the audience supposed to pretend the actor wasn't there once he had spoken his lines?

Players Miscast
Dig Mama was deplorably without color. Big Daddy's accent shifted from a New England dialect to a Southern drawl in the third act. The actor who played Brother Man was so nervous he couldn't get his lines out understandably. Besides being directed incoherently, the whole affair was miserably miscast.

Surprising, isn't it, that both plays should have almost the same diseases?

Yet the last three plays seen at the Lively Arts had none of these flaws. The casting always seemed without reproach. The prostitute in "Hello from Bertha" spoke Tennessee Williams lines in a Tennessee Williams manner. Both the actress and the director understood the role of anti-realism in the character study was brought off convincingly.

In "A Phoenix Too Frequent," the mood of flippant satire on human foibles was sustained admirably. The action was not interrupted because of disunity whenever a group of characters had to come together. The same smoothness was seen in Sartre's "No Exit." The characters blended their performances with great precision.

Higher Quality
The answer to why the Lively Arts productions are of a higher quality can be attributed to understanding. Because these are students of drama giving performances, it is obvious that their knowledge of theatrical techniques enable them to put across better plays. In their classes they study the plays before performing them, and therefore they show a greater understanding of their parts in the context of the whole play.

The people who give many of these little theater plays seem not to pay enough attention to the technical aspects of their art. If a director doesn't know how to assemble roles properly, he should make a conscious effort to find out how. And the same goes for any actor who doesn't know enough about his art.

It's true that everyone says these are only enthusiastic amateurs trying to get ahead. But enthusiasm isn't enough. One must know the ways in which to channel this energy.

At present, the Lively Arts presentations are holding most of Syracuse's dramatic laurels. But we'd like to see these little theater groups get up there on the same level. Syracuse would then have two major quality dramatic outlets from which to profit.

AP Pollsters Rate Orangemen Tenth

By KEN DARLING
Sports Editor

After an absence of several weeks, the Syracuse Orangemen have surged back into college football's top ten, according to the latest Associated Press listings.

The Pietyemen, after rolling over hapless Colgate, 51-8, last Saturday for their third success in a row, are tenth on this week's AP chart. They will tangle with Notre Dame, rated 24th by the AP, next Saturday in South Bend, Ind.

Couch Ben Schwartzwalder's charges also widened their lead in the Lambert Foot race, which will determine the East's top team. Syracuse stands first with a perfect 10.0 rating, followed by Penn State, 8.6, and Army, 7.6.

Texas Tops
In the AP national listings, powerful Texas retained its hold on the number one spot. The Longhorns romped over Baylor, 32-7, Saturday for their eighth straight victory.

Alabama, the nation's number two eleven, also kept its unbeaten string alive with a 66-0 pasting of Richmond. Rounding out the top five, which was unchanged from last week, are Ohio State, Louisiana State, and Minnesota.

Mississippi, after a 51-0 rout of outmanned Chattanooga, moved from seventh to sixth on this week's chart. Purdue leaped into the top ten with a stunning 7-6 victory over Michigan State. The Boilermakers are seventh, while the once-mighty Spartans fell to ninth.

Colorado Still 8th
Colorado, despite a 21-12 setback at the hands of Utah, held onto eighth place, with Michigan State and the Hillmen rounding out the top ten.

Georgia Tech, which dropped a 10-6 decision to Tennessee, and Missouri, defeated by Oklahoma, 7-0, fell from the first ten.

Knocking on the door to the top ten are Missouri, rated number eleven, followed by Georgia Tech, Maryland, Arkansas, UCLA, Kansas, Rutgers, Utah State, Duke, and Wyoming.

Also receiving votes were Utah, Michigan, Iowa, Notre Dame, and Arizona.

Syracuse Foes Take Six Of Ten Weekend Contests

By DAVE DEAN
Associate Editor

Only Boston College, of all Hill foes, lost to a team other than another Syracuse opponent Saturday. Overall, the ten opponents gained a 6-4 mark for the weekend, bringing their season mark to 39-36-1.

Notre Dame and Penn State defeated Pittsburgh and West Virginia in intra-opponent games, while Holy Cross, Nebraska, Oregon State and Maryland also won. Colgate's loss in Archbold closes out the results.

Next week's opponent, the Irish of Notre Dame, handed host Pittsburgh its sixth loss of the season, 26-20 in a free-scoring game. Big plays for the Irish were a 59-yard scoring pass play from alternate quarterback Frank Budka to end Les Traver, and a 47-yard run by fourth-stringer Charlie O'Leary.

Halfback Fred Cox was the top point-maker for the losers, scoring one touchdown, kicking two extra points and field goals from 45 and 52 yards out—the latter one of the longest in collegiate history.

Penn State took its fifth win of the season, topping surprising West Virginia, 20-6. The Nittany gained a 20-0 first-half lead, as halfback Roger Kochman scored twice, once on a 66-yard pass play from Galen Hall. West Virginia wasn't able to score until the final period.

McCarthy Tops Massachusetts
At Worcester, Mass., quarterback Pat McCarthy singlehandedly defeated Massachusetts for the Crusaders of Holy Cross. The final score was 44-7 for the Crusaders' fifth win against two losers.

McCarthy made his mark in the first half, and sat out all but two minutes of the last two periods. He accounted for 118 yards in nine carries, including a 66-yard TD run, scored three touchdowns, and passed for 126 yards and another touchdown.

Despite the efforts of Iowa State's Dave Joppmann, the nation's total offense leader, Nebraska prevailed for a 16-13 victory. The final winning margin was provided by a 31-yard field goal by Ron Mencke.

On the west coast, the Beavers of Oregon State parlayed a second-period field goal into a 3-0 win, holding off Washington with a determined goal-line stand in the final period.

A fumble set up the Washington team with the ball on Oregon State's three with a first down. Four plays later, the ball rested on the six-inch line, and the Staters regained possession for the win.

All-American end candidate Gary Collins caught a seven-yard scoring pass in the first period, and John Hannigan kicked a second period field goal for Maryland's 10-7 win over North Carolina State.

Boston College lost its fourth game of the season, against three wins, at the hands of Texas Tech, 14-6.

Tangerines Top Colgate With End Sweep Runs

By MARK DIAMOND

Because Irish grid coach Jim Shreve decided to change the blocking assignments on "11-boom," a left end sweep, the Tangerines were able to tally twice on that play and defeat the Colgate Maroon 15-6, at Hamilton, Friday.

The home forces scored first in the opening period. Halfback Lee Woltman took a handoff on an inside reverse from his own 34.

After breaking through the left side of the line, he changed direction at midfield, spun out of the way of a couple of Syracuse men, and scored on a 66-yard scamper. The point after attempt was no good, so the score stayed at 6-0.

Syracuse took over late in the second quarter after Dick King had thwarted a Colgate drive with a goal line interception. Now the Hillmen began to move.

Workhorse Duckett
On this march, quarterback King often pitched out to Nathaniel "Ducky" Duckett, the right halfback, who followed fine interference while skirting left end. The maneuver was successful for gains of 8 and 13 yards, while a scissor accounted for an additional eight.

Finally, with 1:25 left in the half, Duckett tumbled on an end sweep from the 5 and von Eischhofshausen's kick put the Tangerines ahead 7-6.

In the third stanza, Colgate twice was stopped inside the Hill's 25, once when Woltman missed a 23-yard field-goal attempt that drifted to the right.

Power Running
Taking over on their 20, Syracuse began mounting an offensive. Fullback Jim Nance contributed three good runs for 16 yards while Duckett showed a little running Ernie Davis style by romping 30 yards with a screen pass, bowling over would-be tacklers.

Duckett once again got the call from the 4 and scored on an end sweep. King ran over for the two points, to bring the final count to 15-6.

Halfback Billy Hunter suffered a possible dislocated ankle in the first half. He had been mentioned as one of the top prospects for next year's varsity.

The victory brought the Tangerines' final record for the season to 3-1, following an opening game loss to Navy.

Piety Romps In Colgate Finale

By MILT JOFFE
Junior Editor

Despite a brief, valiant effort on the part of the Colgate football team, 70 years of one of college football's most colorful rivalries ended quietly and true to form in sunny Archbold Stadium Saturday.

As the relentless Syracuse machine overpowered the Red Raiders, most of the memories of the tradition were confined to the minds of alumni and the sentimental reminiscing of the local press corps.

While the sports writers were comparing favorite Colgate-Syracuse stories, the Orangemen were writing a convoluted and brutal "finis" on the final page of a collegiate saga.

In a last bit of fitting drama, the Colgate team struck apprehension into the home crowd by pushing over a touchdown and leading at the end of the first quarter, 8-0. This was the first time the Red Raiders had led Syracuse since 1933.

Orange Kaddies
Syracuse quickly rallied for an early second quarter score and proceeded to take advantage of numerous Colgate mistakes to roll up a 24-8 halftime lead. From then on the visitors were almost obscured in the parade of Syracuse players pouring on and off the bench. It ended quietly, 57-8.

The win was routine for Syracuse just as the weekend itself has become routine. The Orangemen have more important things to think about, the main one being this Saturday's encounter with Notre Dame.

Fortunately, Syracuse remained healthy for the Irish game. There was some doubt surrounding the condition of center Bob Stern's knee, but reports say that Stern will see action against Notre Dame.

There were no other casualties in the Colgate game, and the Syracuse team should be further bolstered by the return of fullback Bill Meyers and tackle John Paglio.

Team Effort
Coach Ben Schwartzwalder was pleased by the team effort of his players against Colgate and had trouble singling out any outstanding performers.

The press had less trouble than Coach Ben Ernie Davis, with 49 yards in four carries, plus a 74-yard touchdown pass to John Mackey, was voted the outstanding back of the game. The first time he handled the ball, early in the second period, Ernie made what has to be considered one of football's finest plays.

Seldom has a press box become as excited as did Archbold's Saturday when Ernie bounced off tackler after tackler on the way to his 36-yard score. The press corps, almost to a man, greeted the run with applause and cheers.

208 For Ernie
Davis picked up his second touchdown on a plunge from the one yard-line to bring his career scoring total to 208. Ernie is the first player in Syracuse history to score over 200 points.

Leading the Syracuse story was its passing game. Dave Sarette continued his phenomenal accuracy by completing seven of nine passes for 119 yards and one touchdown.

Second unit quarterback Bob Lelli returned to action impressively by tossing three precise passes in three attempts. They were good for two touchdowns and 76 yards.

In all, Syracuse completed 14 for 19 aeriads and gained 295 yards in the air, just 14 yards short of the record set against Colgate in 1959's 71-0 triumph. No less than 53 players helped Syracuse win its 11th straight against the Raiders. The series totals end with Colgate in the lead 31-26-5 . . . Hurrah!

SU Soccer Club Nets Second Win

The Syracuse University Soccer Club captured its second straight win last week with a 4-1 decision over host LeMoyne College. The local booters previously defeated Utica College.

Clann Douglas, an amateur team from Syracuse, will provide the club's next opposition. Although arrangements concerning the contest are incomplete, a practice is scheduled for Thursday at 3 p.m. in preparation for the match.

Syracuse jumped off to a two goal advantage in the LeMoyne game, which was marred by snow and mud. Outside lineman Herb Devlin recorded the opening score and Kal Dolgin tallied his third goal of the season before LeMoyne broke the ice midway in the second period. Syracuse picked up a free point as an opposing player accidentally kicked the ball through his own goal. Dick Woolcock insured the victory with a fourth-period score.

Here Are the Contest Rules:

- Any student or faculty member on this campus may enter except employees of Brown & Williamson, its advertising agencies, or members of their immediate families. All entries become the property of Brown & Williamson—none will be returned. Winners will be notified within three weeks after each contest. Winners' names may be published in this newspaper. You may enter as often as you wish, provided each entry is sent individually. Contest subject to all governmental regulations. Entries must be postmarked or dropped in ballot box on campus no later than Wednesday midnight before the games are played and received by noon Friday of the same week. The right to discontinue future contests is reserved.
- Entries must be in contestant's own name. On the coupon in this ad or on an Official Entry Blank or piece of paper of the same size and format, write your predictions of the scores of the games and check the winners. Enclose an empty Viceroy package or a reasonable rendition of the Viceroy name as it appears on the package front. Mail entry to Viceroy at the Box Number on the entry blank, or drop in Viceroy Football Contest Ballot Box on campus.
- Entries will be judged by The Ruben H. Donnelly Corp., on the basis of number of winners correctly predicted. The win will be broken on the basis of scores predicted. Duplicate prizes awarded on tie of final wins.
- Winners are eligible for any prize in subsequent contests.

2nd JSG Program Tonight

By MELANIE OOHN
The second session of the Joint Student Government Activity Training Program will be held at 7:15 p.m. today in the new Crouse Hall Auditorium. JSG President Elizabeth Evans will be in charge of the program which concerns JSG's structure and its role on campus.

A make-up session for those who were unable to attend the first session will be held at 7:15 p.m. Nov. 16 in the Crouse Hall Auditorium. A talk on "Pride in the University" will be given by Dr. William Ehling of Information Services, assisted by Sloane Dugan and Martha Gallagher of Traditions Commission.

Students who missed the first lecture are invited to attend subsequent lectures. Those unable to attend tonight's session are asked to pick up information about JSG in the student government office, third floor Men's Gym next week.

The final meeting of the Training Program will be held at 7:15 p.m. Nov. 20 in the Crouse Hall Auditorium. The topic "Leadership" will be discussed by Marilyn Semmelhart, chairman of Women Students President, and Marshall Farr, chairman of JSG.

Governing Board. Leaders of other campus activities will be introduced.

The training program is required for all student government positions and is recommended for other university activities.

A final examination or project will be due after Thanksgiving. If there are further questions concerning the course, students may contact Joan Wheeler, JSG director of activities, ext. 2691.

the SOCIAL with SCENE Larry & Bob

We have no doubt that all of you were looking forward to this week's column, and after our fan club contacted us, and he was quite enthusiastic about our latest party idea, we decided to go ahead.

After the success of our last party (the Thriller one—with all that shrieking and screaming) we were encouraged to carry the idea a little further. This one has all the ingredients—noise, excitement, entertainment and organization (in more ways than one). Call it an UNTOUCHABLE PARTY!!

Get hold of some old cars. Model T's or something of twenties 'Vintage (we've seen many around campus) and roar up to the Mount. This is where the opening spectacle takes place—the Massacre on the Mount. Divide up the party-goers in advance, into mobsters—you know, Capone's Boys, Dutch Schultz, Frank Nitty, "Lepke," Buchalter—Untouchables (the good guys). The mobsters infiltrate the lobby, spread out and take strategic positions. Armed with machine guns, cap guns, water guns, they make a fearsome group. Then those famed law enforcers burst in, shooting—straight, of course—until the gangsters are disposed of. (Good guys must wear white hats and be clean shaven, and not get their hats knocked off during fight.)

After this triumphant entrance has taken place, and your molls assembled, take off for the party place. The Mount won't forget that you've been there. . .

Arrange your decorations so that there are two rooms; set up one as a garage, the other as a speakeasy. Use brick wall sheets, punctured by a few bullet holes, to paper the walls of the garage. As a special attraction for this room here's a real eye catcher. Pick up an old bathtub from a junk yard and fix it up with pipes and hoses to look like a still, and fill it with punch. Makes a great liquid refreshment holder. As an added attraction pump in carbon monoxide for a atmosphere. If you can take it for extended periods, this room is for sitting and socializing—and if you have a bad date, send her in there to breathe.

Decorate the other room with small tables covered with checkered table clothes, candlelight and brightly colored crepe streamers. Give this room a gay effect—it's the only happy spot of the party. (Allied Decorating 1111 Erie Blvd. W., is the place to go). Dress your housemother as a flapper (don't think we're picking on them this year, though) and let her play cigarette girl. Leave confetti lying around for the more exuberant partygoers, and entertain the crowd with a swinging jazz combo.

Meanwhile, flapper dresses and long beaded necklaces would outfit the girls and bright, striped vests or double-breasted sport jackets (Salvation Army—$1.99) are "must" for the boys. Derbies, boutonniere (little flowers you stick in your button hole) and cigars are optional. A few shootings here and there would add an extra flurry of excitement—also another rather effective way of disposing of bad dates. For an unusual favor, give out water pistols—it's wet. Hope you have fun falling down and bumping your head.

Prof Discusses Community Life

"The minute you leave your circle of kin and friends, you insulate yourself against awareness of others," stated Warner Bloomberg, professor of sociology, at the Citizenship lecture Monday.

Discussing communities, Bloomberg concluded that we do not have communities; we do have many loyalties in the traditional sense of the word; and the government of communities is set up for the expediency of personal interests and dominated by a few people.

To reach these conclusions, Bloomberg examined an intentional community, as defined by Bloomberg, is a community in the historic sense, that is, it has a boundary. The inhabitants are related by "keen inter-member awareness" and have "fully shaped, well defined commitments." The modern community, however, is a purely local and social organization. There is little inter-member awareness and only the welfare of the "right-minded" person is considered. The members, therefore, do not share a sense of common fate.

Bloomberg blamed industrialization, mass organization, and individualism for the increasing indifference of modern society. Self interest rather than the general interest has turned decisions on basic issues confronting the community into competitive games.

As proof of this indifferent attitude of the members of modern, industrial communities, Bloomberg cited that 99.3 per cent of the adult population who can participate in decision making activities do not. Furthermore, in the "College of Forestry and the Landowner's Forum at the State University College of Forestry at Syracuse University Thursday.

Forest Landowners' Convo Held at College of Forestry

"New York State, in spite of 50 percent of its land covered by forests . . . a key factor which makes our woodlands one of our state's most important natural resources," stated Cecil E. Hencox, secretary of the State Conservation Department at the Forest Landowner's Forum at the State University College of Forestry at Syracuse University Thursday.

"Most of the state's 11 million acres of private forest lands are in the form of farm woodlots, he continued.

Hardy L. Shirley, dean of State University College of Forestry at Syracuse University spoke at "The College of Forestry and the Landowner."

He told the several hundred forest landowners assembled what the State expects from them.

"Those of us who represent state agencies wish you to manage this (forest) land well so that it will supply water for municipal, agricultural and industrial use; useful wildlife, recreation and aesthetic pleasure to the public; and, most important, wood you can see to supply our industries and to provide you with revenue to meet your taxes," he said.

Another speaker, David E. White, research assistant, at the state College of Forestry, reported on "The Market Outlook for Forest Products: An analysis by the Department of Forestry Economics of the College of Forestry."

"Perhaps the truest meaning of our growing population is not so much rising demand for wood as a strengthening of competition for forest land in its alternative uses, recreation, wildlife and watershed uses to which our society will surely give higher recognition in the future," he asserted.

Within the next few years, increases in income will probably result in greater demand for status raising goods from hardwood lumber, and items made of wood, White added.

Frosh Rushing Convo Sunday

The annual freshman coed rushing convocation will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday in Hendricks Chapel. Speakers will be Dean of Women Marjorie C. Smith and Mrs. Roscoe Martin, Panhellenic Council advisor.

Following the convocation, "Banked On Parade" will be presented in the Women's Building. Each Ilii sorority will have a display about their activities and pin, and chapter presidents and rushing chairman will be present.

At this time freshmen may register for rushing and pay the $3 fee. There will be opportunity to register again after Thanksgiving convocation.

Dr. Creel Speaks On Modern China Thursday Night

Dr. Herriele C. Creel, chairman of the Department of Oriental Languages and Civilization, will speak on "The Nature of Chinese Thought" at 4 p.m. Thursday in the new Crown Hall lecture room.

Dr. Creel will discuss the forces at work in modern China in his talk, which is another in the Ilii Humanities Lecture Series.

A reception for Dr. Creel will be held from 9:30 to 10:30 p.m. Wednesday at Chapel House. The reception sponsored by the Walker Cottage is open to all students.

Dr. Creel has spent over 12 years in the Orient and served during World War II with the Military Intelligence in Washington, advising on Oriental affairs.

He is also the author of several books and articles on the history of China including "The Birth of China" and "Chinese Thought from Confucius to Mao Tse-tung."

Atomic Shelter Lecture Today

"The Design of Radiation Resistant Shelters" will be discussed by Bernard Cohen of the Department of Civil Engineering at 4 p.m. today in 201 Hinds Hall.

This is the fifth of an eleven lecture series entitled "Nuclear Energy - Phenomena and Protection." Future lectures will concern maintaining sanitary surroundings, legal aspects economic considerations and construction of blast proof shelters.

The final lecture will be Jan. 11, with a discussion of returning to normal life.

Nottingham Cottage Day Hall, Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and Alpha Chi Rho fraternity, Co-op No. II, Watson Dorm, Alpha Xi Delta sorority and Sigma Nu fraternity took third honors.

Criticisms can be picked up from Sarah Howell, Sigma Kappa, 500 University Place. Tau Sigma Delta, honor society in Architecture and Applied Arts, sponsored the contest. The society announced plans to sponsor a new type of contest for future home-coming weekends.

2nd Stepsinging Round Wednesday

The second round of stepsinging for large sororities and living centers will be held Wednesday on the steps of Hendricks Chapel.

The first flight of singers at 5:45 p.m. will include Sigma Kappa, Delta Delta Delta and Chi Pi Beta.

Pi Beta Phi Kappa Alpha Theta and Winesell Hall comprise the second flight, to sing at 6 p.m. Of the six houses, four will be chosen for the semi-finals. Finalists will be selected after Thanksgiving vacation.

The entries in the small house division will compete Tuesday, Nov. 28. Semi-finalists are Iliiugh Cottage, Haven Hall, and Kappa Delta sorority.

CHANGE DATE FOR DINNERS

The Panhellenic-Interfraternity Council exchange dinners, scheduled for tonight, have been moved to Thursday, from 5:30 to 7 p.m., according to Parish Social Chairman Frances Polozie. Housemothers should be notified of the change.

Slash Casualties, Use Shelters-Antoni

By DANIEL RITEY

A fallout shelter system could drop the estimated casualty rate from 70 to 10 per cent in the event of an all-out nuclear attack on the U.S.

This is the belief of Civil Engineering Prof. Charles Antoni, who spoke Tuesday night in the fifth "Nuclear War Survival" lecture in Hinds Hall. Assoc. Prof. Benjamin Wasil of civil engineering also spoke at the lecture, one of the ten sponsored by the Civil Engineering Department.

Antoni described conditions that might exist in the event of a nuclear attack.

It could be expected, said Antoni, that 1500 megatons of bombs would hit the U.S., while an additional 250 megatons would fall on the northern hemisphere, on bases and other military installations. He assumed the maximum bomb size would be 10 megatons and that half of them would be of the fission type and half of the fusion type.

Antoni went on to describe how fallout results from an explosion. Many atoms are fused or fissioned at once during a blast. Energy is released—50 percent of it is dissipated as a shock wave.

At the same time a fire ball is formed, which may have temperatures up to 100,000 degrees Centigrade.

Neutron Release

The processes of fusion or fission depending on which bomb is used, release neutrons. In the fission reaction, these neutrons serve to continue the reaction, while in the fusion type, the neutrons are released externally, making more radioactive materials.

In addition to these neutrons, gamma rays, electrons, heat and light are released. Thirty-five per cent of this released energy is in the form of heat and light, while fifteen percent is in the form of radiation.

Of this fifteen per cent, however, one third is quick radiation—it is effective only near the area of the bomb blast. Therefore, only ten per cent is the radiation that is dangerous to human beings.

Variables

The resulting fallout from these bombs would be subject to some variables, Antoni noted. Such variables include: the weather, the accuracy of the weapons, their size, the strength of the attack, and the height of the blast.

If the explosion were high in the air, the fallout would spread around the world, but local fallout would not be so heavy. If, however, the explosion were a surface or underground type, the local fallout would be intense.

Antoni noted that in this latter case, great amounts of dirt would be sucked up into the explosion. This dirt would settle

Tix on Sale Now For ND Telecast

Students desiring to attend the closed circuit telecast of the Notre Dame - Syracuse football game Saturday at the Onondaga County War Memorial are urged by the athletic department to purchase their tickets early.

L.P. Andreas, director of athletics, pointed out there has been an exceptionally heavy sale of tickets to the public. He said the total sale would be limited to 7,200 to insure everyone a seat.

Syracuse University student tickets, priced at $1, may be obtained at the athletic department ticket office. Students must use their I.D. cards in order to purchase tickets. They must also present the I.D. cards along with their tickets upon entrance to the War Memorial.

The student sale is limited to two tickets per person. All tickets are general admission. The telecast will begin at 1:55 p.m. local time. Students must enter the War Memorial via the State St. entrance.

Rossiter Nicks Outmoded U.S. Political Traditions

Liberalism Cited As Seedbed For Crisis

By JIM WELLES

"The crisis of the American political tradition," according to Dr. Clinton Rossiter, centers around the gap between the political traditions of our nations and reality."

Dr. Rossiter, speaking to a moderate crowd in Hendricks Chapel at the second of a series of evening Citizenship lectures, pointed out "we are ruled by ideas and by nothing else."

According to Rossiter, the ideas which have given rise to the current crisis in American political tradition are as follows: society's views concerning the nature of man; the pattern of society; the structure and purpose of government; and the place of man in society under government.

Going into greater detail about these ideas, Rossiter explained that society's view of the nature of man is "pleasantly clouded" with ideas that man tends to be more good than evil, that he can be easily educated, that he has a greater sense of justice than injustice and that he is inclined to believe that freedom is more natural than submission.

As for the American man's view on the nature of society, Rossiter said that the average person believes that there is little room for the community and that individualism is supreme.

Elaborating on the structure and purpose of government, Rossiter commented that it is a blend of three ideas: populism, constitutionalism and skepticism. Populism, said Rossiter, "places a heavy emphasis on the role of the people in electing and directing government officials."

"Constitutionalism tries to guarantee that the ruler, no matter how the ruler nor the ruled will play their political roles either casually or arbitrarily."

Skepticism, he said, is "the inherent distrust of the people that government can do great evil but

JSL Probes Food Service

By JOYCE HERGENHAN Junior Editor

Repeated student complaints against certain practices of the Syracuse University Food Service have prompted the Joint Student Legislature Steering Committee to take unprecedented steps toward correcting these abuses.

The first step permitted the JSL Student Conduct and Welfare Committee to formulate a letter to parents of students holding university board contracts. This letter outlines the most flagrant food service abuses as expressed by living center representatives at the last JSL meeting and requests the parents to petition the administration to correct these abuses.

Student Court Puts 2 on Pro

Two university students Tuesday night were convicted on separate charges by Joint Student Court and placed on court probation.

A sophomore student was found guilty of misusing telephones. He placed $30 worth of long distance calls and charged them to various area residents.

He will be on court probation for the remainder of the academic year, and will be brought before the Judicial Review Board if involved in future questionable incidents.

The student also was instructed by the court to repay the $30.

A sophomore coed is on probation after being found guilty in an incident involving stolen money in her dormitory.

She must replace the money, and will be automatically suspended in the event of another disciplinary problem.

Justice Samuel Farr also said that applications for Men's Court sophomore justices will be accepted until Wednesday, Nov. 22, and interviews for applicants will begin immediately after the Thanksgiving vacation.

A 1.6 cumulative average is necessary to apply for the posts. Applications including name and telephone number may be left in the Joint Student Government office, on the third floor, side, Men's Gymnasium.

Further information about applications may be obtained from Justice Robert Dick at Zeta Beta Tau.

Students Travel to Washington In Protest of Nuclear Testing

BY JAN SCHMITT Junior Editor

A group of students from Cornell and Syracuse and other colleges will advance on the White House tomorrow morning to demand the resumption of nuclear testing.

Robin Craven, a New York freshman, who is heading the Syracuse faction, said, "We have to do it now, because the next two weeks will be crucial in formation of our foreign policy."

A meeting will be held 7 p.m. Thursday in the Hendricks Chapel Coffee Corner to see how many people will be going. "We will also give them an idea of what they should do when they are in the picket line," she said.

One factor which complicating this march to Washington is the lack of transportation. "Since only faculty and upper-classman have cars, it is inevitable that we have their support, especially that of faculty members," said Robin.

Robin got the idea of forming a detachment of students to protest resumption of nuclear testing from her brother, who is the chairman of the Cornell Committee Against Disarmament. 50 students went to New York to picket the Russian Embassy after the 50 megaton bomb was exploded.

"They came down with high intentions. They were well-dressed and wanted to carry out an orderly demonstration," she said. Their efforts were foiled by New Yorkers who joined in, singing. This spoiled the whole effect.

Demonstration Failed

"I was at Cornell when they got back," said Robin. "They were very low about the failure of the picketing. I suggested that they have an evaluation conference to see where they had done wrong, and then we decided to have our own demonstration, independent of any national organization."

When asked why she was supporting this program, Robin stated, "We have enough power to destroy each other. Why should we?" on contaminating the world."

She continued, "The continuation of testing is leading to more mutants. We have no records now, but we will eventually see the results of how many people have died from the results of Russian testing."

Unpleasant Situation

"We are also adding to world tensions by testing, especially with the Berlin situation what it is now."

"I wish shelters are not the answer, she contends. "They detract from the point because we have it in our power to stop it (testing) altogether."

She went on to explain how the (Continued on Page 7)

DellPlain Dedication

The dedication of the new DellPlain Dormitory last week marks another significant step in the history of Syracuse University. It can probably be considered the best planned dormitory on campus, considering the natural problems that arise from needed living centers of that size and proportion. University architects seem to have learned from their experiences with other dormitories of this type. It is physically more attractive than many of its predecessors and is more conducive to study. Its partitioned rooms are probably the most important asset to the students living in the dormitory. The need for privacy and solitude often is an impossibility in all university living centers. It shows that the builders of this dormitory fortunately realized that it should be built to facilitate the needs of the students who will inhabit its rooms.

Brookings Study On Education

Much of the criticism against such dormitories as DellPlain are registered by people who are largely misinformed of the reasons and purposes for such dormitories and how they are financed. The funds for the dormitories come from federal loans. They are repaid by the university through the room charges on the dormitory residents. They do not, therefore, deprive faculty members of salary increases, students of scholarships or the campus of a new library. But this does not mean that institutions of higher learning are not in dire need of aid in these areas. Syracuse, with its comparatively small endowment, should be a perfect example of this. The Brookings Institution, an independent organization devoted to nonpartisan research, produced a report this past weekend calling for an expanded program of federal aid to higher education that would effect the teaching functions of universities. The program especially emphasized support for programs in science, social science and the modern languages. To us, this seems to be one of the few possible ways to make the classroom as attractive as the new dorms.

A Greek Responds

By GEORGE KUNIN

Once again, the Syracuse campus is being treated to the annual "Bomb the Fraternities" campaign, where countless indictments of discrimination, et al., are being hurled about. But perhaps the worst indictment has been the lack of response on the part of the fraternities. In the self-styled protests of all good Greeks, here is the belated answer:

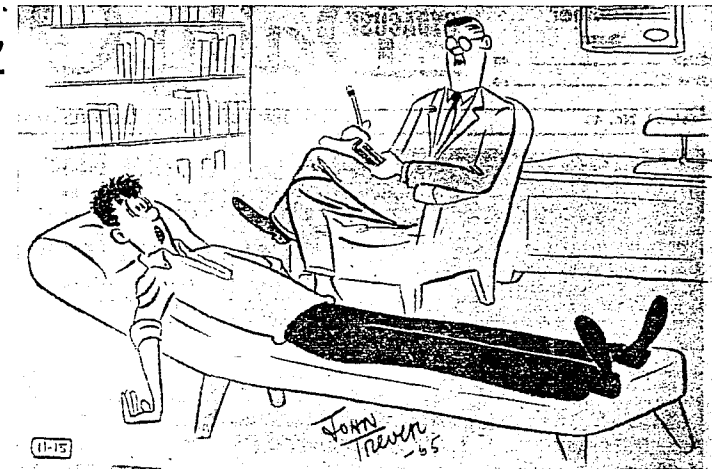

First, the Greek system represents the only organized student body on campus that ever does anything. There is, of course, JSJ, but isn't there always? The freshman political forces were out to break the Greeks, not the upperclassmen, because few independent upper-classmen get into campus politics. There have been so many Independent Leagues formed that any new ones (there will be more) are going to have a hard time finding a name that hasn't been used before.

Secondly, although fraternity men represent a slim minority of any graduating class, the great bulk of alumni contributions comes from this group. This is because these men have a living, continuing link to Syracuse University. Independents, I've heard, feel a touch of nostalgia at seeing H.L. again, but the view from the quad has now been blocked by one of the largest piles of concrete in Central New York. Thirdly, and this is directed primarily to the freshmen, your closest friend this year will be little more than an acquaintance by your senior year . . . unless you both go to the same fraternity. You may scoff, sneer, and even giggle at the thought, but this is rarely, if ever, proven wrong. Once you are legitimated to talk to upper-classmen, ask one of them about his best friend during his freshman year. Possibly, he won't even remember his name. This has happened, too.

Pressure on Greeks
The fraternity system on this campus is constantly under pressure and in a continual state of competition. The pressure comes from the administration, from parents, and from those sworn to be righteously indignant at all times. The traces of racial discrimination by fraternities on this campus are being erased, and more rapidly than most people think. Fraternities however, will always be a target.

My own greatest complaint is the forced competition of the typical fraternity house against Sadler, DellPlain, and the future Fountainbleaus that will be built. The administration has been sitting on its hands for three years. The fraternities need room to expand. This

SU Attitudes, Greeks Cited

To the Editor:
The following is offered as an open letter to the students of Syracuse University:

I hope you had a really great time at the game last Saturday. It was one of the most terrible and most discouraging afternoons of my life, because I realized that my heart could not be in any cheering that I may have done. Why? Because a cheer is a support of us, of you, and I find my conscience keeping me from this support.

Colgate University was our guest, but instead of enjoying the results of their band's hard work, you made as much noise and disturbance as you could, bringing chaos to a peak during their "Alma Mater."

Even worse than this great discourtesy was the lack of respect and attention for the members of the Skytop Drill Team. Do you know who these men are? They're the ones who, after training in the Air Force Intensive Training Language Program, are going to do intelligence work in Iron Curtain countries. They're going there as agents of our government to do their part in fighting world communism.

They have 30 hours of class-work a week in one language and military subjects. They're going for us, and they're not all going to come back. But you didn't have three or four minutes to spend on their drill team.

When you get over the effects of the liquor you were expected not to take to the game, I hope you'll spend a while asking yourselves just what this world is all about and how you think there can be peace and good when we of "the greatest nation in the world" can't show the most basic courtesies to guests and service men.

The more I see of this university, the more I fear there is little hope for us. We're content with ourselves, and we're signing a death decree. Life is not one big party, a barrage of insouciance and a bunch of empty wagons who think they're "cool guys."

I can't help you. Neither can cribbing or cutting or TGIFs or irresponsible living.

I don't know if you can help yourselves or not. The most discouraging thing is that you don't think anything's wrong, and you have no conception of what a life of depth and brotherly love can be. But it's the only thing, multiplied by the number of Americans, that will save us from ourselves and from continued hell on earth. Dominus nobiscum.

Jan Hillegas, '64

To the Editor:

Could the Greeks be trying to use the ISO to confuse the issue? It is reported that some years ago the Congress of the USA, faced with an international situation, made a law which stated that all Mexicans were henceforth "white." If this is so then the implications are obvious, and the action of the Greeks is just a copy.

But there is the other, and equally basic problem that as long as the Greek system exists in its present form, student life at Syracuse, except in the lecture rooms and at Archbold, will continue to be for the most part dull and sterile. Of course, the Greeks will still have their war-games—one of which is campus politics, providing some "circensis," but the student body will never in any sense be the sort of unit one expects at a university.

The Greek's first responsibility is to the house and its members. The Greeks maintain (or do they?) that there must be freedom of association, i.e. to decide who is to be admitted into companionship. It is difficult in such circumstances for the Greek as Greek to feel any loyalty or responsibility to the university except in so far as it enables him/her to exercise these qualities to the house, perhaps to the system.

What is sorely needed is some organization, representing the entire student body, to do for that body some of the things which the Greek houses do for its members and which are not the proper responsibility of the administration.

Certainly JSJ, perhaps because dominated by Greeks, is not the body to do this — it would have to change its attitude and to concern itself less with being the Congress in miniature — instead, it would have to be a body that is anxious for the social and cultural life of the students above and beyond what the administration and the faculty are able to foster.

Until this happens, the cultural centers of student life will continue to be Archbold Stadium and a segment of territory centered on the corner of South Crouse and Marshall.

Famous Artists Presents National Symphony Nov. 17

The National Symphony Orchestra will give a concert at 8:30 p.m., Friday at Lincoln Auditorium.

Presented by Famous Artist series, the concert will open with "The Debt At the Gates" from "Romeo and Juliet" by Berlioz. The other numbers will be the New England Triptych by William Schumann, Daphnis and Chloé Suite No. 2 by Ravel and Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

This will be the second appearance of the orchestra in Syracuse under the direction of Howard Mitchell. The orchestra has appeared many times with the late Hans Kändler as conductor.

Originally a cellist, Mitchell is one of many cellists who have gained renown as a conductor. Others include Toscanini and Walter Susskind.

Tickets for the concert are $4, $3.50, $3 and $2.40 and are available at the Famous Artists in the Clark Music Building. Some specially priced student tickets are available in the School of Music office in Crouse College.

Kingston Trio Slates Concert

Tickets are still available for the Evening With the Kingston Trio concert scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Thursday at the War Memorial.

One of the first groups to popularize folk music, the trio has had many best selling albums including "The Kingston Trio," "Here We Go Again" and "The Kingston Trio at Large" among others.

The Trio has undergone a transformation since these albums were made, however. Dave Guard, one of the original members, has left and John Stewart is the new man.

Originally a member of the "Cumberland Three," a folk singing group which toured the country with comedian Sliely Bertram and appeared in New York City night clubs, Stewart first became associated with the Trio through the songs he wrote and arranged for them.

The other members of the Trio are Bob Shane and Nick Reynolds. Tickets are $3.50, $3, $2.50 and $2, and are available at the War Memorial ticket office and Olmsted streets.

Annette: A Sweet, Normal All-American Teen-Age Star

By JOHN GREENWALD
Annette Funicello is a short, olive skinned, delicately featured girl, with jet black hair and a magnificent figure. As seen last weekend in Buffalo, Annette gave the impression of being a sweet, normal, all-American teenager.

That she has been in Hollywood since the age of 4, made films for Walt Disney from the age of 12, and is now a grown up 19 going on 24, seems to have little to do with her passion to be a teenager. "I wish I could have gone to public junior and senior high schools," she said at a high school press conference.

"I feel I have a lot in common with other teen-agers, and like nothing better than to talk with them," she said. Annette was in Buffalo to plug her latest Disney film, "Babes in Toyland," and to receive the Catholic Youth Organization's award as the "Most Outstanding Catholic Entertainer of the Year."

Buffalo marked the end of the first week of a six week national tour for the Victor Herbert musical. To the high school press audience she appeared quiet and reserved. But the many professional reporters covering the conference said she looked more fired than quiet, and that the strain of the tour seemed to be having its effect.

Admittedly, Annette doesn't like to travel. "I'd rather be home with my parents and brothers," she said. "We are very close." Her red-headed mother accompanies her on all tours. Though she loves her work, Annette would like to eventually give it all up, marry and raise a family.

"I want a very, very large family, with eight or nine kids," she stated. "I don't want to travel, or make movies. Just to take care of my family."

But before she does that, Annette confided ambitions of obtaining a college education. "I would like to major in sociology or drama. I would love to learn Italian."

She would also like to do comedy in summer stock. On the whole, stories about her in fan magazines have been pretty accurate. But, she said, "Those stories that have me in love with a different boy are not right. Most of those dates with Fabian and Paul Anka are all publicity dates."

"I did," she continued, "go out with Paul for a real date once." A small sigh was heard in the audience.

Besides cutting a new record album, Annette has no great future plans at the moment.

"Some scripts are being read, though," she admitted. "Babes in Toyland" she forgot to mention, opens in Syracuse at the Eckel on December 22.

Field General Sarette Key To Orange Offense

(Editor's note: This is another in a series of features about members of the Syracuse football team.)

By DANN GARR

It isn't often that a sophomore quarterback breaks into the starting lineup of a national championship club and holds down his position. But Dave Sarette came off the bench in the Orange's 1959 opening game and completed 9 out of 13 passes for 117 yards.

This stellar performance earned him the job of number one signal caller and for three years Dave has been at the controls of a national powerhouse that has triumphed in 24 of 28 decisions.

The 6-0, 180-lb. senior from Manchester, N.H. enjoyed a brilliant rookie year. His smooth ball-handling was instrumental in the Piel's devastating ride series which placed Syracuse first nationally in total offense. Sarette kept the enemy off balance with his pinpoint aeriels; he hit on 49 of 83 passes for 763 yards and 10 touchdowns.

Last season, Dave had another good season. He connected on 30 of 65 tries for 327 yards. With the Orangemen concentrating more on a ground attack, he tossed 4 scoring passes. Some considered this record to be a letdown, but Sarette has already proved that '59 was no fluke.

Above and beyond the statistics, he is the key to the Syracuse ball club. With Dave at the helm, the offense clicks. Proof positive is the Penn State game. With Sarette out of the lineup, the Orange attack failed to jell and was held scoreless for only the second time in Ben Schwartzwalder's tenure on the IIII.

One week later with Dave back at quarterback, Holy Cross was pushed all over the field. The next contest saw Pitt's stubborn defense ripped apart. The Orangemen rolled up 62 points in those games and much of the credit goes to Sarette's smart signal-calling. He also stood out in the Colgate contest.

Dave is having a spectacular season. He's hitting receivers with Unitas-like precision. In eight contests, he has found the mark on 41 of 66 passes for a 621 percentage. Sarette's aeriels have gone for 568 yards and seven touchdowns. The record speaks for itself.

The sixth TD pass broke Pat Stark's school record of 19, set in 1951-53; it also broke the back of the Pitt Panther's hopes of victory.

Dave is also a threat on the ground. His rollouts while faking a pass have enabled him to score 22 points this season on 3 touchdowns and 4 PAT's.

Natural Athlete

An outstanding natural athlete, Dave won laurels in high school for his performances in football, basketball, and baseball. And it was as a cager that he achieved his greatest recognition.

Sarette was All-State, all-New England, and a Scholastic All-American as he paced Manchester's Central High to more points per game than any other basketball team in the Northeast. He also pitched for the baseball team and was an All-State quarterback and captain of the gridiron squad.

Dave's baseball skills are well-known to Orange diamond followers. He was a solid 300 hitter as the IIII men reached the NCAA district semi-finals last spring.

Orangemen Stand 13th On UPI Chart

Syracuse, riding the crest of a three-game winning streak, has moved into 13th place in this week's listings by United Press International.

The Orangemen were not included in the top twenty on last week's UPI poll, but vaulted into the 13th spot following their impressive 51-8 thrashing of Colgate last Saturday.

Those remaining unbeaten through eight games, retain 1 its hold on the number one spot in the coaches poll. The mighty Longhorns took the measure of Baylor last Saturday, 33-7.

Holding down the second position was Alabama, also undefeated in eight contests. The Crimson Tide whalloped Richmond, 66-0, last Saturday.

Rounding out the top five are Ohio State, Minnesota, and Louisiana State. The second five includes Mississippi, Purdue, Michigan State, UCLA, and Colorado.

The second ten consists of Georgia Tech, Utah State, Syracuse, Michigan, Kansas, Arkansas, Wyoming, Tennessee, Maryland, and Utah. Others who received votes were Arizona, Navy, Duke, and Penn State.

ALL in the GAME

By KEN DARLING
Daily Orange Sports Editor

ONCE AGAIN, THE ORANGEMEN of Piety Hill have surged back into national football prominence. Syracuse has returned to the Associated Press top ten, and symptoms of bowl fever are beginning to be detected among undergraduates on the Hill.

As long as Coach Ben Schwartzwalder's gridders remain number one in the East, chances are good that several bowl invitations will be extended. The Gotham Bowl has already indicated that the Orange Bowl would be welcome. Reports are that both the Gator and Orange bowl committees are considering Syracuse. There have even been rumors about Rose Bowl scouts planning to attend the Notre Dame game Saturday.

It is difficult to understand why the Rose Bowl would be even mildly interested in the Piety footballers. Alabama, undefeated and the nation's number two team, has openly expressed a desire to play in Pasadena on New Year's Day. And the Big Ten has no less than three teams rated higher on national charts than Syracuse—Ohio State, Minnesota, and Michigan State.

With such an impressive list of possibilities, it is highly improbable that the Rose Bowl would seriously consider inviting the Hillmen, even though they are the East's top power.

However, as long as the Piety men maintain their position at the top of the Eastern gridiron pile, at least one major bowl will remain interested. Traditionally, the Orange Bowl has invited an eastern team to compete in the Miami classic, and what better choice than the Lambert Trophy winner?

To retain their position of dominance in the East, however, the Orangemen must overcome a very imposing obstacle—the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame.

The South Bend squad's record is only 4-3, but includes impressive victories over such respected teams as Oklahoma, Purdue, Southern Cal, and Pittsburgh. And the three losses, to Michigan State, Northwestern and Navy, were all by narrow margins.

So Saturday's contest with Notre Dame shapes up as one of the best of the season for Hill fans. Assistant coach Roy Simmons, who has been scouting the Irish, calls the Indiana squad a "rugged foe. Coach Joe Kuharich has a young, hard-hitting team."

Simmons feels that Syracuse will need a well-balanced running and passing attack to move the ball on the Irish. "We may not be able to slug it out with them up front," Simmons said. "We'll need Ernie Davis at his best and some solid passing from Dave Sarette."

This Davis-Sarette combination is the one that has kept the Orange offense rolling all season. Dave, a highly capable field general, is having his finest year, completing 41 of 66 passes for seven touchdowns and 568 yards. His success via the air route has prevented the defense from concentrating solely on the running game, spearheaded by the incomparable Rainey Brewster.

Davis, who should repeat as an All-American this year, and who many regard as the nation's finest running back, is having another banner season. The speedy halfback has smashed most of Jim Brown's career records, and takes dead aim at still another mark Saturday.

Brown, during his three-year career as a Hill gridder, established a school record for total offense with 3,225 yards. Davis needs just 110 yards to surpass this standard. He has accumulated 2,192 yards rushing, 362 on pass receiving, 110 via passing, 196 on kick-off returns, 211 on punt returns, and 45 on pass interceptions.

Incidentally, Davis threw his first pass of the season last Saturday, and it went for a touchdown. The next day Brown through his first aerial of the NFL season—results, a TD.

Piety Basketball Forces Lack Height, Experience

By JUDY ADAMS

"We haven't given up." So says basketball coach Marc Guley. This is considerably optimistic for a man who has lost his top eight men from last year. It's even more surprising since that team lost more games than any other basketball team in the history of the Hill.

Things to do look pretty grim for Guley. "We have no height to compare with the teams we play. Most teams have men 6' 8" or 6' 9". The big men on Guley's squad stand only 6' 5". Manfred Klutshchowski, an inexperienced junior, and Bill Tydeman, a sophomore.

Although he's "still experimenting," Guley is considering taking his starters according to seniority. Russ Beisswanger, Steve Dodge, and Fred Machermer are the three seniors on the squad. But of the three, only Machermer has had any real experience.

Vernick Impresses

Of the remaining players, Guley has the highest hopes for Carl Vernick. The sophomore is "the most outstanding player so far," according to Guley, and stands the greatest chance of making the starting five. Sophs Bob Murray and Jim Seaman were also praised. "If these sophomores come along . . . but they'll be playing experienced players."

Next to height Syracuse lacks experience. Gone are Steve Berkenfeld, Sandy Sutz, and Terry Quigley, gone also is All-East Pete Cludy, sixth all-time Piety scorer with 1077 points, and the team's leading scorer last year with 477 tallies.

Missing too are Loren Jones, Bill Connors, and Ernie Lotano, declared ineligible for playing in a post-season Y.M.C.A. tournament. "If we had James, Connors and Lotano, we'd be all right," says Guley. But he doesn't have them.

Gridders Uncertain

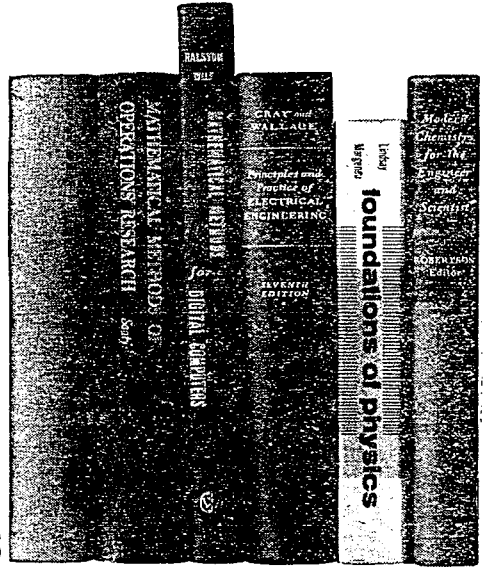

Guley is still not certain whether footballers Ernie Davis, Don King, and John Mackey will come out for the team. It is very likely that Davis will sign with a pro football team and therefore be ineligible for any varsity play. Mackey and King aren't sure that they can take any more time from their studies.

In addition, if the Piety decides to accept a bowl bid, it would be very longer before the footballers would be able to join the squad. It would be the end of January before they could shake off their football muscles. But no matter what condition they're in, Guley certainly can use their hustle. All in all, Guley was disappointed with the turnout for the team, and with the attitude of Syracuse in general. Although he tries to be optimistic, there's not much he can be optimistic about. "We don't have much," he muses. "It will be a hard, cold winter."

back to the ground as radio active particles.

Shielding Oneself

Prof. Wasi's remarks dealt with the problem of shielding oneself against radioactive fallout.

The purpose of shielding would be to bring the radiation count down to the toleration limit of a person.

Wasi described three types of radiation: the electromagnetic ic waves, or gamma rays, the nuclear particles like the alpha beta rays, and the radioactive isotopes like Carbon 14 or Strontium 90.

All of these particles, with the exceptions of gamma rays and neutrons, are electrically charged and have a short range.

Protection

Ordinary clothing and even the skin layers are usually adequate protection against alpha or beta rays. Neutrons and gamma rays, however, will penetrate any type of shielding.

Fortunately, the neutrons are only present near the heart of the explosion. There the heat blast effects are far more dangerous.

When the mass of a shelter is doubled, the radiation protection it offers is multiplied tenfold.

Sub-basements and underground installations such as mines offer up to 500 times the protection provided by a partially exposed basement of a one or two story house, said Wasi.

Russians Push Schools-Rogers

"Russia is on the move in all aspects of education," stated Dean of the School of Education Virgil M. Rogers in a speech he delivered Monday night in Maxwell Auditorium.

Rogers spoke on "The Soviet Union Revisited," and attempted to explain the changes in Soviet educational program in the past two years and to present the Soviet attitude towards education. He had recently returned from heading a group of educators on a trip to Russia, and had previously visited the Soviet Union two years ago.

He explained that the commitment of national income of the Soviet Union to education is more than twice the percentage of national income directed to education by the United States.

Higher Percentage
According to Rogers, the percentage of children and youths attending school is near the top among all nations. "College education is guaranteed to all youth who show promise in high school of profiting from college attendance," Rogers said.

He continued that the Soviets do not hesitate to use financial resources at the local, state, and national levels to guarantee all young citizens a fair chance at education.

In the past two years some changes have been made in the Soviet educational program, asserted Rogers. He stated that compulsory education had been extended to the eighth grade, one year had been added to high school, and all youth are required to spend part of each week at vocational training and work experience outside the school.

Rogers explained that the organization of Soviet education has been radically revamped to provide for many boarding schools where parents may place their children. Placement in these schools is voluntary, he said, but the government encourages it by paying most of the costs.

Referring to the Soviet system, Rogers said, "Their competence and sense of direction and their matchless dedication to communism and 'Mother Russia' leaves no doubt about the success of their indoctrination."

"Their commitment to education as essential to success of their way of life," Rogers said, "sets an example which America should ponder."

Newhouse Cites Stryker's Work In Photography

Photography teacher Roy Stryker will receive the Newhouse Citation of the Syracuse University School of Journalism Thursday for his contributions to the field of visual communications.

Stryker not a photographer himself, is the former director of the Farm Security Administration's photographic project.

Under his supervision, more than 300,000 photographs have been taken by FSA, Standard Oil Company, Laughlin Steel Corporation, and other organizational photographers.

Wolsley Presents Citation
Prof Roland E. Wolsley, chairman of the School of Journalism's magazine department will present the citation at the banquet of the Photojournalism Seminar of the East. The American Society of Magazine Photographers and the School of Journalism are jointly sponsoring the banquet.

Presiding at the banquet will be Prof. Fred A. Demarest, head of the photography department. William Gray, senior editor of Life Magazine international editions, will be the main speaker. Prior to joining the FSA in 1935, Stryker was an economics professor at Columbia University for 11 years.

His library has been donated to the University and will be included in the research facilities of the proposed Newhouse Communications Center.

Frosh Faction Questions Inquiry Planned

Greeks' Discrimination On Complaints

By ADAIR DUFINE

The freshman class, bewildered by the recent discriminatory charges, asked the Greek system to validate its standing through a petition being circulated in the Greek houses. After hearing charges and counter-charges on the issue of religious and racial discrimination within the fraternity-sorority system, prospective freshman rushees stated that "they want this problem solved by the Greeks themselves," according to Prue Glass, a spokesman for the group.

The attempts of various freshmen to obtain information about the Greek system from the administration and class officers have proven futile, it was asserted. "Looking out for their own interests, the class officers felt they could not involve themselves as officers, and representatives of the class," said Miss Glass. Mixed feelings from the administration and JSL on the issue gave the freshmen the opinion "everything is confused enough now, don't cause any more problems," several freshmen said.

The recent articles in the Daily Orange and campus panel discussions at which invited Greek representatives remained absent, have merely confused the freshmen, Connie Nofaro, intermediary for the frosh movement, said. A discussion by Dr. George Wiley on WAER urged the Greeks to re-evaluate their system and attempted to clear up the theories of the fraternity-sorority systems for the freshmen.

Aid in Judgment

The petition, written by a group of freshmen, "is an expression of our good faith in Greek willingness to demonstrate by statistics and fact its stand on this important issue," of discrimination. In order to accurately judge the Greeks, this faction believes that it must have answers for the questions of discrimination by the

Ups Tuition Fees; Students Protest

The University of Rochester just raised its tuition from $1275 to $1500!

Over 800 students recently demonstrated in a planned rally against the tuition raise, four course system, and graduate students teaching too many courses, according to Carol Husted, managing editor of the Campus Times.

Miss Husted explained that Rochester had previously been on a five course system but switched to four in an attempt to further "depth" reading. Professors now assign much more reading in each of their courses.

Many students are protesting vehemently against this practice. Miss Husted said, graduate students are especially annoyed since they cannot take any liberal arts courses.

In many science and English sections, Miss Husted said, graduate assistants lead discussion classes. Students complain that the graduate "don't bother to

Creel To Talk On Chinese Philosophies

Dr. Herrelle G. Creel, chairman of the Department of Oriental Languages and Civilization at the University of Chicago, will speak on "The Nature of Chinese Thought" at 4 p.m. today in the basement lecture hall of H.B. Crouse Hall.

Creel's discussion of forces at work in modern China is part of the SU Humanities Lecture Series.

Having spent more than 12 years in the Orient, Creel is an authority in his field. He was a research analyst for the War Department's Intelligence Service in Washington during World War II.

Creel has been a research fellow at the Harvard Yenching Institute, the Rockefeller Foundation, the American Council Learned Societies and formerly taught psychology at Lombard College.

He has also written many articles and books of Chinese history and thought.

Canadian Writers, Editors, Photogs Here For Seminar

SU J-Professors To Participate In Conference

Roy Stryker, former head of the Farm Security Administration; Arthur Rothstein, technical director of photography at Look Magazine; and Eliot Elisofon, staff photographer for Life magazine, are among 25 editors who will address the second annual Photojournalism Seminar of the East now being held in Syracuse.

The School of Journalism of the Newhouse Communications Center, Syracuse University, and the ASMP are co-sponsors of the meeting, one of the largest of its kind in the country.

Fred A. Demarest, assistant professor of photography at the School of Journalism, and A. John Geraci, president of the American Society of Magazine Photographers, are co-directors of the three day conference, which ends November 17.

A banquet will be held at 7:30 p.m. today in Graham Hall dining room. Stryker will receive the Newhouse Citation of the School of Journalism for his contribution.

Lambda Sig, Jr. Honorary, Taps 7 Coeds

By JOYCE HERGENHAN
Junior Editor

Parents of Syracuse University students will not receive a letter protesting alleged abuses in university food service until a special Joint Student Legislature Investigatory Committee completes a thorough investigation of student complaints on the subject, JSL decided at its meeting Wednesday night.

Lambda Sig, Jr. Honorary, Taps 7 Coeds

Lambda Sigma Sigma, Junior Women's Honorary, tapped seven coeds this morning. New members are selected in recognition of academic achievement, extra-curricular activities and services to the university.

The coeds tapped are: Joan Doramus, Virginia Erykman, Kristen Geedler, Janet Griffin, Virginia Privatere, Gail Weisman and Joan Wheeler.

An education major from Maywood, N. J., Miss Doramus has a 2.13 average, is a member of Judiciary Board of Joint Student Government, Gamma Phi Beta and is Constitution Chairman for Panhellenic.

Miss Erykman, who has a 1.96 average, is a city student majoring in business. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta, Rushing Chairman for Panhellenic and president of dorms.

Miss Geedler, with a 1.88 average, is a home economics major from Kenmore, and a member of Junior Executive Council, Tri-

The Student Conduct and Welfare Committee has been relieved of all other responsibilities in order to conduct this month-long investigation, the results of which will be submitted to university Vice President and Treasurer Francis A. Wingate.

Wingate Involved

Wingate last night told the committee he had heard several rumors of food service mispractices but had never received any concrete reports or evidence of such abuses. He emphasized, however, that he would be glad to hear and, if at all possible, correct any abuses made known to him.

The investigatory committee will meet with living center food service representatives and any students with specific complaints regarding cafeteria hours and lines, the quality of food and service, snack bar prices and the board requirement.

Anybody with a specific complaint is urged to contact a committee member. If this is done, JSL speaker Brian Fitzgerald said, such conditions as soon as their existence is proven."

Registration Changed

Legislative Commissioner William Hyman announced a tentative change in second semester registration procedures.

"We are tentatively going back to the old system of registration which will be held February 5, 6 and 7," Hyman announced. There will be, however, only five IBM cards and the will be thirteen for students to fill out, he added.

Iranian Students

In other business, the legislature voted to go on record as opposed to several practices of the Iranian government regarding Iranian students studying in this country. The body further voted to send a letter protesting the plight of these students to the U.S. State Department.

Guides' Training Program To Begin

Through The Keyhole, the Association of Women Students' training program for guides and junior officers, will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 30, in Maxwell Auditorium.

The program will continue Dec. 7 and 14 and Jan. 4. Coeds wishing to participate must attend the Joint Student Legislature Insight program and must sign up at the main desk of the Women's Building from 9 to 5 between Nov. 16 and 22.

Make-up sessions for those unable to attend the evening sessions will be at 4 p.m. Dec. 7 and 14 and Jan. 4.

Frankie Avalon Hits 'Cuse; WAER Tapes Interview

FRANKIE AVALON, teen-age rock and roll idol, arrived in Syracuse and taped a radio interview with WAER. Avalon, famous for his best selling records "Venus" and "Doo Dee Dinah," is currently appearing at Three Rivers Inn. (Photo by Bruce Anspaach)

By REA TURET

WAER was all awitiver yesterday awaiting the arrival of singing idol Frankie Avalon. The occasion was the taping of a radio interview for Avalon to plug his latest album and current engagement at the Three Rivers Inn.

Short, and extremely good-looking, Avalon spoke in a well-remembered voice about his latest album, "And Now About Mr. Avalon." The album is a change of pace from the usual rock 'n' roll that he has been recording. The changed style is "part of growing up, getting older," he said.

When asked about the university campus, he replied that it reminded him of the University of Pennsylvania's campus.

Hectic Life

Touring gets hectic, Avalon admitted. "We usually tour day-by-day, for three or four months at a time, with only a few days off between tours. This doesn't leave much time for personal life," the singing star commented.

Five years ago, when Avalon was 16, he began his career as a trumpet player in Philadelphia, Pa. At this time Chancellor records was looking for a new singer and "it was just a question of be-

Feeble Ban Defense

The administrators of the New York City public university system have attempted to answer criticism leveled at them by city students. These students have been attacking a decision made last month by the Administrative Council of the City University, stating that no known member of the Communist party could speak at the city campuses.

This week, Dr. Harold W. Stokes, president of Queens College, defended this ban on Communist speakers. In his defense, Stokes made some distinctions. For instance, he says that a speaker from the Soviet Union could serve a legitimate educational function, while a member of the American Communist party would be a mere propagandist, attempting to advance his doctrines. He further stated that this problem placed him in the same position as a physicist "who must study atomic energy while avoiding lethal radiation." The physical presence, he says, of a real live Communist was not necessary in order to make students aware of and educated about communist doctrine and theory.

Our first impression is that this opinion shows an odious disdain for the intelligence and maturity of the city students. The City University attitude as expressed by President Stokes is in some ways similar to censorship — both showing a fear of using original and real sources. We would not be surprised, therefore, to learn that the administrators had decided to ban the reading of any Karl Marx. The physical presence of the manifesto should not be necessary for its understanding. It can be explained to the students by professors who were educated at more liberal institutions. Why go to the prime source when you have professors who can explain it to you? Why expose dangerous and different viewpoints to young immature minds?

But to those of us who enjoy reading original sources, who relish in being exposed to different ideas and become exhilarated over the challenge of demanding questions; to those of us who enjoy living in a country where freedom of thought is an indigenous right, Stokes' assumptions are indeed execrable. For he does more than just challenge his student's right to honest education. He almost blatantly states that Communist doctrine is so potent, its open expression necessitates adoption. He is so afraid of the spread of communism that he seems to lose all faith in the strength and meaning of American democracy.

Despite what the campus politicians say come election time, the students of this university will never be "unified," and this is the way it should be. On a campus of this size one couldn't expect, and shouldn't hope for, complete student unity on even the most basic or trivial of issues. Indeed, an institution such as Syracuse University should encourage and cultivate individual thought and action, and discourage any and all manifestations of conformity for the sake of conformity.

With one exception. At Syracuse, or any other institution of higher learning for that matter, there should be one common thread uniting all of its students all of the time: namely, a sincere desire for an education. With this, a campus has all the unity it needs, without it, it has nothing.

How does Syracuse stand? It is generally agreed that the "playboy" era of Syracuse's past is all but dead and buried, and that the calibre of students currently being accepted is far superior to that of previous years. It is further conceded, I believe, that Syracuse is rapidly approaching the category of "greatness" on which it has been on the verge for many years.

But what about this desire for an education? There are many indications that this goal has finally arrived on the Syracuse scene: the libraries have never been as consistently crowded or quiet as they seem to be lately, the traditional rites and sbermagians that always accompanied Colgate Weekends in the past were discontinued this year with apparent reluctance, and, on at least one occasion, a surprisingly large number of students turned out for a panel discussion on an issue of important topical interest.

But there are indications, also, that this common desire is not as widespread as might be hoped. Last Tuesday night, in the Chapel, Prof. Clinton Rossiter delivered a Citizenship lecture that was open to the entire campus. The turnout was far from impressive. Whether we agree or even understand Rossiter's views or not, he is a man worth listening to. A nationally acknowledged author and scholar, scheduled to speak on "The Crisis of the American Political Tradition," Rossiter delivered a far larger audience than he received. Indeed, it is likely that if the lecture was not a required part of the Cit curriculum, student attendance would have been even smaller.

Not too long ago Maxwell Auditorium was practically filled to capacity for a forum on the "Eight American" program for which attendance was not required of anyone, while the other night Clinton Rossiter drew very poorly indeed, considering Cit attendance and all. The implications are confusing, to say the least.

I don't pretend to be able to explain this discrepancy, in fact I'm not even sure there is an explanation. But I do feel certain that Tuesday night's turnout did not terribly impress Prof. Rossiter with the intellectual curiosity of the Syracuse student body. The speaker's reputation and chosen topic, I believe, should have been enough to fill the Chapel with interested students, but this was clearly not the case. Many important speakers are scheduled to appear on campus this year, primarily for the benefit of the student body, but if last Tuesday was any indication of the calibre of visiting lecturers is an important indication of this education. But if this education is ignored, or only partially consumed, the university hasn't got a chance.

LETTERS —

Bombs, Discrimination Cited

To the Editor:

First, I should like to commend Miss Robin Craven for demonstrating once again that apathy is not in vogue among the modern collegiate set. However, before I volunteer to "advance our cause," I wish to protest resumption of nuclear testing" under the aegis of this dedicated young lady. I should like to know exactly why I am advancing and protesting.

She contends that "we have enough power to destroy each other; why should we go on contaminating the world." Obviously, by testing, our enemy is increasing his power to destroy us quite probably by decreasing our power to destroy him (i.e., by his development of an anti-ICBM). Otherwise, why did he risk worldwide revulsion and more importantly a coagulation of free world resolve by his resumption of testing culminated with that contemptuous 50 meg blast.

Thus, if we are to maintain our present standard of power, it is imperative that we resume our own tests provided that security provisions warrant such action. No other criteria such as humanitarian considerations regarding "contaminating the world" should guide our decisions on this matter unless there is irrefutable proof that even under extreme precautions our testing will inevitably result in "mutations" or unless, of course, we do not intend to maintain our present superiority.

Regarding "mutations," Miss Craven relates that although "we have no records now, we will eventually see . . . how many died from Russian testing." Since no deaths have even been recorded from testing (including the immoral folly of Hiroshima and Nagasaki) be considered convincing. I believe Miss Craven's stark pronouncement is unwarranted.

Regarding the maintenance of power superiority, Miss Craven contends that "we are adding to world tension by testing, especially with Berlin as it is now." How an improvement of our nuclear muscle tone (which together with the present flexing of our conventional biceps) would affirm our resolve to stand fast in Berlin "adds to world tensions," I must admit is a perplexing action unless one would not have us repel Red aggression.

One additional question is, of course, how is the "Berlin situation" now? The consensus of world figures is "calm." Well, the Orange is all things to all men, still has its courage down and with only an occasional refugee laced with machine-gun bullets, yes, I guess the situation to those immune to human misery is "calm."

Peace, I too craven, Robin, a true peace for all. So when either you or your brother organize a march to anywhere to protest the global Red Wall of Tyranny, please contact me. I am sure that I will be able to obtain plastic bombs, in quantity, cheap.

T. Houlihan
Graduate Student, M.A.E.

To the Editor:

The group traveling to Washington to picket will probably have as much effect on nuclear policy as if they picketed the Orange in the hope of stopping student drinking.

It is not my purpose to question the ideals of the group, for granted a successful nuclear test-ban is of tremendous importance to mankind, present and future, but I do question the validity of the premise of Miss Craven, their spokesman.

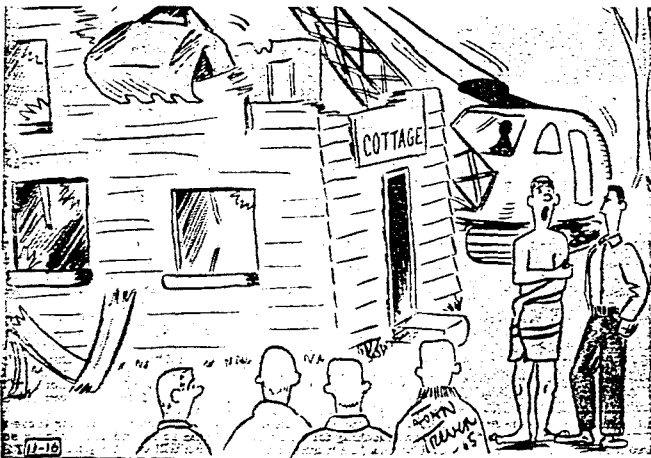

I understand Miss Craven, in her statement, to have the power to stop it (testing) altogether," to mean, by the use of "we," the peoples of the United States and other non-Communist countries. Recently, from past experience, it has been demonstrated that the high command of the Soviet Union pays little heed to the desires and wishes of the rest of the world when formulating their military policies, so it appears that Miss Craven speaks of a non-existent power.

Bill Christie

To the Editor:

Having applauded your position on human dignity, might I recommend that an service to humanity (which includes underprivileged blacks, whites, yellows, etc.), the Daily Orange refrain from listing graduates of those persons housing from those persons who practice racial discrimination in offering their facilities to students.

Shreve Praises Fresh Progress

By MARK DIAMOND

Now that this year's Syracuse frosh gridgers have ended their season with a 3-1 record, the main item of importance is how much help they will be able to supply next year's varsity.

Discussing the past campaign, Tangerine coach Jim Shreve said, "I am very pleased with the development of the squad." He seemed especially proud of the progress and attitude displayed by the linemen, mentioning a long list of players who impressed him.

Among the boys coming in for special praise were ends Paul Houle and Jim Cripps. Shreve explained, "They were both fullbacks in high school and were converted to end when they came up here. They have good size, speed and attitude."

Varsity Coach Ben Schwartzwalder was understandably non-committal regarding the specific freshmen who might make the grade next year. "You can never get too enthusiastic about any frosh group," he said, adding that sometimes men drop out or become ineligible before the season starts.

Schwartzwalder called the Tangerine aggregation "a respectable group. If we could get this sort of group every year, we'd be all right." He stressed that there were many backs who could help, if they continued to make progress "and hit the books."

The top backfield prospects coming up to the varsity are Mike Koski, Herb Elzold, Jim Nance, "Ducky" Duckett and Billy Hunter. In addition, the feeling is that quarterback Wally Mahle and Dick King are even at this stage, and it should be interesting to see which one develops faster.

At the moment, recruiting for next season is in full swing. Each coach has been assigned an area and with the aid of alumni, friends and relatives, the scouting department already has assembled a file of over 400 prospective players. The only definite thing that can be said is that Binema will be most sought after, for as Schwartzwalder said, "Our competition is getting rougher and we have to keep up with them."

Davis Remains 4th In NCAA Scoring, 8th In Rushing Races

By ART BOSSKY

Orange halfback Ernie Davis, who carried the ball only four times in last Saturday's trouncing of Colgate, remained in eighth place in the national ground gaining race, according to this week's NCAA statistics. Davis, who has averaged 5.6 yards per carry, has gained 629 yards on the ground while logging the ball 112 times.

Davis, who tallied 14 points Saturday also remained fourth in national scoring. The Hill stand-out has collected 13 touchdowns and 4 extra points in his campaign total of 82 points.

Seven standouts from the squads of Orange opponents also hold positions in this week's tables.

Holy Cross' Al Snyder ranks eighth in pass receiving with 26 aerials grabbed for a total of 365 yards gained.

Snyder's teammate, quarterback Pat McCarthy, has surged to eighth in total offense. His has gained 974 yards in 7 games.

Colgate's line quarterback, Dan Keating, vaulted from 15th to 12th in total offense following his performance against Syracuse. The Red Raider field general has amassed 864 yards in 7 contests.

Still another signal caller, Oregon State's Terry Baker, ranks 13th in total offense. Baker has gained 861 yards in his seven games.

Bill Thornton, a speedy Nebraska halfback, ranks eleventh in ground gaining. Thornton has cracked opposing lines for 591 yards on 318 carries.

Another Cornhusker, Dennis Clairidge, ranks 12th in punting. He has boomed 34 punts an average of 40 yards per boot.

Fred Colvard, West Virginia's ace quarterback, is the fifth best punt returner. Colvard has rambled an average of 16.5 yards every time that he has latched on to an enemy punt.

By MILT JOFFE

IT WILL BE a hard, cold winter. Those words were uttered by Syracuse varsity basketball coach Marc Guley in a Daily Orange interview Wednesday. In plain English, that's all there is to it.

Syracuse has reached the low ebb of what has been a long record of pretty good basketball teams. It started suddenly last season when the Orangemen cashed in with four wins and 19 losses.

This year the outlook is even blunter, as Guley himself readily admits. With no height or experience to speak of, the mentor of Syracuse's basketball fortunes will find the winter not only hard and cold, but also very lonely.

It's always tough to lose, and for some unfair reason, for Marc Guley it has even been tough to win at Syracuse.

In fact, until last season Guley had only coached two teams with losing records. Nevertheless, he has always been the brunt of criticism and disapproval. These feelings hit their high point last season when, somehow, it was decided he was responsible for a situation that was quite out of his control.

JOFFE

Last year Syracuse had one good player—Pete Chudy. He was in a class by himself when he took the court with his teammates, but he wasn't enough to win ball games.

Guley is just not getting the talent to mold into a winning team. For some time now he has been near the top in Eastern basketball, but curiously enough the hoop fortunes fell with a crash one year after the football team rose to the top of the country.

Football became king and Guley, among other coaches, had to take a back seat, in fact such a back seat it was almost like not being in the car.

The few boys who showed any potential as freshmen just happened to be football players, who chose to forego the hardwoods for the gridiron. In at least a couple of cases that we know of, the choice they made seems to be the wrong one.

It would seem that a school the size of Syracuse should be able to do a little basketball recruiting in the midst of the football market to make sure that a sport that is so popular around the country doesn't die of starvation on Plety Hill.

Be that as it may, Guley must play the 1961-62 schedule with the team he has and will most likely subject himself to the same old complaints and jeers.

The Syracuse team that scrimmaged Albany State in Archbold gymnasium Friday night certainly did not even resemble the squad that went to the finals of the Eastern NCAA tournament in 1957 led by Vinnie Cohen and John Cincobex.

Even the two years that have passed since Ed Goldberg and Pete Chudy teamed up to become leaders of a Cinderella team seemed lost in the dim dark past.

All there was for Syracuse was the past when the long scrimmage ended Friday night. The Albany team, without a scholarship player, soundly trounced the home team.

We only shudder to think what will happen when the season begins and Syracuse's six-foot sophomore squad tangles with the likes of St. Bonaventure, Detroit, DePaul, Canisius, Niagara, NYU, Holy Cross, St. John's, LaSalle, West Virginia, Penn State and Pitt.

The 21-game schedule includes only nine home games, which won't help the situation much. Road trips will take the team to such imposing structures as the Philadelphia Palestra and New York's Madison Square Garden.

The War Memorial has been a very lonely place on basketball nights these past couple of years. It will probably be even worse this season.

It doesn't have to be so. Fans can make a difference many times. Good crowds could mean a win instead of a close loss. No one's making promises for this team. Guley has admitted the outlook is bad.

We like to think Syracuse students can support a basketball team no matter what its record. This may be wishful thinking. Perhaps the field house will some day increase attendance at home games.

But even if the fans stay away, they owe it to Marc Guley to give him an even break. Perhaps there are better basketball coaches around. But if we're going to place blame anywhere let's be realistic. We've said it before in this column and it's as true today as it was then: You can't beat the system. It appears that Marc Guley is resigned to this fact as he stands on the brink of a long, cold and lonely winter.

Notre Dame Co-Captains

TWO OF THE rugged Notre Dame linemen who will be attempting to stop Ernie Davis and his Orange teammates Saturday are Irish co-captains NICK BUONICONTI and ERNIE DAVIS. Both are senior guards. Key is a 5-10, 210-pounder from Baton Rouge, La., and Buoniconti is a 5-11, 210-pounder from Springfield, Mass.

Orangemen Increase Team Statistics

Saturday's romp over Colgate enabled the Syracuse Orangemen to substantially build up their team totals in all statistical departments.

In eight games, Syracuse has gained 1688 yards rushing, while the Hillmen's opponents have picked up 1130 along the ground. The Plety gridders have accumulated 899 yards passing, while the opposition has gathered 758 yards via the air routes.

Syracuse's total offense for eight games stands at 2578 yards, as compared with 1888 for the opposition.

Ernie Davis, making a strong bid for repeat All-American honors, is primarily responsible for the Orangemen's impressive rushing totals. The Elmira senior has accounted for 629 yards on the ground, carrying the pigskin 112 times.

Quarterback Dave Sarette continues to lead the Orange squad in the passing department. He has connected on 41 of 55 tosses for 568 yards and seven touchdowns.

Davis is the team's number one pass receiver, grabbing 13 aerials for 127 yards and two touchdowns. His roommate, John Meekey, follows with 12 receptions.

Davis still leads the Hillmen in scoring with 82 points. Senior end Ken Ericson has moved into second in the scoring category, with 30 points. Ken has three touchdowns and 12 extra points.

ing in the right place at the right time," Avalon said about his start. Incidentally, he still plays the trumpet in his act at the Three Rivers Inn.

Favorite Record
His first hit was "DeeDee Dinah," back in 1956. His biggest hit was "Venus" which sold over two million copies. "Venus" was his first record, "It's a real good seller, and I enjoyed doing it."

Avalon enjoys performing for teenagers. As for being a teenage idol, he said "It's a great feeling to have so many people with you, buying your records. The least that I can do is say hello to my friends, be as nice as I can and sign autographs."

Part of the routine of being an idol is stories that are printed. "Most of them are true, though built up. Having such a tight schedule, as most of the performers do, the studios arrange dates for the performers."

Among the starlets he has dated are Annette Funicello, Ann Margaret and Joanie Sommers. He likes Hollywood, "It's one of the greatest places I've ever been to. It's a fascinating, exciting type of work."

Frankie loves what he's doing. "I enjoy just singing and performing."

Low Art Center, Hill Sorority Vandalized

Late Tuesday night, an unidentified person threw a full can of beer through the plate glass window of Dr. Laurence Schmeckebier's office in Lowe Art Center, the Security Police reported.

The flying glass shattered a piece of ceramic pottery valued at $150. The frame of a $750 painting was also slightly pierced by a flying splinter of glass. The painting itself was not damaged.

Security Police found two other beer cans on the ground outside the window. These dented cans indicated that three full cans of beer had been thrown at Schmeckebier's office window, they reported.

Security Police have been investigating the case and the beer cans will be checked for fingerprints.

Another case of theft occurred at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Sigma Kappa sorority 500 University.

A prowler climbed the fire escape to the third floor of the house, snatched a blanket from one of the sleeping occupants and fled, according to Security Police.

As a result of this incident, there will be enforced policing in this area.

Officer Explains WAC Program

A WAC summer training program for college juniors was described yesterday by Major Margaret Dougherty, Women's Army Corps Selection Officer for First United States Army.

Applicants must be between 18 and 31 years of age, single and have completed their junior year in college. Those selected will be sworn into the Army Reserve as Corporals and ordered to active duty for one month next summer.

Women who do not wish to complete the training program will be honorably discharged, according to Major Dougherty. Those who are interested in taking commissions will be commissioned as Army Second Lieutenants upon completion of their senior year.

Information about the summer program can be obtained from the Army ROTC, Drama Building.

Balloting Held Today For Queen Of Engineer's Ball

Balloting for queen of the Engineer's Ball will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. today in Hinds Hall. The five finalists recently selected are Mimi Goodfriend, Vivian R. Elliot, Linda Hamlin, Mary McDonald and Ingrid Orgen.

Only students who have purchased tickets are eligible to vote. Tickets for the Ball, which will be held at the Sheraton Inn, Nov. 18, can be secured until noon today in room 151, Hinds Hall. They cost five dollars a couple.

Representing Flint Hall 3A, Miss Goodfriend is a freshman enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts. She is social chairman of her floor and a member of the Onondaga staff. She is from New Rochelle.

Miss Elliot is a senior majoring in education. Vice-President of Hatt Dormitory, Miss Elliot enjoys reading, writing and athletics. Marlville is her home town.

Also a senior, Miss Hamlin represents Sigma Kappa sorority of which she is rushing chairman. Miss Hamlin is from Bar Harbor, Maine.

Miss McDonald, a junior, is a transfer student from Mount Allison University, New Brunswick, Canada, and is enrolled in the College of Fine Arts. Painting is one of her main interests. Also a member of Sigma Kappa sorority, Miss McDonald lives in Lima Cottage. She is from Montreal, Quebec.

The only blonde, Miss Ogren is social chairman of Hughes Cottage and a member of Standards Council. From Hastings-on-Hudson, she sings and plays the piano.

Selections for the queen were made at four coffees, Dean Ralph A. Galbraith, of the College of Engineering; Jim Deino, of WYSU-TV and George Abbott and James McMurray of the Dean of Men's Office chose the five finalists. The queen will be crowned at the dance.

With music by Aristocrats, the Ball will be from 8:30 p.m. - 1 a.m.

Pep Rally Starts Tonight at 6:45

The Notre Dame Football Pep Rally will begin at 6:45 p.m. today in front of the Main Library. The Varsity and Freshman Cheerleaders, the Band, twirler Judy Delp and members of Traditions Commissions will ride in cars to form a car parade.

Freshmen have arranged a window light placard cheer at DellPlain. Miss Delp will twirl with fire batons.

THE AUTHENTIC STORY OF PRESIDENT KENNEDY'S WARTIME ADVENTURES

This week The Saturday Evening Post publishes the first authentic account of Lieutenant Kennedy at war. To get this story, writer Robert Donovan traveled halfway around the world. He got eyewitness reports from every survivor of the Kennedy crew. He even interviewed the Japanese commander whose destroyer sank Kennedy's PT boat. This is a story of heroism, humor and heartbreak. You will follow John Kennedy's adventures from the moment his ship went down - right up to his dramatic rescue from a desert island. Read "PT 109: The Adventure That Made a President."

Piety Faces Notre Dame Series Renewed After 47 Years

By MILT JOFFE
Junior Editor

Syracuse battles the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., tomorrow with national rankings and a possible bowl bid hinging on the outcome. The game will be the second played between the two schools. There has been an interim of 47 years since last they met.

The intersectional clash will be televised on a closed-circuit hookup in the Onondaga County War Memorial. The game will also be broadcast by WSYR radio (570 kc.). Game time is 2 p.m., EST.

The Irish have been gearing their defenses for All-American Ernie Davis. Davis needs 110 yards gained against Notre Dame, via all routes, to surpass Jim Brown's lifetime Syracuse mark of 3,225 yards. Davis has gained 3,116 yards rushing, passing, pass receiving, on punt and kickoff returns and by intercepted passes.

The Notre Dame team will have another threat to contend with, however. The passing of Dave Sarette and Bob Lelli has been sensational. Sarette has completed 41 of 66 passes while Lelli, injured a good part of the season, has hit on 12 of 16 passes. Sarette has seven TD pitches and Lelli has two, both against Colgate.

The Notre Dame attack is paced by quarterback Daryle Lamonica, a fine all-around field general. The Irish running game, fourth in the nation in rushing offense, is headed by Angelo Dabiero (Notre Dame's number 44). Sophomore halfback Paul Costa and junior fullback Mike Lind, who has been out of the lineup with an injury, provide speed and power to the offense.

The Irish won their first three games this season and reached fifth on the national polls. Three straight losses dropped them way down from the heights but last Saturday's 25-20 win over Pittsburg (Continued on Page 9)

CONSCIENCE IN POLITICS

STUART GERRY BROWN's new book, "Conscience in Politics: Adlai E. Stevenson in the 1950's," bears the above dust-jacket. The book is currently on sale at campus bookstores.

Brown Pens Adlai Story

By ALAN G. MILLSTEIN
Junior Editor

Adlai Stevenson as a voice of conscience and major molder of opinion in American political life is the subject of a new book by Maxwell Professor of American Civilization, Stuart Gerry Brown, "Conscience in Politics: Adlai E. Stevenson in the 1950's" is the title of the just released Syracuse University Press book in which Dr. Brown documents why he believes you don't have to necessarily be in power to be a great influence on opinion and to provide leadership.

Dr. Brown, a longtime friend and campaign aide to the twice unsuccessful candidate for president, traces the speeches and actions of Stevenson and Eisenhower on the major issues of the 1950's—McCarthyism, civil rights, foreign policy, defense and disarmament and nuclear testing.

The book traces Stevenson's public behavior from the time of the 1952 convention right up until the 1960 Los Angeles convention at which he surrendered his "titular" title.

In 313 pages of carefully documented text, Brown, now Distinguished Visiting Professor at the East-West Center in Hawaii, suggests that President Eisenhower's popularity led to a diminution of his power to take the difficult decisions of the 1950's, while Stevenson was able to provide leadership because of his tact, toughness of conscience and strong moral convictions.

Monday Brown appeared on the National Broadcasting Company's "Today" show and told the national audience he believed Stevenson sounded the theme for his own life and action when he once told an audience, "The world is

West Has Burden For China, West Difficulties: Creel

By RENEE GANG

"The West bears the heavier responsibility for the misunderstandings that exist today between China and the Western world," said Dr. Herrieo G. Creel, chairman of the Department of Oriental Languages and Civilization at the University of Chicago.

Creel spoke on "The Nature of Chinese Thought" in the first of the Humanities Lecture Series held in the new Crouse Hall.

Americans assume, Creel explained, that people of other cultures think as they do, or will soon "modernize" their mode of reasoning. This is a mistaken assumption, he said.

Americans also feel that giving economic aid to a foreign country will result in gaining its friendship. This, too, is a misconception, said Creel, understanding of the alien philosophy would accomplish more than our millions of dollars do toward cementing better relations, Creel continued.

Traditional thought patterns still exist, The Chinese believe a man must be prepared to die for the sake of his principles. However, they also feel one should always compromise where it is necessary.

"The Chinese," Creel said, "are not as addicted to abstractions as Americans." For example, the Chinese conceive of government as the people and groups involved.

These basic differences in East-West philosophies and the lack of understanding between them has been the chief cause of world tensions, Creel claimed.

now too dangerous for anything but the truth and too small for anything but brotherhood."

IFC Will Hold Convo On Rushing

"I hope all the freshmen come out and see what the Greeks are like first hand" said Ed Paeker, chairman of the annual men's freshmen and upperclass transfer students rushing convocation which will be held 8:30 p.m. Sunday, in Hendrick's Chapel.

Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford will give the keynote address on the topic "Administration Views Fraternity." Other speakers will be Richard Miller, IFC President, Mr. Menzes, Alumni IFC President and Jim Talton and Gary Davis, IFC rushing chairman.

After the program, members of the IFC and Alumni IFC will visit all freshman dormitories for a question and answer period.

All freshmen interested in rushing and all IFC delegates are required to attend this convocation.

SPECIAL IFC Rejects '65 Petition

In an early morning emergency meeting, the Interfraternity Council voted to reject an earlier petition by freshmen concerning the racial and religious make-up of its membership.

The fraternity group based its reasons for rejection on the anonymity of the freshman group, the threatening form of the petition and its limited nature. The fraternity men felt that the questions as expressed on the petition could not be answered point blank.

They further felt that the petition would confuse the basic issue of fraternity discrimination and that in effect it would worsen the situation because of a resulting stereotype of each house. Freshmen should rush freely, they said, and not be influenced before rushing by the racial or religious make up of a house.

Some questions on the petition were: "Does your house have a constitutional (or informal) racial/religious clause?" and "How many Negro students are in present undergraduate membership?"

Engineer Ball Queen Candidates

JSL Backs Out

Once again the Joint Student Legislature has revealed what seems to be an inevitable and inherent yellow streak that runs through its forever ineffective back. They have now told us to wait before they send a letter to parents informing them of their children's complaints about food service. Wait for what? For corrective administrative actions that have not come in the past and show no expectations of happening in the future? For more students to go through the drudgery of waiting on long food service lines for distasteful food? For the sudden student enthusiasm for food service reform to evaporate and peter out as it goes through the long drag of the university bureaucracy?

We called the original intention of the JSL "unprecedented." Perhaps it is unprecedented for the Syracuse student government, but in the light of the action that could be taken by the student body against food service, their plans are really quite conservative. All they want to do is write a letter to parents informing them how much the students on this campus are discontented with the food that's handed out to them every day. This letter would go to the parents who are spending thousands of dollars to educate their children and put them through school. For this amount of money we think they are entitled to such a letter.

After years of quiet, unconstructive, useless babbling the student legislature now even seems afraid to talk to its parents. The slightest whimper of complaint, the slightest expression of disapproval seems to create shudders and nervous reactions that disintegrates all leadership backbone. Under these conditions the student legislature now represents nobody but themselves. They cannot even be classified. They are not conservative. They are not liberal. With the exception of their habitual mediocrity, they cannot even be called middle of the road. Unless, of course, the road is a railway track and the train running over them is the administration. Can they really be naive enough to think they are now anything more than the veritable messenger boy handling nice but irrelevant telegrams?

It seems that these student leaders, these dynamic young personalities that are supposed to express the will and hopes of the student body, were so shocked to read that they had actually once publicly expressed disapproval of the administration, they immediately fell right back into the arms of the very people they were criticizing. Once again, they are forming a committee of investigation. Once again this committee will go through the normal channels. Once again students will wait disappointedly on food service lines.

Now that the last annual Colgate Weekend is over, a thought strikes one's mind about the way the Joint Student Government Administrative Board handled the matter of seeping. It may be a moot point, but from what clause in the constitution does the governing board derive the authority to declare that there is no seeping, no vandalism, or no anything under punishment of death?

A short reading of that recently passed and seldom revered constitution will reveal that the powers of the executive are pretty well outlined. One might also ask about a similar statement of policy on drinking in the stadium from the JSG Board.

Certainly administration policy on the matter of student consumption of alcohol is firm and clear, but if someone feels that a student underwriting of that policy, or announcement of a get-tough policy on the part of JSG, is necessary, which I feel it is not, then the powers should attempt to get the particular agency in student government designed for opinion-giving—viz. the Legislature—to say something on the matter.

Some might say that the JSG hasn't announced anything new, or underwritten any policy, but are just urging students to assume responsibility and police themselves. I disagree. It is the function of student government to administrate student decisions on student affairs, and to relate student opinion to the administration and faculty policy-makers to do with what they will. It is not their function officially, no matter how they might feel personally, to warn anybody or state any policy not arrived at through proper student channels. This is particularly true when the declared feeling of the student body has been that the drinking policy at Syracuse be re-examined with an eye to becoming more realistic every time the matter has come up for either discussion or vote in recent years.

In spite of crippling laws, the JSG has done a fine job this year in trying to run a government that has never been run well, and anyone even remotely concerned with JSG or any of the personalities involved respects their efforts. Nevertheless, a sine qua non for effective student government is student backing.

And the best way that JSG can gain student backing is by getting as many students as possible to participate in the running of the government. To do this, JSG must work hard to make the students feel that something can be done, for most are convinced otherwise. It is the duty of the agencies of JSG to appear student run.

The best way to have ineffective student government is to be sincerely paternal in dealings with students, which is an easy fault as government leaders close to the scene always know more than the mass, to disregard the machinery of government, and set up a new organ to deal with every new problem, and to underwrite university policies which the student body does not agree with.

The death of the Colgate-Syracuse rivalry is significant not so much for itself, but as just one more passing tradition which will be replaced by nothing at a time when Syracuse needs traditions very badly.

In the eras to come, when all live in huge dormitories, one indistinguishable from another, go down to the new stadium watch football players they don't even know, and come back to their living centers for coffee and doughnuts, what will there be besides the miserable weather and the resident adviser to bind the student body together?

And what will there be here to distinguish us from other campuses, or for that matter the county HOME? Certainly not the architecture, and apparently not the traditions, and almost surely not the fraternities, which will be either compromised or ruled out of existence.

The future of Syracuse doesn't warm the hearts of too many I know—maybe I know the wrong people. No one can predict the future with any trouble is, although anyone can give examples of what's wrong. Something is amiss, and worse, nobody who could do anything about it seems to care.

LETTERS

Student Court, Protest Cited

To the Editor:
 It appears to me that the problem of inept student government is more complex than the Daily Orange editorial staff would care to admit. The Joint Student Court gives off the pale glow of a typical administration lackey. There is much more involved in the apparent undergraduate disinterest than apathy.

May one reasonably expect a thoughtful student to enforce laws which he obviously regards as unnecessary or even childish? The Court's Associate Chief Justice has made frequent pleas for more student participation. What sort of reaction does Mr. Farr really expect?

If he attracts the spineless to his facade, then the popular critical opinion of the present system can only be strengthened. On the other hand, is he genuinely interested in obtaining the support of those whose decisions will fly directly into the teeth of the existing inequities? The JSC hardly convicts this question.

However it is in this manner, and only in this manner, that student government will have any meaning. I fail to understand how any undergraduate can allow himself to become a conscious accomplice, manipulated by the administration, to shroud the source of real power.

When student government takes a stand which truly represents student opinion, regardless of administration dismissal-rattling, then and only then, will it attract interest and merit respect. It is my opinion that unless such a stand is taken, student government should voluntarily disband, and in doing so, remove the legitimacy afforded to administration commandments which are now mouthed by compliant student governments.

David A. Martin

han nor Mr. Christie is aware of the meaning of the protest action planned by Syracuse and Cornell students.

Certainly it should be obvious that the students involved in these movements are not idealistic enough to believe that their particular actions are going to directly or irrevocably force the leaders of the U.S. or the U.S.S.R. to end air testing.

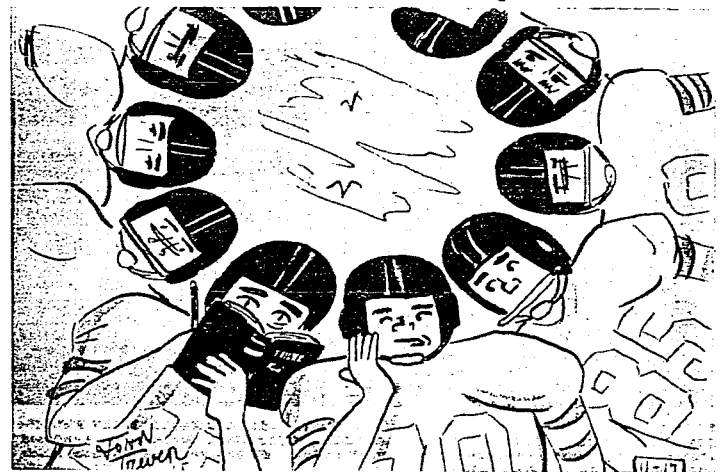

Instead, they are, I believe, more aware and more interested in the meaning of the protest actions to themselves and to any onlooker. The fact that they are making some type of observable, overt action against Poland in the form of a negative stand is the import of their intentions.

Ultimately, I am sure, they hope to change nuclear testing policy through the impact of sheer numbers of people making individual protest. Picketing is about the only observable method available to students to state their negative stands.

The attitude of "I can't do anything, a small number of people can't do anything, but when I can do something that will make an immediate change in policy, I will..." is deplorable. When will that chance for direct action arise? When will whole groups of people decide it is time to try to affect the decisions which determine our future? Will this only come about when the dangers of nuclear war are conclusive proven? How much proof is needed before people form an opinion?

Means should not always be judged on the basis of hoped-for ends; only, they should also be judged in terms of the ideological and psychological difference between action and non-action, and between communication and uninterpretable silence.

WEEKEND

FIRST RUN THEATERS
RIVERA-CINEMA — With "Lulu" gone and forgotten the Rivera strikes back with a really funny, dry, and satirical British comedy, "Invasion Quartet." Bill "Wee Geordie" Travers and some disabled World War II soldiers attempt to destroy Sir Hermann, the bad German gun that has been shelling merrie old, Shades of "Navarone." Also attempting to make us forget mid-terms is one of Fernando's best films, "Senshal the Magnificent." Quartet at 6:45 and 9:35 p.m. Fernandael at 8:15 p.m.

LOWE'S — William Castle, "the screen's no. 1 shock-maker," outdoes himself with another "frightening first." Mr. Castle who spends more time thinking of ridiculous gimmicks for his ridiculous plots, had to have something new for his latest, "Mr. Sardonicus." This time there is a card that glows in the dark and at the appointed hour the vote is called for. You either: a) turn the card so the thumb points up; of b) turn the thumb down. It really makes no difference, the end is the same anyway. Too bad Mr. Sardonicus doesn't have a chance to vote whether to save the audience from seeing the whole film. Harvey the Friendly Lizard is back and he brought his friends. They all romp hilariously in Monstascap through the masterpiece "Valley of the Dragons." Glows in the dark at 6:55 and 9:35 p.m.; smelts in the dark at 8:24 p.m.

PARAMOUNT — "The Big Gamble" centers around a lorry (a truck for those of you who aren't Aglophiles) and the trials and tribulations of getting it to an African city. That is all there is of the plot but it's enough to bore us already. David Wayne goes through the motions (which are pretty good, considering he's been through them so many times before), Juliette Greco waves her arms and looks pretty. Stephen Doyd just stands around, "Marines Let's Go" is a rehash of "Battle Cry" with less gore and more mush.

That's what we want—for a job that offers no limit on earnings and the opportunity to be in business for yourself.

A few minutes with the head of our campus unit will tell you a lot that you may not have realized about the life insurance business. And if you're interested in actual sales training, you can get started now—while you're still at college!

KEITH'S — If you're tired of Italian women (see below) try digging anemic Audrey Hepburn as sophisticated and funny Holly Golightly. The psychology should have been left in Truman Capote's novel, and George Peppard should have stayed in Vic Tanny's. "Breakfast at Tiffany's" is quite enjoyable for hayseed fans who want to see sinitilly, and satiric, New York. Hepburn at 5:30 and 9:45 p.m.; Friday; 7:30 and 11 p.m., Saturday.

ECKEL — Trying to milk the last dollar out of Sophia Loren's agony, and girl watcher's ecstasy, the Eckel is running "Two Women." Great over-acting and under-dressing by Mama Sophia and her darling daughter mark this sloppily conceived, though occasionally well executed version of Alberto Moravia's novel. Shown at 7:45 and 9:51 p.m.

SHOPPINGTOWN — There is room for 5000 cars in the Shoppingtown parking lot, the shop windows are interesting and the ride is nice on a clear night. It is sad that the picture there isn't really worth the trip. All about some kids trapped on the side of a volcano awaiting Frank Sinatra, the clan chief to rescue them. (Continued on Page 11)

My cousin Archie—he thought the electric razor his god gave him last Christmas was o.k. Then he tried Old Spice Pro-Electric, the before shave lotion. Now the guy won't stop talking, he thinks electric shaving is so great.

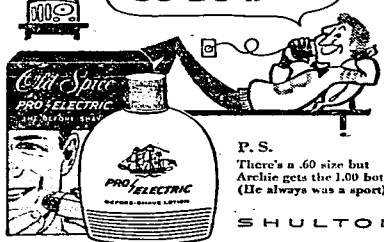

ARCHIE says Pro-Electric improves electric shaving even more than lather improves blade shaving. ARCHIE says Pro-Electric sets up your beard by drying perspiration and whisker oils so you shave blade-close without irritation. ARCHIE SAYS Pro-Electric gives you the closest, cleanest, fastest shave.

If Archie ever stops talking, I'll tell him I use Old Spice Pro-Electric myself.

Notre Dame Sets Defense For Davis, Orange Mates

By DAVE DEAN
Associate Editor

The entire Notre Dame defensive array has had its sights set on junior halfback Lou Lucas for the past week of practice.

Not that Lucas, only a part-time grinder not listed on the rosters, has fallen from favor, but he's wearing number 41 this week, and simulating Ernie Davis in the Notre Dame defensive maneuvers.

In recall of Lucas is a hurdler on the Irish track team.

A Real One, Too

However, the number 41 on the Irish team is not really fictitious. It is owned by Notre Dame halfback Angelo Dabiero. Dabiero is the top ground gainer for the Irish, and leads his team in rushing, and punt returns, taking second place in kickoff returns.

From the line of scrimmage, the 5-foot-8, 165-pound senior has gained 344 yards in 65 carries, for a 6.8 yard per carry mark. His top effort was in the season opener against Oklahoma, when he gained 176 yards in 11 carries.

His top running mate in the backfield, junior Mike Lind, may return to the lineup Saturday. Lind, who has missed the last two games, gained 286 yards and scored three touchdowns before his injury in the Northwestern loss.

Four in a Row

Leading the Irish running game, now rated fourth in the nation, is junior quarterback Daryl Lamonica. Lamonica has scored three touchdowns himself and passed for another pair.

The Irish have gained an average of 252.3 yards per game on the ground in their seven contests, while the passing game has lagged far behind with 62.3 yards and only 11 attempts per game.

However, the passing game is improving, as shown by the fact of the completions and two-thirds of the passing yardage has come in the last two games.

Gond Passer

In the last outing, a 26-20 win over Pittsburgh, second string quarterback Frank Budka, a sophomore, completed five of nine passes for 133 yards and one touchdown.

Senior end Les Traver has been the top receiver, taking 11 passes for 257 yards, better than half of the team total.

Notre Dame has a prize kicker in fullback Joe Perkowski, who has kicked four field goals (28-, 49-, 36- and 45-yards), one of which won the Purple game for the Irish. Extra-point kicks have not been so successful, however, as the Irish have connected for only 10 points after 17 touchdowns.

Mermen's Plight: Replace Nesbitt

Take away the best swimmer you have ever coached, add some sorely needed depth, constantly juggle your line-up to try and find that right combination, and you are Coach Ted Webster preparing the 1961-62 edition of the Syracuse University swim team.

Eight lettermen and eight sophomores will give Webster the biggest snafu he has had to work with since the war. But Jack Nesbitt, last year's captain and holder of innumerable records in the water, is gone. And replacing him will be a real problem.

"Nobody will be able to replace Nesbitt," Webster said, "but maybe we can use three or four fellows to get those points back. We've got some added depth this year, but you take Nesbitt out and you wonder if you are better off."

The swim mentor is hoping to find out just how well off he is when the Mermen host Hamilton in a closed practice meet this Saturday.

"Saturday will tell us what kind of a diet we want to work on for our December meets," said Webster. The ten-meet schedule opens Dec. 2 when Syracuse travels to E.P.I. The Orange will once again be the host team for the New York State meet held in March.

Senior sprinter Jim Tuck will captain the Mermen this season, and he is expected to join with lettermen Bob Ohman, Jerry Rosenthal, and Greg Pond in providing the scoring nucleus.

Wrestlers Hold Practice Meet

There will be a practice wrestling meet pitting Syracuse against Springfield College in Archbold gym at 4 p.m. Saturday. The meet will be in conjunction with an area wrestling coaches' clinic being held at Syracuse.

Ski Club Plans Meeting Tonight

The Syracuse University ski club, SUSKI, will start its program with a short business meeting, followed by some unusual pre-season conditioning exercises, tonight at Skytop Lodge.

Planned ski trips for Christmas and intercession vacations will be discussed. A brief talk on ski competition will be given by members of the ski team, and indoor slalom races will be held. There will be prizes awarded for a "ski twisting" contest and a limbo contest.

Everyone is welcome to attend, and non-members will be asked to donate 25¢. Everyone should wear sneakers. Buses will leave Sims for the Skytop Lodge at 7:15 p.m.

Ski Movie At Regent Theater

Warren Miller, noted skier-cinematographer, will bring his latest ski movie production, "Many Moods of Skiing," to the Regent Theater Sunday. There will be showings at 4:30 p.m. (general admission) and 8 p.m. (all seats reserved.)

Tickets are available at local ski shops and from ski club members. Tickets for the matinee will also be on sale at the theater from 2 p.m. on Sunday.

LESSON 4 - Why men watch girls

Men watch girls for various reasons. Personally, we need no better reason than the reason men climb mountains. They are there. We have heard old men say they watch girls because it makes them feel younger and young men because it makes them feel older (see above). While investigating the reasons why men watch girls we picked up a clue from, of all things, a bird watcher. He told us that he formerly had been a flower watcher. Then one day a Speckle-Breasted Jackdaw happened to land in his garden as he was watching a calla lily and he noticed that the bird moved. He switched to birds on the spot. Girl watchers have discovered that girls enjoy this same advantage (movement) over calla lilies. (Speaking of advantages, how about Pall Mall's natural mildness!)

 burch showed them to be back in the winning ways.
 For Syracuse, with a 6-2 mark, this could be the clincher to a major bowl game. The Orange Bowl committee will be in the stands at South Bend to witness the game. A convincing Orange win could very well bring forth an invitation to the Miami classic.
 The Gator, Liberty and Gotham bowls have also listed the Orangemen among the top candidates for a berth.

Syracuse's number ten AP ranking will also be on the line although the Lambert Trophy may be safely put away despite the outcome.

Syracuse's starting lineup will be virtually unchanged from last week. Saretta, Davis, Dick Easterly and Gary Fallon will start in the backfield.

From end to end the line will probably have John Mackey, Dave Megyesi, Dick Fiedler, George Frankowich, Bob Stern, Tom Spilletts and Walt Sweeney.

Officers Elected By '63 Council

Junior Class Executive Council recently elected Uin Wiltse and Cinda Buswell as treasurer and secretary respectively of the Class of 1963, according to Leland Peterson, class president.

Shirley Perkins resigned as treasurer "because of lack of time" and Nancy Moore, former secretary, left school due to illness.

Henry Lee is vice president of the Junior class.

Misses Wiltse and Buswell were selected from the Junior Class Executive Council. Miss Buswell, of Washington, D.C., is a member of Traditions Commission and is rushing chairman of Delta Delta Delta.

Miss Wiltse is an education major from LeFargeville; a member of Alpha Xi Delta, Lambda Sigma Sigma, Junior Women's Honorary, and a junior officer at AWS.

Career Cues:

"This age of specialization opens special opportunities for the well-rounded man!"

Robert Saudek, President
 Robert Saudek Associates, Inc.

"The more specialists society creates to cope with its complexities, the easier it can be for a non-specialist to achieve success.

If that seems paradoxical, look at it this way: the more men who go out for specific positions on the ball club, the more chance you have to wind up as manager!

Today's world—in government, business, the arts, even science—needs the well-rounded man. He's the man who can see the entire picture...the man who can draw on a broad background of knowledge, evaluate the problem, then assign the details to specialists.

The world of entertainment may seem somewhat special, but it's a case in point. These days, it demands more of its people than ever before. Today's musical comedy score is often as sophisticated as grand opera. Drama draws heavily on psychology and history. Television productions are concerned with nuclear science and political science. If you've ever watched "Omnibus" you may have seen how our productions have run the gamut of a wide range of man's interests.

So I suggest to you that even though you may concentrate on one special field of interest, keep your viewpoint broad. Keep your college curriculum as diversified as possible. Attend lectures and concerts, the theatres and museums. Above all, read and read, and listen and listen! But pay scant heed to the oracle who says there's no route to the top but that of specialization. I don't believe it!"

Robert Saudek is the creator of many of television's most famous programs—including the award-winning "Omnibus" series. Former network executive and head of the TV-Radio Workshop of the Ford Foundation, Bob enjoys a "Camel break". He's been a Camel fan since undergraduate days at Harvard.

NEIGHBORHOOD THEATERS

HOLLYWOOD — The sea lashes, the salt spray sprays and David Niven, Anthony Quinn and Gregory Peck get in the swing of World War II with a trip to the Greek coast. After scaling a high cliff (which should be enough for anyone) they proceed to blow up some very important, very big guns. Short on plot, this story needs little else than the action to make it worthwhile. An old-fashioned adventure story with plenty of zip and much excitement. Guns at 6:15 and 9:12 p.m., Friday; 6 and 9:02 p.m., Saturday.

MIDTOWN — Wonder why some people hate the Germans like the Germans are reputed to hate the Jews. See "Dairy of Anne Frank," a rather well done version of the sensitive stage play about a Jewish girl who tries to see beauty despite the terror of Nazism. Also playing "Intent to Kill." No times available.

FRANKLIN — The tobacco fields smolder in the filter-tip version of a not-so-king sized book. Troy Donahue has trouble growing up amid cigar wrappers and Claudette Colbert, as "Parrish" rides again. A somewhat modest Brigitte Bardot fills the screen in "La Parisienne" and keeps us in the showette mood with the reminder that "It's what's up front that counts." Birds and bees at 8:50 p.m.; the other BB at 7:15 p.m.

WISCONSIN — One more example of Italian art is roaming Syracuse this week. "Girl with a Suitcase" is all about love and innocence and (what else) seduction. That lastest of the alphabet girls (with the magic numbers) is C.C. Claudia Cardinale is the raveling lady is the sexy but quality film. CC at 7:20 and 9:25 p.m.

PALACE — Guerilla warfare continues at this theater with Gregory Peck, Anthony Quinn and the rest of the happy group warring it up like blazes on the Greek coast in "Guns of Navarone." They run around dodging Germans and making like brave little boys. In the process, they provide the viewer with much excitement and a good, solid evening of movie entertainment. Peck et al at 6:50 and 9:25 p.m., Friday; 6:20 and 9:10, Saturday.

KALLET-GENESE — Whoops their here too. The excitement is just as great, Gregory Peck is just as handsome and "Guns of Navarone" is just as good an adventure film at this theater as it is at the other two already mentioned. The Greek coast and all the hoopla at 6:30 and 9:10 p.m., Friday; 6:50 and 9:30 p.m., Saturday.

DRIVE-INS

LAKE SHORE — Well, you see Richard Boone is the cavalry captain who wants to fight the Indians, John Gavin wants to fight Boone and all the audience wants is to be left alone. Life on a cavalry post is just what it always was, dull. "A Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" turns into a trip to a watery, technicolor Disney-land-type place. No times available.

DEWITT — The moral of this story should be "Don't take showers in strange motels" particularly if the owner looks like Anthony Perkins. Perkins plays a strange boy who likes to play with knives in "Psycho." An exciting Alfred Hitchcock thriller guaranteed to keep you in your seats with your hands over your eyes (fingers to be sure) better through your fingers). "Margorie Morningstar" shows Natalie Wood as a young, nouveau-riche Jewish girl who wants to be had but ends up being typically in no co.us. Psycho at 7:15 and 11:25; Wood at 9:19 p.m.

NORTH — "Brain Eaters," "How To Make A Monster," "Terror From Year 5000" and "Invasion of the Saucermen." When you call the theater, the slightly scratchy tape says these are four hits. We won't comment on those kind of words aren't used in a wholesome campus newspaper.

CONCERTS

NATIONAL SYMPHONY - Famous Artists presents the National Symphony Orchestra of Washington in a concert which includes both classical and contemporary music. 8:30 p.m., today, Lincoln Auditorium.

CROUSE CONCERT — The University Symphony under the direction of Louis Krasser gives this week's concert. The highlight of the program will be Hindemith's "Canticle to Hope" which will be dedicated to the United Nations. 3:30 p.m., Sunday, Crouse College Auditorium.

READERS THEATRE - George Bernard Shaw's "Candida" will be presented at 8 p.m., Sunday, in Crouse Classroom Building.

SU College Of Forestry Undergoing Evaluation

The State University College of Forestry at Syracuse University is this week undergoing the first comprehensive evaluation in its 50-year history.

Visiting the college are teams representing three organizations currently accrediting the College of Forestry. They are: the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the Society of American Foresters (SAF) and the American Society of Landscape Architects (ASLA).

The team from the Middle States Association is headed by Elmer C. Easton, Dean of the College of Engineering at Rutgers University. According to Easton, a new kind of evaluation, "the project team," is being done at Syracuse. This is the first time an evaluation of this kind has been performed in New York State.

Under the project type of evaluation, Easton said, an institution first selects several projects they consider important. The accreditation team helps the institution review its objectives, and examines ways in which the team can help solve these problems.

Direct Help

Thus, the object of the visit is to be of direct help, rather than just accreditation. Easton added, "We shall look into special problems and/or projects of the college in terms of the aims of the goals of the college to help the college find answers and solutions."

Chairman of the SAF team is

ND PEP RALLY RESCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT

The Notre Dame Football Pep Rally, originally scheduled for last night will be held at 6:30 p.m. tonight. It will begin in front of the main library and end at DeWitt Hall.

All the events of the pep rally will have radio and television coverage. Some activities which will make this rally different from previous ones include: a fire dance by twirler Judy Delp and a special window light cheer from DeWitt Hall.

Destruction of the Notre Dame shamrock will climax the program.

Frank E. Kaufert, director of the Institute of Agriculture at the University of Minnesota. According to Kaufert, SAF adopted a new set of criteria for evaluation in 1959. He said the SAF visit is designed to determine how well the College of Forestry is meeting the new standards.

SAF Criteria

The SAF criteria include size and quality of the staff, teaching loads, and facilities for education and research. Kaufert added that another factor for consideration deals with university affiliation, totally or partly.

Heading the ASLA team is Prof. Walter L. Chambers, chairman of the Department of Landscape Architecture at the University of Michigan. He said that the evaluation will be in terms of the landscape architecture program of both the College of Forestry and ASLA.

Chambers added that ASLA does not compare one institution with another. "Thus, our evaluation is not a comparative one, but a straight evaluation. We're here to help — not police," he added.

The SU Forestry College landscape program is one of only 16 accredited programs in the United States.

The final report of the three committees will be submitted to the College of Forestry in the spring or summer of next year.

Danger Looms For Iranians IFC Turned Down of Fresh Petition Labeled 'Victory'

By BOB SEEWALD
Executive Editor

Several hundred foreign students on college campuses around the United States are being or will be confronted by a virtual life-and-death issue: whether to return to their homeland and persecution or to remain in this country.

The passport of Fariborz Fatemi, a Syracuse University graduate student from Iran, will expire Nov. 21. If his family were not already living in this country after receiving political asylum, Fatemi would face the threat of deportation.

But hundreds of other Iranian students whose families are in Iran face deportation upon expiration of their passports, because according to Fatemi, they have criticized the Iranian government. Three other Iranian students are on the Hill, but are not yet in any danger.

For this criticism, he asserted in an interview, he and the other Iranian students abroad have been charged with treason.

Normally, Fatemi said, the renewal of passports is a routine operation. But now the Shah and the Premier apparently want to use the passport as a weapon to recall outspoken Iranians. (If Iran does not renew a student's passport, the U.S. cannot issue him another visa, without special provision by the U.S. government, the student cannot stay in this country.)

Iranian students around the world have been protesting for several years now against the allegedly tyrannical, unconstitutional government in their homeland. "All we're asking is that the government act according to the constitution," said Fatemi. So far it has only "trampled it under its feet."

Shah Mohammed Riza Pahlevi and his Premier, Ali Amiri, have been conducting a much-publicized campaign in their oil-rich Middle Eastern country to clean out corruption and inefficiency. But the Iranian students charge that this drive was stalled (partly because too many corrupt officials could allegedly be traced right to the palace and royal family).

In addition, the students have been protesting against what they describe as oppressive political measures taken by the government. The opposition National Front Party, it has been charged, has been oppressed while promised free elections have not been forthcoming.

All this time, however, Fatemi lamented, the Shah and his government have received a good press in the United States.

The troubles between the Iranian students abroad and their government started eight years ago, with the overthrow of Premier Mossaddegh, according to Fatemi. The students have been protesting against the corruption and lack of democracy since.

But it was not until the student petition was filed that the situation became a national issue.

Student Resolution On Atomic Testing Sent to US, UN

The heads of 3 Hendricks Chapel organizations last weekend issued a resolution calling for an immediate end to all atomic testing. Copies of the resolution were sent to the United States government, the United Nations, and the embassies of all nations represented in the UN.

First, atomic fallout from nuclear testing endangers the life and health of the human race. Second, nuclear testing increases man's capability for self-destruction.

Third, the resolution claimed that nuclear testing builds mistrust and tension among nations and tends to discourage efforts towards peace.

Fourth, the resolution stated that atomic testing is an imposition on the wills of the majority of the people.

"Therefore," the resolution stated, "the world powers shall immediately abandon atomic explosions and shall seek effective means to enforce a continued nuclear ban. . . and that new avenues toward peaceful international cooperation shall be explored."

The resolution was drawn up jointly by Marilyn Poletsky, president of the Eastern Orthodox Fellowship, Lisa Lovell, president of the Lutheran Student Association, and David Michel, moderator of the United Campus Christian Fellowship Cabinet.

Students Hear Discussion By Achziger

Sam Achziger, of the Experiment in International Living program, announced Friday that the experiment would like to establish a university-supported college ambassador program here.

Addressing a group of students interested in the experiment, Achziger the chairman of the college ambassador program spoke Friday afternoon in the lounge of Hendricks Chapel. He entertained suggestions of contacting various student organizations who might wish to help raise a minimum of $450.

A student, sponsored by the university would spend a summer in one of 31 foreign countries. Upon his return he would deliver speeches about his experience and otherwise participate in campus programs.

The experiment program was initiated in 1951 by Donald B. Calkins, former Syracuse University administrator. Its theme is "We learn to live together by living together."

To fulfill this aim, the program offers Americans the opportunity to live in homes in other countries.

Presently 1400 American students and teachers annually live in other nations, and a similar number of international guests visit the United States.

One of the oldest and largest organizations of its kind, the experiment has shared its experience and knowledge with the Peace Corps since its inception.

Bruce Norton, a graduate student here and a former Experiment member, is the Syracuse University campus representative. He can be contacted at the Center for Overseas Operations and Research, 119 College Place, ext. 2552.

Education Majors Save Kilpatrick's Honorary Dinner

By ALAN MILLSTEIN
Junior Editor

A School of Education dinner honoring the noted educator William Heard Kilpatrick was saved from cancellation Friday by junior and senior undergraduates in education.

Juniors and seniors, frequently the object of criticism for being apathetic, purchased enough tickets to enable a Monday night dinner in honor of Kilpatrick's 90th birthday to be staged.

Ticket sales to the dinner, which will be addressed by Professor M. L. Berger of Albany State Teachers College, were jogging early last week and it looked as if the dinner would have to be cancelled.

Tickets, which cost three dollars apiece, were originally offered to senior faculty members and graduate students in education. Only 19 tickets were sold as of last Thursday.

Late Thursday, two graduate assistants in the School of Education, John Mallan and Henry Woessner, acted quickly to save the dinner. Woessner and Mallan purchased close to 300 tickets and on Friday they started selling them in their classes and directly to faculty members.

"We couldn't see the dinner go down drain just because the full professors and graduate students refused to make part," Mallan and Woessner said. The two grad as-

"Our defeat was victory," a freshman coed said Thursday afternoon after the Interfraternity Council rejected her group's discrimination petition.

Prudence Glass and four other freshmen, Diana Goodwin, Linda Dubin, Constance Notaro and David Smith-Peterson are members of an informal committee which circulated petitions Wednesday asking fraternities for information on the racial and religious makeup of their memberships.

IFC decided in an emergency meeting early Friday morning not to return the petitions that day as the committee asked.

Miss Glass told the Daily Orange that IFC rejection "showed the freshmen were turned down when they wanted information." For some reason, she said, IFC "didn't know" its position on discrimination. The victory for her committee lies in the fact that "IFC's silence has verified the seriousness of the situation," she stated.

Petitions were circulated to Hill societies Thursday, but no official stand on the matter has been taken by the Panhellenic Council.

Panhel President Beth Jensen, who is in the infirmary, told the DO she felt IFC "did the only thing it could do" and that the freshmen group had had no "right" to make such demands on the Greeks.

The five-freshman committee, backed by 426 fresh signatures who were collected, but which did not appear on the petitions, asked each fraternity for "clarification" of the status of discriminatory clauses, listings of member "foreign and Negro" students and current plans to "alter memberships along religious/racial lines."

Miss Glass and IFC Rushing Chairman James Tallon told the DO their question about the matter basically around the best time for freshmen to obtain the information in question.

Tallon, and IFC President Richard Miller, said the freshmen should ask questions about the matter before they go through rushing, and in the manner learn the policies of the individual houses.

Miller said any listing of houses with clauses against certain groups would discourage students in these groups from rushing the houses specified. Discrimination would never be lessened in that case because such houses would have no opportunities to even meet the students, he continued.

Miss Glass and Miss Notaro stated that the freshmen should be informed before they rush about "religious and racial discrimination" in the system. When "caught up in the swing of rushing," said the latter, the russhes

DO Cartoonist Trever Explains Technique

TREVER, by Trever

By ELLEN STERN
Junior Editor

"I get my ideas by looking at the campus and at people," said Daily Orange cartoonist, John Trever. "Friends often give me ideas," but most of them are not funny," he explained.

The freshman cartoonist from Berea, Ohio, would like to write a syndicated comic strip after the graduates from college. But he will not discuss his idea yet, because the time "is too far away."

Trever often puts together "two seemingly unrelated campus situations to make a funny cartoon. This is "very effective sometimes," continued Trever, and can be illustrated by a recent cartoon which showed a drummer from a band sitting on a bench, "Say, did you see a pop rally go by here?"

Cartoon An Hour He can draw and write captions for five cartoons at a time. Each cartoon takes about one hour, said Trever. "And people still ask me how I can think of so many ideas," he added.

Trever's method of drawing gag cartoons is not unique but "efficient." He does a rough drawing first, traces it in pencil, and then inks the drawing.

Trever has already sold three cartoons to "Boys' Life" magazine. They were general subject cartoons, he said, and he received $25 for each one.

He started his career in eighth grade when he won an international newspaper contest and received a correspondent art course as a prize.

"Pogo" by Walt Kelly, "Peanuts," "Steve Canyon" by Milton Caniff, and "Liars" are "E.C." are Trever's favorite comic strips.

For the newspaper comics contest he copied a "Pogo" character and wrote an essay about it. Trever likes this comic strip for its "cleverness, political implications and distinctive art style." "Pogo" actually is an "editorial comic strip and the first of the new intellectual strips," observed Trever.

"Peanuts" and "E.C." are also evidence of the "new intellectual trend," he said.

Trever called "Steve Canyon" the "best realistic comic strip." It has "good dramatic action coupled with excellent illustrations," he said.

JSG PROGRAM CANCELLED

The Joint Student Government Activity Program meeting scheduled for tonight is cancelled due to lack of facilities needed by the discussion groups.

The last meeting on "Leadership and Campus Problems" is temporarily scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 23.

By BOB SEEWALD

Football Scheduling

"Syracuse University is a school for the students. It has the interests of the student body at heart."

This is the claim that has often been voiced by University officials. It is a claim that cannot be substantiated, at least in one conspicuous instance—the scheduling of football games.

Football, with its color and excitement, is very much a part of the college experience. Syracuse undergraduates pay their general fee and are entitled to the privilege of watching their team perform.

And they do so the Orangemen in action in Archbold Stadium, four or five times each fall. However, for the past several years the best games have been played away from home, and the situation shows no signs of improving in the near future.

Last fall, our defending national champions played a nine-game schedule, with four contests in Archbold Stadium. However, the better games, Kansas, Army, and Miami, were held on the road. This season the same situation exists, as colorful games with Oregon State, Penn State, and Notre Dame take place on the road.

It's the same story for next year, as the away schedule highlights games with powers like Army, Oklahoma, Pittsburgh, and UCLA. The home slate offers less attractive contests with Holy Cross, Boston College, West Virginia, and George Washington.

Looking even further ahead to 1963, the picture gets even bleaker from an undergraduate's point of view. The Notre Dame game, which will be one of the top grid attractions in the nation that season, was originally slated to be held in Archbold Stadium. This would considerably brighten an otherwise dull home schedule. But the University has decided to move the game into New York's Yankee Stadium.

The reasoning behind this move is easy enough to follow. It can be summed up in one simple word—money. Naturally gate receipts for a game in New York would greatly surpass those for a contest in Archbold's outdated concrete oval.

It seems, however, strange to us that at such a school for students, most students cannot even see the most important and exciting games of the football season.

Sam Rayburn

Sam Rayburn was Speaker of the House for 17 years. He was a tireless worker and a man dedicated to his country, the constitution and the awesome responsibilities that he bore upon his shoulders for so long. He was a practical politician, a man gravely concerned about getting things done rather than creating policy. But at the same time it was often Rayburn who helped turn into legislation the idealism of other men. Much of modern American history, much of political Washington, was effected by the Texan and it will be a long time until another man is found who can equal his particular kind of persuasive leadership.

The work of some freshmen in the last few days seems a bit funny. To issue a petition with an accompanying ultimatum seems to be an act conceived by illusions of grandeur.

If the frosh, or at least a few frosh, want to find out about the policies of a house, why don't they ask the Greeks when the time comes?

To demand information from a house on one day, in only upon penalty of interpreting failure to comply as "refusing to clarify its position on racial discrimination is ludicrous.

The petition circulated last week by members of a freshman faction further asserts: "We urge Greek cooperation in dispelling doubts created in the minds of prospective pledges." What doubts? The same questions can be answered by looking at a house's composite, or by asking questions during rushing, or merely by taking greater cognizance of the campus scene.

The petitions handed each house reflect the shoddy work involved. On the first page is a large ink smudge, holding a list of numbers from one to 25. Across the numbers is scrawled in red ink: "Simple Petition." On the bottom of the page is the statement: "123 Freshman (sic) requested this." Not one of the names attached to the original copies on the petition. The specific fact that names are not included is not so important; what is important is the spirit reflected by this type of work.

The latest freshman maneuver seems to be just a publicity device. It seems to have been the idea of the IFC, since that the IFC even discussed the fresh petition should be a credit to the fraternity system, since so many Greeks have concluded that the system was not even worth considering.

I wonder if the frosh who issued their ultimatum actually believed the fraternity system as a whole would have been struck into its heart and rush to comply with these sophomoric demands.

Once a house has no Negroes in it or 20, whether it has no foreign students as social members or 10 is irrelevant in this case. It is important that the fraternities not be scared silly by such demands.

A Greek who disdains discrimination cannot even look favorably upon the type of petition which was issued.

A freshman should inquire about a house policy during rushing if he is interested enough in that policy and is considering pledging. A list of numbers submitted upon demand can do nothing to clear up the original issue of discrimination satisfactorily.

The action taken by the freshmen concerned was neither right nor helpful in the battle against discrimination. If anything, it was a step backward.

Signs of irresponsibility and immaturity on the part of the frosh have been noted by over-discriminators have come under attack. Moreover, the ranks of the Greeks, the progressive and enlightened as well as the prejudiced and static, have become more solidified as a result of the childish moves of the freshman group.

Syracensians who have questioned the value of a four-year sojourn on the Hill can take the latest maneuvers of the Class of '63 as good news in another sense though. Much is to be learned from the experience of education and experience here, it is obvious.

The frosh started out battling upperclassmen who did not have the same vision seems to have become a bit foggy. Perhaps they have become too inebriated with their own feelings of self-importance. The battle will not be won by blindly blundering out in all directions, making more noise than anything else.

Where was Mr. Houlihan during the Peace March to Moscow? He says that if there were protests against Russian tests and attitude he would join them. Where was he when there were protests at the Russian Embassy in New York and all over the world in their sumption of testing.

Mr. Houlihan and the large group of people who think like him are doing nothing for peace. They talk about the world situation among themselves, and feeling so superior they know, they condemn any constructive efforts.

If they had the courage to come out with the strongest public statement that they as individuals can make, like the group of peace marchers, we would be that much closer to peace. The opinion of the people matters in a democratic society, but how are the authorities to know what that opinion is unless it is publicly stated?

I would like Miss Craven and her group to know that they have my full support, and I am sure I speak for many others in this community. Meiling Weiss

To the Editor:

As a member of the faction of the freshman class that is asking for information from the fraternities and sororities about their policies on discrimination, I should like to make clear the idea that we are doing nothing more than requesting a clarification from the Greeks.

We have merely asked for information from them to clear up the confusion in our own minds. I sincerely hope that our action has not been understood as one of condemning the Greek houses. We have done this in an honest attempt to clarify the situation.

Linda Rubin, '65

To the Editor:

Are we Greeks afraid to answer the questionnaire that was distributed Thursday by some members of the freshman class? If we are, we are not worth the paper this letter is printed on. It is really necessary for Panhellenic and IFC to clarify sororities and fraternities that we must not answer these questionnaires as individual houses? Just before curfew, we were "strongly" advised not to respond to the said questionnaires.

Do Panhel and IFC think that individual houses are incapable of stating facts? Either we restrict our membership to white Anglo-Saxon Christians or we don't. If we have these discriminatory clauses and like them, why can't we state as much? If we don't like them, why not get rid of them? If we don't have them, why are we advised not to mention them?

To the Editor:

The main reason Negro students are not in the Greek house of Syracuse is in the Greek houses because they as individuals, or as a group, have no conception of white-black social life; it is for this reason that the Negro students here cannot organize behind a leader such as Dr. Wiley

... Negroes know nothing of pressing for their rights, or what would be their rights were they to ask, in a democratic or any other manner. It seems that if there were a semblance of leadership among the Negro students on campus that this leadership might lead to constructive action.

... Mr. Philip Lau to be congratulated on his position in the Nov. 11 issue of the Daily Orange. It is indeed commendable to see the foreign students speaking for those who cannot speak for themselves.

It is sad for me as an American, one who is also free to join a fraternity, to realize that those who are being defended were born in a country which attests the dignity and freedom of man. . . I weep at the realization that it is only for some men that we are being defended. It takes to say "I exist and am not to be misused" and are willing to fight against what they consider misuse.

Concept of Public Opinion Puzzling to Broadcasters

By JAN GRIFFIN

Especially since World War II, the United States has gone wild over the concept of public opinion. It must be measured concerning politics, peanut butter, Pontiacs and Chrysler. It is sought after, wooed, proclaimed and generally treated with a lot of respect. The public opinion cult has reached the point where people in ever increasing numbers, have tried to find out just what it is.

In the search for the identity of this great force in our lives, evidence has been uncovered to support the theory that public opinion does not really exist. Public opinion is just a lot of private opinions, and as is clear in every house meeting, every private opinion is different. Broadcasting, which is supposed to serve the people, tries to please, but often goes badly unappreciated. I had the strange experience this summer being on the radio, on the air at a commercial station during an All-Star Baseball game. Calls came in all day asking when the game would be on. As soon as it began, the calls began to arrive complaining about the temporary loss of other shows.

Calls Kept Coming

As the game wore on, people called to see when it would be over, and when the news follow it. The game finally ended and the people got their news. But then irate viewers called to complain that the news had preempted their favorite crime show.

If a network special wasn't carried, the calls came in. If the show was carried, just as many calls complained about interrupted service in seeing the cartoons every week.

People called to get the race results. People called to say that they felt broadcasting the races' winners was immoral.

When a country music show was pre-empted, over 30 calls protested, and half that many called to compliment the replacement.

There are a few examples of what a station, or a network is up against. You not only can't please all of the people, you can't please very many of them. Broadcasting has to try to find a middle ground between giving the people what they want, and giving them what they should have.

All those people that make up the "public" have a different idea of what they want, and there is no formula for finding what they should have. Caught in the middle of this is the broadcaster, who would like to give the people what they want. The FCC takes the other view . . . give the people what they should have. The compromise that must evolve to settle this will be worthy of Henry Clay.

Castle Shocker Opens At Loews Downtown

Surprise of surprises! William Castle, that half-pint Alfred Hitchcock, has come up with a film, in "Mr. Sardonicus," that's worth the price of admission, maybe even more.

As written by Ray Russell from his "playboy" novella, "Mr. Sardonicus" comes off as a well done, often chilling, engrossing film. And for laughs, we have Castle's latest audience participation bit in which you can vote, in a rigged election, to determine how much punishment Sardonicus will get.

The film takes place towards the end of the 19th century. It involves an eastern European peasant, who robs his father's grave for a winning lottery ticket. In the cemetery of the act his face becomes frozen in a replica of the horrible death grin he sees in the coffin.

Now wearing a mask with a magnificently disfigured expression he buys himself a title, marries a British wife and engages on a great campaign to remove his ugly visage.

Eventually he gets his wife's doctor beau in a last ditch attempt to be cured. Surrounded by a house of horror, with a disfigured man-servant, medieval tortures, and a general feeling of evil, Sardonicus weaves his terror.

Castle does an admirable job in sustaining the effect. His pacing maintains a suspense, while the horror of leeches, decaying cadavers and distorted faces is never over-played or over-drawn.

Ray Russell is no Ray Bradbury. At times his plot gets a bit sluggish, but Castle's superior photography and editing saves the day.

Not without help, though, from part of the cast. Guy Rolfe is excellent as the once sensitive, now almost inhuman Sardonicus. Oscar Homulka, as the weird servant, is most unsavory. Audrey Dalton and Donald Lewis as the wife and doctor are fair.

Also playing is one of Jules Verne's lesser works, "Valley of the Dragons." Prehistorically inclined, this film is badly mauled by a group who never studied cultural-anthropology. The pre-human, but very attractive girls seem much more modest than "Life's" "Epic of Man" folios would indicate, and generally make the film more humorous than terrifying.

Orange Harrier Squad In IC4A Meet Today; 350 Runners Entered

By ALLAN KOIT

Syracuse University's cross-country squad, which finished its regular season schedule with a 2-3 record, will try to shake off the injuries that have plagued the squad this year, when the Orangemen run in the annual IC4A meet this afternoon at Van Cortlandt Park, New York City.

Over 350 runners from 35 of the East's top-ranked colleges are expected to enter the meet. Last year's winner, Penn State, is a strong pre-meet choice to repeat their winning feat. The Nittany Lions will be headed by record breakers Howie Deardorff and Jerry Norman.

Because of the poor showing of the Orange, which had a high pre-season rating, Syracuse is not figured to have a runner in the top ten. Leading the field for top honors in the five-mile event are Steve Macbucka, Cornell; John Jones, Army; Pete Zoulack, Villanova; Phil Mack, Yale; Bill Carver, Notre Dame; Joe Brown, NYU; and Mark Mullin, Harvard.

Counts on Francello
Syracuse mentor Bob Grieve, hoping that his club can meet its pre-season potential will be counting heavily on captain Joe Francello, rated as one of the better runners in the East. In 10 varsity starts Francello has picked up eight firsts. Francello finished third in a tri-meet last week with Villanova and Fordham after injuring his foot during the meet.

Grieve will also start Steve Killorin, who has hampered all season by a pinched nerve in his left leg. Practice sessions have been held for the past ten days and Francello and Killorin appeared to be regaining form.

Rounding out the seven-man Orange squad will be Montic Ferguson, Pete Dalley, Bob Brown, Mike Gusman, and McGuire. "If these boys live up to their potential, we could be in the race," Grieve said.

Started Fast
During the season, the Orange started off with consecutive wins against Buffalo and Colgate, and then hampered by injuries, lost a squeaker to Cornell, and finished third in a tri-meet with Villanova and Fordham. The Piety will face all of its regular season opponents, with the exception of Buffalo.

Syracuse's last win in the IC4A was in 1925. Syracuse also took the meet in 1919, 1922, and 1923. The Piety harriers finished ninth last year. In 1951 the Hill think-tanks finished second in the IC's and then went on to win Syracuse University's only NCAA cross-country crown. Syracuse also won the NAAU championship in 1949.

But Syracuse is a long way from winning the 1961 IC4A. A dozen teams are pre-meet favorites to finish above the Orange. Behind meet favorites Penn State, Notre Dame, Yale, Villanova, Cornell, Harvard, Army, NYU, Fordham, Pittsburg, CCNY, and Brown.

Fresh Enter
The Hill's fresh squad had its troubles this season, finishing with an 0-2-1 record. Grieve figures that his fresh squad is not strong enough to enter the fresh 1's, which precede the varsity meet Monday.

However Grieve will enter his three top fresh prospects in the frosh meet. Running for the Orange will be Cal Evans, Tom Driscoll, and Tom Higgins.

SU frosh teams have always done well in the IC's and Grieve is disappointed that he will not be able to enter a full team in the meet. The Hill frosh took top honors in 1924, 1926, 1930, 1950, 1956, and 1957.

NCAA Meet
After the IC4A Monday, Grieve will have a week to get his squad in shape for the NCAA cross-country championships, Nov. 27 at Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan.

Syracuse will enter a team in the nationals, but Grieve will not know how many runners will participate until after the IC's. It is almost certain, however, that he will start Francello, Gusman, and Ferguson.

The frosh IC4A meet will be the last test for the SU frosh runners. There are no national frosh championships.

The frosh meet is scheduled to get under way at 1:30 p.m., with the varsity race also slated for a 1:30 start.

The Syracuse harriers will leave Syracuse Sunday night and are expected back in Syracuse late Monday night.

Voas Should Pace Piety Gym Squad

Diminutive Phil "Corky" Voas, holder of the Eastern Intercollegiate Tumbling title, is expected to head a quartet of Hill juniors in supplying points for Syracuse's 1961-62 gymnastics aggregation.

Voas, an outstanding performer on last year's squad, means as much to coach Paul Romeo 'as Ernie Davis does to the football team," according to the Piety mentor.

"He is a great performer," says Romeo, "small and powerful. I believe Corky will be leading the team in points earned."

Voas will compete in the dual meet limit of three events, floor exercise, still rings, and horizontal bar. The other events in the dual encounters will be long horse vaulting, parallel bars, and the side horse.

Rope climbing, tumbling, and the flying rings, all part of last year's meets, have been replaced by the Olympic officials this year. But they will be included in the Eastern and NCAA contests at the end of the season.

More Juniors
Ray Grimaldi, Ralph Leininger, and Ronnie Orlick will round out the group of juniors which Romeo tabs as his "good nucleus of meet performers."

Grimaldi, a third place winner in last year's Easterns, will work on the side horse and the still rings. Leininger will enter the long horse vaulting event along with the still rings and side horse.

Orlick will do the floor exercise, long horse vaulting and also compete on the parallel bars.

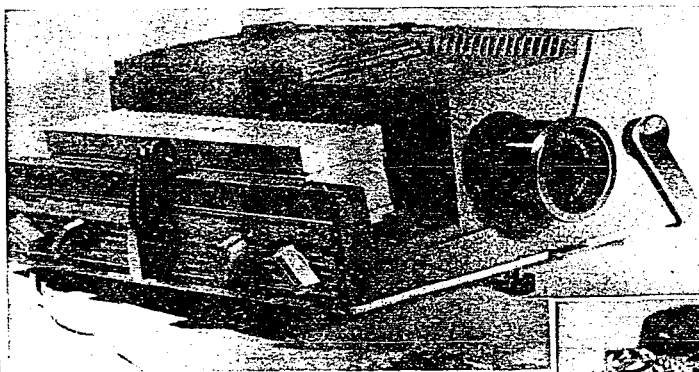

Sophomores Carl Poplar and Tom Steeves, Junior Arnold Wettler, and senior Harry Michel complete the eight-man team. This lack of depth is one of Romeo's main problems as he prepares for two unprecedented December meets. The opener is at Cortland Dec. 13, and the tumblers entertain Navy on Dec. 16.

"We do lack depth this year," he says, "which is something that we also lacked last year. But we have some good freshmen coming up and the future looks good. We even have the Easterns here next year."

As for this year, Romeo feels that Penn State is the best in the Eastern League, which includes Syracuse, Pittsburg, Temple, Army, and Navy. "However, upsets can occur," he added.

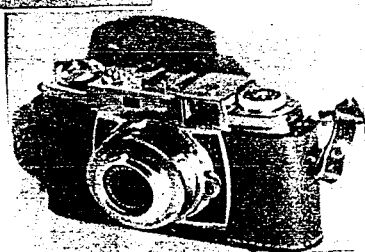

In case you don't think that a tight football game takes something out of coaches as well as players, Syracuse's Ben Schwartzwalder lost eight pounds during his team's recent 22-21 loss to Harvard.

Piety Win Turns to Loss at ND

By RON ROBERTS

The ball game was over. Syracuse had beaten Notre Dame, 15-14, and 7,200 hoarse, weary, but extremely happy Orange fans were pulling on their coats in the Onondaga War Memorial. They had seen on closed-circuit television a fighting Piety football team surge from two touchdowns behind to edge in front of the equally spirited Irish by a single point.

And they had just witnessed the last play of the game, a futile 56-yard field goal attempt by Notre Dame's Dick Easterly. But now headlinesman F. G. Skibbie was frantically signalling that the game was still in progress. Declaring a roughing the holder penalty on Syracuse, the "victory ball" was snatched from Dick Easterly and returned to play.

Second Try Good

The fans in the memorial terminated dressing and watched in partial horror and partial disbelief as Perkowski got set to try again. This time he was on the 30. As the lines crunched together and the tired arms of the visiting freshmen reached vainly for the ball, Perkowski booted. The pignskin was only halfway to the posts when the elation of the spectators in the end zone echoed the success of the effort.

So now it was over again, and this time for keeps. Notre Dame had the victory ball, and the necessary 17-15 winning margin to go with it.

The gridiron was covered with demented Irish fans, swarming over the green turf and mobbing their heroes. But in Syracuse the fans shrilled quietly and suddenly from the War Memorial. They all seemed to be murmuring the same adjective: "unbelievable."

Bowl Hopes Smashed

And unbelievable it was, but it had happened. Time had run out, yet there was that ball sailing through the uprights and falling into the screaming throng. With it fell Syracuse's Orange bowl hopes.

At first the long fuse which led to the explosive and disastrous climax began to wind its unmerciful path slowly. Notre Dame's George Sefcik, who was the holder on the final play, and Syracuse's John Snider matched their educated punting toes throughout the first period as the defensive units dominated play.

But Frank Budka, Notre Dame's flashy sophomore quarterback, finally found Angelo Damborio all alone in the Orange secondary and hit his little halfback with a 41-yard scoring aerial. Perkowski added the P.A.T., and the Irish fronted 7-0 as the half ended.

ND Strikes Again

At 3:51 of the third stanza Budka struck again. He connected with his favorite target, rangy end Les Traver, for a 25-yard scoring pitch. Perkowski converted again, and the Irish were riding high on the crest of a 14-0 lead.

The Orange were desperate, but not out of the game yet. With a fourth down and a long one yard to go on their own 43, Dave Sarette played the gambler's game. He faked the obvious, Davis off tackle, rolled out and threw a strike to big John Mackey.

Mackey, one of the outstanding players of the afternoon, galloped all the way into the end zone with his tear-away jersey flying in the face of defensive halfback Sefcik. Sarette's rollout flip to Easterly made it 14-8, Notre Dame.

Sarette remained in the ball game with the second unit, and early in the fourth period the "victory drive" was underway. From their own 47 the Orange marched steadily guardward. Then the crowd was silenced as Sarette rolled left at about the Notre Dame 10, was hit and knocked unconscious. He had to be carried from the field.

But sophomore Bob Lelli hustled in to replace Dave, and to "get one" for him. A one-yard pass to Easterly did just that. Ericson toed the extra point, and now Syracuse had a 15-14 edge with 10:35 left to play.

An exchange of plays, an interception by Easterly, an interception by Snider, and with only 1:31 to go, Syracuse looked home free.

17 Seconds Left

The Orange ate up all but 17 seconds of the clock, but were finally forced to turn the ball over to the Irish on downs at the Notre Dame 30. Budka ran 20 yards to midfield. Then he hit Sefcik at the 39, which was the line of scrimmage for that play which will be one of the most controversial in Piety football history.

Davis had been tremendous. The defense had been extra-rugged. Swency, Sarette, Snider, Meggsey—they all played hard. The 1,500 fans that greeted the "losers" at the airport knew it. And they will know it again in 1963 when Notre Dame faces the Orange in New York, with Mr. Skibbie remaining home.

ONE OF THE KEY performers in the Orangemen's outstanding but futile effort Saturday was co-captain DICK EASTERLY. Dick scored eight points, made an interception and played a fine defensive game, but his mates came out on the short end of a 17-15 score.

Winter Intramural Setup To Begin

Following Thanksgiving vacation, the winter intramural program will get underway.

Bowling, which has been going on during the fall, will continue. New sports will be basketball, handball, ping pong, volleyball, and skiing.

Intramural director Milt Howard called the fall program a success, and hopes to have a large group of guys competing in the winter sports. He emphasizes that teams should make every attempt to avoid forfeits.

Reading in Russia Regulated by Gov't

By ROBERT LA GUARDIA

Russian students dislike regulation of their reading habits by the government, a senior executive returned from Russia told the Russian Club last week.

Gayle Durham, a Russian studies major, told the group that "students told us they were not allowed to read people like Sartre, Camus and Nietzsche. They can only read about why these people are bad, but are prevented from judging for themselves."

She indicated students always reacted to the question of whether or not they approved of this practice with a blank expression and a simple "No."

Miss Durham said she and her party were always treated warmly and politics were not mentioned at first.

"But later, she said, 'we were asked by many Soviet citizens why our government was interfering in Berlin.' She added that the people of the Soviet Union always referred to the American government as an agency which acted without the consent of the people."

Color Slides

Miss Durham, whose trip to Russia was sponsored by the University of Indiana, showed color slides she took during her 32-day tour of Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev and the Ukraine. Most of the slides pictured Russia in terms of palaces, fountain-dotted landscapes and showy cathedrals. "The Russians have closed down most of the churches, except the showiest," she commented, showing a slide of one of the older cathedrals. "Only the very old people worship in these," she added.

The few slides taken at a collective farm in the Ukraine also showed the more regimented side of Soviet life. Miss Durham and the group she was with lived on the farm for awhile using the crude shacks and tents there for living quarters. She said that some of the meat served there tasted "strange" and noted it was probably horse meat.

Dr. Fisher Invited To Philippine Islands

Dr. Marguerite J. Fisher, of the Political Science Dept. of the Maxwell School, has been invited to go to the Philippines in December as the official guest of the Philippine government.

During the year 1961, the Philippine nation has been celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of the father of their country, Jose Rizal. Since Dr. Fisher is the only American in many years to do research and publish articles concerning Rizal, she has been asked to go to Manila to participate in the International Congress on Rizal which will be held from Dec. 2 to Dec. 3. Dr. Fisher will present a paper on "The Political Ideas of Jose Rizal" at the Congress.

Rizal lived during the period of Spanish colonial rule. He led a movement of protest against colonial oppression, but his ideas proved too advanced for the Spanish authorities, and he was executed in 1896. Today he is the national hero of the Philippines.

Dr. Fisher will continue around the world after the Congress, visiting Hong Kong, Thailand, India, Pakistan and Syria. She will return to Syracuse the first week in January.

Knox Addresses Hillel Seminar

An associate professor of Philosophy at New York University was guest speaker at a Central New York Hillel Institute Sunday. The speaker, Dr. Israel Knox discussed "Toward a Philosophy of Jewish Life in America" Sunday at the Syracuse Jewish Community Center.

A group of about 130 delegates representing Hillel chapters from Syracuse, Cornell, Rochester, Buffalo, Oswego and other area schools attended the conference.

In addition to Dr. Knox, Rabbi Oscar Groner, Assistant National Director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, addressed the Institute. SU faculty members participating in the program were Prof. Warner Bloomberg, Prof. Leland Jamison, Prof. Ephraim Levin, and Prof. Daniel Smith.

IFC Turndown of Frosh

"Just don't find out what the houses stand for."

Miss Glass added that freshmen would not really be in any position to ask questions critical of houses' policies while rushing. "It is one thing for houses to volunteer the information, but if the frosh have to ask . . . it may hurt them," she said.

Miss Notaro said the petitions were "never intended to be threats. We just wanted clarification. . . we are not against the Greeks and we have no power so we would have no reason for threats or ultimatums," she stated.

One of IFC's grounds for the rejection was what they termed "the threatening form of the petition."

The two coeds also said the signatures they collected did not appear on the petition because they "did not want to hurt anyone in rushing."

IFC had also cited "the anonymity of the freshman group" in explaining its rejection.

Danger Looms For Iranians

Students held their eighth annual convention in Ypsilanti, Mich., in 1959. Then the government began its passport program. At that convention, Fatemi said, the students called for less expenditures on the Iranian armed forces, more economic and social development projects, the holding of free elections and the support of the Constitution and its principles of freedom of speech, press and the like.

The Iranian government tried to ignore the request, Fatemi asserted. At the same time, he said, it tried to intimidate the student officers by threatening reprisals against their families.

These tactics were allegedly accompanied by the cutting off of aid to the students who had fallen out of favor. Funds were cut off because of an announced austerity program at home, but Fatemi charged, the government then spent over $1 million for a new wing on its Washington embassy.

The Iranian government tried "to push around" Iranian students putting out their own newspapers criticizing the Teheran regime. But this plan failed too, Fatemi reported.

So finally the government began to let the students' passports expire as a way to bring them home and silence them, Fatemi claimed.

The IFC student said that when the issue arose he spoke to the Iranian foreign minister, who professed ignorance of the situation. The diplomat then reportedly sympathized with Fatemi, promised to have the passports renewed, and inform him of the situation.

Since then, Fatemi said, he has written to the Foreign Minister twice but has heard nothing from

PANHEL STATES CHARITY BALL CLARIFICATION

All sororities that have not picked up their Panhel Charity Ball invitations from Madge Turner at Kappa Delta, 907 Walnut Ave., should do so immediately. Miss Turner announced yesterday.

Miss Turner also clarified misunderstanding regarding the December 1 Ball by saying only Syracuse sorority women and their escorts will be able to attend.

This step is necessary, she explained, because of the lack of space in the Hotel Syracuse facilities.

Miss Turner again emphasized that tuxedos and short or long formal are the proper dress for the affair, although dark suits for men will be allowed.

him.

The Iranian students don't want to go home to "face possible death penalties," Fatemi said, but they cannot stay in this country without visas unless the U.S. government takes special action. And the U.S. "has been more than helpful" already, Fatemi said.

The Iranian students hope to draw official attention to their plight. They have already written to and been supported by received by Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and J. William Fulbright.

Crouse to House Sunday Services

Episcopal Sunday Services have moved from Chapel House to the main auditorium of new Crouse Hall. The Rev. Robert C. Ayers, chaplain, announced. An increased number of Episcopal students necessitates the move.

This is the first planned instance of multiple use of a building for academic and religious purposes, allowing the same facilities to be used daily.

Four hundred dollars have been spent on new portable church furnishings, which will convert the classroom into a Sunday chapel.

The service schedule will remain the same; Holy Communion at 9:30 and 11 a.m., with a coffee hour between services. Weekly Holy Communion still will be held at Chapel House.

Step Singing Contest Held

Four houses were selected as semi-finalists in the step singing competition, announced Pam Dillon, chairman of the Step Singing. These groups, all in the large house division, are Pi Beta Phi, Chi Omicra, Sigma Kappa, and Delta Delta Delta.

The three semi-finalists in the small house division are Kappa Delta, Hughes Cottage, and Haven Hall.

Finalists in both divisions will be chosen Tuesday, Nov. 28.

Dining Hall Reps Voice Protests On Food Service

By NITA KAMM

Sims food service representatives Monday presented a formal complaint to the university administration and food service management about allegedly unappetizing and inedible meals served in university dormitories.

The Sims group strongly protested against Joint Student Legislature's decision not to send a letter of complaint to parents on the grounds of lack of proof. There was "plenty of concrete proof," asserted the student representatives.

Mary Frawley, secretary of the group, told the Daily Orange that the following complaints were presented:

1. Worms have been found in the soup.
  2. A cafeteria supervisor informed his supervisor, Miss Pettengill, that the luncheon cider was fermented. She denied the charge.
  3. A food service employee dipped a soup bowl into the soup, dropped it, fished the bowl and his hat out with his hands.
  4. A coed has not eaten in her dining hall since she lost a filling on her macaroni and cheese.
- Francis A. Wingate, vice president and treasurer of the university, told Miss Frawley that these complaints were "too specific."
- The Sims group agreed, however, that the food is not appetizingly served and is often inedible, and cited tough meat, uncooked vegetables, unpalatable coffee and left-overs.

University officials had several answers: "we buy only top grade meat, but will check closely," "vegetables are undercooked since overcooking makes them 'mushy,'" you eat left-overs at home, don't you?"

The cost of one meal ticket is $66.60. Each meal costs 74 cents, Wingate told Miss Frawley.

Miss Frawley surveyed her cottage of 36 coeds (Barclay Cottage) and found that only five girls were averaging less than one dollar per meal. The rest of the coeds said that they were eating on Marshall street in order to eat at all.

Jo Ann Phillips, a second-semester home economics major, asserted that as a result of this, students were not eating balanced meals and could offer little resistance to colds and mononucleosis.

Fourteen Barclay girls fell sick one weekend, Miss Frawley said. "It was just after a Friday fish dinner, and we all were pretty sure it was food poisoning." She added that there were other sick students in Watson.

One Barclay coed had written many letters home complaining about food service. Her mother wrote to Dean of Women Marjorie C. Smith who replied that she would discuss the parent's complaints personally. The coed has not eaten university food now for over a year.

Big Ten, ECAC Officials To Decide Issue Today

By KEN DARLING

Sports

Syracuse athletic officials and students are waiting today to see if the Orangemen's heart-breaking 17-15 defeat at the hands of Notre Dame Saturday may be converted into a 15-14 victory.

The Eastern College Athletic Conference and the Big Ten Conference, which supplied the officials for Saturday's contest, are expected to issue a ruling today on whether an official's mistake allowed the Fighting Irish an undeserved "second chance" to kick their game-winning field goal.

Officials Say Sims Serves 'Good Food'

Two university officials who dined at Sims Dining Hall Monday said that they were pleased with the food but realize that there are several problems that should be solved.

Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford, who ate lunch at Sims with Francis A. Wingate, university vice president, said, "It was well-prepared, good food." Wingate agreed, saying "I enjoyed the meal."

The two men, who dined with three male students, said they are very much concerned with student complaints about the eating facilities. Both men are planning future visits to other dining halls. Clifford said that with his and other administration members' experiences in dining halls, the work of JSL, and the reports of resident advisers, "we will come up with a constructive solution to the problem."

Wingate cited several minor problems and said that "constructive and prompt action will be taken to relieve them."

Both men agreed that major problems cannot be identified in one visit and said that future visits are necessary before the problems can be clearly defined.

DO REAPPEARS NEXT TUESDAY

In a statement that is sure to bring tears to the eyes of all concerned, the brass of the Daily Orange has announced that there will be no papers tomorrow or the Monday after-noon.

Publication will be resumed on Tuesday, Nov. 22.

Room provides facilities for the exhibit and use of the library's collection of books and manuscripts. It accommodates 7,000 volumes, protected against humidity and fire.

Since acquiring the extensive private library of the German historian, Leopold von Ranke, in 1887, the university has been collecting rarities.

In recent years, George Arents gave the University a major Stephen Crane collection, Adrian Van Sinderen, a number of Mark Twain first editions and Chancellor Tolley gave selections by Edward Fitzgerald.

Two years ago, the university purchased a collection of works by and about Honoré de Balzac. A $50,000 bequest from the late George Arents, a university trustee, made the expanded book room facilities possible.

An original leaf from the Gutenberg Bible, and works of Thomas Hobbes, Immanuel Kant and Stephen Crane, will be among those shown at the dedication ex-

Panhel Rejects Frosh Petition For Information

Panhellenic Association has refused to answer the petition that the freshmen council presented to the sororities last week.

At a meeting Monday of Panhellenic executive council the following was announced:

"The Panhellenic Association has chosen this course of action because it does not feel the freshmen had adequate knowledge of the situation upon which the petition was based.

"Traditionally information has been provided to freshmen through the Panhellenic organization, particularly the annual 'Panhellenic on Parade' at which an opportunity is presented for the freshmen to ask questions of each sorority. Opportunities for information are available all year through consultation with the Panhellenic executive council."

But any action regarding changing the outcome of the game seems to be directly to Notre Dame at the present time. Officials at that school have made no statement so far regarding the subject.

Reports received by Hill officials have indicated that F. G. Skibbie, the head linesman who made the controversial roughing the holder call against Syracuse after the game had ended, has admitted that he "blew one." However, Skibbie has since denied making such a statement.

Mistake Revealed

The controversy which has been smoldering since Saturday broke into full flame yesterday when Paul Menton, sports editor of the Baltimore Evening Sun, pointed out that a rule misinterpretation had taken place Saturday.

Menton, a former football official, stated in an article that Skibbie erred by allowing Notre Dame another play after their first field goal attempt had gone astray. Menton contended that according to the NCAA rule which applies in this situation, as soon as the ball left the toe of Notre Dame place kicker Joe Perkowski, neither team had possession.

Game films show that end Walt Sweeney made no contact with Perkowski or ball-holder George Selek until the ball was in the air. Thus when the foul was committed, Notre Dame was no longer the offensive team. According to the rule, if there had been time left on the clock the correct call would have been to give Syracuse possession of the ball, plus a 15-yard penalty. Since no time was left, the game was officially over, and the final score should have stood at 15-14.

Syracuse Athletic Director Lew Andreas and his assistant, Jim Decker, took the game film to New York last Wednesday and showed it to ECAC commissioner Asa Bushnell, at Bushnell's request. Elwood Geiges, secretary of the NCAA rules committee, was called in. Reportedly Geiges decided that Syracuse should be awarded the game.

However, no official action has been taken in any quarters thus far. And while upstate New York is enjoying what is being called the biggest football controversy of the year, in South Bend there seems to be little excitement.

Food Service

Today's front page story on Food Service is the Daily Orange's open letter to parents that the Joint Student Legislature would not send. It should make good reading over Thursday's Thanksgiving turkey at home. The story should prove some important things—students are tired of being forced to eat unappetizing, indistinguishable food. If the administration wants specifics they can start with the average breakfast meal and work straight through until dinner.

Petition Rejection

The refusal of the Interfraternity Council to answer last week's freshman questionnaire should not surprise anyone. During the whole dispute and discussion of fraternity discrimination, the Council has remained consistently quiet. At least this questionnaire has forced some response from the fraternity men. Certainly they are justified in some of their criticism of the petition. We can also appreciate their dislike for the questionnaire as an ultimatum. But at the same time we cannot help but feel that is more the intent of the frosh questionnaire than its form and nature that has so excited and outraged the fraternity men. The Greeks do not like having outside social pressures forcing them into action or compelling them to review their consciences. This attitude is something similar to a private resident being hostile to civic pressure over cleaning up garbage in his back yard. The Greeks forget that individual prejudice, like a sequestered pestilence, can spread and grow until it festers an entire community and therefore it becomes a topic open to public discussion and debate.

Finally, the irony of their argument is in their saying that the petition would increase discriminatory rushing because frosh rushers would use much of the petition as guide to rushing. Obviously then, the Greeks don't like being discriminated against.

SU, UR Compared

Editor's Note: The following letter to the editor, which recently appeared in the University of Rochester's daily newspaper, was submitted to the Daily Orange by Syracuse freshman Ted Davis.

To the Editor:

In the past week, much has been said about UR's "overrated academic policies." In our opinion, as great a problem, if not a greater, than the apathy and lack of spirit so evident in the student body of this university. It was our pleasure this Saturday afternoon to travel to Syracuse to see Syracuse University play football against the University of Pittsburgh. Sitting in the rain, we glanced around and saw forty thousand wild spectators cheering their hearts out for their teams. It was certainly a thrill to sit among such a vibrant, spirited crowd, quite a contrast from the quiet and listless crowd of two or three thousand that manage to take time out from their studies to see our team play.

Realize that Syracuse University has a much larger student body and that its emphasis on academics is considerably less. We wonder, however, whether one extreme cannot be as harmful as the other.

In this age, the importance of our academic education has been greatly emphasized. We believe that the challenge placed upon us by these thousands calls for this emphasis, but by limiting our education to academics alone, we are defeating our own purpose, for it is a well-known fact that the great leaders of both our nation and society in general must be well-rounded individuals. These well-rounded individuals, we are sure to have a few in number at our school.

How many of us have never heard the complaints of our classmates living next to other students whom they hardly ever see. They must leave their rooms four times a day, three times for meals and once for their entire day at the library, students who use the night of our basketball games and those Saturday afternoons when the UR is playing a home football game to gain a scholastic advantage over their classmates who possess enough school spirit to attend, much less cheer at, these events?

These "academically-minded" students should definitely be a part of any college or university, but we feel that their percentage at this school is entirely too large.

The administration has spoken many times of the de-emphasis of inter-collegiate athletics at our school. Athletics are certainly secondary to academics, but the degree to which this is true at the UR is apparent in the different schools of our country, including the Ivy League and some of the better institutions on the West Coast, show that it is possible to have both high academic standing and prominent athletic programs.

We suggest that the administration recognize the importance of inter-collegiate athletics and that the admissions officers place as much stress upon the character of their applicants as upon their I.Q. In their selection of students. We are not suggesting that this school become another Syracuse University, but we do feel that instead of a "community of scholars" or more, "an academic mill," the University of Rochester should strive to become a community of enthusiastic, contented, and well-rounded students.

Pieces of Truth

By JEANNIE RANOV

There is an interesting quotation in the front of our anthropology book about everyone holding a small piece of the shattered mirror that is truth. It's nice to know so many people think they have found their pieces.

Lots of others were at the end of the line and there weren't enough pieces to go around, or so we'd guess from the number of unhappy souls vainly seeking their reflections.

Who am I, where did I come from, where am I now and where am I going are the questions that send wild echoes flying to the heart of every man.

It must be nice to have the readymade, doctrinal answers, to have at hand the talisman of assurance that god's in his heaven and the redeemer cometh. To those who have the answers we only ask how do you know, how do you know, how do you know, and at the heart of the plea comes the doubt: must they know, may they not merely believe? And there we go round again.

College is indeed the place for mirror-seeking. For separating the warped from the lucid, and for getting a firm hold on life-sustaining precepts. But it's all such a terribly big order.

Think for a moment of the dazzling minds that through the centuries have probed the reaches of the human mind and soul who have asked all the questions and come up with such satisfying answers that their names and words live yet.

Here we are being liberally educated, most of us, with these minds and mirrors as available as the nearest library. What can we do with them? What do most people do with them?

Most people do not lack a mirror from their earliest days. Society decrees that the family, the church, the school, shall be instruments of continuing human traditions, shall imbue each child with all he needs to know from cradle to grave. The mirrors are readymade, and each new citizen is held up to look, and is told never to look away.

Exposure to education may shake his faith. He then either clings closer to what he has known from birth, or turns his back upon that glass to seek another. And that's about what college is.

The big order is deciding just how you'd like your three score years and ten to be reflected. It is impossible to delve into all the philosophies that await, or thumb through the five or six thousand religions (no matter how many survey courses you take).

Even if it were possible, when you finished there would remain the gigantic task of weighing one against the other to pick the most perfect truth or belief. And then how could you be sure your choice was right?

Which brings us to the point that perhaps the answer to the dilemma is that there is no truth. Or that there is truth for every individual, that may be false for all other searchers.

The truly amazing thing in the world is that so many people declare they alone can recognize truth. How can anyone dares stand up with a handful of white feathers and say "I have found it?"

What if there is no truth and what if it makes no difference that there is none?

But let's stop there, for (at the risk of being dramatic) that way lies madness. Everyone, so they say, needs something or someone in which to put his faith, on which to rely in all the human crises. Rationalism really has little place in the matter. Man's mind cannot encompass the mysteries of the universe, let alone the universe, so he should pick a comfortable belief, preferably his parents', and not worry about it any more.

We aren't exactly sure this is the way it works, but then we aren't going to do the white feather bit. We don't know. We just don't know. As mentioned before, it must be nice to have a piece of the mirror, a talisman. Because the rest of the quotation says everyone believes his piece to be the whole.

As a good friend of ours commented recently, it must be nice to be uneducated and unlightened. Then we could do the ignorance is bliss bit and not worry about the state of the universe and all that.

Hope we haven't been too esteric this week. Go on-home and stuff yourselves with turkey and forget the whole deal, if you can.

Reader Discusses Frosh Petition

To the Editor: A pseudomorphic avant garde of hysterical freshmen have, this past weekend, circulated a petition of noble intention. Unfortunately, lofty sentiment is not concomitant. The petition consists of certain questions pertaining to discrimination within the individual fraternity and sorority houses.

The motivating idea is good: ethnocentricity has no place in a rapidly shrinking world. However, the first important statement of the circular reveals the true raison d'être of "the committee." It reads:

"In the unlikely event of any house's failure to submit this information on Nov. 17, we shall have to interpret this action as 'refusing to clarify its position on religious/racial discrimination.'"

In other words, this so-called "committee" has taken upon itself the abnegation of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. Silence is the solemn privilege of the accused. To impugn the character of one exercising his Constitutional rights is, as Frank J. Donner says in his book "The Un-Americans," outrageous. No inference of guilt can properly be drawn from the Fifth Amendment plea.

Civil by association is the hateful and spurious label that the quasi-fascist fanatics have tried to pin on the Greek houses of Picty Hill. The naive freshmen who signed (or were duped into signing) the petition in question are not making a true effort to end discrimination; they are trying to further Dr. J. Donner's short-sighted proposal to abolish, in its entirety, the Greek system.

Partial Success Marks Sunday's Crouse Concert

All the lush beauty of Brahms's First Symphony and the massive sprawling nobility of Beethoven's Egmont Overture came through with clarity and power in the Sunday afternoon's Crouse concert of the University Symphony Orchestra conducted by Louis Krasser.

The first half of the program was well rehearsed and organized. Interspersed between the two giants of musical emotion, Beethoven and Brahms, were "Lament" by Norman Dello Joia and an aria from Mozart's "Don Giovanni." Both pieces were sung with arousing dramatic expression by Edward Hill.

A thick, moody setting of voice and orchestra was employed in "Lament." In direct contrast, the Mozart aria was gay and optimistic, with colorful ornamenting of voice and orchestra.

The first piece, the Egmont Overture, showed Beethoven's passionate joy and the unrest through stirring choral outbursts. The violins in this piece seemed to sing their ends: suffering happiness.

On the contrary, it is taken up by countless romantic ideas. He sings in his first symphony only happy songs, songs of love and well being. Yet he cannot stifle the feelings of grief. He must impatiently move on to other ideas, other songs. He too, like Beethoven, is restless.

It is unfortunate that the second portion of the program was so far behind the first half in quality and direction.

Hindemith's "Canticle to Hope," the entire second half of the program, had little merit as a whole in presentation. Perhaps the piece, at a different time and under different circumstances, might have left a satisfactory effect. But in such a small auditorium and with such poor organization, the selection seemed pointless.

Conspicuous faults There were a number of conspicuous faults. The speech, given before the actual canticle began, was a platitudinous concoction totally without point in a concert hall.

Having the audience participate in the midst of a recital for chorus and orchestra is certainly a valid idea, but the audience here was asked to join in only at points where they couldn't have been heard if they had screamed. At the end the piece became so monotonously loud that it was almost funny.

Despite these faults, certain aspects of the piece, such as Celso Soriano's beautiful and vital mezzo-soprano voice and the splendidly integrated chorus, saved this part of the program from utter disaster.

But it was evident that this was only an experiment and was therefore justified. Furthermore, the major section of the program was extraordinary in its sensitivity andadroitness.

Hats off to the University Symphony Orchestra.

'Runaway' American Productions Viewed

By JOHN E. GREENWALD
First, we would like to apologize for an error in our last column. In discussing George Stevens' forthcoming "Greatest Ever Told" we said that the 20th Century Fox had reconsidered and decided to finance the biblical epic.

We were wrong. At the last moment, because of disputes between Stevens and Fox over creative control, Fox released their rights to the film. Before you could say "Spartacus" United Artist picked up the property, giving Stevens control.

The most interesting thing about this is that Stevens now plans to shoot the picture abroad, despite his many pronouncements on the benefits of American-made productions.

For a number of years American films have been made overseas, not only because the stories might demand foreign locals, but because it's cheaper. Often films without overseas locals have been shot in Europe, not to mention the many globe-trotting films that in past years would have been filmed in Hollywood.

Any number of technical, acting, writing and directing unions and guilds have been trying to stop these "runaway" productions. Anything from strikes, picketing, boycotts to even lowering of wage-scales has been suggested. But to no avail.

Stevens' efforts to film his version of the story of Jesus in Arizona were praised, and hopes for more American productions ran high.

But you can't beat simple economics. Stevens said in last week's "Variety," that costumes for 1,000 soldiers would cost $145,300 here, against $7,500 in Europe. Extras would get $115 a day in California, against $35 a day in Spain.

One day's shooting of a mob scene involving 6,000 men would cost, in round figures, $500,000 against $25,000 for a Spanish mob.

Also, foreign stagehands, cameramen and other technical help come much cheaper: not to mention reputed advantages for Americans who earn their living without income taxes in Europe.

Indeed, the New York film unions, aware of "runaway" and foreign productions, have loved their pay scales and included profit sharing systems to make N.Y. productions more favorable to money conscious producers. Many film makers are wary of Europe because they just don't have the high technical standards of Hollywood and N.Y.

To be sure, making films these days is an expensive matter. Million dollar productions are no longer unique but commonplace. $500,000 seems to be the lowest amount of money any half decent script needs to be filmed. Indeed, the less a film costs, the less it stands to make money. These "shoestring" productions, such as Casavette's "Shadows" and Clark's "The Connection" are confined to the level of the avant garde, and darned if a producer or a distributor will risk being involved with them.

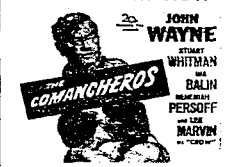

Where's the answer, then, to the greater expense of movie making? Surely, Europe won't always be a cheap studio. Many producers are waiting for pay t.v. While the financial rewards of this seem great, films made for t.v. would deteriorate both technically and aesthetically to appeal to the cathode mind.

Subsidies have worked with great success in France, Italy, England and Sweden. But American subsidies would probably be insufficient to provide any help. And the level of legislative taste in America would most assuredly not give us any Bergman's, "new wave," "Italian realism," or "angry young men," that the European subsidies have produced.

Quite frankly, unless both the producers and the unions agree to tighten their belts, they'll all end up in television, and we'll see no foreign films.

But Hollywood keeps on trying.

Michigan St. Wins IC4A; Cornell's Machooka 1st; Syracuse Places Eighth

By ALLAN KORT

Michigan State's Spartans won the IC4A cross-country championships yesterday afternoon at Van Cortlandt Park, New York City, edging out favored Penn State, 79-86. Steve Machooka of Cornell took top individual honors while Syracuse University picked up eighth place out of a field of 37 schools.

Machooka won the race with a time of 26:48, while Pete Norman of Penn State was second with 26:15. Syracuse harrier mentor Bob Grieve said that "no records could have been broken because of the snow falling during the race. At some points the runners had to run through water up to their ankles."

Finishing behind Machooka and Norman in the five-mile event were Phil Young, Bucknell; Bill Carver, Notre Dame; and Mike Zoulack, Villanova.

Pacing the Orangemen was Captain Joe Francello who finished ninth in the field of 363 runners. "Joe ran his best college race," Grieve said. Piety thinktads finishing behind Francello were Mounce Ferguson, 38th; Dick Bailey, 50th; Mike Gusman, 60th; and McGuire, 115th. Steve Killorin and Bob Brown finished far back in the pack. Killorin reinjured a pinched nerve in his leg and will not be ready for the NCAA championships, Grieve said.

Trailing frontrunners Michigan State and Penn State in team scoring were Villanova, 101; Manhattan, 141; Army, 183; Princeton, 191; Cornell, 217; Syracuse, 240; LaSalle, 251; Fordham, 273; and St. John's, 281.

"We did as well as could be expected with our 2-3 dual meet record," Eob Grieve said, "and we could have done much better if Gusman and Brown had run up to par."

Villanova was the only team that Syracuse has faced this year that finished ahead of the Orangemen. The Piety got revenge on Fordham, who nipped us earlier in the season and whipped Colgate, a previous Orange victim.

nationals at Michigan State will be Francello, Gusman, Ferguson, Daley, and McGuire. Syracuse's top five finishers in the IC's.

Preceding the varsity event was the annual IC4A Frosh meet, won by Villanova with 17 points. Fordham was second with 89, and Brown third with 107.

Syracuse did not enter a team in the meet, but frosh harriers Tom Higgins and Tom Driscoll finished 33rd and 46th respectively. Cal Evans, the third SU frosh to run, finished 81st. Villanova runners took first, second, third, fourth, and seventh places.

"Both Driscoll and Leggit did very well in the race," Grieve said, "and I think that they should have no trouble in making the varsity next year. They are both fine runner sand have done well this year."

Frosh Finish Up

The frosh finished its dual meet schedule with a 0-2-1 record and yesterday's race was the last activity for frosh runners this year. There is no NCAA frosh championship.

During the season, the Orange started off with consecutive wins against Buffalo and Colgate, and then hampered by injuries, lost a squeaker to Cornell and finished third in a tri-meet with Villanova and Fordham.

Syracuse's last win in the IC4A was in 1925. Syracuse also took the meet in 1919, 1922, 1923. The Piety harriers finished ninth last year. In 1931 the Hill thinktads finished second in the IC's and then went on to win Syracuse University's only NCAA cross-country crown. The Orange also won the NAUU championship in 1949.

Over 40 teams and 350 runners are expected to enter the nationals at East Lansing. The Spartans will have a definite advantage, being able to run the championships on their home course, while most of the teams in the East have never run that course.

The NCAA meet is scheduled to get under way at 2 p.m. next Monday, giving all teams that participated in the IC4A a week's rest. The Orange harriers will leave here Saturday morning and are expected back in Syracuse Tuesday morning.

Kappa Phi Delta Takes Cross-Country Crown

By BERNIE MACCULLUM

Kappa Phi Delta placed their five man team among the top twelve finishers to win the University cross-country championship with 38 points at Drumlins Saturday.

Bob Smith of Phi Gamma Delta took individual honors covering the 2.2 mile course in 12 min. 45 sec.

A combined team of Prefabs 2-5 finished second to cop the living center title with 85 points.

The Stadium Apts harrier team finished third, DellPlain fourth, and University 1 fifth.

Charles Joy, Daniel Greene, Walter Tryon and Ronald Brooks placed second, fourth, ninth eleventh and twelfth respectively to give Kappa Phi Delta the win.

Smith Former Harner

Smith is a Hill junior who was on the Syracuse frosh cross-country team. He earned four letters in high school track at Rahway, N.J.

A mud slicked course hindered the runners with the winning time slightly slower than in previous years.

Kappa Sigma, Phi Gamma Delta, Skytop, Phi Epsilon Pi and Tau Delta Phi rounded out the top ten teams.

The Saturday morning meet climaxed the fall intramural program which saw Phi Gamma Delta win the football title, Dell Plain 2 the swimming championship and Kappa Phi Delta the rifle title.

Hill Record Setter

JOHN MACKEY, the Orangemen's stellar end who turned in a brilliant performance against Notre Dame Saturday, has topped the former Syracuse record for yards gained on pass catches in a season. Mackey has gained 233 yards via pass receptions this year, topping the old standard held by Joe Szombathy by 36 yards.

Syracuse Healthy For Boston Contest

Syracuse came out of the Notre Dame scrap with no visible physical scars, and should be strong and healthy when they face the Eagles of Boston College in an Eastern regionally telecast tilt next Saturday.

Dave Sarette was knocked unconscious in the game at South Bend and missed Monday's indoor workout. But the senior quarterback should be ready to go this weekend.

Big end John Mackey, who broke Joe Szombathy's record for total pass receiving yardage for one season last Saturday, was forced to leave the ND game in the final period with a bruised ankle. But Mackey practiced Monday, and will also be able to roll on B.C.

Gary Fallon is expected to shake off a minor hip injury to put the Orange back at full strength.

Spirit ran at fever pitch in the indoor workout Monday in the midst of the rumors concerning the outcome of the Syracuse-Notre Dame contest. The Orange concentrated on defending the "T" and wing-T formations of the Eagles, while sharpening their own offensive teeth.

Saturday's meeting will be the fourth between the Hill gridgers and B.C. Syracuse holds a 2-1 edge so far. The Orange triumphed 10-0 in 1952, lost 19-12 in 1944, and came from 14 points down in the 1953 game to snare a 24-14 decision.

Boston College is fresh from a 10-7 win over archrival Boston University, and they stand at four and four for the season.

Field Goals Dominate Games of Opponents

By DAVE DEAN
Associate Editor

Syracuse's grid opponents put the "foot" back into football over the weekend as five of nine games were decided via the three-point placement.

In addition to Notre Dame's decision, on the basis of a fifth period field goal, Boston College, Pittsburgh, and Maryland won on three-pointers, while West Virginia lost by the same means.

In other contests, Oregon State and Penn State won, while Holy Cross, Nebraska, and Colgate were among the weekend's losers.

Final Hill Foe

At Boston, it was the fourth period field goal by Lou Kirouac and the offensive and defensive play of Harry Crump which led Boston College over Boston University, 10-7. Crump scored on a 34-yard run in the first period, gaining 100 yards during the game, set up the field goal, and then deflected BU's last-ditch touchdown try.

Kirouac had missed on two earlier attempts, but made good on the final 23-yard placement.

In the Pittsburgh game, the Panthers went ahead of Southern California 10-3 in the final period on a 42-yard field goal by Fred Cox, and then stopped the extra point try on the final USC touchdown for the 10-9 win. Fullback Rick Leeson had scored the Pitt touchdown with only 23 seconds left in the first half.

Another Squeaker

Maryland barely edged two-touchdown underdog Wake Forest, 10-7, on the margin provided by John Hannigan's 22-yard field goal in the third period. The other squeak came on an 83-yard punt return by the Terp's Tom Brown.

At Morgantown, Indiana came from behind on a fourth-period field goal, then added another touchdown, to defeat West Virginia, 17-9. The Mountaineers had led most of the way thanks to a 45-yard kick by Glenn Bennett.

The Virginians finished their season with a 4-6 mark, the best in the last three seasons.

Impressive Win

Oregon State rolled up an impressive score over outmanned Brigham Young, 35-0, to bring the Beavers' season mark to 4-4. It was their third straight win.

Penn State's strong ground attack overwhelmed Holy Cross, 34-14, as halfback Roger Fochman scored the first three touchdowns for the Li ns and Buddy Torris talied the other pair.

The only bright spot for the Crusaders came within the first six minutes of the third period, when Pat McCarthy connected on a pair of identical 41-yard touchdown passes to halfback Al Snyder. McCarthy was the whole show for the Crusaders, completing nine of 21 passes for 149 yards and the two tallies.

Orange-Bowl Bound?

Nebraska, the Hill's Big Eight opponent, fell before bowl-minded Colorado, 7-0, as both teams were drastically hampered by a muddy field. Colorado completely dominated the game, not allowing the Cornhuskers a single first down or pass completion.

Quarterback Sam Mudie of Rutgers single-handedly topped Colgate, 25-6, for the ninth straight win for the Scarlet

Mudie intercepted three of Danny Keating's passes, running two of them back for 38- and 52-yard touchdowns. He also scored from scrimmage and passed 30 yards for the final touchdown. Colgate outgained its visitors, but was unable to complete a single pass.

Sherman Cites Scientific Views

"If a scientist can see with reasonable clarity that his work might produce information which can lead to evil ends, should he continue to pursue his work?"

This question was posed to the freshmen Citizenship students in a Monday morning lecture by Dr. Frederick Sherman, Chairman of the SU Zoology department.

Dr. Sherman then went on to cite that "scientific discoveries are usually simultaneous", that is, if one man doesn't discover the information, some one else soon will. "This has proven the rule, not the exception."

Discussing three "rules of thumb" of why scientists simply pursue and try not to be involved in the moral and ethical results of their work, Sherman said that:

- 1. Science is practical.
- 2. Science is not used generally as a reply to a specific need.
- 3. And the accumulation of new knowledge is continuing.

Moving next to comments on Russian scientific achievements, Dr. Sherman said that "the fact that the Russians put up the "first" Sputnik is irrelevant, what is astonishing is the fact that they put it up at all".

Dr. Sherman then went on to say that the launching of Sputnik I and II affected the US in many ways, for instance, "the launchings led more or less directly to the passage of the National Defense Education Act."

This act stressed "scientific training". In its revealing light however, inadequacies such as the lack of good teachers, can be viewed as "a reflection of what is happening in other fields."

Commenting on this situation, Sherman said that "I am pleading for a well balanced civilization so we will have an educated citizen and not just a well trained group."

Outlining next his views on government censorship of newly discovered information, Sherman warned that "equating security with secrecy is dangerous". The whole idea of security and secrecy "must be appraised critically in the cold light of public opinions for the effect of secrecy on fundamental research is stifling."

SDS Condemns Nuclear Testing, Weapons Build-Up

"We call . . . for the immediate cessation of the development and testing of nuclear weapons." Students for a Democratic Society, by a unanimous vote, passed this resolution yesterday.

Alarmed with the decision of the United States to resume nuclear testing, SDS drew up this resolution to be circulated throughout Syracuse University and the home towns of SU students. It is their hope that this resolution will provoke individual action and protest.

SDS condemns nuclear testing: "In the name of those billions who would be the innocent victims of nuclear warfare, we protest the policies of the governments which participate in or support, national policies based upon the strength of nuclear armaments."

Furthermore, SDS asks the United Nations to make sure that nuclear power will be used only for peaceful purposes. "We ask that the development and use of nuclear weapons and the threat of nuclear war be eliminated for all time," the statement concludes.

Rev Engel Incites 'Climate of Fear'

The invasion from Mars was reported in Hendricks Chapel Sunday.

Those attending the 11 a.m. services sat in shocked silence as the Rev. David Engel told them "Thanksgiving service because it was not suitable in view of "what had happened."

In case some members of the congregation hadn't heard, he explained that early Sunday morning wooded radio signals jumbling local broadcast stations were detected coming from an unidentified object on the Distant Early Warning line. It was not Russian or Chinese in origin, and a missile fired at it had had no effect.

Such a fear-provoking incident pointed up the fitness of many everyday matters. Rev. Engel told the worshippers. After developing a sermon about the fear of God, he then told the relieved group that the invasion story was a fiction.

He told the Daily Orange he thought it was "worthwhile" to tell the story to "provoke a climate of fear" and take the chance that some of those present might panic.

POVERTY CAN BE FUN

It is no disgrace to be poor. It is an error, but it is no disgrace. So if your purse is empty, do not skulk and brood and hide your head in shame. Stand tall. Admit your poverty. Admit it freely and frankly and all kinds of good things will happen to you. Take, for instance, the case of Blossom Signafos.

Blossom, an impetuous freshman at an Eastern girls' college, was smart as a whip and found as a dumpling, and scarcely a day went by when she didn't get invited to a party weekend at one of the nearby men's schools. But Blossom never accepted. She did not have the rail fare; she did not have the clothes. Weekend after weekend, while her classmates went frolicking, Blossom sat alone, saved from utter despair only by her pack of Marlboros, for even an exchequer as slim as Blossom's can afford the joys of Marlboro—jags far beyond their retail price; rich, mellow tobaccos, lovingly cured and carefully packed, and an exclusive selectrate filter. Croesus himself could not buy a better cigarette!

However, Marlboro's most passionate admirers—among whose number I am paid to count myself—would not claim that Marlboro can entirely replace love and romance, and Blossom grew steadily morose.

"Accept these gifts from Tom."

Then one day came a phone call from an intelligent sophomore named Tom O'Shanter at a nearby men's college. "Blossom," said Tom, "I want you to come down next week for the barley festival, and I won't take no for an answer."

"No," said Blossom. "Foolish girl," said Tom gently. "I know why you refuse me. It is because you are poor, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Blossom. "I will send you a railroad ticket," said Tom. "Also a hard-boiled egg in case you get hungry on the train."

"But I have nothing to wear," said Blossom. "Tom replied, "I will send you one suit of cashmere, two gowns of lace, three slacks of velvet, four shoes of calf, five socks of nylon, and a partridge in a pear tree."

"That is most kind," said Blossom, "but I fear I cannot dance and enjoy myself while back home my poor lame brother Tiny Tim lies a-bed."

"Send him to Mayo Brothers and put it on my tab," said Tom. "You are terribly decent," said Blossom, "but I cannot come to your party because all the other girls at the party will be from rich, distinguished families, and my father is but a humble woodcutter."

"I will buy him Yosemite," said Tom. "You have a great heart," said Blossom. "Hold the phone while I ask our wise and kindly old Dean of Women whether it is proper for me to accept all these gifts."

She went forthwith and asked the Dean of Women, and the Dean of Women laid her wise and kindly old hand on Blossom's cheek and said, "Child, let not false pride rob you of happiness. Accept these gifts from Tom."

"Oh, bless you, Wise and Kindly," breathed Blossom, dropping grateful tears into the Dean's reticule. "I must run and tell Tom."

"Yes, run, child," said the Dean, a smile wrinkling her wise and kindly old eyes. "And ask him has he got an older brother."

what's pure research?

Distinguished from that which has practical application, pure research is concerned with the discovery of fundamental knowledge to widen man's understanding of himself and the universe.

Ford Motor Company's Scientific Laboratory in Dearborn, Michigan is dedicated to the pursuit of knowledge in the physical sciences. On its staff are scientists of national and international reputation who conduct independent basic research programs of an extremely broad nature.

Why does Ford Motor Company support research which seemingly is unrelated to the manufacture of its products?

It is our view, and a pioneering concept in our industry, that entirely new approaches to automotive development can come only from unhampered scientific investigation. Deeper understanding of matter itself, and of the conversion and storage of energy—aside from widening man's primary knowledge—may have practical application in tomorrow's vehicle design.

Thus knowledge wrested from nature by scientists will be taken by technologists and applied to serve practical needs and desires. Another example of Ford's leadership through scientific research and engineering.

Not one sorority had previously answered this discrimination petition that a group of freshmen presented to the sororities last Thursday.

This petition, containing such questions as how many Negroes and foreign students are members of a house, and the sororities prospective plans to alter memberships along racial/religious lines, was also rejected by Interfraternity Council at an emergency meeting Friday morning.

Critic Calls 'Jonah' Players Creditable

"You (the actors) are not to judge the play. That privilege is reserved for the audience and the reviewers. All that is expected of you is a creditable performance."

The preceding observation was made by the "judge" in the Syracuse University Drama Department's presentation of "The Sign of Jonah." This bit of objective burden of evaluating Sunday evening's performance. This task is not an easy one for there is no yardstick in judging a student production and much must be taken into consideration.

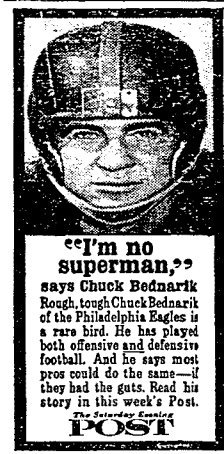

Hendricks Chapel was an appropriate setting for this religious drama which tries to assess man's responsibility for the present state of humanity.

Written by Guenter Rubenborn and translated into English from German, "The Sign of Jonah" is a modern play which dives deeply into the religious philosophy of post-war Germany.

Although, at times, the players tended to overact, the overall performances could be considered creditable. Special praise must go to Elliot Leibowitz and Jesse Waller for performances equal to their most difficult roles.

Actors placed in the audience were employed to create an effect of spontaneous audience reaction. This attempt at surrealism failed through its boresomeness and the uncoordinated efforts of two dozen or so players created general tumult. One emerges from "The Sign of Jonah" less concerned with evaluating the performances than reflecting upon his own religious beliefs. The play, therefore, could be termed a success for its message was received with prime importance, a Herculean task for any production. S.G.

Kharas Cites Civil Rights

By JIM WELLER

"A person accused of a crime has an elaborate network of protection thrown around him to insure that he is not treated unjustly" said Ralph Kharas, Dean of SU's Law School.

These protective devices, said Kharas, are found throughout our judicial process and range from a person being entitled to know what he has been arrested for, to protection against double jeopardy.

An aware person, said Kharas, would then ask two questions concerning the effect of these protective devices.

"Do many guilty people go free because of these numerous protections?" and

"In spite of all these precautions, is it possible to convict and punish the innocent?"

Kharas answered these queries by saying "Yes, because of these precautions, most trial judges and lawyers would admit some people do go free. And also, because the process is fallible, it is possible for a combination of circumstantial evidence to result in the conviction of an innocent man."

Citing next the restraints placed on the police and courts by various laws, Kharas pointed out that the courts are not aiming merely for the truth, but are also concerned with the legality of how the truth is arrived at.

"This is evident, he said, in the illegality of such things as wire tapping.

Closing with a warning to the coming generation, Kharas said that "with the equipment for long range eavesdropping being developed, an independent agency similar to the FCC must be developed to regulate these practices or we will be in danger of becoming victims to a 'Big Brother' or 'Watching' type of society."

Registration Starts Today; LA Exceeded

Students in the College of Liberal Arts will not preregister for next semester's courses, Assistant Dean of Liberal Arts Alfred H. Cope announced yesterday. They will, instead, return to the old registration system that involves meeting their advisor and filling out IDM cards during the February 5-7 registration period.

Students enrolled in all other colleges will preregister during the three weeks before Christmas vacation.

Those whose last names begin with P-Z register this week; G-O register December 4-8, and A-F register December 11-15.

The College of Liberal Arts is returning to the old registration system because of the many problems that arose from the preregistration system initiated last spring, Cope said.

The schedule of spring semester courses released yesterday by the university inadvertently omitted the courses in the Romance Language Department. This oversight will be corrected by issuing a special supplement which will be available later this week at the department office.

Noble Says U.S. Must Live Bible Or Go Communist

By HALGET DREZNIK
 Author John Noble, speaking Monday night in Hendricks Chapel of his experiences in 50 jet prisons following World War II, warned the American people against indifference and lack of concern with present-day Soviet atrocities and propaganda.

Pointing to his audience he declared, "Either we are going to live just what the Bible taught, or we are going to be Communists."

Noble spoke against the continuation of relations with the Soviet Union as they are now and sarcastically termed Khrushchev and his followers "a truly wonderful assortment of diplomats." He cited various instances of Soviet atrocities in modern life and described them as more heinous than any form of persecution ever known to man.

"Love thy neighbor," said Noble, but pointed out that loving our Russian neighbor involves stepping on Khrushchev's toes and embracing him. If we are not tough, we shall become communists, whether we like it or not, and God will destroy us in the end, said the ex-prisoner.

"It is about time we get back to the word of our God," he concluded. We can get back on the right road if we observe the basic principles upon which our country was founded—the "Syracuse (Continued on Page 8)

The largest registration in several years, 829 freshmen and transfer students, will participate in 1961 fraternity rushing, according to James McMurray of the dean of men's office.

FRATERNITY RUSHING SCHEDULE

All students registered for informal fraternity rushing are divided into three groups. Rushing group "X" includes those whose last names begin with letters A-G; group "Y" includes names which begin with letters H-Q; group "Z" includes names which begin with letters P-Z.

Group	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday	House
X	November 27, 7-10 p.m.					A
Y		November 30, 7-10 p.m.				B
Z			November 30, 7-10 p.m.			C
X			December 2, 2-5 p.m.			B
Y				December 2, 2-5 p.m.		C
Z					December 2, 2-5 p.m.	A

The last informal rushing sessions will be held Sunday, December 3, 2-5 p.m., at the University Center, 7-10 p.m. Rushes may visit any house in any group for any length of time.

Music School Receives Grants

Two grants, totaling $875 from two local organizations, have been given to the Syracuse University School of Music, Dr. Kirk Ridge, acting director of the School of Music, announced today.

A $500 grant was given for student scholarships by the Civic Morning Musicals. The presentation was made by Mrs. Jane Alderman, president of Civic Morning Musicals.

Another grant of $375 is to be divided into three awards of $125 each. These will be given to three piano students selected by the grant from the music faculty. The grant was presented by Mr. Guido Singer, president of the Clark Music Company.

Coed Attacked Near Library

Syracuse University coed was grabbed by an unknown assailant Sunday night in the area between the Main Library and Building 18.

Susan Mead, a sophomore in the College of Forestry, reported to Security Police that a young man in a red checked pullover shirt, bowler hat and dark trousers grabbed her near the WAER prefix at 9:30 p.m. Sunday.

The recent discussion of the Hill Fraternity system has influenced the figures, said McMurray. The figures indicate an increase of over 300 students from those of 1960, he stated. "These students had the interest to find out for themselves and question the Greeks on their individual clauses, McMurray said.

Additional sign-ups for freshmen and transfer students who have not done so will take place from 11-5 p.m. today.

Upperclass transfer students may pick up copies of "Meet the Greeks" in the dean of men's office, announced McMurray.

X-Y-Z Groups
 The rushes have been divided alphabetically into three groups: X, Y and Z. All freshmen and transfer students are expected to follow their individual rushing schedule, according to the dean of men's office. Students with last names beginning with A through Guthmann are included in group X. Names from Haile through Osborne are included in group Y. The Z group includes last names from Palcie through Zweedie.

Fraternities have been divided into groups A, B and C. In Group A are the following houses: Psi Upsilon, Kappa Phi, Phi Kappa Chi of Theta Alpha, Phi Kappa Psi, Delta Tau Delta, Theta Chi, Alpha Chi Rho, Zeta Beta Tau, Tau Epsilon Pi and Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Fraternities included in Group B are: Sigma Alpha Mu, Phi Gamma Delta, Beta Sigma Rho, Alpha Tau Omega, Tau Delta Epsilon, Sigma Epsilon, Zeta Epsilon, Psi Alpha and Delta Upsilon.

Group C includes: Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Epsilon, Beta Theta Pi, Kappa Phi Delta, Acacia, Sigma Nu, Phi Delta Theta, Phi Sigma Delta and Alpha Epsilon Pi.

Rushing schedule during the first three informal rush sessions for rushee Group X will be as follows: On Tuesday 28, 7-10 p.m., rushees will visit group A. On Wednesday, November 29, 7-10 p.m., rushees will visit group B on Saturday, December 2, from 2-5 p.m.

The rushing schedule during the first three informal rush sessions for rushee Group Y will be as follows: On Tuesday, November 28, 7-10 p.m., Students in group Y will visit fraternities in group A on Thursday, November 30, from 7-10 p.m. Saturday, December 2, from 2-5 p.m. is the schedule during group C.

The last group Z, will visit the Greeks at the following times: Tuesday, November 28 from 7-10 p.m., group C, Group B is scheduled for November 30, from 7-10 p.m. Rushes in group Z will visit fraternities in group A on Saturday, December 2 from 2-5 p.m. (Continued on Page 8)

3 Hill Students Deceive Waitress; Twenty Dollar Check Unpaid

By DANIEL RITEY

The short, brown-haired waitress leaned over the table and spoke hurriedly. She spoke quickly because she had to finish her tables while relating her story.

"Oh, yes, I could identify them," she said last week. "One came here Oct. 28, but he ran before I could get to him. They always sit near the door so they can take off quickly."

She paused momentarily. "You see, they were coming here and ordering double servings of everything—food, drinks—everything. They would ask for another cup of coffee. We'd bring it, but by the time we'd be back at the table, they would be gone—without paying the check."

McCarthy's Restaurant "That's how it would happen. They would leave without paying, and naturally, the manager would expect the money, so I would have to pay for the check."

ant, which consists of a seafood dining room with a delicatessen and bar, located at 1030 S. Salina St.

"On Oct. 17 of this year, . . . three boys had double orders of everything, and then left without paying for their meal. So, I was stuck with the check—a $19.35 tab."

As a result of this incident, on Nov. 16, the waitress, Sophie Peters, sent a letter to the Dean of Men, Syracuse University. This letter was forwarded to the Daily Orange.

"I have four children, three boys of three, four and 13 years of age, and a girl who is 14," she said. "My daughter was recently sick with asthma, and the doctor bills were quite steep."

Hit on Dayday
 "Furthermore," she added, "This happened on a day, and I went home with very little money. And this came at a time when I needed all the money that I could get."

Mrs. Peters was asked why she waited a month to contact the university.

"Well, I waited because I thought I might be able to recognize the boys by looking through an edition of the Syracuse yearbook."

"I went to see a dean about my problem; he told me to come back in a few days with the yearbook," she said. But, I couldn't recognize anyone in the book. Furthermore, I didn't have the time to go back to the university. You see, my children are in school, and I have little time to be with them because I work here from 4 p.m. to 1 . . . every day."

Mrs. Peters said that students leaving without paying their checks, have afflicted other waitresses at McCarthy's—she estimated that she had been stuck in this manner four times.

How could she be sure that the boys in question were Syracuse (Continued on Page 8)

And the Hill Press

One of the valid measurements of how well a university is doing, of how much leadership and incentive it is projecting into the academic and intellectual life of the community, is the success of its press.

Syracuse has been doing itself proud in its own personal pursuit of excellence. During the past decade there have been marked achievements in the stature of the student body and the faculty and much of the outside world has been steadily recognizing this.

And it is, perhaps, the most important book the Press has published in a long time. "The understanding and facility the author brings to his subject makes this a gracefully executed book, well-lit from the inside with compassion, restraint and flawless taste," said Sidney Hyman in The New York Times book review Sunday.

"We decided to bring up furniture and make our room more comfortable..."

LETTERS

Aspects Of SU Life Cited

To the Editor: The editorial entitled "JSL Backs out," which appeared in the November 17 issue of the DO, is a disgrace. It is not constructive. It is not even good criticism. The JSL may lack in leadership ability, and they may be afraid of the administration. The only way to change this is by the full support of every student and every organization, including the DO.

strong backing from the students, fraternities, sororities, and the DO, the JSL will be forced to decide. Further, the DO referred to SU students as children, who needed their parents to solve their problems for them. To refer to any collegiate student body as children is an insult. I personally resent it, and know I am not alone in this regard. Specifically, I urge full support for the JSL. A student body is only as effective as the student forces it to be.

ing of pressing for their rights." I have only two questions I would like Mr. Bunch to answer. First: why should anyone in the United States have to press for their rights? Second: when have any white students of our generation shown themselves the equals of the "apathetic," "foreign" Negroes in fighting for any moral issue?

As I stated earlier, I am disheartened to think that a crusade for human rights is necessary in our democratic nation—but I do have hopes that education will help the "apathetic" white majority to learn the self respect and responsibility that is necessary because of press of others can be attained. I also hope that before 1964 rolls around, that you, too, Mr. Bunch, will have grown sufficiently to join the ranks of the educated.

To the Editor: I write now as a leader of Negro students or as a speaker for the Negro race. I find it disheartening to think that any group, regardless of their numerical minority, should need a leader in a crusade for simple human rights. A democratic nation in 1961 (not 1865) should be able to boast that civil liberties and social liberties need no individual defense as they are rigorously protected by all.

In his letter to the Daily Orange of Nov. 20, Mr. George Bunch stated that the reason for Negro students not being in Greek houses was that they "have no conception of white-black social life," whatever that is.

The Freedom Riders dramatically refute Mr. Bunch's statement that "Negroes know nothing of pressing for their rights."

By JEANNIE RANOV

Anybody remember the "Peanut" strip where Lucy is standing there saying to herself, "Ooh, that was a good one!" and "There goes another one!" and Charlie Brown asks her what she's talking about and she says she's enjoying every second as it goes by?

You can find more articles written on enjoying every day as if it were your last (and these days it may be) and making each minute of your day useful.

We think it a lot more interesting to ponder not how to spend your time, but the qualities of time itself.

As one of our favorite columnists noted, "The telescopic quality of time has been marveled at by all philosophers. For time does not proceed at a uniform pace; it accelerates as we get older."

Haven't you started to notice this phenomenon? We're positive the days and weeks and years never flashed by as if Father Time were offering prizes to the quickest when we were in grade school and high school.

But all of a sudden we're halfway through college and where did the last two years go, for heaven's sake?

And this year is worse than the rest. In three weeks it's Christmas vacation and June will probably be sneaking up before we even get the tree down.

To quote our favorite again, "And where have the years gone? I couldn't tell you. Like a puff of smoke, they have disappeared into infinity. It is more than startling; it is frightening, to think how quickly a life evaporates before our eyes." We have a theory about the speedup. When you're little, the future isn't very real. You're concerned with now, today. Next week, next month, next year seem remotely improvable.

We recall a day in fourth grade. It was a Friday, and desk-cleaning day. Well, we straggled at the desk and sat looking out of the window, and so help us, the future seemed almost not to exist. There was nothing ahead that we knew of to assignments to do, no duties to fulfill. There was only the present, the clean desk and the leaf-filled window.

Of course, the bloody tyrant was lurking just out of sight all the time. People's interests broaden, society tosses them their share of the responsibility connected with whatever role they perform and they can never ever again have everything they want now, today. Their eyes are on the future—their hands reach out farther and faster than their legs can take them.

Take your own life. Aren't you now worrying about the paper due in two weeks, the test day after tomorrow, the trip to the Liberty Bowl, graduation, a job next summer and all of them in the future?

But time, even to the college-age group just becoming acquainted with its epigrammatic qualities, is not really supposed to exist until one is middle-aged.

Right now, you can't really imagine yourself old, imagine yourself dying, can you?

We look at those older than ourselves on the street and think, if subconsciously, not that will never happen to us, we'll never be wrinkled and sick and senile, and the bloody tyrant chuckles noiselessly.

We've read books describing characters who look out of their physical selves and want to shout to everyone, "Someone's played a trick on me! I'm not really old like this, inside I'm as young and strong and eager as ever, but nobody understands!"

We hope it's not like that. We hope instead we learn "to make our peace with destiny," and some kind of acceptance and serenity are our lot, that is, if any of us live so long.

But we can only guess how it will be later. Now we have a big enough problem hanging on to the reins of time as it plunges and careens down the days.

To the Editor: It was a shock last Tuesday to read the letter reprinted in the University of Rochester daily newspaper, mainly because it could so easily have been written by a Syracuse student about the athletic situation at Syracuse.

There are students at every university who came for an education, whether the athletic buffs realize it or not. When they spend game time studying, they do it because they want the education; they do it for, not because they want "to gain a scholastic advantage over their classmates." They couldn't care less about such an advantage, or about the game.

They couldn't care less about being well-rounded; they realize that four years is little enough time to spend on the academic aspects of their personality development, and that they have the rest of their lives to catch up on sports. They realize that the truly great leaders of any generation are not contented and well-rounded and would either laugh at such a notion or tolerantly ignore it.

The sports enthusiasts are welcome to their athletic program, if that satisfies their intellectual aspirations. But the community of scholars would be grateful if the sports fans would respect their interpretation of the meaning of university life and stop the ridicule which is all too often aimed at them. It is a very sad thing when a student is made to feel like a fool for his studying.

Edward Albee's Works Discussed

By ROBERT LA GUARDIA

Most artists today may be miles away from their perplexed public, but not so with our contemporary playwrights. Where atonality in music and surrealism in art seem to leave only bewilderment in their wake, novelists, dramatists are swiftly closing the gap between themselves and their audience.

Nowhere but in twentieth century United States has there come to such a peak, for in no other region will there be found modern playwrights such as O'Neill, Williams, Miller, Vidal, and Albee, who have so perfected their art.

Yet these American greats have done the impossible. They have remained with their audiences all the way.

Edward Albee is the newest and youngest American great. He, like O'Neill, has used a totally different kind of approach to each one of his plays. They all possess a striking and brilliant individuality.

But like Williams, Albee retains a basic problem in all of his works. The problem is "what is wrong with America?"

His "Who's Afraid of the Black Man?" is a character? ... what is wrong with our standards? ...

When this obviously strong theme is mixed with a little genius, plays such as "The American Dream" and "The Death of Bessie Smith" emerge. Both are now playing on Broadway in New York.

"The Death of Bessie Smith" depends for its effect on a process of exaggerated realism. The play is real because its situation involves the horror of Southern segregation, what the abstraction of prejudice means in terms of hard, raw experience. But the weaknesses of the characters are all highly exaggerated. Young nurses are seldom as cruel as the one portrayed, and young doctors and outlaws are not usually so easily stepped upon.

Exaggerations served to heighten the dramatic effect, and bring the author's ideas more clearly to the surface. The play is powerfully theatrical and thought provoking.

"American Dream" is the exact opposite of "Bessie." It is a farce. But a farce with a point, since it brings out in no uncertain terms the extreme superficiality in most Americans.

"The Situation is naively simple. Three members of a family, Mommy, Daddy, and Grandma, receive two guests, a lady club-president and a muscle-bound youth who is in the habit of selling his body to others. The youth is the "American Dream" of the title. He represents what Americans value most: surface strength and beauty. The less beneath, the better. Everyone sees in him something they have always been looking for; yet he freely admits there is nothing in him but fatness.

Albee chooses in this play to make his characters comic impressions of people you meet every day. The nagging, mouthy wife, the using fossil, she has married for his money, the mother-in-law who has forgotten which one of the couple she is mother to, are all recognizable types.

Albee is a master of witty dialogue. The wife tells of her excursion to a hat shop where she bought a beige hat. She returned to the shop later on when someone remarked the hat looked a "wheat color." After making a fuss in the place she settled for a duplicate of the same hat in "wheat" and was satisfied. Of course the hat only came in beige.

At one time Mommy says to the lady guest, "Sit down, won't you? Make yourself comfortable. Take off your dress." And the lady guest, takes off her dress. The incident may have been pointless in itself, but it set a definite tone of farce for the rest of the play. We laugh at our own foibles of hospitality.

Both plays, including "Zoo Story," Albee's first one-act success, are scheduled to be presented here during March and April by the Syracuse drama department. "Zoo Story" ran for more than a year in New York with a play by another playwright, "Krapp's Last Tape."

Watch for Edward Albee. He should go far in the complicated, exciting world of drama. With E-questro?

Book By Graduate Student Published

Sanford Sternlicht, a graduate student in English at Syracuse University, is the author of a newly released volume of poetry, "Gull's Way," published by the Richard R. Smith Co., Inc. of Peterborough, N.H.

"The Poems in 'Gull's Way,'" the author's first book, were written or conceived while Sternlicht was serving in the U.S. Navy from 1956-59. Almost all of the pieces have been published in various American periodicals including the New York Times, the Christian Science Monitor and the Saturday Evening Post among others.

Sternlicht was also the winner of the 1960 Writer Magazine award for new poets. Other prizes he has received include a second place Garrett Memorial Short Story award in 1961.

Piety Foes Gain, Lose Bowl Bids

By DAVE DEAN
Associate Editor

One bowl bid lost, another gained, and a long-awaited winning season highlighted last week's football action for Syracuse foes.

Maryland lost the bid with a loss to lightly-regarded Virginia, Penn State earned a bid with an impressive win over Pittsburgh, and Colgate topped Brown to gain its first winning season in six years.

Holy Cross and Oregon State were also victorious, while Notre Dame tumbled.

Big Upset

Maryland's Terrapins had accepted a bid to the Post-season Gator Bowl on the condition that the defeat Virginia, a team which had won only three of its last 36 games.

The Terps scored first, on a 60-yard punt return by Tom Brown, and last, but couldn't content with the Virginia team which led in passing, rushing and first downs. Virginia won 28-16, adding insult to injury by scoring a final touchdown via a 95-yard run with an interception of a pass by Dick Shiner, ace Terp passer.

Penn State earned a bid to the Gotham Bowl, and consideration for the Gator Bowl, with a 26 victory over traditional opponent Pittsburgh. Senior quarterback Galen Hall led the Lions to a 7-3 season mark as he scored twice and passed for another pair of touchdowns. Pittsburgh recorded its worst record ever under coach John Mitchell, winning only three of ten games.

In Losing Effort

Sophomore fullback Rick Leonard led the Pitt Panthers in the losing effort with a pair of touchdowns, including a 49-yard run in the final period.

Colgate, playing on Thanksgiving Day, won its fifth game of the season, against four losses, to record the first Maroon winning season since 1955.

Reserve quarterback Carmine Diadimo sparked the Raiders to their first win over winless Brown in a 14-3 victory in the 56th game.

Kenting, the new team, led his team to its first score, but gave way to Diadimo when he aggravated an ankle injury of the previous Saturday.

Holy Cross, relying on an aerial game for most of the season, found the airways blocked Saturday and had to revert to a ground game for its 14-3 victory over a stubborn Connecticut team.

The UConn team took a 3-0 lead in the first period, and proceeded to intercept two Crusader passes and recover three fumbles before the HC ground game finally won out.

The Crusaders ground out 264 yards on the ground, to 47 for their foes, with ace passer Pat

Wrestling Outlook Good Despite Tough Schedule

By EON ROBERTS

Preparing to meet some of the toughest college wrestling teams in the country is once again the task set before Syracuse mat coach Joe Scandura. But with a good balance of experience and promising sophomores things are looking better this season, barring injuries.

Syracuse will again wrestle in the Eastern Inter-collegiate Wrestling Association, which is comprised of 16 teams. But half of these are Ivy League schools, and the Orange grapplers will face only Cornell—the Ivy champ—of this group. Powerful Lehigh, Penn State, and Pittsburgh are more indicative of the caliber of the Piety composition.

The grapplers will hold their traditional intra-squad meet at 2 p.m. Dec. 2, and Scandura claims that the freshman might win for the first time. Led by fresh football players Jim Nance and Jerry Everling, and including Terry Kayes, John Dussling, Mike Mullick, and Lou Roberts, Scandura says "on paper they could be the best frosh team we ever had, but of course they haven't proven anything yet."

Running down the varsity as it shapes up to date, Scandura says they are strong in the lower weight classes, but lack a little in the heavier divisions.

Larry Nealon, a senior who Scandura calls "a tough little runt" and "one of the keys to success," is the top man in the 123-lbs. class.

Howie Meyer, captain of the squad and undefeated last year, is expected to capably fill the 130-lbs. slot. The 137-lb. class stands as a toss-up between senior Fred Hoffmann and sophomore Jim Murrin, and Bob Chappell should hold down the 147-lb. division.

Sophomore George Reidener has a slim edge in the 157-lb. class, and Art Lewis, a senior, is the leading contender for the 167-lb. spot.

Gary Sirota, who placed third in the Easterns last year, will wrestle at 177 pounds, and senior Bob Ornstein is "working hard and should have a good year" at 191 pounds.

Sophomore Mel Powers is currently the top man in the unlimited division, but Scandura says that he is looking to the football team for some help, with Bob Stem the top candidate. Stem was unbenighted as a grappler in his freshman year.

Eagles Scare Sluggish Hillmen

By MILT JOFFE
Junior Editor

A confident, Liberty Bowl-bound Syracuse football team met a fired-up Boston College team that had nothing to lose Saturday and the result almost proved disastrous for the Orangemen.

The final score reflected a seemingly easy Syracuse win—28-13 was just about what the oddsmakers were figuring on. The team statistics also showed the Orange had a convincing edge.

But the 37,600 fans who shivered in the windswept Alumni Stadium at Chestnut Hill, Mass., and the millions on television viewers alone; the east coast who were protected from the elements, saw a hard-fought battle that reached its tense climax with two minutes left in the game.

who took advantage of lethargic Syracuse play, determinedly drove for a last quarter score on an 18-yard pass play from George VanCott to end Art Grahars to put them within one point of the visitors.

The Eagles passed up a "moral victory" and decided to go for the downs. Van Cott looked for Grahars in the end zone but a hard Syracuse rush made the pass go awry. The shocked Syracuse team appeared to have won the squeaker.

With two minutes left on the clock, and the fans on their feet, which Dave McGysey cocked, however, on the first scrimmage play, Ernie Davis fumbled and the Eagles recovered. The home town fans screamed with visions of upst dancing in the air. Van Cott faded back to throw on first down and, in the play that ended all the B.C. dreams, Davis intercepted and dashed 61 yards, untouched, into the end zone.

Syracuse kicked off and Van Cott repeated the pass completion to an Orangeman, this time Gary Fallon. He scooted around goal for 27 yards and crossed the goal line almost exactly in the path Davis scored on.

THESE THREE ORANGEMEN accounted for the four touchdowns Syracuse scored in the Boston College game Saturday. ERNIE DAVIS, left, All-American halfback, scored two touchdowns, while JOHN MACKEY, center, and GARY FALLON tallied once apiece in the 28-13 victory over the fighting Eagles.

The Boston College Cinderella boy was sophomore quarterback Jack Concannon. Concannon, who was not supposed to play this season because of a back operation he underwent earlier in the year, came out of the infirmary Saturday morning following a case of flu and proceeded to fire up his teammates.

On third and long yardage midway through the opening period, he faded to pass. When he saw his receivers covered he ran a zig-zag pattern to the sideline then, seemingly trapped, veered to the right and led a merry chase to the end zone for a 79-yard breath-taker. Syracuse's defense performed fairly well until the final drive by the Eagles, but the offense couldn't come up with the big play. Davis was almost the whole offense. His total of 203 yards pushed him beyond the last of Jimmy Brown's records, total offense. Ernie established the new mark of 3,314 yards.

Miami Selected Hill's Bowl Foe

Syracuse's opponent in the third annual Liberty Bowl game Dec. 16 will be the University of Miami, it was announced late Monday night by bowl committee chairman Ambrose Dudley.

The Hillmen, who ended their regular season with a 7-3 slate, were selected for the Philadelphia bowl last Wednesday. The Hurricanes, with one game remaining, have compiled a 6-3 record.

After learning that Miami had been selected to face his Orangemen in the post-season contest, Ben Schwartzwalder commented that "We look forward to playing them again. We had a fine game against them last year, and I'm sure fans will see a lot of good football when we play this time." Syracuse finished its 1960 season with a comeback 21-14 victory over the Florida team.

The Hurricanes are paced by their passing combination of sophomore quarterback George Mira and senior end Bill Miller, a possible All-American. It was Mira who was largely responsible for his squad's 25-8 defeat of Penn State early in the season. The Nittany Lions, of course, were one of three teams to defeat Syracuse this year.

Miami has also defeated Kentucky, North Carolina, Georgia, Tulane, and Northwestern. The Hurricanes have lost to Pitt, Navy, and Colorado.

Noble Sees No Fear Psychosis Overseas

By NITA KAMM

American airmen stationed overseas are "not as scared as we are over here," Dean Charles C. Noble observed after a recent trip to Air Force bases in Crete, Turkey and Greece.

"There's no fear psychosis" among men stationed only 40 miles from the Russian border, the dean of Hendricks Chapel explained Monday, a week after his return. "They think about what's going on Stateside, and concentrate on doing their job," he continued.

Although the bulk of those who attended his sermons and lectures were older servicemen and their families, Dean Noble said that there were always a group of the young airmen in attendance.

The fellows are about as interested in religion as their contemporaries here on campus," he commented. He did meet, however, "a number of young people who genuinely wish to rethink their faith."

Tarsus, Home of Paul

Visiting Tarsus, the hometown of Apostle Paul, the dean exclaimed "I can understand why he left it!" He noted the primitive conditions and chaotic traffic in this Turkish city.

Adana is very "hush, hush," the dean commented, reminding us that this is where U-2 pilot Francis Powers took off for his now-famous flight over the Soviet Union.

Diyabkir, Turkey was the last stop. This is a "hardship base"—no women on or near the base—which is located only 40 miles from the Soviet border.

"The morale of these boys is really high because of the necessity of drawing together to have something to live for," the chaplain noted.

Mail is all-important to the homesick airmen who wait longingly for news of home, he said. The mail comes only once a week on the supply plane, and trucks go roaring out to pick up the mail and bring it back to the barracks.

Journalism classes handle the publication of the English language editions of these magazines. Dr. Robert Laubach, the son of the originator of this fund, teaches these classes.

Principles of Reading

The training of these teachers is carried on by means of such classes. According to Mrs. Blakely, the principles of reading are taught.

She pointed out that Syracuse University is the only institution where a Master's Degree may be earned for work in the field of writing for illiterates who are in the process of learning the skill of reading.

Mrs. Blakely came here from the South and, just last June received her M.A. in this field.

Must Be Habit

She stressed the importance of the seemingly simple type of reading material supplied these individuals, saying that reading must become a habit or else "returns to the illiterate state," from a lack of practice results. Included in the campus office is a library of magazine in various languages, used for teaching purposes.

Laubach's classes include persons from many different countries who desire to return to their homes and teach others. These people learn editing, writing, graphic arts and may also select courses in the radio-T.V. area.

Government Permission

The elder Laubach, who had gone to the Philippines earlier, was granted permission by the government to begin work with the illiterates in 1929.

Part of his work involved the area of helping the Moro people establish a language of their own. A school was established and it has grown steadily.

Also, each person, after having learned to read, was told that it was his responsibility to teach another the same skills. Laubach has published several books on the subject.

Ed Placement

Students who are graduating in January, June or August, 1962, and plan to use the services of the Educational Placement Bureau, should register with the Bureau immediately.

This is the time of year set aside for preparing the registration forms and it is imperative that these be turned in now, according to Miss Lina Sedman, director.

Take a puff... it's Springtime! Somewhere there's a place you love especially well in springtime... perhaps a place of hillside and valley like this. You'll think of this place when you try a Salem cigarette, so soft, so gentle, so refreshing is its smoke. Special High Porosity paper "air-softens" every puff. Fine tobaccos add their own richness to Salem's taste, too. Smoke refreshed...smoke Salem!

3 Hill Students Deceive Waitress

University student? "Because they came during the days that classes were being held at the university... never on vacations. Besides, they looked too old for high school students." And they wore Syracuse University jackets, she added.

Most of the waitresses were in agreement that the majority of boys from the Hill are completely honest. But, as one said, "some are like this."

Mrs. Peters recalled that on the night she was left with the $20 bill, she had rushed out of the restaurant after the boys, calling at them to stop. A passing motorist seeing that she was chasing the boys, gave her a quick lift to the Sears Roebuck store, a few blocks from McCarthy's. When she got out of the car, however, the boys had disappeared, and she had no choice but to return to the restaurant and pay the bill.

One of the boys was about six feet, two inches tall and had blue eyes, fat lips and a reddish complexion, she recalled. Another was about five feet, eight inches tall with dark curly hair and she could only remember that the third boy had a light complexion.

After the incident, Mrs. Peters wrote to the University. In addition to writing help from the administration, she hoped that her letter would be published in the Daily Orange, and maybe her plight would arouse some compassion in these boys.

"I'm not sure at the management because I have to pay the bills," she remarked, but I'm sure at the boys for walking out on me."

"I love the university students... I've got three boys of my own who, I hope, will go to college. I have friends on the Hill who felt badly about these incidents. After all, it's had for the school too," she added.

"The waitress went on, 'I was disappointed with those boys—I thought they might call me and say that they were broke at the time, and that was why they ran out.'"

As she picked up an order for one of her tables, she remarked, "why send boys to college to teach them to be thieves? You know, the United States has beautiful opportunities for boys." She concluded, "If they can't afford it they shouldn't come here and make others pay."

Accident Evades Police, Reporter

At 3:21 p.m. yesterday the blast of an accident bulletin came over the police radio. A Daily Orange reporter and photographer rushed to the scene at S. Crouse and Marshall Street.

At the corner was the usual police car. The reporter asked the policeman on the scene, "Where is the accident?" He replied, "I'm looking for it too!" So the photographer, camera in hand; the reporter, notebook clutched in her freezing fingers; and the stolid policeman, gun at hip, surveyed the area for an accident that it seems did not happen.

should take his life and use it as he saw fit.

The author of "I Was a Slave in Russia," will speak today at 4 p.m. in Maxwell Auditorium and on Thursday to the community of Syracuse in Lincoln Auditorium.

Students Register For Fraternity Rush

According to Interfraternity Council rushing rules, each session will be held for three hours. Rushes must spend at least one-half hour in each of three houses, and must visit at least three houses in each room announced IFC Rushing Chairman James Vallon.

The "Meet the Greeks" booklet must be stamped by each house visited during the informal rushing session. The booklets will be surrendered upon entering each house, stamped by the fraternity and then returned to each visatee at the end of the period.

Informal rushing will end on Sunday, Dec. 3 from 2-5 p.m., and Tuesday, Dec. 5 from 7-10 p.m. At these times rushes may visit any house for any length of time.

Formal rushing, consisting of three sessions, will be held from Dec. 8 to Dec. 10. On Dec. 8 sessions will be held from 5:30 to 7 p.m., 7:15 to 8:30 p.m., and 8:45 to 10 p.m. Rushing on Saturday, Dec. 9 will be held from 12:30 to 2 p.m., 2:15 to 3:30 p.m. and 3:45 to 5 p.m. The final session on Sunday, Dec. 10 will be 12:30 to 2 p.m., 2:15 to 3:30 p.m. and 3:45 to 5 p.m.

The first session each day will commence with a dinner, the IFC rushing committee announced.

Rushing rules will be enforced during formal and informal rushing by Vallon, the IFC executive council and judiciary board and house representatives.

Tests Planned By Peace Corps

Another round of Peace Corps Tests is set for today and Wednesday throughout the country. They will be given locally beginning at 8:30 a.m. both days in 860 Federal Building, with one hour out for lunch.

Two types of examinations are available. One is for those interested in consideration as secondary school or college teachers. To take the exam, a bachelor's degree is required but applicants need not be accredited teachers. The other examination is for those desiring to serve in all other capacities in the Peace Corps. Many of those taking the exams have sent in applications since the last round of testing.

Both men and women who have not as yet filled out a Peace Corps questionnaire will be admitted to the testing rooms on a "space available" basis.

Bridge Tournament

The SU Bridge Club will hold its first tournament 1:45 p.m., this Sunday. The club, which is now a university sponsored activity, will hold tournaments the same time every Sunday.

The entrance fee is 75 cents per person per session. The club is affiliated with the American Contract Bridge League, and fractional master points will be awarded at each article.

Semi-Finals Set In Step Singing

Sorority stepping singing competition resumes today with the semi-final rounds being held in both the small and large house divisions.

All houses must be seated in Henning Chapel by 5:45 or they will forfeit the eligibility. Stepping chairman Pamela Dillon announced yesterday.

Semifinalists in the large house division are Phi Beta Phi, Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta and Sigma Kappa. Singing in the small house group are Kappa Delta, Havan Ifall and Hughes Cottage.

Heisman Trophy To Davis

New Fraternity Discussion Slated For IFC Meeting

Rushing Procedure, Grad Questionnaire Placed on Agenda

The Inter-Fraternity Council, meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in room 207, Hall of Languages, will discuss the proposal for the creation of a new fraternity. Mac McDonald, representative speaker for the group, will place before the Council the plans and ideas for Phi Kappa Tau, the newly proposed Greek house.

The members of the IFC will be also asked to fill out a questionnaire distributed by a graduate student, covering material needed for his degree. The topic of the questionnaire will be announced at the meeting, said IFC President Richard Miller.

James Tallon, chairman of the Rushing committee, will present and clarify the rushing rules for the 1961 rush session. The session, starting last night, has drawn a record response from the freshman and upperclass transfer students.

The Judicial Board, recently made an active part of the Inter-Fraternity Council, is expected to give a report of material presented to the board.

The resolutions tabled at the last IFC meeting will be brought before the council for discussion and approval. Suggestions to meet in individual Greek houses, eliminating the problem of finding unoccupied space, will be discussed. The proposal presented the idea that IFC should meet in the surroundings of fraternity houses. Through this plan, brothers of various host houses could witness the IFC meeting.

The Council's opposition to university affiliation with the National Student Association will be debated at the meeting. Also Tau Omega's proposal of a Help Week trophy, given to the most outstanding pledge, will be discussed by the Council.

City Considers Snow Tire Law

With the first big snow of the season, Syracuse officials are reportedly considering making it mandatory for motor vehicles on the city's streets to be equipped with either chains or snow tires.

Mayor Anthony Iannigri's operations committee is reported to be studying the feasibility of legislation to this effect.

All that would be needed to make the ruling, Corporation Counsel George T. Driscoll said yesterday, would be for the head of the Bureau of Public Works and Lights to request it. The Common Council would then act.

Air Needs Cited For Shelters

By DANIEL RITZY

"More important than the concentration of oxygen in the air of a shelter, is the problem of the amount of carbon dioxide in the air." This was one of the main ideas brought forth in a lecture given jointly by Drs. Nelson Nemerow and Myrton Rand of the Hill Civil Engineering Department.

The lecture, given yesterday in Hinds Hall, is the sixth in a ten lecture series devoted to problems of survival in fallout shelters.

Dr. Rand spoke on the topic of air requirements and ventilation in fallout shelters.

Normally, he said, the oxygen content of the air is 20 percent. In extreme emergency, people could live in air that is 15 percent oxygen. However, they would become tired, irritable and depressed within a short time. Permanent damage to brain tissue could result from long exposure to such an atmosphere.

Therefore, Rand noted, the oxygen content would have to be over 15 percent—preferably 18 or 19 percent. This level would be good for long exposures as it would not lead to serious tissue damage.

Radioactivity would affect only surface water supplies of lakes and reservoirs—it would not affect ground water supplies because of their protection by the earth, stated Dr. Nemerow.

City water supplies, he went on, would be the most reliable because they would not depend on the success or personnel to operate. Rather, they would work on the gravity theory—water flowing down hill.

Furthermore, there would be a relatively unlimited supply, the water would be cleaner, it would taste the way most people expect it to taste—no chemicals—and it would be fairly inexpensive to provide. However, it might be exposed to radiation as it comes to the shelter, Nemerow added.

Concerning the problem of pure air, Rand noted that a person exhales as much carbon dioxide as he inhales oxygen. Too much carbon dioxide makes one breathe rapidly and harder, in addition to causing the same effects as a deficiency of oxygen does.

Rand pointed out that if there were two percent carbon dioxide in the air, the people would breathe at a rate of 150 percent of normal, three percent would double the breathing rate. Above three percent and the rate would be noticeable, and the air would be unfit.

It was noted that at a three percent level of carbon dioxide, people would panic in their fight for "pure" air.

A safe level of carbon dioxide which could be used for a long time is one and a half percent. People might feel sluggish and annoyed, Rand said, but they would suffer no permanent effects.

Rand said that the average volume of air in a shelter should be 200 cubic feet per hour per person. This would be a good level, but, he added, this figure could be lowered to 60 cubic feet in case of emergency. The 200 cubic feet per person estimate would assume a carbon dioxide level of six-tenths of one percent.

This level, Rand noted, is 20 times the normal level, but most people would not realize it.

It was pointed out by Nemerow that shelters should have an alternate source of water other than a city source. A person in a shelter, he added, would drink half a gallon a day as a minimum. If the water was to be stored

Hill Star Given Top Grid Honor

By KEN DARLING
Sports Editor

Syracuse halfback Ernie Davis received the greatest tribute of his fabulous collegiate football career Monday when he was named the winner of the Heisman Memorial Trophy for 1961.

Davis becomes the first Syracusean, and also the first Negro, to capture the award. The Heisman Trophy is given annually to the college athlete considered the number one football player in the United States.

FRATERNITY RUSHING SCHEDULE

All students registered for informal fraternity rushing are divided into three groups. Rushing group "X" includes those whose last names begin with letters A—G; group "Y" includes names which begin with letters H—Q; group "Z" includes names which begin with letters P—Z.

Group	Thursday November 30, 7-10 p.m.	Friday December 1, 7-10 p.m.	Saturday December 2, 2-5 p.m.	Sunday December 3, 2-5 p.m. and Tuesday, December 5, 7-10 p.m.
X	C	A	B	C
Y	A	B	C	A
Z	B	C	A	B

The last informal rushing sessions will be held Sunday, December 3, 2-5 p.m. and Tuesday, December 5, 7-10 p.m. Rushes may visit any house in any group for any length of time.

Concert Slated For Sunday

A Sidney Sukoenig Memorial Concert, sponsored by the Hill Foundation of Syracuse University and B'nai B'rith co-ordination council, will be held at 7 p.m. Sunday in Hendricks Chapel.

No admission will be charged for the concert.

The program of Jewish music will include School of Music faculty members Arthur Poister and John Oberbrunner, the Hill Choir and Cantor Harold Leiner of Temple Athah Yeshurun.

The concert is dedicated to Prof. Sidney Sukoenig of the School of Music who died Oct. 14. Sukoenig had achieved an international reputation as a musician and was director of the Hill Choir.

Seminar to Hear Supt. Miller

Dr. Paul A. Miller, Superintendent of Schools of the Syracuse Board of Education, will lecture at the Community Seminar on Health and Social Welfare, 4 p.m. Thursday at the School of Social Work.

He will discuss "Fiscal Independence for the Syracuse City Schools."

The community seminar is a research and study group consisting of faculty and key community leaders.

The "Elmira Express," an All-American last year and a cinch to repeat this season, won the Heisman award in voting by 840 sports writers and sportscasters throughout the country. The 6-2, 210-lb. halfback was named first on 179 ballots, second on 103, and third on 81 for a total of 824 points.

Ferguson Runner-Up Fullback Bob Ferguson of Ohio State, polling 717 points, was runner-up to the fleet Hill halfback. Texas star Jim Saxon was third with 551 points, quarterback Sandy Stephens of Minnesota took fourth with 513, and quarterback Pat Trammell of Alabama was fifth with 362.

The Heisman award, first given in 1935, is sponsored by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York City. Davis will receive the large, bronze trophy at a dinner at the club Thursday, Dec. 6.

When he was told of his selection for the honor, Davis' first comment was, "Don't ask me how I feel about the trophy at a dinner I don't know." Later he added, "It's certainly a day for me to remember."

Praise From Ben Earlier in the week Orange coach Ben Schwartzwalder had stated that he felt Davis should win the Heisman Trophy. "We don't think we're prejudiced when we say that Ernie is the best back in the country," said the Hill mentor, "and he gets better every week."

Schwartzwalder is not alone in his unqualified praise of the sensation. Last week Syracuse coach Joe Kuharich, who saw Davis outrush his Irish squad 95 yards to 81, calls him "an excellent college football player." Former Cornell coach the Lefty James feels Davis is "the best college football player in America."

Perhaps the highest praise Davis has received this year came from an opposing player. When Pitt lineman Gary Kattenbach was asked to name the toughest team the Panthers faced this season, he replied simply, "Ernie Davis."

Smashed Records During his three-year varsity career on the Hill, Davis smashed all of Jim Brown's rushing, scoring, and total offense records. This season he is among the nation's leaders in both scoring and rushing, while pacing the Piety squad in both categories.

This fall Davis, in ten games, has accumulated 823 yards with 150 carries, an average of 5.5 yards per attempt. He has scored 94 points on 15 touchdowns and four punts after touchdowns. He has also distinguished himself as a pass receiver, grabbing 16

Nation's Best

Ernie Davis reached heights Monday never before attained by a Syracusean when he was named the winner of the Heisman Trophy as the outstanding college football player in the country.

Probably more significant is the fact that Davis is the first Negro to win the award. Of the 26 previous winners an unusually large number were from southern schools. The most obvious explanation of this lies in the fact that many of the ballots for the award are cast by southern writers.

This year the barrier fell with a refreshing crash. Not only did Davis receive the award, but Bob Ferguson of Ohio State, another Negro, was the runner-up.

The significance of the award is multiplied by the interest shown in Davis by the Washington Redskins of the National Football League. Should he sign with the Redskins, Davis would be the first Negro to play with that team. We join sports fans around the nation in congratulating Ernie Davis on a job well done.

Cheated Waitress

In yesterday's Daily Orange there was a front page story discussing the plight of a downtown waitress who served some students from the Hill. The boys were identified as Syracuse students by their jackets. They left the waitress holding a check for $20. The waitress had to pay the bill herself. This meant that not only she, but her four children would have twenty dollars less that month for food and medical expenses. Perhaps the Orangemen who had just shared in their feast don't realize it but to a waitress supporting four children, $20 can often spell the difference between Thanksgiving turkey and hamburger. In addition, this complete lack of consideration on the part of some Syracuse students reflects upon the whole student body. It is an experience not entirely unknown to Marshall Street proprietors, and local bookstore owners who must contend daily with the problem of students who seem to think that everyone lives off a pay check from home.

SEND ME NO FLOWERS

The Decline And Fall

By ALAN MILLSTEIN

In two weeks the remarkable drive and praiseworthy spirit of the class of '65 will have been dismembered and permanently silenced. During the days to come about 850 freshmen men will be "rushed" into fraternities much like cattle being led to slaughter. The frosh will be wined and dined like a fat cat on the prowl for marketing and then like helpless, dumb beasts they will be divided up into 30 separate parts.

Today the class of '65 is still the same exciting group of enthusiastic men and women that routed the political parties to their foundations and put the Greeks and the dance in the spotlight. But once rushing is over, the once fiercely proud class will be a carcass picked clean of its muscle and sapped of vigor and strength.

It will take just two weeks for the Greek fraternities to sell themselves and then to divide up the class of '65 into thirty tiny character molds. What is today 1,100 thinking and creative individuals will in two weeks hence be reduced to 30 separated identical images. During the "pledging" period the frosh will be tossed into the Greek "melting pot" and they will emerge all looking and sounding like one person. They will be stripped bare of their pride and individualism, ready to carry on in the great Greek tradition.

The decline and fall of the freshman class seems all the more disheartening when one considers the constructive and exciting things they have accomplished so far. First, they organized their own political party and during the process both Greek-run established parties.

Under the banner of reform and independence, with support and encouragement from the DO editorial staff, and with some excellent leaders of its own, the class of '65 pulled off the first political upset in recent years and deflated the egos of some Greek political leaders as well.

Swelled with initial victory, the frosh then took on the ugly problem of fraternity discrimination. The class of '65 seemed somewhat less united on this issue, but perhaps this could be explained by the lack of factual material to back up accusations made by critics of fraternities.

Uninhibited by any restrictive traditions, the frosh petitioned the Greeks to make public their individual criteria used to select pledges and to publicize which houses had discriminatory clauses in their constitutions. But time was in the favor of the Greeks, and so their collective voice, Interfraternity Council, chose not to degrade the members by publishing the information asked. Story silence was the answer given by IFC.

Rushing wasn't very far off so the Greeks could afford to ignore the freshman demands. A "Go Greeks" publicity campaign that succeeded in adding one more button to the Syracuse heavy was carried out in the hope that the class of '65 would give a boycott rushing altogether.

Judging by the number of men who have registered to informal rush, it appears that the Greeks have won the game hands down. The frosh swallowed the bait and are eagerly waiting to be snapped up by the houses. All the houses have won. It is now time to sell their social life, food, and froshes-for-life like a life-time frozen food plan. With a market crowded with

"We decided to write some letters too..."

LETTERS

SU Negroes, Time Discussed

To the Editor:

In the first post-vacation edition Miss Jeannine Ranov reflected on the problem which is probably common to every American college student: time. I deem it unfortunate that Miss Ranov, like most of us, looks upon time "as it plunges and careens down the days."

I am forced to do so because time is more than anything the measure of a life; the sequence of that life's events; the prime and basic asset which allows for the investment and evaluation of the totality of that life. Despite these facts we are singularly guilty of failing to grasp their significance—that it is not some vague external concept that is slipping away from us, but rather that it is our life.

Further, this guilt signifies the naked fact of the increasing inability of young Americans to be the masters of their own being. Because each moment in time is nothing more than this or that instance in my life or yours, its fullness, richness and duration is no more than what each of us makes it, and, further, the future at any given point will be only the sum of the successive combination of these minutes and what was made of them.

Our persistent efforts to ascribe our failure to cope with life to a non-existent invention, i.e. time as something in itself, is no more than a furthering of this inconsistency in our view of life.

It is my conviction that we may enjoy each second and minute as Lucy the peanut does, if and only if, we wake up to the fact that the future and the pressures it brings to bear will become and be resolved only through measuring fully those precious seconds and minutes.

This will come about only through the efforts and discipline of the individual as he partakes in each minute. The plunging and careening is only due to our failure to be conscious of the stark significance of those moments.

There is no matter of a moral imperative, stringent ethic, or the like, simply the isolated personal value the individual attaches to his seconds. Therefore the quality or our lives is determined by personal self-consciousness, examination, and its depth and quality.

Robert A. Cornelius, '63

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to the utterly unfounded and ridiculous statements made by George E. Bunch in the Nov. 20 edition of the Daily Orange.

Mr. Bunch, obviously you are not a Negro. Let me ask you this: How many Negro students do you know personally? Can you honestly say what you have said from actual face-to-face association with Negroes? And I don't mean the frosh and the sophomores, but those upper-classmen who have been at SU for a number of years and have seen developments in their time spent here.

In line with this personal contact with Negro students, Mr. Bunch will probably find that not all Negro students actually want to join Greek houses; or want to be represented by Dr. Wiley. This could be called apathy, but the reasons have not been aired.

Among other factors, time and money are hindrances to rushing for many people. And not everyone knows Dr. Wiley. But before you say that Negro students should assert their rights under a leader for other Negroes in the future, weigh these factors along with the impressions you gather of the personality of the various Negroes on campus.

Upon further investigation, I'm sure you'll find that the Negro students on this campus are very keenly aware of their rights as citizens of the USA and of ways to seek these rights, collectively, and as individuals. This concerns not only the Greek system, but other everyday situations as confront them.

Theoretically, morally, and logically, the concepts of freedom and justice as espoused by the USA as national doctrine, are not to be denied as being ones that all peoples and nations should follow, from the governmental level to the masses.

But circumstances dictate otherwise, as is shown all over our own country. The Negro students on campus are aware of the national, and international, aspects of the apparent hypocrisy demonstrated by the people of this country. They are right in the middle of it all, and should be consulted before being criticized by someone who obviously has had little or no contact with Negroes.

The Daquiris: Successful Exponents of Hill Twisting

By ROBERT LA GUARDIA

Say "Daquiris" to anyone these days and chances are he won't be thinking of cocktails but a four-man band sensation hitting every corner of the Hill with their specialty, the twist.

Less than six months ago even twisting cuts of high rock were and the dance which has become a Syracuse institution. Now, thanks to these four students known as the "daquiris" Syracuse is going wild in a big way over the Saint-Vitus-like hip dance.

The group, in demand every weekend to play at fraternities and booked at the moment at Cornell, Dartmouth, and S.U., got together only last summer in Syracuse.

Practicing every night for two months at a run-down apartment on E. Genesee last July, the four, Mike Esposito on lead guitar, Marty Killern on rhythm guitar, Harold Cooper on drums, and Mal Potter on bass guitar, finally landed an engagement at Fayetteville in August, where they are now playing every Friday.

The "Daquiris," chief exponent of rock and roll and leader on campus, rose from obscurity to national status in a matter of months. Mike, a student at West Point, N.Y., is a singer and the leader of the group, but never played guitar until he was a freshman in the United States Military Academy. Here, after picking up some guitar technique, he and Harold Cooper formed a small Latin band.

Neither Marty nor Mal played guitar seriously until last year. Marty, a junior from Bronx, N. Y., picked up a few pointers from Mike when the two shared the same room in their fraternity house. Mal, a sophomore from East Syracuse, also took lessons from Mike, who led on to him his knowledge of bass guitar. They perfected their technique by practicing songs of the radio and their own compositions.

A junior from Summit, N.J., Coop has the most musical experience of the four. Besides his usual position on the drums, Coop also sings and acts as the "Daquiris" agent.

Even though in real life the set of four has different personalities and interests, musically they became one in their mythical faces.

"Rock and roll is purely individual in concept," Mike said, to those who belittle the idiom for its un-imaginativeness. "I found that I could create a kind of music with a universal appeal, without using traditional forms."

Mike, a fine arts student, was sitting opposite a bedroom wall draped from ceiling to floor with his advertising layouts, some proffering Johnny Walker, others singing the praises of American Airlines.

Marty looked up from his typewriter, on which he was busily preparing a report.

"But don't get the idea," he said, "that rock and roll and the 'blues' is simple-minded stuff. The way I see it, its harmonies and rhythms are used to satisfy basic technical requirements, just as those of good jazz." Marty, a student of industrial design, spoke in a decided manner.

He went on, "Of course, most of rock and roll is pretty lousy because too many ideas are overdone. But we try for a fresh approach to old standards, when we use them. Anything we do reflects our own feelings in the way we think each piece out."

"Why do we use electric instruments?" said Mike. "Well, the effects that can be created are unlimited. These effects are new and novel, therefore they have great appeal. But basically it's the rhythm itself which attracts so many people. It's so basic everyone can feel it."

Soprano Pinnell To Give Concert At Crouse Sunday

Ruth Pinnell, soprano, and Veronica Itohian Sage, accompanist will present a recital at 4 p.m., Sunday in Crouse College Auditorium.

The concert will feature the first performance of three songs by Robert E. Hess, a 1950 graduate of the Syracuse University School of Music.

The program will open with two songs by Monteverdi followed by the Dove song from Mozart's Marriage of Figaro. The second group will be comprised of lied by Schubert, Wolf and Strauss.

Following intermission, Miss Pinnell will sing the Three Poems of Emily Dickinson as set by Robert Hess. The poems are entitled Nobody Knows This Little Rose, What is Paradise? and "Twas Just This Time Last Year, I Died."

La Bonne Cuisine by Leonard Bernstein, which will follow, are recipes set to music.

A group of three songs by Chausson will precede the final aria on the program, Il est doux, il est bon from Massenet's Hero-diade.

View From Archbold

By MILT JOFFE

THE MANY SYRACUSE FANS who made the holiday trip to Boston last week must have noticed an interesting fact in the sports pages of the Boston newspapers. Although we die-hards felt we were coming in with the top team in the East and, therefore, would provide the Bostonians with the top game in the area, we were met with a rude awakening.

For the Boston sheets were full of banner headlines of that tradition of traditions, the Harvard-Yale classic. It took close scrutiny of the sports pages to find the minute previews of the Syracuse-Boston College game, the only college football game within 150 miles.

We were confronted with the fact that tradition still rides high in the staid New England area, and neither Ben Schwartzwalder nor Ernie Davis nor the American Broadcasting Company could change the ways of the readers or the writers of the Boston papers.

In all but one paper, the Syracuse game didn't even rate a separate story. It was included somewhere in the midst of the nostalgic memories of the Crimson and the Elis.

The games were played and the results came in. Boston College almost pulled a major upset while in New Haven, the Crimson terrors of Harvard ripped the Bulldogs of Yale, 27-0. Sunday the same Boston papers came out again, only this time a little thicker with advertisements and inserts.

The front pages heralded the news and the sports pages reiterated it. The banners still waved: Harvard Topples Yale, etc. While Boston College and Jack Concannon caused mild excitement in Alumni Field, the papers still soft-pedaled the ball game. This may have been fortunate for its readers.

With not much choice, we read the accounts of the mighty clash of the Ivies. And, frankly, we were shocked. There on page 52 of one of the Boston sports pages, was a picture of a couple of nasty Harvardians slapping a naughty Yale man.

What is this coming to when these fine gentlemen must resort to the ruffian tactics of the professionals? The Harvard-Yale rivalry is the oldest of all football traditions and as the Boston papers showed, it is the most important event of the fall season in New England.

We can't see how this kind of rowdiness can continue unbridled. Perhaps the Crimson and the Bulldogs are going to resort to the football maxim so well exemplified by the Fighting Irish: "What though the odds be heavy or small, Old Notre Dame will win over all."

That, oddly, enough, leads us into another area of conflict, the smoldering controversy that remains in the wake of the Syracuse-Notre Dame battle.

Rumors flew around all last week, but now it seems that the last thing the Irish will do is give up the ball game. Monday the NCAA definitely stated that the field goal kicked by Joe Perkowski was illegal, but there is nothing the NCAA can do about it.

The matter is squarely in the laps of Notre Dame and they have stated they will not give up the game. For a while it appeared they were resorting to breaking off relations with Syracuse, but that threat has passed.

To us it doesn't seem possible they could accept a victory as tainted as their 17-15 victory over Syracuse. It has been said by the highest possible authority of football that the ruling of the official was wrong and that Notre Dame should not have won.

It now is a matter of honor. The Fighting Irish are synonymous with the tradition of winning football games. We can't help but wonder how this incident will be received by the press. It would seem Notre Dame should be censured for its refusal to abide by an official ruling by the NCAA, but things don't always happen normally in the world of sport.

One thing is certain, the conduct of the Syracuse Athletic Department during this whole affair is to be applauded. Not once has Syracuse taken the cry-baby attitude in this affair. A Baltimore sports writer started the discussion and the Syracuse officials remained passive in the controversy. The Sunday after the game, a Chicago writer suggested that Ben Schwartzwalder's conduct in the whole matter should win him the Sportsman of the Year award.

It is now obvious that the split-second action of an official kept Syracuse from the Lambert Trophy and most likely cost us an Orange Bowl bid. There doesn't seem to be much more that can be said about the matter. Even if Syracuse is given the win, the damage of the "loss" this season cannot be changed by a notation in the record book.

Cross-Country Star Francello Ends Career; 37th in Nationals

Joe Francello, Syracuse University cross-country squad captain, finished his college career Monday, placing 37th in a field of 134 runners in the four-mile NCAA cross-country championships at Michigan State University.

"Francello ran a good race," SU harrier mentor Bob Grieve said. "He was beaten by only three of the boys that he faced in the IC's, but all of the Eastern runners seemed to have their troubles in the nationals, because the course is a mile shorter than those found in Eastern competition."

Grieve also indicated that Francello and the other Eastern runners finished so low in the standings because "a lot was taken out of them last week in the mud and slush at the IC's." The lanky senior, in his college career, entered 11 dual meets and captured 9 firsts. He lost his last two meets of the year, the first to ICA champion Steve Machooka of Cornell and the latter to Pete Zouback of Villanova.

Machooka, a pre-meet favorite in the nationals, did not run because "of class requirements at Cornell." The race was won by sophomore Bale Story of Oregon State in a time of 19:46.6. Oregon State took the team title with 69 points.

NCAA Tells Irish Field Goal Illegal

Notre Dame has been officially notified by the chairman of the NCAA rules committee that its winning field goal against Syracuse on Nov. 18 came on an illegal play.

General Robert Neyland, University of Tennessee director of athletics and NCAA rules chairman, said Monday that Notre Dame officials have been advised by his committee that Joe Perkowski's field goal after time had expired should not have been allowed.

But Neyland added that he knows of no machinery to reverse the decision which gave the Irish the 17-15 victory. He stated that "It is now a purely institutional matter."

Neyland said that both Syracuse and Notre Dame have been notified by his committee that "there is no authority, no redress, once a game ends." He said that the score cannot be changed unless Notre Dame wants to acknowledge that the game should be in Syracuse's win column.

Notre Dame officials had said that the Irish would concede if the NCAA rulemakers told them that the second attempt at a field goal was allowed under a misinterpretation of the rules. However, now the Irish officials claim that any moves they might make will be taken with "great caution."

Syracuse has claimed that the field goal which defeated them should never have been allowed because it came on an extra play after the game was over.

Several of the officials of the Nov. 18 game had admitted that a rule misinterpretation allowed Notre Dame to have a second chance at kicking a field goal, after the first try had fallen short.

On the last official play of the contest, Joe Perkowski missed a field goal from the Notre Dame 55-yard line. However, Syracuse was penalized for roughing the holder, and the Irish got another chance.

An investigation of the NCAA rules after the game revealed that after the first field goal try, the ball was no longer in possession of Notre Dame. The correct ruling, if any time had remained, should have been that Syracuse would have the ball with a 15-yard penalty. Since time had run out during the play, the game was legally over.

Ohio State Tops UPI Ratings; AP Lists Crimson Tide No. 1

The United Press International coaches rating board, in their next-to-the-last poll, have listed once-titled Ohio St. as the number one team in the country over undefeated Alabama. The Associated Press balloting again listed Sugar Bowl-bound Alabama as tops in the nation.

Syracuse, which finished its season with a 7-3 record, are tied with Duke and Miami (Fla) for 16th in the UPI and stands 23rd in the AP poll. The Orangemen face the same Miami Hurricanes in the Liberty Bowl.

The Orangemen, who for much of the season have led in the voting for the Lambert Trophy, are second to Penn State. The Nittany Lions are rated 15th in the UPI and 11th in the AP.

Following Alabama and Ohio State on the major polls are: Louisiana State, Texas, Mississippi and Colorado, all once-defeated teams. Minnesota, who is upset by Wisconsin this weekend, fell to seventh. Michigan State and Arkansas, who like Minnesota are twice-defeated, are ranked eighth and ninth respectively.

The UPI rounds out their top ten with the Boiler Makers of Purdue while the AP completes their select group with Missouri is listed 17th by the UPI. Rutgers, who completed its first undefeated season, are ranked 12th by the AP and 24th by the UPI.

IT'S LATER THAN YOU THINK!

All year long you've been promising yourself to go there. Now the semester is nearly over and you still haven't set foot in the place. Slame on you!

But it's not too late. Right now, this very minute, before you weaken, lift up your head and forward march to the place you have been avoiding ever since school began. I refer, of course, to the library.

Now here you are at the library. That wasn't so bad, was it? Of course not! Go inside. What do you see? A sign that says "NO SMOKING." Go outside. Light a Marlboro. Smoke. Go back inside.

Because now you are ready. Now your trembling resolution is rigid. Now your pulsing psyche is serene. You have been calmed by mild Marlboro. You have been soothed by that fine secreteate filter, by that fine full flavor that dots and pampers and caresses, that lifts the fallen, repairs the shattered, straightens the bent, unravels the knotted, rights the askew, and fastens the unbuttoned.

In the center of the library you see the main circulation desk. Look in the card catalogue for the number of the book you want, write the number on a slip, and hand it to the efficient and obliging young lady at the desk. The efficient and obliging young lady then gives the slip to an efficient and obliging young boy who trots briskly back into the stacks, curls up on a limp leather encyclopedia, and sleeps for an hour or two. Then, puffy but refreshed, he returns your slip to the efficient and obliging young lady at the desk, who tells you one of three things: a) "Your book is out." b) "Your book is at the bindery." c) "Your book is on reserve."

Having learned that the circulation desk hasn't the least intention of ever parting with a book, let us now go into the periodical room. Here we spend hours sifting through an imposing array of magazines—magazines from all the fur corners of the earth, magazines of every nature and description—but though we search diligently and well, we cannot find Mad or Playboy.

Grid Season Ends Saturday As Bowl Lineups Take Shape

With only a limited schedule of football games on tap for this weekend, the post-season bowl picture is nearly complete.

The Rose Bowl will match West Coast champs UCLA (7-3) against Big Ten winners Ohio State (8-0-1). The Cotton Bowl pits Mississippi (8-1) against Texas (9-1). Mississippi plays Mississippi State this Saturday.

In the Orange Bowl Colorado (8-1) plays Louisiana State (9-1). Alabama (9-0) plays Arkansas (8-2) in the Sugar Bowl. Alabama tries for an undefeated season against Auburn Saturday.

The Gator Bowl will feature Penn State (7-3) against Georgia Tech (6-3) in a game to play. The Bluebonnet Bowl will have Kansas (6-3-1) against Rice, which must beat Baylor to get the bid.

Next let us venture into the reference room. Here in this hushed, vaulted chamber, we find the true scholars of the university—earnest, dedicated young men and women who care for only one thing in the world: the pursuit of knowledge.

Let us eavesdrop for a moment on this erudite couple poring over heavy tomes at the corner table. Husk! She speaks:

- SHE: Whatcha readin', hey?
- HE: The Origin of Species. You ever read it?
- SHE: No, but I seen the movie.
- HE: Oh.
- SHE: You like readin'?
- HE: Naah.
- SHE: What do you like?
- HE: Hockey, ice-ice, girls, stuff like that.
- SHE: Me too, hey.

- SHE: Well, sort of. I'm wearin a fellow's motorcycle emblem . . . But it's only platonic.
- HE: Wanna go out for a smoke?
- SHE: Marlboro?
- HE: What else?

And as our learned friends take their leave, let us too wend our way home—ward—a trifle weary, perhaps, but enlightened and renewed and better citizens for having spent these happy hours in the library, Aloha, library, Aloha!

Winter Fun

ENJOYING THE RECENT snowy weather is SANDI EHRLICH, a freshman enrolled in the college of Liberal Arts.

Air Needs Cited For Shelters

In the shelter, it would have to be used sparingly. If, though, it was fished in from an outside source, it could be used liberally, thus boosting the health and morale of the people in the shelter.

Nemerow advised that the soil would be contaminated immediately after a blast. Rain falling on the soil, would carry these radioactive particles to streams. Most of these particles would be suspensions in the water.

Some of these particles would be removed from the streams by plants, animals and the process of sedimentation. A good filtering system would remove most of these particles before they would enter a shelter's supply.

Some radioactive particles, noted Nemerow, would totally dissolve in the stream water. These particles—which would be in the minority—would have to be removed by a distillation process.

Dr. Rand remarked that it would be wise to have more than the minimum supply of air available because the comfort of the people has to be considered, and bad air would tend to make people leave the shelter too early.

Temperature would be another important factor, Rand noted. In a mass shelter the temperature would rise due to the body heat of the people. Air would be needed to keep it down, however air conditioning would be economically unsound as well as the fact that power would be needed to run it.

Air could be provided to the shelter in three ways, Rand said. One method would be a shelter large enough to provide the people with enough air. It would need openings for circulation, however.

For small shelters, there could be a system of oxygen tanks that could supply oxygen to the air as it would be needed. These ideas could be combined; first seal the shelter—use the oxygen tanks—then, after a few days, use air from the outside. Good filters could remove most of the impurities, he added.

Nemerow concluded his discussion by listing some methods whereby waste could be removed from the shelter. Chemical toilets could be used, but they produce odors, are costly and do not solve the problem of final disposal of wastes.

Aluminum supports and plastic bags are another solution, but they are costly and also do not solve the problem of final disposal.

The best way, Nemerow said, would be the use of a water carriage system, like most houses have. The waste could be sent to a municipal sewer, the results would be good for morale, it would be cheap, and it would be sufficient for larger shelters.

Writers Group Elects Officers

Luckson (Lucky) Efofodami, president of the Fellowship of Religious Writers, announced the election of officers for the Fellowship.

The new officers are Allen Lovekin, vice-president; Shirley Funnell, secretary-treasurer; Daniel Hess, program chairman; Roberta Moore, hospitality chairman; and David Hostetler, publicity chairman.

Members of the fellowship interviewed Prof. Robert Laubach for a writing contest sponsored by "Christian Digest." A prize will be awarded to the best biography of Laubach's life and work.

JSG Activity Training Program Ends Tonight

The last meeting of the JSG Activity Training program will be held tonight at 7 p.m. in the New Crouse Auditorium. The topic of tonight's meeting is "leadership," which will be conducted by Sam Farr.

Following this the presidents of the various activities on campus will be introduced.

Those attending the meeting will be divided into smaller groups to discuss campus problems, for example food service, communication, university social policy, etc. The discussion will be led by student leaders and faculty members.

The examination for the completion of the course will be given Thursday, Dec. 7 from 3 to 8 in the New Crouse Auditorium. If the student prefers to do a project it will be due on the same day. Rank in the course will be decided by attendance, participation and the project or the examination.

The information discussed in the second lecture on government structures has been mimeographed and will be available at the meeting tonight.

Essay Contest Deadline Set

Dr. Bengt Leopold, director, Empire State Research Institute; John A. Wineslow, instructor, and Alan G. Winslow, assistant professor and Dong Baek Yook, visiting research professor.

Also Dr. Maurice M. Alexander, associate professor of forest zoology has been granted a six-month leave for next semester.

Assailant Grabs Second Woman

City Police Chief Harold F. Kelly warned women living in the university area to "be doubly careful" when walking at night.

Mrs. Judith Nankin, 27 of 305 Marshall Street, was grabbed from behind by a man in front of her home Monday night. Mrs. Nankin is the second woman in two days to be attacked near the university.

According to police, the man seized Mrs. Nankin and said, "Don't talk." She turned around and screamed. Her assailant slapped her, then turned and fled.

The assailant is described as wearing a goatee or moustache.

Chief Kelly is assigning a man to work with the Security Force in clearing up this case. He believes that Mrs. Nankin's attacker is the same person who assaulted sophomore Susan Mead Sunday night near the WAER prefab. A knife or ice pick was held Miss Mead's throat until an unidentified male student frightened the man away.

Chief Kelly warned all women to walk in lighted areas and not to carry pocketbooks. Mr. Flaherty, director of the Security Police, asked the Dean of Women to urge coeds not to walk alone on campus.

Physics Talk Set Thursday

Dr. Edward D. Palik, US Naval Research Laboratories, will be the guest speaker at the Physics Colloquium at 4 p.m. on Thursday, November 30 at 106 Steele Hall.

The topic for the discussion by Dr. Palik will be "Infrared Magneto-Optic Studies of Free Carriers in Semi-Conductors." The physics department will hold a tea at 3:30 p.m. in 106 Steele Hall prior to the talk.

CHANCELLOR WILLIAM P. TOLLEY receives season's subscription to "Syracuse 10."

Chancellor Cites Facts Behind Enrollment, Frosh, Building

Enrollment at Syracuse has continued to climb with the largest increase occurring in the undergraduate population on the main campus.

Chancellor William P. Tolley reported to the Fall meeting of the Board of Trustees at the Hotel Syracuse there was an increase in undergraduate enrollment and slight decrease in graduate enrollment as compared with a year ago.

Dr. Tolley told the board there were 8,202 on-campus undergraduates, an increase of 237 for the same period a year ago. Graduate enrollment, which includes students working for advance degrees in off-campus residence centers in Rome, Albany, Poughkeepsie and Endicott, was 4,903, a drop of 125 as compared to the fall of 1960.

Increase of 112
The combined on-campus undergraduate and the total graduate enrollment brings the figure to 13,105, for a total increase of 112.

He also noted a five per cent increase in the College of Liberal Arts enrollment, which has climbed from 3,848 in 1960 to 4,077 this year.

In further elaboration of the figures, the Chancellor reported the men students outnumber the women students. The breakdown of the total enrollment showed 62 percent are men and 38 percent women. The undergraduate breakdown showed 54.3 per cent men and 45.7 women.

The Board heard the Chancellor say that the University had set a target of 2,300 freshmen admissions for the Fall of 1962.

Most Applications
During the past year, there were 8,234 applications for admission to the present Freshmen class. This is the largest number of applications since 1948, with the veterans influx.

While continuing to report on the Freshman class, Dr. Tolley said this year's freshman class had scored better than any previous class in the College Entrance Examination Board tests and that 58.7 per cent of freshmen were in the top quarter of their high school classes as compared with 53.6 per cent last year.

In the freshman class at SU, there are 570 Regents Scholars, a third of which are New York State residents the Chancellor said.

As Governor Rockefeller's tuition supplement program goes into effect for the second semester, the Chancellor estimated 5,000 SU students would receive $100 this year and $200 next year.

$1,200,000 In Scholarships
The Board heard Dr. Tolley report that $1,200,000 is being used for University scholarship funds. Out of this, $825,000 is appropriated from current University monies and the remainder came from endowments and contributed scholarships.

Dr. Tolley also reported an increase in the total number of foreign students. Last year, 507 international students from 75 countries attended the University, compared to 542 international students from 72 countries this year.

Concerning the Library, Chancellor Tolley told the Board the University objective was one million volumes by 1970 and that total library appropriations for 1961-62 are $765,750. This he compared to total library appropriations of $307,315 in 1956-57. Operating on the current budget, the Chancellor said, the library was acquiring 30 to 35 thousand volumes a year.

It was also reported that another new resort in the University's giving program had been achieved. During the fiscal year 1960-61, $1,017,784-17 was given. About one third came from Alumni.

$15 Million for Building
In reference to the University building program, the Chancellor said that Syracuse was engaged in loan negotiations, architects drawings, construction for final landscaping of facilities costing over $15 million.

He noted that another $325,000 was still needed for the Manley Fieldhouse. This money would be used for equipment, landscaping, parking and playing fields the Chancellor said and told the Board help from Alumni and Friends would be welcome to complete the project.

Hill Star Given Top Grid Honor

 aerials for 151 yards on a pair of touchdowns.

And Frnie's usefulness does not end with offense. He is one of the club's top blocking backs, and is also capable of handling himself well on defense. He came up with one of the big defensive plays of the year against Boston College, intercepting a pass and running it back 61 yards for the touchdown that broke the Eagles' back.

Top Draft Choice

Davis is generally regarded as college football's most sought-after player by both professional leagues. The New York Mets of the American Football League are interested in the powerful speedster, and at least six National Football League teams have expressed interest in the Orange star.

In the NFL, the last-place Washington Redskins will have the first chance to land Davis in Monday's draft meeting. However, five other teams have approached the Redskins about trading their draft rights to Davis, possibly for an established pro star.

The five teams reportedly interested in securing the services of the Syracuse halfback are Pittsburgh, New York, Detroit, Cleveland, and Los Angeles.

Receiving honors for his athletic achievements is nothing new to Davis. In addition to being an All-American last year, he was a Scholastic All-American during his high school days at Elmira Free Academy in both football and basketball.

By winning the Heisman Trophy, Davis finds himself in exclusive gridiron company. Former winners include Notre Dame's Paul Hornung, now a pro star, and Navy's famed Joe Bellino.

Book Describes Forestry History

"Forestry College," a recently-published 360 page history of the State University College of Forestry, is being widely acclaimed by professors and technical publications and the trade press. The book is published by the Forestry College Alumni Association to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the college's founding.

A limited number of copies of the book are still available.

IFC Notes Large Rush

By ADAIR DUFINE

"We're in good shape," said James Tallon, IFC rushing chairman, at the Inter-Fraternity Council meeting last night. Tallon referred to the 850 freshmen and upper-class transfer students who have signed up for the 1961 fraternity rush sessions, which began Tuesday night.

Rushing rules will be strictly enforced by the rushing committee and all offences will be prosecuted, stated Tallon. The committee made clear to members of IFC that houses are off-limits for rushees and Greeks are not allowed in any freshman dormitory.

Operating under the "strict silence period," no communication between rushees and fraternity men will be permitted. This "silence" includes phone calls, written invitations, or any personal contact dealing with the Greeks, said Tallon. The "First Party," planned for Doolittle Hall this Friday night, is off-limits for fraternity men.

A proposal for the re-establishment of Phi Kappa Tau was suggested by Mac McDermott, a graduate student. McDermott reviewed the procedure for re-establishment on the Hill, starting with a petition to the dean of students office.

This petition has been written and will be presented on December 13 to a committee, consisting of Dean Earle W. Clifford, an Alumni IFC representative, and IFC President Richard Miller. McDermott expressed the desire of Phi Kappa Tau to have a rushing period after the Christmas vacation, if the petition is approved.

Dr. I. Sclar, resident doctor of psychiatry at the County Mental Health Clinic, presented a questionnaire to the Council and Guest House Advisors on mental health. The purpose of the questionnaire was to plan facilities and research programs for a clinic, said Dr. Sclar.

This test was given to freshmen and seniors at the Hill. IFC members are to administer these

Frosh Applaud Greeks In First Rush Session

The Greek system on the Hill was acclaimed an asset to the college by various freshmen during the year's first rush session Tuesday night.

In a small Daily Orange sampling of student opinion, many houses were commended for their open attitudes toward questions posed by visiting freshman. "The fraternity men gave us the information and left the decision up to us," said one freshman.

"The students noted a warm and friendly atmosphere when greeted by members of various fraternities. Many rushees stated houses where they had quite comfortable in contrast to living in a dormitory. Brothers presented the Greeks at their best said various students, but the rushees felt that the first impressions made at the session were vital to their decisions on the system.

"The recent articles covered in the Daily Orange made us look at the Greeks objectively," stated a rushee. Only by comparing values of those houses which differ tests to senior members of individual houses, he stated. Sclar urged any members interested in psychology to visit the clinic and discuss this field with him.

The resolution to hold IFC meetings at individual Greek houses was passed by the council. (Continued on Page 8)

FRATERNITY RUSHING SCHEDULE

All students registered for informal fraternity rushing are divided into three groups. Rushing group "X" includes those whose last names begin with letters A—G; group "Y" includes names which begin with letters H—O; group "Z" includes names which begin with letters P—Z.

X		C
Y		A
Z		B
Group	Saturday December 2, 2-5 p.m.	Houses
X		B

Z		A

The last informal rushing sessions will be held Sunday, December 3, 2-5 p.m. and Tuesday, December 5, 7-10 p.m. Rushees may visit any house in any group for any length of time.

Phi Ep Omitted

Due to a typographical oversight, the name of Phi Epsilon Pi was inadvertently left out of the fraternity rushing schedule. Phi Ep is in the "A" group.

in religious affiliation can a student get a vivid picture of the Greek system, said another student.

The Greeks were selling the system, rather than individual houses, said many rushees, who found an open interest and attitude by all members of the system toward other Greeks on campus.

"A fraternity's goal is to develop leadership quality and personal traits," said IFC President Richard Miller. The rushees said they felt this general goal to be evident in every house they visited. The majority of freshmen polled stated they had underestimated the Greeks.

A broad-minded attitude seemed to have been adopted by the freshmen. "Each house has something to offer the prospective member. The main goal of students at this point should be to get to know the brothers, house pledges, before forming an opinion of the Greeks," stated one rushee.

Food Service Hearings Set

By JOYCE HERGENHAN
Junior Editor

"If student support warrants action in the area of food service, we guarantee it will be taken," said Ted Bayer, chairman of the Joint Student Legislature Committee investigating alleged food service abuses Wednesday night.

Bayer's committee hopes to find this student support at two hearings scheduled next Monday and Tuesday. All living center food service representatives and any students with specific complaints are requested to attend either of the hearings slated from 3 to 5 p.m. in a place to be announced.

Conference Set On Social Work

The School of Social Work will sponsor an institute on program media in social work with groups on Friday and Saturday at Sixty-Port Lodge.

The institute is open to staff members of social agencies and students of the School of Social Work.

It will be conducted by Miss Mary Lee Nicholson, associate professor of social work at Wayne State University, Detroit, Mich. Featured will be presentations on the values of program media, how they achieve social work goals and how programs with different objectives may be created for various age groups in various

Cohen Discusses Counseling Aspects

"The field of rehabilitation counseling is a tremendously growing one. There is always a great need—both in State Agencies and hospital—for rehabilitation counselors."

Dr. Julius Cohen, assistant professor of rehabilitation in the Special Education Building, offered these views as part of an interview yesterday.

"The most important point is the fact that we need more recruits for our program," he went on. "Last year was our first year at SU; we had no publicity and we had to devote a lot of time to planning."

Dr. Cohen went on to add that there are 13 traineeships available but that there were only four openings left for interested students in February.

"The rehabilitation counselor works with handicapped people—regardless of handicap—t provide them with vocational counseling," Cohen noted. He added that the counselor tries to "match a handicapped individual with a job that would be good for him."

"The counselor also tries to make the person stop feeling sorry for himself, and help him get a job. 'The program helps the person to evaluate himself,'" said Dr. Cohen.

The program—which pays enough to cover tuition costs plus a stipend—is open to those with used in achieving social work objectives.

Prof. Nicholson has been active in social work since 1935. She has acted as social counselor in summer camps as a consultant to social work agencies and as a teacher with emotionally disturbed children.

Medical Worker

She has served as a medical social worker for the Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit, and as a social group worker for the Child Guidance Clinic, Portland, Ore. She was awarded a BS degree in education from the University of Pittsburgh in 1936 and an MS from the university's School of Social Work in 1944.

This is the first institute on program media in social work to be held at Syracuse University.

masters in psychology, education or any of the humanities. The rehabilitation program is a two year course, Cohen added.

This program is one of 35 throughout the country. Anyone who desires further information, contact Dr. Cohen in the special Ed. Building.

Debate Forum Meets Saturday

The SU Debate Club will hold the Fifth Annual Central New York Debate-Discussion Panel Forum Saturday, Dec. 2. William C. Sittig, president of the Debate Club, announced that the purpose of the meeting is to better acquaint collegiate debaters with various aspects of the National Debate Topic and to improve their skills in two rounds of debate.

The panel will consist of Robert F. Koretz, professor of law at the Syracuse University Law School; Albert E. Sherman, vice president of the Carrier Corporation; and Theodore J. St. Antoine, assistant to the General Counsel of the AFL-CIO.

These men will speak on one or more aspects of the national debate topic, Resolved: That Labor Organizations Should Be Under The Jurisdiction Of Anti-Trust Legislation.

The purpose of the hearings, according to Bayer, "is to get student opinion regarding food service and to gather specific complaints to submit to the administration."

Submit to Wingate

All these statements will be compiled and submitted to University Vice President and Treasurer Francis A. Wingate who, continued Bayer, "said he is willing to make any corrections found necessary in food service."

Bayer continually emphasized that this report will be effective only if enough student support and interest are behind it.

"Students have to prove that the alleged abuses are not isolated instances, but definite recurrent problems, if they want the administration to take action," Bayer explained.

Written Reports

"We therefore want all food service representatives to compile written reports, containing complaints and suggestions from students in their living centers and program media in social work brought to the hearings," he said.

All individual students attending the hearings are requested to submit a written complaint along with their oral testimony, continued Bayer.

A report of this testimony will be submitted to the next JSL meeting Dec. 13. If approved, it will be forwarded to Vice President Wingate along with a one-month deadline for action. Individual students' names will not be included in the report.

Bayer Confident

Bayer is confident the administration will take appropriate corrective action regarding the report, but if such action is not forthcoming, "JSL will not let it stop there," he said. "We will pursue any further courses of action that the situation warrants."

Next week's hearings will be informally conducted with students free to attend any time between 3 and 5 p.m. They will be closed to faculty and administration members.

BULLETIN

A request came from University Security Police last night that the male who frightened a woman molester on campus Sunday night get in touch with them.

Security Police Director, Robert Flaherty, asked that the unidentified male get in touch with him and supply details needed to describe the attacker of coed Susanna Eyster.

Miss Mrend's anonymous helper was described as a tall man in a white jacket. He is believed to be a student.

Flaherty said the student's identity would remain anonymous.

Football Roundup

The honor bestowed upon Ernie Davis yesterday comes at an apt time for Syracuse. It further raises the stature of the Orange in comparison with the petty reluctance of Notre Dame to admit defeat.

What can their defense be? They have been officially notified by the chairman of the NCAA rules committee that their winning field goal on the night November 18 day came on an illegal play.

General Robert Neyland, University of Tennessee director of athletics and NCAA rules chairman, said earlier that Notre Dame officials had been advised by his committee that Joe Perkowski's field goal, kicked after time had expired, should not have been allowed.

It was he said, "a purely institutional matter." Only Notre Dame then can right the wrong committed at the South Bend game.

We feel certain that the Orangemen will further substantiate their record this year at the —

Liberty Bowl Game

—where they will face the University of Miami. Perhaps the team and Syracuse fans would have preferred to travel further to a bowl game with a more traditional and impressive background.

What is disappointing, however, is the fact that students who desire not to cut classes on the day of the bowl game, which is the last day of school before Christmas vacation, will have about one hour to get from Syracuse to Philadelphia.

This past Saturday I sat on the Harvard side of the Yale Bowl as Yale played Harvard for about the 68th time. Although Harvard won, 27-0, the game, as viewed through the eyes of a student at one of the nation's fastest rising football schools, was "fair" at best.

Yet this was perhaps the finest college football game I've ever attended, including those of the legendary '59 Syracuse team. Why was this event so different? In a word: spirit.

This spirit is best seen by describing the few hours that led up to the game. Travelling up the Wilbur Cross Parkway to New Haven, there were several cars with either Harvard or Yale banners tied to the antenna, tied to a tree limb appropriated from somewhere, or just held by one of the passengers.

The open fields surrounding the Bowl, there were about fifteen small circus tents set up. My Harvard friend informed me that class reunions were going on in each one. I also learned that these annual reunions were as much a part of the weekend as the game itself.

Passing through the gate, I was shocked to see that the ticket taker was only interested in taking tickets. He didn't care about cards taken as advance tickets or who you were with. Needless to say, there was no mass of humanity associated with the entrances to Archbold Stadium.

By kick-off time, there were 60,000 people in the Bowl. During the game, it seemed that a flask was required. One Harvard alumnus of mine had a fitted case with flasks marked Scotch, Bourbon, and Rye.

The entire performance at halftime was something straight from college movies. First, the Harvard band marched out and went directly into a concert formation, which is evidently the only one they know.

It was an unenvying sight to see alumni from 40 years ago singing as though they were under-graduates with classes on Monday. Then, the Yale band came out and the same thing was repeated on the other side of the field, with everyone singing . . . words and all.

The fourth quarter produced a spectacle to end all spectacles. With Harvard leading 21-0, Yale had just fumbled, for about the fifth time. Suddenly, the entire Harvard side erupted in white handkerchiefs being waved at the Yale side. This was not done by gullible freshmen, who had returned their "bit" or as a result of the pleadings of several cheerleaders with larvyngrils.

It was completely spontaneous. My Harvard guide let it be known that Yale would have done the same thing had the score been reversed. Unbelievable!

The cheering was something from another world. The fans actually followed the cheerleaders! The Harvard "T-E-A-M-Yay TEAM!" was probably heard all the way to Bridgeport. The gentleman seated next to me leaped to his feet and roared: "Beat them into the ground, you Crimson!"

Last Saturday, I was in the presence of 60,000 families, and it was great. Any good D.C. columnist would now change the subject to how this spirit can be grafted onto the Syracuse campus. Aside from the fact that this topic has already been ruminated this year, I am sorry to report that spirit can't be legislated.

Campus Issues

The fall semester has progressed beyond mid-term exams, and I feel the Daily Orange has been remiss in its obligations to its readers.

In your pages thus far we have been treated to complaints about football seating and food service, controversies over freshman elections and the Joint Student Government, charges and counter-charges in the Greek system, and of course, your championing of the Maxwellian theorists.

Please, in order that the semester will be complete, publish your stock letter of complaint about the venerable and "dangerous" steps of I.L.L.

The SU Void

Upon entering the university's main quad, to cross to some class or another, I have always had a feeling of isolation and a lonely atmosphere on me that what is this void is the absence of a center for student activities such as campus life at Cornell revolves around, William Wright Hill.

There is no equivalent at Syracuse University, and perhaps this explains a good deal that meets the eye.

The abnormal poverty of the intellectual, political, spiritual and over-all social atmosphere here can be traced, it now seems so clear as to be trite, to the lack of student unions.

Thus we are cursed to mill about, to classes and meetings and a mobbed stadium, never to cross paths at a central hub of student affairs.

Thus the peripatetic ocule of the foreign student, the bitter-ness attending social issues like discrimination in living units, the curious dispensing effect characteristic of all student interests, and the frustration of community-minded students when confronted with a heartless campus.

LETTERS —

Something dead, or rather unborn, lies across the welter of gestures and roll calls. It is the web of student life, but one with that web already a lot of bustle, yet not one good statement of united concern comes out of the academic body, which is dismembered.

The incubant, parasitical Phalarism must have a lot to do with it, but why couldn't such an obvious monster-rally as the Manley Field House have been used to more broad student use and needs?

Irish Rematch

I would like to suggest a rematch between Notre Dame and Syracuse on New Year's Day.

Despite being an avid admirer of Mr. Schwartzwalder, and his system, I'm not really sure the Orange are better than the Irish.

New-Wave Comedy Opens at Riviera

"The Joker," which opened at the Riviera last night, is a swift, spicy, sophisticated, "new-wave" comedy, by Philippe de Broca. We say "new-wave" because this film has a message. Thanks to de Broca's fine sense of comedy, the message never gets out of hand.

"The Joker" is Edouard Berlon, expertly played by one of France's favorite mimes and dancers, Jean-Pierre Cassel. Berlon has a gay, carefree but ecstatic love of life.

He lives in one of the funniest households since "You Can't Take It With You" glorified the kooky family.

The House of Theodosia is run by Berlon's uncle. A charming old man, he makes up old romances to tell his nephew, and spends evenings talking to his dogs about the mysteries of an old tapestry.

Family Livedhood

The family survives because Berlon's brother, William, takes photographs of famous death scenes as posed by the uncle, Berlon, the maid, and Berlon's ex-wife, now his sister-in-law. Often, Berlon's two illegitimate children, now raised by his brother, appear as the heirs to the possibly dying demagogues.

One day, after being chased out of sight by an irate husband, the amorous Berlon finds himself in the bedroom of a bored but beautiful matron, Helene Laroché. Berlon immediately falls in love with her classic but cold beauty. He begins a charming campaign to win her away from her unemotional husband.

This would seem to be very easy, since the husband seems to have more fun using his effeminate butler for mock target practice than being with his wife.

Indeed, some of the funniest and most satiric scenes occur with the snicky husband who takes 12 pairs of shorts for a three-day holiday.

But wooing Helene isn't so easy. She is a passive, cold woman. It is more than symbolic that Helene is continually chilly, and always wears the same cloth coat with a large fur collar, even when making love.

The irony and the message of the film is that the joyous, enthusiastic Berlon should fall for the frigid Helene. It seems, in fact, that he is more in love with the classic symbol of beauty that is Helene, the ideal, than with the woman herself.

At any rate, Berlon eventually realizes that he is in love with the whole work, and cannot love a single person, or even one who symbolizes all he loves.

The final scene, of Berlon dancing with a chambermaid, after his first night making love with Helene is quite beautiful and touching.

De Broca's script, though very funny and often quite beautiful, tends to get caught up in rather obscure romantic passages from time to time. Fortunately, the superior acting of Cassel, and Anouk Aimée as Helene, Palau as Uncle Theodosia, and Francois Maistre as Helene's husband, overcome most of the script's difficulties.

De Broca's direction is fast paced and well done. Georges Delerue's music adds a vital dimension to this charming but very witty and satiric movie.

NCAA Plans No Further Action In Grid Dispute

By KEN DARLING
Sports Editor

The National Collegiate Athletic Association plans no further action on the Syracuse-Notre Dame dispute, according to an announcement made Wednesday.

Gen. Robert Neyland of the University of Tennessee, chairman of the NCAA Rules Committee, contacted Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, after Notre Dame protested Neyland's decision that its 17-15 win over the Hillmen Nov. 18 came on an illegal play.

Byers told Neyland that the NCAA was satisfied with his ruling, and had no plans for any further action. He added that whatever happens now is squarely up to the two schools involved.

"The ruling issued by Gen. Neyland stands as the official ruling of the NCAA agency which has final authority in this matter," Byers explained Wednesday, issuing his statement from the NCAA headquarters in Kansas City.

Tuesday Notre Dame officials had expressed discontent with Neyland's ruling. The Rev. Edmund Joyce, executive vice-president and chairman of Notre Dame's faculty board in control of athletics, stated that Neyland's decision was a "serious injustice" to the Irish.

Rev. Joyce regretted that Neyland had made an announcement on the dispute before his full committee (the NCAA Rules Committee) meets. He feels that Neyland's statement will have an unfair bearing on any future ruling by the committee itself.

Rev. Joyce then demanded a full hearing and a new ruling on the dispute. He added that Notre Dame was not looking for anything "for which we are not entitled - only a fair, unemotional judgment after all the evidence, and all the pertinent rules and interpretations are studied by the full committee."

Neyland, when learning of this development, stated that he

Final Team Statistics Show Davis Is Offensive Leader

By ART ROSSKY

Orange halfback Ernie Davis was the team leader in rushing, scoring, and pass receiving, as shown by final team statistics.

Davis juggled the ball 150 times on the ground for a total gain of 823 yards, which is a 5.5 average.

Fullback Gary Fallon finished second in rushing with 299 yards gained and a highly respectable average of 4.5.

Davis compiled 94 points, which included 13 touchdowns and 4 points after, to pace the team.

Senior end Ken Ericson garnered 33 points to win a four-way battle for second place. Junior end John Mackey with 26 points, co-captain Dick Easterly with 24, and senior field general Dave Sarette with 22 were close behind.

Davis grabbed 16 aerials to win the spirited contest for pass receiving honors. Davis gained 157 yards on passes.

Although Mackey, who snatched 15 passes, completed the campaign second in pass receiving, he easily led in yards gained.

Mackey gained 321 yards on passes to break end coach Joe Szombathy's old record of 257, which was set in 1950. Mackey's average was a fine 21.4 yards per catch.

In team statistics Syracuse compared favorably with its opponents. In first downs Syracuse led 156-135.

Syracuse gained a total of 3225 yards to opponents' 2410.

In the air lines Syracuse amassed 1143 yards while the enemy air attack gained 1036.

On the ground Orange backs blasted through opposing lines for 2082 yards. Opposing backs were held to 1374 yards by the Orange defense.

Orange defensive might was shown by the Orangemen's intercepting 19 passes while opponents intercepted 10.

would be willing to poll the entire Rules Committee for a vote if the NCAA advised him to do so. The next scheduled meeting of the committee is Jan. 15 in Miami.

Byers indicated that any school which is a member of the NCAA would be allowed to meet with the Rules Committee during its gathering in Miami. He pointed out that the Rules Committee constitutes the NCAA's final authority on "interpretation and application of the football rules."

Unless the NCAA gives him further instruction, Neyland said that he will consider the matter closed. Tuesday he stated that his committee would be powerless to reverse the score of the disputed game.

Hill Cage Veteran

FRED MACHEMER

Machermer: Piety's Top Hoop Prospect

By DICK STORVIS

In the midst of recent basketball previews which predict a dismal campaign for the Orangemen of Marc Guley, the veteran mentor has gone out on a limb to state that Fred Machermer, the 6-3 senior from Buffalo, "looks like our best all-round player."

Guley looks to Machermer to lead the 1961-62 Orangemen as they attempt to improve upon last season's 4-18 mark. Missing from the 60-61 squad are Pete Chudy, Loren James, Ernie Lottano and Bill Connors, the last three named ruled ineligible for this season as a result of participation in an unsanctioned YMCA contest.

Nevertheless, Guley believes the loss of Chudy will not be as serious a blow as people believe. In pointing out that Chudy was the leading Orange point-maker, the team will have more to Guley, this season according to Guley, and in his words, "Machermer has already perfected as good a shot at Chudy."

Saw Little Action
Machermer averaged a mere 3.1 last season, but the handsome captain saw little action for the capers, and will undoubtedly be the brunt of the attack this year.

Expected to start for the Orangemen along with Machermer are 6-5 Manfred Klutschkowski at center, Herb Foster, 6-4 at the other forward, and guards Russ Beissawanger, 6-3, and Steve Dodge, 6-0.

Foster is a junior, while the other four starters are seniors. Guley plans to work with two units this year; his veteran unit consisting of his starters, and the reserve unit, consisting of five of last season's freshmen, who are now promising sophs.

Among these sophomores are Carl Vernick, 6-1, considered the most promising, Bill Tydemar, 6-5, Ken Weisman, 6-3, and Jim Seaman, 6-0. Bob Murray, 6-3 is also expected to see action on the second unit.

The reasoning behind this platoon system is the fact that the coach realizes more than five players will have to play if better results are expected. To break up last season's frosh five would be unwise, Guley believes because they have the experience of playing together for an entire season.

Two All-American Squads Select Davis

By ANDY PORFFE

Syracuse's superlative halfback Ernie Davis added more laurels to his increasing list of honors Wednesday as he was named on two All-America football teams.

Davis was named to teams announced by the American Football Coaches Association and Time Magazine. It marked the second consecutive year that Davis has been named to the American Football Coaches Association team.

Earlier in the week, Davis was named the winner of the Heisman Trophy which is awarded annually to the best college football player in the United States.

Members of the Football Coaches Association nominated players for the All-America three times during the season. The final ballot was taken at the completion of the football year.

Pro Prospects

Time's All-America squad was selected by the scouts of both professional football leagues. The scouts made their choices on the basis of the players they considered the best pro prospects.

Davis, the "Elmira Express", topped all halfbacks in the coaches' voting. This fall Davis averaged 5.5 yards per carry, scored 94 points, and grabbed 16 passes. In his college career, Davis broke many of the S.U. records established by Jim Brown.

The "glamor boy of college football" is scheduled to join his All-America teammates in New York on December 3 for an appearance on the Ed Sullivan Show. The team will also participate in a half-hour movie sponsored by the Coaches' Association and the Eastman Kodak Company.

Bill For Selected

Hill opponents named to the coaches' squad were end Bob Milinger of Penn State and Gary Collins of Maryland. Selected for the second team by the coaches was Nick Buoniconiti, Notre Dame guard. Third team honors went to Pitt guard Larry Vignali and halfback Angelo Daberio of Notre Dame. Collins and Bill Miller, an end from the Miami squad that will face the Piety gridiron in the Liberty Bowl, were named to the Time first team.

Completing the coaches' first team were tackles Bill Neighbors of Alabama and Bob Bell of Minnesota. Joe Romig of Colorado and Roy Winston of LSU were chosen as guards. Rutgers' Alex Kroll centered the line.

Joining Davis in the backfield were quarterback Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State, halfback Jim Saxton of Texas, and Ohio State fullback Lob Ferguson.

If you think you're seeing more Marlboro men lately, you're right. More than 25,000 smokers all over the country are switching to Marlboro every month!

You'll know why when you try them.

Marlboro is the filter cigarette with the unfiltered taste. The secret of the flavor is the famous Marlboro recipe from Richmond, Virginia... and the pure white Selectrate filter that goes with it.

Try Marlboro and judge for yourself. On or off campus, you get a lot to like.

Piety Basketball Season Opens As Fordham Faces Orangemen

By MILT JOFFE
Junior Editor

The 22-game Syracuse University basketball schedule begins tomorrow night as the Orangemen host the Rams of Fordham in the War Memorial. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

The Syracuse team under coach Marc Guley is hampered by a lack of height and experience. None of the 11 men on the roster has any starting varsity experience.

Senior captain Fred Macherer has clocked the most varsity minutes on the team, but only averaged 3.1 points per game last season. Guley plans to build his team around Macherer.

The planned starters along with Macherer are Russ Beisswanger, Manny Klutckowski, Herb Foster and Steve Dodge. Of the four, Foster has shown the most promise in the limited action he has seen in the past.

Guley is planning to use a two-rotation system for the time being. His second unit is made up of five sophomores who played together on last year's freshman team.

Once they have played on the same team for a year, Guley doesn't want to break up the set.

Here is a brief sketch of the 11 men on the varsity squad:

Russ Beisswanger, guard. Russ is a 6-3, 185-pounder from Tenafly, N.J. He is a senior with little varsity experience.

Steve Dodge, guard. The 6-foot, 165-lb. Dodge is a senior from Port Flain. He is aggressive and has a pretty good jump shot.

Herb Foster, forward. Foster is 6-4, 180 pounds. He is a junior from Erie, Pa. Showed promise in spots last season.

Manny Klutckowski, center. Tallest man on the team at 6-5, 190-pounds, Manny has never lived up to his high school performance. The junior from Boyertown, Pa., has little experience both as a varsity and frosh player.

Fred Macherer, forward. The team captain, Fred is 6-3 and weighs 195 pounds. He's from Buffalo and is counted on as a rugged rebounder.

Bob Murray, 6-3, 190-pound

Social Security Sets Exam Date

The Social Security Administration announced yesterday that tests for seniors wishing appointments to claims representative trainee positions will be given Dec. 1.

The Federal Service Entrance Examination will be given at 9 a.m. Saturday in Room 305 of the Women's Building. The tests will be graded at once and appointment interviews will subsequently be held. Job offers will be extended within the course of a few days.

The examination will be held only for seniors wishing jobs with the Social Security Administration in the New York State and New Jersey offices.

Students are asked to go directly to Room 305 for the exam. No appointment is needed.

Rehabilitation Error

The Daily Orange erred yesterday in a story concerning the program in rehabilitation counseling offered at SU. The program is open to persons with a B.A. in psychology, education, or any of the humanities.

SIA's Christmas Sale Scheduled for Monday

Syracuse - In - Asia's annual Christmas sale of Asian merchandise will be held from 5 to 9 p.m., Monday, Dec. 4 through Friday, Dec. 8 in the Colonial Room of Hendricks Chapel.

Items to be sold include Japanese kokeshi dolls, Accacia wooden dishes from the Philippines, Indian elephant bells, sandalwood fans from Taiwan, and jewelry from Thailand.

Proceeds from the sale will finance Syracuse-In-Asia's promotion of better relations and understanding between Asians and Americans, both abroad and on the Syracuse campus.

A chief part in the group's program is subsidizing an SU graduate to teach for two years in an Asian university or college and take part in its campus life. Every other year a qualified graduate is selected and assigned to such a teaching position.

Any interested senior or SU graduate may apply for selection this Spring semester.

Syracuse-In-Asia project, on campus have included conferences on Asian studies, lectures by visiting Asians, sponsorship of the Annual East-West Debate sending books to Asian universities and helping foreign students adjust to Syracuse life. A showing of a movie on the life of Gandhi is planned for early next year.

First Organized - The group was first organized in 1922 as Syracuse-In-China by a group of Syracuse doctors who had opened a hospital in Chung King. They corresponded with SU students and requested their financial aid.

Following World War II teaching programs were instituted, and in 1951 the group's name was changed to Syracuse-In-Asia.

Anyone interested in joining Syracuse-In-Asia should attend the sale and speak with members.

FRATERNITY RUSHING SCHEDULE

X	C	C
Y	A	B
Z	B	A

The last informal rushing sessions will be held Sunday, December 3, 2-5 p.m. and Tuesday, December 5, 7-10 p.m. Rushes may visit any house in any group for any length of time.

Noble Describes European Mission At ISO Meeting

By SANDI EHRLICH
"Although I am tremendously grateful to be American, I was a little bit ashamed at times," said Dean Charles C. Noble last night before the International Students Organization at Maxwell Auditorium.

The Hendricks Chapel Dean referred to his recent experiences abroad during which time he visited Greece and Turkey. He was distressed that the American people should be so secure and complacent because they "have everything" while the Greeks and Turks must struggle to earn a living.

Dean Noble and 11 other chaplains were invited on a preaching mission by the U.S. Air Force to visit various bases in Europe. Noble chose to see Turkey and Greece because he knew "few of the men would want to go there." In five weeks, from October 10 to November 19, the genial Dean traveled over 15,000 miles, lecturing at least 48 times. He also had informal chats with the service men.

The high morale of the airmen especially impressed Noble. This he attributed to the first rate equipment and living quarters, exceptionally good food, frequent movies and an excellent sports and hobby program. "The men did not seem to be as worried about war as Americans at home are," he said.

Brotherhood Exemplified - Cooperation a and brotherhood exist to an unprecedented extent at the Air Force bases. It excited Noble to see "how human beings who have a common purpose can get over all prejudices." He found no color distinctions whatsoever. As far as religious life, Noble (Continued on Page 8)

Carleton Explains SU Scholarship Plan

"The purpose of the scholarship program is to make sure that no one is prohibited a well qualified student from attending Syracuse University." This is the scholarship program's aim, according to Dean James G. Carleton, director of financial aids.

Any freshman who does not have one has been asked to wait until February before picking up an application, Carleton said. This is being done, because by February a freshman will have a team of work behind him.

Carleton pointed out that any scholarship hopeful—either freshman or any undergraduate—must have sufficient need of funds, and, while he is being given assistance, must maintain a respectable average and have good citizenship habits.

There are three types of scholarship programs, Carleton noted: the general scholarships program, grant and award, and a group of industrial scholarships—offered by such firms as US Rubber and Texaco.

Some scholarships must be renewed after two years, some are for four years at SU, and still others are designated scholarships—for certain students (i.e. juniors) and students in special sections. Carleton added that all various requirements of average, need and citizenship must be maintained.

The scholarship application period lasts from Dec. 4 to April 11. Applicants must be interviewed, and are not expected to have a car.

Dean Carleton emphasized that any student who has any questions regarding financial aid, should contact his office, the Dean of Men's or the Dean of Women's office.

Carleton pointed out that a needy student could get a low-interest, deferred payment loan from certain states—New York, New Jersey, Mass. etc.—and from the National Defense Student Loan Program. Again, the student would have to prove need, maintain a certain average and have a good citizenship record.

Step Singing Winners

STEP SINGING WINNERS—Kappa Delta and Delta Delta Delta sororities last night swept top honors in the four house divisions of the annual step singing competition. FAY DILLON (center), chairman of step-singing, presents trophies to (left) GERALDINE TRAPASSO, song chairman of Kappa Delta, and (right) ORCA FORREST, song chairman of Delta Delta Delta. Step singing was jointly sponsored by Eta Phi Upsilon, senior women's honorary and Sigma Alpha Iota, women's professional music fraternity.

The Juvenile Right

The biggest stories in newspapers of the past few months have been a phenomenal resurgence of right wing super patriotism throughout the country. The center of this irresponsible conservatism seems to be in the John Birch Society, with other less important and nationalized groups of right wing lunacy operating in different parts of the country. There have been certain traits, illusions and beliefs that seem to characterize the mentality of these conservatives, though we would hazard a guess and say that these characteristics are traditional and not restricted to just modern day right wingers. They were predominant in the twenties among the middle class Babbitts. They helped to make a host of depression demagogues popular and famous. They served as the foundation for McCarthyism. Now they are working for the John Birch Society.

Alan Barth, of the Washington Post, recently isolated three of the main identifying traits. First is the tendency to take tremendously complex problems and grossly oversimplify them so that they bear almost no relevance to the original difficulties. Therefore, all problems seem to have only an "either-or" solution so that there is either total victory or total defeat, complete socialism or freedom. They recognize no middle ground, no distinctions. Like children, everything is either all one thing or the other. The second of these identifying traits is an adherence to a traitor theory of history. In other words, America did not lose the Chinese nation as an ally because of Chinese poverty and sickness, but because there were traitors in the state department.

But perhaps it is the third trait that is most ironic. These super patriots who are trying to save America, who see a Communist and traitor in every liberal, actually lack all faith in democratic processes, institutions and peoples. Like all people who are intellectually incapable of recognizing the validity of opposing arguments, they fear other ideas and outside influences. Like Communists, they must adopt one single attitude, one single pattern of answers because they lack the strength and courage to face these intellectual challenges. As a result the whole basis of democracy, unity in diversity, the free competition of ideas, becomes meaningless to these people. What they really seek is a kind of autocratic, father-like government with all the answers, with a bundle of half-truths and panaceas that assuage the inherent tensions and conflicts of living in a democratic society, especially one that is now fighting for its existence.

Perhaps the one encouraging factor in this right wing resurgence is that the liberal conscience of this nation, sick at heart over its sad performance over McCarthyism, has been largely unafraid to expose and combat the Birchites and Minutemen.

Due to the gripe, just a bad cold, or something, I have been confined to bed most of this week, and, as a result, haven't been seeing the DO as regularly as usual. Wednesday, however, I heard that Alan Millstein had written another misguided missile, and yesterday I finally got a hold of it. Today I am contemplating moving in to the infirmary.

Alan Millstein, you are a snk. But rather than engage in senseless name-calling, let's examine with a fair and scrutinizing eye some of your thesis as outlined in "The Decline And Fall."

In two weeks, you say, those wonderful, exciting, enthusiastic men and women will be killed like helpless dumb beasts. One has to wonder how superficial all the wonderful qualities of the frosh are that they can be so rapidly transformed into dumb beasts. If I were a freshman I'd be a bit insulted.

At Syracuse there are thirty fraternities and therefore thirty separate entities. Within these thirty separate but not identical groups there are human beings. And because they are human beings, by nature they are, and enjoy, being different. Even a quick look at any house bears this out.

I don't know of too many people "stripped bare of their pride and individualism by the pledging process." I do know hundreds, though, who have become aware through their pledging that there is something beyond pride and individualism. There are other human beings, and in an adult society, in business, in marriage, in social life, yes even in great universities one must learn how to deal with people. Fraternities, not by design but by nature, teach this to the freshman in his pledging, and to the upperclassman in his day-to-day life. And if every other criticism aimed at fraternities was true, this teaching process would still be enough to make the Greek system worthwhile.

In the height of his enthusiasm, Alan, is suddenly plunged into despair by the realization that the Greeks have won hands-down, because most frosh are rushing. My boy (sez I to Alan) take heart. Rushing is not a commitment to join—rather it is a time for the frosh to get to know you and to see if fraternities is true or not. And also it is a time for the fraternities to test whether the frosh are as wonderful as you students say. If you are the truth, your side will triumph.

"All the houses have to do now," says Alan, "is to sell their social life, food, and money for a life of frozen frozen food plan." Well, Alan old kid, I notice that you bought and are still buying the frozen food plan at your fraternity. Is your strength of character so weak, has your pledging stripped you so badly of self-respect, that you cannot withdraw?

This is a question I feel you are bound to answer. If not for us your loyal readers, then for the rishees of your fraternity who must be wondering if you live so much like a pig in the Hellbox are two persons—one in life, and another in print.

Editor's Note: The writer of this analysis, S. Sreenivas Rao, is a graduate student at Syracuse and is from Hyderabad, India.

By S. SREENIVAS RAO Plain talk is always best, even if it is un-pleasant. The American public took advantage of the visit of Mr. Jawaharlal Nehru, Prime Minister of India, to this country to express their strong feelings against India's policy in regard to the Russian atom tests and the Berlin question. The American public would have a good chance to evaluate India's foreign policy if they knew the Indians' answer to the American criticism.

The Indians did not condemn Russian tests in strong terms, because of K. Ranganavari's article in his article "U.S. criticism of India" in "The Hindu Weekly Review," November 3, 1961, pointed out, between 1945 and 1950, the U.S. was responsible for 169 explosions and the U.S.S.R. for only 55.

The Indians also knew of the testimony given by Dr. Panofsky, an American atomic expert, to Dr. Panofsky, answering Senator Hubert Humphrey in a congressional testimony, said: "to make a hole underground for a seventy-kiloton test, the length of time has been estimated to be between two and four years." The first underground explosion in the U.S. took place within ten days of U.S. decision to resume tests.

"The inference," as Ranganavari points out, "is that the United States also had been preparing all these years for resuming tests, and that in a matter of days the Russian Union lost." Thus the unpardonable fact is that not only were the Russians cheating during the moratorium period but that both the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. were cheating each other and the whole world.

The finale of the Millstein message compares the "unlimited horizons of university life, and the stable equilibrium of freshman life which avoids the dangers of individual creativity, thought, courage and conviction."

For me the unlimited horizons of university life include Food Service, identical and sterile rooms where a quarter is charged for every piece of Scotch tape holding up your girl friend's picture, and where the condition of your room and your personal conduct is all carefully entered into a file by the omnipresent, omniscient, and omnipotent R.A.

In the fraternity, the food is better, the rooms individual, the group self-run, and the conduct and room condition regulated by previous agreement by the group of peers.

No, Mr. Millstein, the challenge of a university is not to relax, but to relax and then to relaxes but where he thinks. It is the classroom, the professor, the foresight of academic committees, the availability of books at our library that succeeds or fails in challenging the individual. The long list of successful scholars, writers, business leaders, statesmen, scientists, and musicians who are fraternity men believs your supposition about a lack of creativity, courage, and conviction in the freshman life.

There are many things wrong with fraternities, for they are human institutions, but they can be changed and are changed. But please do not blame for the whole is only the sum of the parts.

One stock argument of the Americans is that they always heeded the opinion of the neutralists whereas Russia did not. But the great nations, and the Western powers, nor the Communist powers, nor any nation gives a damn for public opinion when their interests are involved. When Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal Co., Britain and France attacked Egypt without caring for public opinion and finally pulled out. When the U.S. gave public opinion but because of economic and military reasons.

Another stock argument of the Americans is what will become of the underdeveloped countries if we do not give them aid. It is high time that the Americans should realize that while the Indians are appreciating the spirit of the unaligned nations in general and India in particular when during the Suez crisis he stated, "We are prepared to die on our feet rather than live on our knees."

Mr. Krishna Menon summed up well the spirit of the unaligned nations in general and India in particular when during the Suez crisis he stated, "We are prepared to die on our feet rather than live on our knees." Americans should also remember that Mr. Nehru's primary interest, as Mr. Nehru himself repeatedly stated, is India. If he as Prime Minister of India does not take care of the Indian interest in International politics who else will? Would the U.S.?

Frosh Cagers Face Ithaca; Guley Expects Good Season

By AL KORT
With less than a month of practice under their belts, Marc Guley's froshcagers open a 13-game schedule tomorrow night at the Onondaga War Memorial against the Ithaca College yearlings.

"We expect to have a good year," Guley said. "The first and second teams are about equal and I will rotate them on the platoon system. This should give more kids a chance to play and will show us our weaknesses."

The hoop mentor said that this year's squad is bigger than last year's and has more potential. In a two-hour scrimmage last week, the yearlings easily beat Utica College.

Fresh Starters

Starting for the Orange against Ithaca will be center Eric Weber, 6-6; forward Larry Bailey, 6-7; forward Tom Fitzsimmons, 6-4; guard Phil Schoff, 6-3; and guard Dick Duffy, 6 feet.

Comprising the second team will be center Pete Kinney, 6-4; forward Ed Holliday, 6-3; forward Chuck Richardson, 6-3; guard Bob Mohr, 6-2; and guard Mike Brown, 5-10. Rounding out the squad are Leo Luckman, Ron Penn, Lou Carrino, Jim Cripps, Mike Curry, Chuck Hudnall, Ken King, and Stan Searl.

Four of the games this year will be played against the Cornell frosh. Cornell has a tall squad this year and should be the Orange's toughest opponent. Eight of the Piety's 13 contests will be played at the Onondaga War Memorial with all home games scheduled to start at 6:30 p.m. as preliminaries to the varsity contests. Guley expects the advantage of eight home games to help the squad.

"I am hopeful that we will have a good attendance at these games this year," Guley said. "Good school spirit and good attendance always helps a ball club.

Riflemen Face St. Lawrence, Niagara; Murray Team Leader

Syracuse's varsity rifle team will compete in its third meet of the season at 8:30 p.m. today, hosting St. Lawrence and Niagara at the Archbold rifle range.

The riflemen opened their slate Nov. 4 by dropping a meet with Buffalo. Last Saturday, the Orange rifle squad finished second in a meet with Cornell and Rochester.

Pacing the squad so far this year has been Bob Murray. He was the leading scorer in the Buffalo meet with a 287 total, and paced the scoring in the next meet with 286. He is currently the leading scorer in the New York State Intercollegiate Rifle League.

Other team members include Ken Russell, Bob Walten, Bob Pomerooy, Ken Murphy, Scott Redfield, Jim Kronfeld, John Lowieck, Morton Fink, and Ed Heidinger.

Veteran Swimming Team Opens Season at RPI

By A.L.T. ROSSHY
When Syracuse opens its swimming season Saturday at the pool of Rensselaer Polytechnical Institute, coach Ted Webster will have 7 lettermen at his command, as he tries to duplicate last year's 7-3 log.

Among last year's lettermen who graduated is Jack Nesbitt, described by the mentor as "the greatest swimmer from a New York State school".

Nesbitt set a school record by scoring more than 100 points. The ace of this year's squad will probably be Junior Bob Ohman, who is the highest scoring returnee. Coach Webster states that Ohman can swim "anything."

Ohman placed second in the backstroke and fourth in the breaststroke in the 1961 New York State Championships. Three members of the medley relay team that placed second in the state tournament return.

In addition to Ohman, the returning members of the standout swim quartet are senior Greg Pond and junior Tom Watt.

Watt and Pond are freestylers while Pond scores additional points in the butterfly.

Captain Jim Tuck, another freestyler, also can swim any event.

Diver Jeremy Rosenthal, a senior, is a consistent winner in his specialty. Rosenthal won 6 out of 9 meets last year.

Junior handyman Barney Morrison and freestyler Mike Rutz, a senior, round out the lettermen.

There are only 15 men on the squad, depth is a problem. Webster hopes for some help from sophomores. However, the mentor pointed out that it is difficult to evaluate the unproven, as yet, sophs.

The loss of Nesbitt causes the coach to exude pessimism about equalling last year's 7-3 log. However, he gets a schedule break by meeting all of last year's conquerors in the Hill pool.

Wrestlers Plan Intra-Squad Meet

Syracuse wrestling fans will have a chance for a sneak preview of the 1961-62 Orange grapplers Saturday when the varsity meets the combination freshman varsity squad in their annual pre-season match at 2 p.m. in the gymnasium.

Couch Joe Scandura feels that the freshman might outpoint the varsity for the first time in the annual match, calling it a "toss-up."

The matchings look like this (varsity man listed first): 123-Nelson vs. Haise, 130-Meyer vs. Grenhalgh, 137-Murrin vs. Hoffman, 147-Slutsky vs. Dussling, 157-Reitner vs. Dunning, 167-Lewis vs. Chandler, 177-Sirota vs. Roberts, 191-Ornstein vs. Everling, Unlimited-Powers vs. Nance.

ski on song mountain NOW

NIGHT AND DAY—NATURAL SNOWFALL OR NOT

Song Mountain is a major ski center, professionally designed and fully equipped. Excellent lighting and the most advanced snow making machinery assures day and night skiing. Song Mountain is the first and only ski center in Central New York offering facilities equivalent to those of the major ski resorts in New England and Colorado.

Otto Schniebs, world-renowned ski authority, is the active Director of Song Mountain and personally designed and supervised every stage of its construction. He is also supervising the Song Mountain Ski School, which is directed by Don Powers, one of America's foremost skiing instructors.

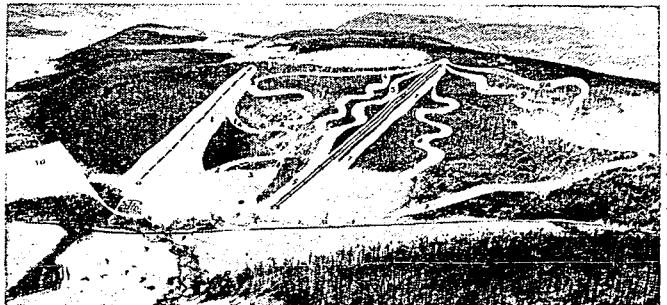

Song Mountain is easily accessible from any part of the country. 20 minutes from downtown Syracuse, it is adjacent to the new Penn-Car Highway, Route #81. There is parking for 1,000 cars. Syracuse is served by American, Eastern and Mohawk Airlines, the New York Central Railroad and Greyhound Bus.

The Song Mountain Lodge has been designed to be the ultimate in comfort and convenience. A superb dining room, which is open to both skiers and non-skiers, seven days per week, on a year-round basis, features the most delicious food in Central New York. Two huge log burning fireplaces contribute to the congenial atmosphere of the dining areas and cocktail lounge.

There are two phrases that the typical Syracuse freshman hears most when he first arrives on the Hill. The first, of course, is "Tip it Frosh", and the second, also without dispute, is "Let's head out to T.C."

Never have so few letters meant so much to so many so often.

In other words, no orientation has ever been complete without that introductory trip to T.C., the only "country club for college students" in captivity.

That was one description given last year to the parents of one frosh who wrote back home enthusiastically about T.C.

Ah, yes, T.C. in truth has become an institution with Hill students, and will undoubtedly remain so even after our regular Student Union perhaps comes into possible existence sometime in the dim future.

Where else can you feel right at home as informally as you wish and still have the quiet and relaxation of well behaved surroundings, unless you are home!

Such tradition goes back to the times when ol' T.C. was operating out of a tent after a fire 10 or 15 years ago, and Pete Willes was doing business right on the golf course.

Another plus is the fact that out at T.C. there is always something different going on—but always.

Right now its smorgasbord, every Thursday and Sunday from 5 to 7, all you can eat for 50c. No it's no error, just 50c. And it's a good spread too, with ham, luncheon meats, sauces, cheeses, breads, relishes and salads.

Pete also has been known to treat the house on the busiest nights of the year to thick, juicy sirloin steak and last year he even gave away a car. Never a dull moment, for sure.

This is especially the case when it's "Dime Time."

"Dime Time," is the most typical Wiles touch and the most famous. When it's "Dime Time," you can enjoy anything in the house no matter what the tariff providing you have a dime. Not two nickels, ten pennies or even a ten dollar bill, but a ten cent piece, a thin dime. This wondrous event takes place weekly, mind you, on Sunday nights and because it is often the source of much frustration on the part of the dimeless patrons, we suggest that you always keep a dime or three handy. Then you too, can watch the fun, and be way ahead in the change purse.

Yep, it's a haven for Syracuseans, whether you come to relax or to work, as Pete makes it a standing policy to hire only collegians.

Cheers to T.C., the students' best friend.

Noble Describes European Mission At ISO Meeting

"I'm not so glib anymore about brotherhood and peace. I really believe these goals are possible, now that I've seen them work," Noble added.

Noted it was "like life at the university—the majority of the people don't go to church." He drew unusually large crowds for his sermons, however.

One of his fondest memories is when an old Greek gardener waited at the back of a church in Crete until everyone had gone. The old man then solemnly approached Noble and kissed his hand. In his own way he expressed his friendship and understanding, the Dean stated.

Noble cited another instance when he spoke at an American Prep School outside Athens, Greece. A small boy asked, "Do you know Ernie Davis?" The Dean had to promise to send him Davis' autograph when he returned to the university.

Jewish Festival Starts Sat. Eve

The Jewish festival of Hanukkah will begin at sundown tomorrow. The celebration which will continue for eight days, commemorates the War of Liberation which was waged by the Maccabees against the Syrians.

Hanukkah denotes that religious freedom is one of man's most precious gifts. Syria tried to impose the Hellenistic way of life upon the Jews and attempted to uproot all Jewish practices. The Maccabees were successful in driving the alien power from the country.

The BOSTON UNIVERSITY NEWS in an editorial claims "Fordism" had invaded the college campus in the sixties. A "corporate image" of the university has been taken by the administrations. "Building the student should accompany building a new campus," they say.

Jewish tradition emphasizes that miracles occur constantly. In lighting the Hanukkah candles, Jews express their gratitude for the freedom which is enjoyed today.

Verse Play Set At Lively Arts

Christopher Fry's "A Phoenix Too Frequent," a verse drama about women and love will be presented by the Syracuse University Drama Department at 9 p.m. today at the Lively Arts Coffee House, 810 E. Genesee St.

Jean-Paul Sartre's "No Exit" will be presented next week.

Canada and U.S. Discussion Set

A group of students from the Progressive Conservative Party will arrive this afternoon from Queen's College, Canada, to hold discussions on Canadian and American relations, and the modern conservative emphasis on foreign affairs.

The first discussion will be held from 9 to 11:30 a.m. tomorrow in the Founder's Room of Maxwell. The second discussion will be held from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. tomorrow in the DellPlain Lounge.

Hill Guest Housing Hit

By JIM WELLER

The Syracuse University Debate Club will be host to two British debaters from Cambridge University this Tuesday. Although these two men, judging from their previous record, will have much to offer to SU, the Hill seems to be unable to reciprocate in the matter of lodging these men in modern university housing.

Mr. Edward McEvoy, the faculty advisor for the SU debate team, has, for the past month, tried in vain to get Leon Brittan and David Saunders, the British debaters, a place to stay in one of the university dormitories.

McEvoy was told by university housing officials that all guest rooms in university dormitories were filled with students and that no room was available for the two debaters.

Last Friday McEvoy was forced to abandon plans for putting the men in university housing and had to make last minute arrangements with Donald Skinner, the director of the Chapel House, to lodge the men there.

McEvoy has termed the situation "most regrettable."

An offer to place these men in Greek houses was made by the IFC, but according to McEvoy, arrangements had already been completed with Skinner when this invitation was extended.

The topic of next Tuesday's debate in Crocus Auditorium will be: Resolved, The west is fighting a losing battle.

The debate will be judged by John F. Olson, Vice President of Syracuse University and Executive Assistant to the Chancellor, and Miss Marjorie C. Smith, Dean of Women for Syracuse University.

Donate a Dollar To United Fund, Chest Requests

Every student and faculty member will be asked to contribute $1 for United Fund during the Campus Chest Dollar Drive, Dec. 1-12, announced co-chairman Grace Kalfin and Dick Reichman. The money collected from this drive will be distributed for world-wide charities and scholarship funds.

Last year Campus Chest collected $2,400 for 10 charities. This year, the goal for the Dollar Drive is $3,000. Almost $1,000 was collected on the Campus Chest Carnival. The total goal for Campus Chest this year is $2,000, double that of last year's final figures.

Sorority houses with 100 per cent contributions will receive points towards the Bill Orange Award.

Individual house and floor representatives will solicit funds from their living center. These representatives will be contacted by block representatives this week.

The total collections will be published in the Daily Orange at the completion of the drive.

The chairmen stated that individual fund-raising projects for living centers will be stressed next semester.

Student Urges Protes Africa Program

Syracuse University has initiated the first formal program of study in the United States specifically concerning East Africa with the creation of a special committee on East African studies in the Maxwell Center for the Study of Overseas Operations and Research.

Announcement of the new committee was made Saturday by Dean Stephen K. Bailey of the Maxwell School and Dean Eric H. Faigle of the College of Liberal Arts.

Serving as a clearing house for information and materials on East Africa, the committee will offer graduate students opportunities to work in this area. Included on the committee are members of the departments of anthropology and sociology, economics, geography and political science.

Associate Prof. Fred G. Burke of political science, who has lived in Uganda and Kenya, has been named to head the committee.

"The establishment of the committee, Burke said, will 'take advantage of the presence at the university of a number of scholars with broad experience and interest in African and especially East African affairs.'"

Dr. Burke, it is the hope of the committee that the Maxwell School will become "a leading center of East African studies in the United States," providing special services to scholars and training graduate students.

While living in Africa, Dr. Burke was a special consultant to the government of Kenya on municipal problems.

Others on the five-man committee are Associate Prof. Eduardo Mondland of sociology and anthropology, Associate Prof. Julian Friedman of political science and Assistant Prof. Peter Gould of geology.

The joint announcement said the formation of the committee "gives expression to the decision of the Maxwell School to establish an interdisciplinary center and responsibilities to overseas operations in that general area of the Indian Ocean fringe."

Members of the committee recently completed a survey of administrative training needs and programs in Kenya at the request of the International Cooperation Administration, the statement continued.

The Maxwell Center currently offers courses in the Swahili language so that members of the committee and their families can have a background in the lingua franca of the area.

On setting up the East African committee, the Maxwell School has added to its overseas operations in the area. It is involved in the operation of an administrative center in Pakistan and has advised the Indian Institute of Public Administration.

Food Service Hearings Slated Today, Tomorrow

By JOYCE HERGENHIAN Junior Editor

Alleged food service mispractices come under close scrutiny today when a special Joint Student Legislative committee begins a formal investigation of the service.

Hearings to gather student complaints and suggestions will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. today and from 2 to 3:30 p.m. tomorrow in 207 Hall of Languages.

Students may enter the hearing room any time during these hours. The hearings are closed to faculty and administration members.

Investigatory committee chairman Ted Bayer has urged all students who feel strongly on the subject to attend one of the hearings. "The investigation will be successful," he said, "only if we have enough student support behind it."

Written Reports

The committee is particularly interested in obtaining testimony from living center food service representatives. These representatives have been requested to compile written reports containing observations from students in their living centers and to bring these reports to the hearings. Testimony from other students is also wanted, Bayer said.

Student participation in the hearings will determine the committee's next course of action. If enough students show by their testimony they desire changes in food service, the committee will initiate action to bring about these changes.

If, however, the hearings uncover no widespread evidence of student discontent, the committee will drop the investigation.

In the event several students desire action, the committee will compile a formal report of all the complaints and suggestions aired at the hearings. This report will be presented to the next Joint Student Legislative session, December 13.

If approved, the report will be forwarded to University Vice President and Treasurer Francis A. Wingate along with a one month deadline for action. Names of students giving testimony will not be included in the report.

If the administration does not take what the committee considers proper action regarding student complaints, Bayer said his group "will pursue and further courses of action that the situation warrants."

Piskor Designated To Rating Group Of School Assn.

Syracuse University vice-president for Academic Affairs, Dr. Frank Piskor, has been elected to the accrediting commission of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. His term will cover three years.

The Middle States Association is made up of 281 colleges and universities and 1019 secondary schools in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Washington D.C., Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone.

The association investigates and evaluates member universities every ten years. If the particular school is fulfilling its obligations and following the educational philosophy of its charter, the school is then accredited.

Piskor is the second SU officer to serve on the Middle States Commission of Institutions of Higher Education, which is the official accrediting agency of the Middle States Association.

The other Syracusan who served on the Middle States Commission was Dr. Finia Crawford, who retired as vice-chancellor in 1959. He served on the commission from 1957 to 1960.

On the Syracuse staff since 1939, Piskor became one of Syracuse's youngest deans when he was appointed Dean of Men in 1946, at the age of 30. He was named to his present post in May of 1959.

FORJ to Meet

The Fellowship of Religious Journalists will meet tomorrow at the home of Professor and Mrs. Roland E. Wolsely, 1307 Westmoreland Ave. The Rev. Alexander C. Carmichael, pastor of Dewitt Community Church, will speak on "The Fate of the Writer in Publishing Religion."

Frosh Rushees View Hill Greeks Favorably

By ADAIR DUFINE

"In order to get any place on the Hill, you have to go Greek," stated many rushees during the second session of informal rushing. As an active part of the university campus, the fraternity system stands for leadership and school spirit, they affirmed.

The confusion experienced by many of the rushees was accredited to the failure of the university to acquaint the freshmen with the Greeks. Working under the deferred rushing system, rushees stated that they were unable to make fair opinions about the Greeks because of ancient knowledge.

"The period should be open for questions before official rushing takes place," said a rushee. "The rule of the 'silence period' should be broken to inform the incoming students about the Greeks," he continued.

Although no decisions were made by the rushees, they voiced the opinion that the system should be viewed as a whole. By separating the Greeks into 30 parts, it is impossible to get a picture of fraternity life, said one student.

The fraternities offer the incoming student a place to meet and make new friends, the rushees stated. With the open-minded attitudes presented by numerous Greeks visited, rushees asserted that they could bring any problem to their brothers for opinions and aid.

Freshmen considered the fraternity system a social system, but also a place to form lasting contacts. There were many Greeks considered desirable and undesirable by the rushees. However, the consensus of freshmen opinion found the Greeks to be an asset to the campus.

A few freshmen found the Greeks to be less than what was expected, but stated the lack of knowledge about the fraternity system could be blamed for this apathy. The rushing technique, varying from hard sell to soft sell, was described by the rushees as a necessary part of selling the Greeks.

Fraternities were acclaimed to be made up of individuals, who added their personal traits to the standards of the fraternity. Overwhelmed by the first rushing session students stated that the impression made during the first session was greatly influencing their opinion of the Greeks.

"A fraternity gives the student the chance to develop himself, through the aid of the brothers around him," said a rushee. Still confused by the massive organization of the Greeks, freshmen asserted a firm desire to "Go Greek."

LAST CHANCE FOR NYS AID

Dean James Carleton, director of financial aids, requests that any New York State resident who has not filed an application for the scholar incentive Award, contact the Dean of Men's office or Dean Carleton's office, 307 Administration Building.

The Scholar Incentive Award provides a student with up to $800 a year towards college tuition.

Trouble From Iran

By BOB SEEWALD

Editor-in-Chief ..... Sam B. Girgus
Business Manager ..... Andrew Levitt

A Human Voice

Perhaps a small but exceedingly important and dynamic gesture was made on the part of a forward looking American last week when she contributed $1000 to the United Nations. This was the amount that she would have to spend in order to build a fall-out shelter for her family. Mrs. Wayne Elwood stated that the reason for the contribution was to express her belief that the United Nations offers the best protection and hope of survival for man.

In addition, twenty-eight individuals and families from North Carolina also pledged to contribute a similar amount for similar reasons. This group consisted of University of North Carolina professors, a preacher, housewives, students and business men. Together, this small group is exhibiting more sense than almost anything that has been done or said by international political leaders. It is more than an expression of faith in the beleaguered world organization. It is an expression of faith in the future and in mankind's ability to survive and grow.

"I just did it," Mrs. Elwood said. And perhaps this represents the frustration that so many people must be feeling today—people who are tired of the pessimism and cynicism that seems to permeate and foreshadow all of man's actions in the atomic age.

The beauty of her action is that like all of us, she is one human being, one individual living in an age dominated by problems that seem even too grandiose and complex for the huge organizations that we create to solve them. But as one individual lost among this devastating complexity, she has made one thousand dollars stand out like a billion. Her one contribution has risen above all the statistics and scientific debate because it is a statement about human beings and not about atomic bombs. It is a statement about human nature, the will to survive and more important the innate craving for self-respect in life. It is a contribution and action that finally says that just staying alive is not enough because how you live, what you live for, is more important. This is something all the experts seem to forget as they discuss whether or not five or six million will be killed if a hydrogen bomb is dropped on New York-City. It is the human and capable of wondrous things. I am human and part of voice crying out in the dark: "I am something wonderful the human society and if six million people in New York burn and die, I too am dead. I am human and my children will not stalk a burned and charred land as scavengers walking over the smoking bodies of my neighbors. For this is worse than death. For this is nothing. And then I too am nothing. For I am human and if I have slain my family, it is better to be dead than to live alone in a coffin with memories as my only future."

'Times' Provides Comments On Survival

Editor's Note: The following article, reprinted in its entirety from the October 23 issue of the New York "Times," was submitted to "Digest" by Syracuse senior Barry Finley.

A Tucson storekeeper and constituent of Representative Morris K. Udall, Democrat of Arizona, sent in a few "Modest Proposals for the Provision of Adequate Shelter in Case of Atomic War." The proposals included —A National Lottery: all persons qualified to vote would be permitted to draw a number with the opportunity of winning space in a survival shelter. This plan, advocated by several Southern states, would automatically prevent the continuing of minority problems among the survivors.

—Befriend a Commie Plan: Since we all know they won't drop a bomb on one of them, befriend a commie on your block and stay with him! Write to your local John Birch cell for a list of neighborhood spies.

—National Essay Contest: With survival space as a prize. Suggested topics are: "Why I Deserve to Survive," "Why My Breeding Entitles Me to Special Consideration," and "Why (If I survive) I Would Impeach Earl Warren (If He Survives)."

When Americans think of Iran they probably imagine a benevolent Shah who has made the news because of a much-publicized switch of wives.

They might think of Iran as a safe, quiet spot on a map where the Communists have not recently caused too much trouble.

And Americans who have been following the news might wish to remember that the present government for its badly-hounded campaign to eliminate corruption and privilege is the face of entrenched opposition. The Shah is a rich man, they might say, but he seems interested in the welfare of the people.

Iran, in other words, seems to be one of those few secure free world anchors, a progressive as well as a democratic nation.

But it is difficult to reconcile this popular viewpoint with the plight of Iranian students studying in this nation. Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, a student at Georgetown University, Washington, D.C. has seen his passport become cancelled by his home government.

His passport was cancelled, said the government, because he was not doing well in school. Consequently, he would have to return home. But, according to informed sources, Georgetown has asserted that Ghotbzadeh, secretary of the Iranian Student Association of the U.S., has been doing satisfactory work.

Ghotbzadeh, like many other Iranians who have criticized the home regime, is in danger of being sent home to an angry reception. And Fariborz Fateri, an SU graduate student from Iran, has asserted that his fellow students don't want to return to face possible death penalties.

For their criticism of the Shah and his premier, Ali Amini, some Iranian students have been labelled traitors, with the passport cancellation employed as a weapon to bring them home.

The Joint Student Legislature at Syracuse has taken up the issue, and has written a letter to Sen. J. William Fulbright defending the Iranian students' right to criticize their regime without becoming targets for reprimand.

The letter to Sen. Fulbright also comments that the action of the Iranian Government to renew student passports is a form of retaliation for opposition voiced by the students.

The letter continues: "Because we live in a country where each person may criticize the government or petition for action which he believes would be best in a given situation, without fear of retaliation in any form, we feel it is our duty as fellow students and citizens of the United States and of the world to take a position in behalf of the Iranian students. This is a clear case of denial of the basic human right of free speech. The Iranian government fears the voice of the students and therefore uses threats of passport revocation to silence it."

All too often there are cases of denial of basic human rights about which Americans can do nothing. Such a situation does not exist now. The United States can enact special legislation giving the Iranians the right to remain in this country despite their passport cancellations.

The JSL senators wrote to Sen. Fulbright urging "that the United States Government take any steps necessary—including grant of political asylum—to preserve the academic freedoms and human rights of the Iranian students in the United States who are faced with the loss of their passports."

Without special legislation, the cancellation of passports means the loss of the right to remain in this country. Sen.

Harrison Williams of New Jersey has introduced legislation in behalf of one student. Other legislators have also expressed interest in the students' cause.

Letters to congressmen from their constituents would be helpful in the fight. Other students' continued right to remain in this country.

But the problems of the Iranians are compounded by this nation's alliance with the Baghdad government. The alliance can be complicated by what the Shah's regime might regard as meddling in its affairs.

But if conditions in Iran grow worse, instead of better, if the Shah's regime grows more unpopular as it becomes more authoritarian, if it grows more oppressive as its reform drive boggs down, there will be little left of value in our alliance.

The plight of the students is an important one; the U.S. must see to it that they are not sent home to persecution. Our persecution would only compound the troubles of Iran, not help solve them. It would not make our alliance a stronger one, but a shakier one.

Democratically-minded students, whether or not they are right, should not be persecuted because they have a case for reforms, or because they want a return to what they see as constitutional government.

It is up to an aroused Congress to see that they may remain in this country as long as they wish to. Perhaps the greatest obstacle in the Iranians' campaign to remain here is the popular conception of Iran as the safe, secure anchor of the Baghdad pact. An aroused American public, concerned with the fate of outspoken students, can help overcome this difficulty.

Readers Cite Millstein, '44'

To the Editor:

I would like to comment on the misguided missile launched in Friday's DO by Kent L. Barwick. It is my attempt to correct some of the assertions he so boldly stated in his column.

Alan Millstein is not a hypocrite. His statements when viewed objectively are true and not contradictory. It is a known fact that rushing is a "selling proposition" and that the competition between houses is relentless during the period of rushing.

It is also true that this "selling proposition" is planned down to minute details, such as handshaking, displays, and styles of dress. An actual sales pitch is contrived by the individual houses. The "saw" is scientifically prepared.

After reading Mr. Millstein's statement, I cannot see any justification for Mr. Barwick's statement that Alan is suddenly plunged into despair because of the large size of the rushing group. I can understand Alan's concern in this group because of the importance of the decisions and the preparation of fraternities to indoctrinate them.

It is true that the social, fraternal and friends-for-life plan is true, and important, but the character of each house is different and the style of presentation used by each house may differ from the character of that house. It is the setting up of these facades that is so detrimental to the Greek system and to the individual parts of the system.

The fact that Alan belongs to a fraternity and actively observes and attempts to have his ideas accepted is an asset to Alan and to the system. Most members of the system would certainly admit their "lines" after rushing is over. I think it is wise for rushees to feel "forewarned" and to be "forearmed."

Attempts to improve certain aspects of the system are important, and cannot be accomplished by leaving the system. Past graduates of the system may have paved the road to successful post-graduate lives, but they have not perfected the Greek system.

In conclusion, Mr. Millstein is supplying impetus by which present rushees and future rushees can take a discerning look at each "part" of the system.

DO SPIRIT

In the truest spirit of freedom of the press, Daily Orange columnists often disagree with each other in their respective columns. This was especially manifest in last Friday's editorial by columnist Ken Barwick took issue with a recent piece by columnist Alan Millstein.

However, in the truest spirit of mutual respect, columnist Millstein sent the following Barwick a cordial "Get Well Quick" card.

He signed it, of course, "The Fink."

Greeks so that when and if they join they will improve upon some of the imperfections of the system. One cannot condemn Alan's courage in standing up to the system and its parts; he is consistent both in speaking, actions and writing.

To the Editor:

"No. 44" has brought fame and fortune to Syracuse University. To sports fans throughout the country this number symbolizes two truly great football players from this university: Jimmy Brown and Ernie Davis. In achieving their many laurels, these two gentlemen have not only put this university, but also the city of Syracuse, on the map.

Jimmy Brown is considered by most to be the greatest football player ever to step foot on a gridiron. Ernie Davis has the title of being the first black college player to be named one of Brown's collegiate records and has capped off his fabulous college career by being awarded the Heisman Trophy, the most coveted award given to a college football player.

The Boston Red Sox retired "No. 9" in honor of the outstanding contributions that Ted Williams made to his team. There is little doubt that Brown and Davis have contributed as much to Syracuse University. The number would be most appropriate to retire "No. 44" in honor of these two outstanding athletes.

Sight, Sound's Use In Libraries Noted

By JAN GRIFFIN

This column usually sticks close to the topic of broadcasting, but I'm going to wander from that narrow subject to the whole field of communications this week. Grist for the mill came from ideas presented to the Syracuse Library Association by Dr. A. William Blum, of the TV-Radio Dept. The most vivid experiences that a person has are those that use the most human senses. To see and hear something, such as a speech, makes much bigger impression than reading it. Not to say that books are out of date in this sight and sound age, they are merely supplemented by another medium.

The products of the mass media: films, television and radio, often achieve the level of art, and deserve to be saved among the archives of sociological study. Much can be read about it, but no library contains a copy of the program. Performances of Plays

A play such as Archibald MacLeish's "Fall of the City" would carry much more meaning if the student could hear a performance, for it was written to be heard, not read. England's Shakespearian masterpiece "The Ages of Man" gains a new depth in the performances by John Gielgud.

There is a growing trend in the educational field to use films, records and tapes, but it is just a small start. The most obvious use of the sight and sound media is to hear words and show the action. In this manner it functions as an art form. But it can also work to reinforce the printed word, aiding the circulation of books.

Dr. Blum foresees a library of the future where all the forms of human communications are stored for use by the student. There are audio tapes, videotapes, sound films, and microfilms. The tapes and films include the communications that should be seen and heard. On the microfilms are books, pamphlets, periodicals, all printed matter, still in the form of word-symbols.

Special Rooms
In special viewing and listening rooms on campus, the students can receive by a simple electronic method, any of this information. To read a book, the student pushes a button and the index file appears. (It is one of many copies) He lets it whirly, controlling its speed, until he arrives at the right subject.

Another button now lets the entire index on that subject roll by slowly. Finding what he wants, he speaks carefully into the microphone the code of the work he wants. In a moment, it appears on the screen. Page 1 of Plato or Wordsworth or the New York Times. The speed of its progress can be controlled with another button. It's really not any more complicated for the student than going to the library, looking up the book, writing out the card, waiting for the book, and leafing through the pages at his desired speed.

Another button, the screen goes blank and the microfilm (one of about 5 copies) is re-wound for future use. Each film, tape, etc. would have its own unit for playing it, and with a number of copies, availability would not be a problem. Nor would noise from other students. And there is no opportunity to rip out a page, or steal a magazine.

All of this is electronically possible. All it needs is foresight. The sight and sound media have much to contribute as an art media. They also make an excellent technological work horse. The new process of communication has much to offer the old process of education. It is up to an imaginative, bold institution to seize the leadership of new ideas, and make them work, and S.U. it would be nice to keep it in the family.

'La Boheme' Set For Performance At Loews Theater

Tickets are still available for the New York City Center Opera's production of "La Boheme." It is a very funny fast paced film. Hope, co-starring with Lana Turner, Paula Prentiss and Jim Hutton, makes any number of sly, credible, and double innuendo's that literally tears apart the suburbs and exurbanites.

Hope has spent some 14 years abroad examining the Swedes, the Germans, the Dutch and any number of other national versions of the great game of sex. He now tackles America and mainly the still attractive Miss Turner. But before the final clinch Hope's dry, sophisticated,

Sophisticated Bob Hope Film at Loews

"Bachelor in Paradise" is all about Bob Hope's adventures as a bachelor writer on sexual customs in contemporary suburbs. It is a very funny fast paced film. Hope, co-starring with Lana Turner, Paula Prentiss and Jim Hutton, makes any number of sly, credible, and double innuendo's that literally tears apart the suburbs and exurbanites.

Hope has spent some 14 years abroad examining the Swedes, the Germans, the Dutch and any number of other national versions of the great game of sex. He now tackles America and mainly the still attractive Miss Turner. But before the final clinch Hope's dry, sophisticated, always sharp humor chips away at those great American institutions like, motherhood, fatherhood, childhood, supermarkets, school buses, frustrated wives, frustrated husbands and frustrated bachelors.

Admittedly, film purists will not approve of the absence of sight gags (there is one obvious one about overflowing washing machines). Indeed, "Bachelor in Paradise" would have been just as effective as a radio play.

But that didn't stop Hope's wisecracks from breaking up the Loew's audience. Also playing is a superior competent, well acted, filming of an Australian play, "Seasons of Passion."

Fencers Boast Returning Trio

A solid trio of returning lettermen is expected to spark the Hill fencing team this season.

Coach Alexander Dako's outfit features senior epeemen Ed Siedlick, Art Hacker and Bob Seewald.

Dako, who is entering his third season as coach, expects the epee team to provide most of the victories for the Orange this season. Last year Siedlick, Hacker and Seewald posted a 36-18 won-lost record. Siedlick, the team captain, won the North Atlantic Tournament epee championship.

Big things are also expected of senior Mike Shepard, who fences foil.

The swordsmen's season opens Saturday, Dec. 3, at Archbold Gymnasium. Their schedule includes matches against Cornell, Penn State, Notre Dame, the Rochester Institute of Technology and Hobart.

Bolstering the highly-touted Hill epee team are two fast-progressing sophomores, according to Dako. Al Rosenberg and Mary Stone are expected to see considerable action during the season.

Besides Shepard, the foil and saber teams include several untied sophomores, and remain a question mark. Marty Dako, Stu Hollander, Mike Michaels, Marty Cohen, and Dick Dauenhauer and others are vying for starting berths.

How many victories they contribute could determine the fate

Davis Makes All-East; Nine Pietymen Honored

Syracuse's dynamic halfback, Ernie Davis, has been named to the 1961 All-East football squad by the writers and broadcasters of the Associated Press.

End John Mackey and tackle John Brown of the 1961 squad were picked for the second team, while end Walt Sweeney, center Bob Stem, and quarterback Dave Sarette made the third team.

Orangemen who were given honorable mention by the All-East selectors were fullbacks Bill Schoonover and Gary Fallon, and quarterback Walt Soltan.

McCarthy At Quarterback At quarterback for the All-East first team is Holy Cross's Pat McCarthy, a versatile athlete who is the only junior on the squad.

The other members of the backfield are Al Rushnatz of Army and Steve Simms of undefeated Rutgers, a pair of explosive fullbacks.

Flanking the line are Bob Miltner of Penn State's All-America candidate, and Greg Mather, Navy's field goal kicking sensation.

The center is Alex Kroll, Rutgers' hard-hitting All-America prospect, a unanimous choice for the spot.

Rounding out the line are tackles Bob Asack of Columbia and Dale Kuhns of Army, and guards Larry Vignali of Pitt and John Hewitt of Navy.

Syracuse opponents who were named to the second team include tackle Jim Smith of Penn State, center Jay Huffman of Penn State, center Jay Huffman of Penn State, quarterback Galen Hall of Penn State, fullback Harry Crump of Boston College, halfback Fred Cox of Pitt, and halfback Tom Hennessey of Holy Cross.

Ernie's Sixth In NCAA Rushing

By RON ROBERTS

Heisman Trophy winner Ernie Davis finished the 1961 campaign in sixth place in individual rushing and tied for fourth in individual scoring, according to the latest edition of the National Collegiate Athletic Association statistics sheet.

Davis pounded out 823 yards in 150 rushes for an average of 5.5 yards a carry. The Elmira Express has amassed a total of 2,386 yards—almost a mile and a half—in his three year Hill career, for a new University mark, and a rushing average of 6.8 yards a try.

Davis' 15 touchdowns and four extra points gave him 94 counters for the season and a fourth place deadlock with L.S.U.'s Harris. Ernie's Hill total of 220 points shattered Jim Brown's old standard of 187.

Quarterback Dave Sarette was the only other Orange grinder to place on the state sheet this week. His three conversion passes against Colgate stand as the season's single game high in that category.

Hill Foes

Piety opponents also made their presence known in the rankings, and Liberty Bowl-bound Miami drew a few spots on the prestige list.

Bill Miller, the fine end for the Hurricanes, is presently third in pass receptions with 41. And the rugged Miami line stands eighth in scoring defense and tenth in rushing defense. They have allowed their opposition only 7.1 points a game and have limited them to an average of 96.1 yards on the ground.

The vaunted passing attack of Holy Cross has placed the Crusaders in fifth place in airways offense, while quarterback Pat McCarthy stands ninth in total individual offense. Al Snyder's 30 receptions make him the seventh-best pass receiver in the country.

Oregon State has also piled up the offensive statistics this season. The Beavers are tenth in rushing yardage gained and 12th in total offense. Terry Baker is 13th in total individual offense.

Maryland also figures into the offensive picture with 30 receptions by Gary Collins leading the team which is ninth in total passing offense.

Penn State has climbed to sixth in total offense, with 1,034 yards by Galen Hall and 666 rushing yards by Rog Kochman leading the way.

Fred "Colt 45" Colvard of West Virginia was the only other Hill opponent to place on the sheet.

Pittsburgh Selects All-Opponents

Halfback Ernie Davis was the only Syracusean to win a position on the University of Pittsburgh's 1961 all-opponent football team.

Davis led the balloting for backfield spots, while tackle Marshall Shirk of UCLA gathered the most votes among the linemen.

Joining Davis in the backfield were quarterback Galen Hall of Penn State, halfback Roger Boldinsky of West Virginia and fullback Ronnie Bull of Baylor.

The ends selected for the Panthers' all-opponent eleven were Larry Wilson of Miami and Les Traver of Notre Dame. Centering the line was Jay Huffman of the Nittany Lions.

Three guards and three tackles were picked to round out the squad. Guards tapped were Nick Buoniconti of Notre Dame, Herby Adkins of Baylor and Jim Skaggs of Washington. Tackles were Shirk, Bill Winterot of West Virginia and John Meyers of Washington.

Postmaster Gives Advice on Sending Christmas Mail

Following is a list of suggestions to follow in mailing Christmas mail. Heading these hints will assure prompt and efficient delivery of such mail, according to Myron J. Parkinson, Syracuse postmaster.

1. Mail out-of-town cards and packages by Dec. 16.
  2. Use 4c postage on cards. This assures First Class consideration. Fasten all local cards together, the same for out of town.
  3. Use strong cartons for packages and tie securely. Put addresses inside as well as outside.
  4. Have a stock of postage stamps on hand, as well as labels which designate local and out-of-town mail, which should be attached to the 2 bundles of mail.
  5. Obtain a copy of Pamphlet No. 2, which explains these suggestions in further detail.
- Include a complete address on each piece of mail, and have them all facing the same way, thus enabling speedier handling.
- Parkinson emphasized that mail cooperation in the past has enabled Christmas mail to be delivered before Christmas eve.

UC Dean Named To Study Board

Dean Alexander N. Charters of University College has been named to the board of the Center of the Study of Liberal Education for Adults, with headquarters in Chicago.

The board, established as a result of a grant from the Fund for Adult Education, studies the development of the evening college and extension movement for the benefit for all adults.

Earlier this year, Dean Charters became a member of the National University Extension Association.

Foresters Urge Safety Measures

Keep your Christmas tree standing in a container of water at all times, the Forestry College advises. It is not only the best way to keep the tree from being a fire hazard, but it also keeps the tree's needles from discoloring, or falling, the experts say.

"Freshly cut spruce or balsam fir trees standing in water are not easily set afire by candle or match fires," said Professor Ralph G. Unger, director of Forest Extension at the College of Forestry.

He also suggested these tips for holiday safety: never leave the tree lights on unattended, check all electric cords carefully to be sure they're not frayed.

Tree Sale

Orders for Christmas trees will be taken all this week by the Kappa Phi Delta fraternity, forestry fraternity.

For the eleventh year the fraternity will deliver to order, spruce and pine greens grown on a Christmas tree plantation in Tully, New York.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for the social budget. The location of the fraternity house is 200 Walnut Avenue.

Did Antoinette Work on Hill?

No further information was available late Friday afternoon concerning whether a reputed prostitute works or has ever worked as a chef at a Hill fraternity house.

The woman, Antoinette Wilson, testified in a narcotics trial ending Friday in County Court that she "worked in a Greek house on the Hill," according to Assistant District Attorney Boyle.

The trial, lasting six weeks, saw four persons convicted on two counts of conspiracy to sell narcotics. In addition two of the four were found guilty of possession of narcotics with intent to sell.

Possibly Bribed
Miss Wilson was also reported as saying she used narcotics and that she was offered a bribe to leave town, possibly to avoid testifying at the trial, according to Boyle.

SU's director of information services, William Ehling, stated that earlier in the week Dean of Men Earle Clifford called all the fraternities to ascertain whether or not the women was or had ever been in their employ.

This individual calling was necessary, Ehling explained, because the University exercises no control over the hiring of fraternity kitchen and domestic help. The employment of such employees is up to the Alumni Corporation of the fraternities," Ehling went on.

No Access
"Consequently, University administration has no access to the files concerning such help hired by Greek houses," Ehling pointed out. "We must obtain our information by actually questioning each house concerned," he added. The trial, which was prominent in the news recently in Onondaga county, first involved the Wilson woman when it was discovered she was living in the same residence with the convicted persons. Dean of Men Earle Clifford's office supported Ehling's remarks by stating that his office had learned nothing more at her possible employment at a Hill fraternity.

State Law Dept. Begins Program For Cit Students

A pilot program in which college students will have an opportunity to practice participation in government is now being administered jointly by the New York State Law Department and the City Council of Columbia College, Columbia University.

The program, at present limited to students of Columbia College, was instituted to help students increase their awareness of the responsibilities of public service and the need for citizen concern.

Students participating in the program are assigned to various bureaus of the office of Attorney General Lefkowitz their first opportunity coming on Election Day in the Election Frauds Bureau's work at New City polls.

The program at present is extra-curricular, at a future date, work connected with the program may serve as the basis for research projects related to academic courses.

Other bureaus in which the students will assist are the Charity Frauds Bureau, Consumer Frauds Bureau, Civil Rights Bureau and the Mental Hygiene Bureau.

Wayne Wows In Wild West

Remember those square-screen, black and white westerns you used to see with MGM color musicals when you were in high school?

Well, 20th Century Fox has taken all the elements of those films, added a few more cinches, and has given the whole mess to John Wayne, Stuart Whitman, Ina Ballin, Nehemiah Persoff and Lee Marvin.

The result, in "The Comancheros," now playing at the Paramount, is a strangely tolerable film, that at times almost becomes enjoyable.

"The Comancheros" is that kind of movie that does not stimulate or excite, it merely entertains. A month from now you might not remember the story, but you will remember having a pleasant time at the theater.

The cinches are piled on high and are pulled off so glibly that they're funny. The script, always maintaining this easy humor, lets the film ramble on.

The story concerns Texas Ranger, John Wayne, who is in pursuit of Mississippi Gambler, Stuart Whitman. Wayne catches Whitman, but not before Whitman can have an affair with Steamboat Belle, Ina Ballin.

The results of a raid by renegade whites, the Comancheros, cause Wayne and his prisoner to be freed.

But these same comancheros reunite the two. Eventually they attempt to capture the gang, only to find "led by hard headed Nehemiah Persoff and his charming daughter (you guessed it) Ina Ballin.

Before the final clinch though, any number of wild Injun raids, saloon fist fights, and scenes of great American countryside occur.

Michael Curtiz directs with snappy style.

Critic Assigns City Block Plan

By CAROL SCHLAGETER

The latest visiting architectural critic in the School of Architecture series, C. Ross Anderson, has presented his construction problem to fourth year architectural students.

Students must design a city block for an expanding commercial district of a small city Olathe, Kansas. The block contains a hotel, parking facilities and a shopping plaza accommodating some 30 commercial establishments.

For the first week of the project, students will work independently to design plans for the block. At the end of this period, a committee will combine students into working teams to carry the best ideas to completion.

Anderson, a citizen of Canada, a member of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, will speak February 10 on Stocum Hall on "The Architecture of Ontario, Vision and Vernacular."

He has been visiting lecturer at the University of Manitoba, McGill University in Montreal, L'École des Beaux Arts, and the University of Kansas.

At Kansas, Anderson conducted a running project in the study of evolution of the house from primitive structures.

He earned his B.A. and Master of Architecture degree from the University of Toronto.

He worked with his own firm in Toronto before presently associating with Fleury, Arthur and Barclay Associates.

Anderson is seeking a permanent visa to the United States. After obtaining a temporary visa for three years at the University of Kansas, he was informed that he must return to Canada for two years before applying for US citizenship.

His case has passed through the consulate in Canada, and is now before the United States Attorney General. Anderson is presently here on an exchange visa, available to him as an educator.

Women to Hear Of Opportunities For Business Jobs

Miss Ingeley Hansmann, assistant director of the Harvard-Radcliffe Program in Business Administration, will be on campus to discuss job opportunities for women at 4:00 p.m., Thursday, December 14 in the City Women's Lounge.

All women students are invited to attend the meeting where Miss Hansmann will answer questions about the techniques of job hunting and the kinds of job opportunities liberal arts graduates can expect to find.

The Harvard-Radcliffe Program is a graduate program for liberal arts majors co-sponsored by Radcliffe College and the Harvard Business School. It maintains a close relationship with business and government organizations and also conducts national surveys of the job experiences of its own graduates.

Faculty Members Argue A-Shelters

By MELANIE COHN

Dr. Arnold Honig and 20 members of various departments of Syracuse University met last week to outline a statement against the nation-wide fallout shelter program.

This move was taken as a result of an advertisement in the November 10 issue of The New York Times signed by members of the faculties of universities in the Boston area, which stated the case against the fallout shelter program.

The group is now circulating this statement of their views among University and Medical School faculty members.

They hope to receive enough funds to place a half page advertisement in one of the local papers to present their case to the public.

Dr. Honig said the purpose of their action is to stimulate a public to rejection of fallout shelter programs and strive for peace rather than for a questionable survival in a devastated, near uninhabitable world.

The group belief, Dr. Honig said, is that an extensive shelter program will increase the probability of a nuclear war. Such a program, he continued, helps prepare people for acceptance of thermonuclear war by giving them confidence in the ability to successfully survive a nuclear attack.

The statement also questions the effectiveness of a feasible fallout shelter program. Despite many shelters it states, only a small percentage of our population could survive an all out nuclear attack.

A shelter program, the statement concludes, is a step in the wrong direction as it may cause a false sense of security making our nation less likely to devise and support positive programs to reverse the arms race.

Dean Discusses Scholarship Aid

During this year, Syracuse University will spend more than one million dollars for scholarship aid to undergraduate students, and will receive in return an additional $250,000 for further financial aid. These facts were revealed by Dean James G. Carleton, director of financial aid, in an interview.

The quarter of a million dollars to be given to the university, will either be given to pre-determined students or will be given to the university for its own scholarship fund.

Not included in these figures are the regents scholarship holders at SU — 560 frosh and 900 upperclassmen — who have state scholarships from New York, New Jersey and other states, Carleton noted.

Scholarships at SU "This year we have 2,200 students who are receiving some form of scholarship aid—this includes any type of scholarship," said Carleton.

There is a general scholarship program, a grant and aid award, and a system of industrial scholarships, he said.

"If a student applies for scholarship aid," he went on, "he is considered for all scholarships that SU can offer—not just one. Furthermore, athletes are not put into a special group, they can apply for any form of assistance."

Conditions There are, however, certain conditions that the scholarship applicant must live up to, the dean noted. First, the student must show that he is in need of financial aid, then, while the scholarship is in effect, he must maintain a respectable average, while also compiling a good citizenship record.

Carleton pointed out that the family's financial situation must be checked before a scholarship is given to a student. This is done by means of the Parent's Confidential Financial Statement. This provides complete financial data about the family of the applicant.

Carleton stressed that in filling out the application packet, a student should be sure to answer all questions given the reasons behind this, he added, is that some scholarships are given only to certain students who are either majoring in a special field or from a specific geographical location.

Loans

Loans for educational purposes are also available to those who may need them, the dean said.

These loans differ from commercial loans—from banks—in that they have a low interest rate and have deferred payment.

There are over 1,000 students at SU who are using loans in one form or another, Carleton added.

Commenting on the Scholar Incentive awards, the dean remarked that they are forwarded to SU in March, and come as individual checks for each student concerned—checks ranging from $50-$150.

Checks

Carleton noted that to sort these checks out and mail them to each student would be a long hard task. Therefore, a way to distribute them is being planned. Since these checks will come every term for as long as the student is in college, it is suggested that he file a power of attorney.

With this power of attorney, the dean noted, the student's school records will be credited to the university—as part of tuition—or can be converted to cash if the student wishes. Also, he would not have to go through the process of receiving the check every time it comes, the power of attorney will cover the entire stay at SU.

The dean emphasized that any student with questions regarding scholarship or loan aid, should consult with him, or at the offices of the Dean of Men or Women. Graduate students could apply to the writer two offices for information, he added.

Syracuse Alums To Hold Dance

Tochester area residents who are currently enrolled in Syracuse University or are alumni will attend the annual Syracuse University Alumni dance Dec. 27, 1961, from 9:00 p.m. until midnight in the ballroom of the Sheraton Hotel.

This dance sponsored for the past ten years by alumni and friends of the university is considered one of the highlights of the Christmas season.

The University of Texas DAILY TEXAN reports of the prof entering the class and complimenting the class on recent exam performance. "That is, all except one person," he reserved. "One of you will hear watching." Quilty sidled-glances by the students followed, each apparently wondering, "It is me?"

Action Pending on 'Raid'

Sororities, Dorms Besieged in Early Morn Panty Plea

By ALAN G. MILLSTEIN

Hundreds of Syracuse men students early Monday morning staged the largest combination pep rally and panty raid in recent campus history.

Crowds of students, reaching upwards of 2,500 in number, according to city police, surged around women's living centers shortly after midnight in what appeared to be a pre-liberty Bowl celebration.

Large groups of Hill fraternity members and upperclass and freshmen independents took up the cry for "silk." Coeds in the dorms and sorority houses responded generously tossing personal undergarments from windows.

Hill Security Police quickly responded to alarmed calls from living center directors and housemothers that began coming into the university switchboard about 12:20 a.m. About eight patrol cars from the city police department reinforced the Hill police on the scene.

Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford and Security Director Robert D. Flaherty were called to campus and remained with the crowds until they dispersed at about 2:30 a.m.

Five university policemen on regular duty and city police called by local residents to the campus at no time used force to break up the mass of students.

Since there was little property damage or malicious mischief, one Security official said, they concentrated on controlling and dispersing the crowds without force.

Resident advisors and dormitory directors from men's living centers joined members of the dean of men's staff in watching the movement of the crowds. Several staff members were observed taking names of students trying to break into sororities or cottages or hanging from fire-escapes and roof tops.

The evening's proceedings, which are receiving nation-wide publicity, were believed to have started in a few fraternity houses along Greek row in the Walnut Park area. The slumbering Sunday night campus came alive when large spirited groups began moving from the Walnut area to the Watson-Marion DelPlain dormitory complex.

It is thought the Greeks hoped to create a rally as part of the "Go Greek" campaign now in force during freshman rushing.

The knowledgeable mobs of students moved quickly toward the Mt. Olympus dormitories.

Men surrounded both Flint and Day halls, and the cheering chaotic madness outdoors was joined by pajama-clad coeds indoors. The coeds joined in loud, indistinguishable singing and cheering and showered the men with undergarments, paper and in some cases cold water.

The crowds moved down the Mount after the police arrived and paid visits in similar fashion to Shaw Dormitory, Walnut Park sororities, Constock avenue sororities and again to the Mount Olympus complex.

By 3 a.m. the last of the raids had dispersed.

AN UNIDENTIFIED STUDENT tries to climb out window of Smalley Cottage, 420 Walnut Pl., during Sunday night's party raid. Around 2,500 men staged the after-midnight demonstrations at sorority houses, cottages, Shaw Dormitory, and Flint and Day Halls on Mount Olympus. Three students were injured.

Syracuse Officials Await More News Of Damage, Injury

By JOYCE HERGENHAN

"I'm not ready to make a definitive statement on whether we're going to take any action," said Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford, discussing possible disciplinary moves against students involved in Sunday night's all-campus panty raid.

"There are a number of things to consider before making a decision," said Clifford Monday, and at this point we are most concerned with incidents that had the potential of causing property damage and personal injury."

These incidents, he explained, include instances of boys climbing on roofs and fire escapes. "We have very adequate identification of the individuals involved in these incidents," he stated.

As evidence of this, Clifford noted that the dean of men's staff Monday interviewed a large number of students whom they had recognized as participants Sunday night.

Dean of Women Marjorie C. Smith seemed displeased with the demonstrations, but said she also wants more information before deciding if her staff will take action against any women students who may have participated.

"I'm not very proud of what went on last night," she said Monday. "I have assigned several people to gather information. Until we get all this information together we don't want people to think any action will be taken or any action won't be taken."

As part of her investigation, Dean Smith met Monday with student deans from all women's dormitories. Today she is scheduled to confer with all the sorority house mothers.

Discussing another angle of the noisy demonstration, Dean Smith said she was "very concerned about the lack of consideration shown people in the neighborhood trying to sleep."

Dean Clifford disclosed that all resident advisors who stayed on their floors Sunday night were requested to determine which boys remained inside during the demonstration. These lists probably will not be used, however, unless there is a question about the participation of a particular individual.

Although Clifford is still investigating the cause of the raid, he said "initial indications seem to suggest it was originally an upperclass activity. As soon as it transformed itself into a disciplinary activity, the upperclassmen realized the potential consequences and lost interest."

He said his office took no action until the situation became potentially dangerous in the area of personal injuries and property damage.

"It is unfortunate, but sometimes inevitable," he said, "that activities with apparent good purposes get converted into incidents with implications that are destructive or damaging to either persons or property. When this happens it becomes necessary for somebody to intervene."

More Food Service Complaints Slated for Today's JSL Hearings

By JEANNIE RANOV

"Then there's the coffee—it looked like a light shade of tea, and tasted like colored water."

"There was a man with cuts on his hands serving icecream and blood dripped from his hands into the icecream."

"I would like to break my board contract for religious reasons, but I can't."

These quotes are part of testimony of Hill students at hearings on the food service issue held Monday afternoon by the Joint Student Legislature Student Conduct and Welfare Committee.

Hearings Today

Further hearings are scheduled from 2 to 3:30 p.m. today in 207 Hall of Languages.

Committee Chairman Ted Bayler has urged all students with a serious interest in improving conditions in dining halls to attend the hearing and give testimony.

Students may stop in at the hearing any time between the hours mentioned, and are requested to bring written complaints to be handed to the committee in addition to oral testimony.

Food service representatives from all floors and living centers are especially urged to attend today.

One student testifying Monday said she would like to "change the fact that we are obligated to have contracts with the university." Many others agreed that mandatory board contracts were not desirable.

A member of the crew team noted that "athletes are not immune" to alleged abuses of food service. He mentioned sour stew that last spring caused illness among crew members, and long lines in Commons where Hill athletes eat.

A Sadler resident said meal served in dining halls should be of better quality, and cited a problem with long lines for students wishing second helpings.

Meal was described as "fatty" and "full of gristle."

A shortage of silverware, and "dirty or crooked" utensils were noted.

A Watson student said meals lacked variety, cold eggs and toast were served for breakfast, there was no time to eat lunch and still get to noon classes because lines were too long.

Others noted "poorly balanced meals," "full of starches."

One coed summed up, saying she has heard "more complaints about sanitation than any other condition."

A Little Squeal

Many interesting articles and items come across the Daily Orange Sports desk everyday. But none has ever distinguished us as much as a column received from the Daily Texan Monday.

A column by Bill Little of the University of Texas campus newspaper challenged the selection of Ernie Davis for the Heisman Trophy. Little feels that a more logical choice would be the Longhorns' scabback, Jim Saxton.

We do not mind Little's defense of Saxton. We will readily agree that Saxton is one of this year's most outstanding college football players. However, we feel that Little's remarks about Ernie Davis were in extremely poor taste.

Little admits that Davis is the nation's top pro prospect. But he contends that Ernie lacks the intense competitive spirit that marks a great college athlete.

Little reminisces about the only time he saw Ernie in action—the 1960 Cotton Bowl game.

Little states that the last time Davis carried the ball in that contest he ran for the sidelines "which seemed to be the safest place around." Little goes on to say, "Davis limped rather obviously off, finishing rather ingloriously his appearance in Texas."

But Little's sob story doesn't stop here. Some more choice paragraphs are:

"Maybe we dream—but we'll take Jim Saxton and his 160 pounds of pure fire and determination, his coming back again and again even after he's been clobbered time and time again. We'll take that spirit and we'll take something else. We'll take something the mechanical men don't have—sportswise or otherwise—we'll take a little heart."

"We want the boys who'll hit because they want to—not the ones who hit because they're paid to. Give us the boys who play for the sake of playing."

"Because when you've gone that last five yards—when there's nobody left to hit—when that last tackler is gone and there's an open ahead—they are the ones who keep on running—that run for running's sake—these are the ones who had the one major asset—that little thing called heart."

Little feels that he has constructed a perfect description of Jim Saxton. Perhaps he has. But ironically, Little has drawn an even more accurate picture of Ernie Davis. For the kind of competitive spirit that Little describes was dynamically displayed by Ernie in that Cotton Bowl game.

Mr. Little left out a few minor details in his description of that contest. Ernie was a green sophomore, playing before a hostile crowd in the Deep South in his first bowl game. Perhaps you didn't know this Mr. Little but he was unable to practice for the week prior to the game because of leg injuries. Both legs were heavily taped before the game and he was in pain throughout the four quarters. Yet he personally outscored the entire Texas team.

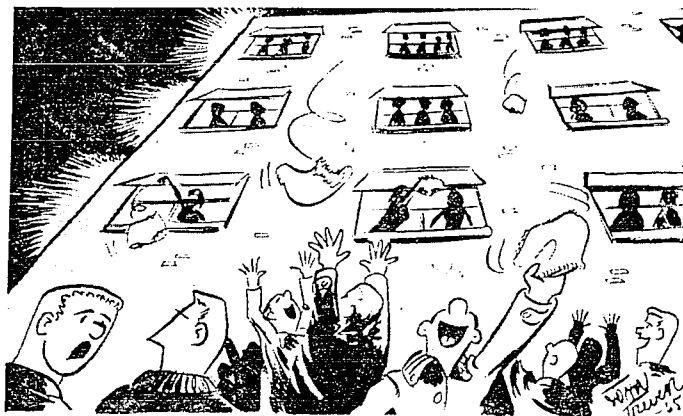

We could cite many other examples of the courage Davis has displayed on the gridiron. In the Miami game last year, it was Davis, doing most of the ball-carrying, being hit hard time after time, who sparked a late drive. It was Ernie who finally fought his way into the end zone for the winning score.

These aren't the actions of a mechanical man. These aren't the actions of the quitter Little describes.

In each game in which he has played this year, Ernie Davis has displayed the spirit and determination that Little says the nation's top football player should possess. You don't break all of the fabulous Jim Brown's records without "that little thing called heart."

Although Saxton hasn't scored nearly as many touchdowns as Davis this year, we will agree that he is the top back in the Southwest. But to the unprejudiced spectator Ernie Davis remains not only the top pro prospect, but also the nation's top college player.

Mr. Little, grow up. We don't expect you to have Ernie's character and sense of fairness. But at least open your eyes and recognize greatness.

"This is the biggest pep rally we've had all year!"

OPINIONS ON CAMPUS

By REA TURET

Question: What do you think of Sunday night's "panty raid"?

Jim Tallon, '65: "It was an interesting outburst. I don't think it had any more significance than a lot of people making noise and more following to see what it was all about."

Terry Hughes, '63: "I thought it was the best thing that had ever happened on this campus. It should become a weekly campus tradition."

John Morgan, '62: "I thought it was an absurd thing. I said 'the hell with it' and went to bed."

Daphne Brooks, '64: "I thought it was funny at first, but the longer it was prolonged, the cruder it became. It is too bad we won't get as enthusiastic about something worthwhile. It was a waste of energy."

Roz Aberman, '65: "The raid raised a marvellous school spirit. . . I didn't want to study for my test anyway."

Joel Fishman, '62: "I thought it was a very orderly disorder. The fact that it was Greek inspired and took place during rushing showed that the frosh aren't the only live people on this campus."

Dave Breiser, '64: "It was a true manifestation of the students' desire not only to override present restrictions but also to make their presence felt in a frowning world."

Don Seckler, '64: "The Security Police had the right attitude toward the whole episode. They decided to let the students have their fun as long as they didn't destroy anything. The university should have adopted such a relaxed attitude 20 years ago for new life."

Terry Timmons, '64: "I thought it was a lot of laughs. . . A good time was had by all."

Dan Ritsy, '65: "It was a good way for the boys to let off steam. Despite what the administration might say, the raid was perfectly harmless and a lot of fun."

AMONG OTHER THINGS Good Clean Fun

By JEANNIE RANOV
It was bigger than Ayn Rand, the mixed dating deal and the freshmen freedom fighters.

It was a real, live, honest-to-goodness Piety Hill panty raid. It was the collegiate spirit incarnate.

We were there and it was great.

We were messing around down in the living room of the sorority house about 1 a.m. with some of the kids when we heard a muffled roar. Somebody looked out the front window up the street and guessed it was the Dekes kicking up as usual.

But, group, there just aren't that many Dekes on this campus, 'cause by the time we got to the window, a black mass of people was boiling across Walnut Park. We've never heard as much noise as they were making at any game in Archbold.

They had evidently been over at Phi Omega, and waving souvenirs, they swarmed up the steps of Alpha Phi and then moved down to Alpha Delta Pi.

We beat it up the stairs to the third floor and some convenient front window. The night was all the stock words you could call it—fantastic, unbelievable, crazy.

An army of guys gone wild milled under the tall trees of the park, and surged up the steps of the sorority houses. They were sounding the charge on a trumpet, they had cymbals going, even fireworks booming.

The bright headlights of cars formed a ring around the two blocks of the park between University and Waverly avenues, and Waverly and Marshall street.

And this was 1:30 a.m. on our shud old Hill.

We think we're echoing the sentiments of most of the students at SU when we say this panty raid was one of the happiest incidents to hit our school in many a semester.

No one was hurt, no real damage was done, as far as we know; it was just that good old item missing in large measure from this campus for some time—nice clean college fun.

We only hope there will be no repercussions for the high-spirited students involved. It's great that SU is finally pulling a little academic atmosphere into lungs house from denying charges of being a "playboy school."

But let's not get to be fuddy-duddies about it. We've said it before, and we'll say it again, college is our last playtime, our last stronghold against the reality of that cold, cruel you-know-what-out there where the the ivy ends.

So, please, you stuffy ones, who will criticize the panty-hunters for their immaturity and their thoughtlessness, let us have academic atmosphere a little hell, let us be kids a little while longer.

All we know is, the wee hours hours of Monday, Dec. 4, 1961, will be long kept by all those who participated in the Piety Hill panty raid as a vivid memory of their college days.

Raid, Columns Cited

To the Editor:

We of Flint 4A wish to congratulate the participants of Sunday night's "study break" on Mount Olympus. It is encouraging to witness a spontaneous spark of life in the student body.

Early raids have long been a tradition on many college campuses all over the nation, and knowing that this tradition has finally reached SU helps us feel more like college students than factory workers.

This outburst should alleviate the complaints of many on the lack of student spirit, although undoubtedly, the administration would rather have a lackadaisical and stagnant campus.

The Ladies of Flint 4A

To the Editor:

We have just finished reading the columns of Alan Millstein and Kent Barwick. We cannot believe that two intelligent students would engage in such trivia. Let us raise a question they are calling each other in private.

It is quite evident that all the columnists for the DO have definite feelings about the fraternity system. We believe that it is good for the campus to hear their opposing views, but now it is time to look at what they are saying.

Mr. Barwick has called Mr. Millstein's column of Nov. 29 another "misguided missile." It seems to us that they are both misguided. The whole argument has been reduced to a personal fight across the pages of our only campus newspaper.

The time has come to call a halt to the name-calling and to start pointing stories about things which are of interest to all the students on campus.

Hollywood Twists With Quickie Films

By JOHN E. GREENWALD
 "Catching red herring? Tell you what I'm going to do! So that you all can welcome in Christmas and New Years in proper style, I have here, fresh from the factory in assorted shapes, sizes, and colors, for your approval, Chubby Checker T-shirts, beanies, and (for the kiddies) musical toys!"

Well, the race is on. Faster than America can Twist, the Twist promotions and gimmicks are being swiveled out. "Get your T-shirts, beanies, toys, one minute TV, shows and two week movies!"

Twist Bandwagon
 As one craze not manufactured in a smoke-filled press agent's room, Hollywood and New York are doing their best to get on the Twist bandwagon.

No less than three Twist features are now being made. All are scheduled for a Christmas or New Years release date. Paramount is shooting an "authentic" Twister called, surprisingly enough, "Hey, Let's Twist!" It is being shot in the Peppermint Lounge, with a 15 day, 18 hours a day shooting schedule. It also has an "unlimited" budget, according to the producer.

Pajamas
 "Hey, Let's Twist" stars Joey Dee, The Sharlitts, Teddy Randazzo and The Peppermint Loungers, (the latter sounding more like a brand of pajamas than a singing group).

Columbia is shooting a Chubby Checker optis entitled "Twist around the Clock," while Louis Prima has just finished filming his independent production of "Do the Twist." This one stars Louis, Sam Butera and the Witnesses, and June Wilkinson. Verbalizations of the images of "Do the Twist" had best be left unsaid.

We don't blame Hollywood and New York for milking what has come out of the Twist before it tires out the entire nation. Ever since Cholly Knickerbocker, The New York Times, and "Life" reported high society's legitimatizing of the dance it has crown by leups and bounds.

Savvy Version
 Just to make sure the Twist was really "in," we ventured to the Savoy last Sunday to hear L. A. and the Eldorado's administer to the Syracuse faithful what one psychiatrist called "a harmless release of tensions."

The lure of the group and their music was so great that we saw some people Twisting who had previously sworn, in blood, never to step inside the Savoy.

But, frankly, we couldn't keep our eyes off one black-haired girl in a blue-brown print shirt. She counterpointed to the Twist a series of epileptic shakes and malaria shivers. The intense glare of her eyes from behind her sunglasses added to the general effect. One afficionado said she was doing the "method" Twist.

And then there was the couple with faces transfixed in mystical reverie as their hips touched.

A religious experience was had by all.

Excellent Concert Given by Soprano

Sunday's Crouse Concert proved once more that there is a series of professional artists teaching at the Syracuse School of Music. Ruth Pinnell, soprano, along with Veronica Rohan Sage, pianist, presented one of the most stirring performances Crouse has seen in years.

In a well balanced program that ranged from Monteverdi to Leonard Bernstein, Miss Pinnell had complete control over her rather small, but appreciative, audience.

Although it is very hard to pick out one particular section as being outstanding over any other, we feel that her interpretation of the second section of the concert, which included songs by Schubert, Wolf and Strauss, was to be classed as the best. Here Miss Pinnell displayed an almost unbelievable control of her dynamic level and ability to sustain a note seemingly forever.

Mrs. Veronica Sage showed her fine ability as an artist by working hand-in-hand with Miss Pinnell in creating an atmosphere of expressiveness and tonal beauty.

After intermission, Miss Pinnell had her audience laughing with a delightful piece written by Leonard Bernstein entitled "La Bonne Cuisine" (Four Recipes). Much credit must go to Mrs. Sage for her interpretation of some difficult piano literature.

Miss Pinnell closed her concert in grand style with a group of French songs by Chausson and Massenet. —G.E.W.

Enjoyable Playing Given to 'Candida' By Readers Group

Sunday night's production of "Candida" by the Syracuse Readers' Theater was expressive and enjoyable.

Seen in George Bernard Shaw's famous comedy of manners and morals were Daphne Hogstrom as Candida and Harold Hogstrom as the Reverend Moral. Harold Hogstrom also directed. They were ably supported by Adrienne Zahler, Robert Varzi, Jesse Waller and Thomas Blowers.

About a self-centered minister who holds an unrealistic attitude toward marriage and a young man who comes to dinner and winds up creating havoc in the minister's marriage, the play was done with great polish.

Man Who Came To Dinner
 Eugene Marchbanks, played excellently by Jesse Waller, was the sentimental young man who came to dinner only to fall in love with Candida. Ironically enough, she supports his amorous intentions with flowery sentimentality. A comedy triangle follows.

The success of this type of production relies entirely on the ability of the reader to communicate the mood, tempo and essence of the play merely by reading. Sunday's performance accomplished just this.

A most appreciative audience responded to this sophisticated comedy. The actors know their lines so thoroughly so that the scripts served only as a means of reference rather than as crutches.

Roberta Heronine
 Roberta Varga gave the best supporting performance in the play. Mrs. Hogstrom gave to Candida, perhaps Shaw's most individualized heroine, the strength and intelligence needed for the role.

As Morrell, Hogstrom gave the most outstanding performance in the play. The pomposity and self-righteousness of the minister came off deftly.

Staffers Choose Opponent Stars

A pair of All-American ends, Gary Collins of Maryland and Bob Mitinger of Penn State, pace the Piety all opponent team as selected by the Daily Orange sports staff.

Both played significant roles in Syracuse defeats on the receiving end of Dick Novack and Galen Hall passes. Collins caught the two-point conversion to edge the Orangemen, 22-21.

Collins was selected on the first All-American teams chosen by the East-Hall Coaches Association and Time Magazine. He also received All-East honors.

Mitinger was named to the coaches first squad as well as the Associated Press All-East team. End Les Traver of Notre Dame also played well against Syracuse, scoring on a 25-yard pass.

Smith, Winter
The tackles selected were Jim Smith of Penn State and Bill Winter of West Virginia. On three occasions Winter stepped Orange backs for negative yardage in addition to playing a strong game on offense.

Smith was delegated to the All-East second team.

Two guards with All-American honors, Larry Vignali of Pitt and Nick Bioncenti of Notre Dame, hold down the guard positions. Bioncenti was chosen second team All-American guard by the coaches with Vignali making the third squad.

Center and linebacker Pete Goimarae of West Virginia centers the all-opponent line, being one of the best linemen faced by the Piety this season. He was the outstanding lineman of the West Virginia game by the press. Staged Davis Goimarae was keyed on Ernie Davis as the Orange halfback was held to 35-yards rushing. The Mountaineer center stopped Davis six of the 11 times he carried the ball.

Goimarae, along with teammates Bob Ielorenzo and Keith Mellenzyer, made the Mountaineer line one of the toughest faced by Bill Orange.

The best of many top quarterbacks faced by the Orangemen, according to the D. O. sports staffers, was Oregon State's Porty Baker.

The triple-threat quarterback provided one of the best runs against the Orangemen this season going 45-yards after he was seemingly caught behind the line of scrimmage.

Rated right behind Baker was Pat McCarthy of Holy Cross who displayed some of the best passing seen in Archhold this year.

Thornton at Fullback
Bill "Thunder" Thornton of Nebraska was selected as the outstanding fullback faced. Thornton gained over 100 yards against the Piety team.

The halfbacks are Angelo Daberio of Notre Dame and Fred Cox of Pitt. In addition to considerable rushing yardage against Syracuse, Cox was on the throwing end of a 38-yard pass play. He also kicked the longest field goal in Archhold Stadium history with a 47-yard three-pointer.

Daberio Scored
Daberio scored one of the two Irish touchdowns on a pass from Frank Budka. He was chosen on the coaches third All-American team.

Roger Koehman of Penn State was another back who played an outstanding game against the Piety.

The only opposing teams failing to place a man on the eleven man team were Boston College and Colgate.

The last run against Syracuse was Boston College's Jack Conannon's 79-yard touchdown effort.

Penn State Takes Lambert Trophy

The Nittany Lions of Penn State have won the Lambert Trophy for 1961, which symbolizes Eastern football supremacy.

The Pennsylvania eleven, which finished the season with a 7-3 slate, including a 14-0 victory over injury-riddled Syracuse, received a near-perfect 9.9 rating.

Trailing Penn State in the Lambert Poll was Syracuse with an 8.9 standing. Completing the top ten were Rutgers, Navy, Holy Cross, Army, Villanova, Columbia, Pitt, Boston College and Harvard (tie for tenth).

Miami, Piety Bowl Foe, Edges Florida In Finale

By DAVE DEAN Associate Editor

The University of Miami, Syracuse's opponent for the December 16 Liberty Bowl game, narrowly edged Florida, 15-6, Saturday as the Hill grid toes closed out their 1961 season.

In other action, Holy Cross ran over Boston College by a 38-26 score, and Notre Dame and Oregon State lost in their season finales.

Narrow Win for Miami
The Miami Hurricanes' light-touted passing game was stalled for the first half but it was a George Mira pass which put the winners ahead to stay.

Halfback John Bahen was nearly the goat of the game when he fumbled a punt in the second period, setting up a Florida score and giving the Gators a 6-0 lead. However, he redeemed himself 14 seconds later, when he took the kickoff and raced 93 yards for a touchdown.

Mira's scoring pass to Nick Spinelli put the winners ahead 12-6, and a 19-yard field goal by Bobby Wilson insured the victory.

7-3 Mark for Season

The victory gave the hurricanes a 7-3 mark, identical to that of Syracuse, going into the Liberty Bowl game.

Holy Cross junior quarterback Pat McCarthy outgained the entire Boston College team, completing 16 of 32 passes for 216 yards, scoring twice himself and passing for another pair of touchdowns.

McCarthy, who has been the whole offense for the Crusaders all year, moved into the second position in the nation in total offensive yardage. On the basis of performance against BC, he moved from ninth place to second, passing seven men who had already completed their seasons.

End Barry Tyme took both of the scoring passes, while halfback Al Snyder was named outstanding player for his pass-catching prowess. Snyder also ran a punt back 42 yards for a score.

Fullback Harry Crump scored twice for Boston College. BC's rushing game was crushed, with a game total of minus two yards, including a first half total of minus 53.

Notre Dame was completely overwhelmed by the Duke passing game, 37-13, as Blue Devil quarterbacks completed four touchdown passes, two each in the second and fourth periods. One of the TD receptions came in the sitting position.

Yearling Cagers Top Ithaca, 74-52

By DAN GARR

Inaugurating their 1961-62 campaign, the Syracuse frosh basketball team celebrated its return to the hardwoods with a 74-52 thumping of the Ithaca College Cubs Saturday night.

Coch Mar Guley's charges led all the way following an early basket by the downstaters. Their superiority throughout the game was never in jeopardy.

Increased Lead
Gaining momentum as the first half progressed, the Syracuseans steadily added to what had been a small lead. Instrumental in the drive were Tom Fitzsimmons and Rich King, with 7 points apiece, and Mike Brown with 9.

With 7:13 remaining in the second period, the Piety Cubs had a 21-14 advantage. This lead was doubled a few minutes later as the SU frosh were out in front 34-20. The two teams then exchanged foul shots and the Ithacans sank a field goal to cut the SU halftime margin to 35-23 as the intermission sounded.

After the teams returned to the court, the Tangerines maintained their edge until the Ithacans began to find the range. With 39 seconds to go in the third quarter, they pulled to within 44-36. But the home team held on and superior rebounding enabled them to lead by 56-42 with 7:12 left in the game.

Becomes Rout

From that point on, the contest turned into a rout. With mentor Guley clearing the bench, the SU frosh led by as much as 73-49 when the two-minute warning sounded. The final margin was 74-52 as an Ithacan missed a long set at the final gun.

Mike Brown was high-scorer for Syracuse with 23 points, 14 coming after the intermission. Rich King poured in 14 and Tom Fitzsimmons nine to round out were paced by Jim Streeter, who hit the big offensive guns. The losers lost in 16 fouls.

Mermen Crush RPI Swimmers

By BERNIE MACCILLUM

The Syracuse University mermen set five pool records and won nine of eleven events in defeating Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute 65-30 at Troy, N.Y. Saturday in their season opener.

Greg Pond won the 200-yard butterfly for Syracuse with a record breaking time of 2:17.7.

The Syracuse foursome of Jeff Meyer, Pond, Tom Watts and Jim Tuck broke the second pool record of the afternoon with a winning time of 3:37.1 in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

The Piety swimmers swept the individual medley, the backstroke, diving and 440-yard freestyle events.

Pete Moore and Joe Morrison finished one-two in the medley with Moore covering the 200-yards in 2:20.8.

Spirited Piety Cagers Bow To Rams in Season Opener

By RON ROBERTS

Syracuse opened their 1961-62 basketball season at the War Memorial Saturday night, and Mare Guley's charges showed all of the spirit and hustle he had credited them with before bowing to Fordham, 68-56.

The lack of a tough rebounder and all-around team size were sorely noticeable on the Orange squad. But a little fire, a little determination, and a little sharp-shooting by sophomore Carl Vernick allowed the homesters to keep the issue in doubt until the closing minutes.

Vernick dropped in eight of 15 attempts from the floor, most of which were long one-hand jumpers, to top the Piety scorers with 16. But game honors went to Bob Melvin and Jim Manhardt of the Rams, who cashed in with 18 each, and Joe Dempsey added 14 more for the visitors.

The battle started slowly, with the teams trying to set up their plays. But with Melvin leading the way, Fordham kept edging farther and farther ahead. Then Vernick came into the ball game late in the half and made good on three out of three to revamp the Orange spirit, and Fordham led only 29-23 at the half.

The flashy Vernick, who Guley has called his most promising sophomore, seemed to spark the club throughout the game. But he drew four personal fouls in the first half and it cost him on defense in the second half, when he

Redskins, Bills Draft Davis

Ernie Davis, Syracuse's Heisman Trophy winner and superstar halfback, was drafted by the Washington Redskins of the National Football League Monday.

Earlier, the Elmira power runner had been tapped by the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League. The Bills have indicated that they will make every attempt to sign Davis, but the Redskins have the same intentions.

The only other Hillmen who was mentioned in the pro league drafts was center Bob Stern, was selected by the Boston Patriots.

was forced to lay back on his man.

Most of the 950 fans half-expected to see the Rams put the Orange away early in the second half, but it wasn't that easy to push away the Orangemen.

Bob Murray, a 6-3 sophomore from Schenectady, came off the Piety bench to join Vernick in keeping the Hillmen within striking distance until the clock had ticked away all but five minutes.

Murray, who hadn't scored in the first half, meshed three of six field goal attempts and six of seven from the foul line for 12 points. Vernick added five field goals as the soph combination accounted for 22 of the 33 Orange points in the last half.

Piety Pursues Panties; Silk Souvenirs Sought

By RANDI GANG AND MELANIE COHN
Spurred by hopes of dainty booty an estimated 2,500 Hillmen charged Mount Olympus and storm down and up the stairs with cries of "we want panties," "we want lace."

The Mount invasion sent Flint and Day eccels into a state of confused excitement. Flint Hall head residents issued a black-out decree and covered the girls out into the hallway.

But the persistently curious eccels would not be stopped and ran from room to room peering out windows and showering the raiders with assorted lingerie. One Flint coed realized in dismay she had donated all her unmentionables to the "raiders."

At Day Hall behavior was not regulated by head residents. There too there was a flurry of undergarments accompanied by water hoses.

Sorority houses on the main campus were besieged by masses of panty-seekers who climbed singles and window sills and boarded porches and roofs. Alpha Phi sisters watched in fright and amusement as the invading males formed human ladders to reach their second floor porch.

The raiders' attempts to enter through a second floor window and to rip down the Alpha Phi banner hanging from the third floor were prevented by police.

At Sigma Delta Tau two spirited men climbed up the fire escape and attempted entrance. Delta Gamma, Alpha Delta Pi, and Delta Phi Epsilon girls were harassed by raiders on their porch roofs.

Invaders swarmed over porches and fire escapes of Iota Alpha Pi and Chi Omega and Gamma Phi Beta were also visited.

Winchell Hall head residents held two fire drills, first to warn coeds and then to reprimand them for their conduct. The Winchell girls had bestowed undergarments on their serenaders who hung from the fire escapes.

Haven Hall residents are "on their honor" not to divulge any information concerning the raid, a Haven coed said.

Dean of Women Marjorie C. Smith said crusaders reached the fourth floor of Haven via the fire escape, but that no men entered any university women's living centers. At Shaw, coeds living in the east wing rushed to the west wing, overlooking Comstock avenue, to stare in fascination at the stream of men pouring from fraternity houses, Watson, Marion and DellPlain Halls, up the 77 steps to the Mount.

Fifteen minutes later the raiders descended from Olympus and milled about Shaw, chanting pleas of "more". Obliging, several coeds tossed dainties and toilet paper in response. A check on the Shaw entrances revealed a basement door had been opened slightly.

Reactions of female observers and "participants" were varied. At first most coeds were startled and frightened by the onslaught of screaming men, but fears soon gave way to amusement and high spirits.

Even several head residents were caught up in the excitement of the mob, and admitted since no real harm was done. Most sorority house-mothers, however, reacted in shocked fashion.

The playing of taps and the alma mater by an anonymous bugler marked the end of a spirited demonstration dubbed by one SU alumnus as "a platonic plea for panties."

Formal Rushing To Start Friday

The last informal rushing session will be held tonight from 7-10. During this time, rushees will be able to visit any house in any group. The time has been suspended and rushees may spend any length of time at each house.

Formal rushing period, beginning on Friday night, will consist of three sessions. The first session will be held from 5:30-7 p.m., 7:15-8:30 p.m., and 8:45-10 p.m. The Rushing schedule for Saturday, December 9, Sunday, December 10, will be held from 12:30-2 p.m., 2:15-3:30 p.m., and 3:45-5 p.m.

The first session each day will be a dinner. During the formal rushing period rushees are expected to have only one date with the same house on the same day.

Registration for the formal rushing sessions will be held from 1-5 p.m. Wednesday, December 6, in the Men's Gym. After filling out cards with the names of fraternities they wish to visit, each rushee is required to bid three houses stamped by Greeks during informal rush.

A time schedule for the formal session will be announced by the dean of men's office later this week. Preference cards will be filled out by rushees on Monday, December 11 from 1-5 p.m. in the Men's Gym. Bids are to be typewritten in order of choice, alphabetically, in triplicate.

Deadline Set For Sorority Registration

Tuesday is the last day for sorority rushing registration. Freshman girls interested in rushing should register 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Panhellenic office, 3rd floor, Women's Building.

After paying the $3 registration fee, registrants receive the Panhell booklet, which gives a brief description of each sorority on campus.

Registering freshmen rush either Plan A, Christian tradition; Plan B, Jewish tradition; or Plan C, cross-rushing.

Panty Raids Not New to Campus

Panty raids aren't exactly a new thing on the Syracuse University campus. In October of 1958, a group of men students staged a raid on Shaw Dormitory similar to the occurrence of Sunday night.

Shortly after midnight October 31, 1958, 250 fraternals, men and some independents gathered and began to march around the campus. Chanting Syracuse songs, they paraded through the Walnut Park area and then up Comstock to Shaw.

As the men arrived at Shaw, some residents of the dorm ascended to the roof and pelted the demonstrators with water and toilet paper. The group of men escaped with but one pair of unmentionables.

Architecture-Art Display at Lowe

A collaborative project now on display at Lowe Art Center combines the work of art and architectural design students in planning a hypothetical art and architectural center for the university.

The proposed center includes the library, University Walnut and University Place blocks, now partly filled by Lowe.

The project retains Lowe Art Center to be used in "whatever capacity best utilizes its location space and equipment."

Dr. Kenneth Sargent dean of the School of Architecture, explained that the student work would not be used should the hypothetical center be realized.

An actual construction requires several months of detailed study, he explained, and fourth year architectural design students would be unable to devote this amount of time to the project.

The proposed designs on display were diverse. One showed a circular auditorium with an accompanying wall fresco.

Another building was constructed in jagged lines.

Others were contrastingly squared and tailored in appearance.

Artists worked closely with the student architects, creating an abstract mural, a free-standing concrete divider, and abstract sculptures coordinated with the plans of the architect's center.

One welded relief displayed bold angular patterns in metal, uniting deep green and rose shades.

The designs included plans for a museum, museum storage, an auditorium, classrooms and work areas for sculpture, ceramics, graphic arts and architecture classes.

Lawrence E. Schneeknecht is director of the Art School.

Increased Bus Service Begins

Extra buses have been put into service for runs from the city to the corner of Euclid and Comstock Avenues, according to the Syracuse Transit Corporation.

These are in addition to the regular runs from the city to Drumlins Country Club, Times of departure from the city are 10:30 p.m., 11 p.m., 11:30 p.m., 12 midnight and 12:25 a.m.

The only exception is Saturday evening, when the 12:25 run leaves at 12:30 a.m. The bus company is trying out the added runs to determine feasibility of continuance.

Ford Establishes New Engineering Post-Grad Award

The Ford Instrument Company has announced a grant of $1,000 to Cornell University to enable an outstanding engineering graduate do full-time post-graduate work.

The fellowship is open to students in their first year of graduate study, or those who have finished only a limited amount of extra study at the graduate level.

It is open to American students of "sound character and of scholastic standing and initiative" as determined by the Cornell Graduate School.

The fellowship allows study in Electrical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Engineering Physics, and Mechanics and Materials.

Applicants should write the Dean of the Graduate School Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. Candidates for the first award must file prior to February 9 1962. Recommendations of the School of Engineering faculty will be sent to Ford with data concerning the applicants.

Parratt Notes US Inequalities

By DAN RITELY

What is to be done with those people who do not respond to new classification systems? They are put into ghettoes and scientifically classed as hopeless, Dr. Spencer Parratt, Professor of Political Science, said in a citizenship lecture, Monday.

The issue of classification systems was brought up during the discussion of the movement toward social and economic equality. The example cited by Dr. Parratt was urban renewal and relocation of people.

He also mentioned two ideas in history calling them patterns of belief.

First, was the theory based on the rule of the elite. Great leaders, Dr. Parratt noted, molded the masses and, like Mussolini, gained absolute control over them.

The second idea Parratt stated is that history is the summation of economic forces. As an example he cited the triumph of the proletariat.

Parratt noted three thrusts of history: wealth, political equality, and education.

He pointed out that we are not seeking equality, but an opportunity to become unequal. We are not moving towards equality, he said, in that all equality is either social or economic. Instead, Parratt continued, we create differences that are significant and meaningful.

The thrust toward political equality, Parratt noted, reached a peak with the passage of the Pendleton Act. The thrust towards education he asserted is still being resolved.

Dr. Parratt said the system of classification for better jobs, housing and relocation makes for the creation of a scientific class, regardless of sex, color or race.

Parratt noted that public progress would proceed as fast as public understanding would increase. We should not seek new ideas while, at the same time, forgetting older objectives, he concluded.

The DAILY REVELLE of Louisiana State University says that it "is going to enjoy Christmas on Christmas this year, not from August to December."

Action Uncertain As Investigation Of 'Raid' Continues

SU Administrators Still Interviewing Student 'Raiders' By JOYCE HERGENHAN Junior Editor

"There's no particular need to be rash or hasty about this," said Assistant Dean of Men David Tatham yesterday, discussing his office's continuing investigation of Sunday night's party raid.

Tatham, who is heading the investigation within the dean of men's office, feels it is still too early to predict what, if any, action will be taken.

"I am still ascertaining the facts to see what part various students had in it," he said. "I doubt very much we can even guess at what might have done until we have all the facts."

More Boys

Six or eight boys, including those injured during the demonstration and those identified by dean Smith as members as performing actions such as climbing walls and fire escapes, were interviewed Monday by Tatham.

Approximately six more boys are scheduled to meet with him either today or tomorrow. Keeping with a long standing administration policy, Tatham did not release any student's names.

Dean of Women Marjorie C. Smith, who is studying the part certain woman students played in the demonstration, also thinks it is too early to discuss any action her office might take.

Dean Smith said she has talked to several students, student deans and sorority housemothers in an attempt to get a complete story on the raid. She added, however, that her investigation was far from being completed.

The students interviewed by Dean Smith included those who tried to climb out of windows and those who aided and abetted boys trying to get in.

"A great many rumors have been brought to our attention," said the Dean. "We are dispelling all those based on fact, but we can't make any final decisions until we explore all the rumors."

Lecture Notes 'Activity, Food Relationship

By SUSAN WEINBERG

Eating must be considered in relation to activity. An excess of 100 calories a day will cause an increase of ten pounds a year. Dr. Frederic N. Marty, director of Student Health Service, emphasized this point yesterday in a lecture discussion on weight control.

The film, "Facts about Figures," illustrated many of Dr. Marty's points. A person may eat exactly the same amount of food throughout his life. Yet he may slowly add enough extra poundage to put his life in serious danger. This seeming paradox is due to increased activity as he grows older.

As people age, Dr. Marty said, system of shelters, the conception that we have a great flexible margin for error is not bold, because this would assume

A HILL STUDENT TESTIFIES before TED BAYER, chairman of the JSL Student Welfare Committee, and LEE JAY, 25 of the committee. Testimony came yesterday at hearings on food service complaints. ## Formal Rushing Sign-Ups Today

Formal rushing periods, starting Friday night, will consist of three sessions each on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Sessions on Friday night run from 5:30 to 7 p.m., 7:15 to 9:30 p.m. and 8:45 to 10 p.m.

Sessions on Saturday and Sunday afternoon are from 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m., 2:15 to 3:30 p.m. and 3:45 to 5 p.m. The first session on each day will include dinner.

During the formal rush period rushees are to have only one session with a particular house on the same day. Registration for these sessions will be from 1 to 5 p.m. today in the Mens' Gym.

While signing up, each rushee must agree to visit three houses stamped by the Greeks during the informal rush periods.

A time and place schedule for these sessions is due this week from the dean of men's office.

Rushees will fill out preference cards from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday in the Mens' Gym.

JSL Readies Food Report

A report on student dissatisfaction with university food service will be prepared tonight by the Joint Student Legislative Student Conduct and Welfare Committee.

The report will be submitted to JSL next Wednesday for approval and then passed to the administration for action.

Hearings held Monday and Tuesday afternoons at which students aired complaints will be the prime source of material for the report.

Although under 100 people gave testimony at the hearings, held in the Hall of Languages, many of those who did appear were dining hall representatives, representing all the students on their floors or in their entire living center.

Specific Complaints

The committee received written lists of specific complaints from many students, and in addition had those at the hearings fill out questionnaires.

Testimony at the hearings both days covered a wide range of topics, including low quality food served, difficulties with serving personnel, poorly balanced meals and unsanitary conditions in dining halls.

To Tuesday's hearings students brought as "exhibits" a plate of food, a stone and a piece of wire allegedly found in food and four pieces of worn and bent silverware.

The committee has also received detailed reports from many students to demonstrate serious deficiencies in meals and service in university dining halls.

The committee feels that sufficient evidence has been gathered to demonstrate serious deficiencies in meals and service in university dining halls.

Miner Offers Views About Shelters as Deterrents

By DANIEL RITZY

If our country was supplied with a thorough system of fallout shelters, not only could this be a deterrent to an actual attack, but it could put the United States in the strange position of being an attacker—using atomic weapons first to offset superior Soviet manpower.

Dr. Jerry Miner of the economics department presented this view during a lecture given yesterday in Hinds Hall.

The lecture, eighth in a series of 10 sponsored by the Hill Civil Engineering Department, dealt with a social scientist's view of fallout shelters.

Brief Summary

Miner presented his remarks with a brief summary of the jobs of a social scientist. The social scientist tries to explain economic, social and political behavior, while, at the same time, determining if they are feasible. Furthermore, he went on, social scientists develop criteria for judging the worthiness of these policies, while, at the same time, determining if they are feasible. Finally, they try to distinguish between ends and means.

Fallout shelters form a policy aimed at achieving an end, and they are also an end in themselves, said Miner.

Miner discussed the aspects of the fallout shelters that interest social scientists. First, what do they really achieve? Also, what are policy details—what are shelter characteristics, are they small or large?

The questions about shelter usefulness, and ways that people would be convinced of their use, and what is their goal are also considered, Miner noted.

There are two distinct aspects of the goals of fallout shelters, said Miner. The first is, of course, the protection of the lives of the citizenry. Secondly, shelters would help with the maintenance of basic social institutions which characterize our government.

Framework of Society

These institutions that might be salvaged form the framework of American society: political freedom, civil rights, economic liberties, all this in addition to the preservation of human patterns such as travelling, living on the surface, and raising of families.

Shelters could also serve immediate ends, noted Dr. Miner. Besides the main purpose of saving lives, shelters could act as deterrents to Soviet expansion, while, at the same time, further Western influence.

Shelters could serve as deterrents, Miner explained, because they would put our country into a position where we deter Soviet expansion not by the use of nuclear or military methods, but by saying: "We will take action if you do something."

Furthermore, Miner said, shelters, "frighten the enemy away from taking nuclear or non-nuclear steps that we do not want," some people believe.

Miner also noted that our foreign policy and our attitude towards the UN were deterrents in that they may help to save lives by avoiding a war completely.

Concerning the problem of the shelter program achieve its goals? Miner pointed out that the answer would depend on various factors.

Some of these factors would include: the size and targets of the attack, the use of chemical or biological warfare, and the strength of our retaliating forces.

Miner defined survival not in terms of those who will survive the immediate blast or fallout, but those who will survive the attack for at least a period of years.

The use of shelters as a deterrent by saying they will stop the Soviets from attacking is not as good an idea as is strengthening our bases and submarine fleet, Miner said.

Also, he went on, if we had a (Continued on Page 7).

Cambridge, SU Debaters Tie On Cold War

By BEVERLY LURIA

Judges Dean of Women Marjorie S. Smith and Dr. John F. Olson, vice president and executive assistant to the chancellor, proclaimed a Cambridge University versus Syracuse University debate a draw.

David Saunders and Leon Britton of Cambridge University, faced Christy Lucas and Nelson Happy of the Syracuse University Debate Council on the topic "Resolved: That the West is Fighting a Losing Battle," last night in the H.B. Crozier Auditorium.

William Sittig, president of the Syracuse Debate Club, narrated. Saunders and Lucas argued the pro and Britton and Happy the con of the topic in the debate which Dean Smith issued disposed of the international flavor.

Britton and Saunders were chosen to represent the Institute of International Education at 36 colleges and universities in the United States. The Institute annually sends a team from either Cambridge or Oxford University.

Cornell, Yale and Purdue are among the schools they have visited. They will debate at seven (Continued on Page 6)

An International Students Organization meeting will be held Thursday, 4 p.m. in Maxwell 'culturalum. All international students are invited.

Sunday Night

What can be said about 2400 screaming, jubilant college men leaping into the air for some co-ed's underwear? Did it make any sense or have any particular significance? No. Was it fun? Yes, except for the poor guy who was clobbered on the head by a living thermos bottle. Obviously Syracuse men have an attraction to women and a love of harmless, exuberant and loud fun. Strangely enough, they also have an overall maturity. Even in their most impetuous and enthusiastic moments, there were no observable participants who forgot that the main object of all the noise and movement was to vent a few of the frustrations of exams, rushing and college life in general. Rarely have such large crowds moved with such little malice. It is indeed to our credit that there was no intentional malice or violence. In addition there was little or no attempt on the part of the students to make the raid anything more than it was. No one tried to make a demonstration or protest rally out of it.

But at the same time it should be realized that there was a great deal of total damage that both the university and individual sorority houses will have to pay for. Even more important, it should be realized that Sunday night's fun could have easily turned into turmoil and terror. A mob is always unpredictable and therefore dangerous. For these reasons the real heroes of Sunday night were the city and university police, both of whom handled the situation with amazing intelligence. They could have easily aggravated the situation. Instead, they calmly watched, waited and influenced.

Admittedly, we were all very lucky Sunday night. Much could have happened but little did. We may not be so lucky next time. But we still trust that the administration will have the foresight and fairness to take Sunday night the way it was meant and then we can all laugh about it.

Readers Discuss Education, Raid

To the Editor:
When a Syracuse sheriff painted his car with the slogan "ALWAYS DRIVE CAREFUL," we were reminded why Johnny can't spell. His parents can't teach him any better.
When I watch graduate students underline and write in library books, I wonder how many of them are future teachers who will fluninate against the decline in individual responsibility, the loss of consideration for others, etc., etc.

Besides, it makes the books damned hard to read.

To the Editor:
It is about time someone at this university showed some spontaneous spirit and awoke from the lethargy. We are ashamed to say that as sophomores we have had to wait this long for such a gung-ho demonstration other than a few blase pep rallies.

Three cheers for the initiative and action of the freshman boys who made it more than worthwhile to lose a few pairs of underpants and a few hours of sleep.

A Frosh Speaks

By KEN NORWICK

The relative merits or demerits of the current freshman class has been an issue widely discussed this semester—mostly by upperclassmen. Rarely, if indeed at all, has the frosh point of view been exposed. We intend, presently, to rectify this situation.

The following unmailed letter, found under a table in the Orange, presents the views of at least one Syracuse freshman. It is reproduced in its entirety, without further comment.

"Dear Aunt Martha,
"First of all, I want to apologize for not writing to you sooner. I've been meaning to, really, but somehow or other I just haven't been able to find the time. I mean they really keep us busy here, and now, with rushing, we just never seem to have any free time at all. It's really a hectic life.
"I'm sure you're here as usual. I really like it here. I mean sometimes it gets kind of confusing and depressing and all, but most of the time it's really great. In fact it's hard to believe a freshman year at college is almost half over. You know, you really feel 'old' once you get to college.

"Remember my high school newspaper, the one I used to write for? Well, I've got a paper up here just like it, except that it comes out every day. It's called the 'DO' and everybody reads it, mainly because there's nothing else to read and it's free.
"Anyway, there are some writers on the DO that really confuse the hell out of me. I mean some say one thing, and others say the exact opposite. And then one will call another a name, and then the other will come right back and call the first guy another name. I mean on the high school papers we all seemed to be able to work together and get along with each other and all.

"Well, anyway, what confuses me is that they keep saying how great or how lousy the freshman class is. I mean none of them are freshmen or anything, and I'll bet none of them know any of us too well, but they keep on fighting about us anyway."

"I mean I think we have a good class and all, but I can't see why these writers spend so much time trying to evaluate us all the time. You never hear anybody fighting about how great the juniors or seniors are, so why are they always picking on us?"

"It might be because some of the freshmen got mixed up in campus politics and started sending around petitions about the fraternities and everything, but these were only a few people and not the whole class. I mean if they started to fight about us, how great or lousy these few individuals were I could understand it, but instead they keep writing about the whole class."

"Anyway, now the big fight is about how great or how lousy the fraternities are. First one guy came out and said the fraternities were lousy and were going to destroy the great freshman class, but then another guy came back and says that the fraternities are great and the freshmen are lousy. And then it turns out that the first guy is in a fraternity in the first place, and that he really likes it there."

"Well, as I said before, we're rushing now, and what I'm doing is completely ignoring what these writers say.
"I'm sure you're enjoying pushing so far, and I really liked a lot of the houses I went to, except that a lot of the time the whole thing seems unreal. I mean at every house they tell us how great fraternities are, and how great the guys are, and how if you don't join a fraternity you'll really be out of it and all, but somehow they never seem to really mean it."

"I mean I suppose fraternities are all right, and I'll probably join one and all, but I just can't believe that they're as really great as all these guys say. I wish somebody would just say that fraternities aren't bad or anything but that you can manage to live without one if you wanted to. I mean they make it sound like if you don't join a fraternity you might as well quit school and join the army or something."

"Anyway, most of the guys I know are going to join, and I probably will too, and probably next year we'll be telling all the freshmen how great fraternities are and everything. I guess a lot of college life is really quite phony when you get right down to it."

"Well, I got to sign off now, a couple of the guys are going down to this bar they have down off Marshall street and I'm going to go along with them."

"I'm looking forward to seeing you during the Christmas vacation."

"Love,
"Your freshman nephew."

"P.S. You may have heard about this 'party raid' that was pulled off last Sunday night, so let me tell you what really happened. Actually, all it was was about a couple of thousand guys marching up and down the campus yelling and screaming and sleeping at about every sorority house and girls' dorm where they kept chanting 'We want panties' and all. I mean I suppose it was fun and all but I'm sure just like everything else around here in a few days it will be completely forgotten and everybody will start thinking about himself and not give a damn about what's going on on campus. I mean that's the way things are around here.
"Well, so-long again, . . ."

Role of Foreign Students Discussed at Cornell

Editor's Note: The role of international students on the Syracuse campus has been a widely discussed issue in recent years. The following article, reprinted from the November, 1961 issue of Cornell's "International Speaking" magazine, presents the views of a Cornell student on the same issue as it affects a neighboring campus. The article was written by Rita M. Klissen.

As we wandered across the arts quad on our way to the library the other evening, we chanced to overhear a young co-ed speaking to a friend.

"I'm so glad I joined the One World Club," we heard her exclaim. "I really think we ought to try to help foreign students as much as we can. I mean, after all, I like to try to be nice to everyone, and it's so gratifying, you know, to help somebody else."

The young lady was speaking in complete earnest, and was obviously overflowing with noble intentions. But her remarks betrayed a peculiar attitude found among many students on the Hill.

This attitude assumes that foreign students come to Cornell to learn more about what the young lady would probably call "the American way of life." They often feel in addition that the foreign student is indeed fortunate to have at his disposal the resources of so varied and rich an institution as Cornell, and that the task of the University student is to help orient this newcomer to Cornell and show him that Americans are a friendly and kindly lot. All well and good—so far as it goes.

But what many of these students overlook, to their own disadvantage, is that foreign students come to give, as well as to get, and that a chemistry major from Brooklyn, New York, can learn just as much from an Indian student as the latter can from him.

The diversity of Cornell is in large part due to the cosmopolitan quality of its makeup, and the student who ignores the broadening of his own perspective that might take place through contact with foreign students is missing a whole segment of this diversity.

Perhaps if the nice young lady we spoke about had stopped trying to "be nice" to foreign students, and had instead tried to let them "be nice" to her, she would have had a few new doors opened for her. Perhaps if she had joined the One World Club to learn, instead of to teach, she would have discovered that Americans can be enlightened by foreign students just as readily as foreign students can learn from Americans.

Foreign students are likely to have some difficulty adjusting to Cornell, perhaps more than the average student. And of course a foreign student, like any other human being, appreciates a gesture of friendliness. But many people imbued with the idea of enlightening these students might be considerably surprised to find out how much American students, given a chance, can enlighten them.

Predictable Novel Explores Football

FOOTSTEPS by Hamilton Maule, Random House, 1961, 280 pp., $3.95.

Novels that seek to expose corruption generally fall into two categories: first, those which make an honest attempt to publicize a wrong and correct it; second, those which publicize a wrong to milk its sensationalism.

"Footsteps," by Hamilton Maule, has as its base the promising theme of crooked college football, but manages to demoralize itself straight into the latter group.

"Footsteps" takes the wrong direction almost immediately when it abandons the corruption of a sport to explore the corruption of one man. The reader soon becomes aware that the hero's vices of wine, women and general wickedness are native to plumbers, grocers and ad-men, as well as to football coaches.

Paddy O'Connor, as author Maule presents him, is so unsympathetic, so lacking in any grace or virtue, that it becomes a major question as to why a book should be built around it. With malignant ease he picks fights with bar-tenders, seduces and then rejects his boss's secretary and orders an injured player to stay in the game.

These and other dirty deeds are accomplished with such unflinching precision that Paddy's sudden bout with fear towards the middle of the book becomes farcical by contrast.

Maule's explanation for his hero's character, which might have brought the book into focus, is timorous to the point of indignity. Paddy, it seems, was raised in a mining town with no money and a bad girl for a sister, and has sworn to take his revenge on the world.

The intervals when Maule deals existentially with football are rare, and even these are overshadowed by the reptilian characters who participate in them. The theme suffers from a fatal overdose of digression.

When judged as a whole, the novel appears to be composed of a string of cliches. Maule's characters are not grey, but black and white, for "when they are good they are very, very good, but when they are bad they are horrid."

Returning again, like Frankenstein and other horrors, are the villain with nary a streak of humanity to warm his personality; the bartender who doubles as confidante; the fair-haired football player who persists in saving the game despite a multitude of injuries.

The situations are largely predictable; one has the sensation of being able to quote the next line before reading it.

Perhaps the best quality of the book is its readability, which is due largely to short, terse sentences and sparseness of verbiage. Unfortunately, the style is too bare a framework to support such flimsy material.

Despite its pretensions to respectability, "Footsteps" has a distinct air of potboilerism. It is spiked liberally with some of the dullest juvenile-level obscenity; this side of Mickey Spillane, Maule's polly of tossing in a hasty four-letter word whenever the creativity gets rough does little to alleviate the forced quality of the story line. For all their conscientious lewdness, the characters rarely rise above the level of adolescents bragging about last night's fictitious conquests.

To be worthwhile, a novel must either give the reader a glimpse of himself and his fellow man or present an image that he may look up to and perhaps dream about. Paddy O'Connor is neither human nor a hero, and the strongest emotion triggered by "Footsteps" is one of bewilderment as to why it was written in the first place. B.K.

'Finian's Rainbow' To Open at Regent Thursday Night

The University Regent Theater will resound with the music of "Finian's Rainbow," being presented by the Syracuse Musical Theater at 8:30 p.m., Thursday, Friday and Saturday and at 4 p.m., Sunday.

"The audience will be transported on the wings of fantasy to "Rainbow Valley," that wonderful land in the state of "Mississippi" where leprechauns abide and gold is to be found.

Or, the leprechaun made famous by David Wayne in the original Broadway production, is being portrayed by Joe Meltzer. Meltzer is a graduate student in the Drama School, specializing in direction. He sings the intriguing "Something Sort of Grandish" and "When I'm Not Near the Girl I Love, I Love the Girl I'm Near," in the play.

Ed Roman, a graduate of the Syracuse University School of Marketing, plays the title role of Finian McLonergan, an Irish rogue.

Diana Manning as Sharon, Finian's daughter, sings the unforgettable "How are Things in Glocca Morra" and "Look to the Rainbow," among other numbers.

Davis Chosen for All-Star Game; Five Opponents in Shrine Contest

By JUDY ADAMS
Heisman Trophy winner Ernie Davis tops the list of 23 players selected for the East-West Shrine football game to be played December 30 in San Francisco.

The much sought - after halfback was also named to the Look magazine All-American team chosen by the Football Writers' association and the All-East college football team chosen by the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

This year, Davis joins such selected stars-outs as Bob Ferguson, Ohio State's fullback rated second to Ernie in the Heisman voting; Roman Gabriel, quarterback for North Carolina State; and Angelo Baberay, Notre Dame's spirited halfback.

The head coach for the East squad will be Notre Dame coach Joe Kuharich. Under his tutelage are Notre Damers Joe Carroll, a tackle, and guard Nick Boninconti, in addition to Baberay.

Other players chosen from among Syracuse foes include Gary Collins, Maryland's All-American end; and Fred Cox, Pittsburgh's brilliant halfback and field-goal kicker.

The Look All-American team, chosen this week, is led by star-warts: Ferguson, who led in the voting; Davis; Jimmy Saxton of Texas; Sandy Stephens of Minnesota; and John Hall of Kansas. Roman Gabriel, Gary Collins, and end Bill Miller of Miami were also named by the Football Writers Association.

The "Elmira Express", and Alex Kroll, Rutgers center, were the only two repeaters on the All-East College football team. The

All-East team, chosen by sports broadcasters and writers, includes 1111 opponents: Bob Minter, Penn State end; Jack Whalen, Holy Cross Tackle; Stuart Benedict, Colgate guard; and Galen Hall, quarterback who led

Penn State over Syracuse and to the Lambert Trophy given to the East's top team.

Davis will also be one of several players who will journey to Hawaii on January 9 to play in the Hula Bowl.

Six Syracuse Grid Stars Given Bids in Pro Drafts

Six Syracuse University seniors were selected last week in the annual National Football League and American Football League drafts.

Ernie Davis, the Plety's Heisman trophy winner was drafted by both the Washington Redskins of the NFL and the Buffalo Bills of AFL.
Bob Stern, Orange center and team co-captain was the only other Syracusean picked by the AFL, being selected by the Boston Patriots.

Others were Pete Brokaw, halfback drafted by Baltimore on the eighth round; fullback Gary Fallon, a 12th round choice of Minnesota; George Francovitch, guard, a 10th round St. Louis choice and Dick Easterly, halfback, 14th round San Francisco choice.

Girl Watcher's Guide

Presented by Pall Mall Famous Cigarettes

The sign of the amateur

LESSON 5 - The importance of head control

We are told that bird watchers, who always take notes while they watch, are able to keep one eye on the bird and one eye on the notebook. Eye dexterity of this type is also a great asset to the girl watcher. It enables him to watch two girls at the same time, even when the girls are sitting on opposite sides of a classroom. The beginner, who must watch the girls one at a time in a situation of this type, must learn to restrict his movements to the eyeballs. The girl watcher never moves his head. Undue head-turking, particularly if it is accompanied by shouts or whistles, is the sign of the amateur. (If you want something to shout about, try a Pall Mall!)

View From Archbold

By MILT JOFFE

PERHAPS SOME OF YOU who Sunday night became searchers after the silken souvenir noticed some official-looking gentlemen dispersed among the crowd of party seekers. These men were pretty easy to spot. They wore top coats and soft hats and feverishly jotted down piles of notes.

In case you noticed those men and tried to avoid them since they looked so much like the University's version of the Secret Police, we have bad news for you.

These snapper men with the sheep penicils were none other than the various coaches from the SU athletic department. Hearing of the new spirit shown by the males of the school, these coaches wasted little time in searching for some likely candidates for their respective sports.

Since the reports the coaches came up with are among the most secret of documents on our campus, it is truly fortunate to have gained access to them. In keeping with this column's philosophy of printing all the news that fits, we now reproduce, in full, the text of the scouting reports. The reports were prepared by Climbin' Ivy, the well-known Sioux Indian scout.

"This report is a condensation of the notes taken by me today by all the Syracuse University coaches after their extensive scouting at Sunday night's field day.

"The representative of the football team was particularly impressed by the performance of several freshmen who showed amazing proficiency in broken field running. These unheard-of fresh dodged trees, bushes and fellow runners and ran the length of Walnut Park in 10 seconds flat. Unfortunately the five police cars chasing them drove the distance in seven seconds flat. The football staff recommends scholarships to these boys as soon as they are released.

"Our basketball coach became quite enthralled with the proceedings Sunday when he spotted a couple of upperclassmen about 6-5. These boys showed amazing jumping ability as they leaped high into the air in quest of their silken goals. The coach is confident he can get these boys out for the team if the NCAA will allow silk basketballs.

"The baseball mentor has singled these pitchers on the strength of their snowball pitching exhibition on the mound. The Dean of Men's office is holding up the contract temporarily pending investigation. Walter O'Malley has been asked to defend the three pitchers in Student Court.

"The student who fell from the roof of a sorority house is highly sought after by the swimming coach. The coach pointed out the perfect form of the boy as he executed a one-and-a-half gainer. The coach figures they can work on his landing which was a little hard.

The wrestling coach spotted 25 boys who he thinks could easily make the squad. He was singly impressed by those that tangled on the sorority rooftops but admits he would really like to get the names of those girls who fought off every would-be assailant.

"The final report, and the most flattering came from the track office. The scout from that office was overwhelmed by the prowess of the runners as a whole. He commented that the speed and endurance of the boys was a happy sight to his weary eyes.

"That is the extent of the reports handed to me. For myself, let me say I have not seen such athletic ability on display since my childhood days on the reservation."

We are overjoyed by the results shown in Ivy's report. Our faith in the school is restored. We now wait most impatiently for the next basketball game in the War Memorial and even further ahead to Archbold Stadium next fall when we'll be waiting for this unsurpassed spirit to avail itself again.

Alabama Cops 1961 Title; Orange Ranked 14th, 16th

The Clemson Tide of Alabama have been named the 1961 football champions by both the AP and UPI. Alabama just edged Ohio State to capture the crown.

In the final balloting, by both polls Syracuse finished 14th in the AP listings and 16th in the UPI tally.

Alabama was the only major unbeaten, untied team in the nation with the exception of Rutgers, which placed 15th in the AP poll.

Syracuse foes Penn State and Miami are ranked 17th and 18th.

Orange men in both polls. The UPI top ten looks like this: Alabama, Ohio State, Iowa State, Mississippi, Missouri, Colorado, Arkansas, and Louisiana.

Syracuse Shooting Team Prepares For Two Contests This Weekend

A busy weekend awaits the Syracuse varsity rifle team as it competes in triangular matches on Friday and Saturday.

The Orange squad entertains Colgate and St. Lawrence at the Archbold range December 8 at 6:00 p.m. before journeying to Alfred for the Saturday encounter with Canisius and Alfred.

In their last outing, the local rifleman placed second behind Niagara. The winners compiled 1372 team points to 1344 for Syracuse and 1327 for St. Lawrence. Torre of Niagara gained individual honors with a 278 total while Bob Murray paced the Orange men with 274.

Next Wednesday Ar. ROTC cadets will have a chance to display their shooting ability by entering the William Randolph Hearst trophy match. All cadets including freshmen are eligible to participate in the nationwide contest.

SIA Christmas Sale

SYRACUSE STUDENTS participate in the annual Syracuse-asia sale in Hendricks Chapel basement. The sale will continue for the remainder of the week. (Photo by Bruce Anspach)

SIA Sale Profits To Help Send SU Senior To Asia

Asian goods now being sold in the Colonial Room of Hendricks Chapel will help send a graduating senior to Asia. Proceeds of the sale, sponsored by Syracuse in-Asia, will send an SU senior to teach in an Asian university next year.

Products being sold range from kimonos and kimonos to rugs, bedspreads, jewelry and trinkets. The goods come from Asian countries, including Japan, India, Thailand, and the Philippines.

Purchases through Importers. Syracuse-in-Asia purchased the products from the Asian countries through importers in New York and on the West Coast. Two shipments of goods have not yet arrived for the sale, scheduled to continue through Friday. The sale runs from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Students participating in the sale of the goods come from both the United States and Asia. They have decorated the Colonial Room of the Chapel with attractive goods from the Eastern countries.

Syracuse-in-Asia is an opportunity for all students to participate in an international program, support projects overseas and on campus, and take part in intercultural activity related to Asia.

On Campus, Overseas. On the campus, the organization sponsors monthly films on Asia, the annual East-West debate, visiting lecturers on Asian culture, art exhibits, oriental dinners, and programs with international students.

Overseas, Syracuse-in-Asia sponsors the trip of the graduating senior to teach at an Asian university, and supports the Books for Asian Students program.

The organization has been operating on the Syracuse campus since 1922 when a medical team was sent to Chungking.

2,000 Liberty Bowl Tix Sold

Ticket sales for the December 16 Liberty Bowl football game in Philadelphia have reached 2,000 on the Syracuse campus, according to Athletic Director Lew Andrews.

Andrews said the tickets for the Syracuse-Miami game have been sold on the average of 500 a day for the past two days. He expects the total sales here to reach 4,000.

The deadline for ticket sales in the Archbold Gymnasium Trophy Room is next Wednesday. The windows are open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The Liberty Bowl had sent 14,000 tickets to Syracuse for sale here. About 10,000 will be returned. The ticket prices are $5.65 and $8.25, the latter for box seats.

The Liberty Bowl will be in its third year this season. In the two previous years of the contest, Penn State served as the host team.

"Better Red than Dead" and "The Admission of Red China to the United Nations" were two favorite topics used by the pair. They noted most of the debates were not judged and many were with split teams.

"The best debates here compare very well with the best debates in England," Saunders said. He added, "In this country they are more stylized and more reliant on evidence and technique."

Britton noted that "British debates are more informal; people just stand up and say what they think."

"It's like a revivalist meeting," Saunders added.

Saunders attended Warwick School, Cambridge Trinity College, and is now reading for Diploma of Education to become Teacher of Modern Languages. Britton attended Haberdashers' Hampstead School and Cambridge Trinity College. He is a senior scholar and plans to become Barrister-at-law.

Lucas, a senior psychology major from Williamsville, was awarded Outstanding Speaker of 1960 at the University of Rochester and Outstanding Syracuse Debater last year.

that a nuclear war would be the final solution to all world problems.

Dr. Miner concluded by mentioning that shelters might save lives, but they would increase the chances of a nuclear war. Any potential enemy might conclude that our shelter system was a hostile act, and instead of backing down in world affairs, would step up their nuclear capacities.

Economically, the shelter system is feasible, Miner said. It would probably have to be government controlled, much to the dismay of private business, because, he said, only the government could really handle the problem.

Dr. Miner received his B.A., M.A. and Doctorate degrees from the University of Michigan. After graduating from Michigan, he did work there. Miner joined the teaching staff of Syracuse University three years ago. His specialties are public finance, and the division between public and private finance. He is currently connected with the Hill's economics department.

"HAPPINESS CAN'T BUY MONEY"

I have asked the makers of Marlboro—an enterprising and aggressive group of men; yet at the same time warm and lovable; though not without ambition, perspicacity and drive; which does not, however, mask their essential great-heartedness—a quality evident to all who have ever enjoyed the beneficence of their wares; I refer, of course, to Marlboro Cigarettes, a smoke fashioned with such loving care and tipped with such an exciting drawing filter that these old eyes can't easily when I think upon it—I have asked, I say, the makers of Marlboro—that aggregate of shrewd but kindly tobaccoists, that cluster of hearty souls bound together by the profit motive and an unflagging determination to provide a cigarette for every faithful and devoted smoker—I have asked, I say, the makers of Marlboro whether I might use today's column to take up the controversial question: Should a ceeed share expenses on a date?

"Yes," said the tappers simply. We all shook hands then and squeezed each other's shoulders and exchanged brave smiles, and if our eyes were a trifle moist, who can blame us!

To the topic then: Should a ceeed share expenses on a date? I think I can best answer the question by citing the following typical case:

Freidson Nebelzau, a student at Oklahoma A and M, majoring in physics and tall, tall, wildly in love with Mary Ellen Flange, a Bax weevil major at the same school. His love, he had

"Oh, foolish reaper! Why have you not told me before?"

reason to believe from Mary Ellen's sidelong glances and maidenly blusher, was not entirely unrequited, and by and by he mustered an enough courage to ask her the all-important question: "Will you wear my 4-H pin?"

"Yes," she said simply. They shook hands then and squeezed each other's shoulders and exchanged brave smiles, and if their eyes were a trifle moist, who can blame them?

For a time things went swimmingly. Then a cloud appeared. Mary Ellen, it seems, was a rich girl and accustomed to costly pleasures. Freidson was bone-poor and he quickly ran out of money. Unable to take Mary Ellen to the posh places she fancied and too proud to tell her the reason, he turned surly and full of melancholy. Soon their romance, so promising at the beginning, was headed for a breakup. But at the last moment, Freidson managed to blurt out the truth.

"Oh, beloved agrarian!" cried Mary Ellen, grasping him close. "Oh, proud husbandman! Oh, foolish reaper! Why have you not told me before? I have plenty of money, and I will contribute according to my ability."

Freidson, of course, protested, but she finally persuaded him of the wisdom of her course. From then on they split all expenses according to their incomes. Rather than embarrass Freidson by handing him money in public, a joint bank account was set up to allow him to write checks. Into this account each week they faithfully deposited their respective allowances—35 cents from Freidson; $2300 from Mary Ellen.

And it worked fine! They were happy—truly happy! And what's more, when they graduated they had a nice little nest egg—eight million dollars—with which to furnish a lovely apartment in Lubbock, Texas, where today they operate the local laundromat.

Do you see? You too can salvage your failing romance if you will only adopt a healthy, sensible attitude toward money.

*****

Lucie is no obstacle when it comes to popular-priced Marlboro, or to Marlboro's popularly priced partner in pleasure—the unfilled, king-size Philip Morris Commander. Get aboard. You'll find long enjoyment for short money.

Policy Cancels 11 a.m. Service

driels Chapel was not available for comment Tuesday but is expected to make a statement this morning.

The policy change came just one week after the Episcopal services had been moved from the crowded quarters of the Chapel House to the Main Auditorium of the I.L.B. Crouse Classroom Building.

Ayers Explains
The Rev. Robert C. Ayers, Episcopal Chaplain, delivered his Sunday sermon to the situation and made the following statement Tuesday.

"We are very grateful for the university hospitality we have received over the years. We realize that we have no right here, only privileges. The privilege of an 11 o'clock service is theirs to give or withhold."

"I'm disappointed at the incorrect assumptions on which the decision to withdraw this privilege has been based. It has placed us at a serious disadvantage as far as ministering to the needs of the Episcopal students on this campus."

"The Episcopal service is in no way competing with the Hendricks Chapel service because we are not looking for the same audience. At no time in the past has there been any competition, either in my mind or Dean Nelson's as far as I know. This is probably why Dean Noble allowed us to start the 11 o'clock service in Oct. of 1959."

Incorrect Assumption

Father Ayers explained the "incorrect assumption" as follows: "It is inaccurate to categorize Episcopalians simply as Protestants. Our Anglican Communion is the lawful and unbroken continuation of the Catholic Church of England, cleansed from error and foreign domination by the events of the 16th century."

He said that the Episcopal Church is in full communion with churches that carry such titles as: The Old Catholic Church, The Polish Catholic Church, and The Philippine Independent Catholic Church.

He pointed out that the Armed Forces of the United States recognize the Episcopal Church as "not just another group of Protestants," but "primarily as one of the dogmas, rather than the Protestant 'D'."

Chapel Informative

When questioned about the Hendricks Chapel service Father Ayers replied: "The service at Hendricks Chapel is always both informative and entertaining, but it is the conviction of the Episcopal church that Episcopalians should attend their own services, and receive the Sacraments of the Episcopal church only."

"We are not asking this privilege for a handful of people," he continued, "but for the 750 Episcopalians student and 60 staff and faculty families on this campus."

"The affect of the policy change has already been evident in the attendance at Crouse last Sunday. The Sunday before the change 105 students received Communion in Crouse Auditorium, last Sunday, Father Ayers sighted, only 60 received Communion at the single 9:30 service.

Lecture Notes Activity, Food Relationship

they need fewer calories because of this decreased activity.

Prevention Is Key

The film showed that prevention is the key to controlling obesity. Since diet is the main cause of obesity, good eating habits learned while young will eliminate later problems of weight control. Abnormal glands have a negligent effect on weight problems, Dr. Marty noted.

Possibly it being unfashionable to be overweight, Dr. Marty asserted that extreme weight can be very dangerous. The possibility of death increases in proportion to the number of extra pounds.

In addition, it has been proven that children tend to take after their parents. If both parents are overweight, 85% of their offspring will be overweight. If one is fat and the other lean, 40% of their offspring will be overweight; while if both parents are of normal weight, only 5% of their offspring tend to be overweight.

Cholesterol

Discussing the fear that cholesterol in the blood contributes to an early death, Dr. Marty said, "Let's not get frantic, but let's recognize the fact that an equal number of people with a high degree of cholesterol will have a higher death rate than another group of the same number with a normal amount of cholesterol."

It has not been proven, however, that cholesterol actually causes death, "because most of the fatal diseases today are degenerative," Dr. Marty continued, "treatment is not so simple and diet may play an important part."

In his discussion of diseases, Dr. Marty said that there is no epidemic of flu anywhere in the United States at this time. He said that there have been more people in the infirmary this year than last because of greater fitness, but because of the increased efficiency of the Student Health Service.

The recent complaints of nausea and diarrhea which began at 3 a.m. yesterday morning were due probably to a virus and not to any food, Dr. Marty asserted, because all of those who were ill ate in different dining halls.

Fallout Shelters Topic of Debate

"Fallout Shelters pro and con" will be discussed by four faculty members of Syracuse University Tuesday, Dec. 11. Sponsored by Students for a Democratic Society, the panel discussion will be held from 7-9 p.m. in I.L.B. Crouse Auditorium.

Speaking for fallout shelters will be Dr. Benjamin Bartt, professor of chemistry; and Dean Alfred Cope, assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts. Dr. Nahmin Horwitz, professor of physics; and Dr. Jerry Miner, associate professor of economics; will speak against construction of fallout shelters.

SIS member David Smith (Peterson, '65) will act as moderator. He will begin the program with a statement about the purpose of the discussion. Each panelist will make a statement of his position on the subject. Following their initial comments, the panelists will have an opportunity to cross-examine each other.

The audience will also have an opportunity to question the panelists. Time will be allowed for both written and oral questions.

University of Texas students have voted 5 to 3 for integration of sports. Also, a UT campus political office was recently filled by the first Negro to hold office there.

Policy Changes Episcopal Rites

By CLAYTON RICHARDS
Strong opinions were voiced yesterday concerning a University policy change which canceled the 11 o'clock Sunday Morning Service of the Episcopal Church. The University ruling stated that there will be no Sunday service between 10:13 and 12 noon on campus excepting the Roman Catholic and Hendricks Chapel services.

Dean Charles Noble said that he had "no comment," on the issue, stating that it was "out of his hands."

Administration officials were not available for comment Tuesday but an official statement is expected late this afternoon.

A Dormitory resident advisor, who is not Episcopalian summed up most of the opinions with "I feel that is unfair to not allow the later service because the people attending the Episcopal service would seldom attend the Chapel service anyway."

Louis Jones, Hendricks Chapel Representative from Marion III voiced a similar opinion in saying, "Since the church itself requires its members to receive their Communion, and it is inconvinient for most college students to make the 9:30 service, I believe they should be allowed to have a later service."

Incident 'Unfortunate'
Another member of the University staff stated that the incident was "unfair to students but called for unity among all the various religions of the campus."

Gerald Houle, DellPlain II Chapel Representative stated that the change was "unfair to students by putting them under the extra strain of getting up for the 9:30 service. There is no reason for it at all."

Houle stated that he would bring the issue before the next chapel meeting.

Episcopal feeling on the subject came from Russel Allen, of DellPlain Hall. "In the state of the world situation college students should be able to attend the church of their choice without inconvenience."

Faculty Committee To Protest Against Fallout Shelters

"We have over 50 signatures and we intend to carry out our plans for a half page advertisement," said Dr. Arnold Itonig, member of the faculty committee against the nation-wide fallout shelter program.

Itonig and 20 members of the various departments of Syracuse University met last week to outline their statement.

This move was taken because of an advertisement in the November 10 issue of the New York Times signed by members of the faculties of universities in the Boston area.

The local group is now circulating this statement among University and Medical school faculty members.

The purpose of their action is to stimulate a public rejection of fallout shelters. The public should strive for peace rather than for a questionable survival in a devastated, near uninhabitable world, stated Itonig.

The group believes that an extensive fallout shelter program may increase the probability of a nuclear war, said Itonig. This program helps prepare people for acceptance of the nuclear war by making them confident that they can successfully survive such a war, he added.

The statement concludes by stating that a shelter program is a step in the wrong direction as it may cause the public to have a false sense of security making our nation less likely to devise and risk positive programs to reverse the arms race.

Visiting Critic To Give Lecture On Architecture

The School of Architecture's visiting critic will speak at 8 p.m. today in 400 Slocum Hall. His topic is "The Architecture of Ontario, Vision and Vernacular." C. Ross Anderson, a Canadian citizen, has conducted a study of the city's construction.

A member of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, he has been a visiting lecturer at the University of Manitoba, McGill University in Montreal, L'Escole des Beaux Arts, and the University of Kansas.

At Kansas, Anderson conducted a running project to study the development of modern houses from primitive shelters.

Anderson is seeking a permanent visa to the United States, while he studies to become a citizen. After obtaining a temporary visa during three years at the University of Kansas, he was informed that he must return to Canada for two years before applying for citizenship here.

At present his case is before the U.S. Attorney General.

Anderson earned his B.A. and his Master of Architecture degree from the University of Toronto.

He worked in his own firm in Toronto before associating with his present firm, Fleury, Arthur and Barclay.

Hillel To Sponsor Panel Discussion

"Discrimination in Fraternities and Sororities" will be the theme of a panel discussion following Hillel's services Friday, December 8th. Discussants will be Rabbi Louis Neimand; Episcopalian Chaplain Robert Ayers; and Professor George Wiley.

Services will be held in Hendricks Chapel at 7 p.m. and will be sponsored this Friday by Alpha Lambda Phi. Larry Feigon will serve as Cantor, assisted by the Hillel Choir under the direction of Lyanna Dubin. An Oneg Shabbat will be held in the Convocation Room following the services.

Virus, Not Food, Dr. Marty Says

By STEVE GOLOB and JEANNIE RANOV

A rash of illness that has spotted the campus over the past five days is on the wane, according to Dr. Frederick Marty, director of the Student Health Service.

He said Wednesday that 84 students have reported to the infirmary with symptoms of what he described as an enteric virus affecting the intestinal tract.

Relocation Discussed

Crاندall Melvin, Jr., Ben Zimmerman and Beatrice McKibbin will speak at 4 p.m. today in the School of Social Work on the location and relocation of Syracuse New East Side social welfare agencies.

Melvin is chairman of the East Side Committee of the United Community Chest and Council of Onondaga County; Zimmerman, research director of the United Community Chest and Council and Miss Bechtel, Coordinator of Community and Social Services of the Syracuse Housing Authority.

The panelists will speak at the Community Seminar on Health and Social Welfare jointly sponsored by Syracuse University and the State University of New York College of Medicine.

Several agencies, including Dunbar Center and Huntington Family Center, must relocate because of urban renewal and highway construction clearance.

Miner Clarifies Shelter Views

Dr. Jerry Miner, who gave a lecture on fallout shelters Tuesday, informed the Daily Orange that the distinctions between his views and those of pro-shelter people were not made finely enough.

Pro-shelter people, Miner pointed out, think that shelters would deter Soviet political expansion and a pre-emptive attack on the U.S. Furthermore, they would save many lives in case of such an attack.

Miner's views are different than those of the shelter advocates in that they increase the possibility of war, and would, at best, save few lives. Miner feels that the shelter program is undesirable, and that other policies are our hope of avoiding a nuclear war.

Vomiting, diarrhea and headaches lasting from about four to six hours in the most acute stages are symptoms of the virus, he said.

Dr. Marty told the Daily Orange Tuesday and Wednesday he did not believe the illnesses were caused by spotted food in university dining halls, as many students have theorized the past few days.

The sickness reported was not localized among a group of students who use the same dining hall, and students who do not eat in the dining halls have also been ill. Dr. Marty said Tuesday.

He added that Dr. David Bigwood, commissioner of the Onondaga County Health Department, sent two officials to inspect the dining halls on campus, and their report indicated that the facilities were not responsible for the cause or spread of the illnesses.

The intestinal virus is spread through close contact, coughing and sneezing, said Dr. Marty, and asked students with such symptoms to report to the infirmary for treatment.

Complaints about university food service are now being filed by the State Student Legislature, and Dr. Marty commented on the issue: "The food service is no worse than in past years, and although complaints have been received as to the presentation of the food, there has been no sickness as a result of this."

He pointed out that university dining halls and hospitals are licensed according to the Sanitary Code of the Syracuse Department of Health and noted that periodic inspections are made of the facilities.

ONLY ISO EXECES MEET

There was an error in yesterday's Daily Orange regarding the International Students' Organization meeting to be held Thursday at 4 p.m. in Maxwell Auditorium. The meeting is only for ISO executives, not the entire body.

Tradition Revived In Winter Weekend

A revival of traditional pageantry will highlight Winter Weekend, Jan. 12-14.

A snow sculpture contest to be judged 1 p.m. Friday and a torch parade beginning at 6:30 at Drumlins Country Club will start the Weekend's events. The crowning of the Weekend Queen and a "Cinderella" ice pageant will immediately follow the parade.

The traditional Stocking-foot dance, to be held at Drumlins Friday night, will feature Dick Cowell and his orchestra, a speech by Dean Noble and the presentation of trophies to the winners of the snow sculpture contest and the owner of the best-decorated stocking.

Dress for the dances is casual. No shoes are to be worn on the dance floor and all coats must sport decorated soles.

Saturday's activities will begin with ski events in the morning and a fireman's 4 1/2 mile, inter-mural races will be held, followed by a ski jump contest.

Hamilton College will face SU at a hockey game 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the State Fair Grounds Ice Rink. Admission is 50 cents, and there will be free skating after the match.

Arrangements to have chartered buses to transport students to and from events are under consideration, so that more students can attend. (Continued on Page 8)

Maxwell School's African Committee

The Maxwell Center for the Study of Overseas Operations announced Saturday an exciting program for the creation of a special committee that will make the first formal study in the United States of East Africa. It was significant that the announcement of the program by Maxwell Dean Stephen K. Bailey and Dean Eric H. Faigle of the College of Liberal Arts stressed that the departments of anthropology and sociology, economics, geography, and political science will jointly contribute talent to the committee.

This new committee will serve as a clearing house for information and materials on East Africa and will expand the operations of the Maxwell Overseas Center into one of the major trouble spots in the world. By combining the experience and interest of a large number of scholars at the university in African and especially East African affairs, it is hoped that Syracuse University will become a leading center of East African studies in the United States.

Heading the project will be Associate Professor of political science, Fred G. Burke. It is Dr. Burke's aim to take advantage of the scholars named to the committee and to provide special services to scholars while training graduate students interested in East African affairs. Dr. Burke has lived in Uganda and Kenya in Africa where he was a special consultant to the Kenya government on municipal problems.

It is gratifying that the Maxwell School created this new committee. Information about the emerging nations of the African continent that is both authoritative and instructive is hard to come by in the United States today. Foreign policy experts in the U.S. generally agree that the emerging nations of the "dark continent" will become more and more significant in the East-West struggle in the very near future. North African nations that are already free have demonstrated to the world that they are in need of a tremendous amount of technical aid and financial aid if they are turned into democratic republics and not tribal plantations.

Once more the Overseas Operations of the Maxwell School under the direction of Prof. Gerard J. Mangone has shown its concern for the underdeveloped areas of the world that need the scholarly guidance Maxwell can provide.

"Rules shmools! If you don't open up, I'm going to start a petition!"

'Yes, Son, I Was There...'

By LINCOLN SWADOS

Yes, Son, I took part in the great punty raid of 1961, in those carefree, devil-may-care, chili-and-fruit-juice days.

I was nestled quietly under my comforter reading my favorite portion of the Bhagavad-Gitā, one of the most pleasant books in my East Indian religion course, when I felt an eerie shiver in the atmosphere followed by a high, shrill whistle that seemed to call to the very soul of what is my dormant sense of adventure.

A whistle, a feeling, and then the roar, the thunder of young men on the prowl. Louder and louder it rang and in desperation I turned to my roommate and said: "How many angels can balance on the end of a pin?" He turned over on the other side of his physics book and I was forced to resist the screams of joyous camaraderie and remain alone inside by Watson cubic.

Finally I could no longer resist the heard call. I changed my sweater, put a pack of Sa-loms without matches in my hip pocket, and grabbing "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" (perhaps I thought this might provide an excuse in case I was nabbed), I slipped out of the building, carefully noticing the other fellows who, stronger than I, were hanging on to their door ledges.

Outside I could see very few people; the roar seemed to be coming from the west-southwest. I thought I might ask the pizza-man what was going on, but I know I'd have to buy something.

I followed the noise. I turned the corner at University and Comstock, and there on a hill in front of a discreetly dark sorority house were seven thousand boys shouting things like "We want pants," and "We are pantin' for silk and satin," and "Remember the Alamo."

Just as I came up they all started running towards me, or rather past me, and this guy I know, Bernie, came up to me shouting, "Whanza whazza hoo ha" or something. Huffing and puffing to keep up with him, I said "Where'd all these lemmings come from?" He glanced quickly at me and said "Do you like Tennessee Williams?"

Before I could answer he was lost in the crowd.

By the time I reached the next sorority house, the fellows were yelling "more, more, more." A few girls in an upstairs window were doing something demurely, and one girl threw down a jelly donut.

I left the crowds at Walnut to rally some friends of mine. The lights in their room was on, their door was ajar, books were half open. In a corner an empty Coke bottle looked at me ominously. It was like "On the Bench."

As I dashed back to the front, some fellow in a tee-shirt was climbing up a porch and a sober looking policeman was helping him with a flashlight.

Someone screamed "Jota!" and I collapsed; two friends of mine stepped agilely over me and the roar was again.

Before I started up the hill I did notice something though. One girl in the top left room of the house had opened her window and leaned dreamily against it in the yellow light. From another one of the houses, a girl shouted down at me: Say, just who started this whole thing anyway?" I yelled back at her "Communist inspired!" as I ran past. I think she then asked me if I was Bobby Waterbuff, but I was too far away to hear.

Naturally when I reached Jota the crowd was dispersing, but the group that was there was enthusiastic. They were shouting and the Jota girls were singing—it might have been something from Mother Goose's later period. They looked like Kookla, Fran and Ollie up in their windows.

Finally the fellows could no longer stand the singing and they left for another house. I don't know what Jota would do in a fire.

As for me, I went back to the dorm—you know, too much of a good thing. . . .

Student apathy at Syracuse huh? ----- we had panty raids!

'Candida' Review Praised

To the Editor:
I am writing to tell you how much we in the Interpretation department appreciate the review of our Readers' Theatre production of "Candida" which appeared in the Dec. 5 DO.

In the 16 years that we have been producing plays here in this manner, the DO has reviewed only two productions previously, some years ago, and these reviews were so inept and so clumsily written that it would have been better all around had they not been written at all.

Your man, however, combines felicity of expression with an admirable knowledge of plays and an understanding of what Readers' Theatre is trying to communicate. Believe me, this is a welcome change.

Dept. of Oral Interpretation

HANDS OFF

'Spirit' Means More

By JACK HAND

The recent "panty raid" did not indicate any mysterious upsurge in the "spirit" of the student body. "Spirit" is more than the temporary banding together of a large, anonymous group of students bent on raising hell. It is a real sense of community, a willingness to work together long and hard for the mutual benefit of the students and the university. It is a realization of the significance and power of the aggregate. It is the vehicle which raises individual impotence to communal power.

Although many students have praised the recent demonstration as evidence of activity from what has been a disunited and dormant campus population, let us not forget the direction which this activity took. It was an exciting and creative result, but it was still just that, a childish prank. When a group lies still and silent for many years, any action or noise from that group is noted. It is a mistake, however, to distort the importance of that unexpected noise or action.

Only consistent activity on the part of a group is a real indication of "spirit" within that group. Isolated incidents may create a lot of excitement, but it is only momentary excitement. It soon passes, and the involved group is again silent, disunited and dormant. In this case even Terry Hughes' brilliant suggestion that it should become a weekly tradition would help to make this event significant.

"Spirit" is significant. It has a motive, a purpose, and a plan. What happened Sunday night was not a manifestation of the chaotic unity of mob psychology. It was not a planned expression of anything, and so expressed nothing but immaturity. Its only unity lay in the chaotic unity of mob psychology.

It was undirected, as it had no real purpose, and called forth no real leadership because there was nothing to lead and nowhere to lead it. It was orderly by accident and by the sensible non-intervention of the campus police. That few were hurt was also an accident. It turned out to be harmless, and fun for the participants, but it had no real meaning.

One cannot fail to agree with the necessity for more "spirit" to be developed in the student body at this school. If one agreed with the "Cheerful

Charles" about the significance of this particular demonstration, however, it would amount to nothing more than self-delusion. One is forced to pass over this prank as amounting to nothing and save one's praise for the real thing, if and when it comes.

When it does come, it will make itself known, beyond the moment, as a real and living power. The student body will become strong in its realization that it is a powerful force for the good of its members and the university. Leaders will step forth proud of the group of which they are part. They will not sink unarmored in the dark. Stepping into the light, they will represent not themselves or some tiny, vocal minority, but a unified and active undergraduate enrollment.

When the student body finally does learn to harness the untapped power which it contains, it will stand up for its rights. There will be a cooperative striving between the students and the administration to make Syracuse University a great seat of learning. If the students can be made to realize their own significance, the administration will be forced to recognize it.

ALL in the GAME

By REN DARLING

LAST SEASON MIAMI provided the Hillmen with one of their toughest and most exciting games. It took superhuman efforts from Ernie Davis and Art Baker to lure Syracuse finally managed to triumph in the rain and the mud at Miami, 21-14.

The year the Hurricanes are coming north to take another crack at Ben Schwartzwalder's troops, in Philadelphia's Liberty Bowl Dec. 16. The game could very well be a replay of the 1959 thriller.

Leading this fall, Coach Andy Gustafson has an exciting ball club, paced by All-American end Bill Miller. Another All-American can be found in the BI Orange this fall was Gary Collins of Maryland, and remember what happened that time. It was Collins who caught the pass that gave the Terrapins a 22-21 upset victory. Memories of the pass-catching feats of Collins will probably make the Orange defenders extremely cautious concerning Miller. But the fact men cannot concentrate on Miller, because Miami has most of the equal in Larry Wilson.

And a sophomore quarterback sensation George Mira can't find either Miller or Wilson in the clear, he can throw to still another respected pass grabber, Team captain and fullback Jim Vollenweider is one of the best top receivers.

Vollenweider, who has often been compared with former Miami ace Don Bossler, is a threat to the Orangemen in several respects. In addition to being one of Mira's favorite targets, he is one of the club's top ball carriers. Combining slashing drives and brilliant open field running, he has averaged nearly ten yards a carry this season for 107 yards eleven.

"Jungle Jim," as the Wisconsin native is called by his mates, is the lion man of the Hurricanes. He played in at least 54 minutes of all ten Miami contests this fall.

Vollenweider has made honorable mention on the Associated Press and United Press International All-America squads for the past three years.

But despite the rushing skills of "Jungle Jim," it will be the Mira to Miller aerial combination that will probably provide the Orangemen with their biggest problem in the Liberty Bowl tilt.

On the other side of the ledger, the Hurricanes will also have their hands full with the Orange offensive game. Dave Sarette and Bob Leih will probably be doing some throwing of their own, and they also have a pair of pretty fair ends in Walt Sweeney and John Mackey. In fact, next season Mackey may be occupying the same post on the All-America team that Miller holds this year.

Concerning the passing attack for the Hill fighters will be their pivot ground game, and this is where the Hurricanes may find their greatest problems. A year ago they couldn't stop Ernie Davis, and he hasn't slowed down noticeably since then.

Fullback Baker is gone from last year's cast, but in his place is capable Gary Fallon. Fallon had his finest game as a junior against the Hurricanes, breaking loose for two long runs and one touchdown. All this was done as a second-stringer; now he's the number one fullback. Miami will probably be watching for him as well as Davis.

It will be the last game for center and team captain Bob Stem, the sparkling of the squad. He may want to end his career with a performance to remember—like ripping the Miami line apart. So the Liberty Bowl battle shapes up as a bitterly-contested struggle between two fine, well-balanced ball clubs. If bowl chairman Ambrose Dudley continues to line up such top flight games, the Liberty Bowl may soon take a place among the other top post-season grid classics.

A couple of random notes (just to fill up space): While most of his mates will be finishing their season in the Liberty Bowl, Ernie Davis has a pair of games to go. He's competing in both the East-West Shrine game and the Blue-Gray game.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder also has another game on tap following the Philadelphia bowl battle. He's coaching in the Blue-Gray game.

Skaters To Sell Tickets; Seek Student Support

By BERNIE MACULLUM
The Syracuse University Hockey Association will open an eight-game schedule Dec. 13 at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum against the Watertown Men's Club.

The team recently received permission from the University to sell tickets on campus, after a round of meetings with University officials.

This is the first step toward reviving University support and the eventual acceptance of hockey as a varsity sport on the Hill, according to Dick Van Winkle, the president of the club.

The association has an agreement with the Stars, semi-pro hockey club, to play their games as preliminaries to the Stars' contests.

All home games will be played in the Coliseum at the State Fair Grounds.

The year-old club hopes to make an agreement with a local bus line for student transportation to games.

Support Needed

Student support at games will be very instrumental in the possible return of hockey as a varsity sport.

Tickets will be 60 cents with the team's financial accounts being handled through the dean of men's offices.

The teams schedule includes games with Hamilton College, Rutgers University, Colgate, Ithaca College and Franklin & Marshall.

Rutgers and Franklin & Marshall are beginning their first season with university support. Both schools began with a hockey setup similar to the present one at Syracuse.

The 17 man squad has been renting ice for practice at the State Fair rink which they help construct.

The voluntary coach of the team is Dr. Richard Johnson, a Syracuse faculty member.

Slated to start in the home opener for the Piety skaters is Steve Berni, Murphy Kirkby and Chuck Hudson on the forward line.

Jack Braim and Jim Knight will start at defense with Van Winkle in goal.

Lowe Tells Watsonites No Prejudice In AFL

By VEEN BRAND

In a hall session Tuesday night with the members of Watson E. I. Paul Lowe, San Diego Chargers' halfback and leading ground gainer in the American Football League, revealed that there is no prejudice toward Negroes in the AFL.

"Sure, somebody may call you a name," Lowe stated, "but it's because they are simply trying to rattle you, not because you are colored."

In reply to further questions Lowe said "A lot of people today accuse halfbacks of being flashy—but it just isn't so. Most backs are small men, in comparison to the linemen, and we simply don't want to be hit by the big men."

"So, we have to rely on our speed to get away, and we simply run over or around the tacklers. It isn't being flashy—it's being careful."

Want to Play

Continuing, Lowe said, "If a lineman chooses, he can really hurt a back. But these pros aren't interested in hurting the other team. They are there to play, they are paid to play, and they want to play. They don't want to fight. In answer to a question from a floor member, Lowe stated that many college stars do not "pan-out" in pro ball.

"However," he stated, "I feel that Ernie Davis is a great back, and I think he will be a big success in professional football."

Lowe has been the leading ground gainer in the AFL for the past two seasons. His team, the San Diego Chargers, plays the Buffalo Bills at Buffalo Sunday.

The Bills recently drafted Syracuse star Paul Lowe and was selected by Washington in the NFL draft.

Syracuse and Michigan have played just twice in men's times, and the Orangemen have won handily both times, 25-9 in 1957 and 38-0 in 1958. The leads 5- in the over-all series.

Kennedy Compares Notre Dame Win To His Own At Grid Awards Dinner

NEW YORK (AP)—President John F. Kennedy, a former Harvard junior varsity player and the nation's No. 1 touch football fan, advises Notre Dame not to give back its controversial 17-15 victory over Syracuse.

Referring to a close victory of his own in 1960, he said he had no intention of giving that back.

The President was the featured speaker Tuesday night at the annual awards dinner of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame. He received the foundation's field Marshal Award, for the example he has set in recognizing the major role of amateur athletics in fostering moral values and leadership.

Mountaineer's All-Opponent Squad Includes John Brown

Senior tackle John Brown, who gained second team All-East honors, was the only Hill athlete to earn a berth on the V.C. Virginia football team's all-opponent eleven, which was announced recently.

Penn State dominates the team with four positions.

The Kiltary Lun delegates are end Eob Mfingter, center Jay Hoffman, who was chosen for the second time, quarterback Galen Hall, and halfback Roger Kochman.

Army grabbed two line positions as guard Mike Casp and tackle Cnet Kempinski were honored.

Other members of the honor squad are Pitt guard Larry Vignali, the top vote-getter, George Washington end Andy Guida, Indiana halfback Mary Woodson, and Darton University fullback Charley Meadows.

Vignali and Mfingter gained all-East honors while Hall and Hoffman earned positions on the second team.

Coaches who came closest to making the all-opponent squad were tackle Jim Smith and guard Joe Eisenstein of Penn State, center Cody Binkley of Vanderbilt, quarterback Mel Rifeout of Richmond, and fullback Rick Lessen of Pitt.

Hello again people, it's party time. Hope you had a happy week-end - must admit we did. Saturday afternoon, the Savoy burst into sound and we're glad we were there. A group called L.A. and the Eldorados provided the action and it was the best twisting and stop-punk sounds we've heard in a while. Pick up on them the next time around . . . you won't be sorry. As a matter of fact, we'll be surprised if you can even stand still. Also want to give thanks to AEPi, Tau Delta and ZBT for asking us to stop by . . . the latter party was brightened by the presence of the Escorts, the group we twisted to on the Mount last Spring.

With that as an opener, we'll give you what amounts to our last suggestion for the semester . . . a Fag party. Well, maybe we'd better not elaborate; no sense offending any portion of the reading public. On the other hand, there's a Party Raid . . . but on second thought, the University doesn't dit such extreme coed fraternization. (You know, it interferes with academics.)

Well, for something a little more plausible try a Roman Toga Party. This is where the aesthetically inspired can use a twisted sheet to construct a very hip costume. No directions from this end needed, we'll let you wander. . . No, we mean wonder. For those with a little gold to invest, there's plastic helmets and swords available at most of our advertisers. If you've passed the plastic stage, try the real article . . . you know, nothing satisfies like, like, well . . . the real thing. Garbage can tops for shields can be purloined anywhere on Comstock Ave., that is, if you can take the odor. Sandals as things make comfortable footwear perfectly adaptable to frost-bite.

After those costumes, the decorations will come easily. The entrance to your party place should have an open Colosseum gate, painted on heavy board, in gold and white. Inside, in one room, black wall sheets painted with rows of grayish-white levels simulate a Colosseum type interior. This is where your dates are devoured. Pillows and cushions are all you need to recline upon, and have a plentiful supply of grapes on hand for feeding purposes. (Some grape juice too, if you can get it.) As a final touch, a few red lights for atmosphere . . . try imitating the old Roman parties . . . man, they knew what they were doing!

The decorations in the other room are simpler, as a matter of fact, anything you find conducive to dancing will do. We wonder though, what it's like to twist in a sheet. Well, we hope to soon see. By the way, any or all of those decorative materials can be found at Jean's, 321 S. Clinton Street. They'll be glad to help you out.

Christmas Decoration Blanks Due

Simplicity and good taste are the criteria for judging entries in the annual Christmas decorations contest, sponsored by Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. The contest judging will be held Wednesday Dec. 13 and is divided into two categories: independent living centers and Greek houses. Applications should be mailed to decorations contest chairman Al Mazzoni at 721 Comstock Ave. A one dollar fee must accompany all entries, which are due by 7 p.m. Tuesday Dec. 12. The do-minations will be presented to the Syracuse Christmas Home Bureau by Lambda Chi. The contest is aimed at promoting holiday spirit on campus through decorations of fraternities, sororities, independent living centers and campus organizations. Trophies will be presented to the winning living center by the contest committee. Applications and information have been sent out, according to Mazzoni. Any questions concerning the contest should be referred to Mazzoni.

Winter Weekend Events Planned

dents will be able to attend and participate. The customary Saturday night formal will not be held this year. A banquet for committee members and their guests will be held Sunday at 4 p.m.

The Weekend is dedicated to Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford. General co-chairmen are Inge Sorensen and Dick Haiselheim. Mrs. Margaret Stafford, Director of Women's Social Education and Social Activities, will act as advisor.

Committee chairmen are: Snow Sculpture, Wendy Weston and Donna Temple; Ice Pageant, Lorraine Frosini and Marlene Kennedy; Dance, Joan Walker and Richard Hildey; Program, Nancy Davis; Buttons, Merrill Shields; and Trophies, I. J. Wimpfeimer. Also Queen Contest, Rosaloe Gomer; Publicity, Norma Wolfing and Howard McGinnis; Art, Ann Gibson; Skating, Chet Sacha; and Hokey, Richard Van Winkle. Weekend treasurer is Rita Feldman.

Memorial Ceremony Recalls Pearl Harbor

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) Twenty years ago, a sleepy Sunday morning in Hawaii was shattered by Japanese bombs falling on Pearl Harbor.

The anniversary of that date, Dec. 7, 1941—will be disturbed only by the sharp sound of a bugle and a quiet memorial service above a sunken battleship. For one day, "Battleship Row" again will become the center of the mid-Pacific U.S. naval base.

Seven Battleships The row, where seven U.S. battleships were moored that Sunday, is like an old sea. It's hardly noticed, except by those seeing it for the first time.

But beneath its gentle waves lie the remains of the USS Arizona and 102 crew members who went down with her.

The Arizona has become the symbol of the attack that thrust America into World War II. Above the battleship's bulk rises an incomplete crescent-shaped memorial to the crew. It also salutes the nearly 900 others who died along Ford Island's northeast shore that "Day of Infamy."

Services The 20th anniversary services will be held aboard the memorial's platform beginning at 7:55 a.m., exact moment of the attack.

Among those paying tributes will be 108 New England survivors of the raid. They flew here from Boston to help honor their fallen comrades. Also on hand will be 60 Gold Star mothers, many of whose sons died on the Arizona.

A special piece of honor will be held by Lt. Gen. Alan Shapley, Pacific Marine commander and one of the Marines aboard the Arizona who survived. Shapley was rescued after being thrown overboard by the blast concussion.

The Arizona is the only U.S. battleship still commissioned. The Navy sentimentally—but officially regards her as a member of the fleet because her crew is aboard.

Dean Clark Aids Plan For J-School At U. of Mexico

Mexicans Exhibit Patriotism, Says Administrator

"The thing that amazed me most in talking to the students was their old-fashioned patriotism," the dean of the School of Journalism said in an interview Thursday.

Dean Wesley C. Clark referred to a "refresher" at the President among students at the University of the State of Mexico at the state capital, Toluca.

He returned last week from a U.S. State Department assignment to aid that school with plans for the creation of a journalism school.

"Nobody was talking about existentialism or beatniks," the dean said of the Mexican students. They are only interested in doing concrete things for their country . . . raising living standards and incomes and improving business and educational opportunities, he continued.

"They are suspicious of the U.S. government said the dean, "because of the larger size and population of this country and its 'tower potential'."

"It is paradoxical, but at the same time as they express fear of what our government might do, they seem to have little respect for us as a nation," he continued; "they laugh at the picture the U.S. made being licked

616 Register For Rush; Schedule Given

The largest group of students in several years, 616 freshmen and transfer students, will participate in the formal rush session beginning tonight, stated the dean of men's office.

An increase of over 115 undergraduates have registered for the rush over last year's figures, said James McMurray of the dean of men's office.

Each evening's schedule rushing session has been changed due to the ROTC exam. The entire session has been moved up 45 minutes.

Rushers are expected to arrive at houses at 6 p.m. and remain until 7:30 p.m. Rushers are scheduled to visit houses as follows: 6-7:30 p.m., 7:45-9 p.m., and 9:15-10:30 p.m.

Students on Saturday will be from 12:30-2 p.m., 2:15-3:30 p.m., and 3:45-5 p.m. The rush schedule for Sunday will be as follows 12:30-2 p.m., 2:15-3:30 p.m., and 3:45-5 p.m.

Visiting Architect Examines Styles Of Ontario, Can.

Anderson Contrasts Old and New Forms In Building

By CAROL SCHLAGETER

"Architecture . . . must spring from deeper situations than copying styles from the past," C. Ross Anderson, visiting architect at the School of Architecture, informed an audience in Slocum Hall Thursday night.

Anderson said that a new discipline in architecture should combine a rural surroundings with an academic approach; should combine "vision and vernacular."

"I prefer wherever possible to keep old buildings and build new ones on new land," he commented.

Anderson examined architecture of rural and residential structures, community buildings and production centers in Ontario, Canada.

Accompanying his talk with slides, he contrasted traditional one-room school houses with new schools.

Placement of one modern school, he explained, solved problems of drafts and glare from glass facades by building near already existing windbreak of trees.

Anderson said that Ontario is developing more buildings for recreational purposes and showed a hurlquin-roofed park shelter.

Brick, he explained, like stone, varies from district to district. In the earlier times of Canadian architecture, hand-made bricks natural to the location were used. Today, however, nearly any material can be shipped to a given location.

24 Block Area Involved in Plan

University Chancellor William P. Tolley said Thursday a 24-block "University City" urban renewal project is being considered that could be well underway in 18 months.

The Chancellor, in Washington testifying before the Federal Reserve Board on the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company bank holding acquisition plan, referred to the project in a prepared text urging approval of the new holding company.

"As we look at the near future we foresee full-scale participation in an urban renewal project covering a 24-block area adjacent to the university's north side," he said.

The area proposed at present would be bordered by E. Genesee Street on the north, Colvin Street on the south, the Urban Renewal area on the west and Thornden Park on the east, he said.

It was indicated this area might be extended to Erie boulevard in the future.

Joint Ventures

The chancellor stressed the fact that "this is not a university but a community plan." He said the university is interested in getting other parties concerned with the venture so they can undertake it jointly.

"The needs and convenience of the college and the community would be served better, Tolley said, if the First Trust and Deposit Company of Syracuse were permitted along with five other upstate banks to join in the Morgan holding company.

The assistance of the new holding company and other local banks to handle necessary financing would make the urban renewal project more feasible, he said.

University officials discussed the community face-lifting idea last month with 50 interested leaders from the area between the campus and Erie boulevard. All expressed great interest, according to the chancellor.

The leaders included representatives of hospitals, churches, synagogues and residential groups in the section, Tolley said.

Wipe Out Slums

The idea is to extend renewal on the near east side so that slums from downtown clear up

A diner celebrating Tanganyika's forthcoming independence, Association will also mark Tanganyika's freedom after 75 African students Saturday night at the University Club.

The diner is sponsored by the East African Studies Committee of the Maxwell Center for the Study of Overseas Operations and Research.

The International Student Organization and the African Student Association will also mark Tanganyika's freedom after 75 years of foreign rule with social activities tonight.

Becoming the 28th independent African nation, Tanganyika was originally ruled by Germany. In 1919 she was put under a British Mandate, and since 1947 has been governed by an International Trusteeship.

by Cuba . . . and at our fallout shelters."

Those he talked to, he said, had no interest in what the United Nations, the United States or Russia have to offer, but only in the welfare of their own country.

"A number of people in Mexico lean to the left," Dean Clark said, "but they aren't interested in becoming part of the Russian empire."

However, he added, many think that socialism offers a quicker path to the solutions of their country's many problems.

Accompanied by Mrs. Clark on his trip, the dean also gave a two-week series of lectures on "The Right to Know and Freedom of the Press" at the Quito, Ecuador Centro Internacional De Estudios Superiores De Periodismo Para America Latina.

Episcopalian Opinions Cited

Syracuse University Episcopals continued to voice strong opinions today over the administration policy change which canceled their 11 o'clock Sunday morning service.

University officials were still unavailable for comment late Thursday afternoon, Deans Charles Noble of Hendricks Chapel, Franklin Bishop of Academic Affairs, and Registrar Edwin D. Smith had "no comment." Chancellor William P. Tolley was in Washington and Vice President John Olson was unavailable for comment.

Robert Gorden, a pre-medical student, summed up the feeling of the Episcopal Church in a statement made to the DO.

"The Episcopal student body would like a statement from the University as to why this ruling has been made. We demand nothing, only that the University cooperate with the Episcopal chaplain."

"While not intending to hurt the church the University is making it difficult for us to attend our Father Agnes is a victim of circumstances. Our only wish is to be able to worship at times we deem necessary and proper. Roman Catholics are allowed to use Crouse auditorium from dawn until Msgr. Ryan wishes to leave."

"We feel that the University has not considered the needs of the Episcopal students as carefully as they might have."

Marshall Cites Fire Violations

By JIM WELLES

An interview with Syracuse University Fire Marshall, Thaddeus Otis, yesterday revealed that he has made over 400 recent recommendations to various departments in the university concerning fire violations and methods to improve the fire prevention work and apparatus on the Hill.

Otis made it clear that the recommendations themselves were confidential and available only to the director of safety, Charles Morgan, the department of Buildings and Grounds, and Treasurer. Commenting on his duties Otis said that he was responsible "for making inspections pertaining to safety and fire regulations." This means "inspecting a certain number of buildings, dormitories, and independent living centers on campus. However, he said, "when I make a recommendation" concerning fire prevention, "I don't have the power to order that the recommendation be carried out."

Discussing briefly the safety of various cottages on campus, Otis said "they have been classified as safe under the Mitchell Act."

However, when he inspected the value of sprinklers for fire control, he said that for the most part they are effective. But occasionally, when a fire breaks out, he added that the water pipes gets so hot that it emerges as super heated steam and has little effect in containing the blaze.

The building most liable to fire on campus, Otis said, was Bowron Hall because of the chemicals in it. He further added that this building does not have a sprinkler system in it because of the adverse way other affects some of the chemicals. It is possible, he said, to install a carbon dioxide extinguishing system in the building similar to that found in the

to the campus would be wiped out.

The tentative plans would be for the university and other groups to lay out the land and seek federal urban renewal under the standard 3-1 assistance ratio.

It is understood months of research would precede actual construction.

"University City" would not mean any shift in the center of SU activities, Tolley said, but rather would provide "an attractive and expensive residential area on our doorstep."

"Tolley said he envisions a number of high-rise modern apartments that will add luster and beauty to both the city and the university.

Mere Purchases Although university already owns some of the land in question, he said, only those portions purchased within five years of a federal urban renewal application can qualify for federal funds; so additional purchases by the university would be required.

"The university does not plan to build on all 24 blocks, but will be interested in their development and utilization."

The project, Tolley said, "will temporarily strain our resources and will require extensive borrowing by ourselves and others for full development."

Among university buildings planned for future construction are Newhouse Communications Center, between South Crouse Avenue and University Avenue and a new library on Waverly Avenue, a new men's dorm and a library in the Comstock and Euclid avenues area.

Students, Alumni Asked to Parties

Syracuse students and alumni are invited to attend Liberty Bowl activities by Howard J. Spear '39, president of Main Line-Delco Alumni Club of Syracuse University. These activities will take place in Philadelphia before and after the game.

The Sheraton Hotel in Philadelphia will be the Liberty Bowl Headquarters.

There will be a reception 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 15, in the Constitution Room of the Sheraton Hotel. Spear has invited all students, alumni and friends of Syracuse for this reception.

Thursday after the game, there will be another reception in the Independence Room of the Sheraton Hotel.

Students who would like to make hotel reservations at the Sheraton Hotel may call the Sheraton Motor Inn in Syracuse. For information on student rates, students may call Patricia Spear, Chi Omega, GR 5-736.

Ambassador Stevenson

United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson has decided to turn down the opportunity to run for the Senate in Illinois and to instead remain at his U.N. post.

It takes a man of great courage to turn down the chance for elective office. The former Illinois governor must have been very tempted to accept the Senatorial overtures made by Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley and the liberal Illinois Senator, Paul Douglas.

But Adlai Stevenson is a political statesman of rare sensitivity and after careful soul-searching he announced that he was staying at the United Nations where he has been doing a brilliant job as United States ambassador.

During his nine months at the United Nations Stevenson has on occasion been forced to present United States policy decisions that he personally disagreed with.

Every American should be thankful that the Governor saw his national duty to remain with the new administration. Stevenson made a major political sacrifice for the benefit of his country.

'Juvenile Left'

To the Editor: The liberal mouthings of the DO have reached a new peak of the ridiculous. One need only refer to the recent editorial titled "The Juvenile Right."

The writer falls back on the Washington "Post" (naturally). I doubt whether he reads anything else, except possibly the New York "Times" to help him refute conservative traits.

by conservatives.

Be that (the farfetched) case. I still hold it superior to the liberal processes which give a problem three times the attention it would normally deserve.

"They recognize no middle ground." Perhaps. But, likewise, I'm sure that the liberals recognize no ground except the middle. Where does that lend?

Particularly ironically, I find the DO adherence to calling conservatives as possessing "one single attitude, one single pattern of answers because they lack the strength and courage to face these intellectual challenges."

I am happy to say that for the first time the DO has condescended enough to print evidence against itself. Let me throw out some questions to the students: Has anyone ever observed the DO as trying to understand except the one, rigid, dogmatic liberal stand?

The DO of Dec. 6, carried an article relating to the cancellation of the 11 a.m. Episcopal services of worship.

What? Why should one religious belief and practice be subject to a control that another is not subjected to? Whether intentional or not, the ruling is obviously discriminatory.

India's Policies

At the risk of losing a future Peace Corps assignment, and provoking unfriendly relations with India, I must take exception to Mr. S. Sreenivas Rao's analysis of India's policy towards nuclear testing.

"The Indians did not condemn Russian tests in strong terms . . . because . . . between 1945 and 1958 the US has been responsible for 169 explosions and the USSR for only 55," he wrote, inferring this from an article by a Mr. K. Rangaswami in the "Hindo News Letter," obviously an influential and far-reaching publication.

Being an astute mathematician, I subtract the USSR's 55 explosions from our 169, and, lo and behold, I get 114 as an answer. Mr. K. Rangaswami apparently believes the Russians should be given the opportunity to set off 114 explosions to catch up. I agree. After all, it's only sporting.

We have been preparing for tests. Because the USSR "lost . . . patience, the USA is in effect to blame. Perhaps we shouldn't train soldiers or build atomic submarines. We might make the USSR lose patience. Of course, if we were attacked today, according to Mr. S. Sreenivas Rao's logic, the blame for the war would lay squarely upon our shoulders.

To be "prepared to die on our feet rather than live on our knees," as Mr. Krishna Menon stated, means standing up to Communist encroachment. This is something India has not done in the past, and will not do in the future. The Daily China oversteps herself in the Himalayas, in which case I presume India will take her problem to the UN—(and we all know how effective the UN has been in Africa).

SWEETNESS AND LIGHT

The Campus Scene

By KENT L. BARWICK

"Dirty Rushing." 51 weeks of the year, is rarely thought of as mentioned only in the abstract. This week, the term, and countless alleged examples, are on everyone's mind in the fraternity system.

My comment is as it has been for four years—that the rushing rules are unrealistic and conduce to an artificial condition. As sure as kids cut a path across a corner lot, fraternity men and prospective rushers will get together, one to sell, the other to learn.

This week, practically everyone agrees "the talk in the club," at T.C., in fact wherever fraternity men gather, is how ridiculous the situation is, and if the situation is ridiculous, then it should be corrected and corrected soon by the IFC.

One comment is that October rushing rules won't work in December. Whether this is true or not is besides the point, for if the mass of the fraternities believe it then dirty rushing becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy.

Another comment, heard less frequently, questions the need to dirty rush in the first place. A kid worth getting won't be snowed, and a house with a program to sell and nothing to hide doesn't need to dirty rush. This worthy point of view regrettably isn't held widely enough to prevent the perennial rushing violations, let alone the myriad of new cases brought on by the late rush.

When you come right down to it, the only choice the IFC has now is to enforce the rules for rushing. If they are not enforced, however, that play it straight will be the losers, and this will do nothing to enhance the prestige of the IFC, and, more important, the Greek system. And perhaps the enforcement of what may seem like playtime rules will bring the entire system to a realization of just how unrealistic many of the rules are, and provide the impetus for change, the most regrettable thing about the whole unpleasant situation is the hard feelings it causes among the houses. Accused houses wonder who turned them in, neighbors watch each other; top houses cut each other; and some houses even send "sleeper" rushers to check up on the competition.

Countless hours are spent by some houses laying plans to jap other houses, and to fool rushers. If half this time was expended on just honestly improving and presenting the houses in question, the dirty rushing wouldn't be necessary.

Every season someone complains about Food Service, and rightly so. Throughout my freshman year I thought the food was terrible. Since then, things have improved: seconds are now available, and I guess some attempt has been made to make the food more presentable.

The JSL committee headed by Teddy Bayer has been investigating Food Service, and as a result several administrative personnel have made what might be considered priceless statements. Comptroller Wingate said he would only consider as serious complaints those laid against recurring problems. Apparently one time guards are unavoidable and uncorrectable.

A wave of virus or flu has brought Dr. Marly, the head of the health service, to investigate the cafeterias. The best thing the doctor could say was the Food Service was no worse than in years past.

With all the hullabaloo over Food Service, rushing, and the pally raid everyone seems to have forgotten the good old student government. Not being content to let sleeping dogs lie, let me ask: "Student Government, where are you? What have you been doing?"

Hill Cagers Host Nittany Lions

By RON ROBERTS

Relying on speed, hustle, and a revamped starting lineup, the Syracuse hoopers seek to even their season record tonight with a victory over Penn State in the War Memorial. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

Sophomores Carl Vernick and Bob Murray, and junior Dick Taylor are expected to join Fred Juchniewicz and Herb Foster on the opening assault force. Maehner and Foster are the only two who started in last week's 68-56 loss to Fordham.

The Pennsylvania's own wins over Maryland and Lehigh in their only outings of the young season, and Orange coach Mareilly expects the Nittany's speed, experience, and sliding zone defense to make things rough on the Hillmen.

SU Must Hustle
"They will be tough," said Guley. "But if we hustle and make fewer mistakes than last week, we will be in there all the way."
"We've been working on breaking the zone and on keeping control of the ball until we at least get a shot at it," continued Guley.

"We have a number of different patterns to use against their various versions of the zone."
Guley is hoping to get a fast break working against his opponent in order to score before the Nittany can set up their patented defense. "I've always tried to have a good fast-breaking club," said Guley, "but of course, if you don't have the horses you can't run."

Experienced Lions
Three lettermen are expected to lead coach John Edgill's Penn State squad, with sophomores Bob Donato and Wayne Lundy rounding out the starting lineup.

Captain Gene Harris, 6-3, and Earl Hoffman, 6-5, are the probable starters at forward. Lundy, at 6-6, is the likely opener at center, and Junior John Mitchell should join Donato in the backcourt.

Donato has the unenviable job of filling the sneakers of Mark DuMars, the tricky backcourt ace who graduated last year. DuMars was the second highest scorer in Penn State history, and his presence was made known against Syracuse last year.

"When they had DuMars last year," said Guley, "they lost us. But when DuMars was sick and missed that second game we beat them, so let's hope it works out that way again."

Senior Jim Bennett, halfback on the football team, has been working out this week with the cagers, but the double practice sessions between the two sports have given him some leg trouble, so Guley does not expect more than very limited action from him.

SU Fencers Host Buffalo In Opener

The Syracuse fencers face the Buffalo University Bulls tomorrow at Archbold Gym in their 1961-62 season opener. The match between the two keen rivals will begin at 7 p.m.

Captain Ed Siedleck, Bob Szwald and Art Backer will be leading the AetI fencers. These three seniors comprise the powerful Hill starting spear team.

Mike Shepard, Mike Michaels and Bob Troy will be the starting foil-men, according to Coach Alexander Duko. The saber team will be headed by Marty Dako. Stu Hollander and Dick Sabonbauer.

All three Hill sabermen are sophomores. Shepard is a senior, Troy a junior and Michaels a sophomore.

The men from Buffalo won the North Atlantic epee championship last season, rising out second place. Syracuse, although Siedleck went on to win the individual championship.

They are expected to field a strong outfit again this season.

Why college men choose careers with Du Pont

Every year, several hundred new college graduates choose Du Pont. Many Masters and Ph.D.'s do, too.

Recently we asked some of them what factors influenced them to decide for Du Pont. They cited more than half a dozen reasons. Here are some they almost all agreed upon:

OPPORTUNITY AND RECOGNITION
They were aware that college-trained beginners go right to work with men who have achieved. For example, research chemists work with individuals who've done successful research. New engineers work with pros. some of whom have designed new plants, or devised new manufacturing methods, or distinguished themselves in some other way. And other graduates, with B.A. or M.B.A. degrees, go to work with leaders who've been successful in Sales or Advertising or Treasures, or another of Du Pont's many departments.

RESEARCH CREATES NEW PRODUCTS; NEW PRODUCTS CREATE NEW JOBS
Men like working for a company that believes in research, enough to invest in it . . . $30 million a year! The fact is that important new products come from Du Pont laboratories and go to Du Pont manufacturing plants with frequency.

Here are but a few since World War II: "Orlon"* acrylic fiber followed nylon (soon after the war). Then came "Dacron"* polyester fiber, "Mylar"* polyester film, "Lucite"* acrylic lacquer and "Delrin"* acetal resin. These, and many others, have created thousands of new jobs . . . in research, manufacturing, sales . . . in fact, in all Du Pont departments.

DUPONT BACKS EMPLOYEES WITH HUGE INVESTMENT
New graduates feel that every facility is provided for doing the job well. Last year, Du Pont's operating investment per employee was $32,500. Since much of this was expended to provide the most modern and best of equipment to work with, it further increases the chance for individual achievement.

DUPONT PROVIDES STEADY EMPLOYMENT
Career seekers appreciate the importance of security. Today, the average annual turnover rate at Du Pont is less than one-third that of industry nationally.

If you'd like to learn more about job opportunities at Du Pont, just clip and mail this coupon. And be sure to tell us your course of study, so we can send you the appropriate booklet.

Frosh Hoopsters Face Morrisville

By DAN GARR

"They gave a good account of themselves." So said Coach Marc Guley after his victorious frosh cagers had routed the Ithaca College yearlings 74-52 last Saturday. "All the boys played well," he continued. "They're good competitors and this, we hope, should offset a lack of height."

But he then added that there's still much room for improvement. Of course, most successful mentors tend to show pessimism after their team wins, and Coach Guley is no exception.

The Hill culis were back at work this week, polishing and drilling for the next contest with the Morrisville Aggies. The game is scheduled for tonight at the War Memorial, beginning at 6:30.

Same Starters
Guley had plans for the entire club and indicated that there

Riflemen Have Two Weekend Matches

Syracuse's varsity riflemen will be competing in a pair of triangular matches this weekend.

The Orange shooters host Colgate and St. Lawrence at 6 p.m. today at the Archibald gymnasium rifle range. Saturday the Hill team will travel to Alfred for a meet with Camsus and Alfred.

Friday's match will be the third of the year for the Hillmen. On Nov. 4 the riflemen lost to Buffalo, and on Nov. 18 they finished second in a match with Cornell and Rochester.

The leading scorer for the Piety shooters this year has been Bob Murray.

would be no changes in the starting lineup. Rick Weber will be at center, with Larry "Beetles" Bailey and Tom Fitzsimmons in the forecourt, and Rick Duffy and Phil Schoff at the guards.

With only the five starters on basketball scholarships, Guley noted the fine turnout for the cage squad by interested students. The two high scorers in last Friday's game, Mike Brown and griddler Rich King, who both came off the bench, are indicative of the fine talent on this year's team.

As for Morrisville, Guley knows little about the team's potential. However, on the basis of their impressive showing against Ithaca and fine team spirit, the Piety frosh should give the Aggies a very busy, if not totally frustrating, evening.

Guley observed that the SU yearlings have not yet had the hardest part of the schedule. "We'll know what type of club we have when we face Colgate, Cornell, and Niagara," he stated. "It should be an interesting season."

Piety Matmen Defend Title In Coast Guard Tournament

By BOB BRIER

The 1961-1962 edition of the Syracuse varsity wrestling team will go on display today in New London, Connecticut. The Orangemen will be defending the Coast Guard Tournament title that they won last year.

Coach Joe Scamfara brings one of the best teams in the East into the annual tournament. Boasting a good crop of sophomores to go along with six returning lettermen, the Piety grapplers figure to improve on last year's record of five victories in nine dual meets.

Leading the strong Syracuse mat contingent are Howie Meyers and Gary Sirota. Meyers was undefeated last year in seven meets while Sirota dropped only two of the nine contests he appeared in. Sirota, who is rated by many as being the top 167-pounder in the East, may be the best wrestler on the team.

Injuries
Injuries to 137-pound Jim Murray and 191-pound Bob Ornstein may hamper the Hillmen's bid to repeat as champions. The pair is doubtful of seeing action in the two-day New London tournament.

Rounding out the list of the leading Orange wrestlers are Larry Nealon, 123 pounds, Dick Slutzky, 147 pounds, George Reardon, 157 pounds, Art Lopez, 167 pounds, and Mel Powers, heavyweight.

These nine men should form the nucleus of the team that faces such perennial Eastern powers as Pittsburgh, Lehigh, Cornell and Penn State in a ten meet schedule that includes the Coast Guard tourney.

Each year the tourney hosted by the Coast Guard Academy, draws some of the best teams in the East. Joining the host team in this year's field are Columbia, Army, and ten others who will attempt to dethrone the Orange.

TEP Receives Cigarette Award

Tau Epsilon Phi, DellPlain 8, and Alpha Delta Pi won the prizes in a contest sponsored by the Phillip Morris Tobacco Company. Lois Levy, campus representative of the company, announced yesterday.

The winners were determined by the number of packages of Marlboro, Alpine, Parliament, and Phillip Morris cigarettes each contestant collected. Five points were awarded for each Marlboro, Alpine, and Parliament package, and ten points were awarded for each Phillip Morris package.

TEP took the first place prize of a high-fidelity phonograph and radio by collecting 125,000 points.

— Just Different —
ELLIS M. CARRUTHERS
Syracuse University, Class of '50

It was nice to note recently such high national spirit on campus even before President Kennedy began urging America to participate more in sports. We refer of course to last Sunday eve and morn when the Glass of '65 showed the way to fun and more exercise than most of us have experienced for a while.

In fact, such strenuous activity undoubtedly worked up many an appetite which reminds us of the perfect place to satisfy any appetite, big or small.

After the next panty raid, twist contest, house party or what have you, just remember the name Angelo's. Serving Italian style cooking exclusively, Angelo Fasana prides himself on serving the finest in home cooked Italian foods, the usual dishes such as spaghetti, ravioli, pizza, lasagne.

He also specializes in some unusual dishes for you gormets such as broccoli, veal parmegian, chicken caeciatore and eggplant.

Alice, his wife, is in charge of the kitchen and she makes sure that everything is prepared to exactly the way you want, down to the last pinch of seasoning, and while you may have to wait a while, its well worth it when you taste the results.

This plus the fact that Angelo's makes everything fresh daily including the macaroni and sauces adds up to something more than even our glorious Food Service can offer (heh, heh).

You're put in an eating mood the minute you enter the cozy Vineyard Room with its checkered tablecloths and grape leaf lattice overhead—you never feel as though you're just another customer but rather you're actually treated as a guest.

And Angelo says the same will be true when he moves into his new restaurant out in North Syracuse which will be open in the Spring.

For those of you on the run, Angelo's also has takeout service. Just call GR 1-9968 about half an hour ahead.

Oh, yes, on Fridays, that's today friends, Angelo's also features baked fish, and macaroni and beans.

Traditions Applications Due

Commission are due by 5 p.m. Monday, December 11, at the Receptionist Desk of the Women's Building.

Prospective members of the commission should be sophomores, Gown Squad members, and have a 1.0 average and good citizenship records.

Each applicant must submit an application and have an interview with members of Traditions Commission.

Prospective members must offer constructive criticism of the 1961 Orientation Week, and also suggest some new ideas.

Interviews are scheduled for January 3-5. Applicants must sign up for interviews when they submit the applications.

ASA to Sponsor Christmas Sale

The Art Students Association (ASA) is holding its annual Christmas sale of members' work in the downstairs gallery of Lowe Art Center. The sale will be held on Friday (9-5 p.m.), Saturday (9-5 p.m.) and Sunday (2-5 p.m.).

The sale will include drawings, prints, paintings, ceramics, jewelry, and other work done by the members of ASA. Student artists will be available to do portraits of visitors.

The two main functions of Traditions Commission are to organize the university Orientation Week, and to maintain and promote old and new campus traditions.

Commission members plan and carry out Orientation week programs for the first and second semesters.

Stamp Show Slated

A round-up exhibit of Israeli stamps will open Sunday, Dec. 10, in the Colonial Room and Hendricks Chapel. Displayed on thirteen large panels, the exhibit includes all the stamps of Israel since 1948 when the State was founded.

In conjunction with the stamp show, Hillel's Israeli committee will hold an open house at 2:00 p.m. Sunday. Chairman is Endi Fishman.

Prof Gives Concert

Professor Ernst Bacon of the School of Music will give a concert 4 p.m. Sunday in Crouse College Auditorium. Selections from Bach, Beethoven and Liszt will be played.

Professor Bacon is a composer in residence at SU. He is the author of "World in Music", published by the SU press.

Lerner, Javits, Reston, Rabi to Speak Here

Classes End Friday

Classes will end for the Christmas vacation at 3 p.m. Friday instead of Saturday noon as previously scheduled. Dean Frank P. Piskor of academic affairs has announced. The decision was made to allow students more time to get to the Liberty Bowl in Philadelphia, Pa., where Syracuse will face the University of Miami Saturday afternoon. This change does not apply to students in University College or the Graduate School of Education. Dormitories will remain open for students who wish to stay on the Hill through Saturday. Friday night dinner and Saturday breakfast will be served in University dining halls. Saturday, and lunch will not be served that day. Classes will start Wednesday Jan. 3. The last day of classes this semester will be Jan. 19.

JSG Seeks Opinion On Greek Prejudice

The newly-formed Joint Student Government Student Opinion Committee asked all students to fill out the questionnaire at the end of this story and return it to their living center presidents by Wednesday. Presidents should take all questionnaires to the association of Women Students office in the Women's Building or to the JSG office in the Men's Gym. The committee will tabulate answers and present results to the administration.

Questions of importance will be asked of students periodically during the year in this fashion. This new committee, headed by Peter Fielding of the JSG Governing Board and Susan Chadwick of Joint Student Legislature is "an initial step in improving the serious lack of communications between SU students and administrators," as was asserted by Fielding. Miss Chadwick said, "In order for this committee to be effective, it is essential that we have the complete cooperation of the entire student body and all presidents of living centers."

City students may place filled-in questionnaires in a box in the College Cafeter Club, Slocum Hall basement. QUESTION: Should the university issue and enforce a definite policy on discrimination in sororities and fraternities?

Contest Entries Due Tuesday

Application deadline for the Christmas Decoration Contest is 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 12, announced Al Mazzoni, chairman. Judges for the contest, sponsored by Lambda Chi Alpha, are George F. Earle, associate professor in landscape architecture, and Esther Weinstein, Head Resident Director of Flint Hall. The judging will be held 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 13.

Officials Silent On Hill Services

University officials stated Friday morning that they would make no statement concerning why they canceled religious services on campus between the hours of 10:30 and 12 noon Sunday excepting for Hendricks Chapel Service and the Roman Catholic Mass. When Chancellor William P. Tolley's office was asked for a statement it was answered that the University had "nothing further to say" than the official ruling on the issue. The issue gained campus attention only this week when the Rev. Robert Ayres, campus Episcopal Chaplain, whose services were the only ones affected, asked why his church was "not being permitted to minister advantageously to the needs of the Episcopal students on campus."

Law, Shelter Lecture Topic

"Emergency Legal Measures" will be the title of the ninth lecture of a ten lecture series entitled "Nuclear Energy - Protection and Phenomenon." Dr. Richard Lillich, College of Law professor, will discuss this topic Tuesday, December 12, at 4 p.m. in Hinds Hall. He will consider the legal steps that can be taken by a home owner defending himself and his family from neighbors attempting to break in to his fallout shelter. Only the legal point of view will be discussed. The moral aspects of this problem will be left to the individual's own conscience. The lecture will be open to the public.

Christmas Party Set for Thursday

Chancellor William P. Tolley will hold his annual Christmas Party for the students and staff of the university Thursday. Free cookies and coffee will be distributed between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at a dozen campus buildings. A similar set-up has been planned that evening at University Col-

U.S. Senator Jacob Javits, Washington correspondent James Reston, author Max Lerner and physicist Isidore Rabi are scheduled as speakers for the evening Citizenship Lecture series next semester, Citizenship Dept. Chairman Michael O. Sawyer announced Saturday.

Sawyer terms the speaker series "one of the most exciting and stimulating the Citizenship Department has ever presented. All four men are leaders in their field."

Javits, New York State senior senator and a recognized spokesman of the Republican liberal wing, will speak February 13. A graduate of New York University Law School, Javits held his first public office in 1945 as Representative from the 21st Congressional District. He was elected to the Senate in 1956, defeating New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Reston, chief of the New York Times Washington Bureau, will speak March 20. He has twice won the Pulitzer Prize, first in 1945 for his coverage of the Emberton Gales Security Conference and in 1957 for his distinguished Washington reporting.

After graduating from the University of Illinois, Reston was press agent of the Cincinnati Reds, covered sports for the Associated Press and wrote a New York column. He became an AP Washington correspondent in 1937, and joined the Times staff in 1939.

Lerner, to speak April 18, is a teacher, journalist and author of the best-selling "America As A Civilization". A graduate of Yale University and the Brookings Graduate School, Lerner has taught at Harvard University, College and Sarah Lawrence College.

He is now Professor of American Civilization and World Politics at Brandeis University and writes a syndicated newspaper column which appears four times a week in the U.S. and abroad. His next book, "The Age of Overskill", will be published in 1962.

Rabi, to speak May 1, is a Nobel Prize winner in physics and president of the Associated Universities, Inc., the group responsible for the operation of the Brookhaven National Laboratory in Upton, Long Island.

He is also serving as Shreve Fellow of the Princeton University Council of Humanities and Department of History. The former chairman of President Eisenhower's Science Advisory Committee has also served as the U.S. representative to the Scientific Commission for NATO.

Poetess to Present Reading, Lecture In Maxwell Today

Denise Levortov, author and former poetry editor of "The Nation" will give a reading of her poetry with commentary at 4:15 today in Maxwell Auditorium. During her three day stay, which is sponsored by the English Department's Visiting Writer's Program, Miss Levortov will speak to writing classes at 12 noon Monday 104 IIL and 12:15 Tuesday 309 IIL. Visitors to these classes are welcome.

Kenneth Rexroth of the New York Times Book Review has praised Miss Levortov as being the most profound, moving and subtly skillful poet of her generation.

Donald Hall also of the New York Times Book Review, said Miss Levortov "handles the movement of free verse with consistent brilliance."

Miss Levortov is the author of five volumes of poetry: "The Jacob's Ladder", "Fere and Now", "Overland to the Islands", "With Eyes at the Back of Our Heads" and "The Double Image".

The editors of New Directions Publishing Company say "Jacob's Ladder" contains "a large social concern and a more penetrating identification with the problems of humanity."

Miss Levortov was born in 1923 in London and never attended school in this country. She now lives in New York with her husband, Mitchell Goodman, and her 12 year old son.

The Visiting Writers Series undertaken by Dr. Donald Dike, will also sponsor two authors during the next semester.

Fire Protection Improved on Hill

"In respect to fire protection and prevention on the campus, we are in better position now than we have ever been" reported Charles Morgan, director of security. Morgan, commenting briefly on last Friday's article in the DO concerning 400 recommendations to correct five violations on campus, said that the nature of these violations are very minor. They are centered around such things as burnt out light bulbs in EXIT signs and over length extension cords.

All of these recommendations, he said, are taken care of as quickly as possible. For instance, if a major fire hazard was found in a dormitory, it would be corrected within 24 hours.

Explaining in further detail the situation in which water in sprinkler systems turns to super heated steam, Morgan said that this happens only rarely and in fires where the temperature of the blaze is very high, such as a gasoline fire.

'ON' CONTEST ENTRIES DUE

This week is the last time 'ON' representatives will have to turn in entries for the ON House Sales Contest.

Division leaders in Onondaga sales at this time are: Alpha, 32 Delta, 14 subscriptions, Sorority: The Chi, I, Fraternity: Flint SA, 30, Day G, 21, Women's Living Center, and Delta Phi 1, 6, Men's Living Center.

The winner of each division will be determined by the greatest percentage of students who subscribe. A free page of advertising in the Onondaga will be given to the winning living centers.

Subscription money should be brought to Prefab 7 any afternoon this week. Extra entry blanks are available there.

Hill Fraternity to Build New House

Syracuse University and Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity jointly announced Friday plans for a new $200,000 45 resident fraternity house to be constructed on the corner of Hartz Adams street and Ostrom avenue.

This will be the first all-new Greek house to be built on the Hill since 1933.

Construction will start next year, and be completed by the fall of 1963, in time for the Fraternity's 50th anniversary on campus, according to SAM alumni.

program for houses that may stand in the way of university building programs.

Architectural plans for the new house call for 41 off-street parking spaces to be given by SAM and four other houses presently located in the same block. They are Alpha Epsilon Pi, Iota Alpha Pi, Kappa Alpha and Delta Upsilon.

An access road will also be built through the block, which is bounded by Ostrom avenue to the east, East Adams on the south, Constock on the west and Harrison street to the north. The fraternity decided the existing fraternity property at 712 Constock Ave., to the university in exchange for the new location.

Representing the university in the transaction was Director of Real Estate William Burch. SAM was represented by Syracuse alumni Marley, Seymour Roth, Dr. Marvin Brown, Howard Helf, Marshall Cooper and H. Edward Markos.

As a part of the ceremonies, Marley presented a $1,500 check to the University from the Eta Chapter of Sigma Alpha Mu for an endowment scholarship in the name of the late Monroe Klein, Class of 1935.

Editor's Note: The following article was submitted to the Daily Orange as a letter to the editor. The writer, a regular reader of the DO, is currently a doctoral candidate at the New School for Social Research in New York City.

To the Editor:
On this, the anniversary of Pearl Harbor, I would like to congratulate you on the beauty and force of your editorial entitled "A Human Voice." At the same time I would hope that the memory and significance of what happened at Pearl Harbor would indicate that your editorial may have been in error in regards to its conclusions.

Permit me to suggest that it is quite possible that the United Nations may not offer the best protection and hope for survival. I think we would agree that all we could hope for that democracy and free expression, if instituted on a world-wide basis, in a world congress of the nature of the United Nations would constitute mankind's greatest hope. But even then it would not be a guarantee of success. We may assume that this country and England have had the greatest experience with democracy, and still would argue that there is room for much improvement. But the United Nations today, and for the foreseeable future, is not a democratic congress expressing the will of the people of the world.

It has, and will continue to have, more than its share of delegates who represent totalitarian aggressive states, imperialistic states (note the behavior of France), power hungry self-seeking petty tyrants (of the Nasser-Nikrmani variety) and weak easily intimidated states.

The Assembly is not of the people, but of the governments. Thus, for the near future, and at least for the rest of this century, the hope for peace may very well lie in other areas besides the UN. It is not inconceivable that on some future vote, the exigencies of power politics could easily dictate a UN majority in favor of a motion which we of the Western democracies would consider to be opposed both to peace and to democracy.

(For example, it is not behind imagination to consider that it will be quite possible for the Arab bloc, together with others who for their own particular and selfish reasons would desire to align themselves with Nasser and Co., to have Israel branded an aggressor nation. Other examples are possible.)

I sympathize with your expression of faith in mankind's ability to grow, and would also think that your faith would be somewhat less strong if you had the privilege of being a sit-in in Mississippi, a Jew in Germany during the Fifties, a drinker at a waterfront saloon on a Saturday night, a slave to your Greek, or Roman, or Persian, or Chinese or American master, depending upon the coincidence of the age in which you lived and the nationality that you were lucky enough to belong to.

If this be some of that pessimism and cynicism that you spoke about, then I would suggest that it is also a more truthful and realistic view—and that mankind's hope for the future will not be secured by a naive faith—but lies only in an intelligent objective appraisal of those few facts that we are privileged to be aware of.

The Jewish people on the lips to the Dutchewen kept saying and trying to believe that it couldn't be true, that no nation could resort to creating people just for the crime of having been born to the wrong parents. Their faith in the Nazis was misplaced. I would prefer that you do not similarly place too much faith in the men of the Kremlin, or Polping, of the Congo, or Portugal, etc.

I regret that I cannot agree that the lady in question made a statement about human beings. I believe that she made a statement about herself. If the world consisted only of people like her and yourself (and with some modesty, like myself) then such statements would not be needed.

But this is not the case. The human nature, the innate craving for self-respect of which you speak so eloquently, has more often than not given us such odorous things as witch-burnings, the rack, and countless wars.

Today in the new nations the desire for self-respect has often enough led to cynically led riots, rapes, excess materialism, ignorant pretentiousness and increased poverty. Many a conquering soldier has grieved in self-respect while listening to the wails of the widows and orphans.

In conclusion, I do not regret the contribution that was made to the UN. It has done some wonderful things and should be encouraged to continue and to grow. It does offer a forum of opinion for government and in this way serves a most useful purpose. It may, in the distant future, even serve as the organ for peace, which we all hoped it would be when it was founded.

But let us not delude ourselves into thinking that it is the UN today which will be able to insure the functioning of the UN tomorrow. This decision lies elsewhere. It lies in the hearts of those who are willing to sacrifice human lives in order to further their own ambitions, ideologies and dogmas; and it lies with their followers who knowingly or unknowingly will support their leaders while ignorant of the true causes and purposes of their acts.

None of us wishes to live alone in a coffin with memories. The question is, how do we stop the Hitlers, the Napoleons, the Ghengis Kahns of the atomic ages? It is my opinion that faith in mankind, and statements by pure souls have never been the answer.

Nor do I suggest that there is a sure, positive or guaranteed answer. But I do feel that an aggressor will be stopped before he is started only if he is convinced that he will lose, and even then, in his madness, he may try anyway. The best way to avoid a black eye is to run away, but if your pride (or your liberty) mean too much to you, then your best other alternative is to declare that you are willing to fight for your eyes.

In short, while I do not decry the existence or support of the UN, I also do not decry the military arms and preparedness to fight that our President is urging upon us. And I would request that others be more tolerant of those who believe that the existence of fallout shelters may be one of the better ways of insuring that there will never be a need for them.

Episcopal Services Cancelled

Last week Chancellor Tolley canceled the 11:00 a.m. Episcopal service.

Immediately a loud and vocal protest was heard from Rev. Robert Ayres and many Episcopal and non-Episcopal students.

They argue that the 9:30 service the administration has left for them cannot adequately fill the needs of Episcopal students and faculty; that the Hendricks Chapel service is theologically incompatible with Episcopal teachings; that the Roman Catholics are allowed full use of Crozer College Sunday; and that, in the words of Father Ayres:

"We are not being permitted to minister advantageously to the needs of the Episcopal students on campus."

The University administration was unavailable for comment. When at last they decided to make a statement on the matter, Chancellor Tolley's office announced that they had "nothing further to say."

Interested students are drawing any number of conclusions from the Administration action, ranging from suggestions of religious discrimination to a sophomore confusion between Episcopal and other Protestants.

At the moment these guesses hold little water. But unless the administration offers some explanation these guesses might seem justified.

Until we know all the facts we prefer not to venture an opinion. But if the University continues its policy of "no comment," we can only infer an arbitrary act on their part, inhibiting free expression of religious beliefs on campus.

The Savoy Strikes Back

Editor's Note: In Friday's issue of the Daily Orange, columnist Kent Barwick commented that "local beatniks are enraged because the Savoy, long the headquarters of beatniks, isn't too anxious for their business." He went on to discuss the reasons for this alleged change of Savoy policy.

The Savoy, however, has other ideas. In its daily menu, which is second only to the DO in campus readership, the Marshall street restaurant issued the following statement Friday:

"... Caught a few lines in this morning under Keith something's wrong concerning a change in the Savoy's policy... Being the Policy-

Maker of The Savoy... and thus far... not suffering from any lapses in memory (either man-made or otherwise) and being a gentle sleeper (thus unable to talk in mine sleep) I'm at a loss as to where he gets his info...
"I refer him to Martin Luther King and the routine... and to the much advertised and much proclaimed non-prejudiced... non-racial... non-segregated policy of our Country... and to his position as a UN student and thus a future leader (at least to the Bar)... Beatniks??? Intelligentsia??? etc. etc. etc...
THE SAVOY POLICY HAS BEEN... AND ALWAYS WILL BE... OUR DOORS ARE OPEN... TO ONE AND ALL... IN FULL FREEDOM... the benefits and responsibilities that FREEDOM entails..."

The statement was signed "Shakysears... sage of de loudcrash."
Any questions?

LETTERS PAGE

Syracuse students may be apathetic, but you couldn't prove it by the number of letters to the editor received by the Daily Orange. In fact, these letters are so numerous that the DO can only publish a sampling of them each day.

Today, however, in the interests of satisfying our more prolific readers, the DO is presenting a special section on page 6. (Readers will notice a lengthy letter elsewhere on this page under "Other Voices.")

Among the letters appearing on page 6 are readers' comments on chapel services, India's foreign policies, and Syracuse's ever-popular Food Service.

Professors Who Proudly Proclaim They Don't Watch TV Termed Afraid of Medium, Not Given It A Chance

By JAN GRIFFIN
It has come rather alarmingly to my attention that there are many, many people on this campus, especially professors, that never watch television, indeed, do not own sets. I fail to see, frankly, why they don't. Television is a part of the twentieth century, as surely as automobiles and wash and wear. It reaches into peoples lives to influence their thoughts and behavior. It cannot be ignored forever, and should not. Times change, and people change with them. I do not agree with the theory that people are just the same basically as they were in 1900. We think differently, and feel differently, because we come from a different environment. An institution of higher learning is as good as its faculty, and even the professor of the 18th century English poetry has got to keep up with the changes in 20th century life, or he will lose his students' interest. Television is a part of what makes modern youth tick, so it is worth a look now and then, even if the reception is a little fuzzy in an ivory tower.

Afraid of Medium

When a professor proudly announces to a class that he doesn't own television, I can only wonder if he is afraid of the medium. Afraid it will replace him, or rot the minds of America, especially his. Regardless of the fact that such a man is missing a good seat from which to see history made and recorded, and good literature excellently portrayed, the TV-less man is betraying an unwillingness to accept life. It sounds very corny, but he is rather mal-adjusted.

Television does not have to be mind-rot, granted that some programs could be so, but only if they are watched. A gory Western isn't revolting if the screen is either blank at that time, or showing something else. Television is not a disease.

It is a symptom. Anyone with a little sense can turn off the things that are not desired, and with its easy a turn of the dial can get the vital, well-produced programs that give the clues to the kind of life 20th century Americans lead.

People that turn their backs on television should have the grace to give it a decent chance. A thorough inspection of the program schedule will expose many hours of viewing that no professor or student could object to. Since TV is saturating life in America, and now in many other countries as well, those who shun it will not stand shining above the crowd, they will merely be left out of the stream of life.

At no other place than at a university is the proper use of the tools of the age more important. Here is the place for every aspect of life to be fully explored and used to its best advantage for the illumination of the mind and excitement of the emotions. Television has a place here, when used by people with a little discrimination and sense.

Davis AP All-American; Brown, Mackey Cited

By BERNIE MACCALLUM

Ernie Davis made a clean sweep of the major All-American polls as he was selected to the Associated Press first team last week. End Bill Miller of Miami was the only All-American to join Davis on the first squad.

In the backfield with Davis are Bob Ferguson, Ohio State; Jim Saxton, Texas; and Sandy Stephens, Minnesota.

The line averages 232 pounds to the man with tackle Merlin Olsen of Utah State at 265, the biggest in the forward wall.

Other linemen selected were Bill Neighbors, Alabama, tackle; Dave Behrman, Michigan State, guard; Roy Winston, Louisiana State, guard; and Alex Kroll, Rutgers, center.

Joining Miller at end is Jerry Hillebrand of Colorado.

Honorable mention was given to Hill slanters John Mackey and John Brown.

The team was chosen by sports writers and sportscasters representing the eight NCAA districts on a proportionate basis, taking into account the complete seasons' performances.

The touch competition for All-American backfield positions this year is illustrated by the top ball carriers on the second team.

Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State quarterbacked the second unit with backs Pat Trammell, Alabama; Lance Alworth, Arkansas; and Billy Rat Adams, Mississippi.

At the end positions are Gary Collins of Maryland, and Pat Rifeher of Wisconsin.

Ron Thill of UCLA centers the second line with Ed Blaine, Missouri, tackle; Steve Barnett, Oregon, tackle; Mike Ingram, Ohio State, guard; and Dave Watson, Georgia Tech, guard.

Noticeably missing from the first three teams selected was Penn State's end Bob Mifflinger. The Nittany Lion was selected on most of the other All-American teams.

Bills Launch Drive To Land Piety Star

The battle among professional football teams to acquire the valuable services of Syracuse's Ernie Davis continues this week.

The Buffalo Bills, who selected the Elmira Express as their first draft choice, have announced that they will begin a big drive this week to get Ernie's signature on an AFL contract.

Buffalo's general manager, Dick Gallagher, told the Associated Press last week that his team can't afford to lose Davis. He added that the Negro half-back means "a great deal to football and to the entire upstate area."

Penn State Topples Piety

Frosh Win 87-71 Over Morrisville, Schoff Nets 33

By ALLAN KORT
 Marc Guley's frosh eagles easily won their second straight contest, 87-71, over the Morrisville Aggies Friday night at the War Memorial.

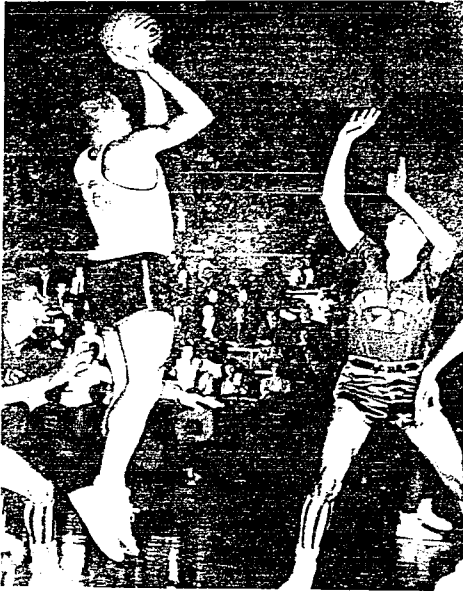

Last week, the Orange yearlings opened up their 13-game schedule with a 78-56 win over the Ithaca College frosh.

Forward Phil Schoff paced the yearlings to the victory with 33 points, stamping in 15 baskets. Bob Brown, second string guard, paced the Orange in the first half with 12 points. He was the second high scorer for Syracuse with 16 points.

The Morrisville club, out-rebounded by the taller Syracuse team from the start, used a full court press in the earlier part of the first half, and Syracuse used a fast break against the losers for a 12-3 lead at the five-minute mark.

Holding a 22-18 lead midway through the period, Syracuse used the second smother, which lengthened the lead to 34-22 before being replaced by the regulars late in the half. Morrisville, behind Wheeler, cut the Orange lead to four points, and Bob Brown then netted six points for the Hill, giving the Piety a 40-30 lead. The half ended with Syracuse out in front, 49-38.

The Aggies took little time in stretching their lead as the second half began. With two minutes gone by, the Piety led 59-40. Rebounding by Bailey and the strong shooting of Schoff gave the Orange a 67-64 lead with five minutes gone in the half. From that point on, Syracuse played a defensive game, holding a 73-56 lead midway through the period. The Aggies then pressed Syracuse and behind Wheeler's shooting cut the Orange lead to 79-68 at the 15-minute mark. Dick Duffly and Schoff then rallied to put the game out of reach at 85-69.

Staters Win, 77-60; Machemer Nets 24

By KEN DARLING
 Sports Editor

A Penn State scoring spurt early in the second half broke open a tight game and carried the Nittany Lions to a 77-60 win over Syracuse's varsity hoopsters Friday night at the War Memorial.

The visitors were in command most of the night, throwing a balanced attack at coach Marc Guley's forces. Penn State placed four starters in double figures. The Hillmen's Fred Machemer took scoring honors with 24 points, but he received little support from his mates.

After a sparse crowd of 607, the game got off to a slow beginning as neither team scored until nearly two minutes had elapsed. After five minutes of play the Piety men trailed by only 10-8, as Machemer had connected on his first three attempts.

Lions Head

At the midway point of the half, the Nittany Lions had reared into to ten-point edge. But with Machemer and Bob Murray showing the way, the Orange five battled to within five points, 37-32, at halftime.

Penn State wasted no time in building up their margin, however. Gene Harris scored seven points in the first four minutes of the second half. Wayne Lundy added a tap-in, Bob Donato chipped in with two quick buckets, and the Staters had moved to a 16-point lead before the Orangemen could get started.

That surge put the game on ice for the invaders, although Syracuse did fight back to within 11 points late in the contest. Baskets by Machemer and Jim Bennett cut the deficit to 63-52 with less than five minutes remaining, but the Hill forces could get no closer.

Lundy spearheaded the Nittany attack with 18 points, while Harris contributed 17. Donato clicked for 16 counters, and center Earl Hoffman netted 14. The fifth starter, guard John Mitchell, narrowly missed double figures with nine counters.

Hill Religion

To the Editor:

The recent action of the university administration in regard to the right of the Episcopal Church at Syracuse University to hold its daily services at 11 a.m. is, in my opinion, representative of an entirely out of step with the tested liberal aims of the school.

From a booklet presented to all entering freshmen entitled "Religion at Syracuse," I have selected the following:

"Ever since 1870 the university has endeavored to further religious idealism as an integral part of education. . . . Freedom in religious thought and activity is a major concern. Every student is encouraged to be true to his religious tradition while on campus, and every reasonable opportunity is provided to enable him to discover and develop religious convictions."

For the administration to issue these glowing statements on one hand and to force cancellation of a service due to competition with services of another denomination constitutes an atrocious hypocrisy.

It is interesting to note that there have been regular 11 a.m. Episcopal services in Chapel House almost ever since that building was built. It was only because of the removal of these services to a location a few yards from Hendricks Chapel, a move designed to make them more centrally located, that has precipitated the current shower of administrative indignation.

SU's Library

To the Editor:

Lately there has been much discussion about the food service at Syracuse University, but I have heard nothing about the terrible condition of our "food for thought," i.e. our library. I have found several flaws in the way our library system is operated, many of which, I think, could be easily remedied.

First, the stacks should be open to undergraduates as well as to graduate students and faculty members. I have asked the librarians about this several times and I get the same answer each time: "Wait for the new library." Unfortunately, my term-paper cannot wait for four years!

I realize that there is not much space in the stacks and also that many books might be stolen, but the students who are really interested in studying would benefit greatly from the opening of the stacks.

An hour could be set aside every day when the undergraduates would be allowed to go into the stacks and browse. If there was someone near the exit to check out the books, there would be no loss of books. Also, if this period was at an odd hour—say from seven to eight each morning—the students who would abuse this privilege would probably not bother to get up.

Second, the closing time of the library should be extended. On a weekday night it is difficult to find a quiet or half-way quiet place in the dorms. With 70 girls on a floor—all wide awake and chattering in the halls or on the phones—it is impossible to study.

Thus I think our library should remain open until at least 12 midnight—the final curfew for girls, so that a safe, quiet place would always be available to study.

Many students at Syracuse University are here for an education and an educational institution depends upon a library that is working with the students and not against them. Our library needs many improvements and now is the time to take care of them.

More on India

To the Editor:

Mr. S. Sreenivas Rao deserves a more serious reply to his statement of India's international policies than he received from Kissinger's flippant letter.

It is true that the U.S. has exploded more weapons than the U.S.S.R., and few of us would deny that testing is an almost unmitigated evil. But the point is that the monstrous business had at last been stopped. The world had won a respite in which to lick its radioactive wounds.

Now the Soviet Union by its criminal irresponsibility has started up the whole insane merry-go-round all over again. Every inhabitant of the earth will suffer for that. Surely the most unconscionable act of all was the explosion of that 50-megaton bomb. It vomited an enormous load of pollution over the earth and as a weapon of war it has no conceivable utility.

Mr. Rao takes us to task for preparing for underground testing during the moratorium. We did this for two reasons. First, we had had much experience with Russian duplicity. Consequently, we had no real reason to believe that Russia would not break the moratorium.

Secondly, we had prepared these test holes at huge expense because unlike the Russians, we feel an obligation to the world's population to avoid adding any more radiation trash to the atmosphere. According to Mr. Rao's reasoning not only do we deserve no credit for our costly efforts to avoid atmospheric contamination but we are to be condemned for having the foresight to anticipate Russian chicanery.

Mr. Rao maintains that Britain and France pulled out of Suez for economic and military reasons "because no nation gives a damn for public opinion." May I remind him that it was the U.S. acting with a "decent regard for the opinion of mankind" which applied the pressures which forced Britain and France out of the Suez. I cannot recall that the neutrals ever gave the U.S. much credit for that.

I must agree in all sadness with Mr. Rao's final statement that Nehru's primary concern is with India rather than with the world community. If this were not so, how could he have stood idly by while the Chinese conquered Tibet, performed mass sterilization upon its people and systematically starved the population to death?

Co-op Living

To the Editor:

I believe there is one answer for many of the students who are dissatisfied with Food Service. The answer I have found is to live in co-operative housing. In this housing every resident takes turns cooking and keeping the residence-unit clean. The food is excellent, is served within the living center, and meals are at scheduled times and are served hot to the table.

There are many other advantages too. The residences are of a small size, 20 to 30 people inclusive, so there is a small, warm group atmosphere. Because of the 1.5 average requirement, the house is generally quiet for concentrated studying although there are plenty of social activities at scheduled times (faculty members are frequent dinner guests at Peck).

Co-operative living has another advantage which I know is very important to many students. Living in a co-op is very economical. In women's housing the room and board cost is approximately half that of living in a large dorm and eating at food service.

Does it sound good to you? Then inquire about it from the housing offices before making your next room application.

Eight Hill Seniors Appointed Army ROTC Cadet Officers

Eight Syracuse seniors have been appointed Army ROTC Cadet Officers. Included in the group is Robert R. Smith who was given command of a Cadet Battalion with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

Smith, a psychology major from Rahway, New Jersey, is a member of the Hill cross-country and track teams. He was president of his sophomore class and also is a brother of Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. He is designated a Distinguished Military Student and will be offered a Regular Army commission upon graduation. The announcement of Smith's appointment was made by Lieutenant Colonel M.A. Matthews.

Second in command of the 750 man Corps will be Neal A. Ferris of Rye, New York. Ferris, also a Distinguished Military Student was given the rank of Cadet Major. He is studying Business Administration and is a member of Delta Upsilon.

Russell H. Johnson of Baldwinsville was also promoted to Major and has been assigned as Plans and Training Officer. A Forestry student, Johnson has been active in athletics and was president of his freshman class.

Named to Cadet Captaincies were Robert P. Lewis of Nyack; John W. Burgess, Mohawk; Richard J. Thorne, Buffalo; Samuel W. Farr, Big Flats and William P. Lilly of Chattanooga, Tennessee. They will command five 150 man companies.

Under the Army ROTC system Cadet officers and noncommissioned officers are responsible for all training and administration pertaining to the Corps of Cadets. Regular Army officers and NCO's act in advisory capacities and as classroom instructors.

SU Book Contest Offers $100 Prize

Syracuse University students with a penchant for books have the opportunity to win $250 in prizes being offered in four book contests held by SU's Library Associates.

The prize is a $100 grant to the senior winning the George Arents Library Award. An original medal designed by noted sculptor Ivan Meštrović will also be given.

A $75 prize goes to the junior who assembles the best book collection in the Edith S. Mayfield contest.

The Earle B. Mayfield Sophomore Book Award offers a $50 grant. The Fraser Freshman Library Prize is $25.

Although individual rules for the competitions vary, each has a deadline of March 3, 1962. A minimum of 50 books is required for all but the Fraser contest.

Winners will receive their prizes at the annual Scholastic Achievement Convocation in April.

Detailed information is available at the librarian's desk in the Leisure Reading Room, 309 Women's Building, and at the Office of Library Associates, 303 Main Library.

Mailing Advice Given by Post Office

Post office employees see the rush of Christmas mail just over the horizon, and all-out efforts are being made to insure delivery of all cards and packages by Christmas Eve, according to Myron J. Parkinson, postmaster. Parkinson and his staff mention the most important point is to mail now, as, "A delay of a few hours at this critical time may mean disappointing your friends and loved ones on Christmas."

He advises putting all local and out of town mail in separate packages and mark each with the special tags for such purposes available at the post office. Return addresses are also advised on all mail. The best time for bringing mail to the post office is late in the morning and early in the afternoon, avoiding the noon hour. Out of town mail should be sent immediately and local material in the mail by Dec. 16.

Prof Stresses Pursuit of Truth

By JIM WELLER

Speaking at a Monday morning citizenship lecture on the topic of "academic freedom," Dr. Roy Pierce, professor of Social Science and Economics, said that "the function of a university is to expand the frontiers of knowledge and to help develop the students' capacities for critical and vital thinking."

"To do this," said Pierce, "teachers must be able to pursue the truth into any area it leads. Qualifying this theme, Pierce said the role of the teacher is twofold: "he is both a scholar and teacher, and a citizen."

As a citizen teacher, Pierce noted that a professor should resist when handling a controversial issue.

- 1. Is the issue beyond the maturity of the students?
  - 2. Is the issue socially significant and important?
  - 3. Is it one which the professor is qualified to handle?
  - 4. Is there adequate material outside of class for a student to reach his own conclusions about the issue in question?
  - 5. And finally, is there a clash between the issue and community values?
- With the above as guidelines, "professors have the right to say what their minds believe is correct."

Commenting briefly on an article from last month's "Harpers" concerning the John Birch society, he cited that this society has arisen from four areas:

- 1. The old pulpit type of evangelism;
- 2. Suspicion of intellectualism;
- 3. A fear of what the administrators are doing in Washington;
- 4. And a fear of Communism.

Stressing the idea of the fear of intellectualism, Pierce said that the government must continue to protect academic freedom in the manner in which the Supreme Court has set forth. That is, "the democratic process should be most significant and prominent in a university."

Episcopal Service Cancellation Stirs Student Protest

The cancellation of the Episcopal services at 11 a.m. has brought a rash of discussion which has remained unexplained, stated Robert Gordon, spokesman for the Episcopal students. The group can not understand why the administration does not wish to cooperate with them by giving an explanation for the resolution, Gordon asserted. Gordon said that there has been a basic misconception among members of the University staff and students as to the definition of the Episcopal Church. Known as the Protestant Episcopal church, the Episcopalians are a sect of the Holy Catholic church, not to be categorized as protestant, Gordon affirmed. "We are the Catholic Church, simply non-Roman," he said.

As a branch of the Holy Catholic church, the Episcopal service is sacramental, and needs a properly ordained priest to conduct it, stated Gordon. "It is therefore impossible for us to accept the Henriekens Chapel services as adequate," he said.

If the choice had to be made, the Episcopalists would rather go to the Roman Catholic service in preference to those at Henriekens Chapel, Gordon stated. "The Chancellor feels we should go to the Henriekens services and are just being difficult."

AEPi, Dean Vie Over Pledging

By KEN NORWICK
Editorial Director

AEPi Master Edward Packer (left) discusses the future of his fraternity with Lieutenant Master ALAN MISS and senior ROBERT STUPACK. The fraternity declined not to take in a pledge class at this time, although the house was informed they were assigned a pledge class by the Alumni IFC and Dean of Men Earle Clifford.

Despite the fact that the brothers of Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity unanimously voted not to take a freshman pledge class at this time, the fraternity was told by Dean of Men Earle Clifford and the Alumni IFC that it had a pledge class to do with what it wished.

According to Dean Clifford, the fraternity submitted a "bid" list of prospective freshmen pledges to his office, and that this list was processed with the preferences of the individual freshman, as is normal procedure.

AEPi Master Edward Packer, however, denied that such a list was submitted. Packer maintained that a list was submitted to Dean Clifford at his request, but that the list was not for pledging purposes.

The fraternity voted not to take pledges because its members felt their prospective pledges would not meet the standards set for membership by the fraternity.

The dispute over the submitted list grew out of a closed meeting between members of the fraternity. Dean Clifford and Edward Helf, an officer of the Alumni IFC, in Dean Clifford's office yesterday.

According to Packer, both Clifford and Helf were informed at this meeting that the fraternity, decide not to take a pledge class. The purpose of the list, Packer said, was to indicate to the dean the freshmen the fraternity at one time considered bidding.

The fraternity first decided not to bid for pledges Sunday night, Packer said. He said the fraternity had a lot of time and effort was put into building our fraternity to its present high standard on campus," he said, "and we did not want all this to go to waste."

The unanimous vote was taken last night.

"We could not see the fraternity slowly disintegrate because of unqualified members," Packer said. "A lot of time and effort was put into building our fraternity to its present high standard on campus," he said, "and we did not want all this to go to waste."

Packer blamed the present situation of his fraternity on the ambiguity and inconsistencies of current rushing procedures.

"AEPi played it clean," Packer said, "and it seems that it doesn't pay to play it clean around here." He said unfounded rumors spread about his fraternity put it in the eyes of the rushers.

At the University Club last night, where pledge classes were processed, Dean Clifford notified representatives of AEPi that they were assigned a pledge class of twelve members.

The fraternity had the option Clifford said, to install that twelve as pledges or not. The status of the fraternity's pledge class was "unresolved," he said.

Miss Levertov Reads Poetry in Maxwell

By ANN CUTLER

An enthusiastic student and faculty response greeted Denise Levertov's reading of her poetry Monday afternoon in Maxwell Auditorium.

Miss Levertov read two of her unpublished poems in addition to several from her latest book "The Jacob's Ladder."

"In the short time since Miss Levertov moved to this country from England in 1948, she has made a reputation and a following for herself among the admirers of the best in modern American poetry," remarked Dr. Donald Dike in his introduction to Miss Levertov's reading.

In a short poem entitled "To the Reader" which opened the reading of her poetry as well as her book, Miss Levertov reminded the readers and listeners of the vastness of the world, by commenting on the many things that are being done while we sit reading or listening to poetry.

Throughout the reading of her poetry Miss Levertov emphasized that it is the little ordinary items of life seen in a new light that add up the truths of reality, just as it is ordinary words combined in a new way that make poetry.

Miss Levertov also read the three poems she wrote during the Eichman trial. In each of these she uses quotes from Eichman's testimony contrasted and complemented by the images of what Eichman had caused or done.

Miss Levertov also read several poems on such diverse subjects as marriage in "The Ache of Marriage," death and the events of an early morning in an average family in "Mornings."

She is currently on a cross country lecture tour of several universities. During her three day stay here she will also conduct two special classes for writing students.

Peace Corps Sends Hill Graduate To Philippines as Teacher's Aide

By REA TURET

NANCY DUNETZ

Flying to the Philippine Islands as the culmination of her Peace Corps training is 1961 Syracuse graduate Nancy Dunetz.

Miss Dunetz will serve as a teacher's aide in the Philippines in science and English. "We aren't teachers," she emphasized. "We work with and under the teachers. We aren't teachers ourselves."

At Penn State she was trained in American studies, Philippine culture, linguistics, elementary school science, first aid, health and physical education.

The second part of their training will be at the University of Philippines for seven weeks of four hours of work a day. "We will learn tagalog, the national language of the Philippines," she said. "We will also study the history of the Philippines, health, and the Philippine method of education."

All of the members of the Peace Corps will be in different communities. For their specific jobs, other than serving as teachers' aides they will perhaps serve as models of speech and take an active part in community activities.

Commenting on her fellow Peace Corps members, Miss Dunetz said "they are the most diversified group I've ever been with. There isn't a Peace Corps type. We're all from a variety of backgrounds and experience. Some are trained and experienced teachers. One took a leave of absence from law school to join the Corps." The average age is 23, though the ages range from 21 to 29.

For the Philippine Peace Corps group the requirements weren't as specific as they are in some of the other groups. "In some groups they only want engineers, doctors or nurses. The only prerequisite for this was speaking English, and everyone can do that," she commented.

"The officials of the Corps themselves realize that the development of the individual Peace Corps member is important when he comes home. We'll have a lot to contribute to American culture when we come home." The Peace

Cit Lecture Series

The Syracuse Citizenship Department has always been one of the more outstanding and progressive academic departments on the Hill. The programs of the department are of a revolutionary nature, offering challenges to the individual intellectual capacities of many freshmen and sophomores. It is a course based upon ideas and the competition of conflicting ideologies. In many ways, we feel, it is one of the more important programs at Syracuse because its goal of imbuing political maturity into its students should have universal appeal. Indubitably, in today's strife-torn and tumultuous world the necessity of such a course should be obvious.

When Dr. Michael O. Sawyer inherited the stewardship of the Citizenship Program it had already been established as a popular, worthwhile and dynamic course. The program did receive an unfortunate setback, however, when its required status was taken away. Mr. Sawyer therefore had much work cut out for himself. He had to continue the fine record of his predecessors under difficult conditions.

Therefore, the announcement last week of next semester's Citizenship lecture series should be considered an overwhelming accolade for the department chairman. The series is not only a landmark for the Citizenship program, but it is also a highlight for the university itself.

Coming to campus for the Citizenship program will be Max Lerner, United States Senator Jacob Javits, Pulitzer Prize winning Washington correspondent of the New York Times James Reston, and Nobel Prize winning physicist Isidore Rabi. Rarely have so many distinguished personalities appeared on campus in one semester. But next semester they will all come as the guests of the Citizenship department.

Lerner is a world known teacher, writer and author of "America As A Civilization," heralded as one of the most important books of recent years about America. Javits is the United States senior senator from New York. Reston is one of the most respected journalists of our times. Rabi is one of the world's most important men of science.

For the entire student body we should like to thank Sawyer for making it possible for us to speak with and listen to these men.

SU Responsible

To the Editor:
 Apropos the funloving mobbing of Mt. Olympus, I wish to make more clear my pet gripe with Syracuse University. It amounts to a deep frustration over the fact that the administration says and does absolutely nothing to encourage the students to be intellectually and morally responsible vis-a-vis the ideologies and their atheistic bonanz.

Surely our student body is capable of putting their energies and attentions to more meaningful and mature use than the well-meaning insurrection that transpired Sunday night.

In Korea, Hungary and Britain the students have served to arouse the population on behalf of democratic ideas.

In the USA there are many universities and colleges where the entire academic body is united in individual and political responsibility. Syracuse University is decidedly not one of these.

There is no Student Union, which certainly helps keep the student clank dispersed. There is no intellectually virile administration, hence we lack the call to stand for ideas and reasonable convictions. The faculty, even that of the otherwise pre-eminent Maxwell School of Citizenship, is adamantly numb to the local poverty of citizenship values.

With world and national affairs increasingly crucial, is this the way to run an American university?

Can the American "educator," the team of an administration-faculty affair, be left stewing confusion of chauvinistic catchphrases pass as the basic values of a viable democracy?

Is intellectual and ethical irresponsibility so fashionable or inherent hereabouts as to truly make it an essential quality of Hill life?

Hill Spirit

To the Editor:
 Now I've found good reason for my "brilliant" suggestion that Sunday's party raid become a weekly tradition on campus. It would give Jack Hand something else to write in the face of us spiritless, childish, and misguided ones (and I don't mean panties, either).

I'm glad someone has finally defined "spirit" for us (in seven hundred words, too). It has now ceased to be an intangible. Mr. Hand has illuminated the way with his definitive explanation.

Well, I'd rather take sides with Jeannie Ranow when she called Sunday night's escapade good, clean fun.

I also have a sneaking suspicion. Mr. Hand, that there is a good deal more spirit on this campus than you seem to think. No, it doesn't always have a "motive, a purpose, and a plan." Anyone who has joined the madhouse at the somewhat lifeless pep rallies (in case you weren't there) will tell you that these three magic ingredients don't make for spirit.

But why, Mr. Hand, does this incident seem to have occurred in the very year when previously politically insignificant frosh took it upon themselves to tumble mighty upperclassmen from political pedestals; when students are finally taking significant action about the miserable food we are forced to eat; when segregation and every other aspect of the fraternity system are raising a hullabaloo among students, etc. etc. etc. (Don't kid yourself, Mr. Hand, the administration is already noticing it.)

It's because the spirit is there, and some of it just oozed out through a different channel—because we don't, as you seem to think, always sit down and solemnly ponder where our spirit is going to be demonstrated.

No, no one is saying that the party raid was our one significant act. It wasn't directed at the best of ends, either (though the sale of women's under-garments at Casual Miss has probably increased considerably). But it was spirit. And maybe it will point, as nothing else could, to the fact that spirit is in the way up around here, and to the many more creditable ends at which the spirit is also directed.

But alas, I guess the raid never will become a weekly occurrence. Because if it did, there'd be an awful lot of chilly crocks who'd never make it through the winter.

Retire '44'

To the Editor:
 I think the suggestion made by Mr. Sandholzer in the Dec. 4 Daily Orange concerning the retirement of "No. 44" is excellent.

Jimmy Brown and Ernie Davis have indeed contributed much to the fame and reputation of Syracuse University. Yet, for as much as Davis has given us, he has not been publicly thanked once by his fellow university students.

The College game, Ernie's last home game, his senior year, contained not one word of admiration or respect during half-time for our Heisman Trophy winner.

Mr. Davis has proven himself to be a fine gentleman as well as an athlete on the campus as much as off. It seems only fitting that the SU Athletic department retire "No. 44" as a token of tribute especially to Ernie.

Let's muster enough spirit and enthusiasm to let the Athletic department know how we feel.

LEAL AND LOYAL

That Sense of Urgency

By KEN NORWICK

A friend of mine, back home, calls Syracuse University a "cocoon," an island secure unto itself and separated from the world outside and, indeed, reality. He looks upon Syracuse students as "vegetating," as not knowing or caring about the important things in life.

My friend has never visited Syracuse and his criticisms are based solely on hearsay and, perhaps, his cynical imagination. But then, how far off is he?

I've often disagreed with him on this point, maintaining that SYRACUSE is as hip as any school, but lately I've come to wonder. Are we really being prepared for the life that begins after "commencement"? Do we really want such preparation?

President Kennedy has oftentimes called those the most difficult and perilous times in the history of our nation, if not, in fact, the history of all mankind. The threat of full-scale war is imminent all over the globe, deadly and fantastic weapons are being "tested" both on our side and "theirs," and a state of tension and anxiety exists throughout the world.

But what about Syracuse? Has the university community responded in kind to the state of affairs in which the world now finds itself? Does the student body seem the least bit concerned about what is going on outside the house and off the campus?

I think not, and, I think, a quick glance at the "big" campus issues of the semester would tend to prove it. If one is to judge by the Daily Orange, and, of course, the DO cannot report what isn't there, the really important issues of late have been the relative merits of freshmen and fraternities, the many evils of mean old Food Service, and, needless to say, the whys and wherefores of a midnight "party raid."

True enough, there has been discussion on the values of nuclear testing and fallout shelters, among other similar topics, but hasn't such discussion been relegated to a secondary position in campus considerations? Yesterday's DO, for example, presented a lengthy discussion on "The Hope of Mankind" (written, not so ironically, by a non-Syracusan), but who would argue that that piece was more widely read and considered than, say, the work of Max Shining in this newspaper?

It might be argued that it is the responsibility of such publications as the Daily Orange to lead the way, to help the students become aware of and interested in the world around us by emphasizing the more significant issues and playing down the more sensational, but far less important news. And this argument, to some extent at least, is valid.

But the DO cannot work alone. For, in the end, it must be the students themselves, through their own volition, who have to lead the way. It is the students, themselves, who determine what's to be discussed at the next "bull session," and what, in which newspapers, will be read and considered.

The good professor Michael O. Sawyer recently stated that today's college generation can be a truly exciting group of people when it wants to be, but that it lacks the "sense of urgency" that is needed today. And this, I think, is the point.

It will be on our shoulders, we of the college generation, that the great responsibilities of the future in life soon rest. It is our responsibility, now, to prepare for this. And if this is not done now, we may just find, to our chagrin, that it will be too late later.

I am not arguing here that party raids and TGIFs and complaints about Food Service be herby discontinued, for, it seems clear, these are important facets of collegiate life. But I am arguing that the time has come for us to put such things in their proper perspective, and to start emphasizing the important facets of collegiate life.

Our very survival may depend on it.

Miami Menace

ONE OF THE RUNNERS Bill Orange will be trying to stop in the Liberty Bowl game will be Miami's fine right halfback, NICK BYDLE. The 6-foot, 190-lb. junior hails from Haverstraw, N.Y., and is a stellar performer on both offense and defense.

Healthy Orangemen Prep For Bowl Tilt

By RON ROBERTS
As Syracuse swings into its final week of practice before the Liberty Bowl, coach Ben Schwartzwalder finds himself in the strange-but-enviable position of working with an almost-but enviable position of working with an almost 100% healthy squad.
Sophomore tackle John Paglio, last of the broken-hand brigade, was scheduled to have his cast removed yesterday. If X-rays prove negative, the 6-2, 230 lbs Paglio will see action against Miami this Saturday.

Paglio injured his left wrist in the Maryland game Oct. 7, and has not played since. But the South Euclid, Ohio native has been drilling with the team for the past few weeks, and would be in shape if the possibility opens.

Don King suffered a sprained ankle in last Saturday's practice, but trainer Jules Reichel expects the junior halfback to be ready for the Hurricanes.

Quarterback Walt Salsan and end Brian Howard were in the infirmary Monday, but their viruses should be cleared by Saturday.

With only these minor health problems, with a break in the weather Monday, and with the possible return of Paglio, things are looking up for the Piety. But no one expects an easy "battle with the Hurricanes.

Orange Grapplers Capture Second Place in Tourney; West Pointers Take First

By DICK STOKVIS
In a close, down-to-the-wire battle, Syracuse University's wrestlers saw Army rally in the closing stages to win the annual Coast Guard Invitational tournament at New London, Conn., this past weekend and thus prevent Joe Scandura's grapplers from making it two in a row in this wrestling classic. The final count was 47-72.

Leading by four points going into the finals, it appeared as though the Orangemen would take all the marbles for the second straight time, but a late West Point flourish dashed hopes of a repeat success.

"The boys did pretty well down there," Scandura said, "considering that three of our top wrestlers (Bob Orstein, Jim Murrin, and Howie Meyers) were unable to compete and that the tournament was much tougher this year."
Sonny Greenhalgh, who replaced Meyers in the 130-pound class, won his match, while Pete Coe, filling in for Murrin in the 137-pound match, lost to an Army man, 6-5 in a close fight to finish second.

Larry Nealon, in the 123-pound class, lasted in overtime to a Columbia entrant who was runner-up in the Eastern championships. Nealon, whose final margin of defeat was a mere one point, won his first match, but lost the next two.

Bob Chappell took third in the 147-pound class, while Dick Slutsky paced second when the referee decided that Slutsky was stalling in his overtime clash with Ralph Kolodony of Harvard. Earlier, Slutsky had taken a comfortable lead, but the Orange star contracted fever and was forced to let-up considerably.

Gary Sirola, moved up a weight from his regular class, and could do no better than fourth in the 177-pound class. Heavyweight Mel Powers also took a fourth place finish to round out the Piety scoring.

Colgate Frosh Topple Tangerine Swimmers

Syracuse University's freshmen lost their opening meet to the Colgate yearlings, 60-35, at Hamilton, N.Y. Saturday.
The Orange swimmers managed to win only three events with Colgate completely dominating the action.

The foursome of Jeff Nelson, Tuck Nichols, Roger Alenberger and Hugh Dunsath won the 400-yard medley relay for Syracuse.

Alenberger also won the 200-yard butterfly with Jeff Nelson for the third Orange victory.

The frosh travel to Ithaca to face the Cornell yearlings Saturday in their only other road meet of the season. Their last five meets are at home in Orange Pool.

Coach Ted Webster's varsity squad will swim against Cortland Wednesday looking for its second straight win of the season.

In their opening meet the varsity soundly defeated R.P.I. 65-30, with Orange swimmers winning nine of eleven events.

The team finished last season with a 5-3 record losing to Pittsburgh, Williams and Colgate. The Orangemen meet these three teams at home this year.

The New York State Intercollegiate Swimming Championships will again be held at Orange Pool, tentatively scheduled for March 9.

Buffalo Fencing Team Spoils Piety Swordsmen's Opener

The Syracuse fencers lost their opening match of the season Saturday to the University of Buffalo by a 16-11 score.

As expected, the fine Hill epee trio of Ed Stedlick, Art Hacker and Bob Sewald was victorious, contributing five of the Orange-men's 11 points. But the foil and saber teams were each outscored by 6-3 counts.

Stedlick, the team captain and North Atlantic epee champion, collected two victories to pace the Piety offensive.

Double Winners. Hacker, Mike Shickler, a foilman, and Stu Hollander, a saberman, also won two matches apiece. Sewald won his first match with a 5-0 shutout, but then was upset by a 5-1 count.

Bob Troy and Dick Dauenhauer also clipped in with one victory apiece.

The Buffaloes won the most damage to the Hill cause were Ethan Eintrater and Bob Wilkinson. Eintrater won all his foil matches and Wilkinson was undefeated in epee competition. Stedlick aroused the partisan Hill fans in Archbold Gym with his antics as he beat Al Rollatz, 5-3. Stedlick was beginning an attack when Rollatz lunged at him; Stedlick made a quick retreat, fell to the floor but still had time to reach up and hit his opponent in the chest.

Rollatz had been blitzed in his first match when Sewald, playing a defensive game, let him attack continuously. At the last possible moment, the Syracusean launched swift counterattacks which netted him five straight points and a quick victory.

Buffalo was fencing its third match of the season, while Coach Alexander Dako's forces were just beginning their schedule. Younger swordsmen like Hollander, Dauenhauer, Mike Michaels and Marty Dako figure to improve as the season progresses.

The Hillmen's next outing is also a home encounter, against Cornell in January. The Orange-men will be seeking revenge against Buffalo when they visit the Bulls in March.

In a preliminary meet Saturday, the Syracuse frosh dropped a tough 10-8 decision to the Buffalo freshmen, but the Syracuse unit was hampered by the fact that several frosh were missing from the lineup because of a conflict with fraternity rushing.

Buckeyes First In Editors' Poll

By DAN GARR

As Christmas time rolls around, so follows the yearly tabulations of football polls. And, for the first time, the opinions of the sports editors of the 100 leading college dailies, among them the DO, have entered the swim.

The Ohio State Buckeyes led the balloting for the nation's number one power by edging out unbeaten Alabama by one point. Texas placed third, followed by Orange Bowl-bound LSU.

Ranking fifth is Mississippi, who takes on the Longhorns in the Cotton Bowl. Minnesota's Rose Bowl entry garnered the sixth spot, with LSU's New Year's Day playmate, Colorado, rated seventh.

Rounding out the first ten are Michigan State, Arkansas, who tangles with Alabama in the Sugar Bowl, and Utah State.

Syracuse 15th

The Syracuse Orangemen were deemed 15th by the editors, two notches below that of unbeaten Rutgers. Other Piety opponents who figured in the balloting are Penn State, placing 18th, and Liberty Bowl foe Miami (Fla.), who tied for the 23rd position.

The vote for the All-America first team was also close, and, as expected, Heisman Trophy winner Ernie Davis garnered one of the halfback spots. Johnny Lattin in the backfield are fullback Larry Ferguson of Ohio State, quarterback Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State, and Texas' fleet scabbard, Jimmy Saxon.

Manning the end positions are Gary Collins of Maryland, and the Wisconsin Badgers' Pat Richter. The center of the line is a hefty bunch headed by Bill Neighbors of Alabama and Bob Bell of Minnesota at the tackles, and guards Roy Winston (LSU) and Joe Romig (Colorado). The latter two will clash head-on in the Orange Bowl. Rounding out the line is Rutgers' line center, Alex Kroll.

Football Equipment Changes Studied

Improved protective football equipment which could lower the number of disabling head and neck injuries will be designed by the Armour Research Foundation of Illinois Institute of Technology in a study sponsored by the Brunswick Foundation. It was announced in Chicago last week.

Armour Research Foundation, announcing initiation of the comprehensive project, said that the advanced program will consist of four phases, at the conclusion of which prototype equipment will be tested and compared with gear now in use.

Under the first phase, Armour will compile and study existing information to establish what performance protective headgear must achieve to be effective.

Data will be obtained through medical records of specific causes of major football injuries; interviews will be held with football officials, coaches, and players; and a study will be made of government reports covering development of protective headgear for military personnel such as astronauts, pilots and tank drivers.

Henry M. Pernini, senior design engineer for ARF, will direct the program. "Before we can begin to design equipment," Pernini said, "we must find exactly how much motion and impact the head and neck can tolerate. Our studies should be able to tell us specifically what degree of protection must be afforded to prevent injury, and yet will not result in an uncomfortable protective device which will hamper the player in executing normal maneuvers."

Outlining some equipment changes he thought might come about, Pernini said, "The apparent low incidence of head injuries, where resilient material has been used in conjunction with rigid or semi-rigid helmet shells, may suggest some inherent advantage to the more resilient construction.

"It may be advisable to initiate work on the development of a composite helmet structure made to have greater inherent resilience. Such a composite may result in an inner and outer headgear, to be filled with an expanded resilient foam material."

Armour Research Foundation in the past has conducted a large amount of related human factors research for several U.S. military agencies.

FROM SEA TO SHING SEA

America is a great country. America's cities are full of houses. America's forests are full of trees. America's rivers are full of water. But it is not houses and trees and water that make America great; it is curiosity—the constant quest to find answers—the endless, restless, "Why?" "Why?" "Why?"

Therefore, when I was told that Marlboro was a top seller at colleges from USC to Yale, I was not content merely to accept this gratifying fact, I had to find out why.

I hid myself to campuses in every sector of this mighty land. First, I went to the Ivy League—dressed, of course, in an appropriate costume; a skull-and-bones in one hand, a triangle in the other, a mask-and-wig on my head, a hasty pudding in my chops. "Sir," I cried, seizing an Ivy Leaguer by the lapels, which is no mean task considering the narrowness of Ivy League lapels, but, I, fortunately, happen to have little tiny hands; in fact, I spent the last war working in a small arms plant where, I am proud to say, I was awarded a Navy "E" for excellence and won many friends—"Sir," I cried, seizing an Ivy Leaguer by the lapels, "how come Marlboro is your favorite filter cigarette?"

"How come Marlboro is your favorite filter cigarette?"

"I'm glad you asked that question, Shorty," he replied. "Marlboro is my favorite filter cigarette because it is the filter cigarette with the unfiltered taste."

"Oh, thank you, sir!" I cried and ran post-haste to several campuses in the Big Ten, wearing, of course, the appropriate costume: a plaid Mackinaw, birling boots, a Kodiak bear and frost-bitten ears.

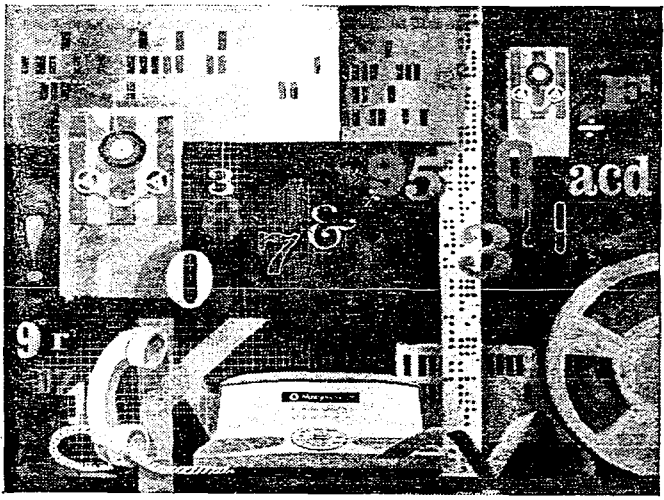

Spying an apple-cheeked young coed, I tugged my forelock and said, "Excuse me, miss, but how come Marlboro is your favorite filter cigarette?"

"I'm glad you asked that question, Shorty," she replied. "Marlboro is my favorite filter cigarette because the flavor is flavorful, the flip-top box flips and the soft-pack is soft."

"Oh, thank you, apple-cheeked young coed!" I cried and lobbied a curbside and sped as fast as my little fat legs would carry me to several campuses in the Southwest, wearing, of course, the appropriate costume: chaps, canteen, and several oil lamps. Spying a group of undergraduates singing "Strawberry Boyen," I removed my hat and said, "Excuse me, friends, but why is Marlboro your favorite filter cigarette?"

"We're glad you asked that question, Shorty," they replied. "Marlboro is our favorite filter cigarette because we, native sons and daughters of the wide open spaces, want a cigarette that is frank and forthright and honest. We want, in short, Marlboro."

"Oh, thank you, all," I cried and, donning a muumuu, I set sail for Hawaii, because in Hawaii, as in every state where Old Golf flies, Marlboro is the leading seller in flip-top box. On campus, off campus, in all fifty states, wherever people smoke for pleasure in this great land of ours, you will find Marlboro.

Bright futures in data transmission at W. E.

New engineers with initiative who can meet Western Electric's high standards are offered many exciting career opportunities with our company in data processing development work as it relates to communications.

For example, Western's engineers—working closely with Bell Telephone Laboratories—have solved development and manufacturing problems connected with the Bell System's new DATA-PHONE Data set (made by Western Electric). DATA-PHONE service lets business machines, such as computers, "speak" to each other in a language of numbers and symbols over existing telephone communication networks. This represents a tremendous boon to business; and consequently, it is estimated that some day there may be more machine talk than people talk using telephone lines.

Of course, data communications is only one of many rewarding career areas that await you at Western Electric. Here are just a few of the others: electronic switching... solid state electronic devices... microwave radio relay... computer-programmed production lines... solar cells... optical masers... futuristic tele-phones.

We need high-caliber, forward-thinking engineers now to help us transform these plans into realities or to work with us in scores of other key communications areas. Your future, the future of Western Electric, and the future of America's communications—could well depend on your first career connection.

Challenging opportunities exist now at Western Electric for electrical, mechanical, industrial, and chemical engineers, as well as physical science, liberal arts, and business majors. All qualified applicants will receive careful consideration for employment without regard to race, creed, color or national origin. # Hill Graduate in Corps

Corps can be considered as serving as a two-way diplomatic corps for the United States.

The students are sent to the foreign country to help promote good relations for the United States. On their return, they can serve as ambassadors of goodwill from the country that they have worked in.

Miss Dunetz a native of Brooklyn, graduated from Syracuse as a music major. Her interests changed from music to other countries' people when she spent a semester in Italy and became active in the International Students Organization. She applied last April amid the controversy that was aroused over student apathy towards the Peace Corps.

DellPlain 715 Packs Them In

DellPlain 715 was a pretty popular room during evenings.

That double room in the new men's dorm was the scene of the Hill version of the latest college craze—room stuffing.

After moving all the furniture out, 86 men moved in, squeezing into closets, onto window sills and dresser tops.

Faculty advisors intervened, however, before the suffocation point was reached.

The participants are game to try again, though, and they may get some competition. Remember the many groups who joined in the bed-pushing contests last spring?

Plane Available For Bowl Game

A plane has been chartered for the Albany State University December 16, by a group of Syracuse businessmen. The plane will leave the city at 10 a.m. on Saturday and leave from Philadelphia at 3:30 p.m.

A chartered bus will be available to transport passengers to and from the airport. This service has been sponsored for every Syracuse away football game.

For further information students are to call GR 4-5711 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.; or GR 2-3851 after 5 p.m.

Urban Problem Topic of Group

Urban economic problems will be under discussion by a panel of four Syracuse University professors at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Founder's Room of Maxwell Hall.

Different aspects of urban land use, the role of state government in economic problems and a review of recent developments in the measurement of economic activity in metropolitan regions are the topics for discussion.

Making up the panel are Drs. Guthrie S. Birhead, Max R. Bloom, Warner Rosenburg Jr. and Jesse V. Burkhead.

Sponsored by Omicron Chi Epsilon, national honor society in economics, the meeting is open to the public. Questions and comments from the audience will follow the initial presentation of material by the panelists.

Dinner-Dance Slated

Students and alumni of SU living in the Pittsburgh area are invited to a dinner-dance at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 26 at Jimmy O'Brien's on Route 51, between Whitehall and Pleasant Hills.

Those interested in attending should call HA 1-6257 or HA 5-5651, or Pam Francis, Day Hall, ext. 2161.

Tree Raised on Quad

The 20-foot Christmas tree on the quad near the Chapel was raised and decorated Saturday morning as a joint project of two university groups.

Phi Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, and the S.U. Outing Club undertook the task, an annual project of both groups.

Binghamton Alums Sponsor Mixer

The Syracuse University Alumni Club of Southern New York will sponsor a Holiday Mixer for graduate and undergraduate students at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 27 in the Temple Israel Auditorium in Binghamton.

Students will receive invitations next week at their home address and are asked to make the requested reply by Dec. 20. Those who do not receive invitations because of the incomplete listings of students, are likewise invited and can reply to Mrs. Esther Rosenberg, 96 Helen St., Binghamton.

Banquet Honors Student Workers

Student employees of Food Service were honored Sunday night at a banquet in Sadler Hall.

Highlighting the evening was a special performance of a comedy entitled "Phoenix Too Much"—staged and produced by members of the SU drama department. Jack Gilhooly directed the show which was supervised by Gerald Heiklenbough.

Food Service employees who have performed outstandingly this year received United States Savings Bonds.

Chancellor and Mrs. William P. Tolley headed the guest list which also included other members of the University Administration.

Arabs to Speak Here

A member of the Arab States delegation in New York City will deliver a lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Chapel House.

The speaker, Mr. M. Sabry, will talk on the contribution of the arab culture to the modern civilization.

The lecture is sponsored by the Arab Student Organization. A discussion period will follow the talk. The public is invited.

Hotchkiss to Speak

Dr. William Hotchkiss, professor of history, will speak on the "Progress of Scientific Thought" at the meeting of the student section of the American Institute of Physics at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, in 206 Steele Hall. The meeting is open to all interested students.

Review Correction

A mistake appeared in Friday's review of "Finian's Rainbow" at the University Regent Theater. Sharon Branigan was erroneously credited with being a singer. She was a dancer in the production cast. Diana Manning was the person playing the role referred to in the review.

Students to Discuss Summers Abroad

Study in various countries will be explained and discussed at a tea at 4 p.m. today in the Colonial Room of Hendricks Chapel.

Students interested in studying in any of the possible countries and alumni of the program are invited.

This year's Summer in France program will be under the direction of Yvonne Guers, assistant professor of romance languages. The group of fifteen selected for the program will leave Syracuse June 27 and returns Aug. 25. Students should be able to study French at the intermediate level.

The Summer in Sweden program will be study in Home Economics, led by Jane Gusman, associate professor of textiles. June 26 is departure date from Syracuse with an Aug. 20 return scheduled.

The Summer in the British Isles program will accent study in the British and Irish Theatre and will be directed by Assistant Professor A. W. Blum of the Radio-TV department. Home Economics and Art study will highlight the Summer in Japan tour, under the direction of Charles Dibbie, assistant professor of art.

Applications for these programs are available at the International program Office at Ulica College. Harold A. Vaughn is the program administrator.

College of Law to Offer International Studies

The Syracuse University College of Law will inaugurate an International Legal Studies Program next semester. Dean of the Law School Ralph E. Kharas announced yesterday.

According to Kharas, the program will include the addition of new international law courses to those now offered by the school. The program will prepare students for positions with the Federal Government, businesses with overseas connections and international organizations both abroad and in the United States.

At present, the program will be under the direction of Assistant Law Professor Richard B. Lillieh. Dr. Lillieh holds several advanced degrees in international law and has written extensively in the field.

"The main objective of the program," said Lillieh, "is to give students an emphasis on opportunities in careers outside of international law and law." He said that a limited number of students would be permitted to take all offering in the program and thus specialize in international legal studies.

Another purpose of the program, which will be open to both law students and graduate students in other fields of study, is to provide a focal point on campus for student and faculty research in the field of international law and transactions.

Lillieh stated that "another major consideration for starting this program is that many international students attending Syracuse return home without a true picture of the importance the United States attaches to the role of international law in world affairs."

Carols at Slocum

Christmas carol singing will take place from 1:15 to 4:15 p.m. today on the first floor of Slocum Hall. The singing affair is sponsored jointly by the College of Home Economics, the School of Architecture and the College of Business Administration.

Everyone is urged to attend.

He added that similar programs of study were under way in only four other American universities—Cornell, Harvard, Northwestern, and Stanford.

Alpha Phi Omega Conference Host

Phi Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will host the Conference of Sections 26 and 27 on Feb. 23-25. Celebrated at the same time will be the thirtieth anniversary of the Phi chapter at Syracuse.

National President William S. Roth and National First Vice President E. Ross Forman will speak at the banquet. The largest fraternity in the country with 320 chapters, has the purpose of serving both the campus and community.

Clifford Talks On Fraternities

By BENEF GANG

Fraternity discrimination, rushing, dying chapters and the formation of new ones were problems discussed by Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford last night at a Kappa Sigma "Founding Fathers Dinner" at Drumlins, which celebrated the chapter's 55th year at SU.

Clifford described the fraternity situation as being in a state of movement and said changes should come from within the Greek houses. "If the Freshmen really want to do something about discrimination," he continued, "they should rush, pledge and then make changes."

Fraternities, Clifford said should have the right to choose their members, but "when clauses in their constitutions limit this right, there can no longer be freedom of choice."

Noting that more freshmen were rushing this year than ever before, Clifford said the 30 fraternities on campus are not enough to accommodate them and independent upperclassmen wish to "go Greek."

Because of the few houses and the competitive rush system, Clifford continued, only about one-third of the freshmen become Greeks. "We should have 40-45 chapters here," he said.

There are at present three dying chapters, said Clifford, and "responsibility for a dying chapter is shared by the whole system." IFC will have to recognize the problem and help.

SDS Sponsors A-Shelter Panel

A panel discussion on fallout shelters will be held at 7 p.m. tonight in the New Cross Hall auditorium. The discussion, sponsored by Students for a Democratic Society, will be concerned with a statement on the family in international law.

The panel will consist of chemistry Professor B.P. Durr, physics Professor Nahum Horvitz, Jerry Burns, professor of economics, and Assistant Dean of Liberal Arts Alfred H. Cope.

The statement by the 73 faculty members was scheduled to be issued today. The discussion will be open to the public.

EVERY COLLEGE STUDENT needs this book

to increase his ability to learn

An understanding of the truth contained in Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy can remove the pressure which concerns today's college student upon whom increasing demands are being made for academic excellence.

Christian Science calms fear and gives to the student the full assurance he needs in order to learn easily and to evaluate what he has learned. It teaches that God is man's Mind—his only Mind—from which emanates all the intelligence he needs, when and as he needs it.

Science and Health, the textbook of Christian Science, may be read or examined, together with the Bible, in an atmosphere of quiet and peace, at any Christian Science Reading Room. Information about Science and Health may also be obtained on campus through the

Fallout Shelter Law Discussed

By CLAYTON RICHARDS
When a person trying to enter your fallout shelter threatens your life or the lives of those in your shelter it may well be legally justifiable to kill him.

This was the conclusion reached by Dr. Richard Lillich, College of Law professor, Tuesday afternoon. He spoke on "Emergency Legal Measures" in the ninth of a 12-lecture series entitled "Nuclear Energy—Protection and Phenomenon" in Hinds Hall.

Lillich told the group a distinction must be made between a threat and a threat to property. "You can kill in self-defense when your life is endangered," he stated, but not to protect property.

Cases Cited
He cited three legal precedents which could predict emergency legal measures needed after or during a nuclear attack.

The first two cases he cited applied to protection of property. A roadside chili stand owner and a truck farmer had trouble with thefts by teenagers. They rigged shotgun wires to trip the trigger when the intruders returned.

In one of these cases a 17-year-old college student was killed and the defendant was charged with involuntary manslaughter. In the other, a boy was wounded seriously and the defendant charged with unlawful shooting without the intent to kill.

Both were found guilty in decisions which did not see protection of property as justification for taking a life.

In the third case a boat from Liverpool to New York struck an iceberg. Forty-one people were cramped in a lifeboat designed to hold twenty-five. When it became obvious that the boat could not continue overboarded the first mate ordered eleven men overboard. The next day the remaining survivors were rescued. When they reached New York, manslaughter proceedings were brought against the first mate.

Although the courts found the first mate guilty, they commuted his six-month sentence and freed him. Lillich maintained that the decision (Continued on Page 7)

DAILY ORANGE CLASS TODAY

A class for Daily Orange freshmen staffers will be held at 3:30 p.m. today at Profab 7E. All fresh are urged to attend.

IFC to Discuss Rushing Today

The Inter-Fraternity Council meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today at Phi Delta Theta will be highlighted by a report on the National Interfraternity Council convention by Edward Shaffro, IFC president.

The two week rushing period that ended Sunday will be summed up by the Council's rush committee and discussed by the members.

Two resolutions tabled at the last meeting, campus participation in the National Student Association and the purchase of an athletic cup will be discussed.

3 Fraternities Charged With Dirty Rushing

New Syracuse '10' On Sale Today

One of the top four college magazines in the country, "Syracuse 10," in a newly revised and revamped format will go on sale today, according to editor Terrence Hughes.

The Associated Collegiate Press gave "Syracuse 10" an "All American" rating, making it the second year in a row it has received such an award, Hughes said.

"This year's "Syracuse 10" is an entire change of pace from last year's literary format," he pointed out.

Pull No Punches
"We are trying to expose some of the aspects of campus life without pulling any punches."

"If what we say doesn't make a few people angry," Hughes continued, "then we haven't been doing our job."

The magazine will be on sale on Marshall street and in campus buildings and dorms beginning now today.

Fraternities Featured
The featured article in the current issue is a 12 page report on SU's fraternity system.

"Fraternities have been criticized in pretty general terms this fall," Hughes said, "but their specific flaws have been conveniently avoided."

Hughes stated that the fraternity article discussed problems of hazing, drinking, and dirty rushing which, he noted, often go unmentioned in analyses of the Greek system.

Captured by Reds
The magazine also features, he continued, Hill undergraduate Bob's story of his capture by East German police in Berlin this summer.

Another major article in "Syracuse 10," Hughes noted, is an exclusive interview with Frank Denner, author of "The Un-American," and his publisher Dick Ballantine of Ballantine Books.

House Committee

The House Un-American Activities Committee, Hughes said, have accused both men of being dupes of the Communists because Denner's book attacks the committee.

"Syracuse University students probably don't realize how much the actions of the House committee affect them," he continued.

"Frankly, we hope this article prods students into taking appropriate action against the committee," Hughes asserted.

"Outlook" Section

"Syracuse 10's" familiar "Outlook" section, he said, takes satirical looks at Maxwell School Democrats; the new Course Classroom Building; and recent protests against the influx of risque foreign movies.

"The expanded format," Hughes noted, "includes more cartoons, livelier fiction, and a redesigned graphic presentation."

This year's first issue of "Syracuse 10" is 56 pages, Hughes said, compared it with last year's 44 page average.

SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE

Scholarship applications for the 1962-1963 school year began Dec. 4 and will continue through April 11.

Applications may be secured by the dean of men's or dean of women's offices.

Dean James G. Carleton, director of financial aid has urged upperclassmen to pick-up applications before the Christmas vacation.

Levertov Discusses Work

Poetess Not 'Beat'

By ANN CUTLER
"In spite of the fact that some of my work was included in "The New American Poetry Anthology" edited by Donald Allen, I am not a beat poet," asserted poetess Denise Levertov Tuesday.

Although the anthology does contain a section of beat poetry, it is not a collection of only beat poems, commented Miss Levertov.

"Although I think some of the so-called beats have written some valid poetry, I do not agree with their methods of writing poetry and therefore I do not wish to be labeled a "beat," she explained.

"She beats use poetry as a vehicle for self-expression," stated Miss Levertov. "and this is wrong; I feel that one should be used by poetry."

"The average person today lives almost entirely on the level of his conscious intelligence, he hardly ever tries to explore his subconscious mind," she said.

Miss Levertov said she is like the proverbial iceberg, nine-tenths of it is under the surface," she continued. "It is the duty of the poet to serve as a kind of a medium between the conscious intelligence and the experiences of the subconscious."

"The aim of poetry" explained Miss Levertov, "is to make the cadence of the poem reflect and conform to the rhythm of the writers' experience."

"The look of a poem on paper should be of secondary importance, she said, a poem is a pattern in sound whose printing is only the diagram of it."
Precision is the most important thing in poetry, she commented; poets must continually strive to present a more true and accurate expression of the experiences of Three charges of 'dirty rushing' were brought before the Alumni Interfraternity Council Monday night. Two were acted upon and the third referred to the dean of men's office for further investigation.

The first-charge, according to Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford, involved "the abuse of the Good Squad responsibilities and privileges for rushing purposes."

Professors Debate Value Of A-Shelters

By SUE WEINBERG

Will fallout shelters increase or decrease the possibility of nuclear warfare? Four faculty members debated this issue in a panel discussion last night on the usefulness of fallout shelters. The discussion was sponsored by Students for a Democratic Society.

Speaking for the construction of shelters, Prof. Benjamin Eurtl, department of chemistry, and Prof. Alfred Cope, assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts, insisted that shelters will have little effect on the possibility of war.

"I think the shelter program is a trivial problem compared to the increased weapons buildup," Eurtl said.

Increased Risk
"A shelter program will decrease our chances for survival," stated Prof. Nahmin Horwitz, "because it will engender a false sense of security and make it more likely for people to want to undertake the risk of nuclear war."

Speaking with Horwitz against shelters was Prof. Jerry Mince of the economics department. He stressed that with shelters people would approve a more aggressive foreign policy and would be more interested in forcing Russia to "toe the mark" rather than negotiating with her.

"The ability of fallout shelters to save lives was a major point of those in favor of shelters. "Individuals have a right to survive," (Continued on Page 7)

After a hearing, the Alumni IFC decided to penalize the fraternity in question by recommending to the dean that all Good Squad members in the house be deemed ineligible for Traditions Commission membership.

Clifford said he will consult with the commission before acting of this recommendation.

The second case concerned a party sponsored by a fraternity member over Thanksgiving weekend. The party was attended by members of at least two Syracuse fraternities and several members of the freshman class.

The Alumni IFC assessed the activity as a violation of the spirit of the rules and marginal with reference to the letter of the law. Alumni IFC expressed to Dean Clifford a concern with the marginal nature of the activity and requested that it be considered as part of the fraternity's record in the event of any further disciplinary action.

The third case was referred to the alumni group at approximately 2:15 Tuesday morning. Because of the need for additional information, the dean of men's office was requested to initiate an investigation into the charges. This case will not be acted upon until after Christmas vacation.

Keeping with a long standing university policy, neither Dean Clifford nor the alumni group released the names of the houses involved.

Hill Group Joins Freedom Riders

A group of Syracuse students are planning to join in a "freedom ride" this Saturday to test for discriminatory practices along Route 40 from Baltimore to Washington, D.C. in cooperation with the Congress of Racial Equality.

Route 40 has been the scene of much "diplomatic discrimination" against African delegates to the United Nations-Robin Craven of SU said. Although many restaurants along the route have already desegregated, a large number remain who had agreed to desegregate by Dec. 15 she said.

CORE has invited all Syracuse students who believe in direct, non-violent action against racial discrimination to participate in the rides to test the restaurants compliance with the agreement.

A university graduate student, Rudolph Lombard of New Orleans, is first vice chairman of CORE's organization, which is located in New York City.

Students interested in participating in the rides should contact Miss Craven at extension 2795 or GR 8-9294 before Friday, or Lombard at GR 5-4211.

Route 40

Route 40 runs from Baltimore to Washington, D.C. Being part of the South, the restaurants along this highway have followed segregation policies. American Negroes could not be served with whites in establishments that were minutes away from the nation's capitol. These practices were not really given national attention until delegates from Africa were continually insulted by restaurant owners who refused to serve them. The President, the State Department, and much of the Washington diplomatic corps became concerned over these incidents. Important leaders of nations that are now neutral and only beginning to develop an independent political philosophy were being led to believe that American democracy disregarded the rights and feelings of Negroes.

As a result of this embarrassment and the concerned action of the administration, Route 40 has begun to desegregate. Perhaps it is ironic and discouraging that the unfair treatment of American Negroes was not sufficient to impel earlier administrations to take the same action.

But despite this delay, present policies of restaurant integration are important and must proceed. Many of the Route 40 restaurants have complied with the agreement to desegregate by December 15. A large number, however, have not.

We therefore feel in complete sympathy with the Syracuse students who are planning to join in a freedom ride and sit-in campaign along the route.

If a silly and even dangerous raid over silk could turn out thousands, we feel a campaign for civil liberties and human rights should be met with great student participation and enthusiasm. The real stupidity of that raid night was the whole lack of purpose and meaning. A demonstration for human freedom could have no greater purpose and meaning.

"I don't know how I ever got talked into making an Astronomy 1A field trip like this!"

AEPI Clarifies

To the Editor:
We, the brothers of Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity, are writing this letter to assert that we cannot endorse or subscribe to the inferences of yesterday's article concerning our fraternity. This is a letter of apology to twelve boys who may have been unduly hurt by the misconstruing of the words and actions of our fraternity.
Sometimes a word or action becomes in print the denial of the basic motives that prompted its inception. Thus, the article quoted us yesterday to the effect that "The fraternity voted not to take pledges because the fraternity felt their prospective pledges would not meet the standards set for membership by the fraternity."

This is an obvious slap in the face to certain men who bid our house, and who the house staff had been glad to take had we decided to take a pledge class at all. The reason we did not take a class involved not hurting the few boys who really wanted to join the fraternity, since we could not survive financially, or in any other manner, with just this select group.

Rather than put the burden of our obligation upon the shoulders of so few, we felt it was wisest to bear it ourselves, right now, at this moment.

We have already felt the repercussions within the university, and have been openly discouraged by some of its officials. We have yet to hear from our national organization, which will be at least as adamant. Nevertheless, we intend to stand by our decision.

The causes of our present situation were described fairly adequately in the DO, taking into account limitations of space and time.

The "ambiguities and inconsistencies" of university rushing policy are well known to any fraternity member, and we will not now expand at length upon any personal injustice we may have suffered.

We would just like to mention that we have been hurt because of an observance of the way the other houses feel our allegiance to and who never seem to be punished for their transgressions of them.

In closing, let me once more state unequivocally that the fraternity will not do justice by the DO article as printed and that we are truly sorry for any misconceptions that may have arose.

Not Even At SU

To the Editor:
Just on general principle, I agree with most of what Ken Norwick says in "That Sense of Urgency," in yesterday's DO. But I don't think he should have bothered to write the column.

It is obvious enough that only a small minority of Syracuse students are conscientiously interested in world affairs. But those students who choose to ignore news developments are the same clunkheads who would ignore news developments no matter what their environment, whether studying at Syracuse or lubricating automobiles or feeding the baby or cleaning sewers.

There is no point to the suggestion that 90% of Syracuse students are "vegetating." Very possibly they are, but so is with 90% of almost any random group of people in this country. Let's face it: admissions officers and college pamphlets to the contrary, Syracuse is not a bulwark of intellectualism and probably never will be, and there will always be for every news-conscious individual a hundred-odd more who prefer to read the funny pages. Even at Syracuse, Mr. Norwick: I'm sorry.

Episcopalians

To the Editor:
It is our belief that if Mr. Robert Gordon is to be a spokesman for Syracuse University Episcopalians, he should first clarify his terminology. Mr. Gordon is the one who seems to be laboring under a misconception.

The Episcopal Church is Catholic in its universality. I refer to page 291 of the Book of Common Prayer. Further, some of the liturgy and forms of worship retain their orthodox origins. However, the history and tradition of the Episcopal Church in the United States is Protestant as is stated in the Book of Common Prayer.

When Mr. Gordon states that Episcopalians should attend Roman Catholic services, he clearly shows that he is unfamiliar with the Articles of Religion found in the back of the Book of Common Prayer. I refer to Articles XIX, XX, XXIII, and XXIV found on pages 606 and 607. These articles clearly show that an Episcopalian in good faith would not out of choice attend a Roman Catholic service.

An Age Without Heroes

By ALAN MILLSTEIN

It is very easy for the average American today to preserve his skin by accommodation and compromise. Modern mass society has become so complex that the individual finds himself losing personal identity in a world where a small number of bureaucrats are controlling human destiny.

Because the "average" modern man has become trivial and uninteresting, the twentieth century has come to be known as an age without heroes. The superior intellects of this age have tried and failed to make significant expressions which will lead to superior action on the part of government officials.

The creative intellectual in America today seems to have failed because at almost every turn he has met with people who knowingly or unknowingly are working to destroy his "status quo" which has become the symbol of human contentment. Government and industry have both reached the point where they can either act separately or together to silence their critics and encourage only what they desire to hear.

But the notion that those in the driver's seat seek to control the destiny of the nation is not a new one. Throughout history there have been monarchs and despots who have worked prudently and judiciously at controlling the progress and direction of their ship of state will take.

To highlight the dilemma of the man of creative talent and his struggle with his conscience, Robert Bolt, a young English dramatist, has written a play called "The Life of Thomas More." Sir Thomas More, who was put to death for opposing the wishes of Henry VIII.

The play is called "A Man For All Seasons." It is a chronicle of the life of Thomas More, the English lawyer and statesman, who opposed Henry VIII's divorce in the sixteenth century and the English Reformation which followed it. More was an intellectual aristocrat who desperately attempted to preserve his conscience while at the same time avoiding the chopping block.

But the hero of this hit play is reluctant to become a martyr. As Lord Chancellor to the King, More had the chance to do creative and good things for his monarch's land and for the people as well. Because of his position and basic integrity, he gathered enemies throughout his life.

Being prudent and discreet, though, More did his best to stay in office by giving his enemies as little ammunition as possible. When asked to swear to the most recent establishment of Henry's control of the English Church, More simply remained silent. Several times during the performance More reminds the audience that "Our central business lies in escaping."

Like Willard Uphaus and Linus Fauling and countless others, Sir Thomas More is hounded and haunted by government oppressors who seek to destroy his position of influence and to force the man to compromise with his conscience. The imprisonment of More and the prolonged inquisitions by duly constituted committees seem reminiscent of our present day House un-American Activities Committee crusades. The trial prosecutor named Thomas More seems to bear a striking resemblance to this century's Joseph McCarthy.

"A Man For All Seasons" opened around Thanksgiving and it has been difficult for this columnist to forget the unflinching courage of Sir Thomas More who suffered through months of imprisonment, financial ruination, and public degradation just to preserve his right to silent dissent. Much like the countless men who have come before Congressional committees and used the Fifth Amendment to defend their consciences and integrities, More chose to remain silent.

There is strong moral truth running through "A Man For All Seasons" and if you are in New York over the Christmas recess make an effort to get a seat. In just a little over two hours the audience is moved to sympathize with a man of great intellect who is destroyed only because he refuses to compromise with what he believes.

Anyone who sits through this play cannot fail to see the injustice in our own time of investigation committees that pry into men's innermost feelings or the Supreme Court which has declared it a crime to belong to certain organizations which society labels "subversive."

Unfortunately America as a civilization today is far from perfect and the people that make up this land are content to be the greedy calculating opportunists that comprised the "Common Man" in More's time.

But without men like Sir Thomas More there would be no heroes for today's young people to pattern themselves after. Certainly it is necessary to go back into history then to find our heroes and martyrs for today. It isn't very encouraging to turn to today's front page and learn that the Communist party's national secretary, Gus Hall, is being given warm receptions wherever he travels by college students.

Undesirable can easily become martyred heroes today because so few Americans are ready to stand firmly on that their consciences tell them. The Common Man in an afterword reminds the audience after More is beheaded that "It isn't difficult to stay alive, friends—just don't make trouble."

'The Sign of Jonah' Slated At Hendricks Chapel Today

"The Sign of Jonah will give a repeat performance at 8 p.m., today in Hendricks Chapel. Originally given in November, it was received with such great enthusiasm that Gerald F. Reidenbaugh, head of the Drama Department, decided to give another performance.

"The Sign of Jonah" is a play, acted out in a church, as part of the service. It takes its name from Jonah in the Bible who was swallowed up by a whale. The play has been brought up to date with a Jonah who was caught in a submarine at the bottom of the sea.

Directed by Peter Galambos, a drama major, "the staging is shot through with theatrical and dramatic moments," commented G. F. Reidenbaugh.

"The Sign of Jonah" was written by Guenter Rutenborn, a minister, and was translated from the German by George White. The play stars Jessa Waller, Elliot Leibowitz, Peter Maloney, Jack Schatz, Stuart Dillon, Paula Lipton, Irene Golub and Jack Gilhooley.

Admission is free.

"THE SIGN OF JONAH" cast members go through their paces at a rehearsal of the drama to be presented at Hendricks Chapel today. The play, which was presented last month at the Chapel, is an updated story of Jonah translated from the German.

Tryouts Scheduled For Drama Group

The Syracuse Theater Arts Group Experimental (S.T.A.G.E.) will hold tryouts for a forthcoming production of "The Vigil" at 8 p.m., today in the South Salina branch of the Cnoadaga Savings bank, across the street from Sears & Roebuck.

The play, written by Ladislav Fodor, concerns the resurrection of Christ in the form of a modern dress courtroom drama.

Directed by Peter Bovenzi, the play will go into rehearsal in January for a scheduled production at the University Regent Theater in February.

SO VACATION TIME draws near, which can only mean one thing: we've made it through another year. In the world of sport there have been many outstanding stories compiled since last January. We only have room here for the highlights of the year with special mention for the year's top performers.

Unfortunately, there were many top individual performers and a single choice is indeed a difficult task. Nevertheless, we're going out on a limb to pick the top athlete of the year—Warren Spahn.

Spahn wins our vote for his tremendous season in which he further engraved his name into the baseball annals. At 40 years of age, Spahn remained the finest pitcher in baseball today with his eighth 20-game season. In doing this he passed the 300 victory mark and tossed his second no-hitter. To win 21 games while losing 13, Spahn was 12 and 1 following the All-Star Game break. During that stretch he pitched 10 straight complete games.

Although Whitey Ford, Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle turned in exceptional seasons, Spahn has to be the top baseball player of the year.

Now back to the local scene. Ernie Davis gets the nod as the outstanding college football player of the year. This paper has handled all of Ernie's exploits in great detail this season, so we won't repeat them here.

Keeping in the mood of choosing old-timers, our professional football choice is the New York Giant's Y. A. Tittle. Tittle, who was picked up from the San Francisco 49'ers in the off-season, turned out to be a gold mine for the Giants. His passing has led the New York team back to the Eastern division championship.

Little argument can arise from the choice of Bill Russell as the top professional basketball player of the year. Russell is tops in defense, rebounding, a steady scorer and the top hater among the big men. He's the best player on the Boston Celtics, the best basketball team ever assembled.

Exciting performances were also turned in during the season by rookie catcher Robinson, Will Chamberlain and Elton Baylor. Russell and the Celtics, however, are in a league of their own.

In the world of college basketball, Ohio State's Jerry Lucas was the country's best, bar none. The tall center led his team to victory after victory until that fateful loss to Cincinnati in the NCAA championship battle.

Montreal's Camdians had the top hockey player of the year, Bernie "Bison Boom" Geoffroy. His record-tying 50-goal season was by far hockey's outstanding performance. The Chicago Blackhawks's victory over Montreal in the Stanley Cup playoffs is the best single story in that sport.

Arnold Palmer gave it a good, colorful try, but Gary Player with his triumph in the Masters was the year's best golfer.

Not for many years has boxing had a champion like Joe Brown, the lightweight champion. Since he won the title from Jimmy Carter a few years back, Brown has been the most active and most successful champion the degenerate boxing world has seen since Rocky Marciano hung up his gloves. Brown is easily the fighter of the year with nobody close.

This certainly has been a good year for: The Cincinnati Reds and their National League pennant; the Cincinnati Bengals and their national basketball title; Alabama's football team, the nation's best; Floyd Patterson and his ringers; the New York Yankees and their super-stars.

To all of them, and you, MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Orange Gymnasts Meet Cortland State Tonight

By MARK DIAMOND

Paul Romeo's Syracuse gymnasts open their 1961-62 campaign tonight against Cortland State Teachers, at Archbold Gymnasium. Admission is free.

Romeo considers this match as more of a test for the Orange gymnasts than anything else, as his sights are trained right now on the titanic clash with Navy this Saturday.

Navy was the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference's team champions of last year, and will be strong again this year. Thus Romeo is concerned with how his squad looks for tonight's match so that he can better set his lineup for the Midlands.

Junior Team

Basically this year's Orange array is a junior squad, headed by Captain Phil Voas, the ECAC tumbling champion and Ray Grimaldi, third in the East in last year's side horse competition. Romeo calls Grimaldi one of the best men in the country in this event.

Rolf Leninger, who will be performing in the long horse vaulting and side horse competitions, is counted upon to be Syracuse's high individual scorer this year.

Among the sophomores who have secured positions in tonight's engagement are Tom Steeves (long vaulting and parallel bars), Carl Poplar (parallel bars and horizontal bar), and John Bird, (side horse, floor exercise, and horizontal bar).

Romeo expressed confidence that these boys would prove to be assets to the team, but they must prove themselves under pressure.

Hopes for Depth

Taking a look at his squad as a whole, Romeo considered its strong points at the moment to be in the side horse, still rings and floor exercise events, with a lack of depth in the other three; parallel bars, long horse vaulting and horizontal bar. He was confident that eventually this depth will develop.

The Cortland Redmen will be led by all-around gymnast Pete Petresino, who will be in the floor exercise, parallel bar and side horse competition.

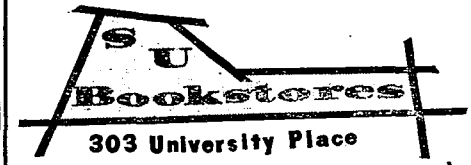

This match is an exhibition, with the Navy battle on Saturday being the first engagement with a league member. The other schools comprising the league are Temple, Penn State, Army, and Pittsburgh.

In the words of all coaches everywhere, "anything can happen."

Frosh Wrestlers In Opener Today

Boistered by a 20-6 exhibition victory over the Orange varsity, the Syracuse frosh wrestlers face Colgate in their season opener today.

Eight boys accompany coach Joe Scandura to Colgate. Gene Inch, Terry Hayes, Mike Mullick, John Dussling, and George Rodgers represent Syracuse in the lower weight classes while Floyd Chandler, Lou Roberts, and Jerry Everling handle the heavier brackets.

Five dual matches with Ithaca, Colgate, and Cornell appear on the schedule, in addition to the Eastern championships. The frosh and varsity combine for the Wilkes-Barre tournament Dec. 28-29.

Varsity, Freshmen Cagers Face Cornell in Ithaca Tilt

By RON ROBERTS

Mare Guley's varsity cagers, winless in their first two starts, journey to Ithaca tonight to face the undefeated Big Red of Cornell in the first road game for the Orange.

The Piety freshmen, convincing and crowd-pleasing in their pair of wins this season, will tangle with the Cornell yearlings in the pre-luncheon.

Guley can only expect more trouble from the Big Red. "They have more experience, and they have better heights," Guley said. "They also have two wins, while we have two losses."

Cornell owns victories over Colgate, 57-46, and Bucknell, 76-61, while the Orange have dropped decisions to Fordham and Penn State.

The Orange drilled on working against both a zone and a man-to-man defense this week, since Cornell uses either type, and frequently switches them during a game. But no matter which defense coach Sam MacNeil selects, the Piety will try to set up captain Fred Macherer for his jump ball.

Macherer has averaged 18.5 points for the first two Syracuse tilts, with a neat 42 shooting percentage from the floor. His 15 rebounds are also tops on the squad.

Carl Vernick, sophomore backcourt man, has been the second-highest Orange scorer, with 23 points and a 35 percent average.

Sophomore Bob Murray and junior Herb Foster will again start for Syracuse, but a severe chondriolosis may keep Dick Taylor on the sidelines. Guley expects to use 6-5 Manny Klutkowski in Taylor's spot.

Senior Russ Reisswanger, a starter in the Fordham game, has also missed some practice because of bruised fingers this week, and his playing status remains in doubt.

Leading the Big Red will be guard Jerry Szachun, who has netted 33 points in the two Cornell games. Ray Ratowski is the other backcourt man, and has hit for 11 points in each game.

Captain Don Shaffer and Bill Baugh should be the forecourt operators, with 6-7 sophomore Bob Turrell the likely starter at center. Guley feels that his fresh hoopsters will have their first real test of the season against the Little Red. He notes the good height and shooting ability of the Cornell yearlings.

"They have a couple of good, tall ballplayers," says the Orange coach. "They are about 6-6, and one of them, Ben Lecuwan, is a high school all-america mention."

Guley will use the same starting line-up that whipped the Morrisville Aggies last week, 87-71. Phil Schott, who scored 33 Saturday, and "Tricky" Dick Duffy will start at the guards. Big Larry "Beetles" Bailey will open at center, with Eric Weber and Tom Fitzsimmons in the forecourt.

LIBERTY BOWL PEP RALLY SET

A Liberty Bowl Pep Rally will begin at 7 p.m. tonight in front of Sims Dormitory, it was announced Tuesday.

The SU band, cheerleaders and the Sallins Warrior will all be on hand to lead a snake dance across campus.

The Orange gridders leave for Philadelphia and their leave-for contest with Miami tomorrow morning.

Shooters Win, Lose Weekend Matches

The Syracuse University varsity rifle team shot both its best and its worst match of the season this past weekend, according to coach Mr. Lloyd Hummell.

On Friday evening the squad faced St. Lawrence in not only the best, but the closest match of the year. They came out on top 1384 to 1382 by a slim two point margin. Top shooter Bob Murray shot his best effort this year with a 288.

The following morning the team traveled to Alfred to meet Alfred and Canisius in what turned out to be their poorest showing thus far. Due mainly to rusa-ing, only half of the team was able to make the trip. The final scores were: Canisius 1357, Alfred 1371, and Syracuse 1290. Bob Murray was again high scorer with 284.

Thus far this season the rifle squad has lost to Buffalo, placed second in a meet with Cornell and Rochester, and finished second behind Niagara. In each of the contests, Bob Murray has led the team in scoring, with 287, 281, and 274 respectively for a 284 average.

With the interest in rifle picking up, Coach Hummell is hopeful of finishing the season with scores close to 1400.

Hamilton First Ice Foe For Piety Hockey Club

By BERNIE MACCALLUM

The Syracuse University Hockey Association opens its ten game schedule against Hamilton College at Jamilton, N.Y., Saturday. The face-off is at 2 p.m.

"We have more depth than last season," said Dick van Winkle, the association president. Last year the club compiled a 3-3-1 record which should be improved upon, according to Van Winkle.

Slated to start against Hamilton are Steve Berni and Murph Kirkby on the wings, with Chas Hudson at center.

James Knight and Jack Brain will start at defense. Van Winkle will be goal.

Brian Fitzgerald, Peter Stone and James Evert will skate on the second line.

Cris Lytle and Bill Mcgrunder will team up as the second defensive pair.

Brian and Hudson are the team co-captains. Hudson has played a year of varsity hockey at Hamilton.

Knight and Jim LaTue are the only Canadian players on the Syracuse squad. Last Thursday.

The Piety skaters dropped a 5-1 decision to Hamilton last season in their only previous meeting.

The Orangemen lost a 12-6 scrimmage to the Syracuse Stars, semi-professional team, last Thursday.

The team has been practicing at the Syracuse Colliseum where all home games will be played.

The inter-collegiate contests will be played as part of double-headers with the Stars playing in the second games.

After each Saturday evening home game there will be an hour of free skating for spectators.

The first home appearance of the hockey squad will be Jan. 6 when they play a very highly rated Colgate varsity. Tickets for the game will be sold on campus by team members.

Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional business fraternity, will award prizes for compositions establishing a "Personal Code of Business Ethics."

Two Alpha Kappa Psi Foundation, a non-profit foundation established by the business fraternity, announced the contest and its rules recently.

All entries must be typed, double-spaced, dated, signed and must contain the applicants occupation and address. They must be received by the Alpha Kappa Psi Foundation, 111 E. 33 St., Indianapolis 3, Ind., by June 30, 1962.

Contestants will be eligible for three cash awards and testimonial certificates. Three hundred dollars will be awarded the first prize winner, two hundred dollars for second place and one hundred dollars for third place.

Alumni Dance Slated

All Syracuse University graduates and undergraduates who live in the Rochester area are invited to the SU Alumni Dance, 9 to 12 midnight Dec. 27, in the Sheraton Hotel Ballroom.

Those interested in attending the smorgasbord at 6:45 p.m. are asked to contact Carol Brink, Extension 2126 or CO 6-0097 in Rochester for prices and reservations.

The dance has been sponsored by alumni and friends of the University for the past ten years.

Git Correction

There was an error in Tuesday's Daily Orange regarding Monday's Citizenship lecture. The article should have referred neither to Dr. Harry H. Pierce, professor of history, nor Walter H. Pierce, of paper and pulp, but to Dr. Roy A. Price, professor of social science and education.

Fallout Shelter

 fence in the case which was the taking of a few lives to protect many, was valid. "This in the same sense makes a good defense for eviction from your fallout shelter if an intruder constitutes a threat to the lives of the others in the shelter.

Discussing other questions that would arise legally in the case of a war, Lillich said that he felt the calling out of the National Guard and the imposition of martial law would be ineffective, because there would probably be no one to call out.

He cited the fact that presently in New York City the police force is undermanned and it is unsafe to walk in many parts of the city. "This would be transposed in the case of a nuclear attack, he stated.

Turning to the question of present status of the school which would take effect in the case of an attack, Lillich cited the extreme power delegated to the State Defense Council in time of war.

Under the Defense Emergency Act of 1951 the New York State Council has the power to impose nearly "socialistic" government over the people by recruiting people to farm and harvest crops, for military service and to regulate prices on all essential goods and services. They may even confiscate private property, he asserted.

Civil defense units may compel evacuation, and impress persons into public service. The state government may even blow up your house without any compensation if it is in a fire line or in a similar situation.

Lillich concluded his talk stating that the person emerging from his fallout shelter after an attack would find an entirely different legal system operating. He advised that any student, from the one he is now accustomed to.

Faculty Members Discuss Shelters

 vice," asserted Dean Cope. Burt claimed, "In case of nuclear war more people will live if there are fallout shelters than if there are none."

Said News Horwitz pointed out that if a one-megaton bomb was exploded in the Syracuse area survival for those within a one and one-half mile radius would be impossible whether in a concrete shelter or not.

In addition, fire and blast damage would envelop a ten-mile radius. Even if people lived through the explosion, survival from the accompanying effects would be unlikely. Furthermore, Horwitz said, in an all-out war it is unlikely that so small a bomb would be used.

"That fallout shelters will provide protection in case of an attack is a gross overstatement," continued Miner. He noted that shelters provide no defense against a second nuclear attack or against the after-effects of an attack.

To resolve the problem of contamination from fallout, 40 crops would need to be planted before the food would be free from radioactivity, Miner added.

Considering the effect that shelter construction would have on negotiations with Russia and other opposing powers, Dean Cope felt that shelters will enable the United States to negotiate from strength.

Prof. Miner felt, however, that shelters would cause increased resistance to negotiations because of an increased feeling of complacency. Moreover, he stated that this secure feeling would heighten the possibility of an accidental war.

Disagreement Dean Cope countered that there is no sense of proportion to this argument. He felt that nuclear weapons, not fallout shelters, would start a war.

The side against shelters stated that the United States government knows the effectiveness of shelters but has not fully educated the population as to their pros and cons.

Prof. Burt suggested that proper education would give people all of the facts. But even with these facts, Miner maintained, the program would not be agreeable because it still leads to a greater war risk.

To emphasize what nuclear war can and will mean, Horwitz pointed out that if Russia delivered sixty per cent of her nuclear stockpile, it would be possible to bomb every fifty square miles of the United States. The U.S. has the same capacity, he added, but each year Russia's capacity grows even greater.

A petition signed by those members of the faculty against fallout shelter construction and a subsequent protest by faculty members for shelter construction led SDS to sponsor this program for information purposes. The petition was published as an advertisement in last night's Syracuse Herald-Journal.

A E Pi Officially Nixes Pledge Class

Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity officially rejected Tuesday morning an Alumni IFC list of twelve freshmen who had indicated the house as first preference among fraternities.

The AEPi decision not to take in a pledge class this fall was made final after a lengthy brothers' meeting that ran until early Tuesday morning.

Edward Packer, Master of AEPi, conveyed the brothers' decision to the Dean of Men's Office Tuesday. University fraternity advisor James P. McMurray accepted the AEPi decision and told the Daily Orange that it was perfectly within the house's right to refuse the freshman bids.

"They never had a pledge class," McMurray said, "and they may do whatever they wish with the names," submitted by the Alumni IFC."

It seemed uncertain on Tuesday whether the bidding AEPi first would be given their second choices, McMurray indicated. It would be up to the houses listed after AEPi to accept the rejected freshmen, the Dean's Office said.

The brothers of AEPi forwarded a letter to the Daily Orange on Tuesday in which they offered an apology and to the freshman who had bid them and were without a fraternity because of the house's decision not to take a pledge class.

Whether AEPi will leave campus after this year could not be confirmed on Tuesday. There was no comment from the house as to what position its national had taken over the brothers' action. It was also learned by the Daily Orange that the university could make an effort to keep the house on campus.

AEPi's decision not to take a pledge class for fall 1961 was based on the brothers' feeling that the boys bidding the house did not measure up to the standards of the house.

Alumni IFC members indicated

Tuesday that the Monday night bid-matching at the University Club was a very long and hectic session. There was no definite comment on the bid-matching that there had been irregularities in the bid-matching.

Frosh Receive Fraternity Bids

It looked like a student demonstration on the Administration Building lawn Tuesday.

But it was the frosh men picking up Fraternity bids.

Men's Housing Director James P. McMurray moved the envelopes outdoors at about 1:45 p.m. to clear congested Administration Building halls.

Lines of men were jammed down the stairs and out the front door, so the clerks picked up their boxes of bids and marched out, trailing their lines behind them.

When the crowds dwindled to a manageable size an hour later, the boxes were returned to the dean of men's office.

Conference Set At Casowasco

"The Prophetic Voice in Modern Fiction" will be the theme of the annual Hendricks Chapel Mid-Winter Casowasco Conference to be held Jan. 31 to Feb. 2 at the Casowasco Campsite on Owaseo Lake.

The conference will be led by Dr. William Mueller author of the book from which the theme of the conference draws its name.

All University students are invited to participate in the conference, and may register with Mrs. Wiley in the Chapel Board Room from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays or with the chaplains of the Chapel organizations. The $12 fee, which includes transportation, is payable on or before Jan. 19.

Frosh Executive Council Named

Discrimination Bill On JSL Agenda

A pre-vacation cleanup session of Joint Student Legislature at 7:15 p.m. today in Maxwell Auditorium will consider broadening the powers of the Anti-Discrimination Bill and will hear a report on food service to be submitted to the administration.

The Ways and Means Committee, headed by Sam Patterson, will suggest that the powers of the bill be extended to cover other areas than the Greek clauses it is now working on.

The Student Conduct and Welfare Committee, headed by Theodore Eyster, has prepared a report on student dissatisfaction with food service compiled from written and oral reports given at hearings held last week, and material gathered by food service representatives.

JSL Speaker Brian Fitzgerald said at the Legislature's Steering Committee meeting Tuesday night that if the report is approved tonight he will ask university Treasurer Francis A. Wingate to give his reaction at the first JSL meeting after vacation.

University Owned Service Eyster said Tuesday he will clarify tonight the fact that food service is a university owned and operated organization, not a private group as many students seem to believe.

The financial aspect of the food service issue will not be handled by JSL at this time, according to Fitzgerald.

The constitution of the Students for a Democratic Society organization will be brought to the floor for approval tonight.

Deans Send Note on 'Raid' To Students For Action

By JOYCE IERGENHAN
Junior Editor

Eight student organizations have been requested by Dean of Women Marjorie C. Smith and Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford to make a "demonstration of responsibility" regarding the pantly raid of December 3.

In a memorandum which noted the complete absence of student responsibility in evaluating the results of the incident, the deans asked the eight organizations to "explore fully all the dimensions and consequences such behavior has on and off campus" and to submit to the university a report of their conclusions.

The organizations receiving the memorandum include: Joint Student Government; Interfraternity Council; Panhel; Lambda Sigma Sigma; Junior Women's (Honorary); Orange Key; Junior Men's (Honorary); Eta Psi Upsilon, Senior Women's (Honorary); and Tau Theta Upsilon and Phi Kappa Alpha, Senior Men's (Honorary).

"We waited a week after the demonstration to see what action these groups would take," said Clifford, "but they exhibited a complete absence of initiative."

Interesting Paradox
According to the memorandum, this situation presents an "interesting paradox" in the area of student responsibility. "Students have requested more responsibility in the management of their affairs and greater participation in student-university life," the memorandum states. "Yet when student initiative events do occur the result, at least in this instance, is a withdrawal from responsibility." The memorandum expressed concern with the fact that many students viewed the demonstration as merely "innocent fun" and states that the "results of this behavior, both real and potential, quite clearly puts it into quite a different category."

Wingate to Receive JSL Food Service Report

By JEANNIE RANOV
Junior Editor

A 21-page report on student dissatisfaction with university food service was approved Wednesday night by Joint Student Legislature.

The report will be presented this week to SU Vice President and Treasurer Francis A. Wingate who will be asked to present his reactions at the first JSL meeting after Christmas vacation.

"Campus-wide discontent" and constructive criticisms are the bases of the report, prepared by the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee from testimony at hearings last week and reports from food service representatives.

In other action, JSL Speaker Pro Tempore Virginia Privaturo told the senate Dean of Women Marjorie C. Smith has said "nothing would make me happier than to see the Women's Building packed on Friday nights." This suggestion to use that building as a temporary student union will be taken to junior honoraries Orange Key and Lambda Sigma Sigma.

These groups were suggested by Miss Privaturo to run such a union, where both Greek and independent students could participate in recreational activities.

Sen. Ronald Mittleman of Zeta Beta Tau introduced an amendment to the Joint Student Constitution providing that "rights of students to freedom of speech and press and to peacefully protest and to petition for redress of grievances shall not be abridged."

The amendment, sent for consideration to the Government Structures Committee, also asks that "the rights of students to be secure in the privacy of their rooms shall not be abridged" without a search warrant issued by Joint Student Court.

JSL also approved the constitution (Continued on Page 7)

Miami, Syracuse Clash Saturday

By KEN DARLING
Sports Editor

Heisman Trophy winner Ernie Davis will lead Syracuse into Philadelphia's Liberty Bowl Saturday, where the Hillmen will face the Miami Hurricanes.

The game, Bill Orange's fifth bowl appearance since 1953, will be televised nationally by NBC-TV. The kick-off is slated for 1 p.m.

It will be Davis by land and quarterback Dave Sarette by air for coach Ben Schwartzwalder's forces. The Elmhurst Express ranked among the nation's leaders in rusting and scoring this fall, while Sarette compiled a pass completion mark of 51.9 percent.

Miami's Miller, leading the Miami invasion will be All-American end Bill Miller, described as one of the greatest players in the history of the Florida school. This season he has been the favorite target of sophomore quarterback sensation George Mira.

Both teams won seven out of ten contests this year. The last time the Orangemen and the Hurricanes met on the gridiron was a year ago, with Syracuse taking a well-earned 21-14 victory.

Saturday's contest will mark the final appearance in a Syracuse uniform for 13 Hill seniors, including eight starters.

Same Starting Lineup
Coach Schwartzwalder plans no changes in his starting lineup for the post-season classic. Joining Davis and Sarette in the backfield will be seniors Dick Easterly and Gary Fallon.

Easterly, team co-captain and halfback is one of the squad's outstanding pass receivers, while fullback Fallon is second only to Davis in rushing yardage. The Watertown native averaged 4.5 yards per carry this fall.

Continuing the line will be seniors (Continued on Page 9)

Court Sentences 2 Frosh For Part In Panty Raid

Cases of two university students involved in last week's panty raid were disposed of Tuesday night by Joint Student Court.

One freshman with a good record for the two months he has attended the university was directed to give a weekly written report of his activities, initiated by his resident advisor, to a court justice for the rest of the semester.

He was charged with entering Smalley Cottage through a window, taking several pairs of pants and distributing them to the crowd outside the cottage.

The other student, also a freshman, was allegedly seen on (Continued on Page 7)

Arnold Advises New Publication

The first national newspaper in the United States, the "National Observer" has employed the services of typographer Arnold as consultant for typography.

Arnold, chairman of the graphic arts department of the School of Journalism, is recognized as one of the foremost authorities in graphic arts in the western hemisphere.

"This new weekly paper will be published on Sundays by the 'Wall Street Journal.' It is not, however, a Sunday edition of the 'Journal.'"

"The typography of this newspaper will be consistently designed for the convenience and comfort of the reader," commented Arnold. "We will use the most readable type available."

Arnold stressed that he acted only in an advisory capacity. "The resulting typography will be a product of the experience of the 'Wall Street Journal' bolstered up by scientific findings."

Since the first issue of this paper will not be published until January, Arnold could not make any specific comments on the typography which would be neither splashy nor conservative but rather "contemporary and functional."

Unlike the "Wall Street Journal" typography to be used, it will be employed mainly as a means of communications and not for decoration, Arnold noted that since the "National Observer" is a weekly, it will be able to get and use better pictures.

In addition to full news coverage, the "National Observer" will emphasize the cultural side of life, Arnold added.

Pizza Car Rolls Into Cemetery

A report of a stolen car had a rather morbid ending last Tuesday night.

The driver of one of the campus pizza car reported to Security Police that the car was taken Friday morning. The driver while he was making a delivery there.

An immediate investigation resulted in the quick recovery of the vehicle. Apparently, the auto, which didn't hold and the car rolled over and down the Mount into the cemetery.

SYRACUSE '10' NOW ON SALE

Editions of "Syracuse '10," the campus literary magazine, will be on sale all day today and Friday morning. Editor-in-chief Terry Hughes announced.

The reason for the delay in getting the magazines to the students, Hughes explained, is the fact that the large number of copies printed—2900—turned out to be a harder job than expected.

The editions of "Syracuse '10" will be on sale in all dormitories, dining halls and most of the campus buildings, and also on Marshall Street, Hughes added.

IFC OKays New Court Giving Houses Power

By ADAIR DUFINE

Increased Greek jurisdiction over fraternity offenses was established with the approval of a Judicial Board constitution Wednesday night at the Interfraternity Council meeting at Phi Delta Theta.

The IFC Judicial Board constitution, based on that of the Joint Student Court, placed the foundation for the rules and regulations of the fraternity system in the hands of the Greeks. The board will be made up of four senior and three junior judges.

Previously jurisdiction in fraternity offenses was in the hands of the Alumni IFC and the dean of men's office.

Approval in cases brought before this court will not be subject to the approval of the dean of men.

The constitution, approved by IFC, must await approval of the Alumni IFC, having received approval from Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford.

James Tallon, IFC rushing chairman, suggested the formation of a committee to survey the group of freshmen and upperclass transfer students who did not complete the rushing schedule or did not pledge this semester. This committee, armed with the information gathered from questioning various students, could possibly help small houses with pledging problems, Tallon said.

The formal rushing period was officially ended by the council to enable those students to pledge who were unable to make formal bids because of illness or technical errors in rushing procedure.

Formal opposition to the Hill student body's joining the National Student Association was approved by the council. Fraternities are referred to as "economic drag on the economy..." and should be eliminated from college campuses" by the NSA handbook; therefore the members of the Hill Greek system can not endorse membership in NSA, according to IFC.

Clarifying the refusal of Alpha Epsilon Pi to take a 1961 pledge class, AEPi Master Edward Packer stated his house is still an active part of the Greek system.

Christmas Message

The administration has dropped a kind of Christmas message into the laps of many student leader groups on campus. The message concerns the patty raid of last week, and on the whole, it is one of the wisest utterances from the Hill management in a long time. Rather than use the punitive powers that are inherent in their offices, the Dean of Men and Dean of Women decided to deposit the problem right where it started, in the student body. This was both the easiest and most intelligent decision they could have made. To disseminate indiscriminately campus wide punishment for all the participants in the raid would have meant something like placing the whole student body on probation. To attempt to isolate the leaders of the raid from the whole group would not only be nearly impossible and unfair, but would have aroused the anger of the campus in general.

Instead of doing these things, Deans Clifford and Smith have made an important gesture to all the students. Despite Sunday's actions, they have said that they still believe in the ability of Syracuse students to govern and rule themselves. The administration must also feel that the student body on the whole is cognizant of the fact that all large demonstrations are dangerous and irrational, inviting incidents of vandalism and personal injury that could be irreparable. Equally important, real school spirit is evidenced by far more subtle, meaningful and constructive actions than those demonstrated last week.

Idiot's Delight

By JACK HAND

Propaganda has always been a useful tool to those who serve a Cause. It is not an evil thing in itself. It may serve the worthy as well as the unworthy. Christ, Communism, and Capitalism are daily advanced through the agency of propaganda, for it will serve either ends. The most important thing the intelligent person of today must learn is how to detect the distortion inherent in most propaganda. He must learn to see the hard core of facts and disregard the wrappings.

Since propaganda has usually been thought of as a major tool of the Leftists, it is interesting to note the recent activity of Rightist groups in this field. The advent of the "John Birch Society" has brought a great deal of public attention to that group. It has, however, distracted our people from other manifestations of the Super-Conservative viewpoint.

Many college students have been attracted to the political right. This is evidenced in the strong support which Senator Goldwater seems to have attracted among student groups. Perhaps much of this is due to an understandable reaction to Communist activities. The setbacks which the United States has received in the arena of world politics are also important in promoting this viewpoint.

The propaganda activities of the Rightist groups are becoming focused on this fertile ground. The recent essay contest on the proposed impeachment of Justice Warren is an example of this. These men wish to rest the future leaders of America indoctrinated in their way of thinking. One cannot feel that they actually expect immediate action.

Some of the franchises on this campus have been receiving a newspaper called "Human Events." This paper is blatantly Rightist in its commentary on national affairs. It is so obviously slanted that it will be amazing if people believed its statements. One can be sure, however, that some do. There is certainly nothing wrong with a group attempting to bring others to its viewpoint. This nation stands for freedom of the press, and any group is entitled to use this right. "Human Events," however, is an insult to the intelligence of the American college student.

One may point in particular to the issue of December 15, 1961. This issue contained an insert on Socialism. This political philosophy is apparently the arch enemy of the people running "Human Events." The insert was a four-page "comic book" decriing the evils of Socialism.

Through these four pages romped an unbelievable little character. He was supposed to be a Socialist. His buckteeth, bushy hair, huge glasses and black hat were obviously to prove this to the reader. He happily hypnotized the public, deluded labor, throttled the small businessman and snuck in America's back door for the education of the college audience.

While the brave Rightists were defending America against the "Propaganda, Brutality and Bullets" of the Communist agent, this servile little creature was deluding the American public with his campaign of "Deceit, Guile and Ballots." The texts accompanying this masterpiece are on the same level. It was filled with high sounding phrases which indited just about everything as Socialist. The "New Frontiers" for instance, was equated with "benevolent dictatorship."

If this is the best that the Rightists can do, they should present no real danger. This issue of "Human Events" was a real idiot's delight. The promoters of this paper should be commended for bringing a chuckle into college life. This stuff is better than "Peanuts."

"I can hardly wait to get home to study for my finals!"

"I can hardly wait to get back to school to study for my finals!"

Food Service

To the Editor:
It was typical to hear a freshman rushee comment on the superiority of the food served in the fraternity houses as compared to that served in the respective university dining halls. Some of these comments led to discussions of the present investigation by JSL and the related statements by university officials.

A practical and objective appraisal of the deplorable situation in these dining halls follows.

Syracuse University Food Service is "unique" business. It offers a product to a consumer who is "forced" to purchase it with practically no means of satisfying his demand for any changes or improvement of the product. This business is "unique" in another way. There is a "sure" profit that is reportedly quite large.

I perceive a situation that cannot be altered with the existing complaint machinery available.

To begin with, this situation can only be remedied by the Food Service spending more of "our" money on better quality food, more efficient and experienced preparation of the food, and a goal on the part of Food Service to serve more than just dietary prescribed and prepared meals.

The goals should be to serve good and appetizing meals. Institutional cooking can be very good if it is made correctly with style and taste.

Only a few channels are available to cause a change without any trouble for the students or the university.

Among these are to have the Parents Association pressure the administration, and have JSL have a professional survey conducted by food experts with recommendations made to the university. The latter requires university cooperation by allowing these student-employed experts to see the budget used by Food Service and question certain of the financial procedures of the university in this area. By past and present performance, the administration is not going to allow this since attendance here is a "privilege" that carries very few rights.

To allude to the JSL investigation for a moment, I observe that the university gives the JSL its powers and it only gives it as much power as it wants to.

Another channel that I have never observed any utilization of is voluntary support through writing and action by influential faculty members. There seems to be a sterility on the part of faculty members to even publicly support student desires, perhaps in fear of university reprisals.

Action is the byword. It is going to take a slowly developing crisis situation to cause concrete changes and improvements of the Food Service. Unless changes take place it might just work out that way.

With our Food Service, we can NEVER be called the "Miami of the North."

Thanks to Rao

To the Editor:
Thanks to S. Sreenivas Rao for his comments in regard to the foreign policies of America and of India (D.O., Dec. 1). Being a foreign student, Mr. Rao undoubtedly could have enlightened his American colleagues on a number of other facts in addition to those which he mentioned.

For example, he might have pointed out that it was our staunch NATO ally France which broke the moratorium on nuclear testing, rather than the enemy Russia. Or he could have even been so kind as to remind us that the culmination of our post-war German policy was recently symbolized by the meeting between our president with the ex-Nazi Storm Trooper Schreger, the new foreign minister of our brave NATO ally West Germany whose "freedom" President Kennedy is protecting at the risk of atomic war.

Mr. Rao was not so impolite as to point out these facts, however, just as he refrained from contrasting Mr. Nehru's modest concern for India with the compulsion of some of our leaders to re-make the entire world in the image of the American myth.

I would like for Mr. Rao to know that the Klingens and Hogstrom letters which have appeared in the Daily Orange in protest to Mr. Rao's polite comments are indicative of that large but declining number of Americans whose political understanding is limited to the disciplines of demology and angelology.

Under the stress of the present crisis in world affairs there is a growing number of American citizens who are actively participating in groups such as the Bertrand Russell inspired Central New York Committee of 100 and are thus striving for a more responsible America and a safer world.

SU Religion

To the Editor:
As an Episcopalian, I deeply regret the recent decision by the Chancellor's office to cancel our 11 a.m. Sunday morning celebration of the Holy Eucharist. Our Church is not in "competition" with any other religious group on campus, but seeks only to minister properly to the Episcopal students and faculty at Syracuse.

But it would now appear that the administration of the University recognizes only two religious gatherings on Sunday morning as being proper—a general pan-Protestant service and the Roman Catholic Mass. It is this state of affairs that is distressing.

Syracuse University has had a long tradition of allowing all intellectual issues to be examined freely, openly, and honestly in her classrooms and lecture forums. A similar freedom has been so common that it should be permitted as well.

We should encourage a multiplicity of religious services, be they Roman Catholic, Jewish, Orthodox, Episcopal, Methodist, Lutheran, Unitarian, Mormon, etc., and less any of the Far Eastern religions. Only then can both the deep issues of religious belief be evaluated by the individual student if he chooses. And it is equally important that he has the freedom not to choose.

Fortunately, there are no compulsory chapel services, but by seeking to eliminate all other religious functions save the two now permitted during "prime time" on Sunday morning, the University is not living up to its past reputation for free intellectual inquiry. There is nothing sacred about the hours between 10:30 a.m. and noon, but there is something sacred about religious freedom. This seems to be the basic issue at hand. It is an issue that needs further discussion and clarification.

Piety Mermen Swamp Cortland Swim Squad

By ART ROSSKY
Syracuse's swimming team maintained its unblemished record as it whipped Cortland State 63-30, at the Cortland pool Wednesday afternoon. It was the Orangemen's second win of the year.

George Pond, Bob Ohman, and Jim Tuck paced the Hill squad, which won ten out of eleven events.

Pond smashed the pool record with a 2:13.5 clocking in the 200-yard butterfly. The previous record was 2:19.1.

Pond also teamed with Lehigh, Barney Morrison, and Mike Radz to win the medley relay. Ohman was a double individual winner as he splashed home first in the individual medley and the breaststroke.

Tuck, another double winner, led the field in the 50 and 100-yard free style events.

Diver Jeremy Rosenthal trained his second win in two meets.

Morrison and Watts also gained victories in the freestyle events.

Watts won the 220 race while Morrison was victorious in the 100.

The final triumph was gained by the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Duffy, Meyer, Watts, and Radz.

Cornell Hands Yearling Hoopsters First Defeat

By ALAN KORT and DAN GARR

ITHACA — The Syracuse University frosh cagers suffered their first loss of the season, 58-51, at the hands of a taller Cornell yearling squad last night at Barton Hall.

Steve Guley's yearlings were undefeated in their two previous tests against Ithaca and Morrisville, but the Orange trailed throughout the game and could muster a defense against the tall Cornell forward well.

Top-scoring honors went to Orange guard Dick Duffy, who netted 29 points and spearheaded futile Syracuse attacks in the second period. Jim Magliscean, 6-6 center for the Little Red, netted 16 points, while Orange forward Phil Schoff scored 12 points.

Cornell played a defensive zone game in the first half and controlled the boards for a 23-16 lead at half-time. Syracuse rallied to win a single point off the Little Red with two minutes left in the half, but Dave Bliss, Cornell guard, led a six-point Cornell spurge.

ST Surge

The Syracuse style of play changed in the first few minutes of the second half and the Orange aggressively outscored Cornell, 7-2, to pull within two points of the hosts.

A six-point rally by Cornell opened the Little Red lead to 31-23. Again Duffy led the frosh back and at the midway point in the half it was 35-33, Cornell.

The big forward guns of Cornell then opened up and gave their squad a commanding 47-39 lead. But after a rally spearheaded by the shooting of Schoff and the playmaking of Duffy, the game was tied up at 47-47.

Cornell took a two point lead on a 15-ft. basket and Schoff deadlocked it at 49-49, with three minutes remaining. On the scoring effort, he committed a technical foul and Cornell converted to take a 50-49 lead.

From this point on it was all Cornell. The Little Red scored eight straight points to make it 58-49 and Syracuse scored the game's final basket with two seconds remaining for a 58-51 final.

The frosh are now idle for three weeks and resume play Jan. 4 against the Colgate frosh at Hamilton.

Orange Gymnasts Conquer Cortland

By MARK DIAMOND

The Syracuse gymnasts opened their season last night in a "warm-up" match with Cortland State, and showed that they are going to be a team to be reckoned with by defeating the Redmen, 74-20. About 200 people attended the match at Archibald Gymnasium.

Captain Paul Romeo's charges led from the very first event, the floor exercise, in which captain Phil "Corky" Voas scored 272. Orangemen Ron Orlick and sophomore Joan Birri completed a sweep by finishing second and third.

Syracuse increased its lead in the side horse competition, with Rolf Leninger, Ray Grimaldi and Bird coming in 1, 2, and 3, with Cortland captain Pete Petrosino taking third.

The last even of the meet, the horizontal bar, was once again captured by the Hillmen. Voas's 624 led the way, with Poplar and Bird finishing behind.

Romeo stated that the floor exercise and long horse vaulting look favorable for the Navy clash on Saturday. In regards to last year's eastern champions, Romeo said, "I believe that we'll be able to give Navy a very good meet and could possibly upset them."

Big Red Cagers Overtake Fighting Hill Five, 83-68

By RON ROBERTS

AND LEFT JOE E
ITHACA — A fired-up Syracuse basketball team put on their best display of the young season last night, only to see undefeated Cornell storm from seven points down at the half to tug the tired Orange with their third straight loss, 83-68.

An estimated 1500 fans watched Manny Klutchkowski and Carl Vernick team up to lead the visiting underdogs to a 41-34 half-time advantage. Klutchkowski, 6-5 Orange center, scored on jump shots early in the game and netted 11 points before the intermission.

Vernick carried the banner for the red-hot Piety in the closing minutes of the half as he combined driving lay-ups with his patented jumpshots for 14 counters. Syracuse lived in an amazing 16 for 22 from the floor for a 72% in the first half.

But early in the second session the Big Red started to nibble away at the Orange lead. With rangy sophomore center Bob Turrell paced the homesters' attack, Syracuse soon found itself in a 50-50 deadlock, and they never led again.

Cornell Surge
Forward Bill Baugh then sparked an eight-point Cornell spurt, but the Orange countered with seven straight, and held the Big Red to a 58-57 edge.

But Syracuse didn't get close again. Jerry Szachara and Baugh led another Cornell spurt, and as the visitors began to show definite signs of tiring, Cornell raced to a commanding 70-59 margin.

Syracuse played with their starting five—Fred Machemer, Bob Murray, Herb Foster, Vernick and Klutchkowski—for the first 30 minutes of the game. Dick Taylor and Russ Biesswanger, the top men on Mare Guley's reserve list, both sat out the game because of injuries.

When Guley finally went to his bench, the play became ragged and Cornell methodically increased its bulge until the final whistle.

"Steady" Freddy Machemer and Vernick led the Syracuse scorers with 16 points each. Murray added 15, and Klutchkowski finished with 13. The Orange canned only 33% of their attempts in the second half, but scored 24 of 32 free throws in the hot contest.

Baugh followed Szachara for game honors with 18 points.

Career Cues:

"Whatever your major, make sure to include a course in 'people'!"

W. Emlen Roosevelt, President
National State Bank, Elizabeth, N. J.

"If my college adviser had prophesied that studying psychology would some day help promote my career in banking, I'd have scoffed. Yet that is exactly what has happened. And when I think about it now the reason seems obvious. The facts and figures of banking, or of any other field, are mechanical devices. They take on real meaning only when related to people.

"Good psychology is also the basis of all teamwork. And, since most of today's business and scientific problems are too complicated for 'one man' solutions, teamwork is essential. If you want to be a valuable team player, and a likely candidate for captain, be the person who understands people. Learn what it takes for people to work together in harmony. Learn how to win trust and confidence. Learn basic human psychology.

"Bear this in mind, too. World tension, community tension, business tension, even family tension are the facts of everyday life. The more you know of human behavior, the better prepared you will be to deal with these problems.

"So, if you have the chance, take a course devoted to 'people.' Your class adviser can probably help you fit a psychology elective into your schedule. I don't think you'll regret it... I know I didn't."

Hill Gridders Pick All-Opponent Team

Penn State and Notre Dame each placed three men on this year's all-opponent football team selected by members of the Syracuse grid squad.

End Bob Mitinger, tackle Jim Smith and center Jay Huffman are the Nittany Lions placed on the team. Representing the Fighting Irish from South Bend are guard Nick Buonoconti, tackle Joe Carrollo and halfback Angelo Deleccio.

Delaware's All-America (Thunder) Thornton was the only unanimous selection to the team. Thornton was also named top individual performer and the top back to play against Syracuse.

Maryland's All-America end, Gary Collins, was honored as the top lineman to face Bill Orange. Collins was responsible for the Hillmen's 22-21 loss to Maryland as he grabbed the game-deciding PAT pass.

Rounding out the all-foe eleven are Pitt guard Larry Vignali, Oregon State quarterback Terry Baker, and Boston College fullback (The Horse) Crump.

'70' Features New Format in 1st Issue

If "Syracuse 10" editor Terrance Hughes expects an angry reaction to the first edition of his magazine, he probably won't be disappointed.

In dropping the literary format of the '10's previous award winning years, Hughes has adopted a sophisticated, hard headed and exciting journalistic style.

True, the fiction, poems, cartoons, and satire "Outlook" section will remain. All, especially the fiction and poetry, are quite good. But Hughes and his staff have concentrated, on reporting; solid, extensive, and in some cases searing, reporting.

Feature Article

The featured article in "10" is a 12 page, special paper insert on fraternities. The article covers academics, drinking, rushing, hazing, housing, discrimination, the why's and why not's, and the ultimate decisions facing fraternities.

In great detail, often with candid quotes from administration and Greek leaders, the feature offers a hard look at the problems of the fraternity system.

A lot of people won't like many of the illustrations given (especially of hazing) and the conclusions drawn. But this is entirely what editor Hughes wants.

The article on the "Un-Americans" considers right wing attacks against the author and publisher of the book of the same name. It is an angry, if not somewhat prejudiced, look at an important aspect of American political activity.

Other articles include undergraduate Paul Ross's recounting his adventures in Berlin, and a brief comment and photo essay on fencing. Of particular note is John Fuller's "Fall Weekend" photo spread. Rarely have we seen better pictures of campus life.

Unfortunately the humor and cartoons of this issue are not as funny as could be hoped. Cartoonist John Trevor is amusing, but we miss the past glories of Mike Moor.

David Grove's layout and art direction is excellent and ranks among the best we've encountered. We hope in future issues, though, he quiets down, uses some more white space, and stops reading the Saturday Evening Post.

Literary bugs might not like the slimming down of fiction and poetry space, and there could be room for more, but editor Hughes has done well by the intents of the university in producing his "pull no punches" magazine.

Lack of Polish Hampers Performers Featured at Crouse Christmas Concert

A chorus of over a hundred voices, a large string ensemble and a wood-wind sextet highlighted the Crouse Christmas Concert on Tuesday night. All these groups displayed fine talent although it was evident that more practice might have improved the concert considerably.

The string ensemble provided an excellent start to the concert performing Corelli's "Christmas Concerto". Under the able direction of Louis Krasser, they demonstrated fine balance and intonation which is always a great problem to accomplish with such a group.

The chorus then made its initial performance of the evening. It performed along with three very fine soloists and a wood-wind ensemble Respighi's "Laud to the Nativity" in a most stirring and beautiful presentation.

Miss Bonnie Bradt, soprano, Mrs. Carol Corbin, Mezzo-soprano, and John Corbin, tenor showed their ability to still be heard above the rather large and unbalanced chorus and turned in excellent performances as soloists.

However it is important not to forget the performance of Sue Kadison of the wood-wind sextet. Miss Kadison played many long passages with just herself and Mrs. Corbin on the extremely difficult English horn with beauty and poise.

After a brief intermission the chorus and string ensemble augmented by the addition of trumpets, returned to perform the Vivaldi "Gloria" with fine expressiveness. With William Shank and Ronald Westervelt playing C trumpets, the performance took on new vigor and vitality which had been so sorely missing from the earlier composition.

The only thing the whole concert lacks in the opinion of this reviewer was the necessary polish that makes the difference between the professional and the amateur. However much of this lack of polish can be attributed to insufficient practice time, which in a concert of such wonderful and inspired music as this speaks badly for the School of Music and the University as well.

what happens if we run out of gas?

Must tomorrow's travelers resort to howdahs and camel litters in order to get about? Not so, say our Ford Motor Company scientists.

First—aside from the unlikely depletion of our natural sources of gasoline—the prospects for higher-efficiency internal combustion engines are excellent.

Second, while gasoline still appears the best conceivable automotive fuel, our scientists are studying the outlook for new energy sources for cars.

Among intriguing possibilities: new energy conversion systems using degraded fuels, or fuels synthesized from low-cost power produced by nuclear fusion, Magneto-hydrodynamic generators and solid-state thermoelectric and electrochemical converters offer other possibilities.

This is all part of a broad quest for fundamental knowledge, earning Ford its place of leadership through scientific research and engineering.

for co-captain Bob Stern. The 5-11 210-lb. hustler has been praised by Schwartzwalder as Syracuse's outstanding lineman. His spirited defensive play highlighted many of the Hillmen's seven victories.

Strong at Ends

The Orange-ones lost a pair of fine ends, juniors Walt Sweeney and John Mackey. Sweeney grabbed nine passes this season, while Mackey gathered in 15, good for 321 yards.

Manning the guard positions will be a pair of seniors, George Franco-vitch and Al Spillett. Another senior, Dick Feidler, will be at tackle, along with junior Dave Nye. Sophomore John Snie-decker will handle punting duties.

Two seniors who will be ending their Syracuse gridiron career Saturday are tackle John Brown, ends Ken Eriksen and Ernie Vaughn, center Charlie Wink, and guard John Selska.

Miami Starters

For the Hurricanes of coach Andy Gustafson, Miva will be joined in the backfield by Nick Nyder, John Bahen, and Jim Vollenweider. Vollenweider, who is the team captain, is Miami's leading ball carrier, and is also a threat as a pass catcher.

With the dangerous Miller at left end, capable Larry Wilson will start at the right end post. The tackles will be Stan Maloty and Bill Watts. At the guard positions will be Jerry Reynolds and Bob Eggert, and Leo Lillimngil will center the line. Miami's punting specialist is reserve right end Harvey Foster.

This is the third year for the Liberty Bowl contest. Penn State has won the first two games, defeating Alabama in 1959 and Oregon last year.

Students From Africa Content, Study Says

The "average" African student in the United States is satisfied with his education and environment according to the results of a survey conducted among more than 1,000 African students at about 400 colleges in the United States.

The study, conducted by the Institute of International Education at the University of Michigan was initiated because of the large number of Africans studying in this country. Questionnaires and personal interviews were used to learn the students' opinions on American life.

Seventy-nine reported satisfaction with the training being given them and four per cent registered total dissatisfaction.

'Average Student'

According to data the "average" African student is 26 years old, single, male, from Kenya or Nigeria and studying social sciences at the sophomore level. He desires eventually to earn his doctorate degree, but realistically expects to return to his homeland after earning a master's degree.

Problems faced by Africans in this country are continually changing, the survey showed.

Language difficulties top the list for new arrivals with adjustment to American foods and discrimination ranked next in importance.

Later on, financial problems increase and the language, food and way of life adjustment troubles diminish. Discrimination still remains a trouble spot for African students, the study showed, especially in the South.

'Startling' Result

A "startling" result according to the study was the amount of friction evident between African and American Negroes. Twenty percent of the African visitors reported no American Negro friends.

In addition, many Africans said the Negroes appeared unfriendly or superior.

Many Americans thought the African students were Negroes. When they dressed in their native costumes, discrimination decreased in many instances.

Financial Difficulties

Financial difficulties were resolved by obtaining employment. The African although is often, according to the study, disillusioned when unable to find a job in his particular field of interest.

The "general friendliness" and "industriousness" of Americans was stated by the students. Shortcomings in the U.S. included political apathy, racial intolerance and intolerance of foreigners.

Many students reported an increased knowledge of their own continent as a result of their American education.

The interviews revealed a "keen desire to succeed." The average grade was a B-

Panel Speaks On Urban Land

By RANDI GANG
Urban land use and the role of government in economic problems were topics of a panel discussion sponsored by Omicron Chi Epsilon, national economics honorary.

The panel consisted of Dr. Catherine S. Birkhead, chairman of the department of Political Science, Dr. Jesse V. Birkhead, professor of economics, and Dr. Max R. Bloom, chairman of the department of Real Estate in the Business School.

Discussing public misconceptions on the relation of government units to urban economic problems, Dr. Birkhead said local government is "passive" in this capacity.

"Decisions," he continued, "will have to be made in state capitals or higher up." Regions of authority planning is often ineffective because "planning is forced from decisions making power," Dr. Birkhead explained.

Dr. Bloom, speaking in criticism of land use, especially in government programs of urban renewal, found available data incomplete and geographical units of analysis vague.

"The structure of local economies," he said, "is changing and the place where public and private structures meet needs re-examining." Economists rely on the U.S. Census, Dr. Bloom continued, and as this data is updated every ten years, the information rapidly becomes obsolete.

He added that cities, counties and states should not be the boundary determinants of economic units as cities are affected by their surrounding communities.

Dr. Birkhead explained that the cost of a project is often born by one community while another derives the benefits, or vice versa. These "spillovers," he said, often lead to anarchy. Dr. Birkhead anticipates a major increase in the amount of useful data collected by government agencies and sees a bright future for regulated analysis of urban problems.

University Press Notes Success of Its Books

"Conscience in Politics, Adlai E. Stevenson in the 1950's," by Stuart Gerry Brown is the best selling book we've ever had," stated Mrs. Rietta Gantner, publicity director of the Syracuse University Press.

"It has sold over 2,500 copies in the last three weeks and we had almost 400 orders yesterday," Mrs. Gantner continued.

Brown traces the major speeches and actions of Stevenson, twice defeated presidential candidate, and Dwight Eisenhower, twice victorious presidential candidate, on the major issues of the 1950's.

Thoroughly Documented

Included in this study are McCarthyism, civil rights, NATO, foreign policy, defense and disarmament, and nuclear testing. Through documentation Brown asserts that it was Stevenson who exerted the decisive leadership in these issues. In addition, this book provides a background on issues which still confront us and a new perspective on Stevenson.

A professor of American civilization in the Maxwell School of Citizenship, Brown is a close friend of Stevenson and took part in both of his presidential campaigns.

Rebel," by Murray E. Seidler, is the second best selling book and is selling well all over the country, observed Mrs. Gantner.

A visitor to SU earlier this year, Thomas has been the Socialist candidate for president six times. This book is a full study of Thomas; his philosophy and his leadership of the Socialist Party.

It examines his work in the socialist movement from the time he joined it in 1918 through the 1960 presidential election. Furthermore, the author discusses the history of socialism in America, the impact of national and world events on the socialist program, and the movement's effect on American political and social action.

Seidler also explores the personality and capacity for leadership which Thomas possesses. Providing insight into the relationship of Thomas to his party, he also describes Thomas' efforts to reconcile the divergent factions of the socialist movement.

The author, an associate professor of Political Science at Wayne University, has a personal acquaintance with Thomas. Because of this friendship, Seidler had access to many unpublished papers relating to Thomas and the Socialist Party which he used in preparation of the book.

Other current releases of the SU Press include "Clifford Pinchot, Bull Moose Progressive," by Martin L. Fausold; "The Administration of British Foreign Relations," by Donald G. Bishop; and "It's a Democrat," the Political Career of David Bennett Hill," by Herbert J. Bass.

"The immediacy of the topics make these books excellent Christmas gifts," noted Mrs. Gantner.

Foresters Plan Sweetheart Ball

The annual Sweethearts' Ball of the College of Forestry has been scheduled for 9 p.m.-1 a.m., February 17th at the Sheraton-Syracuse Inn, according to Pete Bohm, dance chairman.

The Sweethearts' Ball is sponsored by the Wood Engineers' Club.

A main attraction of the semi-formal dance will be the selection and crowning of the Queen of the Sweethearts' Ball. Entry forms, will be distributed to all living centers during the week following Christmas vacation.

The Ball, which in recent years has been held at Drumlins Country Club, promises to be an even greater success than usual at its new location.

New Manuscript Collections Added To SU Library

Three new manuscript collections have been added to the University library, according to Howard L. Applegate, manuscripts consultant.

Included in the recent acquisitions are the papers of a noted American historian, a former University chancellor, and a Methodist minister who graduated from the Hill in 1909.

Lynn J. Montross, nationally known historian and author who died last year, is represented by his correspondence, book reviews, manuscripts of articles for the Encyclopedia Britannica and a file of published and unpublished articles.

Best known for editing a five-volume history of the United States marine operations in Korea, Montross wrote seven other books between 1923 and 1951. The manuscript collection was given to the University by his widow.

The papers of Charles N. Sims, who served as chancellor for a three-year period beginning in 1881, are important to the Uni-

Rush for Home Begins Friday

Thousands of students are planning to head home or to the Liberty Bowl late tomorrow afternoon at the start of the Christmas vacation.

Public transportation facilities are readying for the expected homeward bound traffic. Temperatures, reports the U.S. Weather Bureau, will be seven to ten degrees below normal for the next few days. High will be 35 degrees and low 21 degrees. There will be snow flurries and squalls but no heavy snowfall is expected.

University dormitories close at 5 p.m. Friday and will reopen at 8 a.m. on Tuesday, January 2. Classes resume at 8 a.m. Wednesday, January 3.

American Airlines has added three special flights for the busy weekend, two of which are to New York. One flight leaves Syracuse at 1 p.m. on Friday, December 15. A later plane leaves for New York from Syracuse at 5 p.m. on Friday.

One special westward flight stopping at Rochester, Detroit, Chicago and Dallas, leaves Syracuse at 4:45 p.m. on Friday. Students wishing seats for any of these flights should call American Airlines for reservations immediately.

Eastern Airlines has scheduled no return flights, but there are still seats available on the 1:20 p.m. and 5:20 p.m. flights on Saturday to Philadelphia. Mohawk Airlines has planned no special flights at all. Greyhound has no extra buses scheduled to run, but they will be put on as found necessary. The buses leaving for New York and Buffalo from the Corner Store will leave at 3:30 p.m. on Friday instead of the times previously mentioned. The New York Central Railroad is ready to add as many cars as necessary to all trains. An entire extra section will be added to train No. 50 which leaves for New York at 3:51 p.m. on Friday.

Record Established: Hill Cagers Suffer Ninth Straight Loss

By RON ROBERTS
HAMILTON—The Red Raiders of Colgate snapped their losing streak here Thursday night and thus helped Syracuse establish a new basketball record. The Orangemen got off to a very slow start, rallied three times, but fell short at the end, 70-62.

The loss, Syracuse's ninth straight this season without a win, broke an all-time University record for consecutive losses. Counting the overlap between this season and last the cagers have now gone to the post 14 times in a row without a win.

Syracuse plodded around the court for the first eight minutes of the game, unable to sink a field goal. Coach Marc Guley went with his regular starters for a clear majority of the game to wholesale substitution. At the 10 minute mark, trailing 20-8, the first team came back in and went most of the way.

King Plays
 The first Syracuse field goal was scored by footballer Don King, making his first start of the season. King sunk a layup just after the eight minute mark of the half.

Manny Klutshkowski led the first of the three Syracuse rallies. He tallied eight straight points and closed the Colgate margin to 22-18. Bob Duffy, Colgate's top man with 20 points, then led a Colgate spurt to give them a 32-23 halftime lead.

The Orangemen started ball-handling in the second half, and on their strong defensive play fought back into the game. They trailed by 41-40. Syracuse was never ahead in the contest.

Sophomore Bruce Corbett paced the raiders in fighting off this threat. Carl Vernick then got hot and brought Syracuse to within two, 59-57. Colgate then started holding on to the ball and was on top at the end, 70-62.

Vernick was top man with 21 points. Klutshkowski followed with 17 and King had eight. There was a lot of fouling in this rough contest. Syracuse scored 23 points on free throws.

The Orangemen play St. John's tomorrow night in New York City.

Bailey Tours Africa, Pakistan, Pakistan

Dr. Stephen K. Bailey, dean of the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs left the campus on Dec. 29 to supervise overseas activities of the Maxwell School in fifteen cities of Asia and Africa. He will visit India, Pakistan and several African states. He will be gone for one month.

"We now have Maxwell fellowships in eight countries of Asia and Africa," Bailey said. He added, "We also have a long-range program in Lahore, Pakistan to assist in the development of an Administrative Staff College for the government and the Maxwell School has special ties to the Indian Institute of Public Administration in New Delhi."

Bailey will explore a new research internship program that would take twenty graduates from Maxwell annually to India for work in American government agencies in New Delhi, Bombay, Calcutta and Madras.

The Maxwell School has established a pioneering interdepartmental committee on East Africa for teaching research and training efforts on the problems of newly developing Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika.

Last summer Bailey met with East African officials to explore ways in which Maxwell School might help strengthen public administration in Kenya.

One House on Pro, 7 Cases Pending

By AUDREY LIPPMAN
 One fraternity has been placed on indefinite social probation and seven others are being reviewed for infractions of university regulations, Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford announced Thursday.

Clifford said the violation of the house put on probation concerned the presence of liquor in the fraternity house at a social function and of women present above the first floor of the house.

Phi Ep Fraternity Robbed of $1,000

By ALAN MILLSTEIN
Junior Editor
 Over $1,000 in cash, checks and valuables was stolen from Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity, 423 Euclid Ave., during the Christmas recess.

Phi Ep Treasurer Robert Katzman reported the looting to the Syracuse Police Department and university Security Police Tuesday night.

Phi Ep brothers returning from the recess found cash and personal valuables missing from drawers and desks.

Syracuse police have issued a thirteen state alarm for the arrest of a Phi Ep employee who is believed to have committed the grand larceny during the vacation period.

The 30 year old houseboy, Joseph David, has been employed by Phi Ep since September. He was staying alone in the fraternity house during the vacation and was supposed to be cleaning and doing general repairs, the brothers told police.

The police manhunt for David, whose right arm is amputated at the shoulder and who also limps, extends through the Eastern seaboard. He was believed to have bought a Greyhound bus ticket for New York City, Tuesday night, police said.

Security police told the Daily Orange that they had been called by a houseboy in connection with breaking in on December 19. The officers found David living in the house and he reported to them that he had heard the breaking in but nothing was stolen.

Police believe that David fabricated the breaking in story in order to make an alibi for himself. University police reported they found only one set of footprints in the fresh snow leading from the back door to the side porch.

Fraternity members reporting missing items included Norman Herman, a $70 transistor radio; Dale Cohen, $15 in change; Fred Lovell, $5 in pennies; Benjamin Brown, a new Royal typewriter; Steven Abramson, two wrist-watches and an electric shaver.

Also missing was a ten pound can of cooking oil. The House reported that the houseboy had sold the fat back to the original supplier for about $10.

A safe on the first floor dining room was left untouched. "Joe (David) would have done us a real service if he broke open the safe since we lost the combination several years ago," Mitch Pullman, house superior said. "I guess Joe knew that it contains just some old softballs," he added.

Student Killed During Vacation

A Syracuse senior was killed Saturday, Dec. 30, by two cars on the New York State Thruway when he fell off an overpass near suffern.

A School of Forestry student, John H. Conklin, 21, was on route home from a party at 3 a.m. Conklin and a few friends were on the bridge when Conklin lost his balance, fell over the fence, and was hit by two oncoming cars.

The Dean of men or the alumni Interfraternity Council will review charges against other houses in the near future, Clifford said.

No Coeds
 The conditions for the house placed on probation include no coed social functions on or off campus, in or out of Syracuse; no group replacement of invitations for social functions of other university organizations; no group participation in inter-fraternity competitions such as intramural sports and boat competitions; and no group representation of the house publicly as a fraternity in good standing at Syracuse University.

Besides these conditions, Clifford announced his office has added an additional requirement to the house's pledge class. Pledges are normally required to have a 1.0 average and not be under any disciplinary probation. Clifford has also announced that his office give its pledges an exam prepared, administered and scored by his office.

Pledge Exams
 The focus of the exam will be on the history, traditions, and philosophy of the fraternity, both local and national, and the history, traditions, philosophy, rules and regulations of Syracuse University, stated Clifford.

When the fraternity registers the social functions it will be permitted, members will be required to submit an evaluation of the function. This will be used when the case comes up for review. Clifford said the earliest the case may be reviewed will be May 1962, for reinstatement in the fall 1962 semester.

Clifford also stated that his office has reviewed a case concerning drinking in a fraternity house but not at a coed function. A decision will be given soon, he added.

Don't Drink
 Three fraternities will be reviewed next week for violations of the university rules on drinking at pledge parties. The drinking rules include no drinking in any university building as an official fraternity group at social function where drinking is permitted.

Clifford also mentioned three other cases to be reviewed by the Alumni IFC for infractions of rushing and pledging rules.

Miss Stoumen Editor

New DO Staffers Named

By JEANNIE LANOV
Junior Editor
 Senior Eileen Stoumen was elected by the university Board of Publications Dec. 14 to succeed Sam Giroux as editor-in-chief of the Daily Orange for the 1962 spring semester.

Opposing Miss Stoumen for the post were seniors Michael Eppinger, Robert Seowald and Giroux. The naming of a new editor was greeted by the resignations Wednesday of senior staff members Kenneth Norwick, editorial director, Kenneth Durling, sports editor, and Eppinger, managing editor.

The three told Miss Stoumen after she was appointed that they would remain with the paper next semester.

However they said during the Christmas vacation they made individual decisions to resign for various personal reasons.

Six senior editors appointed Wednesday by Miss Stoumen have been temporarily approved by Dean of the Journalism School Wesley C. Clark, but need final approval of the entire board.

The post of managing editor resigned by Eppinger has been taken over by Seowald.

Brenda Potenza replaces Norwick as editorial director, and junior Milton Joffe will serve as sports editor, replacing Durling.

Nancy Potnick takes the post of executive editor, previously held by Seowald, and Janet Caserio replaces Miss Stoumen as entertainment editor.

The last time a DO editor-in-chief did not complete two se-ministers in his post was the 1955-1956 school year. Editor John Johnsrud was replaced at the end of the first semester, also by a coed, Polly Reed.

Most years the incumbent editor is the only applicant for his own job at the end of the first semester, and is re-appointed. However, all qualified students are eligible to apply.

Giroux told the Daily Orange that he was aware of some dissatisfaction among members of the Board of Publications, but not among members of his staff.

Norwick said he resigned because "the DO under Sam was an excellent publication and his replacement was entirely unjustified." He said he hoped that in the future students would be allowed to select their own editor (Continued on Page 8)

A New Year Resolution

The Daily Orange has been the object of a number of changes since before Christmas vacation. However, this situation cannot alter the primary function of the newspaper.

Replacement of the editor-in-chief, with subsequent changes in the other senior staff positions, does not mean that the campus will lose the voice which the Daily Orange has been over the years.

The main ideal of the Daily Orange as a student newspaper has not changed. We are here to present news of the campus and insight into the news of the world. That is our primary function.

The newspaper is not the voice of one group. It must represent all factions at Syracuse University. Any paper which tries to represent the interests of only one group at a university this size must fail.

It must fail because it is not fulfilling its job. It will fail because the campus support which it needs will be lacking.

But we feel that campus support will not be lacking for the newspaper we intend to publish. The Daily Orange will be the kind of voice for the campus which we feel has been missing for a long time.

The Daily Orange will be a strong newspaper. But we realize that strength must be tempered with responsibility. Crying out loudly against some wrong must only be attempted with a full view of the facts and an understanding of the problem as a whole.

Issues which are taken up must not be forgotten in the rush of everyday events. If something is worth writing, it is generally worth following up to make sure that what has been undertaken is completed.

The editorial column of the Daily Orange will be the place, the only place, for the opinions which the paper holds on the problems which are bound to arise in the new year. The news columns will be objective and give coverage to the many sides which each issue necessarily has.

We will publish a newspaper which is of interest to the campus at large—a newspaper which will uphold the ideals of Syracuse University and the many people who are a part of it.

Back To Reality

After the shrieks of "I'm so glad to see you" and "how was your vacation" have died in the halls, students settle down to the schedule which they left last year.

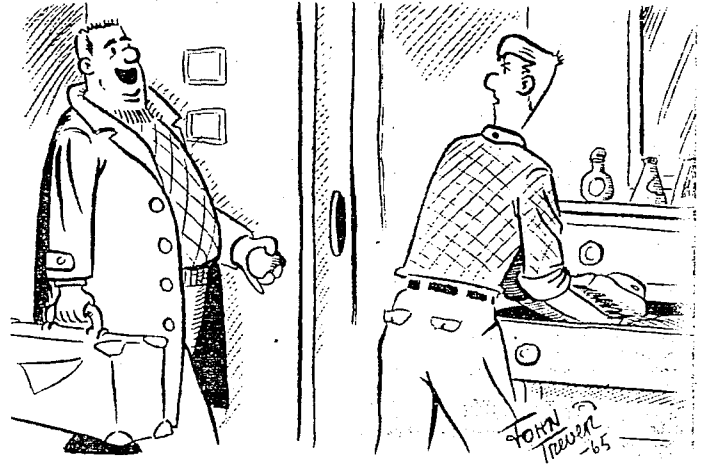

The return to routine which began Wednesday as students filtered into classes is a sign that the long haul to final exams is a reality.

Although ice covered pavements and early sunsets set a mood of gloom and forboding, all is not lost.

Students can look forward to a new year and the end of the first semester. To seniors it is the end of their scholastic career. To freshmen it is a chance to prove that first semester progress can be duplicated. The juniors and sophomores regard it as just another semester.

The Daily Orange staff sees 1962 as a chance for a new staff to prove that it can succeed. Producing a newspaper daily is not an encounter which people decide to undertake on a whim.

As a newspaper the Daily Orange has a duty to perform during 1962. We shall attempt to fulfill our responsibility. We offer our readers our best wishes for fulfilling theirs.

"Ho, ho, ho. Guess what I got a Christmas job as."

TV Or Not

To the Editor: I wish to applaud Jan Griffin's bright-eyed espousal of that sad, sluggish electronic medium, television, recently printed in the "Daily Orange." It is heartening that someone wishes to expend the energy necessary to play Florence Nightingale to this sick medium; however, I feel Nurse Griffin has merely slipped us an aspirin rather than attempted to cure the cause of the pain.

Television has been hailed as the magic eye in the living room. Magic eye or tragic eyesore... It all depends on the point of view, whether you are in front of the set or whether you stand behind it and stare for what is being shown. A person with an ugly scar on his forehead may be aware of it, but if he avoids mirrors, he is spared looking at it, and thus fares better than those around him. TV's masters play a similar role.

Quality programs don't pile up the ratings! If the mass has the tastes of Attila the Hun and the discrimination of a newly weaned orangutan—too bad! It's not their responsibility to lead their audience to greater understanding! A show with a message? Bah! Leave the messages to Western Union! Why should they be concerned; they're fulfilling their mission—they're selling their products.

Miss Griffin says "People who turn their backs on TV should have the grace to give it a decent chance. A thorough inspection of the program schedule will turn up many good programs..." This is true. I expect even Ghenghis Khan and Lucretia Borgia had something to recommend them... they reduced the birth rate, but what a way to deal with the population explosion!

I can't share Miss Griffin's gloomy concern that "the person who shuns TV will not stand shining above the crowd and will be left out of the stream of life." Her sentiments are spacious but her reasoning is specious. She infers that a person who doesn't follow the mass mind of the sheep herd (by buying and watching TV) is an outcast, yet in the same breath, she denigrates this person because he does not stand "shining above the crowd." Make up your mind Miss Griffin, do you want an individualist or a conformist?

Miss Griffin speaks of "illumination of the mind." The average person with a good crop of gray matter doesn't usually turn to TV for illumination of the mind. Granted that there is an occasional oasis of cerebral stimulation in that vast Sahara of inanity, but the expanding mind doesn't turn to TV for its intellectual kicks. These are more apt to come from the printed page which can be pored over, reread, studied, dissected, and countless reexamined if desired. Try doing that to TV. TV is like perfume, a temporary assault on the senses, but fleeting and impressionistic.

SWEETNESS AND LIGHT

Problems of the Press

By KENT L. BARWICK

Today there is a new DO. Former Editor Sam Girgus was not reappointed to his post, and in protest many of the other editors resigned. The Board of Publications which meets every semester to appoint students to publication posts, need give no reason for not appointing Sam, even though such a move is unprecedented in recent Syracuse history, and at the most a rarity in the past.

The reasons probably are that under Sam's editorship there occurred some inaccuracies which should have been, and could have been, prevented. In this light Sam has no complaint. However, we the writers and readers do.

The power of the press is unlimited, and therefore its responsibility great. If it is inaccurate, or misleading, or libelous then it is criminal. The Board of Publications was right to be critical of instances where Sam and his staff slipped up.

In spite of his mistakes, Samuel Bruce Girgus was the best editor that Syracuse could have for its Daily Orange this year. An editor needs more than proficiency in writing and a thorough knowledge of the mechanical and printing processes.

But how Sam is gone, and with him all but two of the Senior Staff. In their place is Editor Eileen Stoumen and Bob Steward, managing editor, and a handful of inexperienced but eager newly appointed editors, junior editors, and staffers.

The Board of Publications has placed in front of these people an almost impossible task. And no matter how hard they try, inexperience and lack of staff is bound to cripple their efforts.

For this reason alone Sam probably should not have been replaced. But yet who knows, perhaps Eileen and Bob, and Bruce Anspaeh and Milt Jaffe and the new people can carry the baton that Syracuse counts heavy for its Daily Orange this year. They say that people rise to responsibility, and perhaps the great challenge will eventually provide some worthwhile results. This may be undue optimism considering the present sorry state of affairs, but what other course is there? As the new Editor said to her tiny staff, "We've got a paper to get out."

EDITOR'S NOTE: We respect columnist Kent Barwick's right to comment on the new editors of the Daily Orange, but feel we must correct certain factual errors which appear in the above column. The Daily Orange has replaced the three senior editors who resigned. The paper has lost only one other staff member. No new junior editors have been appointed as of the present.

Schoff Leads Frosh To 3rd Win, 79-52

By ALAN KORT

HAMILTON—The Syracuse freshman basketball team got back on the winning track Thursday night by whipping the Colgate frosh, 79-52. Phil Schoff paced the victors with 32 points as they boosted their season's record to 3-1.

Schoff teamed up with Eric Weber early in the game to put the Tangerines out to a 14-11 lead. The game see-sawed around that margin for the next few minutes until Schoff once again hit a hot spurt and the rangemen started to break way.

At the half Syracuse led 40-32. Schoff had exactly half of the range points, scoring his 20 arkers on corner jump shots and rebounds.

Syracuse kept pulling away as the second half got underway. This time Weber led the attack with eight quick points. At the halfway mark of the final stanza, he visiting five led 64-44.

At this point coach Mare Culey started substituting liberally. The team was under orders to play possession ball and work until they came up with a good shot. His strategy proved effective as he led opened up to 71-44 and filled a lot of time.

Dick Duffy did a good job as playmaker during this stretch. Duffy was on the home court of his brother Bob, the spark of the Colgate varsity.

The Syracuse spares played the Colgate five on even terms until the buzzer to bring home their initial win of the 1962 portion of this year's state.

Schoff's 32 point total marks the second time in four contests he has passed the 30 mark. Weber also scored well, chipping in with 15. He played a strong defensive game, holding Colgate's top scorer, Ed Munther, to 13 points. Weber also grabbed off 16 rebounds. "Beetle" Bailey, playing an outstanding board game, had 17 rebounds.

PIONEERING

Somewhere out there, beyond the realm of man's present understanding, lies an idea. A concept. A truth.

Gradually, as it comes under the concentration of disciplined minds, it will become clear, refined, mastered. This is the lonely art of pioneering.

In the Bell System, pioneering often results in major breakthroughs. Planning the use of satellites as vehicles for world-wide communications is one. Another is the Optical Gas Maser, an invention which may allow a controlled beam of light to carry vast numbers of telephone calls, TV shows, and data messages.

Breakthroughs like these will one day bring exciting new telephone and communications service to you. The responsibility of providing these services will be in the hands of the people who work for your local telephone company. Among them are the engineering, administrative, and operations personnel who make your telephone service the finest in the world.

Syracuse Hosts Colgate In Home Hockey Debut

By BERNIE MACCALLUM
Inter-collegiate hockey returns to Syracuse Saturday evening as the Syracuse University Hockey Association hosts the Colgate frosh at the Coliseum. The face-off is at 6:30 p.m.

The Syracuse Stars will play the Kingston Browns in the second game to start at 8:30 p.m.

Student I.D. cards along with the 60 cent admission price will admit Syracuse students to both games as well as spectator skating after the double header.

The Piety skaters downed the Hamilton College junior varsity during vacation with a 2-1 sudden death overtime victory at Hamilton.

Brian Fitzgerald banged home the winning goal at 6:53 of the overtime period.

Both teams were scoreless going into the third period with the Orangemen scoring first a goal by Murph Kirkby on an assist by Bill McGruther, at 9:21.

Bill Woodin tied it up for Hamilton at 13:56 before Fitzgerald scored the winning goal.
Dick on Winkle had 20 saves in the Orange net while the Hamilton goal tender turned away 30 shots.

The Colgate frosh downed Hamilton 4-1 last week for their third win. The Red Raiders have beaten Cornell and St. Lawrence for a 3-0 mark.

Fred Robinson will return to the Syracuse lineup skating on the second line with Fitzgerald and Mike Esposito.

The first line will remain intact with Chas Hudson centering, Kirkby and Steve Eerni.
Jim Knight and Jack Brian will start at defense with Van Winkle in goal.

Tickets are being sold by team members on campus on an informal basis in fraternities and dormitories. They will also be available at the Coliseum.

The Kingston Browns who are currently in first place in the Kingston Senior league are playing the Stars for the first time this season.

The Syracuse semi-pro club will be at full strength with the return of their Canadian players.

The University skaters travel to Rochester Sunday to play RIT at the Rochester War Memorial.

The remaining games of the association are against collegiate varsities with the exception of a return game with Hamilton.

The Orange Skaters meet Rutgers and Ithaca in home and home series.

Winter Weekend the association plays host to Hamilton as part of the weekend activities.

A game with Franklin-Marshall and a return encounter with RIT round out the schedule.

Two Hill Teams Remain Unbeaten

Although the Syracuse basketball team couldn't shake its losing streak during the vacation, the other Hill teams met with better success.

The Orange swimmers took their third straight victory by topping Cornell, 50-45. The Syracuse gymnasts also remained unbeaten by defeating Navy, 55 1/2-40 1/2.

The only squad to lose was the wrestling team, which dropped a 22-2 match to an outstanding Lehigh team.

IF YOU'RE AN INTELLECTUAL, be thankful you're living at the right time. The climate of our contemporary culture is sympathetic to new voices, new ideas. The new age of enlightenment explains, among other things, the popularity of Luckies on college campuses. Deduce this yourself: Enlighten up a Lucky. As its heady aroma swirls about you, reflect on this profundity: College students smoke more Luckies than any other regular.

Summer Session Awarded Grants In Math, Science

The National Science Foundation has presented Syracuse University with five separate grants totaling $195,672 to be used in the area of mathematics and science teaching in summer session institutes, Dean of Summer Sessions William Cruickshank recently announced.

It is expected that 20 college teachers, 160 secondary school teachers and 20 scientifically inclined high school seniors will participate in the five programs, Cruickshank said.

Cruickshank also appointed the institute directors for each of the programs.

The largest single grant is $62,500. This will be used for the summer session institute in physics and chemistry for high school teachers. Sixty teachers will participate in the program which is now entering its sixth year.

Dr. William B. Frederickson, chairman of the physics department, is in charge of the program. A grant amounting to $51,700 will be applied to a summer institute for secondary school mathematics teachers. Dr. Robert Davis, associate professor of mathematics education will be in charge of this institute. Fifty teachers will take part in the program, now entering its second year.

Another grant of $60,700 is to be applied to the institute for biology high school teachers. In charge of this program will be Dr. John G. Burdick, assistant professor of education. This is the third year for the program. Fifty high school teachers will attend.

A $16,772 grant to be used as a summer science training program for secondary senior high school students of high ability was also given. This second year program will give 40 seniors college credit for the course.

Twenty of the seniors will take biology and the rest will take zoology. In charge of this program will be professor Alfred T. Collett, chairman of the department of bacteriology and botany science teaching.

An expected 20 college teachers will attend an institute in radiation biology. The grant for this program totals $14,500. In charge of this program will be Dr. Marshall W. Jennison, chairman of the bacteriology and botany department. This program will enter its third year.

The 1962 summer session at Syracuse University will be the 60th here.

Expect Chaplain Appointment

A New Hill Methodist Chaplain will probably be appointed within the next three weeks, Dean Charles C. Noble of Hendricks Chapel said Thursday.

Board Disciplines Dishonest Students

Disciplinary action has been taken against two students found guilty of cheating. The Liberal Arts Disciplinary Committee announced shortly before Christmas vacation that one student was caught cheating on an examination and that the other was caught plagiarizing.

Action taken by the Committee was similar in both cases. "In view of the evidence and the admissions made," both decisions stated, "the Committee recommends that the students (1) be given automatic F's in the course, (2) be suspended immediately until the end of the semester, and (3) the Scholarship Office be notified."

The student who plagiarized was put on probation until she achieves her degree at Syracuse while the student who cheated on the examination must apply for readmission to the Dean of Men and will be put on probation for the semester following his return to Syracuse.

Nursing School Dance Tonight

Drumlins Country Club will be the scene of the School of Nursing semi-formal dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. today.

Dick Kowell and his orchestra will provide the music for the dance. All students are invited to attend.

Tickets are $2.50 and will be sold at the door or may be obtained from Darlene Feinberg, Ext. 2643 or Jan Cooper, OL 5-9190.

It all started as a dream and a desire - a dream of a 58 year old jazz buff to have his own jazz club. Randolph Leonard has been a master chef for over 29 years, and has always been a jazz fan, and has talked for many, many years of starting his own jazz club. At last, his dream has come true.

Opening just last month, on the 22nd of December, the Jazz Corner at Fayette and Almond Streets, is in Syracuse is the culmination of much hard work by partners Leonard and Jim McKechnie. McKechnie is a former radio station owner and has long been a personality here in town. By pooling their resources and utilizing the talents of their many friends, these two gentlemen have designed and put together what surely will be one of the best of jazz clubs between New York and Chicago.

Here are some of the features of the Jazz Corner: The unbelievable quality of its food, which is top notch; the decor of its main dining room, which has a well lighted and convenient hand stand at one end, with the rest of the room being especially conducive to listening to good jazz and the eating of fine food.

Another feature of this room is a series of paintings of jazz greats which were commissioned to be done especially for the Jazz Corner by Robert Harmon. The subjects include Charlie Parker, Bessie Smith, Lester Young etc.

Assisting and encouraging the co-owners has been WONO-FM's jazz personality, Dan Wooley, who has done much to keep jazz alive in this area in the past 3 1/2 years. Dan broadcasts nightly from the Jazz Corner and in this connection, you'll be able to hear jazz from The Jazz Corner on not just WONO-FM, but two other stations as well, and all at the same time making stereo listening possible on Sunday afternoon.

Radio Station WSOQ featuring Ross Morton will start broadcasting from the Jazz Corner in two weeks, and soon station WQST featuring Nick Carter and Charlie Beckman will join in to make Sunday afternoons a real jazz treat.

Getting back to the club, it opened on December 21st with the Bill Evans Trio, and this week is featuring Gene Ammons. Next in line during January will be Sonny Stitt. It is hoped that the proper arrangements can be made bringing Sarah Vaughan, Art Blakey, and Jimmy Smith and others in the near future.

Yes, a long time dream has come true—the Jazz Corner at Fayette and Almond Sts. here in Syracuse is now serving fine jazz and fine food 24 hours a day.

New DO Editors

rather than have a board "controlled by administration and faculty" select him.

Eppinger had no comment on his resignation. Darling said he declined "the way the board handled the whole thing."

Miss Stoumen said she felt the DO was not being run "the way it should have been run" last semester. "It could have served the campus better than it did," she continued.

The new staff has responsibility for today's paper and the five remaining issues of the semester.

Miss Stoumen, 21, is from New York City. She has a dual history and newspaper major and a 1.97 cumulative average. A member of Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism fraternity, she was a reporter for the Buffalo Courier-Express last summer. Her Daily Orange beats have included Joint Student Legislature and the School of Journalism.

Miss Potenza, 21, a political science and newspaper major, has a 1.7 average. From Stamford, Conn., she is a member of Alpha Xi Delta. Last summer she was assistant to the society editor of the Stamford Advocate.

Miss Plotnick is from Lincolnwood, Ill., and transferred to the university last year from Stephens Junior College, Missouri, where she was assistant editor of the student paper. A public relations and history major, she had a 2.1 average and is a member of Pi Beta Phi and Theta Sigma Phi.

A Springfield, Mass., resident, Miss Caserio, 21, is an English major. A member of Pi Beta Phi, she transferred here from Lasell Junior College in Boston.

The Misses Potenza, Plotnick and Caserio have each had at least a semester's DO experience.

Language Dept. Receives Grants

Graduate fellowships for the study of Spanish and Portuguese, worth $4,000 a year, are available through the National Defense Education Act, according to Prof. D.W. McPheeters of the Romance Language department.

Courses will also be offered in anthropology, civilization, geography, history and literature.

The program is scheduled to start this summer. Awards may cover the summer session, the academic year 1962-63, or both.

Students desiring to study under the program must not be native speakers of the languages, according to McPheeters.

RING IN THE NEW

Are you still writing "1961" on your papers and letters? I'll bet you are, you scamps! But I am not one to be larsh with those who forget we are in a new year, for I myself have long been guilty of the same lapse. In fact, in my senior year at college, I wrote 1873 on my papers until nearly November of 1874 (It turned out, incidentally, not to be such a serious error because, as we all know, 1874 was later repealed by President Chester A. Arthur in a fit of pique over the Black Tom Explosion. And, as we all know, Mr. Arthur later came to regret his hasty action. Who does not recall that famous meeting between Mr. Arthur and Louis Napoleon when Mr. Arthur said, "Lou, I wish I hadn't of repealed 1874." Whereupon the French emperor made his immortal rejoinder, "T'piti que nous et tyler tu." Well sir, they had many a good laugh about that, as you can imagine.)

But I digress. How can we remember to write 1962 on our papers and letters? Well sir, the best way is to fix something memorable about 1962, something unique to fix it firmly in your mind. Happily, this is very simple because, as we all know, 1962 is the first year in history that is divisible by 2, by 4, and by 7. Take a pencil and try it: 1962 divided by 2 is 981; 1962 divided by 4 is 490-1/2; 1962 divided by 7 is 280-2/7. This mathematical curiosity will not occur again until the year 2070, but we will all be so busy then again. — Chester A. Arthur

Damage Minor In Mt. Accident

A car accident on Mount Olympus Thursday afternoon resulted in minor damages to two vehicles.

According to Security Police a car driven by Marvin Albert, a third year student in the school of Speech and Dramatic Arts, rounded the curve near the steps of Mount Olympus, skidded on the ice and struck a mail truck.

No charges will be made the Security Police said.

LA Dean Cope Says 'We Mean Business' On Student Cheating

By DANIEL RITEY

"There have been fewer cases of cheating this year than there were last year," stated Alfred H. Cope, assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts, in an interview Friday. People are learning that we mean business."

Remarking on the cases of two students recently convicted of academic dishonesty, Dean Cope explained their cases had been taken to a disciplinary committee consisting of himself, other deans, representatives from the Dean of Men's Office and Dean of Women's Office, and faculty members.

The two students in question were suspended from the university. "This course of action has been urged by faculty members and recently the committee has acted this way."

Less Credits and Money
Students who are convicted by the committee, Cope continued, are suspended from the university for one term. They forfeit all credits that they had been taking and, in addition, they lose money paid to the university.

Most of the students who are convicted, Cope said, are those who cheat and know they would fail if they did not. When caught, they usually confess and automatically flunk the course.

"I don't want people to think that ours is a sadistic outfit, but that ours is a realistic outfit," Cope said. "Once an offender serves his penalty, he can come back to the university. Usually one lesson is enough for most people. Occasionally, though, some cannot avoid cheating again."

All Kinds Cheat

Cope noted that there was no distinction among students who cheat. Cheating is evenly divided between boys and girls, freshmen and upperclassmen, he added. Referring to the two recently convicted students, Cope noted that the university is not planning to make examples of them. Rather, the student body should know the situation about cheating on campus. Names are being withheld, he added, because the two students may want to return to Syracuse.

Commenting further on this recent case, Cope said that the student who was charged with plagiarism had submitted a paper to his professor that was obviously copied. "The professor checked the paper against passages in his book, and discovered the dishonesty."

Floored

The student accused of cheating had brought a crib sheet in to an exam. After using it, he threw it on the floor, and was then caught, Dean Cope pointed out.

"I am not against the honor system for students who are taking exams," Cope said. "I would like to see it here, but I don't think it will be in practice at Syracuse for quite a while, until the students stop having different standards on cheating."

Cope noted that the discipline committee operated for the Liberal Arts students only. Other colleges have their own committees, he said. Furthermore, he went on, a person convicted of cheating who has a scholarship will have to re-apply, and is usually rejected.

Dean Cope concluded by noting that "we appreciate the co-operation of the Summer Orange and the Daily Orange in publishing these cases. We want people to be realistic as to what could happen concerning cheating."

Highlights

'Igloo Holiday'

Weather permitting, the traditional torch parade, ice pagant, snow sculpture, skiing events and hockey game will be held Winter Weekend, Friday and Saturday, Jan. 12 and 13.

Highlighting "Igloo Holiday," the annual "Stockingfoot" dance will be held from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Friday. Costs attending the dance will receive special 2 a.m. permissions.

Stockingfooted students will dance to Dick Cavelli's orchestra. Decorated stockings will be judged for funniest, most original and adherence to the weekend theme.

The weekend, dedicated to Dean of Men Earle C. Clifford opens with the snow sculpture contest, Melody in Ice. Snow statues based on musical themes will be judged at 1 p.m. Friday.

Winter Queen
After the 6:30 p.m. Torch Parade at Drumlins Country Club, torch bearers will provide light for the Ice Pageant, "Cinderella on Ice," at the Drumlins skating rink.

The weekend queen will be crowned before the pageant. Finalists in the contest are: Eve Kintish, Beverly Baker, Elsa Latouma and Donna Lee Temple.

Ski Competition
Intra-mural and inter-collegiate ski competition will be held Friday and Saturday at Labrador and Skytop. Teams from Army, Colgate, Cornell, Cortland, Hamilton, RPI and Syracuse will participate. Buses will leave 12:30-1 p.m. Saturday from the Men's Gym to take spectators to Skytop.

Registration Set For February 5-7

The alphabetical breakdown for registration is:

Hour	Monday Feb. 5	Tuesday Feb. 6	Wednesday Feb. 7
8:30-9:30	Wc - Zz	O	F1 - F7
9:30-10:00	Wb - Wj	N	Fa - F8
10:00-10:30	V - Va	No - My	F1 - F9
10:30-11:00	T - U	Ma - Mi	Do - D1
11:00-11:30	Sp - Sz	L	Da - Dy
11:30-12:00	Sg - So	L - J - K	C1 - C7
12:00-1:30	Sl - Sy	H - Hc	Ca - C8
1:30-2:00	Hi - Ho	Ha - Hi	Bo - B7
2:00-2:30	Q - Qc	Go - Gy	Ba - B1
2:30-3:00	P	Ga - Gi	A

Registration for second semester will be held February 5-7 in the Men's Gym according to Dean Edwin Smith, Registrar. Students whose last names begin with P-Z will register Monday, February 5; those whose last names begin with Ga-O will register Tuesday; and those whose names begin with A-F will register Wednesday.

All students except those in Liberal Arts and Fine Arts have pre-registered. This means that they have seen their academic advisers, have had their prospective schedule approved, and have filled out their IBM packet and DOS card. Those pre-registered students should report to the place indicated by their Academic Dean to pick up these materials only at the times and days listed below.

Liberal Arts and Fine Arts students must pick up their IBM packet and see their adviser at the times and days listed below. After seeing their adviser, they may then proceed to register.

Students who have pre-registered and who register at a time later than that scheduled below will be charged a $5 Late Service Fee. Students who should have pre-registered, but did not, and who register at a later time than that scheduled will be charged a $5 Service Fee in addition to the $5 Late Fee.

Liberal Arts and the Fine Arts schools have returned to the old method of registration in the hopes of making their records more firm and accurate, said Alfred Cope, assistant dean of the Liberal Arts school.

He pointed out that this past September a set were 7,000 add and drop cards after formal registration. Furthermore, two-fifths of the courses signed up for were not taken.

This situation arose for various reasons, Dean Cope continued. Some students changed their minds between last spring and registration; others were put on probation; still others attended summer school which caused changes in their planned schedule.

Dean Cope emphasized that the Liberal Arts office is doing all it can to insure prompt and rapid distribution of instructions concerning advising will be released next week by the office.

'Syracuse 10' Sales Higher Than Ever

More copies of the Fall issue of "Syracuse 10" were sold than any issue last year, Editor Terrence Hughes said Thursday. Total sales of the issue amounted to 1,800, while the most sold for any of last year's four issues was 799.

Hughes said 2,200 issues were ordered but only 1,800 were delivered. The shipment was scheduled to arrive on Tuesday, December 12, but did not appear until late the next evening. All copies were sold on campus by Thursday morning before any could be delivered to local stores on Marshall street.

Hughes expects increased sales with the next issue. He said that this year "we are experimenting with 'Syracuse 10.'" Last year the magazine was solely a literary outlet for the students, according to Hughes, but the "new regime" plans to comment on "things of importance to students on campus."

Depth Principle

Its principal function is to deal with matters "in depth," the editor stated. "Depth might offend," he added, so "we never publish an article without complete research." The material for the 12-page article, "Interference," Hughes explained, was gathered in two months by 34 persons.

Sales Important

Since the magazine appears only four times a year, ample time is available for sufficient research to "fairly" present the findings, he said.

"The recent issue featured exclusive interviews, with Frank Donay, author of 'The Un-Americans,' and his publisher Dick Ballantine of Ballantine Books. Also, a Hill undergraduate's story of his capture by East German police in Berlin this summer."

Many people have expressed disapproval with the new approach of the "Syracuse 10," Hughes said. They believe students are "apathetic to their own environment."

"But sales prove this is not true," he said.

And "we are appreciative" that the university administration does not interfere with the student publication, he said. "This gives us a responsibility that we expect to utilize and not exploit," stated Hughes.

This year's first issue of "Syracuse 10" contained 56 pages as compared with last year's 41 page average.

Last year's magazine received an "All-American" rating from the Associated Collegiate Press for the second year in a row.

'ON' Staffers Wanted

All students interested in working on the editorial, business, or photography staffs of the Onondagan can sign up any afternoon in the Onondagan office, Prefab 7.

Law Professors To Share Grants

Associate Professor John C. Huston will share a $300,000 Ford Foundation grant with five other law professors from American universities in a four-year program of international legal studies.

Huston will spend the next four summers in as many different countries—Sweden, Egypt, Pakistan and Argentina—making an analysis of the judicial systems of these nations.

Joining the Hill law professor will be teachers from Duke, Louisiana State, Miami and Loyola of Chicago.

WEEKEND TIX NOW ON SALE

Winter Weekend "Stocking-foot" dance tickets will be on sale from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today through Friday in the main lobby of Stadium Hall.

Wanted: Frosh Support

About half of the basketball season at Syracuse is gone. About half of the student interest was gone before the season started and the situation is not improving.

The Orange Varsity yesterday attained a record unequalled in the history of the sport at SU—losing its ninth game in a row. Although the Varsity hasn't displayed any good ball in the past two years, Hill fans assume the role of diehards too easily.

Attendance at the War Memorial tills would never reveal that Syracuse University has a colorful, winning freshman basketball team. The class of 1965 has been seeking recognition all year. "We have great class spirit," yell the enraged frosh. Yet, with all their school spirit, they are not supporting a club that has won three of four contests.

This year's freshman team is good; and they have a school spirit that cannot be found on any other athletic squad in the university. But with their good spirit and colorful ballplaying, the team lacks support. Less than 200 frosh, out of a class of over 2,000, regularly see the yearlings in battle.

Frosh games are no longer a preliminary to varsity games because many fans now realize that Marc Guley's frosh hoopsters are producing a better brand of ball than the losing varsity.

Basketball at SU has been on the downgrade for the past few years. Our clubs have not had the talent or the height to match the superior teams that we face.

But, give your team a chance, frosh. They are a great part of your class. In a scrimmage earlier this year, your class representatives beat the varsity handily, and it is your class that could give Syracuse, not a great, but a winning ballclub in the next two years.

But even a great team needs support—fans to cheer them on. Nine freshman games remain on the schedule and "your" club will be displaying a lot of good basketball. Take a look at this winning basketball team, and while you are there, take a look at what our varsity has to cope with—St. John's, St. Bonaventure, Fordham, Penn State, West Virginia, Canisius, NYU, Detroit, LaSalle, Manhattan, and Holy Cross. In fact, we admit that most teams that play us at present are better than we are.

Yes, the frosh team is good—and next year we could have a good varsity squad when the frosh move into the lineup. But one thing is still missing—support from a "good" frosh class for a team that echoes the spirit of the class of 1965.

Things certainly happen fast. At about 1 p.m. Thursday, Kent Barwick finished his first column of the new year. He discussed the plight of the Daily Orange. Sam Gligus was gone, he noted. So were Ken Norwick, Ken Darling and Mike Eppinger.

The staff was crippled, for it consisted of a handful of inexperienced but eager newly appointed editors, junior editors, and staffers. Moreover, the skeleton crew that Barwick thought he saw faced "an almost impossible task. And no matter how hard they try, inexperience and lack of staff in bound to cripple their efforts," Barwick predicted.

The unsuspecting columnist brought his work down to the Hellox, and after exchanging a few goodbyes, left. At about 3:30 p.m., Editor Eileen Staumen read Barwick's column aloud—to an office full of enthusiastic, hard-working staffers. They laughed.

The observations of the disintegrator of Sweetness and Light seemed hilarious. Un-known to Barwick, who spends very little time at the Hellox, the DO staff of underclassmen was almost complete. Only one former staffer was absent.

All the important staff members were back, and they were all ready to succeed in their almost impossible task.

But Barwick wrung his hands in despair, sounding very worried. "I feel that my staff is maintaining with the paper. He seemed to forget that a little courage and little integrity bring with them more strength than numbers. Fortunately, the Daily Orange was blessed with all three, courage, integrity, and stamina.

And since the staffers are highly competent newspaper people, Barwick's worrying seems to have been totally unnecessary. Anybody who thought the DO might fold simply because a few people were gone was a bit misled.

Individuals are not indispensable; especially when there are others capable of rising to the occasion to perform at least as well.

Kent Barwick can relax. The DO is hardly out of the woods yet, but it is meeting the challenge.

Talk Of Greeks

To The Editor:

Although the great controversy over fraternities has divided to members I would like to present the following facts about fraternities and sororities along with reasons for our interest. I feel that everyone on this campus, in cluding undergraduates, graduates, and the administration will find this stimulating and a little something on the really bright side of the Greek system. This might be considered a partial response to the article published in the recent Syracuse 10.

The Facts

1. Both fraternities and sororities are having the greatest growth in their history—in 1959-1960 alone 48 new chapters were installed by fraternities, 24 by sororities. In 1955, 39 new National Panhellenic Conference chapters totaled 288. This growth has been experienced by members of the National Interfraternity Conference and the National Panhellenic Conference, and four large national fraternities and four large national sororities in the National Panhellenic Council, whose membership is predominantly Negro. The loss of individual chapters like that of Alpha Tau Omega at Stanford, Sigma Nu and Beta Theta Pi at Dartmouth, has been negligible.

2. Now campuses opened to national fraternities and sororities in 1935-59 totaled 88; more have been opened since and will be in the years immediately ahead.

3. The reason why so many campuses are being opened to national fraternities and sororities is because their administrators and trustees have been convinced by administrators of Greek campuses that fraternal organizations may give many highly valuable contributions—raising standards in dress, social manners, general conduct, campus citizenship, school loyalty and so on.

4. Membership in practically all undergraduate chapters is high, making the total of collegiate Greeks today the largest on record.

5. The number of alumni groups throughout the nation is also increasing steadily.

6. The financial contributions of alumni today are at an all-time high. As a result, more chapters are being built than at any previous time. Millions of dollars are being provided for endowment funds and education, undergraduate and graduate. An increasing number of fraternities and sororities are providing thousands of dollars, annually, in support of philanthropic programs.

7. The great contributions of fraternities and sororities to the educational institutions of which they are a part is appreciated by most administrators.

8. Institutions which in a few cases have discouraged fraternities and sororities in the past are now encouraging them. The University of Chicago, for instance, is urging fraternities that have closed chapters there to reestablish them.

Fraternity and sorority chapters are the most effective agencies in training persons for life in a democracy. The undergraduate members not only elect their own officers to enforce the chapter laws that they themselves make and change, but as delegates in con- sultation they are responsible for national legislation.

The undergraduates with unusual ability meet the problems involved in feeding and housing chapters, men being built in through social activities of the group—collecting and spending the thousands of dollars necessary. In learning how to plan, work, and play with others, members later become better husbands and wives, parents, employees, employers and citizens.

By carrying on by chapters of helpful community projects through Help Weeks have won appreciation from civic, religious, welfare, educational and philanthropic groups.

The comparatively small size of chapters gives most members an opportunity for leadership.

Surveys show that cost of Greek membership today is not excessive and that on an increasing number of campuses living expenses of fraternity and sorority houses do not exceed, and in some cases are lower than living costs in dormitories.

College organizations do not limit themselves to persons from wealthy families. A large percentage of members earn part or all of their college expenses. Greeks today do not develop snobbery. Most sons and daughters of Greeks become Greeks when they attend college—evidence that the parents have continued faith in fraternities and sororities.

Records of practically every alumni association show that the percentage of alumni who contribute most generously to their alma mater in money, leadership, and participation is much higher among those belonging to Greek-letter organizations than those among non-Greek organizations.

The give and take of chapter living is the best preparation for success in marriage. Evidence of this is the remarkably low percentage of divorces among fraternity men and sorority women.

Personnel men, who visit campuses in an effort to secure top students for their organizations, highly evaluate members of Greek organizations.

Social fraternities are the oldest adjuncts in the history of American higher education. They and the sororities have persisted through the years. They have been and are the most effective agencies for training men and women for life in a democracy, giving them profitable experience in living and working together in group leadership, in facing and solving group problems, and in building life-long friendships.

If this information on a scale with the negative that has been weighed recently, and see the scale take a spin for the positive side. As for this information, most of it didn't come from my own experience from more reliable source.

Columnist Replies To Critic's Letter

By JAN GRIFFIN

Friday's Daily Orange printed a letter to the editor that accused me of specious reasoning, and then took television to task with such glowing phrases as: "I expect even Genghis Khan and Lucretia Borgia had something to recommend them," and then the graduate student author worked in Attila the Hun and a newly weaned orangutan. What sober words, what thoughtful comparison!

A quick trip to the Journalism Building exposed the old and weary fact that "J. Riedel" is a journalism student. The pattern is threadbare, for TV is used to loud but empty words from the print media.

Mr. Riedel asserts, "it all depends on the point of view, whether you are in front of the set or whether you stand behind it and stand for what is being shown." I ask Mr. Riedel if he stands for the scandal sheets that pollute the flow of good journalism. I think the answer would be no.

I don't support bad TV programs, and I won't watch them. I do stand for the good entertainment, news, sports and information, in short, the fun, relaxation and stimulation that does exist on TV. As for the people in front of the set, I hope a feeling that Mr. Riedel is not one of them, and I question his credentials to speak on the subject.

Part of the letter asked "Make up your mind Miss Griffin, do you want an individual or a conformist?", referring to my statement "the person who shuns TV will not stand shining above the crowd and will be left out of the stream of life." There is no virtue in not watching TV, remaining aloof on the theory that one will escape mind-rot. Living with and using to good advantage the artifacts of this century puts one into the stream of life, which Mr. Riedel calls "the mass mind of the sheep herd." It is the use of TV, not the fact of it, that makes sheep and individuals.

On what TV can offer, Mr. Riedel asserts that intelligent people don't usually get their "intellectual kicks" from TV. Just what is an intellectual kick? Intelligent people can and do get accurate, vivid information and good entertainment, and with increasing frequency.

The printed word remains for the future reference, but what T lacks in permanence it gains in immediacy such as the broadcasts of the space trips. Or didn't you see that piece of

Williams' Only Novel Makes Vapid Cinema

Despite the sensitive cinematic beauties of "The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone," now playing in town, and director Jose Quintero's admirable attempt at recreating the mood of Tennessee Williams' only novel, this picture cannot be described as anything more than vapid.

The greatest flaw in this cinema, without having to look deep, is that it has no substance. There are only a few characters here and one wonders what there is about them that justifies 104 minutes of film.

It is a fact that Vivien Leigh has an engrossing screen personality, but the trouble is there is more Vivien Leigh in this picture than Mrs. Stone. It also is a fact that Warren Deatty has made a slight name for himself in another film. Yet here he is a completely unbelievable and inept slicer Italian boy-for-sale. Are we actually expected to believe that a sophisticated American actress, who has lost neither dignity nor beauty, would fall in love with so clearly a false, affected, and insincere person as Paolo? Never once in this supposed escapism is her personality shown on the screen. It is only talked about. And so one is left with a feeling that there is only an idea of Mrs. Stone, a Mrs. Stone that does not exist in this picture. Perhaps the only true merits this movie has lie in the awesome interpretation of Roman atmosphere which Quintero has injected. But aside from this mood Tennessee Williams seems to be quite absent from this movie, perhaps because it was not adapted from one of his plays. Nothing has filled this void but a great many of pointless and unrevealing exchanges between people we would prefer to laugh at.

By MILT JOFFE
Daily Orange Sports Editor

TWAS THE SEASON TO BE JOLLY even though in many homes the light in the East was coming from the family television set.

Although we didn't make the New Years Day classes, Syracuse University was certainly not without representation during the vacation break.

First and foremost on the list (for the faithful) was the Liberty Bowl. The crowd was not too impressive but the brand of football played left the bowl committee and both schools participating nothing to be ashamed of.

The only fear that crept over us as we watched the uphill Orange fight was that we were watching a replay of the notorious Notre Dame-Syracuse contest. However, we were deprived the dramatic heartbreak of that game, and instead watched the powerful Orangemen silence all doubts as to their competence.

Admittedly, the Syracuse eleven was as cold as the Philadelphia weather in the first half but when they got rolling they were hard to stop. Ernie Davis showed the national television audience he was, indeed, the nation's best.

Dave Sarette also played an excellent game running the team and coming up with key calls in the second half.

But the hero's role was waiting for someone else. Co-captain Dick Easterly played the finest game of his career and was honored as the game's most valuable player. Dick made a vital, lunging grab of Dave Sarette's low pass for two extra points after the first Syracuse score. This catch enabled the Orangemen to go for the surer one-pointer off the toe of Ken Ericson, and thus win the ball game.

However, Easterly was making fine catches all day as he continually out-faked the Miami defense and took the show away from Miami's All-America pass-catcher, Bill Miller.

The scene changed two weeks later, but the starring role was still waiting for Easterly. The annual Blue-Gray game in Montgomery, Ala., featured four Syracuse stars as well as head coach Ben Schwartzwalder.

This was far from an exciting game and the Blue team lost, 9-7, but Easterly remained in the headlines. He was named the outstanding player on the losing team. He earned this honor the hard way.

Dick, a quarterback in his first three seasons, had been shifted to halfback by Schwartzwalder this season. However, in the Blue-Gray game Schwartzwalder lost both of his quarterbacks early in the game. Sarette, after leading a brilliant drive and scoring the lone northern touch down, suffered a shoulder separation. His replacement, Missouri's Bon Taylor, also was hurt after a few minutes of play, and Easterly was moved into his old position.

Although Easterly couldn't get the offense moving, his scrappy play earned him the support of the working press. One avid Syracuse fan we know considered the game Easterly's "finest hour."

Then the scene changed once more, this time we were in San Francisco and our lone representative was Ernie Davis. Davis played an excellent game. Perhaps he was spirited by the contract the Browns offered him.

Whatever the reason, Ernie was the best in the East's attack by far. However, the West's quarterback, John Hadl, stole the show and led the Westerners to the surprising upset.

You can't dispute the fact that Hadl was the game's most valuable player although Ernie lost no prestige.

The best game on New Years, in the midst of mis-matches, was the Texas-Mississippi contest in the Cotton Bowl. It was a good battle but the Texans were too tough. One question came up. Where was James Saxton?

Then there was Penn State in the Gator Bowl. The Eastern champ represented us well in topping Georgia Tech, 30-15, even though the statistics reflected a different game.

LSU, Alabama and Minnesota won as expected and not much can be added.

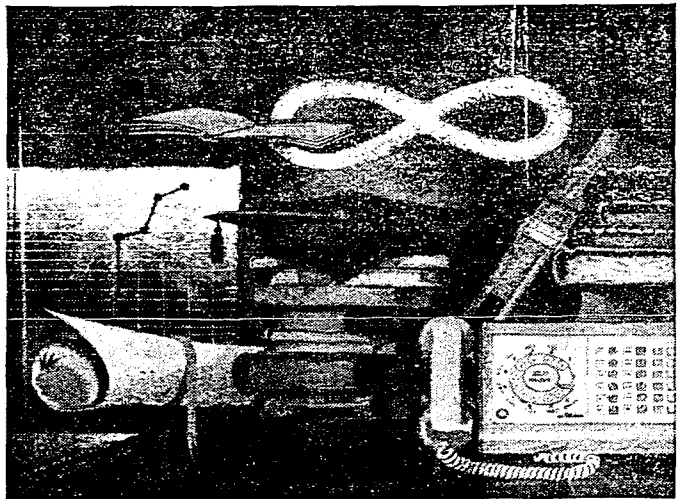

But a little town in Wisconsin became the football capital of the world as the Green Bay Packers humbled the New York Giants, 37-0, for the National Football League championship. This, we think, was the brightest of all the holiday lights.

Learning never stops for engineers at Western Electric

There's no place at Western Electric for engineers who feel that college diplomas signify the end of their education. However, if a man can meet our quality standards and feels that he is really just beginning to learn... and if he is ready to launch his career where learning is an important part of the job and where graduate-level training on and off the job is encouraged - we want and need him.

At Western Electric, in addition to the normal learning-while-doing, engineers are encouraged to move ahead in their fields by several types of educational programs. Western maintains its own full-time graduate engineering training program, seven formal management courses, and a tuition refund plan for out-of-hours college study.

This learning atmosphere is just one reason why a career at Western Electric is so stimulating. Of equal importance, however, is the nature of the work we do. Our new engineers are taking part in projects that implement the whole art of modern telephony, from high-speed sound transmission and solar cells to electronic telephone offices and computer-controlled production techniques.

Should you join us now, you will be coming to Western Electric at one of the best times in the company's history. In the management area alone, several thousand supervisory jobs are expected to open up to W.E. people within the next 10 years. And our work of building communications equipment and systems becomes increasingly challenging and important as the communications needs of our nation and the world continue to increase.

Challenging opportunities exist now at Western Electric for electrical, mechanical, industrial, and chemical engineers, as well as physical science, liberal arts, and business majors. All qualified applicants will receive careful consideration for employment without regard to race, creed, color or national origin. For more information about Western Electric, write College Relations, Western Electric Company, Room 6206, 222 Broadway, New York 38, New York. And be sure to arrange for a Western Electric interview when our college representatives visit your campus.

Everling, Frosh Wrestlers Impressive in Early Meets

By RON ROBERTS
If this is to be a rebuilding year on the Syracuse winter sports scene, wrestling coach Joe Scandura will be the first to admit it—and his rugged frosh matmen will be the first to prove it.

Paced by the outstanding work of footballer Gerry Everling, Scandura's yearlings ripped the varsity 20-6, and stopped the Colgate freshmen 20-13 in their only two meets of the season.

Everling decided Gary Sirota 8-2 in the 191-pound class of the intersquad tilt. Sirota is one of the highly-regarded members of the strong Orange varsity.

After winning easily in the Colgate match, Everling was entered in the Wilkes Tourney which is open to all. The big freshman from Chenango Falls, New York put on a dazzling display of matmanship, winning three of his four matches from outstanding competitors.

In his first challenge he pinned last year's small college champion at 191 pounds, and gave the same treatment to the defending Big Ten champion in his second test.

Everling made a few mistakes in his third match and dropped a close decision to the eventual tourney winner, then gained fourth place by shutting out his final opponent, 6-0.

Scandura calls Everling, who was undefeated in his last two years of high school, a wrestler "with real fine potential to be the Eastern or National Champion if he sticks to it."

But Everling is not the whole team. Scandura is very pleased with the work of all his frosh, Jim Nance, fullback on the freshman grid team, pinned Mel Powers in the unlimited class of the varsity exhibition, and Lew Roberts stopped Barry Raichlin at 177. Diminutive Terry Haise decided varsity grappler Larry Nealson, and John Dussing beat the sophomore Floyd Chandler at 157.

This was the first-year grapplers have ever beaten the varsity. Rounding out the impressive freshman mat line-up are Gene Inch at 123 pounds, Mike Mullicke at 137, and George Rogers in the 147-pound division.

Hill Foes Disappoint In Holiday Tourneys

While Marc Guley's winless Orangemen were suffering two setbacks in Detroit's Motor City classic Dec. 29 and 30, nine of their foes were having their own troubles in various other basketball holiday tourneys with seven of the nine ousted in opening rounds.

The Syracuse quintet drew host Detroit in their initial contest and a sound thrashing from the scandal-riddled Titans, 97-59, as All-American Dave DeBuschere scored 23 points for the winners.

A fired-up DePaul five, seething after their loss to St. Bonaventure (their first defeat) simply ran away from the Orangemen, 96-59.

Cornell shocked everybody by knocking off unbeaten Illinois at Champaign before suffering their first setback at Bradley. The Big Red continued to play steady ball by reaching the finals of the Queen City tournament at Buffalo before dropping a one-point decision to Drake, a Missouri Valley Conference power. Host Canisus was a first round casualty losing to Cornell.

LaSalle manhandled Dartmouth in the opening round of the Holiday Festival in New York before giving defending NCAA champ Cincinnati a battle in a losing cause, 64-56.

The two New York City powerhouses, St. John's and NYU let down the home folk by bowing to two Ohio fives. The Redmen were helpless as soph Ron Bonham hit 12 of 16 shots to pace the Bearcats to 97-68 victory. Dayton's height was too much for the Violets as the Flyers won by eight points.

Niagara, Penn State and Holy Cross all suffered opening round defeats in the new Quaker City tourney in Philadelphia. The Purple Eagles fell before eventual tournament champ Villanova, while the Nittany Lions and Crusaders bowed to Iowa and Penn, respectively.

Accrediting Team To View J-School

All regularly enrolled juniors and seniors in the School of Journalism must attend two sessions on Jan. 15 and 16 with the American Council on Education for Journalism accrediting team according to Dean Wesley C. Clark.

The team will be here to view the operations of the School of Journalism.

Sessions have been scheduled at 3 p.m. Monday, Jan. 15, and at 1 p.m. Tuesday, January 16, in room 202, Journalism Center. They will last from 30-45 minutes.

Journalism schools undergo accreditation every five or six years. Syracuse University's School of Journalism was accredited in 1954. Such accreditation helps build the reputation of the school and it is important that all regularly enrolled junior and senior journalism students attend both sessions, Clark said.

Psych Testing Set for Seniors

One hundred seniors in the Colleges of Liberal Arts, Business Administration and Engineering will receive four dollars for taking an experimental, multiple choice research project test conducted by the Psychological Research Center.

The test is scheduled for Jan. 13. Interested seniors should sign up between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. before Jan. 13, in room 102, Sims V.

Greek Opinion Split On 'Syracuse 10'

By AUBREY LITFMAN

"I would hesitate to deny that it is true," "It was a very poor article," and "I thought it was trite," were three of the many comments offered by fraternity men in regard to the fraternity article in the recent issue of the "Syracuse 10."

"These opinions were given by the Greeks in answer to the question 'What did you think of the fraternity article in the 'Syracuse 10' and do you think it helped to sell the magazine?'"

"It's the truth, but it presented a slanted viewpoint," said Winslow Welter, vice-president of Psi Upsilon. Welter felt that the story did not show enough of the good aspects of fraternity life and that it did not help the fraternity system on campus.

Accurate Portrayal

Kip Livingston of Sigma Nu, said he thought it was a very dramatic story and he had encouraged others to buy copies of the magazine. "I would hesitate to deny that it is true," he added. "I won't say who they had in mind but some do those things," he added.

Paul Herd, a member of Phi Sigma Delta, claimed that the story was stupid and trite. He said that as a member of the IFC, he knew that the reference to fraternity presidents was completely untrue. In his opinion, "the article was a waste of time and not worth the paper it was printed on."

"The story was excellent because it brought out both good and bad points, facts which should be brought out," stated Michel Pullman, president of Phi Epsilon Pi. He also said that the magazine was excellent and sold itself. "Sales were not augmented by this story," he added.

Pessimistic View

George Logan, president of Zeta Psi, felt that the story presented the point of view very well, but it didn't help to sell any issues. "Hazing does and will continue to exist and this controversy has no effect on the people coming into the fraternity system," he said.

"I feel that the fraternity system will die because the people entering college are not interested or willing to give the time needed. They are concerned only with themselves."

Carmen DeVoeli, social chairman of Delta Kappa Epsilon, said he thought the story was good, although he felt that the authors had confused a lot of issues. In spite of this, he said that this was the best "Syracuse 10" he had seen.

"I feel that the story helped 'Syracuse 10' to increase its circulation, but too much of it was one sided," said Carl Mannella, vice-president of Sigma Chi Psi. "They stressed only the disadvantages and weaker aspects of fraternities and this was very poor," he added.

Prof Discusses Gov't Functions

By DANIEL RITEY

Current governmental structure is ineffectual in its dealings with certain problems relating to our vast industrial society, said Dr. Roscoe C. Martin, professor of political science, at Monday's Citizenship 1a lecture in H. B. Crouse auditorium.

Consequently, new structures must be devised to handle these issues, Martin stressed.

If discussed the emergent, industrial urban society of the United States. There is no rule in a democratic society, or any society for that matter, Martin went on, and that rule is change.

Justification
"Government justifies itself by its work," Martin said. There is no inherent reason for its existence, he went on. No government is good if it doesn't work for the people—in a democratic society the government must work for the people, he explained.

"Government must be held accountable to the people. One that is not accountable to the people is a dangerous and wicked thing," Martin added.

Martin touched upon the expansion and size of the U.S. government. "Growth of government in the U.S. is a reflection of the change from a rural agrarian society to an urban industrialized society," he said.

Regulations
"Furthermore," Martin continued, "almost everything we do is regulated and facilitated by government." In 1921, he noted, there were 87,000 units of government in the U.S. These units included state and municipal governments and school districts.

Dr. Martin also considered two types of problems that deal with regionalism, and the shortcomings of the government system in dealing with these problems.

The first one, he said, was the rise of great cities. "Practically all the population growth experienced in the last 30 years has been in and around great cities; rural portions of the U.S. are dying."

Population Growth
"We don't have a unit of government which is competent to deal with problems of cities," Dr. Martin said. "Government does not reflect the 85-90 per cent of population growth which is in cities."

Martin listed some problems of urban life which the government has not yet dealt with: transportation; waste disposal; police protection; water supply, and major administration.

Water supply was the second major problem which Martin discussed. He stated that most people living in the eastern part of the country do not consider the problem of a water shortage. This (See Government, Page 8)

SU Enrollment 24th in Nation

Syracuse University, with a total of 19,048 full time students, stands twenty-fourth in the nation, according to figures released by Dr. Garland C. Parker, registrar of the University of Cincinnati.

First in the nation is the University of California, with a total of more than 87,000 full-time students. City University of N.Y. is second with 81,708 students. The State University of New York stands third with 36,000.

Enrollment at more than 1,000 accredited institutions now totals 2,257,921.

New Paint, Lights, Mark Hill Library Overhaul Plan

"You can't write your name anymore on the walls with your finger," Theodore H. Ryberg, assistant library director, said about the University Library's former dust-coated walls. They are being repainted in light colors, he noted.

Relighted and repainted corridors and rooms are completed features of the Main Library's face lifting. Other changes are 12 study carrels on the third floor east corridor, water coolers and improved branch libraries.

Florescent lighting in the periodical room, three classrooms, the catalogue and other corridors has replaced dimmer incandescent bulbs. Ryberg said new furniture had complained of poor lighting.

The reserve book room and several corridors have already been repainted. Seven pieces of over-stuffed furniture and furniture are being reupholstered. The room will also be painted.

A tour of the library showed that well-lighted third floor corridors are study carrels (individual desks) with comfortable chairs and reference materials for library science students.

Considering the Main Library's planned renovation, Ryberg said, "all improvements we have made are (See Library, Page 6)

SCHEDULE OUT FOR FINALS

The schedule of finals, released by the Registrar's Office has been posted in the Hall of Languages, The Citizenship In and English. It will be given Saturday Jan. 20 from 8 to 5 p.m. and 8 to 10 a.m. respectively. The remainder of the finals in the Liberal Arts school will be given through January 30.

The schools of Business Administration, Education, Home Economics, Journalism and Sports have scheduled their first term Jan. 22 to Jan. 31. The last exams, given on Jan. 31, will be in education, food and nutrition, insurance and production management. The first semester Art and Architecture schools have not released their schedules.

AWS Speaks On Panty Raid

By SUSAN WEINBERG

The Association of Women Students has released a statement concerning last month's panty raid and coed behavior.

The text of the statement reads: "In considering the actions of coeds during a recent spirited occasion on campus, it seems advisable to discuss conduct of women students at such times. Some reminders now might come in handy later. Who knows what the spring will bring!"

Registration Revamped For Spring

Registration procedures for next semester have been revamped in order to facilitate more rapid and efficient scheduling, according to Dean Alfred H. Cope, of the College of Liberal Arts.

Liberal Arts students with no problems except the selection and approval of courses should go directly to the offices of their advisers. They should report at the times scheduled alphabetically on Feb. 5, 6, and 7.

For those who have forgotten their advisers, juniors and seniors should go to their major department office; freshmen and sophomores should consult the Liberal Arts office.

See Advisers First

An important change this semester will eliminate student's standing in line to receive their Dean's Office Schedule cards (DOS cards). Each adviser will be supplied with enough DOS cards to distribute to each advisee when in reports to the adviser at the appointed time.

Each student should completely fill out the front and back of the DOS card, have the card signed by the adviser and then take the card to the lobby of H.B. Crouse Hall, where tables will be set up for upper and lower division students.

Upon presentation of the completed DOS card, the student will receive his IBM packet.

Neither Liberal Arts nor Registrar's checkers will not be (See Registration, Page 8)

John Birchers Open Reading Room in City

By ALAN MILLSTEIN

Junior Editor

The John Birch Society, the far right controversial political organization, opened a reading room in downtown Syracuse last week.

Using the name of its official publication, American Opinion, the Birch society has called the Syracuse headquarters, the "American Opinion Library of Syracuse Inc.," 161 E. Onondaga St.

Located in the Dorset Hotel, across the street from Hotel Syracuse, the American Opinion reading room is a small, attractively decorated place where visitors are invited to purchase books or periodicals.

The librarian on duty Friday afternoon refused to comment to the press on the opening of the new room other than to say that "This is a venture on the part of American Opinion magazine to provide literature specifically on Communism which would be of interest to Syracuseans."

No information was available concerning the founders of American Opinion magazine, the directors or employees of the Syracuse reading room or the future plans of the Syracuse venture.

The paid advertisement in the Post-Standard last Friday announced the opening of a reading room stocking a comprehensive selection of books from an Americanist viewpoint.

First Sorority House

Vernon Cottage Doomed

By JOAN HOFFMAN
The first sorority house hits the dirt next week.

So that the Newhouse Communications Center can go up, Vernon Cottage, formerly the Alpha Phi house, must come down.

Mace and Parker colleges also fall for progress "The first minute the wreckers are ready" said Miss Mary Andrew, Director of Dormitories. "Almost all the furniture is out."

Private Presentation
Some stained glass windows and carved pieces would go to the officers of the Alpha Phi's campus chapter in a private presentation at Vernon tomorrow.

Why pay rent? Use the money to build one's own house. That was why 207 University Pl. first went up.

About a dozen could live in. For $5,200 in lot and construction costs, the directors owned a first chapter house at S.U. and the first sorority house anywhere. That price pinched 1986 purses. For a long time the house was short dishes when company came to dinner. Guests meant the girls wheeled a baby buggy to alumnae homes to borrow good china.

The chancellor's wife admired the lovely china collection when gazing at the house one night. "We think it is pretty," one girl said. "We collect it piece by piece."

Furnishings came from a $50 fund and alumnae attics. Town first shipped in. Curtains came from Dey Brothers, and a hall rug from McCarthy's (now Edwards).

A pound of carpet-rags went to every girl to sew into a rope over summer vacation. They became the dining room rug.

Going through the house, a Psi U alumna said, "Well, if the Psi U boys would be content to have chapter house 100."

Still, the fraternities were interested. They had climbed all over the house before the doorbell went in.

Chancellor Sins presided when the corner stone was planted. He saw "in this evolution of Syracuse University life, the solution of the students' home problem."

S.U. had no women's residences then, and very few women students. Only about 10 years before, the school had moved to its new suburban site.

In the $25 cornerstone were copies of the Daily papers, the University Catalog and by laws of the chapter. All went to Alpha Phi's present house years ago.

The University bought the building in 1940 for a sometimes classroom building, sometimes residence.

The last residents vacated this fall, protesting to the administration that they wanted to stay together.

"Let's remember these three things: (1) Your actions are a reflection of yourself. This is true on all occasions even spirited ones. Therefore, conduct yourself in the manner in which you wish yourself to be regarded.

(2) A coed's conduct should be based on taste and discretion. (3) No occasion excuses a lack of discretion.

"It seems fairly certain that not a girl at Syracuse would reach into her laundry bag on the way home from doing a wash and do anything of her underwear, even if someone asked for them.

"The excitement involved by multiplying the group and making the hour later should not offset the actions of Syracuse coeds."

"AWS released this statement," commented Nancy Davis, president of AWS Standards Board, "because the panty raid involved the conduct of women students. Since this is the first time since we have been on campus that such an incident has occurred, we felt that some statement should be made because we had no frame of reference to rely upon."

"This statement is only a reminder," she emphasized. "It is not intended as an edict or an encouragement. For this reason it was written in an informal manner."

Other student organizations have been considering the effects of the panty raid. A meeting held Monday in the new Joint Student Government Office, 907 University Ave., delegates from JSG and the junior and senior honorary societies met to formulate policy about the raid.

"No official statement could be made," stated Betsy Evans, JSG president, "because a statement of damages is not yet available."

"I feel that the issue is not the pros and cons of the panty raid, but rather whether the raid should even be discussed," she continued. "If it were not the sick and tired of discussing the panty raid, but if the administration tries hard enough, we might be able to drag it out to an all year issue."

While the administration con- (See Panty Raid, Page 6)

ZBT BROTHERS GET HEE HAW FROM PLEDGES

A pledge prank last Friday night at 805 Ostrom Ave. left the brothers of Zeta Beta Tau with 500 pounds of stubborn muscle on their hands.

As the story goes, the ZBT pledges rented a mule from a local stable and then left it on the sidewalk floor of the fraternity house last Friday night.

The brothers, upon awakening Saturday morning, found themselves with a formidable problem.

Later in the afternoon, after much pushing and prodding, the pledges returned the mule to the stable.

AWS Under Fire

By JEANNIE RANOV

The Association of Women Students has issued a new and laughable decree warning coeds not to respond to solicitors of undergarments.

So here we go again, group, with a campus organization extending its influence to an area that should be marked "no trespassing."

We thought when the old Women's Student Government went under and AWS was set up that there would be an end to the finger-shaking acton.

We hoped, as one of our columns last fall noted, that AWS would concern itself solely with clerical functions, because we maintain that these coeds should be given no authority to dictate moral standards to the coeds of this university.

It is just plain not up to them to worry about such things.

Actually, the only reason AWS does concern itself with standards is because it seems to serve as an arm of the university's public relations department.

Why the ban on slacks and shorts for coeds (which incidentally has been flouted with impunity since its announcement)?

Because such attire "looks bad" to visitors to our campus, not because AWS is worried about coeds' morality per se.

Why a "grimacing" wearing coeds for their lack of discretion during a "certain spirited incident"?

Because said incident was picked up by the wire services and made the Syracuse papers. Why be hypocritical about it, AWS? If you don't care what we do as long as it doesn't show, come right out and say it. Don't mask your concern for public imagery with righteous pronouncements.

You know the way so many students complain about administrative cabal on liquor, demonstrations and cars. We really don't need student organizations also playing the parent role.

And now that you've issued your little statement, you'll be playing the martyr role too. We can already hear the mutterings about "administrative tools."

Not to mention the fact, girls, that you'll be laughed out of the club when everyone gets through reading that priceless paragraph about the laundry basket. But that's your own problem.

We much prefer the attitude of a couple of student leaders whose intelligence and judgment was respected.

They aren't jumping into this thing with foot in mouth. They are waiting to see just how much damage was really done. We are confident that any statement made by the groups they represent will not be based on the relative morality of a party raid.

Which brings us to the point of why the administration is asking for statements from student groups at all.

Did they expect Betsy Evans, Sam Farr, Brian Fitzgerald, Ginny Pivator, Beth Jensen, Dick Miller and Kent L. Barwick to wave white flags before the mob of party seekers and somehow coax hundreds of boys back to their dorms and houses?

None of the university or city police squad cars were doing anything to break it up, and, incidentally, several administrative people were also on the scene, just observing.

Let's be realistic. There's nothing anyone can do in such a situation but hope for the best.

So the administration can't possibly want Joint Student Legislature, Inter-fraternity Council or Panhel to explain why they stood by and let the raid happen.

What they do seem to want is to hold them personally responsible for an uncontrollable, spontaneous eruption of spirit. As one student leader has pointed out, the old anti-demonstration bill (and has or hasn't the new act been signed by the administration?) held the presidents of Greek houses personally responsible for the actions of all their brothers or sisters.

Are we going to have this irrational situation continue on a larger scale?

The raid was not the fault of the above-mentioned groups. They didn't start it, they're not responsible for the moral climate of the campus (if AWS must bring that in) and they're tired of hearing about it.

Let's let them off the hook.

— LETTERS —

Via Route 40

To the Editors:

Since the DO carried an article concerning the Route 40 demonstrations, I thought you might be interested in an article that appeared in the Baltimore Evening Sun paper, the editorial section to be exact.

"A few nights ago the Evening Sun reported a proposal to represent Maryland at the New York World Fair by setting up a typical Maryland restaurant. Bay oysters, terrapins, assorted crabs and other examples of native culinary delights would be served. It seems, however, that certain items were missing and I propose that they be included in the exhibit to make the picture more realistic.

"The visitors should be greeted with a framed copy of the Maryland trespass law which is being read by a waitress with great difficulty to the assorted hungry from all over the world; a couple of burly State Troopers should be dragging them to a trial by an all-white jury where they should be convicted and sent to jail; there they finally get to taste the promised sample of Maryland cooking.

"All this might be accompanied by large banners with slogans like 'All men are equal'.

'In God we trust', surrounded, perhaps, by a copy of the Fourteenth Amendment. Such a restaurant would indeed give a clear, concise, and representative picture of a Maryland restaurant."

Policy On Letters

POLICY ON LETTERS: The letters column is maintained for the expression of opinion by readers. However, the Daily Orange reserves the right to edit letters for grammar and good taste or to reject letters. Letters should be written legibly, preferably typed, and no longer than 250 words. All letters must be signed with names and addresses; names will be withheld on request.

IN A WORD

We give advice, but we cannot give the wisdom to profit by it.—La Rochefoucauld

Many a man that can't direct you to a corner drugstore will get a respectful hearing when age has further impaired his mind.—Finley Peter Dunne

On Cheating

Student cheating is nothing new. Wherever people vie for grades or awards, it can be assumed that someone will attempt to obtain them by fraudulent means.

But the administration of Syracuse University has a duty to its students. It must defend the rights of the students who spend long hours studying, writing papers and doing all the hard but necessary work which a college degree stands for.

To safeguard its standards, the administration has begun to take harsh measures against those who cheat. "We mean business," Alfred H. Cope, assistant dean of the college of liberal arts, said in a statement yesterday, and it should.

Dean Cope also remarked that the stricter policy has resulted in a lessening in the amount of cheating on campus. This is a positive result and speaks well for the new measures which have been started.

We do not want "star chamber" hearings at Syracuse University. Every student should be given ample opportunity to defend himself against charges of cheating, plagiarism and all other violations of university rules.

But once guilt has been established, the punishment should be sure and swift. If students understand the perils awaiting them if they are caught, they will be mature enough to abstain from such action.

Dean Cope said that he did not want to make examples of the two students who were apprehended cheating. But they must stand as examples. With these cases in mind, any student who cheats will deserve the punishment which the administration feels is justified.

Reason For Berlin

By HERBERT LANDE

The United States policy concerning West Berlin is firm. The modern industrialized Western sectors of Berlin have the commitment of the United States, Great Britain, and France to protect them at any cost. Central among the many agreed upon rights held by the United States and its Allies are protection of access routes to the City, the right to station troops there, and the right of free communication for West Berlin with West Germany. The above prerogatives along with the present political status of West Berlin are officially considered to be non-negotiable.

Policy Dangerous

This policy is dangerous. The implications of our stand are great. We are risking all-out war in order to back an indefensible position in a country responsible for the massacre of millions of people and the waging of two World Wars. Communism has advanced past Berlin, and therefore Berlin is not a strategic position in "containing" expansion of Communist territory and influence. It is questionable that we can correctly calculate how far the Soviet Union will go in this area, and we therefore continue to risk much.

As a part of our Berlin policy the United States favors the unification of Germany. Finding any common basis for an overall German settlement seems impossible.

The above have been discussed in favor of a peace based upon ideals, and seemingly a minimum of military strategic planning. However, this situation exists and since we have so strongly committed ourselves to such a policy we must support it.

What is the nature of our responsibility in West Berlin? Essentially this question strikes at the core of the matter. Are we militarily supporting these people out of a kind of free-world partnership to preserve German liberty, or are we merely extending our defenses? The answer to this question is complex, and certainly not clear. Certain aspects of the answer are important.

The world of today is different from that of fifteen years ago. There is a definite ideological difference between the competing sides. Each of the combatants are militarily potent and capable of causing swift mass destruction of the other. West Berlin stands on the edge of the West in this struggle. It stands surrounded by a sea of suppressed liberty and freedom. The Soviet Union naturally wishes to alter the political status of West Berlin. It seems to be difficult to isolate real American opinion concerning why we are defending our former enemies, but it is clear that we have taken Berlin to be an extension of our defenses.

All this seems rather fuzzy. The idealist approach to keeping West Berlin in the Western defense and risking everything to do so dominates our policy. Practical considerations are difficult to justify as defensible, but at the least we remain in Berlin.

The formulation of the Berlin policy is a product of our decision-making process. The burden of protecting and carrying out the policy is also shared through this process, reached through crisis. Even if it is hard to justify risking war for, we must defend our position under present circumstances. But, we must understand why we are in Berlin, and why we are remaining there.

Foreign Films Head Critic's 'Top Ten' Listing for 1961

BY JOHN E. GREENWALD
It seems to be the critical thing, these days of year for blency eyed movie critics to attempt to distinguish one vague image of a film from another and pick the year's ten best movies.

I don't guarantee you'll agree with our choices, or that we've seen all worthwhile competitors for an honored position in our columns, or that we even can think of ten films; but onward.

"BREATHLESS" was the most brilliant film of 1961, perhaps of the last decade. This story of the empty life of Parisian youth, told with imagination and an inventive "cubistic" style. Director Godard's camera beautifully mirrored the picture's theme.

"ZAZIE" was a wild French comedy, ranking up "Breathless" in genius and creativity. A combination of slapstick and animated cartoon techniques, it is a recounting of a brash 11-year-old girl's holiday in Paris. A film of visual "iron squinters," "Zazie" may make little "common" sense, but its sense of humor is superb.

Federico Fellini's "LA DOLCE VITA" has been discussed, perhaps overdiscussed, in these and other columns. But the essential validity of its theme, and quality of expression cannot be denied. Admittedly, after the third or fourth episode we got the impression we had been there before. But if watching "La Dolce Vita" was like watching a race horse on a treadmill, it was a beautiful race horse.

Jerome Hill's "THE SAND CASTLE" was probably the best American film we saw last year. Etched in an almost whimsical humor, the film depicts an afternoon spent by a lonely boy as he builds a sand castle on a beach. The boy's imagination, through the castle, dramatically changes the on-lookers' lives for a brief but beautiful moment.

"SATURDAY NIGHT AND SUNDAY MORNING" a British film, explores the aspirations and angers of a lower middleclass factory worker. In graphic detail we see this gruff man in a major and minor affairs and intrigues; and we wonder if he can ever really nellow and "settle down." This is a fine social documentary.

"FROM A ROMAN BALCONY" another exercise in toman corruption, is in some respects superior to "La Dolce Vita." Lacking the scope and coming splendor of the latter, "From a Roman Balcony" has depth and character development that proved to be one of "La Dolce's" shortcomings. A toman youth rambles up and down an ironic, often degenerate, often stupid society job unting.

Six down, four to go; and to be quite honest we can't think of four more films as worthy as the above. Admittedly, we were not able to see such reportedly worthy contenders as One, Two, Three... West Side Story; "Judgment at Nuremberg;" and the Japanese "The One of Blood." Not that these films would have gotten on our list, but it could have been nice to pad it out a bit.

It would, though, be an injustice to leave matters as they stand with six outstanding pictures for 1961. There were a number of films, of high overall quality, with exceptional individual characteristics.

Robert Rossen's superior direction of the pool room sequences in "The Hustler," immediately comes to mind. So does Sophia Loren's and Pamela Brown's fine personas in DeSica's otherwise unsuccessful "Two Women."

One Act Williams Play Opens at Lively Arts

On the main, Tennessee Williams' first plays were minor preludes to his later, mature plays. "This Property Is Condemned," an earlier one-act play of his which appeared at the Lively Arts Friday night, contains many theatrical echoes of the plays that have made Williams one of our foremost playwrights.

This one-act, though, is perhaps too direct for most tastes. It lacks poetic subtlety, and generates no stark appreciation for its theme and subject matter of decadence. And yet, for all the play's inadequacy, the players at the Lively Arts have handled it with taste, and, in centering attention to the characters, rather than the weak dialogue, have succeeded in arousing sufficient interest in the play.

After a weak start, the performances of Bonnie Cousins as the young girl turned prostitute and Stuart Dillon as the boy she meets on the road, were in contrast to each other, one apathetic, the other emotional (as in most of Williams' plays). Thereby, a very artful mood was generated, underlining the theme of loneliness and separation.

An excellent script and top acting, marked the British-American production of "The Mark" (no pun intended).

Also of note were the high pitch battle scenes in the German "The Bridge," and the musical scores of "Blood and Roses," and "Something Wild," the latter by Aaron Copland.

As we look over this column, and our individual reviews of the past year we are a bit amazed as to many films we REALLY like after all. It's curious that many films are so fragile. Though we like them when we wrote our initial reviews, a few months later we become hard pressed to think of even ten exceptional ones.

Miss Cousins' interpretation of the girl was extremely appropriate. She conveyed with great directness the girl's wandering in a kind of twilight zone, the emerging from adolescence to womanhood. We see the girl as distraught, almost sick, for she is drowning in a sea of decadence from which she cannot withdraw. Circumstances and immaturity have made her a victim of that twilight zone.

Without overdoing the mood of "This Property Is Condemned," Irene Golub, the director, has interwoven the elements of the performances, timing and emotional dynamics, in a sensitive manner.

Once again we must comment that the atmosphere of the Lively Arts Coffee House aids a great deal to these plays put on by the drama department. To the leisurely tempo of this relatively small anomaly on the Syracuse campus, and add to it adept performances by student actors, people who study as well as practice the craft, and finally utilize the works of some of our best playwrights, and you have for yourself a thoroughly rewarding evening. —R.L.

Second Concert Given by Kritz

The Syracuse Symphony Orchestra conducted by Karl Kritz presented the second concert of the season at 8 p.m. Friday in Lincoln Auditorium.

The program included Beethoven's 4th Symphony and the works of the later composers, Szymanowski and Rimsky-Korsakoff.

Violinist Roman Totenberg's interpretation of the First Concerto for Violin and Orchestra by Karel Szymanowski received long applause by the full hall of listeners.

Colgate Clobbers Piety In Home Hockey Debut

By BERNIE MACCALLUM

The return of inter-collegiate hockey to Syracuse saw the University skaters on the short end of an 11-1 score in a game with the Colgate frosh at the Coliseum Saturday evening before a crowd of 500.

The Piety sextet was out-checked, out hustled and out scored as two Colgate players scored hat tricks. Colgate forwards John McGonagle and Ed Graney each registered three goals.

The Red Raiders took a 2-0 lead with scores by McGonagle at 2:00 and Jim Neilson on a fluke shot at 7:40.

Lone SU Goal

Steve Bernie scored the lone Syracuse goal on a 20-foot slap shot on an assist by Chas Hudson at 11:53.

Brian Edgerly, Graney and McGonagle scored again before the first period ended with Bill Orange down, 5-1.

Van Winkle Injured

Defenceman Bill MacGruther replaced Gerry Dalain in the nets for Syracuse at the start of the second period. The regular Piety goal tender, Dick Van Winkle, was injured in practice Wednesday as a chipped ankle bone had him on crutches.

The Colgate frosh had little trouble finding the range on Dalain who had no previous goal tending experience.

The hat trick duo of Graney and McGonagle scored again in the second period with scores when the Orange were short handed.

Pete Stone was sent off for tripping at 3:40. Fred Robinson went to the penalty box at 4:50 for slashing to put Syracuse at a two man disadvantage. McGonagle's goal climaxed a combination of passes between Steve Riggs and Pete Nichols sending the Colgate center in on the net.

The Piety six gave indications of the hockey they are capable of playing with adequate goal tending support in the second period.

The Syracuse squad outplayed Colgate as the period ended forcing the Red Raider goal tender to make repeated saves.

The Orange skaters failed to keep the pressure on in the third period as Colgate netted four more goals.

Graney, Pete Nichols and Steve Riggs scored for the Red Raiders with Riggs netting two goals.

Colgate skaters swarmed around the Syracuse net as MacGruther did a creditable job in goal.

The Colgate frosh put 11 shots on the Orange net in a third period barrage. Graney's third goal was unassisted as he went in alone on MacGruther.

The injury to Van Winkle forced the cancellation of a Sunday night game with the R.I.T. varsity. The Syracuse club plays host to Hamilton Saturday evening with Van Winkle a hopeful starter.

Stars Win

The Syracuse Stars defeated the Kingston Browns 5-1 in the second game playing a very fine brand of hockey. The game was marked by the second period arrival of three Stars players from Ottawa who sparked the come from behind win.

Senior Fencers Pace Hill Team

When the Syracuse swordsmen take on the Big Red of Cornell Saturday at Archbold Gym, the Hill epee team will be seeking its ninth straight regular season victory.

Epee-men Ed Siedlick, Art Hacker and Bob Seewald won seven straight matches as a team last year, when they were juniors, and in their only outing this season, they noxed out Buffalo, 5-4.

The Buffalonians downed the Hill epee-men by the same score in a post-season encounter in Buffalo last season. The Syracuse epee-men also fended foil in that exhibition, however.

Tough Challenge

The Syracuseans' streak will be on the line against a tough Cornell outfit, however. The Big Red walloped Buffalo, 20-7, earlier this season. The Cornell epee team will also be seeking revenge for the 7-2 shellacking Syracuse gave them last year.

The Ithacans were highly touted and they were playing in their home grounds, but Hacker defeated them in three straight matches while Siedlick and Seewald each won two out of three. Cornell has a new coach this for them a few years ago.

Top Frosh

Hill Coach Alexander Dako meanwhile tabbed three Syracuse freshmen as outstanding prospects. Harvey (Jim) Schuman, Les Monostory and Jim Overguard were singled out for praise. The Syracuse frosh will fence the Little Red in a preliminary match.

Dako, who has been building his team around Siedlick, the captain, and Hacker and Seewald, expects his epee-men to make a good showing this year. Siedlick, a rangy southpaw from Valley Stream, Long Island, was the North Atlantic divisional champion last year, and is expected to gain additional laurels this season.

WAER Schedules Basketball Games

Radio Station WAER will broadcast the six remaining Syracuse University home basketball games, with the broadcasts starting at 8:23 p.m.

Programs usually presented at that time will be pre-empted. The station will start its new series of broadcasts with the play-by-play of the Syracuse-Buffalo game tonight at the War Memorial.

Other games which will be broadcast are Orange contests with Cornell, West Virginia, Canisius, Colgate, and Niagara.

The schedule:

- Jan. 9 Syracuse vs. Buffalo.
- Jan. 15 Syracuse vs. Cornell.
- Feb. 17 Syracuse vs. West Virginia.
- Feb. 20 Syracuse vs. Canisius.
- Feb. 24 Syracuse vs. Colgate.

NEW MAP DISPLAY WILL SHOW PILOT WHERE IN THE WORLD HE IS

No matter what the weather, speed or altitude, an IBM navigational display being developed will let pilots find their positions on a moving map. With this new computer display for planes, a pilot will actually be able to see his position though the earth might be totally obscured by a cloud cover.

In developing this display, IBM engineers and scientists solved a unique combination of optical and photographic problems. They were able to produce map images with good resolution on the inside surface of a glass hemisphere. A beam of light illuminates a small section of this hemisphere and projects it onto a screen in front of the pilot. In flight, the computer controls rotation of the hemisphere, correlating it with the plane's supersonic progress and the rotating earth. This approach to a computer-controlled map display suggests further application in a space navigation system, where a star map might be used instead of a map of the earth.

People with backgrounds in the sciences, engineering and liberal arts all contribute to the success of projects like this.

At IBM, ideas which create new products and systems can come from anywhere—from research, programming, manufacturing, and systems engineering. If you would like to work where your ideas can be as important as the ability to apply them to vital and exciting areas of development, you should consider the many opportunities at IBM.

The IBM representative will be glad to discuss with you the many areas in which IBM is making important advances. All qualified applicants will receive consideration without regard to race, creed, color or national origin. Your placement office can give you further information and arrange for an appointment. Or you may write, outlining your background and interests, to: Manager of Technical Employment, IBM Corporation, Dept. 908, 590 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y.

You naturally have a better chance to grow with a dynamic growth company.

IBM will interview Feb. 26, 27.

Cagers Seek First Victory Following Loss to Redmen

The Syracuse basketball team hosts the University of Buffalo cagers at the War Memorial tonight at 8:30. The Orangemen are still in search of their first win of the season and tonight's contest finds them in their best position for a win all year.

Buffalo has a problem similar to that of Syracuse, lack of height and experience. Nevertheless, they have compiled a 4-3 record so far this season. The Orangemen are still in search of their first win of the season and tonight's contest finds them in their best position for a win all year.

The Syracuse forces will be out to stop their current losing streak at ten. St. John's pinned that loss on the Orangemen Saturday night at the Redmen's Alumni Hall.

The smooching team had little trouble turning back the Orange, 84-55. Captain Kevin Laughey paced St. John's with 22 points. Their big man, 6-10 Leroy Ellis was kept in check by a collapsing Orange defense. Big Leroy scored only 12.

Soph Pops

Once again sophomore Carl Vornick scored the losses. Vornick popped in 15 points. Herb Foster tallied 10 points to be the only other Syracusean in double figures.

St. John's took the lead in the opening minutes and steadily increased it during the first half. At the midway mark of the game, they held a 51-29 lead.

Syracuse didn't play as had a game as the final score would indicate. The Orangemen were completely dwarfed by the giant Redmen. They outrebounded Syracuse 52-25. In fact, Ellis matched the Syracuse total all by himself.

Willie Hall and Ivan Kovac also hit double figures for St. John's, who now are in the season. Hall tallied 15 points, Kovac had 12.

Manny Klutschowski, Syracuse's tall man, had his troubles against Ellis. Klutch only hit for four points. Captain Fred Machermer remained in his slump, scoring only six points.

High Time

For the first time all season Syracuse will go into a game with a height advantage over its foes. Klutschowski will be the tallest man on the floor against the Buffalo team.

The Bulls had an excellent season last year, winning 18 and dropping only five. However, they lost all five of their starters so this season has been one of rebuilding. Their wins have come over Cortland State, Buffalo State and American International.

Their losses were suffered to highly ranked Villanova, 68-53; Assumption, 53-42; and Vermont, 68-56.

Shosho High

The top scorer for the Bulls is 5-10 guard Nick Shosho. The little senior is averaging 13 per game. Forward Gerry Filipps is scoring at a 12.5 per game pace. The rest of the starting squad will have 6-3 Bill Bilowus at center, Bill McEvoy and Dick Harvey, a pair of six-footers.

The Syracuse starting lineup hinges on the result of a Monday night scrimmage of sophomores against upperclassmen. The winners will start against Buffalo. The upperclass squad will have Klutschowski, Foster, Machermer, and footballers Don King and Mert Famer. The soph squad will have Vornick, Bob Murray, Jim Seaman, Bill Tyleman and Ken Wellman. The two squads will be platooned.

Grapplers Prepare For Pittsburgh Meet

By DAN GARR

Seeking their first dual meet win of the campaign, the Syracuse University wrestling team will journey to the Steel City this Saturday to grapple with a powerful Pitt aggregation.

Mentor Joe Scandura is of the opinion that the Orangemen are out to redeem themselves after a rather poor showing against Lehigh before the vacation. "The team was thinking about Christmas at Lehigh, but I think we'll give Pitt something to remember this week - we're too hard for a repeat of Lehigh," commented Scandura.

Although Piety is hard-hit by injuries, the meet will by no means be a shoo-in for the favored Panthers. In the lower weight classes, SU has solid representation paced by Gary Sirota (167 lbs) who was third in the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association last year.

But in the weight classes from 177 lbs and up, Scandura's charges will be lacking in depth. The key man on the sidelines is Bob OrNSTein, who may be out indefinitely, pending a knee operation.

Other casualties are Captain Howie Meyer and soph Jim Murkin, both of whom should be returning to action soon.

Perhaps the most interesting match of the contest is the pairing of Sirota against Pitt's Harrison, who placed second in the E.I.W.A.'s last season.

The Panther squad is the expert's pick on the basis of 2-

E.I.W.A. champs, 2 runners-up, and 1 frosh champ in their first line. But don't count the Orange out.

This past Saturday, the mentmen took on Oswego State in an exhibition match. The matmen crushed State 31-0 before 100 fans in Archbold Gym.

Syracuse triumphed in every decision to pull off the whitewash on one of the best Oswego squads in recent years. The Upstaters generally win two or three matches in this annual exhibition, but the Piety apparently had little difficulty in notching the win.

Coach Scandura was pleased with his team's showing; not only for the victory, but also for the meet's value as a way of working off excess poundage acquired over the recess. At a recent practice, Scandura affirmed this by stating, "We needed conditioning!"

In addition to the team triumph, junior Bertel Greenhigh turned the tables on a high school and college nemesis by dropping State's Williamson from the ranks of the unbeaten.

Frosh Face Bulls; Seek Fourth Win

By ALLAN KOFT

Marc Guley's frosh engers will be out for their fourth win of the season against one loss tonight as they take on the Buffalo yearlings at the War Memorial at 6:30.

The Orange squad has compiled wins over the Ithaca College frosh, the Morrisville Argyle and the Colgate frosh, while losing only to Cornell.

Schoff Top Scorer

Jim Schoff, 6-3 forward who has broken the 30-point barrier in two of four contests, will lead the Piety against the Bulls. Completing the forward wall will be Larry "Beetle" Bailey and Eric Weber. Bailey has come into his own in the past two games on the boards, while Weber has been outstanding on defense. In the Colgate contest, Coach Guley gave Weber the dubious task of guarding Colgate's top scorer, Bill Munster. Weber held Munster to 13 points, half of his regular season average.

Teaming to direct the squad in the backcourt will be Dick Duffy and Fitzsimmons. Duffy will do the playmaking for the Hill.

Second Team

Pacing the second team will be backcourt specialist Bob Brown. Brown scored in double figures in the opening contest, but has seen little action since. Rounding out the second squad will be Jim Cripps, Bob Mohr, Luckman, and Dick Penn.

Coach Guley is expected to work his team on fast breaks on offense. The squad will use a sliding zone on defense.

A strong defense has been the key to the success of this year's squad. Strong rebounding by Weber and Bailey, fast break playmaking by Dick Duffy, and the sharp shooting of Jim Schoff have accounted for the fine 3-1 record.

The Tangerines had a three week layoff during the Christmas vacation, but opened the New Year strong, Thursday with a 79-52 over Colgate, and after three practices are ready for tonight's game with the Baby Bulls.

Five Home Games

Five more home games are on the frosh schedule. Visiting the War Memorial will be Cornell, Canisius, Colgate, and Niagara. The Piety Tangerines will play host to the Little Red of Cornell twice. On the road, Syracuse will face Niagara, Cornell, and Manlius Academy. The squad will undergo a three week break during the final testing period, playing its last pre-final game Jan. 16 against Cornell at the War Memorial.

Opinion Magazine, National Review and Human Events are available for reading or purchase. House Un-American Activities reports dating back to 1954 and copies of the Congressional Record are available for examination. A photo copying service is also provided.

American Opinion Magazine, with headquarters in Belmont, Massachusetts, is the vice of the ultra-conservative John Birch Society. Robert Welch, a retired Massachusetts candy manufacturer, is credited with founding the political organization.

The Birchers believe that the Communist conspiracy in the United States and abroad is more acute than the average American realizes. Available at the new reading room is a series of twelve pamphlets called "One Dozen Causes."

"We have assembled . . . inexpensive reprints of twelve different books each of which tells some part of the true history of the past thirty years," says editor Robert Welch in his introduction.

"Together they offer an education—compact and sketchy, but still adequate—in the methods, progress, and menace of the Communist device," Welch adds.

The 12 reprints are offered for sale at the American Opinion Library for $10 gift boxed. Individual titles are $1 apiece.

Among the titles available are: "America's Retreat from Victory" by Sen. Joseph McCarthy—the late Senator's fully documented story on Gen. George C. Marshall.

"The Kohler Strike" by Sylvester Petro—the whole story of the plot planned by the labor bosses in gradually destroying our great inheritance.

"Nine Men Against America" by Rosalie M. Gordon shows the Supreme Court under Chief Justice Warren allegedly destroying every safeguard which might prevent a Communist takeover.

Books available for reading or purchasing include some written by William F. Buckley Jr., Russell Kirk, E. Merrill Root, John T. Flynn, Edgar C. Butler, J. Edgar Hoover and Donald R. Richberg.

Hopkinson To Washington

The Rev. Arthur Hopkinson has left his post as chaplain at Syracuse University to join the Commission on Chaplains of the Methodist Church in Washington, D.C.

Chaplain Hopkinson has been in charge of the Methodist student program here for thirteen years. On Nov. 1, the Methodist Student Fellowship presented a "This Is Your Life" program in his honor.

Hopkinson, a Lieutenant Colonel in the Army Reserve, will not be acting in a military capacity in his new post.

Since November the Methodist program on campus has been operated by students and staff of the Methodist office. A new chaplain has not been appointed.

Chaplain Hopkinson served as chaplain with the Army during World War II. He received three battle stars and the Bronze Star. He has been in student ministry at Massachusetts State University, Iowa State College and SU.

Chaplain Hopkinson received his Bachelor of Religious Education and Bachelor of Sacred Theology degrees from Boston University.

Broadcasting Field Outlined in Lecture

The satisfaction derived from the impact of your own 15-minute radio or television program is so great that you'll never want to do anything else.

This opinion was put forth by E.R. Vadeboncoeur, president of WSYR Radio and Television at the freshman Journalism lecture in Maxwell Auditorium noon Friday.

The Syracuse broadcasting executive spoke to the group on the varying aspects of the radio-TV field and his own personal experiences in almost all sides of journalism.

The job opportunities in the radio-TV field will never be as great as they are in the newspaper field, he said, but the rewards are better than any other media.

Speaking about editorials, Vadeboncoeur said editorial comment should not be compressed into brief one or two minute broadcasts, but should be vigorous and hard. He cited the example of WSYR when it was the only Syracuse radio station to carry on a campaign against the city sales tax.

"It was only by hitting this issue for three months straight that we succeeded," he stated.

In answering the challenge of pay television, he said expansion of the pay television system would entirely change the philosophy of television, turning it into a box office with advertising.

If pay TV were to become a reality in the American home, we would never see top actors, the World Series or a football game on free television, he predicted. Only second class and mediocre programs would be furnished to the free audience.

Vadeboncoeur concluded his talk with an answer to the charge that television is today a "wasteland." TV builds appreciation of the finer things such as production of "Macbeth," he said.

"One of the finest flowers ever to bloom in a 'wasteland,'" he observed, "was the coverage of Spaceman Shepard's flight last year."

times making bed checks of the men's dormitories, JSG will be concerned with trying to give Syracuse University a more academic atmosphere," she concluded.

The statement of the total damages will be released by the Offices of the Dean of Men and Dean of Women sometime this week, Miss Evans said. It will be sent in the form of a second memorandum to the student organizations currently studying the effects of the raid.

IF TOBACCO COULD TALK (and who is certain it can't?) it would beg to be placed in Luckies. However, we would turn a deaf ear. Only tobacco that can prove its worth will ever get in a Lucky. This may seem heartless—but it pays! Today, college students smoke more Luckies than any other regular. We'd never be able to make that statement if we listened to every slick-talking tobacco leaf that tried to get into Luckies.

Registration . . .

allowed to honor DOCS cards which are incomplete or upon which course changes have been made.

H.B. Course
The student will fill out his IBM packet in the H. B. Crouse auditorium and leave his IBM adviser's card at a check-out table on the stage. He will also bring a "headache" table. He will leave the building by the east door and then proceed to the Men's Gym.

Special Cases
The following students may enter the H. B. Crouse auditorium without waiting and should report at once to the upper division or lower division table on the stage. Students in this category include: transfers from other Syracuse University colleges; readmits to Liberal Arts, needing advisor assignment; students who must show arrangements for clearance of incompletes; those who wish to change their majors and advisers (upper division table only); those who want to change advisers (lower division table only); those who have petitions to take extra hours; those with miscellaneous problems, including applied music courses and permission to take University College courses; and those who, for some reason, could not obtain IBM packets at the auditorium entrance.

All these students are asked to cooperate by bringing copies of pertinent grade reports, receipts, clearance of incompletes, certificates of transfer, admission or re-admission, to assist speedy verification.

Transfer to L.A.
Students transferring from other schools and colleges within the university to the College of Liberal Arts should obtain and bring their IBM packets from their former schools, if they have not already been transmitted to the Liberal Arts office.

New students and transfers from other institutions should see Dean Holmes, 209 Hall of Languages, to initiate their academic advising.

The administration urges students to adhere strictly to the new procedures, so that the registration process may be carried out with a minimum of delay and confusion.

FROSH NEEDED FOR WEEKEND

Freshman Weekend Committee applicants must report at 7 p.m. tonight at the main entrance of the Women's Building.

Those who are unable to attend should submit applications no later than Thursday, Jan. 9, at the main desk of the Women's Building.

Frosh Accepted At West Point

Syracuse freshman Richard Maxon has been appointed to the United States Military Academy. He is enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts, and was named as principal appointee by Congressman Walter Reuther.

Maxon, a graduate of the Mastus School is a resident of East Syracuse. He also attended the Braden School, Cornwall-on-the-Hudson. He will enter West Point in July of this year.

TTK EXAM

Statement Issued To Student Groups On 'Demonstration'

A joint statement was issued Tuesday by Dean of Women Marjorie C. Smith and Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford concerning the damages incurred during the December 3 party raid.

The statement included a memorandum to Joint Student Government, Interfraternity Council, Panhellenic Council, Lambda Sigma Sigma, Eta Pi Upsilon, Orange Key, Tau Theta Upsilon and Phi Kappa Alpha. The statement of damages reads: "Sometime late in the evening on Sunday, Dec. 3 some fraternity groups in the Walnut Park area chose to hold an impromptu pep rally.

"There were a variety of motives behind the pep rally; some to do with the football team, some to do with an erroneously reported concession on the part of Notre Dame to the contested score of the Syracuse University-Notre Dame game, some to do with fraternity rushing.

"As the students proceeded from the Walnut Park area to the University place—Constock avenue junction, students poured out of Watson Dormitory and DeWitt Hall and, as is typical of mob situations, the nature of the activity was reinterpreted—this time into a party raid. The party raiders, in general, proceeded to Stair, then to Mt. Olympus, then to the Constock area, then to Walnut Park and finally again to Mt. Olympus where, sometime after 2:30 a.m. the group gradually dispersed."

"The entire course of the demonstration, the raiders were actively encouraged by women students in both dormitories and sororities. The demonstration was so ended if it were not for such encouragement. Estimates of the number of students participating vary but it is doubtful that more than 800 students were in the rowing group at any given time.

Investigation

"Members of the Dean of Men's staff and the Dean of Women's staff, many of whom had observed the proceedings first hand, spent the next several days investigating reports of damage, injury, misbehavior and complaints. Conferences were held with those students whose behavior was observed to be injurious to others, injurious to themselves, or not in keeping with University rules and regulations.

"As a result of these conferences, three students were referred to Student Court. One student withdrew from the University before appearing at Student Court, primarily for academic and personal reasons. The second student, who had entered a women's dormitory, was reprimanded by the Court and required to report to them in writing each week regarding his progress and behavior. The third student who had demonstrated ungentlemanly behavior was similarly reprimanded."

"The party raid was a major disturbance and without question many students who were attempting to study and sleep were unable to do so until well after 2 (See Demonstration, Page 7)

AEPi Suspended; Liquor Rule Cited

By AUDREY LIPPMAN

Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity has been suspended for violation of the university drinking rules for the second time in less than one year.

Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford stated that there was little choice for discipline since AEPi was on social probation for an earlier violation of the policy on alcoholic beverages. The second violation occurred on the night of Dec. 16, 1961, and the morning of Dec. 17.

"After week-end conferences with undergraduates, alumni, and the national executive

House on Social Pro In Drinking Violation

Earle W. Clifford, Dean of Men, has announced that a fraternity has been placed on social probation for holding a pledge beer party.

The conditions of the probation as defined by Clifford are that the fraternity submit its spring semester social calendar in detail for approval by the Dean of Men's Office.

In addition, Clifford said the pledge class of this fraternity is placed on rigid social probation. Pledges will not be allowed to attend any coed functions sponsored by the house or any other campus organization until they have qualified for initiation.

According to Clifford, the Dean of Men's office plans an extensive evaluation of the pledges' progress during their training in accordance with the above conditions.

"We will review the status of the fraternity when the pledge class has been submitted as ready for final examination for eligibility," Clifford stated. "We expect solid academic performance as well as the absence of personal problems from the pledges," he added.

"This fraternity is one of the recent cases on violations of university regulations that have been brought to Clifford's attention. Other fraternities will be reviewed soon for violations of the drinking rules."

Three other fraternities will be reviewed by the Alumni Inter-Fraternity Council for infractions of the rushing and pledging rules in the near future, as announced by Clifford in a statement to the Daily Orange Jan. 5.

WINTER HOP TIX ON SALE

Winter Weekend "Soledad-foot" dance tickets will be on sale from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today and Thursday in the main lobby of Student Hall.

Also students interested in decorating for the dance on Friday at Drumlins should contact Katy Antony at Pi Beta Phi, ext. 2689.

secretary of this fraternity, this office confronted Pi with two alternatives, both involving suspension of this chapter from campus," stated Clifford.

Alternatives

The alternatives offered by the Dean of Men's Office were either for all current members to "graduate" to alumni status with the national fraternity and the new alumni to be given one semester to develop a new group and regain the charter, or for the present membership to retain itself in "colony" status with all fraternity privileges removed except living together and seeking new members.

The fraternity accepted the second choice with only one dissenting vote.

This suspension means that all fraternity activities including participation in Inter-Fraternity Council, inter-fraternity athletics and other competitions, it will lose its board table and eat in Watson Dining Hall beginning next week. However, it will be allowed no social program involving coed functions.

Advisor Given

"In addition, in order to assist the fraternity in achieving its objectives, Clifford said, "Ralph N. Malveic, a personnel intern with the Men's Office, will serve as an advisor in residence during the spring semester. His role will be that of a resource person rather than a supervisor."

"The fraternity may seek students interested in accepting the challenges of the present situation," Clifford continued. When a group of students has been judged adequate in number and quality, the AEPi 'colony' may request the privilege of pledging them, he said.

Clifford said that in order to qualify for reinstatement of the charter, the 'colony' must have successfully attracted and trained an adequate pledge class by June 15. A review of the status will be held whenever these conditions are met.

At Maiss, newly elected president of AEPi, stated "I presented the two alternatives to the brotherhood and was proud and happy to see that they unanimously (See AEPi, Page 8)

New Theater Opens

Boar's Head Stages Lorca Tragedy

By JOHN MORGAN

Boar's Head Dramatic Society will present "The House of Bernarda Alba" by the Spanish poet and playwright Garcia Lorca, tonight at 8:30 p.m.

G. F. Reidenbaugh directed the new tragedy, which features Misses Miriam Levy as Bernarda and Marion Present as La Ponia, maid-servant of the household.

This is the first night for the Boar's Head theatre itself—a completely new semi-arena theatre designed by drama instructor Joseph Morton and built from scratch in three months' monastic labor by Boar's Head members and apprentices.

The play concerns Bernarda Alba's five daughters, tyrannically confined by their mother and deprived of the opportunity for romance. Lorca depicts the disastrous consequences following such confinement and deprivation. Bernarda, an upper-class Spanish widow, declares upon her household an eight-year period of mourning for the deceased. She strives to preserve the virginity of her daughters and thus maintain status quo among correct society.

"Bernarda Alba" thus involves two themes, popular since Sophocles: the curings of rigid social codes, and the agonies of barren women. "The main conflict is the static mores of society versus human nature," observed Miss Levy, who plays Bernarda. "Life isn't like that," she stated. La Ponia, who sides with the daughters, stands for the human nature element. "I represent Mother Earth," said Marion Present, who portrays La Ponia. Miss Levy was seen on the Boar's Head stage in 1960 as Desdemona in Shakespeare's

BLANCHETTE CARTIER (left), who plays Adela, and Esen Weigand (right), as Martirio, are two of the stars in the Boar's Head production of "The House of Bernarda Alba," being presented today through Saturday in the Drama Building. Current time is 8:30 p.m.

"Othello" and again last year in "Noah." Miss Present was seen as Mrs. Noah in the same production.

The five daughters of Bernarda Alba are Barbara Stone, Irene Golub, Blanche Cartier, Ann Hazzell and Elen Weigand.

"Bernarda Alba" cast also includes Ellen Joy Schindler as Maria Josefa, Bernarda's ghost-like 80-year-old mother who claims to have given birth to a lamb, and 23 "women in mourning."

The design of the new Boar's Head Theatre is concomitant with the current trend in drama away from the restrictions of realism. The audience is arranged in a semi-circle of rising tiers, as in Maxwell Auditorium, and looks down upon a virtual "pit of passion."

The intent is to extend the actors bodily—and with them their domain of Bernarda Alba—into the midst of the audience. The two-dimensional remoteness of a picture-frame stage performance has been discarded in favor of the new arrangement, which attempts to give the actors a three-dimensional living-sculpture effect.

IFC CHANGES MEETING DATE

The Inter-Fraternity Council has postponed its meeting scheduled for tonight until next week. A conflict with the 50th anniversary celebration of Chi Omega sorority has necessitated the change in dates, stated IFC President Richard Millor.

A short meeting will be held at 7:15 p.m. at the Sigma Nu house, Wednesday, Jan. 17. All presidents and representatives are urged to attend.

Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity has been suspended for violation of the university drinking rules for the second time in less than one year.

Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford stated that there was little choice for discipline since AEPi was on social probation for an earlier violation of the policy on alcoholic beverages. The second violation occurred on the night of Dec. 16, 1961, and the morning of Dec. 17.

"After week-end conferences with undergraduates, alumni, and the national executive secretary of this fraternity, this office confronted Pi with two alternatives, both involving suspension of this chapter from campus," stated Clifford.

Alternatives

The alternatives offered by the Dean of Men's Office were either for all current members to "graduate" to alumni status with the national Fraternity and the new alumni to be given one semester to develop a new group and regain the charter, or for the present membership to retain itself in "colony" status with all fraternities previous remains except living together and seeking new members.

The fraternity accepted the second choice with only one dissenting vote.

This suspension means that AEPi will be removed from all fraternity activities including participation in Inter-Fraternity Council, inter-fraternity athletics and other competitions.

It will lose its dining table and exit in Watson Board Hall beginning in February, and it will be allowed no social program involving coed functions.

Adviser Given

"In addition, in order to assist the fraternity in achieving its objectives, Clifford said, "Ralph N. Falwick, president intern in the Dean of Men's Office, will serve as an advisor in residence during the spring semester. His role will be that of a resource person rather than a supervisor."

"The fraternity may seek students interested in accepting the challenges of the present situation," Clifford continued. When a group of students has been judged adequate in quantity and quality, the AEPi "colony" may request the privilege of pledging them, he said.

Clifford said that in order to qualify for reinstatement of the charter, AEPi must first present a successfully attracted and trained adequate pledge class by June, 1962. A review of the status will be held whenever these conditions are met.

House on Social Pro In Drinking Violation

Earle W. Clifford, Dean of Men, has announced that a fraternity has been placed on social probation for holding a pledge beer party.

The conditions of the probation as defined by Clifford are that the fraternity submit its spring semester social calendar in detail for approval by the Dean of Men's Office.

In addition, Clifford said the pledge class of this fraternity is placed on rigid social probation. Pledges will not be allowed to attend any coed functions sponsored by the house or any other campus organization until they have qualified for initiation.

According to Clifford, the Dean of Men's office plans an extensive evaluation of the pledges' progress during their training in adherence with the above conditions.

"We will review the status of the fraternity when the pledge class has been submitted as ready for final examination for eligibility," Clifford stated. "We expect solid academic performance as well as the absence of personal problems from the pledges," he added.

This fraternity is one of the recent cases on violations of university regulations that have been brought to Clifford's attention. Other fraternities will be reviewed soon for violations of the drinking rules.

Three other fraternities will be reviewed by the Alumni Inter-Fraternity Council for infractions of the rushing and pledging rules in the near future, as announced by Clifford in a statement to the Daily Orange Jan. 5.

Boar's Head Stages Lorca Tragedy

By JOHN MORGAN

Boar's Head Dramatic Society will present "The House of Bernarda Alba" by the Spanish poet and playwright Garcia Lorca, tonight at 8:30 p.m.

Richard Leigh directed the modern tragedy, which features Misses Miriam Levy as Bernarda and Marion Present as La Ponceña, maid-servant of the household. Directed by the first night for the Boar's Head theatre itself — a completely new semi-circular theatre designed by drama instructor Joseph Morton and built from scratch in three months' week-like labor by Boar's Head members and apprentices.

The play concerns Bernarda Alba's five daughters, tyrannically confined by their mother and deprived of the opportunity for romance. Lorca depicts the disastrous consequences following such confinement and deprivation.

Hereditary aristocrat and Spanish widow, declares upon her household an eight-year period of mourning for the deceased. She strives to preserve the virginity of her daughters and thus maintain status quo among correct society.

"Bernarda Alba" thus involves two themes, popular since Sophocles: the curbsings of rigid social codes, and the agonies of barren women.

"The main conflict is the static mores of society versus human nature," observed Miss Levy, playing Bernarda. "Life isn't like that," she stated. "It's like La Ponceña, who sides with the daughters, stands for the human nature element. "I represent Mother Earth," said Marion Present, who portrays La Ponceña.

Miss Levy was seen on the Boar's Head stage in 1960 as Desdemona in Shakespeare's

"Othello," and again last year in "Noah," Miss Present was seen as Mrs. Noah in the same production.

The five daughters of Bernarda Alba are Barbara Stone, Evana Goula, Blanche Cartier, Ann Hartzell and Esen Weigand.

"Bernarda Alba's" cast also includes Ellen Joy Schindler as Maria Josefa, Bernarda's ghostlike 80-year-old mother who claims to have given birth to a lamb, and 25 "women in mourning."

The design of the new Boar's Head Theatre is concomitant with the current trend in drama away from the restrictions of realism. The audience is arranged in a semi-circle of rising tiers, as in Maxwell Auditorium, and looks down upon a virtual "pit of passion."

The intent is to extend the actors bodily — and with them the domain of Bernarda Alba — into the midst of the audience. The two-dimensional remoteness of a picture-frame stage performance has been discarded in favor of the new arrangement, which attempts to give the actor a three-dimensional living-sculpture effect.

IFC CHANGES MEETING DATE

The Inter-Fraternity Council has postponed its meeting scheduled for tonight until next week. A general meeting of the 50th anniversary celebration of Chi Omega sorority has necessitated the change in dates, stated IFC President Richard Miller.

A short meeting will be held at 7:15 p.m. at the Sigma Nu house, Wednesday, Jan. 17. All presidents and representatives are urged to attend.

Birchism?

Several national magazines have recently noted a growing trend toward conservatism on college campuses. The sentiment on the Syracuse campus has generally been liberal, but with the emergence of a branch of the John Birch Society downtown, we may witness a change.

The Daily Orange in the past has received letters from many people whose sentiments could be classified as conservative. With a focal point around which to center their activity, the conservative element on campus may become more vocal.

Don't be mistaken; Conservatism can perform a healthy function. It can force the more liberal elements to solidify their positions and clarify their thinking.

But the John Birch Society, itself, is an unhealthy organization. Any organization which would label former President Eisenhower as definitely "pink," denounce the Supreme Court as little more than Communist and strongly suggest the State Department is subverting the American way of life cannot be considered a worthwhile group.

Founded by Robert Welch, a candy manufacturer, the group counts many members of Congress, the business community and professional men among its supporters. Now, it seems, they want to add college students to their rosters.

Conservatives have a right to express their opinions and to do so through organizations which are a part of the American system. But the John Birch Society serves neither its members nor the American public well with its fanatical attitude towards Communism.

Communism is a real threat. But this threat will not be met by attacking everyone and praising none but those whose opinions match those of the John Birchers. It appears that they would still the voices of opposition and thereby subvert the very system they are so hysterically trying to save.

It would appear to us that wise conservatives would forego the pleasures of belonging to the John Birch Society and organize a group which would better represent the views of the conservative movement.

No group shrouded in complete secrecy—the society refuses to release the names of its officers and members—can ever hope to have its self considered seriously. If the conservatives really want to stand up and be counted, they should look for something better than the John Birch Society.

Sometime during the Christmas holiday the John Birch Society shivered down Salina Street unnoticed in the shadows of decorations and the excitement of busy shoppers and set up Syracuse headquarters in the Dorset Hotel, 161 Onondaga St.

Using the name of its official magazine, "American Opinion," as a front, the Birchers opened an attractively furnished reading room which has books, periodicals and House Un-American Activities reports for reading, rental or purchase.

The first announcement that the ultra-conservative right-wingers were making their public debut came in last Friday's Post-Standard. A paid advertisement called upon the citizenry of Syracuse to drop in to the American Opinion Library, Syracuse and pick some "Americanist literature which comes straight from the shoulder."

When this reporter visited the American Opinion reading room last week, he found the women, who called themselves "librarians," to be most uncooperative when it came to finding out who they were, who was paying for the plush carpeting and well stocked book shelves.

"Write to American Opinion in Belmont, Massachusetts," one of the women said.

"This reading room is a venture on the part of the American Opinion magazine to provide literature specifically on Communism which would be of interest to Syracuseans," the librarian said, who refused to give her name, repeated when interviewed.

The extreme millstone on the part of those people running the American Opinion operation is most apparent at the local level. Even nationally it has been very hard for news media to get very much information on the membership, financial status or plans of the John Birch Society.

Robert Welch, a retired Massachusetts candy magnate, is credited with having founded the Birch Society in Indianapolis on Dec. 9, 1958. At that time, Welch told a group of influential American businessmen, that "our immediate and most urgent concern is the threat of Communist conspiracy."

Since that date (this is the only known date of the founding of the Society) the Birchers have operated on the American scene through the quiet recruitment of members across the country. The dissemination of right-wing propaganda in cities throughout the country has been a major goal of the organization.

Syracuse University students will find the American Opinion reading room to be a most fascinating spot. There are guaranteed laughs in almost any conversation you lead.

Highly recommended is "Collectivism on the Campus—The Battle for the Mind in American Colleges" which is written by E. Merrill Root. This large volume tells why the most articulate Communist, Socialist and totalitarian liberal teachers are and how they operate in and out of the classroom.

A photocopying service is available in the reading room in case you get the lowdown on one of your professors. "Revol on the Campus" written by M. Stanton Evans should interest campus conservatives who believe they are growing daily in number. "The conservative element on campus is now on the offensive. It is articulate, resourceful, aggressive and more important it is growing . . . In 15-20 years it will guide the destiny of our nation," the author says.

John T. Flynn has an ordinary little piece on "The Roosevelt Myth," James Burnham writes on the "Web of Subversion" in our government in 1951.

Other interesting titles include books on the question of responsibility for World War II; a Biography of Walter Reuther in which he is described as the "Autocrat of the Bargaining Table"; an account of the left-wing activities of the National Student Council of Churches and a volume presenting the Southern view on integration.

The right wing movement in the United States thrives on the fear and insecurity of the nation. Only so long as Americans continue to fear for the future of this nation and cowardly resign to join secret movements designed to return countryman against countryman through suspicion and deceit, will the right be able to grow in strength.

The thinking rational members of society must be ready to sacrifice if necessary to keep this country a democracy so that we do not turn down the road to destruction offered by the sadly misguided right.

Comments On Hand

To the Editor:

Ever since the Dec. 14 issue of your paper with "Idiot's Delight" by Jack Hand came to my attention, I have not been able to rest. Yes, I looked up the Dec. 15 issue of "Human Events."

I am just a small business man. I don't pretend to be an audio-visual specialist. This is the first time I have ever seen the subject of socialism treated extensively in cartoon form. I thought this was the most graphic presentation of the sickening phenomena of socialism—communism that is destroying everything that great Americans hold dear. In fact I was very happy to learn that there were dedicated and courageous people who cared about illustrating the cancer that is growing on the side of our social and economic life and that has long since enthralled me as one of its victims.

Foreign Venom

I am at a total loss to understand the mind of an individual who would dare to attack such an honest effort to display the plain simple truth with such foreign venom and with the attitude that socialism is a part of the American way of life. That you, as an apparent socialist, represent America and we who have known nothing else but the freedoms of our private enterprise system represent some strange "cause" way out in no-man's land to the "right."

Student Views

I presume, Jack, you are a student, because this is a student's paper and at your age I guess you have never known anything else but a socialist environment. Of this I would like to know more. To us who have never known socialism except as a limiting control of our inherent freedoms, which control has been forced upon us by unscrupulous and irresponsible political dupes, it is pretty hard to conceive that youths grown up in the "Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave" would see themselves as you have.

To Americans like us—and the least we can say for ourselves is that we have been Americans a lot longer than you have—people like you are a traitor to your country and an enemy to be despised and punished. You, to whom we have passed on the very freedom of the press that you cynically refer to, have no right to abuse it by flaunting in our faces and defending ideologies that are diametrically opposed to those we adopted when we entered the United States in a ship less than two centuries ago.

You dare to use such terms as "propaganda," "cause," "sneak," "rightist," "brave," "rightist," "blatantly rightist," "no cause," "cause" us who are shocked that our country should be desecrated by envious pillagers who under a Marxist philosophy would drag us back to the slavery of the dark ages from which we only so recently gained our freedom. You did not give expression to a single constructive thought in your diatribe and you leave the offensiveness to refer to the "insult to the intelligence of the American college student." If your forefathers had acted in this manner just how far do you think you would be today?

Hal Holbrook, Singer To Open

Hal Holbrook and Genevieve will perform in Syracuse this month under the sponsorship of the Famous Artists Series. Mr. Holbrook brings his show, "Mark Twain Tonight," this Saturday night, Jan. 13, to Lincoln Auditorium.

When Hal Holbrook walks on the set, his audience does not see a mere actor in costume. It sees Mark Twain... The perfect illusion is created with the help of make-up that takes four hours to apply, a set containing the furnishings of the period and an excellent performance.

"Mark Twain" went on Broadway for a "limited two-week stay" last year and then ran for 28 weeks of sold-out houses.

Mr. Holbrook is touring the show in all the major cities of the country.

Genevieve, a star on the Jack Paar Show, comes to Syracuse on Saturday 20, at Lincoln Auditorium with a complete Broadway revue.

Included in the cast will be Lue Porel, the singer and guitarist who appeared with her in a night club in Paris. The cast will also feature Gus Viseur, Norma Doggett and Pouday, the famous French poetess.

The revue provides an atmosphere conducive to the singular talents of Genevieve. Musically, the production will travel from Montmartre to the Mississippi and it will include melodies which Genevieve has brought here from Paris.

Tickets may be purchased at the Famous Artist series, Clark Music Building, GR 1-0462. Tickets for both shows are $3.60, $3, $2.40 and $1.80.

Lighting for "Bernarda Alba" is by Penny Peck. Costuming is by Barbara Katz, who single-handedly costumed the four plays in the Regent Theatre's initial "New Playhouse" season last summer.

"The House of Bernarda Alba" will be performed tonight through Saturday, and Feb. 8-10 and 22-24, at 8:30 p.m. in the Drama Building. All tickets are $1.50. Reservations are obtained by phoning GR 6-5571, ext. 2710.

New British Film Explores Delicate Psychological Theme

"The Mark," now playing at the Riviera-Cinema, deals with a man whose mental illness causes him to have sexual feelings toward young girls. An admittedly delicate subject, the film handles the hero's aberration and eventual cure with intelligence and taste.

Thanks to superior performances by Rod Steiger as the psychologist, Stuart Whitman as his patient, and Maria Schell as a young widow, "The Mark" becomes a moving and dramatic story.

grounds. With terror he dreams of the night he almost lost control with a child. Even now the innocent teasing of children haunts him.

Young Widow

Each week he visits Steiger who encourages him to establish relationships with other people. He becomes good friends with a secretary, but wonders if he can meet the demands of the young widow and her 10-year old daughter.

Just as he is about to assure himself that he can have normal healthy relationships his past is revealed. He loses his job and is forced to leave town.

"The Mark" develops powerfully and revealingly. The group therapy scenes have a great impact; his affair with Miss Schell is handled with honesty and sensitivity.

The episodes between Whitman and Miss Schell's daughter are very well done with quiet touches of humor.

Direction

Because of the psychological theme of "The Mark" it tends to become a bit talky. But Guy Green's direction is paced fast enough not to lose viewers' interest. A dream sequence and much of the photography and editing, is excellent.

But the highlight of this film is the acting. Rod Steiger, as the Irish psychologist, gives an electric performance without once losing his heavy Irish accent. Maria Schell, warm and moving as the widow who needs affection, adds depth to Whitman's struggle to overcome his illness.

"The Mark" is an intelligent and meaningful motion picture.

Stigma

Though Steiger feels his patient is cured, Whitman has his doubts. The film concerns his efforts to learn to consider children normally, have a successful relationship with a woman, and cope with the stigmas of society.

As he adjusts to the rigors of normal life Whitman remembers his sessions of group therapy in the prison. Edged on by the aggressive Steiger and the taunts of his fellow inmates Whitman realizes how his parents' own inadequate relationship led to his disease.

Agonizingly, he recalls his many hours of watching girls at play-

UB Edges Orange, 68-66 After Comeback Bid Fails

By MILT JOFFE
Sports Editor

The basketball became a hot potato during the last ten minutes of the game Tuesday night and Syracuse suffered its 11th loss of the season. After an up-and-down fight, the Orangemen fell short and were edged by the University of Buffalo, 68-66.

On the strength of outstanding play by sophomore Carl Vernick, the Orangemen came from 11 points behind to take the lead in the first time with four-and-a-half minutes left in the game. Vernick, who didn't play the first nine minutes of the first half, led scorers with 21 points.

Fred Macheimer talked the basket that put the home team in front, 58-57. Then Buffalo recaptured the lead on a jumper by Bill McElroy. Vernick put the range back in front on two free throws.

missed. He then fouled Dick Harvey, whose shot put the Bulls ahead 66-63. Murray then converted one of two free throws. On the out of bounds play center Bill Bilowus broke away from the field and tallied what became the clincher.

Syracuse came right back as Herb Foster threw in a long jumper from the corner. With but 20 seconds remaining, Vernick made a fine defensive play and came up with the loose ball. He tossed to King on a two on one break but King missed a twisting layup from a difficult angle.

Buffalo grabbed the rebound and Vernick fouled Bilowus but the 6-3 sophomore missed the shot and Syracuse got the rebound and called time.

With ten seconds to go, Syracuse moved the ball into the forecourt. Macheimer got a pass and appeared to have an opening for a jump shot, but he passed to King, who booted the ball. Murray tried to find the handle but had no luck, and the game ended with the basketball bouncing on the floor to the left of the Syracuse basket.

Girl watchers are honorable men

LESSON 6- Who may watch

Any male is eligible to become a girl watcher. There is no age limit, although most girl watchers are over ten and under one hundred and four. There are no height or weight requirements, although taller men enjoy an obvious advantage at crowded parties. The only strict requirement is one of character. The girl watcher is a man of honor. Since he can't possibly take notes, as the bird watcher does, we must rely on his word. Therefore, when an experienced girl watcher tells you he saw nine beautiful girls while on his way to class, he saw nine beautiful girls. And when he tells you his Pall Mall is the cigarette of the century, believe him. It is.

By DAN CARR • Dominating every facet of play, the Syracuse frosh cagers romped over the Buffalo yearlings...

The Tangerines led from the outset despite the scrappy Bull defense. With 4-0 gone in the first half...

Marc Guley's charges made their own breaks on the strength of fine shooting and complete control of both backcourts.

The Little Bulls were not totally out of the game, however. Eased by Tony Manno and John Karaszewski...

From that point on, play seemed back and forth with both squads trading buckets. With Mentor Guley clearing his advantage...

Taking the floor after the intermission, the Tangerines continued where they left off. Rich Duffy led a splurge that saw Piety roll up seven points in a row...

The rest of the story lies in SU's ability to outthrust and outplay their opponents. The Hillmen showed good depth as bench reserves were able to sustain and add to the lead compiled by the starting five.

The Hill margin grew to 15 points midway in the second half as Guley rotated the hoopers. Buffalo managed to hang on...

however, and drew to within 6 points at 63-57 with 6:06 left in the game. But the home team put on the pressure and increased its margin to double figures with a 67-57 lead with 4:55 left to play.

The final count was 76-63 but the game was not as close as the score indicated. The Piety cuts seemed seemingly scored and will, and it was only through a let-up at the finish that the point spread was as small as it was.

Phil Schoff again led with winners with 21 points Rick Weber gave him ample support with 15 markers, but it was Duffy's skill in playmaking and 12 tallies that sparked the Syracuse attack.

The 5-11 playmaker's ball-hawking and dribbling a la Cousy kept everyone on his toes and the Buffalo contingent rather baffled.

The Tangerine's next encounter will be on the road when they journey to Ithaca to meet the Cornell frosh on Saturday. Piety will be out to avenge his only setback of the season, which was incurred in the hands of the Little Red last month.

Unbeaten Swimmers In First Home Meet

By BERNIE MACCALLUM The Syracuse University Swimming team will be seeking its fourth straight win in its home debut in Orange Pool this evening.

The frosh meet is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m., followed by the varsity.

"We should win this one," said coach Ted Webster while evaluating both teams' past performance.

"They have a good man in Steve Spyminski who usually is entered in the 50-yard freestyle."

He swam against the University of Rochester in the 220-yard freestyle, making him a probable starter in either race.

The Buffalo mermen have won two of five meets, beating Cortland and St. Bonaventure, while losing to Colgate, Rochester and Brockport State.

The undefeated Orange swimmers have bested RPI, Cortland and Cornell.

The Orangemen squeezed by Cornell 50-45 winners "on an inside straight." Webster explained that "we lost both relays and still managed to take the meet."

He compared it to a hat trick in hockey or a horse run.

The medley relay and the freestyle relay are the first and last events in most meets. Very rarely does a team lose both these events and still manage to win the meet.

It was only the second time that a team coached by Webster has won on an inside straight.

Syracuse defeated RPI and Cortland by one-sided scores. Webster pointed to the meet against NYU Saturday as one of the toughest of the season for Bill Orange.

The swimmers have yet to meet Williams, Colgate and Pittsburgh who accounted for their three losses last season.

"The frosh will meet Buffalo in a preliminary to the varsity encounter. Webster said that "I wouldn't care if our frosh team had the worst record in the country as long as it develops swimmers for our varsity."

Syracuse will meet the New York State Inter-Collegiate Swimming Championship at Orange Pool in March.

SU Graduates Head Foreign J-Classes

Without textbooks and a teaching staff two Syracuse graduates have recently been in journalism classes in Nigeria and Indonesia. Earl O. Roe and Miss Oemi Abdurrochman have informed the Syracuse Journalism Department of their progress through letters to Dean Wesley C. Clark.

Roe began teaching journalism at the Jackson College in Eastern Nigeria during this past semester. Six other teachers were expected to join him in conducting classes and preparing a syllabus for the coming year.

An Indian journalist was supposed to assume control of the school. However, he never left India. No other journalists were here and the school was compelled to conduct classes himself.

Peace Corps Arrives

This situation was not remedied until November when two stenographers joined Roe. In December the Peace Corps arrived for a two-year stay; one of the members was a journalist and assumed some responsibility in the school.

From Indonesia Miss Abdurrochman has written, "the University in Bandung has asked me to teach Journalism and publicity there. I have accepted this offer."

"As you know, this is the first and only school of journalism that we have in Indonesia. It is a government University."

Telege Indonesia

Miss Abdurrochman is the only holder of a Journalism Masters Degree in Indonesia.

A request for supplies such as textbooks have been made to Dean Clark by both graduates.

"... when I was leaving Syracuse to head for this part of the world last summer you (Dean Clark) mentioned that the School of Journalism might be able to help with some needed books," Earl Roe wrote.

"We have opened a reading room but suffer from a great shortage of reading material," Roe explained that he has mimeographed his textbook and all other journalism articles he has been able to gather in order to distribute them to the rest of the class.

Dean Clark announced that in response to the two requests the School of Journalism will donate textbooks and other publications to the University of Nigeria and the University in Indonesia.

SCHEDULE SET FOR FINALS

The schedule of finals, released by the Registrar's Office has been posted in the Hall of Languages. The Citizenship In- and English 1a exams will be given Saturday, Jan. 20, from 8 to 10 a.m. and 3 to 5 p.m. respectively. The remainder of the finals in the Liberal Arts school will be given through January 30.

In yesterday's Daily Orange the times of the Citizenship and English exams were erroneously reversed.

The schedule of Business Administration, Education, Home Economics, Journalism and Drama have scheduled their finals from Jan. 22 to Jan. 31. The last exams, given on Jan. 31, will be in education, food and nutrition, insurance and production management. The Engineering, Art and Architecture schools have not released their schedules.

Demonstration . . .

 a.m. Several complaints were lodged by residents of the University neighborhood who felt that their windows were shaken by the noise. The noise of the demonstration seriously disturbed patients in the hospitals adjacent to the University.

Injuries, Damage
 "Three students were injured and required treatment at the infirmary and several others came very close to serious injury by climbing on roofs and walls. The damage done to sorority houses and three women's dormitories is estimated to exceed several hundred dollars. The cost of damages to the grounds of sororities and residence halls throughout the University area cannot be estimated at this time.

The memorandum to the student organizations read: "We indicated in our earlier memorandum that we would write again about the pre-Christmas 'demonstration'. Our intent now is twofold: First we are reviewing some additional dimensions of the situation and, second, we are releasing a description of the results of our investigation into the incident.

"You will recall our reference to the paradox which concerns the campus community in the wake of an incident such as this. More specifically we suggested that students at various times and through their student leaders have requested a greater role in responsible decision making on campus.

Irresponsibility
 "We are certain you realize that desirable as this may seem to students and although it is in accord with the traditions and philosophy of Syracuse University, students cannot pick and choose when they will be responsible or when they may demonstrate irresponsibility. In the incident in question there is, it seems to us, a classic example of a situation where student leaders

McCloud Heads Placement Office

Donald W. McCloud will replace J. Frederic Way as Placement Director for the colleges of Business Administration and Liberal Arts Jan. 15, Way announced.

Way, Placement Director at SU since July, 1957, is leaving to become Placement Director at the Graduate Business School of Columbia University in New York City.

McCloud, class of 1935, is a consultant for the Internal Management and Development Dept. at SU.

In parting Director Way remarks students seeking placement after graduation to register immediately.

ship should have emerged and responsibility been demonstrated but, with a few exceptions, was absent.

"There is another interesting paradox. We have listened in the past with shared concern to reports by Syracuse students of comments from their friends that this university is not always identified as an outstanding academic institution.

"We have been concerned because those of us who are privileged to share in the experience of this community know it first as an exciting adventure in academic excellence—and we naturally want everyone to know us as we really are. It strikes us as strange however, that some of the very students who have this concern seem to us to participate in or give support to the kind of behavior which informs the educational world in particular, and the public in general, that the most important problem to which students at Syracuse can give their combined consideration is a mass rally which can be transformed into a party raid.

Mass Media
 "Accounts reproduced by newspapers and other mass media throughout the country regarding the demonstration did very little to convince anyone that this incident is fundamentally, and first, an academic community.

"On this last point it was also interesting to note that many students apparently believe an important problem to which activity which should warrant the attention of mass media, Monday morning of December 4 a cluster of students visited a Syracuse newspaper with glowing, exaggerated and enthusiastic accounts of what had happened earlier in the morning. They urged the newspaper to give the matter widespread attention.

"Again we are puzzled by a set of values which consider a demonstration of this sort as deserving of nationwide attention yet reconcile this attitude with a general concern to be identified with a prestige institution.

Student Problem
 "The above, however, is fundamentally a student problem. Only students themselves can encourage and develop a student climate in which such publicity seeking efforts are evaluated and critically examined. So, too, is a "demonstration" fundamentally a student problem since it was an activity wholly student initiated and conducted.

"Our earlier memorandum requested that your group, with the others identified above, assume a leadership responsibility already delegated and conduct your own evaluation/assessment of the situation.

"We are enclosing a summary statement of our investigation of the incident. We request that you be of assistance to you in your study and discussions.

"As indicated in the earlier memorandum, we will appreciate receiving your recommendations by January 19."

Secretary Aids Hill Foreign Students

By IENESE GANG

Helping foreign students to orient themselves to the university, to the United States and to solve their everyday problems is the job of Mrs. Helen Hagan, secretary of the International Student Office.

Because they are strange to the American way of life, international students are often unaware of the facilities available to them here, Mrs. Hagan explained. "We're here". She said of her office's most important function, "to show foreign students how to use these facilities, and more important, to inform them of the facilities' existence."

Mrs. Hagan advises students chiefly on matters of immigration, finance and refers students' problems, not handled by her office, to the proper university personnel.

"Most problems brought to me," Mrs. Hagan stated, "can be solved by merely talking them out."

International students can be divided into four groups, she noted: those who come here independently; those sponsored by their respective governments; those sponsored by the U.S. government; and those having private sponsors, such as the Ford Foundation.

Since finance is a major difficulty shared by most foreign students, the university requires them to have minimum financial resources of $2500 for graduate students and $2700 for under-

Syracuse Given Federal Grants

Syracuse University has been awarded two grants totaling $115,349 from the National Institutes of Health, Washington, Dr. Clark Ahlberg, S.U. vice president of Administration and Research, and William C. Wheaton, director of the SU Research Institute, announced recently.

Of the total grant, $57,972 will be applied toward the construction costs of the new Biological Research Laboratory Building, being constructed adjacent to Sims Hall.

The grant for the Biological Research Laboratory is being added to the $316,329 which the university received last year from the N.I.H. Total cost of the building is estimated at $1 million.

The second portion of the N.I.H. grant is $57,377. This will be used for the renovation of space and for the construction of new zoological research laboratories in Lyman Hall. The university will add an equal amount from its own funds for the labs.

graduates, Mrs. Hagan said. This is supposed to cover costs of tuition, room, board, books and vacation expenses, she stated. Thus the students are insured, to some extent, of having adequate funds for the year.

The International Student office regularly distributes literature concerning changes in immigration policy. It also notifies foreign students that they must register with the government every January, Mrs. Hagan noted.

Incoming foreign students are sent special bulletins from the ISO office describing the American climate, dress habits and cost of living. Mrs. Hagan's office also finds housing for new arrivals who do not wish to live in university housing.

Referring to Foreign Student Guides as "towers of strength," Mrs. Hagan relies on them "tremendously." Guides help with registration and orientation programs, she noted.

The Syracuse chapter of the World Affairs Council, Mrs. Hagan continued, helps welcome the students to the Syracuse community. The members of the organization often take in foreign students during vacations, she said.

Mrs. Hagan's duties also include approving the International Student Organization's yearly budget and on occasion advising the group.

The International Student Office, which serves 542 students from 72 countries, is under the supervision of Dean John S. Hafer, who makes all major policy decisions.

The office was created in the 1940's under the Vice Chancellor's direction.

A graduate of Sweet Briar College, Va., and Kathryn Gibbs Secretarial School, Mrs. Hagan came to SU in June 1960.

ISO Plans Goa Panel Talk

A panel discussion on "Goa: Liberalism or Apprehension," will be presented at 7:30 p.m. today in Maxwell Auditorium. The discussion is sponsored by the International Students Organization.

The purpose of the panel is to present both sides of India's non-violence policy, and discuss whether the policy was violated in Goa.

Participating in the panel are Dr. Eduardo Munkian, visiting professor from Mozambique, a Portuguese colony in Africa, Bruce F. Norton, an American graduate student, Sreenivas Rao an Indian graduate student at Syracuse, and Dr. Julian Friedman, an associate professor of political science.

Moderating the discussion will be Dr. Fred G. Burke, professor of political science.

Hill Fraternity On Social Pro

A Hill fraternity has been placed on social probation for holding a pledge beer party and causing damages at the party location, according to Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford. This is the second house in two days that has been placed on social probation for violating the university non-drinking policy.

The fraternity will not be allowed to hold any coed functions "on or off campus, in or out of Syracuse."

The pledge class is permitted a limited social program, said Clifford, and must submit their social program to the dean of men's office for approval.

All scheduled pledge class functions must be held in the fraternity house with the advice of the resident fraternity housemother.

After each social function, the officers are expected to evaluate the function, and submit a report which is signed by the housemother.

When the class is eligible for initiation "a final review of its social program based on these reports will be made," Clifford said. Special emphasis will be placed on the academic improvement evaluation of the pledges as a class and individually, he stated.

If the pledge class qualifies for initiation under these conditions, the status of the fraternity also will be re-evaluated," he said.

Funk To Head Speech Dept.

Dr. Frank Funk, assistant professor of speech at Syracuse University and Administrator of the Discussion Leadership Center at University College, recently was appointed chairman of the Department of Public Address of the School of Speech and Dramatic Art.

Funk graduated with a B.S. degree from the SU School of Speech and Dramatic Art in 1949 and received his M.S. in 1952. In 1956 he received his Ph.D. in public address from Purdue University.

As administrator of the Discussion Leadership Center, Funk works with local leaders and executives to aid them in speaking ability and the sharing of leadership responsibility.

He is serving as a consultant for General Electric and also studying interviewing techniques for the Federal Aviation Agency. Funk has written many articles and book reviews for national publications.

In the interests of accurately representing student opinion on the two memoranda from the Office of the Dean of Men, Earle W. Clifford, and the Dean of Women, Margaret C. Smith, concerning the December 3rd, 1961, party raid, Joint Student Government invites all interested students to have their opinion today at the JSG office, 907 University Ave., behind Winchell Hall.

Advisory Council, Faculty Consider Dead Week Plan

Pre-Exam Period Would Extend Library Hours "Dead Week," long proposed and advocated for Syracuse students, is under active consideration by the Liberal Arts Advisory Council according to its president, Senior Arthur Fritz.

A program that would conclude classes the Wednesday before exams is in its final stages of development, Fritz explained Wednesday. The advisory council hopes to place this and several other suggestions before the faculty at a dinner-meeting March 5 at Drumlins Country Club.

Letters sounding out faculty opinion on the often-proposed dead week program were circulated last spring. The majority of faculty members asked for more information and a definite program on the dead week discussion.

Faculty suggestions that LAAC is considering in order to make the program more definite include: extending library hours during dead week; moving the due dates for term papers up so the student papers will be due prior to the Friday preceding dead week; eliminating exams during the last week of classes.

Dean Alfred H. Cope, assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts and advisor to the council, described the March meeting as an "open dinner-meeting" to which deans and faculty would be invited.

Calling the LAAC an "energetic and hardworking" committee, Cope explained that the students plan to present their ideas at the dinner in their capacity as student advisors to the Liberal Arts College.

"My guess is that when their program is finally recommended it will be genuinely good," he said. Many have been working on the dead week question since September.

Food Service Action Planned

By JEANNIE RANOV Junior Editor

Joint Student Legislature Wednesday night heard a report from university Treasurer Francis A. Wingate outlining specific action to be taken in answer to recent complaints about Hill food service.

JSL also passed two amendments to the Joint Student Government constitution concerning civil rights of students.

Panel Debates Goa Invasion, India's Guilt

"Goa is an issue of colonialism," asserted Dr. Eduardo Munline, professor from Mozambique, in a discussion Wednesday night in Maxwell Auditorium.

Other panelists were Maxwell Prof. Robert Heussler, Sreenivas Rao, an Indian graduate student, and Bruce E. Norton, American graduate student.

"The United Nations charter provides action for eliminating war," Munline said. "Portugal disregarded this and is therefore responsible for the invasion."

Munline, calling himself a "member of the oppressed peoples of the world," accused Salazar of not acting on behalf of Portugal.

Noting only one third of the Goans speak Portuguese, then as a second language, Munline said most feel they aren't "Portuguese citizens," as Portugal claims all people under its control are.

Goa, he continued, could not revolt because of Portugal's militant colonial control.

Heussler, saying he believes the Goa incident inevitable, called nationalism a two pronged force. While a release for liberty impulses, he said, it involves pain and frustration for all involved. Colonialism, he added, is foredoomed.

Rao, citing Nehru's offer to hold a U.N. plebiscite in Goa and Portugal's subsequent refusal, blames Portugal. He referred to the peacemakers.

Liberal Arts Tutor Service Unveiled

An undergraduate tutorial program has been inaugurated at Syracuse University, Arthur Fritz, chairman of the Liberal Arts Advisory Council, announced Wednesday. The LAAC has worked on this program for two years.

Dr. Robert Sedzwick, associate professor of the Department of Economics, has compiled a list of 56 graduate and 23 undergraduate tutors approved by the College of Liberal Arts.

Students should consult their instructors before engaging a tutor and may not pay their own instructors or teaching assistants for tutoring.

Hourly fees set by the Liberal Arts faculty for graduate tutors are: one student, $3; two to four students, $2.50 each and five or more, $2 each. Undergraduate tutor rates are not set.

NEED SENIORS FOR TESTING

Seniors majoring in mathematics, sciences, or engineering are needed to take an experimental research project test conducted by the Psychological Research Center on Saturday, Jan. 13.

Interested seniors should sign up before 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. before Jan. 13 in room 102, Sims V.

Each student will receive four dollars for taking the test.

"It is our duty"

Aid to Dominicans Urged

By KENEE GANG

"It is our duty to support the Dominicans in every way we can," said history Prof. Robert J. Shafer of the U.S.'s recent resumption of diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic, "for if we don't help them, the Communists will."

It is up to the people of the Dominican Republic, Shafer continued, to make the right kinds of reforms to institute a representative government and a social economic system that will satisfy a majority.

"The U.S. should help," said Shafer, "but in the end the determination, skill, courage and common sense of the Dominican people will be the critical elements. However, knows, not all reformers display enough of these qualities!"

Power Struggle

Shafer explained that both Communists and right wing elements will struggle for power in the Latin American country. Communists will want to set up a government similar to Cuba's and right wingers will want to return to a rightist despotism, he said.

The leaders of our country in all walks of life, continued Shafer, must resist the efforts of conservatives who insist all reform is communism. "This," he said, "is one of the roads to real disaster for us. The other is to insist there is no communism."

Shafer feels our resumption of diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic is fully justified by the fact the Trujillos have been ousted and the people have shown courage and determination in demanding a representative government.

"Democratic Atmosphere" The people of the Dominican Republic," said Shafer, "will not settle for a semi-fyranny." Having lived under dictatorship once, the Dominican people will not concede to it again, he noted.

The current provisional government is permitting political groups to express themselves and promises to hold elections, Shafer added. This, too, he said, justifies our recent action.

Prof. Shafer expects the economy of the Dominican Republic to improve in a while. Without disorder and destruction, shifts in management methods, a drainage of energy in the political and social fields, accompanied by a rise in wages will inevitably lead to economic chaos, he explained.

But Shafer protested that the U.S. government has been unjustly blamed for its insufficient foreign aid appropriations. He maintained the fault lies chiefly with recipients of American financial assistance.

"We should not expect gratitude for our help from these countries, but we should expect that proper use be made of it," he concluded.

Wingate commented on eight recommendations concerning improvements in university dining halls made in a report submitted him before the Christmas vacation by the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee.

He told the legislature the university has "gone beyond" a recommendation on sanitation and has taken out city food service licenses from all dining halls such as those required for public restaurants.

He said he will ask the city officials to inspect the dining facilities, and he has also appointed Security Police Director of Safety Charles Morgan to check on food service, tentatively "two hours a day, twice a week."

Morgan is qualified for this inspection duty, according to Wingate, by virtue of more than 20 years as an army officer.

Morgan will report any findings to Wingate and Dr. Frederick Albery, Student Health Services director, and will also meet with the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee.

Wingate then said prices in university snack bars were raised a year ago and have not moved again after protests; other than this they have not changed in ten years.

"If you don't like the way we operate you don't have to patronize snack bars," he continued. He said "we can't feel we are abusing you" because snack bar customers are not a "captive audience" as are students with the support of the dormitory program.

Asked why such contracts are compulsory, he said the deans of men and women decided ten years ago to have the dining halls in new dormitories "contribute to the support of the dormitory program."

When asked to explain any alleged profit made on food service operations, Wingate said "I won't answer that." Questioned again by JSL advisor Dr. George Wiley on this refusal, he said he "did not choose" to answer questions on the subject.

Went later told the Daily Orange he did not believe the financial situation was the concern of the students. "It is not the core of the problem," he said. However, he said recent university financial statements could be made available to interested students.

Raising board or tuition to solve food service problems would "be a last resort," Wingate told the legislature, saying "I don't think we'll have to do it."

He also told the DO "I suspect we should have events in university time off," referring to the city check on sanitation. "We seem to have been rather lax about it."

"But now we are doing it, and I shall urge reports be made, he said."

"Better utilization of established food councils" would be the answer to the "communication" difficulties in the issue, he added.

Disputed requests are always available for consultation with student representatives he stated.

On Drinking

"The traditions and principles of the University, accepted by each student in his act of voluntary registration, require conduct in harmony with the standards of good society."

Even with this statement in mind, we feel the Syracuse University drinking rules are obsolete.

Dean Clifford has a job to do—he must enforce these drinking rules which the University believes are in the best interest of the academic situation.

Because of the University's position, fraternities have been placed on social probation, right and left, while a number of other houses wait their turn for the same or similar treatment.

The rules violated include "drinking in university buildings as an official fraternity group at a social function." An example of this is a pledge beer party.

Dean Clifford feels that "The real question involves the issue of what is best for Syracusans, not Cornolians." We agree with Dean Clifford. But we do feel that a university situation should not be a make-believe condition. We are here to learn the realities of life. We have been trained at home in the social mores. By this time if people are not old or mature enough to handle liquor, it is not up to the University to teach them.

The fact remains that the University's policy can only lead to underhandedness on the part of students.

To escape the tactics of Javert-like investigators, groups of fraternity men may travel miles for a peaceful nip or two. Driving back to campus may not prove so peaceful. Wouldn't it be more reasonable to keep the streets safe as well as consciences clear by allowing these men to drink on campus.

We are all aware that trying to enforce these outdated rules will not result in the elimination of alcohol consumption. If the Federal Government could not control bootlegging in the '20's, it is an idealistic wish on the part of the administration to think they can control student drinking habits. It must be remembered that during prohibition, many people drank simply for the sake of putting something over on the Government.

Students can walk a few blocks if they want a drink even if their house is on social probation. This is permissible as long as these people are not in the same fraternity or sorority and not travelling in groups of three or more.

We see only one way to solve the drinking problem—rid this campus of outdated, outmoded rules.

Clearly now identifies itself with the tension and terror it once tried to eliminate. We find evidence of this anywhere we look.

Magazines entitled "Mad," "Sick," and "Cracked" can be found on almost any newsstand. Usually gory, degenerate scenes are printed from cover to cover. The tactics usually used over the characters' distorted heads convey messages of human degeneration in one form or another.

A Good Example—An example which is outstanding in my mind is a take-off on the television show, "To Tell The Truth." One of the above mentioned magazines pictured a panel of three distinguished people gazing intently at three piles of ashes. The commentator, also gazing intently, mumbles, "Will the red head Chessman please stand up."

To the Editor:
If I am not mistaken, you did state in Wednesday's editorial that "conservatism can perform a healthy function" by forcing "liberal elements to solidify their position and to clarify their thinking."

Recognizing that a viable conservatism does so exist, one may well question how such a conservatism might best accomplish its "healthy function." No doubt reading is a most effective means of clarifying thinking. Thus it is reasonable to expect that a healthy interchange of literature among conservative and liberal elements will afford a most welcome clarification of thinking.

Here it seems the problem arises. For while Conservatives accept Liberal publications and proceed to clarify the thinking within, liberals continue to judge the book by its cover and rarely go beyond. For example, consider Mr. Millstein's adjoining column — his survey of books within the American Opinion Library featuring "guaranteed laughs"—together with the following queries:

"Collectivism on the Campus"—what is so hilarious about "Communist teachers operating in and out of classrooms"? Or is this volume a Further evidence of this trend toward the tense and terrible in humor can be discovered, of all things, in comic books.

On the new-stacks, along with Donald Duck and Little Lulu, are found such interesting titles as the "Moon Man," and the "Monster from the Underworld." If one searches hard and a little long enough, one might find a comic book on the topic of vampires.

Too, Too Funny
And what about jokes? No longer are they based on human comedy. One hears, instead, the funny story about the crippled man who lost his wheel chair or some other such sadistic contortion of human suffering.

And what "funny" no longer means just plain funny. It conveys instead a feeling of disturbance, fright or foreshadowing. It can also suggest insensitivity toward the "funny" is sometimes used to describe fraudulent smear? If so, how, where? "Revolt on the Campus"—is it a myth? Is there no Young American for Freedom organization? "The Roosevelt Myth"—what is so laughable about the Yalta chapter? "Web of Subversion"—was there no Alger Hiss? There was an Irving Sturbeck. There was the code-clerk team of Martin and Mitchell.

Is there no Walter Reuther? Doesn't the National Council of Churches favor UN membership for Red China? Isn't there some talk now on integration in the South?

I think one will readily agree that clarification of thinking cannot be accomplished merely by surveying book jackets. A thorough reading of each other's literature is absolutely necessary before Liberals and Conservatives solidly their respective positions and comment accordingly. So may I suggest a box of W. O. C. candy while perusing, say, "Nations Review," "New Republic," "Syracuse 10,"

To the Editor:
As a supplement to your excellent editorial of Wednesday on "Birchism," and Alan Millstein's "The Lunatic Fringe," I would like to point out some of the more glaring similarities between this ultra-conservative John Birch Society and the Communist Party which it so emphatically denounces. They are as follows:

1. The John Birch Society and the Communist Party share the distinction of both being monolithic authoritarian organizations with the policy dictated from above and no dissent permitted in its ranks.
2. Standard Communist strategy for countries marked for takeover is to sow in those countries seeds of doubt and suspicion against the Government and leaders. Here the Birch Society founder, Robert an institution for the mentally unbalanced as well as describe a horror ride in an amusement park.

Human Comedy

If people have become so cynical and disturbed as to guffaw over human tragedy in the guise of modern comedy, then I rest my case and secretly pray for a new generation, a new generation able to appreciate the amusing side of life, a new generation able to fight off depression with a smile and a laugh while viewing the greatest show on earth — the human comedy.

At a time when the twins, tension and terror, are waiting on every doorstep, I think most people must be secretly searching for the amusing side of life, a new generation able to cope with the twins — by laughing them away, not by inviting them in. So come on world—just a little humor, please.

Welch, has accused a former President of the United States, a former Secretary of State, the Chief of the CIA, and other top-ranking leaders with treason.

3. Part of the Birch Society's program of action, very similar to that of the Communist Party, involves the use of techniques which Welch himself labels as "mean and dirty." By infiltration into legitimate organizations, Birch members learn of local meetings so that their members can invade and disrupt these peaceable assemblies of citizens. Often their cheering, boing, and general insulting of audiences and speakers reaches such proportions that the local police must be called out.

4. The Birch Society is implacably opposed to the most effective of the free world's defenses against communism. They oppose the UN, NATO, and increased military spending, etc. Their opposition against these defenses is matched only by Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung.

5. Domestically the Birch Society opposes civil rights, collective bargaining, and the social gospel of religions, as the communists do in the countries they rule over.

6. We see here in Syracuse how the Birch Society believes in the organization of "fronts" to carry out its work. The communists could never quarrel with this strategy of deception they often find of great value.

Perhaps the John Birch Society is a communist front group.

Good Tragic Production Opens at Boar's Head

The Spanish soul of Federico Garcia Lorca blazed onto the Boar's Head stage last night. We could almost touch the awesome, artful beauty of the performances in "The House of Bernarda Alba."

Something of the drama, something of passionate music, something of a lurid painting were communicated in the total impact of this isolated tragedy of Spanish custom. Gerold Reidenbaugh has directed with imagination supported by dramatic intellect.

He has seen this important piece with eyes of a true modernist, doing away with the restrictive realism of the stage. Eye-flicking lighting techniques, thoughtful use of music, and, above all, a stage choreography that may be likened to that in a ballet, created a mood which thoroughly entertained one's interest and stirred the feelings.

But in any entirely creative endeavor such as we find here, there are bound to be certain overtones.

The major defect in this presentation was its over-emphasis on emotion. Though we understand that elemental emotion in this play is important to its total beauty, if there is nothing else but raging feeling and no efficient contrast of the quiet and the seething, much is lost, and we, the audience, feel almost too harassed.

But this flaw in interpretation was not enough to hamper sufficiently the massive and seething endeavor.

All performances except one deserve high praise. Miriam Levy deftly gave to Bernarda the appropriate nuance of a regal, indefatigable mother who will not let her daughters' hearts and happiness stop her from imprisoning them for the sake of convention.

Bernarda is well-played but we feel that as a character she is despicable. She lacks the heart and sympathy which would enable her to understand her daughters' plight and so inevitable tragedy ensues.

It is amazing that five daughters could be presented as such completely different human beings. The effect is both a credit to Lorca and the Boar's Head players.

Especially admirable was the performance of Blanche Carlier as Adela, for in no other performer can we find such boiling life, life which would prefer death to imprisonment.

Irene Golub, Barbara Stone, Ann Hahnell and Esen Wiegand as the four other daughters were also excellent. One performance, however, did strike us badly. This was Marion Present's overly affected interpretation of La Poncea. She is forever playing everything to the hilt and and forever trying to impress us with her seemingly theatrical ability.

In itself, one bad performance means nothing to the total impression of a play. But this actress appears in nearly every scene, attempting to steal it, and in failing to do so is irritating. This detracts from the play as a whole.

Great credit must go to Joseph Morton for a setting which seems to soar from the stage into the audience. The freedom of the setting blends in well with the action of the play, imparting unity.

Very often we are struck by the genius of Lorca's sensibility. A scene in particular stands out for its truth and directness: the mad grandmother runs into the playing area holding a lamb and shouting for all the world to hear that the lamb is her new born babe, and that she will have other babies, all with gray hair like her own. One seldom finds such stark, futile wants of our lives expressed so well as in this arousing, poetic episode.

Lorca's lyricism breaks the play out of the isolation of a Spanish atmosphere and gives it a kind of universality. The one enormous break between the audience and the characters of his drama is the passion incorporated into a lyric quality of the dialogue. R.L.

first march by thousands of Goans, in which 250 were killed by Portuguese soldiers.

India angered the West, he said, but three quarters of the world approves its action. This is why, he explained, the U.S. reprimanded India in the Security Council, but not General Assembly.

Rao accused the U.S. of injustice to Indian when, in 1956, the U.S. declared all Portuguese colonies defensible by NATO. Soon after, Secretary of State Dulles said he "hadn't realized Portugal had Indian colonies." "Was India to believe," Rao continued, that "the U.S. Secretary of State was unfamiliar with world geography and history?"

In rebuttal, Norton asked if the means justified the end. More importantly, he concluded, will this act set a precedent for future dissatisfied countries.

Safety Markers

Put On Hydrants

Forty safety markers have been attached to the fire hydrants on campus by Tracy Fuller, of the Building and Grounds department of the university.

The seven-foot high stakes are painted with luminous red, so that they are visible in the dark and in deep snow.

The markers will prevent snow plows from running into hydrants and will aid firemen in locating hydrants without delay.

Ernie Davis Day in Elmira: Hometown Honors Hill Star

By JUDY ADAMS

America's most honored football player, Ernie Davis, will receive still another tribute when he people of his hometown, Elmira, honor him with "Ernie Davis Day."

The February third event promises to be one of the most laudatory affairs that the southern New York town has ever held. Elmira Free Academy coach Marty Harrigan, Syracuse director of Athletics Lew Andrews, teammates of both in Syracuse and PFA football days, and a host of friends and neighbors will be there to honor the great running back.

A banquet with Governor Rockefeller as the main speaker will honor Davis as the guest of honor in the evening.

In their salute to the "Elmira Express" the hometown made it a complete sellout 15 minutes after the 1500 tickets went on sale.

The Elmirians have reason to be proud of "their" Number 41, "The Perfect Powerhouse" blasted his way into the Syracuse record books, proving that he was not only a second Jimmy Brown but the only Ernie Davis.

The fleet Negro star, a two-time All-American, has won innumerable outstanding player awards. The most recent was the Chic Harley Trophy to be presented by the Columbus, Ohio, Touchdown Club. The most coveted, of course, was the Heisman Trophy.

Ernie has been rewarded for his feats with a $65,000 three-year contract with the Cleveland Browns — plus a $15,000 bonus for signing. This contract is the highest ever announced for a National Football League rookie.

Nevertheless, it is not Ernie Davis of Syracuse that Elmira will remember, but the modest, pleasant yet reserved PFA youth who led his teams to titles in both football and basketball; the boy who seemed to do about everything, lettering in baseball too.

Ernie is not a native Elmira, but originates from Uniontown, Pa. He reached Elmira as a twelve-year-old and, because of his weight, began his football as a tackle.

By the end of 1954, his entire football career consisted of a first quarter broken wrist in his only freshman game.

All-League

But as a freshman basketball player, he played the varsity opener, wrist and all, and scored 22 points. This began the greatest of Southern Tier Conference basketball dynasties. Ernie and company finished their career as PFA schoolboys, winning their last 52 games. Ernie was the first to be three-named basketball All-STA.

His varsity football history began when the sophomore end scored three touchdowns in his first twenty minutes. But it wasn't until the next year when a ballback injury forced him into service that he played in the backfield. In football too, he dominated the field and again was three-time All-STA.

This is the boy Elmira is turning out to honor. With this fine tribute being paid to him, the Syracuse speedster must certainly value "the" importance of being Ernest.

The official results of the Swim to Venice contest have revealed Flint 3A to be the winners. The Marathon swim contest held by the Women's Athletic Association tested the aquatic endurance of Hill coaches.

The winners swam a total of 1172 laps out of the 4061 needed to get to Venice. Flint 1A completed 934 laps to finish second and Ten Eyck cottage placed third with 576 laps, about the distance to Bermuda.

The members of the various living centers combined their efforts to complete the total laps.

PERHAPS YOU HAVE NOTICED that the New Year always brings out the fortune teller in sports writers. In every journal from Boston to Honolulu some sage of the typewriter sticks out his neck to decide what the coming year will bring.

Since so many of the predictions issued by these seers leave us flat, we have decided on a fool-proof method of prognostication. Let the big shots go out on a limb, we choose the security of the trunk.

We shall begin with things guaranteed to come true in 1962. So, harken spirits of never-never land, come forth and guide this shaking limb.

In the world of pro basketball, the Boston Celtics will win it all. They'll tangle in the playoffs with the Cincinnati Royals, who will knock the Elgin Baylor-less Lakers from the picture. On the local scene, as sure as we breathe, the press will cheer as Sweden Halbrook continues to "hold" Will Chamberlain to 50 points.

In the college world of the game, the Ohio State five will escape untouched, unblemished, unbenighted even. The NCAA title will be theirs with a final victory over USC. In late February Syracuse University will topple its season's attendance record at home as well over 400 watch them end the season.

The hockey world will be ruled once more by the Montreal Canadiens. They will outscore the Rangers, that's right, New Yorkers, in the Stanley Cup finals. Andy Bathgate, the Ranger mainstay, will top the league's scorers.

Baseball is always the favorite sport for the writing guessers. But in this area too we have fool-proof picks. Alas, the Yankees cannot lose. In fact they will make last year's pennant chase seem close. If you like to bet place money, support the Cleveland Indians. In the National League, things will be much tighter, but it should be a World Series in Chavez Ravine for the L.A. Dodgers. Their kids are growing up and should be too much for the league. If they fall, the West Coast should have the runner-up in San Francisco.

The only thing that's ever sure about battling titles is that one will be won in each league. The crystal ball gets hazy here and gutters out two names: Jim Gentile and Willie Mays. The home run crowns await Mighty Roger Maris and Hammerin' Hank Aaron. No records will be broken but Aaron will top both leagues as National League sluggers get a pleasant taste of expansion.

The leading pitchers in the big leagues will be Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers and Frank Lary of Detroit. Sentimentalists will be happy to know that Warren Spahn will win his yearly twenty, but Whitey Ford will fall short of the mark.

Let's forget to mention, trip to the West Coast will be too much for the Yankees and the Dodgers will become the World Champions of the sport.

The pro football world will shake under the strength of the Cleveland Brown offense. The boys from Syracuse will become as well-known as the Smith Brothers and even the weak Brown defense won't stop them from copping the Eastern Conference title in a runaway.

However, Green Bay can do nothing but get better and will remain the champions of the entire league.

College football, which is more sorry to say, will be headed by the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame. The sophomores will become juniors and the year's maturity will be too much for the rest of the nation.

The golf world will be ruled again by Arnold Palmer, the best around in a long while.

The big boxing story will be the defeat of Floyd Patterson by Sonny Liston, who will be given a match when he picks his new manager and sheds some underworld ties associated with his old boss.

When the season ends, we'll compare our predictions with the best of the pros. And they'll thank the boss for the pay raise and we'll be ten minutes late for our eight o'clock class.

Grid Co-Captains Stem, Easterly Ink Pro Contracts

Syracuse grid co-captain Bob Stem has signed a contract to play the 1962 season with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League, the Patriots announced Tuesday night.

Stem, the 210-lb center from Phillipsburg, N.J., was the bulwark of the Syracuse line all season although he played most of the year with a badly injured knee.

Among the honors given to Stem was mention on some All-East teams and the starting berth at offensive center in the Blue-Gray game. He was the 25th draft choice of the Patriots.

He was also the 10th draft choice of the New York Giants of the National Football League.

Dick Easterly, the other Syracuse co-captain, also signed a pro contract recently. Following the U.S. Bowl in Washington, D.C., Sunday, Easterly inked a pact with the San Francisco 49ers of the NFL.

Easterly played both quarterback and halfback for Syracuse and was named most valuable player in the Orange's 15-14 Liberty Bowl win over Miami. He was also named top offensive player for the Blue team in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, Ala.

The 5-11 senior from Syracuse played his high school ball at North High.

Coed Tourney Slated

The Women's Athletic Association will sponsor a Coed Volleyball Tournament Feb. 13. Teams will consist of representatives of all living centers on campus. The teams can be made up of any combination of members from any living center.

The games will begin Tuesday, Feb. 13, at 7:30 p.m. Students can sign up for the tournament at Sunday house meetings. The deadline for signups is Thursday, Jan. 18.

WAA will present a trophy to the winning living centers.

That Minnesota backfield stars Sandy Stephens and Bill Munsey joined schoolboy pals in Uniontown, Pa., is a fairly well publicized fact. Not quite as well known is the fact that Syracuse All-American Ernie Davis banded with the Minnesota duo at Uniontown. Ernie later moved to Elmira, N.Y., where he played his high school football.

Syracuse, UB Swim Meet Off

The swimming meet scheduled for Tuesday night in Orange Pool between Syracuse and the University of Buffalo was postponed due to travelling conditions.

Two straight days of heavy snow in the Buffalo area made it impossible for the Bull swimmers to make the trip to Syracuse.

Tuesday's meet was to be the home debut for the undefeated member of coach Ted Webster. They have won their first three meets.

No date has been set for the rescheduling of the meet.

The swimmers will travel to New York City Saturday to meet NYU. The frosh, also postponed, don't swim again until Feb. 7 against St. Bonaventure.

Other varsity meets will be against Williams, Colgate and Pittsburgh. The highlight of the home season will be the New York State Inter-Collegiate Swimming Championship in March.

Coed Helps Police To Apprehend Man

Fast work by a university coed in conjunction with city and Security Police resulted in the apprehension Tuesday of a Remsen, N.Y. man on charges of "outraging public decency."

Early Tuesday afternoon, as the coed, who said she wished to remain anonymous, was walking near Washington Arms Dormitory, 621 Walnut Ave., she noticed a man in a parked car. She immediately notified her housemother who called the Security Police.

Security Patrolman Raymond Cretzer and city Patrolman William Gilbert answered the call and apprehended the man moments later.

According to Robert Flaherty, director of security, the quick reaction of the coed in notifying the proper authority resulted in the arrest.

Flaherty recommended that any coed experiencing a similar incident immediately should notify a person of authority. He also said that the coed should try to give a description of the individual and the license plate number of his car.

Stern To Attend Vassar Convo

Prof. George Stern will represent Syracuse at the Vassar College Educators' Conference on Jan. 12 and 13 in Poughkeepsie.

Stern, of the Psychological Research Center, will join 37 other visiting guests and members of the Vassar faculty and interested students.

Teacher and student habits will highlight the discussion. The ideal relationship between research and teaching will be sought.

Vectors, French Author, To Talk

Vectors, the famed French author whose writings inspired the World War II resistance movement in Paris, will discuss "Contradiction and Unity in Art" at 8 p.m. today in H.B. Crouse auditorium.

He will speak entirely in French.

Still active as a writer, his latest novel, "Sylvia," received favorable reviews in the New York Times book review section last Sunday.

His best known novels, "Silence de la Mer" and "Le Marche a L'etoile," were products of the resistance period. "Silence" is the story of the state of mind of the French resistance workers.

Born Jean Bruller, Vectors assumed the pen name during the war. He chose it because it symbolized the spirit of resistance against repression.

Vectors traveled through Russia and Yugoslavia pleading for freedom of the writers imprisoned during the Hungarian revolt. He came to the United States in 1946.

Final Sign-Up For Coed Rush

Freshmen coeds may still sign up for formal rush, according to Panhellenic Rushing Chairman Ginny Frykman.

The final sign up will be 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday Jan 13 at the Panhellenic office. Coeds who are unable to register on Saturday should call the Panhellenic office.

Currently 882 freshmen coeds are registered, Plan A, Christian tradition, has 452 registered rushers; Plan B, Sunday, February 4, has 333; and Plan C, both traditions, has 95.

Plan A rush will begin Friday, February 2. Plan B rushes from A-L will rush on Saturday, February 3. Plan B rushes from M-Z will rush on Sunday, February 4. Plan C rushes will rush with Plan A on Friday and Sunday, and with Plan B rushes on Saturday.

City girls who do not have rushing counselors should call Panhellenic Rushing Counselor Pat Kelly.

out of food," he added, and labeled this problem a "managerial failure."

All bent silverware from dining halls was sent out to be fixed during vacation, Wingate added.

The two amendments will be taken to the university Personnel Board and then submitted to a campus referendum in elections this spring.

The first states: "The rights of the students to freedom of speech and press and the right to peacefully protest, and to petition for redress of grievances shall not be abridged."

Its purpose is to "serve as a constant reminder to the administration and public that students entering Syracuse University do not thereby waive any of their inherent prerogatives as American citizens. . . ."

The second "guarantees the rights of the students to be secure in the privacy of their rooms," and requests a Joint Student Court search warrant to be issued before search or seizure proceedings are made.

Wingate said both he and food service Director Ursula Pettengill agreed there is "a lot of room for improvement" in the quality of food served.

He noted that the report asked specifically for better quality meat and that according to Mrs. Pettengill prime quality meat has been and is being served.

Millstein Elected

Junior Alan Millstein was recently elected Superior of the Chi chapter of Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity.

Millstein who comes from Brooklyn, will assume office next semester. Alan Bratten is Vice Superior; Benjamin Brown, treasurer; Norman Begun, recording secretary; Robert Arens, corresponding secretary and Herbert Lande, historian.

A Daily Orange columnist and junior editor, Millstein has pledged to act consistently with the ideas he expressed during the recent debate concerning the essence of the Greek system.

Dead Week . . .

Liberal Arts colleges, the LAAC has four members from each of the sophomore, junior and senior classes, president Fritz explained. "It is a sounding board for current student opinion," he remarked, adding that LAAC looks into each of the problems brought before it.

"The new student tutorial program recently put into effect is one of the accomplishments of LAAC," Fritz pointed out. "We worked on this program for two years," he continued.

Working in cooperation with Joint Student Legislature, LAAC was also instrumental in the extension of library hours which was enacted last spring. LAAC also works with the administration in requesting policy definitions for the student body.

The council is divided into three subcommittees: publications, student activities and curriculum.

Currently under consideration by the publications subcommittee is a proposed revision of the University catalog to include suggestions for practical uses for specific majors, activities, honors programs and honoraries available in each major field.

The much-debated topic of a student union is under consideration in the student activities subcommittee of LAAC.

An investigation of the effect of gym grades on student averages is in the curriculum subcommittee. Possible concessions to dean's list in this area are also being discussed.

Some say we go overboard, the lengths we go to in testing Ford-built cars at "Hurricane Road"—our wind-and-weather lab in Dearborn, Michigan. And for practical purposes—we do. You might call it "testing in depth."

Ford scientists and engineers have devised a gigantic test tunnel that creates monsoon rains and tornadic winds in a matter of minutes. Super sun lamps boost temperatures from 20 below to 160 above zero. Fog and drizzle, snow and sleet—all at the twist of dials. Huge cylinders beneath test-car wheels imitate every kind of road: from flat, smooth turnpike to rutted mountain trail.

Out of it all comes knowledge of how to build better cars—cars that are built to last longer, require less care, and retain their value better. This constant aiming for perfection is just one more way in which research and engineering are earning for Ford Motor Company its place of leadership.

IS STUDYING NECESSARY?

Once there were three roommates and their names were Walter Pellicci, Casimir Ping, and LeRoy Holocaust and they were all taking English lit, and they were all happy, friendly, outgoing types and they all smoked Marlboro Cigarettes as you would expect from such a gregarious trio, for Marlboro is the very essence of sociability, the very spirit of unity, and every soul of concord, with its tobacco so mild and flavorful, its pack so king-size and flip-top, its filter so pure and white, and you will find when you smoke Marlboros that the world is filled with the song of birds and no man's hand is raised against you.

Each night after dinner Walter and Casimir and LeRoy went to their room and studied English lit. For three hours they sat in sombre silence and pored over their books and then, squinty and spent, they toppled onto their pallets and sobbed themselves to sleep.

This joyless situation obtained all through the first semester. Then one night they were all simultaneously struck by a marvelous idea. "We are all studying the same thing," they cried. "Why, then, should each of us study for three hours? Why not each study for one hour? It is true we will only learn one-third as much that way, but it does not matter because there are three of us and next June before the exams, we can get together and pool our knowledge!"

Oh, what rapture then fell on Walter and Casimir and LeRoy!

The wax in their ears got melted

They flung their beanies into the air and danced a gavotte and lit thirty or forty Marlboros and ran out to pursue the pleasure which had so long, so bitterly, been missing from their lives.

Also, they found instead a series of grisly misfortunes. Walter, alas, went searching for love and was soon going steady with a coed named Invicta Breadstuff, a handsome lass, but, alas, hopelessly addicted to bowling. Each night she bowed five hundred lines, some nights a thousand. Poor Walter's thumb was a shambles and his name was empty, but Invicta just kept on bowling and in the end, alas, she left Walter for a pin-setter, which was a terrible thing to do to Walter, especially in this case, because the pin-setter was automatic.

Walter, of course, was far too distraught to study his English lit, but he took some comfort from the fact that his roommates were studying and they would help him before the exams. But Walter, alas, was wrong. His roommates, Casimir and LeRoy, were nature lovers and they used their free time to go for long tramps in the woods and one night, alas, they were trod by two bears, Casimir by a brown bear and LeRoy by a kodjak, and they were kept in the trees until spring set in and the bears went to Yellowstone for the tourist season.

So when the three roommates met before exams to pool their knowledge, they found they had none to pool! Well, if, they had a good long laugh about that and then rushed to the kitchen and stuck their heads in the oven. It was, however, an electric oven and the effects were, on the whole, beneficial. The wax in their ears got melted and they acquired a healthy tan and today they are married to a lovely young heiress named Gang-lia Bran and live in the Canal Zone, where there are many nice boats to wave at.

In case you worry about such things, their wife is a Marlboro smoker, too, which adds to the general merriment. Marlboro is ubiquitous, as well as flavorful, and you can buy them in all 50 states as well as the Canal Zone.

Snow Sculptures, Skiing, Cancelled; Weekend Still On

Because the prospects for a heavy snowfall in time for Winter Weekend seem slim, the intercollegiate, intramural skiing events, and the snow sculpture competition have been cancelled.

Intercollegiate skiing is "hopefully" scheduled for Feb. 24, according to Weekend Chairman Inge Sorenson.

The snow sculpture contest will also be held at a later date. Application fees will be refunded next week.

Four Buses

Four buses which were scheduled to take students to the skiing events will go instead to the SU-Familion hockey game. This game is set to begin at 6:30 p.m. today at the State Fair Grounds Coliseum.

The buses will leave the Men's Gym at 5:10 p.m. They will return to the Men's Gym in two shifts: at 9 p.m. for students leaving after the university game, and at 11 p.m. for those who wish to remain for the free skating after the game.

All the other events of the weekend are continuing as scheduled.

The traditional torch parade will be held at 6:30 p.m. today at Drumlins. The parade will be followed by the crowning of the Winter Weekend Queen.

Ice Pageant

"Cinderella on Ice," the ice pageant, will be held immediately after the Queen's crowning. Nancy Fryer will be taking the part of Cinderella; Bill Gedalcia, the Prince; Janie Thomas and Annette Conglasi, the sisters; and Jane Thomas, the mother.

The Stockingfoot Dance, "Iglou Holiday," will take place from 8 p.m.-1 a.m. Friday at Drumlins. Coeds attending the dance will receive 2 a.m. permissions.

Stockingfooted students will dance to Cecil Cowell's orchestra. Decorated stockings will be judged for the funniest, most original, and adherence to the weekend theme.

ISO Plans Meeting

International Students Organization will meet Monday, Jan. 15, to nominate officers for 1962-63. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in Maxwell auditorium. It is important that all members attend this meeting, it was announced.

DO PLANS EXAM CRAM

The power of the press is not such that it can successfully combat final examinations. Neither is the brain power of this particular press such that it can face the rigors of finals without at least some cooling-off period. Therefore, be it here resolved that the all new Daily Orange will cease publication with this issue and return Wednesday, Jan. 17.

Some of you will learn a lesson from this sobering experience. Next year, perhaps, you'll save your back issues and each day pick up one of them and be refreshed as only the Daily Orange can refresh. So until we brighten up your mornings once again, read something in our place, like your textbooks.

Cleveland Out Of Segregated Cosmos Club

Assistant Secretary of State for International Affairs Harlan Cleveland was among the high state department officials who resigned from the elite Washington, D.C. Cosmos Club Wednesday because it barred a Negro department official from membership.

Cleveland was dean of the Maxwell School of Citizenship for five years until being appointed to the state department position on February 7, 1961.

Tuesday, J. Kenneth Gallraith, U.S. ambassador to India who had opposed President Kennedy for membership, quit the club because it had turned down Carl Rowan, a Negro who is deputy assistant secretary of state for public affairs.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said he talked the situation over with Kennedy and later told newsmen: "It is my judgement that the proposal of the President for membership in the Cosmos Club will not be re-submitted."

The club has admitted Negro guests of members to its club rooms but Rowan was the first who was prosed for membership.

Graham, Former Chancellor Dies

DR. WILLIAM GRAHAM

Dr. William Pratt Graham, Syracuse University Chancellor between 1937 and 1942, died at his home late Wednesday afternoon after a long illness.

Graham, the only layman and the first alumnus to hold the position of chancellor, spent 44 years on the Hill—first as a student, then a professor and dean, subsequently as vice chancellor, and finally as the sixth chancellor of the university.

Student Leaders Sign Memorandum Evaluating Raid

Thirteen student government leaders replied today to a memorandum issued by the Offices of the Dean of Men and Dean of Women yesterday asking for an evaluation of the Dec. 3 panty raid.

Following is the declaration: "As the students to whom the memoranda from your offices were directed, we collectively and individually resent the implication that there was a withdrawal of responsibility on our part during or following the spontaneous demonstration of December 3, 1961.

"Having conducted the requested evaluation assessment of the situation as it occurred, although, in truth, we feel that the time could have been spent more profitably on academics at this examination period, we submit the following:

"We feel confident that the student body is fully cognizant of the dangers—real and potential, of mob-like action. We do not condone damage to life, limb, or property, which reflects discredit upon our University.

"It is beyond reason to expect that any student leaders could have physically curtailed the Panty Raid, if twelve squad cars of police and the Dean of Men and his staff on the scene re-

Journalism Grad Gets Arents Medal

Mrs. Marion Link will be awarded the George Arents Pioneer Medal by Chancellor William P. Tolley at 8:30 p.m. today in the Hotel Syracuse. The award is made to Syracuse alumni for "excellence in their chosen professions."

The university is applauding Mrs. Link, a 1929 graduate of the School of Journalism, for her pioneer work in underwater archeology.

Mrs. Link's book "Sea Diver," published in 1959, recounts her search for the remains of Spanish galleons. While retracing the route of Columbus, she and her husband, Binghamton manufacturer Edwin Link, discovered

Fraternity On Probation; Opinion Hits Drinking Policy

— NEWS —

A third fraternity has been placed on social probation, this one for having held a pledge beer party.

Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford said the fraternity would not be allowed any coed social functions nor would it be allowed to accept as a group the invitations of any other organization for social functions on or off campus, in or out of the city of Syracuse.

Clifford expressed concern about the influence of chapter leaders in the situation at hand.

Alumni Supervision

"As a result, we are requesting special alumni supervision of chapter affairs during the probation period," Clifford said.

After spring recess "we plan to evaluate the progress made in the direction of broadening the experience provided members in areas other than social," Clifford continued. "In addition, there will

— OPINION —

By AUDREY LIPPMAN
"The university should change its policy on drinking," was the predominant idea expressed in brief student survey conducted Thursday.

Six students contributed opinions on the university drinking regulations.

A coed who prefers to remain anonymous felt students are not allowed to develop at SU. "University students are sent away from home to college to learn to be adults and to learn to take care of themselves. This is impossible at Syracuse where the administration is neither adult nor self-reliant enough to give the normal freedom of 19-year old people in New York State to their students," she stated.

"I think that the university should not act as a babysitter," said Wendy Weston, '64. "If the majority of the students desire a wet campus, the wishes should be upheld." Miss Weston did feel that while Syracuse was a dry campus, the students should obey the law.

"I don't like it. It's unfair," Henry Hueltren, '64, said. "A person in college is old enough to know when and where to drink. Students should be able to use their own judgement."

Asher Greenhouse, '63, felt that the university regulations were silly. "They're silly because you can get a drink at the Orange, so we really don't have a dry campus. The tougher the policy, the more it will be violated," he stated.

"It's similar to prohibition," said Thomas Mangin, Mangin, '62, felt that it is very difficult to enforce a law which doesn't have popular support.

Mickl Price, '63, said she found it amazing that we have a dry campus and are considered the "Miami of the North." "We're supposed to be wild here," she laughed.

Fraternities, Etc.

By KENT L. BARWICK

"A fraternity a day keeps the Dean in pay," seems to be the big refrain for the new year at old Syracuse. The snows fall and so do those rotten hard-drinking frat men. I wonder just how much social prohibition will mean when everyone finally gets on. Perhaps it will mean the slow death of the fraternity system, and after all, who could blame the administration for being anti-fraternity if that became the case.

Fraternities To Go?

They can say with complete candor that the fraternities have no one to blame but themselves. For just as they said after giving AEPJ the axe, we are not interested in their permanent disappearance. What Syracuse apparently wants is not to offend Fraternity Alumni, not to gather bad public opinion — the thing Syracuse University fears most of all—but to gradually squeeze the fraternity system. On the other hand, university policy seems to say otherwise. Now I will not be so presumptuous as to say that my Deans would utter an untruth, but I would advise, instead of allowing many students to go on as confused as I am that the University make some statement of policy, officially, in writing — something that can be referred to as a policy statement for at least a couple of semesters. In short,

Show Me!

On one hand Syracuse University officials constantly reiterate that they want a strong fraternity system. On the other, university policy seems to say otherwise. Now I will not be so presumptuous as to say that my Deans would utter an untruth, but I would advise, instead of allowing many students to go on as confused as I am that the University make some statement of policy, officially, in writing — something that can be referred to as a policy statement for at least a couple of semesters. In short,

"Don't talk of love, show me!" Show that Syracuse believes in student government by delegating to IFC the power to try the cases so ineptly dealt with by the Alumni IFC in rushing, and so quietly dealt with by the Dean Clifford. In other cases of drinking violations, plans for this are underway minus to the personal credit of Dean Clifford. If they are completed to satisfaction then we are in part "shown."

Show that Syracuse believes in the future of the fraternity system and its worth in the development of the individual by having a fraternity area for each chapter to build its own house. Do not stifle what little chance for individualism that remains at Syracuse in an especially designed King and King, monitory building. If the house all the fraternities in identical cement block rooms and recreation areas, and feed them in lovely big dining rooms run by food service and defended by Miss Pettengill, inspected by Dr. Marty and Col. Morgan who spent over twenty years in the Army. Spare us this, and show us your care.

Everything in the world that can be said has been said on drinking at Syracuse. Top administration is opposed to it for unstated reasons—not because of the damage to the school and not because of tee-totalling angels like Thomas Watson, but just because.

Arguments Pro

The argument that group drinking stimulates the individual and initiates many into the evils of alcohol may or may not be so. Nevertheless many feel that this is the right of the student and not the business of the University.

One argument that never fails to infuriate me is that because students at Harvard can't Cornell can drink is no reason why students at Syracuse can drink. When we say that what is good for Cornellians isn't necessarily good for Syracuseans it is like saying with forked tongue in cheek. That statement presumes that some difference exists between the two student bodies, when in fact there is no difference between the students at Syracuse and Cornell (except possibly that the students at Cornell were smart enough to choose a socially realistic university).

The Deans which says things more politely recently, could get a lot farther on this issue than I can, but they better get the facts straight first. A fraternal and sorority function is not measured in terms of three or four people, or couples. In fact there is no definite number that defines a fraternity or sorority function. Violations are determined by the character of the event in question.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Do editorial "On Drinking" does not discuss the drinking rules at fraternities and sorority functions. It states, rather, that "Students can walk a few blocks if they want a drink even if their house is on social probation. This is permissible as long as these people are in the same fraternity or sorority and not travelling in groups of three or more." Perhaps Mr. Barwick could get his facts straight.

POLICY ON LETTERS: The letters column is maintained for the expression of opinion by readers. However, the Daily Orange reserves the right to edit letters for grammar and good taste, or to reject letters. Letters should be written legibly, preferably typed, and no longer than 250 words. All letters must be signed with names and addresses; names will be withheld on request.

Drinking Laws?

An unjust law, be prepared to take the consequences.
Allee Tait, Student

To the Editor:
The Administration and students of Syracuse University.

While studying in the Leisure Reading Room of Women's Building, I left my coat and gloves on the coat stand outside the room. It was a very expensive fur-lined pair of gloves and coat. Some student walked away with them. I am wondering if the coat was not costly enough to catch his (or her) eye. Last year an innocent looking student in the Main Library got a book issued in my name and never returned it. I was so polite that I did not even ask him his name; therefore I had to pay the cost of replacement of the book to the library.

I wish to ask the Administration if there is a safe corner in the campus where we could leave our coats, etc. Without intending to complain about the incidents, let me request the American students to spare the non-Americans from this kind of patronage because we cannot afford to invest dollars in your dishonesty.

Reverse of Apathy

Student apathy has been a recurrent topic on campus for many years. It is, however, very gratifying to see one student organization reverse the trend. An organization that not only makes plans but seems able to follow them through to completion.

The group in question is the Liberal Arts Advisory Council which has recently initiated a tutorial program on campus. It is now in the midst of trying to get a dead week before exams for students.

LAAC worked two years perfecting the tutorial program and for this they deserve credit. Too many times in the past, projects which required more than a few months consideration were shunted aside when fresher, and seemingly more interesting, issues appeared.

Even if the LAAC does not get the dead week confirmed, they should get credit for trying. It is nice to see an active group on campus which puts forth a constructive program for the student body of Syracuse University.

Finale

The time of reckoning has arrived. All the work which students have been doing diligently during the semester will reach its culmination a week from Saturday. In other words, it's time for finals.

Some of us have left the studying slide, so it may be all nighters for the rest of the semester—what's left of it. But somehow we will all survive, and go on to greater glory next semester.

No matter what your situation is, good luck. Finals time is difficult, but there is always intercession to which to look forward.

On Campus

"How much is your scholarship per foot?"

AWS Clarifies Position

(Because of the misinformation presented to the campus by Jennie Ranov's column of Tuesday, Jan. 9, Standards Council, the AWS Executive Board, feels it necessary to clarify its position and function on campus.)

Standards Council's function is to set and uphold standards for Syracuse coeds. Members of Standards Council are elected each spring by the coeds to serve as their AWS officers.

Opinion Can Be Expressed

The opinions of every coed can be expressed to the Association of Women Students, of which every coed is a member, through the AWS Assembly. Women students can express their ideas personally at AWS Assembly or can be represented through their elected house president.

AWS Standards Council represents Syracuse coeds. It does not represent the administration. It is unfortunate when Syracuseans interpret every responsible action as coming from the administration. Standards Council maintains that students are also capable of responsible and independent leadership.

Panty Raid Statement

Standards Council's statement on the panty raid was prepared before the administration requested any action by student organizations. AWS was prompted neither by what went over the wire services nor by the administration. Standards Council acted on a matter involving women's conduct.

Morality did not enter into the situation in any way.

Standards Council does not intend to act as parents, babysitters, finger-pointers, clerks, or martyrs. However, if Syracuse women have a Standards Council, that council must be expected to comment and act upon women's standards.

DOWNTOWN THEATERS
RIVERA-CINEMA—A delicate theme involving a man whose mental illness causes him to have sexual feelings for little girls is intelligently handled by "The Mark," starring Whitman tries to have the problems of a "normal" person with the help of psychologist Rod Steiger (he's Irish this time) and the lovely Maria Schell. And if it's not enough trouble trying to keep Maria and her 10-year-old daughter happy, people will gossip about his past. A well done psychological drama. Mark 8:45 and 10 p.m.

LOEWS—See the big lizard. Big, big, see the scary lobster. Scare, scare, scare. See the slimy sea creatures. Slimo, slimo, slimo. See Jules Verne turning over in his grave. Oh, oh, oh, oh. There are more animated creatures than people in this adaptation of Verne's "Mysterious Island." Brian Keith once television's offbeat cowboy in "The Westerner" plays the lead in the co-feature, "The Deadly Companions." No times available.

PARAMOUNT—"Flower Drum Song" is the worthiest of the downtown entries this weekend. There are good songs, pretty dance numbers and, of course, Nancy Kwan. Oriental weeknights at 7:30 and 10:10 Friday; 8:15 and 11:15 Saturday.

KEITH'S—Feel that spiritual need for a contemporary catharsis and religious experience all rolled up into organic holocaust? We invite you to "Hey, Let's Twist!" Release all those collegiate and animalistic tensions, calm jittered 20th century nerves. Instead of taking out your aggressions at the local theatre manager for showing ten-day wonders (by beating him over the head with your shaky neotline stunted hands) twist in the aisles of the Keith's with Joy Dee, Teddy Randazzo and the Peppermint Loungers (they still sound like a pajama company). They invite that the twist is the latest fad created by Hearst since the Spanish-American war. Twist at 7:30 p.m. Friday and 8:15 p.m. Saturday.

ECKEL—"Babes in Toyland" used to be a good, happy story as written by Victor Herbert. Walt Disney, our man in Fantasyland, had to update it with a couple of contemporaries, Tommy Sands and Annette. The result is a good, happy story—for the bank book of Disney. Too bad such real performers like Ed Wynn and Ray Bolger had to get involved in this flimsy film. A Child's Garden of Worse at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m.

SHOPPINGTOWN—Hurry, hurry, hurry. Debbie Reynolds "Second Time Around" has only six glorious, fun packed days left before it leaves for waylifer runs in the neighborhood theatres. It's pretty flimsy material about frontier life, gamblers and good guys. They'll eat it up in the neighborhoods. Too bad food service can't buy all the prints and serve it up as a Celluloid Sundae. Around again at 7:15 and 9:45 p.m.

NEIGHBORHOOD THEATRES
HOLLYWOOD—Stark, bleak sets and photography; realistic locations in the slums of the city; actors with no make-up, post-scarred by the evils that men do. "Wives" Hollywood realism, shot at the scene this week. No more phony sets, high school dialogue, or local censors. Only the real truth in "The Hustler," starring Paul Newman. "The Young Doctors" tries to prove people in the medical profession are just plain. No times available.

FRANKLIN—Happiness abounds in this all-color double feature, Ginn Lollobrigida plays the confused bride in "Come September" with Rock Hudson as her cause for delaying the trip to the altar. If you're out for fun, this is the right place until the Dobby Twins, Sandra Dee and Bobby Darin ooze onto the screen. The suave Hudson and beautiful Lollobrigida just don't seem to go with Mr. and Mrs. Teenager. "The Pleasure of His Company" pits Fred Astaire and Debby Reynolds against a plot. The decision is a draw. No times available.

WESCOT—A Judy Holiday film festival this week (perhaps next week the Wescot will run a "Bowery Boys Festival"). America's answer to Communism is "The Solid Gold Cadillac," a funny take-off (but in good clean "we-really-like-big business" fun) on corporate stock problems. "Born Yesterday" co-features. Probably Judy's best film, says the Judy Holiday Film Festival for Art's Sake Fan Club and Civic Association. No times available.

PALACE—Audrey Hepburn, doing her emaciated best, trying to tell all the out of towners what sophisticated New York is really like. There are a few effective scenes in (See Weekend, page 10)

ski on song mountain NOW

NIGHT AND DAY—NATURAL SNOWFALL OR NOT

Song Mountain is a major ski center, professionally designed and fully equipped. Excellent lighting and the most advanced snow making machinery assures day and night skiing. Song Mountain is the first and only ski center in Central New York offering facilities equivalent to those of the major ski resorts in New England and Colorado.

Otto Schniebs, world-renowned ski authority, is the active Director of Song Mountain and personally designed and supervised every stage of its construction. He is also supervising the Song Mountain Ski School, which is directed by Don Powers, one of America's foremost skiing instructors.

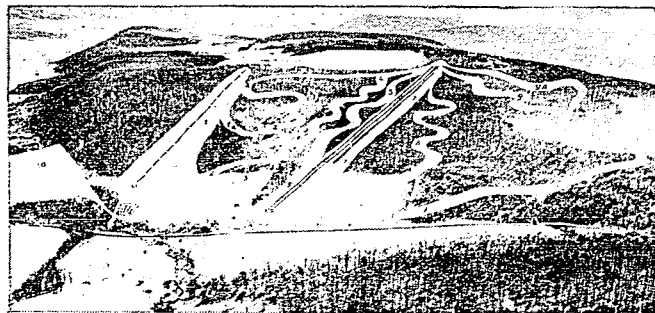

Song Mountain is easily accessible from any part of the country. 20 minutes from downtown Syracuse, it is adjacent to the new Penn-Can Highway, Route #81. There is parking for 1,000 cars. Syracuse is served by American, Eastern and Mohawk Airlines, the New York Central Railroad and Greyhound Bus.

The Song Mountain Lodge has been designed to be the ultimate in comfort and convenience. A superb dining room, which is open to both skiers and non-skiers, seven days per week, on a year-round basis, features the most delicious food in Central New York. Two huge log burning fireplaces contribute to the congenial atmosphere of the dining areas and cocktail lounge.

With a vertical drop in excess of 625 feet and a total elevation of 1,920 feet, Song Mountain offers a superb network of broad, carefully groomed interlocking slopes and trails. Designed by Mr. Schniebs to offer the utmost in sport and safety, Song Mountain has perfect facilities for the novice, intermediate and expert skier. The great slalom slope is over 250 feet wide and several of the trails are over a mile in length! Two 3,000 foot T-bars and a J-bar for beginners accommodate up to 3,600 skiers per hour.

Syracuse Relay Teams In Boston Track Meet

Syracuse University's indoor relay teams open their winter schedule tomorrow night in Boston Garden, running in the annual Knights of Columbus Invitational Track Meet.

The Orange entry will run without the guidance of mentor Bob Grieve, who is attending the National Coaches' Conference in Chicago. Andy Mogish, frosh baseball coach, will substitute for Grieve at the Boston meet.

A crowd of 14,000 is expected to jam Boston Garden for the meet, which attracts the top field and track competitors in the country.

Over 37 colleges are expected to enter either individual competitors or teams. More than 300 track stars are expected to compete.

Leading the field in the meet will be Frank Budd, 100-yard and 220-yard NCAA champion; John Thomas, Boston University high jump recordholder; and Ralph Boston, broad jump world recordholder.

The Syracuse entry will consist of a one-mile and two-mile relay team. Lee Prins, senior dash man is entered in the 50-yard dash.

Representing SU in the two mile relay will be Mike Guzman, Bob Brown, Joe Francello, and Mounce Ferguson. In the mile relay, the Orange will have Garry Sherman, Chuck Gaston, Guy McAuley, and Barry Klein.

Cagers Continue Quest for Victory In Philly Contest

While the D.O. staffers take a recess to errand for finals, the varsity basketballers will continue in quest of their first win of the season with four tough halfgames over the semester break.

Marc Guley's team faces LaSalle tomorrow night in the Philadelphia Palestra, tangles with Cornell Tuesday in the War Memorial, journeys to Utica to meet Manhattan on Jan. 20, and takes on Canisius in Buffalo on Feb. 13.

Coch Guley has been working his upper class combination against his all-soph line-up in practice this week, but the starters for tomorrow have not been named. The big task for the first five will be to contain the Explorer center Walt Sampson, 6-8 and a consistent scorer.

The freshman team, 4-1 for the young season, will have two chances for revenge against the Cornell squad that handed them their lone setback. The frosh play the Little Red in Ithaca tomorrow night, and host the Cornellians on Tuesday.

Both the freshman and varsity play Niagara in Niagara Falls on Feb. 7 in the first game scheduled after the semester break.

As fine a compliment as Syracuse All-America halfback Ernie Davis has been paid comes from Chet Smith, sports editor of the Pittsburgh PITTSBURGH. Smith calls Davis "undoubtedly one of the most magnificent backs of the decade."

Syracuse University has won 17 of its last 18 football games in Archbold Stadium, the Orange home oval.

Before the track team left for the Boston meet, the Daily Orange received a letter from dash man Lee Prins on the "primitive conditions" which the track team has faced in preparing for indoor meets.

Portions of the letter follows: "To the Editor: There are a few things that I am impelled to tell you about the track team. The track team has an indoor meet Jan. 13. The only barriers that we will have to overcome for the meet are these—first, we have no track to practice on; the wooden track we usually use is too rotten to use, but seeing that the new track in the field house will be a reality only in a number of years, the old one will have to do.

"Second, the equipment situation, while it is probably better than when John D. Archbold built the stadium and outdoor track, is more primitive than in any high school in the country.

"There was a great example of this last year in the indoor track season. Our team went to several meets with baggy gymnastic sweatshirts. We represented a United States team in Canada at these national relays in a multitude of clothing. These gymnastic sweatshirts were not meet suits, but rather the dirty ones the team had worn to practice all week."

The development of new products always leads to challenging new opportunities at Du Pont. Products like time-honored neoprene synthetic rubber, for example. Or more recently, "Delrin"* acetal resin for a wide range of plastic applications, and "Cronaflex"* engineering reproduction films.

Products like these have created thousands and thousands of jobs at DuPont over the years. Good jobs that not only contribute to the growth of the company, but assure Du Pont's employees of steady employment and the chance to progress. To keep these jobs coming in the future, DuPont's annual investment in research exceeds $90 million.

Right now, there are opportunities at DuPont for qualified engineers—chemical, mechanical, electrical, metallurgical and industrial—chemists and physicists, sales and marketing men. If you expect to receive your bachelor's, master's, or Ph.D. degree this year, talk with your placement director about Du Pont. For more information about opportunities at Du Pont, clip and mail the coupon below. And be sure to tell us your major so we can send you the literature that's most appropriate.

Piety Gymnasts Seek Third Win

By MARK DIAMOND

Captain Phil Voas, who accounted for 16 out of a possible 18 points in the recent Navy meet.

Voas was last year's eastern tumbling champion, and will be competing in the still rings, floor exercise and horizontal bar events.

Ray Grimaldi, third in the east in last year's side horse competition and rated by Romeo as one of the best men in the country in this event, is also counted upon heavily by the Hillmen.

The chief point-getter for Syracuse, however, is steady, hard-working Rolf Leninger. So far this year, Leninger has amassed 21 points in the two meets, including firsts in the still rings and side horse against Cortland State. Romeo terms him a balanced aggregation. At the moment, the Piety-men are strongest in the side horse, floor exercises and still rings.

the horizontal bar is his forte.

Syracuse will be led again by Coach Paul Romeo's gymnasts, sporting two straight impressive wins, journey to Pittsburgh tomorrow to take on the Panther tumblers. Nothing definite is known about the home forces, who will be engaging in their first regular match of the campaign. It is expected that they have about the same personnel as last year. Syracuse was victorious when the two schools met a year ago.

Pitt is paced by senior Earl McConnell and junior Ed Zamecnic. McConnell, is best known for his skill in the floor exercise, but he will be participating in other events as well. Zamecnic is also an all-around gymnast, though

Full Schedule Faces Orange This Weekend

This will be a busy weekend for all the Syracuse athletic squads.

The varsity and freshman fencers meet Cornell in Archbold Gymnasium Saturday at 1 p.m. The Syracuse team will be seeking its first win of the season. Syracuse lost its opener to Buffalo.

The wrestling team journeys to Pittsburgh for an evening meet with Pitt Saturday at 8. After a white-wash practice victory over Cortland last weekend, the Orange grapplers will be in quest of their first regular season win.

The swimmers of Ted Webster journey to New York City to do battle with NYU. The Syracuse team has yet to lose this season. Their victories have come over RPI, Cortland and Cornell. Snow forced a cancellation of this week's meet with Buffalo.

The SU hockey club adds to the Winter Weekend festivities with a contest against the Hamilton College junior varsity at the Coliseum Saturday. Face-off time is 6:30 p.m.

The lack of snow as of Thursday seems to have cancelled the weekend skiing meet at Skytop.

After Syracuse All-America Ernie Davis shook hands with President Kennedy, the Orange star called it his second greatest thrill. Winning the Heisman Trophy still ranks No. 1.

One wag had a good question to raise after Syracuse All-America Ernie Davis was summoned for a hand shake by President Kennedy. Said the comic: "Do you think that George Freston Marshall got the President to intercede for the Redskins?"

PIONEERING

Somewhere out there, beyond the realm of man's present understanding, lies an idea. A concept. A truth.

Gradually, as it comes under the concentration of disciplined minds, it will become clear, refined, mastered. This is the lonely art of pioneering.

In the Bell System, pioneering often results in major breakthroughs. Planning the use of satellites as vehicles for world-wide communications is one. Another is the Optical Gas Maser, an invention which may allow a controlled beam of light to carry vast numbers of telephone calls, TV shows, and data messages.

Breakthroughs like these will one day bring exciting new telephone and communications service to you. The responsibility of providing these services will be in the hands of the people who work for your local telephone company. Among them are the engineering, administrative and operations personnel who make your telephone service the finest in the world.

fruits from doing so. As far as we can ascertain, responsible students at the disturbance, viewing the lack of action of the above groups, likewise decided against physical action.

Football Seating

When students asked for help to fall in controlling the potential danger inherent in a crowd of this size, they were met with refusals from the Administration. We refer specifically to the stance at year's Pinecroft Conference when we asked for better enforcement of group rights in regard to football block seating. This request unfortunately was shrugged off by those administrators present.

"We feel it is imperative to put the 'Panty Raid' into perspective:

"1. Of approximately 7,500 undergraduates, 800 participated in the roving group. The personnel and the personnel with those students whose behavior was observed to be injurious to others, injurious to themselves, or not in keeping with University rules and regulations. As a result of these conferences, only three students were referred to Student Court.

"2. While regretting that property damage did occur, although it was not specifically enumerated by the Administration, the costs were minimal, in relation to the size of the demonstration. It costs $350 per football game to clean Archbold Stadium.

"3. We do not feel that the comparatively mild Panty Raid caused any more unfavorable publicity to this University than have such demonstrations at Oxford, Columbia, Brown, Yale, Harvard, and other prestige institutions. We who will have Syracuse University attached to our degree for a lifetime, also have a vested interest in the image which it presents to the public.

However, we do not feel that the student body as a whole should be held accountable for the erroneous news stories which local news services neglected to verify. In our opinion, the ridiculous dragging-out of this issue has contributed to publicity as unfavorable as that resulting from original demonstrations.

"4. Student-initiated projects enumerated in the Pinebrook report, and exhibited in the work of the college advisory councils and University Students' Advisory Council indicate that students have banded together in a common concern for the academic climate of the University, and will continue to do so.

"We further feel that the present restrictive policies of the University, with regard to the status of student organizations and student social regulations, do not present an atmosphere non-conducive to demonstrations. "As the memoranda requested, we submit our recommendation: that in the future, students and administrative personnel work together in more constructive areas; the improvement of the academic climate, and the creation of additional recreational facilities, as well as the formulation of policy on student conduct."

The student government leaders who signed the statement are: Betsy Evans, Samuel W. Farr, Sloane Dugan, Eden Howard, Richard Miller, Beth Jensen, Peter Fielding, Susan Finegold, Kent Barwick, James Talon, Marilyn Burke, Brian Fitzgerald and Virginia Privatere.

A National Plague

Take one college student, put him behind the wheel of a car, add a little speed and an icy road, and the result can often be tragic.

The car in the picture above was stolen by three teenagers who jumped out of the car shortly before it rolled over and burned, caught in a forest of vines. In this case the three escaped uninjured but many end up dead rather than in a line-up.

Rushing to make up lost time when you're too tired to drive is another mistake often fatal to the American driver. This man was killed when he was impaled by a board from a picket fence. After mowing down several yards of fence his car came to rest against a tree.

The man at the right didn't believe in seatbelts. First aid attendants can clean up the blood but they can never remove the scars on his face that he received when he went through the windshield of his car.

Had this man, and many other Americans, worn seat belts they would be alive and healthy today.

The National Safety Council figures show teenage drivers have more accidents than drivers of any other age group. Many of these accidents could have been avoided with the use of snow tires, seat belts, and that extra ounce of carefulness.

The Council urges Syracuse drivers to take these extra precautions.

A skiing trip turned into a tragedy for the three students riding in the car above. All three were killed when they skidded on icy roads into the path of an oncoming automobile.

This accident might have been avoided if the car had been equipped with chains or snow tires.

HAL HOLBROOK

Hal Holbrook Appears As 'Mark Twain'

Hal Holbrook as "Mark Twain" tonight will appear at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 13 at Lincoln Auditorium.

The show is being brought to Syracuse by the Famous Artist Series under the direction of Mr. Beinfeld.

Holbrook will be completely disguised as Mark Twain through the help of an elaborate make-up job.

When Holbrook had brought this show here two years before he made the comment, "I like the way that he (Mark Twain) thinks. He represents the kind of character that I believe worth believing in—individuality. Twain has a very discerning way of speaking the truth. People laugh because he is saying the truth."

"Mark Twain" went on Broadway for a "limited two-year stay" last year and then ran for 28 weeks of sold-out houses.

Genevieve, who is seen regularly on the Jack Paar show, will be appearing in Syracuse in a Broadway revue on Jan. 20. She appeared last in Syracuse in October, 1958 in "Can Can."

'Flower Drum Song' Called Excellent Film

Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Flower Drum Song" was a terrific Broadway show; the movie version, now playing at the Paramount theater, is also excellent.

It's not the story of four persons' romantic entanglements in the production. It's the Chinese sensation that makes the movie; it's the great music, and the way many of the songs are made part of beautiful production numbers.

Director Henry Koster has taken songs like "Grazing in the Sun," "Sunday" and "A 100 million Miracles" and fashioned them into outstanding visual masterpieces.

The gem of the movie is the production of "Love, Look Away," in which the idea of the song becomes a vehicle for a wonderful dream sequence.

Tops among the cast is Miyoko Umeki, who, along with Junonia Hall, are the only principals from the Broadway show who were used in the movie.

Miss Umeki, portraying a servile Chinese native who comes to the United States to marry a strip joint owner, but doesn't, is cute as a button, and has an irritatingly sweet voice.

Nancy Kwiat, the screen's Suzie Wong, does well in the role of Linda Lou, a night-club stripper. She doesn't belt out her songs as did Pat Suzuki, who sang the role on Broadway, but her vitality makes up the difference. She does a fine job with "I Enjoy Being a Girl," perhaps the most feminine song ever written.

James Sigeta is appropriately well-mannered and smooth as the young student who eventually marries Miss Umeki, and Jack Soo, who had a minor role in the stage production, is very good as the night-club owner.

Miss Hall has some excellent comedy lines, but her featured song, "Chop Suey," which was done so well on the stage, is butchered in the movie.

While the overriding plus about "Flower Drum Song" is the music, mention must be given to belated comedy bits which also shine. Miss Umeki's education in American romantic customs via TV, and the way she uses them to help win her man, is a riot.

Williams' Play At Lively Arts

The Drama Dept. production of Tennessee Williams' "This Property is Condemned" will be performed Jan. 12, 18, and 19, at the Lively Arts Coffeehouse, 810 E. Genesee St.

The show stars SU students Bonnie Cousins and Stuart Dillon, and is directed by Irene Colub. All productions at the Lively Arts are under the supervision of G.F. Reidenbaugh.

'Bernarda Alba' At Boar's Head

"The House of Bernarda Alba" by the Spanish poet and playwright Garcia Lorca will run 8:30 tonight and tomorrow at the Drama Building.

G.F. Reidenbaugh directed the modern tragedy, which features Misses Miriam Levy as Bernarda and Marion Present as La Poncia, a maid servant of the household.

Tickets are $1.50. For information concerning reservations call the Drama Dept.

"Breakfast at Tiffany's." Lots of humor, lots of heart string tugging, lots of stomach rumbling. No times available.

KALLET-GENESEE — John Wayne is back. Gentle fans still proving that the fresh Hollywood elixir can make most any dull, stolid character rich, famous and still a pretty good swashbuckler. Even at the age of fifty. In "The Commanders" Wayne wants to find some renegade whites that are led by two Israeli imports, N. Persoff and I. Fain. The movie has all the cliches furious. Wayne 6:30 Friday and 5:37 Saturday.

DRIVE-INS

LAKESHORE — An all Academy Award show this week. If you missed either of these features first time around as separate films, second time as a double bill downtown, third time around as double bill in the neighborhood theatres, fourth time around when it hit the drive-ins this summer, this is probably your fifth to last chance to watch Jack Lemmon in "The Apartment" and Burt Lancaster in "Elmer Gantry" fiddle around with morality and religion. Lemmon gets the girls, Lancaster gets that of time spirit. Apartment 8:10 p.m., Gantry 10:20 p.m.

DEWITT — Audrey Hepburn tries hard, and there is an inately funny party scene, but otherwise we like "The Breakfast at Nedicks'" school of filmmaking better than the unwholly, once sophisticated, anemic "Breakfast at Tiffany's." Besides, we don't care how "in" Audrey Hepburn is. No New York girl would sit on a fire escape with jeans and a sweat shirt singing a song written by Henry Mancini. It's not ethnic. No times available.

RADIO-TELEVISION

GOOD YEARS — Henry Fonda, Lucille Ball, and Mort Sahl star in this social history of the times. 8:30 Friday WHEN-TV (Channel 8).

THE FOURPOSTER — Jackie Cooper, Tom Ewell, and Tammy Grimes star in this adaptation of Jan de Hartog's two character play. 8:30 Saturday, WHEN-TV (Channel 8).

JOHN BROWN'S BODY — Richard Boone narrates this dramatic adaptation of Emet's Pulitzer prize poem. 1:30 p.m. Sunday, WHEN-TV (Channel 8).

SPORTS SPECTACULAR — Four men will represent the U.S. in the world ski-jumping championships next month in Poland. One event is held this Sunday, 2:30 p.m. Sunday, WHEN-TV (Channel 8).

PRO BOWL — Eastern conference all-stars clash with the Western conference all-stars in the National Football League's pro bowl. 3:45 p.m. Sunday, WSVH-TV (Channel 3).

COLLEGE BOWL — Students from the University of Wyoming meet the winner of last week's match between Brigham Young University and Villanova University. 5:30 p.m.

Sunday, WHEN-TV (Channel 8).

TWENTIETH CENTURY — Presents "Sportscars: The Race to Race." This is a preview run of the Grand Prix de Monaco. 6:00 p.m. Sunday, WHEN-TV (Channel 8).

SU Chorale Sets Crouse Concert Sunday, Jan. 21

The first campus performance of the Syracuse Chorale will be given 4:00 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 21, in Crouse Auditorium. The concert will be conducted by Mary Jane Stasiw.

The Chorale, now affiliated with the Syracuse Symphony Orchestra, will present Beethoven's Hallelujah from "Mount of Olives," and Monteverdi's Magnificat. Six Folk Songs by Brahms and the Prologue in Heaven from the opera "Messiah" by Bizet will also be performed.

The accompanists are Frank Macomber on the Holtkamp organ and Jerrold Cox on the Allen organ.

The Chorale will present, with the Syracuse Symphony, Honnicker's "King David," May 15, 1962. Karl Krutz will conduct.

The Chorale is a community chorus open to all interested singers, students and faculty.

You may or may not be able to twist to the tune "Little Brown Jug", but you can go and twist at the Brown Jug. Once again, and more slowly for those of you who are reading this in your eight o'clock, there's a fine night spot right here in Syracuse named after the song our dear parents used to sing to us and its right in the heart of town at 521 S. Salina St. There, that wasn't so hard was it? But I digress.

Fine food, beverages and continuous live music every night mind you, make the Brown Jug the surefire college spot. The B.J. menu boasts superb Southern Fried Chicken, broiled pork chops and complete seafood dinners as well as Italian spaghetti. There is also a wide variety of sandwiches, hot and cold and of course, pizza to take out, ranging in price from $1 to a buck and a half.

Two ice jugglers are always on duty at the Brown Jug to make sure you never get thirsty and for entertainment, there is the fabulous Mickey Patti at the organ.

Oh yes, and on Mondays, the Chris "Jazz" Powell Trio makes the scene for their usual fine jazz festival playing as only Chris and his gang can. What more could you ask?

And just to make the Brown Jug seem a little more a part of the ol' S.U. college scene, brothers Sam and Paul Chiodo are again holding their annual "Athlete of the Year" dinner and of course they're honoring who else but Ernie.

Yep, the song may be gone but the B.J. lives on, that's the Brown Jug at 521 S. Salina. Go see 'em and happy exams to you too!

Painting Expresses Inner Self: Vercors

By LOIRIAINE JACKOWAY

Art is a form of man's rebellion against the unknown, a construction which expresses man's will to conquer and be free, according to Vercors, French author whose writings inspired the World War II resistance movement in Paris, France.

Speaking in French and discussing "Contradiction and Unity in Art," Vercors said no one can give the same answer to the question, "What is art and painting in reality?" "All artistic feelings are expressed by art," he said.

Realistic art is incapable of doing what abstract art can, Vercors observed. Abstract art is an expression of man's inner self in which he manipulates a tangible object he undertakes to bring out his inner feelings, he said.

Realistic art lacks unity, commented Vercors, and so presents nature realistically; it does not truly express man's inner self.

Man struggles against the question of existence and death which are incomprehensible to him, the writer said. He is the only "animal" who refuses to live in ignorance and rebels against the unknown.

Even the primitives, who were savages, had art, he said. They interpreted what they saw in art, Vercors stated, especially nature. Vercors' latest book, "Sylvia," recently received favorable reviews in the New York Times book review section. His best known novels are "Silence de la Mer" and "Le Marche a L'etoile."

Casowasco Talks Set Jan. 31-Feb. 2

The annual Hendricks Chapel Mid-Winter Casowasco Conference will be held starting Jan. 31 at the Casowasco retreat center near Auburn. The conference will continue through Feb. 2.

The main speaker of the conference will be Dr. William Mueller, of "The Prophetic Voice in Modern Fiction," chairman of the English department at Goucher College. Dr. Mueller is author of the book from which the conference draws its theme.

The conference will consider the writings of four authors: Albert Camus, J.D. Salinger, Graham Greene, and C.P. Snow. Dr. Mueller will lead the conference in an exploration of the ways that these contemporary writers present and seek to resolve basically religious problems.

Registration and an $11 fee are due Jan. 19 with Mrs. Wiley in the Chapel Board Room. Books for the conference are on sale in the Chapel Lounge.

Transportation to and from the conference will be provided by chartered buses leaving at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 31, from Hendricks Chapel and returning 5 p.m., Feb. 2. The buses will return in time for sorority rushing.

Panhel Donates Dance Earnings

A donation of $950, proceeds of the Panhellenic Charity Ball, will be presented to the Student Health Service Building Fund, according to Ball Chairman Madge Turner.

Dr. Frederick Marty, director of the Health Service, said the health service was grateful for the interest shown by Panhellenic. "Not only the donation but the affair was a credit to Panhellenic."

The ball, held in the Hotel Syracuse, Dec. 11, drew 350 couples. "We felt the ball was socially a great success," said Miss Turner. "We wish it could have been even more successful financially."

Economic Geologist to Give Lecture

Dr. John C. Ludlum, geologist of the University of West Virginia, will speak at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 16, in 17 Lyman Hall.
