Beta of Georgia Chapter

Phi Beta Kappa

From the time that Agnes Scott was chartered as a college in 1906, the members of the faculty were keenly interested in having a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, but, in keeping with a well established policy of the college, they decided to make no active effort to secure such recognition until they themselves were fully convinced that the institution measured up to all the high requirements of Phi Beta Kappa.

A very important step was taken on May 19, 1914, when the faculty voted to establish an honor society to be known as Gamma Tau Alpha. The first members of this organization were the six members of the faculty who were also members of Phi Beta Kappa, namely, J. D. M. Armistead, Mary Cady, Mary DeGarmo, J. Sam Guy, C. P. Oliver, and Lillian S. Smith. At the organization meeting of Gamma Tau Alpha, it was determined that the general plan of the society would be modeled as nearly as possible on the principles of Phi Beta Kappa. This local organization continued to function until the Agnes Scott chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was established in 1926. Gamma Tau Alpha held up high standards of scholarship, electing to its membership undergraduates and alumnae of outstanding scholarly attainments and at its open meetings presenting to the community addresses by distinguished visiting and local scholars. This society also worked unceasingly toward securing a Phi Beta Kappa chapter for Agnes Scott.

On March 3, 1924, President James Ross McCain of Agnes Scott received notification from Secretary Oscar M. Voorhees of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa that Agnes Scott had been placed on a tentative list of colleges that might be considered for a chapter. President McCain was also advised to send information concerning Agnes Scott to the Phi Beta Kappa chapters in the South Atlantic District. This information was sent in the form of a report from President McCain setting forth the special claims of Agnes Scott to recognition at that time. The action of the South Atlantic chapters was favorable, and on October 24, 1924, word was received that Agnes Scott had been placed in nomination. On the advice of Secretary Voorhees, Agnes Scott on November 13, 1924, forwarded its petition for a charter to the Senate and National Council. Much investigation through reports and questionnaires followed. Also Secretary Voorhees and President Charles F. Thwing of the United Chapters made visits to the campus. On September 9, 1925, the Council of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, meeting in New York, took action granting a charter to Agnes Scott. The College was the one hundred and second institution to receive a charter and the ninth college for women to have this recognition.

Understandably, March 23, 1926, was an important day at Agnes Scott, for on that day the Beta of Georgia Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was established. The exercises were in charge of Dr. Oscar M. Voorhees, Secretary of the United Chapters. Representatives of twenty-one other chapters were present. The six Phi Beta Kappa members who were at that time on the Agnes Scott faculty became the charter members of the Beta of Georgia Chapter. These persons were Lady Coma Cole, Muriel Harn, Cleo Hearon, Robert B. Holt, Lillian S. Smith, and S. Guerry Stukes. President James Ross McCain, who more than any other person had been responsible for the success of the effort to secure a charter, was elected a foundation member prior to the institution of the chapter.

At the first meeting of the chapter on March 23, 1926, six alumnae members from the earliest classes of the College (1906-1911) were elected as were five members in course from the class of 1926. In the evening following the initiation of the newly elected members, the chapter heard an address by Professor R. E. Park of the Alpha of Georgia Chapter at the University of Georgia. His subject was "The Responsibility of the Scholar in the Community." At the same occasion Secretary Voorhees publicly presented the charter to the chapter and also spoke on the ideals and influence of Phi Beta Kappa and the distinction and achievement of its members.

During the fifty years since the establishment of the chapter, 646 members have been received into membership by the Beta of Georgia Chapter. These persons include the six charter members, one foundation member, six honorary members, 70 alumnae members, and 563 members in course. There are currently 608 of these members living.
