DEAN DEXTER S. KIMBALL SITS FOR HIS PORTRAIT TO BE HUNG IN KIMBALL HALL

Glenn G. Geiger and family, New York

I found unparalleled opportunities

While I was still an undergraduate at the University of North Dakota, I made up my mind that I wanted to live and work in the New York area. But I was interested only in a position that would provide an adequate living, and of equal importance, one in which I would have personal contact with people and be of help to them with their problems.

So I began an intensive study of career possibilities. I found that the one field that offered exactly what I was looking for was life insurance. And after comparing various companies, I chose New England Mutual—the first mutual life insurance company chartered in America.

I've received wonderful training in New England Mutual. And I've found unparalleled opportunities to serve my fellow man and to give my family security.

I'm living and working in the city of my choice. I'm guiding the financial affairs of a wide variety of people, and I'm establishing many valued friendships.

No wonder I feel so strongly that life insurance offers immediate and satisfactory rewards for college graduates who work hard, have high ideals and a genuine interest in the welfare of other people!

If you would like more information about a career in which your individual ability and industry—and nothing else—determine your income, write Mr. H. C. Chaney, Director of Agencies, 501 Boylston St., Boston 17, Mass.

One reason New England Mutual agents do so well is that they have a truly fine product to sell. The New England Mutual life insurance policy is a liberal and flexible contract that can give you just the kind of financial help you require.

And you will be pleasantly surprised to find that the rates for many New England Mutual policies are lower today than they were 20 years ago!

If you are interested in having your life insurance program custom-tailored to fit your personal or business needs, get in touch with one of your own alumni listed below, or one of the other 700 college-trained men who represent New England Mutual from Maine to Hawaii.

These Cornell men are New England Mutual representatives:

Russell L. Solomon, '14, Fort Wayne	Charles A. Laiblin, '24, Canton, Ohio
Benjamin H. Micou, CLU, '16, Detroit	Harold S. Brown, '27, Ithaca
Robert B. Edwards, CLU, '19, Omaha	S. Robert Sientz, '30, New York
Donald E. Leith, '20, New York	Rodney Bliss, Jr., '34, Agcy. Mgr., Des Moines
Archie N. Lawson, '21, Indianapolis	William J. Ackerman, '40, Los Angeles
	John J. McHugh, '40, Rochester

New England Mutual would like to add several qualified Cornell University men to its sales organization which is located in the principal cities from coast to coast. If you are interested, write to Mr. Chaney as directed above.

A Xmas Gift any Cornellian will treasure---Romeyn Berry's story of his many years at Cornell

BEHIND THE IVY: Fifty Years in One University With Visits to Sundry Others. BY ROMEYN BERRY.

These sketches are meant to be read with tongue in cheek. They are witty, warm-hearted, colorful, and completely in-souciant in presenting, from years of intimate knowledge, the vagaries of undergraduates, professors, and alumni, recollections of the early days of the University, anecdotes of departed characters and customs, pungent editorial comment on the passing scene at Cornell.

In book form, these one hundred and sixty-five pieces (they originally appeared in Berry's column in the Alumni News, "Now, in My Time!") comprise one of the happiest memoirs of a university ever written.

"It is an education to read this book, an education that is for those sentimentalists who have heard silence in Fall Creek gorge on a snapping winter day, and who have seen, not once but often, a blue October evening settling down over the Lake. It is an education because by the time you have finished it, this collection has grown into a full length and compact history, biography, and critical survey of every aspect of Cornell life."—The Cornell Widow

316 Children of Cornellians Enter University This Year

ALUMNI CHILDREN and grandchildren who have entered the University in 1951 number 316, according to information given by the new students. Total number of new students who came to Ithaca this fall and last spring is 2960. Last year, about 3400 students entered the University, of whom 363 were known to be children of alumni.

Director of Admissions Herbert H. Williams '25 reports that there were 621 "legacy" applicants for admission this fall, both Freshmen and transfers. Of these, 98 withdrew their applications before action was taken. Of the 523 remaining, 425 were accepted by the several Colleges but 128 withdrew after acceptance, leaving 297 admitted. Only 98 were rejected. Williams finds that 84 per cent of Freshman "legacy" candidates were approved for admission, as compared with 66 per cent of all Freshman candidates.

Highest grade in the New York State Regents examination for scholarships was attained by Ellen G. Kemper '55, daughter of Mrs. Peter Kemper (Mary Fennell) '18, who entered Arts and Sciences. As a senior in Newark High School last spring, she scored highest of 15,000 students in New York schools who took the examination, and won both a Cornell Scholarship and a State University Scholarship, with total value of $550 a year for four years. She was valedictorian of her class in high school, had won eight awards for scholarship, was editor of the yearbook, on the staff of the school paper, president of the dramatic club, and active in athletics. She will major here in English.

Founder's Great-Great-Grandson Here

Among the new students this year, twenty-three are known to be both children and grandchildren of alumni. They and their Cornell antecedents are listed in the adjoining tabulation of "Three Cornell Generations." One of these is Ezra Cornell IV, Freshman in Arts & Sciences, who is a great-great grandson of the Founder. His father is Ezra Cornell III '27, member of the New York City law firm of White & Case, and his grandfather was Henry W. Cornell, Sp '99, who was the second son of Governor Alonzo B. Cornell, the Founder's eldest son.

In addition to those of the third Cornell generation, twenty other new students named alumni grandparents but not parents. Anne H. Fincke, granddaughter of the late Dr. Harry S. Fincke '02, has entered the Nursing School, and these are Freshmen, with the names of their grandparents: Ruth A. Arnsden, Lyman W. Bole '19; Edward M. Anderson, David H. Jackson '98 (step-grandfather); Gloria B. Campbell, Edwin E. Campbell '05; Lynn Cohen, Samuel Greenfield '04; Franz Euler III and George E. Morson, Ernest F. Eidlitz '90; William A. Gleason, Andrew C. Gleason '05; Elizabeth A. Hough, Benjamin K. Hough '97; Robert O. King, Charles B. King '91; Andrew T. Kostanecki, John D. Adams '82; Betty H. McCann, Joseph C. Ramage '90; Ralph K. Miller, Ralph S. Kent '02; Sandra J. Montgomery, Maurice L. Warner '06; Frank C. Shirley, Frank Connard '93; Herbert B. Smith, Herbert L. Smith '93; Philip B. Stiness, Jr., Walter I. Tuttle '02; Barbara C. Thaler, Joseph Harris '13; Richard B. Thomas, James M. Thomas '94; and William W. Westervelt, grandson of William W. Root '90 and Mrs. Root (Anna Bronson) '93.

These listings are compiled by the Alumni Office from information given by new students when they enter the University for the first time. Besides those with direct Cornell antecedents, many alumni brothers, sisters, aunts, uncles, and cousins were named by these and other new students. Some, however, always fail to note their Cornell parents and grandparents as requested. To complete the listings for the University records, omissions noted of new students in 1951 are welcomed and will be published as received.

In these lists, students are Freshmen

Club Federation Works

FORTY-ONE CLUBS had ninety delegates at the annual meeting of the Federation of Cornell Men's Clubs in Ithaca, November 10. They gathered in Statler Hall to hear reports of the year's progress and elect officers, had luncheon together there before the football game with Michigan, and that evening dined with guests invited from the University in the Statler Hall ballroom.

At the business meeting, President Alfred M. Saperston '19 announced that the Federation now comprises seventy-five Clubs, with four more likely to be organized. He noted that members of the Faculty had been most helpful this year in speaking to Clubs on their travels, and a resolution of gratitude to these Faculty speakers was adopted.

The award for the most effective Club program this year had been voted by the executive committee to the Cornell Club of New England, and President Saperston introduced five members of that Club present: Rudolph L. Sittinger '15, Milton G. Dexter '24, Norman F. Bissell '27, Herman Steutzer, Jr. '31, and Franklin W. Carney '46. The award entitles the Club to elect a member to the Federation executive committee. Honorable mention for outstanding programs was also given the Cornell Clubs of Milwaukee, Wis., and Cleveland, Ohio.

Discuss Club Problems

General Alumni Secretary R. Selden Brewer '40 reported as secretary-treasurer of the Federation and opened a "workshop" discussion of Club problems and activities with summary suggestions for effective programs. Carrying on with specific explanations of procedures, Dexter described the New England Club's "Operations of a Secondary Schools Committee." Herbert R. Johnston '17, perennial secretary of the Cornell Club of Buffalo, told of "Duties of a Club Secretary." Louis J. Dughi '36 of Union County, N.J., spoke on "The Club Dues Problem." L. Wainwright Voigt '21 of Pittsburgh, Pa., described "The Planning and Execution of a Successful Meeting," and Rudolph E. Prussing '04 of Chicago, Ill., spoke on "The Importance of Continuity of Leadership." Director of Athletics Robert J. Kane '34 came in briefly to greet the delegates and tell them of the athletic situation.

Officers Elected

R. Harris Cobb '16 of St. Louis, Mo., reported for the nominating committee, whose report was accepted to re-elect Saperston as president and Brewer secretary-treasurer, with John F. P. Farrar '25 of Chicago, Ill., elected vice-president. Eugene A. Leinroth '19 of Philadelphia, Pa., August A. Denhart '25, Maryland, and John Marcham '50, New York, were elected to the executive committee.

President Saperston announced that the executive committee had elected as Federation directors of the Cornell Alumni Association, Selden W. Ostrom '21 of Westchester County, William H. Hill '22 of Trenton, N.J., and Emmet J. Murphy '22 of Twin Cities, Minn.

Each delegate received a folder containing rosters of the officers and Clubs and the Constitution of the Federation, an organization chart of the Alumni Association and list of its officers and directors, a list of University Trustees, copy of the Federation Newsletter, and several sheets of suggestions useful to Club officers.

At the dinner that evening, Vice-president Theodore P. Wright welcomed the Club delegates and their wives on behalf of the University, and Saperston and Brewer introduced many of the invited guests. Charles A. Norris '24 and Carl Schraubstader '24 of the New York Club provided impromptu entertainment and were followed by the Cayuga Waiters of the Glee Club. The evening closed with the new University film, "Spring in Ithaca."

Michigan Glee Club Visits

BAILEY HALL was crowded to the doors and waiting aspirants stood outside until intermission, hoping to hear at least some of the concert given by the Cornell and Michigan Glee Clubs, after the football game, November 10.

The Cornell singers led off, opening with four Cornell songs, in which tenors Edwin C. Gibson '53 sang the solo part in "Cornell" and William L. Hodges '52 in the "Alumni Song." Led by Director Thomas B. Tracy '31, the Club sang "Hallelujah, Amen!" and "March of the Men of Harlech;" then "Shenandoah" with Stephen E. Michelman '52 as soloist; "John Henry," and a group of Negro spirituals, ending with the "Alma Mater." The Cayuga Waiters, triple quartet, were applauded in their numbers.

The Michigan Club opened its concert, after intermission, with their traditional opening hymn, "Laudes Atique Carmina," sung in Latin. Most of their program was popular music, all specially arranged by their director, Philip Duey, who conducted and sang a bit of one number. It included a travesty on the Rachmaninoff "Prelude in C Sharp Minor," "Casey Jones," Cole Porter's "Blow, Gabriel, Blow" from "Anything Goes," a medley of popular "Songs of Broadway," and five University of Michigan songs, ending with "The Yellow and Blue."

Their talented baritone soloist, Russell Christopher, drew vociferous applause in the British folk song, "Lord Randall," and came back with the Club singing "It Ain't Necessarily So." The Novelaires quartet, resplendent with top hats, white gloves, and canes, gave a finished rendition of "Dearie," "We Three," and an encore or two, reminiscent of the best of the old variety performers.

The fifty-three members of the Michigan Glee Club were week-end guests in fraternity houses at Cornell.

Ivy League Songs Record

SONGS of the Ivy League, a new long-playing record for 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ r.p.m. players, contains an arrangement of "The Big Red Team" and the "Alma Mater," representing Cornell. Published by Capitol Records, the new record has also brief selections of the better-known songs of Columbia, Dartmouth, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Princeton, and Yale. All are sung by a chorus, "The Voices of Walter Schumann."

Professor Hedrick Dies

PROFESSOR Ulysses Prentiss Hedrick, Director Emeritus of the State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva and internationally recognized authority on horticulture, died November 14 in Clifton Springs Sanitarium. His home was at 600 South Main Street, Geneva.

Graduated at Michigan Agricultural College in 1893, Professor Hedrick came to the Geneva Station in 1905, from teaching at Oregon, Utah, and Michigan Agricultural Colleges. He was chief of the Division of Pomology from 1905-28 and then Director of the Station until his retirement in 1938. He was named professor of Pomology in 1919 when the Station was first officially affiliated with the University.

Professor Hedrick was the author of six large volumes on the Fruits of New York and one Vegetables, published by the State; of the Cyclopedia of Hardy Fruits, Systematic Pomology, A History of Agriculture in the State of New York, Manual of American Grape Growing, Fruits for the Home Garden, Grapes and Wines from Home Vineyards, Land of the Crooked Tree, and A History of Horticulture in America to 1860. He was a past president of the American Society for Horticulture Science and of the State Agricultural Society; a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of Sigma Xi, Kappa Alpha, Alpha Zeta, and several professional societies. In 1913 he received the honorary DSc at Hobart College and in 1938, the honorary LLD of Utah Agricultural College.

Gifts for Buildings Mount

ALUMNI TRUSTEE Walker L. Cisler '22 (above), chairman of the alumni committee to raise funds for completion of Kimball and Thurston Halls, reports gifts of $67,000 received from October 1 to November 15. This brings the total to $1,258,000 of $1,736,000 needed to complete the Engineering buildings now going up at the south end of the Campus.

Thirty-eight Cornellians who are members of the sponsoring committee are busy interviewing selected prospective donors all over the country to complete the fund. Thurston Hall, named for Robert H. Thurston, late Director of Sibley College, will be a central structure paralleling Cascadilla Creek, east of the Old Armory, for a Materials Laboratory and testing bay. Adjoining it to the east is Kimball Hall, named for Professor Dexter S. Kimball, Engineering, Emeritus, which will be a Materials Processing Laboratory. These two, with future wings to the west replacing the Old Armory, will form the southerly boundary of a new group for the College of Engineering, of which Olin Hall was the first. The Materials Laboratory wings now being built by White Construction Co. are expected to be completed next August, ready for use by fall.

Along with his activities for the University, Cisler takes office, December 1, as president and general manager of Detroit Edison Co. He succeeds in that office former University Trustee James W. Parker '08; has been chief engineer of power plants and executive vice-president of Detroit Edison and carried out numerous missions in this country and abroad for government agencies. Cisler has also been elected a director of The Detroit Bank in Detroit, Mich.

Grants Support Research

SEVERAL GRANTS have come to the University and Faculty members for research on mental and social health, heart disease, and cancer.

Appropriations totalling $77,450 are announced to the Department of Child Development & Family Relationships in the College of Home Economics for investigations to discover factors that make for mental and social health in the community. They came from the US Public Health Service, the Grant Foundation, and the Social Science Research Council from a grant to the Council by the John and Mary R. Markle Foundation.

The College is undertaking a long-range program of team research on social growth to be directed by Professor Urie Bronfenbrenner '38, with cooperation of other social science Departments in the University. The first three-year unit consists of three parts, of which the major one, now under way, is concerned with how the residents of a civic-minded New York State town solve their community problems. The second immediate project will test ability, called "empathy," to put oneself in the other fellow's shoes and sense how he thinks and feels. The third will train graduate students in methods of social research to be used in the long-range program.

College of Agriculture has received a grant of $11,000 from the National Cancer Institute, US Public Health Service, to continue a study of "metabolism of growing and non-growing plant cells," directed by Professor Frederick C. Steward, Grad '28-'29, Botany. Professor John G. Kidd, Pathology at the Medical College in New York, received $23,184 for his work on cancer.

Veterinary College received a Federal grant of $2,214 from the National Micro-biological Institute for research under Professor Dorsey W. Bruner '37, Bacteriology, on "induced variation in the genus Salmonella," an intestinal parasite of animals. The Institute also made a grant of $31,016 to Professor Walsh McDermott, Medicine, and one of $4,860 to Professor John Y. Sugg, Bacteriology, at the Medical College.

Thirteen Federal grants totalling more than $156,000 have been made to the Medical College by the National Heart Institute. One of $8,000 was to Professor Janet H. Travell '26, Clinical Pharmacology, to continue experiments with a cold spray she developed, consisting chiefly of ethyl chloride, that stops excruciating pains of heart disease. The other twelve grants are for research into various phases of heart and circulatory disease. The largest, of $29,916, is for a study of "age alterations affecting the death rate."

American Cancer Society grant of $48,000 went to the Medical College to enable Professor George N. Papanicolaou to extend his research on the "smear" test by which cancer in several body areas can be diagnosed through microscopic examination of cells found in body fluids. Sloan-Kettering Institute-Memorial Cancer Center, allied with the Medical College, received $250,000 from the Cancer Society to continue its chemotherapy program and other research.

National Institute of Mental Health awarded $19,944 each to Professor Howard S. Liddell, PhD '23, Psychology, and Professor Clive M. McCay, Nutrition. Professor Bronfenbrenner received a grant of $16,632.

Professor Henry L. Barnett, Pediatrics at the Medical College, will study under a three-year $15,000 award from Playtex Park Research Institute the developmental pattern of kidney function.

Phi Beta Kappa Officers

PHI BETA KAPPA chapter at the University has elected Professor Guy E. Grantham, PhD '20, Physics, president for 1951-52. Professor George P. Adams, Jr., Economics, is vice-president; Dane L. Baldwin '09, Goldwin Smith librarian, treasurer; Fatanitza L. Schmidt '26 of the University Press, assistant treasurer; and Professor George H. Healey, PhD '47, English, secretary.

Singers Open Series

CHAMBER MUSIC concert series this year opened with a delightful recital of madrigals and folksongs by the Randolph Singers, November 5, in the University Theater in Willard Straight Hall.

Imitating the home atmosphere in which the songs used to be sung, Director David Randolph and the singers (sopranos Anna L. Kautz and Harriet Hill, contralto Mildred Greenberg, Gordon Myers, tenor, and Bert Spero, bass) were seated around a table. Randolph prefaced most of the numbers with informal explanations.

The group displayed noteworthy ability in rendering the music and interpreting the moods of the language. The audience, most receptive, was rewarded with two encores.

Big Red Band Takes the Field—Between the halves of the football game with Michigan, the Cornell band played, marched, and spelled on Schoellkopf Field, following a similar expert exhibition by the University of Michigan Marching Band. Veerman '52

Band Gets Remade This Year

BIG RED BAND this year has played and marched and spelled on the fields of eight of the nine Cornell football games and is continuing practice for its basketball appearances in Barton Hall.

Of the 100 students who play in the Band, nearly half this year are new, along with a Freshman drum major, three assistant drum majors, the student conductor, and even the manager. Also the drillmaster has been replaced, so Professor William A. Campbell, Music, Director of the Bands, has had his hands full this fall developing the finished unit that has entertained so creditably in Ithaca and away.

Gets School Invitations

The story has already been told of how the Band was persuaded to give an impromptu performance in Danbury, Conn., on its way home from the Yale game, before 6000 spectators at a high-school football game there. Soon afterward, residents of "the hat city" showed their appreciation by sending Director Campbell a Danbury hat, which he proudly wears. A further aftermath of this appearance was an invitation to play at a school game in Madison, N.J., on the way home from Princeton, and a fine supper given to the Band there. The only Cornell football game at which the Band did not appear this year was at Dartmouth. It was to make the trip to Philadelphia and was invited to play at the Cornell luncheon at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel before the game with Pennsylvania and its appearance on Franklin Field.

Student musicians for the Band are recruited by Director Campbell as a result of letters he sends to all Freshmen who are accepted for admission to the University. They are invited to try out in the Band room in Barton Hall during two days before classes start. Women musicians he selects for the Concert Band, the best of the boys are accepted for the Big Red Band, and others are assigned to the Little Red Band, which then supplies any needed replacements during the year. The Band practices two evenings and one afternoon a week, both playing and marching.

After the Harvard game, October 13, Sergeant Joseph Lada of the ROTC, who had been drillmaster of the Band, was transferred by the Army. He is replaced by Master Sergeant Herbert J. Long, with Sergeant First Class Howard R. Allen assisting. The drillmasters have spent many hours planning marching formations with Director Campbell and working with the Band on Schoellkopf Field and in Barton Hall, perfecting them.

Freshmen Lead Marches

Freshman drum major is Lawrence D. Phillips, son of Professor Elmer S. Phillips '32, Extension, who officiates at the loudspeaker for home games. An amusing incident during half-time of the Harvard game (which had been carefully rehearsed) was when the Band started to go awry in one formation and was caught up by the admonition on the loudspeaker, "Hey, Larry, they're spelling it wrong!" Assistant drum majors are John A. Blesch '54 and Donald W. Payne '55 and the dexterous baton-twirler, added this year, is Gerald Gordon '55. Student conductor is Dwight E. Vicks '54 and the manager is David Hower '52.

Californians Hear Game

EDITOR: November 3, a hardy band of Southern California Cornell alumni braved the unseasonal heat and Saturday traffic to gather at the Mona Lisa Restaurant on Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles. They came to the call of "Irish" Davis '08, to join with a score of Columbia men in listening to returns of the game by direct wire from Ithaca. Will Templeton '42 and Fred Emmons '28 charted the returns on a miniature gridiron manufactured by Davis, while Bernie Meyer, Columbia football player in 1950, officiated for Columbia.

There we were, the past linked with the present, a score of loyal sons of Cornell in the summer heat of Southern California on a brilliantly sunny day, joined with the gloom and snow and cold of Ithaca by 3000 miles of copper wire, across which news of the close tussle poured instantaneously. Hardly a dry Cornell eye remained when the final score was up. Columbia men cheered while Claude Hyman '17 wept unashamedly into his beer.

To make the illusion more perfect, Gordon Angus '25 reminded me that most of the Columbia men present and both football teams were still unborn when we were at Cornell!

Youngest Student

EDITOR: The ALUMNI NEWS is always asking subscribers for news items and on my visit to Ithaca over the Michigan game week end, I learned a fact which might be of interest to my Classmates of 1911, to my son Professor Clinton L. Rossiter's Classmates of 1939, or even possibly to his son's Classmates of the coming 1971 Class.

I learned that David Goodrich Rossiter, two years and three months old, is the youngest student at Cornell University and is a "guinea pig" in the Nursery School of the College of Home Economics under the supervision of Miss Barrett.

Grandma and I visited the school Monday morning and observed the twenty-odd "guinea pigs" being studied by the students in that course. As a matter of fact, all the children had numbers on their backs, which reminded me of the Cornell-Michigan players, although there was no program giving vital facts.

If this is of any value as a news item you may use it as you see fit. In the meantime, congratulations to you on the very much better magazine which we are now receiving.

Now In My Time!

Courtney Perry

THERE ISN'T MUCH that students can do about it, as November fades into December, except settle down to a little serious work, with February examinations looming up. In my time, the sense of let-down which followed the excitements of October and November could be relieved in individual cases by a little early-morning duck shooting along the Rhine. But not now! Nowadays, even duck shooting has become too complicated and time-consuming for most students, and one wonders how many students now know what the Rhine is, or ever was.

For duck shooting nowadays, you'd have to go too far away to stand a chance of getting back for a nine o'clock recitation. Gone are the days when you could get it on your very doorstep, hidden in a boat among the reeds that covered the swamps back of Renwick and along the Inlet. Just the other day, your reporter attempted to locate the spot where in early December, 1901, he sat in a skiff behind the bullrushes for three hours and almost froze to death waiting for the canvasbacks to come in; which they never did. The exact spot, we figured, couldn't have been far from what is now the third green at the Municipal Golf Course. There were three feet of water on it then; but that was before the Inlet, once no more than a tortuous channel through the swamp, had been straightened and made as orderly as the River Thames; before the marshes, once the safe retreat of wild ducks and fugitives from justice, had been reclaimed and made to blossom into fairways and sand traps.

There are still ducks in that general area—also geese and whistling swan—but the place is a noteworthy bird sanctuary now and if a student were to be caught there with anything more lethal than a pair of binoculars, the Audubon Society would demand his blood and probably get a good share of his December allowance.

Many crimes can still be laughed off as "student pranks" in Judge Casey's City Court, but not being caught with a gun in the Fuertes Bird Sanctuary! Town and Gown see eye-to-eye on that point and many felonies offer safer fields for undergraduate indulgence. If a student feels the urge to shoot a duck in the December let-down, he'd better drive ten miles down the Lake and start from there. In my time, he'd have done better from the University Boathouse, provided he'd come and gone before Mr. Courtney arrived.

"The Rhine!", "Renwick!", "Mr. Courtney!" The chronicler of the passing scene feels the need of some lingua franca in which he can make himself intelligible to the graduates of six decades. The above terms would probably be meaningless to all but a handful of the Class of 1950. And if you were to mention that Anabel Taylor Hall is now pretty well walled in and roofed over as the winter closes down, you'd have to explain to many readers that all this was happening on what was once the site of Sage Cottage; to others, that it was the location of the Prentiss house that was involved.

With Thurston and Kimball Halls, whose steel frame is now mounting into the December skies like a gigantic bird cage, you'd be in even more difficulty. You'd have to mention Burdick, Benny Ide Wheeler, Old Doc Hitchcock, and the Walter Willcoxes as former occupants of the land now blotted out by the bird cage; and even then you'd probably get some bitter letters of correction from the Classes of 1889, 1900, and 1910.

No! The observer is on safer ground, I think, when he avoids the purely physical and the nomenclatures which change with breathtaking rapidity from one decade to the next, and speculates on what goes on in the undergraduate mind through the December let-down. It probably just about what went on in my time and in yours; pretty much what an im-provident squirrel thinks about when he realizes that winter is upon him and he's short of winter stores. He must sternly suppress his recent memories of houseparties, football games, and brass bands, and buckle down to hard work if he wants to stay here—and he does. He must even stifle va-grant thoughts of Christmas and Junior Week to avoid having examinations catch him with his Mechanics down.

With the years, we've come to suspect that the only thing around a university that doesn't change is the students and what goes on inside them!

INTELLIGENCE

Emerson Hinchliff '14

THE FOREIGN STUDENT in our midst—roughly about 400 of him from sixty-five countries—was the subject of Consider a panel discussion, November 6, in the Moot Court Foreign Room before about 125 people, many of them of the Students genus under discussion. The forum was sponsored by the American Association of University Professors; President Malott acted as moderator. It was interesting to pick up an occasional new idea, have some convictions buttressed, have some corns stepped on, and especially to see the thought lavished by Alma Mater on the problems posed and opportunities offered by this influx of picked youth from the far corners of the world.

Professor Robert B. MacLeod, Psychology, led off by analyzing what the foreign students bring here. Find First of all, they bring a stereo- New type of America as gleaned via Ideas Hollywood. Then they have the language difficulty; even with fairly good command of the language, it is a slower process to absorb new ideas in a foreign tongue. They have different attitudes toward education. European students find American student life regimented; also that there is less respect for learning and professors. Their preparation is different; sometimes better. They find different methods: attendance taking, prelims, and credit hours as opposed to the one big exam system, the latter a developer of self-directiveness. He liked the flexibility of the Cornell Graduate School, however.

This familiarity with American professors is one of the corns I mentioned. From talking with foreign students here about the friendliness and accessibility of American professors, and with American students abroad about the aloofness and lack of personal contact with European professors, I plump for familiarity even though it may breed a little contempt. Could be that I am just plain unorthodox, as evidenced by the fact that I think European politesse is overrated, being mostly from the lips out and not meant from the heart, except in Spain. But that is another story.

Professor Lauriston Sharp, Sociology & Anthropology, who has had wide experience with underdeveloped nations, examined the Some problem of the foreign students Frustrated after they return to At Home their own countries. He combatted the easy assumption that study here is all to the good, citing pre-war Japanese experience. Sometimes foreign students are more interested in the symbol (the degree) than in the learning, since the degree will qualify them for a government job. Sometimes professors will start graduate students too low and then crowd technical stuff on them too thick at the end. He had talked with fifty Cornell alumni in Bangkok, Thailand, and an astonishing number were in administrative (not technical) posts, for which they had received no training here. He was delighted with their alumni loyalty, Cornell meaning almost all their life in the US, but wished that some outlet other than giving money could be found for this loyalty.

Among alumni of all American schools in the Far Eastern countries in which he has worked, he frequently found little concept of how to apply to the mass of people the knowledge they had acquired. Some felt embittered and let down at home. Some felt frustrated at the lack of the latest gadgets. Some felt isolated by a mild barrier between those who had stayed at home, frequently their superiors, and those who had studied abroad. In a word, we should give more thought to fitting foreign students for the role they should assume when they get back home.

Donald C. Kerr '12, Counselor of Foreign Students for the last fifteen years, gave some very interesting They Fit background. He remarked at Cornell that Cornell had attracted foreign students from the very beginning; established the first Cosmopolitan Club in the country forty-six years ago; had the first international student house; and was one of the first to appoint a special adviser, a category which has now risen from forty to 1000 in ten years, during which time foreign students have risen from 9000 to 30,000.

He likes to think of them first of all as students and only secondarily as foreigners, remarking that all extra-curricular activities are open to them and that not so long ago one of them was football captain. Last year, 33 percent of the undergraduate foreign students joined fraternities. Many houses give free room and board to a foreign visitor, the University waiving tuition. Last year, seventy-five individuals from thirty-four countries lived in fraternities, sororities, or co-operatives. CURW and Willard Straight Hall are outstanding in their contributions. The Campus Club has a group of forty women who see that foreign students are invited to homes. Last year, seventy-three had scholarships, sixty assistantships, $150,000 being involved. The biggest present lack is dormitories, especially graduate dorms, though he would like more help in learning English instead of throwing all but the worst cripples into Freshman English.

Future possibilities include radio programs, tours, and more vacation invitations. He praised the fine attitude of the Faculty and its leniency in the first year. He suggested awarding some sort of a certificate in lieu of a degree for non-candidates and reported that a Foreign Student Council, similar to the Student Council, Independent Council, and Interfraternity Council, is being formed.

Discussion from the floor brought out nothing startling. Professor MacLeod called objective exams vicious in that they concentrate on minor facts; he said that tests were probably more important as motivation for work than for grading. A Göttingen man said that some Western German universities are instituting more discussion between faculty and students than used to be the case. A Hindu stressed the tremendous differences among foreign students, but that they are all just students, and that he himself feels at home and considers himself a "Cornell student;" a pleasant note on which to end!

Forty-five Years Ago

December 7, 1906—Seven lives were lost in the burning of the Chi Psi house, known to older Cornellians as the McGraw-Fiske mansion, early in the morning. Four members of the chapter were killed and three of Ithaca's volunteer firemen, one a former Cornell student, were crushed to death under a falling wall. Eight students were injured, one of them [Clarence J. Pope '10] so seriously that he may not recover. The house was wholly destroyed.

Fifteen Years Ago

December, 1936—A cast of twenty-one men of the Dramatic Club presented, December 12 and 14, the lesson of statesmen's folly, "Wings Over Europe," by Maurice Browne and Robert Nichols. Until the last scene, when, certain of their destruction momentarily, the play gives little opportunity to the actors. But here the members really come alive, in some of the best character work seen on the Willard Straight stage. Nixon Griffis '40 of New York City was generally adequate as Francis Lightfoot, the young scientist whose discovery of the secret atomic energy makes him all-powerful. Perhaps the most consistent characterization was that of Peter L. Hancock '37 of Washington, D.C., as Evelyn Arthur, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. Caleb Paine '38 of Ithaca as the Prime Minister, Walter Grantly, was also effective. Direction was by Professor Walter H. Stainton '19.

Ten Years Ago

December 7, 1941—Sudden fact of war was quietly received on the Campus. The Sun published an extra, late Sunday, which board members sold on the streets and in University dormitories. Sunday night, the Ithaca telephone office observed some increase in outgoing long distance calls, but the telegraph offices report that most of their messages were incoming, from parents to their sons here.

Florists Give Building

LONG ISLAND Ornamentals Laboratory of the College of Agriculture has moved into its own building at the State Agricultural & Technical Institute at Farmingdale, from quarters in the basement of an Institute building. The new structure, costing approximately $30,000, was built by the New York Florist Club and the State Flower Growers Association gave $2,000 more for construction of a greenhouse.

Established in April, 1948, in cooperation with the US Department of Agriculture, the Laboratory is directed by Professor Arthur Bing, PhD '49, Floriculture. Professor Charles E. Williamson, PhD '49, Plant Pathology, working on diseases of florist crops; Professor William A. Feder, Plant Pathology, working on diseases of bulb crops; George V. Johnson, entomologist, and Mrs. Edith T. Russell, Sp '20, secretary-technician, make up the rest of the staff. During the summer, graduate students work there.

The Laboratory cooperates with agricultural agents on Long Island and in Westchester and Rockland Counties to help solve the problems of commercial florist and nursery-crop growers under the special conditions of the area. Specialists of the Departments of Floriculture & Ornamental Horticulture, Plant Pathology, and Entomology assist in the work. Demonstration experiments on results of the findings are set up at the Laboratory and at Ithaca.

Melville A. Dauernheim '27 was on the committee from the Florist Club in charge of constructing the new building. Halsey B. Knapp '12 is director of the Long Island Institute.

Tucson Club Elects

CORNELL CLUB of Tucson, Ariz., installed officers for this year at its November 6 meeting. New president is Edwin D. McKee '29. C. Kenneth Bell '09 is vice-president and Rex D. Rehnberg, MS '47, is secretary.

Produce CBS Television Film

A "PILOT" VENTURE to produce films for television programs through cooperation of the University and Columbia Broadcasting System Television Network has started at the Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo. Production was begun the week of November 19 of a half-hour film, produced by Stuart Ludlum of CBS-TV, showing the Laboratory work on speed and safety in aviation.

This film, if successful, may lead to further cooperation with CBS-TV for films from other divisions of the University. President Deane W. Malott, announcing arrangements for the pilot film made with Hubbell Robinson, Jr. CBS-TV vice-president in charge of network programs, said "Cornell can only be enthusiastic at the prospect of contributing to the art of television while at the same time extending its educational services, and in a sense its Campus, across the nation." He indicated that the further development of such a program would be discussed with the Faculty and Board of Trustees and executives of CBS-TV.

For the first half-hour film, CBS-TV will finance production and have exclusive network rights to its use. The arrangement continues relations between the University and CBS radio network programming which have been in effect for eleven years through Radio Station

WHCU. The University has filed application for a television channel with the Federal Communications Commissions.

A University committee of ten members was appointed last April, with Vice-president John E. Burton as chairman, to consider University use and organization of audio and visual aids. The committee reported to the President, October 10, that:

"A successful broadcasting operation of the future will necessarily have to include television. Television restricted to educational programs does not fit the circumstances of the University. It would be extremely difficult to organize a full daily program of educational subjects that would maintain an audience, and it would be costly. Educational stations, as presently contemplated by the Federal Communications Commission, could not sell time. We believe Cornell should operate on a commercial channel, provided that harmony between educational purposes and sponsored programs can be achieved." The committee recommended "that every encouragement should be given to formulating a cooperative program between the academic departments and the . . . technical services [on the Campus] to produce and use audio-visual materials, including educational films for television."

Fraternity Alumni Set Standard—First charter in the Alumni Interfraternity Council, recently organized as a division of the National Interfraternity Conference, is presented to H. Victor Grohmann '28, president of the Cornell Interfraternity Alumni Association. Making the presentation is A. Ray Warnock, president of the national body; at right is C. Robert Yeager, its treasurer. The Cornell organization of fraternity alumni, formed in 1945, is the first of twenty-five to be chartered by NIC, and alumni groups from seventy-five additional colleges and universities have expressed interest. Grohmann, a member of Phi Gamma Delta, is serving his second term as president of the Cornell Association.

CORNELL won football victories on successive Saturdays over Michigan at Ithaca, November 10, and over Dartmouth at Hanover, November 17.

Cornell 20 — Michigan 7

THIS WAS IT! This was one of the most satisfying, one of the most exciting, one of the most gruelling football spectacles ever seen at Schoellkopf Field. Michigan partisans might disagree with this adjectival summary, but even they must have enjoyed the beautiful, balmy weather, the collegiate setting, the half-time activities with their own delightfully musical marching band sharing the spotlight with the Big Red Band, the noisome but friendly capacity audience of 35,300, and some portions of the rugged but cleanly played football contest.

After discouraging defeats by Princeton and Columbia the previous two weeks, Cornell went into the game as undisputed underdog to the 1950 Rose Bowl and Big Ten champion the last three years. That is, it was undisputed except for the inspired Cornell football players who thought otherwise and wasted no time demonstrating it. This was a contest right from the outset!

Coach James started John Jaeckel '53 of Leonia, N.J., at quarterback in place of the injured Rocco Calvo '53; William George '54 of Bowling Green, Ohio, at defensive tackle, and it was his first varsity game. Frank Vitale '52, guard; William Whelan '53, halfback; and Todd Kolb '53, end, played most of the game on both offense and defense. This was evidently successful strategy, for it stiffened what heretofore had been a somewhat porous defense, and the offense never performed better.

Defensive Lines Hold

Both defensive lines were furiously adamant and the offenses were held in check in the first half, although Michigan seemed to be able to move better than Cornell. Michigan threatened in the first quarter, but was stopped by vicious play, particularly by James Jerome '52, James Quinby '53, son of Carleton B. Quinby '24, and John Dorrance '52, son of Henry T. Dorrance '20. Bill Whelan's masterful punting also kept the Midwesterners in their own territory most of the time.

But it was Michigan that scored first, when in the second quarter Merritt

Green, an alert end, fell on Whelan's fumble on the 43-yard line and on the next play Captain Putich threw a fifteen-yard pass to Tad Stanford and he went all the way. In the second half, Michigan was held to the paltry total of thirteen yards rushing.

Cornell took the initiative in the second half with the season's best display of team offense. Jaeckel, nervous at first, soon started pitching effectively and he was given plenty of time in protection by his forward wall. His toss to Will-of-the-wisp Willie Whelan covered fifty-two yards to set up the first TD and later in the third period, his pass to Stuart Merz '52 for thirty-nine yards scored the second. William Kirk '52 kicked both points.

Lyndon Hull '52, son of William C. Hull '22, Whelan, and Merz, son of Harold O. Merz '22, were fiery runners for the Red, and too many others to mention played their ultimate best. This was a dedicated team effort and it wore the Michigan squad down.

Driving Spirit Wins

Roger Zatkoff, 215-pound line backer, was a tough defensive player for Michigan, and if it had not been for him the strong Cornell attack with some new wrinkles put in by Coach James would have wreaked even more havoc. Double-team or single-wing blocking and use of a wingback constituted some variations from the usual straight T formation. But it was rather the pent-up, driving spirit of a hungry Cornell team that accounted for this win. Alfred Pyott '53, tackle, and safety man Reginald Marchant '52 are good examples. Pyott, of Chicago, Ill., his father and uncle present in the stands possibly holding mixed feelings because they had both played for University of Michigan, had to leave the game twice with an injured knee but came back and played superbly. Marchant, fearless 160-pounder from Spring Valley, playing with pulled muscles all around his rib wall and a sprained ankle, was impeccable and among other things intercepted a pass on the Michigan 20 and ran to the 1 where it was taken over by Harold Seidenberg '52 for the final score.

The happy squad hoisted its equally happy coach, "Lefty" James, to their shoulders and boisterous fellow-students carried Whelan and Jaeckel to the dressing room. They should have carried them all. They deserved it!

Cornell 21 — Dartmouth 13

IN TYPICALLY ferocious fashion Dartmouth defended its honor at home, but it was not enough as a slow-starting but an eventually dynamic Cornell team broke a 7-7 halftime score with two good-looking touchdowns in the third period. This was, as usual, a hard-fought game before a chilled houseparty crowd of 14,000.

The hard play caused eight Dartmouth fumbles, four of which were recovered by Cornell. Two led to Cornell touchdowns. The first Cornell touchdown came after one of these in the second quarter. Cornell stalled on the 35-yard line, but there was a roughing penalty on a Whelan fourth-down punt and the ball was still Cornell's, at midfield. Coach James sent in injured Rocco Calvo '53 and he pitched out to William Whelan '53, who threw a 30-yard pass to Todd Kolb '53, who caught it right in the midst of two Dartmouth defenders. Five plays later, Harold Seidenberg '52 carried over from the 3. Calvo retired, not to return.

Earlier, Dartmouth had lost a chance when Quarterback Gene Howard had thrown perfectly to John MacDonald, who was completely in the clear and was apparently winging toward an easy score when he just dropped the ball on his 17-yard line. He fell on it, but the Dartmouth drive stopped there.

The tying score came after Curtis intercepted a John Jaeckel '53 pass on Cornell's 29. Howard passed to Collins on the 5 and he eluded William Kirk '52 to go over.

Both teams came out in the second half with fire in their eyes! Jack Dorrance '52 hit Foster so hard he fumbled in the air and Dorrance picked it off and carried it to midfield. Jaeckel found Richard Cliggott '53 for a 12-yard pass and after two bucks in the line, the same play that worked so well against Michigan the week before was again brought into successful use. Jaeckel faded about three yards and passed to Whelan, who had followed Cliggott around left end where Cliggott blocked out the defensive fullback, and Whelan took the pass in close and in a beautiful running exhibition, outran one defender and outmaneuvered two more and he was over.

The next time Dartmouth ran from scrimmage, James Jerome '52 recovered another fumble on the Dartmouth 38. Four plays later, it was on the 12. Seidenberg hit for three yards, Lyndon Hull '52 for six, and Seidenberg took it the rest of the way and the score was 21-7 when Kirk made good his third point try.

The second Green score came on an interception of a Jaeckel pass on third down, one to go, on the Dartmouth 3. Curtis grabbed it and ran all the way up the middle to make it 21-13. A desperation pass from Howard went over Kirk's head and into the hands of Dartmouth's Smale, who carried it to the 20 where Kirk overhauled him, but there four successive passes failed.

Hold Edge in Series

Cornell has now won eighteen games, Dartmouth sixteen, and one tie. This is the longest lead either team has had in ten years and the standing has been tied three times in six years.

Freshmen Lose to Penn

CORNELL FRESHMEN played their best football game, November 17, but lost their fourth in four starts to the Pennsylvania yearlings, 12-6, on Schoellkopf Field.

It was Cornell's Daniel Begin, playing his first game since he was in the opener against Wyoming Seminary, who was the outstanding player in the contest. He scored the Red touchdown and averaged 14 yards a try and a total of 125 yards.

Penn scored the first time it had the ball on a drive of seventy-two yards. It was given its next when Cornell's safety man, Arthur Boyle, touched a punted ball is it slid into the end zone, whereupon John Braithwaite, Penn guard, fell on it for the second score.

This was Pennsylvania's twenty-fifth win in thirty-five games in this freshman rivalry. Cornell has won nine and tied one. It is the first winless year for the Frosh since 1946.

The lineups:

PENNSYLVANIA (12)

Ends—Lavin, Corrison, Kinloch, Corbo.
Tackles—Keller, Gurski, Judge.
Guards — Braithwaite, Levitan, Mantz, Wagner, Schafer, Dioguardi.
Centers—Quinn, Trautman.

Backs — Manley, Cimakosky, Hynoski, Scott, Guman, Castle, Heffelfinger, Kopenhaver, Thayer.

CORNELL (6)

Ends—Onisky, Lewis, Rooney, Mathewson, Morris.

Tackles — Braun, Van Buren, Brandt, Kane, Brayman, Simon.

Cornell touchdown — Begin.

Referee, John Gibbons; umpire, Sidney Miles; linesman, Albert Sullivan; field judge, John Tanner.

Polo Team Wins

CORNELL POLO TEAM defeated Pittsfield, 26-4, in the Riding Hall, November 17. Robert M. Diener '56 led in the scoring with 7 goals.

Cross Country Does Well

COACH LOU MONTGOMERY'S Varsity cross country team completed a fine season. After losing to a powerful Syracuse array, 47-16, at Ithaca November 14, the harriers finished second in the Heptagonals at Van Cortlandt Park in New York, November 9, and eighth in the IC4A meeting there, November 19.

Ray Osterhout of Syracuse led three teammates over the approximately five-mile University Golf Course route in 27:20, clipping 32 seconds from the course record. Co-captain Robert B. Grossman '52 took fifth for Cornell, but Syracuse won the next three scoring places.

Army's Dick Shea paced his team to victory in the Heps over a slightly more than five-mile course in 25:06.5. He was followed by two teammates and again Grossman was the first Cornellian home, placing fourth. Stephen G. Pierson '54 was 16th; David L. Willig '54, 23d; Co-captain Robert L. Robertson '52, 25th; and David Pratt '54, 30th. Army had 20 points, Cornell 98, Navy 110, Yale 140, Princeton 144, Dartmouth 151, Harvard 152, Brown 191, Columbia 197, Pennsylvania 202.

In the Intercollegiates, Penn State edged out Army, 67-68, though Shea took top honors, with Cornell finishing a strong eighth with 363 points to head all the Ivy schools in a field of forty-one teams. Grossman, winding up his Varsity career, placed 16th. Cornell's other point scorers were William F. Albers '54, 49th; Pierson, 82d; Pratt, 111th; and Willig, 124th.

Cornell was sixth in the freshman race, won by Yale with 71 points. Cornell scored 144. Donald D. Farley '55 came in thirteenth to lead his team.

Players Carry Off Coach James—After the victory over Michigan, jubilant Varsity players carry Coach "Lefty" James to the dressing room on their shoulders. No. 83 at left is Tad Stanford, Michigan end. Identifiable Cornellians are John R. McCarthy '53, guard (69); Russell A. MacLeod '53, defensive center (face only showing); John G. Dorrance '52, backer-up (No. 28); Rocco J. Calvo '53, quarterback (No. 17); Herbert J. Bool, quarterback (No. 16); William T. Kirk, halfback (No. 24). At extreme left is Thomas S. Kohm '54 and at right, Richard M. Heskett '53, Junior Varsity players not in uniform that day.

Besides the second and eighth places in the Heptagonals and Intercollegiates, the team had a winning season in dual competition, defeating Colgate, Yale, and Alfred and losing only to such powers as Penn State and Syracuse.

Soccer Team Ties Again

THE SOCCER TEAM played its third and fourth tie games of the season, matching 2 goals with Army at Ithaca, November 10, and 3 with Dartmouth at Hanover, November 17. Previously, Cornell had finished 1-1 and 0-0 with Sampson Air Base, defeated Cortland and Yale, and lost only to Colgate.

Goals by George A. Boateng '53 of Gold Coast, South Africa, and William A. Lewing '53 gave the team a 2-0 lead over the Cadets in the first half, but Army rallied and two overtime periods found no additional scoring. This was the second straight year that Cornell spoiled Army's perfect record.

The Dartmouth game took an opposite course. Cornell overcame a 2-goal lead. Idwal W. Hughes '54 scored first for Jim Smith's forces, and in the second half they went ahead on a goal by Leonidas C. Stylianopoulos '54 before Dartmouth tied the score with five minutes remaining. Again, two overtimes produced nothing.

Lightweights Threaten Navy

THE U.S. NAVAL ACADEMY 150-pound team beat the Cornell lightweights, November 17, by a score of 14-7 and thus made sure of retaining the Eastern Intercollegiate 150-pound football championship for the fifth time in six years.

It was not easy, though! The Cornell team "was the best we played. It outplayed us," said the Navy coach, Midshipman Ronald Mathis. Perhaps this was only the chivalry of a gracious victor, but Cornell is the only team to score on Navy this year, and it had a chance to tie the score in the third period when Harold Eaton '54 went through the middle of the Navy line to the 3. But the Midshipmen held valiantly against the thrusts of Nathan Pond '54 and Eaton, and the ball wound up one yard from the goal, where Navy took it to safety.

Alumni Elected

EIGHT CORNELLIANs were successful in the November elections in Tompkins County. County Judge Norman G. Stagg '26 was re-elected for another six-year term. In Ithaca, Professor Bristow Adams, Extension Service, Emeritus, was re-elected to the Common Council with the largest vote of any candidate and Professor Joseph P. Porter '18, Ornamental Horticulture, and Kenneth C. Johnson, Jr. '43 became new aldermen. Carl W. Vail '23 was re-elected to the County board of supervisors from the city, as were Harry N. Gordon '15, from the Town of Ithaca, and John L. Lounsbery '30, of the Town of Caroline. Gordon and Lounsbery were unopposed. Mildred F. Schutt '19 was elected the Dryden town clerk.

Michigan Comes To Town

MICHIGAN GAME WEEK END will linger in student memories and conversation for many months. It was in many ways an ideal college week end, packed with events, blessed with good weather, and enjoyed by all except perhaps the Campus and city police, who were faced with the task of handling the largest football crowd ever to appear in Ithaca. Cars flaunting Michigan pennants were seen about the Campus as early as Thursday, with the first sizeable elements of the Michigan invaders arriving Friday night. Virtually every fraternity and sorority with a chapter at Ann Arbor had its contingent of visitors.

There is, as the football program pointed out, a strong feeling of mutual friendship between Cornell and Michigan, despite the fact that on the student level contact between the two schools has been vanishingly slight for many years. Probably the feeling began with President Andrew D. White, himself a Michigan professor, and has continued through the years as the schools have developed into institutions with remarkably similar attitudes and attributes. At any rate, the Cornell studentry was entirely prepared to enjoy playing host to the Michigan visitors. There were few cases of disappointment.

The football game was, of course, a source of infinite delight to Cornellians of every age. It was a good game, well-played, which the home team deservedly won over a favored opponent. No one could ask for more.

But there were many other facets to the week end. The Michigan Band, in particular, won the enthusiastic applause of all who saw it. Traveling by special train, through the courtesy of Buick Division of General Motors, the Ann Arbor bandmen, nearly 200 strong, stayed Friday night in Elmira, since there were no accommodations for them any closer. Elmira made the visit a civic event, with a gathering of high school bands and an address of welcome by the mayor.

The Michigan musicians, resplendent in blue and yellow uniforms with capes and plumed caps, made their grand entrance on the Campus soon after 11 a.m. Saturday, when they appeared in columns in the already-crowded lobby of the Straight, shouting "Hail to the Victors" at the top of their lungs as they waited patiently in line for lunch. The precision, speed, and scope of their formations at half-time convinced the crowd that Michigan could make a strong claim for the title of the country's best marching band. The Big Red Band was in top form, but it looked almost lost compared to the color, size, and confidence of the Wolverines.

Michigan visitors attending fraternity cocktail parties after the game were visibly awed by the freedom which prevails at Cornell and were heard to make unkind references to their own thoroughly-regulated existence at Ann Arbor. The local students, who are often unaware of their blessings until brought into direct contact with other systems, basked happily in the envy of their guests.

Complaints about tickets fell into three general categories: those from the Cornell students, who thought the alumni had gotten all the good seats; those from the Michigan students, who thought the Cornell students had been favored; and those from the alumni, who thought the Michigan students had gotten the best deal. However, a great many scalpers who had hoped to make profits were sadly disappointed when the bottom fell out of the ticket market about Friday. Crowds of people eager to part with good seats for a dollar or fifty cents were found at the entrances to Schoellkopf by 1 p.m. Saturday.

The big event of Saturday night was the concert of the Michigan and Cornell Glee Clubs. Smart profiteers concentrated their efforts here; tickets for seats in Bailey Hall found a brisk market at three times their nominal value. The singing was, as always, excellent. Michigan again stole the musical show, however, with the superior power and control of its performance and the excellence of its solo artists.

SPRING FOOTBALL practice has become a major issue in the present widespread controversy over the proper "emphasis" which should be placed on the game by colleges and universities maintaining some semblance of interest in education. The question will be discussed at Ivy League meetings in December, and Yale has already announced that it will discontinue spring practice. A Sun poll of eighty-two Varsity and Freshman players showed that 92 per cent favored retaining the spring drills here. Director of Athletics Robert J. Kane '34 maintains that spring practice at Cornell gives more boys a chance to learn the game and that the "real and basic troubles in intercollegiate football" will not be cured by abolishing it; but says that Cornell will abide by the Ivy League decision.

By Sunday, the crowds of sightseers and visitors had cleared away, as special trains and overladen cars departed for the West. Cornell undergraduates, settling down for their postponed studying Sunday night, had added a whole new set of pleasant recollections to the sum of their college educations.

Results of a Student Council survey on academic integrity, awaited since last year, showed that 10 per cent of 322 students questioned admitted cheating frequently or occasionally, and another 37 per cent, "once or twice." Other items determined: students who study more cheat less; there is little difference between men and women in the proportion who admit cheating; two-thirds to three-fourths of those questioned disapprove of cheating; and students think that few of their classmates cheat. The survey report, still only partially complete, will be used as a guide by a special Faculty committee on academic integrity, working with the Student Council education committee.

Freshman Mortimer A. Schnee won two fifty-yard-line tickets to the Pennsylvania game by naming nine of the eleven members of an All-Ivy-League football team as selected by New York Times sportswriter Allison Danzig '21. The contest is conducted annually by the Sun.

Freshman Week End this year included a pre-game rally and informal dance at the Straight on Friday, November 16; the Penn-Cornell freshman football game on Saturday; and a dance in the Straight Memorial Room Saturday night. Officers of the Class of '55, elected earlier in the week in Student Council and Women's Self-Government Association meetings, were announced at the dance.

Men's Freshman officers are Robert I. Landau, president; Donald D. Meyer, secretary; and Kalman K. Marx, Paul J. Terni, Harold W. Booth, Andrew Dadagian, and Wright B. Lewis, Council members. Women's officers are Arlene E. Aimone, president; Carol A. Rittershausen, song leader; Joan M. Weisberg, historian; and Elizabeth B. Barstow, Betsy A. Borst, Eva M. Konig, Melvina B. Miller, Jane Rippe, Shirley L. Sanford, and Laura L. Weese, Council members.

Died: of old age, nearly fourteen, Sir Bess Ormsby Fobes Dean, Holstein sire at the barns of the New York Artificial Breeders Cooperative on Judd Falls Road. In his six years of service, he is estimated to have sired 25,000 high-producing offspring in herds all over the State: a number that would have required about 500 years with the old-fashioned method of natural insemination.

The Faculty

Several members of the Medical College Faculty took part in the annual meeting of the Association of American Medical Colleges at French Lick, Ind., October 29-31. Dr. David P. Barr '11 presided at a discussion of medical teaching on the ambulant patient and Dr. Thomas A. C. Rennie was a member of a panel which discussed means of appraising the medical student's progress and the effectiveness of teaching. Dean Joseph C. Hinsey, who is a past-president of the Association, was re-elected chairman of its executive committee for the fifth consecutive year. Other Faculty members attending were Drs. Dayton J. Edwards, Lawrence W. Hanlon '35, George A. Wolf '40, George G. Reader '40, Fred Kern, Jr., and Harold G. Wolff.

John T. Burton, Vice-president-business, has been appointed a member of the Councils of the State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics and School of Industrial & Labor Relations.

Willard I. Emerson '19, Vice-president for University development, has been appointed to the Councils of Architecture, Engineering, School of Nursing, and Veterinary College.

Appointment of a board of inquiry headed by Dean Martin P. Catherwood, PhD '30, Industrial & Labor Relations, was followed five days later by the cessation of a wildcat strike of longshoremen that tied up the Port of New York for twenty-five days and was spreading to other ports. Said The New York Times in its leading editorial, November 10: "Expressing confidence in the integrity of the Board headed by Professor Catherwood, dean of the School of Industrial & Labor Relations at Cornell, the strikers' committee is now satisfied that the Board will proceed in an atmosphere free from tension to formulate its recommendations. Certainly the Board does merit their confidence, as well as that of the public. . . ."

Professor Clyde B. Moore, Education, was reelected treasurer of the New York State School Boards Association at the annual convention in Syracuse, October 23.

Log of "The Last Mystery Ship" of the US Navy and her adventures in World War II under command of Lieutenant Commander Richard Parmenter '17, USNR, now Coordinator of Research at the University, are described by Giles M. S. Tod in Motor Boating for November. Commander Parmenter was assigned by the Navy in 1942 to find and fit out secretly an armed schooner to act as a decoy for German submarines which were preying on shipping in the Caribbean. He located the Canadian vessel, fitted her out at New London, Conn., renamed her the Irene Forsyte, and transformed her at night off Nantucket to appear as a Portuguese fishing schooner. Warned that if captured, his vessel would be considered as a pirate since she had not the consent of the State Department, Captain Parmenter operated for a time off Bermuda, but without success in snaring a U-boat. The ship was sold by the Navy in October, 1945.

Professor William M. Sale, Jr., English, is chairman of an interdepartmental Committee on Literature which has replaced the Department of Literature. The committee is composed of one representative each from the Departments of Classics, English, German Literature, Romance Literature, and Speech & Drama, with a representative of the American Literature field chosen by the English Department and one chosen by the professors of Literature in other departments.

Captain Donald G. D. Brooking, Medical Corps, US Army, has been assigned to the Medical College as professor of Military Science & Tactics. He replaces Lieutenant Colonel Urban L. Thom.

Professor Charles L. Walker '04, Civil Engineering, Emeritus, has been called back to teach this term.

Professor Franklin A. Long, Chemistry, is chairman-elect of the American Chemical Society's division of physical and inorganic chemistry for 1952. He is now secretary-treasurer and is a trustee of Associated Universities, Inc.

Barbara E. Oldden, admissions registrar at the School of Nursing in New York, was married to Raleigh L. Smith, September 29.

Major George G. Holochwost '37, US Army, (left, above) receives the First Oak Leaf Cluster to Bronze Star from Colonel George S. Smith, US Army, ROTC Commandant, at ceremonies in Barton Hall, November 9. The award is for meritorious service against an armed enemy in Korea, where he was with the 999th Armored Field Artillery Battalion from August 29, 1950, to last June. Major Holochwost received the BS in 1937, won the "C" in soccer and lacrosse, and was commissioned a second lieutenant of Field Artillery from the ROTC. He went on active duty in May, 1941, with the 29th Field Artillery Battalion, participated in the Normandy landing and four other campaigns in the European Theatre, and received the Silver Star, Bronze Star, Purple Heart, and a Distinguished Unit Citation. He was separated from the service in February, 1946, and rejoined in September, 1948. He spent a year as a member of the US military mission to Greece under General James A. Van Fleet, returning in February, 1950. He was ordered to Cornell last July as assistant professor of Military Science & Tactics, in charge of the Artillery branch of the ROTC.

Dean of Women Lucile Allen was elected president of the New York State Deans and Guidance Personnel Association at the annual meeting, November 3. Miss Allen is secretary of the National Association of Deans of Women and a consultant to the American Council on Education.

Gilmore Dobie, head football coach, 1920-36, and Glenn S. Warner '94, coach in 1897-98 and from 1904-06, were among the first coaches named to the Football Hall of Fame at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J., November 3, 1951.

Professor Clinton L. Rossiter '39, Government, was elected president of the New York State Political Science Association, October 19.

Professor Caroline Morton, assistant to the Dean of Home Economics, retired September 1 to become a teacher of home economics in a private school in Japan.

Professor W. David Curtiss '38, Law, addressed a luncheon meeting of the Cornell Club of Rochester in the Powers Hotel, October 24.

Professor Marian A. Neidert, Institution Management, was married to Albert Beining, August 16, 1951. The Beings live in Kansas City, Mo.

Professor Joseph M. Hanson, Fine Arts, is represented in the annual exhibition of the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York City, November 8-January 6, with an oil painting, "A Scene of Suspense."

Dr. Katherine Butler, MD '35, Medical College, has been elected to the board of trustees of Mount Holyoke College. She is a graduate of Mount Holyoke.

Professor Jean T. McKelvey, Industrial & Labor Relations, who taught at the Salzburg (Austria) Seminar in American Studies last summer, reports that young European intellectuals are highly critical of the role the US is playing in the world today. "In general, they seemed to view the US as a young and irresponsible nation and they voiced mistrust of American foreign policy. . . . Their criticisms indicate a real need for more educational programs explaining American ideals and objectives," she says.

Professor Walter F. Willcox, Economics, Emeritus, left Ithaca, November 20, to fly across the Atlantic and Europe to New Delhi, India, to attend meetings of the International Statistical Institute, of which he is honorary president. He expected to be home for Christmas. Professor Willcox has been US delegate at meetings of the Institute all over the world since 1903, in Berlin, London, Paris, Brussels, Rome, Warsaw, Tokyo, Madrid, Mexico City, Athens, and Prague.

Now in his ninety-first year, Professor Willcox walks daily up and down Ithaca's hills, clocking an average of five miles a day, which is duly recorded. Since he started the record in 1940, when he was seventy-nine, he has walked more than 25,000 miles, farther than the distance around the world!

Professor Beulah Blackmore, Home Economics, retired September 1. She has been at Cornell thirty-six years; will continue to live in Ithaca.

Professor Robert H. Elias, English, has been elected to the University Library Board. He completes the unexpired term of Professor David Daiches, who recently left the English Department.

Professor Eugene H. Litchfield '30, Business & Public Administration, was named to the board of governors of the Atlantic Union Committee, November 3. The Committee was formed to promote peace and help knit a confederation of free Western nations.

Hugh H. Mercer, Economics, has gone to Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., as an instructor in economics. He will receive the Master's degree here next February.

Mrs. George Smith, wife of Colonel Smith, Commandant of the Army ROTC, has given some 11,000 documents, letters, and business accounts concerning early attempts to develop Sackets Harbor to the Regional History collection of the University Library. The papers were those of Elisha Camp, a forebear of Mrs. Smith's.

Dr. Samuel Z. Levine '20, Medical College, has been touring Israel and Iran with a World Health Organization team sponsored by the Unitarian Service Commission.

National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics has published "An Experimental Investigation of Oil Film Pressure Distribution for Misaligned Plain Bearings," a report of research by Professors George B. DuBois '27, Hamilton H. Mabie, MS '43, and Fred W. Ocvirk, Machine Design.

Teg C. Grondahl is visiting professor of Far Eastern Studies this term. He was with the State Department in Washington, D.C.

Professor George W. Pierce, at the Geneva Experiment Station twenty-one years, is head of the chemistry branch, technical development services, US Public Health Service.

Lieutenant Commander Richard G. ★ Redmond, USN, has been assigned to duty with the Naval ROTC unit at Cornell. Commander Redmond, who recently returned from destroyer duty in the Korean area, is gunnery officer of the unit.

Professor Mary G. Phillips, Home Economics, Emeritus, is the subject of "She's My Pet Relative," written by her daughter-in-law, Dorothy Evans Phillips '31, for the November issue of Farm Journal.

Professor Elise Strang L'Esperance, Medical College, Emeritus, is one of three women physicians to receive the 1951 Lasker Award of the American Public Health Association. She received a gold replica of the Winged Victory and $1000 for work in linking preventive medicine to cancer control.

NEWS OF THE ALUMNI

Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes about Cornellians of all Classes will be welcomed for these pages. Addresses as printed are in New York State unless otherwise designated.

Certain Classes, principally those which send the ALUMNI NEWS to all members, have special columns written by their own correspondents. Each such column is designated at its beginning with its Class numerals. Material for those columns may be sent either to the News for forwarding or directly to the respective Class correspondents, whose names and addresses follow:

- 1910 Men—Roy Taylor, Old Fort Road, Bernardsville, N.J.
- 1913 Men—M. R. Neifeld, 15 Washington Street, Newark 2, N.J.
- 1915 Men—C. M. Colyer, 123 West Prospect Avenue, Cleveland 1, Ohio.
- 1919 Men—Alpheus W. Smith, 705 The Parkway, Ithaca.
- 1920 Men—W. D. Archibald, 8 Beach Street, New York City 13.
- 1921 Men—Allan H. Treman, Savings Bank Building, Ithaca.
- 1951 Men—Stuart Minton, Jr., 1160 Park Avenue, New York City 28.

'03 MD—Dr. James K. Quigley, 2390 Elmwood Avenue, Rochester 10, showed colored slides and described a vacation trip to Guatemala at a November 7 luncheon of the Cornell Club of Rochester.

'08 AB—J. Edgar Davidson, Hillburn, has retired from V. P. Ramapo Ajax Division, American Brake Shoe Co.

'09 ME—Frederick Avery has retired as assistant chief engineer for Southern Bell Telephone Co. He lives at 51 Peachtree Memorial Drive NW, Atlanta, Ga.

'09 AB—A replica of the Fashion Academy's Gold Medal Award for 1951 was presented to Leon D. Rothschild, president of Rothschild Brothers in Ithaca. The medal, first to be awarded in New York State, honored the store for fashion awareness in men's wear.

1910 MEN Unlike most of his Classmates, E. Herman Hespelt '10 (above) knows pretty definitely what the future holds in store for him. Right now, he is professor of Spanish at New York University, but under that institution's statute of limitations, he expects to be retired in September, 1952. He will then move as fast as he can to Ithaca where he will be at home, with the latch-string out to all returning 1910'ers, at 104 White Park Place. That's no more than a full-iron shot from the Ithaca Country Club.

Hespelt will return as no stranger to Ithaca. After taking his first degree with the Class, he went out to the Philippines for the Bureau of Education and remained there until 1916. He then came back to the University for graduate study, which had to be sustained by bouts of teaching at Cornell, Penn State, and Elmira College. He took the AM in 1917 and the PhD in 1925. His wife, whom he married in 1919, was also completing her graduate work in Ithaca at the time. Hespelt was called to New York University as assistant professor of Spanish in 1926. His full professorship came in 1941. He has also conducted courses in the summer sessions of Columbia and of New Mexico Normal University.

But the man's professional activities have by no means been confined to teaching undergraduates. He is the author of An Outline History of Spanish-American Literature, Anthology of Spanish-American History, numerous Spanish reading texts, and articles on Spanish and Spanish-American literature. He is a member and past president of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish, member of the Modern Language Association, Institute Internacional de Literatura Iberoamericana, corresponding member of the Hispanic Society of America, and on and on. He also conducts a questions and answers department in Hispania, the Spanish teachers' journal, and serves as editor of Revista Iberoamericana, a journal established to promote inter-American cultural relations.

It's a fair guess that when applied to Hespelt, "retirement" will be a relative term; that for him, life at 104 White Park Place means an opportunity to complete many writing jobs that he has never had time for as an active teacher, and the guess is sustained by the man's hobby, which he gives as "collecting books, especially in the field of Spanish literature of the nineteenth century." Nevertheless, the latchstring will be out!

Until their removal to Ithaca, the Hespelts will continue to live at 2226 Loring Place, New York City 53.

1913 MEN The professional career of Philip R. Goldstein, 200 Cabrana Boulevard, New York City 33, has been devoted to Jewish organizations in the United States. He was one of the founders of the Beta Chapter of the Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity at Cornell, the fraternity which made that heart-warming gesture last June when twenty-five Cornell grads and their wives gathered at Keen's English Chop House, New York City, to honor ninety-one-year-old Ma Carrie Warner, who was cook and housemother at the fraternity from 1914-22. Together they sang the old college and fraternity songs and Ma was toasted, cheered, and presented with a silver locket and chain bearing the Fraternity Seal. It has been twenty-nine years since Ma left Sigma Alpha Mu, but the aged Negro woman, who through the years nursed her love for "her precious boys," won't have to live on relief any longer, for 150 Cornell "boys," all members of Beta Chapter of Sigma Alpha Mu, will take care of her for the rest of her life through the Ma Warner Foundation which they formed in her honor.

After college, Phil went on to teach one year at the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society of Pleasantville (now known as the Pleasantville Cottage School); directed the educational and religious activities of the Jewish Chautauqua Society for the Jewish communities of South Jersey for six years; finding time to pick up an MA at Columbia and a PhD at Pennsylvania on the thesis: "The Social Aspects of the Jewish Communities of South Jersey," acted as field secretary of the National Council of Young Men's Hebrew and Kindred Associations for about one year and continued on in the same capacity when the Council was merged with the National Jewish Welfare Board.

From 1924-42, as director of YMHA and Jewish community center campaigns for the Jewish Welfare Board, he conducted building and membership campaigns in communities throughout the country. Many of the methods and techniques developed in these campaigns have become standard procedures for ethical fund-raising efforts in federated charity, college endowment, and civic institution drives. Since 1946, Phil has been director of the fund-raising division of the JWB. He is a member of many national professional and social Jewish organizations and has been active in support of Palestine.

At Tonawanda, the National Manufacturing Corp. manufactures the Security brand of asphalt roofing products and the Luxall line of paint and varnish products. Clinton W. Brown is president. While Clint was rowing on the Frosh and J-V crews at Cornell, he was taking ME on the side. A daughter went through Cornell; the oldest boy had a taste of Cornell, but finished up at Rochester, and a younger son graduated from Brown. Clint claims that he is growing older than the rest of the '13er Browns, but challenges them on non-baldness. There are four other Browns in '13.

Another ME is Ralph Allen, who has been with the Kearny, N.J., plant of Western Electric Co. for over twenty-seven years. He is assistant superintendent in charge of plant maintenance, power house, and tool building. "R" lives nearby in Convent, N.J. He has three sons, two of whom are also engineers: John via Cornell '48 and Raymond by way of Kansas. Clymont, the third son, thinks there are enough engineers among the Allens, so he is off for agriculture. There are four other Allens in '13.

Another New Jersey Classmate is R. W. Jones, Jr. His agricultural training is not going to waste, for he resides with his wife, Jean Sage Jones, on a farm near Belle Mead, N.J., but commutes to business in New York City where he is with New York Trap Rock Corp. There are four children and five grandchildren. Three of his sons served in World War II: R. W. III as captain in the Marines, V. H. as first lieutenant in the Marines, and Van Dyke as first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps. There are four other Joneses in '13.

CLASS CULTURAL CONTEST

Category, Education; Question: WHAT EXTENSION COURSE WAS GIVEN OVER LANG'S GARAGE?

Your correspondent returned from New York and the Princeton game with too much of a hangover to grind out this column for the November 15 ALUMNI NEWS.

The Princeton game, the preliminaries thereto, and the obsequies thereof in New York City were a bit rugged! Trustee Floyd Newman '12 and Mrs. Newman gave a noble cocktail party at the Carlton House, Friday evening, in honor of the Class of 1912. Most of the distinguished assemblage were members of this famous Class, but there were a few ringers from the Class of 1915, viz: Bill Cosgrove, John Pennywitt, and myself. Other (famous) Cornellians present were Neal Dow Becker '05, chairman of the Board of Trustees, Trustee Hap Flanigan '12, Bill Hooley '12, Fritz Krebs '12, and Joe Ripley '12. There were many others in attendance, I feel certain, but after the fourth salvo I couldn't see so good. It was a lovely party. Thank you, Mr. and Mrs. Newman!

Come Saturday noon, Bill Cosgrove and I took off for the Princeton game. Like the man said, we shoulda stood in bed! Between the halves, however, we had the pleasure of seeing some young-looking chaps from the Class of 1915: Vern Foster, Jack Smaltz, and Sid Jandorf. Others working on the bottle were Ted Jamison '16, Paul Sanborn '16, Ed Anderson '16, and the old reliable, Walt Kuhn '12. Phooey on Kazmaier!

Dave (Seymour W.) Davenport, Jr. in addition to raising the "Best" apples in the Hudson Valley, has raised four charming daughters; three married and the fourth to be married in December (almost as good as Chick Benton's record, Dave). Cornellians in the market for apples, packaged as gifts or for home consumption, get in touch with Dave at Sunny Crest Orchards, Kinderhook, N.Y. He donates 10 per cent of the value of the apples to the Alumni Fund.

Walt (W. F.) Munnikhuysen sends in his dues from the Koppers Co., Koppers Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Bruce (E. B.) Prindle is executive vice-president of Devoe & Reynolds, Forty-fourth St. and First Avenue, New York City.

Rod (R. B.) Rodriguez is general manager, Allis-Chalmers de Mexico, S.A. Address: Gante 7, 502—Mexico 1, D.F. Mexico. He has lived in Mexico over twenty years; past-president, Cornell Club of Mexico, past-president, American Chamber of Commerce. "Granddaughter Bonnie, now three years old, wonderful."

'16 BChem—J. Stanley Babbitt has been made director and vice-president in charge of Montreal operations of the Bair Co. Canada Ltd., 2 Seigneurs Street, Montreal. He is also president and general manager of Premier Box Ltd., a subsidiary of Gair Canada.

'16—Harold L. Bache, senior partner in Bache & Co., New York City Stock Exchange, is in Japan to "explore the possibilities of long-term investments of American capital where it can best be used in aiding in the development and expansion of industry in Japan and at the same time will be able to attend my first meeting as director of Dai Ichi Bussan Kaisha, Ltd., one of the largest trading companies in Japan." Bache & Co. have recently established a Japanese department.

'16 AB—Brigadier General Francis G. Brink, who has been in the Far East for many years, is chief of US Military Mission to Viet Nam. His address is Fort Hayes, Columbus 18, Ohio.

'16 AB—"At the present time I am building 128 houses and selling most of them to World War II vets in the booming State capital, Sacramento (Cal.), located eighty miles south of my home town and business headquarters, Oroville, Cal.," writes Walter E. Higgins, 2061 Bird Street, Oroville.

'17 AB—The honorary LLD of Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital of Philadelphia was awarded to Ralph H. Blanchard, 9 Alden Place, Bronxville, June 14, 1951. He is executive director of Community Chests & Councils of America, Inc., and vice-president of United Defense Fund, Inc.

'17 AB—Robert S. Byfield was the New York Stock Exchange special representative to the sixth general assembly of the United Nations in Paris in November. His address is 1 Wall Street, New York City 5.

'17 BS—A teacher of landscape gardening at the University of Miami, Fla., Frank J. Rimoldi presented that university with a set of chimes which strike the hour as do those in the Cornell Library Tower, and which can be played in the same manner.

Our Class held a most enjoyable dinner at the Williams Club in New York City, November 8, as a tribute to our retiring president, Ho Ballou. Many Classmates were on hand to express our gratitude and affection to Ho, who has done so much for our Class and for Cornell. With the serious note of deep appreciation to Ho's loyalty, there was also mingled a spirit of light-hearted comradeship.

1 Dan'l Boone, down in ol' Kaintuck,
Shot him a b'ar and a ten-point buck—

Trapped some beaver, a 'coon or two
And toting them home in his canoe—

Bargained shrewdly at the 3-Ring Sign
For a barr'l o' beer by Ballantine!

"He means It Tastes Better!"

Ballantine brews for flavor.
For lightness, yes.
For dryness, of course
But first and last—
Ballantine brews for flavor!

"Slakes a man's thirst so quick and clean
Lip-smackingest beer I've ever seen!"

Ask the man for BALLANTINE BEER
— with that famous 3-Ring Flavor!

ship that left everyone in a very buoyant mood.

In fact, as Joe Diamant said, there is never a dull moment when 1920 gets together! As you know, Joe is our efficient treasurer. He was seated at the door collecting for the four-bucks dinner as each Classmate arrived. And when Dean Joseph C. Hinsey of the Medical College, our honor guest and principal speaker, arrived, our zealous treasurer collected four bucks from him also. Was our Joe's face red when he found out what he had done! But as our Joe said of our guest Joe, "How in blazes was I to know the difference between this Joe and any other Joe at the dinner?"

And in the spirit of "anything can happen to 1920," here's one that was told about D. Arthur Jacob. Jake was on the thirteenth green at the Copake Country Club when he was felled by a bolt of lightning. Stunned by the concussion, he staggered to his feet, and in a daze he teed off to the fourteenth and made a hole in one. That's a new way to do it!

Our new Class officers are president, Donald C. Blanke; vice-president, Joseph D. Edson; treasurer, Joseph Diamant; secretary, Thorne C. Hulbert. And in the spirit of levity that pervaded our gathering, Allie Stolz '18 was elected sergeant-at-arms.

After Dean Hinsey's address, we reviewed the new Cornell film "Spring in Ithaca." Fine as this film is, we still like our own Stew Solomon's film taken at our Thirty-year Reunion. We saw that, too, and again agreed that Stew is a great artist.

Among those present were Eddie Cadiz,

Jack Solomon, Ben Glasser, Alfred A. Whitehall, Walt Duncan, Stan Smith, William S. Rurode, A. Lewis Spitzer, Herbert Smyth, Dud Nostrand, Dick Edson, Ho Ballou, Henry Benisch, Kurt Mayer, Nat Baier, Don Blanke, George Stanton, Jesse Cooper, Walt Archibald, Dan Krauskopf, Kelly Sachs, George Rogers, Spike Livingston, Anthony Baldrige, Max Kevelson, John Knight Holbrook, Joe Diamant, and Thorne Hulbert. Also present were Jim Luther '23 and Al Stolz '18, with our guest of honor, Dean Hinsey.

UNIMALS

They are five animals in one—cow, steer, pig, lamb and rooster—and they give milk, butter, hot dog, ham and eggs and flap their wings and ring a bell at the same time. You may recall that the Unimal was the idea of the late H. E. Babcock and a part of the profits from the sale of these unique toys goes to the Babcock Memorial Fund. Each Unimal comes in its own stall and should be in every Christmas stocking.

'49 PhD—President Wallace Sterling has appointed Norman D. Philbrick assistant executive head of the department of speech and drama at Stanford University, Cal. Philbrick is also executive secretary of the American Educational Theater Association.

'49 Women—Our Class appears to be well represented in the far corners of the world. Class president Marty Coler received an interesting letter from Martha McKelvey Holdridge (AB) who is now in Bangkok, Thailand (address there c/o American Embassy). She writes, "John is a foreign service officer in the State Department now assigned to the US Information Service here . . . His job is to convince the 3 million Chinese in Siam that the Communist government in China is no good . . . and that they don't want it to come here . . . So the stakes are high and the odds against us fairly great . . . a very exciting part of the world to live in." On the domestic side, she writes they have a pleasant four-room house and "a cook, a boy, a wash omah (who beats our clothes with a stick) and a gardener. Life is very pleasant here, for one need do no work at all. And indeed with a tropical climate such as it is here, it would be very difficult to do all one's own work, particularly since the social life is very heavy . . . The most important news about us: beautiful daughter Patricia Marie, born March 12 here in Bangkok."

On the other side of the world in Germany lives Martha Weeks Rogers (BS in HE). Her husband, a West Pointer, is stationed near Stuttgart. She writes, "The Army certainly looks after its men and their dependents. We have an adorable house all to ourselves and are furnished a maid and a fireman-gardener. The people are very friendly and our house is the only American one in this block, but that doesn't bother us at all for our neighbors are very pleasant." Her address is c/o Lt. M. E. Rogers — 062333, 54th Eng. (e) Bn., A.P.O. 154, c/o P.M., N.Y.C.

Coming back home, in the Washington, D.C. area your editor, a newly-fledged Washingtonian herself, notes several Classmates. Shirley Kerr (BArch) is working for Horace Peasler (architect) and has "a wee old apartment next to the Mayflower." (1725 De Sales St., N.W., Washington, D.C.) Roxanne Rosse O'Leary (BSinHE) works as an economist in the Home Economics Bureau of the US Department of Agriculture. Margaret Dewees (Arts) is working in the Public Library in Washington and completing her work for a degree at George Washington University. Her address is 20-71 Park Road N.W., Washington, D.C. Billie Beattie (BSinHE) lives in nearby Hyattsville, Md. at 7309 Forest Road, and was a bridesmaid at the wedding of Mary Sanders (AB) June 9, to John Shindlar, USMC, in Washington.

Also in the wedding department is Frances Grammer (AB) who was married to Lucien Williams of Augusta, Ga., August 4. Corinne Joy Fellerman (BSinHE) was married, June 17, to Fillmore K. Bafatell '50. Shirley Thielker married S/Sgt. William DeForest, Jr., May 27, and lives at 108 West Turnbull, Midwest City, Okla.

Your editor is always in the market for news so do write, of yourselves, friends, husbands, jobs, babies, and general doings, to Mrs. Lois Ann Abbott, 1323 Kaiser Place, Falls Church, Va. and items will be forwarded to the ALUMNI NEWS.

'50 BS—Esther H. Artman, Warsaw Road, Leroy, is working for the BD in religion in higher education at Yale Divinity School. She completed a Danforth graduate fellowship at Indiana University last June.

Telephone Folks Will Play Santa for Thousands of Kids

As you read this, telephone operators all over the country are dressing thousands of dolls for children's homes and hospitals at Christmas.

Down in Texas, other telephone people are packing gay gift boxes for remote farm families. On December 24, the pilot who patrols Long Distance cables across the lonely plains will drop them by parachute and wave a friendly "Merry Christmas" by wagging the wings of his plane.

Throughout the Bell System, thousands of other telephone men and women are collecting food, candy, toys and dollars for those less fortunate than themselves.

It's a long-time telephone tradition — and a rather natural one. The spirit of service and the spirit of Christmas are pretty close together. And telephone folks try to be good citizens all year 'round.
