

ELIZABETHTOWN/HARDIN COUNTY, KENTUCKY

AN OVERVIEW

Elizabethtown is the seat of government for Hardin County, one of the larger counties in Kentucky with a population of over 108,000. Additionally, the Elizabethtown/Fort Knox Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) has a population of approximately 150,000. Geographically, Elizabethtown is located at 37°42'10"N 85°51'58"W. The city has a total area of 24.4 miles. There are many businesses and a diverse industrial base that call the Hardin County area home. It is also home to the military installation at Fort Knox.

HARDIN COUNTY BUSINESS CLIMATE

Elizabethtown/Hardin County is located in the heart of the Eastern United States along Interstate 65. With its business-friendly attitude, low cost of doing business and low taxes, it offers a supportive and progressive climate for industry. Close cooperation between state and local government and the private sector has helped Elizabethtown attract and retain valued industries. This attitude is reflected in the participation of top government officials in economic development activities. The Mayor and County Judge Executive both serve on the Elizabethtown/Hardin County Industrial Foundation Board of Directors, a not-for-profit corporation that recruits new industries to the area. Top local officials also serve on the Board of the Hardin County Chamber of Commerce and work closely with state and federal legislators to promote legislation conducive to maintaining a healthy business climate. The Mayor and County Judge Executive's willingness to serve in these capacities demonstrates their accessibility to the local business community.

TRANSPORTATION

Access to transportation has always been key to doing business in Hardin County. Its central location, excellent highway system and rail and truck service make the region a prime spot for business.

Highways

Elizabethtown, with its network of highway access, is within a day's drive of nearly two thirds of the nation's population. Connecting to three major highways has helped it earn its nickname of "Hub City."

- Interstate 65 that connects Lake Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico.
- Bluegrass Parkway that connects Hardin County to the east and ends near Lexington and Interstates 64 and 75.
- Western Kentucky Parkway that ends at Interstate 24 with highway connections to Memphis and St. Louis.

Air Service

Local air service is provided at Elizabethtown Regional Airport, Addington Field, which can accommodate corporate jets, and has a 6000 X 100 ft. runway. An Instrument Landing System has been installed at the airport. Fuel and repair service is available, as well as hangers and tie-downs. The airport is located in the Hughes Industrial Park.

Louisville International Airport is located just 35 miles north of Elizabethtown. It is one of the largest and most sophisticated airports serving a city of Louisville's size, handling more than 3.36 million passengers annually. It is served by 6 major airline brands. Airfares are consistently lower than those in a major hub. Louisville International Airport currently has 27 non-stop destinations and also offers a network of international travel flights.

UPS Worldport—Many companies have located in or near Louisville because of the UPS presence at the Louisville International Airport. A recent expansion of over $1 Billion increased the hub to 5.2 million square feet, increasing its sorting capacity to 416,000 per hour, making it the heart of the company's international operations.

In addition, the Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky International Airport is located just 90 miles north of Louisville. It offers daily departures to 48 non-stop cities including non-stop international service to Paris, Cancun, Freeport Montego Bay, Punta Cana and Toronto. It is also home to DHL's North American Hub.

Rail

Two railroads, CSX and Paducah & Louisville, serve the industrial parks.

STATE AND LOCAL INCENTIVES

In addition, to low taxes and low costs of doing business, Elizabethtown and the State of Kentucky offer a variety of benefits to your company.

Direct Financial Benefit

Kentucky offers a number of progressive incentives for businesses. The new consolidated program is the Kentucky Business Investment (KBI) Program. Eligible companies must be engaged in one of the following activities: 1) manufacturing; 2) agribusiness; 3) be a regional or national headquarters; or 4) be involved with certain non-retail service or technology activities. The minimum requirements for eligible projects are as follows: 1) it must create a minimum of 10 new, full-time jobs for Kentucky residents; 2) the entity must incur at least $100,000 in costs; and 3) a minimum level of wages and benefits must be met. The tax incentives involved with this program are available for up to 15 years for enhanced incentive counties or up to 10 years for all other counties. The incentive may be taken as: 1) up to 100 percent of the tax paid on corporate income or limited liability entity tax arising from the project; 2) a wage assessment incentive of up to 5 percent of the gross wages of each employee in enhanced counties or up to 4 percent (including up to 1 percent required local participation) of the gross wages of each employee in other counties.

In addition, the City of Elizabethtown has the ability to abate property tax for a period of five years.

Employment Services

The Kentucky Department of Employment Services has a Career Center located in Elizabethtown. They can and will, at the direction of the company, recruit, test, assess and screen applicants, referring qualified applicants to the company.

Training

Bluegrass State Skills Corporation (BSSC) provides customized training grants. BSSC, an independent corporation within the Cabinet for Economic Development, provides grants to new, expanding and existing Kentucky businesses for customized skills training. Reimbursements are awarded for entry level through advanced training of Kentucky citizens. The Skills Training Investment Credit Act allows companies to claim state income tax credits for up to 50% of the cost of approved occupational and skills upgrade training.

KY FAME is a partnership of manufacturers that have teamed up to address the shortage of technically skilled workers needed in advanced manufacturing. KY FAME offers an innovative education and helps Kentucky create one of the most highly skilled and effective advanced manufacturing workforces on the planet. How does KY FAME work? Students attend classes two days per week at their local community college and work an additional 24 hours per week for a sponsoring employer. Upon completion of the program, students receive an associate degree in Applied Sciences, and, with the practical skills gained during their paid work experience, most begin full-time employment with the sponsor. Others decide to further their technical education to obtain an engineering degree.

EDUCATION

The Elizabethtown/Hardin County area is served by two excellent, public school systems and there are several private and religious-based schools in the area that offer excellent secondary educational opportunities as an alternative. Additionally, Elizabethtown is home to an outstanding community and technical college and a regional postsecondary center, which makes baccalaureate degrees available through a state university.

Post-Secondary Training Options

The Elizabethtown Community and Technical College (ECTC) offers a wide range of educational programs that satisfy a variety of training and educational needs. Strong technical programs provide students the opportunity to gain knowledge and skills in preparation for new careers or to enhance current careers. New associate in applied science degree programs, diplomas, and certificate options have opened doors for students in areas as diversified as electrical, industrial maintenance, machine tool, welding, and automotive.

Through Workforce Solutions, ECTC strives to train business and industry employees in the following areas: technical training, team and employee development, computer skills and leadership and supervisory skills. Training is customized and designed to meet specific needs, delivers training based on those needs, and assists business and industry in assessing the results.

KCTCS-TRAINS is part of the Kentucky Skills Network, which is a partnership of workforce professionals from the Cabinet for Economic Development, Kentucky Career Center (Education & Workforce Development Cabinet), Labor Cabinet and KCTCS who are dedicated to providing solutions-based services. KCTCS-TRAINS classes offered at ECTC provide the training employees need to keep companies competitive in today's global economy. Companies receive funding to assist with the cost of providing workforce training and assessment services to current, as well as, potential employees. Funds are distributed on a project basis and require a company cash match of 50%. The Workforce Solutions staff will assist companies in developing training plans and applying for funding. Companies may apply individually or as a training network with other companies. The training networks meet common training needs of business and industry from various sectors of the economy.

The network approach is successful because companies who only need one or two employees trained are able to join with other companies to obtain cost-effective and timely training. Workforce Solutions staff will assist companies in developing the training networks.

The Elizabethtown/Hardin County Industrial Foundation Training Consortium (EIFTC), formed in 1987, is a partnership dedicated to workforce excellence and includes representatives from business, industry, the Industrial Foundation, and ECTC. The primary purpose of this organization is to develop and implement various training programs for local industry, to upgrade skills of current employees, and to provide continuity of educational development for students who may be considered for employment after graduation. Although initial course offerings were in the maintenance area, the selection has broadened to include computer applications, regulatory activities and management training. Several thousand participants from over 50 businesses, industries, governmental agencies, and the general public have completed EIFTC courses.

The Regional Postsecondary Education Center located on the campus of ECTC opened in April of 2002. The Postsecondary Education Center is a unique partnership between ECTC and Western Kentucky University. The Center houses a bookstore, and assessment center as well as programs in Air Conditioning Technology, Electrical Technology, Electronics Technology, Fluid Power, and Industrial Maintenance Technology. In addition, it includes smart classrooms and ITV classrooms where both ECTC and Western Kentucky University offer classes. WKU offers baccalaureate degree programs on the ECTC campus.

ECTC has a campus in Springfield that houses electrical, industrial maintenance, machine tool, and fluid power offerings. There are campuses located at nearby Fort Knox and Leitchfield and there are seven (7) off-site campus locations.

The University of Louisville, located 45 miles to the north, is a public institution that was founded in 1798. It is a state-supported research university located in Kentucky's largest metropolitan area. The University has three campuses. The 287-acre Belknap Campus is three miles from downtown Louisville and houses eight of the university's 12 colleges and schools. The Health Sciences Center is situated in downtown Louisville's medical complex and houses the university's health-related programs and the University of Louisville Hospital. The 243-acre Shelby Hurst Campus, location of the Center for Predictive Medicine (a Level 3 biosafety facility) and also the Information Technology Resource Center for the US Department of Homeland Security, is located in eastern Jefferson County. Uof L has a total enrollment of more than 20,000. There are more than 200 degree programs offered at U of L.

HEALTH CARE

Hardin Memorial Health (HMH), headquartered in Elizabethtown, serves a 10-county region across Central Kentucky. The only comprehensive health care system devoted to the region, HMH provides for the health and well-being of more than 400,000 residents.

The HMH system includes a 300-bed, acute care hospital and more than 45 additional locations throughout the service area, providing primary care and 40 specialties including orthopedic, oncology, cardiology, occupational therapy and more.

HMH is critically important and growing rapidly. The hospital's new North Tower boasts 56 private, patient-centric rooms. More than 1,600 babies are born each year at the HMH BirthPlace, ranking it 9th out of the 48 delivering Kentucky hospitals. BirthPlace also provides the region's only level II neonatal intensive care unit (NICU) with a highly trained team including two neonatologists providing 24-hour coverage. The HMH Emergency Department, the 4th busiest in the state, is undergoing a multi-million-dollar renovation to better accommodate the more 65,000 patients treated there each year.

With more than 290 best-in-class physicians, many with long-standing regional ties, and a staff of more than 2500, HMH prides itself on providing the highest level of care, treating patients like family because in many cases they are family!

The results of strong physicians, state of the art facilities and warm, friendly care, speak for themselves. The hospital has been recognized as a Thomson Reuters 100 Top Hospitals® based on clinical processes and outcomes, patient safety, operational efficiency and financial stability. The hospital has also been named one of Thomson Reuters 100 Top Hospitals® Performance Improvement Leaders. Most recently, Becker's Hospital Review named HMH one of the top 10 healthcare systems in the nation with strong finances.

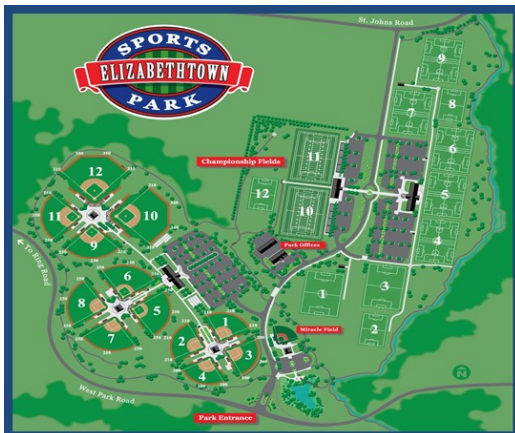

Prospective employers and site selectors can be confident the health and wellness needs of employees and families can be met close to home. HMH also works with regional employers to assist with pre-employment screenings, physicals or to execute any other worksite wellness needs.
