'ON VERGE OF WAR' WILSON PUTS CRISIS TO CONGRESS

NATION PREPARES FOR COMBAT; ARMY AND NAVY READY TO MOVE

American Steamer Housatonic Sunk Off Scilly Isles, English Channel

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 3.—The American steamer Housatonic was sunk today near the Scilly islands by a German submarine.

The Scilly islands are a rocky group at the entrance to the English channel, forming part of Cornwall.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—Diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany were severed this morning. Ambassador Bernstorff has been ordered his passports, and U. S. Ambassador James Gerard has been ordered home from Berlin.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—Congress is preparing for war with Germany, if today's break in diplomatic relations leads to hostilities.

Senator Tomas of Colorado, member of the finance committee, today introduced in the upper house an amendment to the lower house bill proposing that $50,000,000 in non-interest-bearing treasury notes be issued to put the nation "in a state of naval and military preparedness."

The amendment was read in the senate but was not discussed. The note will be payable to persons selling government munitions, and may be used to pay taxes. They are redeemable in 1935.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—Measures which are being proposed to protect the United States against conspiracies growing out of the break in relations will be considered at a special session of the senate judiciary committee today immediately after the president's address to the joint session of both houses.

The president will address the joint session this afternoon. Congressmen are backing the president with staunchest enthusiasm and without regard to party. The administration is urging immediate consideration for measures for the national defense.

Break Officially Comes Over Demand For Release of American Sailors

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—The United States demands the immediate release of the Americans taken prisoners on the prize ships seized by the German raider in the South Atlantic.

Reports have come to the United States officially that among the captured crews taken into the German port of Swinemunde, on the Baltic Sea, in the British prize ship Yarrowdale there are American citizens. Germany has declared that the captured crews would be treated on the status of prisoners of war, whereas the United States has taken the position that they are not war prisoners and should have been treated, when captured, as non-combatants.

Mere Break in Relations is Not Necessarily War Step, But May Be

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—The breaking of diplomatic negotiations does not necessarily mean war but may easily lead to war. The severance of relations, it is stated in official circles, is an act of protest, short of actual war steps.

However, the danger that war may follow this act is accentuated by the diplomatic history of the world, in which the breaking of relations is a precedent to actual declaration of war.

The rights of the Germans in the United States are virtually unaffected so long as there is nothing done except severing diplomatic relations. No treaties are terminated and unless further action is taken the consuls in the respective countries will continue to perform their functions without modification.

Also, there is no change in commercial relations between the two countries.

Stocks Drop, Then Recover

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Today's short session of the New York Stock Exchange goes down in history as one of the most memorable in the annals of the exchange.

The announcement of the break in relations with Germany came at the end of the first half hour of trading. The market at that time was following a markedly upward course.

The news resulted in moderate declines. Then the declines gained headway on accelerated operations, railroad stocks dropping from one to two points.

Industrials and war specialty stocks showed greater losses. Then a buying movement, in which operations in United Steel led, turned the previous losses to substantial net gains. United Steel showed a gain of four points, while Bethlehem Steel jumped 30 points and six war stocks went up. The closing of the market showed a net gain of four million.

Spain and Swiss Take Embassies

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—Announcement is made here that Spain will take over the diplomatic interests of the United States in Germany.

With the withdrawal of Ambassador Gerard and all the embassy staff, the Spanish embassy will conduct affairs on behalf of the United States and will probably act likewise for the consular offices. The Swiss legation will act in the same capacity for Germany in the United States.

An office building on the estate of Fiske Warren of Boston was destroyed by fire. The loss was estimated at $25,000.

Congressmen Stand By President Wilson

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—President Wilson has the united support of Congress and the country's officialdom.

At the Capitol the news of the president's decision came like a thunder-clap. Everywhere there were heard expressions of support and approbation.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, staunch republican and often emphatic critic of the president, was one of the first to hear the news. "Can that be true?" he fairly shouted. "I did not believe the president would do it. I thought there would be another note. I'm with him!" and he pounded his desk emphatically and pledged his support without a moment's hesitation.

Senator Tillman of South Carolina said: "I'm glad of it. I was in favor, when I heard of the German note, of telling von Bernstorff to pack his duds and go home to his barbarians. America will do its best and there can be no doubt that we will live up to our past record of being able to take care of ourselves."

When Ambassador von Bernstorff was told the news by the Associated Press, his eyes moistened and he said: "I am so sorry! However, I expected it. There was nothing left for the United States to do. I wonder how I am to get home."

The German embassy attaches have already begun preparations to remove their personal effects.

"NO OTHER COURSE BUT TO BREAK," SAYS WILSON, REVIEWING GERMAN VIOLATIONS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—Severance of relations between the United States and Germany was formally announced to the American people by President Wilson's words at a joint session of Congress at 2 this afternoon.

The United States now stands on the very verge of war. Fervently invoking the guidance of Almighty God for the American nation in this hour, President Wilson detailed why the United States cannot continue relations with a "warring power which repeatedly invades the rights and takes the lives of American citizens."

He made it plain that even now he cannot believe that Germany intends any overt act against American citizens, but if overt acts are forthcoming, he will again come before Congress to ask authority to "use any means which may be necessary for the protection of our seamen and our people."

SAN FRANCISCO FORTS CLOSELY GUARDED TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 3.—All forts guarding San Francisco bay were closed to visitors today. Only officers, men and those having business to transact were admitted.

AMERICAN LINER KEPT IN NEW YORK PORT BY MERCANTILE MARINE

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 3.—The International Mercantile Marine Company today announced the postponement of the sailing of the American liner St. Louis until next Saturday, "on account of a shortage of steam coal."

U. S. MARSHAL IS GETTING DEPUTIES

This afternoon U. S. Marshal J. J. Smiddy is swearing in a number of men as deputy United States marshals. The marshal declines to give the names of the men he is swearing in and declines to say why he is doing it, but says he will swear in as many men as he can get.

The district attorney's office says it is believed the deputies are being sworn in to guard the German refugee merchant steamers in port. The office adds that while it has received no instructions from Washington that such a guard would be established it supposes Marshal Smiddy has had private instructions from Washington to do so.

It is probable that two of the deputy marshals sworn in this afternoon will be sent to Hilo.

SHERIDAN TO ARRIVE IN A. M. FROM MANILA

Radio advices received this afternoon by the depot quartermaster's office say the U. S. army transport Sheridan will arrive off port from Manila and Nagasaki at 7:30 tomorrow morning, to dock at Pier 6 and steam about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon for San Francisco.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—Before the leaders of the Government, gathered in the Hall of Representatives—a silent, grave, deadly earnest throng—President Wilson at 2 o'clock this afternoon gave to Congress formal notification that this country has broken with Germany.

Cheers and silences punctuated the address—cheers that burst from hearts glowing with patriotism, silences that told deeper than words how soberly the congressmen regard the crisis. All throughout, the crowded chamber and the crowded galleries stood when the President entered and stood again when he departed.

The gravity of the occasion was furthered by the presence of all the justices of the United States Supreme Court, the members of the cabinet, and many other high officials of government.

Calm in the sense at what may prove the most sombre moment in American history, the President stood in the historic Hall of Representatives today and spoke words which may carry the country into a world-conflict—not for aggression, not for power, but only for the law of humanity.

Silent and attentive, the law-makers listened with rapt attention while the President told of the unsuccessful diplomatic struggle which he and his cabinet and ambassadors have carried on to dissuade Germany from a campaign of ruthlessness.

He outlined the history of the negotiations and the acts of Germany causing the break. Then he said, in part: "I think you will agree with me that in view of Germany's declaration, which suddenly, without prior intimation of any kind, deliberately withdraws the solemn assurances given in the imperial government's note of May 4, 1916, this government has no alternative consistent with the dignity and honor of the United States but to take a course which our note of April 18, 1916, announced we would take in the event that Germany did not declare and effect an abandonment of methods of warfare which she employed, and to which she now proposes to resort."

"I have therefore directed the Secretary of State to announce to the German ambassador that all diplomatic relations have been severed between this country and Germany, and that the American ambassador at Berlin immediately, in accordance with this decision, secure his passports."

The President added that if necessity arises he will ask Congress to use any means needed for the protection of American seamen and people, and that he believes all other now neutral countries will take the same course to protect their rights.

Ninety-Five German Vessels Tied Up at U. S. Ports; Not Yet Seized

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—Ninety-five German merchant vessels are tied up at United States ports, and may be used by the United States, under the conditions brought about by breaking relations, but the German owners must be compensated for such use, unless and until some overt act later results in their seizure.

It is announced by the postoffice department that the mails will continue to move.

ARMY AND NAVY OF OAHU PREPARES FOR EMERGENCIES

DECISION TO BREAK CAME AFTER SESSIONS YESTERDAY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—The decision to break with Germany was taken for granted yesterday by many senators with whom the President talked and by cabinet members who were in conference with him.

The outline of the situation as then made gave such a serious picture that it is generally believed the conclusion was reached at that time that the President could follow no other course but that of a severance of relations.

Confident that the sentiment of the entire country is supporting him in his action, and assured of the united support of Congress, the President came to the conclusion there was only one course to pursue.

Never in the history of the world have two first-class powers severed diplomatic relations without hostilities following, and thus the breaking-off of relations brings the United States to the verge of war.

Gerard Ordered to Bring All Embassy and Consular Staff From Germany

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3 (12:30 p. m.)—Ambassador Gerard has just been instructed by the state department to close the embassy and all U. S. consulates in Germany.

The embassy and consular staffs will be brought out of Germany.

This makes the severance of relations more complete than usual in such cases.

The despatch above is of special interest in connection with an earlier cablegram, printed also, showing that the severance of relations was first made without the recall of the consular staffs.

The latest despatch indicates the rapidity with which the United States is taking steps to assert its position and stand by the assertion.

Navy Yards Closed Except For Officials and Employees; Each Military Commander Takes Steps

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—Every U. S. navy yard and naval station was ordered closed by the navy department today at the moment relations with Germany were officially broken.

Only officials of the yards and employees—only those whose business is absolutely known—are allowed to enter the establishments and plants.

However, no special orders have been issued from Washington to increase the guards at the stations, arsenals, wireless plants and navy magazines.

These will be closely guarded but for none of these or other military reservations are there special orders. Each commanding officer at each place has full authority to take the necessary steps to protect the reservations and each is expected to do so.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels reiterated today a statement a few hours ago that the plans for the navy winter cruise in the Atlantic are unchanged.

U. S. Navy Watchful on Atlantic

NEWPORT NEWS, Virginia, Feb. 3.—The U. S. cutter Yamacraw today moved alongside the Appam, the British ship brought here as a prize by a victorious German crew, and the prize crew was taken off immediately.

Two destroyers have joined the U. S. battleship Arkansas in emergency duty off the Virginia Capes.

INTERN CAMP AT PEARL HARBOR IS A POSSIBILITY

That the officers and crew of the interned German gunboat Geier, its collier Locksun and the eight German refugee merchant steamers tied up here since the beginning of the war in 1914 are to be placed in an internment camp probably at Pearl Harbor was the apparent belief at 3 o'clock this morning of naval officers here, also the officers of the refugee steamers and harbor officials as well.

This was the most important phase of the excitement along the waterfront of Honolulu following the news received early today of the severing of diplomatic relations with Germany.

Geier Captain Sleeps Aboard

When a Star-Bulletin reporter went aboard the Geier at 8:30 this morning he was courteously received by the officer of the deck who told him that he had nothing to say and that he could not answer any questions.

A minute before the ship's quartermaster told the newspaperman that a Capt. Grasshof, the Geier's commander, had not yet appeared on deck. This confirmed the report that last night and for several nights previous the commander had been sleeping on board ship.

Before the situation became serious he stayed at night in his home on shore here.

Sailors and officers of the Geier were busy as usual this morning performing the routine shipboard duties. The men were scrubbing the decks at 8:30, while others were out in the boats doing their usual rowing around the harbor.

They seemed to realize the seriousness of the situation and their faces were much more serious than usual, there being no jokes or laughter aboard the gunboat.

Merchantmen Fear Internment

"I am sorry to hear the news," said Chief Officer Rudolf Wilts of the refugee merchant steamer Pommern, the biggest of the merchantmen tied up here. Wilts said that he feared if the Geier's men are placed in an internment camp the sailors from the merchant ships will be interned with them and the vessels probably tak-

GENERAL SATISFACTION EXPRESSED BY MOST FOREIGN CONSULS HERE

None of the consuls seen this morning by a Star-Bulletin representative had received any official notification of the impending crisis, but they were all intensely interested in the general situation and most of them made pertinent remarks relative to the part their countries and other nations might play in the latest move of the United States.

Represents Four Countries

Dr. Augustus Marques, who represents Russia, France, Belgium and the Republic of Panama in Hawaii, was most enthusiastic over the recent action of the United States, but admitted that it did not necessarily mean war.

"We shall shortly see just how far Germany will go with her bluff," Dr. Marques predicted. "If she goes through with her latest program there shall be no other recourse for the United States but war. If she does not follow out her proposed submarine ravages we may never clash."

The doctor said in event of the United States going to war with Germany that the Allies would of course be enormously assisted, but more in a commercial than a physical way.

"The United States navy is small; the army is smaller, speaking comparatively with the great forces now engaged in the great struggle. By crowding food, clothing, arms and munitions to the Allied armies we could immeasurably help," he says.

The doctor does not hazard what the action of other neutrals will be, but believes they are generally in sympathy with America's move. He says the United States certainly has not rushed in blindly, if war does come, as the president has been fighting from the one last step for nearly two years.

He over, that we should have stepped in at the very first—when Belgium was invaded.

War is Inevitable—Gordon

Handing an ambassador his passports is practically identical to declaring war, according to E. L. S. Gordon, consul for Great Britain and representative of Italy, and almost invariably followed by a formal announcement of hostilities by either country involved.

Gordon believes that the firm stand now taken by the United States and her possible entry as a belligerent with the Allies will be highly acceptable to the Allies and that other neutrals will look to America for a leader, as they have already done in other misunderstandings which have arisen between Germany and neutrals during the war.

L. M. Vetlesen, consul for Norway, says the situation is far more serious for Norway and other Scandinavian countries and that they will probably do everything they can to avert war between Germany and themselves.

Too Near Home

"Even though the United States goes to war with Germany, I do not feel that Norway or any of the neutrals will be likely to follow suit," he says, "for Germany's submarines are too close home to be comfortable and their coast lines are too long to be efficiently patrolled by inadequate navies."

Vetlesen declares that Germany still has time to "back water" on her latest program before she goes to war with the United States.

She may be surprised how promptly the United States has acted," he says, "and revoke the more severe portions of her order."

The Norwegian consul says there is even a possibility that some of the Scandinavian countries would throw their lot on the side of Germany, providing some seemingly intolerable act of the Allies was perpetrated upon them at this time.

Watching and Waiting

"Norway and other Scandinavian countries will undoubtedly adopt the famous 'watch and wait' policy now," is Vetlesen's prediction. "and withhold all action and tangible comment until Germany actually starts her proposed warfare on the shipping of the world."

Vetlesen declares it is remarkable how Norway has maintained her neutrality as long as she has and says it was only possible by maintaining the strictest censorship on all official acts and utterances in that country.

H. M. von Holt, who represents the interest of Holland in Hawaii, says he has only commercial relations with that country here and very little of them and therefore can say nothing about the general situation.

"You know more about it than I do," he told the newspaper man, "and probably more. All we can do is wait and see."

Generally the consuls believed that Germany's relations with the United States would be definitely known in the next 24 or 48 hours.

Japanese Elevate Consul Talks

Japanese Consul-General R. Moroi is on Hawaii on an official inspection of the condition of the Japanese laborers there and consequently could not be seen today but Elevate Consul K. Fujii was interviewed in his office this morning by the Star-Bulletin.

"I hardly believe that the United States will punish Germany with force of arms yet, though her powerful navy is always ready to cross the Atlantic to attack any port in the European countries. I believe that both countries, the United States and Germany, will remain in the same position as Japan and Austria after their diplomatic relationships were severed."

But it will be a hard blow to Germany. Her merchant steamers and warships in the American ports will be seized as soon as there is a declaration of war, though they will be granted certain days to leave the ports but they have no place to go at present. There will be a powerful Japanese squadron consisting of three cruisers, the Nitshin, Izumo and Iwate, which are reported by the local Japanese newspaper's special correspondents in Tokio to be on the way to Canada. These will watch the Pacific ocean.

"It would be hard for the German merchant steamers in this port to escape. I believe that there are hundreds of German merchant ships in the ports of New York and Baltimore and other Atlantic cities in the same condition at present. Germany must abandon all these ships which she was depending on for marine transportation after the war is over."

War Veterans of Roosevelt Camp Prompt to Act

Preparing to stand by their country in its crisis, United Spanish War Veterans of the city will meet tonight. This morning, immediately after he had read in the newspaper extras of the break with Germany, Comdr. Samuel A. Jenkins of the Spanish War Veterans, Theodore Roosevelt Camp No. 1, issued a call to every member to attend a special meeting at Mansfield Hall, Fort Shafter, tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

"We will consider an immediate offer of our services to our country," he announces.

There are about 50 members in Roosevelt Camp. A number are now in the regular army, but many others are in civilian life.

Flour costs more in Venezuela than for many years past, but competition among the bakers has reduced the cost of bread.

PRECAUTIONS FOR PROTECTION OF HAWAII TAKEN UP

All Strangers Excluded From Coast Defenses on Washington Orders, Provost Guard Increased and Army and Government Officials Hold Conference

"Strong, Honolulu: The secretary of war directs that all strangers be excluded in coast defenses of your command."

"McCain."

The foregoing message received from the adjutant-general, Brig-Gen. Henry P. McCain, was given to the Star-Bulletin this morning at 10:30 o'clock by Brig-Gen. Frederick S. Strong, commanding the Hawaiian department. It represents the first official word from Washington directing the action of troops on this island, although precautionary measures are already under way for guarding the Oahu defenses and supply houses.

In giving out the message the general also authorized Col. James H. McRae, the adjutant-general, to make the following statement.

"Precautionary measures will be taken to guard all stores and ordnance depots in this department."

Provost Guard Increased

"Also as a precautionary measure, the provost guard upon the streets of Honolulu will be increased."

This increase will be considerable, it is understood, probably amounting to more than 100 the usual number on patrol. Guards will be placed about the ordnance depots and supply houses.

Showing beyond a doubt that the army and navy are preparing to take coordinate steps at the first call, a conference between Brig-Gen. Frederick Strong of the local department and Capt. George R. Clark, commandant at Pearl Harbor, was held this afternoon in the office of the general at headquarters.

Important Conference is Held

With the two officers were also United States Attorney S. C. Huber, Col. A. M. Hunter of Fort Kamehameha, Col. F. E. Lacey, chief of staff, and others.

Gen. Strong accompanied the district attorney into the corridor outside his office, the two talking earnestly the while.

Throughout the morning officers called at headquarters from outside posts, often gathering in little knots here and there to discuss the situation. The serious looks upon their faces showed unmistakably how they consider it.

It is entirely possible that the crisis will bring the cancellation of all orders of transfer for officers in the department, or will change those orders in view of the new turn of events.

"It is one of the biggest days in the history of the United States," declared one officer during the course of a conversation.

A charter was granted at Dover, Del., to the State Savings & Trust Company, with a capital of $1,000,000.

"STAND BEHIND ADMINISTRATION," DECLARES HAGENS

J. F. C. Hagens of H. Hackfeld & Company was asked by the Star-Bulletin for a comment on the international situation. In reply, he made the following written statement—a notable affirmative of German American loyalty to the United States: "Americans of German extraction or birth cannot but sincerely deprecate any break between their mother country and the United States, but are in honor bound to be loyal to the country of their adoption and while so far their sympathies may have been with the Fatherland during these unfortunate years of war, I am convinced that right or wrong there is but one thing to do for them to stand behind the administration at Washington."

FEELS CERTAIN COUNTRY ABLE TO CARE FOR SELF

Former Head of Western Union Talks of Conditions in Case of War

Thomas F. Clark of New York city, former vice-president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, believes that the country is well able to weather the present crisis industrially, financially and patriotically. Clark is in Honolulu on his way to the Orient and is recently from New York. "It is a safe thing to say that since we have in recent months changed from a debtor to a creditor nation, and the federal reserve banks have such a strong hold on the situation, there is nothing in the world for us to fear financially in any way," said Mr. Clark this morning. Continuing, he said: "There can be no doubt that whatever the country may need, the financial interests of the country will eagerly provide with the full support of all their departments. "While everyone has hoped that we would have kept out of the war, I think the general feeling is that the president has done everything that could reasonably be expected to keep us out of it. "We must trust to his judgment that the circumstances demand the action he has taken. That being so, there is only one course for every loyal citizen to take and that is to stand unqualifiedly behind the president and support the government in every way possible."

Circuit Judge Ashford's trial jurors have been excused until further notice. Alleging desertion, Charles Badenfeld has filed in circuit court a suit for divorce from Katherine Badenfeld.

MARKET IS WEAK SALES NOT HEAVY

Interest and excitement in plenty but not many of public was in evidence about the brokers' offices and other financial centers this morning following the announcement of the breaking of diplomatic relations. What will be the next step was the question most frequently voiced. There were expectations of large selling orders and few buying orders and serious declines when the session should come. It happened that this was the first to 10 o'clock Saturday morning session and the advance of the meeting time by half an hour was welcomed. Before that time there was some trading done, but no rushing about from office to office seeking buyers. Brokers waited for the session.

When the stock exchange met at 10 o'clock sentiment had crystallized somewhat. Already prices had declined materially in the past few days and further was expected. They came, but there were no large selling orders and there were plenty of underlying orders, well under former prices in some instances, but in others close to last prices or quotations. Subsequent declines in listed stocks came ranging from 50 cents to $6, averaging about $2. Among these may be cited Ewa 2, Hawaiian Agricultural 1-2, McBryde, 11-4, Oahu 1-3-4, Olaa 1-1-2, Onomea 6, Pioneer 1-2, Waialua 2-1-2 and Pineapple 1-1-2.

Of the unlisted stocks Engels Copper strengthened at once and sold at $6 before the session and then strengthened on quotations, later selling higher when it was learned that it was selling at $6.75 on the mainland. Oil sagged off to $3.50 and Mineral Products sold at 90 cents and was quoted at 80¢90 cents. There were slight changes in Bingham, Madera and Mountain King. Sales between boards were 1320 shares and at the session 325, but the sales were mostly forced ones on smaller holdings and there were no offerings of big blocks. After the session the tone of the market appeared to gain firmness.

OFFICIALS GIVEN INSTRUCTIONS BY CABLE; SILENT

Severance of Relations Does Not Affect Right of Germans to Become Citizens

U. S. Attorney S. C. Huber this morning received an official cablegram from the department of justice following the announcement that America has severed diplomatic relations with Germany.

Attorney Huber and his assistant, Judge S. B. Kemp, held a conference regarding the message and decided that none of its contents should be made public. It is understood that the cablegram contains instructions to be followed by the local U. S. attorney's office in the event of the actual declaration of war either by America or Germany.

Huber Says Sharp Following the receipt of the cablegram Attorney Huber conferred with Raymer Sharp, acting collector of customs, relative to the duties of the attorney's office in the event any action has to be taken. Huber said he did not feel at liberty to make public the details of the conference.

Marshal J. J. Smiddy has received no instructions and anticipates none at least for the present. Regarding any action that may be taken by his office or by the marshal, Attorney Huber says:

"In the absence of war, the status of the German vessels now at this port would not change by the mere severance of diplomatic relations. Because of the presence of army and navy stations here, or any other action, would be taken through military and naval channels and not through the marshal's office. However, were there no naval or military stations here and war was declared then the marshal's office probably would be called upon to act. That is my guess in the matter.

"My office is not expecting any advances in advance of a declaration of war. In case war is declared the probability of this office being called upon to act is remote because of the presence of military and naval stations here. This office and the marshal's office, however, undoubtedly would be called upon to act if there were no stations. Such action might be the seizing or guarding of property."

Germans May Secure Citizenship

U. S. Judge Iorace W. Vaughan points out that the mere severance of diplomatic relations between America and Germany will not necessitate the refusal by the local federal court of declarations of intention to become American citizens that might be filed by natives of those countries comprising the Central Powers. In case of a declaration of war, however, declarations from these aliens would be refused, he adds.

Natives of the countries comprising the Central Powers, however, are eligible for actual naturalization even if America and Germany declare war, Judge Vaughan says, if such applicants took out their first papers in times of peace. However, he adds, the naturalization of such persons is a matter which rests entirely with the court.

America's Crisis--The Citizen's Opportunity

WE AMERICANS are today at a national crisis whose gravity need no emphasis, whose sobering influence needs no exaggeration.

Only those revered elders, gray of head and stooped with years, only those patriots of the unforgettable stripes, have gone through such another day as this of February 3, 1917.

They went through the day of severed ties and the four years of actual war--and a war that threatened the very existence of this nation, that struck at the foundation of human liberty. They went through steadfastly, until victory crowned the right cause, the just cause.

Since the foundation stones of the republic rocked in civil war, we have stood secure as an united nation, and today the nation is again united in the enunciation of an immortal principle--the principle that human rights cannot be violated for a policy of state; the principle that the law of humanity is higher than the dictate of expediency, however desperate these dictates.

The United States government had endured violations of American rights, had endured actions which amounted to insults by the German government, had endured arrogant abuse, until it became conclusively evident that Berlin had thrown off the yoke of a friend and taken on that of an undisguised enemy. Over the protests of German officials who appear to have wished a maintenance of friendship, the advocates of ruthlessness have ridden.

Needless it is to affirm that the heart and the brain and the brawn of Americanism stanchly support America's president. The response of all parties in Washington is but the echo of the response throughout the nation.

It is for us to go steadfastly about the nation's duty, soberly, firmly, unflinchingly, fixed of purpose, resolved to endure what hardships, what sufferings, what sacrifices may come upon us in the course of living that duty to the full.

In Hawaii, these loved "Isles of Peace," it is particularly incumbent upon American citizens to bear themselves well. We have a large alien element. We have here a large German population and a large population of Americans of German birth or extraction. These are facing a bitterer hour than America's hour. For them it is an hour where the ties of blood and those of adopted country must be severed. It is an hour that tests their capacity to rise to the heights of American citizenship called by crisis. Living in this small community, our relations, our interests are close-knit, and the ties of friendship between those of German blood and those of other bloods are many and dear. This is not a time for jingoism, for sneers at our German and German-American neighbors. It is a time for self-control. Our best service will be done our country by exercising the poise that will keep the community squarely on its feet, squarely in line with national action.

In this time of crisis that searches the strengths and the weaknesses in the souls of men Hawaii not inconceivably will be the center of spectacular events. We do not know what will come. Whatever comes, let us begin by absolute control of speech and action, without the folly of intemperate haste to do or say the thing which breeds bitterness. And let each American citizen, individually and in the full realization that his country needs him, prepare himself to answer whatever call may come upon time, effort or resources.

The nation's crisis is also the American citizen's opportunity to prove himself a worthy son of the republic.

TOURISTS RUSH TO LEAVE CITY

Between the time that the Star-Bulletin printed its first edition at 7:30 this morning and the news of the breaking off of diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany, and 10 o'clock, when the Great Northern left for San Francisco, more than 20 tourists bought tickets and went away on the liner because of the threatening war outlook.

According to the local Great Northern agency, Fred L. Vaiden, Ltd., three or four passengers so appreciative that they packed up their trunks and rushed to the steamer without buying any tickets, they were in such a hurry to get to the main land before war was declared--if it is declared.

The war scare also influenced bookings for the Matsunia, leaving Wednesday morning. Fully 15 tourists were besieging the passenger counter of Castle & Cooke's a few minutes before noon. Many of them were disappointed as the Matsunia has been "sold out" for two weeks, so far as stations are concerned, only a few berths here and there being left.

GREAT RECORD IS MADE BY SECOND

Scoring what is probably the highest record for attendance ever made by a National Guard regiment at federal inspection, the 2nd Infantry, at Lawail, has established a name for itself that may go down in the annals of history. The record of attendance for 13 companies was 100 per cent, and for the entire regiment was 99 plus. Out of 1130 men, in other words, whose names appear on the rolls of the organization, only nine men failed to appear. Every one of these nine was absent from the island. Brig-Gen. Samuel I. Johnson, adjutant-general, who returned from the Big Island this morning, is highly enthusiastic over this showing, which he believes has never been equaled by any organization in the National Guard. "Men came in carts, on horses, by automobile and on foot to appear for inspection," says the general, "and praise is due to every company in the regiment for the splendid teamwork shown. Many of them were without uniforms, but drilled anyway. The cavalry troop turned out 100 per cent, bringing one man from Honolulu to do it. Others got up from sick beds to attend inspection. Maj. O. B. Rosenbaum, who made the inspection, begins work today on Maui."

$15,000 GIVEN FOR Y. W. FUND

When the campaign committee of the Y. W. C. A. met this afternoon at 1 o'clock, they reported that $15,000 had been contributed to the budget for 1917. This leaves but $2000 to be subscribed to carry out the work proposed for the year. Following the meeting today the workers decided that those who had not been called upon in the campaign will be asked to send in their subscriptions. A number of workers have volunteered to finish up the campaign on Monday.

With a contribution of $300 received this morning from Alexander and Baldwin, the total amount raised and reported in our 11 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. campaign was $13,702.25. The campaign committee is still counting the contributions, and it is not expected that a statement of the full amount received will be given out until some time next week.

Workers are meeting with much success, and although the work has been carried on for three days, hundreds listed have not yet been seen, and a few of these had mailed their contributions to the treasurer of the association. Several contributions have been received which were especially given for the clubhouse at the beach.

"Here is $2 from a friend for the beathen," wrote one contributor today. Up to date the association workers have not been able to decide which department this amount should go to. One young lady on the mainland sent $5 to Miss Grace Shannon to help in the cause here. The final report of funds received will be announced late next week by the chairman of the campaign committee.

TINA LERNER IS GREAT PIANIST

On February 8 and 13 at the Hawaiian Opera House, Honolulu and the territory will hear the world-famed Russian pianiste, Tina Lerner, following are a few of the European critics' ideas of her performances: St. Petersburg: "Tina Lerner has wonderful qualities. Her technique is extraordinary, tremendous difficulties being overcome with seemingly no effort. Her performance left a remarkable impression."--(Rieth.) London: "The concert was chiefly remarkable for Tina Lerner's wonderful interpretation of Chopin's F Minor Concerto. Seldom has this beautiful work been rendered with such perfect sympathy and comprehension."--London Daily Mail.

Stockholm: "Tina Lerner is an artist in the true sense of the word, an artist such as one rarely finds among the pianists of the day. The storm of applause was well deserved."--(Stockholm Tidningen.) Antwerp: "Tina Lerner combines all the qualities wished for in a virtuoso and a great interpreter."--(Le Metropolitain.)

Paris: "A great pianist, Tina Lerner heard here for the first time was given a magnificent ovation, an ovation such as rarely given to a piano virtuoso by our public."--(Le Figaro.) Cologne: "The star of the evening was Tina Lerner. Today she is celebrated as a virtuosa and she is deservedly honored when she is acclaimed."--(Kilner Tageblatt.)

NEGRO ACCUSES WILLIAM GREGER

William Greger, chief inspector of the harbor board, is accused in grave charges which are being investigated by the attorney general, though as yet no complaints have been formally made against him.

Greger is accused by a negro of having made arrangements with him for the disposal of material on Piers 8 and 9, it being claimed by the negro that Greger told him to sell the material and bring the money or a part of it back.

By following up the robbery of copper from piers under Piers 15 and 16 Capt. McDuffie of the detectives has discovered that 16 bags of cement, 6 bundles of wire, 6 kegs of nails and 1646 pounds of new yellow metal, stolen from the harbor commissioners' warehouse, have been sold to a junk dealer.

All of the lot was sold by a negro, Joe Everett, who says he acted for William Greger, chief inspector of the harbor board, and given such home as he received here."--(Kilner Tageblatt.)

harbor board. Further sale has been stopped on all stolen material excepting the new metal which has already been shipped to the coast. This metal, which costs 40 cents a pound, was sold to the junk dealer for 3 cents.

No arrests have been made. Greger's attorney, Lorrin Andrews, scouts the idea that Greger had anything to do with the theft.

Greger said this morning that the negro who has accused him is named Everett, and is a former employee of the harbor board.

"I was the man who called the attention of the board to the fact that material was being stolen from the piers. It is all a plot of Everett to save himself by putting the accusation on me," he said.

Attorney General I. M. Stainback said today that the territory has only Everett's statement by which to bring charges against the inspector. He is not yet ready to announce what course of action will be taken by the territory.

Lorrin Andrews, Greger's attorney, declares that the charges made by the negro are absurd, and merely to put the blame for himself after he had been captured. Greger draws a large salary, he says, and it is ridiculous to suppose he would stoop to petty thievery.

It is understood that the material taken was worth something more than $200 but that it has all been recovered.

NIPPON ARRIVES; SMALLPOX CASES AMONG FILIPINO STEERAGE ONLY

Arriving off port a few minutes before 8 o'clock this morning, half a day ahead of the time she had wireless in Thursday, the T. K. K. intermediate liner Nippon Maru sprang a surprise on waterfront men. Her arrival clears up the mystery surrounding her smallpox cases and movements since she began the present voyage at Hongkong. It also shows cables sent the local agency, Castle & Cooke, by the T. K. K.'s Yokohama office to have been incorrect. Instead of finding very ill the three Filipino steerage passengers whom Capt. Maki reported in Thursday's radio to be sick, the quarantine officers today found them practically well, the attack having been light. The liner was allowed to enter port after the Great Northern had left at 10 a. m. She docked at Pier 16 but because of the smallpox on board fumigation of the steerage and ship's hospital was necessary, so that practice was not given and passengers allowed ashore or visitors aboard until early this afternoon. The steerage passengers for Honolulu were all taken to the quarantine station from Pier 16 after docking. The ship's bill of health shows the following to have been the correct status of the Nippon's smallpox trouble: The liner did not sail from Yokohama on January 17 as reported in two cables to the local agency. She was at Kobe on that date. Discovered Before Sailing The first smallpox outbreak was January 22. It was discovered on inspection at Yokohama a just before sailing. There were two cases of Filipino steerage passengers, all the smallpox among the Filipinos, according to Dr. F. E. Trotter, chief quarantine officer. All Given a Bath The Nippon was ordered to the Nagahama quarantine station. The two cases were taken off the ship there. All the crew and steerage were then bathed and disinfected by the Japanese quarantine authorities and on January 23 all the crew and passengers were vaccinated. Left Yokohama Jan. 24 January 24 the Nippon left Yokohama. On the next day the second outbreak occurred, a Filipino coming down with smallpox. January 26 two more broke out with the disease in a mild form. The steamer did not put back to Yokohama. The trio is almost well today. The Nippon will leave tomorrow morning for San Francisco.

SHINYO COMING AHEAD OF TIME

At daylight Monday the T. K. K. turbine Shinyo Maru will be off port from Yokohama, according to a wireless received by Castle & Cooke's shipping department from the liner this morning. The Shinyo was not expected until Monday afternoon, but is evidently making up time. She reports a total of 1936 people aboard, with 250 steerage passengers for Honolulu and 1787 tons of cargo. The turbine will dock at Pier 7 and probably steam for San Francisco at 5 o'clock the same afternoon, although not scheduled to leave until Tuesday morning. Lurline Has Good Cargo Due Tuesday morning from San Francisco is the Matson steamer Lurline. No wireless report from her was received today by Castle & Cooke, which may mean she has met bad weather and been delayed. The Lurline has 6527 tons of cargo for Honolulu and 1447 for Kahului. Matsonia Booked Full With every stateroom filled and a long waiting list, the Matsonia will steam at 10 a. m. Wednesday for San Francisco, taking every passenger she can carry and a big cargo. People trying to book on her were lined up "three deep" in Castle & Cooke's shipping department today.

IMPENDING WAR IS FELT ON G. N.

Sending up her international signal number, indicated by four flags flown from a signal flag line amidships, as she passed the custom house at the foot of Fort street the Hill liner Great Northern's departure this morning for San Francisco was dramatic and picturesque. There was a sense of war in the air at Pier 16 when the liner went out. The news of the severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany early today made the turbine's departure a more serious incident than usual and this sobered the usual gaiety at the pier. The liner flew her signal number as she went up and dipped her ensign to the U. S. S. St. Louis, guarding American neutrality off port and preventing any vessels leaving for foreign ports unless consent of the customs authorities is given. As the liner is an American vessel and bound for an American port she did not have to fly her signal number, but Capt. Ahman did so out of courtesy to the St. Louis and port authorities. The Great Northern went out amid perfect weather, as last time, the sun shining brightly and a kona breeze blowing from the sea. She took out the biggest passenger list for the mainland of any voyage to date. The total number leaving was 448, of whom 290 were first cabin, 65 second and 93 steerage. Freight leaving was 900 tons, including 15,200 cases of canned pines, 4008 bunches of bananas and miscellaneous cargo. Among the Honoluluans who left on the turbine today were Mr. and Mrs. Gus Schuman, C. G. Bockus, A. H. Cathcart, Mrs. H. F. Damon, W. P. Fennell, Mrs. S. L. Faison and Miss Eleanor Faison and many others.

HARBOR NOTES

Next mail from San Francisco will arrive Tuesday morning in the Oceanic steamer Sonoma. Arrival at Grays Harbor Thursday of the schooner Dauntless after a voyage of 17 days is reported. Next mail from Manila and Nagasaki will arrive tomorrow morning in the U. S. army transport Sheridan. The next Matson steamer from San Francisco will be the Lurline, due Tuesday morning. She will dock at Pier 15. The Matson flagship Matsonia will return tomorrow morning from Hilo and will steam at 10 a. m. Wednesday for San Francisco from Pier 15, taking passengers, freight and mail. At 6 o'clock Friday evening the American-Hawaiian freighter Minnesota steamed for Port Allen to load sugar there and at Hilo. She is due to leave Hilo Wednesday for San Francisco. Officers of the Canadian-Australasian liner Niagara said that the German Pacific submarine scare had struck Sydney just before the steamer left the Australian port. Three destroyers were despatched to New Guinea and adjacent islands and their departure was connected with the submarine rumor. FEDERAL GOVERNMENT CONTROLS IN HARBOR No instructions have been sent to the harbor board relative to action concerning the war-bound German ships in the harbor, according to Wilbur C. Woodward, acting chairman, who stated that such word is not likely to be received by that body. Territorial authority extends only to the bulkhead lines of different piers, the harbors themselves belonging to the federal government.

SONOMA HAS 149 FOR THIS PORT

Wireless advices received today from the Oceanic liner Sonoma by the shipping department of C. Brewer & Company, the local Oceanic agency, say the liner has 149 passengers for Honolulu, larger by a score than the big number given in advance bookings two weeks ago. The Sonoma also has 770 bags of mail for Honolulu and 810 tons of general cargo, one of the largest brought to Honolulu by an Oceanic boat in a year or more. There are 14 tons of express matter. Because she left San Francisco a day late, the Sonoma will not arrive until Tuesday morning instead of Monday. She will dock at and steam from Pier 6 for Pago-Pago and Sydney about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

OBSERVER FAILED TO REPORT NIPPON EARLY?

That the observer at Diamond Head light failed to report the Nippon Maru until she was off port, although she passed Barber's Point three-quarters of an hour before, was asserted today by Dr. F. E. Trotter, chief quarantine officer. "The boat passed Barber's Point at 7 o'clock, but was not reported to us by the observer at Diamond Head until she was right off the harbor about 8 o'clock," said Dr. Trotter. "We lost 45 minutes getting out to the Nippon on account of the observer's failure to report the liner when she passed the point. The harbor-master's office said there was such a haze along the horizon this morning that it was quite likely the liner could not be seen by the observer until she was quite near to port. Next mail for San Francisco will leave in the T. K. K. intermediate liner Nippon Maru some time tomorrow morning. Mails will close at the postoffice probably at 9 o'clock tonight.

FOUR YEARS FOR YOUNG BURGLARS

The institution of the whipping post is the thing appropriate for your kind," declared Circuit Judge Ashford today when he sentenced Charles Cash, Jr., and John Kuanui, who pleaded guilty to first degree burglary, to each serve not less than four years at hard labor in Oahu prison. Cash and Kuanui recently escaped from Oahu prison. While at liberty they committed several burglaries. Both have long criminal records. Cash still has three years to serve and Kuanui about six years. Cash is 22 and Kuanui 19 years old. Kuanui formerly was a "trust" in Mayor Lane's office, but committed burglaries and was sent back to jail. "Put fellows like you in a comfortable prison and you break out," said Judge Ashford. The court ordered that the sentences imposed today begin after the expiration of the terms now being served by the defendants.

CAN GET MEDAL BUT SCHOOL DEPARTMENT MUST STAND EXPENSE

Henry W. Kunnay, superintendent of public instruction, has been notified that the school children of Honolulu have been awarded a gold medal for vocational and needlework exhibited at the Panama-California exposition in 1915. In the last mail he received a blue ribbon award which is now being framed.

The same mail brought the advice that if $20 will be forwarded to the exposition officials to help pay for the gold, or words to that effect, the medal will be sent to Honolulu immediately. Kunnay says that the school department does not intend to forward the $20. The First Union Trust Corporation of New York increased its capital from $700,000 to $8,000,000.

SALE OF TICKETS FOR CARNIVAL TO OPEN ON MONDAY

The ticket sale for the Mid-Pacific Carnival will start Monday morning at the stationery store of the Hawaiian News Company in the Young Hotel building, where purchasers will be provided with the seating plans for all the various events, so they may select the seats in the bleacher and theater locations they desire.

One thousand season tickets will be placed on sale, for which the best sections of the bleachers have been reserved. The season ticket, according to the schedule of single admissions, has a value of $7.75, but will be sold for $6.50. The season ticket will secure admission to all Carnival events, except to the army and navy ball and the directors' ball, which are invitational. A separate charge will also be made for admission to the sideshows of the Carnival circus, which will be given all during Carnival week at Aala Park.

Many of the strangers in Honolulu have asked already that season ticket seat reservations be made for them and it is expected that the 1000 tickets will be sold in a short time. However, the Carnival directors will conduct a personal canvass of the town to place the season tickets. They will first call on all subscribers to the Carnival fund who will be given an opportunity to select good seats without the necessity of going to the Hawaiian News store.

Instead of binding the season ticket in book form for this Carnival, single tickets for every event will be placed in a small envelope, upon which is printed the program for the week. A different colored ticket for each event has been issued, which will make it easy to present the right ticket to the doorkeepers. The tickets are transferable and the holder of a season ticket who does not want to attend some event on the program will be at liberty to give his ticket to a member of his family or a friend.

Canadians Here Thawing Out From 50 Below Zero!

Six Saskatoon tourists in Honolulu to thaw out.

To be transported to a land of summer is the realization of their dreams. The temperature was only 50 degrees below zero when they left Saskatoon, Canada. The beauty and wonders of the islands are far beyond their expectations. The kindness shown them by the people of this land was a surprise they had not anticipated.

The personnel of the party is as follows: William Capel, who is 72 years of age; William Flanagan, Capt. Morris, R. T. Hutchinson, E. H. Brady, D. S. Campbell.

They are all successful businessmen, here to seek a home to which they came each year. Mr. Capel says that this is the most wonderful of all lands. "The kindness of the people, the general life of the town and the spirited manner of all the businessmen, certainly appeals to me. I see its great value to our land and the world in its productiveness, its resources. It certainly is shaping itself into a wonderful and powerful

CHINESE RUGS ON EXHIBIT NOW AT LANIAKEA

Miss True announces that the exhibition of paintings, old rugs, Chinese tapestries and Japanese prints, which she has been displaying the last two months at Laniakea, 1041 Alakea street, will continue until February 22. naval base. I can only wish I was a young man again and be able to engage in the activities and the building up of this city. This land has a future. However, when I return to my home I will be a booster of the Hawaiian Islands and next year will see many of my friends visiting this wonderful place." The party will leave next month for San Francisco.

VAUDEVILLE BILL TO OPEN TONIGHT

Tonight the new vaudeville and photodrama combination will receive its premier at the Bijou theater and a strong program is promised at the usually reasonable prices that prevail at local playhouses. There are five big acts on the program and a feature film that should prove a big show all in itself.

The photodrama, and it should be heavy on the drama, is "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," with Edmund Breese in the stellar role. This is based on the poem of the same name by Robert W. Service, uncrowned poet laureate of the Frozen North. Service put into his poetry the innermost life of the great Alaskan wastes.

President Joel C. Cohen of the Consolidated Amusement Company has been combing the ocean liners en route to the mainland from the Southern continent for vaudeville talent. He has picked and chosen until he believes he has five acts par excellence. Honolulu theatergoers will have an opportunity to judge for themselves this evening and throughout next week. Walter Weems, a blackface humorist, is reputed to have a good laugh-getting act; Grace Watson, "the Buster Girl," sings and dances, and from all reports does both well; the Lampinis, secured from the S. S. Niagara yesterday, are a team of "comic wizards," bringing a number of new stunts to the local board; Jamie Kelly, billed as "the man who built the subways of New York," has a surprise act; Jack Merlin, "the talking trickster," deals in sleight-of-hand on a new and large scale.

NEW MARKS MAY BE SET IN HEXATHLON

Some new records are due to be established when the Seniors meet in the international Hexathlon events in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tonight. The men are in good trim now and last year's record holders will be pushed hard. The first event starts at 7:30 o'clock.

The interesting event of the evening and the one that will bring out the keenest competition will be the fence vault and in this Benj. K. HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't stay gray! Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

SOCIETY

PRINCESS KAWANAKOIA CENTER OF SOCIAL GAIETIES

Princess David Kawanakoa will be the principal guest of honor at Hotel del Coronado this afternoon, when hundreds of society men and women will gather at the weekly matinee dance, says the San Diego Union of January 19. Inclement weather has in no way subdued spirits in the fashionable world, the rather uncertain rain if anything having sent the popularity of afternoon indoor entertainments skyrocketing.

Mrs. John McClellan, wife of Gen. McClellan, U. S. A., will be the sponsor of the pretty affair in honor of Princess Kawanakoa. About 25 prominent San Diego and Coronado matrons and women of the navy and army sets will form the company that Mrs. McClellan has invited.

Other tea parties of varying size will grace the dance. Guests at Hotel del Coronado and members of the younger transbay set will be entertained by the hostess at the famous hostelry, Mrs. Ethel Thomas, Mrs. C. L. Tilton of Boston and Mrs. Waldo K. Chase of Farmington, Conn., both have made reservations. Among the other hostesses will be: Miss L. Winn, Mrs. J. M. Anderson, Mrs. W. J. Stanton, Mrs. Frank Frye, Mrs. A. G. Olson and Miss Sarah L. Town of St. Louis.

A feature of the afternoon will be, of course, the dance diversions of Jack Holland and his partner, Miss Florence Gustave. The talented and popular young pair, who have delighted Coronado patrons with their exhibitions since the beginning of their special engagement, will present two new numbers.

Friday will be a constant fount of entertainment at Hotel del Coronado, beginning this morning with one of the attractive concerts by the marine band of the flagship Pueblo. Since Rear Admiral W. F. Pullam, commander-in-chief of the reserve force, Pacific fleet, revived this pleasing feature of Coronado life the semi-weekly concerts have proved an especial delight to a large company of music lovers. The matinee dance is on the agenda for this afternoon, while tonight the film comedy, "Miss Jackie of the Navy," a large part of which was photographed at the hotel, will be shown in the ballroom. There is a great deal of character about the impending treat as many guests at the hotel and island folk danced into the picture at the movie ball masque last fall. The exhibition of the film at Coronado was arranged through the courtesy of the Pollard Players, the company which produced it.

SAN DIEGO GALETIES

With virtually all of the elect of the local society world and of the army and navy colonies present, it was an impressive assembly which comprised yesterday's matinee dance at Hotel del Coronado, says the San Diego Union of January 6. The affair was made up of many important tea parties, with the men and women of fashion forming enjoyable and intimate little groups, while the afternoon unfolded its items of the dance and dainty special entertainment.

Jack Holland and his partner, Miss Florence Gustave, appeared in two divertissements, Dvoiak's "Humoresque" and "Walkin' the Dawg," that piece of terpsichorean eccentricity which seems the more entertaining each time it is beheld. Miss Gustave looked unusually captivating in a particularly pleasing vogue model of Georgette crepe, trimmed with Pan velvet.

Princess David Kawanakoa, the comely descendant of Hawaii's proud royalty who has been in Coronado for the last month, was the complimented guest at a bright gathering of social people entertained by Mrs. Robert Smart. BELGIAN RELIEF SHIP SENT TO BOTTOM

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 3.—The steamer Euphrates, chartered by the Belgian relief commission, was a victim of Germany's new submarine "war of ruthlessness." The announcement of her destruction by a German submarine was made late last night by the Lloyd's agency. It was followed shortly afterward by the announcement of the sinking of the neutral steamer Jerv, belonging to Norway, and which was blown out of the water by a torpedo.

Remember the Gas Main

When you consider the purchase of a house—insist upon equipment for gas, the modern fuel. Be equally insistent upon this point when renting. Nowhere is the use of gas for fuel more imperative than in this semi-tropic climate.

The modern gas range cooks cleanly, quickly, efficiently—and that means economically too.

Cook has perfect and absolute control of the heat, without heating the entire stove. The kitchen remains cool—the preparation of the meal is a pleasant, interesting task

BIG GAME WILL BE PLAYED FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

St. Louis and Braves Clash at Athletic Park on Sunday; Good Ball Expected

LINEUP
St. Louis—Fun Luke, lf; Haneberg, 2b; Lai Sin, 1b; Chun Chew, cf; Nelson, p; Kurisaki, c; You Bun, ss; King Tan, 3b; Hayselden, p; Markham, p.
Braves—Anahu, 3b; Ornelias, lf; Nelson, p, cf; Thomas, rf; Perry, p, cf; Lee, c; Cordero, ss; Mara, 2b; Silva, 1b; Rosa, 1b.

Baseball fans of this city will witness a good game on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the Braves and St. Louis meet in the final battle for the championship. Both aggregations are confident of victory, and a hot battle is expected when Mark Evans of Des Moines says play ball.

Supervisor Benjamin F. Hollinger of this city said yesterday in an interview that the Chinese and 25th Infantry would play one week from Sunday, which means that there will be but one game on Sunday. The interest has been increasing in baseball here, and inasmuch as the two Pacific League teams have been playing excellent ball a large crowd is expected out to give the players the round and round.

Brother Elmer may send Hayselden on the mound with Markham in reserve. The hurler for the Braves has not yet been selected, but it is expected that either Perry or Nelson will be on the firing line. The class of ball played by these two teams has been of such caliber as to warrant the work that has been done on planning for the league season. Several good players have been produced, and al-

MOTORCYCLISTS IN ROAD RACE CARNIVAL TIME

Speed Kings Will Attempt to Lower Record From Haleiwa to Honolulu This Month

At a meeting of the Honolulu Motorcycle Club, held last evening, arrangements were made for a motorcycle road race from Haleiwa to Honolulu during carnival week. Sheriff Rose has sanctioned the race and will have the court patrolled.

The course will be patrolled by motorcycleists from Haleiwa to Moanalua, and from there on the police will handle the traffic to the entrance of the Kamehameha schools, where the race will end.

The race will be held on Sunday in order to avoid meeting the heavy trucks on the road. The riders will leave the starting point three minutes apart and road checkers will be placed on the road to keep the riders informed as to conditions. It is expected that the winners will complete the ride in close to 30 minutes.

Among those who have signified their intention to enter the race are: W. D. Ferry, Indian; Berry Sizemore, Excelsior; H. Huestace, Excelsior; Hogan, Indian; Frank G. Tavares, Indian; Eddie Cummings, Excelsior; Gramberg, Harley-Davidson; George McIntyre, Harley-Davidson, and Frank Roper.

With the Portland team coming here, interest in the national game has awakened, and without doubt the training trip of the Beavers will be a big success. Walter McCredie has stood up for Honolulu, and despite the foul talk in the matland papers the last few days, McCredie is coming and will be ready for the local aggregations.

SAINTS AND KAM, WIN BASKETBALL BATTLES FRIDAY

St. Louis Has Best Chance for Championship Honors; Kam Shows Big Improvement

INTER-SCHOOL LEAGUE STANDING

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
St. Louis	4	1	1000
Kamehameha	2	2	500
McKinley	2	2	500
Punahou	0	4	000

St. Louis 16, Punahou 14, Kamehameha 23, McKinley 8.

St. Louis took a strangle hold on the basketball championship yesterday afternoon when, after a hard battle, the Red and Blue triumphed over Punahou by a score of 16 to 14 at the Punahou campus. Punahou is down deep in the cellar, and the only team which appears to have a chance is Kamehameha, and its chances are mighty slim.

Punahou was defeated yesterday afternoon, but they played real basketball from start to finish, and the St. Louis five were not certain of victory until Referee McCrillie called the game to an end. The Punahou players passed the ball with a purpose, and Peterson especially was a bright and shining star. He outplayed Christian throughout, and with Holmes at guard earned a place in the basketball world.

Lam Wing played a steady game for St. Louis and it was his work coupled with that of the Vredenburg brothers which finally won for the Red and Blue five. The outdoor game promises to be popular, and more than 200 turned out to watch the game. The lineup and summary follows:

St. Louis—Lam Wing and Kamehameha, forwards; Christian, center; guards.
Punahou—Rothschild and Decker, forwards; Peterson, center; Pekalo and Holmes, guards.

Field goals—Lam Wing, 4; Kamehameha, 2; Peterson, 5; Rothschild, 2; Foul goals, Lam Wing, 4; Rothschild 1; Decker, 1.
Referee, McCrillie; timers, Lau Tan and Horner; scorers, Bromley and Wid Alfonso.

Kam Swamps McKinley
St. Louis may run into a real snag at Kamehameha field next Tuesday afternoon, when she meets the basketball stars from the King street school. Coach Lohman has schooled the Kam players into a system which will cause the Saints some trouble when they meet. Yesterday afternoon Kam won out from McKinley by a score of 28 to 8.

It has been many moons since the basketball fans have had an opportunity to witness better playing on the part of the forwards than was seen yesterday when Dower and McGuire got in action. The Kam team was not the same team which lost out the last time, and without doubt the Saints will have a busy afternoon.

Kam players used the side and corner courts throughout in the game and this feature had the McKinley players up in the air. Dower and McGuire played real fast basketball, and neither tried to win the laurels for himself. Better team work has not been seen on the courts in a history of the league. In the third period McGuire made six points in less than one minute, and in this same period Dower threw two pretty baskets from the field.

Fuller and Kukona, the two Kam guards, had the McKinley forwards covered at all times. Lujan played a good game, but was unable to stop the scoring machine of Kam. The lineup and summary:

Kamehameha—McGuire and Dower, forwards; Clark, center; Fuller and Kukona, guards.
McKinley—Borthwick, Grent and Auerbach, forwards; J. Thompson, center; Lujan and W. Thompson, guards.

Field goals, McGuire, 9; Dower, 5; Borthwick, 1; Auerbach, 1. Field goals, J. Thompson, 2; Auerbach, 1; Lujan, 1.
Referee, Whitcomb; timers, Borthwick and Greenly; scorer, Simeona.

BASEBALL STARS READY FOR BIG BENEFIT GAME

As announced in the Star-Bulletin last Saturday afternoon the game between the Army officers and University Club players will be played on March 17. No change has been made in the date since this announcement, and everything is going along in an excellent manner.

The proceeds of the game will go to the Army Relief, which assists widows and orphans of army men. A number of stars have planned to play in this game and a large crowd is certain to turn out. March 17 will also be St. Patrick's Day and the Irish fans have set aside this day for a glimpse at the stars.

Germany has requested the United States to remove Minister Vopicka from Bucharest.

POLO TOURNAMENT WILL BE HELD IN EAST DURING YEAR

The absence of international competition due to the war has made for invited to take part in the midwinter carnival of the Hawaiian A. A. U., coming off on February 11 in Honolulu—Billy Williams, the national fancy diving champion of 1915, and Sanford Goodman, the 50-yard Pacific coast title holder. Both are members of the Los Angeles A. C.

Particular interest attaches to the bid extended to the latter because his coach, Vance Vieth, a competent and conservative judge of swimming material, recently expressed the opinion that the lad, who is not quite 17 years old, would develop within six months into the greatest 100-yarder in the world.

This pronouncement might be thought unwarranted were it not that in winning his district 50-yard title last summer Goodman covered the distance, straightaway, in the remarkable time of 24.35 seconds, and that he has since increased both speed and stamina by constant practise over the middle-distance courses.

At all events, in Honolulu the lad will be pitted against some of the fastest sprinters of the day, including Norman Ross, Duke Kahamoku, George Cunha, John Keili and Clarence Lane, and his skill will be thoroughly tested.

Goodman, despite his youth, is the giant of the aquatic fraternity. He stands 6 feet 2 inches in bare feet and weighs 195 pounds stripped. He has also been provided by nature with the biggest paddles ever seen on a champion swimmer—his hands measure more than 8 by 5 inches and feet are 12 inches by over 4.

Thanks to these monster propellers the boy seems actually to leap through the water and while his action is said to closely resemble that of the flying of the Beretania courts, William Johnston, Clarence Griffin and John Strachan will arrive on the Lurline Tuesday morning.

TENNIS STARS ARRIVE MONDAY

George Church and Harold Throckmorton, the Eastern tennis stars, will arrive in Honolulu on Monday on the Shinyo Maru. They will represent the East in the East vs. West matches which will be held here this month at the Beretania courts. William Johnston, Clarence Griffin and John Strachan will arrive on the Lurline Tuesday morning.

MORE NATATORS FOR SWIMMING MEET ON HARBOR

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Two more American swimmers have been invited to take part in the midwinter carnival of the Hawaiian A. A. U., coming off on February 11 in Honolulu—Billy Williams, the national fancy diving champion of 1915, and Sanford Goodman, the 50-yard Pacific coast title holder. JAY GOULD MAKES BIG STRIDES IN RACQUET

The great racquet players of the East are worried. The reason for the worry is that Jay Gould, the greatest court tennis player in the world, has taken up the game and will be ready to meet any of the stars in a short time. Gould has built a private court in his gymnasium and his practising daily. While Gould is green, so far as squash is concerned, his wonderful knowledge of court tennis, his agility, speed, stroke and generalship have enabled him to pick up the game in a wonderful manner. Gould turned to squash racquets because it seemed impossible to find an opponent capable of giving him an interesting battle at court tennis, and no doubt he soon will be meeting the champions at the new game. Gould's entry into squash will do the game a lot of good, as it will add a great deal of interest to an excellent game.

Doctor Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eyestrain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read anything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read the fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Optona tablets. Drop one Optona tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Optona is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." —Adv.

NEWS AND PRACTICAL INFORMATION ABOUT AUTOMOBILES

CONSTRUCTION AND FUNCTIONS OF GENERATORS AND MOTORS ARE EXPLAINED BY EXPERTS FOR BENEFIT OF AUTOMOBILISTS

(By Special Permission from Motor Age.)

A dynamo is a machine for converting mechanical energy into electrical energy or electrical energy into mechanical energy by means of electromagnetic induction. The dynamo, when used to transform mechanical power into electrical energy, is called a generator, and when it is used to transfer electrical energy into mechanical energy it is called a motor. Bear in mind that the generator does not create electricity, but simply imparts energy to it, just as energy is imparted to the electricity as it passes through the primary cell.

The dynamo consists, fundamentally, of two parts—a magnetic field, which may be produced by permanent magnets or electromagnets, and an armature, which consists of a loop of wire or a number of loops, usually wound or mounted on an iron core or frame and so arranged that there may be a relative movement of the magnetic lines of force forming the magnetic field and the loop of wire. The movement of the loop of wire with respect to each other results in there being an electrical pressure produced in the loop.

Simple Alternator

If a single loop of wire is revolved in the magnetic field of a permanent magnet, as shown in Figure 1, there will be an electrical pressure induced in the two sides of the loop. If the terminals of the loop be connected to two metal rings C and D, upon which brushes rest, this induced electrical pressure will produce a current in a circuit, such as a lamp, when it is connected to the brushes. The direction of the induced electrical pressure in the two sides of the loop may be determined by a simple application of Fleming's generator rule, as given in a previous installment.

The motion of one side of the loop with respect to the magnetic field is just the reverse to the motion of the other side. As a result of this difference in motion of the two sides of the loop with respect to the magnetic field the electrical pressure induced in a side of the loop will be from the observer while that induced in the other side will be toward the observer. These electrical pressures are in series, and since their directions are opposite with respect to the observer, they both tend to produce a current in the same direction around the loop. There will be no induced electrical pressure in the ends of the loop, since they cut no lines of force.

The electrical pressure induced in either side of the loop at any instant will depend upon the number of magnetic lines cut in one second, or the rate at which the lines are being cut. This rate of cutting of the magnetic lines will depend upon the length of the two sides of the loop in the magnetic field, the strength of the magnetic field and the number of revolutions per second. Assuming the strength of the magnetic field is uniform, that it is the same at every part of the field and it remains constant in value and the loop revolves about its axis at a constant speed, then the induced pressure in the loop will change in value, due only to a change in the direction of motion of the two sides of the loop with respect to the magnetic field.

Thus, when the loop is in the horizontal position, the direction of the field also being horizontal, the two sides of the loop will be moving in a path, just for an instant, perpendicular in the direction of the magnetic field, and the rapidly with which the two sides of the loop are cutting the lines of force is greatest, hence the induced electrical pressure in the loop is zero for this position of the loop. The value of the induced electrical pressure for positions intermediate between those just given will depend upon how fast the sides of the loop are actually moving across the magnetic field.

A curve may be drawn which will show graphically the relation between the induced electrical pressure in the loop and its position with respect to a plane perpendicular to the magnetic field. Draw a line A B, as in Figure 2, and divide this line into, say, 12 equal parts; each part will then correspond to 30 degrees movement of the coil or loop about its axis. Start with the coil in a plane perpendicular to the magnetic field and let its correspond to the point A in the figure; the electrical pressure induced in the loop for any movement from this position should be measured off to a convenient scale on a perpendicular line drawn through the point on A B corresponding to the displacement of the loop. Thus, the electrical pressure will be a maximum when the loop has rotated through an angle of 90 degrees. It then decreases as the angle increases from 90 degrees to 180 degrees and becomes equal to zero when the loop has rotated through an angle of 180 degrees.

The direction of the movement of the two sides of the loop with respect to the magnetic field changes just as the coil passes the 180-degree position and, as a result, the direction of the induced electrical pressure changes. The numerical value of the reduced pressure for the second 180 degrees are identical to those for the first 180 degrees, but they act around the loop in the opposite direction and are said to be opposite in sign. The difference in the sign is represented

Fig. 1—The principle of the generator. This is the simplest alternating-current generator, in which a loop of wire is revolved about an axis A B in a magnetic field represented by the arrows passing between the poles N and S of a magnet. The induced currents caused by the wire cutting the lines of force is taken off the collector rings C and D by brushes to which the outside circuit is connected.

Fig. 3—Simplest direct-current generator—a single loop and a two-segment commutator.

Fig. 2—Curve showing the variation of electrical pressure induced in a loop of wire when it is revolved in a magnetic field. This represents a complete revolution of the loop, and it will be seen that the pressure increases from zero to a maximum during the first quarter, decreases to zero during the second, then changes in direction. This causes the alternating of the current.

Fig. 4—Curve showing the variation in electrical pressure produced by a generator with a two-segment commutator. It will be seen that the portion of the curve below the line in Fig. 2 is now above the line, and the current all is in the same direction.

Fig. 5—A direct-current generator having two loops of wire and four segments on the commutator. This makes the pressure more even as indicated in Fig. 6. When one loop is cutting the weakest lines of force, the other is cutting the greatest number.

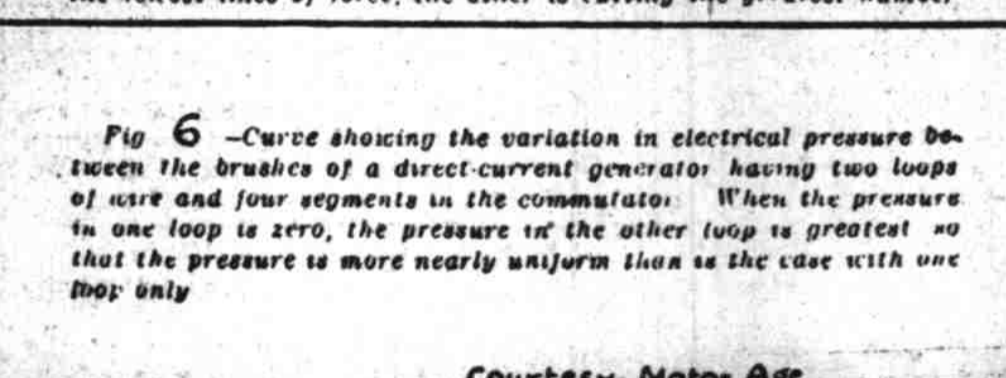

Fig. 6—Curve showing the variation in electrical pressure between the brushes of a direct-current generator having two loops of wire and four segments in the commutator. When the pressure in one loop is zero, the pressure in the other loop is greatest so that the pressure is more nearly uniform than is the case with one loop only.

Two commanding achievements of the automobile industry in 1916 were that car production passed the 1,000,000 mark and that the total value of motor vehicle production entered the billion dollar class. Chief items of 1916 compared with the preceding year were:
The motor vehicle production for 1916	1,517,708

back to zero at regular intervals, but does not change in direction.

If the armature of a direct current generator were constructed with a single loop of wire composed of one or more turns the current delivered by such a machine would pulsate in value the same as the induced electrical pressure, as shown in Figure 4. The operation of such a machine would be very unsatisfactory in a great many cases, especially in charging storage batteries. Fortunately the electrical pressure between the brushes of the machine can be made to remain more nearly constant in value in the following manner:

Suppose two loops of wire are used instead of one and that the ring is split into four parts instead of two and the brushes placed diametrically opposite each other and in such a position that the insulation passes under them when the loops each make an angle of 45 degrees with the magnetic field. The arrangement of loops, brushes as that shown in Figure 5 is segments and brushes is shown in Figure 5. The induced electrical pressure in the two loops passes through a series of values similar to those represented by the curve in Figure 2, but the induced pressure in one is greater when the induced pressure in the other loop is zero. When the brushes are in the position shown in Figure 5 the electrical pressure between the brushes does not drop to zero value for any position of the two loops, as the brushes are always in contact with segments which in turn are connected to the ends of a loop in which there is an induced electrical pressure.

The two loops are alternately connected to the two brushes, and each remains in circuit for one-fourth of a complete revolution each time. Each coil is connected and disconnected twice during each revolution. The pressure between the brushes for such an arrangement of coils, segments and brushes as that shown in Figure 5 is

KISSEL KARS IN LOS ANGELES GO 30,000 MILES

Twenty KisselKars in the service of the Los Angeles Transfer Company have been driven an average of 30,000 miles each in two years of service. Their zone of operation has extended south into Mexico and east through Arizona and as far as Texas. Vice-President D. S. Barnore describes the work of the fleet as "perfect" and adds:

"The smart appearance always presented by the cars is a subject of frequent comment from our clients. And our shop foreman has been a big booster from the start, owing to the small number of repairs. Our gasoline records, oil and tire costs, show a big saving here over other cars of similar capacity and size we have used before. "I was surprised to learn of the high mileage the cars had registered. It is nothing short of phenomenal that a fleet of 20 cars could cover practically 600,000 miles without serious trouble of any kind."

MILITIA MAN BOOSTS DODGE BROTHERS' CAR

Dodge Brothers cars in use by the U. S. army continue to win favorable comment. J. R. Whitlock of Summit, N. J., who served on the Mexican border with the New York troops, is the latest to give Dodge Brothers car a boost.

He is quoted in a New York paper as saying: "There is nothing like them in Texas and we had a good variety of cars in use at our division headquarters at that. I drove the quartermaster's Dodge more than 5000 miles over the worst imaginable roads and through miles of adobe mud which was frequently under a layer of water. Only once was the car unable to pull itself out and then only because of a broken chain. It was amazing the way those Dodge cars stood up under such treatment as they received. I started driving with little appreciation of the Dodge. I return filled with enthusiasm."

FOR TIRE USERS

(By the makers of Firestone Tires). Ascertain the right size and type of tire for your car and use them exclusively. Apply tires with care so that tire and rim fit properly. Use inner tubes with proper type of valve and carry in tube bags. Don't overinflate or overload tires. Don't drive in street car tracks, or let wheels get out of alignment. Don't scrape alongside of curbs or drive or back against them. Don't lock the wheels of your car in stopping, or skid, or use tight chains. Don't expose tires to the light or let an unused car stand on tires all winter. Don't neglect casing cuts, no matter how slight, or let grease, oil or gasoline soak into your tires. Demand rims bearing the official standard inspection stamp. Observance of the above commands will give maximum mileage on all quality tires.

HERE IS A GOOD GAME; CLIP THIS OUT AND PLAY IT

Enter the new game, "auto keno." All you need is a few thousand automobiles, a leisure half hour, two or three pals and a reserve capital of a few jitneys left over from lunch money. An office window overlooking King Street or a park bench makes an excellent court.

Everybody starts even, each man staking his jitney on the car which he names at random as being the first to pass the point of observation. When his car passes he yells "Keno" and gets the accumulated bets. For the benefit of "keno" fans and there are many, here are distinguishing marks of different cars:

Saxon—Unusually high radiator. Winton—Double headlights and small, round fenders, below main ones; long, square hood. Packard—Twin sixes on the radiator cap. Paige—Y-shaped radiator, diamond-shaped name-plate and Motometer. Studebaker—Horizontal hood line, fender shape and individual radiator shape.

Pierce-Arrow—Headlights a part of fenders. Jeffery—High, narrow, radiator, short fenders. White—Irregular hood shape. Haynes—Distinctive shields for name plate and "12" on radiator. Oldsmobile—Rounded radiator top and louvers in hood. Locomobile—Octagonal headlights, surmounted by rectangular opening for secondary lights.

Chalmers—Chalmers monogram in corner of radiator. Stearns-Knight—Individual border around radiator and radiator cap surmounted by Knight. Hupmobile—Initial on hub-cap; tall light easily recognizable. Reo—Long, smooth hub cap; radiator has overhanging top. Chandler—Distinctive radiator shape and name-plate. Stutz—Square radiator, winged name-plate and moto-meter. Auburn—Short radiator cap. Buick—Coronet hub cap and radiator cap; fleur de lis name-plate. Scripps-Booth—Pointed radiator and individual lines. Cadillac—Individualized headlight. Apperson—Vloored radiator; jack-rabbit. Overland—Individual hood contour and radiator cap lock. King—Radiator same shape as name-plate shield. Pathfinder—Pointed radiator, with deep-pointed shroud. Mercer—Name-plate shield on filler cap and moto-meter. Buick—Long hood, curving to the windshield; name on hex hub cap. Mitchell—Script name on radiator. Dodge—Highly crowned fenders; six-pointed star, with monogram. Monroe—Diamond-shaped name-plate. Marmon—Smooth, rounded hood; pointed radiator top. Oakland—Nicked radiator; oval name-plate. Moon—Crescent on filled cap. Hudson—Triangle on the radiator and distinctive hub cap. Chevrolet—Distinctive name-plate. National—Inverted shield radiator shape; name in script across radiator.

Velle—Radiator hood line and lamp. Abbott—Distinctive name-plate, with figure "3" on radiator. Kisselcar—Name-plate in white circle on radiator. Fiat—Aval top of radiator. Cole—Distinctive name-plate and hub cap.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Does the stream line of the new Marmon car suggest the graceful curve of Waikiki beach? An affirmative answer to the question gives an explanation of the fact the Honolulu Marmon dealer had no more landed his first demonstration car then he began to gather in orders from appreciative island dwellers. The H. B. Rector Company, local distributors of the Marmon, has received word that three orders were taken within two hours after the car was rolled off the boat, and on the succeeding days, three more orders were taken.

Sales Manager Townsley of the Rector company suggests that maybe the island folks think the Marmon will make an excellent "sand skimmer" for the beaches, as its lightness, due to the use of aluminum in construction, is one of its notable features. The lightness has been obtained without sacrifice of serviceable qualities, and the car is also noteworthy on account of its perfect balance and beauty of body line, having been aptly termed "a poem in proportion."

Richard Cornelius, of Harrodsburg, Ky., though only 28 years of age, is the father of 17 children, 12 boys and five girls.

For shipping poultry a crate has been invented that folds a quarter of its extended size when empty, for convenience in handling.

SPECIAL TRAIN FROM CHICAGO TO AUTO SHOW

Automobile dealers from all parts of the West will attend the Pacific Automobile Show, which will be held in the Exposition Auditorium in San Francisco, February 10-18.

A special train will leave Chicago on February 5, two days after the close of the big Chicago Automobile Show, with 200 automobile factory men, Eastern motor car enthusiasts and newspaper representatives.

From the South will come a special with the Southern California and Arizona distributors and dealers, while another train will come down from Seattle and Portland with the automobile men of the Northwest.

George A. Wahlgreen, manager of this first annual Pacific Automobile Show, is sparing no effort or expense to make this event the biggest of its kind in motor circles. In fact it will be the first automobile show ever held in the West national in scope.

Several Eastern automobile men, now on the coast, after having discussed the plans and the details of the coming show with Mr. Wahlgreen, declare that it will set the high mark of the year in automobile shows.

The decorations will be the most elaborate and artistic ever made for a motor car exhibit. Thirty-five thousand dollars will be spent for decorations, appointments and furniture. Leo Lentell, whose work as a sculptor during the last decade has made him famous, will model a figure of Mercury for the main floor of the exhibit, while A. Borghesi, an artist and decorator, famous throughout the art world because of his murals, will design and paint the interior wall decorations. Mr. Borghesi is also preparing an immense hand-painted canopy for the whole top of the immense auditorium, a group of pictures so planned and arranged as to be symbolic of the growth, development and future of the automobile industry.

The automobile show, however, will not only be an artistic triumph, for the dealers and the Pacific coast representatives of the Eastern factories, have seen the possibilities and are vying with each other to have the most elaborate and pleasing displays.

Many of the models which will be used in the New York and Chicago shows will be sent West by express to be exhibited in San Francisco. Other factories are planning special displays to be exhibited here only.

Great attention will be paid to the mechanical features of this automobile. The chassis will be displayed and staff representatives will explain the intricate details of the mechanism.

$35,000 TO BE SPENT ON SHOW IN CALIFORNIA

With more than 200 Eastern factory men and automobile enthusiasts coming West to attend the first annual Pacific automobile show at the exposition auditorium, February 10-18, it is believed the show will rank well up with the two big Eastern exhibits. Manager Wahlgreen is sparing no efforts in his attempt to make the display as magnificent as possible. More than $35,000 will be spent on decorations alone. The art work is in charge of the noted artist, A. Borghesi, and the famous sculptor, Leo Lentell.

Never before has so much money been spent or such excellent talent secured in providing a setting for a motor car exhibit. In fact, the murals and the canopy which will cover the top of the large auditorium are of such character that art lovers who have seen the first of the work declare that it should be preserved in some permanent form.

Models From East
Thirty-five dealers are entering 44 makes of cars, all of them 1917 models, and most of them direct from the Chicago exhibit or the factory.

During show week San Francisco will be the meeting place for the automobile dealers of the West, and many of the Eastern factory men who will be here have called conferences of coast salesmen and dealers, to be held in San Francisco.

Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, who has been delegated to represent the Eastern manufacturers at the show, is coming West on the special train from Chicago and will officially open the show February 10.

W. L. Velle, president of the Velle Company and chairman of the board of directors of the John Deere Plow Company, is now in Pasadena, and, according to a statement made by S. H. Chase, coast factory representative of the Velle Company, will be present when the show opens.

No motor car display ever held west of Chicago has attracted such widespread comment in the East, and it is expected that this first annual Pacific show, by its decorative effects, its display of cars and its other special features, will definitely place San Francisco on the map as one of the three great automobile show cities in the country.

Dairymen from each of the New England states met in Boston and formed a new organization to replace the New England Milk Producers' Association.

GOOD PRESIDENT FOR AUTO CLUB, SAYS HILO POST

Wallace Farrington, one of the liveliest wires in the territory, has been elected president of the Automobile Club in Honolulu and the club is to be congratulated on its choice of a leader. This is demonstrated in the few remarks by Mr. Farrington on accepting the office. "Let's get together. Center our drive on good roads," is the way the new president puts it, and in these few words proves his fitness for the leadership of Honolulu's good road organization. "We are in years behind times in Honolulu on the road question," added Farrington, "and if we want to call the tourists to our shores, we must have something to offer them and that something should be transportation facilities."

It might be beneficial to the Honolulu club members to pay a visit to Hawaii for the purpose of getting a few pointers on "good roads."—Hawaii Post.

USE MOLASSES FOR GASOLINE

There has been organized in Natal, South Africa, a company under the title of South African Natalite Motor Spirit Company, says a consular report. It has a capital of £75,000, or $375,000, and it is expected to build a complete plant, including all the necessary buildings required to make in the aggregate 2,000,000 gallons of natalite per annum, and to do this at the rate of 6000 gallons per day. The recently rising prices of gasoline are doubtless what have led to these efforts to make a distillate at a sufficiently low cost to become a direct competitor of gasoline.

Experiments were made in Natal with a 22-horsepower car weighing some 3600 pounds. The car was tested over several routes, the total distance covered being slightly more than 500 miles. The roads were said to have been heavy during two days and fine during the rest of the time. In this case the amount of this new motor fluid or spirit used was 30.50 gallons, or an average of 16.4 miles per gallon, or 36.2 ton miles per gallon.

The engine on all occasions started, easily, whether cold or warm. The valve caps and valve heads were found to be very clean after the trial. The rest of the engine was not dismantled.

SAN FRANCISCO READY FOR BIG MOTOR EXHIBIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—Polish up your automobile vocabulary. Familiarize yourself with eights, sixes, twelves and fours.

Learn to talk full elliptic, cantilever, bridge suspension and the many other style springs.

By all means stop referring to a limousine as a sedan or a cabriolet as a coupe.

For know all ye who own motor cars, ride in motor cars or hope to own motor cars, that the date of the Pacific Automobile Show is rapidly approaching.

In less than a month the beautiful Exposition Auditorium in San Francisco will have been transformed into a setting for the most beautiful of motor car products. As some youthful writer is certain to say "The motor car will be king," but most appropriate will be the glories of the throne room.

The many special exhibits which will be sent to the coast from the Eastern factories must be en route within the next two weeks at the latest. Many are already on the way. The wise exhibitor realizes the possibilities of freight delays and is taking no chances.

Many of the exhibits will be exact duplicates of the New York exhibits and in some cases more models will be shown here than in New York.

The artists who will have charge of the decoration effects are hard at work. The sculptors have their immense figures of Mercury well under the hand and the murals are being painted. D'Arcy Ryan has consented to take charge of the lighting effects and the show is certain to bring back memories of the exposition.

CHALMERS STILL PRESIDENT; LEFT ATHLETIC CLUB

Hugh Chalmers, president of the Chalmers Motor Company, takes much pride in displaying the handsome silver tray presented to him by the board of directors of the Detroit Athletic Club on his retiring from the club presidency.

"I treasure this token most highly," said Mr. Chalmers, as he proudly displayed it, "for it is a tangible reminder of one of the greatest pleasures I have ever known—the active participation in the early activities of the now widely known D. A. C.

"My retiring from the D. A. C. presidency has caused confusion in the minds of some people who hastily read the newspaper accounts. There are some who gained the impression that it was the presidency of the Chalmers Motor Company that I resigned. This is as far removed from the truth as anything could possibly be. Not only have I all of my holdings in the Chalmers Motor Company but I have increased them.

"This is to be the greatest year in our history, both for the Chalmers home organization and for Chalmers dealers. I have talked to many of the visiting dealers and never before have I seen as much real hearty enthusiasm as they express for their own future."

FAMOUS RACER FOR 1917 SPEED KING

The next speed champion of the United States will have a chance to earn the title of world's speed king; to be crowned with the honors of the late Bob Burman and to travel faster in a motor car than any other man has ever gone.

The big Blitzen Benz, the fastest car in the world, will be the means by which the winning driver, during next season's races, will mount the real championship throne and bear the speed king title. E. A. Moross, former manager of the Moross racing team, has made a new speed king possible.

NAME PLATE FOR HARROUN DESIGNED

The crest or name plate of the Harroun car, appearing on the apex of the radiator shell, has been designed and now is being manufactured by an enameling company. It reproduces the central figure of Adolf Schreyer's painting, "The Bedouin," depicting a rearing Arabian horse with rider. The Harroun Motors Corporation, New York City, thinks this most suitable as depicting one of the famous roving races, and also as Ray Harroun, designer of the car, is himself of Bedouin extraction.

1917 QUAD OUTPUT WILL BE LARGER

Production of Jeffery quad trucks will be considerably increased, according to President C. W. Nash of the Nash Motors Company. The success of this quad truck has resulted in a demand which will call for a bigger production schedule to take care of it. This truck will be one of the features of a complete line of commercial vehicles to be manufactured by the Nash company.

GOOD ROADS IN GROSS ISLE IS REALTY BOOST

The attractiveness of Grosse Isle, Detroit river island summer home of many wealthy Detroiters, has been enhanced lately by the building of a network of good roads. Many of the main arteries have been completed, insuring good going instead of mud in the future.

All the material, broken stone in two sizes, had to be hauled from a quarry on the mainland by teams and a Packard truck, four ton capacity with a dump hoist body. The hauls varied from three to seven and one-half miles according to location of the work.

It was actually determined by Norman A. Pabst, owner of the truck, that it was doing the work of six two-horse teams, to say nothing of their six drivers and the same number of wagons. Seven teams were working at the same time as the truck. In 10 hours they hauled 49.5 tons of stone while the truck hauled in the same time 56.4 tons. Over a period of 105 days of 10 hours each the truck averaged 45.1 tons and 79 1-2 miles per day.

During the last three weeks of the work, because of the approach of winter, it became necessary to rush the work and the truck was in actual operation 23 hours each day. The horses of course had to rest nights. The truck during this period averaged 98.9 tons hauled. On October 28, it hauled 114 tons and traveled 161 miles. Besides making some extraordinary hauling records, the truck cut down labor and time 15 per cent and with its aid a mile of road was built in four weeks whereas it took 14 weeks when the horses worked alone.

NEW CADILLAC PHAETON HIT AT NEW YORK SHOW

Prominent among the cars which attracted unusual attention at the New York show was the New Cadillac phaeton.

It is a four-passenger car, built along the popular "sport" lines, but reflecting the conservatism of the makers in the absence of any tendency to be freakish. The sides, somewhat lower than the conventional, the lower seats and the inclined windshield accentuate the speedy lines of the car's design.

Contrasted with the usual car of the "sport" type, the Cadillac Phaeton has every indication of being a design not only for speed, but one affording the comfortable riding qualities which adapt it to the requirements of the small family.

Announcement

We wish to announce that we have acquired the Agency for the Westinghouse Air Spring Company and now have a Service man from the factory who will spend about three weeks in Honolulu to make new installations and adjustments.

We have sold a number of sets of these Air Springs during the past few days and it would be well for you to consider having your car equipped while this Factory man is here to superintend installation. We would be pleased to have any owners who have cars that are at the present time equipped with "Westinghouse" which need adjustment to call at our shops during the next few days, where inspection and adjustments will be made without charge.

THE REO

One feature in the Reo that saves the price of the car

IF YOU COULD ESTIMATE the probable cost to you in the life of an automobile—or in the first five years—of crank shaft troubles and the other troubles that result from them, you'd find it would amount to fully that much in the case of some cars.

WE MEAN, OF COURSE, all those troubles and expenses that are indirectly as well as directly the result of loose or misaligned crank shaft bearings.

HOW OFTEN have you known neglect to make an adjustment at the moment the necessity was apparent, to run into the most serious troubles and the most outrageous repair bills. How often!

OF COURSE YOU MEAN to do it "at the first opportunity" and you resolve each morning you start out, that you'll leave the car at a garage and have it done—or do it yourself when you get home. But—

IT ISN'T DONE because of the time it would take to do it—in the average car.

IF THERE'S PLAY in your main engine bearings, you know it is serious—and is liable to become more serious any moment.

BUT YOU ALSO KNOW it will take time—a lot of time—and you need the car. Don't feel as if you can spare it "today." So it runs along.

THIS REO FEATURE enables you or any handy man to adjust, with the simple socket wrench (and which you get with your Reo), the main crank shaft bearings in your Reo motor.

THE OPERATION IS SIMPLE—and getting at it is simpler.

YOU DON'T NEED to remove the motor from the frame as in other cars. Even the hand-hole plates—just the drip-pan—two minutes—and you are there.

IF YOU HAD IT ON A STAND, upside down, you couldn't do it any better, or make a more accurate alignment of the crank shaft.

THIS IS ONLY ONE of many features that are Reo—and exclusively Reo.

FORTY SECONDS FOR TIRE CHANGE BY NEW METHOD BRINGS PEACE

Wouldn't it be nice to be able to get a tire off an automobile wheel and a new one on all in 40 seconds? Better still, wouldn't it be nice to let the wife do it?

A device called the J. P. tire tool, invented by a man in Lincoln, Neb., and now being placed on the market was demonstrated in New York by George D. Hallack and P. J. Cartwright who assert it will remove a tire and put it back on again in 40 seconds. They assert, furthermore, that a woman can operate it as easily and as quickly as a man.

The device consists of two steel tools, one a blade with a blunt point on one end and a double claw on the other end; the other a shaft with an adjustable collar on one end which fits over the hub of an automobile wheel and a blunt nub which fits under the edge of the tire and slides on the rim on the other end. To remove a tire from a wheel the blunt pointed blade is used to pry up the edge of the tire. The collar of the other tool is adjusted on the hub so it will slide around and the nub on its other end is inserted under the edge of the tire where it has been pried up from the rim. The claw of the first mentioned tool is then adjusted on the shaft of the other and used as a lever. By applying this leverage and turning the wheel against it the tire is literally rolled off the rim. The tire can then be replaced in the same manner.

To demonstrate how easily the device can be manipulated by a woman, Mrs. G. D. Hallack takes the tire off and puts it back on, and her husband declares he has timed her and that she can perform the whole operation in 40 seconds.

4-CYLINDERS SHOW GREATEST GAIN IN SUMMARY OF NEW AND OLD MAKES

Just as February has come around again the question as to the number of cylinders best adapted for the automobile engine hobs up, stimulated to fresh interest by announcements and improvements in motor design. This question evokes another one—as to how the competition between the four, the six, the eight, and the 12-cylinder engines fared in 1916. Thirty-six new companies entered the automobile manufacturing field during the past year, and their choice as to number of cylinders for engine may be considered as indicative of tendency in motor design. These are included in the summary made on this subject. All told, the number of companies embraced in the analysis and tallying up of cylinder specifications is 150. In this list are all the manufacturers of prominence and some of lesser importance.

Of the 150, 58 make fours exclusively; 43, sixes exclusively; 12, eights exclusively, and five, twelves exclusively. Sixteen companies are using both fours and sixes, six companies fours and eights, five companies sixes and eights, two companies sixes and twelves, and three companies fours and sixes and eights.

Choice among the new companies were: Twenty decided on fours, 12 on sixes, three on eights, and one on twelves. In the totals the fours have a lead over the sixes of 13; the eights are 42 behind the sixes. Among the standard companies there has been less switching from one type of motor to another than in 1915. One well known company, which went from fours to sixes, but out a four again last year, and henceforth will install both sizes. Another manufacturer of the first importance, who was making fours and sixes has added an eight to his list. A third company, which was producing both sixes and twelves, announces that it will confine itself exclusively to twelves.

Certainly no hard and fast conclusions can be drawn from this analysis. It can be considered only as an expression of tendency. As a rule the higher-priced new cars adopted the multiple cylinders. There is no doubt that the champions of the fours and the sixes are not content to rest on any dogmatic assertions as to the good qualities of these respective types; they are striving for improvements that will give all the flexibility obtained by the multiple cylinders. Probably the most notable announcement of the pre-show season was that of a well known company to the effect that it has devised and would install in its 1917 cars a 16-valve, four-cylinder motor, the increase of valves being designed to add power and flexibility to the engine. The result will be watched with interest.

The tendency toward high speed engines continues. Cylinders of smaller diameter and longer stroke, for smaller, quicker explosions and more rapid revolutions, increase in number. The Horseless Age, which investigated this subject, estimates that 59 per cent of automobile engines have a cylinder bore of less than three and a half inches. The same periodical, as a result of its summaries, reports: Three-speed gear boxes have almost entirely displaced fours on account of the greater flexibility of the high-speed engine. Battery ignition has shown 100 per cent gain since the cars of 1915. The tendency is bearing strongly toward construction of engines with removable cylinder heads. Overhead valves and the thermosiphon cooling system also grew in popularity last year. Seventy-one per cent of the 1917 cars have vacuum fuel feed.

What are the tendencies in body design? For each one of the 16 types of bodies lately defined by the Society of Automobile Engineers there will probably always be a place of greater or minor importance, but at this time the main endeavor is concentrated on evolving the body that will best span the seasons. Much progress has been made toward the all-year-round car in the last two years, and the National Automobile Show reveals a still further advance toward this ideal. In fact in adaptability to seasonal changes, in the ease and readiness with which the summer car can be converted into the winter car, it will be difficult to imagine how much more improvement could be made than that displayed in the 1917 models of this style.

This does not mean that the aim of the designers is concentrated on one type of body, in fact there are several that admirably exemplify this adaptability to the different times of the year, but unquestionably the most prominent development of this kind among the 1917 models is the "open sedan," that is, the car so constructed that its glass sides may be lowered so as to leave the space entirely clear from the glass front to the back. Numerous automobile makers have come out this season with the first time with this style of body. One of the most recent announcements was a car of this kind for $1000, and there was then one of the well known makes on the market considerably less than this; hence the price ranges upward as high as one desires to go. Probably more manufacturers have added this type of car to their list than any other style.

Next to the open sedan the two or three seated car with collapsible top, the coupelet, or with detachable top, the convertible coupe, will in all likelihood be found to hold second place in the season's tendency in body styles. Third, the roadsters of clover-leaf and club type will occupy a more prominent place at the show than ever before. The year's production of roadsters in comparison with the touring car is not known, but if it were it would undoubtedly show a strong relative gain. The compactness of the roadster with at the same time provision for roominess, has had a decided appeal, and the ingenuity exhibited in adding to the number of seats in the roadster has been one of the most interesting developments in recent body design.

The popularity of the roadster type has made itself felt in the makes of the highest-priced cars and one can go as high as he likes in selecting a car with seats for but two persons, say. In fact, lessened seating capacity, that is, doing away with surplus room, seldom if ever used, is a noteworthy tendency in 1917 automobile design. This, too, irrespective of price. Some of the most costly town cars in new models seat but two or three persons.

Bodies are made smaller and the lines skilfully drawn so as to emphasize the chassis, a vital part of the car which a large body may try to ignore, but never successfully. There is a true relation between the chassis and the body, and designers are bringing this proportion more into effect. It is what is called "sketchy," the drawing into the design of nervous vital line, vibrant with expression.

So, too, the convertible idea has affected the highest-priced cars, showing how full of life this idea is. In some of the custom-made bodies of the season, in which the cost was but a secondary consideration, the space between the chauffeur and the owner is no longer sharply divided. The glass window behind the driver's seat is made so that it may be lowered, and in the Berlin type the whole car may thus be thrown into one compartment. This elasticity is at the owner's behest; if he desires to drive he may do so without submitting to the isolation of the typical chauffeur seat.

Automobiles have resisted the tendency toward higher prices better probably than any other manufactured article of prominence. There have been advances in the prices of individual makes of motor cars ever since the beginning of last year, and for the last two months these have been much more numerous, but compared with the value of the car, the average increase in price is comparatively small. In a list of 150 companies, 64 advanced their price during 1916, though some of these increases do not become effective until February of this year. Increases in the price of cars selling for under $1000 range from $10 to $100, and the average is $58. There are 19 cars in this class which have advanced their price. In this list there are but three makes priced under $500. Price raises in this list carried seven cars out of the $1000 class into the $2000 class. Of cars selling between $1000 and $2000, 42 increased prices from $15 to $275. The average advance was $102. Only one car passed out of the $2000 class into the $3000. Of 11 cars selling between $2000 and $3000, eight advanced their price from $100 to $650. The average increase was $223. Above $3000 five cars increased, the range of advance being from $230 to $500. The average increase was $325. Three cars above $1000 advanced

Build the Energy and Character

Two Large Mormon Temples Now Are Rapidly Nearing Completion

With the breaking of ground last January at Laie on the island of Oahu, of the Hawaiian group, construction of the sixth "Mormon" temple to be built since the advent of the pioneers in Utah was begun, says the Pioneer Evening News. These six structures are the St. George temple, completed in 1877; the Logan temple, completed in 1884; the Manti temple, completed in 1888; the Salt Lake temple, completed in 1893; the Canadian temple at Cardston, begun in 1913, and the Hawaiian temple. The last two structures are the first of their kind to be built outside Utah, the one in the severe climate of the Canadian Rockies and the other in the semi-tropical islands of the Pacific. Both of these temples now in the course of construction are built along the same general plan with a large baptistry or central feature surrounded by the four ordinance rooms and surmounted by a fifth. Pope & Burton are the architects.

The temple in the northern country is built of white granite quarried in British Columbia on the shores of Kootenay Lake, one of the most beautiful bodies of water on the North American continent. It stands on a slight eminence overlooking the country, the effect of height being emphasized by the architectural terrace on which the building rests. This terrace covers a space about 165 feet square, the building itself measuring 100 feet square. Entrance steps lead to a court which will be laid out as a formal garden separating the building somewhat from the noise of the adjacent street. The interior will be finished, according to the architects, in hard wood with mural decorations and harmonious furnishings. When completed, which will probably not be before the year 1918, the structure will be one of the handsomest in the entire region.

The temple in the Hawaiian Islands will follow out the same general plan. Situated right in the midst of the church plantation, surrounded by all sorts of semi-tropical vegetation, it will overlook not only the neighboring country but also the nearby ocean. It will be smaller than the Canadian building, measuring only 78 feet square. Crushed lava rock is being used for the reinforced concrete in its construction, and Japanese oak and Hawaiian koa will be used for interior finishing. The latter is a hard wood, resembling finely grained mahogany. A number of handsome mural paintings will decorate the wall, all the murals being carried out in a harmonious color scheme. The many windows of the building will reach from floor to ceiling to allow the maximum of sunlight and fresh air, a feature planned especially for the semi-tropical climate. The front of the temple will form a terrace to be used for a recorder's office and auxiliary rooms, the top also forming a terraced garden where will be found all varieties of tropical plants. The architects expect the building to be completed next May or June, when it is expected that President Smith will make the voyage to the islands to be present at the dedicatory exercises. More than 20,000 Latter-Day Saints in the Tahitian, Hawaiian, New Zealand, Samoan and Tongan islands in the Pacific are interested in the construction of the building. The Canadian temple will also not only be used for church ordinances by the 8000 church members in Alberta and Taylor states, but by the members of the many conferences and missions in the northern districts of the United States.

During the past year improvements have been made in the arrangement of the interior of the Logan temple, the building being entirely renovated.

RECEPTION FOR NEW MEMBERS

At Central Union church on Sunday morning a special service of reception for new members will be held and the exercises will conclude with a celebration of the "Lord's Supper." Rev. J. H. Williams will preach the sermon on the subject, "The Power of Choice." Mrs. George K. Taekabury will sing the offertory solo, "Rock of Ages."

The male quartet will precede the communion service with a hymn, or grace, "The Bread and the Wine," and at the close of the administration of the sacrament Mrs. Charles L. Hall and the male quartet will sing "Christ's Benediction." The organ numbers, which have been carefully selected to accord with the devotional spirit of the day, are "O Salutaris Hostia," by Tours; "Communion," by Faulkes, and "Benediction," by Dunham. At the evening service Dr. Williams will preach on "The Bend in the Road." Philip C. Hall will sing the offertory solo and the full choir will sing the anthem "Arise, Shine, for Thy Light is Come," by Elvey. Miss Harrison's organ selections are "Pastorale," by Wachs; "Minuet in G," by Beethoven, and "Intermezzo," by Dunham.

EASTERN PASTOR MAY VISIT HERE

It is expected that Rev. J. Percival Hugot, D. D., pastor of the First Congregational church of Detroit, Mich., will visit Honolulu this summer. It was learned by members of Central Union church that Dr. Hugot was to speak in Los Angeles on June 23, and since he is so near the islands it is anticipated that he may be induced to visit Hawaii and speak at Central Union.

Dr. Hugot has been for six years the pastor of the largest Congregational church in Michigan and is well known throughout the denomination. He is a director of the Congregational Education Society and vice-president and director of the Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society. His reputation as one of the greatest pulpits orators of the country wins him many invitations to speak on occasions of special interest.

'DECISION DAY' FOR LOCAL C. E.

Sunday, February 4, has been set apart by the National Society as Christian Endeavor "Decision Day," and the special topic about which the thought of the meeting at Central Union parish house will center is "Visions and Tasks." Miss Helga A. Wikander, president of the society, will lead the meeting. The monthly contribution for the current expenses and philanthropic activities of the society will be received at this meeting, which is held at 6:30 o'clock every Sunday. Upon the invitation of the authorities at Kakaako Mission this society has been invited to take charge of occasional meetings there and last Monday evening a delegation from the society conducted a most interesting service at the mission.

PRETTY CHURCH ATTRACTS MANY

There are many illustrations of the truth in the old saying that "Familiarity breeds contempt." People who live in Hawaii are apt to overlook the beauties by which they are surrounded. Witness, a well-known business man of the city who lived in Honolulu more than 50 years before he saw the volcano, and a lady who testifies that she lived within a city block of the museum and failed to see inside of it. Yet both of these features of Hawaii are the wonder of the visitor. Minister Peters says that the new Christian church and community house is attracting many visitors from among tourists, and that they all are very enthusiastic about it as being distinctive and particularly suited to Hawaii.

OBJECTS OF PRAYER TAKEN FOR SUBJECT

Continuing the series of studies of "Prayer" which have proved so helpful at the mid-week services of Central Union church, Dr. J. H. Williams will take up next Wednesday evening the objects of prayer, asking the questions, "What are proper objects of prayer? For what may we rightly pray?" These are queries which perplex many and a frank, yet devotional, approach to this subject cannot but be beneficial.

St. Clement's Church.

HOPE IN LIFE

"Unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ."—Eph. 4:13.
Treated in groups, masses and millions, how few men are successful? How few men out of a million ever write the book, enact the law, invent the tool, paint the picture or found the business about which they dream. It may be true that every Shakespeare that grew up has been heard of, but if so, how limited is genius. The libraries hold occasional lyrics and odes, whose authors are unknown, songs that are generally attributed to occasional men of genius. It is as if a new vine was found in the wilderness upon which hung one or two clusters of unwonted size and sweetness—vine that was struck down by the wheel of pioneer, or the hoof of the horseman. Millions live, struggle, bleed and fall, having achieved only a bare defense against hunger and cold. And yet under different conditions, they might have achieved name and place, and stood on thrones of power.

The human race is like unto this planet of ours. The earth, wrapped in snow, without leaf or flower, journeys on into spring, and the earth bears forward myriads of sleeping seeds and unground roots, that midst the general atmosphere of a second summer will grow and bloom and find themselves. Not otherwise is it with the human race. When one thinks of the poor in the tenements, the little children in the factories, one's eyes turn to fountains of tears.

Is it enough to say of men that they were born, that they ate and drank, and struggled and cursed, and prayed and sinned and repented, and died and died? Will nature give a rude cry, which will bulb a second summer in which the root may bloom, while God denies us the vision of a far-off summer land, where the spirits of just men and of men unjust shall be made perfect, in a realm where the shadows have all fled away, where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest? It is safer to trust our higher hopes than our lowest fears.

CONCLUDE SERIES OF WEEKLY TALKS

The series of sermons being given at the First Methodist church on "The Greatest Text in the Bible" will be concluded tomorrow morning. "The Present Fate of the Text" will be the minister's theme.
If this text has been the battlecry and watchword in three great crises of the church down through the ages, what is its message to our own day? If prophet and apostle and reformer made it the center of their message, what word does it have to those of our generation? The series throughout has been a popular one, but from the standpoint of interest the last sermon, dealing with today rather than yesterday, will be the most vital.
Mr. Looftour says that after taking so long a time to discuss the greatest text in the Bible he will try to make amends by taking for the Sunday evening service "The Shortest Text" of scripture.

DR. R. D. WILLIAMS TO BEGIN SERIES

Zephaniah and his reform sermons will be the theme of Dr. Robert Day Williams' address to his Sunday morning class in the Kilohana building. All young men and women who are interested in a vivid and scholarly interpretation of the personalities and life histories of the prophets are cordially invited to join this class, which meets Sunday at 10 o'clock in the Kilohana building, Miller and Beretania streets.

The subjects for this course are as follows:
February 4—"Zephaniah Reechoes Reform."
February 11—"Jeremiah's Earlier Sermons."
February 18—"Jeremiah's Later Sermons."
February 25—"Habakkuk—His Problem and Message."
March 4—"Ezekiel and the Doom of Jerusalem."
March 11—"Obadiah, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi—the Prophets of the Persian Period."
March 18—"The Later Isaiah."

MEN'S LEAGUE TO MEET THURSDAY

The Men's League of Central Union church is planning a genuinely snappy program at its meeting next Tuesday evening. The session will be opened with a half-hour's informal "Get Acquainted" in the church parlors which will give the newcomers a chance to meet the kamaainas of the league. The Kamehameha Glee Club will furnish music during this informal reception and at the dinner which follows.
Supper at the parish house at 5:30 cents a plate will be served at 6:30 o'clock by a committee from the women's society, with Mrs. R. G. Moore as chairman. Immediately after supper brief addresses on vital topics will be made by Hon. W. F. Frear, W. R. Farrington, Judge W. L. Whitney, H. W. Kinney, G. W. Paty and Riley H. Allen.

SPECIAL MUSIC AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

At the morning service of the Christian church tomorrow Mrs. J. C. Ellis of Hiram, Ohio, who with her husband is spending some months in Honolulu, will sing "Hear Ye the Words of Consolation."
fringe amendment will be adopted by this legislature.
Well Filled Jail
"Prohibition makes hypocrites!" howls the liquor press. And maybe these wet editors are right. Here's an instance of deceit that has just been reported by the press. What would one think on peering through bars—from the outside looking in—of a perfectly well appointed county jail and instead of finding the cells filled with "rags" and criminals, to find those cells filled with Colorado potatoes? But that is just what happened in one Colorado county. With saloons gone, there were no inmates for the jail and the county officers accepted a proposition from a potato dealer to rent the jail for a storehouse at a monthly rental of $50. And now the jail instead of being filled with boozed criminals is filled with Colorado "spuds."
Necessary for Shipbuilding
Shipbuilders and marine engineers of the Clyde and West of Scotland in a meeting held at the request of the Board of Trade to consider how to accelerate the production of merchant vessels, declared that the first essential step was the immediate and total prohibition of the sale of all alcoholic liquor throughout the United Kingdom, the prohibition to apply to all classes and individuals alike, and that until this was done further essential steps could not be advantageously taken. A resolution to this effect was adopted.

Y. M. C. A. NEWS

During the past month a territorial executive committee has been organized to guide the expanding work of the association throughout the islands. This new committee is made necessary by the success with which the association has met on Kauai. During the past eight months it has become evident that the four-fold program of the association is well suited to plantation conditions. Until this work was started there was little thought of extending the movement beyond the city. Everyone in the islands have come to think of the association in connection with a large building. During the past ten years the association has had such success in rural places on the mainland that it was thought best to try an experiment in Hawaii. This experiment has been so successful that there may be call to extend the work to other places. This will be the function of the new territorial committee.
Relation to Churches
Those who have watched the association in Honolulu and on Kauai need not be assured that the new Territorial organization will have as its policy the aiding of the local churches. The extending of the Kingdom of Christ in these islands is a large task and must be approached from many sides. In many centers throughout the islands there are large numbers of young men and boys whom the pastors find it difficult to reach and they welcome the help of an organization whose program is designed for, and secretaries trained to reach, young men and boys. The personnel of the committee is an evidence that the work will be carried forward in the spirit of cooperation with the church and missionary agencies. At a conference of the association leaders held at Atlantic City recently and presided over by Dr. John R. Mott, the following was one of the findings:
"The Young Men's Christian Association has always recognized its vital relation to the churches of Christ, its support in men and money is nearly derived from the church; and there is a large and growing sense in which it exists not only from and for the church but in the church."
Any work done in the territory will be in keeping with the spirit of this resolution.

Officers and Committee

The new territorial committee will be composed of men from the four islands. The first group of men were elected by the local association and these will elect men from the unorganized places to represent those communities. The officers of the committee are: Frank C. Atherton, chairman; Dr. R. D. Williams, vice-chairman; Judge C. F. Clemons, recording secretary; Th. Brandt, vice-chairman; John Waterhouse, treasurer; Lloyd R. Killam, executive secretary. The other members of the committee are: F. L. Lowrey, C. H. Cooke, E. H. Trem, W. F. Frear, A. B. Farther, J. M. Lydgate and C. F. Loomis. This committee will be merely an advisory committee of the local associations. The Y. M. C. A. plan of organization is the same as the Congregational church, with each local association as an absolutely independent unit.

Work to Be Done

The work of the committee will be three-fold: The aiding of existing associations to carry on their work; the assisting of any local community that might want to organize an association, and the carrying out of certain territorial-wide work in the interest of young men and boys.
The following is a partial list of such activities: (a) Boys' camp, (b) annual older boys' conference, (c) bi-annual convention, (d) students' deputization visits, (e) publishing monthly magazine, "Hawaii's Young Men," (f) corresponding members in small centers, (g) student's dinners, and (h) citizenship work.

NEW BUILDING PLANS

The committee appointed by the directors is working on the plans for the new building to serve the young men and boys not being reached by the central association. The report of the department of education shows that there are 5217 boys in the public schools of the city and that approximately 3000 of these are Chinese and Japanese. It is evident that there are many who are not being reached by any Christian work at present. The new building will have as its primary aim the Christianization and Americanization of these young people. The Japanese Ministers' Association at a recent meeting heartily endorsed the plans of the association for a new building.—L. R. Killam in The Friend.

WOMAN'S BOARD MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Board of Missions will be held in the parlors of Central Union church on Tuesday afternoon, February 6, at 2:30 o'clock. The foreign committee is in charge of the meeting and has arranged a very interesting program. There will be a short address on China by Mrs. Sheffield and some songs by Mr. Andrus. The work of Punidita Ramabal for the women and child widows of India will be presented by Mrs. Andrew J. George of Brookline, Mass., who is a personal friend of Punidita Ramabal and has been deeply interested in her work for many years. A special offering will be taken for this work.
It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of women interested in missions. Strangers in the city are specially invited.

Religious Activities at Mills

(From The Friend.)

One of the main aims of the high school department of Mills school is to prepare the boys of the different races who graduate for leadership in the islands among the young people of their own races.
Undoubtedly one of the greatest needs at the present time is the need for religious leadership, and with that thought in mind Mills schools is striving this year to develop a strong, active, normal Christian life.
Religious activity this year can be divided under two heads—those inside the school itself and the outside religious activities.

Under the inside activities the boys engage in the following exercises: The daily chapel service coming at 9:45 every morning, except Sunday and Monday, gives a chance for the entire school to meet together for a few minutes each school day, so that the thoughts of the entire school may be raised to those higher planes from which all our daily inspiration comes. Each class in school has, aside from this one-hour Bible study course, in regard to which we have already spoken in a previous number of The Friend.
On Friday evening of each week the Chinese, Japanese and Korean boys hold separate national prayer meetings, led by older men of their own race, who come in from outside to conduct the services.
On Sunday morning all of the boys attend Sunday school and church at some one of the various national Christian churches, and in the evening the voluntary Christian Endeavor Society is attended by an enthusiastic group of about 30 students. These boys have elected their own officers and committees and are carrying on the work along the line of an active mainland society. The boys captured the banner in the last convention for having present the largest percentage of their membership.

Following this voluntary service all of the boys attend Sunday evening church, held in the chapel of Wilcox Hall. The service is conducted either by the president or by some outside speaker, who brings us some message particularly adapted to boys and young men.
This year for the first time Mills school has undertaken systematic outside work of a religious or social service nature in the community. We feel that this part of our religious life is one of the most helpful to the boys since they are learning in a very practical way the needs of the community and the needs of their own people, and are learning many good methods which help them to supply these needs.

The boys are conducting the Sunday evening services in the Manoa church, with an audience which averages from 30 to 40. Programs are being arranged as follows: The first Sunday in the month the boys give talks in Japanese, Hawaiian and English. The second Sunday is a musical program. The third Sunday is given over to a program of stories. The fourth Sunday to a stereopticon lecture, at present conducted by the Young Men's Christian Association. As soon as the new stereopticon is installed in the Manoa church, Mills school boys will conduct this exercise also.
Six of our senior boys comprise a deputation which sings, leads in singing and gives talks at the following places:
The first Sunday of the month in the city prison.

The third Sunday at the Kaulaueia mission.

The fourth Sunday at the Kakaako mission.

Five other senior boys are teaching Sunday school classes, and all of the seniors are studying and writing papers on social problems, taking as their topics the practical problems of our church, mission and religious life in and around Honolulu.

Mills school is furnishing a speaker every Sunday morning for the Filipino mission on King street. These speakers write out their talks in English and go over them carefully with some member of the family. These they afterwards translate into Filipino and then they are delivered in the Filipino dialect.

Leaders are furnished to assist in the singing at the Korean mission every Sunday afternoon.

One boy each week from Mills school supervises the playground on Wednesday afternoons at the Manoa Valley school.
The students have given of their time and thought and ability in many other ways in the community, music has been furnished by them at the Christian Endeavor Society at Central Union church; a quartet sang at a recent conference of Korean Methodists; a quartet sang at the citizenship meeting held at the Honolulu Public Library. The students are preparing to furnish the entire program at the Christmas entertainment to be given in the Manoa Grammar school.

Our Christian Endeavor Society is planning to be the host at the next Christian Endeavor convention. It is hoped at that time not only to bring to Mills school delegates from the other societies, but also to endeavor to show these delegates what a model convention should be.
While it is not possible for our boys to spread their interest too far, at the same time through the voluntary giving of their time to these helpful enterprises, we believe that they are receiving a training which will help them to become useful members of the community after they are through with their Mills school life.

MID-WEEK SERMONS AT LOCAL CHURCH

Before the holidays Minister D. C. Peters of the Christian church gave a series of mid-week sermons on Wednesday evenings and they were so well received that it has been decided to renew and run them for some weeks in the future. Last Wednesday evening the first of the renewed series was given. The sermon subject was, "What contribution can my church make to my welfare?"
Next Wednesday the subject will be, "What contribution can I make to my church?" Both of these are under the general head of "My Church and I." Other subjects in the series will be, "The Power of the Personal Touch," "Individual Evangelism," "The Principles of Stewardship," and probably a series on "Use and Misuse of Soul Powers."

While these sermons are especially for church members they are open to the public and a cordial invitation is given to attend.

CANNAS MAY SOON REPLACE IRISH POTATOES HERE

Recent Experiments Show That Flowering Plant May Solve Hawaiian Problem

Investigations which may, to a great extent, solve the food supply of the Hawaiian Islands and reduce the high cost of living here have been made at the U. S. experiment station in the effort to secure a substitute for the Irish potato. The substitute is an edible canna.

Few people probably realize that the canna with its beautiful yellow and red flowers is a source of food supply, but the series of experiments recently conducted at the station has shown this to be true. Of course all cannas do not come under this class, but only the specie known as the edible canna which has a root or tuber resembling the potato in size, texture of the grain and flavor, and also contains a similar amount of nourishment.

Produces Large Yield

Where the canna has a marked advantage over the potato, however, is its productiveness as its yield is several times greater per acre, an average crop from that amount of land weighing approximately 30 tons.

From experiments made at the station the edible canna has been found to be thoroughly adaptable to Hawaiian conditions and climate.

The canna is a tropical plant and the home of the edible canna is in Porto Rico and adjacent islands, where it has been used as a food for many years, but it has not been used to any extent in any other locality. A little over 10 years ago a few of the edible canna tubers were brought here and planted on Hawaii, where they have been used since as a feed for hogs. The possibility of raising the canna for human consumption, however, was not considered here until a few months ago, when J. M. Westgate, director of the experiment station, had a shipment of the canna tubers sent over from Hawaii.

Home Vegetables Needed

The motive which started Westgate to experimenting with the canna was to find a food suitable to local conditions and which could be raised here in large quantities and relieve as much as possible the dependence of these islands upon the mainland for the major part of its food supply. It is the plan of Westgate to eventually have the edible canna growing in every yard in Honolulu.

Another fact which raises the edible canna as a food to a class by itself is that it is also an ornamental plant and will justify its production in all yards in Honolulu entirely apart from its potential value as a food crop in case the islands are cut off from the mainland for any length of time.

At present the experiment station has not a large supply of the tubers but desires to give them to representative citizens of the islands in order that their value may be demonstrated in all sections. The tubers will be sent to those who will agree to give them a careful try-out and report the results to the station.

Westgate believes that as soon as the edible canna is better known it is likely to supplant the Irish potato.

SUBDIVISION OF AINAHAU STARTS

The opening up of Ainahau, the old Cleghorn estate, as a residence section was started Friday by James W. Pratt, who recently purchased the property for $60,000. Thursday a contract was given to James Duggan to cut down the trees and clear the ground where it is planned to run the streets. This work is to take 15 days and following its completion a paving contract will be let.

Keen interest was awakened by the announcement that the property was to be cut up into building lots and already a large number of the lots have been spoken for. Pratt has sold two large lots and it is expected that by the time the improvements are completed all the lots will have been disposed of.

All the trees and shrubbery are to be left undisturbed on the lots, which will give the new owners an opportunity to lay out their grounds to suit individual tastes, clearing being done for the streets only.

MONTH'S SALES $50,000

With the sale this week by the Guardian Trust Company of two more lots, the total amount of its real estate sales for January total well over $50,000. These sales are the purchase of the leasehold and improvements of Marston Campbell at Kahala by Charles R. Hemenway and the purchase by W. H. Heen, deputy attorney-general, of the home of Eugene McPhetridge.

A certificate has been filed with the secretary of state by Richards & Co. of Stamford showing an increase in capital from $150,000 to $200,000. Gold coins to the amount of $15,000 was withdrawn from the sub treasury for shipment to South America.

MARKET WILL BE UNIQUE OF KIND

The only meat market of its kind in the United States will be the distinction which the Hawaii Meat Company will have when the work of reconstructing its building on King street is completed.

Built entirely of concrete, tiling, glass and marble with hardly a single piece of wood work in the place, it will not only be the most sanitary but one of the most beautiful stores in Honolulu.

The work is being done by Frank Loehr, an expert in meat market construction, who has installed some of the largest markets on the mainland, and the plans which he is following are something entirely new and were worked out by him to meet the climatic and other conditions which exist here.

Along both sides of the store will be erected the cold storage rooms, each room made to hold a certain product. The walls are to be made of eight inches of concrete with an inner lining of cork several inches thick and a surface of tile. In front of each storage room will be concrete counters also connected up with the cold storage plant and the products kept from contamination by glass cases. In the center of the store will be meat counters of similar construction. The walls and floor are to be entirely tile and marble and any insect which finds its way into the store will be met with a cold reception.

A very unique method of keeping files out of the store is also planned. At every door specially constructed fans will be placed so that a fly that is tempted to enter will be shot outside again by the fans.

The front of the store is also to be made over. There will be four sections, each connected with the cold storage plant which will keep the exhibits in a fresh condition. As in the interior of the store, tile and marble will be the material used.

SILVER MINING PROMISES MUCH

About copper and silver should revolve much of the destinies of the mining securities market of the current year. Of especial interest is the situation in the white metal, because of the indication that the buying which has been going on during the past few months inconspicuously, but nevertheless persistently, is taking up the production at a rate that promises to create a silver famine unless production is substantially increased. Figures recently published by the United States geological survey show a falling off in the silver production during the year, in point of ounces turned out, of some 2,000,000 ounces from the 1916 figures. The reduction in silver output was somewhat surprising, in view of the speed with which the copper producers have been operating, more especially those copper producers which are heavy producers of silver as a by-product.

The reduction in output in Cobalt of about 1,000,000 ounces from the 1915 production, moreover, does not indicate that there is in prospect any abundance of the white metal. With the exception of Rochester, no new silver camps are coming in; Mexico is out of the market, and many of the mines abroad are idle. In the meantime the volume of fiat money issued by the warring countries is growing; new issues are contemplated; the gold is going into seclusion, or coming to the United States, and Europe is being denuded of hard money. It is recognized that the disappearance of metal money from circulation may be of serious import and a public demand for the coinage of a large quantity. In this event it is recognized that the only medium will be silver. China was recently a heavy buyer of the metal, but the chief demand is from Europe, with the takings of foreign countries, combined with the buying of this government, keeping demand at close to the production point. For the first 10 days of January silver maintained a level of above 75 cents an ounce, and while, for the moment, there is a temporary reaction to 74-3/4 cents an ounce, it is considered as only a preliminary to another early upswing that may carry the white metal well over $1 an ounce and set the profits of the silver producers at new high record points.

The island of Hawaii was late in getting started with its 1917 crop owing to bad weather but recent weather conditions have expedited production and the big island is rapidly catching up.

Advices recently brought from the mainland say that in the workings of the Madera Company there is a considerable amount of low grade ore that formerly had to be left but with the new mill and electric power this ore can be profitably handled by the new company which purchased the property. It is estimated that there is 200,000 tons of such ore.

INCOME QUERIES GIVEN ANSWERS

Three questions on the income tax have found their way to the query department of the Star-Bulletin during the past week and have been answered by the office of the internal revenue collector. They are as follows:

Q—I receive a salary of $2000 and a dividend of $1050. I am married and have two children. Will I be required to file a return?—MARRIED MAN.

A—Yes. Every person whether single or married will be required to file a return if his income is $3000, irrespective of its source.

Q—I read in the morning paper of the arrival of a special revenue officer to check individual income tax returns. How many years back will this officer check?—TAXPAYER.

A—This officer will verify all returns from the commencement of the income tax law, March 1, 1913.

Q—If I have an income of $3100 and my wife has a separate income of $600, do I have to file a return? If so, do I have to include her small income?—EXEMPT TAXPAYER.

BUILDING SHOWS FALLING OFF IN MONTH OF JANUARY

Building in Honolulu during January fell down considerably as compared with December according to the figures of the building inspector. The number of permits issued being 88 and the estimated cost of the buildings $144,410.

There were no large permits issued, the largest being $19,000 for a bakery and the next in size $12,000 for a private residence. These two were the only ones over $10,000 and there were only 32 over $1000.

The number of new buildings erected was 99 of which 70 were dwellings. There were also nine stores and two theaters built.

STAR-BULLETIN GIVES YOU TODAY'S NEWS TODAY

MARKET RECEIVES HARD JOLT AND ACTIVE STOCKS SHOW EFFECTS EARLY

That the local stock market will have to go through a period of price readjustments to meet conditions arising from recent developments and the near advent of this country into the war even if such entrance does not actually occur was a sentiment expressed by several brokers Saturday afternoon. In their opinion the quotations did not truly express the tone and sentiment of the market and would not without a practical rearrangement of quotations on inactive as well as active stocks.

After the close of the session Friday the market remained weak and in some instances the weakness at the session was further accentuated. Then a more confident tone was exhibited and when the later and more serious tone of the news appeared in the 3:30 edition of the Star-Bulletin brokers said that it was too late in the day for the effect to be felt until the Saturday morning session.

It was to be expected that the local market would break with the news of Germany's action on Thursday and it did though not so seriously as it did the New York market. But declines were serious enough. In New York a break in a few stocks must cause a general break because of the amount of marginal trading done there. In that market many securities are hypothecated for margins on others and the result is that a heavy decline in a few stocks causes a general throwing overboard of such hypothecated stocks as well as those bought on margins. In the Honolulu market, however, the first result of recent news was to take prospective buyers out of the market. There was no necessity to throw a lot of securities on the market. Some holders were willing to sacrifice to dispose of holdings in anticipation of further declines but there were few offerings for any stocks.

In the list sugar stocks have been the ones affected. In many instances three have been no changes yet made in quotations but in all others there have been declines either on sales or in quotations. Compared with last Saturday there has been a sale of Halku $15 under the last previous sale. Ewa declines $1.25 which is the equivalent of 6-1/2 points were the par value $100. Hawaiian Commercial has lost $4, Hawaiian Sugar $1, Kahuku 75 cents, McBryde $1, Oahu $2.50, Olaa

SUGAR SHIPMENT AHEAD OF 1916 ON SAME DATE

Sugar shipments continue well in advance of the same period last year. Up to January 30 there were more than 7000 tons in excess of those made up to January 30, 1916. With the departure of the Hilonian her cargo brings the shipments well over 50,000 tons and the Matsonia next week will add still further to the big shipments.

To the end of January, 1915, shipments by the Sugar Factors Company amounted to 41,528 tons. Manager Nowell reports shipments up to the end of last month as 48,565, the most recent shipments being 4500 tons in the Hyades and 6465 tons in the Mazona. The Hilonian takes about 3800 tons.

The reported sale of the Hilonian came as a surprise to the Sugar Factors, for it had been considered in the plans of the company for making the 1917 shipments from the islands. It is true that the new vessel, the Mani, will help out, but the capacity of the Hilonian as a carrier has entered into the plans of the company for the year. Manager Nowell has said that he is yet uncertain as to what plans will be worked out to meet requirements.

FUTURE OF PANAMA LIES LARGELY IN ITS SUGAR

(By Consul General Alban G. Snyder, Panama City).

Panama is said to have good timberland, especially in the Bayano river section, which has received the most attention in the past. The best sugar lands, it is believed, are in the Provinces of Los Santos and Veraguas.

Leading sugar producers in this country state that labor in the sugar section, Los Santos and Veraguas, is all native, and the daily wage is 60 cents. Cane has to be planted about every seven years. Malaria prevails in the lowlands. Transportation facilities are poor.

Agriculture is practically undeveloped in this country, and there are few good roads, so that what little growth has taken place in the sugar industry in recent years is due entirely to the efforts of certain interested persons.

The Star and Herald of this city publishes an interview with Dr. Edwin Dexter of the National Institute of Panama, in which he expresses the belief that the cultivation of sugar cane could be greatly extended in Panama and that the great future of the republic lies in that product.

HONOLULU, TERRITORY OF HAWAII, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1917.

SCHOOL GARDEN CONTEST REACHES THE END OF JANUARY WITH HUNDREDS HARD AT WORK

NINOLE SCHOOL FORMS GARDEN CLUB AND ORGANIZES FOR ENERGETIC WORK

Eighteen Members Divide Duties and All Unite Earnestly in Gardening—Each Child's Plot to Be Compared, for Beneficial Results

Ninole, Hawaii, Jan. 19, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.
 Sir: Following is the work that is being done at the Ninole school garden:

The preparation of the ground began some time during the month of December, 1916, and is still in progress.

Planting started on the 12th of January, 1917.

The garden is divided into two divisions or tracts, the upper tract and the lower tract. Work has begun on the upper tract and the same has been divided into four plots with a roadway in the center.

On January 12, 1917, plot No. 1 was planted to California yellow sweet potatoes. Twenty-one rows were planted, and on January 18 four more rows of red sweet potatoes were planted on the same plot, making a total of 25 rows of sweet potatoes planted on plot No. 1.

On the same date a few taro plants were also planted on the side of plot No. 1.

On January 15 a meeting was called at which the organization of the Ninole School Garden Club took place. The following officers were elected: Amos J. Ignacio, principal, president and overseer; Louis Cadima, grade 6, secretary; Otoiichi Matsushige, treasurer; Joshua de Souza, janitor; Alverino Chaves, Louis Cadima, Jr., and Alice Ignacio, committee in charge of planting. It was decided at this meeting that the planting, etc., should be conducted on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays after school hours.

At the present time the club consists of 18 members and they are all enthusiastic over the progress that has been met so far.

On January 18 plot No. 2 was planted to rose beans. Eight rows, 70 feet long, were planted. One ought to see the enthusiasm shown by the children while planting this plot to beans.

On January 18 half of plot No. 3 was planted to cranberry beans, a climbing bean which bears heavily. This bean has been experimented with in our school garden with great success. More will be planted shortly.

The weather so far has been favorable with slight showers during the night.

The lower tract will be worked as soon as the upper tract has been planted, which will be a matter of only a few days more.

This garden work is being done voluntarily and we expect to make a success of it.

Drawings and pictures will be sent later as soon as the plants begin to thrive.

By next week each child will be given a small plot to be planted with the vegetable seeds that they may choose and then each one will be made to take care of his or her plot as well as the large plots which have been and will be planted on a large scale. The idea is for comparison, to compare the quantity raised on the small plots with that of the larger plots and then see which is more profitable; to raise vegetables on a small scale or on a large one.

The pupils in this garden club range from Grade 1 to Grade 7 and three of the teachers volunteered and joined the club.

The following are the members of the Ninole School Garden Club: Amos J. Ignacio, principal, president and overseer; Joshua de Souza, assistant teacher, janitor; Alverino Chaves, assistant teacher, planting committee; Alice Ignacio, grade 7, planting committee; Louis Cadima, grade 6, secretary; Otoiichi Matsushige, grade 6, treasurer; Louis Cadima, Jr., grade 5, planting committee; Edith Ignacio, grade 5; Antonia Ignacio, grade 5; Minoru Kawahara, grade 4; Minoru Nakagawa, grade 4; Yutaka Yada, grade 4; Albert Torres, grade 3; Amos A. Ignacio, grade 3; Jesuina de Lima, grade 3; Louis Carvalho, grade 3; Manuel Vieira, grade 2; Elvira Vieira, grade 1.

Other members will be admitted as they apply for admission to the club.

Yours very truly,
 AMOS J. IGNACIO,
 President and Overseer Ninole School Garden Club.
 P. S.—Enclosed please find two letters from the pupils.

MANY LETTERS ON GARDEN PROGRESS

How the letters do pour in upon the Star-Bulletin!

Dozens of them, scores of them, hundreds of them!

They reach the editor in every mail and they have already filled two drawers of the desk. Pretty soon we'll have to have a special room for them!

And each one is interesting. It is really too bad the Star-Bulletin cannot publish every letter, but that is totally impossible. As a matter of fact, it is impossible to publish one-third of the letters.

There are also many photos and drawings, particularly the latter, which cannot be published. However, every letter, every photo, every drawing which comes to the office counts toward the prize-getting, for all are gone over carefully and the good and bad points noted. So, pupils of Hawaii, don't be discouraged if your letters and drawings do not appear. The Star-Bulletin is trying to publish as many as possible, but space is limited and we can only do our best. As far as possible, however, every letter will be mentioned in these columns.

A word to the teachers: Please select for sending to us for publication only a few of the letters—the best. If possible, have them typewritten; this saves a great deal of trouble for the judges of letters.

CONTEST NOTES

John J. Thomas writes from Anahola, Kauai. So does Matsukichi Kanai.

Inoru Tanaka of Waianae sends an interesting letter this week—the first of the February letters to reach us.

A bright letter—typewritten, too—comes from Louis Robello, one of the directors of the Kahuku, Oahu, school organization.

Kauai was well represented on the last mail which came to the Star-Bulletin. Kauai High and Grammar school sent in letters by Miss Louisa Kahi, Ernest Wedemeyer and Manuel Gouveia.

Keanae, Maui, is prompt with letters. One comes this week from the pupils of room 2.

A Maui school which is "on the job" is Keahua. Raphael Molina, grade 5, writes about the gardens.

Oscar E. Werner, of the Keahua, Maui, principal, writes to enter his school in the contest. The boys of the school are showing great interest and the school will be entered.

Wah Chong Alama writes a wide-awake letter from Hana, Maui. Another Hana letter sums up the work to date in an interesting fashion.

Hanalei, Kauai, is hard at work. Mrs. E. W. Booco writes under date of January 27.

Kaupo, Maui, has started sending weekly letters. The school is hard after the prize and evidently will be a high contestant.

Julia Hookeaku of Kalihikahi school, Oahu, tells the Star-Bulletin the tomatoes and onions are doing finely.

Kizu Shimomura writes from Wai-pahu that the "vegetables are growing beautifully."

The Star-Bulletin wishes to express its thanks to Prof. Vaughan MacCaughy of the College of Hawaii for sending this paper copies of pamphlets he has written on school gardening in Hawaii.

Among the school children writing this week from Kalihikahi school, Oahu, are Lizzie Gindina, Edith Fer-

PRINCIPAL BROWN AT PUUNENE HAS SPECIAL PLAN FOR GARDEN PROMOTION

System of Contracts and "Renters" Results in Widening Opportunity—He Finds that the Work Has High Educational Value and Interest is on Increase

Puunene, Maui, T. H., Jan. 22, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin,
 Honolulu, T. H.

Sir: In connection with the Star-Bulletin Farm Contest for schools I wish to direct your attention to our activities in home gardening. We have laid the foundation for this work in several ways. In our language classes we have encouraged our pupils to send for seed catalogues, farmers' bulletins and such other information as might be obtained without charge. We find that pupils will take much more interest in letter writing if it is real live work—that is, if they are to realize something from it besides the instruction in language. It seems, too, that pupils take more interest in reading in catalogues than they do in their readers. They are more anxious to learn the meaning of the language used than is the case with their readers because it has a deeper meaning to them than a mere exercise in English. We have thus correlated our vocational work with our classroom language work.

In laying out our school garden we have aimed to conform to some degree of mathematical precision rather than to raise the maximum amount of commercial value with the minimum amount of expense in time and labor. We have carefully leveled our garden plot, requiring the pupils to do so according to their best judgment and then to test their work by making water run back and forth in a shallow ditch until it has reached all parts of the plot. Their judgment has improved very noticeably through such training. Stakes are set carefully to mark the rows, which are a uniform distance apart, usually 4 inches. A tightly drawn string marks each row while it is being planted. The seeds are dropped in equal distance apart by the aid of a machine which was made by our young gardeners. Our system enables us to compute the number of plants that can be raised on any of our plots in given dimensions, which can be reduced to an acreage basis quite easily. Thus our vocational work in the field by drill in practical measurement and common daily calculations is related with our classroom work in arithmetic.

As our produce develops we take the study of insect and weed pests. Plant life is observed in all stages of development. Insect pests are caught and made to unfold their life histories. The germination of seeds is also demonstrated. The effects of fertilizers are observed. Thus do we supplement our classroom work in geography and natural science.

Practical Training High

Nor must we forget the practical training that our little school children receive from calling at homes in the community and disposing of garden produce. They are taught to speak impressively of the merits of their goods, to explain that they are clean, freshly harvested from the school garden, etc. They are in keen competition with professional gardeners, but they seldom ever fail to make their efforts successful. They

MAKAWELI FINDS RAIN HARMFUL

Makaweli, Kauai, Jan. 29, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: It has been raining so much lately that the garden has been neglected a little. The last rain washed quite a lot of soil away and knocked two or three of the sweet potato vines down.

Our garden has a beautiful border of hibiscus on one side and on the other three sides we planted sun flowers.

Our potato patch is in a triangular shape and is enclosed also by sun flowers. The sun flowers are growing nicely.

Yours truly,
 RIYUSUKE SAKAI

NINOLE PLANTING PROVES SUCCESS

Ninole, Hawaii, Jan. 25, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Dear Sir: I am going to tell you something about our school garden. We have organized a garden club. We have already planted beans and are going to plant Irish potatoes, radishes, lettuce and turnips.

The climate is very good. This is all I have to tell you about our garden this time.

Yours very truly,
 MASARU NAKAGAWA,
 Grade IV.

PUPIL AT PEPEKEO TELLS OF HOME GARDEN

Pepeekeo School, Jan. 25, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: I have a home garden. The garden is about 15 feet long and 10 feet wide.

The things that are growing in the garden are lettuce, carrots, onions, peanuts, Japanese cabbage and beans. The rain destroyed all the beans. The carrots are fine. The onions have been destroyed. I have three rows of lettuce left.

My home garden is at the Home-stead Kulaimani.

Yours truly,
 HAROLD E. HOWARD,

Keanae Principal Uses Own Money To Assist Sewing

Keanae, Maui, Jan. 12, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: Last Friday the boys went into the yard and garden to work and the girls went into Room 1 to sew with our assistant teacher.

The boys were divided into two groups. The smaller boys cut grass and cleaned the yard. The larger boys worked in the garden pulling weeds, breaking more ground, cleaning away rocks and watering.

Our principal, James O. Mitchell, is supplying the girls with sewing materials bought with his own money. The girls are sewing petticoats, blouses, pillow cases, etc., for themselves.

Our weather has been rather dry during the week. We had calm days and days during which gentle breezes from the northwest blew. We are expecting a kona storm.

With thanks to you and wishing your paper every success, we are,
 Yours respectfully,
 PUPILS OF ROOM 2,
 Keanae School.

Watchful Waiting For Lihue, Kauai

Lihue, Kauai, Jan. 29, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: I beg to inform you of the work in the gardens of the Lihue school.

The work for the past two weeks has been almost a watchful waiting proposition. The weather was bad. Almost nothing could be done owing to the excessive rains.

No seeds were planted. When the weather permitted the boys walked into their gardens, pulled weeds and cleaned the irrigating ditches.

The growth has been great, owing to the pressure of moisture in the soil and air.

Of late we have been bothered by the mynah-birds and doves.

Respectfully yours,
 WILLIAM L. SERRAO.

WAIALUA SCHOOL ENTERS CONTEST

Waialua School, Molokai, Jan. 26, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: The Waialua school desires to enter the farm contest. The boys made gardens in the northwestern, northern and eastern sections of the school yard.

The garden in the northwestern section of the school yard is triangular and the ones in the northern and eastern sections are rectangular.

The boys and girls are making gardens at home, just as well as at school.

The soil is fertile. Manure fertilizer has been added.

We have special varieties imported from Japan.

We have planted all varieties imaginable. Everyone who is taking part in this active work is very grateful for the opportunity offered and wishes to thank you.

Yours respectfully,
 FLORA KAULILL,
 Corresponding Secretary.

HEAVY RAINS AT PAAULO, HAWAII

Paaulo, Hawaii, Jan. 28, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: I have not done any work in my home garden owing to the heavy rain we have had. All the products I have planted are coming up fine except the beans, owing to the condition of the ground. The lettuce and carrot are about to be separated. The sweet corn is coming up also but some kind of insects are in it and I hope they shall not eat up the leaves.

Yours truly,
 NAWAI KOOLANI.

KALIHU-WAENA ADDS MARIGOLDS TO PLANTS

Honolulu, T. H., Jan. 24, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: We cannot work in the garden today because the ground is very wet and when we dig it gets muddy.

We have filled our boxes with fine soil. We planted cabbage seeds about two weeks ago and now the plants are two and one-half inches high. When the plants are stronger we will transplant them.

It has rained hard and the weeds have grown very fast. We want our yard to be clean, so we have pulled the weeds. We have planted marigolds along the sidewalk and they look very pretty. We also have the almander growing in our yard.

Yours truly,
 JOSEPH KAPUWA,
 Kalihikahi School, Grade IV-A.

WAIOHU GIRL SHOWS ENERGY

Waiohu, Kau, Hawaii, January 27, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: I have gone into the farming contest and I want to tell you all about my garden.

First I had to clear the land and get all the stones out. Then I softened the dirt. I made the rows ready to plant the seeds. The next day I planted some Hawaiian onions, some tomatoes, some turnips, some radishes, some Maui red beans, some carrots and parsley. I planted some head cabbage and lettuce in boxes. The day after I planted my lettuce some chickens got into the box and scratched out all the seeds. I planted some more. On the 26th day of January it rained very hard. Some places here were flooded and the dirt was all washed down in my garden and covered the whole thing. I had to plant it all over again. My beans are about three inches high and my tomatoes are about one inch high.

As the ground was very rocky I have my garden in small patches here and there. I have to carry the water which I use for watering my garden in a watering can. My turnip bed was all washed away by the rain, but I am going to plant them again.

Yours very truly,
 CONSTANCE VIDA.

WAIHEA, KAUAI, GARDENS 'FINE'

Waiheia, Kauai, Jan. 29, 1916.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: Our gardens here at the Waiheia School are fine. The vegetables are peeping out of the ground and the rain gave them enough water. The carrots, turnips, peas and other vegetables grow very rapidly. The large stones in our gardens were taken away by some men sent by Mr. Brandt and the soil was softened by the boys. The soil is dark red and is good soil for agriculture. The gardens of the other grades are also fine. They plant other vegetables such as sweet potatoes, beans and other plants that grow well. The rain watered our gardens and softened the soil and the sun helped us, a great deal. We planted something for a border. There was an extra space near the stone wall and instead of leaving that bare we planted vines. The only thing I can tell you that is of importance is that the vegetables are growing well and rapidly.

Yours truly,
 SHIZUO TSUCHIJA.

ENTHUSIASM AT PAIA RUNS HIGH

Paia, Maui, Jan. 29, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: The work on the Paia school gardens is continuing with great enthusiasm.

The general school plot is being divided into rectangular plots, 12 feet wide and 30 feet long.

The first plot has been planted with six rows of peas with rows laid out lengthwise.

To test them out we have planted them like this: The first four rows have been planted thickly with two pounds of fertilizer in the first two rows, no fertilizer in third and four pounds in the fourth. The other two rows have been planted thinly with two pounds of fertilizer in one and none in the other.

We have also planted 12 varieties of lettuce in boxes, with a half pound of fertilizer put into each box. These will be transplanted to the gardens to test them out and find the best variety.

The boys are tearing down their old plots and making new ones. Many plots have been finished and will be planted soon. Sometimes the boys work on the general school plot and sometimes on their own.

Hoes, rakes, shovels, pickaxes and wheelbarrows are used to work on the gardens. The boys are attacking the rocks, weeds and small stones with a light heart. Don't you think they are brave?

Respectfully yours,
 MANUEL SILVA,
 Grade VIII, Paia School.

Sir: We wish to join the school garden contest for this year. We have not written to you earlier because our garden was not ready. The weather has not given us much chance to work.

During the last four weeks we planted something in our garden. We have carrots, lettuce, beans, cabbage and onions growing.

Our garden is in a little valley. We have made some large ditches to carry the water.

We hope to tell you more about our present crop by next mail.

Yours truly,
 THIRD GRADE,

 Sir: I am going to the Pepeekeo school, but my home garden is in Maukaia Camp. My garden is about 20 feet wide and 20 feet long. I planted long daikon and round daikon. We ate about 50 cents worth of long daikon and about 50 cents worth of round daikon. Now I planted peanuts and lettuce. I saw the lettuce come up on the 19th of January.
 Yours truly,
 MITSUWO HARAGUCHI.

 Sir: My home garden is about 40 feet long and 20 feet wide. In my garden I have planted radishes, sweet potatoes, bananas, a fig tree, papayas and cabbages.
 When I started my garden the chickens got in and destroyed all. Then I put wire around it so as to protect it from the chickens. Now everything is growing very well. My garden has a few weeds in it, but I am going to pull them out so that I might get the first prize or the second.
 Yours truly,
 JOHN VAZQUAZ.

I wanted to have a larger garden, so I got a partner, Hutsuhei Haraguchi. We will work very hard after this. I do not have much time, because I go to the Japanese school, but we will work in the evenings and on Saturdays and Sundays.

Principal Brown at Puunene Has Special Plan for School Gardens and the produce harvested. I feel that many of them will be educated quite as much from their garden exercise as they will from their classroom work and that their classroom work will be materially improved by their work in their gardens. This arrangement and the big prizes offered by the Star-Bulletin have given a great impetus to this enterprise.

 Very respectfully,
 E. A. BROWN.
 Form of Contract
 Puunene, Maui, T. H., Jan. 27, 1917.
 This agreement is made by and between Mr. Brown, acting for the Puunene school, and
 We agree to enlarge our ground from Mr. Brown on which to raise vegetables or flowers, or both, until the end of the school year.
 We agree to cultivate the ground as Mr. Brown or his assistants may direct us.
 We agree that one-half of all we raise on the ground shall be the property of the Puunene school as rent for the use of the ground, for seeds and for other expenses and to buy playground equipment.
 If we fail to keep our promises to care for our gardens as Mr. Brown and his assistants tell us to do, we, each and all of us, agree that Mr. Brown may take the garden from us and that we shall lose all of our interest in it.
 Mr. Brown, for the Puunene school, agrees:
 To tell us what garden plot we are to have.
 To tell us how to prepare the ground for planting.
 To furnish us with seeds.
 To tell us how to do the planting.
 To tell us how to care for our gardens.
 PUUNENE SCHOOL,
 By
 Interest on Increase
 Puunene, Maui, T. H., Jan. 27, 1917.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.
 Dear Sir: I am pleased to advise that the interest of our pupils in home gardening is on the increase. About 100 pupils have rented garden plots. Each little gardener earnestly hopes to win your $25 prize. The care with which they are tilling the soil, their enthusiastic efforts in removing stones, etc., and their expressions of confidence indicate that their hopes are no idle dreams. I am sending you some of their letters. You will find enclosed also some of the pupils' drawings of the plants in our experimental school garden.
 Our experimental school garden is well represented by a picture enclosed herewith, taken more than a week ago. It indicates the vigorous start that our plants are getting under our system of irrigation and tillage. The drawings that I am enclosing represent these same plants as they appeared yesterday.
 I am including a picture of our regular school garden as it now appears. We are selling about $4 worth of vegetables per week from this patch. We hope to greatly enlarge the plot next year for our produce and our pupils take great delight in selling it.
 From another picture you will note that we are not neglecting poultry. Our youngest pupil is shown in the act of feeding the chickens. He is my little son, just 27 months old.
 Very respectfully,
 E. A. BROWN.

 Sir: I was asked to write to you about the condition of my garden in the Hilo High School lot.
 I have a daikon patch and also planted Japanese cabbage, and pole beans. I was one of the students who planted the crops late and have succeeded.
 I planted my "daikon" October 13 and again planted some two or three weeks later than the other boys.
 It took me about two weeks to cultivate the land because it was not fertile land and also was rocky land. I plowed about three or four feet deep and mixed the soils with manure and bone meal.
 I planted in my garden one dollar and fifty cents worth of daikon. When the daikon was about two months and a half old it was time for me to pull the daikons so I have pulled them and sold them at the Vegetable Market in Hilo and made some profit. I was the only person who made the best money. At first my teacher was surprised to see the daikons. They were about three inches in diameter and about one foot and a half to two feet in length. I hope to win the prize in this contest.
 Yours truly,

 I have a daikon patch and also planted Japanese cabbage, and pole beans. I was one of the students who planted the crops late and have succeeded.
 I planted my "daikon" October 13 and again planted some two or three weeks later than the other boys.
 It took me about two weeks to cultivate the land because it was not fertile land and also was rocky land. I plowed about three or four feet deep and mixed the soils with manure and bone meal.
 I planted in my garden one dollar and fifty cents worth of daikon. When the daikon was about two months and a half old it was time for me to pull the daikons so I have pulled them and sold them at the Vegetable Market in Hilo and made some profit. I was the only person who made the best money. At first my teacher was surprised to see the daikons. They were about three inches in diameter and about one foot and a half to two feet in length. I hope to win the prize in this contest.
 Yours truly,
 TAMEICHI SAKAKIHARA,

MISSING TWO YEARS HE GETS WORD TO WIFE

(By Associated Press)

PARIS, France.—Auguste Bambeff, a French reservist, reported missing August 24, 1914, and since mourned by his family, recently informed his wife that he was alive and well, a prisoner in the Sennezier camp in Germany.

Madame Raymond of Colonne-Ricourt, who had worn mourning for her husband since October, 1914, also just received a letter from him dated at a German prison camp. He was taken prisoner at Lille during the German advance. Having resisted even after capture, he was taken before a court-martial and sentenced to confinement until the end of hostilities. Until now, it is alleged, he has been denied the privilege of communicating with his family.

AN IMPROVED QUININE DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEAD

Because of its tonic and laxative effect. LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE will be found better than ordinary Quinine. Does not cause nervousness, nor ringing in the head. Remember, there is only one "Bromo Quinine." The signature of E. W. Grove is on each box.
