JOHNSON STADIUM AT DOUBLEDAY FIELD

ARMY WEST POINT®

BASEBALL

ARMY WEST POINT® BASEBALL

JOHNSON STADIUM

It started as a vision. It ended as a dream—a field of dreams, nestled smack in the middle of the U.S. Military Academy, tucked squarely in the middle of history.

Back in the late 1980s, there was much talk of moving venerable Doubleday Field, tearing the quaint little park from its natural resting spot in the national register of historic places, just off the “The Plain” overlooking the majestic Hudson River.

So many had roamed the time-honored pasture, chasing their boyhood dreams on a diamond well-suited for such fantasies. Bradley, Eisenhower, MacArthur, Franks, Blaik and Reeder had all frolicked there; so, too, had McGraw, Durocher, Mays, Mantle, Berra and Stengel. It was a place where major generals met major leaguers, a wonderful patch of land that transcended time and space.

Yet, as part of West Point's master facilities plan, Doubleday Field, so rich in history, so washed in tradition, was in danger of going the way of some of the great ones, going the way of the Polo Grounds and Ebbets Field; going the way of Connie Mack Stadium and Sportsman's Park. This magnificent old baseball diamond, named in honor of Abner Doubleday, the founder of baseball and an 1842 USMA graduate, was to be relocated to a more sterile setting, a hollow place void of memories and heritage.

Only the Doubleday Society, with Rod Vitty (USMA '55) as its driving force, and the family of Rupert H. Johnson (USMA '22) would not let that happen. A marvelous power pitcher during his days in the Black and Gold, Vitty had spent a good portion of his West Point springs toiling on the field where legends were born. For Vitty, the thought of moving “The Home of Army Baseball” from the site where games had first been contested in 1909 bordered on treason.

Vitty, along with a host of other former players and friends of the program, began a crusade to “Save Doubleday Field.” Thanks to their efforts and the tremendous generosity of the Johnson family, the dream was realized with the formal dedication of Rupert H. Johnson Stadium at Doubleday Field on Sept. 13, 1996.

The goal of the project was to provide the U.S. Military Academy with an impressive facility suited to the storied heritage of West Point and its glorious baseball program.

Highlights of the undertaking included the construction of full locker rooms for both home and visiting teams, a training room, clubhouse facilities, along with the addition of 880 fixed chair-back seats.

Great pains were taken in its design to draw an appropriate parallel between the new facility and the historic significance of its physical location on post. Formal granite facing emulating many of West Point's older academic buildings was tastefully incorporated to address those means.

Internally, spacious locker room and clubhouse facilities provide coaching staff and team members with a comfortable home.

Finally, landscaping around the facility was intentionally subdued with the historic parade ground known as “The Plain” remaining dominant nearby.

“Today's dedication of this ‘state-of-the-art’ baseball facility becomes a long overdue distinct and permanent addition to the Academy and its athletic program,” Vitty stressed during the facility's dedication ceremonies. “This beautiful stadium is an appropriate and proud expression of West Point's love for our national pastime.

“The Doubleday Society's efforts to construct this facility was made possible by the extreme generosity of the family of Rupert H. Johnson. This family provided the largest non-testamentary gift ever received by West Point. The Doubleday Society shares the family's great pride in dedicating this stadium to the memory of Rupert H. Johnson,” Vitty continued. “His proud contribution to the financial industry, his community service and philanthropic activities were reflective of the uncompromising standards and enduring values that were such an integral and driving force in his life. All that was nurtured, I'm sure, by his West Point experience and imbedded by those spring-time days playing baseball on this very field. We call it our ‘field of dreams.’”

Those same dreams will be shared by future generations of Army baseball players for many years to come. The Doubleday Society and the family of Rupert H. Johnson saw to that.

AT DOUBLEDAY FIELD

Abner Doubleday, an 1842 West Point graduate, is said to have devised the game of baseball while on leave from the U.S. Military Academy in 1839, drawing out the diamond and the rules of the game. He called the game "Base Ball," but it was patterned after a game called "Rounders," which was played by boys and girls in England.

While the origin of baseball has been disputed, Doubleday, nonetheless, is still given credit and the baseball field at the U.S. Military Academy was dedicated in his honor in May 1939, the centennial year of baseball.

Despite the controversy, Doubleday distinguished himself throughout his military career, earning the rank of major general. He served in the Mexican and Civil wars. As a captain, he fired the first gun for the Union side in the Civil War at Fort Sumter. On Nov. 29, 1862, he was made a major general of the volunteers. He retired from the U.S. Army in 1873 and died Jan. 26, 1893, in New Jersey at the age of 74.

"The Home of Army Baseball" since games were first contested on its present site in 1909, Doubleday Field underwent a major $4.2 million renovation in 1996. Following an aggressive four month construction cycle, the new Johnson Stadium at Doubleday Field was formally dedicated at ceremonies on Sept. 13, 1996.

The goal of the project was to provide the U.S. Military Academy with an impressive facility suited to the storied heritage of both West Point and its baseball program.

Highlights of the renovation project included the construction of full locker rooms for both home and visiting teams, fully equipped training rooms, clubhouse facilities, and the addition of 880 fixed chair-back seats.

Great pains were taken in its design to draw an appropriate parallel between the new facility and the historic significance of its physical location on campus. Formal granite facing emulating many of West Point's older academic buildings was tastefully incorporated to address those means.

Internally, spacious locker rooms and clubhouse facilities provide coaching staff and team members with a sparkling home.

A beautifully conceived "Team Room," complete with two flat-screen televisions, a state-of-the art entertainment system and sparkling new furniture was completed in 2006, providing Army's players with a comfortable place to relax.

Landscaping and sitework around the facility were intentionally subdued with the historic parade ground known as "The Plain" remaining dominant. In order to ensure that, overall height of the structure was minimized.

Doubleday Field itself underwent a major change during the summer of 2006 when a completely new natural playing surface was installed. In addition to incorporating state-of-the-art drainage and watering systems, the project included the addition of new bullpen pitching mounds, a host of dugout amenities and three fully lighted hitting tunnels.

In the summer of 2011, the first-ever press box was pre-assembled and delivered to Doubleday Field. The facility provides room for at least 10 media members, and a rooftop porch allows access for video equipment. A brand new scoreboard was installed in the fall of 2011, and a new padded wall was erected in January 2012.

The latest addition to Johnson Stadium is the lights which were installed in the fall of 2013, allowing the Black Knights the opportunity to compete at night.

ARMY IN THE PROS

Army's baseball program has proven to be one of the most regular producers of minor league talent in all of the Northeast the past several years. In fact, 14 former Black Knights have logged time with a minor league team affiliated with the major leagues since 2005. Thirteen of those individuals have been selected in Major League Baseball's First-Year Player Draft, including a school-record total of three chosen in 2008. Below is a list of Army players selected in the draft since 2005. In addition to those listed, Josh Holden signed with the Cincinnati Reds organization as a free agent in 2006 and Chris Rowley inked a free agent contract with the Toronto Blue Jays.

Rowley then made history in August 2017 when he was called up, becoming Army's first alumni to reach the Major League Baseball ranks. Then, two days later on August 12, 2017, he was called in to pitch 5.1 innings against the Pittsburgh Pirates. He allowed five hits and just one run, while sprinkling in three strikeouts during his time on the hill. Rowley was also credited with the win, becoming the 13th pitcher in Blue Jays history to win his debut on the mound and the first since 2012.
