

STRATEGY #4

Images from "Fighting for the Vote With Cartoons" by Anna Diamond, The New York Times

A 1915 cartoon by Rose O'Neill, who created Kewpie babies.
New-York Historical Society/Gift of the Rose O'Neill Foundation

STRATEGY #4

Images from "Fighting for the Vote With Cartoons" by Anna Diamond, The New York Times

Uncle Sam: "Prune away Prejudice and these four States will blossom in November"

Blanche Ames Ames, 1915.

Special Collections and Archives, Virginia Commonwealth University Libraries

STRATEGY #4

Images from "Fighting for the Vote With Cartoons" by Anna Diamond, The New York Times

WHAT BREAKS UP THE HOME?

Unemployment for men.      Bad employment for women and children.      "The easiest way."

WHAT WILL SAVE THE HOME?
The participation of the home-maker in all governmental control of these problems. For this reason we demand
VOTES FOR WOMEN

NATIONAL AMERICAN WOMAN SUFFRAGE ASSOCIATION,      505 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY

Mary Ellen Sigsbee, 1917.

Ken Florey Suffrage Collection/Gado, via Getty Images

STRATEGY #4

Images from "Fighting for the Vote With Cartoons" by Anna Diamond, The New York Times

TEARING OFF THE BONDS.

Lou Rogers, 1912.

STRATEGY #4

Images from "Fighting for the Vote With Cartoons" by Anna Diamond, The New York Times

Blanche Ames Ames, 1915.

Special Collections and Archives, Virginia Commonwealth University Libraries