Entered according to the Act of Congress, in the year 1853, by

in the Office of the District Court of the United States for the District of Michigan.

[IT IS INTIMATED TO STRANGERS that a magnificent view of the City of Detroit, of the River and Islands. both above and below the city, and of the interesting country for miles around the Canadian towns of Windsor and Sandwich on the opposite side of the river, is obtained from the dome of the Biddle House Hotel, corner Jefferson ave and Randolph street.—EDITOR]

NUMBERING THE CITY.--This it is hoped, shall be accomplished, even were it to be effected by the unaided enterprise of the compiler, before another Directory shall be issued.

The heading "American Protestants " embraces all those who, although being protestants, are not connected by membership, with any of the organised churches.

Note.—Arising from an oversight of one of the enumerators, the census for the fifth and eighth wards, does not discriminate the several religious denominations further than those of "Protestants" as that term embraces in its general meaning the several denominations as contra-distinguished from Catholics.

Note, to Hotel Keepers, Postmaster &c., to whom the Directory shall be forwarded gratis.

The publisher desirous of placing so generally useful a work for business reference at each city and town in the State for the general accommodation of their respective inhabitants, requests that Postmasters and Hotel keepers will assist in giving effect to this desire by hanging up the Directory in their offices, for public reference —Editor.

PREFACE.

CITIZENS OF DETROIT, an effort has been made to produce for you as reliable a Directory of your city as present circumstances would admit. The stores and dwellings require to be numbered under the authority of an ordinance of the City Government—and much dissatisfaction prevails amongst all classes—whether their pursuits are in business or in private—that this cause of complaint against, in all other respects, a highly efficient Municipal Executive, has not before this been removed.

I express my grateful acknowledgments for the liberal advertising support so cheerfully rendered on an untried effort by the merchants, manufacturers and professional men of the city, which enabled me to produce a Directory, that from its general style and appearance, I feel satisfied will obtain some degree of approbation.

The members of the Legal and Medical professions are all, I trust, accurately included under their respective alphabetical letter.

A book like this, with a limited number of copies, demands that it be supported generously by advertising on its pages, so as to produce a fitting remuneration to the compiler for the great expense of its production. The advertiser, it is hoped, will receive advantages co-extensive with the circulation of the work. By reference to the statistical department of the Directory, it will be observable that the compiler has enjoyed no sinecure during its preparation.

2,000 Copies have been printed, of which 500 are in progress of free distribution to all the Hotels and many of the Post Offices in the State and elsewhere, with a view to place before strangers, and those who trade with our city, the peculiar advantages it enjoys and offers to reciprocate, and the entire capacity of our wholesale houses to supply merchandise of every imaginable variety to country traders upon terms as liberal and advantageous; nay more so, for many reasons not necessary here to allude to, than they could obtain in cities at the seaboard. Our wholesale houses having generally partners at the East whose care is employed in IMPORTING and purchasing from manufacturers, and first hands.

I annex to the Directory a lithograph street map of the city of Detroit, prepared at considerable expense, which will aid the stranger at a distance to form a correct idea of the judicious beauty of the street plan. Within the fire limits of the city, the leading avenues of trade are all built up, substantially and beautifully of brick, in blocks of chaste and elegantly designed buildings, ranging from three to six stories; while the suburban outlets are rapidly filling up within a radius of several miles, with princely residences. Including the river, the map will exhibit nine great highways leading to and from the comparatively innumerable thriving cities and villages of Michigan, and elsewhere on its borders.

Located as Detroit is upon one of the finest rivers of the purest water of which any country in the world can boast; of a constantly undiminished navigable depth, and beauty of prospect; in so desirable a latitude also, that it not unfrequently presents an uninterrupted navigation in winter,—the Detroit River may justly be regarded as the foundation of the acquired and growing wealth of not only the men of purely commercial pursuits, whose trade transactions are centered in Detroit, but, collaterally, in a very perceptible degree, the producing and commercial population of the cities and villages of Michigan generally, and States adjoining, have cause to appreciate this great highway by which wealth is transported to their doors. But, regarding health as the most precious of all other earthly blessings, it is as the great sanatory conservator of the people's health, that citizens of Detroit have the greater cause to cherish grateful feelings, while they contrast their incomparably superior condition in this particular, with that of other cities of similar commercial and numerical magnitude.

As an European, the days of my boyhood, and more matured manhood, having been spent amongst the beauteous verdant plains, vallies, hills and mountains of Ireland, and its ever-to-be-loved lakes, streams and rivers, and health-bracing seacoast; still, I believe the climate of Detroit is more conducive and protective of general The Detroit River is destined to be the tributary to its city of inconceivable health. The inexhaustible treasures of Iron and Copper lying only a few hundred wealth. miles above Detroit in our highly favored State, with the most desirable facilities for their development-must in time travel to us, or be forwarded further eastward by us; and, without encountering the personal hazards and sacrifices of "gold diggings" and "nuggets," the world may be assured there is wealth enough in Michigan, only awaiting the organization of effective means for its enriching development, enough to satisfy the wealth-loving cupidity of hundreds of thousands. Amongst settlers at Lake Superior there are European friends of my own whose reports of the inviting agricultural advantages of the Country around them are very encouraging, and had almost been successful in tempting me to a new emigration. There is no hesitancy in recommending the region of Lake Superior to newly arriving emigrants, who can rapidly build up cities there upon their own free properties; any number of laborers in fitting season can find abundance of remunerative employment.

Michigan is indebted to the Messrs. Tappscott, of Liverpool and New York, for their recommendation of it as a highly favored State (if not the most favored) in the Union. Prior to my own embarkation for America I confidentially requested their advice, which was cheerfully given, by letter, intimating substantially the advantages of Michigan; which needs only the settlement of the Emigrant to convince him, that it invitingly presents to his enterprise all the encouragements, and incentives to the employment of his industry and capital, that he could expect. Settling down amongst a self-relying, kind and noble people—uncontaminated and unspoiled by European monarchical and aristocratic habits of education-independent above the causes of feudal and agrarian occasions of quarrel-wealthy as the reward of their intelligent industry and characteristic integrity-the outstretched hand of sympathy and friendship is extended to the down trodden sons of toil in misgoverned Europe--offering them the full rewards of labor, intelligence, integrity and general good citizenship—a land full of enriching advantages and comforts—a constitution and government founded and consolidated on the simplest, but most enduring of all foundations,---the intelligible doctrine of individual right,---and the republican equality of every citizen. Here the threadbare fancies—the worn out expediencies—the man-debasing superstitions—the ignoble feeling of subserviency to men, measures and influences, whether political, lay or ecclesiastical, quickly give place to the original freshness of untrammelled enterprise-individual independence and selfreliance, while the excellent provisions of the laws enable the few executive police of the country to find in every good citizen a cheerful auxiliary in their enforcement. But it affords happiness to record that crime is very rare indeed. No European country can compare at par with the social progress of Michigan and the rest of our northern states.

DETROIT presents very beautiful geographical aspects as well as advantages. No intelligent stranger, or arriving resident, can float up its magnificent river in the daytime and remain indifferent to the beauteous landscape through which he is passing. Emotions of delight spring up spontaneously,-and before the individual is aware, enthusiasm will hold his affections for our city within its pleasing trammels,--his admiration will receive new incitements;-view succeeding view on both sides of the river, in continued variety; until he finds the curtain of this beauteous panorama has dropped, upon which he will find painted the delightful Islands just above the city. The view of the Lakes St. Clair and Huron are here intercepted, and the stranger's eye and ear are arrested by the commotions of commerce—by the active movements of the large fleet of steamboats and sail craft surrounding himthe noise of the ten thousand hammers which in the machine and workshops of the city are incessantly shaping the fortunes of employers and employed;---and the involuntary decision of his skilled judgment repeats the general prediction, that, within this generation, Detroit will have attracted to it, from the influence of its natural advantages, its salubrity, its invested and developed capital—and the moral, social and educational attractions of its citizens—a population which may approach One Hundred Thousand.

There are many inviting fields of enterprise which I should be inclined to allude to; the intended limits of a preface are however far exceeded. Let capitalists at a distance be, however, informed that our city offers just at this moment the labor of about ten thousand unemployed boys and girls. We have the weighter manufactures in successful operation,-and it would not deteriorate the morals or wealth of our city or State even if these continued unemployed to maturity, ---as our agricultural interests would absorb them as producers. The field of labor is however open to the capitalist, and a presumption is reasonable that where all our cloths are imported to clothe the annually increasing thousands of Michigan and the more remote settlers of other States-Detroit may be safely regarded as a point at which may be successfully developed both woolen and cotton manufactures to any required extent. The State in a word may be independently its own producer, manufacturer and consumer, exporting its redundancy in staples, wheat, flour, beef, pork, hides, fish, &c. and bring in exchange an abundant currency as a large balance of trade in its favor. With its present population of nearly 40,000 embracing all the elements and varieties of skilled industry—it is only yet in its infancy. There can be no more inviting field for profitable investment presenting itself to the capitalist and manufacturer of almost every denomination of trade;—as well as to the masses of eastern citizens, and European emigrants, to whom fertile lands, obtainable at small cost, situated in remunerating markets, are an object of paramount importance. The State at large is crowned with success, it is dotted over its whole extent with thriving cities and villages, with comparatively innumerable schools, churches, post offices, &c., with an educated, religious, temperate, and already large population. Detroit may look upon the State, of which she must ever be the great commercial metropolis, with feelings of admiration; and gratitude to a Divine Providence for his favoring goodness. Europe may regard it as peculiarly wealthy, well-governed, happy and prosperous, amongst the constellation of states that form the family of nations, confederated under the banner of the Stars and Stripes, constituting the great empire republic of North America, which is destined to arbitrate, if not to dictate, a rational code of popular liberty to the decaying Monarchies of THE WORLD.

DETROIT, 1853.

JAMES DALE JOHNSTON.

Note.—In closing my labors on this Directory I take occasion to express my acknowledgments for the efficient aid rendered me in the enumeration of the city, by Messrs. Church. Kuhn. Willits, and the Rev. Mr. Michael, and also to the citizens at large for the proper courtesy extended towards myself and the above named gentlemen generally.

named gentlemen generally. To Messrs. Pomeroy & Co. I owe my sincere acknowledgements, to Mr. Hill, who superintended the printing. and to the craft of the Tribune office generally, I offer my parting friendly regards. J. D. J.

STATISTICS OF DIRECTORY.—Exclusive of printing, the time of the compiler and that of others engaged in assisting him, amounts to 331 days of constant and arduous labor. The discretion which protects the value of professional labor, prevents the compiler from seeking to know the quantity of time consumed in the printing of the work.—Ed; DETROIT TALENT.—How can we, with a soul, avoid noticing the very beautiful specimen of wood engraving found on friend Schonacker's card, page 294, representing one of his pianos with that dilightful "linguin attachment." which blends the music of a whole orchestre with the original music of the instrument. Oh ! how we should love to have one in our shanty, and be able to play it as well as our friend MILLER. This little gem of a wood cut was executed by Mr. J. G. Darby, whose office is next door to the Advertiser office.— Bditor Directory.

ADVERTISERS' KEY,

Index to the Business Cards of Manufacturers, Merchants and others, who have Advertised in the City of Detroit Directory and Business Advertiser, for the years 1853-4.

[Arranged according to business alphabetical letter]

The compiler should, assuredly, have been better pleased in placing the whole business of the city before the public, both at home and abroad, in this KEY. The omission of names in this valuable compartment of the Directory is certainly no fault of his; his canvass was thorough, and his labors were greatly enhanced, in the aggregate, by the indeterminate invitations of many to " call again."

The work having been produced under the patronising support of ADVERTISERSalthough it is believed to embrace upon its pages the name of every firm and individual in business in Detroit-it could not honestly be expected, merely to accommodate, as a book of public reference, the convenience of a few Eastern and Southern salesmen and agents, that the compiler should prejudice the interests of the friends who have liberally sustained his undertaking, and add, in a large degree, to the expense of the production of the book, by inserting in the key other business Houses than those advertised. It is hoped this explanation will be regarded as sufficiently explanatory, JAMES DALE JOHNSTON. and its terms business-like, just and reasonable,

DETROIT YOUNG MEN'S (LITERARY) SOCIETY.

The report in detail of this Society, so beneficial in its influence amongst the young men of our city in stimulating the noble pursuits of self-government, self education, and other kindred objects which conduce to the cultivation and establishment of principles so necessary in developing the character of "THE GOOD CITIZEN"—has been, it is much regretted, omitted to be printed, arising from one of those oversights which in many of our employments leaves some intended arrangement unaccomplished.

It is to be hoped this amende will save us from the otherwise deserved imputation of being indifferent to the merits of this esteemed Society of the young men of Detroit.— The list of the Society's Officers will be found on page 296.

Census of the City of Detroit for 1853.

The compiler in adding the following census return to the Directory was governed by no motive to gratify the curiosity of any sect or party. The plan is entirely his own, was general, and having in view general results. The return presents to view most important stistical particulars. It should plainly be the duty of governments from time to time to ascertain the general state of the people as respects their social and moral condition, without attempting to present other incentives to personal conduct than those which bind men together in the common bond of virtuous republican brotherhood, and which the advanced state of civilization, by which our country stands pre-eminent in the approbation of the world, teaches our people from the domocratic code of our common christianity:

"Do unto others as you would they should do unto you."

Here is true fraternization; here is a great universal platform, common to all; here is an altar at which all the seemingly discordant tongues of religious society may converge into one loud voice of love for humanity, and consent harmoniously to praise the Supreme Common Creator.

With nearly twenty different sections of distinct national characteristics, and nearly i. twice that many different religious denominational elements, which sum up the population of our favored city-where on the habitable earth can be found, amongst so many thousands, more order-more respect for constituted law-more decorous regard for public morality than here? Turn over the picture!—Face it towards Europe!—Let 5 the eyes of its respective governments look upon, and study its features!---and learn the profitable lesson, that tyranny connot long live in harmony with universal education, ż which in communities, as well as with individuals, will be the great governing element! A population of nearly 40,000, before whose cupidity there is presented every }, temptation-without a single armed executive officer, policeman or soldier-presenting the daily report of "Crime Unknown!" Aye! turn the picture towards Europe!-Let her governments take a leaf out of this useful book of Brother Jonathan's republican experience-

"He is the freeman, whom the truth makes free."

Standing armies, to crush popular liberty, and to enforce the legislation of tyrants are here unknown !—The laws of involuntary honor, the result of sound educational principles, leave no necessity for the existence of a lurking detective police !

BUILDING SOCIETY.

Thousands will be quickly added to the sum of our present large population; it may not be inappropriate to note here that it is intended to organize a Building Society in Detroit, upon the plan of "The Brooklyn Accumulating Fund Association." Such an Association would prove in the Editor's humble judgment of incalculable benefit to the city as well as to the individuals accommodated, restricting usefully the amount of "floating population;"—would be inculcative of habits of thrift and good management amongst mechanics;—have a tendency to promote marriages, (always provided the ladies consenting,) would bind men more firmly to the comforts of their own homesteads, where, surrounded with cheerful wife and humorous children to gladden their hearts, men could not fail in being good patriotic citizens. So may it be! Detroit can still hold out encouraging inducements to many thousands. The more the better, provided they shall be influenced by good, moral and social principles, having, in the practice of the virtues and claims of life, a tendency to make each other individually, and the community collectively happy.

TAXABLE PROPERTY IN THE CITY OF DETROIT.

[Mr. Amos T. Hall, City Auditor, politely prepared, at the request of the compiler, the following summary respecting the taxation of the rateable property in the city, which will be read with interest by both citizens and strangers.—Editor.

Amount of Taxable property in the city of Detroit, as returned by the Assessors of the three several Districts of the city of Detroit, for the year 1853 :

Property, real and personal, to the amount of 3,000,000, consisting of Rail Road, Banking and other similar discriptions—is at present protected from municipal taxation —by the terms of the State legislative enactment, under which this kind of property commutes all tax assessments against it by paying to the State (for State purposes) one per cent on Capital Stock. A remedy against this evident wrong to the income of the city, is much and immediately required; and when accomplished will be found to add to the income of the city to an amount which must be greatly felt in lessening the direct taxation to which the present rateable property of the city is subject.

Amos T. HALL, City Auditor.

SALMON.-Salmon begin to enter the rivers of Scotland and Ireland more or less about A the month of April; it is, however, in June, July, and August, that the greatest quantities arrive. It is immediately after its arrival from the sea that the salmon is in perfecting tion. In fresh water it eats comparatively little, and its flesh becomes gradually less solid. Several of the salmon fisheries established on the Tweed, the Tyne, the Shannon, and the Eden, produce an annual revenue of £5,000, £7,000, £10,000, and £12,000, to the proprietors. Near the mouth of the river Eden, as many as 182,000 large fish have been taken in seventy-two days.

INFLUENCE OF BANKING ON THE PUBLIC MORALS. - Banking exercises a powerful influence on the morals of society; it tends to produce honesty and punctuality in pecuniary engagements. Bankers, for their own interest, always have a regard to the moral character of the party with whom they deal; they enquire whether he be honest or tricky, industrious or idle, prudent or speculative, thrifty or prodigal; and they will more readily make advances to a man of moderate property and good morals, than to a man of large property but inferior reputation, Thus, the establishment of a bank in any place immediately advances the pecuniary value of a good moral character. There are numerous instances of persons having arisen from obscurity to wealth only by means of their moral character, and the confidence which that character produced in the mind of their banker. It is not merely by way of loan or discount that a banker serves such a person; he also speaks well of him to persons who may make inquiries respecting him; and the banker's good opinion will be the means of procuring a higher degree of credit with the parties with whom he and afflicted, and deranged; and they will make you ashamed of complaining of your lighter afflictions.

AMERICAN BANKS. — One of the New York papers gives the following as one of the latest Wall street reports : A Locofoco was damning the banks for suspending specie payments, when the president of one of them passing, turned and asked him what he had to complain of. "Why, the d——d banks have stopped payment, and we can't get specie for our rags." "Here, then, you shall have nothing to grumble about — hand out your bills, and I'll cash them — hand them out." It is useless to say that no draft was made upon the gentleman's deposits. The moral is, that those who have the least money make the most fuss.

 \hat{R}_{AIN} —The largest drops of rain, which are about one-fifth of an inch in diameter, will fall 2,040 feet in a minute; but the ordinary drops in this climate will seldom fall half so fast. Hailstones in the south of Europe, having sometimes the enormous diameter of two inches, will fall with a velocity of 113 1-4 feet in a second, or more than a mile and a quarter in a minute; a rapidity of stroke which destroys cornfields and ravages vineyards.

For a fit of Despondency-Look on the good things which God has given you in this world, and at those which he has promised to his followers in the next. He who goes into his garden to look for cobwebs and spiders, no doubt will find them; while he who looks for a flower, may return into his house with one blooming in his bosom.

For all fits of Doubt, Perplexity and Fear .- Whether they respect the body or the mind, whether they are a load to the shoulders, the head or the heart, the following is a radical cure which may be relied on, for I had it from the Great Physician -- "Cast thy burden on the Lord, and he will sustain thee."

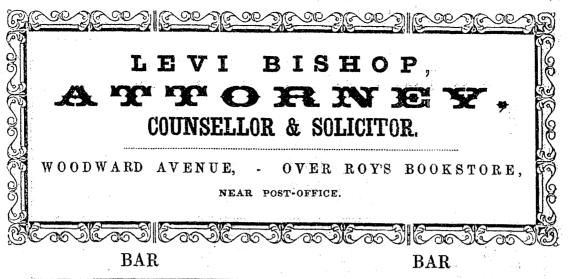

SELF-DENIAL .-- There never did, and never will exist, any thing permanently noble and excellent in a character which was a stranger to the exercise of resolute self-denial.

CHANGING SEATS. — The following problem may be found in many of our elementary books of arithmetic: A club of eight persons agreed to dine together every day as long as they could sit down to table differently arranged. How many dinners would be necessary to complete this arrangement? Answer. — By the well known rule of permutation, it will be found that the whole party must live 110 years and 170 days, and must cat 362,880 dinners. So rapidly does the sum roll up on this process, that if the party had consisted of one more person, they would have had 445,520 dinners to get through; and if ten persons were to enter into the compact, it would be necessary for them, in order to complete their task, to live long enough to devour 3,628,800 dinners.

CossACKS.—The name of Cossacks is taken from the Sclavonic word Koss (scythe.) The Russian peasants used to go to war, for want of arms, with their scythes, for which they were called Cossacks—scythemen.

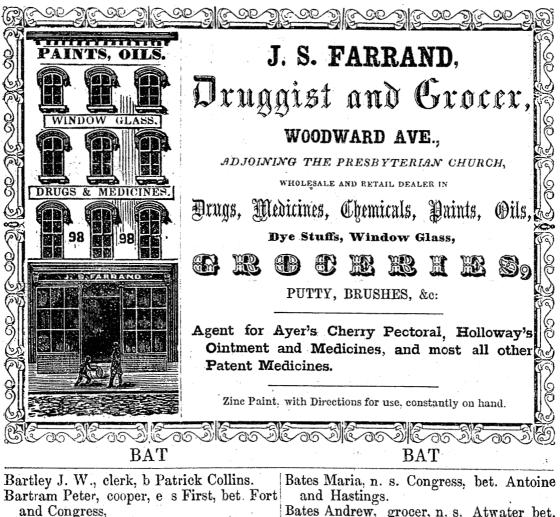

AN IRISH SPORTSMAN.—" Patrick, you fool, what makes you stale so solly after that rabbit, when your gun has no lock on it?" "Hush! hush! my darlint, the rabbit don't know that."

Give them tea infused in bad smoky water; set them down to a piece of hard beef or pork, that has been in pickle for the last fifteen years, accompanied by hard, tough biscuit, and on Sundays by a roll pudding made of flour and stale suet. Let them rise from their sickness to be assailed by the smell of grog, cheese and bilge water. Let everything they touch feel damp and cold. Let the sea which is shipped on deck run through to their bedding, so that every movement they make on it produces a squashing noise. These, and many worse things than these, would entitle them to complain of the sea.

STIMULANT. — Our times are distinguished by what is called a love of excitement; in other words by a love of strong stimulants. To be stimulated, excited, is the universal want. The calmness, sobriety, industry of our fathers, have been succeeded by a feverish restlessness. The books that are read are not the great, standard, immortal works of genius, which require thought, and inspire deep feeling; but ephemeral works, which are run through with a railroad rapidity, and which give a pleasure not unlike that produced by exhilarating draughts. Business is become a race, and is hurried on by the excitement of great risks, and the hope of great profits. Even religion partakes the general restlessness. In some places extravagant measures, which storm the nervous system, and drive the more sensitive to the borders of insanity, are resorted to for its promotion. Everywhere people go to church to be excited rather than improved. This thirst for stimulants cannot be shut up in certain spheres. It pervades those classes who, unhappily, can afford themselves but one strong stimulus—intoxicating liquor; and among these, the spirit of the age breaks out in intemperance.

DESTRUCTIVE WORMS .- In less than a year after the commodious jetty built at Valparaiso was finished, those piles which were not defended by copper were completely reduced to a honeycomb state, by a curious little animal, called an auger worm (teredo navalis,) from the resemblance its head bears to a common auger. It is small, white, and almost gelatinous, with the exception of the head, which is armed with two movable plates of shell, by which it is presumed the animal perforates the wood. As it advances in the work of destruction, it lengthens and increases in size, constantly enlarging the cell in proportion to the demand for accommodation. The cell is lined with a calcareous coating (the secretion of the animal) similar to the shells of the molluscous tribes. The worm sometimes at-tains several feet in length, and an inch in diameter. From the havoc made on the jetty it may be easily inferred, what would be the fate of a vessel not defended by copper, were she to remain long in this port.

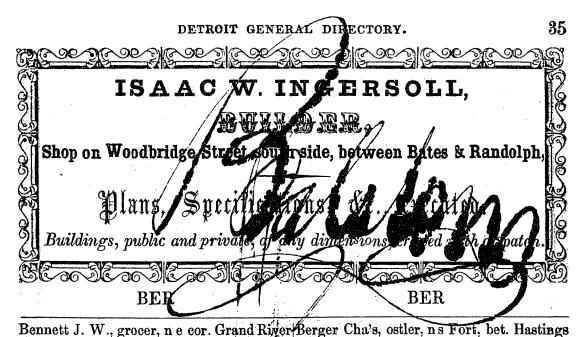

Dog.-The dog has been the companion of man for more than five thousand years, and hat learned but one of his vices, and that is to worry his species when in distress.

do, that post-boys and donkeys is both immortal, wot I say is this: that venever they feels theirselves gettin' stiff and past their work, they just rides off together, von post-boy to a pair, in the usual way: wot becomes on 'em nobody knows, but it's wery probable as they starts away to take their pleasure in some other world, for there ain't a man alive as ever see either a donkey or a post-boy a takin' his pleasure in this!"

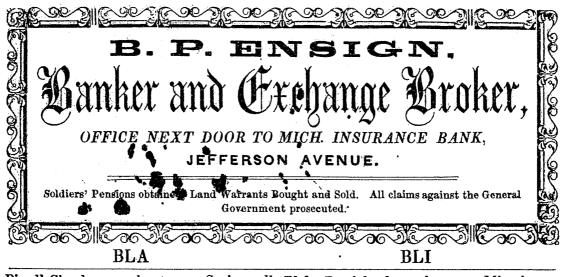

IMPORTANCE OF CORRECT PUNCTUATION.—The contract made for lighting the town of Liverpool, England, during the year 1819, was thrown void by the misplacing of a comma in the advertisements—thus:—" The lamps at present are about 4050, and have in general two spouts each, composed of not less than twenty threads of cotton." The contractor would have proceeded to furnish each lamp with the said twenty threads; but this being but half the usual quantity, the commissioners discovered that the difference arose from the comma following instead of preceding the word each. The parties agreed to annul the contract, and a new one was ordered.

To which the young Queen replied, as an old writer describes it, so "merveylous pithitic," as to excite the admiration of the bystanders, in the following remarkable speech: "I thank my Lord Mayor, his brethren, and you all; and whereas your request is that I should continue your good lady and Queen, be ye assured that I will be as good unto ye as ever Queen was to her people. No will in me can lack; neither, do I trust, shall there lack any power. And persuade yourselves that, for the safety and quietness of you all, I will not spare, if need be, to spend my blood. God thank you all." "Which answer of so noble hearted a princess." continues the same writer, " if it moved an extraordinary rejoicing, it is not to MECHANICAL POWER OF COALS.--It is well known to modern engineers, that there is virtue in a bushel of coals, properly consumed, to raise seventy millions of pounds weight a foot high. This is actually the average effect of an engine working in Cornwall, England. The ascent of Mont Blanc, from the valley of Chamouni, is considered, and with justice, as the most toilsome feat a strong man can execute in two days. The combustion of two pounds of coals would place him on the summit.

LIVING CURRENCY IN TEXAS —A gentleman in conversation with a citizen of Texas some time since, asked him how they supplied themselves, with no currency. "Oh," he replied, "we have money enough." "Ah!" replied the inquisitor, "what kind of currency have you? Specie, of course, living so near the mines of Mexico?" "Not at all," said the other. "We pay in cows for large sums, and throw in the calves for change!"

MUSICAL SNUFF-Box.—A gentleman who had a snuff-box that played "Drops of Bran-dy" and "The glasses sparkle on the board," went to dine with a friend a few miles out of town one Sunday, taking his box in his pocket. He accompanied the family to the parish church, and by some accidental pressure, he, about the middle of the service, touched the spring of the box, which struck up "Drops of brandy" most merrily. Every eye and every ear was directed towards the spot, to the great dismay of the gentleman, who endeavored to stop the box, but in doing so he only caused it to change the tune, on which he hastened out of the church, the box rattling away while he marched along the aisle.

MUSICAL NOTICE.-A musician, in giving notice of an intended concert at Cleveland, O., says.—" A variety of other songs may be expected, too tedious to mention." TIGHT BOOTS.—A physician of New York says, that during one week he attended four cases of apoplexy caused by wearing tight boots.

CUNNING OF THE SPIDER.—A degree of the marvellous has characterized the stories of the sagacity of this animal that we do not attempt to reach: a simple exhibition of it, however, fell under our observation, which we will relate: A spider, of moderate size, had fortified himself within a very formidable web in a corner of our office, where he was suffered to remain, for no other reason than his predilection for mosquitoes. His taste for variety, however, was very soon developed. We observed him making very rapid preparations to attack an enormous beetle, whose peregrinations had extended into his neighborhood. The web was made fast to two of his legs at the first onset. M. Beetle, apparently not altogether satisfied with this "fraternal hug," bade him good morning, and marched off, carrying his chains with him, in doing which he had well nigh demolished the fortress itself. In a few moments, however, the beetle repeated his visit. In the meantime, the spider had repaired damages, and was prepared for the reception of the formidable stranger. The web was about eighteen inches from the floor; the spider precipitated himself from it, but stopped suddenly when within about two inches of the floor. As this feat was again and again repeated, we have no doubt that it was an experiment to try the strength of his cord. At length he threw himself upon the back of the beetle, attached the web to the posterior extremities, and then retreated. Mr. Beetle's suspicions of the purity of the intentions of his long-legged host were now confirmed, and, apparently with no small degree of displeasure, he turned his back upon the spider, the frailty of whose web, notwithstanding his precaution, not interfering in the slightest degree with the dignity of Sir Beetle's measured tread. The spider, convinced that open attack was altogether unavailable, resorted to stratagem. With rather an eccentric manœuvre, he fastened the attention of Mr. Beetle upon himself, and then commenced a retreat up the surface of a somewhat rough wall. Whether Mr. Beetle mistook this trick of the spider for politeness, under the impression that he was conducting him to his castle, or whether it was a matter of sheer curiosity that induced him to follow his betrayer, we are not able to decide; it is sufficient that the decoy was successful. Mr. Spide was vastly civil to Sir Beetle; court language was used on the occasion, without doubt, until they reached a point directly over the web, when, like another Roderick Dhu, he threw off his disguise, and, in a trice, mounted upon the back of Sir Beetle, disengaged his feet from the wall, and they tumbled together into the web. With the rough legs of the beetle, and being unable to obtain foot-hold, extrication was impossible, escape hopeless; he surrendered at discretion, and on the following evening was found dead in his chains.

To MANAGE A REARING HORSE.-In preference to the dangerous experiment of pulling a rearing horse backward, I recommend the adoption of the following method: Whenever you perceive the horse's inclination to rear, separate your reins and prepare for him. The instant he is about to rise, slacken one hand and bend or twist his head with the other, keeping your hands low. This bending compels him to move a hind leg, and of necessity brings his fore-feet down. Instantly twist him completely round two or three times, which will confuse him very much, and completely throw him off his guard. The moment you have finished twisting him round, place his head in the direction you wish him to proceed, apply the spurs, and he will not fail to go forward; if the situation be convenient, press him into a gallop, and apply the spurs and whip two or three times severely. The horse will not perhaps be quite satisfied with the first defeat, but may feel disposed to try again for the mastery. Should this be the case, you have only to twist him &c. as before, and

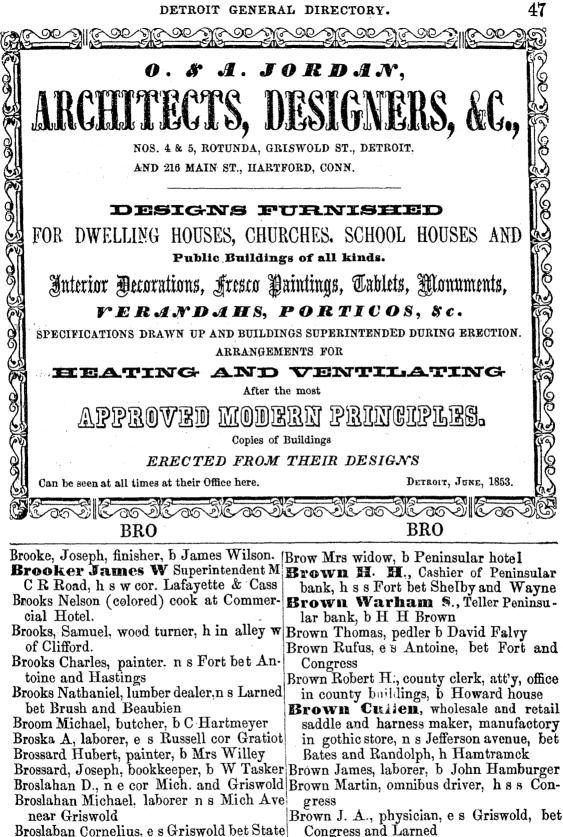

ODD FELLOWS.--A lodge of Odd Fellows being established at Norwich, England, and at a public dinner of the members in that city, the chairman said, in Bradford there were upwards of 2200 members, who paid annually, on an average, about £200 for the interment of their brethren and their wives; for the relief of the sick, and in charitable donations for the benefit of the distressed, about £700. In Leeds, there were 5000 members, who paid nearly £300 a-year for the same benevolent purposes. In the whole unity of England and Wales they had about 80,000 members, who expended annually at least £60,-000 in relieving others in time of distress

COWARDS.--No persons suffer more than cowards. If they are necessitated to go to battle. and desirous to pass for men of some courage, it is not to be imagined what they suffer. Foremost in flight, last in battle, they are racked between fear and shame, and though they should speak like courageous men, yet they see that they are not believed, and are often in danger of being kicked even by cowards.

you will find that in the second struggle he will be much more easily subdued than on the former occasion—in fact, you will perceive him quail under the operation. It rarely happens that a rearing horse, after having been treated in the way described, will resort to his tricks a third time.

INGENIOUS ORTHOGRAPHY.—A gentleman of the Temple received his laundress's weekly account the other day, made out in the style of spelling and handwriting peculiar to the sisters of the suds: but there was one charge of 1s. 6d. for "skewering the stars," which defied even his practised comprehension. After wondering for some time how such a work could even have been performed, and still more, why it should have been executed particularly at his expense, the debtor sent for Mrs. Pearlash, when the reading turned out to be, "for scouring the stairs."

INEXPERIENCE OF YOUTH.—The excesses of our youth are drafts upon our age, payable with interest some five and twenty years after.

COVETOUSNESS.—There is not a vice which more effectually contracts and deadens the feelings which more completely makes a man's affections centre in himself, and excludes all others from partaking in them, than the desire of accumulating possessions. When the desire has once gotten hold of the heart, it shuts out all other considerations but such as may promote its views. In its zeal for the attainment of its end, it is not delicate in the choice of means. As it closes the heart, so also it clouds the understanding It cannot discern between right and wrong; it takes evil for good, and good for evil; it calls dark ness light, and light darkness. Beware, then, of the beginnings of covetousness; for you know not where they will end.

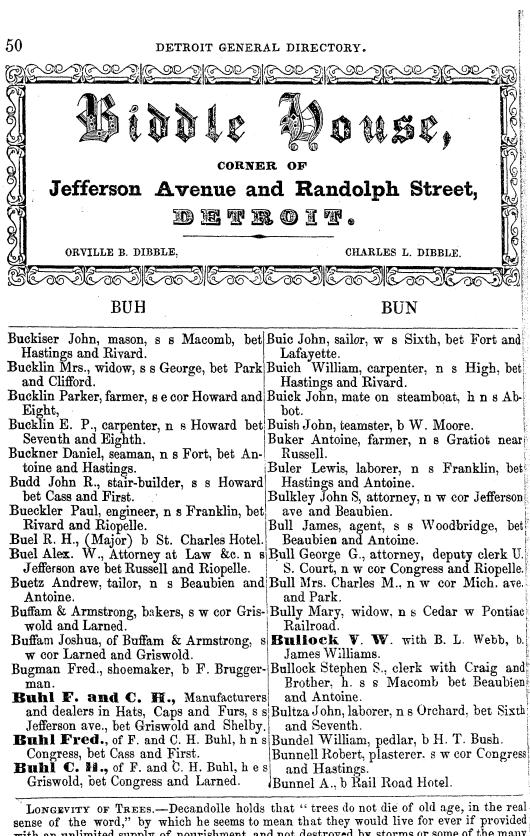

CHOICE OF COMPANY.—Be very circumspect in the choice of thy company. In the society of thine equals thou shalt enjoy more pleasure; in the society of thy superiors thou shalt find more profit; to be the best in the company is the way to grow worse: the best means to grow better is to be the worst there.

A SLIGHT DIFFERENCE.--A St. Louis paper says, that the anthracite coal, found lately in Missouri, looks like coal, feels like coal, and smells like coal--all the difference is that coal burns, but that will not.

LONGEVITY OF TREES.—Decandone holds that " trees do not the of our age, in the real sense of the word," by which he seems to mean that they would live for ever if provided with an unlimited supply of nourishment, and not destroyed by storms or some of the many accidents which trees are subject to. The baobab tree, according to Adanson's ingenious computation, might be 5000 years old, but it grows in climes unlike ours, where it escapes the hurtful vicissitudes of frost and heat. In our own country there are oaks, elms, and yews, still flourishing in all the pride of the forest, which probably have been the contemporaries of David and Solomon. Decandolle thinks that the yews of Fountains Abbey, near Ripon, may have stood 1200 years; those of Crowhurst churchyard, in Surrey, 1450; the yew of Fortingal, at the entrance of Glenlynon, Perth, 2500; and that in Braburn churchyard, Kent, 3000. These are startling statements, but they proceed from a high authority. and are based on observations that entitle them to respect.

BARK.—An Indian, in a delirious fever, having been left by his companions by the side of a river, for the purpose of quenching his thirst, conceiving him incurable, drank large and copious draughts of the stream, which, having imbibed the virtues of the bark from the trees which grew upon its margin, soon vanquished the fever, and he returned to his astonished friends perfectly restored. The singularity of the circumstance excited their surprise, and waked their superstition; the indisposed crowded round the holy stream, as they termed it, and experienced its healing effects, without being able to discover the cause from which it was derived. The sages of the tribes, however, found out, at length, in what it consisted, and disclosed the important secret. In the year 1640, the Americans became acquainted with the use of this excellent medicine; and in 1649 its fame had extended into Spain, Italy, and Rome, through the representation of Cardinal Lugo, and other Jesuits, who had beheld its surprising and wonderful effects.

INDIAN CANNON.—At Kubberpore na Jeal, in India, there is a cannon two hundred and thirteen inches long, sixty-six inches round the muzzle, and eighteen inches round the calibre. It has five, and had originally six equdistant rings, by which it was lifted up. This gun is called by the natives Jaun Kushall, or the destroyer of life, and its casting and position are attributed to the doosas or divinities, although its almost obliterated Persian inscriptions declare its formation by human means. But what is most extraordinary about it is, that two peepul trees have grown both cannon and carriage into themselves. Fragments of the iron, a spring, one of the linches, and part of the woodwork, protrude from between the roots and bodies of these trees, but the trees alone entirely support the gun, one of the rings of which, and half of its whole length, are completely hid between and inside their bark and trunks. A more curious sight, or a cannon more firmly fixed, though by the mere gradual growth of two trees, cannot well be imagined. The Indians assert that it was only once fired, and sent the ball twenty-four miles !!

UNCOMMON GOOD SHOT.—The late Sheridan was more celebrated in the senate than in the field. It chanced that he once paid a visit to an old sportsman, and in order to avoid the imputation of being a downright ignoramus, took a gun, and at the dawn of day went in pursuit of game. He was accompanied by a gamekeeper, a true Pat, who lost no opportunity of praising Sheridan's prowess. The first covey rose within a few yards of the statesman's nose, who waited until they were out of "harm's way" before he fired. Pat immediately observed, "I see you know what a gun is; it's well you wasn't nearer, or them chaps would be sorry you ever came into the country." Sheridan's second shot was not more successful. "Oh!" cried Pat, "what an escape. I'll be bound you rumpled some of their feathers." The third shot was as little effective as the former. "Hah!" exclaimed the Irishman, although astonished at so palpable a miss, "I'll lay a thirteener you don't come near us to-day. Master was too near you to be pleasant." On they went without a bird in the bag; at last, on their return home, Sheridan perceived a covey, and unwilling MEDICAL WATERS.--In 1728, in the time of Law, the most famous of quacks of the first class, another, named Villiers, confided to some friends that his uncle, who had lived nearly to the age of one hundred, and who was then killed by an accident, had left him the secret of a water which could easily prolong life to the age of a hundred and fifty, provided sobriety was attended to. When a funeral passed, he affected to shrag up his shoulders in pity. His friends, to whom he generously imparted it, and who attended a little to the regimen prescribed, found themselves well, and cried it up. He then sold it for six francs the bottle, and the sale was prodigious. It was the water of the Seine, impregnated with a small quantity of nitre; and those who took it and confined themselves a little to the regimen, but above all, those who were born with a good constitution, in a short time recovered perfect health. He said to others, "It is your own fault if you are not perfectly.

hundred and fifty years at least." Several did so, and the fortune of this good quack augmented with his reputation. The Abbe de Pons ranked him much above his namesake Marshal Villars: "He caused the death of men," he observed to him, "whereas you make men live." It being at last discovered that the water of Villiers was only river water, people took no more of it, and resorted to other quacks in lieu of him. It is certain that he did much good, and he could only be accused of selling the Seine water too dear.

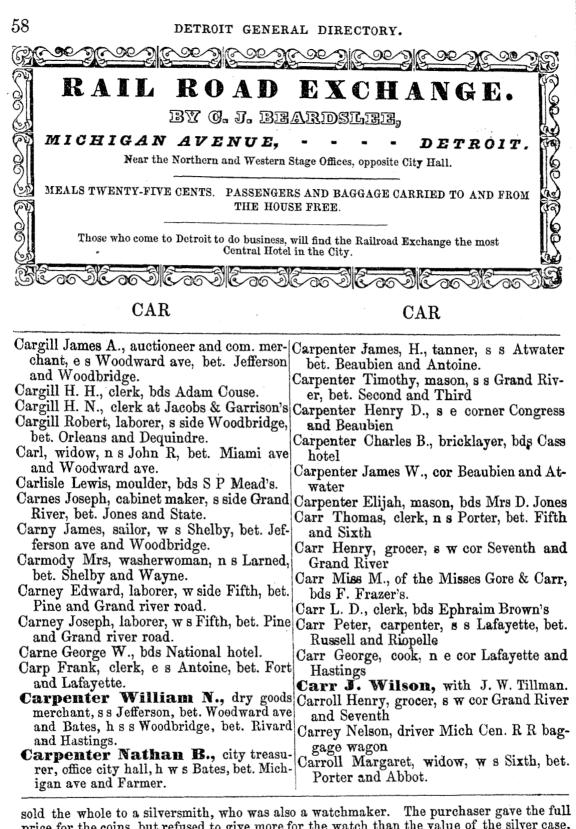

MILTON'S WATCH .- A poor family in England received a box from America as part of the effects of an aged relative whose ancestors had emigrated to that country soon after the time of the Commonwealth : the box contained several coins of the reigns of Elizabeth, James, and Charles I., and a few of the Protectorate, but none of a later date. With the coins there was an old watch, and the family to whom the bequest came being indigent, sold the whole to a silversmith, who was also a watchmaker. The purchaser gave the full price for the coins, but refused to give more for the watch than the value of the silver case, 2s. 9d. The works, with the face on (which looked like iron,) were left in a drawer frequently opened. After a while the friction on the face showed it to be silver, with an inscription on it. This being deciphered by clearing the metal, was found to be "Johanni Miltono, 1621," and contained also the name of the maker, a person in Pope's Head-alley, London, whose name appears in the tables of the Watchmakers' Company for that period. The watch is well made for the time, and would seem an appropriate present for a young gentleman on entering life. The present possessor had it as a token of gratitude for some former favor from the silversmith, and the relic has become an object of inquiry for purchase at a considerable price for the British Museum.

SIR WALTR SCOTT. — It is related of Sir Walter Scott, that when in health he never refused to see any one, however humble, who called upon him; and that he scarcely ever received a letter which he did not answer by his own hand.

He had, at this moment, put his feet from under the blankets, with the intention of leaping down on the floor; but finding no descent, he stretched forth his hand in quest of the stock, till he reached the side wall of his dormitory, where, after groping some time, he made assurance doubly sure, that he had got to the wall instead of the stock; of course, he could not be mistaken by taking an opposite direction, and the door of the room being open, he quietly drew himself into the lobby. "Ta ped's praider nor she's lang, surely," murmured Donald, as he trailed along his legs. One heel at length overhung the stairhead, which had no railing, and he made sure of getting, as he thought, out of bed; but although he could not see, he was determined to feel before he leaped. Accordingly, down dropped one leg, and then the other--still no floor! Exasperated, he was resolved to be at

A light being brought, Donald was relieved; when he wound up the adventures of the night with

SILENCE.—I guess, if you were at the factories at Lourk, ur'd show you a wonder—five hundred gals all at work together all in silence! I don't think our great country has such a real natural curiosity as that; I expect the world don't contain the beat of that; for a woman's tongue goes so slick of itself, without water from a stream, and moves so easy on its hinges, that it's no easy matter to put a spring stop on it, I tell you; it comes as natural as drinking mint julep.

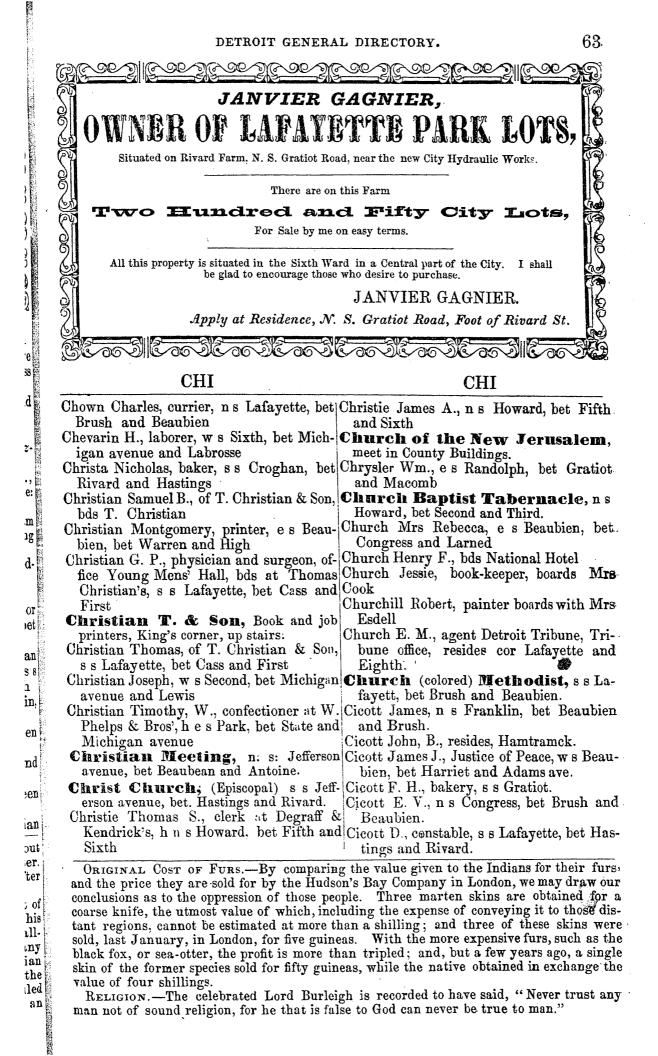

ORIGIN OF PAUL PRY.—In a popular periodical work, some years ago, Mr. Poole, the author of Paul Pry, gave the following account of the origin of that excellent comedy. "An idle old lady, living in a narrow street had passed so much of her time in watching the affairs of her neighbors, that she at length acquired the power of distinguishing the sound of every knocker within hearing. It happened that she fell ill, and was for several days confined to bed. Unable to observe, in person, what was going on without, she stationed her maid at the window, as a substitute for the performance of that duty. But Betty soon grew weary of the occupation. She became careless in her reports, impatient and tetchy when reprimanded for her negligence. 'Betty, what are you thinking about? don't you hear a double knock at No. 9? Who is it?' 'The first-floor lodger, ma'm.' 'Betty !— Betty! I declare I must give you warning. Why don't you tell me what that knock is at No. 54?' ''Why, ma'am, its only the baker with pies.' 'Pies. Betty? what can they want with pies at 54? they had pies yesterday.' Of this very point I have availed myself. Let me add, that Paul Pry was never intended as the representative of any one individual, but a class. I could mention five or six who were unconscious contributors to the character. That it should have been so often, though erroneously, supposed to have been drawn after particular persons, is perhaps complimentary to the general truth of the delineation."

ESCAPE OF NELSON.--In 1781, Captain Nelson was chosen to conduct the naval part of the expedition against San Juan's. Being one day excessively fatigued, he ordered his hammock to be slung under some trees. During his sleep, that extraordinary animal called a monitory lizard (from its reputed faculty of warning persons of the approach of any venomous animal) passed across Nelson's face, which being observed by some of the Indian itinerants, they shouted and awoke him. He immediately started up, and throwing off the quilt, found one of the most venomous of the innumerable serpents in the country coiled up at his feet. From this remarkable escape, the Indians who attended entertained an idea that Nelson was a superior being.

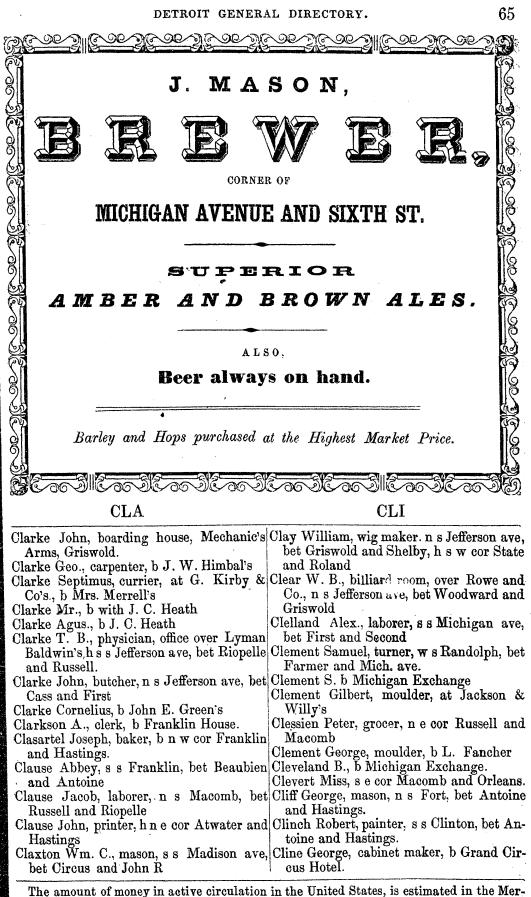

POLITICIANS.—A prudent man will be cautious of embroiling the public, because he knows its hazard; an honest man, because he knows its criminality; a wise man, because he knows his own ignorance; a pious man, because he knows the infirmity of human passions; a man of feeling, because he knows the atrocities of unbridled human nature. But the rash, the empty, the ignorant, and the vain, are the ready-made luminaries of kings, parliaments, and people.

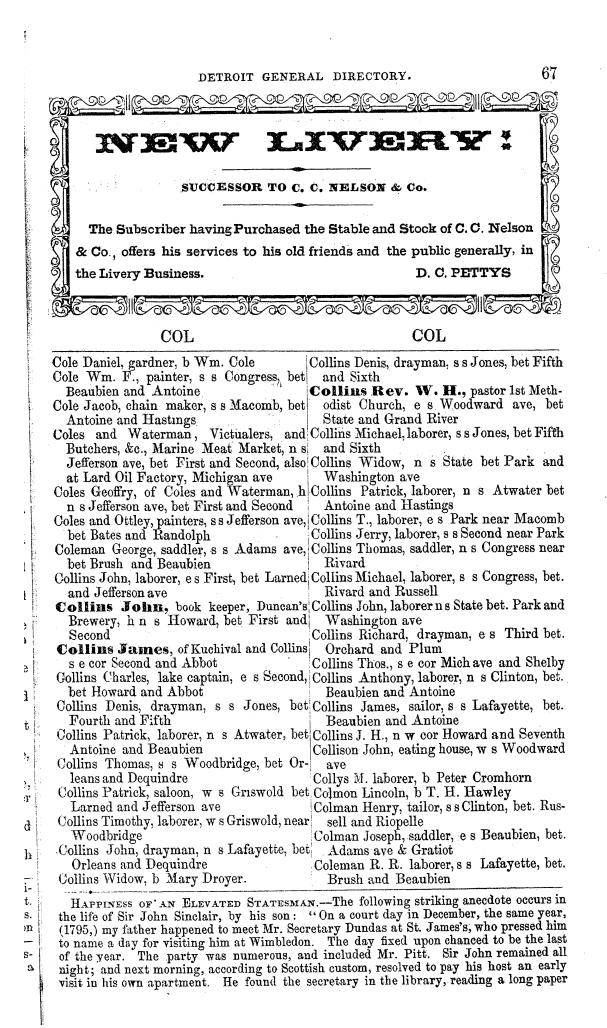

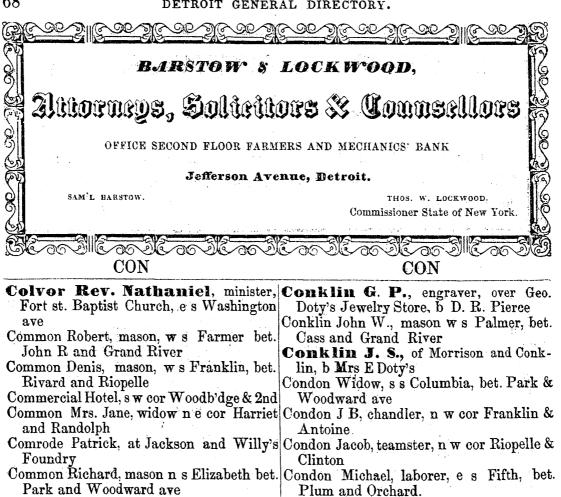

The amount of money in active circulation in the United States, is estimated in the Merchant's Magazine, at $297,475,357, which, reckoning the population at 35,000,000, would *make $12 per head. It was $11 in 1816--25, and but $5,50 in 1830.

on the importance of conquering the Cape, as an additional security to our Indian possessions. His guest shook him by the hand, adding the usual congratulations, 'I come, my friend, to wish you a good new year, and may happy returns of the season.' The secretary, after a short pause, replied, with some emotion, 'I hope this year will be happier than the last; for I scarcely recollect having spent one happy day in the whole of it.' This confession, coming from an individual whose whole life hitherto had been a series of triumphs, and who appeared to stand secure upon the summit of political ambition, was often dwelt upon by my father, as exemplifying the vanity of human wishes."

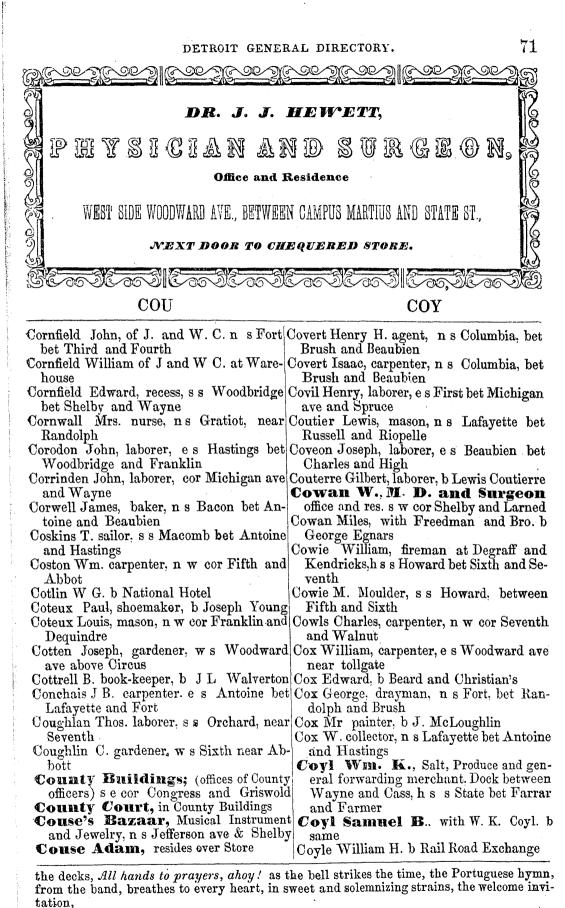

THE TARTAR OF THE TEETH.—It is said to have been lately ascertained, by microscopic examination, that the tartar, or crust upon teeth, is produced in the same manner as coral, by animalculæ resembling the Madrepora soulata. After the tartar, which, like coral, is a mere nidus, adheres firmly to the teeth, the animalculæ, by insinuating themselves between the teeth and the gum, occasion disease to both; but the secretion from them is often so offensive as to contaminate the breath.

LACONIC.--- No man lives too long, who lives to do with spirit, and to suffer with resignation, what Providence pleases to command or inflict.

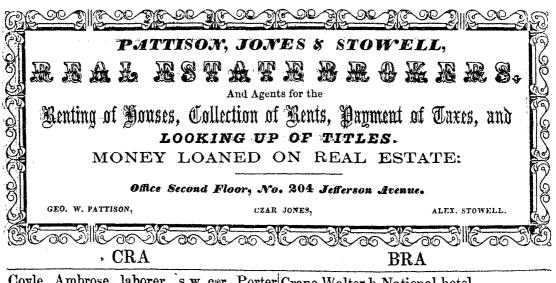

PRAYERS AT SEA.—We were now sixteen days from Callao (says Stewart in his visit to the South Seas,) without any incident worthy of notice. Having run the whole distance in the full strength of the southeast trade winds, and directly in their course, we have had a breeze unceasingly fresh and fair, with all the inconvenience of rolling so heavily before it, as to have been denied, to a great degree, every profitable occupation of time, even that of reading with comfort. Yesterday was our sabbath. The only difference in the mode of performing religious service here, and on board the Guerriere, is in the signal used in assembling the crew. Instead of the boatswain's pipe, followed by the hoarse call around

"O, come and let us worship," while, from all parts of the ship, we silently obey its impressive call. My desk is the capstan spread with the American ensign, beside which I stand mounted on a shot-box, to secure the elevation of a foot or two above my audience. 72

PLANTING TREES IN ENGLAND.—He who plants trees upon his paternal estate, repays a debt to his posterity which he owes to his ancestors. A gentleman whose lands were more extensive than fertile, used to plant 1000 trees, on the birth of every daughter, upon his waste grounds, which were on an average worth one pound each on her coming of age; thus enabling him to give her a fortune of £1000, without any extraordinary economy on his part.

ANECDOTE OF GEORGB II.—When his majesty George II. was once on a sea excursion, there appeared signs of an approaching storm. The noise occasioned on deck by the preparations to meet it, called his majesty from below to inquire into the cause. On being informed that they were "preparing for a storm," his majesty's instant commands were, "Double my guards."

Dr. Cox, speaking of persons who profess to do a great deal for religion, without really possessing any, says they resemble Noah's carpenters, who built a ship in which other people were saved, though they were drowned themselves.

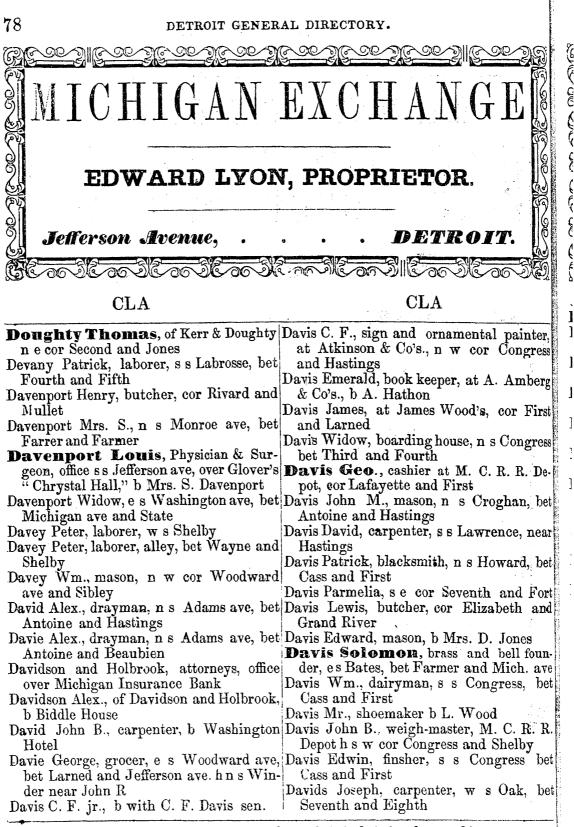

ANECDOTE OF PERCY B. SHELLEY.-Shelly had a pleasure in making paper dotts, and floating them on the water. The New Monthly has the following curious anecdote on this subject: So long as his paper lasted, he remained riveted to the spot, fascinated by this peculiar amusement; all waste paper was rapidly consumed, then the covers of letters, next letters of little value; the most precious contributions of the most esteemed correspondents, although eyed wistfully many times, and often returned to the pocket, were sure to be sent at last in pursuit of the former squadrons. Of the portable volumes which were the companions of his rambles, and he seldom went out without a book, the fly leaves were commonly wanting — he had applied them as our ancestor Noah applied Gopher wood; but learning was so sacred in his eyes, that he never trespassed further upon the integrity of

A woman, twenty-eight years of age, who had never before left her village, or heard a concert, was present at a three days' fete in 1884, and dancing was carried on to the sounds of a brilliant orchestra. She entered into the amusement with ardor, and was delighted; but the fete once finished she could not get rid of the impression which the music had made upon her. Whether she ate, drank, walked, sat still, lay down, was occupied or unoccupied, the different airs she had heard were always present, succeeding each other in the same order as that in which they were executed. Sleep was out of the question, and the whole body being deranged in consequence of this, medical art was called in, but nothing availed, and in six months the person died without having for one moment lost the strange sensation. Even in her last moments she heard the first violin give some discordant uotes, when, holding her head with both hands, she cried "O what a false note, it tears my head." We have heard of another instance of this in an aged person, who, from the year 1829, had the greatest difficulty in going to sleep, because he every evening feels an irresistible desire to hear an air which belongs to the mountains of Auvergne. He has tried reading aloud, thinking deeply, and several other means to get rid of it, but it is of no use, he is invariably forced, mechanically, to utter the words in the idiom of Auvergne. We ourselves have seen the most alarming effects produced upon children by music to which they were unaccustomed, and fevers ensue in consequence.

LIABILITY FOR WIFE'S DEBTS. — In a case which was argued three times in the Court of , King's Bench, and the judges being divided, was adjourned to the Exchequel, nine of the judges held that a husband was not liable for the necessaries furnished to a wife during a reseparation without his consent, having given the plaintiff notice not to trust her, and notwithstanding that he did not allow her any maintenance. A tradesman supplying a wife with goods unsuitable to her station in life, without any authority from her husband, doesso at his own risk. In an action for wearing apparel supplied to a married woman, without the husband's knowledge, and which she had received in quantities unsuited to her

- rank, the husband was found not liable; and it was held to be unnecessary to prove that the wearing apparel was not required by the wife, in consequence of her being supplied with proper clothing from another quarter. These seem to be the cases which would apply to persons in the middle ranks of society, and it would appear that in all these (with the exception above mentioned) the husband was absolutely absolved from the claims of those who had trusted his wife, without being compelled either to give general or particular notice to tradesmen. It may perhaps seem unjust to fix a tradesman, who has supplied a woman he knows to be married, and who has before traded with him, with a knowledge of facts which it is very improbable he could be acquainted with; but it must be recollected that in every case it is the duty of tradesmen to make cautious inquiry as to the situation, capabilities, and liabilities of the fair one he may be induced to trust, as he could not recover from the husband beyond the extent to which a proper investigation would have shown him to be liable.

How TO DRY PEACHES.—Take those of the best quality, just as they are ripe enough to eat, halve them, remove the stones, and sprinkle over them, in the hollow from which the pit was taken, a httle nice sugar, dry them on a brick oven, after the bread is withdrawn. They are far better than if dried in the sun, retaining their aroma and flavor, besides are totally free from insects. Prepared in this way from peaches fully ripe, they need no cooking, but are simply soaked in cold water. All the sugar they require, ranging of course with the variety, is added while drying, Peaches thus dried and prepared, are only inferior to the fresh fruit, of which they retain the flavor in a remarkable degree.

ENTERPRISE — Perhaps no stronger evidence can be adduced of the intrinsic value and unrivalled usefulness of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, than the fact, that in order to supply the demand, the Proprietor has been compelled to build an immense block, occupying a large part of a square on one of our prinicpal thoroughfares, five stories of which is to be occupied by his Laboratory for the preparation of the Cherry Pectoral alone. As this article has now won its way to the public favor solely by its success in curing disease, this fact is some comment on its virtue.

England, by which paper may be watered in a manner to make it very valuable as bonds, checks, &c., or as ornament, and which will prove an extra precaution against forgery.— The process enables portraits, landscapes, or any other subjects to be given with the same effect as in the German porcelain pictures, the graduated thickness of the paper at the various parts of the design creating, when it is held to the light, the requisite effects of the light and shade. It was invented by the late engineer of the bank of England, and much time has since been spent in bringing it to perfection for practical purposes.

GREAT FEAT IN PEGGING SHOES.—A correspondent informs us that two young men in North Danvers, on Thursday of last week, pegged one hundred and sixty pairs of women's spring-heeled shoes—working only ten hours. This, probably, is the greatest performance ever recorded in this line. The names of the parties are Alexander Steele and John J. Bunker. A wager of $25 was depending on the result of the day's work, Bunker being the challenger. Bunker pegged 78 pairs; Steele pegged 82 pairs: Steele averaged a pair in 7 minutes and 19 seconds. There were about 125 pegs in each shoe, or 250 in a DETROIT GENERAL DIRECTORY.

Mr. Peabody, editor of the Soil of the South, mentions a new kind of watermelon, which he calls the orange watermelon, and pronounces it a very singular, beautiful and excellent melon. By cutting into the rind, as you peel an orange, the entire skin peels off, leaving the whole pulp unbroken, which, with care, may be divided into quarters, just as you divide an orange.

72 The Musical World and Times is informed that, at an exhibition given by the fortytwo Choctaw Indians, the other night, they "kindly offered" to give specimens of tomahawking and scalping, if "any lady or gentleman in the audience would step forward."

WISDOM OF SOLOMON.—What is the use of reading the Proverbs of Solomon to our free and enlightened citizens, that are every mite and mortal as wise as he was? That one man undertook to say "there was nothing new under the sun." "I guess he'd think he spoke a little too fast, if he was to see our steamboats, railroads, and India rubber overcoats and shoes, inventions worth more nor all he knew, put in a heap together." A GOOD INDICATION.— Upwards of $6000 worth of village lots, in Lansing, belonging t⁰ the State, have been entered during the past week; this exceeds the amount of simila^r sales for any like period since the location of the Capitol. In addition to this evidence of our prosperity we are happy to add, that the immigration to the surrounding country continues, and large quantities of the fine wild land in this vicinity have lately been purchased for actual settlement and improvement.—State Journal by the following method: In the spring before the circulation, a young seedling cherry tree is split from the upper extremity down to the fork of its roots; then by means of a piece of wood in form of a spatula, the pith is carefully removed from the tree, in such a manner as to avoid any excoriation, or any other injury; a knife is used only for commencing the split. Afterwards the two sections are brought together and tied with woolen, and care taken to close hermetically with clay, the whole of the cleft. The sap soon reunites the separated portions of the tree, and two years afterwards cherries are produced of the usual appearance, but instead of stones there will only be soft pellicks.

CAUTION.— Never enter a sick room in a state of perspiration, as the moment you become cool your pores absorb. Do not approach contagious diseases with an empty stomach, or sit between the sick and the fire, because the heat attracts the thin vapour.

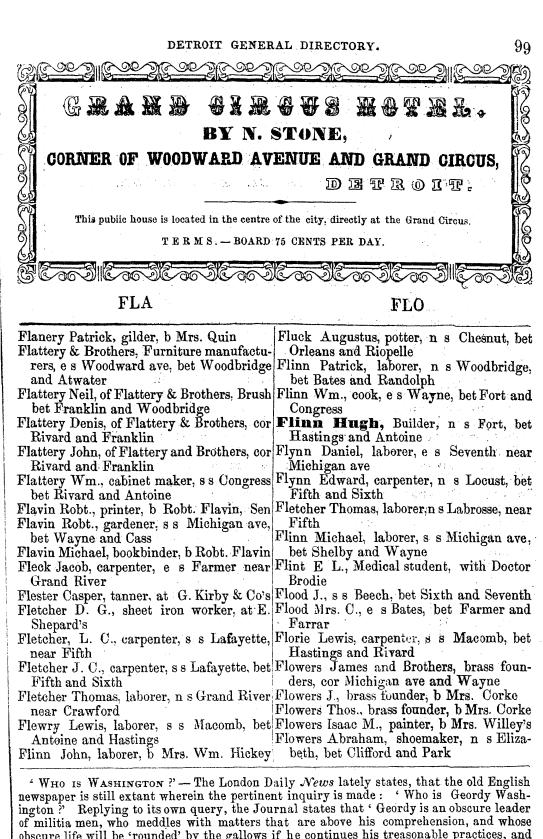

CANNON BALLS. — Previously to 1418, iron balls were not used for cannon, as in that year there is an entry extant for making at Maidstone, in Kent, seven thousand stone bullets for the king's ordnance

However, one soon gets used to this in Paraguay, where you are, per force of custom, obliged to kiss every ady you are introduced to; and one half you meet are really tempting enough to render you reckless of consequences, and you would sip the dew of the proffered lip in the face of a tobacco battery, even the double-distilled "honey-dew" of Old Virginia.

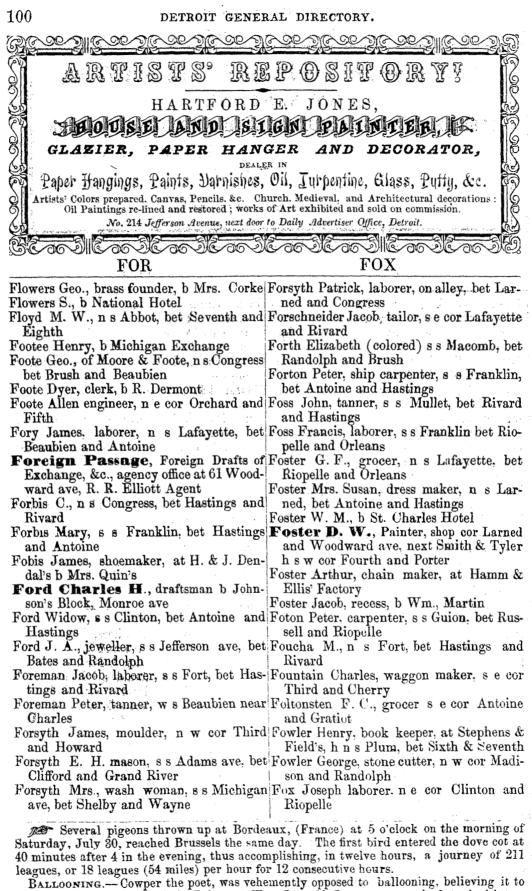

obscure life will be 'rounded' by the gallows if he continues his treasonable practices, and 'provokes his betters too far !' Further, the public is requested to decide his character by the station of his associates, one of whom is spoken of as a 'dirty printer's man, named Benjamin Franklin.' The last young imp installed at our (Detroit Tribune) office, being asked to comment on the above, obliges us to put our fingers in our ears, on his shaking his feathers, and commencing to crow " cook-a-doodle-doo" most lustily.

r f Blackberry cordial is made by adding one pound of sugar to three pounds of ripe blackberries, allowing them to stand for twelve hours, then press out the juice, strain it, add one-third part of spirits, and put a teaspoon full of finely pulverized allspice in every part of the cordial, and it is at once fit for use.

BALLOONING. — Cowper the poet, was venemently opposed to ballooning, believing it to be a sinful attempt to rival the Deity. "Were I," said Cowper. "an absolute legislator, I would make it death for a man to be convicted of flying, the moment he could be caught;

YANKEE DOODLE.-The national air of the United States was composed a hundred years ago by Dr. Shackburg, a physician of the British army, at the time the British ministry made overtures to reduce the French power in Canada, and the colonists were called upon for assistance, who with alacrity rendered a faithful service. The British army lay encamped a little south of the city of Albany, and in the early part of June 1753, the eastern troops began to pour in. Their march, their accoutrements, and the whole arrangement of their troops furnished matter of amusement to the British. Then it was that the Doctor composed the tune, and recommended it to the officers as a celebrated air. The joke took and in a few days nothing was heard in the provinical camp but Yankee Doodle.

KNOWLEDGE OF THE WORLD.— If you want to know how to act at any time Squire, never go to books, leave them to galls and school-boys: but go right off and cipher it out of natur, that's a sure guide, it will never deceive you, you may depend.

CONSUMPTION. — Dr. Beddoes remarks that pulmonary consumption is rarely or never known to occur in a butcher's family; and the reason he assigns for this is, that they have always plenty of animal food. DETROIT GENERAL DIRECTORY.

THE BALLOT SYSTEM IN MISSOURI TO	guard against fraudulent voting in Missouri,

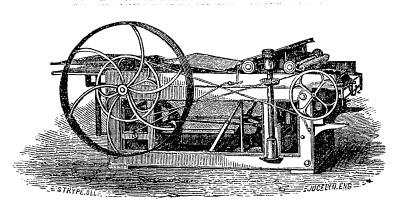

THE BALLOT SYSTEM IN MISSOURI.— To guard against fraudulent voting in Missouri, the election law provides that the number placed opposite each man's name, when he votes, must also he put on his ballot before it is deposited in the box. By this means the vote of every man can be ascertained after the election is over. Or if after the votes are counted the number of ballots should not correspond with the number of names registered, the error can be easily corrected by comparing the numbers on the ballots with the numbers. on the register.

OFFICE IN THE

ADVERTISER BUILDING, 212 JEFFERSON AVENUE,

DETROIT.

THE TWELFTH VOLUME of the Michigan Farmer will commence with the January number, for 1854.

The Michigan Farmer presents facilities for advertising all business connected with the pursuits it advocates, which are not excelled in the State. It now reaches 7000 families within the borders of Michigan, and a large number in neighboring States.

The terms of the Michigan Farmer are as follows :

For any number of copies not exceeding FOUR, - - #1.00 each. For a club of any number from FIVE to TEN copies, - - 80 cts. each. For clubs of any number not less than TEN, - - 75 cts. each.

All letters to be addressed to JOHNSTONE & DUNCKLEE, Detroit, Mich., (post-paid.)

ADVERTISEMENTS.

All advertisements for the FARMER must be sent forward so as to reach us by the 20th of each month.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

For one square of ten lines, single) ins	sertion,	-	-		-	-	•	$1.25
For each subsequent insertion,	•		•	-	-		•	-	1.00

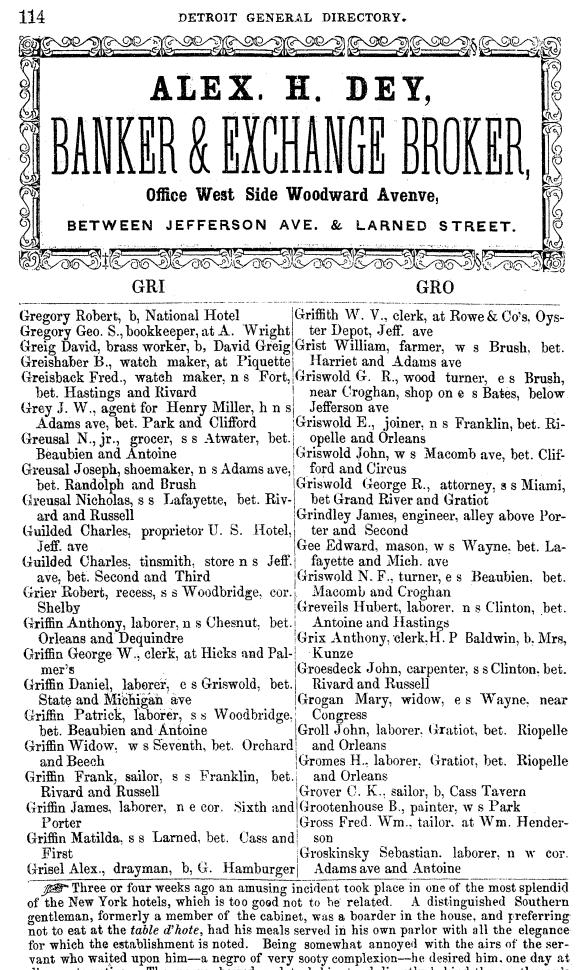

For advertisements making more than one square, and for a period of over three months, our terms will be liberal, considering the superior advantages THE MICHI-GAN FARMER offers by its extensive circulation, which, we are happy to say, keeps increasing.

JOHNSTONE & DUNCKLEE.

BLACKBERRY WINE.—All housewives are well acquainted with the medical effect of the blackberry. As the season of bowel complaint approaches, we give the following recipes for blackberry wine and cordial.

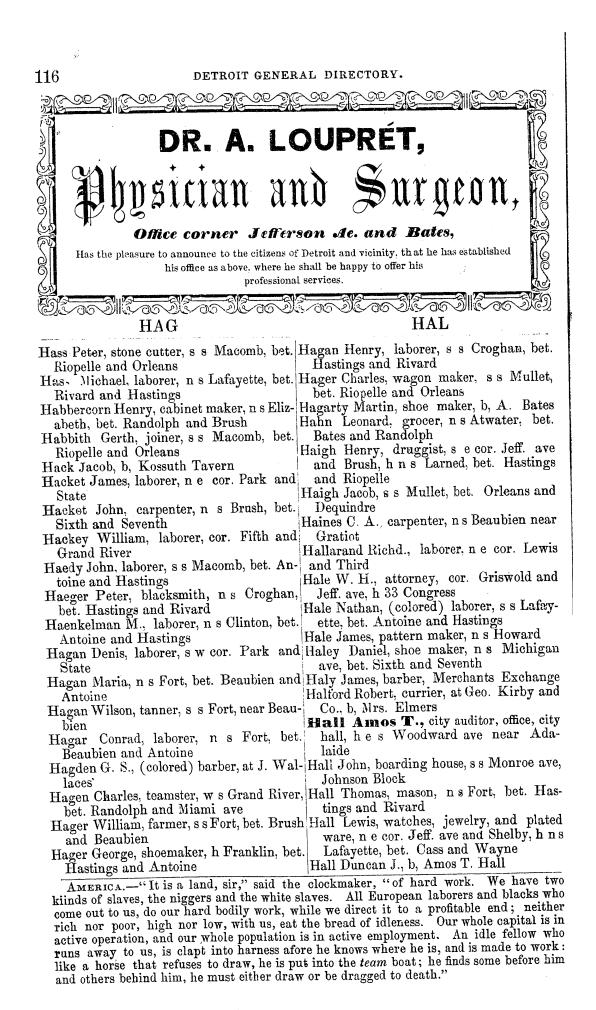

To make a wine equal in value to port, take ripe blackberries, or dewberries, and press them, let the juice stand thirty-six hours to ferment, skim off whatever rises to the top, and then to every gallon of the juice add a quart of water and three pounds of sugar, brown sugar will do, let it stand in open vessels for twenty-four hours, skim and strain it, and then barrel it until March, when it should be carefully racked off and bottled.

WONDERS OF CHEMISTRY .- Aquafortis and the air which we breathe are composed of the same materials. Linen, sugar, and spirits of wine, are so much alike in their chemical composition, that an old shirt can be converted into its own weight in sugar, and the sugar into spirits of wine. Water is composed of two substances, one of which is the cause of almost all combustion or burning, and the other will burn with more rapidity than almost anything in nature. The famous Peruvian bark, so much used to strengthen stomachs, and the poisonous principle of opium, are formed of the same materials.

WILKES.—At the period of Wilkes' popularity, every wall bore his name, and every window his portrait. In china, in bronze, or in marble, he stood upon the chimney pieces of half the houses in the metropolis; he swuug upon the sign-post of every village, of every great road throughout the country. He used himself to tell, with great glee, of a monarchial old lady, behind whom he accidentally walked, looking up and murmuring, within his hearing, in much spleen, "He swings everywhere but where he ought." Wilkes passed her, and, turning round, politely bowed.

LITERARY ACQUIREMENTS .- Lieut.-General Sir George Murray served in the expedition to Egypt, and when before Alexandria, the troops having suffered severely from want of water, his literary acquirements were of the greatest service, instructing him that Cæsar's army had suffered from the same cause, and in very nearly the same place. Referring to his Cæsar, which he always carried in his travelling portable library, he found his recollection right, and that water had been obtained by the Romans from digging wells to a certain depth in the sands. The trial was immediately made, and the result was a most copious supply of that necessary article, which enabled the British troops to hold their ground, and ultimately to triumph.

a first introduction to strangers; and he had also a singular faculty, when in the vein for punning, of throwing a merry conceit even into a monosyllabic exclamation. On one occasion, his friend T——, just as he was about to present him to a circle of new faces, exhorted him to a courageous bearing, concluding with, "Now, you will promise, Lamb, not to make yourself so sheepish as usual?" Charles replied with a rustic air, "Iwool." "The force of punning can no further go," cried his laughing friend. ".Say you so?" stammered Lamb, "Bah!"

BOARD WITHOUT LODGING .- During the hunting season, the Laird of Logan was favored with many visitors. On one occasion a party assembled at his house more numerous than usual, and such as to excite the fears of his housekeeper for accommodation during the night. In this quandary she applied to her master. "Dear me, laird, what am I to do wi' a' that folks? I wonder they hat na mair sense than come trooping here in dizens; there's nae beds in the house for the half o' them !" "Keep yoursel easy, my woman," said the laird, "I'll just fill them a' fou, and they'll fin' beds for themsels."

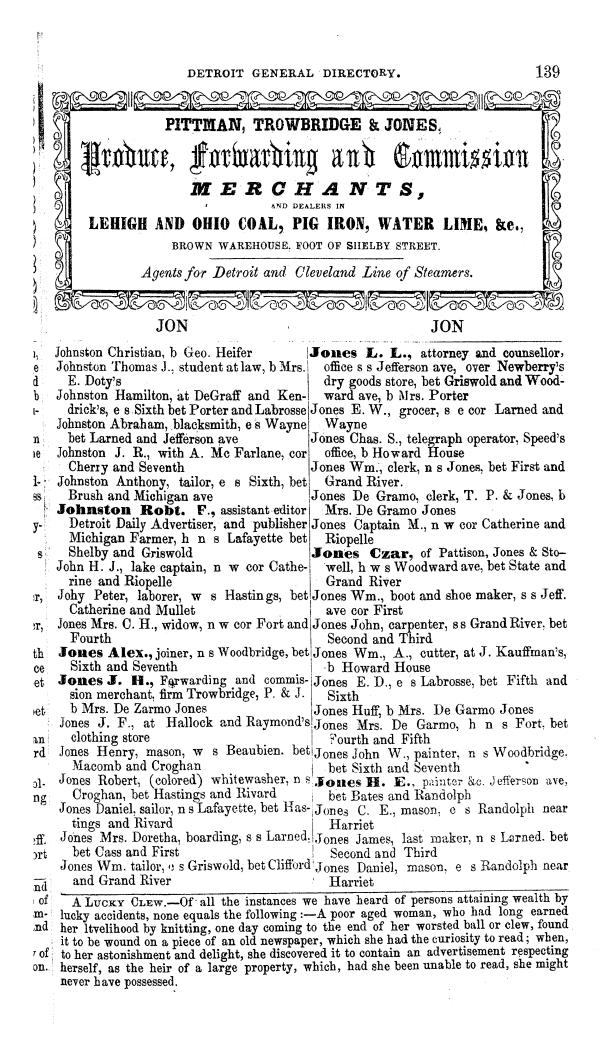

DR. JOHNSON.—When Dr. Johnson courted Mrs. Porter, whom he afterwards married, he told her that he was of mean extraction; that he had no money; and that he had had an uncle hanged. The lady, by way of reducing herself to an equality with the Doctor, replied, that she had no more money than himself, and that though she had not had a relation hanged, she had fifty who deserved hanging. And thus was accomplished this very curious affair.

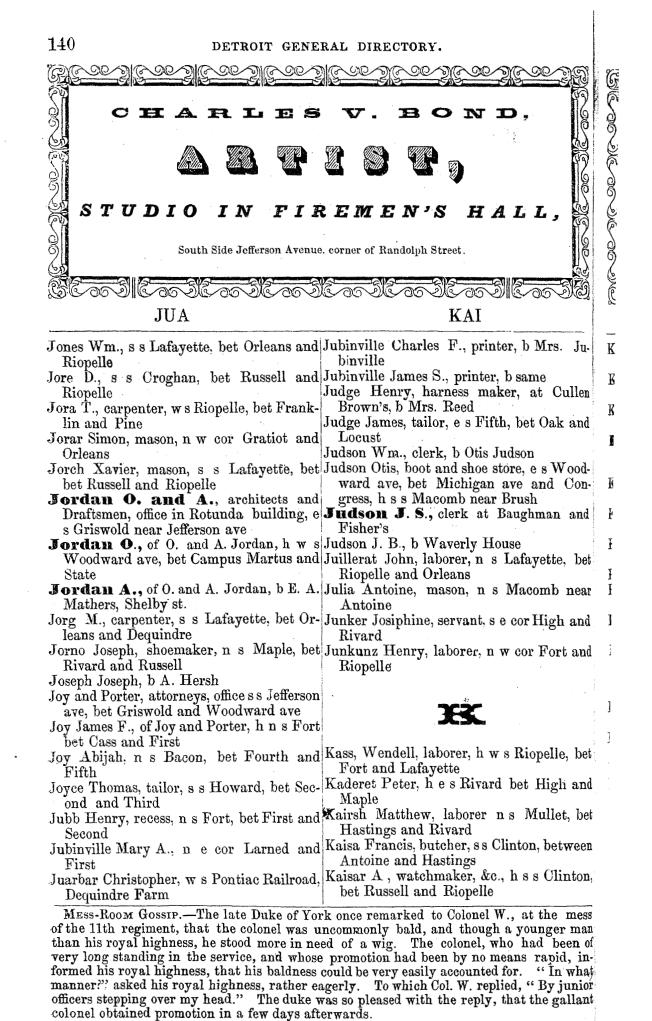

"" "What in the world could you see in Lord A. to marry him?" "Why, I saw a house in town," said the marchioness, " and a box at the opera!"

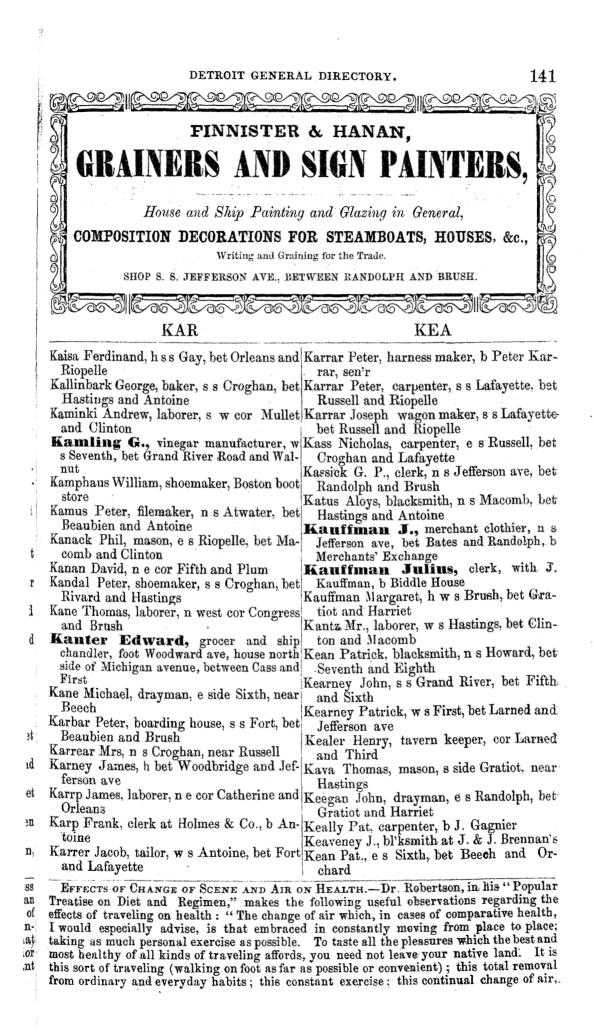

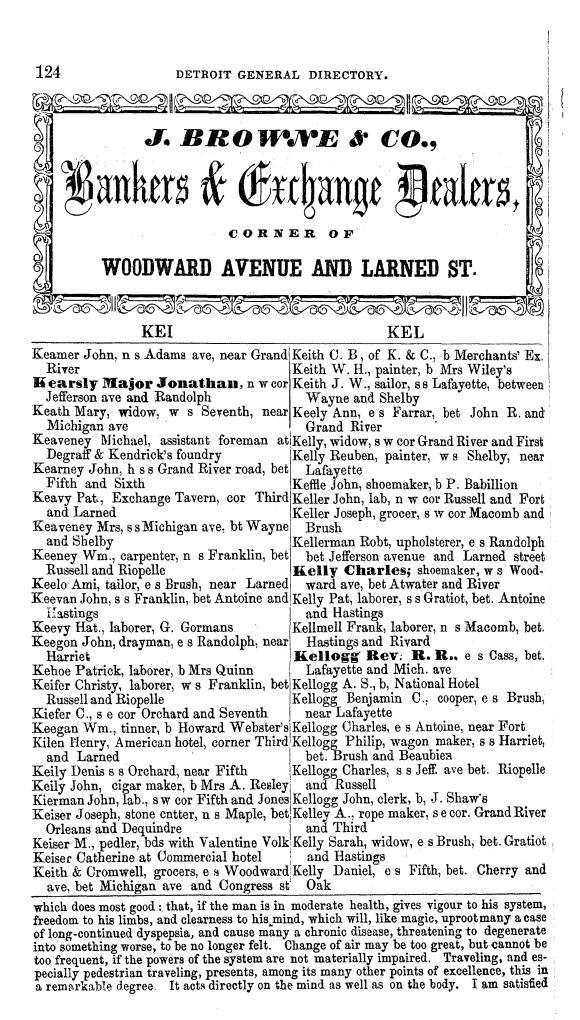

INSPIRATION.—Gluck, the celebrated composer, in order to warm his imagination, and to transport himself to Aulis or Sparta, was accustomed to place himself in the middle of a beautiful meadow. In this situation, with his piano before him, and a bottle of champagne on each side, he wrote in the open air. his two "Iphigenias," his "Orpheus," and other works.

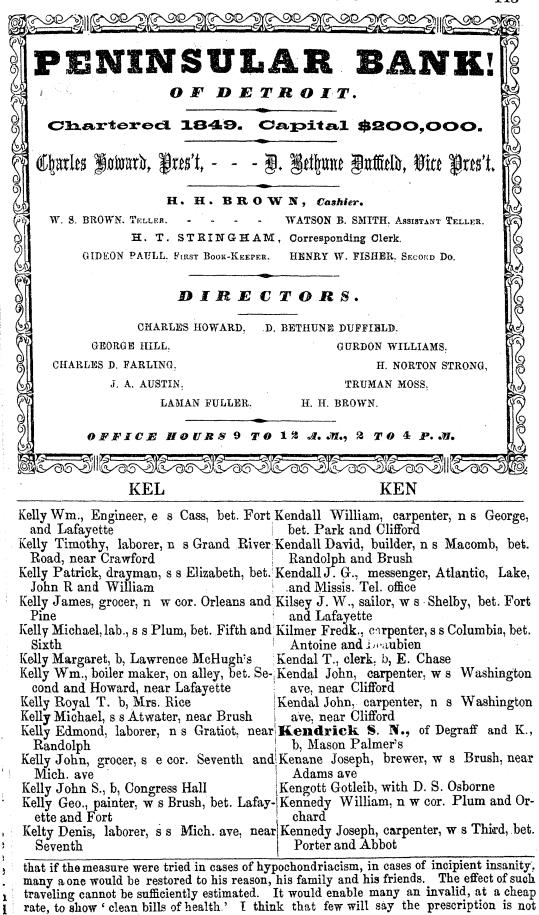

IMAGINARY EVILS.—If we except the blessings of strength, health, and the testimony of a good conscience, all the other conveniences and pleasures of life depend on opinion. Except pain of body and remorse of conscience, all our evils are imaginary.

origin in the most trivial accidents. As some merchants were carrying nitre, they stopped near a river which issues from Mount Carmel, and not happening to find stones for resting their kettles, they substituted in their place some pieces of the nitre, which the fire gradually dissolving, mixed with the sand, and occasioned a transparent matter to flow, which, in fact, was nothing else but glass.

Sam, said a mother to one of her very obedient sons one day, how many logs have you sawed, eh? Why, marm, when I get this and three others done. I'll have four.

A POSER.—A boy once complained of his bed-fellow for taking half the bed—"And why not?" said his mother, he is entitled to half, ain't he ?" "Yes, mother," said the boy— "but how should you like to have him to take out all the soft for his half ?—he will have his half right out of the middle; and I have to sleep both sides of him."

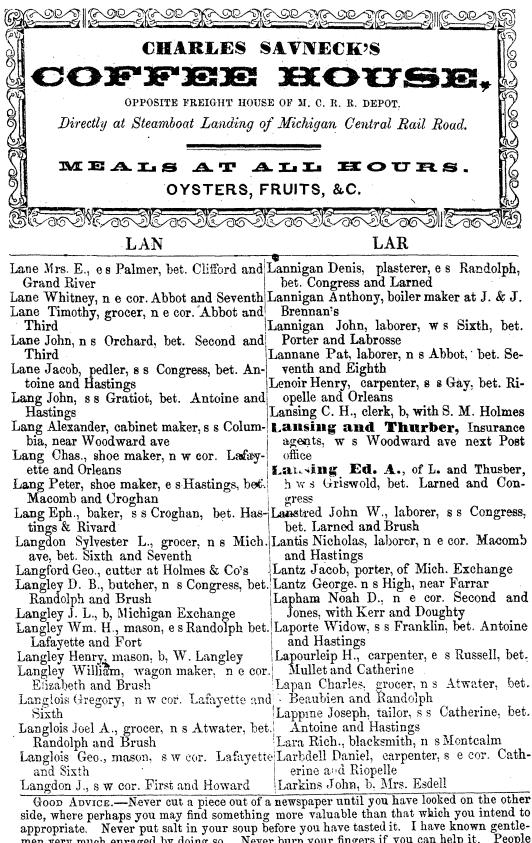

CAUTION TO THE LADIES.—A Mr. Fox, who advertises for a wife, says he is handsome and rich; don't believe him; his handsomeness consists of a turn-up-nose, and his wealth in a turn-up bedstead. Ladies, beware !

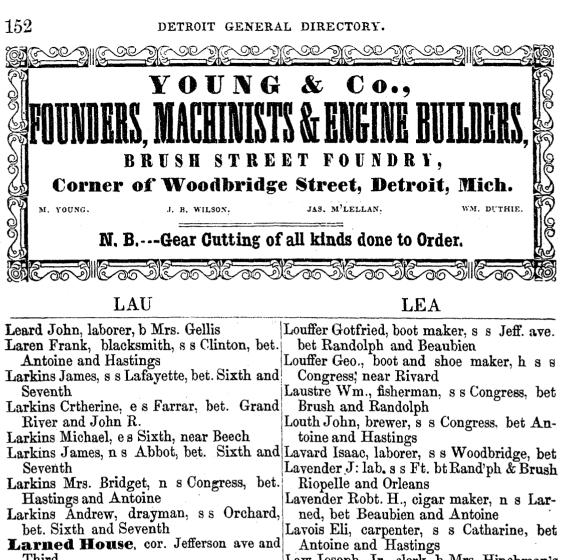

THE SHARK.—The power it possesses of preserving the vital spark, in spire of woulds and mutilation, for so long a time, is most wonderful. I have been at the death of many sharks, and have occasionally been almost induced to believe, in the very teeth of physiological science, that this power of a final effort exists by some law of its mechanism, even after the last spark is gone. In short, I think the evil spirit of a shark, when it quits home, has yet the faculty of leaving its trap set. It dies; but its jaws remain at full-cock. It makes its will and departs, appointing its "fearful and wonderful" construction to be its own executor. Sailors call it a sea-lawyer.

men very much enraged by doing so. Never burn your fingers if you can help it. People burn their fingers every day when they might have escaped if they had been careful. Let no gentleman ever quarrel with a woman. If you are troubled with her, retreat. If she abuse you, be silent. If she tear your cloak, give her your coat. If she box your ears, bow. If she tear your eyes out, feel your way to the door, and—fly.

whatever comes uppermost, and I guess they are pretty considerable superfine fools. SURFLUS POPULATION.—There has been much talk concerning surplus population, but the great difficulty is to decide what is surplus. Perhaps, the readiest way of settling the question would be, to set it down as an admitted fact, that all who stand in our way as rivals or impediments are surplus population.

 H_{UMAN} LIFE — Deduct from the calculation of human life the years of helpless infancy and thoughtless childhood; take from it the years of decrepitude and the days of sickness; think of the hours that are spent in sleep, and the many more that are unprofitably and idly spent—how few are left for the cultivation of the understanding, for the improvement of the heart, and, in one word, for the great purposes for which we are sent into the world.

	gangs during the war, the following is related

PRESS-GANGS.—Of the atrocities of press-gangs during the war, the following is related in the Life of Thelwall: "As a vessel was coming into the port of Poole, the few hands on board saw a press-gang making towards them. The whole of the crew determined to resist. Notwithstanding, the captain of the gang boarded the vessel, and succeeded in conquering the unfortunate seamen. In the struggle two of the seamen were shot dead; upon which the young mate, seeing his men overpowered, wounded, and killed, in a fit of frenzy bared his breast, exclaiming, "You have murdered my companions, murder me also." The ruffan lieutenant took him at his word, and coldly and deliberately levelling his pistol, shot him through the heart.

He has neither reins nor whip, but addressing each horse or mule by its name of Capitana, Juanita, Tomasina, &c. he speaks cheeringly or chidingly, as the case may need. Occasionally he jumps down from the seat, runs by the side of the carriage, and yet con-

HARES AND RABITS.—Hares and rabbits are very affectionate. One of my little girls (observes Capt Marryatt) had one of the latter, which she brought up in the house. He grew very large, and was domesticated just like a dog, following you everywhere, in the parlour and up into the bed-room; in the winter lying on the rug before the fire, on his side, and stretching out his fore legs as unconcerned as possible, even refusing to go away if you pushed him. As for the cat, she dared not go near him. He thrashed her unmercifully, for he was very strong; and the consequence was that she retired to the kitchen, where he would often go down, and if she was in his way, drive her out. One day when I was in the preserves, leaning against a tree, with a gun in my hand, I presume for some time I must have been in deep thought, I thought I heard a rustling and then a squeak on the other side of the tree; I looked round the trunk, and beheld a curious combat between two hares and a stoat. The hares were male and female, and had their leveret between 172

The stoat—a little devil, with all its hair, from the tip of its nose to the end of its tail, standing on end—was at about two yards distance from them, working round and round to have an opportunity to spring upon the leverett, which was the object of its attack. As it went round, so did the hares face him, pivoting on a centre, with the young one between them. They were, like Byron's dogs, too busy to look at me; at last the stoat made a spring upon the leveret. He was

All the actors of the drama having gone off, I walked off, and shortly after both barrels of my gun went off; so the whole party disappeared, and there's an end of my story. A DIFFICULT RETREAT .- Monsieur de Malsaignes was a determined duelist. Having quarreled with a brother officer, they agreed to fight out the dispute in the very room in which it took place, when M. de Malsaigne's adversary managed to run him through the body, and nail him against the door. "It is all very well," said the transfixed duelist, with singular sang froid, " but pray how are you to get out ?"

BROOM CORN AND WEEPING WILLOWS.—In the Mchawk Valley, says the Scientific American, vast quantities of this crop is annually grown. Pennsylvania, Ohio and Connecticut are the next largest producers of it. Its origin as a cultivated plant in this country is attributed to Dr. Franklin. It is a native of India. Franklin saw an imported whisk of corn in the possession of a lady in Philadelphia, and while examining it as a curiosity, found a seed, which he planted, and from this small beginning arose this valuable production of industry in the United States. CONSCIENCE.—A certain great lord, having, by his extravagance, run himself over head and ears in debt, and seeming very little concerned about it, one of his friends told him one day, that he wondered how he could sleep quietly in his bed, whilst he was so much in debt. "For my part," said my lord, "I sleep very well; but I wonder how my creditors can."

INSTINCT.—There is a feeling in nature affecting even the instinct, as it is called, of dumb animals, which teaches them to fly from misfortune. The deer will butt a sick or wounded buck from the herd. Hunt a dog, and the whole kennel willt a lon him and worry him. Fisher devour their own kind, when wounded with a spear, hook, &c. Cut a crow's wing or break his leg, and the others will buffet it to death. By the same rule, let a man be "going down hill," and every body will be disposed to give him a kick.

PRETENCE OF WEALTH.—A very common feeling it is for people to imagine that the community where they live can be deceived by an outward show of property they do not possess. They practise stratagems, and shifts, and assume appearances inconsistent, as they fondly flatter themselves without any possible suspicion on the part of any one, that they have got bonds or mortgages, or at least a most plentiful income at command. Don't such people have any misgivings that their friends and acquaintances know as well as themselves about their real condition? If they would reflect for a moment, they would be convinced when every person's character is appraised and inventoried by the public, or their friends, at pretty nearly its value, the same shrewd porsons would not miss a figure in adding up the schedules of their estates. In truth it happens to him who wants to mystify others in respect to this want of property, as it does to the intemperate man, who thinks the knowledge of his fatal habit is confined to hie own bosom. He is the last to be aware of it.

A Kiss is a dish of Love, eaten with scarlet spoons.-Author unknown.

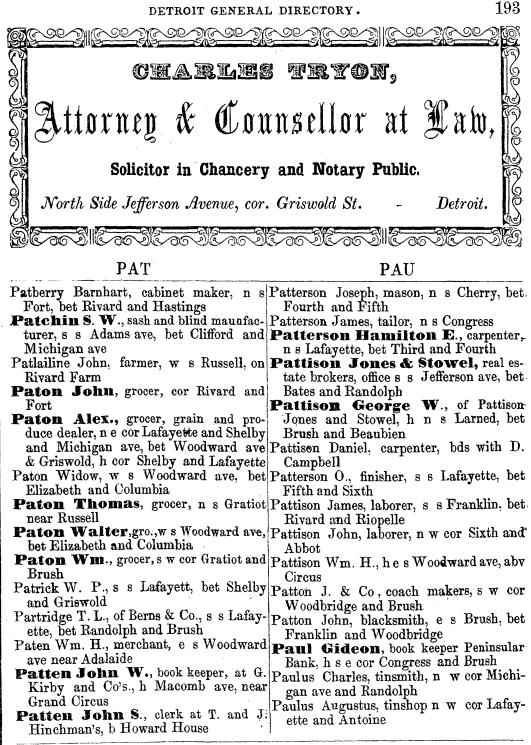

GREEK CUPIDITY.—The desire of appropriating to themselves that which belongs to another, is the ruling passion with the Greeks; and however, in our own and other countries, we have heard of articles of all descriptions being stolen, yet one sort of thieving I never heard of, until I arrived in Greece. A family who had lost one of its members, had ordered the grave to be dug and prepared for the funeral, which was to take place the following morning; but another family, having a similar misfortune, in the course of the night availed themselves of the grave that was ready, thereby saving the expense of having one dug; clapped in their coffin, with its contents, and covered it up, and, as it is not permitted to disinter a body without great difficulties, they kept possession, retaining the full benefit of the theft they had committed.

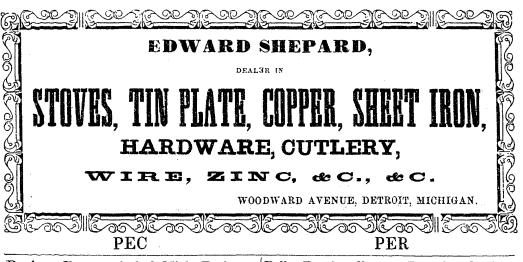

for "The Pleasures of the Imagination," says Addison, "in their most extensive sense, are much inferior to the Pleasures of Hope."

Two WILLS IN ONE BODY.—The Chevalier d'Angnos, a learned astronomer, carefully observed, for several days, a lizard with two heads, and assured himself that this lizard had two wills, independent of each other, and possessing nearly equal power over the body, which was in one. When a piece of bread was presented to the animal, in such a manner that it could see it with one head only, that head wished to go towards the bread, while the other head wished the body to remain still.

INSTINCT OF THE SWALLOW.—A swallow in a gentleman's garden in Northumberland, adopted the following ingenious expedient to procure a foundation for her nest: The corner of the outhouse, which she had fixed on for the purpose, having no ledge or projecting stone to support the superstructure, the little architect was observed to bring clay, with which she formed a ledge or bracket on each wall at a small distance from the corner. She then placed a piece of wood across, the ends resting on the brackets, and on this triangular nook she securely accomplished the object of her labors.

PRUDENT EPITAPH.—On a grave-stone, in the cemetery of Pere-la-Chaise, is the following singularly prudent inscription, which, in its praise of the dead, does not lose sight of the living: "Here lies N—, the best of fathers, the most tender of husbands. His disconsolate widow still keeps the fancy shop, Rue Richelieu, No. —."

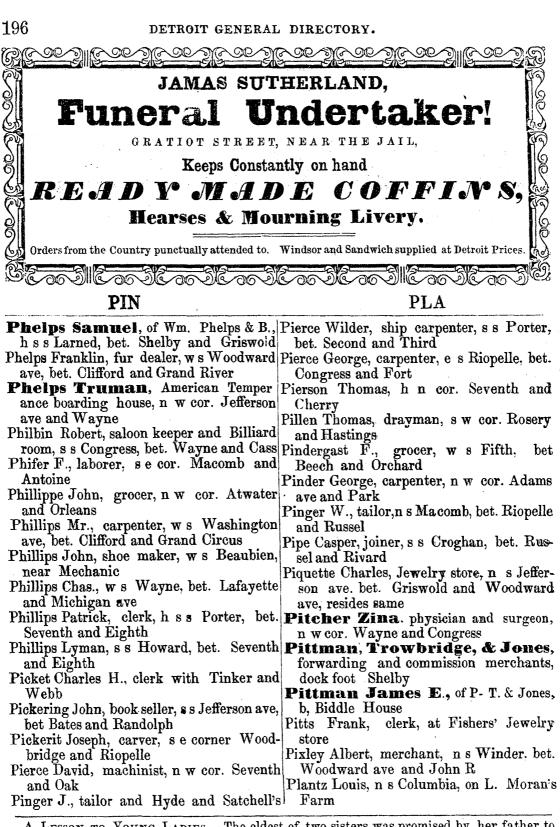

DISCOVERY.—A certain Italian having written a book upon the art of making gold, dedicated it to Pope Leo X. in hopes of a good reward. His holiness finding the man constantly following him, at length gave him a large empty purse, saying, "Sir, since you know how to make gold, you can have no need of any thing but a purse to put it in."

IN A BAD Box.—A man, pretty comfortably drunk, was holding on to a post at Burling Slip, when a friend inquired what was the matter? "Matter, (said the fellow,) I'm in a quandary!" "What do you mean by a quandary?" said his friend. "Why, if I hold on here I shall freeze to death, and if I let go I shall fall into the dock."

WITTY REPLY.—Lord Falkland, the author of the play called "The Marriage Night," was chosen very young to sit in parliament; and when he first entered some of the members opposed his admission, urging "that he had not sowed all his wild oats." "Then," replied he, "it will be the best way to sow them in this house. where there are so many geose to pick them up."

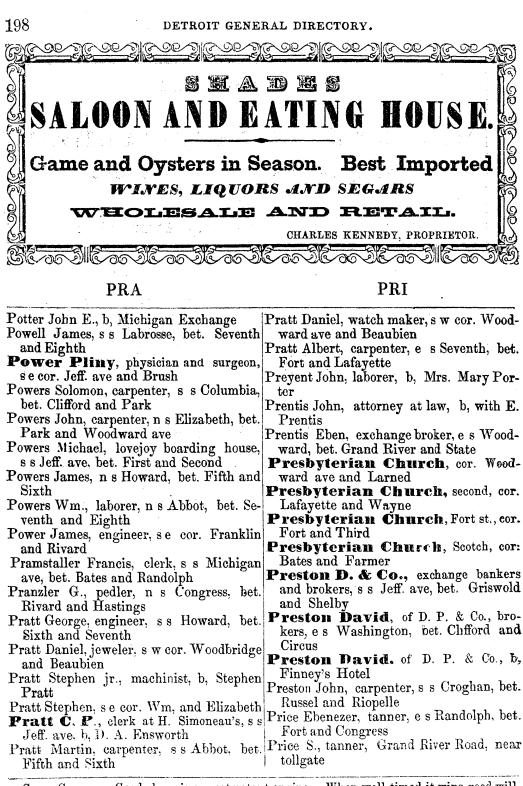

A LESSON TO YOUNG LADIES.—The eldest of two sisters was promised by her father to a young knight possessed of a large estate. The day was appointed for the gentleman to make his visit, he not having as yet seen either of them, and the ladies were informed of his coming, that they might be prepared to receive him. The affianced bride, who was the handsomer of the two, being desirous to show her elegant shape and slender waist to the best advantage, clothed herself in a cotte hardie, which sat very tight and close upon her, without any lining or facing of fur, though it was in winter, and exceedingly cold. The consequence was that she appeared pale and miserable, like one perishing with the severity of the weather ; while her sister, who, regardless of her shape, had attired herself rationally with thick garments lined with fur, looked warm and healthy, and ruddy as a rose. The young knight was fascinated by her who had the most health and the most prudence : and having obtained the father's consent to the change, left the mortified sister to shiver in single blessedness.

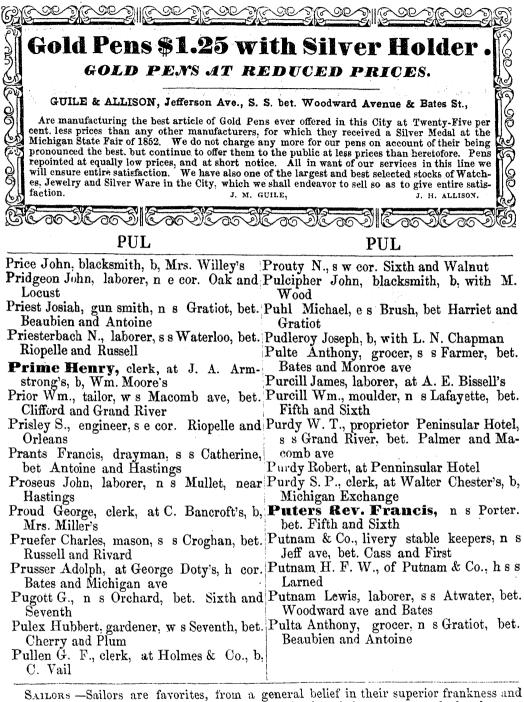

UNWHOLESOME.—The bull related of the Irish hangman, who, upon asking a criminal about to be executed, for the customary bequest, and receiving it, exclaimed, "Long life to your honor," at the same moment he drew the bolt which launched the unfortunate man into eternity, has found its fellow in a recent instance at Antwerp. A criminal there, when condemned to be broken on the wheel, is permitted to have anything he may require for his sustenance, previous to his execution. A person, deservedly condemned to this punishment, for a murder he had committed, demanded a glass of beer. He obtained it, and was observed blowing off the froth which surmounted its top. Upon being asked his reason for doing so, he replied, "Because it is very unwholesome." The criminal was executed in a very few minutes afterwards.

WORTH OF A SMILE.—A woman may be of great assistance to her husband in business, by wearing a cheerful smile continually upon her countenance. A man's perplexities and gloominess are increased a hundred fold when his better half moves about with a continual scowl upon her brow. A pleasant cheerful wife is a rainbow set in the sky, when her husband's mind is tossed with storms and tempests; but a dissatisfied and fretful wife, in the hour of trouble, is like one of those fiends appointed to torture lost spirits.

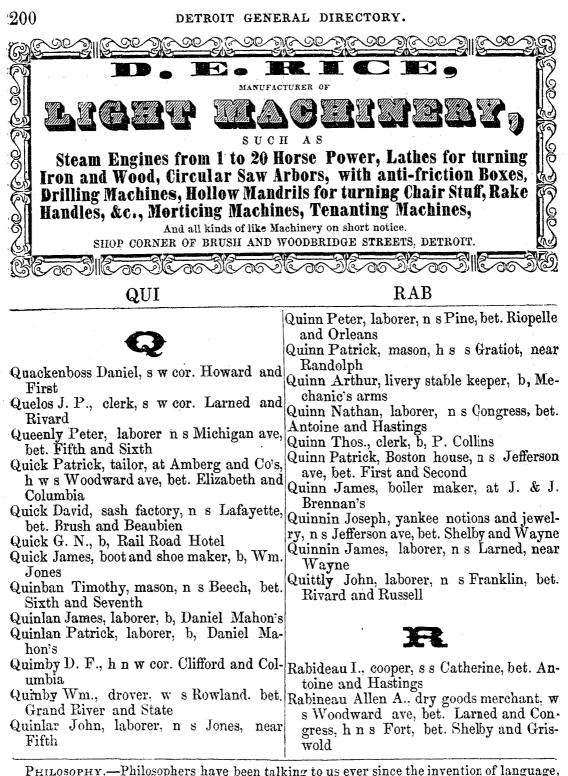

GOOD CHEER.—Good cheergis a most potent engine When well timed it wins good will, and commands exertion more effectively than any thing else. When well understood, it goes far at little cost. There was a gentleman in times past. who represented a large county for several parliaments at no other expense than hospitably entertaining a set of hungry fox-hunters whenever they happened to come near his house. I was once at a starving coursing party, where one of the company won all our hearts by a well-timed supply of bread and cheese and ale from a lone cothouse. I consider good cheer as the very cement of good government. It prevents ill blood, brings different classes together, insures attendance, and causes alacrity, vigor, and dispatch. The doctrine I always hold with those with whom I have any thing to do is, that they must either eat together or quarrel together. The public has no way of being so well served as by furnishing good cheer, though the public, or those who call themselves the public, do not seem to think so.

sallors —Sallors are favorites, from a general belief in their superior frankless and gallantry; but an early association with tar and oakum is by no means calculated to purify their taste, or give their manners the highest finish, whilst many of their habits to say the best of them, are odd. We shall not easily forget the sensation produced by the arrival of a distinguished naval officer at an archery meeting, who was pleased to descend the steps of his carriage stern foremost, as if he was descending an accommodation ladder.

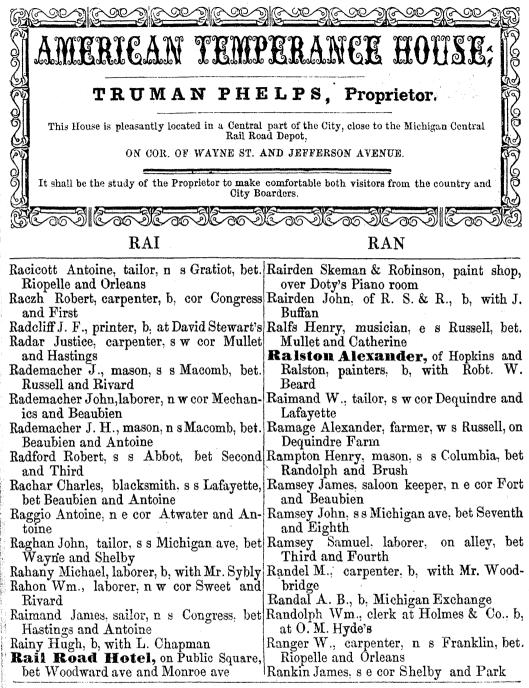

OFTEN MARRIED.—An Ohio paper makes mention of an old gentleman, father of twenty-seven children, who married his fifth wife in May last. This reminds us of a venerable citizen of Dorchester whom we saw at the old colony house in Hingham. He is 91, and has had four wives—how many children we know not. He says he tried hard enough to get a fifth, but the ladies seemed to think him not worth having.

UNLUCKY NUMBERS.—Some people, even in very high quarters, it is said, have an objection to thirteen at dinner. Dr. Kitchiner happened to be one of a company of that number at Dr. Henderson's, and on its being remarked and pronounced unlucky, he said, "I admit that it is unlucky in one case." "What case is that ?" "When there is only dinner enough for twelve."

PHILOSOPHY.—Philosophers have been talking to us ever since the invention of language, and have been endeavoring to elucidate the phenomena of mind—and what have they ever taught, or what have we learned? What is called the science or philosophy of mind is not a whit forwarder than it was four thousand years ago; the acutest modern philosophers know nothing more of the matter than did the disciples of Pythagoras.

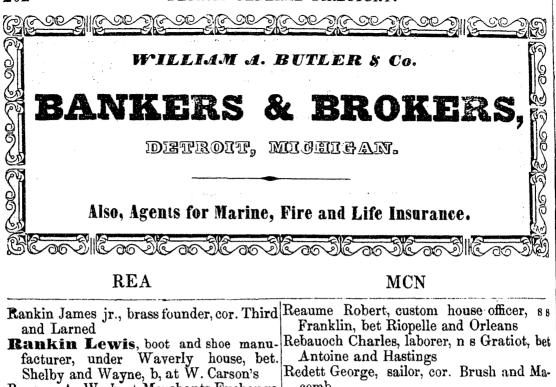

STERLING MONEY.—As to the origin of Sterling money, there are three opinions. The first is, that it is derived from Stirling Castle, and that Edward I. having penetrated so far into Scotland, caused a coin to be struck there, which he called Sterling. The second opinion derives it from the figure of a bird called starling, which appears about the cross in the ancient arms of England. The third, most probable, assigns its true origin by deducing it from Esterling; for in the time of Henry III. it is called Moneta Esterlingorum, the money of the Esterlings, or people of the East, who came to England to refine the silver of which it was made, and hence it was valued more than any other coin, on account of the purity of its substance. The denomination of their weights and their parts is of the Saxon or Esterling tongue, as pound, shilling, penny, and farthing, which are so called in their language of the present day.

TRUTH.—Truth alone may not constitute a great man, but it is the most important ingredient in a great character; it exalts and extends its own qualities, it gives confidence to those who serve under him, security to those who employ him; and, in the world at large, it inspires a solid and permanent admiration which maintains, and at last surpasses and outlives, the enthusiasm excited by temporary success.

WHAT IS LAW LIKE ?—Law is like a country dance; people are led up and down in it till they are fairly tired out. It is like a book of surgery, there are a great many terrible cases in it. It is like physic, too; they that take the least of it are best off. It is like a homely gentleman; "very well to follow;" and like a scolding wife; very bad when it follows us. Law is like a new fashion; people are bewitched to get into it: and like bad weather, most people are glad to get out of it.

VILLANY AND VIRTUE.—Villany, that is vigilant, will be an overmatch for virtue, if she slumber on her post; and hence it is that a bad cause has often triumphed over a good one; for the partizans of the former, knowing that their cause will do nothing for them, have done every thing for their cause; whereas the friends of the latter are too apt to expect every thing from their cause, and do nothing for themselves.

HUMAN STRENGTH .-- From the results of experiments which have been made in driving and pressing in large iron and copper bolts, a man of medium strength, striking with a mallet weighing eighteen pounds, and the handle of which was forty-four inches long, would start a bolt about one-eighth of an inch every blow. It required a pressure of 107 tons to press the same bolt down the same quantity of space, but a small additional weight pressed it completely home.

ing morning service, and the time had arrived when he was to leave the desk and ascend the pulpit, he exclaimed: "Unfortunately I have left my sermon at home." A messenger was despatched, but no sermon could be found; in consequence of which the congregation. was dismissed. A wag observed he would make a sorry coachman "to leave his way bill" behind."

NEAT REPROOF.—Louis XV. frequently talked to his courtiers in a manner extremely disagreeable to them, without intending to give them pain. One day, when Cardinal de Luynes was paying his respects to him, "Cardinal," said the king to him, "your greatgrandfather died of an apoplexy: and you look as if you would die of an apoplectic stroke." "Sire" answered the Cardinal, "fortunately for us, we do not live in the times when kings are prophets."

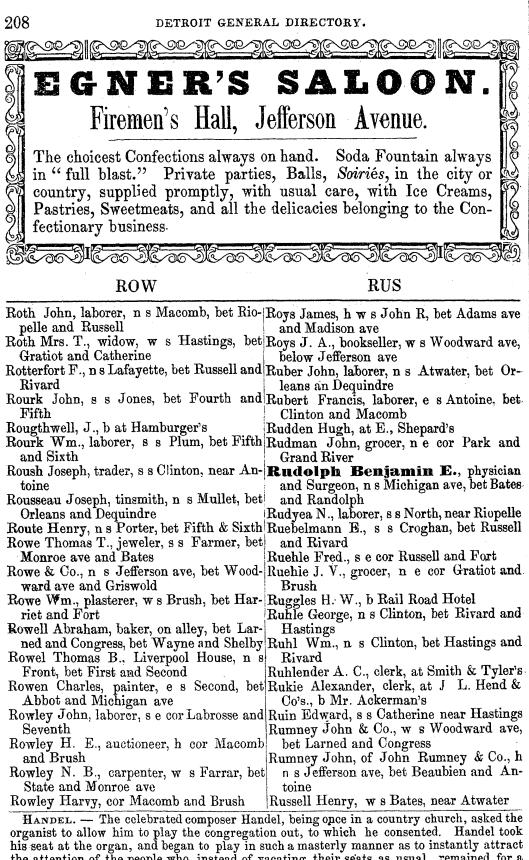

A DEAR WATERMELON.— T. M. Stoughton of Greenfield informs us that the man who took a watermelon from his field and left a pocket book containing $508 to pay for it, can have another melon and a larger one free of charge, as he never charges over $25 for the largest.—Springfield Republican

How TO PASS THROUGH SMOKE. -- In the course of an inquest in London, lately, Mr. Wakley, the coroner, observed that it would be well to acquaint the public with the fact that if persons in a house on fire had the presence of mind to apply a damp cloth or handkerchief to their mouth and nostrils, they could effect a passage through the densest smoke; but the surest way would be to envelope the head and face completely in the damp cloth his seat at the organ, and began to play in such a masterly manner as to instantly attract the attention of the people who, instead of vacating their seats as usual, remained for a considerable time, fixed in silent admiration. The organist began to be impatient (perhaps his wife was waiting ainner for him) and at length addressing the performer, told him that he could not play the people out, and advised him to relinquish the attempt; which being done, a few harsh strains in the accustomed manner operated like the reading of the riot act, by instantly dispersing the audience

HENRY CLAY AND MIKE WALSH — When Mike Walsh was an apprentice in New York, at the lithographic printing business, Henry Clay was in the city, the honored guest of the people. His reception room was opposite where Mike worked. The workmen dared Mike to go over and shake hands with Mr. Clay, dressed as he was with a paper cap on, his sleeves rolled up, and face and arms bedaubed with ink. Mike would not be dared, and slapping his hand upon the ink stone, made it quite moist with the sticky liquid. He then moved mechanically across the street, entered, was introduced, and shook hands with Mr. Clay. He gave a very cordial grasp, so much so that the hands partially stuck together; but on Mike went, with the crowd who proceeded him, and, looking over his shoulder, observed Mr. Clay gazing with a mingled expression of astonishment and playfulness at the

WHAT IS A YANKEE. - A genuine Yankee is full of animation, checked by moderation, guided by determination, and supported by education. He has veneration corrected by toleration, with a love of self approbation and emulation ; when reduced to a state of aggravation, can assume the most profound dissimulation for the purpose of retaliation, always combined if possible with speculation. A real live yankee, just caught, will be found not deficient in the following qualities. He is self-denying, self-relying, always trying, and into everything prying. He is a lover of piety, propriety, notoriety and temperance society. He is dragging, gaging, bragging, striving, thriving, swoping, jostling, bustling water in his well, which had become dry. After boring several feet through a strata of clay, the augur suddenly sank, and was as suddenly thrown back, with sufficient force to raise the man who had hold of the rod, leaving him suspended in the air. On drawing out the augur a jet of fine sand was thrown many feet above the top of the well, with a noise like the escape from a large engine. The jet continued for about half an hour, completely filling up the well with a fine sand resembling dry ashes.—Det. Tribune.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.—If not twice,—certainly once,—this invaluable, safe and agreeable medicine has saved me from consumption. In the experience of nearly forty years drug taking, I know of nothing to recommend for the removal of colds and inflamations of the throat and chest, but this,—it is a sovereign specific. I make this statement to benefit any who may be afflicted, and under whose notice this statement may happen to be brought. I make it wholly unsolicited, and because I wish well to our common humanity.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND BAD DIGESTION.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. R. W. Kirkus, Chemist, 7. Presoot St., Liverpool, dated 6th June, 1851. To Professor Holloway:

SIR — Your Pills and Ointment have stood the highest on our sale list of Proprietary Medicines for some years. A customer, to whom I can refer for any inquiries, desires me to let you know the particulars of her case. She had been troubled for years with a disordered liver and bad digestion. On the last occasion, however, the virulence of the attack was so alarming, and the inflammation set in so severely, that doubts were entertained of her not being able to bear up under it. Fortunately she was induced to try your Pills, and she informs me that after the first and each succeeding dose, she had great relief. She continued to take them, and although she used only three boxes, she is now in the enjoyment of perfect health. I could have sent you many more cases, but the above, from the severity of the attack, and the speedy cure, I think speaks much in favor of your astonishing Pills. (Signed,) R. W. KIRKUS.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF RHEUMATIC FEVER IN VAN DIEMEN'S LAND. Computer of a Letter inserted in the Hobart Town Courier of March 1, 1851, by Major J. Walch.

Margaret M'Connigan. nineteen years of age, residing at New Town, had been suffering from a violent rheumatic fever for upwards of two months, which had entirely deprived her of the use of her limbs. During this time she was under the care of the most eminent medical men in Hobart Town, and by them her case was considered hopeless. A friend prevailed upon her to try Holloway's celebrated Pills, which she consented to do, and in an incredible short space of time they effected a perfect cure.

Cure of a Pain and Tightness in the Chest and Stomach of a person 84 years of age. From Messrs. Thew § Son, Proprietors of the Lynn Advertiser, who can vouch for the following statement. Aug. 1, 1851. To Professor Holloway:

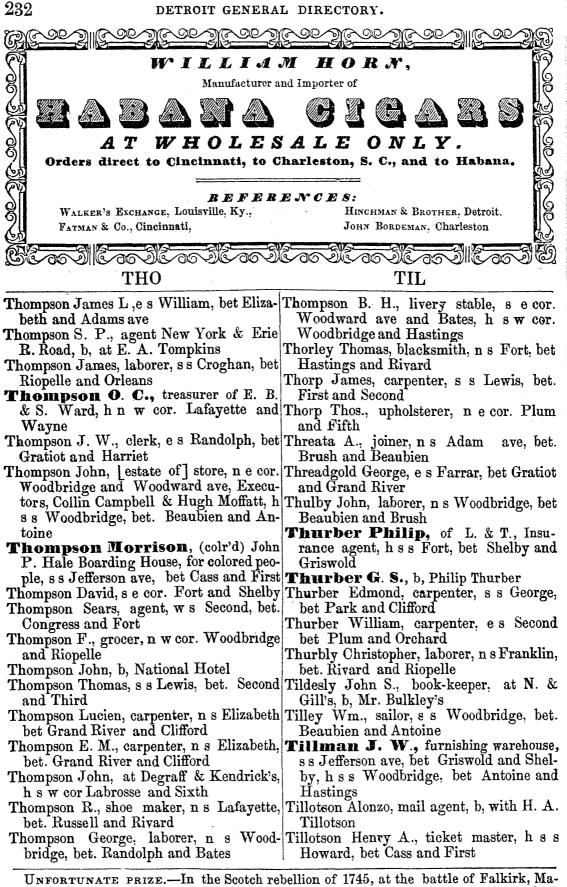

Sin -I desire to bear testimony to the good effects of Holloway's Pills. For some years I suffered severely from a pain and tightness in the stomach, which was also accompanied by a shortness of breath that prevented me from walking about. I am 84 years of age, and notwithstanding my advanced state of life, these Pills have so relieved me, that I am desirous that others' should be a made acquainted with their virtues. I am now rendered by their means, comparatively active, and can take exercise without inconvenience or pain, which I could not do before.

(Signed.) HENRY COE, North st., Lynn, Norfolk. These celebrated Pills are wonderfully efficaceous in the following complaints.

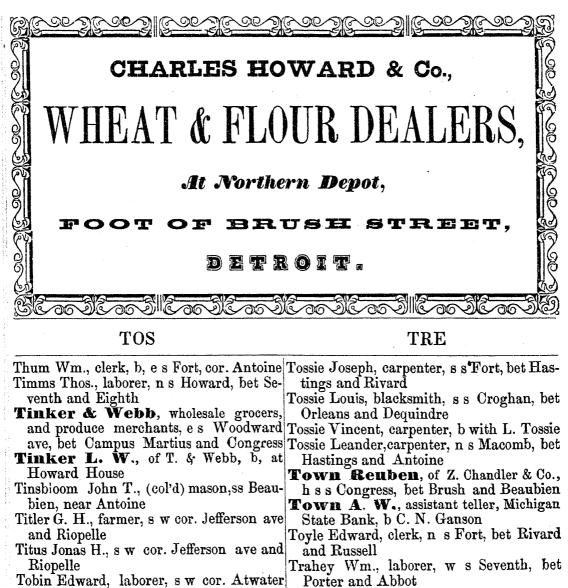

Ague, Asthma, Bilious Complaints, Blotches on the skin. Bowel Complaints, Colics, Constipation of the Bowels, Consumption. Debility, Dropsy, Dysentery. Erysipelas, Female Irregularities, Fevers of all kinds, Fits, Gout. Headache, Indigestion. Inflammation, Jaundice, Liver Complaints, Lumbago, Piles, Rheumatism, Retention of Urine, Scrofula, or K ng's Evil, Sore Throats. Stone and Gravel, Secondary Symptoms, Tic Doulouroux, Tumors, Ulcers, Venereal Affections, Worms of all kinds, Weakness from whatever cause, &c., &c.

Sold at the establishment of Professor Holloway, 244 Stand, near Temple Bar, London, and by all respectable Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. throughout the British Empire, and of those of the United States, in boxes, at 37 1-2c., 37 1-2c., and $1 50 each. Wholesale by the principal drug houses in the Union, and by Messrs A. B. & D. Sands, New York. There is a considerable saving by taking the larger sizes. Sold by J. S. FARRAND, Druggist, 96 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, General Agent for Michigan.

Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each box.

UNFORTUNATE PRIZE.—In the Scotch rebellion of 1745, at the battle of Falkirk, Major Macdonald having dismounted an English officer, took possession of his horse, which was a very beautiful one, and immediately mounted it. When the English cavalry fled, the horse ran off with the victor, notwithstanding all his efforts to restrain him; nor did it stop until it was at the head of the regiment, of which, apparently, its master was the commander! The melancholy, and at the same time ludicrous figure which poor Macdonald cut, when he thus saw himself the victim of his ambition to possess a fine horse, which ultimately cost him his life on the scaffold, may be easily conceived.

HABITS OF SHEEP .- They perseveringly follow their leader wherever he goes; but if, in case of sudden alarm, any one of the flock runs forward to escape, and thus takes the lead, the rest generally follow him, regardless of any obstruction. Of this singular disposition, Dr. Anderson once witnessed an instance in the town of Liverpool. A butcher's boy was driving about twenty fat wethers through the town; but they ran down a street, along which he did not want them to go. He observed a scavenger at work with his broom a little way before them, and called out loudly for him to stop the sheep. The man accordingly did what he could to turn them back, running from side to side, always opposing much agitated, pressed forward, and at last one of them came right up to the man, who fearing it was about to jump over his head whilst he was stooping, grasped the short broomstick in both hands, and held it over his head. He stood for a few seconds in this position, when the sheep made a spring and jumped fairly over him, without touching the broom .--The first had no sooner cleared this impediment than another followed, and another, in such quick succession, that the man perfectly confounded, seemed to lose all recollection, and gars of the city had all assembled, and the grand Duke, causing all the avenues to the square to be closed, compelled these beggars to strip off their old clothes and gave each one, according to promise, a new suit. In the old clothes thus collected, enough money was found concealed, to build a beautiful bridge over the Arno, still called the "Beggar's Bridge," and the city for the time being, was relieved of the beggars by which it had been previously overrun, as none would give to well dressed individuals who implored charity, not believing their tale of distress.

In say to this advance in time upon the presses of their day. This press has been in operation at the Detroit Tribune office for about one year, and has proved itself everything that it was recommended. It works 100 per cent faster, and we hink does its work better than any other card press ever brought out.

A worthy minister, at present without a congregation, while in conversation with those philanthropic, enterprising brothers, the Messrs. Charles and Z. Howard—who are presidents of banks and railroad directors, and wealthy merchants of Detroit—happened to say that if no remunerative employment should offer before the winter, he should again resume the teaching of a school; observing, that, although an honorable, it was regarded as a "small business." With a view only to our friend's encouragement, those great men remarked that they had both taught school themselves; that so had the great and good General Cass—the world-renowned Senator of our favored State—so had the late King Louis Philippe, of France, and so do at the present time the daughters of President Pierce. Where is the ill-paid school teacher who reads this, will hang down his or her honored head? The time ought certainly to have arrived in the world's history, when a people, grateful for the education of their children, should employ a spontaneous influence upon Legislative bodies, and upon Boards of Education, moving them to provide more liberally for School Teachers, whose services and influences are greater on the masses which make up what is termed "Society," than one thousand times their number would as an armed police. School Teachers in America are, however, four times as well paid as in Europe ; yet not sufficiently paid.—Editor Directory.

GOOD COMPANIONS.--A celebrated preacher once said that there were three companions with whom you should always keep on good terms :--1st, your wife; 2nd, your stomach; 3rd, your conscience.

ABRAHAM.—The life of the Bedouin, his appearance and habits, are precisely the same as those of the patriarchs of old. Abraham himself, the first of the patriarchs, was a Bedouin, and four thousand years have not made the slightest alteration in the character or habits of this extraordinary people. Read of the patriarchs in the Bible, and it is the best description you can have of pastoral life in the East at the present day.

RUSSIAN DISCIPLINE.--On board the ships of war, the Russian discipline is severe; it is administered at the moment the offence is committed, and on the spot; in the larger vessels sometimes two or even three of these affairs are going on at the same time; the delinquent undergoes the punishment all standing, his cap doffed, and his arms folded on his breast. When he has received the quantum, he bows and thanks the officer who has ordered the punishment, for the favor conferred; but not until the latter has retired does he dare move from the spot or resume his occupation.

MENTAL EXCITEMENT.—The state of continual exacerbation and irritation is more fatal to longevity and happiness than almost any other form of mental excitement, and it is one exceedingly common. Mr. Abernethy says, "the state of men's minds is another grand cause of their complicated maladies. Many people fidget and discontent themselves about what cannot be helped : and as passions of all kinds—especially malignant passions —pressing upon the mind, disturb the cerebral action, they necessarily do themselves much harm."

ANECDOTE OF A PAINTING.--At a sale of paintings at Horncastle, the portrait of Archibald, Duke of Argyle, by Ramsay, was offered, and, in answer to an inquiry how a small injury to the canvas had happened, the auctioneer related the following anecdote:--The portrait had been hung in a bed-room, which was on one occasion occupied by a female domestic; the girl, fancying that the Duke of Argyle eyed her too closely whilst she was dressing, became indignant, and seizing a poker, aimed a blow, with the intent of putting the Duke's eye out; the poker missed the eye, but perforated the canvas close to the face:

How TO DO UP SHIRT BOSOMS.—We have often heard ladies expressing a desire to know by what process the fine gloss observable on new linens, shirt bosoms, &c., is produced; and in order to gratify them, we subjoin the following recipe for making Gum Arabic Starch :—

Take two ounces of fine white gum arabic powder, put it into a pitcher and pour on it a pint or more of boiling water, according to the degree of strength you desire, and then having covered it let it set all night, in the morning pour it carefully from the drugs into a clean bottle, cork it, and keep it for use. A tablespoon full of gum water, stirred into a pint of starch made in the usual manner, will give to lawns, (either white or printed,) a look of newness, when nothing else can restore them after washing.

for There were last year imported into the United States 9,000 bushels of canary seed. Allowing one bushel to keep six canary birds one year, the number of these birds imprisoned in the United States amounts eo 54,060. The first cost of the seed, freight and charges, will amount to $13,500.

There is in the town of Shawangunk, Ulster county, on the premises of John Bruyn, Esq., a cherry tree of much size, beauty, and productiveness, as cannot, perhaps, be excelled in our country. This tree measures thirteen feet in circumference around the trunk immediately under the limbs, and fifty feet across the extreme point of one limb to that of another immediately opposite. It cannot be less than forty-five feet in height. It is in full bearing, and is estimated to produce a wagon load of fruit in one season.

The imports of Foreign Merchandise at New York during the year ending June 30 1853, are said to have amounted to $166,000,000, which is greater by thirty-five per cent than during the year 1852. It is said that the returns for the other principal ports do not show any considerable increase, and that there has been a large addition to the value of the exports during the year.

City Hydraulic Morks.

The following scientific and highly valuable report of Jacob Houghton, Jr., Esq., Superintendent of the City Hydraulic Works, is regarded as well worthy a place in the City Directory, not only as the latest, and officially reliable data of the state of those essentially important works,—which convey so many comforts to our citizens—but as a public document, which ought to be preserved for future reference, reflecting credit alike upon the Superintendent himself, and upon the commissioners for their descrimination in the election of so very efficient and valuable an officer, to whose zeal and ability in the discharge of the many complicated and onerous duties of his important position, the city of Detroit, generally, owes the most lasting consideration. JAMES DALE JOHNSTON.

> OFFICE OF WATER WORKS, Detroit, Dec. 20, 1852.

To Shubael Conant, Henry Ledyard, E. A. Brush, James A. Van Dyke, and Wm. R. Noyes, Board of Trustees of the Detroit Water Works:

GENTLEMEN:—In conformity with your instructions, as contained in the resolution passed at your meeting of November 5th, 1852, I beg leave to submit the following report of the condition of the works. the receipts and disbursements, to December 1st, and an estimate of the cost of construction of new works.

Though yet entirely inadequate to the wants of our rapidly growing city, some considerable improvement has been made in the condition of the water works since the control and management of them was transferred to you. For several years past there has been much and just complaint of an insufficient supply of water in different parts of the city. This had resulted from various causes, the most prominent of which was that the distributing pipes, which are principally logs of small calibre, were laid regardless of any system or plan. As the limits of the city extended, persons were permitted to lay the logs to their premises, and extensions have in many instances, from time to time, been made on the same lines, until lines of logs of 2 inches bore were ascertained to be supplying water to from 50 to 80 families. Also, in many instances the connection between these extensions was found to have been made with a lead pipe of 5-8 of an inch interior diameter. In one instance, in the 8th ward, three blocks of buildings were found to be supplied through a pipe of that size. In another instance, in the 1st ward, the same number of blocks were supplied in the same manner; and the entire supply to that portion of the 5th ward north of Macomb avenue and west of the Grand Circus and Witherell street, was supplied through three pipes of that size. With this defective arrangement of distribution it could not be supposed that the people using from these lines would be able to obtain the supply of water necessary to their health and comfort. This defect, to some extent, has been remedied by laying new lines of iron pipes into those districts during the past season, which has resulted in furnishing for the present a good and constant supply. It can, however, be looked upon only as a temporary relief, as the rapid increase of the city demands a more extended system of water supply.

As a proof the increased demand, I would state that from May 1st to December 1st, 1852, a period of seven months, 358 new hydrants have been erecten. Of these 48 only are connected with the iron pipes, and 310 are connected with the logs.

At the time the works were brought under our charge there had been laid iron pipes as follows:

IMPORTANT TO NURSES.—At the Drug Store of Doctor Desneyers, Jefferson Avenue, corner Bates, there are too things sold amongst many others, which should be kept on hand by every nurse for expected use. These are his Syrup of Rhubard, which we have noticed has always been fully effective in correcting the bowel complaints of children, and his Syrup of Squills, equally effective in the complete cure of that severely trying ailment "The Croup." They are both of the Doctor's own preparation and we feel they may always be employed, if used agreeably to instructions, with complete success in restoring to health, poor little suffering children.—for whose especial benefit alone this notice is printed. in doing which we feel we have discharged a responsible, but pleasing duty.

Editor of Detroit Directory.

During the past season there have been pipes laid down as follows:

Of 6 inch pipe, Of 4 inch pipe, Of 3 inch pipe,			 · · · · · ·		-		4350 feet 3600 feet 655 feet
Total,	- ¹⁸ 20 - 19 	-	 -	-	-	- 1 mil	e 3325 feet

So that the entire length of pipes now laid amount to 6 miles 1319 feet.

In addition to the iron pipes there are now in use from 30 to 40 miles of wooden logs, which, for the true interest of the works and the citizens, should be disconnected from the works and replaced with a proper system of iron mains and distributing pipes, as rapidly as means and economy may allow.

The objections to logs are that they can supply but a limited quantity of water; that they are continually decaying, rendering the water unwholesome, and getting out of order, so that leakages are produced, and a large part of the water pumped is wasted. This increases the expense of every part of operating; it increases the duty of the engines, the consumption of fuel, and the expenses of repairs. In the statement of expenses given below, you will observe that $817,61 has been paid during the seven months ending December 1st, for the repairs of logs, cisterns, &c. This is but one branch of the expense; and it would be difficult to say what proportion of the expenses of repairs and fuel at the Engine House should be charged to the same account.

Another cause of insufficient supply is attributable to the small size of the reservoir, and the construction of the engines combined. In proof of this, I would call your attention to the following tabular statement of the duty of the engines during the past seven months.

The capacity of the reservoir when full is 353,430 gallons, and the engines are generally stopped when the water is within 18 inches of the top.

Total,	176,872,017	826,505	2 34 100	746 71-100	1296 02

The above table shows the average daily use of water during a period of seven months to have been 2 1-3 times the utmost capacity of the reservoir. Now, to give a full and ample supply, the water should be kept constantly at the same elevation in the reservoir, and the engine should be so run as just to supply the amount drawn off. But the construction of the engines will not permit this.

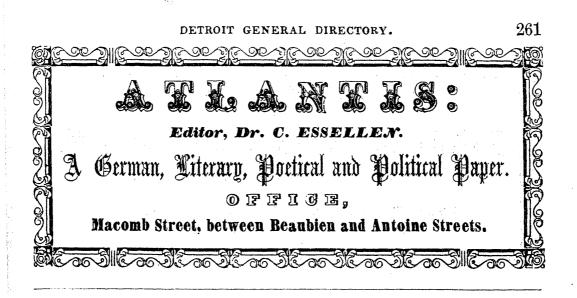

The two engines now in use, the larger being 150 and the small one 45 horses power, are both non-condensing, and are run at a high pressure of steam, and either of them, while being run, elevates into the reservoir a larger quantity of water than is drawn off for supply to the town, so that the only way of operating is to allow several feet of the water in the reservoir to be drawn off—to start the engine, and run until the reservoir is refilled, and then stop again, to go over the same routine. Thus there are several "runs" made during each day, and the head in the reservoir, varying at each "stop" and "start," effects the supply to hydrants connected with the pipes in the more elevated parts of the city, making the supply irregular and intermitent.

This mode of operating, caused by the incapacity of the reservoir, together with the use of steam at high pressure is only very expensive. The fires have to be kept burning almost constantly, and at each "run" the steam has to be raised with an extra expense of fuel.

By reference to the tabular statement above, the average daily consumption of water is shown to have been 826,505 gallons, which has been raised to an elevation of 70 feet at a cost for fuel of $6 05. This is believed to be a more extensive duty than that of any other pumping engine usek for supplying water to towns. The engine at the Cincinnati works elevates 1,700,000 gallon 180 feet high for $5 70, and to elevate the same number of gallons only 70 feet high with the Detroit engine would cost $12 46.— In Buffalo, a city twice the size of Detroit, the water is raised 88 feet high for $5 per day. The number of gallons pumped daily in the latter city I have not been able to ascertain. Mr. Wicksteed's Cornish engine at the East London Water Works, does more than twice as much duty for the fuel consumed as the Cincinnati engine. From the examination I have been able to give to the subject, I am satisfied that we are opperating the present works at a loss of more than $1200 per year for fuel alone, and if continned upon the same plan, this proportion of loss will increase at the same rate with the increase of our inhabitants. The only remedy for this present and prospective evil, is the construction of a new reservoir and the adoption of the Cornish pumping engine, (low pressure,) in the place of the high pressure engines now in use.

In the estimate of the cost of new works which I give below, a new reservoir of the capacity of 10,000,000 gallons is included. The design is to build it of earth embankments, with two compartments, so that either compartment can be cleaned without shutting off the supply from town as at present.

SEASONABLE HINT.—The compiler of the Directory wishes to apprise his numerous friends and acquaintances whose employments prevent them knowing as much of matters and things "about town" as him, that the most beautiful Wood and Coal burning Stove, in five different sizes" at very moderate prices can be had at HOWARD WEBSTER'S Store, next door to CULLEN BROWN'S Gothic Store & Saddle and Harness manufactory, which every body knows or ought to know. This Stove, "Jewit & Roots patent of 1853"—Supersedes all Stoves of the "old fogy" patterns for beauty and Utility—affording unmitigated satisfaction in those chill nights, when blazing with a splendid coal fire from the yard of PITTMAN, TROWBRIDGE & JONES. J. D. JOHNSTON.

There is also included an estimate for two Cornish engines. You may consider it unnecessary to procure both of these at present, but one of them should be contracted for at the earliest possible period. The small engine at present in use, after another season will be entirely inadequate to any effective duty, as the probable increase of inhabitants will cause a greater consumption of water than it is capable of pumping. And as no works can be considered complete without two engines, one always being kept in reserve in case of accidents, you will readily perceive the necessity of procuring a new engine. The 150 horses power high pressure engine can be retained to advantage for the reserve engine at present. But in a very few years, you will probably find it necessary to replace it with the second Cornish engine.

While the subject of engines is under consideration, I would direct your attention to the following remarks upon "condensing and high pressure engines," taking from a valuable work upon the steam engine, published by the "Artizan Club :"

"Generally, all engines are made on the high pressure plan, where the carriage of condensing water would be inconvenient, or the first cost of the machine becomes a point of more importance than an increased consumption of fuel. High pressure engines are, ceteris paribus, necessarily more expensive in fuel than low pressure engines, as they occasion the loss of power derivable from a vacuum, and as the quanity of heat in the same weight of steam is nearly the same at all pressures, there is no countervailing source of economy to compensate for this deduction. The use of high pressure engines in circumstances in which the low pressure engine is applicable, is not to be commended; and the high pressure engine is rarely employed for other purposes than locomotion on railways, except in the case of very small engines required for some temporary or trivial purpose."

I would also call your attention to the following remarks upon Cornish pumping engines, taken from a report of J. H. McAlpine, Esq., Chief Engineer of the State of New York, made to the Water Commissioner of the City of Albany, in August 1850:

"The Cornish pumping engines have been regarded by mechanics as the most perfect structures which have been designed by modern engineers. Indeed they have been copied and applied to other works, where the peculiar circumstances of their arrangement were quite inapplicable, although their economy and effect have been quite remarkable.

VALUABLE HINTS TO DRIVERS.—If you are driving a spirited horse, and should see a dozen or so of men, women and children, at the street crossing to get out of the way, instead of slackening your pace to give them a chance, you should lay on whip and go through hit or miss, with flying colors. By so doing you will not only be showing off to the best advantage the fine points of your horse, but will also demenstrate that your time is of great value to you, besides giving people an adequate idea of your importance. If you are making your way out of an alley to gain the main avenue, drive across the side walk as if you were contending for sweepstakes. By so doing you will enforce upon all pedestrians the necessity of being constantly on the look out. By thus causing them to be more watchful for the preservation of their lives, you will be justly entitled to be regarded as a philan-thropist.—Cleve. True Dem.

"Mr. Wicksteed, the Engineer of the East London Water Works, in 1843 took down a large and expensive Boulton and Watt engine, and substitued one of the Cornish engines, for that company's works, which was operated with one-half of the previous expense.

"The duty performed by each of the pumping engines at the mines in Cornwall, has been kept since 1822, and led to the most careful examination of every means of reducing the expense of working them.

"Other plans of pumping engines have been designed, some of which rival the Cornish engines. Among these, however, the gigantic engines erected in 1843, to drain the Harlaem Mere, in Holland, are the most celebrated.

"Many of the cities in the United States are supplied by water elevated by pumping engines; but these do not compare favorably with similar works erected in Great Britain and on the Continent.

"The Cornish engine may be generally described as a vertical, condensing, beam engine, with a large cylinder intended to use the expansive force of the steam to its most useful extent, with pumps driven by a direct connection from the engine beam.

"The great depth of the mines require plunger rods of great length and weight, and this circumstance is made available by using the power of the engine mainly to elevate the rods, which in their descent force up a corresponding weight of water.

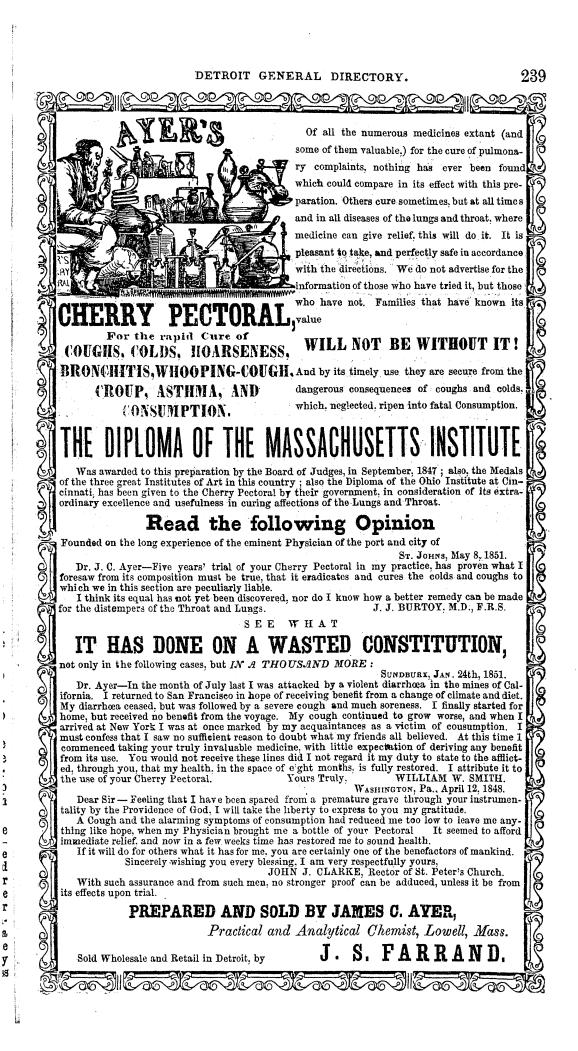

"When they are too heavy or too light to elevate the quantity of water required, they are adjusted with weights, added to the beam.

"From the examination which has been given to the subject, a steam engine constructed nearly after the approved form of the Cornish engine, and a plunger pump attached to each end of the arm of the engine beam, would be recommended."

I may add that another proof of the perfect adaptability of the Cornish engine to the purposes of water works is the complete control which the engineer can always have over the machine. The running of the engine can be so regulated as to make one or fifteen strokes per minute, and thus in cases of necessity, could be so guaged as to pump into the reservoir the exact amount of water being drawn off, and by that means ratain a constant head.

The incapacity of the present works is also frequently felt in cases of fires. In the upper parts of the city the feed pipes to the fire cisterns are so small, that one engine can be supplied only for a short time. At a late fire on the Woodward avenue, between State and Grand River streets, where two small frame buildings were burned, all the cisterns in the vicinity were entirely emptied, and as a last resort the firemen were compelled to form a line of engines from the reservoir on the corner of Campus Martius and Monroe avenue. The fire occurred at about two o'clock in the morning, and the feed pipes were: left running, but the cisterns were not all refilled until the next evening! To about one half of the settled portion of the city, there is no adequate protection afforded from fire. To the well regulated Fire Department which we have, this state of things would seem to be but little encouragement.

GOOD PLUCK.—We learn from the Syracuse Chronicle, that a young lady, one of the Bloomers, and recently married in one of the cities adjacent to that city, was visited and serenaded by the "Calithumpian" band. The newly married lady fired a gun from her chamber window, over their heads, and they ran away; being laughed at as cowards, the next day, they resolved to repeat their visit that night. They did so, and the Bloomer again tried the experiment of firing over their heads, at which they laughed, and commenced again their concert of discordant sounds. The lady, becoming exasperated, sent a charge of shot rattling about their ears, which sent them to the right about in double quick time, and wounded and limping, swearing and groaning, cursing and praying, they made their way home, sadder, if not wiser men. She served them right, and will doubtless make a good wife and mother.

In the economical management of the works, there is also one other matter which demands attention and improvement. Most of the hydrants now in use are defective in construction and material, and cause a large and unnecessary waste of water. In order to render the first cost as cheap as possible, it is the practice to use the lightest lead pipe in their construction. In addition to this, in order to save expense, the cocks or faucets are made without any regard to strength or finish. These cocks are placed in the ground, and the water is drawn by turning a rod connected with them. The cocks soon become impaired by use, in consequence of the sediment contained in the water, and many leakages thus occur, the water from which passes off unobserved through drains, while in other cases, cellars are inundated and the foundations of buildings undermined and weakened. The general adoption of the patent safety valve hydrant, invented by Mr. Bartholomew, and adopted and strongly recommended by the Croton Board in New-York, is very desirable, not only for the protection and safety of the works, but for the health and ultimate economy of those using water.

The first co-t of these is more than of those now in use, but they will so seldom need repairs that the difference should not be thought of. Should they be generally introduced here, they can be furnished for $6 each, being $2 more than the cost of the hydrants at present used. This hydrant is self-acting, in part, shutting off the water when not in use, and permits of no escape of water, except above ground, at the common outlet. Another favorable consideration which this hydrant has, is the easy access which is afforded for making repairs when out of order, making it unnecessary to remove the stock or dig up the pavement or grounds, as is customary with the ordinary hydrant.

A SENSIBLE GIRL.—A young lady at Newport who was about leaving the "gay and festive scene" which the parlors of the "Ocean" presented, with the intention of retiring for the night, turned to her friend and remarked: "Well, Mary, I've done my duty, I have seen all the clothes, and every body has seen mine, so I shall now go up stairs. Good night." What could be more graphic. The very mottoes of a fashionable watering place —to see and be seen !—Newport Mercury.

Some of the domestic evils of drunkenness are houses without windows, gardens without fences, fields without tillage, barns without roofs, children without clothing principles, morals, or manners.

A WISE IDIOT.—A country clergyman, by his dull monitorious discourse, set all the congregation asleep, except an idoit, who set with open mouth, listening. The parson, enraged, thumping the pulpit exclaimed :

[&]quot;What! all asleep but this poor idiot ?"

[&]quot;Aye," quoth the natural, " and if I had not been a poor idiot, I would have been asleep too."

A boy, rag gatherer, found a fifty dollar bill, in Cincinnati, while scraping among a pile of rubbish. The note, on the State Bank of Ohio, seemed to have lain in the street for several days, as it was so dirty as to be scarcely recognizable.

Death is often less painful than the thought of it.

The above estimate is for the ultimate cost of the works when all the necessary mains and distributing pipes shall have been laid over that portion of the city which is included between the river and Winder street, a distance of about one mile. The total expenditure of this amount will probably not be required for six or seven years, but $250,000 can be expended to advantage within the next two years.

No estimate for lands or lots is included as the present docks and the new reservoir grounds purchased for the purpose are considered sufficient. All which is respectfully submitted. JACOB HOUGHTON, Jr.,

Commissioner and Civil Engineer.

Detroit Young Men's Benebolent Society.

This society, having now been in active operation for five years, it is supposed that its general character and objects are generally understood.

In few words, its object is to relieve the poor and unfortunate; to assist them to earn their own maintenance; to prevent the immorality of street begging; thereby protecting the public from imposture, and presenting opportunity to individuals to maintain themselves and families, by honorable labor. The first great object would be to relieve actual distress; the abodes of want are therefore personally visited, and public benevolence through the society's agency is with intelligent discrimination extended cheerfully to its object. A little timely aid, discreetly bestowed in this manner is, often not only the means of restoring an individual to thrift and good citizenship—but in the aggregated influences of such benevolent supervision, the operations of the society may justly be regarded as a great conservator of public morality and local tranquility. The successive annual appeals to the wealthy of the city to sustain this their great public almoner, have been met with generous and general approval—but the society wants increased means to be increasingly useful.

By the society's plan of operations the city is divided into a convenient number of Districts for visitation. A committee of three is assigned to each District—who become vigilant detectors of lurking poverty—ascertaining its cause and applying such remedy as may be available.

Andrew Gilman and Joseph Bristol, two lads of 14, were out shooting pigeons.— Young Bristol, in preparing to fire, having his gun slung over his arm, unluckily let his thumb slip from the trigger, which was partly, raised, firing off the gun and lodging the contents in the head of his companion, killing him instantly.

The relief afforded is usually either in fuel, clothing, food or medicine, or the care of a physician. In a few cases it has been necessary to procure stoves, and sometimes implements of labor, and occasionally the payment of a month's rent for a shelter for the homeless. Money, except under the most justifying circumstances, is rarely ever donated. These committees report their action, the amount and nature of their disbursements, with such facts and observations as may be interesting or useful at each month's meeting of the society. From these reports, those not accustomed to such researches, might derive much interesting and instructive information.

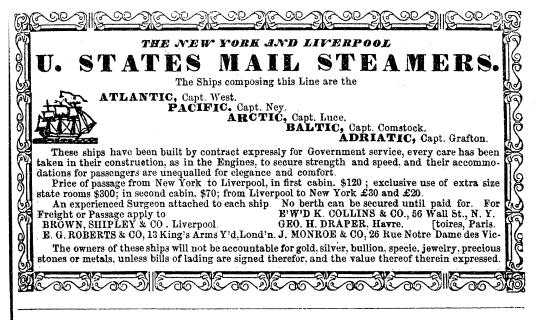

During the last winter and spring, the number of families visited and relieved was ONE HUNDRED AND NINETY-SIX, and containing about SIX HUNDRED PERSONS.

There were distributed 200 cords of wood in about 500 loads. The cost of provisions distributed from the society's depot, exclusive of donations in kind, was $237 05, and the whole expenses of the depot, including provisions, rent, pay of storekeeper, and carting of wood, $436 09. The cost of wood, $460. The number of sick visited by the society's physician, and the recipients of alms

DETROIT GENERAL DIRECTORY.

It is quite reasonable to suppose that with a greatly increasing population, the benevolent operations of this laudable society only become the more imperative; and as imperatively demand from those who are able to give, that they extend the heart and hand of true benevolent philanthropy.

In connection with the objects of the society—a House of Industry would seem to be desirable—and before many years it is probable, will be regarded as essential. It would prove a test of honest poverty, which may be, after the keenest examination, sometimes confounded with indolent avoidance of labor.

This is an Institution, which, for the foregoing reason should be found amongst the Institutions of large cities, instead of being committed to even the safe caprices of benevolent enterprise, or private philanthropy; it ought to be amongst the first cares of the civil government of matured and rising cities. The attention of the present efficient government of the city of Detroit is respectfully pointed hourly to this subject, which, it is hoped, they will regard as worthy a place amongst the many enlarged schemes of city improvements, which will eminently characterize their present term of office.

A list of officers of this society is subjoined :----

Detroit Qublic Schools.

These schools have been established under an act of the Legislature, passed in eighteen hundred and forty two, and several amendatory acts. They are under the charge of a "Board of Education," composed of two School Inspectors from each ward in the city, one of whom is elected by the people in each ward, at the annual charter election in March. The Inspectors hold their offices for two years, and sixteen members now constitute the Board.

These schools are sustained in the following manner; 1st, the proportion belonging to the city from the interest of the State Primary School fund, amounting in the year 1852 to about three thousand dollars; 2d, an annual tax authorised to be levied by the Common Council upon the taxable property of the city, not exceeding in each year one dollar for each child in the city, between the ages of four and eighteen years; 3d, an extra tax of fifteen hundred dollars annually for the purchase of lots, and for building purposes, provided the freemen at a meeting called for the purpose shall consent to the same; 4th, by an intelligent and sound public opinion which fully appreciates the importance of universal education in a free country.

There are twenty-eight schools under the charge of the Board, counting the different departments of the Union Schools, and there are thirty-nine teachers in the employ of the Board whose salaries range from one hundred up to six hundred-and-sixty dollars per annum. Teachers are appointed by the Board, after the applicant shall have undergone a thorough examination in public and received a certificate of qualification from the committee on teachers. The appointments are usually made in April for a year, and saleries are paid, one quarter at the end of the first term, one half at the end of the second term, and the balance at the end of the year.

The school year is divided into three terms, as follows: the first term commencing on the third Monday after the second Saturday in April, and ending on the fourth Saturday in July; the second commencing the fifth Monday after the fourth Saturday in July and ending on Saturday next before Christmas; and the third commencing on the first Monday after the first day of Jan. and continuing till the Second Saturday in April. This arrangement gives forty-four weeks schooling, and eight weeks vacation in a year, and is found to work well in practice. The hours of daily teaching are six for five days in the week.

The enrolled attendance in these schools is about three thousand; they are free, and it is estimated that about five thousand of the children of the city receive instruction in them in the course of the year. Among them there are three Union Schools, one in the eastern and one in the western part of the city, and one in the capitol building which is a central point. The schools are of all grades from the primary up to the highest departments of the Union Schools, and the Union

An obliging subscriber sends us the following article, which appeared in the Boston Post on the 1st of April last. It is well worth reading, and is all right, except that the inscription on the handle of the dagger should be read backwards :--

System has been greatly extended by placing the schools in the different sections of the city, under the classification and general superintendence of the middle school teachers therein.

While it is considered of the first importance to secure a high tone of morals in these schools, yet in order to throw their doors wide open for the attendance of all without money or price, and to make them in truth and in fact the schools of the people, and in order to avoid all just grounds of objection to them, everything of a sectarian character has always been rigidly excluded.

The following are the officers and committees of the Board of Education for the present year:---

Michigan State Agricultural Society.

The Michigan State Agricultural Society was organized at Lansing, the capitol of the State, March 17th 1849.

Its object is to promote the improvement of Agriculture and its kindred arts throughout the State of Michigan.

A GOOD REBUKE.—Abon Honnifah, chief of a Turkish sect, once received a blow in the face from a ruffian, and rebuked him in these terms, not unworthy of Christian imitation: "If I were vindicative, I should return you outrage for outrage; if I were an informer, I should accuse you before the caliph; but I prefer putting up a prayer to God, that in the day of judgment he will cause me to enter Heaven with you."

The following officers were elected at the time of the organization:

For President. Epaphroditus Ransom, of Kalamazoo County.

> For Recording Secretary. J. C. Holmes, of Wayne County.

> > For Treasurer.

John J. Adam, of Lenawee County.

Also an Executive Committee of ten, from different parts of the State, and one Vice President and one Corresponding Secretary from each county. The officers for 1853 are:—

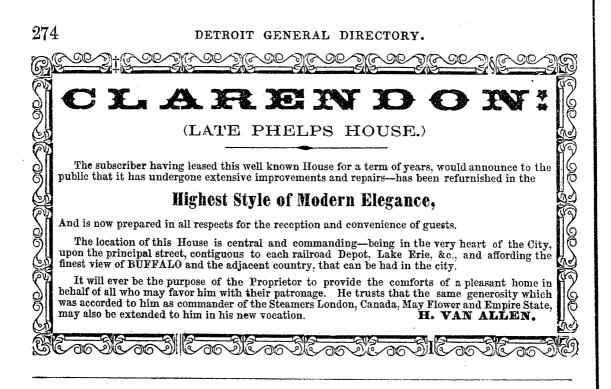

> President—Joseph R. Williams, of Constantine. Recording Secretary—J, C. Holmes, of Detroit. Treasurer—H. H. Brown, of Detroit.

> > Executive Committee.

George C. Munro, Jonesville, Hillsdale County.
M. Shoemaker, Jackson, Jackson County.

Thomas Clark, Lapeer, Lapeer County.
C. A. Green, Farmington, Oakland County.
F. V. Smith, Coldwater, Branch County.
Ira H. Butterfield, Utica, Macomb County,
William Finley, Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County.

The Society has held five annual fairs, each giving proof of increasing interest in the welfare of the Society, and of its beneficial influence upon the agricultural interests of the State.

^{205°} Edward Cranson, the Kentish giant, said to be the largest boned man in Europe, measures 7 feet 6 inches, weighs 25 stone, can reach perpendicularly 10 feet and 6 inches, and is under 21 years of age.

The Executive Committee made an appropriation of three thousand dollars, which was awarded at the fifth annual fair, held at Detroit, on the 28th 29th and 30th days of September last. The rooms of the Society are in Cooper's building, two doors of the Farmer's and Mechanic's Bank, where members of the Society have access to the Library, also to agricultural papers from this and other States.

RAIL ROADS.

MICHIGAN CENTRAL RAIL ROAD COMPANY.

THIS COMPANY was chartered in the spring of 1846. In the autumn of that year, the company had consummated the acceptance of the charter and the purchase of the road by making their first payment to the state in compliance with its terms.— The Road, in the hands of the state had been extended as far as Kalamazoo, 146 miles from Detroit, but was ironed with flat bar, and much of the Road was in bad order, and worn out. The new company commenced extending the Road towards Lake Michigan, and re-laying the eastern portion of the old Road with heavy "T" rail.

In May 1852, the Road was completed and laid through the entire length with heavy T rail from Detroit to Chicago, a distance of 280 miles.

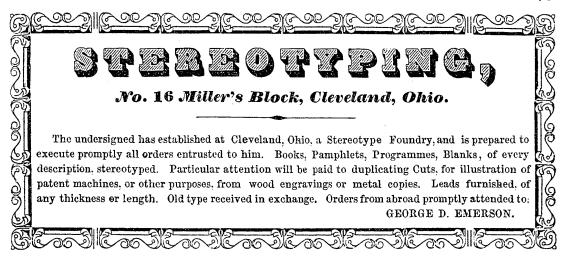

The company purchased in the city of Detroit about 22 acres of ground when they commenced operation, most of it being under water. This they filled in to low water mark, or the edge of the channel, and erected thereon their buildings &c., for the accommodation of the business at this end of the line.

They have on these premises upwards of twenty six hundred feet of dock front on the river, where vessels can lie in water from twelve to twenty feet deep. They have erected a large Freight Depot, one hundred feet wide, and extending eight hundred feet along the dock upon the river.

This building, in both stories, can store about ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BARRELS OF FLOUR. In this building are some ingenious and expeditious apparatus for hoisting flour by barrel to the upper story, worked by a stationary engine.

The cranberry crop of this season has been unusually abundant in the vicinity of. St. Pauls, Min. DETROIT GENERAL DIRECTORY.

275

Adjoining this is a Passenger Depot three hundred and twenty five feet long, and seventy five feet wide; in one end of which are the Ticket office, Ladies Room, Baggage Room &c., and, up stairs, the Superintendent's and Treasurers offices, Engineers Room, Local Superintendent and Cashier, and also the General Ticket offices and Duplicate Bill Department.

Below the freight depot, on the river front, are two large two-story warehouses, capable of storing twenty six thousand barrels of flour.

The twenty two acres are all inclosed by a fence, and have the river on one side for twenty six hundred feet, and the street upon the other side. In this inclosure is erected an engine house with sixteen stalls for engines. The building is circular, one hundred and thirty feet in diameter, surmounted with a dome eighty five feet high. Connected with this are two Machine and Blacksmith shops, one of which is one hundred and sixty feet long, sixty feet wide and two stories high, in which are twenty three blacksmiths forges, the other one hundred and eighty by fifty five feet, having thirty one fires, and both furnished with blast from a fan run by a stationary engine. In the second story of this building are a large number of lathes, planing machines, work benches &c., for turning and planing iron, and repairing and fitting up machinery.

This building and the Engine House are sufficiently capacious to give room for two hundred workmen. Adjoining these shops for iron work, is a large shop for building and repairing cars, one hundred and sixty nine feet long, fifty five feet wide; and two stories high, giving room sufficient for one hundred workmen. All the machinery in this shop and Machine shop is driven by a large stationary engine, placed in a building between the two. There is also between the two a large Smoke-Stock, thirteen feet square and one hundred and fifty feet high, by means of which all the smoke of the shops is carried off by underground flues. In the yard of this company, there is also a Wheat Warehouse, upon the river front, one hundred and twenty feet by sixty, and seventy feet high.

This is so arranged as to elevate the wheat from the cars into bins above, and spout it directly into the vessel lying along side the dock, without handling.

There are also a Lumber House, a house for storing iron and materials, and some other smaller buildings. The buildings, most of them are of brick, and fire proof from without.

A MYSTERIOUS DISCOVERY.—Yesterday afternoon as the workmen were engaged in digging a hole upon the Common, in which to set a tree, they came upon a brick arch, which, upon opening, and waiting awhile for the nitrous gas to escape, one of the workmen descended and explored this cave. It was about ten feet deep, fifteen feet in length, and six feet wide. Upon the North side was an iron'door, from hence issued a flight of stone steps. This door was nearly decayed with rust. The bricks were of a very quaint mould, differing entirely from any we have seen or heard of before, being of a semicircular shape. Four small earthen jars or pots, of a curious form, with uncouth heads moulded upon them were found in one corner of the vault, one of which was filled with amorphous pieces of silver, covered with a yellowish brown mould or rust. The other three contained a motly assortment of jewelry, of the most singular form and make; consisting of heavy gold rings elaborately wrought with chasings of beads and antique armor, entwined in scroll work and flowers; bracelets buckles, earrings, &c. In a crevice between the bricks was stuck a dagger, which, upon touching, the blade immediately crumbled to pieces, being completely eaten up with rust. The handle, upon a little rubbing, proved to be of fine gold, set with six costly diamonds.

Here is a problem for antiquarians to solve. The only clue or key given to this strange affair, is the inscription found engraven upon the handle of the dagger, which some of our learned pundits are now trying to translate; it reads thus-"LO, OF-L. IRP. A."

The articles have been deposited in the City Hall, and the cave will "emain open to-day for the examination of the curious.

OFFICIAL !- The following is a literal copy of a "beggar's petition" which has lately been circulated by a lad with particularly red hair and sandy complexion :

This is to certify that the bearer, Antonio Patrico O'Flahertyo, is a native of Italy, and belongs to some of those unfortunate families who were thrown from the Crater of Mount Vesuvius in the eruption of 1807; and in descending the side of the rugged mountain, with masses of stone, lava, &c., was cruelly separated from his fond parents, his tender sister and loving brothers. Thus he was thrown upon the world at an early age, an orphan without friends; but, by the aid of philanthrophic Italians he was enabled to procure a license and a stock of penny papers, which he for months continued to sell at the various railroad stations in and about Naples. By untiring industry and strict economy, he was enabled to reach this country, through which he now wanders in hopes of meeting his long lost separated family, who, as the wind was blowing strong from the east at the time of the eruption, he doubts not exist somewhere among us.

of Michigan, owe much to the instrumentality of the Messrs. Ward's marine, for the safe and speedy transport of the prosperous millions of settlers, who are now engaged in the familiarised habits of agricultural and commercial industry, building up our great gigantic Republican Empire.

Those steamboat princes in connection with the MICHIGAN CENTRAL RAIL ROAD COMPANY, and other subordinate agents of transportation, have been, and are the great common carriers of those millions and their merchandise, who have for years been "settling the west," in Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. and also in Western Canada.

It should not detract from those lively feelings of grateful public approbation of private successful enterprise, that such enterprise makes its proprietors rich; it conduces to enrich all within the sphere of its instrumentality.

If our now happy and highly favored western millions, of rich manufacturers. merchants and farmers, had to fold their arms in patient expectancy for some speculating steamboat and railway proprietors to build for them even the rougher and ruder modes of travel to their desired settlements on the fertile and inviting shores of Lakes Erie, Michigan, Huron and Superior, how long should they have lingered before reaching the more genial climes of the West ?

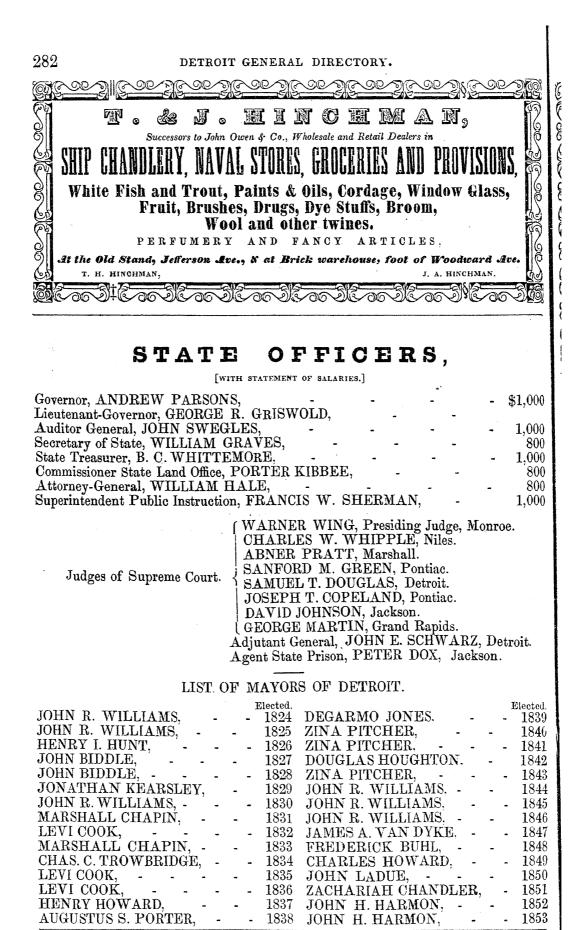

Detroit is now, at nearly one thousand miles distance, within almost one day's travel of New York, the almost greatest metropolitan mart of human industry, wealth and luxury in the world, and through New York the cities of the Union at large bears a close affinity to the affairs of the rest of mankind.

LITERARY PHYSIC.—A writer of the last century states that, at Constantinople, the respect for printed books is so great, that when people are sick, they fancy they can be read into health again; and if the Koran should not be in the way, they will make shift with a few verses of the Bible, or a chapter or two of the Talmud, or of any other book that comes first to hand, rather than not read something.

A WORD OF EXPLANATION.

6 The drawing to determine which of our subscribers shall receive the free 6 gift of $1,000 will be conducted by several of the leading merchants of this city, 9 whose reputation will be a sufficient pledge to all parties of an honorable award. 9 Sufficient notice of the drawing will be given to enable such as choose to be 9 present.

From present indications, we believe that our subscription list of one hundred thousand dollars will be filled up in five or six months from this date, after which time the drawing will take place.

The inducements here offered to individuals and clubs to subscribe to the a "G" United States Journal," may be summed up as follows:

2 1. The subscriber is certain to get more than the worth of his money in the paper itself.

3 2. Each subscriber has a chance in the $1,000 prize, which is certain to be discribered as a chance of the second se

3. Persons forwarding money for clubs are sure of a valuable return in books —a copy for one year gratis—and one chance in the $1,000 prize.

The books will be forwarded by mail (postage prepaid) at our own expense. Correspondents will be particular to give the name of the Post Town, County and State.

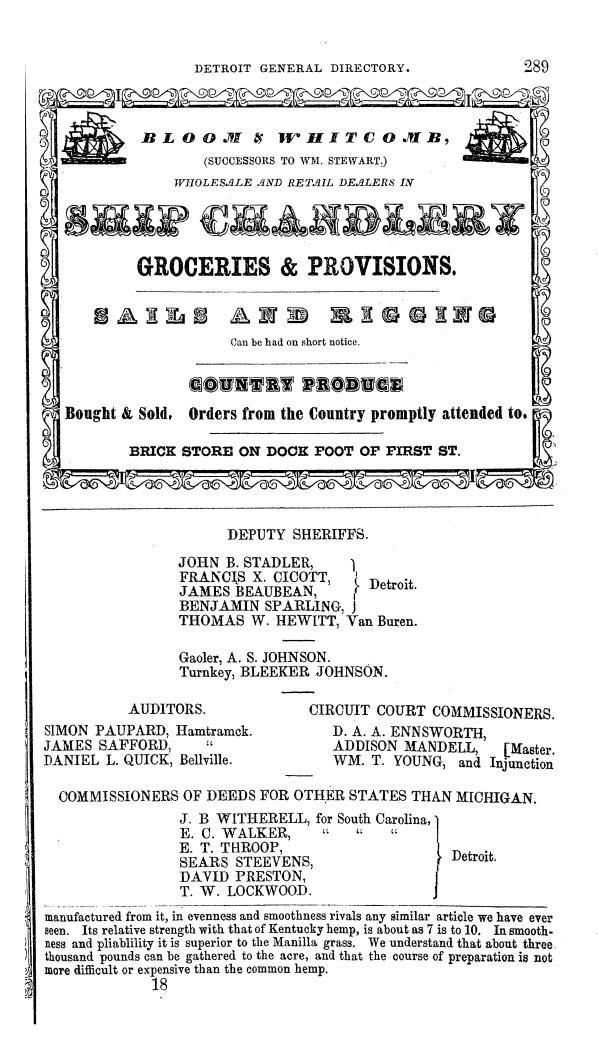

Any responsible person, residing in a town or village where our paper is known, can make up a club in a few hours.

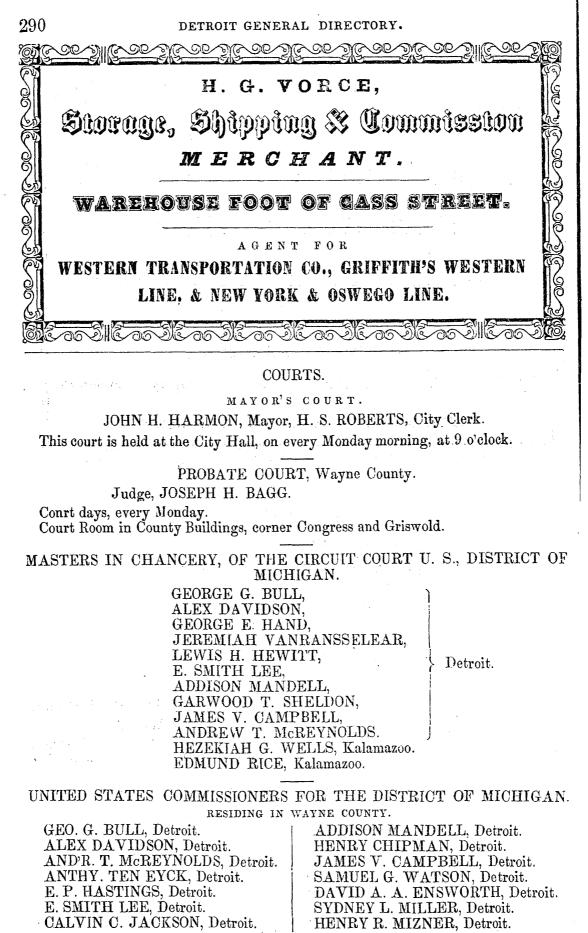

Our present Subscribers and others, to whom this is sent, who may not be disposed to act on the above offers, will greatly oblige us by handing this to some person who will feel an interest in it, or by posting it where it will be seen.—? Persons wishing to see a copy of our paper, will please order it without charge. The publishers would refer to the following named firms for the respectability and high standing of the "United States Journal," and the responsibility of the Publishers.

GREEN.--Stepping into friend Geo. Winter's hat store, last evening, we were much amused with the verdancy displayed by a young fellow from the country, who was endeavoring to fit himself with a Kossuth hat, of which George has a large variety. The clerk, "Harry of the North," asked him $3 for one which he had selected, and which fitted him as a shirt does a beanpole, when the fellow, with a most perfect look of honesty, asked, "Hain't you got a size smaller for twenty shillin's?"

AN ESPECIAL CAUSE OF QUARREL.—The hard advertising contest for some time existing between "WINTER" and 'BARROWMAN," of Detroit, as to who shall produce the neatest and finest Hat for public patronage is very observable by a discriminating public. They are both, manifestly,—to an extent equal to the extreme beauty of their superior Hats,

The Asylum building is situated in the upper part of Jefferson Avenue.

The object of the Association is the maintenance and education of destitute orphan children, principally such as have lost both parents, one of the parents having been a resident of Detroit at the time of his or her death.

The managers have power to extend the benefits of the institution to other orphan children, at their discretion.

No child is admitted into the Asylum until it has attained its second year, (though the managers may, at their discretion, extend aid to such as are younger,) nor continue in it after the completion of its twelfth year.

[The compiler has not been made aware of the nature of the education pursued; nor of the terms of entry; nor of the other details connected with this, and other kindred institutions in the city, although public invitation was made by him, inviting principals of such institutions to embrace the opportunity of advertising in the Directory.]

BROTHERS OF THE CHRISTIAN SCHOOLS.

There are two schools taught under this denomination in the city, one in St. Ann's (French Catholic) Church, containing about four hundred scholars—the other, St. Mary's Church, containing about three hundred scholars.

INDIAN CURIOSITIES --- In excavating for the building of the railroad near Windsor on the Canada side, the workmen have found various Indian implements, which have been buried with the dead. They are now digging through what was once an Indian burying place, and find beads, pipes, hatchets, arrows, and other kinds of articles used by the sons of the forest, either for ornament, or warfare. We were shown some specimens yesterday which were well preserved although they must have been in the earth for a long period.

[Col. Dibble, at the Biddle House, will supply any desired information.—EDITOR.] The Masonic Hall is quite an ornament to Jefferson avenue, and its designers may be proud of so beautiful a structure. The two first stories are occupied as stores and offices—the third and fourth stories contain the Hall, and necessary apartments subservient to the purposes of the craft. The Masonic fraternity of Detroit are in a highly prosperous condition The same may be noted of the State generally. From the Lodge at Kalamazoo originated the patriotic and fraternal proposition that the craft should become purchasers of the Homestead and Farm of their great departed Masonic brother, President General GEORGE W. WASHINGTON, of Immortal Memory.

It is a pleasure to notice with what celerity Mr. Metz discharges his numerous orders, although his hands are always quite full. He is singularly adapted for this kind of slating. The age of tin and shingled roofs is almost gone past for ever.

Editor of Directory.

The first Temple was organized in New York city, December 5, 1845; the first Grand Temple (that of New York) February 21, 1846.

There are, at present. Grand Temples in fifteen States, and subordinate Temples in every State in the Union, except Vermont, South Carolina and California. They are also located in two British provinces.

The great, governing object is the promotion of the temperance cause. The pledge taken by every brother is, that he will abstain from the use of all alcoholic baverages during life; and in addition to this, use all honorable means in his power to prevent their manufacture or use, or the trafic in them.

Believing that virtue is the only true basis of friendship, all our ceremonies teach, and laws require the practice of a high morality. The belief in the existence of a God, and our accountability to him, are prerequisite conditions to membership. "Love to God, our country and our fellow man," are characteristics of every worthy Templar. These truths and principles are illustrated and enforced by pleasing and attractive ceremonies, and the most solemn requirements.

In addition to the initiatory Degree, three other Degrees are established, the object of which is to perfect the brethren in the principles, precepts and workings, of the Order—each successive Degree inculcating higher and still higher moral precepts.

The crowning grace of the Temple, however, is the Social Degree, where woman, whose province heretofore has been to "suffer and to wait," can join hands with us in our labor of love. Here father and mother, sister and brother, husband and wife, son and daughter, can all unite in one great family, having the same object in view, and consult together on the best means of attaining that object. All Templars in good standing, and all ladies of good moral character, are eligible to this Degree.

The Temple of Honor is also a beneficial organization. The receipts are ample, if properly cared for, to secure the promised benefits. The usual fees and dues of the Temples now in operation are as follows: Initiation, $5; Dues, $4 per year; Degrees, including Social Degree, $9. The benefits are: in sickness $3 per week. On the Death of a brother, $25 are appropriated for a funeral benefit; on the death of a brother's wife, $15. These are slightly varied, but are about the average rates.

BINDING IN RUSSIA.—A gentleman, on taking an edition of Gibbon's Rome to a bookseller's in Dublin to be bound, was asked whether he would have it bound in Russia? "O no, no !" he replied, "Russia is too far off, I will have it bound in Dublin."

DETROIT LADIES' ACADEMY.

The public will be indebted to Mr Warren, editor of the Tribune, for the subjoined interesting statistical report, relative to the Detroit Ladies' Academy. This institution has frequently received notices highly complimentary and equally deserving, from the pen of Mr Warren.—ED. DIRECTORY.

The Detroit Ladies' Academy is pleasantly situated on Fort street, between Wayne and Shelby. This institution has been in successful operation since 1852, when a few friends of the enterprise, impressed with the necessity of a more vigorous effort in behalf of female education, than had yet been made in this section of the West, aided Miss Hunt in purchasing a suitable building for the school, which, during the last Academic year, has numbered one hundred and thirty pupils. The design from the first, has been to furnish a thorough and systematic course of education to young ladies, commencing with the preparatory studies and including all the branches usually taught in our first class seminaries and female colleges. At the commencement of the present year, Miss Hunt succeeded in making an arrangement, by which she will hereafter be associated with Miss M. E. Adams, well known in the state as a talented and efficient educator. Miss Hunt and Miss Adams, assisted by a competent corps of teachers, will, with the aid and encouragement of the Detroit people, do all they can to make the school what Detroit needs. At the same time, they will endeavor to keep the expenses within such limits, that the terms may be sufficiently low to enable those who are really desirous of obtaining an education, to avail themselves of its privileges. The Academic year is divided into three terms, of fourteen weeks each,—the first commencing on the second Monday in September; the second on the first Monday in January, and the third on the fourth Monday in April.

MECHANICS' MUTUAL PROTECTION.

This is a Society of Mechanics, organized by secret initiation, and allowing benefits in case of sickness. It is a branch of a general organization, intended to unite the ENGLISH ALE IN PARIS.—A few months ago, an English company established an alehouse in the Champs Elysees : in the month of August their sale amounted to 80,000 quarts at a price about double what is charged in England.

Company numbers 60 members. Armory in State Armory. This company is efficiently disciplined, the members include the elite of the city, and the uniform is becoming and appropriate.

HAPPINESS OF CHILDREN.—Children may teach us one blessed, one enviable art—the art of being easily happy. Kind nature has given to them that useful power of accomodation to circumstances which compensates for many external disadvantages, and it is only by injudicious management that it is lost. Give him but a moderate portion of food and kindness, and the peasant's child is happier than the duke's; free from artificial wants, unsatiated by indulgence, all nature ministers to his pleasures: he can carve out felicity from a bit of hazel twig, or fish for it successfully in a puddle. I love to hear the boisterous joy of a troop of ragged urchins, whose cheap playthings are nothing more than mud, snow, sticks, or oyster shells; or to watch the quiet enjoyment of a half clothed, half washed fellow of four or five years old, who sits with a large rusty knife and a lump of bread and bacon at his father's door, and might move the envy of an alderman.

How To UNDERSTAND A SUBJECT.—If you want to understand a subject, near a man speak of it whose business it is. If you want to understand the man, hear him speak of something else.

Company organized June, 1853. Numbers about 60 members. Armory south side Jefferson avenue, bet. Bates and Randolph.

This is a rifle company, and very handsomely appointed.— EDITOR.

Not having been informed of the respective dates of organization, I have placed these companies in their alphabetical order without regard to their respective claims to seniority. They are highly creditable to the City of the Straits—all efficiently equipped and handsomely uniformed and appointed; and it is to be hoped, from their reputed efficiency, both in drill and field practice, and as superior marksmen, they would form a very efficient battallion, in the event of their services being required to assist in its defence and of the country generally.

It is respectfully recommended that they abstain from parade displays accompanied with music on Sundays; and remember that the good "OLD HICKORY" himself refused to review the troops at New Orleans upon a Sunday, in high regard for the moral and religious observances of that day. ED. DIRECTORY.

BOUNDARIES OF THE WARDS.

First Ward.—All west of the centre line of Shelby street to the lower line of the Jones farm and south of the centre of Michigan ave.

Second Ward.—All south of the centre of Monroe and Michigan avenues and between the centres of Shelby and Randolph streets.

Third Ward.—All south of Croghan street, and between the centre lines of Randolph and St. Antoine streets.

Fourth Ward.—All south of the Gratiot road, and between the centre lines of St. Antoine and Rivard street.

Fifth Ward.—All north of the centre of Michigan avenue, and west of the centres of Woodward avenue and the Saginaw turnpike, to the lower line of the Jones' farm.

Sixth Ward.—All east of the centre of Woodward avenue, north of the centres of Monroe avenue and Croghan street, and west of the centre line of St. Antoine street.

Seventh Ward.—All south of the Gratiot road, and east of the centre of Rivard street.

Eighth Ward.—All between the lower line of the Jones' farm and upper line of the Woodbridge street.

To GOURMANDS.—There is now an establishment in full activity at Gorey, which promises to be a useful acquisition to the oyster fishery. A large quantity of oysters are now being prepared for exporting to the East Indies; for this purpose they are shelled, and after undergoing a certain process, they are placed in small tin canisers of about a pint, which are then hermetically closed; it is said they will keep fresh for two or three years.

THE DETROIT WATER WORKS.

[The following elaborate report of Mr. Robert E. Roberts, secretary of the Water Works Commissioners, is printed for purposes of interesting reference in the Directory. The Compiler of the Directory, more than all other men, can better realise the ardous labors of Mr. R. in the discharge of the duties involved in this report.—En.]

Mr. Robert E. Roberts, the secretary to the Board of Water Commissioners, completed the assessments of water rates for the year commencing July 1, 1853, end ending July 1, 1854, and has furnished the following table as the result of his labors. The table contains a large amount of information as to the growth and progress of the city, which will bear examination.

The number of assessments for the present year are 5323. The amount received for assessments of water rates during the year 1853 over the previous year has been $3,269 and the total increase during two years has been 8,861 This increase of income, while the rates have remained without change, must be very gratifying to the advocates and friends of this important improvement, and certainly proves that in asking from the Legislature the amendments obtained last winter, they were only influenced by a prudent foresight and a wise desire to meet the growing wants of the city.

Mr. Roberts in addition to the table showing the number of assessments in each ward, has added a table showing the increase in each ward during the two past years, which is very valuable for comparison. The following shows the estimated population of the city:

The number of families assessed is

The number of families estimated in the taverns, assessed 5 each,	210
The number of families boarding in private boarding houses estimated at	250
The number of families residing on the river now assessed estimated at	100
The number of families obtaining supplies from wells	300
The number of families residing within the limits of the city, beyond the extension of water logs	20 0
The number of families who escape assessments.	100
Total number of families in the city	$5,\!443$

The undersigned respectfully reports that he has completed the assessment of Water rates, for the year commencing July 1st, 1853, and ending July 1st, 1854, and submits the following statistics, as the results. The Collector's books, for both collecting districts, have been made out and ready to be placed in the hands of the collectors.

LIST OF POST OFFICES IN THE STATE OF MICHIGAN.

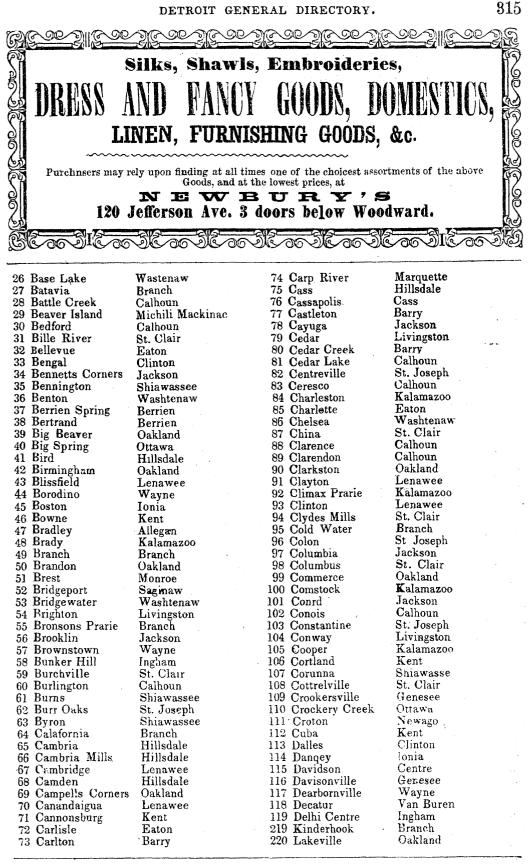

I have selected, with considerable care and labor, from the General Post Office List of the Union, — containing upwards of Twenty Eight Thousand names of places, — the subjoined List of Post Offices in the State of Michigan, — alphebetically arranged. It is to be hoped the Merchants of Detroit will find it a useful addition to the Directory, (as there has been no such list hitherto printed) and facilitate them in forwarding their printed circulars and catalogues of merchandise. Post Masters are necessarily men of intelligence, and capable of affording, on proper application, much useful commercial statistical data, relative to their respective Districts.

I should have been gratified to mail a free copy of the Directory for 1853--4, to each Post Master in this State, but the FIVE HUNDRED COPIES I have allocated to FREE DISTRIBUTION throughout the cities and villages of the State &c., FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE ADVERTISING FRIENDS OF THE ENTERPRISE, out of the 2000 COPIES PRINTED, may not all be sent to Post Offices; although I am persuaded that a copy hung up in each Post Office would prove essentially useful to the community generally, — who have such constant and increasing commercial intercommunication with Detroit as the great Central Depot for the general trade of Michigan. I shall, however, anticipate for the next issue increased success, derivable from the liberable advertising patronage of the Directory as an ADVERTISING MEDIUM; and should such anticipations be realized to the extent of enabling me to distribute free ONE THOUSAND (I should be more highly pleased in saying two THOUSAND) copies, I shall efficiently discharge myself of the obligation to carry into effect so desirable an object. The Post Office Department, as well as citizens generally, will, it is pre-JAMES D. JOHNSTON. sumed, find the following list useful.

A SCOTCH ANSWER.—A bluff, consequential, commercial gentleman from the south, riding along the Hamilton road, near to Blantyre, asked a herd boy on the roadside, in a tone that meant to quiz, if he were "half way to Hamilton ?" "Man," replied the boy, "I wad need to ken whar ye has come fras, afore I could answer your question."

AWKWARD MISTAKE.—A lady and gentleman who had booked their places at the Gloucester Coffee house, for the little town of Lymington, in Hampshire, found themselves, after a beautiful ride, at the fashionable town of Leamington, in Warwickshire, and had, greatly to their annoyance, to retrace their journey by the mail of the same evening.

A Moving Pun.—" Ah!" remarked a gentleman the other day, pointing to a wretched inebriate, "yonder fellow is dying by inches." "Nay," said his friend, " not so fast, if you please, he is only going off by barleycorns."

FORCE OF HABIT.—It has been told of the late Mr. Peter More, and was actually true of Secretary Craggs, who began life as a footman—that in the days of his opulence, he once handed some ladies into their carriage, and then, from the mere force of habit, got up behind it himself.
