August 2018 Council Meeting Public Comment: Atlantic Mackerel Issues

Dear Dr. Moore,

I would first like to thank you and the other council members for the opportunity to comment and for your time to hear my concerns.

My name is Christian Berardi. I am a commercial fisherman and the owner/operator of the F/V Kathryn T out of Green Harbor, MA. I own a small day-boat fishing vessel and am part of the open access category for Atlantic Mackerel.

I am writing to comment on issues in the Atlantic Mackerel rebuilding Framework, specifically Alternative Set 2 "In Season Management."

As a participant in the open access category I oppose any changes to the daily trip limit for this category from the status quo of 20,000lbs. It seems under all alternatives in Alternative 2 besides status quo that the open access category will be reduced to 5,000lbs when a target threshold has been met.

As a small boat vessel, using hook and line methods, we offer an extremely sustainable method of harvesting mackerel with near zero by-catch. We also receive higher dollar values per unit of fish given our fresh product and our ability to specifically target larger fish as needed.

It seems counterproductive to put further restrictions beyond our already low daily trip limits on our category of permits. The open access category lands a relatively small portion of the total Mackerel catch and targeting such a sustainable method of harvest for lower trip limits would be counterintuitive to managing a sustainable fishery.

Regarding the other Alternatives in the Mackerel Framework I defer to the committee and council's judgment to manage the mackerel fishery appropriately

I appreciate the forum you have provided to express my comments. I would also welcome you or anyone else involved in the decision making process regarding the mackerel fishery to reach out to me to discuss changes or solutions in the future or if you would like me to provide any documentation and/or helpful information regarding my specific methods or contribution to the fishery.

Sincerely,

Christian Berardi,

Council Meeting Public Comment: Atlantic Mackerel and Squid Issues

Dear Dr. Moore,

My name is Michael Pratt, and I am a full-time commercial fisherman, and the owner and operator of the 42' F/V PERFECT C's out of Marshfield, MA.

Thank you, and the other council members for giving me the opportunity to share my concerns.

Trip limit reductions to the open access mackerel permit will have a huge negative impact on an already struggling small boat fleet. The hook and line mackerel fishery primarily takes place from May through December. It is made up of two or three boats that fish the whole season and another dozen or so that fish for a short period of time in the fall.

We operate under an open access permit that was established through Amendment 11. The National Marine Fisheries Service Permit Application and Renewal Form state that this permit: "May commercially fish for Atlantic Mackerel in the EEZ for up to 20,000lb. of mackerel". The described intent of this permit was to satisfy, "Any vessel that does not qualify for tiered permits as well as new participants". Recently this permit has been referred to as incidental. This is not a fair representation of what this permit was intended for and is misleading.

My vessel operates under strict federal guidelines, included VMS, daily catch reporting and observer requirements. In addition to that, I have recently started participating in dockside sampling. Although small scaled by comparison to the rest of the fleet, we are indeed a viable part of the fishery. As the mackerel stock is rebounding it appears the directed fishery will most likely close before I am able to start fishing, and in turn that could drastically cut my trip limits by 75%.

My vessel is 42'. Bad weather can prevent me from reaching fishing grounds for days at a time. During the good weather days and when the fish are biting, it is imperative that we are given landing limits larger than 5,000 to remain profitable.

The few small businesses like mine that have relied on this permit deserve protection by the council and National Marine Fisheries.

Thank you again for your time and for giving me a voice. Please feel free to contact me directly to discuss this further.

Sincerely,

Michael Pratt

Re. Comments on the Mackerel Rebuilding Framework to the Atlantic Mackerel, Squid, and Butterfish Fishery Management Plan

Dear Mr. Moore, Mr. Luisi, Mr. Hughes, and Ms. Winslow:

We are writing on behalf of The Pew Charitable Trusts to express concern about the alternatives recommended by the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council (MAFMC or Council) Mackerel Squid Butterfish Committee (MSB Committee), River Herring and Shad Committee (RHS Committee) and MAFMC staff for the Atlantic Mackerel Rebuilding Framework and the annual catch specifications to the Atlantic Mackerel, Squid, and Butterfish Fishery Management Plan (MSB FMP) and the River Herring and Shad catch cap level advised for 2019-2021. At the full Council meeting in August we urged the Council to implement conservative alternatives consistent with federal law in the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (MSA) to rebuild this important forage species as quickly as possible and protect river herring and shad (RH/S) by maintaining the current catch cap throughout the duration of the mackerel rebuilding timeframe. The November 2017 benchmark stock assessment for Atlantic mackerel is the first ever peer reviewed and accepted stock assessment for Atlantic mackerel. As the best available science, it concludes that the stock is overfished and subject to overfishing, and has been for over a decade.<sup>i</sup> As a result, the MSA requires the Council to prepare and implement a rebuilding plan that rebuilds this population as quickly as possible.<sup>ii</sup> Additionally, the Council has twice declined to manage imperiled river herring and shad as stocks in the mackerel fishery which would have provided them the protections they require to also rebuild. In justifying these decisions, the Council relied heavily on the ability of catch caps for RH/S in the Atlantic mackerel and Atlantic herring fisheries to limit catch and incentivize avoidance. These caps are not based on the ecology of RH/S or the needs of their predators. The RH/S Committee's recommendation to increase them simply based on the availability of mackerel contradicts the Council and NOAA Fisheries' assertions that current conservation measures provide RH/S the protections necessary to keep them from needing full federal conservation and management under the MSA to avoid further depletion and possible extinction of the distinct mid-Atlantic population. When approving this framework action, the Council should specifically:

- 1) Select Alternative 1b implementing a 3-Year Rebuilding based on P* with no risk policy change;
- 2) Select the Canada1 option that sets aside 50 percent of the overall quota for Canadian catch; and
- 3) Select the "No Action" Alternative 3a that maintains the RH/S catch cap at status quo with no increases for the next three years.

1) Select Alternative 1b implementing a 3-Year Rebuilding plan based on P* with no risk policy change

- a. The MSA requires the Council to select Alternative 1b and rebuild the Atlantic mackerel stock as quickly as possible (3 years)

Alternative 1b is the only rebuilding alternative that complies with the requirements of the MSA. The MSA requires that “for a fishery that is overfished, any ... proposed regulations ... for such fishery shall specify a time for rebuilding that shall be as short as possible, taking into account the status and biology of any overfished stock.”<sup>iii</sup> The law permits the Council to take into account the needs of the fishing community, but only in conjunction with other listed factors including the needs of the overfished stock and the ecosystem.<sup>iv</sup> Staff has provided no economic or predator/prey analysis necessary to justify ignoring its legal mandate to rebuild in the shortest time possible. The benefits to the nation are much higher in rebuilding one of the Atlantic’s most historically abundant and important forage species and fisheries in three years so that the enduring benefits of an abundant mackerel population will be realized by other fishermen and the ecosystem at large. If the Council chooses an alternative that doesn’t rebuild the stock in the shortest time possible, as was recommended by the MSB Committee, the Council and NOAA Fisheries must fully justify that decision consistent with all of the statutory considerations, including by showing why the short-term preferences of the mackerel fishing community outweigh the statutory factors that would favor selection of the shorter timeframe. There is no such justification in the Mackerel Rebuilding Framework document.

In order, to justify selecting a timeframe that is greater than the shortest possible time, the “interaction of the overfished stock of fish within the marine ecosystem” must be considered in conjunction with the needs of the fishing community.<sup>v</sup> It is critically important to maintain a healthy population of Atlantic mackerel as they are a vital part of a complex of species that form the forage base for the region’s marine ecosystems. The Mackerel Rebuilding Framework fails to meaningfully consider any ecosystem considerations when evaluating the rebuilding alternatives for this important forage species. Where the document should address “ecosystem considerations”<sup>vi</sup>, it simply reiterates the policies outlined in the Council’s recently adopted Ecosystem Approaches to Fisheries Management (EAFM) Guidance Document with no application to the mackerel rebuilding plan. One of the listed EAFM Guidance policies is the adoption “of biological reference points (overfishing levels or OFL) for forage stocks that are more conservative than the required MSA standard” of fishing at maximum sustainable yield.<sup>vii</sup> This details exactly how the Council should manage Atlantic mackerel and all other managed forage species – employing biological reference points that are more conservative in order to leave enough fish in the water for ecologically and economically important predator species.<sup>viii</sup> Yet, there is no analysis of how this could and should apply in the context of rebuilding the Atlantic mackerel population. Instead, MAFMC staff and the MSB and RH/S Committees recommend selection of rebuilding Alternative 1c that allows for increased catch of this overfished stock and implements a 5-year rebuilding plan – two years longer than the shortest rebuilding timeframe possible that is consistent with MSA standards.

There is no justification for selecting an alternative that implements a rebuilding timeline that is greater than the shortest time possible, and adoption of the Committee recommendation will run afoul of the MSA’s mandates. The Council should select Alternative 1b, with the Canada1 deduction that rebuilds the Atlantic mackerel stock in three years because it adheres to the requirements of the MSA, the Council’s risk policy, the best available science, the needs of the stock and its predators, and common sense.

- b. The Council's risk policy requires the Council to select Alternative 1b that sets ABCs using the standard P* risk policy

The MAFMC risk policy was designed to ensure the Council makes consistent and correct management decisions when faced with variable uncertainty. The policy requires that the Science and Statistical Committee (SSC) set the Acceptable Biological Catch (ABCs) for a rebuilding plan that is either the lesser of rebuilding ABCs or standard risk policy ABCs (P*<sup>ix</sup>). This risk policy was developed by the Council through a public process with input across stakeholders. In this instance, the P* ABCs are lower and the risk policy requires that the SSC set the ABC's for mackerel using the standard risk policy (P*) which are the ABCs outlined in rebuilding Alternative 1b. To select Alternatives 1c or 1d that rebuild the stock in 5 and 7 years respectively, the Council would circumvent its own risk policy. The MSB and RH/S Committees' recommendation of Alternative 1c does just that, by recommending that this framework action change the risk policy at the very first moment it is accomplishing what it was intended to do – require a precautionary approach to management and limit risk to an already overfished population by ensuring the Council doesn't increase catch at the moment the stock begins to rebound.

- c. National Standard 2 and its guidelines require that the Council use the best available science when managing Atlantic mackerel and select Alternative 1b

National Standard 2 and its guidelines require that the Council manage stocks, including overfished stocks, using the best available science.<sup>x</sup> Accordingly, this rebuilding plan must employ the best available science when determining how best to rebuild Atlantic mackerel. The best available single-species science on Atlantic mackerel is the 2016 stock assessment, which determined that the stock is (1) subject to overfishing, and has been for over a decade, and (2) overfished. This determination requires the Council to initiate rebuilding under the MSA's conservation requirement to rebuild as soon as possible. Under Term Of Reference (TOR) 7, the stock assessment makes projections of catch at  $F_{MSY}$  for the next three years; 2016 is the terminal year of the stock assessment and 2017 catch was assumed to be the same as the ABC plus 2,000 for an increase in the Canadian total allowable catch.<sup>xi</sup> Projections at the  $F_{MSY}$  proxy showed a large increase in catch between 2018-2020. Additionally, there was an increase in spawning stock biomass (SSB) in 2017. The stock assessment says these increases are due to a strong 2014-2015 year class.

The primary problem with relying on one projected year class to increase catch in a rebuilding plan is that, because the terminal year of the stock assessment is 2016, the data on the 2014-15 year class is very limited. This creates significant uncertainty about whether the increase in abundance and SSB in the short term will manifest in meaningful and lasting increases in the stock in the long term. There is historical evidence to suggest that it will not (See Figure 1). Basing the decision to increase catch on an overfished stock on information that is tenuous and uncertain is contrary to the requirements of the National Standard Guidelines,<sup>xii</sup> and poor management of an imperiled resource.

Even if the 2015 year class turns out to be as robust as hoped, the best available science dictates that the Council maintain catch levels that rebuild the overfished population as soon as possible. Increasing fishing at the very moment the population may be beginning to rebound is a proven recipe for failure for both the Atlantic mackerel stock and the reliant fishery. At the recent MSB AP and Committee meetings, staff presented data and an accompanying graph showing four major recruitment events in the past 50 years (See Figure 1). After each of these recruitment events, managers increased catch for a few years as the stock began to grow, and each time it resulted in a failure of the recruitment events to materialize into an enduring rebound in the population. Eventually overfishing brought the stock to historic lows and ultimately led to the current overfished status. The record shows several of these past proven recruitment events were two to four times as large as the projected 2015 year class.

Precautionary management in a rebuilding plan for a forage species is consistent with legal requirements of the MSA and the needs of predators and a healthy ecosystem. The Council should learn from its past mistakes and keep fishing at a conservative level until the stock is fully rebuilt, which will allow the 2015 year class to recruit and help the stock to fill out its age structure and recover to a healthy abundance. Increased quotas under these circumstances would not be based on the best available science and are contrary to the requirements of National Standard 2 and the National Standard Guidelines.<sup>xiii</sup>

- d. The rebuilding plan should account for the ecological impact of proposed mackerel catch and rebuild this stock to a higher and sufficient level to protect and improve the structure and function of the ecosystem.

The Council should follow its own Ecosystem Approaches to Fishery Management (EAFM) guidance document, and take this key opportunity to transition from single species management in the Atlantic mackerel rebuilding plan. Atlantic mackerel are highly connected throughout the food web of the Northwest Atlantic. They were once among the most abundant forage fish on the east coast and if properly managed, they could be again. Historically mackerel have been managed on a single species basis and fished at or beyond maximum sustainable yield, and according to the new stock assessment overfishing has occurred for over a decade.<sup>xv</sup> It is time for this failed approach to change.

The Atlantic mackerel rebuilding plan should use the best available science to understand the multi-species and multi-fishery tradeoffs and impacts of catch decisions, and employ forage specific ecological reference points that would set the rebuilding target for Atlantic mackerel higher than MSY. The Council's EAFM guidance document outlines the best available science and offers suggestions for a target biomass for forage species.<sup>xvi</sup> Instead of following this guidance, the MSB and RH/S Committees advised the Council to increase catch on the first signs of good recruitment in a decade on an already highly overfished forage stock. The Committees' recommendation relies solely on single-species analysis with no ecosystem considerations, and is based on risky evidence of one projected year class. The best available science and common sense indicate this is the wrong way to manage any fishery, particularly an economically and ecologically valuable forage species that supports countless predators and their corresponding fisheries.

- 2) Select the Canada1 option that sets aside 50 percent of the overall quota for Canadian catch

The MSA requires that the Council consider all catch when setting ABCs for managed species.<sup>xvii</sup> Consequently, the Council must select the Canada1 option for whatever rebuilding alternative it chooses to accurately account for all Canadian catch of Atlantic mackerel when setting the domestic ABC. To date the Council has set aside 50 percent of the total ABC to account for Canadian catch. The Canada1 options for 1b, 1c, and 1d continue this through the rebuilding specifications. The Canada2 options in Alternatives 1b, 1c, and 1d would decrease the amount of ABC attributed to Canadian catch to 10,000 metric tons (MT), the current Canadian quota.

The only justification the document offers for this decrease is that Canada is entering a rebuilding plan and thus rapid increases in catch are unlikely.<sup>xviii</sup> This logic is flawed in multiple ways. First, the United States (U.S.) and Canada are looking at the same data to determine management and catch limits. The recommendation of Alternative 1c by MAFMC staff and the MSB and RH/S Committees, if accepted by the full Council, would in effect increase catch further in the U.S. rebuilding plan. Historically, Canadian landings have paralleled U.S. domestic landings, and there is no reason to believe Canada wouldn't pass an increase soon based on the same data in the face of an escalation in U.S. catch. Furthermore, the mackerel rebuilding framework document admits this possibility and states, "Canadian quotas have been increasing somewhat in recent years, and if the U.S. increases ABC's then Canada may follow suit and a 50% set-aside would allow for increases in Canadian quota." It is illogical to assume Canada will not increase catch because they are entering a rebuilding plan when we are increasing U.S. catch as we enter a rebuilding plan. Second, contrary to requirements in the MSA to consider all catch when setting ABCs, there is an approximate 5,000 MT unreported bait fishery in Canada that is not considered in this decision, and 126 MT of estimated discards.<sup>xix</sup> To maintain compliance with the requirements of the MSA, all catch must be accounted for.<sup>xx</sup> The Council cannot set ACLs that prevent overfishing as required by the MSA<sup>xxi</sup> unless all the catch is accounted for. Therefore, the Council must select the Canada1 option to maintain a 50 percent allocation of the overall ABC to account for all catch of Atlantic mackerel.

3) Select the "No Action" Alternative 3a that maintains the RH/S catch cap at status quo with no increases for the next three years

The MSB and RH/S Committees recommend that the Council select a combination of RH/S Alternatives 3b and 3d. Alternative 3b scales the RH/S catch cap with the mackerel domestic annual harvest based on the .74 percent ratio used to set the 2015 cap. Alternative 3d would alter that cap if the mackerel quota is set over 10,000 MT setting the RH/S cap at the current level of 89 MT until mackerel catch reaches 10,000 MT and then scaling up the catch using the same percentage set in 3b, .74 percent of the mackerel domestic annual harvest (DAH). The original intent of the RH/S catch cap in the mackerel fishery was as a RH/S conservation measure, to incentivize avoidance and decrease the catch of these species over time so that the RH/S population would begin to recover. The facts show that this approach has failed, RH/S catch hasn't been avoided, and the amount taken out of the ocean has increased. This scaling approach was wrong from the start and is even more so today.

The MSB Committee's recommendation would place no limit on the potential increase in the RH/S cap, and would be set with no consideration of the health of these highly depleted species. If the MAFMC successfully rebuilds the Atlantic mackerel population as projected using the required precautionary management (Alternative 1b), the mackerel population could rebound significantly, potentially reaching historic abundance levels. If that happens, under the Committees' approach the RH/S cap could scale up dramatically, potentially allowing more than double the amount of RH/S to be taken in the mackerel fishery every year -- based solely on the health of mackerel stock and with no regard to the state of the depleted RH/S populations.

The best available shows that RH/S stocks remain near historic low population levels and may be on the verge of collapse. This is particularly true regarding the distinct population segment of blueback herring in the mid-Atlantic and southern New England that are being caught in the mackerel fishery.<sup>xxii</sup> Although the Council's original stated intent was to replace the RH/S cap with a biologically-based limit, the Council has not done that and the current level is still not based on the biology of the RH/S species complex or the needs of its predators. It remains based solely in the allowable catch of mackerel. There is no scientific data supporting an increase in catch of RH/S in the mid-Atlantic or any science that would suggest any environmental reason why RH/S would increase proportionately with mackerel. In fact, the science demonstrates that the mid-Atlantic/southern New England population of blueback herring is the most imperiled of the RH/S species complex, and therefore warrants the highest conservation prioritization.<sup>xxiii</sup>

The Council should take no action (Alternative 3a) on RH/S catch caps, and act immediately to add RH/S as stocks in the mackerel fishery to establish full federal conservation and management under the MSA. The Committee's recommended alternatives (3b and 3d) would undermine the Council and NOAA Fisheries' continued reliance on this cap to justify their prior decisions to not establish full conservation and management of RH/S under the MSA. The MAFMC has twice voted not to add RH/S as stocks in the fishery. With each vote the Council and NOAA Fisheries pointed specifically to the (limited) management offered by the RH/S caps in the Atlantic mackerel and Atlantic herring fisheries, as well as ongoing research being conducted by the Technical Expert Working Group (TEWG) at the MAFMC. The Council rationalized that RH/S do not need conservation and management under the MSA, because these actions are sufficient to prevent the need for federal management. The MSB and RH/S Committees' recommendation of 3b and 3d allowing the RH/S cap to scale with increased mackerel catch severely undermines the reliability of these caps to protect RH/S, and in fact help ensure they will need full federal management under the MSA.<sup>xxiv</sup> It also puts the most imperiled species in the RH/S complex, the mid-Atlantic/southern New England population of blueback herring, at greater risk of mandated protections under the Endangered Species Act (ESA).

Conclusion

We urge the Council to adopt a rebuilding plan for Atlantic mackerel that is based on the best available science, and that will immediately end overfishing and rebuild this important forage stock to a healthy abundance as soon as possible with the appropriate amount of precaution consistent with the MSA, National Standard Guidelines, and the MAFMC risk policy and EAFM Guidance Document. The Council should not allow for increases in the RH/S cap, and should immediately initiate action to add RH/S as stocks in the mackerel fishery. Thank you for considering these comments in your deliberations on the mackerel rebuilding framework.

Protect Atlantic Mackerel, River Herring and Shad—Maintain the Status Quo

Dear Chairwoman Winslow, Chairman Hughes, and Dr. Moore,

Please do not support any increase in the catch limit for Atlantic mackerel or river herring and shad, which were once among the premier forage species in the western Atlantic. As the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council (Council) debates the rebuilding framework for Atlantic mackerel, its associated 2019-2021 specifications, and the river herring and shad bycatch cap, I urge you to not allow any increase on these depleted forage species.

Specifically, I strongly urge you to support “Alternative 1a. No action/Status Quo (current specifications roll over with no action)” and “Alternative 3a. No action/Status Quo (current measures roll over with no action)” as part of the Mackerel Rebuilding Framework. These are the only alternatives supported by the best available science and consistent with the Council’s risk policy and ecosystem approach to fisheries management.

Atlantic mackerel have declined for decades and have been reduced by over 90 percent. As a result, in recent years the Council has responded with justified catch reductions. Despite those measures, a new benchmark stock assessment, utilizing the best available science, found that mackerel have been subject to overfishing for decades and are now considered overfished, triggering the legal requirement to rebuild the species to abundance as quickly as possible under the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act.

Similarly, river herring and shad populations have declined by up to 96 percent, and after a decade of ad hoc management by the Council, they remain at or near historic lows and are in even more dire need of conservation and management in federal waters. River herring and shad should be managed under the Magnuson-Stevens Act's conservation protections that have successfully rebuilt dozens of other species. Unfortunately, the Council voted twice instead for an incidental catch cap in the mackerel fishery. Despite no biological basis for the cap, it's the only conservation measure for river herring and shad in federal waters.

After nearly half a decade, this weak approach has failed to incentivize avoidance, reduce the amount of mackerel, river herring, and shad taken out of the ocean, or result in any significant improvement in coastwide populations. Now the Council is considering ill-advised alternatives that could increase the catch of mackerel, and double the allowed catch of river herring and shad, as mackerel rebuild. Any increase in the catch of these imperiled forage fish species would be a serious and ongoing threat, undermining efforts to restore these depleted species.

The best available science does not support any increase in mackerel, river herring, or shad catch in the Atlantic. Catch limits for mackerel, river herring, and shad should be based on the best available science, species ecology, and the conservation needs of other fisheries, predators, and the ecosystem. Until such strong and responsible ecosystem-based measures are in place, and the best available science demonstrates significant rebuilding of their populations, no catch increases should be allowed.

Sincerely,

the fresh waterways and the oceans where they live a top priority! It is critical that we do everything that we can to protect the creatures that we share this planet with AND the areas where they live, breathe, hunt (feed), breed, birth and raise their young!!! How well they do is indicative of how well we do! We are stripping this planet of all of it's resources!!! minerals, fossil fuels, natural gases, sea life, freshwater fish, poaching wild animals for sport "perceived" value of certain body parts to extinction for our own greed! Other animals are raised in terrible conditions, pumped full of hormones and who knows what else in factory farms where they are kept in tight cramped cages, unable to move, with no fresh air, sunlight, medical care, clean water, healthy appropriate food or in some farms they do not even have the ability to walk around outside! They are constant baby making machines, treated in deplorable ways, sadly deprived of their young just so they will keep making milk. These farms are filthy and disease ridden and it is where our food comes from! We are poisoning our waters, our air and lands with no thought to what it is doing to us...cutting our nose off despite our faces. Are we truly that

Jean	Andrews	Santa Cruz	CA	What does it take to see that $2 - 2 = 0$ ??? If you take too many fish, after a while you don't have any fish left! Meanwhile, other fish, (and whales, dolphins, puffins, cormorants, ospreys, etc....) are starving for lack of food. It isn't hard to figure out.
Joan	Fuhry	Santa Cruz	CA	Protecting these fish is important for protecting fish higher up on the food chain! Otherwise, all fish will disappear!

Glenn	Gragg	Santa Cruz	CA	DUH! Because you won't be able to teach people to fish anymore so they can feed themselves for the rest of their lives. Someone will have to give them fish.
Suzanne	Kent	Santa Cruz	CA	It is becoming increasingly evident that animals lower on the food chain are under harvesting pressures inconsistent with sustainability of fisheries and entire ecosystems which their populations help to support. Vincent	Scrima	Studio City	CA	As a boy, I recreationally caught mackerel and striped bass off the Massachusetts and NH coastline. They were numerous in the 1960s. As you know, since then, these species have been in decline for many years. Sustainable fishing begins with protecting these species lower on the food chain and are being decimated both as by-catch and by allowable
Cindy	Stein	Thousand Oaks	CA	If we don't protect mackerel, river herring, and shad they won't be around for future generations. Way too much of wildlife is being killed off. It's up to us to see that this doesn't happen. Please help us protect.
Gerry	Williams	Thousand Oaks	CA	Human GREED is wiping out the mackerel, river herring, and shad. It will also wipe us out if we continue at this rate! Without the above fish, the other fish can't survive either.
Susan	Hanger	Topanga	CA	Industrial scale fishing and the attendant by-catch is a crime against nature and must be regulated diligently to curb man's decimation of the oceans and their creatures.

Forage species are necessary to the well-being of whales, dolphins, and other sea creatures, but are being depleted by commercial fishing operations. Please protect shad, herring, and mackerel, as they are being killed into

Mark Seth	Lender	Chester	CT	I watch osprey take these fish every day. And the blues and the stripers do the same. What a shame to loose the herring and mackerel and loose all the great life of the sea and air.
Barbara	Caso	Cromwell	CT	Every creature has a purpose and we should protect them. God created a lot of different beings and we have let them become extinct. Why? Greed? Use some sense and protect
Marj	Waite	East Hartford	CT	Personally, I would expect you to know to protect the creatures near the bottom of the food chain as well as the top. It's basic grammar school biology, that when a species goes missing in an environment, its food often grows rampant. Occasionally causing a negative environmental issue, while it's predators become fewer and/or die off, sometimes becoming extinct, or, at best, endangered.

Their numbers have been disappearing in alarming rates! Because the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council is now considering increasing the allowable catch of mackerel, river herring, and shad, these already imperiled species could be decimated! They are already at historic lows! These herring, shad, and mackerel are in need of strong and effective conservation and management under the conservation requirements of the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act. Rose	Jenkins	St. Louis	MO	What we lose by heedless over- fishing, we could likely lose FOREVER. Is that what homo sapiens (wise??) do with their power and jill	greer	Stark City	MO	It is critical to address this problem, or the essential wild food supply which is so crucial in the overall marine ecosystems could collapse. Those results would be quite devastating.
James	Gaskill	Warsaw	MO	No time to waste My Government!! Get off your hands!!
Gloria	Foret	Osyka	MS	We need to conserve the catch of fish so there will be enough fish for the future.
D Margo	Salone	Shubuta	MS	On this Earth people need to share with the other creatures; let's be conservationists.
Deborah	Hanson	Miles City	MT	Too often now I see good, scientific planning super ceded by gratification now. We will have no viable fisheries left soon.
Chris	Daum	Stevensville	MT	We must speak for those who cannot speak for themselves. By not protecting the forage species, we are endangering our ocean wildlife
Aa	Lloyd	Asheville	NC	I am extremely concerned about the continuing degradation of our planet, including its wildlife, land and sea.
Eddie	Simpson	Asheville	NC	Use SCIENCE, not corporate profits, as the guide for planning the future for healthy marine life.
Jim	Stone	Asheville	NC	Protecting these forage species is wise management. Our future food sources must be considered.
Inge	Whitaker	Asheville	NC	We won't know what we're missing until it's gone. But then it will be too late to get it back. An ecosystem is a complicated puzzle: every piece is needed to complete the picture. You
Sue	Hayden	Bahama	NC	Protecting basic fish food species lower in the food chain means ultimately that mankind will still be able to catch and eat fish 20 years from now. We MUST stop destroying this planet piece by piece NOW! If we don't move with strong changes, mankind will be extinct within a century; that is an inescapable fact based on sound scientific observation!!
Nicole	LaMotte	Banner Elk NC	NC	These fish are a critical source in the food chain. Please protect them.
Kathryn	Coons	boone	NC	Please protect our fish, they're already under attack. Thank you.
Kimberly	Jordan	Cary	NC	Please protect these hard-working fishes!

James	Southerland	Cary	NC	Darn shame to kill them all! They are also very tasty!
Lynne	Kane	Chapel Hill	NC	Fish are an important food source for all humans. We must manage fisheries so the oceans can continue to feed us.
Jim	Thomas	Chapel Hill	NC	Protect river herring, shad, and mackerel to give them a fighting chance at recovery.
Karen	Hodges	Charlotte	NC	Healthy stocks of these fish are a valuable resource that must be protected for the future. To do otherwise would be extremely foolhardy and short-sighted.
Joan	Parker	Colfax	NC	These fish are good eating & good food for larger fish, sea birds & especially the EAGLE.
Carol Lynn	Anderson	Greensboro	NC	We must protect all fish species NOW before it is too late. The continual fishing of the waters of every country are destroying them.
Dee	Stover	High Point	NC	Once gone, forever lost.
Brenda	Hayes	Hillsborough	NC	Common sense indicates the absolute necessity of seeing the whole picture if we desire sustainable oceans to find us in the future. By catch has gone on unregulated and unabated for far too long. Time is of the essence. Strong action is needed now.
Nancy	Brown	King	NC	Protecting these species will in turn protect additional species that feed on shad, mackerel and river herring.
Katherine	Williams	Madison	NC	I'm 70. My mom used to talk about how many more fish there were in Albemarle Sound when she was young, in the 1920s and 30s. And in my life I've also seen fish populations (catch numbers and fish sizes) decrease a lot from what they were when I was young! There needs to be more protection of fish not less!
Ralph	Messera	Matthews	NC	I am especially concerned about your efforts and the negative effects it will have herring and shad populations. NC has worked hard to restore these fisheries. Dont waste that effort
Eileen	McCorry	Pittsboro	NC	These fish are an important part of the ecosystem. We need them.
James	Rice	Raleigh	NC	As a professional fisheries biologist and a member of an Advisory Committee to the NC Marine Fisheries Commission I have closely followed the demise of river herring and the inadequate management efforts to recover them. Based on the extensive information I have reviewed I do not support any increased allowance for catch or bycatch of river herring.

Lisa	Sadler	Salisbury	NC	We don't buy fish now because of current over fishing. If we knew better practices were in place that would change.
Yvonne	Moody	Southport	NC	These species need the opportunity to restore themselves.
Edith	Kurie	Wilmington	NC	Please optimize good stewardship over greed.
Cama	Merritt	Winston Salem	NC	These fish are important assets in our food supply. Please protect them.
Donna	Von Bargen, Ph.D.	Winston Salem	NC	As a grandmother my passion is preserving the environment for future generations. Chad, river herring and mackerel are an integral part of the ecosystem. Please protect them.
Randy	Sailer	Beulah	ND	save our feeder fish
Jackie	Lang	Fargo	ND	Overfishing is bad, not just for people, but for the health of our oceans and rivers. Many species depend on fish, not just people. It must be managed wisely.
lisa	deville	Mandaree	ND	God is watching! We are all connected some way some how.
Renae	McKeon	Kearney	NE	Without the small feeder fish, the whole ocean ecosystem collapses. Not only will marine wildlife perish, so will we.
Judith	Ripke	Seward	NE	Please don't allow decimation of this wonderful resource.
Eleuthera Paulina	du Pont Passigli	Alstead	NH	I have expressed concern before about the over-fishing of forage fish and the proposed increase in the allowable catch which could decimate those species that are now within historic population lows. River herring and shad need the protection as much as the mackerel. Please help these species populations grow. Thank you md	lindsay	concord	NH	Give them a chance to recover!
rhonda	mandato	Dover	NH	please save the fishes!!
Maureen	Ahern	Dublin	NH	In protecting these species we are protecting all of nature that interacts with this environment
Kay	Campbell	Epsom	NH	Protecting these fish in our oceans is vital to the fish population. Too much of the ocean has been overfished upsetting the ecological balance in the ocean.
Nancy	Pape	Madbury	NH	Healthy fish populations are important to people and their environment.
Mark	Gowan	Middleton	NH	This administration is criminal.
Ruth Tanner	Isaks	Salem	NH	It's very important that you protect our fisheries with strong conservation measures.

Joanne	Gates	Wilton	NH	They are a significant part to the ecosystem. Once gone ,their loss will be a domino effect to collapsing segments beyond what the public is aware of.
Duncan	Duchov	Winchester	NH	Thank you very much for your attention and your consideration.

Debra	Miller	Belvidere	NJ	I have lived in the Hunterdon/Warren counties of New Jersey my whole life .The Delaware River, the fish and health of it has always been important to the area.
Clotilda G.	Devlin	Bernardsville	NJ	I love eating all 3 and wish we could look forward to saving these fish from the football sized nets where they are wasted . I would be willing to wait till they recover if only we could
Stephanie	Makala	Blairstown	NJ	Overfishing destroys entire ecosystems.
Cheryl	Spinelli	Bloomfield	NJ	These fish are so important to the ecosystem and increasing catch limits will surely deplete not only these fish, but others that depend on them for food. Protecting the ocean must be a priority or we will lose everything that it gives us. Don't be short-sighted.
Christopher	Teasdale	Califon	NJ	With regulations being relaxed at numerous federal agencies, we need to protect indigenous river species.
Joseph	Basralian	Chatham	NJ	PLEASE! This is vital to our nation's wealth, health and power today and for the next generation before America's 300th birthday.
Louis	Harris Jr	Cherry Hill	NJ	Conservation is the order of the day.

Winifred	Johanson	New Providence	NJ	Please protect mackerel, river herring, and shad and our ocean/river ecosystems. Thanks.
Gretchen	Laauwe	Oakridge	NJ	My family as many fishermen and we were taught to never overfish.
Vera	Rushmer	Ocean City	NJ	As we understand more about what we used to call the balance of nature, we need to be aware of how our own actions affect the ecosystem, with both intentional and unintended
				Why would the council do this? It doesn't make sense: . , the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council is now considering increasing the allowable catch of mackerel, river herring, and shad. The potential increases under consideration would result in the removal of hundreds of thousands more mackerel, river herring, and shad each year--potentially decimating these imperiled species whose populations are at historic lows.
Cathy	Hayes	Red Bank	NJ	It would be wrong to increase the catch. Wrong for all of us...humans and non-human species

Siegrid	Berman	Washington	NJ	IT'S ALL OF OUR LIVES IF THESE FISH GO
Stuart	Ours	Washington	NJ	These species serve a valuable function in the web of life which far exceeds their value as fished species and they need to be protected.
Kat	DeGraw	Whiting	NJ	Please protect all
Larry T	Caudill	Albuquerque	NM	Fish stocks at the base of the food chain need protection as well !

Tony	Greiner	Albuquerque	NM	I have worked in the fishing industry and seen, first hand, the declines in catch sizes and weights. Please protect our fisheries and our aquatic ecosystems for the future of all
Mary Todd	Voorhees	Albuquerque	NM	Please protect the river fish from overfishing. Your vote is critical.
Thomas	Talbot	Anthony	NM	These smaller fish need to recover, or we not only lose them but all species which utilize them for food as well.
Marjorie	Ackerman	BERNALILLO	NM	We are axing our own survival if we don't protect our resources. ALL mankind will eventually suffer....
Rebecca	Walding	Cerrillos	NM	Please protect river herring, shad, and mackerel to give them a fighting chance at recovery. As we lose our smaller species we will lose our larger one, and then larger ones still...
Alberta	Morgan	Deming	NM	Some years ago there was a shortage of these fish and following conservation guidelines they recovered. However, if invalidating current conservation methods will again cause shortages and this time it will not be able to recover because of the heating of waters and
Diane	Gledhill	Embudo	NM	Do you want to have these fish in the future? It's that simple.
Kay	Warren	Espanola	NM	Protect mackerel, river herring, & shad. We need to protect species that are still alive. We have poisoned enough already.
Linda	Horn	Farmington	NM	I lived on the Atlantic cost for many years, and have seen how depleted stocks of smaller fish affect those up the food chain. What benefits the fishermen in the short term eventually hurts them. One fix is requiring nets with larger openings so the smaller fish can escape. I'm sure there are others. Thanks for considering my opinion.
Christian	Dollahon	Las Cruces	NM	All these smaller fish are an important part of the ecosystem and food chain for other mammals and marine life.
Marion	Subjenski	Peralta	NM	All life deserves a chance to live. Doing things that cause harm or even cause extinctions should be avoided. If you believe in the Bible it says to care for all animals. If you do not believe in the Bible it is still the decent thing to do.
Harriett	Clementson	Placitas	NM	Please protect them, thank you.
Dawn	Foster	Placitas	NM	As an angler and ocean snorkeler, we need to protect the oceans food chain.

JUDY	DEATER	Rio Rancho	NM	THESE MACKEREL,RIVER HERRING AND SHAD ARE IMPORTANT TO THE ECO SYSTEM AND NEED PROTECTING.
Rita	Pachitu	Rio Rancho	NM	Please help save them
Mia	Kalish	San Miguel	NM	We really need to work to protect our environment. We need to be considerate of coming generations - of Fish as well as humans. Please help protect our fragile ecosystem.
patricia	carlton	Santa Fe	NM	We must protect the herring and shad. They are a keystone source of food for so many other species.
Tania	Chavez	Santa Fe	NM	We enjoy eating good fish, but not when it means sacrificing the environment and the balance of nature.
Mark	Gall	Santa Fe	NM	As a biologist, I know that protecting this type of small fish is necessary in protecting our larger food fish.

Krista	Rudd	Henderson	NV	Soon we'll have more plastics in the ocean than fish - please help reverse this trend!
Lyn	Blumenthal	Incline Village	NV	We need these smaller fish to keep the larger fish populations from diminishing. Man's desires must be limited as the natural world is suffering from our avarice.
Jim	Boone	Las Vegas	NV	We all depend on fish and a healthy ecosystem.
Julie	Brown	Las Vegas	NV	When the dominoes start to fall, remember: we are a domino in that line as well.
David	G	Las Vegas	NV	Humans do NOTHING to benefit this world's wildlife! They only abuse and kill it. It's time to change that despicable narrative!!
Thelma	Matlin	Reno	NV	It is important to keep a good balance in our rivers and stream so that the fish have an opportunity to thrive. We need these feeder fish to replenish our ocean populations. Fish feed many people. Without them these nourishing source of nutrition will be lost.
Lesley	Brill	Alfred	NY	THIS IS A MATTER OF QUICK, SHORT-LASTING PROFITS VERSUS LONG-LASTING, STABLE PROFITABLE MANAGEMENT.

george	jackman	Bayside	NY	The MAFC's desire to increase quotas is despicable. Are they out of touch with reality? Robert	Puca	Brooklyn	NY	Save the fisheries now before it's too late
Ken	Rosenblad	Brooklyn	NY	Please act to protect river herring, shad, and mackerel - they are crucial to our food supply security and to our environment.
David	Rosenfeld	Brooklyn	NY	I believe it is critical to protect these fish, but we have the same goal with different reasons. I believe that all people should follow a vegan diet for the sake of their health and the health of the environment, as well as the welfare of the animals. I support protection of these fish populations, but for the fish, not for people to eat them!
Edward and Gail	Temple	Brooklyn	NY	We need these fish. The eco system depends on them.

carl	tyndall	brooklyn	NY	They are worth it and why wouldn't you want to protect them
				Protecting Ocean and fresh water habitat is critical to our well-being. It is the interest of fishery managers, in support of their industry, to protect the resource and its required habitat.

C P	Saul	New York	NY	All wildlife is under attack by the callous and greedy current administration. Do not allow the endangerment or extinction of such important fish species as these. Do not allow greed to override decency.
Jill	Simon	New York	NY	Current practices are essentially decimating these imperiled species whose populations are at historic lows. These important fish species need protection.
				Please protect the River Herring and Shad, by not allowing a catch limit, for these important fish species. These fish are important, in the stabilization, of food source, for a multitude, of larger fish. The River Herring and Shad, are the mainstay, of nutrients, for the fish population, and provide, a life source, in the Atlantic Ocean.  Please protect and defend, the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act, which, for years, has protected these important fish, by allowing enough time, for these fish, to repopulate, so that there are enough River Herring and Shad, in the Atlantic, for both a multitude of fish, as well as for the human population.  It is most important, to ensure these fish thrive, and not be depleted, which would devastate, both the fish and human population.

Peter	Giffin	Ashland	OR	If you lose these fish you lose larger sport fish as a result. I also point out if Sport fishing means anything in this discussion, shad are an important exciting quarry as well.

Sally	Fulton	Astoria	OR	We need these fish. Fishing for them provides jobs and their numbers are depleting which will have a huge impact on livelihoods and communities. We must be stewards of our waterways and fisheries for current and future generations.
Ramona	Ponessa	Bandon	OR	These species are a vital part of the food cycle for all other species and need to be protected to prevent the collapse of the entire cycle.

Carol	Ampel	Medford	OR	I am a Pacific NW person, but I weigh in on Atlantic issues because they are of a piece - the piece that says the little things are critical to all the bigger ones. You have probably see the recent photos of a mother orca in the Puget Sound's J pod. Her calf was stillborn and she carried its body everywhere for days afterward. Her pod, you may know, feeds on salmon, and the salmon numbers have been critically low for years, at least partly due to low food supplies (ie. little fish). No litle fish, no salmon, no orcas. The Atlantic fishery follows the same pattern, and overharvest is a major problem that you can immediately do something about. Do not change the allowable harvest to permit more catch of these species. We are some of the biggest fish around, and we'd better not forget

				I strongly advise the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council to adopt Alternatives 1a and 3a in regards to future management of the Atlantic mackerel, river herring, and shad management options for these fish species in the next few years. These two options would maintain the status quo in regards to allowing any increase in the catch limit for these fish species. As it now stands, the fish populations of these species has been severely depleted over the past several decades. It is important that there be no increase in the catch limits for these fish species so that their populations can be allowed to increase in the coming decades before allowing any increase in the catch limits for these fish species. This problem can be best addressed by allowing the populations of Atlantic mackerel, river herring, and shad be protected under the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act so that these species be allowed to rebuild their populations so that they can sustain other fisheries, predators, and ecosystems before these fish species again be allowed to have

				These Mackerel, river herring, and shad are the core of the mid-trophic level of the Atlantic nearshore ecosystem. This is a vital functional component that has been devastated by decades of overfishing. Oceans cannot sustain their own populations of predatory wildlife when their prey fish are being scooped from the Atlantic, with casual and reckless arrogance, by the seine-full. These fishing fleets have overstepped their privileges in accessing the bounty of the Atlantic Ocean, and Mid-Atlantic FMC must now reduce those privileges until these populations recover, and enact smaller catch limits for Mackerel as well as stricter bycatch limits on Shad and River Herring. To even consider increasing the allowable catch on a vital pillar of the food web, already under such intense fishing pressure, would be a gross abdication of the Council's obligation to sustain a recognizably functional ecosystem that

Julie	Strother	Houston	TX	Save the fish
Carole	Wilmoth	Keene	TX	It's past time to step up!
Marie	Andreini	Lakeway	TX	Please do the right thing and protect our fish in rivers, lakes and oceans !! We only have this one planet, we Must Protect ALL of its inhabitants!! Thank you
Dave/Rita	Cross	Lakeway	TX	We believe that these fish species deserve protection and conservation before their populations drop dramatically!
Tria	Shaffer	Leander	TX	What is your plan to protect this species from crashing beyond recovery? Allowing a free-for-all in harvest levels is shortsighted and completely stupid. Typical of this administration. Put conservation plans in place that protect these important fish for every level of sea life, including us.
Debra	Greenberg	Lewisville	TX	Protect them from becoming history, please.
Shawn	Troxell	New Braunfels	TX	Communities depend on this. Other wildlife depends on this.

Jean	Tabin	Park City	UT	We must protect fish populations for the health of ecosystems and for our health too.
Barbara	Eyler	Salt Lake City	UT	We must protect what nature has given us. Please do not support any increases for catching Mackerel, herring and shad.
Justin	Grover	Salt Lake City	UT	Please Help these imperiled species whose populations are at historic lows.
Mike	McAinsh	Salt Lake City	UT	We have to manage the fisheries in a responsible way in order to guarantee strong fish stocks in the future. Managing this resource also means looking out for the little fish that the larger fish, like tuna and cod, as well as the marine mammals feed on.
Tana	Hunter	Slc	UT	What are you going to say to your grandchildren when they find out you were responsible for the loss of most life on earth?
Gene	Cochran	Abingdon	VA	This is easy. Forget short term gain for long term sustainability
James	Field	Alexandria	VA	Do the right thing and vote protections for these OBVIOUSLY threatened species. Do even better and stop fishing completely for 5 years.

				As a lifelong fisher and crabber, I understand, very well, the importance of these feeder fish to other species and , ultimately, humans. It should be common sense to protect our natural resources since the ENTIRE WORLD is dependent on them. I'm not an activist, but I do have enough sense to know that, if we do not take care of our waters and our resources, we will all suffer. People should not have to sign petitions in order to motivate our elected officials to do common sense things. It's Christine	Gavlick	Alexandria	VA	Please fishery managers protect river herring, shad, and mackerel to give them a fighting chance at recovery.
Kimberly	Miehl	Alexandria	VA	Do what is best for the fish you make your livings from. You must protect the fish which protects your jobs.
Patricia	Rowell	Alexandria	VA	Your livelihood depends on the fish, therefore, manage the fishing well or you will be unemployed. It isn't magic-overfishing depletes the fish.
Patricia	Rowell	Alexandria	VA	We must save what we can.
Joseph	Gebron	Allisonia	VA	These fish are terribly important to the ecosystems that they inhabit!
James	Hartley	Arlington	VA	The survival and abundance of these species is critical to survival of so many others. It is critical that we protect them and promote increase in their population.
Jim	Lindsay	Arlington	VA	Please protect forage species.
Jana	Prewitt	Burke	VA	We must allow populations of these important small fish to rebound. It is not responsible or wise to deplete them and undermine whole ecosystems.
Peggy	Gilges	Charlottesville	VA	I work as a Biology teacher in rural central Virginia. I'm very concerned about protecting our environment, and about using it in sustainable ways.
JL	Horn	Chesterfield	VA	It is astounding that we should even have to ask this. What on earth is your job if this isn't it?
Joseph	Appleton	Dayton	VA	Without protection we will lose these species and then the species that depend on them. We must take long term views in our planning.
Theo	Giesy	Gloucester	VA	Protecting river fish is a matter of long term food security and therefore, national security.
Elizabeth	Brown	Harrisonburg	VA	It is the responsibility of human animals to protect all animals.
Sherrie	Good	Harrisonburg	VA

Christy	Dunn	Keysville	VA	There is such a thing as planting the seed rather than eating it and starving later. We must protect the fish now so we have them to catch Protect these fish. How much killing/harvesting can they take before they collapse, like the cod, and may never recover, causing irreparable harm to the entire ecosystem. Learn to share with other species.
Pamela	DuRousseau	Leesburg	VA	Thank you
Pamela	Nowell	Lynchburg	VA	I urge you to protect not only mackerel but include River herring and shad as well. These protections will build the numbers, allowing the chain of nature to occur. Recovery of these fish is critical. Please use your authority to protect
Kyle	Spruill	Norfolk	VA	Having grown up and fished in the Hampton Roads area, I've witnessed the steady decline in the game fish numbers in this area. Protect the forage food of these gamefish should be of paramount concern. The environmental and financial impact on the area has been recognized by many. Protecting the future of our fisheries should be priority number one.

Oliver	Guichard	Partlow	VA	Please do the right thing for our children and their children. Thank you.
Jack	Austin	Portsmouth	VA	The shad fishery in the James River and its tributaries is a thing of the past. This important forage species as well as herring need additional protection in the ocean and Chesapeake Bay. Please help prevent a complete collapse of these fish.
Lianne	Ball	Reston	VA	There has been a terrible decline in Western salmon this year. It's possible the warm ocean water is to blame. How is that affecting fish in the Atlantic?
Laura	Soranno	Reston	VA	Thank you in advance for your thoughtful consideration of my message below.

Bob	Kennet	Oroville	WA	I don't eat meat nor fish. But others, including birds + fish do, not just people. They need these fish including shad. If others tell U differently, tell them to Shadddup.
Dean	Carr	Port Townsend	WA	Fishing stocks are being depleted in many places worldwide, with devastating results for the entire marine food chain. We must protect our environment.
Robert	Triggs	Port Townsend	WA	I grew up on the Atlantic coast. I have witnessed first-hand, for over 64 years, the loss of habitats, and the degradation of critical spawning and rearing areas for anadromous forage species, herring, shad, etc. We are not doing enough to conserve or restore or protect these species, which are a vital foundation of the marine ecosystem and predator species like striped bass, bluefish, flounder, etc. Please do more to protect and restore our forage species on the Atlantic coast.
Robert	Triggs	Port Townsend	WA	I grew up on the New England coast and watched the habitats get destroyed by developers and investors and real estate profiteers. I watched as the forage species, especially herring, shad and alewife, eels, declined. I watched as the striped bass and bluefish and flounder and cod and rock fish declined. and more. You need to focus on restoration and preservation of our marine habitats and marine species. We take too much
