

SURVEYOR
1939

PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASSES
OF
WASHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL
ROCHESTER, NEW YORK

F O R E W O R D

FROM THE BEGINNING OF OUR HIGH SCHOOL LIFE, THE NEEDLE OF
OUR COMPASS HAS BEEN POINTED AT THE MAGNETIC MERIDIAN,
GRADUATION. BEFORE WE LEAVE, WE PAUSE TO SWING OUR TRANSIT
AROUND. TO RECORD THE YEARS PAST, WE PRESENT IN THIS THIRD ISSUE OF THE "SURVEYOR," A SURVEY OF MEMORIES—MEMORIES OF TEACHERS AND CLASSMATES AT WASHINGTON HIGH, FOR

"WHEN WE HAVE LEFT THEE,

LONG SHALL WE CHERISH

DAYS SPENT TOGETHER

IN FELLOWSHIP HERE."

When we require encouragement, they are always ready with words of cheer; when we need guidance, they direct us thoughtfully; when we desire sympathy, they give us ready understanding.

To our fathers and mothers who know us best, we, the Classes of January and June 1939, in sincere gratitude dedicate our year book.

SURVEYING

JANUARY 1939

Six short and cheerful years have passed since we attended our first classes in Washington High School during the spring term of 1933. Surveying these six years without experiencing their sorrows and moments of depression, we find that all of us are just a little moved at the thought of leaving Washington High School, the scene of many experiences.

In the line of sight at the present moment is Donald Michaels, our school community president. He came into his own in the 11A when he smashed all precedents by becoming the first boy to be elected school community secretary-treasurer. During this, his last term, Donald has been elected school community president and has played the lead in the senior play, "Seven Keys to Baldpate."

Among our numbers we are proud to count Arnold Hoffman who has been active in many clubs and organizations, especially as editor-in-chief of the "Washington Post." Besides editing the "Post," he has been active in promoting the success of the newly adopted budget plan.

The budget plan brings to the fore a pleasant, soft-spoken individual, Patsy Crino. A large share of the success of the budget plan, the Courtesy Party in December 1937, and numerous school and class projects, rests with Patsy who also fills the role of class president. He is distinctive for the business-like manner and promptness with which he discharges all class and school community duties.

The inevitable "professor" rears his bespectacled head above the crowd. Sandro Barone is called "Prof" partly because he wears glasses, partly because he's studious off and on, but mostly because he has a gift of oratory. A year or so ago, he aroused considerable mirth because, despite the handicap of short stature, he tried out for the cross-country team on the spur of the moment, and better yet, made it! Within the last year, Sandro has developed into a shrewd businessman. Besides soliciting a large proportion of the advertisements for the "Surveyor," he has managed the publicity for "Seven Keys to Baldpate."

As inevitable as the class "Prof" is the Lions' Club Award. From a group of ten equally qualified candidates, Arthur Mancuso and Wanda Kozerski were chosen to receive the award. The high scholastic ability of these same two enabled them to assume, in the senior year, the respective roles of standard bearer, and guardian of the flag.

The editorial staff of our year book is relying on the organization ability and literary experience of Theodore Landsman, editor-in-chief of the "Surveyor" to aid it in successfully plotting this year's annual. Ted's score or more of nicknames seem to indicate that the angle of his personality is in the fourth quadrant. Ben Solomon has just climaxed his high school career by being awarded the Bausch and Lomb Science Award for outstanding work.

This survey of class history could never be complete without training our sight on two singing members of our class. The prestige of our school has been greatly increased by the honors William Warfield and Anthony Jardine have won in both local and national competition. Both have been placed on Virginia Cardinale's "Mythical Honor Roll," a signal honor.

The trail of our survey is blazed with only a few notches. We have surveyed and mapped the plot with blazes; but there is much territory yet uncovered. Our class history is marked with smaller incidents, too numerous to mention, that we cherish in reminiscence.

THE PAST

JUNE 1939

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
The tale of the deeds of the class of this year.
Graduating in June, in thirty-nine,
Every man who is now alive
Remembers that famous day and year.

That class is the one which produced a movie
Remember Popeye, Felix, Pluto, and Mickey.
For the price of five cents an admission was gained
To improve the funds of the class just named.

A minstrel show was given anon,
Which featured singers, tap-dancer, and clown
What snap the songs and dances had
Featuring old-fashioned melodies and latest fad!

Next the Lions' winners we claim
Whose names are printed in the hall of fame.
A. Manevitz and Sylvia Werner, the two
Whose real worth the Lions' Club knew.

Dances sponsored by thirty-nine
Were classed by all as superfine.
They danced and shagged to the Rhythmaires;
Underclassmen flocked in crowds and pairs.

The Courtesy Party in our junior year
Was filled with thoughts we all hold dear
'Twas not what we gave but what we shared
And our joys to the old folks can't be compared

O we've had honors in holding offices too,
In school activities we've had plenty to do.
Proud today, indeed, we are
Of blonde Ann Schuler and Jo Ferrar.

Our class at present is very well-known,
Ben Salzman as president gives it tone;
Koven as vice-president, in sports renowned,
Make two leaders who can't be downed.

Sylvia Werner, that industrious lass,
Is Editor in Chief and Secretary of the class.
Angela Joy is our social leader,
My! how Washingtonians heed her!

We give all praise and honor due
To Miss Atkinson and Mr. Clair, the two
Who have given our class such thought and care
Who all our troubles have been willing to share.

SURVEYING

OUR COAT OF ARMS

The origin of this seal of honor is quite a fascinating one and centers around a person who has universally been acclaimed the embodiment of high ideals and of personal attributes—George Washington.

With the establishment of the first junior high school in Rochester, New York, it was decided that in order to form a strong bond of attachment, the appellation of the first president of the United States should be adopted for the name of our school. Washington has continually been the object of deep respect and veneration, furnishing a source of inspiration to those who wish to emulate his successful efforts and distinguished personal achievements. Recurring ever to his integrity and probity, Washington High has adopted his coat-of-arms, in modified form, to symbolize our hopes and ideals involving character, honesty, and perseverance. In the center of this coat-of-arms are two heavy bars representing the eighth and ninth grades, and above these are three stars signifying the higher grades—namely, the tenth, the eleventh, and the twelfth. The name of Washington High School surrounds the central motif on our school seal.

It has been a pleasure and privilege to bestow school awards on those students who possess superior abilities and high scholastic standings. Among these is the Lions' Club Award presented to a boy and a girl each of whom has fulfilled the above requirements.

An additional privilege granted to our school after it had been fully established as a high school was the opportunity for brilliant and ambitious students to attain their objectives by winning scholarships. The outlook is exceedingly attractive and the future looms bright, for it is anticipated that the present senior class will equal or perhaps exceed the outstanding success of last year when five awards were granted to students in our school.

In the realm of sport activities, the members of our teams have reflected with increasing ardor, the zeal and enthusiasm instilled within them by fervent school spirit. The entire school community joins in offering hearty encouragement and in urging the teams to continue their splendid progress.

The Washington coat-of-arms represents to us the height of aspiration and personal achievement, and serves as a goal to ambition. It is a constant source of inspiration to those of us who wish to succeed, but in anxiety and speculation it also implies the admonition that only by exercising supreme will power, fortitude, and unceasing effort can we reach our goal. A challenge and a peremptory declaration to all, our coat-of-arms manages to exert a powerful yet beneficent influence upon each and every one of us.

THE PRESENT

DAZE WORK

It is doubtful whether Paul Revere would ever have been able to ride a horse, if he had gone to high school. At any rate we can be reasonably sure that, with typical high school efficiency, he would have delivered the wrong message.

The high school student cannot be held entirely to blame for being such a peculiarly warped individual. His condition can be more than partly accounted for by the excruciating routine to which he is subjected.

Evidences show that the high school curriculum tends to affect even the most stolid individual. The following scientific survey will substantiate these facts and prove conclusively that the average student shows marked signs of affectation even after only one torturous day in school. In this slightly mellow drama, we catch the student coming and going, so to speak, proving that the poor thing just hasn't a chance.

In Panorama I, is revealed what is apparently an enthusiastic, determined student who, with quick pace and sure step, is approaching the Washington institution of higher learning. It just goes to show how you can't keep a good man down. After having slept off the ill-effects of the round of week-end parties, strenuous dates,

Listen my children and you shall hear
Not of the story of Paul Revere,
But of a tale of sorrow and woe
Which the high school student must undergo.

and late evenings, he returns to brave anew the perils of school. As our subject arrives in the homeroom late (tardiness is one of the habits fostered in high school), he prepares to adjust himself to the inevitable. In Scene II we find our object of study, slightly discouraged but not downcast, peering from between piles of textbooks and other accessories. (The blank look is merely a means of spiritual fortification.)

Episode III reveals our guinea pig in chemistry class, where he is subjected to the awful, redolent stench and the poisonous, irritating vapors which befuddle his brain and rack his frame—and they speak of the horrors and cruelty of war!

In the cafeteria, Scene IV, we find a victim having a difficult time with her lunch. Small wonder!

For a short while we lose our quarry, who is himself lost in the turmoil, but in Candid Shot V, we again come across him in study-hall where, worn and exhausted, he is resting peacefully.

After a few more trying periods such as gym and trigonometry, designed to demolish the brain and the body we finally see in Swan-Song VI, our imitation of life passing out; and we do mean—PASSING OUT!!

It is 1950—and as you sit in your prefabricated, aërostatically suspended home, designed by master architect Carl Van Recklinghausen, illuminated by opaque light, the product of the genius of electrical engineer Vito Moretti—you drop into your easy chair and, at your side, switch on a tiny, cabineted instrument with a slot on the top. It is the ultra-new telephototype, invention of the renowned radio-physicist, C. Franklin Piotraschke who has recently been promoted to the vice-presidency of the Radio Corporation of America (R.C.A.) for his advancements in television. The curious machine has the ability to print the latest news and photographs right in your own home. As the paper begins to appear from the slot, there are several items on it which particularly catch your eye: Sandro Barone, American Airlines magnate, institutes a new air route to the new South African city of Tasmir built by civil engineer William Raab Two Nobel prizes have been awarded. The first was given to world renowned Dr. Arthur Mancuso for developing a foolproof cure for cancer. Dr. Mancuso, in conjunction with his assistant, Dr. Wanda Kozerski has made many discoveries which have revolutionized medicine. The second prize was received by Dr. Benjamin Solomon, head of the DuPont DeNemours research department, for discovering, at last, the ninety-third element. (Dr. Solomon has just published a widely acclaimed book proving conclusively that there could not possibly be more than ninety-two elements, discounting all isotopes). Winner of the year's Pulitzer prize is Dr. Mildred Gordon, eminent psychiatrist, for her best-seller, "Mind over Matter." Madame Fanny Passor and Signor Antonio Jardinio, both of the Metropolitan, achieve new fame in the leading roles of composer Milton Ergas' new opera, "Americana." In New York City, Mayor Patsy Crino awarded the title of Miss America to Miss Florence Snowitz who has already achieved fame through her interpretive ballets. A close runner up was Miss Alice Kobel, popular photographer's model whose face adorns many a magazine cover. The most popular television program of 1950, according to the audienciemeter (an instrument determining the number of receiving sets tuned into a station), is the All-Star Variety hour with the world beloved baritone William Warfield, Don Passantino's orchestra, and the Hollywood stars, Don Michaels and Rose Sciarra. In Hollywood, Sanford Prato and Bernice Berman, favorite movie stars are making a new third-dimension picture, "These Many Years," with Director John Mairhuber. The wardrobe for the film was designed by stylists Isabelle Gaver and Katherine Yarton. The best current film is "Stars From Heaven" starring Joel Solamone and Anabel Edelman with a supporting cast including the dance team of John Merone and Sara Randazzo. The picture is said to contain some fine character acting by Anthony Genco and Josephine DiMino. Alan D. Briggs has been newly elected to the position of professor of archaeology at Harvard University. Dr. Briggs is a confirmed wearer of flowered print shirts, a weakness developed in high school. In Washington, Senator Arnold Hoffman is creating a furore, demanding that foreign diplomat Sebastian DiMaggio should not be recalled in order to avoid international complications. Henry Levy, champion Olympic long distance runner, set a new record the other day. Bernard Kozel, former All-American football star, is quitting the professional gridiron for the medical profession. A brilliant cartoon by Philip Miller, syndicated artist. There is an editorial "Good Deeds" by the editor, Dr. Theodore Landsman, who is also the chief scout executive of the United States. And so, as you turn off your telephototype machine, you muse to yourself, "Isn't it funny, how you continuously come across your old school chums!"

THE FUTURE

JUNE 1939

Now ponder well, you students dear
These words which I shall write;
A memorable story you shall hear
In time brought forth to light.

In the Business World

Bennie Salzman has become very important
Because of his position as certified public accountant
Taking his dictation in record time
Is his charming efficient secretary, Lorraine Heim.

A stylist and designer in New York City
Is famous Mademoiselle Belle Legumsky
In whose gorgeous studio one can see
The stunning model, Thelma Lippman, known as Ty-Bi.

In the Musical Profession

Of course we have heard of the symphony orchestra
Featuring Miriam Roxin and Louis Manzella
Whenever Carl Ottobriano, guest violinist, has played
Halls resound with applause not to be stayed.

Singing "blues" songs for the pleasure of the throng
Is Jean Santoli, looking gorgeous in a sarong.
For the Metropolitan Opera Esther Pinsky sings
"La Boheme";
Anice Roth and Gertrude Salzman sing duets like a dream.

In the Art and Literary Professions

Modern, well-equipped art employ
Annette Razes and Angela Joy
On the Daily Bugle, the editor's pride and joy
Are Anne Schuler and Alice Peters, no longer coy.

In Hollywood

Cameramen Hyman Atias and Albert Aroeste labor
To help make movies rate high in fans' favor.
The beautiful sets which are much in demand,
Are those of Robert Koval, the master stage-hand.

Pearl Ulrich and Virginia Unger
Are two famous movie stars,
But Harold Schwartz and Dominic DeGeorge
Help sell Lincoln-Zephyr cars.

And thus you can see, the future holds in store
Surprises, successes, and many things more,
Mayhap if stardom you do not see
Service and happiness your lot will be.

COME TO ORDER!

This year one of the major accomplishments of the Executive Council, the student-faculty governing body of our school, has been to establish a permanent Budget Committee, appointed semi-annually by the School Community President, with the specific duty of regulating school finances. At present the committee consists of four students and one faculty member: Patsy Crino, Chairman; Ann Schuler; Marvin Rubenstein; Arnold Hoffman; and Mr. Ira Berman.

Through its efficiency in managing incomes and expenditures, the Budget Committee has been instrumental in promoting a sound policy for school community finance.

EXTRA!

The Washington Post has, in its capacity as official organ for Washington High School, actively aided in the adoption of the new budget plan. The Post has supported all school campaigns such as the Memorial Scholarship Fund and the annual Courtesy Party. Its columns have furnished a means for discussion of controversial issues, thus providing opportunities for the free expression of student opinion.

ON WITH THE SHOW!

Mystery, melodrama, and farce as combined in George M. Cohan's "Seven Keys to Baldpate," provided an entertainment of thrills for an enthusiastic audience. The realistic setting, the perfect timing of the offstage effects and the earnest cooperation of everyone concerned enabled the cast to give a production which stands out as a high light in the dramatic activities of the school.

I LOVE A PARADE!

And so do you, and you, and you! You'll love it more too by learning to play an instrument and becoming a member of the band. Besides providing music for our assembly programs and playing in concert, part of the interesting work of the band is its marching activities. When spring rolls around the band will be out doing marching practice under the command of a competent Drum Major in preparation for the Memorial Day parade and next fall's football schedule.

MUSIC, MAESTRO, PLEASE!

The orchestra is the finest symbol of perfect coordination that we have in our high school. Our new director hopes to double the membership within the next few years. About twenty new instruments have been given out this term. The music for assembly programs, and school plays as well as special programs has shown spirited playing.

LOST? FOUND!

Marshals of law and order are they. These students have dual roles to play in the life of Washington High School. Sometimes they act as guides to casual visitors in the building or to throngs during Know Your School Week. Also, they are the guardians of life and property in the school building after school hours. The Lost and Found Bureau is their pet and a sizable sum is realized each year for the school fund from the annual auction of unclaimed articles.

OUR TIME—YOUR PLEASURE

Book lovers are not all passive souls who do nothing but sit buried in a book. The Washington student librarians not only like to read but to get others interested in reading. They serve eagerly at the desk, assist in shelving books, charging, arranging attractive book displays, and in advertising our book wares generally.

MAY WE SERVE YOU!

The Graphic Arts Club keeps us posted on what is happening by its clever reminders. The monthly calendar of school events is the focal point of interest on each home room bulletin board, and the blotters with the calendar of the month are not only timely but useful. Every campaign, game, social or play has evidence of the good will of the members. Samples of projects are frequently exchanged with schools in various states that have membership in the National Graphic Arts Guild.

HEAR YE! HEAR YE!

The Public Speaking Club has begun its second year with a membership of thirty-three. The club aims to help its members develop self-confidence and improve their oral English. It also aims to develop standards of judgment so that the members may be more intelligent and critical listeners as well as better speakers. While the emphasis is on technique, attention is also given to the subject matter and the ethics that should govern a speaker.

FRONT!

Never in the history of Washington High School has there been such a demand for messengers as this year. These willing students agree to sacrifice their study halls to be the modern Mercury in delivering an important message. They don't have a chance to sit in the office and watch the world go by, but the world sits and watches them go fleeting by. Of course, like any other important organization, qualifications are necessary. Any pupil wishing to become a messenger must be able to maintain at least an average mark in all his studies. What a speedy life these messengers lead!

BLOCK THAT KICK!

In their last season in interscholastic soccer (due to the resumption of high school football) Washington High's booters fared ill. In their only victory of the season, the Buff and Blue defeated East High 2-1 in a well played game. They then tied both Madison and Monroe 1-1 in games in which they played impressively but thereafter failed to click.

Joe Roth was selected for the all-scholastic second team for his brilliant playing while DiMino, who was a constant scoring threat to the opponents, and Dretto, a deceptive dribbler, were given honorable mention.

DRIBBLE, DRIBBLE, LITTLE STARS

This year Washington has one of the tallest and best balanced teams it has had in sometime. With the first five averaging six feet in height, they are employing a well fortified defense as well as a fast breaking offense.

After defeating East Rochester 23-17 and East High 32-27 the Generals upset the highly reputed Franklin team in a thrilling 23-21 non-loop battle. Led by the blonde-haired Bob DePuyt who amassed half of Washington's points, the Buff and Blue completely outsmarted and outplayed the Tuckers.

The capable coaching of Mr. Morse, coupled with the level headed leadership of the co-captains, has made the team successful.

PLAY BALL!

A valiant team, composed of steadfast players, went down in defeat in eight out of the nine games played during the past season. The defeats were not due to lack of heart or courage, but rather to the bad breaks for the teams as a whole.

The outstanding event of the season was the defeat of Charlotte at the hands of the masterful Generals. Without a doubt, the deciding factor of the game was the fine pitching of Conrad Jankowski. His coolness in tight places and his brilliant form enabled the Generals to vanquish a fighting Charlotte team.

ON YOUR MARK !

With Strem and Gallo leading Washington's rabbit-footed runners, the cross-country team raced itself into a brilliantly successful season. In the first meet, the Generals finished behind Monroe, but raced in to beat Charlotte and Franklin. In its second meet, Washington defeated both Marshall and Edison Tech, the cross-country team which had been deemed infallible. The climax of the season came at the sectional run at Hobart where thirteen schools were represented by the sixty fleetest harriers of western New York. There, Strem raced a sensational third while the Generals captured fourth place.

In track, outstanding point getters were Rudy, broad and high jump; Raab, broad jump; Jacula, in the half mile.

TENNIS

The Tennis Team proved their worth during the past season. Their sportsman-like attitude in defeat as well as their grace in victory were characteristic of Washington High. Although the members received little public recognition, they did not relax in their effort to prove the superiority of Washington teams in character as well as ability. They finished third of ten schools in interscholastic competition.

BOWLING

With a record of eight victories as against one defeat, the bowling team is justified in gloating over the past season. The most impressive of all victories was the defeat of the Franklin Keglers. All of the victories registered were due to the cooperation of the team as a whole and not to any one individual.

GOLFING

Although we have not as yet entered a golfing team in interscholastic competition, individual players have nevertheless been developing skill, just in case.

WRESTLING

Under the supervision of Mr. Kress, Washington High is developing some top notch wrestlers. Through the open door of the corrective room can be heard the grunts and groans of the gladiators as each clamps a punishing hold upon the other. Should wrestling become an interscholastic sport we should be prepared for a championship team.

HORSE SHOE PITCHING

Although Washington did not finish in the first division this last season, the pitchers nevertheless gave the opposition plenty of trouble.

INTRAMURAL!

Although the intramural activities of the school are not as well-known as the interscholastic activities they, nevertheless, constitute an important phase of school life. Through these extra-curricular activities for girls, consisting of tennis, basketball, badminton, volleyball, ping-pong, athletic club, horse-back riding, archery, and interpretive and social dancing is brought about closer harmony among the participants.

FAVORITES!

Tennis stimulates quick reaction; basketball helps as a strengthener of the legs; and horse-back riding develops poise and precision. One of the most interesting of all activities is interpretive and social dancing. When one goes past the girls' gym after school, he cannot help but admire the grace and rhythm of the dancers.

TO THE RESCUE !

Under the expert guidance of Miss Gaffney, these girls have endeavored to become qualified swimmers and to learn the fundamentals of life saving. The greatest aid of the group is in averting fatal accidents and in instructing beginners. The number of participants in this praise-worthy organization is increasing each year as more girls learn to swim and become eligible for membership in the corps.

Knowing Where to Tap* . . .

Recently, in the plant of a Rochester manufacturer, an intricate machine broke down in the middle of rush production of a big order.

Local mechanics could not find the trouble. A hurry call was dispatched to New York for an expert.

The expert came, looked the machine over, and said, "Let me have a hammer, please."

He poked the hammer carefully past a maze of gears, and tapped gently, three times. Withdrawing the hammer, he said, "Try it."

It worked. The machine began to run. The expert returned to New York and submitted a bill for $603.

The manufacturer was furious. "It's highway robbery," he cried, and demanded an itemized account.

Here is what the expert submitted:

To tapping three times with hammer at
$1 per tap $ 3
To knowing where to tap $600

FINE ENGRAVINGS WITHIN YOUR YEARBOOK

FROM cover to cover, the new, sparkling pages of your year book reveal the brilliant results of painstaking preparation and planning. . . . By entrusting "The Surveyor" engravings to the specialists at Empire, the publishers assured themselves of fine crisp reproductions. . . . They knew that only competent craftsmen . . . men whose deft hands and shrewd judgments are made more sure through years of experience . . . could faithfully capture the elusive shades and hues of the original photographs and yet meet the rigid demands of today's whirling high speed presses. Such trained men at Empire are responsible for the engravings in "The Surveyor."

(See page 83)

There's a difference in jobs. Minor job-holders get paid for what they DO. Holders of big jobs get paid for what they KNOW.

Your high school training has given you a solid foundation upon which to build a store of specialized knowledge that will enable you to hold a BIG job—to "know where to tap."

RBI has been training men and women for big jobs for 75 years. RBI graduates are holding big jobs all over the country Today. They will fill the big jobs of Tomorrow. Do YOU want one?
