Supermarket, clinic and housing for the elderly proposed for Marland Mills; Residents' concerns change preliminary proposal

By Don Staruk

Residents who voiced concerns last week about plans to build a supermarket, medical clinic and housing for the elderly at the former Marland Mills property off Stevens Street helped change a preliminary proposal, but the owner will continue his efforts to develop the site.

During a discussion of two preliminary subdivision applications submitted by Bert Paley, owner of the property, at a Planning Board meeting last Tuesday, Aug. 17, a number of residents expressed to planners concerns about traffic, noise and over-development. Some concerns have been addressed since the meeting by Mr. Paley, who withdrew a proposal for a residential subdivision off Cassimere Street, but nothing in the owner's "grand scheme" for the property has changed, according to Stephen Colver, town planning director.

"The preliminary plans don't mean anything from a development point," Mr. Colyer said.

Mr. Smith comes to Pike School

By Lisa Boudreau

cott Smith, Pike School's new head of the upper school, is anxiously awaiting the first day of classes – Monday, Sept.

13. Mr. Smith, 40, was director of fund raising at Dwight-Englewood School in New Jersey for the past five years.

"I'm really excited for school to start," said Mr. Smith, who began at Pike School has a new faculty member: head of the upper school

Pike six weeks ago.

"A school building just isn't the same place without a lot of students to make it whole" he said

Pike is a private pre-kindergarten through grade-nine school located on Sunset Rock Road. This fall 405 students will attend Pike. Mr. Smith will oversee the staff and programs that educate the 170 students in grades six through nine.

He replaces former upper school head, Walter Morris, who left Pike in

500 AHS kids answered survey on AIDS risks

By Lisa Boudreau

At least 102 of the Andover High School students who responded to a recent survey said they smoke marijuana on a monthly, weekly or daily basis; as many as 162 of the students drink alcohol on a weekly or monthly basis; and more than half of the AHS students surveyed would like to have a condom vending machine at the school.

Almost 500 of the 1,253 students at Andover High School completed the AIDS risk behavior survey in March. The survey was created by the AIDS Advisory Subconmittee of the School Committee, which is

Bruegger's Bagels cooks up controversy

By Don Staruk

Bruegger's Bagel Bakery has cooked up a little controversy with the Planning Board

Town planners last month issued a special permit to Bruegger's, scheduled to open Sept. 20 at 10 Main St., after its owner, Jonathan Stilianos, reduced the number of seats allowed in the establishment from 72 to 32. The reduction was to comply with a town bylaw that requires businesses to provide parking for its customers.

the spring for a position at Shore Country Day School in Beverly.

Mr. Morris "was a very well liked and respected, dedicated professional," said Mr. Smith."The shoes I'm filling are very large.

Why Pike?

"During my first couple of visits, it was clear there is a talented group of people here," he said.

Mr. Smith has worked in various capacities at several private schools. He has taught eighthgrade English, overseen a peer counseling program and he has assisted headmasters.

Accepting the job at Pike "was the logical next step for me. This is an opportunity for me to put 17 years of broad-based education administration experience to use in an untried administrative area for me," Mr. Smith

His most recent position was director of fundraising for a private school in New Jersey.

"I didn't get into education to raise money. I got into education to teach and work with students and parents," he said.

Mr. said his immediate goal is to make sure Pike's middle school program is ready when classes begin next month. After that his long-term goals include enrolling Pike graduates in a wider variety of private high schools. According to Mr. Smith, the majority of Pike graduates attend Phillips Academy and Brooks School in North Andover.

"One of the goals I'd like to achieve is to broaden the spectrum of (private secondary) schools," including boarding schools, Mr. Smith said.

One of the ways to do that, said Mr. Smith, is to invite representatives from 30 private day and boarding schools to Pike for an information fair on Wednesday, Oct. 13. (The fair will be open to the public.)

"This will be an important year for Pike," he predicted.

Pike Headmaster David Frothingham will step down at the end of this school year, and in April the school will be visited by an accreditation team from the Independent School Association of Massachusetts, according to Mr. Smith. The visit is the culmination of a 10-year evaluation process.

"Pike is an excellent school and from what I've observed we're in great shape. It's an exciting time to be a part of the school community," Mr. Smith said.

Mr. Smith was born in Ohio and attended a private boarding school in Connecticut. He has a bachelor's degree in psychology from Trinity College.

News In Brief

Council on Aging wins $7.6k grant

Senator John O'Brien, D-Andover, and Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, join with Massachusetts Elder Affairs Secretary Franklin P. Ollivierre to announce that grants have been awarded to the Andover Council on Aging for the 1994 Fiscal Year.

The Andover Council on Aging has received a grant commonly referred to as "a formula grant," which are awarded to the 330 councils on aging located in the Commonwealth based on the senior population in each community. The Andover Council on Aging has received a grant for $7,564 allocated to provide nurse clinician services and to pay for conference and training costs.

"The councils and their senior centers serve as a vital community resource for the 1.1 million seniors in the state and are a key link between the needs of senior citizens and available resources and we are pleased that we were able to increase the amount of funds awarded statewide this year, despite the current financial constraints," said Secretary Ollivierre.

In Andover, the money will enable the center to continue to provide necessary services to its older citizens.

Howard Kosovske is the new rabbi in Andover

By Lisa Boudreau

Even before he was 10 years old, Howard Kosovske knew he wanted to be a rabbi. He said Hebrew school was such "a positive emotional experience" that he knew within the first few days of classes that he would grow up to be a rabbi.

He grew up and fulfilled his dream, and in June he became the new rabbi for Congregation Tifereth Israel, a conservative Jewish congregation that worships in a hall at Christ Church Episcopal on Central Rabbi Kosovske replaces Rabbi Barbara Penzner, who was awarded a fellowship earlier this year to study in Israel.

One of the reasons Congregation Tifereth Israel members chose Rabbi Kosovske to lead their group of about 80 Jewish families, singles and senior citizens is that he has been successful in creating programs that have encouraged unaffiliated Jews in the Greater Boston area to join, or rejoin synagogues, said Rich Maltzman, a spokesman for the group.

"He is dedicated to reaching out to the unaffiliated and making Judaism relevant to them. He has the right personality for the post and we will be going though a lot of changes as we grow," he said.

According to Mr. Maltzman, about 15 new families have joined the congregation in the past year. Many of the new families are immigrants from the former Soviet Union, he

Once the congregation sells property it owns in Lawrence it plans to make its permanent home in Andover, Mr. Maltzman said.

Personal background

Rabbi Kosovske grew up in a Yiddish-speaking household in Chicago. He lived with his parents, who were born in the United States, and grandparents who were from Latvia and Lithuania. He said he didn't speak English until he went to school.

Rabbi Kosovske's parents and grandparents were secular Jews who did not belong to a synagogue or practice Judaism - except for observing high holidays, he said. When he was about to turn 9, he said his parents began to consider the preparation he would need to participate in a bar mitzvah ceremony when he became 13. That's when his family joined a local synagogue.

"My parents, like many today, had to find a synagogue. They realized that the whole gesture (of enrolling me in Hebrew classes) would be meaningless unless they, too, became involved in Jewish life," said Rabbi Kosovske.

Following his bar mitzvah and graduation from high school, he went on to graduate from Hebrew Theological College. He was ordained a rabbi in 1967. Last year Rabbi Kosovske received a doctor of divinity degree from Hebrew Theological College.

Rabbi Kosovske has worked as a military chaplain in Germany and as a pulpit rabbi in Pennsylvania and South Carolina. While in South Carolina he also taught Jewish history at the University of South Carolina.

He also has served as a rabbi in Wellesley and most recently in Sharon. He left that post last year and in January established the Institute for Jewish Living, in Boston.

"When I left serving a congregation a year ago I started synagogue hopping, I guess, for lack of a better term.

"I was looking to find a congregation that best met my needs, and that's when I discovered a tremendous gap that many synagogues were not fulfilling. There are a tremendous number of unaffiliated Jews,'

Rabbi Kosovske said.

He formed the Institute for Jewish Living to meet the needs of unaffiliated Jews, and to host programs such as adult-Jewish education classes and religious counseling.

Rabbi Kosovske said he his "happiest and most fulfilled" when working one-on-one with people. He said he is looking forward to that type of interaction with members of Congregation Tifereth Israel. Rabbi Kosovske believes educating and including adults in Jewish life and traditions are the keys to building a congregation.

The trend today, he said, is for many unaffiliated Jews to seek out synagogues and religious classes when their oldest children are 8 or 9 – when they traditionally begin preparing for bar or bat mitzyah.

"My goal it to create a religious community that will enrich the lives of all its members. The accent should be on the adults as a starting point – as role models for the children," he said.

Congregation Tifereth Israel holds services each Saturday at 9 a.m., in the hall at Christ Church, 34 Central St Beginning in October, Friday-night services will be held two times each month.

Ed reform bill could force special town meeting Board of Selectmen considers banning cigarette machines

By Don Staruk

Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, told the Board of Selectmen Monday night that the Education Reform Law may require the town to schedule a special town meeting for this fall to appropriate an extra $270,000 in state aid for education.

The town last spring appropriated about $400,000 that was expected in state education aid. Now, due to the Education Reform Law, it looks like the town may get about $664,000 in education aid.

Mr. Stapczynski said he will know soon whether a special town meeting would be required, and he said that there is some question as to whether town meeting approval would be required before spending the money for education.

Mr. Stapczynski gave the board a brief overview of the 100page law that was signed by Gov. Weld in June. He said it is broken into four major categories.

The first section deals with student and teacher education programs, performance standards for students and teachers, policy guidelines for items such as Criminal Offender Record Information for both teachers and students, discipline, and proficiency tests for grades 10 and

This section bans all smoking on school property, which Selectman Gerald Silverman, principal of Georgetown Junior and Senior High School, said would be difficult to enforce. Mr. Silver man questioned how school officials could stop people from smoking at football or baseball games on school property and said instituting fines might be one way to do that.

The second section deals with personnel and provides for principals to now hire employees with just the superintendent's approval. There is no longer to be any involvement of the School Committee in hiring, except for the hiring of the superintendent or assistant superintendent.

The law provides for the town manager to be involved in collective bargaining agreements for teachers. It also creates school councils made up of administrators and parents whose task will be to form a kind of master plan for the schools

The third part of the reform law elevates the School Committee "to that of a policy making board," Mr. Stapczynski said, dealing with items such as accountability standards.

The fourth part deals with financial issues and the distribution of state aid.

The law expands school choice to all communities but gives local school committees the ability to opt out of the choice program if they have space problems.

The 100 pages includes 105 sections and each section could have 15 more pages of explanation on how it is to be instituted, Mr. Stapczynski said. It has new terminology to become familiar with, and 200 amendments to it have either been filed or are waiting to be filed, he said.

We're still in the process of sorting that out," the town manager said.

Mr. Silverman said the document has contradictions in it and will be extremely difficult to institute.

"It's going to take a long time and I'm glad I'm retiring this year," Mr. Silverman said. Board asks for public smoking policy

A discussion about banning cigarette machines in town ended with selectmen requesting that the Board of Health compose a public smoking policy for the town.

Selectman Larry Larsen proposed that the policy, including the regulation of cigarette

Jewelry store moves out of Andover

By Lisa Boudreau

Don't call William Feldman semiretired. Even though earlier this summer he closed William's Fine Jewelry, located at Olde Andover Village for the past 30 years, he still meets regularly with customers as a personal jewelry consultant.

Customers can reach Mr. Feldman by calling the store's former number, which is listed in the phone book, and leave a message.

"I'm busier now than I was before," said the certified gemologist. "I hate the term 'semi-retired.' I'm too vital a person for that."

Mr. Feldman, who now lives in North Andover, said he was born into the jewelry and gem business. His father was a jeweler for more than 40 years.

In April 1964, he opened his own jewelry store at Olde Andover Village on Main Street. There he built a customer base that he still caters to today through direct mailings, periodic estate jewelry sales and one-onone consultations.

Some of the changes Mr. Feldman said he has witnessed during the past 30-plus years is that younger people increasingly have preferred to buy costume jewelry, instead of real gold, precious gems and diamonds.

"Maybe it's the economy, or just that tastes have changed," Mr. Feldman speculated.

One thing that hasn't changed, he said, is that his regular customers return to buy jewelry from him year after year. Now even some of his regulars' children are customers, he

Some cable television bills to go down

TC1 Cablevision of Andover has announced that it will make modifications to its cable service and rates effective Sept. 1 to comply with recently released government regulations.

"Many, but not all, of our customers will see their bills go down slightly,"said TCI General Manager Robert H. Carr Jr. "In fact, some may see their bills stay the same, while others may actually see a slight rate increase

Mr. Carr explained the changes, "Due to the rate formula the government requires that we use, we have reallocated our rates in ways that may cause differences from house to house. This also means that while some individual items on our customer's bill will go down, others will go up.

Some of these changes are unexpected consequences to the 1992 Cable Act that may be unwelcome to our customers. We have tried to minimize the inconvenience to our customers as hest we can."

Under the 1992 Cable Act, cable system rates and services are required to reach certain "benchmarks" by Sept. 1. To meet those benchmarks, TCI Cable-

· The monthly rate for Basic Service will change from $10 to $9.38.

· The Expanded Basic rate will change from $10.35 to $8.98. · A franchise fee of 11 cents will appear on subscriber bills · Additional outlets will no longer be charged. · There will be an equipment charge of $2.16 per month per converter. · Remote controls will be charged at the rate of 16 cents per remote. · The ala carte rate for Encore will increase from $1.50 to $1.75 on Oct. 1.

No other premium rates will change at this time.

These service and rate changes are the latest in a series of moves cable television companies are required to make under the 1992 Cable Act passed by Congress last October. The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) is responsible for developing the regulation necessary to enact the law.

In addition, on Oct. 6, TCI also may be forced to change some of its local broadcast stations. According to the new federal law, local broadcast stations now have to grant their "retransvision of Andover will make the fol- mission consent" to be carried on

TCI's system and can negotiate for payment or other compensation for that

Presently, TCI has not received this retransmission consent from WBZ, WCVB, WLVI, and WSBK.

"TCI wants to carry these stations as long as it is permitted to do so and without any additional cost to our customers. That is why we will continue to negotiate with these stations down to the last minute. If we don't receive their consent by Oct. 6, federal law will require us to discontinue carriage of those stations. If that happens, we will do everything we can to minimize the inconvenience to our customers," said Mr. Carr.

Other changes

In addition, TCI Cablevision expects to see other changes to its service.

"Cable television is going through a revolution in technology and service," said Mr. Carr. "There are some exciting new programming services and technologies being developed and we hope to bring some of that future to our customers here in Andover, Dracut, Middleton and North Reading very soon. Overall, it's a change for the Family Service Assoc. receives accreditation

Family Service Association of Association of Jewish Family Greater Lawrence, at 430 North Canal St., Lawrence, has received a Certificate of Accreditation from the Council on Accreditation of Services for Families and Children, according to Kay Frishman of Andover, the agency's executive director.

"Accreditation, which is for a four-year period, attests that an agency has met a set of nationally established requirements which help ensure quality service" said David Shover, executive director of the national accrediting organization. "Accreditation provides assurance that the agency is performing services which the community needs, conducting its operations effectively and managing its funds wisely.

The procedure involves a detailed examination of the agency's operation, which includes a self-study by the agency and a visit by a council team of reviewers and Children's Agencies, Catholic Charities USA, the Child Welfare League of America, Family Service America, the Lutheran Social Ministry System, the National Council for Adoption and the National Association of Homes and Services for Children, accredits private voluntary and proprietary agencies as well as local direct service public agencies. It is the only independent accrediting body providing quality assurance over a broad range of family and children's services.

The council, sponsored by the

Businesswomen plan women's conference with 12 workshops

The Merrimack Valley Business Women's Network has spent many hours this summer planning a women's conference to be held Thursday, Oct. 21, at the Franciscan Center in West Andover.

The proceeds will go to the Greater Lawrence YWCA. The theme is "Women Celebrate a Day of Enrichment."

The conference will feature 12 workshops. Topics will include "Empowering Women in Politics," "Women Making Their Mark in the '90s" and "The Sandwich Generation."

The conference will also include exhibits of businesses, continental breakfast and lunch and an optional "Networking/After-Hours" program.

Historian and educator Katherine Campbell will speak on "Women in Community Services: An Illustrious Tradition."

For more information, call Barbara Roland at 251-0710 or Maureen Pollard at 682-1994.

"Here's a perfect example. One customer, a young man, came in last fall. He was getting engaged and he told me that he wouldn't think of getting his ring from anyone but me. He was my original paperboy." Mr. Feldman said.

boy," Mr. Feldman said.

"I love to tell that story because it is exactly why I got into the business. Instead of that mall mentality of mass quantity selling, I wanted to formulate relationships with my customers. I want to know them and I want them to know me. So many people today are just numbers when they go into a store."

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

ELEMENTS OF A GOOD SMILE

Attractive smiles may vary as widely as the faces that feature them, but several criteria are common to all. First and foremost, a nice smile shows teeth of relatively even color, with only slight yellowing as each tooth progresses near the gumline. A slight translucence should be in evidence close to the bitting edges. No patchy white or darkly discolored areas should be in evidence. The upper front teeth are most visible during a smile and should not overlap or show other positional tregularities. The smile line, described by the bitting edges of the top front teeth, should be parallel to the lower lip and should curve gently upward at the corners. Their edges should not be worn flat. The upper central incisors and eye teeth should be slightly longer then the lateral incisors.

There are many options available today to keep your smile a happy, healthy one. Are you less than satistied with yours? Comes see us and talk to us about what you've always wanted your smile to be. Maximize your options. Find out all you can about taking care of your teeth, gums, and smile by consulting with people who know and care about your oral health. MUSCLING OUT BACK PAIN

It is no surprise that a good deal of back pain is caused by muscle strain. The spine is largely supported by two main groups of muscles. The extensor muscles at the center of the back enable us to lift objects and straighten up. Conversely, the flexor muscles in front of the body (including all the abdominuscles) generally work the spine in the other direction so that we can bend forward. With these sets of muscles working in opposition to each other, it is easy to see how muscle weakness can lead to back problems. Lax muscles call upon other muscles and ligaments to do more than their share of work to hold the body up. This added strain may cause those tissues to either stretch or lighten, leaving the spine vulnerable to misalignment.

We can help you prevent some of these back problems with a few simple exercises. If you notice a problem, don't wait, call us for natural and safe care at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP. 475-5042, for an appointment. Our office is located at 15 Central Street. Have a happy and safe Labor Day!

P.S. By shifting the burden of lifting to the strong thigh muscles, less load is transmitted to the spine.

REAL ESTATE CORNER

with Jean Fitzgerald & Pamela Lebowitz

HOW SHOULD YOU PRICE YOUR HOME?

Interest rates rise and fall, sales orices increase and decline - over the years you have seen it all. No matter what phase the market is experiencing, it is always important to price your home competitively. How can you best accomplish this?

The first step in selling a home is to contact a professional Realtor for a market analysis. He or she will go over the recent sales of comparable homes in your neighborhood and will give you information about other properties now on the market You can compare your home to the competition, and your agent can show you how to adjust your price up or down, considering the size, location and condition of your property. Even in a very active market, a price that is too high may frighten off prospective buyers, whether or not you tell your agent that you are willing to negotiate. It can take extra weeks or months to sell, and the final sales price may be lower than if you had started with a more realistic asking price. When we price our listings, it's not just guesswork. Our analyses reflect our experience and expertise in the real estate marketplace.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Century 21 Carriage House. Call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 10 High Street,

Songwriting and performing class fosters young musicians

By Jennifer Lewis ight children were in the ere in spotlight on the West Elementary School stage last month.

In Kaleidoscopes's week-long Songwriting and Performing class, South School teacher Michael Pearl taught kids, ages 6-11, a variety of musical styles, including blues, rock 'n' roll, swing and folk. The children wrote their own song lyrics and performed their masterpieces to music of a professional band, which included a bass, electric piano, guitar and drummer.

At their final meeting, children performed such original songs as Getting to School On Time, The Kitty Cat Song. I Lost My Dog and Throwing Up in a

"Kids always make up little songs when they do things," Mr. Pearl said. Through performing the songs, "they have their musicality validated, in a way."

Adam Edelstein, 10, wrote his song The Not-Sure Blues about being confused and not knowing what to do. He said his favorite part of the course was "getting to write songs and get up there [on stage] and perform."

Mr. Pearl was a professional musician for three years after he graduated from college. He was also a children's performer for six years.

"I was interested in teaching, and was tired of driving around in a truck and playing in bars, he said. "Kids really like music and I love encouraged students. "He never said we were wrong; he just helped us make the songs."

Anne picked the theme of her song, Flying a Kite, from a list of topics offered at the beginning of the course. The idea for her other song, Swimming Pool came from home.

"It was wondersaid Mary Myers, Anne's mother. "We spent a couple of hours at home every day with the songs.

Mr. Pearl believes songwriting is therapy for some children and gives them the chance to shine.

"[Songwriting] gives an importance to what they have to say and gives them real power." he said. "If you put an idea to music it gives it importance.

Allison Hartrich, 8, said she "liked everything" about the class. Her song Too Many Freckles described the trials facing a young girl with freckles. Allison, who of course has freckles, said the idea of the song,

"just came out of my head."

Barbara Hartrich, Allison's mother, said she really enjoyed watching the children perform. "It's great to see them have such a good time, create something and have fun," she said. "It was a great experience '

Mr. Pearl said songwriting has helped kids from troubled families and kids in their shells who wouldn't come out. "Some kids really connect," he said.

He believes teaching the songwriting and performing class is a very fulfilling thing to do. "Kids really like it, I certainly like it and parents like it," he said. "It starts kids on a path with writing music and self-discipline.

The songwriting and performing class was just one of the courses offered by Kaleidoscope's summer enrichment program.

More than 120 artists will participate in the exhibit and sale. Paintings, drawings, graphics, sculpture and photography will be available. Rain date is Sunday, Sept. 12.

For more information, write Andover Art in the Park, 30 Powderhill Road, Methuen, Mass. 01844.

NRTW will hold auditions for Fiddler on the Roof

Workshop will hold open auditions for Fiddler on the Roof Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 1-2, at 7 p.m. for all adult roles and chorus. Familiar songs include If I Were a Rich Man, Matchmaker Matchmaker, Do You Love Me?, Tradition, Sunrise Sunset, Sabbath Prayer and L'Chaim

In addition to adult lead and supporting roles and chorus, at least four children's roles will be filled, two girls and two boys. The girls are Tevye's youngest daughters, ages 6-12, and will be in several scenes as well as in chorus numbers. The boys should be in the same age range and will be in most of the chorus numbers. Children ages 6-12 should audition at 6 p.m. on the same dates

Fiddler on the Roof is the story Paul Greene at 681-0355.

The North Reading Theatre of Tevye, a milkman, and his family in Anatevka in Russia before the revolution. Many things change for Teyve, his family and his village. Long-held traditions are challenged - some are altered and some stand. Every aspect of Russian village life is portrayed: the workingman, his aspirations for his family, the struggles of being a Jew at that

All roles are available, including Tevye, Golde and their five daughters, Yenta (the matchmaker) and Lazar Wolf (the butcher)

Auditions and rehearsals will be held at Union Congregational Church, Haverhill Street, North Reading. The play will be perton High School auditorium.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

IMPORTANT CHANGES ARE COMING TO CABLE

Change. If there's one constant in cable television these days, it's change.

To comply with recent federal government rules, a few months ago we changed your channel line-up. Now the government is asking us to make additional changes in rates, service levels and channel line-ups. Effective September 1, 1993, your system will have new rates and a new channel line-up.

Many – but not all – of our customers will see their bills go down slightly.

In fact, some may see their bills stay the same, while others may actually see a slight rate increase.

Why?

Due to the rate formula the government requires that we use, we have reallocated our rates in ways that may cause differences from house to house. This also means that while some individual items on your bill will go down, others will go up.

We have tried to make all these changes at once to minimize the inconvenience to our customers.

> PLEASE WATCH YOUR MAIL FOR AN IMPORTANT NOTICE FROM TCI ON THESE CHANGES.

For additional information, please call us - we'll be happy to help you.

Andover Garden Club celebrates a year full of accomplishments

The Andover Garden Club closed its 1992-'93 year in June with a whirl of activity.

As the local organization was preparing to hold a Standard Flower & Garden Show, the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts announced at its annual convention that several Andover Garden Club members had received awards for accomplishments during the past year.

Helga Frazzette received three awards for her work as district director of the Northern District.

The Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts is divided into 11 districts and in the competition held among the directors, Ms. Frazzette won the Evelyn R. Cole District Award (a silver bowl); the Newsletter Award for writing and sending a newsletter to 30 clubs with more than 1,800 members in her area; and the Civic Project Award with the Highway Beautification Plan she oversaw. Her project encompassed the development of a highway garden at the junction of Interstates 93 and 495, near the New Hampshire-Massachusetts border.

The Andover Garden Club won the Garden Therapy Award (a silver bowl) for the

Anna M. Kilman Moved here in 1930s

Anna M. Kilman, 80, of 86 Central St., died Tuesday, Aug. 17, at her home.

Mrs. Kilman was born in Cambridge. She was a bookkeeper in dairy distribution at Vermont Tea & Butter Co.

She moved to Andover in the early 1930s. In 1937 she married Ernest E. Kilman, who died in 1992.

She was a member of the Free Christian Church.

Members of her family include her daughter and son-in-law, Helen K. and Norbert Pestana of Salem, N.H., son and daughter-in-law, Ernest and Clara Kilman Jr. of Concord, N.H.; sisters, Ebba Loven of Connecticut, Hilda Houle of Rhode Island, Helen Koza of Centerville, Agnes dePinquertaine of North Carolina and Gladys Keith of Virginia; brother, Fred Martinson of Florida; four grandchildren; and 35 nieces and nephews.

Services were held Friday at Edgerley & Bessom Funeral Home. Burial was in Spring

Grove Cemetery.

Doris May Parks Longtime resident of Haverhill

Doris May Parks, 86, of 102 Burnham Road, died Saturday, Aug. 21, at Lawrence General Hospital.

Ms. Parks was born in Epping, N.H., and attended New Hampshire public schools. She was the daughter of the late Bert and Lettie (Healey) Parks.

Ms. Parks had been a resident of Haverhill for most of her life.

She leaves her loving friend, Janet Guzuski, and family members in Methuen.

A funeral service was held yesterday, Wednesday, at H.L. Farmer and Sons Funeral Home in Haverhill.

Burial was in Linwood Cemetery.

M. Rita Hewitt Former Andover teacher

M. Rita (Walsh) Hewitt, 88, of 256 North Main St., a former Andover public school teacher, died Saturday, Aug. 21, at Lawrence General Hospital.

Mrs. Hewitt was born in Lawrence. She was a graduate of St. Mary's High School and Lowell Normal School. She taught in Lawrence, Andover and Reading schools.

Mrs. Hewitt was a former member of the Greater Lawrence Board of Realtors, the Quota Club of Greater Lawrence, Shawsheen Village Women's Club, St. Clare League of Catholic Women and St. Augustine Church.

Members of her family include her daughter, Mary Ann Whelan of Evanston, Ill.; son, John J. Hewitt Jr. of Andover; grandchildren, Amy Hewitt of Manchester, N.H., Second Lt. Mark Hewitt of Fort Knox, Ky., and Deirdre Whelan and Caitlin Whelan, both of Evanston; and several nieces and nephews. She was the widow of John J. Hewitt Sr.

A Mass was celebrated Tuesday at St. Augustine Church. Burial was in St. Mark's Cemetery in Lawrence.

Arrangements were by Burke Funeral Award for her design entry,

Home in Andover.

Memorial contributions may be made to Friends of St. Mary, 300 Haverhill St., Lawrence, Mass. 01840, or Hospice of the Merrimack Valley, 1 Union St., Andover, Mass. 01810.

Gerard Dodier Built fountain to benefit patients with cancer

Gerard T. "Gerry The Mason" Dodier, 62, of Lowell, died Saturday, Aug. 22, at Holy Family Hospital in Methuen.

Mr. Dodier was born in East Broughton, Quebec, and came to the United States in 1955. He had been a longtime North Andover resident.

He was a member of the French Social Club of Lawrence and enjoyed taking his family and friends on his pontoon boat on the Merrimack River.

While fighting cancer during the past year, Mr. Dodier built a water fountain at the Tage Inn in Andover so that donations people threw into the fountain could be sent to the American Cancer Society.

He was self-employed as a mason for more than 45 years and worked in many states throughout the country

Members of his family include his wife of 25 years, Joyce (Lee) Dodier; mother, Laura (Dupuis) Dodier of Magog, Quebec; daughters, Lee Dodier and Nicole Dodiboth of Haverhill, and Michelle Dunkelberg of Messina, N.Y.; brothers, Romaine Dodier of Haverhill, Conrad Dodier of Nashua, N.H., and Yves Dodier and Tino Dodier, both of Magog; sisters, Genny Pominvelle of Wickham, Quebec, and Carmen Byrzyck and Bella Thetrheault, both of Magog; grandson, Brian Dunkelberg; and many aunts, uncles nieces and nephews.

He was also son of the late

Romeo Dodier.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Dewhirst and Conte Funeral Home in North Andover, Burial was private.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer

Kathy Szostak Services are today

Kathy A. Szostak, 32, of Methuen, a former member of St. Augustine Church's bell choir, died Sunday, Aug. 22, at her sister' home after a long battle against brain cancer.

She was first diagnosed with cancer in 1986 and underwent surgery at Lahey Clinic in Burlington to remove a tumor. She was in remission for nearly six years when her symptoms returned last fall and she had more surgery.

Ms. Szostak was born in Methuen. She was the daughter of Margaret T. (Baggett) Szostak of Methuen and Charles Szostak of Lawrence. She attended St. Monica School and graduated from Methuen in 1979 with honors. She was named the school's most valuable female athlete that year and was named "most athletic graduate."

At Methuen High School she was a standout in field hockey, basketball and softball. She was voted Most Valuable Player in all three sports and was named an Eagle-Tribune All Start eight times. She was also given a Boston Globe All-Scholastic Award in softball.

At Methuen High School she set school basketball records for the most points scored in a game (45); the most rebounds in one game (23); and the most points in one season (295). In softball, she had the highest batting average at .607; nine home runs; four grand slams in one season; and 310 RBIs.

Obituaries Pages 24-25

Gerard T. Dodier, 62 M. Rita Hewitt, 88 Anna M. Kilman, 80 Doris May Parks, 86

Kathy A. Szostak, 32

Ms. Szostak attended Ohio State University on a full athletic scholarship. There she played varsity field hockey and lacrosse for four years and was named a Collegiate All Star in field hockey.

In 1981 she was inducted into Ohio State's Gamma Chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron, the National Home of Economics Honor Society. She graduated from Ohio State in 1983, specializing in childhood development. She was a member of the National Association for the Education of Young Children.

Ms. Szostak worked with preschool children in Ohio, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Greater Lawrence. Her family said she was always trying to find more imaginative decorations for her classrooms and new activities for her students. They said she especially enjoyed singing and dancing with the children.

She coached field hockey at Brown University for one year and at East Greenwich High School, both in Rhode Island. She also worked for a short time at a Rhode Island bank

Before her second surgery, Ms. Szostak was a member of St. Augustine Church's bell

Last spring, hundreds of supporters attended a basketball tournament in her honor. She was unable to play at that time, but she did toss up the ceremonial jump ball.

Tonight's evening with Natalie Cole will benefit Strongest Link, Essex County AIDS organization

North Shore Music Theatre will present an evening with Natalie Cole tonight, Thursday, at 8. A champagne reception on the grounds of the Music Theatre will follow the concert. Tickets for the concert and reception are $100; tickets for the concert only are available for $50. The Natalie Cole concert event will benefit the Theatre for Young Audiences program at North Shore Music Theatre as well as the AIDS organization serving Essex County, Strongest Link, Ms. Cole has earned 10 Grammy awards, four nominations and an NAACP Image Award and has sold more than 28 million albums worldwide. Her career took off in 1975 with her debut album "Inseparable," which was followed by "Natalie, Unpre-dictable" and "Thankful." After a recording hiatus, Ms. Cole returned in 1987 with "Everlasting" featuring Pink Cadillac, Jump Start and I Live For Your Love. In 1989, she released "Good To Be Back," which contained the hit Miss You Like Crazy and Wild Women Do from the Pretty Woman soundtrack. Her album, "Unforgettable with Love" featured a duet with her father, Nat King Cole, and some of his hit songs. The album won seven Grammy awards and sold eight million copies.

Ms. Cole chose to stay on the same path of pop standards for her new song from the '40s and '50s, such as Billie Holiday's Don't Explain. Aretha Franklin's Take A Look, Duke Ellington's I'm Beginning To See the Light, Nat King Cole's Calypso Blues and other songs like Swingin' Shepard Blues, This Will Make You Laugh, Cry Me a River and As Time Goes By.

Some town boards have new members, others need members

Even though the selectmen appointed two new members to the School Building Committee Monday night, the committee is still two members short because Chairman Doug Hamilton resigned earlier this week, and one member remains to be nominated by the School Committee.

Selectmen Monday night approved several appointments to fill vacancies on other town boards, including the Zoning Board of Appeals and Planning Board. There are still vacancies on the Conservation Commission and SBC that Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski hopes to make recommendations for soon, so that selectmen can approval the nominations at their next meeting. ZBA appointments Residential designer David Brown, of 57 Glenwood Road, and Donald Ellsworth, a retired electrical engineer, who lives at 2 Rose Glen Drive, are the two new associate members of the ZBA. Mr. Ellsworth served on the town's Planning Board and Finance Committee for three and five years respectively in the 1980s.

Mr. Brown and Mr. Ellsworth replace former ZBA associate members Jane Griswold and Peter Reilly. There are nine ZBA members - five regular members and four associate members. The latter fill in when regular members cannot attend meetings or abstain

What's happening to the Stevens Street mills?

Reason for filing now

Both subdivision proposals considered last week were preliminary plans submitted solely to protect certain dimensional rights threatened by restrictions in the proposed Massachusetts River Protection Act, which is now pending in the state Legislature. The River Protection Act would prevent development, or redevelopment, within 150 feet of the river, according

"It basically restricts what you can do within that buffer," Mr. Colyer said.

Laura Hill, senior planner, in a memo to Planning Board members on the subdivision proposal for the west side of the river, explained the reason for Mr. Paley's filing the plans now.

"This plan and the preliminary plan filed for the east side of the Shawsheen River are being filed primarily to "freeze" the zoning in response to the proposed Massachusetts River Protection Act, which has passed in the Senate and is currently under review in the House. The act will severely limit redevelopment and new construction within 150 feet of a river's mean annual high-water line.'

Mr. Paley is expected to submit a site plan special permit request for two development phases, one on either side of the river, within the next few months, according to Ms. Hill

'If the act is passed as written, these proposals will require a waiver (variance) from the Conservation Commission as provided in the act because the development will be within the protected 150-foot-wide corridor," Ms. Hill

The River Protection Act would prevent development, or redevelopment, within 150 feet of the river. The act has passed in the Senate and currently is under review in the House.

State subdivision control law allows freezing of zoning dimensional controls through the filing of a preliminary plan and subdivision plan, which must be approved by the Planning Board.

"The act states that non-conforming status can be secured through the filing of these plans," Ms. Hill said.

Approval of the two subdivision plans would buy Mr. Paley seven months, during which time the zoning and use of the property would be grandfathered, to submit a site plan special permit application for the supermarket, clinic and elderly housing development.

"He gets the grandfathering under the subdivision control law," Mr. Coly-

But the subdivision plans have nothing to do with what will eventually be constructed at the site, Mr. Colyer said. Mr. Paley's ultimate goal of building a supermarket, clinic and elderly housing remain intact, he said.

'That's the grand scheme," Mr.

Mr. Colyer said that if all goes according to Mr. Paley's plans, construction on the Marland Mills site could begin next year. Planners will consider action on the two subdivision plans at their next meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 14.

Cassimere plan withdrawn

A plan was withdrawn to extend Cassimere Street, a dead end that comes off Stevens Street near Shaw sheen Road, and create four new residential lots from the existing mixeduse lot that includes the mill building west of the Shawsheen River.

The only reason for the plan was to protect the zoning. After hearing the neighbors' concerns, which focused largely on the details of the subdivision, Mr. Paley withdrew it.

"There was never any intent to actually do anything up there," Mr. Colyer said of Cassimere Street.

"A subdivision can only be created through the establishment of a new roadway," Laura Hill, senior planner, explained in her memo to planners. "The new road depicted on the preliminary plan as an extension of Cassimere Street was created in order to freeze the zoning for the mill property on the west side of the river.

Mr. Paley this week submitted another plan to run a street through the mill property from Stevens Street, which leaves alone the entire piece of property at the end of Cassimere Street. But, like the initial submission, the proposal has nothing to do with the eventual plans to develop the clinic in the front section of the existing mill building and elderly housing in the rear of the existing mill building.

The second subdivision plan discussed last week would create two lots on the east side of the Shawsheen River, bounded by the river, Stevens Street and North Main Street, and would incorporate several properties Mr. Paley owns along North Main Street, between Stevens Street and Shawsheen Plaza.

The subdivision plan is, again, only for the purpose of grandfathering the

The actual plan is to raze the existing mill building, where Suburban Health Care is now located, and construct a 45,000-square-foot supermarket in its place

The Historical Commission has already been consulted on the plan to raze the mill building and will be conducting public hearings in accordance with the demolition delay ordinance passed by town meeting two years vears ago.

The subdivision plan proposes constructing a driveway, "Old Mill Way," from the lights on North Main Street, directly across from the Shawsheen Plaza entrance, to access the development, but that also could change with the submission of the site plan special permit application.

Any development proposals for the mill property will have to address severe flooding problems on the site. It will also have to contend with traffic impacts, particularly on Steven's Street, where the post office already has congestion, and at the Steven's Street and Shawsheen Plaza lights on North Main Street.

ConsCom establishes wetlands guidelines

In an effort to provide guidance to applicants and consultants applying under the Massachusetts Wetlands Protection Act, the Andover Conservation Commission voted to establish a guideline that requests a 15-foot minimum separation between wetlands and any proposed alteration or land distur-

The Massachusetts Wetlands Protection Act statute and regulations require that proponents of projects that will alter a wetland resource area or that are within 100 feet of a wetland must first file with the local Conservation Commission, but do not establish minimum setback distances.

mission reviews each application on a case-by-case basis. The new Andover guideline states:

The Conservation Commission will expect proposals to locate no alteration or disturbance of land closer than 15 feet to a wetland boundary. Special justification will be required for any proposal that seeks a lesser distance. Applicants for less distances will be required to shown in detail that no damage occurs to the adjacent wetland.

Commission members hope the new guideline will be helpful to the public by providing a degree of advance notice of the commission's expectations in reviewing plans and will eliminate delays due to the need to revise plans.

Special Town Meeting, smoking machine: selectmen talk vending machines, then be placed on the warrant for discussion and possible action at this spring's Town Meeting

The discussion was spawned by a letter from Tom Urbelis, town counsel, advising that a ban on the sale of cigarettes by machine in Provincetown was recently upheld by the state Supreme Judicial Court.

"The primary purpose of the bylaw was to restrict minors' access to cigarettes," Mr. Urbelis said.

In a related case in Marlborough, a Board of Health regulation limits the operation of cigarette vending machines "to certain locations where access by minors is restricted." The regulation prohibits the machines "except at private clubs and bars licensed by the city to sell or serve alcoholic beverages or at a factory, business office or other place not open to the general public where persons under 18 years of age are not permitted access."

The Marlborough regulation also mandates cigarette machines have "lockout devices for employees to control the sale of the cigarettes."

Andover's Board of Health is already working on proposed revisions to the town's regulations to incorporate restrictions on cigarette vending machines, according to Mr. Urbelis.

Any proposed warrant articles would be discussed at a public hearing prior to town meeting.

Justin's gets pool table

The board approved an application for a coin-operated pool table at Justin's of Andover restaurant and lounge on Park Street. Board members acknowledged two weeks ago, during discussion of a request by Grille 93 on River Road for two pool tables, that the table at Justin's was already in existence without a license.

After approving the license for Justin's Monday night, at least two members of the board headed over to the establishment.

Kiwanis fund-raiser

Selectmen reluctantly approved a "Peanut Day" fund-raiser for the Greater Lawrence Kiwanis Club, which will allow members to stop traffic in Elm Square on Saturday, Sept. 11.

The fund-raiser, in which the Kiwanis would solicit donations from passing motorists in exchange for peanuts, will be allowed this time in part because the plans were pre-approved by the police department. But at least two board members expressed reservations.

Gerald Silverman said he thought it might be dangerous and a nuisance to be stopping traffic in Elm Square on the first weekend people will be back in town after Labor Day. He warned the Kiwanis to come up with a different idea for a fund-raiser in the future.

Charles Wesson also expressed reservations and recommended that the group choose a different, less intrusive location next time around.

Quotable

The members of the Board of Selectmen also serve as the town's sewer commissioners. At one point during Monday's meeting, board members adjourned to sewer commissioners to approve septic system applications, then adjourned back to their regular meeting, all in about 30 seconds.

"This meeting is flowing right along," observed Selectman Larry Larsen

Bruegger's Bagel stirs up controversy over parking, seats

But in revised plans that came to light last week, the extra seats were removed but the tables were replaced with eight tables made for standing, which at four people each could accommodate 32 customers. That's a total of 64 customers, 32 more than town planners had intended when they approved the special permit, according to Stephen Colyer, town planning director.

tor.
"That was not the intent of the board's decision," Mr. Colver said this week

"I think people were pretty unhappy that that's not the way it was represented," Michael Miller, Planning Board member, said this week. "It was clearly to be able to reduce the impact on parking. It clearly goes away from the spirit of what was presented and what was voted on."

Mr. Colyer pointed out that Mr. Stilianos never actually misrepresented his plans. In fact, a June 3 memo to board members from Laura Hill.

senior planner, said that Bruegger's indicated it "could still operate at 32 seats," but never mentioned any reduction in the number of tables.

Mr. Colyer said it is a case of "semantics" and that Bruegger's has simply found a glitch or loophole in the bylaw.

"Right now town counsel is looking at the language of the decision" and the plans that were submitted, Mr. Colyer said

Planning Board members were so concerned with the situation that they sent copies of the decision and plans to Bob Zollner, town counsel, while he was out of town on vacation.

The change in the plans was picked up by Mr. Colyer and brought to the attention of board members at the end of their Aug. 17 meeting. Mr. Miller said he assumes the Bruegger's decision will be a topic of discussion at the next board meeting, on Tuesday, Sept. 14.

"I think we will probably discuss what, if any, action will be taken," Mr. Miller said.

comprised of several high school students and about a dozen community members – some with backgrounds in the health field.

The goal of the survey is to determine what sexual and substance use and abuse behaviors by Andover teenagers place them at risk of HIV infection. The survey also was designed to determine if Andover teens are different from other communities in the state, said Brenda O'Brien, a member of the subcommittee and coordinator of health education in the Andover public schools.

What's next

The School Committee was scheduled to discuss the results of the survey with members of the subcommittee on Wednesday night, after Townsman presstime. Mary Lyman, a member of both committees, said earlier this week that the subcommittee will ask the School Committee to hold two community forums this fall – one to discuss the results and another to determine where the school's HIV prevention curriculum can be improved and what type of school programs the community will support.

About the survey

The survey was completed by 495 of the High School's 1,253 students. Equal numbers of students in each grade level participated. About 52 percent were female, and 73 percent were between the ages of 15 and 17. Participation was voluntary and students were not required to answer each question, said Ms. Lyman. One of the results that Ms. Lyman said she found surprising was that 389 students responded that they had received instruction on the proper use of condoms, but at least 150 of those students were below the grade level where proper condom use is included in the High School health curriculum.

Survey highlights

In the survey:

• 312 students said they use alcohol recreationally;

• 102 said they use marijuana monthly, weekly or daily;

• Six said they have used or shared needles to administer drugs;

• 183 said they have had sexual activ-

• 149 said they have had multiple sexual encounters:

• 89 said they have had more than one partner;

• 48 said they had intercourse before they were 15;

• 88 said they always used condoms, 67 use them sometimes and 23 never use them;

314 favor making condoms available at AHS;

· 234 practice abstinence;

• 120 said they can talk openly to their parents about sexual matters;

 165 said they would not feel comfortable asking their parents about sexual matters.

Marty Meehan talks health care with senior citizens here

By Lisa Boudreau

About 35 senior citizens gathered at the Senior Center Monday to talk with U.S. Rep. Marty Meehan, D-Lowell, and a great deal of what they wanted to talk about was health care. Congressman Meehan has held more than 30 town meetings since he was elected last year.

Earlier in the day he was at a Lawrence housing project to announce a $250,000 federal grant from Housing and Urban Development department to develop a drug-prevention program in that city's subsidized housing units.

The town meetings, he said, are designed to help him keep in touch with constituents and give constituents an opportunity to discuss issues and ask questions.

Health care

Seniors wanted to know what plans the Legislature has to control skyrocketing health-care costs and what Congressman Meehan expects will happen when the president's task force on health care reform releases its findings this fall

He alth care and related costs "are increasing 10 to 14 percent each year," the congressman said. "It is essential to get these costs under control if we are going to reduce the deficit."

Larry Stahley of Longwood Drive asked what the congressman thought of a one-payer health-care system – similar to the one Canada has – and what are its chances of being implemented in the United States.

U.S. Rep.

"I don't think managed competition gets rid of a lot of the bureaucracy. A one-payer system, such the Medicare system, is the way to go," Mr. Stahley said.

The congressman said he hasn't "signed onto" the single-payer health insurance system yet.

"My strategy is to see what the task force says. My sense is that the president's proposal will be the closest to a one-payer system... We'll take a look at it and make some adjustments.

"I'm not philosophically opposed to a one-payer system, but I want to see what (the task force) has to say," he said

Mary Shank, of Lawrence, asked the congressman what he thought could be done about the increasing number of "frivolous lawsuits against doctors today. They make doctors so afraid of being sued for malpractice that they give patients every test available." she said

Congressman Meehan agreed that the cost of malpractice insurance has been in part to blame for some of the rising costs in health care.

"There can be no health-care reform without some form of tort reform also,"

In addition to tort reform, the congressman also talked about the possibility of future laws to place caps on prescription drug costs and insurance premiums.

"People on Social Security can't afford it. Blue Cross increases are going up faster than Social Security benefits," he said.

The congressman fielded questions for more than an hour at the Senior Center.

Congressman Meehan will hold another town meeting on health care Monday, Sept. 27, at 7 p.m. at the O'Leary Library at UMass Lowell.

Residents appeal Lowell Junction zoning vote

By Don Staruk

Three Lowell Junction Road residents are appealing a June decision by the Zoning Board of Appeals that allows an asphalt and concrete recycling operation to continue operating in their neighborhood.

Deloury Construction Co., at 46 Lowell Junction Road, has been operating at the site since 1986. It began as a storage site for dirt and rock fill, but has grown and now uses large machinery to crush concrete and asphalt into a sort of gravel used in road beds

The neighbors have several times petitioned the board not to approve the special permit, which has been renewed twice, each time for a three-year period.

The neighbors appealing the decision are Donald and Linda Green, Phil Wormwood, a former member of the Conservation Commission, his wife, Helen, and Pat and Jay Thomson, all of Lowell Junction Road.

The nature of the neighbors' complaints are that the operation creates too much noise and dust. Neighbors have also questioned the controls over what types of materials are brought onto the site, and whether or not they might contain asbestos from building demolitions or other hazardous materials.

Attorney Matthew Wattsky is representing the neighbors. John Deloury, owner of the construction company, is being represented by Reginald Marden. Robert Zollner will represent the Zoning Board. Mr. Zollner was out of town this week and unavailable for comment on the case.

North Andover street closed to traffic for 3-4 months

Andover commuters might like to know that Great Pond Road in North Andover will be closed to day-time traffic for three or four months, according to Timothy Willette, North Andover town engineer.

The road is closed from Marbleridge Road to South Bradford Street.

Traffic is being detoured out to Salem Street to Dale Street to get around the construction.

The road closed Aug. 19 and will be closed until the end of November. to

"They should be working on Great Pond Road for the next three to four months," said Mr. Willette.

He said that one-lane traffic might be open at times when the width of the road allows.

The road will be closed from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

Recycling problems

There's a problem in town that residents really shouldn't have to tolerate. It has been a problem for quite some time now. People talk and complain about it, then it subsides for a while, only to crop up again.

We are talking about the rudeness of some of the people who work at the recycling site at West Middle School the third Saturday of the month. They sometimes shout at people and they often are short when a person asks a question.

A letter to the editor in today's paper, written by Frances C. Renaud-Stephan of 26 Vine St., brings it to light again. She says, and we agree, that it can be stressful to recycle because the hired people (not the town volunteers, who are bravely and energetically trying to make up for the attitude of the recycling company employees) are short and impatient with recyclers.

And while we are on the subject of recycling, we would like to lodge another complaint. It is difficult to complain about recycling in Andover because we are grateful to the women who organized the effort here and continue to urge us all to use the system. Andover used to be a trail blazer in the recycling field, but today it is falling behind in convenience.

We know of many communities that encourage their residents to recycle by making it easier than Andover does. When a person can recycle plastic, aluminum and tin only once a month, or paper and glass every other week, it is not always easy to be a faithful recycler, especially for those who live in small houses or apartments that have little storage space. It would be helpful to have a drop-off site in town.

At the same time, the town needs to find ways to enable residents to recycle other items – furniture, clothes, household items and other goods that are crushed by garbage trucks every week – when someone needs the goods.

It is time for Andover to re-assess its recycling efforts and to bring itself back to the forefront of the recycling effort. It is a shame to waste even one item, especially when we have run out of landfill space.

On street directories and child care

By Perry Colmore

Do you know what the street directory is? It's an annual listing of everyone who lives in town and it includes addresses, precincts, date of birth and occupation.

At the Townsman we use it several times each day. If we hear on the scanner that there is a fire at such- andsuch address, we look it up on our map, as well as in our street directory thectory to see who lives there. We use the directory sometimes to check the spelling of a person's name, or to recheck a person's age. If a business that's not located in Andover sends a press release about a person and doesn't say if that person lives in Andover, we use the street listing to see if that story is appropriate for this newspaper.

You can look a person up alphabetically, or by street name.

The listing is fascinating, to us

For instance, on Lincoln Circle West (chosen for this example because it has only seven entries) the town lists a man and woman living at #23, both are engineers and they were born in 1963 and 1964; then we have an address at #25 that is vacant; at #32 live a woman born in 1965 who is in marketing and her apparent husband (I would check to be sure!) is a physician born in 1964; at #33 live, a man born in 1943 who is a teacher and a woman born in 1944 who is an administrative assistant.

The 1993 street directories are available now, from the town clerk's office at town offices on Bartlet Street. They cost $20.

I have a complaint about the last two directories. Because of budget constraints, they were printed by the town in 1992 and 1993, when previously some outside firm printed them. The directories printed prior to that are still in good shape. But in just the first few weeks that this office had the 1992 directories, they began to fall apart. In fact, when our reporter went to town offices last week to buy our new ones, he gave them one of our old ones, just to make a point.

Does anyone else use the directories as much as we do? Just wondering

Child-care problems

Pat Byrne, a woman who is right now in the process of moving to Andover, complains she is having a difficult time finding child care and after-school care for her two children. She says there is very limited space available in the day-care centers in Andover, "in fact I have gone to North Reading for my 4-year-old," she writes.

Ms. Byrne says the YMCA program was full a long time ago. She says the school department hasn't been too helpful, and she says SHED (Shawsheen Extended Day) is full.

"Many, many other communities in the area have large after-school programs, adequate for the demand. And they house them in the schools... These other towns offer before-school care too, something that is unavailable in Andover. How hard could it be to staff the schools a little early for kids whose parents need to get to work on time?

"During this odyssey, I have tried to form a mental picture of the typical Andover family," she writes. "Sometimes I think they must be very different than mine, which is simply two professional parents and two small kids. We aren't poor, but we aren't rich either. I think the school system is planted attitudinally in the 1950s expecting that moms don't work. Other programs and institutions seem to expect me to have a nanny to absorb the time between when their programs operate and when the parents are out of work. There are a lot of wealthy people in Andover, but they surely aren't the bulk of the population.

"Fortunately I don't have problems of affordability or the terrible commuting issues... But I spend an incredible amount of time dealing with day-care issues. And so does everybody like me. Aren't there other folks like me in Andover? I wonder... I think I have described a community issue.

Well, what do other parents think? Does Andover need more before- and after-school care? If it does, is that a job for the schools, or should independent groups offer child care?

Want to talk about it? Give me a call at 475-1943, or write me a note.

New Central Street bridge is ugly

Editor, Townsman:

I am glad to see the Central Street bridge re-opened, now safe for transit, the canoe access retained, also the entrance to the Shawsheen River Reservation, one of the most popular AVIS properties. But what of the view up and down the river and the 50-year-old granite bridge? Blocked by chainlink fence, Jersey barriers and metal highway fenders; the old stones hidden by two heavy coats of battleship gray paint – far worse than any graffiti that it bore. Why? How?

En route past the 17th-century Daniel Abbot house, through the old granite bridge, over the Shawsheen with its pastoral views, up Central Street, was the most beautiful approach to our historic town. Did not those responsible for the bridge reconstruction take a moment to consider the preservation of such a positive asset in their zeal for public safety? More compatible methods and materials were available at comparable cost.

There are those who speak of the quality of life and bemoan its loss. Much is beyond our control, but I cannot remain silent when something so unnecessary is brought about. I am watching with joy the restoration of the South Church (about the same age as the Horn Bridge). Time and natural forces brought about its decay – lack of care and inattention in a few short days brought about the destruction of another landmark. It must be restored, returned to our community. At the very least, the paint must be removed.

Louise Abbot 72 Central St.

She tried a different camp

Editor, Townsman:

"Time for our discussion group!" hollered my counselor, Becky. These are words I often heard from Becky and the other counselors in this unique camp. All other camps I've gone to have swimming and other sports, but not this camp. What makes this camp special?

This camp is called the MSPCA camp. It takes place at the MSPCA in Methuen. The first day I went to the camp I was very nervous. But I had told my mother I wanted to try a different camp this summer. The minute I stepped on the farm-like place, I knew I would love it there. The first day I met my counselor I also knew I would like her very much. After we got acquainted with our fellow campmates and counselors, we got a grand tour of the MSPCA. There are three main buildings there - the small barn, the big barn and the shelter. On top of the big barn is where we meet. It has a library, a few picnic tables set up and a big open space to sit in and have discussions or just play games. The small barn is across from the big barn. It has bunnies, roosters and ducks. The shelter is where the cats and dogs are kept. After the tour of the camp we were informed that this camp was not all play. There is a lot of work involved with it too. For instance, every morning we either help the workers feed the cats and dogs at the shelter, put new bedding in the bunnies' cages in the bunny house or clean the sanctuary (where the chickens are kept). This camp also offers arts and crafts.

Another nice thing about this camp is the discussion groups. Most days each group will discuss an animalinvolving issue. For instance, buying products that are not tested on animals, getting your pet a rabies shot or helping endangered animals. Over the past two weeks I have learned a lot about animals and how to save them. I think this is a wonderful camp and deserves to be recognized in this newspaper. If your child likes animals, then send them to this wonderful camp. For more information write to: MSPCA Camp 404 Broadway St. Methuen, Mass. 01844.

Power to the new school councils

Editor, Townsman:

A great deal has already been written about the recently passed Education Reform Act, both in this paper and in papers across Massachusetts. Much attention has focused on such issues as funding and teacher tenure.

Clearly, a stable and reliable source of revenue for our schools is essential. Anyone who understands that public education is fundamental to our economic and social well-being will agree. As our economy continues to move into a knowledge-based mode, public education must be the engine that turns the wheel.

The question that confronts us as citizens, parents, teachers and administrators is, how do we best use the additional education reform funds to improve our schools? In response, the Education Reform Law has created a mechanism – School Based Councils – which promises to provide us with direction and support in revitalizing our schools.

The councils – one from each school – will be comprised of the school principal, parents, teachers, students (on secondary school councils), business people and other members of the community. The council will meet regularly with the principal and assist him or her in a review of the annual school budget, the identification of the educational needs of the students and the formulation of a school-improvement plan.

These latter functions have been handled very well in Andover through a staff development committee, made up of teachers, administrators and a School Committee representative. This committee approves all graduate inservice credit courses for teachers. It also interfaces with the K-8 and high school curriculum councils – made up of teachers, administrators and parents – which approve curriculum initiatives and textbook selections.

These committees function well because they have real decision-making power. This is the key. When people join a committee, they want to be empowered. The quickest way to undermine the new school councils would be to make them a rubber stamp for a specific individual, interest group or point of view.

Andover schools are successful because they utilize the talents of the entire community – students, parents, teachers, administrators and town residents. We of the Andover Education Association invite the community to join us now in building an even better system – one that will meet the needs of our students and our town for the 21st century.

Tom Meyers, president Andover Education Association (teachers' union)

Recycling can be stressful

Editor, Townsman:

The recycling system in Andover can be stressful since the system changes monthly. When approaching the bins it is necessary to read all the signs directing you where to place everything.

On Saturday, Aug. 21, at the #2 "colored bottle" station, a young man stood next to a large box which was in front of the large disposal bin. His duty was to say "in the box" which could have been missed if you were just arriving and many people were in front of the box. This young man inevitably lost his cool and shouted his message hysterically and publicly humiliated a few residents.

There must be a better way to recycle that would be a little less demeaning to all involved.

More about train whistles

Editor, Townsman:

Ref. Mr. Gemmell's letter of Aug. 12 "Train whistles are important," page 331

Many of the facts and information presented in Mr. Gemmell's letter about train whistles were true and informative. However, he failed to acknowledge all the facts.

Mainly he said people are attracted to train tracks. True, and in most cases a little common sense would lead them away when they know a train is coming. Unfortunately not everyone is born with a high degree of common sense.

As a warden for Andover Village Improvement Society (AVIS), I often spend time on the Shawsheen River Reservation. One Sunday afternoon five years ago, I noticed a man and two children sitting on the tracks behind Rose Glen Dairy eating ice cream cones. As a slow moving freight train approached sounding its horn, none of them moved. I became concerned thinking maybe they had a hearing problem. I watched them get up and walk away just before the train went by blasting the horn. I can only guess the engineer's thoughts.

Being concerned I asked, "Didn't you hear the whistle?" I was told, "Not to worry, I'll take care of my kids." I can only wonder what message he was trying to send to his children.

So, Mr. Gemmell, safety is not of primary concern to everyone. Daring-do is, and this may be the major problem. I could ask if people don't pay attention to the whistle and continue to walk, sit and jog on the tracks, why blow whistles at all? The point is moot.

Another question I could and will ask is, why the laws are not enforced that prohibit people from walking, sitting, jogging, etc. on or near railroad tracks? Perhaps the cost is prohibitive, but then again, the cost of human life far outweighs any monetary cost.

Mr. Gemmell, why have you not talked with any of the 200 petitioners? The 200 people losing sleep at 3 a.m. when in your words, "whistles blow at people near the tracks." I sincerely doubt many people are enjoying the fascinations of trains at this hour night, after night.

Your last statement, "If people do not like getting disturbed late at night or early in the morning by train whistles, perhaps they should consider moving," shows complete lack of understanding on your part.

While many people in this country grew up listening to the distant train whistles that are so common from a bygone era, that is a noise we can truly miss. The recent incessant blowing of train whistles is something entirely different from the old haunting steam engines and is well beyond the realm of safety concerns.

In 30 years as a close neighbor to the railroad tracks, I have never been disturbed by the occasional whistle and I certainly appreciate public safety as much as anyone.

The 200 petitioners requested the Andover selectmen hold an open meet-

Mr. Gemmell, while your facts

Listening to excessive noise from three to four miles across town does not give anyone a very good perspective of the problem.

Final statistics for Andover Post 8 American Legion baseball team posted

By Rick Harrison

Eight players batted over .300, while the pitching staff accounted for two no-hitters and four shutouts, as the Andover Post 8 American Legion baseball team compiled some impressive final statistics after completing another successful season recently.

Post 8 won its second straight Zone 8A title and third championship in four years, advancing to the State Tournament final eight for the second consecutive summer.

Overall the locals were 15-7-3.

Rick Mendez (.462), Jeff Hesenius (.429) and Jeff Lembo (.420) finished the 25-game season hitting over .400, while shortstop Todd Harris led the everyday players in average (.370), official at bats (81) and basehits (30).

Other regulars hitting over 300 for the campaign were Gus Quattlebaum (.360), late-charging Matt Wolcott (.342), Mike Sullivan (.333) and Justin Hesenius (.303).

Wolcott, who came on like gangbusters in the nine playoff/tournament games, was tops in runs scored (25).

Leading hitters in the playoffs were Lembo (.414), Wolcott (.410), Alex Marshall (.400), the consistent Harris (.361), Justin Hesenius (.333), Rick Mendez (.333) and Quattlebaum (.308).

The team batting average for the complete season was a strong .314.

Quattlebaum led Post 8 in doubles (8) and slugging percentage (.560), Justin Hesenius was tops in RBI (24), Jeff Lembo in home runs (2) and ington steals and had one put-out at home on an excellent throw from Kaitlin Dargan. Courtney Fameletti made two tags of runners for the outs. Michelle Langone controlled right field and Kristi Keller controlled

Mike Sullivan in stolen bases (11).

On the mound, Rollins College recruit Justin Hesenius was the leader in victories (5), innings pitched (56.1), strikeouts (60) and earned run aver-

Matt Marvin notched four wins and struck out 54 in 51.1 innings.

The no-hitters were thrown by Marvin and Davidson College-bound Gus Quattle-baum against East Boston and Winthrop respectively, while Marvin added a second shutout against Danvers and Hesenius whitewashed Lynn Gautreau Post 345.

Ironically the team ERA of 3.14 exactly matched the team batting average, the only difference in the placement of the decimal The final stats:

Play It Again Sports

Play It Again Sports is a new busi-ness venture that buys, sells, trades and consigns used and new sports equipment. If you, or your organization, have any salvaged, distressed or casualty-loss sporting goods that you would be willing to donate, sell, or consign, they would definitely like to acquire it. They recycle these same used goods back to the public through their retail store at a fraction of the new price. One of their goals is to provide good used equipment to those who want to participate, but find equipment costs too prohibitive. By recycling sporting goods, they feel the community in general will be better able to participate in a vari-ety of recreational activities. The new equipment that they carry is basic, good quality, but affordable. Used equipment is

SENIOR CITIZENS

By Sharon L. Souza Director, Andover Council on Aging

The Senior Center is offering a creative writing course for beginners entitled "Written Memories." No experience is necessary; only a desire to capture life's memories. The instructor will be Casey Coburn of Merrimack College. The course starts Tuesday, Sept. 7, from 12: 30 to 2 p.m. The cost is $20. Registration is limited, so call early and let your creativity flow

Weight-loss series

The Healthy Weight Loss Series was so successful this spring, that we've decided to run the program again. Maryanne Nicosia will present Part I, an eight-week program, on Tuesdays from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., starting Sept. 14. The cost is $15. The eight-week management focuses on changes in eating and exercise habits. Ms. Nicosia will present a Part II series for those seniors who had Part I. This eight-week program is a continuation of the information obtained in Part I and the goal is to enhance the skills and knowledge learned in Part I. The class starts on Thursday, Sept.16, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. and the cost is $15. Sign up early at the Senior Cen-

Oil painting class

Ellen Whitney will teach an oil painting class on Wednesdays from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m., beginning Sept. 8, for 10 weeks at the Senior Center. Individualized instruction is available. The cost is $25. Call the Senior Center for reservations.

Line dancing

Kay Marsan will offer a 10-week line dancing class on Thursdays from 1 to 2 p.m., starting on Sept. 16. Some of the newest line dances will be included. Register at the Senior Center. The cost is $15.

Items needed for Holiday Bazaar

The Senior Center will have a Holiday Bazaar on Saturday, Nov. 20, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Donations are being accepted for handmade craft and flea market items, raffle prizes and fabrics and/or craft supplies. Volunteers are needed to help. If you can lend a hand with any facet of this project, call Olivia Scileppi at 470-3830. Think about cleaning out your attics, basements, closets and bureaus and bring your unwanted treasures to the center or call us to arrange a pick-up time.

Crafts for the Bazaar

A crafts group will be meeting every Monday at the Senior Center from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. to make items to sell at the bazaar. A different item will be made each week and supplies will be provided. Please join us, if you can help with this effort.

Lecture on elder abuse

Kathy Anastopolous of Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley will present a lecture on elder abuse on Wednesday, Sept. 8, at 12:30 p.m. at the Senior Center. All seniors are welcome.

The attorney general's office will present a program on consumer rights and protection on Thursday, Sept. 9, at 12:30 p.m. This presentation will be geared toward the senior community and will address specific rights as related to consumer issues and scams. All seniors are encouraged to attend.

A welcome reception for the new outreach service coordinator will be held Friday, Sept. 3, from 9 to 11 a.m. at the Senior Center. Niki Riedell will begin Aug. 30.

Raffle tickets for a rug

Raffle tickets for a handmade Oriental rug donated by Doris Hudgins are available. Tickets are $1 each or six for $5 and are available at the center. Proceeds will go the building fund.

Making a cookbook

We are collecting recipes for a cookbook we hope to prepare in time for the bazaar. Submit recipes at the Senior Center.

Center library

The library at the Senior Center is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. All seniors are welcome to enjoy the book collection. We are still collecting books. Thank you to the library committee of volunteers who have worked diligently on putting this together: Ruth Sharpe, Ruth Sherwood, Eleanor Toothaker, Doris Hudgins. Genevieve Pelletier and Anthony Correnti. If you would like to volunteer a few hours a week to work in the library, call Olivia Scileppi at the Senior Center. Volunteers are still needed

Walk for Elders

Walk for Elders will start Sunday, Sept. 26, at 11 a.m. We will walk to raise money for the Elder Emergency Fund for elders needing services in the Merrimack Valley. This fund particularly supports the nutrition project. It is critical in this year of level funding that we raise money to meet the needs of the growing number of frail elders in the area. Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley will sponsor the well-supervised two-five mile walk through a lovely residential section of Lawrence, Sponsor sheets are available. If you cannot make the event, you may make a donation or sponsor me.

William Pokorski, a hearing specialist, will be at the Senior Center on Friday, Sept. 17, to offer free hearing screenings

SENIOR MEALS

Here's what's for lunch at the Senior Center Aug. 30-Sept. 3:

Monday: Beef stew with garden vegetables, whipped potatoes, homemade biscuit, chilled pears, milk.

Tuesday: Chicken ala king, mashed potatoes, green beans, wheat bread and butter, cake with frosting, milk.

Wednesday: Orange juice, buttermilk pancakes, sausage patty, hot maple syrup, applesauce, ice cream cup, milk:

Thursday: Stuffed shells with Italian meatballs and sauce, green beans, Parker House roll, fruit cocktail, milk

Friday: New England clam chowder. seafood salad roll, cole slaw, fruit, milk

For reservations, call 470-3830 before 2 p.m. on the business day before the lunch you plan to attend. The Senior Center will serve baked chicken on Monday, Sept. 6, and yeal cutlet on Tuesday, Sept. 7.

Menu is subject to change.

Old post office building gutted Talbots may be the tenant

Workers continued gutting the former post office building at 71 Main St. this week, and there is a possibility one of The Talbots women's clothing store may lease the Nicholas Aznoian, owner of the House of Clean and First Federal Savings Bank property next door, bought the old post office property last December with plans to develop it into one or more retail stores. Mr. Aznoian was not available this week to comment on who, if anyone, has leased the building, but others involved in the project indicated Mr. Aznoian has been negotiating with Talbots.

Permits have been pulled for some minor interior demolition, and the inside walls on the main level have nearly all been removed, four years ago.

leaving exposed steel beams running up to the ceiling.

"It is listed as a historical structure, so they can't change the exteri-or structure of the building," Kaija Gilmore, assistant building inspector, said this week.

The site only has room for about 15 parking spaces in the current lot and consideration is being given to providing underground parking on

The building has 4,610 square-feet of floor space on the main level, roughly 3,800 square-feet of usable floor space in the basement and a 372 square-foot dock. The building sits on a 20,000-square-foot lot, which is about half an acre.

The building has sat idle and abandoned since the main post office moved to Stevens Street about

Walk for Elders set for Sept. 26

The fourth annual Walk for Elders is scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 26. High school and junior high school-age students and their parents and friends are encouraged to participate. Applications and informational pamphlets are available from the Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley, 360 Merrimack St., Building #5, Lawrence, or Frank Vacirca at Greater Lawrence Technical School. For more information, call Mr. Vacirca at 686-0194,

Spire to be returned to steeple at South Church

In the photo at left, Terry Johnson works at the base of the South Church spire while Steve Quinn works toward the top. Officials at the Central Street church expect the spire to be returned to the top of the steeple Wednesday, Sept. 1, probably some time between 10 a.m. and noon, weather permitting. The 65foot spire was taken down for repairs Aug. 16, 1990.

The church has raised about $1.4 million, according to church officials, to pay for various restoration projects, including some interior and exterior painting. The Rev. Dr. Calvin F. Mutti, senior pastor, says it has been business as usual, and some weddings have taken place during the restoration. When Laura Southworth and Bruce Sorota married there Aug. 22, they printed a brief about the construction so their guests would know why the church looked as it did.

The present church, the fourth at the site, was built in 1860.

What's new at Andover High School this year

ndover High School's student population for 1993-'94 will increase by 25 to 30 students, to approximately 1,280.

To address some of the reductions in staff over the past few years, the following additional positions have been added: one full-time English teacher. one full-time science teacher and one

The additional English teacher will

The student population for 1993-'94 will be about 1,280 — an increase of 25-30 students reduce class size in the department from a student-to-teacher ratio of 23/1 to 21/1

In the science department, the class size will be reduced from 24.5/1 to

The counseling position will reduce the counselor load from 260/1 to 240/1.

In addition, Latin will be offered for the first time in more than a decade as a result as an additional 0.2 Latin

To expand on the interdisciplinary work of the English and social studies department, a pilot program of the junior class English/social studies program will be involved in a team-taught format. The program will permit the teachers to develop common themes in Twentieth-Century History and Litera ture, according to the school.
