Hon. Deng Dau Deng Malek, Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation (MFA&IC).

I am pleased to welcome you all to the launch of the official website of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation of the Republic of South Sudan. Also, I am proud to present the diplomatic journal for the Ministry, both of which will play a crucial role in enhancing our diplomatic efforts and promoting transparency.

Under the theme “Creating an online presence for efficiency and professional service delivery to promote visibility regionally and internationally through Culture, Investment, and Tourism”.

As the young generation indulges more on the internet and through social networking sites, the Ministry recognizes that we need to capitalize on this. This is the way to connect with youths, women, men, families, and community groups within South Sudan and abroad.

This online platform will serve as a virtual gateway, providing a wealth of information about South Sudan’s foreign policies, diplomatic initiatives, investment opportunities, and international cooperation efforts. It will be a one-stop destination for diplomats, foreign missions, and international organizations to access up-to-date information about our nation’s diplomatic activities. Through this website, we aim to foster open communication, facilitate collaboration, and strengthen our diplomatic relations.

Secondly, I am pleased to introduce the diplomatic journal. This journal will serve as a platform for in-depth analysis, news, research, and commentary on various diplomatic issues. It will feature news articles about the ministry and its missions abroad, providing valuable insights into the challenges and opportunities in the field of international relations.

The journal will cover a wide range of topics, including diplomacy, international law. The diplomatic journal will also serve as a means to showcase South Sudan’s diplomatic achievements and initiatives. These two initiatives, the website and the diplomatic journal, are testaments to our government’s commitment to effective diplomacy, transparency, and international cooperation. They will serve as powerful tools to bridge the gap between nations, foster trust, and promote mutual understanding. We believe that by embracing modern technology and sharing knowledge, we can contribute to the socio-economic development of South Sudan and the world.

Thirdly, before I conclude, I would like to give a special thanks to our partners, especially the UNDP Resident Coordinator, for their continuous support of the development of the websites and support to the other branches of government.

On this occasion, I also wanted to thank the National Communication Authority (NCA) for providing the necessary information to the contracted company. Without their intervention, this day wouldn’t be possible. Thank you.

Not forgetting the entire staff of the department of Media and spokespersons in the Ministry for their tireless efforts to bring this together, both the website and the Diplomatic Journal, to reality.

Indeed, the department of Media is very important because it contributes to a better-informed public and helps promote the ministry’s objectives on a global scale. I urge you in the department to make use of the platform by regularly updating it with information that will also promote national interests, diplomatic relations, and the achievement of foreign policy goals.

In conclusion, the official launch of the website for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation marks a significant momentous in our nation’s diplomatic journey. I invite you all to explore the website and engage with the diplomatic journal, as we work together towards a brighter future for South Sudan and the world.

God bless you and God bless South Sudan
Thank you.

Hon. Mayen Wol Dut, Undersecretary, MFA&IC

On behalf of the entire leadership and the staff of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation, allow me to welcome you all to this event. I am profoundly honoured to stand before you today to announce the long-awaited inauguration of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation's official website. This event is an important step towards strengthening our country's global reach and promoting effective dialogue with our international partners.

In this digital era, a robust online platform is crucial for any country's diplomatic endeavors. The website we are unveiling today seeks to provide transparent and convenient access to valuable information about our ministry's policies, activities, and collaborations.

One of the primary objectives of this website is to strengthen our engagement with foreign counterparts, Diplomatic Missions accredited to South Sudan, NGOs, and UN agencies operating in South Sudan and beyond our borders. We recognize the vital role this website will play, for example, in facilitating investment opportunities, humanitarian assistance, peacekeeping missions, and the coordination of development projects among South Sudan's public and private institutions. Through this platform, we aim to establish a seamless line of communication, enabling us to work together more effectively towards achieving our shared goals.

To illustrate the impact of this website, let me provide you with an example. Imagine a potential investor who is interested in exploring business opportunities in South Sudan. In the past, they would have had to rely on scattered information from various sources, making it difficult to assess the investment climate. However, with the launch of this website, they can now access comprehensive information about our country's economic policies, investment incentives, and regulatory frameworks.

Furthermore, the website will also serve as a gateway for our citizens to engage with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation. It will provide them with the necessary tools to seek consular assistance, apply for visas, and stay informed about our missions abroad. Empowering our citizens with access to this information fosters a sense of belonging and strengthens the bond between the government and its people.

In conclusion, I would like to thank UNDP for their continuous support and I will also like to thank the Organizing Committee.

To the department of Media and spokespersons, please make use of this platform. It is my hope that this platform will not only strengthen our diplomatic relations but also contribute to the socio-economic development of South Sudan.

Thank you all for your attention.

Amb. Awad El Karim Erasto, Acting Director General for Administration and Finance, MFA&IC

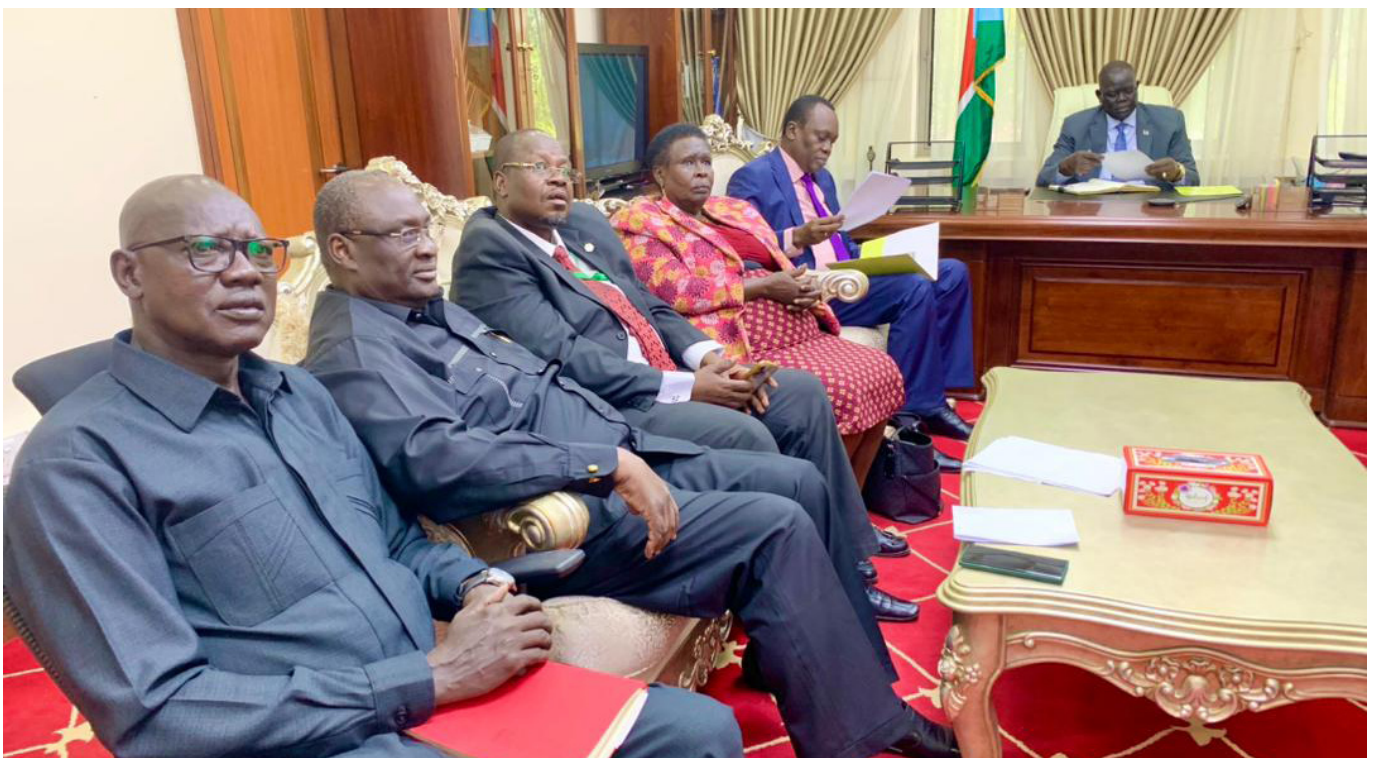

Today, I am absolutely exhilarated to convey my utmost happiness and pleasure that finally the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation of the Republic of South Sudan is launching its long awaited official website. This is an outstanding endeavour undertaken by the Department of the Media and Spokesperson Office. It is a commendable effort that will surely contribute massively in advancing the implementation of the core objectives of the Ministry in its striving to achieve the mandate in the following way:

The launch of the Ministry's website is a great achievement as this website will constitute an ideal opportunity to enable the Ministry to expose the country's abundant economic and natural resources that South Sudan possesses, as well as the infinite economic opportunities to the potential investors and development partners.

The website will also create a viable opportunity for the Ministry to actively link with its various missions and consulates worldwide and, to enable the Headquarters and the missions abroad to timely and instantly reflect the desired activities of the Ministry to the public at large. The website will also be very instrumental in catering for the interest of South Sudan's diasporas abroad as well as offering a constant window on how consulate and visas services are offered to general public.

I am absolutely thrilled today to know that with the launching of the official website, the Ministry has moved a step ahead in the direction of consolidating its mandate and solidifying its activities through instant exposure and constant interaction with its embassies. This is a creditable work and a real move towards the right direction.
