Hayden Planning & Zoning Commission Public Hearing

City of Hayden

The City of Hayden Planning and Zoning Commission will conduct a public hearing on Monday, March 20, at 5pm, at Hayden City Hall Council Chambers, 8930 N. Government Way, to consider Case No. PPUD 0006, a request by David Pearson, for preliminary approval of a Planned Unit Development (PUD), to be named The Reserve at Hayden, on 3.25 acres of land north of East Chesapeake Court, west of North Maple Street, east of North Baack Street, and on the south side of East Hayden Avenue in Hayden, Idaho. The subject site is zoned Residential and is identified in the City's Comprehensive Plan Future Land Use Map as Residential, High Density (7 to 12 dwelling units per acre).

The applicant has submitted a preliminary development plan consisting of 22 common wall single-family lots (11 separate structures), with a mixture of single and two-story units, exclusive to 55 and older residents. The development would also consist of 14,353 square feet of green space/common park areas, overflow parking, and a gated, private road. The applicant has requested a density bonus of 3% to add to the base density of 4.4 units per gross acre. The density calculation is based on the maximum number of units per acre that would be allowed in the underlying zone, calculated based on the amount of two-family dwellings allowed in the Residential Zone (allowed through a Special Use Permit). If preliminarily approved by City Council, the applicant will subsequently apply for Final PUD and Subdivision approval concurrently.

The applicant is requesting the following exceptions:

(1) Minimum lot sizes of the underlying Residential Zone are requested to be waived per Hayden City Code

11-19-4.F.1. Reduced lot sizes allow to tailor fit home design concepts to lots and improve the economic feasibility of the project as required common open space design is integrated in the development design (minimum lot sizes as low as 4619 square feet based on the proposed plan).

(2) Grass walking paths are proposed around the perimeter of the site, in lieu of concrete sidewalks adjacent to the private road. The walking paths will connect the entire development to the proposed park areas.

(3) Allow the proposed grass walking paths be included in the calculation of common open space.

Based on a preliminary review of the plans, staff has identified the following additional exceptions to Hayden City Code standards:

(1) Increase allowable lot coverage to at least 47% (Residential Zone allows 45% lot coverage).

(2) Reduction of side yard setback to 7.5 feet and 15 feet between structures.

(3) Allow one zero lot line/common wall per structure.

(4) Gated entry with center median/boulevard entry.

All persons desiring to provide oral testimony should appear at the hearing. Written testimony may be sent to the City of Hayden, Attn: Community and Economic Development Department, 8930 N. Government Way, Hayden, Idaho, 83835; faxed to 208-762-2282; or, emailed to planning@cityofhaydenid.us Written comments must be received no later than 5pm Monday, March 6. Written testimony received after this date will not be entered into the record or read at the public hearing.

Assistance for persons with disabilities will be provided upon 24-hour notice prior to the public hearing.

Evening Of French Virtuosity Gives Tribute To Ravel

Spokane Symphony

The Spokane Symphony, under the baton of Music Director Eckart Preu, will pay tribute to the great French composer, Maurice Ravel, on Saturday, February 25, at 8pm, and again on Sunday, February 26, at 3pm, at Martin Woldson Theater at The Fox. To commemorate the 80th anniversary of Ravel's death, the orchestra will perform three of his greatest hits: La Valse, Rhapsodie espagnole and, of course, Boléro. Also on the program are selections from two lesser known French composers: Florent Schmitt's La Tragedie de Salome and Richard Dubugnon's XIX "Le Soleil" from Arcanes Symphoniques. The Spokane Symphony will also honor outstanding school administrators and music teachers.

"A Tribute to Ravel" opens with Maurice Ravel's La Valse, a parody of the waltz that had come to symbolize the Austrian-Hungarian imperialism. Composed in 1919, it is set in the Imperial Court around 1855, the height of Austrian power. The dance begins with a glittering portrayal of Viennese life in its heyday, and becomes an increasingly dissonant, swallowing the dancers in what Ravel called a "fantastic and fatefully inescapable whirlpool."

Although Florent Schmitt is relatively unknown today, he was one of the most frequently performed French composer in the early twentieth century. His orchestral suite La Tragedie de Salome, extracted from his ballet of the same name, was praised by Stravinsky as "one of the greatest masterpieces of modern music." The work anticipates Stravinsky's The Rite of Spring with its use of syncopations rhythms and percussive chords.

Richard Dubugnon is a contemporary Swiss-French composer who has made his mark creating lyrical, colorfully orchestrated works. Arcanes Symphoniques (2001), a suite of movements based on Tarot cards, is no exception. XIX "Le Soleil" is a beautiful musical sunrise written in the tradition of Ravel.

When Ravel composed Rhapsodie espagnole, an idealize portrait of Spain, he drew from his mother's memories of her Madrid childhood. The four-movement dance suite opens with "Prélude à la Nuit," a sensuous dance evoking a warm, star-filled night. It is followed by "Malagueña," an animated flamenco-style Spanish dance, and the languid "Habanera," a quiet interlude reminiscent of a hazy mid-day siesta. The work concludes with "Feria," a riotous portrait of a Spanish folk fair.

Ravel's Boléro is his final completed work and his most popular. Ravel quipped, "I've written only one masterpiece - Boléro. Unfortunately there's no music in it." It is comprised of a much-repeated simple tune underpinned by a relentless snare-drum. Using masterful orchestration, Ravel shapes the much-repeated tune into a 17-minute long, gradual crescendo that climaxes with a dramatic key modulation and a burst of musical fireworks.

This concert has been selected for the Spokane Symphony's annual Education Classics concert. Each year the Spokane Symphony Education Committee accepts nominations for outstanding arts education support and music teaching awards. The awards will be presented at the start of Sunday's concert. The 2017 winners selected by the Committee are:

Outstanding Arts Advocate Administrator: Carole Meyer, Principal of Salk Middle School in Spokane Public School District. Carole is 100% behind the school's arts program and her motto is "I've got your back." For example, when she realized drums were needed for the African Drums program, she made a sizeable addition to the budget for purchase of new drums by the end of the day. She made it possible to also purchase specially made drums for special needs students so they can also participate.

Outstanding Instrumental Ensemble Teacher: Taylor Belote from Deer Park Middle/High School. Taylor has breathed new life into a dying high school band program. He learns and adapts quickly and always has students; best interest at heart. The band program has gone from a dozen students to a musically sound jazz band, concert band, percussion ensemble, and steel drum band.

Outstanding Elementary General Music Teacher: Lisa Martin of Prairie View Elementary in the Mead School District. Lisa recently did a Martin Luther King, Jr. celebration involving the entire school, ending with 700 students holding hands and singing "We shall overcome". She developed a music program for the Developmental Learning Center students, creating lessons so the students can benefit from and learn the same skills as other students, making them a part of school programs with their grade level peers.

Both performances are preceded by a pre-concert talk one hour before curtain time. The lecture is free to all ticket holders. In addition, concertgoers may enjoy art created by Spokane Public Schools students on display in the Founders' Gallery. This concert is sponsored by The Heaton Family and by Edward Jones.

Tickets are available with personalized service in advance at the Box Office at Martin Woldson Theater at The Fox, 1001 W. Sprague, or by calling 509-624-1200. Regularly priced tickets may also be purchased online at www.spokanesymphony.org Tickets are also available at all TicketsWest outlets or by calling 1-800-325-SEAT. As part of the Spokane Symphony's commitment to honor educators, there are a limited quantity of $20 tickets available for teachers and school administrators.

Keep Your Distance From Wintering Big Game

Idaho Fish and Game

Winter provides great opportunities to view Idaho wildlife, but it is very important to enjoy the view from a distance. Winter can be very stressful for wildlife, especially in winters like this when snow is deep or crusted.

"Wintering big game animals are very susceptible to any kind of disturbance whether it is from passing motorists, domestic dogs, or antler hunters in late winter and early spring," said Daryl Meints, Fish and Game wildlife manager based in Jerome. "And there's growing concern that winter recreationists are putting additional stress on wintering big game in many areas of the state."

At this time of year, deer and elk are relying solely on their body reserves and what little they can get from surrounding vegetation. Any extra movement an animal makes costs energy and that depletes the reserves it has left. Energy depletion can lead to malnutrition and oftentimes death, especially for fawns and calves at this critical time of year.

"Right now, deer and elk are just trying to hang on until spring green-up," said Meints. "Some animals may be pushed over the edge unintentionally by people, and we all need to keep that in mind."

Besides avoiding wintering deer, elk and pronghorn as much as possible, recreationists can help big game get through the winter by following these simple steps:

- Refrain from antler hunting. While there are no seasons or rules directly related to antler hunting in Idaho, unfortunately, many are taking to the hills to gather antlers during the worst time of the year for the animals. Even if access is allowed into an area, please consider the potential stress caused to wintering big game. Remember, just because you can go somewhere doesn't mean you should.

- The same goes for those who ski, hike, or ride snowmobiles in areas with big game. Human presence alone is enough to cause animals to move and act differently than they would have without that disturbance. A single instance of human disturbance may not be that disruptive, but consider several days of human activity and disturbance to animals already stressed by winter. The energy used by animals reacting to repeated disturbances becomes significant over time.

- Several areas are closed temporarily to human activity during winter and early spring to provide areas free of disturbance. In eastern Idaho, these areas include lands along the South Fork of the Snake River near Heise, the Egin-Hamer closure of the St. Anthony desert, Rainy and Fall Creek areas in Swan Valley, and areas along the west side of the Teton Valley. Fish and Game has also temporarily closed several wildlife management areas (WMAs) in southern Idaho including the Boise River, Tex Creek, Georgetown Summit, Portneuf, and Montpelier WMAs to protect wintering big game.

- The public is also urged to avoid other public lands important to wintering big game that are open to people, but closed to motorized use. In southeast Idaho, the Blackrock area south of Pocatello, Soda Hills near Soda Springs, and East Bear Lake Plateau near Montpelier are crucial for wintering big game, but are not closed to human access by foot or horse. However, avoiding these areas until late spring may help make a difference in long-term health of the herds.

- For questions about travel management plans or areas protected from human entry, contact your local U.S. Forest Service, Bureau of Land Management, or Fish and Game regional office.

- Avoid emergency winter feeding sites. Curious visitors to emergency feeding operations across southern Idaho have caused unnecessary disturbance to animals and a few minor interruptions to workers. Fish and Game would appreciate the public's cooperation in avoiding these areas.

- Keep dogs under your control. Though your dog may not chase big game animals, its presence alone may be enough to cause animals to expend unnecessary energy they would not have otherwise used. To big game animals, a dog is a predator and the impacts of free-running dogs on wintering game can be substantial. Fish and Game officers have investigated several incidents of dogs attacking and killing pronghorn struggling in deep snow this winter in southeast Idaho. Remember, it is illegal to allow dogs to chase or harass big game.

- Watch from a distance. Binoculars and spotting scopes provide the ability to watch wildlife from great distances. Use them from a distance and the animals will be better off.

IDFG Commission To Create A New Fee Proposal

Idaho Fish and Game

The Idaho Fish and Game Commission recently directed Fish and Game staff to develop a proposed bill for consideration by the Idaho Legislature that would create a new $5 charge to purchase an Adult Resident annual hunting, fishing or trapping license.

Revenue from the proposed fee would be used for three purposes:

- Provide additional money to compensate landowners for depredation damages
- Create more resources for preventing big game depredations
- Increase funding for more hunting and fishing access

The proposed fee would generate an estimated $2 million annually. Here's how the funds would be utilized:

- $500,000 more funding to compensate for crop damages caused by wildlife up to $1.5 million annually based on available cash balance

- $500,000 more funding to prevent crop damage from big game herds
- $1 million to improve access to private land from willing landowners for hunting and fishing.

Fish and Game's depredation compensation law has been in effect for nearly 30 years. The new fee not only improves Fish and Game's ability to compensate for, and prevent damages, it also helps the agency provide more and better hunting and fishing opportunity across the state.

The Fish and Game Commission recognizes that managing for abundant big game herds comes with responsibility to address impacts those herds cause to privately owned farms and ranches.

More information about the proposed new fee is posted on the Fish and Game website at <https://idfg.idaho.gov/new-fee-proposal>

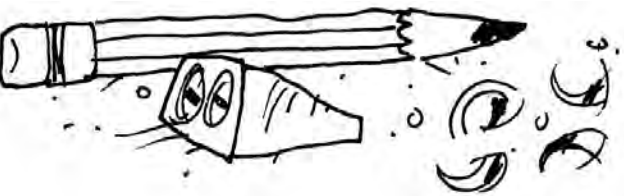

The proposed new fee would be paid prior to purchasing an annual license and does not change Fish and Game's Price Lock Revenue proposal currently under consideration. More information about Price Lock is posted on the Fish and Game website: <https://idfg.idaho.gov/pricelock>

2017 Veterans Stand Down

St. Vincent de Paul Veteran Services

The 24th North Idaho Veterans Stand Down will be held on Saturday, May 13, from 8am to 2pm, at the Kootenai County Fairgrounds, 4056 N. Government Way in Coeur d'Alene. The event kicks off a program created by St. Vincent de Paul to assist veterans and their families in Eastern Washington and the five Northern Idaho counties with services throughout the year.

The original Stand Down for Veterans was modeled after the Stand Down concept used during the Vietnam War to provide a safe retreat for units returning from combat. Today, Stand Down refers to a community-based intervention program to assist all veterans who are homeless or at risk of being homeless with information and services. The North Idaho Veterans Stand Down also incorporates services for veterans' dependents. Veterans will have the opportunity to meet personally with VA healthcare and benefits representatives. Organizations that provide medical, dental, counseling, housing, clothing, clothing repair, food assistance, haircuts, massages, and bike repair will be available. A hot meal will be served to all attendees, volunteers, and service providers. Employers with job openings will also be present. Homeless veterans will be eligible to receive military surplus.

The Stand Down is a time for the community to connect with the homeless veteran population and address this crisis that affects every city and state in this country. The "Hand Up Not a Handout" philosophy of the Stand Down is carried out through the work of volunteers and organizations in Northern Idaho.

To volunteer, request more information, or for veterans' assistance, please contact Eric Swanbeck, Veteran Services Coordinator at St. Vincent de Paul, 208-664-3095 or email at eric@stvincentdepaulca.org

Idaho's Wild Steelhead Are A Diverse Bunch

Brett Bowersox, Idaho Fish and Game

Steelhead fisheries in Idaho are world class, and the fact that anglers can fish for steelhead from July through April means there is lots of time to enjoy this resource. The fact that we can enjoy these long fishing seasons is due in part to Idaho's hatchery program that produces lots of fish for anglers to catch and keep.

But the state also holds some of the best wild steelhead habitat in the Pacific Northwest, and wild steelhead provide an interesting glimpse into how their life histories evolved to suit their habitat and ensure they are able to make the arduous journey to the ocean and back to Idaho's spawning streams.

Wild steelhead spawn and rear in a diversity of habitats across the state ranging from wilderness rivers, such as the Selway and Middle Fork Salmon, to small streams running through backyards and behind the gas station in rural areas. It's been said that if there's water running in a stream during spring in steelhead country, a steelhead will find a way to spawn there.

It's only been in the past 10 years that Fish and Game biologists have started to understand what these wild populations look like in different parts of the state. This picture became even clearer in the last five years as biologists collected data from steelhead passing through Lower Granite Dam while going to and coming from the ocean and into rivers in Idaho, Oregon and Washington.

Each year, crews working at Lower Granite Dam trap adult steelhead as they swim up the fish ladder. Crews take a genetic and scale sample to learn their age and where they are likely to spawn. These fish are also implanted with tiny PIT-tags, which allow fisheries managers to track movements of individual fish as they swim over PIT-tag detectors located in many rivers and streams.

Fish and Game biologists use this data to better understand the diversity of Idaho's wild steelhead and those in neighboring states.

Depending on the stream, juvenile steelhead spend different amounts of time in fresh water before migrating to the ocean. All of Idaho's hatchery steelhead are reared for one year and released to migrate to the ocean, but wild steelhead are very different.

Idaho steelhead can rear in the freshwater for one to five years before going to the ocean. In general, most populations are dominated by a two-year old smolts. Some high-elevations streams, such as Fish Creek, (a tributary of the Lochsa River), South Fork of the Salmon River, and Big Creek (a tributary of the Middle Fork of the Salmon River) are dominated by older smolts, mostly three-year olds. But each drainage has, at least three different age classes of smolts leaving each year.

Each color in this table represents a different life history of steelhead in the listed watersheds. Blue lines indicated what percent of fish stayed in freshwater for one year prior to going to the ocean; red lines indicate what percent stayed for two years and so on.

How long do these fish spend in the ocean? Is there consistency? If they swim to the same ocean, they should look pretty similar when they return to fresh water, right?

Not quite. There's diversity among fish in different rivers, too, and even fish that return to the same rivers.

With adult fish, ocean time ranges from one to three years, and drainages are either dominated by fish that spend one or two years in the ocean. These are commonly known as "A" run and "B" run fish, but it's not that simple because not all the fish labeled as either A or B behave the same.

Drainages in the lower Clearwater, lower Snake, and upper Salmon rivers are dominated by adults that spend one year in the ocean.

Drainages in the upper Clearwater and mid-Salmon river drainages are dominated by two-ocean adults. Also, more than half of the drainages listed above also have three-ocean fish. So again, similar to the juvenile ages, there are some general trends, but steelhead are diverse.

These rivers and the steelhead that occupy them are all a bit different and steelhead populations use this diverse life history to make sure that if one group doesn't survive well, another group will. It's how nature ensures the continuation of steelhead runs by spreading the risk so if part of the population is less successful, another can fill the void.

Wild steelhead have lots of strategies to help them be successful and make future generations. By understanding what they do in the wild, Fish and Game can better manage, protect, and restore these fish and the many habitats they occupy.

LEAP Updates Workshops For Loggers

University of Idaho Extension Office

Over 1500 Idaho loggers have taken the University of Idaho Extension program on forest ecology, silviculture, and water quality, titled Logger Education to Advance Professionalism or "LEAP." LEAP Update is an annual opportunity for LEAP graduates to build on that professional development in forestry.

2017 LEAP Updates will be held at three locations: in Lewiston Idaho on March 14, and Coeur d'Alene and Sandpoint, Idaho on March 15. This year's topics include: costs of tethered logging; geotextiles and road stabilization; ecology and silviculture of Engelmann spruce; Trimble 4-loads and other developing logging support software; Ponsse logging equipment; variances and other forest practice act updates; mechanical site preparation for reforestation; managing forest habitats for moose; loggers and fire; loggers and forest policy; and trends in forest product markets. LEAP Update also helps loggers to fulfill Idaho Pro-Logger program annual continuing education and best management practice training requirements.

Program enrollment is limited to 125 participants per session. Those wishing to participate should pre-register as soon as possible, but no later than March 8. A $45 registration fee ($48 for online registration with a credit card at www.uidaho.edu/LEAPUpdate) includes resource materials and refreshments. Lunch will be provided by the Associated Logging Contractors of Idaho.

For registration questions on the Lewiston session, contact the UI Extension forestry office on the Moscow campus at 208-885-6356. For registration questions on the Coeur d'Alene session, contact the University of Idaho Extension office in Kootenai County at 208-446-1680. For registration questions on the Sandpoint session, contact the University of Idaho Extension office in Bonner County at 208-263-8511. Registration forms can also be downloaded at www.uidaho.edu/extension/forestry/calendar

Northwest Bach Festival Events

Carol Horning Stacey

Pablo Picasso's painting The Three Dancers inspired composer Elena Kats-Chernin to write the music that will receive its northwest premier at the Northwest Bach Festival this Friday, February 24, at the Barrister Winery, 1213 W. Rainroad in Spokane. The piece was commissioned in part by Connoisseur Concerts, presenter of the Festival, and will be played by the Festival Ensemble starting at 7:30pm.

On Sunday, February 26, at 3pm, the Festival moves to the Foundry Vineyards in Walla Walla for a concert of three Bach sonatas, to be played by cellist Zuill Bailey and harpsichordists Kraig Scott. On Tuesday, February 28, at 7:30pm, Bailey will be joined by John Bodinger on the harpsichord for three Bach sonatas at the Barrister Winery.

Two cellos will be heard in an hour long revue of music by Kummer, Boccherini, Gabrielli and Bach at the Terra Blanca Winery, 926 W. Sprague, on Wednesday, March 1, at 6pm. The musicians are John Marshall and Zuill Bailey.

Thursday, March 2, at 6pm, the program, is titled "An Evening with Hemingway." This is an opportunity to hear Zuill Bailey reprise his Grammy-winning performance of Michael Daugherty's Tales of Hemingway with pianist Elizabeth DeMio. The event includes a buffet dinner.

Also on Thursday, March 2, there is a free event at River Park Square's Kress Gallery, with dueling cellos Zuill Bailey and John Marshall. The music starts at noon. The Festival will continue through March 5. For information check nwbachfest.com

Lake City Playhouse Reborn

Carol Horning Stacey

The Modern Theater season is cancelled, as season ticket holders have by now figured out. The historic facility at 14th and Garden in Coeur d'Alene is taking back its former name, The Lake City Playhouse, and working out a new season which will begin with Parallel Lives on March 2 and closes on March 12.

Kathie Doyle-Lipe and Melody Deatherage, two funny ladies, will star in this play, which will be directed by Troy Nickerson. Then expect a very big show, Jesus Christ Superstar, to open March 31.

As for the last weekend in February, there's not much live theater unless you go to Spokane, where A Little Night Music plays on the main stage of the Spokane Civic Theatre. This is a musical adaptation of Ingmar Bergman's film Smiles of a Summer's Night, and a classic.

Idaho's Monarch Connection

Beth Waterbury, Idaho Fish and Game

Few species spark people's wonder and passion like the monarch butterfly. With its fiery-orange and black pattern and large wingspan, the monarch is among the most recognized of insects in North America. Its life cycle is a complex marvel involving a lengthy migration completed "relay-style" by several generations in a single year. During their summer wanderings, female monarchs lay their eggs on the leaves of milkweeds - the sole food source for their striking yellow, white, and black-striped caterpillars. Milkweeds are the essential links of the chain that connect monarch breeding populations across North America.

Monarch butterflies have made their mark on Idaho as the official State Insect. Idaho is one of 11 western states that contribute to the western monarch population. Most western monarchs migrate to hundreds of small, wooded groves along the California coast to overwinter. In contrast, the much larger eastern population (generally found east of the Rocky Mountains) migrates to high elevation fir forests in central Mexico. Both migrations are spectacular natural phenomena for an insect weighing less than a gram, rivaling the epic migrations of songbirds or salmon.

The North American monarch is now facing an uncertain future. Overwintering monarch populations have declined by 74% in coastal California and more than 80% in central Mexico since monitoring began about 20 years ago. Loss of milkweed has been identified as the most significant factor contributing to declines in the eastern U.S. But little is known about the reasons for decline west of the Rockies. Up until a few years ago, very little was known about milkweed and breeding monarch distribution in the West. This was certainly the case for Idaho, where as recently as 2014, only a handful monarch and milkweed records existed for the entire state.

Federal grant helps to leverage monarch work in Idaho and Washington

Through a grant from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife

Service, Idaho Fish and Game (IDFG), Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW), and the Xerces Society for Invertebrate Conservation partnered on a multi-faceted project to address monarch and milkweed data gaps in Idaho and Washington. Starting in 2016, partners worked to compile monarch and milkweed occurrence records for Idaho and Washington from museum vouchers, online herbaria, scientific literature, butterfly researchers, botanists, land managers, and many other sources to gather a baseline dataset. Surveys for monarchs and milkweeds were conducted from late May through September 2016. In Idaho, surveys covered portions of the Panhandle, lower Clearwater Basin, and the entire east-west span of the Snake River Plain. Field crews searched for new milkweed populations and breeding monarchs, and collected important data on habitat associations, management impacts, and potential threats to breeding areas.

The grant also supported a well-attended workshop co-hosted by IDFG and Xerces Society titled Monarch Butterfly and Milkweed Conservation for Resource Managers, held at Deer Flat National Wildlife Refuge in July 2016. IDFG and partners also netted, tagged, and released nearly 300 monarch butterflies to gain insights on the direction, route, and destination of monarch migratory movements. Tagged monarchs from Idaho in previous years have been recovered in California, but there is also intriguing evidence of a migration trajectory towards Mexico.

New Western Monarch and Milkweed Website Launched

A highlight of the project is the recent development and launch of the Western Monarch Milkweed Mapper, a web-based repository for milkweed and monarch occurrences across the West. The website will directly address remaining data gaps by encouraging users to report monarch and milkweed occurrences in 11 western states. All that's needed is a smartphone or a digital camera and access to a computer. In addition, users can use an interactive milkweed ID tool to identify 46 milkweeds to species, learn more about monarch conservation efforts in the West, and participate in other citizen science projects. A special feature of the website is the ability to explore and download over 40,000 western monarch and milkweed records, from historic to present day. All data submitted through the website will feed directly into this growing database.

Looking ahead to the 2017 field season

For 2017, project activities in Idaho will include surveys of remaining areas with data gaps, development of a monarch/milkweed habitat suitability model, hosting a monarch/milkweed workshop for citizen scientists, and tagging of migratory generation monarchs. Collectively, these efforts will help to identify key areas in Idaho to conserve and restore native milkweed stands and nectar corridors - with the ultimate goal of keeping Idaho's monarchs connected across the western landscape.

For more information on the Idaho Milkweed and Monarch Survey, contact Salmon Region wildlife biologist Beth Waterbury at beth.waterbury@idfg.idaho.gov or 208-756-2271, ext.-245.

Citizens Against Poaching Hotline Now Goes Through Idaho State Police

Idaho Fish and Game

Due to changes in a contractor used for Idaho's Citizens Against Poaching hotline, callers should not be alarmed when Idaho State Police answers the phone.

On January 31, 2017, Idaho State Police (ISP) began fielding calls made to the hotline from people reporting suspected fish and wildlife crimes. The information is quickly forwarded to Fish and Game enforcement officers for investigation.

Callers to the hotline (1-800-632-5999) can report wildlife law violations anonymously, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Cash rewards are available to callers who provide information leading to the citation of suspected wildlife law violators. Reports can also be made online at <https://idfg.idaho.gov/poacher>

"The poaching hotline number is only for reporting fish and wildlife crimes," said Chris Wright, Fish and Game assistant enforcement bureau chief. "For general questions and non-violation calls, we ask the public to call their nearest Fish and Game regional office."

Citizens Against Poaching is a private organization funded by citizens established to promote the ethical use of wildlife resources.

Public Hearing For Proposed Hayden Subdivision

City of Hayden

The City of Hayden Planning and Zoning Commission will conduct a public hearing on Monday, March 20, at 5pm, at Hayden City Hall Council Chambers, 8930 N. Government Way, to consider a request by Viking Construction, Inc. for preliminary approval of a major subdivision to be named Carrington Meadows located at the directly North of West Hayden Avenue and approximately 1/2 mile West of North Atlas Road. The property is approximately 19.8 acres. Viking Construction owns the property immediately to the north and east (a 60 acre lot) and it is the applicant's intent to develop that lot in conformance with the applicable zoning via a future application.

The subject site is currently zoned Residential (R-1) and Commercial (C). The applicant is proposing 52 single family residential lots with an average lot size of 9296 square feet, one (1) commercial lot to be located at the intersection of Hayden Avenue and future Carrington Street, and five (5) open space tracts. The gross density as proposed is 2.6 units per acre.

Said proposal is on file with the Community and Economic Development Department at the City of Hayden where it may be reviewed during regular business hours. Such file will contain material relevant to the request, the contents of which may change prior to the date of the hearing.

All persons desiring to provide oral testimony should appear at the hearing. Written testimony may be sent to the City of Hayden, Community and Economic Development Department, Hayden, Idaho 83835; faxed to 208-762-2282; or, emailed to planning@cityofhaydenid.us Written comments must be received or postmarked by February 28. Written testimony received after this date will not be entered into the record or read at the public hearing.

Assistance for persons with disabilities will be provided upon 24-hour notice prior to the public hearing.

Two New Concerts Added To Spring Lineup

Spokane Symphony

Two new concerts have been added to the spring lineup at Martin Woldson Theater at The Fox. The Spokane Symphony will perform "Beethoven and Brews," pairing the music of Beethoven with a beer garden on Friday, March 10. Then, on Saturday, April 1, the Fox presents Black Violin, with their unique classical crossover sound using hip-hop beats. Tickets for both concerts are on sale now.

"Beethoven and Brews" will begin with one of Beethoven's favorite activities, a beer garden, featuring $3 drafts from No-Li Brewhouse. Doors open at 6pm for this lively preconcert activity. Then the Spokane Symphony, under the baton of Assistant Conductor Jorge Luis Uzcátegui, will perform a selection of Beethoven's greatest hits. The concert begins at 7:30pm.

Black Violin features classically trained violist and violinist Wil Baptiste and Kev Marcus who combine classical and hip-hop influences to create a distinctive multi-genre sound that is often described as "classical boom." The band released their major label debut Stereotypes (featuring Black Thought of The Roots and MC Pharoahe Monch) on Universal Music which debuted at #1 on the Billboard Classical Crossover Chart and #4 on the Billboard R&B Chart. Black Violin has shared stages with top names including Aerosmith and Tom Petty, and has creatively collaborated with the likes of Wu-Tang Clan, Wyclef Jean and Alicia Keys.

Tickets may be purchased at the Box Office at Martin Woldson Theater at The Fox, 1001 West Sprague, or by calling 509-624-1200. Tickets may also be purchased online at www.spokanesymphony.org or at all TicketsWest outlets

Opera At Riverstone

Carol Horning Stacey

For opera lovers who are early risers, the Cinema at Riverstone hosts another in the series of operas simulcast direct from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera on Saturday, February 25, starting at 9:55 in the morning - which coincides with matinee time in New York City.

This week's opera is Antonin Dvorak's Rusalka. The heroine is a water nymph who falls in love with a human prince, which is a very bad idea, and so the story is bound to end tragically. Kristine Opolais sings the title role and Sir Mark Elder conducts. During intermissions, the camera moves backstage to show the stagehands at work on the enormous sets of the Met.

Big Game Season Proposals Available Online

Idaho Fish and Game

Idaho Fish and Game's proposed changes for the 2017 and 2018 big game hunting seasons are available online for public review and comment.

The proposals for deer, elk, pronghorn, black bear, mountain lion and gray wolf are listed by region and are available at <https://idfg.idaho.gov/form/big-game-2017> Only those seasons and hunts for which changes are proposed are listed. All others will remain the same as they were during the 2015 and 2016 hunting seasons.

The deadline for submitting comments goes through midnight February 26.

Fish and Game also has scheduled several open house meetings around the state where those interested can visit with department personnel about the proposals and provide written comments. For a list of upcoming meetings, see the above link or contact your nearest Fish and Game office.

All comments received by the deadline will be summarized and presented to the Idaho Fish and Game Commission prior to their March 15-16 meeting in Boise where big game seasons will be set.

IN THE FIELD... Avoid The Rush, Take Hunter Education Now

Phil Cooper
Wildlife Conservation Educator

Hunter education is required for anyone born on or after January 1, 1975, who wants to purchase an Idaho hunting license.

The overall goal of the program is the prevention of hunting and firearm related accidents, but emphasis is also placed on improving knowledge about wildlife management, the heritage of hunting, and promoting hunting ethics and responsibility.

If your sights are set on hunting this year and you need to complete Idaho's hunter education requirement, now is the perfect time to sign up for a course. You can even start hunting in the spring in Idaho's spring turkey and bear seasons if you complete the requirement now.

An instructor-led course is considered the best option for youth up to age 14 and for individuals having a limited hunting background. These are easy to sign up for by going to the IDFG website.

A second option is an online course. This option is available for older students with excellent reading comprehension. While convenient and allowing much of the course to be taken at home, the online option requires that students register for and attend a field day where a field exercise and written exam are given.

For more information, or to register for a course or field day, visit the Fish and Game website at <http://fishandgame.idaho.gov> Click on the "Education" tab, or the "Hunting" tab (both at the top of the front page). You will next see the "view and sign up for courses tab."

ATTENTION VETERANS and active duty service members: Present your military ID or proof of membership in veterans' group at the Nickel's Worth office and get buy one get one free classified ads from that point on (ID only needed initially). Ads must run in the same week; free ad of equal or lesser value; display ads and picture classified ads do not qualify. Thank you for your service to our country!

Several options will be available by opening the tab, including instructor-led courses, internet courses, field days and trapping classes.

If you are looking for an instructor led hunter education class in the Panhandle Region, these classes will be listed under the first box, "Hunter and Bow-hunter Combo Instructor-Led Class." You will find that there are several classes currently scheduled in the Panhandle. All instructor led classes in the Panhandle provide certification in both hunter education and archery education. To sign up for a class in the Panhandle, you will only find Panhandle area classes on the hunter/bow-hunter combo class list.

Another option is getting a Hunting Passport. This special opportunity is a component of the Idaho Fish and Game mentored hunting program. The Passport allows any first-time hunter (resident or nonresident), age 8 and older, to try hunting with a licensed adult mentor, without first having to complete an Idaho hunter education course. Those who have previously held a hunting license in any state are not eligible. The cost is only $1.75.

The Hunting Passport allows a beginning hunter to experience hunting before committing to the coursework required to complete hunter education. But this option is only possible for new hunters who have a licensed, adult mentor who will accompany them at all times while hunting on the passport.

Volunteer hunter education instructors are the backbone of Idaho's hunter education program. They are excellent instructors because they have spent a lot of time in the field on their own hunts. When the fall rolls around, these volunteers will be in the forests and fields creating new hunting memories, and they will spend less time in the classroom. Therefore, fewer spaces are available to take instructor led classes in the fall once the hunting seasons begin. If you can spare a few hours now for completing the training, you will be ready to go create some memories of your own.

Never let your gun get in the wrong hands.

Your family, friends and neighbors are all counting on you. If you own a firearm and are not using it, please be responsible and be sure that it's always stored in a safe place. Visit nccp.org to determine the best firearms safety solution for you.

NEED NEW HOMES, I AM getting married and sadly, my fiancé is deathly allergic to cats. I need a thorough cleaning of my house which can't start until the critters are gone. I am looking for a good home for 2 cats, Vee is approximately 7 years old, female, long hair brown hair tabby/ tortoise mix, she is fixed and would make a really good companion for an elderly person or a family, she will take as much attention as you're willing to give her. I would classify her as the classic "lap cat", she has fun with a laser or a string, is extremely affectionate and doesn't need much to start her purr box. She is not much of an outdoor cat, she will head outside to look around and sniff, but is ready to come back inside rather fast. Moe is approximately 4.5 years old, male, short hair Mackerel tabby, he is fixed and will make a great pet for a single person or a family, he is mostly an indoor cat and spends warm weather outside, but in the winter, doesn't care much for the cold. Moe likes attention and he will talk to you. He has slayed a mouse or two and is extremely affectionate when he head butts you and purrs pretty easily. He is extremely easy to get along with. ## EPA Looks 10 Years Ahead

Presuming the Environmental Protection Agency is not dismantled by the new rulers of Washington DC, the cleanup of the mining district will continue. EPA forecasts the Basin Cleanup for the next 10 years as follows:

- Finish property cleanups in the Basin with emphasis on high risk homes with children and pregnant women.
- Complete repair of roads that may have been damaged by cleanup activities, so that those roads can serve as barriers to underlying contamination.
- Complete actions to protect cleanup work that has already been done.
- Construct a drain to intercept contaminated groundwater near the Central Impoundment Area in the Box and pipe it to Central Treatment Plant (CTP),
- Upgrade and expand the CTP to treat groundwater in addition to the ongoing treatment of water from the Bunker Hill Mine.
- Continue high-priority cleanup work in the East Fork of Ninemile Creek.
- Begin work in Canyon Creek to control sources of contamination.
- Utilize the data and improved understanding of the Lower Basin developed since the Record of Decision, to conduct pilot and full scale cleanup projects to address risk.
- Continue managing repositories.

The Garden Bug Growing catnip

Set out catnip seedlings in a sunny, well-drained spot after the last frost of spring, spacing them 18"-24" apart (some can grow to 5 feet tall). Water regularly, and pinch back any spindly growth to get fuller, more robust foliage. Outdoor cats can be rough on these plants, as they like to roll and lay on them; try placing bamboo stakes every few inches to prevent their destroying them. For "indoor" kitties, pick off a sprig and bring it inside for your cat to enjoy on the floor or in its favorite bedding. —Brenda Weaver Source:bonnieplants.com

The bidding:
 East 1♣ South 1♥ West Pass North 2♥
 Pass 3♦ Pass 4♥
 Opening lead — queen of clubs.

Assume you're in four hearts and West leads the queen and another club, which you ruff. The problem is to find the best method of play -- and this is not easy even if you look at all four hands. There are several assumptions you're entitled to make without seeing the East-West cards. One is that the trumps are divided 3-2, since you have no chance to make the contract if they're divided 4-1. Another is that East, who opened the bidding, has the ace of spades. It would be easy enough to make

10 tricks if West had three hearts and East two. You could cash the K-A of trumps, force out the ace of spades and later ruff a spade in dummy. The danger in playing this way is that East might have three trumps, as in the actual deal. If you drew two rounds of trumps and then played a spade to the queen, East would take the ace and cash his high trump. You would then go down one, losing two spades, a heart and a club. However, assuming East has the spade ace, there is a way to make 10 tricks regardless of which defender has three hearts. To accomplish this, you play the A-K of hearts and then lead the six of spades from dummy. If East goes up with the ace, you no longer need to ruff a spade, so let's say he plays low. In that case, you win the spade with the king, lead a diamond to the ten, ruff a club and continue with a diamond to the ace. If East ruffs, your only remaining loser is a spade; if he discards, you ruff dummy's last club and continue playing diamonds. Whatever East does, you are sure to finish with 10 tricks.
