

NPH USA.
Raising Children. Supporting Families.
Transforming Lives.

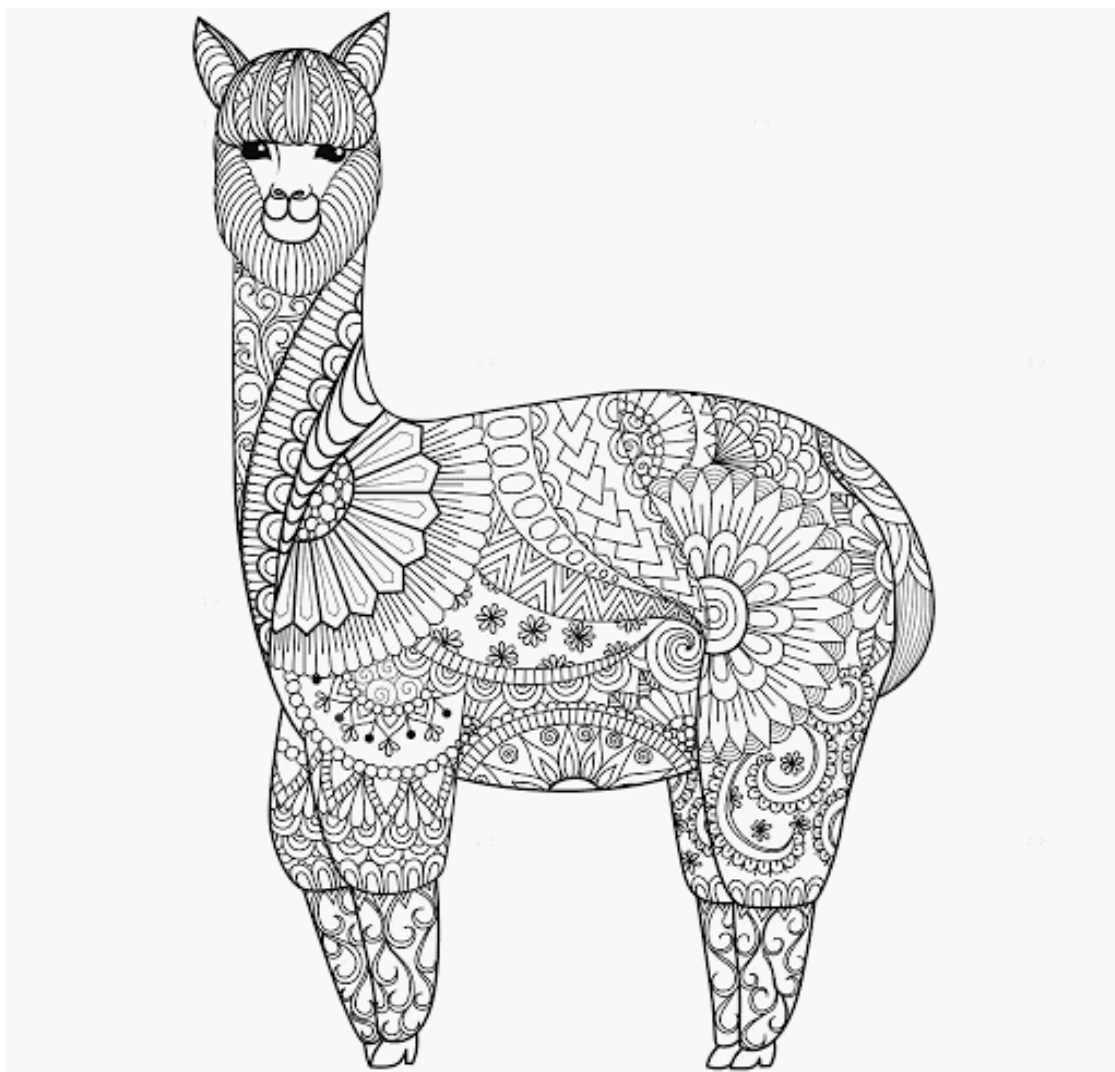

Bolivia's National Animal: The Llama!

The Llama is an important animal to the Bolivian people. Their wool is used for making Bolivian clothing like sweaters, gloves, winter caps, and coats because it is very warm and soft. Llama meat is used in several traditional dishes such as "Chaque de Llama", which is dried and ground llama meat stewed with corn, hard-boiled eggs, and cheese. These animals and their wool are also used in many other rituals by curanderos and kallawayas, which are healers, making the llama an important figure in Bolivian history and culture.

THE POWER TO EMPOWER.

NPH USA
Raising Children. Supporting Families.
Transforming Lives.

Bolivia's National Animal: The Llama!

The Llama is an important animal to the Bolivian people. Their wool is used for making Bolivian clothing like sweaters, gloves, winter caps, and coats because it is very warm and soft. Llama meat is used in several traditional dishes such as "Chaque de Llama", which is dried and ground llama meat stewed with corn, hard-boiled eggs, and cheese. These animals and their wool are also used in many other rituals by curanderos and kallawayas, which are healers, making the llama an important figure in Bolivian history and culture.

THE POWER TO EMPOWER.