U.S. Supreme Court takes Prop. 14 fair housing case
Takeo Miki appointed Japanese foreign minister; Pan-Am film on Japan called 'antiquated'

UNUSUAL PHILANTHROPY—Southwest L.A. JACLER Nat Peshkin (center) has donated his $90,000 stamp collection to the Jewish National Fund. Proceeds of sale of the collection will establish a settlement in Israel named for Peshkin's parents.

Southwest JACLER contribute valuable stamp collection to Jewish Nat'l. Fund

LOS ANGELES—Nat Peshkin is a real estate salesman who works for the Kashi Company. A man of sunny disposition and twinkling eyes, he has taught Hebrew greetings to some of the Oriental salesmen on staff. Peshkin is two other things as well. He is a philatelist of wide reputation—a stamp collector who specializes in Israel and Palestine.

And, he is a passionate Zionist who sees in the reclamation of the Holy Land the Biblical redemption of his coreligionists. These two intense interests led to his unique philanthropy. He has donated his extensive stamp collection, variously appraised between $87,000 and $95,000, to the Jewish National Fund, so that the proceeds of its sale can be used to re-build and reclaim the soil of Israel.

Remote Corners Visited
'I visited Israel this year,' he says. 'My intense interest in stamps led me to every remote corner of the country, from Eilat in the south to the Galilee in the north, to desert communities in the Negev, to the site of King Herod's palace in Masada.'

I saw these brave people building frontier roads under the guns of their enemies. I saw them risking their lives and fortunes and I asked myself if I couldn't do more. To understand the importance of Peshkin's philanthropy you have to know more about stamp collections. His collection, which consists of more than 100,000 items ranging from 1859 to date, is more than merely 'extremely valuable.'

Holiday Issue

A total of 17 chapters have ordered bulk space rates this year—a sign that it will be a popular fund-raiser for chapters in the future. To make room for additional advertising, the 1966 Holiday Issue will be the biggest to date—56 pages, which will include a 16-page tabloid Winter Quarterly comprised of material previously featured in the Reference Section.

Justice of fair housing law cited by JACL at Calif. state hearing

SAN FRANCISCO — National JACL Director Masao Satow testified Dec. 6 before the Governor's Commission on the Rumford Act, reiterating JACL support of government action to assure equal opportunities for all regardless of race or creed 'to realize more fully our democracy.'

Prop. 14 finale

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Supreme Court agreed Monday to rule on the constitutionality of Prop. 14, which California voters adopted overwhelmingly in the 1964 general elections to give residential property owners absolute discretion in the choice of a buyer or renter.

Juniors add to EDC session at Seabrook

SEABROOK, N.J. — Successfully demonstrating the effectiveness of a get-together between the Jr. JACL and the JACL, the youth played a vital part at the Eastern District Council meeting called by Governor Kaz Horita on Dec. 3 at the Centerton Golf Club.

Nakagiri, Suzuki appointed to youth commission

SACRAMENTO—The appointment of Kay Nakagiri of San Fernando Valley JACL as national JACL youth commissioner and Mike Suzuki, former Hollywood JACL chapter president now of Sacramento, as his associate was announced this week by Jerry Enomoto, national JACL president.

Seattle Nisei heads for Antarctic peak

LOS ANGELES — Eiji Fukushima of Seattle is headed for the South Pole with a group planning to scale the Antarctic's highest mountain, 16,800-ft. Vinson Massif. The 11-man party, headed by Nicholas Clinch, 36, of Los Angeles, departed here Saturday. Clinch is a veteran of Himalayan expeditions.

A San Francisco JACL officer, who inquired about a home in another neighborhood, which was described as free of 'bad influences', when the broker sensed a hesitation because of the price range. Satow explained to the Commission that the 'bad influences'—in the words of the broker—was the complete absence of Negroes or Orientals. Other instances coming to the attention of JACL include cases of Japanese wives of non-Japanese husbands. As long as the husband made the housing contact alone everything was fine, but upon seeing his wife was Oriental, the situation then changed suddenly, the Commission was told.

At Governor Ohno's suggestion, the Board approved the holding of an annual essay and oratorical contest at the May District Convention, instead of biennially as is now done. The board also passed a motion authorizing outgoing Ohno to investigate the possibility of holding an annual art exhibit or contest for high school students at the May Convention with the awarding of cash prize.

S.F. festival for '68 recommended

SAN FRANCISCO — Heartily endorsed by the Japanese American community, the annual Cherry Blossom Festival proposed last month by city recreation and parks commissioner George T. Choppelas should be scheduled for 1968, not next April as first suggested. At a meeting attended by representatives of the local Japanese community, the consensus was for a small-scale program next April at Golden Gate Park with perhaps the local federation of Buddhist Churches presenting an outdoor program and a mass ondo on Sunday, April 9, which is Lord Buddha's birthday.

CCDC elects Kubota, seek head tax quota

FRESNO — James K. Kubota, local attorney, succeeds Hiro Kusaki as Central California JACL district council governor. He and other district and chapter officers were installed at mass swearing-in ceremonies Sunday, Dec. 4, at Hacienda Motel before 350 persons. Kubota has been practicing in Fresno since 1947, after graduating from Hastings Law College in San Francisco. He had attended Univ. of Missouri Law School and Detroit College of Law after being evacuated from California. He is also a member of the local Buddhist Church board of directors.

PERSPECTIVES

Jerry Enomoto Nat'l President
When I was in Southern California recently, 1963-64 'JACLER of the Biennium' Father Clement, gave me a copy of Crossroads, briefly mentioning a particular column in it in a very animated way. That's a fancy way of saying that he was provoked by it. Subsequently, the Rev. William Shinto's words have triggered a host of response, much of it from JACLers springing to the organization's defense.

Although I don't believe JACL needs a defense, the Rev. Shinto has served as the proverbial 'catalyst' in stirring things up. We have many JACLers, who undoubtedly share his views but who, for lack of opportunity or inclination, seldom express themselves. Now that things have been stirred up, controversy and a little self analysis may be possible.

PC Editor Harry Honda has written a piece clearly enunciating JACL's stand and the reasons for it. Mrs. Kats Kunitzugi in her Kashi Mainichi column headed 'Jumping on the JACL', has articulated some real JACL dilemmas, the biggest of these being the harsh reality that enthusiasm for a 'serious' JACL wanes as the serious problems of Japanese Americans in America wane. As she puts it JACL has become the victim of its own success. She concludes by pointing out that it is a somewhat despairing commentary on JACL's future that Rev. Shinto proposes, namely stick to socials and stay out of divisive and controversial areas.

Personally, if I believed that membership opinion obligates us to adopt the above kind of philosophy, I would 'throw in the towel' for JACL. We need more, not less, controversy. We need, in the popular jargon of our time, more 'dialogue' between people, and JACLers are people. We need to expose ourselves to the problems that confront our less fortunate fellow American minorities. Perhaps some of our comfortable and insulated Nisei perceptions can stand some shaking up.

Without 'blowing our image' as a law abiding, well educated, polite and reliable group, maybe we can add a dimension of compassion and real active concern for the disadvantaged — whether the cause be racial bigotry, poverty, etc. Least critics be unnecessarily provoked, I should emphasize that we are, and should be, proud of that image. We can be prouder if we can expand our horizons.

As a continuance of this 'dialogue' in a related area, a quick comment upon a Letter to the Editor titled 'No Politics for JACL Members' by Dr. Clifford Uyeida. I believe that it is healthy that there are growing signs of a better balance in political party affiliation among Japanese Americans and JACLers. Speaking personally, and as National President (hopefully objectively), I have no political ambitions, although I have political interests, as does JACL. The JACL is nonpartisan, not non-political. Every significant gain JACL has made for Americans of Japanese ancestry has involved politics as a tool. The JACL Constitution need not be sacrificed at all, but it may be that changing times demand changing concepts. In that sense, that document should not be immune to analysis and amendment, if that be the will of the membership. Witness the concern over the interpretation of the phrase 'directly affecting the welfare of Americans of Japanese ancestry.'

My 'cause' to use Dr. Uyeida's words is to 'loft the JACL banner' on behalf of

Washington Newsletter: Mike Masaoka

25 Years Ago

Washington

Last Wednesday, Dec. 7, marked the 25th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, and the beginning of a remarkable sequence of events unprecedented in American history for any nationality or minority group.

Though a quarter of a century has rushed by, to us at least most of the incidents of that memorable Dec. 7, 1941, and thereafter remain rather vividly in memory.

And this is one reason why we are looking forward to the annual Holiday Issue of the Pacific Citizen, which—we understand—will feature the Evacuation and its aftermath. This could be outstanding among the many notable Christmas Editions of what has become the traditional spectacular of this national membership weekly.

No doubt there are some Japanese Americans who question the value of recounting the experiences of that most tragic era for those of Japanese ancestry in this country, contending that instead of looking backward we ought to look ahead, instead of harking back to those troubled times we ought to peer into the future for the challenges still to be met.

Perhaps it is just because we live out here in the East, or perhaps it is just that the years have sped on, but we feel very strongly that, just as most Americans look back on Valley Forge for inspiration and new dedication, so Americans of Japanese ancestry should never forget, or ignore, what happened after Pearl Harbor to those of similar background in this nation.

We think that Americans of Japanese ancestry can, and should, look back with pride on what has come to be recognized as the glory of Nisei America—a time of great travail, yet of unmatched courage, heroic efforts, and unique vision.

In a sense, it is like the philosophy of a 442nd veteran just after his honorable discharge — "Now that I've lived through it, I wouldn't give up the experiences for a million dollars. But I certainly wouldn't volunteer again for ten times that much!"

The Evacuation in the spring of 1942 that followed the Japanese attack on Hawaiian soil was the climax of more than half a century of persecution and discrimination against those of the Japanese race that was the hallmark of pre-World War II politics on the West Coast.

It was also the turning point for the better, for, since Evacuation, America and Americans have come to look on those of Japanese ancestry in a far more favorable and friendly light.

It may be because we Japanese Americans were the victims of the greatest violation of the civil rights of any American minority that we are unable to see ourselves as perhaps others might.

For many, we are the living examples of democracy in action, an illustration that, while democracy sometimes does tolerate abuses and excesses in periods of hate and hysteria, nevertheless it contains within itself the mechanism of correcting such mistakes and aberrations.

Consider that only 25 years ago, we as a nationality group were the direct or indirect targets of some 500 federal, state, and local laws and ordinances, that together with social and economic bigotries, restricted and circumscribed our lives and opportunities. Many of these discriminatory practices applied not only to our alien parents and grandparents but also to the American-born Nisei.

The most vicious and effective of all the anti-Japanese statutes were the alien land laws that then prohibited the Japanese from purchasing and owning land in 16 western states. Perhaps by coincidence this evening, Dec. 9, in Seattle, Washington, a victory banquet is being held to celebrate the repeal of the last such alien land law by the voters of that Pacific Northwest State this past Nov. 8.

Consider also that after Dec. 7, 1941, our immigrant parents and grandparents — through no fault of their own but through operation of federal prohibitions in the naturalization code — were automatically and arbitrarily categorized as "enemy aliens", while we, their citizen children, were suspect Americans, mistrusted by our own government.

Consider that by Aug. 7, 1942, about 110,000 persons of Japanese ancestry had been removed from their own homes and associations on the West Coast and were either in "assembly centers" or War Relocation Center camps, behind the barbed wires of "America's Concentration Camps", as author Allan Bosworth describes them in his forthcoming documentary by that title.

Consider all that, and then consider our enviable status today in our country — just 25 years after Dec. 7, 1941.

We have many organizations and individuals to thank for our quarter century of "progress", not only as JACL but also as individual Japanese Americans.

And, unfortunately, many individual Americans who were so helpful to us before, during, and after Evacuation have passed on, many without ever being honored or even recognized or identified for their many contributions to our welfare and well-being.

Thus, it seems to us that every JACL chapter and district council at its installation ceremonies or convention next year ought to hold some special services to at least pay tribute to those few remaining known "friends" who befriended us at a time when it was not popular, or even safe in many instances, to speak up, or find housing, or provide employment, for those Americans who by an accident of birth could be associated through "affinity" with the then Japanese enemy.

Over the years, we know that many JACL chapters and district councils have held testimonial banquets to honor some of those who were helpful to those of Japanese ancestry in those difficult war years. But some have not yet expressed their gratitude to those who were willing "to stand up and be counted" when the "chips were down" and "true friends" were few and far between.

From this week on, it would seem appropriate — and long overdue in some instances — that every JACL chapter and district council consider some proper program to honor those who honored us over the past 25 years by demonstrating their faith in our loyalty, patriotism, and courage.

School Front

Fowler fruit grower Harry Hiraoka was named to the vacancy on the Central California (State Center) Jr. College district board Nov. 17 for the area south of Fresno. A Fowler elementary school trustee since 1951 until the district was unified last year, his term expires June 30. Hiraoka also served as president of the Fresno County School Trustees Assn. and as director-at-large for the California School Trustees Assn.

Dr. George Kawahara of Los Angeles was awarded the USC Dental College Distinguished Alumni plaque.

Nancy Fujihira, 17, of Venice High School won membership in the famous Young Americans chorus, directed by Milt Anderson. A student of the piano since 4 and never having any formal vocal training, she was urged by father, Robert, who recently retired after working for 25 years at the American School in Tokyo. The family only returned here in September.

Organizations

Mr. and Mrs. John Nakayama were installed co-presidents of the Berkeley Bears Organization, succeeding Joe Yatabe. All other officers this year are husband-wife combinations.

Entertainment

David Tzuri of Vancouver, B.C., who danced in the Broadway production of "Flower Drum Song", is doing a solo number in the London hit musical, "Charlie Girl", now in its 11th month with prospects of continuing another two years. While in London, he has had roles in British films and TV, including a James Bond bit.

Diane Nakamitsu, 17, of San Mateo captured the Miss Talent, USA, title with a baton-twirling number at Long Beach Nov. 26. A national baton-twirling champ, she competed against 100 girls in the third annual event.

Kathy Yamaguchi of Los Angeles has joined the Doodletown Pipers, an up & coming singing group, which have appeared on national TV. While at Belmont High, she had the lead role in the school production of "Flower Drum Song".

Courtroom

With three openings on the new district appellate court authorized by the 1966 California legislature, Superior Court Judge John Aiso of Los Angeles was listed as possible choice for Gov. Brown's consideration.

Books

Yoshiko Uchida of Berkeley has a new children's book published by Scribner's entitled "Sumi's Special Happening".

Jiji Press has published Hawaii Nisei, written by Tamotsu Murayama, who interviewed nearly 300 Hawaiian-born Nisei in the past three years living in Washington, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Honolulu and Hilo. It is the first publication of the Japanese Emigration to U.S. centennial series. The PC correspondent has previously written "America Nisei" and "Shuko Koto Hajime", the latter in connection with the 1960 U.S.-Japan Centennial.

Government

Tad Kitano, who started as a groundsman in 1959 and worked himself up for the City of Gardena, was appointed superintendent of parks this past week and Shiro Nagaoka was promoted parks foreman, the position Kitano held.

Mrs. Chiyeiko Nishiyama is the first Canadian Nisei woman to be elected to public office, beating out two candidates for a Raymond (Alta.) board of education post in late October. Her husband had just finished his term on the same board.

Press Row

Morihito Matsuda, 45, of Tokyo who spent almost $64,000 in the New York Times and the Times of London, the Chicago Sun-Times and Chicago Daily News in full-page spread advertising on how to end the war in Vietnam wants to go to America to raise more money so he can buy space in the Reader's Digest, Time.

Life and Newsweek

Rafu Shimpo, oldest Japanese vernacular on the Mainland, had its 19,000th issue on Nov. 5. Were it not for the suspension because of World War II, the publication would have had its second myriad (10,000th) edition this year.

Beautyies

Barbara Horiuchi, daughter of Harold Horiuchi in Denver, was crowned queen of the annual Denver High School ROTC Military Ball Nov. 4. Brigade commander Gary Okimoto of North High crowned the Kennedy High School lass, who competed with other candidates from the nine prep schools.

Sports

A Winnipeg salesman, Paul Yoshimasu, 32, is representing Canada in the second annual International Masters Championship bowling tournament at Wembley Stadium, London, this week (Dec. 6-8). He won the Dominion singles and doubles championships in the Bowling Proprietors championship last spring averaging 194 over 82 games. Junji Yamanaoka, 21, who has two perfect games, will represent Japan; and John Wilcox, 19, of Williamsport, Pa., the U.S.A. as all-events winner at the last ABC tournament at Rochester, N.Y., with a tournament all-time high of 2,004 for nine games.

Nankai Hawks have rejected proposals to allow Masanori Murakami to play again with the San Francisco Giants as the latter planned to mail a 1967 contract to the 22-year-old pitcher. John Suzuki of Santa Barbara was 11 pins behind Bob Jones' winning 6163 effort to win $400 third prize money in the Professional Pacific Coast Bowlers Open tournament at Pioneer Bowl at Norwalk. Bill Fujimoto competes as a sidehorse expert on the UC Berkeley gym team, which finished runner-up in NCAA finals last year. Howard Mizushima, 150-lb.

GEORGIA-KAGOSHIMA SIGN AS SISTER STATES

ATLANTA — Gifts were exchanged last week to mark the sister state relationship pact between Georgia and Kagoshima.

Gov. Katsushi Terazono came here as part of a goodwill trade mission and was hosted by Gov. Carl E. Sanders, who had been hosted by the Kagoshima governor during a U.S.-Japan governors conference in Japan last year. "Kagoshima and Georgia have much in common," Sanders said. "Our warm climates, our rich natural resources and our natural beauties make a close relationship far more than merely a matter of convenience."

From the Frying Pan

INAUGURAL—When the Nisei measure their experience in terms of decades, it is high time to begin thinking of their successors. Thus, it was reassuring to see a heavy sprinkling of Sansei in the gathering, and among the participants, at the 22nd annual inaugural dinner dance of the Chicago JACL chapter last Saturday night.

As the saying goes, it was a dark and stormy night, not fit for man nor beast. But Chicagoans have had to become rugged in order to survive, even though their origins may have been in sunny California or balmy Hawaii. And so they turned out in goodly number for the formalities at McCormick Place, a civic facility allegedly built with the take from horse race betting.

The program began with the usual posting of the colors, a ritual performed with stirring dispatch and precision by young ladies of the Nisei Ambassadors color guard. Sirs and ladies, the little girl who calls out the commands does so in a voice that makes the hair stand right up on the back of your neck.

The Nisei Ambassadors, incidentally, are a split and polish drum and bugle corps made up primarily of Sansei teenagers, but integrated with a sprinkling of Caucasians and Negroes. Dr. Frank Sakamoto told us of their triumphant visit to Washington, D.C. last summer where they placed high in national competition. He'd like nothing better than to see the organization make a goodwill tour of the Far East.

SHAKING HANDS—This Chicago visit provided an opportunity to make new friends and shake hands with a goodly number of folks I hadn't seen since pre-evacuation days. It's impossible to name them all, and unfair to pick out just a few, but that's the way it'll have to be.

What a pleasure it was to see Mrs. Hagiwara (does anyone ever get to know an Issei lady's first name?), the late Abe Hagiwara's mother, who we first met in Kitchikan, Alaska, back in the 'thirties.

And certainly no one traveled farther for the affair than the Rev. Min Mochizuki, Presbyterian pastor of Western Michigan University at Kalamazoo, and his charming wife June. June's sister, Mrs. Harry Sabusawa, added to the confusion of meeting people by answering to both Suzy and Mary, but we finally got that straightened out. Both are correct. The introductions were made by George and Ruby Suzuki. Incidentally, there are two George Suzukis in the Chicago telephone directory, and this George isn't one of them. He's unlisted.

CANDIDATE—One gentleman present who we heard a great deal about, but did not meet, was Richard Hikawa, attorney, formerly of Sacramento, who may or may not be a candidate for alderman (city councilman) from Chicago's 48th ward. A Democrat, Hikawa has indicated he would like to run for the post, but his party hasn't quite made up its collective mind whether to select him.

The 48th ward, we understand, has some 18,000 votes, and the winning margin is usually only a matter of a few hundred. There are reported to be some 800 Nisei voters in the ward.

STORMY FAREWELL—Shig Wakamatsu lined up a very pleasant lunch with a few members of the JACL board the day after the inaugural. By the time for departure, a nasty sleet storm had opened up. I climbed into Frank Sakamoto's car, and Hiro Mayeda and Henry Terada said they'd meet us at O'Hare International Airport. It wasn't until some time later that it occurred to me they hadn't asked, and I hadn't told them which airline was flying me home. Since trying to find anyone at O'Hare is like trying to locate one person in the Los Angeles Coliseum on a Saturday afternoon in football season, we didn't see them again. The sleet came down harder, colder and slicker

JACLers win, lose in elections

SANTA ANA—An Orange County JACLer since March, Kenneth Cory of Westminster was elected for the 69th Assembly District seat in a close contest last Nov. 8 over Republican Stewart Case of Garden Grove, the chapter publication Santana Wind reported. Cory, who addressed the October chapter meeting on politics, was one of two Democrats to be elected from Orange County in the Republican landslide.

SALT LAKE CITY—Jimi Mitsunaga, active Salt Lake JACLer and attorney, expressed thanks to his supporters in the bid for the 3rd Judicial District judgeship. Final count was 71,718 for incumbent Judge Faux and

TOKYO—A man who is well known to U.S. officials as a party leader and to Southern California Nisei as a prewar gakuin instructor was named foreign minister last week by Premier Eisaku Sato. He is Takeo Miki, minister of international trade, who with transport minister Sensuke Fujieda, survived the cabinet reshuffle. Sato, fighting charges of corruption in his government, fired all but two members of his 18-member cabinet Dec. 3. Former foreign minister Etsusaburo Shiina was given an executive post in the Liberal Democratic party.

Miki was to have conferred with U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, now in Japan on a visit of the Far East.

(Miki was in Los Angeles early last October at the dedication of the new $3 million Von KleinSmid Center for International and Public Affairs on the Univ. of Southern California campus as one of the main speakers. Miki was USC student before WW2.)

Envoy to Indonesia

(The Indonesian news agency Antara reported Akira Nihiyama, former Japanese consul general at San Francisco, will be appointed Japanese ambassador to Djakarta.)

Masao Yagi, former consul general at San Francisco who went to Iraq as Japanese ambassador before being recalled to serve as Japan's immigration director, was named ambassador to Bucharest, Hungary.

Recount asked in Hawaii election

(Special to the Pacific Citizen) HONOLULU—Randolph Crossley, defeated Republican candidate for the governorship of Hawaii, filed a complaint asking for a new election on ballots different from those used last month. If this request is not granted, he asks for a recount.

Crossley lost to Gov. John A. Burns by 4,516 votes. In his complaint, Crossley listed 15 allegations of irregularities, including one that ballots marked for Burns "were handed by certain election inspectors to electors (voters) when they appeared to vote." Crossley said he felt a recount could change the outcome of the election. Democrats disagree.

the closer we got to the airport. The flight was three and a half hours late taking off, and shortly after we were airborne the pilot announced the field had just been closed. Fortunately, Frank Sakamoto under repeated urging has abandoned his role as host and gone home some time earlier, so no damage was done.

Shonien Property Sold for Trust Fund

BY HENRY MORI

Los Angeles

The Japanese American Community Services, nearly out of debt following partial disposal of its property at 1815 Redcliff St. in the Silverlake district, indicated it plans to "reorganize" into an "interim group" until at such time the supporters can bring about an institution geared to help social welfare cases.

Tosh Terasawa, chairman of JACS, reported the board met Dec. 1 to appraise the next move involving the agency's program. The group was committed to operate the defunct, former Shonien "to the best as it saw fit."

The apparent lack of social cases involving persons of Japanese ancestry and the continuous financial losses during the past several years forced JACS to sell at least part of the property.

SAN FRANCISCO—A film traffic and sales manager here. Wada's letter followed the showing of the film before 400 persons Dec. 1 at the Sheraton Palace Hotel at a "Japan Night" program sponsored by several airlines and steamship companies.

"During this 10 to 15 years Japan has changed drastically and we are proud of the change," Wada said.

"This certainly gives a false impression that the scenes of Japan of 15 years ago are actually that of contemporary Japan," Wada wrote to Axel Mikkelsen, Pan Am district a wide concern for what's wrong with our democracy in its dealing with all Americans. I am very "partisan" when it comes to elected representatives who show a solid record of support of our cause as a human rights group. I do not "think" this cause is identified with JACL, I know it is. My only "disappointment", if I have any, is that many of us continue to reject the possibility that a needed and legitimate responsibility of JACL is to act as a group "conscience" for Americans of Japanese ancestry in the area of human rights. This is not presumptuous, it is necessary.

cluded the postwar Shonien building which had gone up more than a decade ago when the then Shonien committee, composed of prewar community figures, decided to resume the orphanage but only on short-duration bases.

Terasawa said the one-purpose edifice brought hardship to the board members since, without revenue, the service had to be curtailed. "There was no other possible use for the building and its facilities because it could not have been turned into a privately-owned apartment or residence," he explained.

The Boys Republic which had a two-year lease eventually bought the parcel, 252' by 140', including the dormitory facilities.

Among the 10 board members who met last week, Terasawa declared, sentiments were expressed to sell the other same-sized property for about $50,000.

Start Trust Fund

The JACS, which had weathered financial storms of the last several years, says the monies will be banked and only the interests and dividends derived from the deposit will be used for welfare purposes.

"Eventually with the sale of the remaining land we believe about $100,000 in total cash can be realized," Terasawa told the board. The members are seeking possible buyers but said "we are in no hurry."

The chairman also pointed to the fact that with that amount, about $5,500 in interest can be reaped each year.

JACL Chapters Mentioned

Terasawa declared it was voted by the board, that his personal feeling, yet to be distributions of cash can be made to such organizations as the Japanese Chamber of Commerce welfare committee, the Keiro Nursing board and the JACL chapters and veterans groups.

In the Chamber's social welfare program, as much as $1,500 could be given toward a more effective service, the board had been told. In addition, the International Institute which handles Japanese immigration cases, can come under JACS's assistance. It will be the function of the new interim board, which is to be formed early in January, to vote on welfare funds and their distribution.

Terasawa said the board "has realized that the community is not yet ready to support a physical agency in which direct supervision of cases can be made."

Future Use

"Therefore, until such time when we are ready to accept wider responsibilities in such an agency, we will keep the monies in trust and perpetuate the spirit of our program through direct contributions," the chairman said.

He added that the board, though fewer in representation today, is relieved to "get out of debt." "We've faced many criticisms from the anti-Shonien element. However, we are pleased to report that we now are, at least, debt-free," the chairman concluded.

The Book You've Been Waiting For

by ALLAN R. BOSWORTH

The shocking story of 110,000 Americans behind barbed wire—in the United States—during World War II. Their crime, Japanese ancestors.

During World War II, the pride of the American forces in Europe was the 42nd Regimental Combat Team, the famous "go-for-broke" all-Nisei unit that ran up one of the most impressive combat records in the history of the U.S. Army. At the same time, although they had committed no crime, the parents and families of these heroes were prisoners in 10 concentration camps spread from California to Arkansas. Altogether, 110,000 people of Japanese ancestry—70,000 of them U.S. citizens by birth—were relocated from their homes and businesses on short notice, herded into assembly centers, and sent to "relocation" camps for as long as four years. It was a devastating violation of civil rights on a mass scale. In this shocking book, Allan R. Bosworth tells the little-known story of how prejudice, greed, and wartime hysteria contributed to what has been called our "worst wartime mistake."

Bosworth relates the extraordinary record of the Japanese-Americans during the bleak days of the internment and since World War II that has given richer meaning to the word "citizen." He warns, too, that the danger of such mass imprisonments was not an isolated event that could have happened only during World War II; it can happen again, today, given certain conditions, in any group of citizens, whatever their racial or ancestral origins.

Historic Decision

San Francisco The combination of our being invited to the recent MISLS Reunion addressed by Col. Kai Rasmussen and the Thanksgiving season made us think back to the Thanksgiving week of 1942 when JACL made its historic decision to request the reinstatement of Selective Service. Col. Rasmussen remembered, for he was there with us in Salt Lake. Outside of delegates from our Intermountain Chapters, the rest of us were "delegates" by special permission from Relocation Centers to determine how best the National organization could serve our people in the camps and look beyond our confinement. This decision led to the Assistant Secretary of War John J. McCloy's conception of the Japanese American Combat Team.

Two weeks ago, members of the Phoenix-area Japanese American community gathered to honor Issei in the Valley age 70 or over. This marked the fourth year that the Japanese Americans have formally paid their respects to the Japanese-born Americans who struggled against tremendous odds in building a new life in a strange, new land.

Altogether, 49 Issei were honored at the banquet sponsored by the Japanese American Citizens League. Not the least of these was the antagonism of whites who (especially along the West coast, and even well in advance of World War II) began to talk ominously of the "Yellow peril" and to suspect anyone whose skin was dark and whose eyes had an epicurean fold.

Some of the Issei recently honored arrived in Arizona at about the time the territory achieved statehood. Family Life Some male Issei, in keeping with Japanese tradition (explained so well in Michener's "Hawaii") worked to save money enough to send for "picture brides" (fiancées they knew only from photographs) to acquire funds sufficient for them to return to Japan and marry, then return to Arizona.

Arizona Issei pioneers in tribute from chapter

The Arizona JACL is among the more fortunate chapters with a full-time newspaperman on its membership roll, thus its recent Issei Appreciation Night program was reported in depth on its editorial page. Other chapters might be moved now to invite their own friends in the press to witness a similar event so that the community-at-large has an opportunity to learn of the Issei pioneers in their area.—Editor.

elders, an outgrowth of the Confucianist belief in filial piety. Japanese Americans are similarly respectful, as their toasts and good wishes to the Issei made unmistakably clear.

Issei Pioneers There is every reason to be proud of these pioneers who arrived in the West most often without knowing the language and penniless.

The Issei who came to Arizona wandered over from California and Seattle, some in search of land to farm, others as laborers on the railroad.

Hachiro Onuki, whose Phoenix Illuminating Gas and Electric Co. of 1886 was the predecessor of Arizona Public Service, came to the U.S. to attend the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition of 1876. But he soon followed the rush to Tombstone's silver mines.

All endured countless hardships. Not the least of these was the antagonism of whites who (especially along the West coast, and even well in advance of World War II) began to talk ominously of the "Yellow peril" and to suspect anyone whose skin was dark and whose eyes had an epicurean fold.

Some of the Issei recently honored arrived in Arizona at about the time the territory achieved statehood.

Family Life

Some male Issei, in keeping with Japanese tradition (explained so well in Michener's "Hawaii") worked to save money enough to send for "picture brides" (fiancées they knew only from photographs) to acquire funds sufficient for them to return to Japan and marry, then return to Arizona.

About the only profession readily open to them was agriculture, and it is no accident that some of the state's finest vegetable, flower, and fruit farms—indeed, some of the finest in the country—are the handiwork of these dedicated, uncompromising people.

World War II, with its anti-Japanese overtones and the unfortunate relocation, produced wounds from which many Japanese Americans will never recover.

But it never broke the spirit of the Issei, who were determined that their offspring—the Nisei (second-generation Americans) and the Sansel (third-generation Americans)—would not know the same hardships.

That they succeeded can be seen merely by observing the approximately 130 Japanese American families in the Phoenix area today.

They include doctors, dentists, insurance agents, accountants, real estate salesmen, grocers, farmers, florists, and dozens of small businessmen.

They and their children are model citizens and neighbors, participating fully in the life of the community.

Life Nowadays

No longer are they prohibited from owning land, or otherwise treated like outcasts.

And they have placed uncommon emphasis on acquiring education.

Typical of these outstanding citizens is Tom Kadomoto, a Nisei from Glendale, who is past president of the Japanese American Citizens League (which claims some 215 statewide members) and is a 20-year member of the JACL.

Kadomoto remembers the relocation vividly and is aware how deeply it affected the loyal Japanese Americans.

But neither he nor his fellow Japanese Americans has time for bitterness... as during the war most of them had no time for other than the principle of shikatanai—"realistic resignation."

Kadomoto, a civic leader and successful insurance executive, was one of some 33,000 Nisei who volunteered to serve in the armed forces for an America which denied their parents citizenship.

He was in military intelligence on MacArthur's staff in the Pacific.

Other Nisei—those of the famed 442nd Infantry Combat team—served with the highest distinction in Italy, where they earned more than 1,000 Purple Hearts, 11 DSCs, 44 Silver Stars, 31 Bronze Stars, and three Legion of Merit ribbons.

They were one of the most decorated units in armed service history.

It was Kadomoto who invited the Anglo to the keiro-kai, to observe as the almost 100 Nisei and Sansel paid their respects.

It was an occasion that the observer, now the Valley's newest JACL member, will long remember.

Tie and Garter: 'Sir' Frank Sakamoto Eyes Right!

Chicago We have so far reached an all time high in the history of the JACL 1000 Club. We now have approximately 1,710 but we must have 2,000 members by the Interim Meeting which will be held Feb. 17, 1967. And by the National Convention in San Jose in 1968, our ultimate goal shall be 3,000.

In quoting our National Director, Mas Satow, about good leadership - "Poor leadership alibis itself by blaming people for apathy and indifference while good leadership continually asks itself why it cannot interest people and get them involved. Good leadership is always on the lookout for better and more appealing ways of doing things..." Well, we're going to try.

After crying in my "cha-zuke" I felt that there's no use feeling sorry for myself but somehow I must get people to read our column. So I finally got a girl with beautiful legs to cooperate—note picture. And if you think this looks good, you ought to see the collection above the "oheso".

Now naturally, we're going to have a matching of the legs at the San Jose Convention in '68 and whoever wins will automatically get a free 1000 Club membership. You could just imagine what damsel these legs belong to. So you 1000 Clubbers keep your eyes open, for the damsel may be the girl next door.

Incidentally, I notice by our 1000 Club listing that there are many Chapter Presidents who are not 1000 Club members. And I'm sure we do not want to slight them, so at this time, may I welcome all of you to join the 1000 Club. I also know that there are many Board of

Doctor gets items seized by customs

HONOLULU - Dr. Sammy Lee of Santa Ana, Calif., who complained of discrimination at the Honolulu Airport customs office now reports having received items temporarily withheld from him after paying a $22 storage fee.

Lee thanked the Star-Bulletin and Sen. Hiram Fong for interest and response to his complaint.

"The customs office had neglected to state the dresses and his wife's hair piece were part of her personal tax-exempt allowance and made it imperative they apply for an import license to secure their personal belongings," Lee said.

The resolution noted that based on 1966 memberships, the assigned quotas for various districts as determined at the San Diego national convention for the coming biennium would indicate the following per capita amounts:

MDC-$9.47; CCDC-$8.68; MPDC-$8; IDC-$7.75; PNW-DC-$7.33; PSWDC-$7.24; EDC-$7.08 and NC-WNDC-$4.69.

(Other resolutions were also adopted and will be reported in a subsequent issue.)

Alan Kumamoto, national youth director, led a youth workshop with Russ Obana, national Jr. JACL chairman, and Dr. Tom Taketa, youth commissioner.

Silver Pins

Silver pins for dedicated and loyal service to the chapter for at least 10 years were conferred upon Frank Sakohira and Yoshio Honda of Fowler, Doug Yamada of Tulare County, and Robert Mochizuki of Clovis.

Fowler was the 1966 CCDC chapter of the year. Tiyo Yamaguchi, chapter president, accepted the plaque and trophy.

Clovis was presented an Outstanding Membership Performance certificate for the fourth year in a row for its increase in membership.

Except for the 1000 Club Chairman, who lives in Chicago, all nationally elected JACL officers were present at this convention. Jeffrey Matsui, national associate director; Joe Grant Masaoka of the History Project, and Mas Satow, national director, were also present.

Golf Tourney

Irving Morishita fired a gross 82 to win the 1966 CCDC JACL golf tournament while Henry Sasaki with a net 63 was presented the perpetual trophy. Mas Takemoto won the first flight with a 84-15-69; Maya Kaku, the second flight, with 90-22-68.

Ye Editor's Desk

(Following is Part II of Rev. Bill Shinto's column from the Crossroads on "JAACL Be J.A.," which rebuts the editor's note over his column appearing in the Nov. 25 PC. Now that we agree fundamentally on the need for an organization to promote the welfare of persons of Japanese in America, Bill, let's keep on striving—Harry Honda.)

BY REV. WILLIAM SHINTO

I have read commentaries on the Biblical text, but isn't that introductory note on a non-erudite article slightly ridiculous? Come, come, Harry, thou dost protest too much. Now, Harry isn't the first one to take issue with my misuse of the non-king's English, but language of which he is better able to handle is sort of like saying I could write better than I write. Let it be known henceforth and forever more, friends, I ain't able to write any gooder than I do.

And Harry's need to explain what my article really means is a comment on what leaders of the JAACL think about the readers of the PC. Are they so nonky-headed that they can't read an article and decide for themselves what it means? Good pen pals in spite of what "Ye Editors' Desk" expounds, I write what I really think and I trust, as does Crossroads, that good ole Taro Q. Public can reach his own conclusions. JAACL journalists are so omniscient they not only know what's good for the Nisei but also emphatically know what I think. I'll clue you, buddy, sometimes I have a hard time knowing what I know, yet.

Subtle hints, twisted meanings, and perhaps lightheartedly? Good grief, as Lucy would say, why don't you Japanese Linus's give up your comforting blankets?

Basic Matters

Now to more basic matters. Mr. Honda states in his editorial "JAACL has a direct pipeline into Congress, the White House, the state legislatures and capitols." Astonishing. Now what do you think about that? A direct pipeline, huh? Who? I always thought Robert "Mac" Namura was Scot or something, not Nisei. Or, I know, it is that great piece of executive power which the JAACL piped into being—"How - to - give - up - your American - rights - peacefully - and - march - in - orderly - manner - to - the - only - and - first - (which I incidentally hope is the last, but JAACL feels we should stay organized in case another emergency-type situation would arise) Concentration - Camps - in - U.S. - History."

As to evacuation then Mr. Honda defends the glorious work of the JAACL in helping to facilitate the movement of "our people" into the beautiful inland rural life of pastoral America, the trip you've always hoped for and never dreamed of taking on government expense.

What could we do? Harry asks. Would you have preferred hollering from a federal penitentiary? Well, why didn't you try me, huh, I might have.

One day during those grim war days my older brother, another meek Shinto type, was filling up his bicycle tire at a gas station when one of those defenders of the American flag families made a comment about the dirty little Jap. Immediately whereupon Jack spit on them. Whassa-matter, Harry, JAACL have no spit? Or no guts?

Need Agreed Upon

Lastly, Mr. Ye Editors Desk if you would return to my article and read it—without notes—you would discover that I agree with you. I agree that we need a Japanese American organization since we "cannot escape being judged as a group". I heartily agree that we need to have an organization which promotes the Japanese image and all that jazz. I've always been puzzled how little of the English language written in American gets through to Nisei editors and such type guys. So, friends, just read and enjoy, enjoy. There is no conspiracy. Don't phone Mark Lane—we ain't got nothing to hide.

(From the Crossroads)

Dear Editor:
 Most of us expect a minister to be learned, articulate and charitable. We expect him to study his subject and then organize and present his ideas in a clear and reasoned manner. And, we expect him to be understanding of the foibles and weaknesses of man and his institutions.

The November 18th Crossroads article by Reverend William Shinto is confusing to say the least. This is exemplified by some of his own words: "... You didn't get the point all this ... So what am I saying ... not much huh ..."

JAACL with some 20,000 members is subject to public scrutiny and properly so. But such scrutiny should be based upon a knowledge of the background and history of the JAACL. Some of us have fought for years to improve the JAACL (from within). Progressive changes have been made in various fields such as civil rights, youth program, community activities and public relations. These changes have been agonizingly slow at times, but the last two decades show much progress.

To suggest, as Mr. Shinto has done, that JAACL limit itself to issues that concern only Japanese Americans and to "eat, drink and be merry and run Nisei Week" represents a backward step and I am not sure from his writings whether the reverend is simply uninformed, is putting us on, or simply being sarcastic. What would the good reverend answer if his congregation said to him, "Preacher, stick to religion only—do not meddle in political, socio-economic problems that do not concern you as a Japanese American."

Even so, I welcome Mr. Shinto's rambling essay. Perhaps he had in the back of his mind the following parable: A man asked a farmer how he was able to make a slow but otherwise valuable mule move. The farmer walloped the mule on the head and said, "First you must get the attention of the mule."

On the other hand, since I find it difficult to comprehend Mr. Shinto's writing let alone his mental processes, perhaps the best thing for all of us is to bear in mind an admonition from the reverend's own field: "Judge not, that Ye might not be judged."

Roy M. Nishikawa, O.D. National President JAACL 1956-1958

P.S. Why is JAACL the favorite target for all kinds of commentators on the Nisei scene? Simple. If you are hunting game, why go after rabbits when you can shoot at an elephant. But the JAACL Elephant has a pretty tough hide and the best way to make an impact on him is from within.

(From the Crossroads)

Dear Editor:
 You're dripping your alphabet soup on my carpet, Senior. Dr. Shinto's consideration to allow the editorial control to kill the piece JAACL BE J.A. for harshness's sake isn't the stuff that's soiling the carpet ... It's the inconsideration to kill the piece for Truth's Sake that's doing it.

BRAVO for Dr. Shinto for speaking his mind! JAACLers and even "salaried staff" members have shared in these same privileges ... and have done so with for more harshness ...

But for the sake of The Moral Side of Dr. Shinto's News ... The Alphabet Soup ain't spelling out "The Facts." Stir the soup well, Senior ... what's missing is still sticking somewhere's ... and at the bottom of the pot ... I tink.

PRESS COMMENTS: Political Activity

(One of the charter members of the Placer County JAACL, one of the founding chapters of National JAACL, Roy Yoshida is a contributing columnist to the San Francisco Hokubei Mainichi. His reports on chapter activities have been in the PC as long as we can remember.—Editor.)

BY ROY YOSHIDA

Newcastle, Calif.
 The touchy subject of JAACL's long standing non-political, non-partisan policy just recently flared up again. This time in the domain of Pacific Southwest District Council.

Dr. John Kashiwabara of Long Beach (former Placer-an), taking a dim view of certain PSWDC member chapters assisting in mailing out campaign fund raising circulars, lambasted the fund raising committee for conning the a questionable political activity. He charged that this was a "flagrant misuse of the JAACL by some as a forum of political expediency" and was besmirching "the JAACL image as being non-political, non-partisan and non-sectarian."

Dr. David Miura, also of Long Beach, in behalf of the committee instrumental in the mailing of the circulars responded there was nothing political involved as far as the chapters were concerned. He retorted "the chapters were simply asked to help in the mailing of appeal letters for Sparky and Patsy."

(The committee was raising funds for Congressman Sparky Matsunaga and Congresswoman Patsy Mink—both of Hawaii.)

Dr. Miura countered that it was extremely important to have Japanese Americans in Congress and their presence in Washington does directly affect the welfare and civil

Partisan Politics

Dear Editor:
 Bitterness and factionalism would have long ago spelled end to the JAACL had the organization become a plumb for political endorsements. In an arena where its members are in the large majority of one political party, the JAACL will have no place for members of the opposing minority party members. The National JAACL constitution need not be sacrificed for the political ambitions and interests of some of its members.

Instead, the JAACL should be a forum where all its members can meet and discuss their views in the light of Japanese Americanism.

The JAACL constitution in no way dampens individual involvements and participations into all aspects of political thoughts and actions.

Because interested individuals cannot loft the JAACL banner for their own cause, there appears to be disenchantment and even bitterness. Their primary disappointment is then in their not being able to use the JAACL name for their own cause, or the cause they think is identified with JAACL. (I do not refer to the recent fund raising campaign which at least began these comments. I refer to the innumerable instances of foreseeable partisan political activities.)

rights of persons of Japanese ancestry. Therefore, he insisted, "JAACLers should be involved" in their election campaign.

All this furor stems from Article II Section 2, of the JAACL national constitution which reads: "This organization shall be non-partisan and non-sectarian and shall not be used for purposes of endorsing candidates for public offices, nor shall it engage in any other political activity whatsoever, except when the welfare and or civil rights of persons of Japanese ancestry shall be directly affected."

It seems clear enough, but there's a joker at the end, to wit: "EXCEPT when the welfare and or civil rights of persons of Japanese ancestry shall be DIRECTLY affected."

This seemingly makes JAACL's political stand a matter of interpretation. Or, how wild is the joker?

I am here not interested in passing judgment as to who is right or wrong. I'm willing to concede that both Dr. John and Dr. David are good JAACLers and neither would do anything that would dishonor JAACL.

My concern then is the validity of JAACL's non-involvement policy in today's fast shifting political scene.

Which brings up the questions: Why must JAACL continue to lean over backwards to present a non-political image? How much longer must JAACL hold this awkward stance?

Straightening Up

I believe it's time JAACL political posture did a little straightening up. It is the sign of times that an organization needs to show political militancy when such course of action is called for.

Furthermore, the need for National JAACL to be non-political and the need for the grassroots chapters to be non-political may not always be the same. It may be cut from the same cloth but the pattern may very well be different. To continue in the present manner is like taking headache pills for sore feet.

Certainly then a reassessment of JAACL's strict non-involvement decree is in order.

Don't misunderstand, I am not advocating a full 180 degree turn on this matter. But I do believe local chapters should be given some degree of freedom concerning political participation in their respective area of influence.

A little autonomy may be just what some chapters need to boost their interest in political affairs of their community.

At chapter level there are numerous opportunities for political participation that will not unshame JAACL from its time-honored non-involvement policy. Such participation is part and parcel of good citizenship—which after all is the business of JAACL.

Present practice of sidestepping all things political in the name of non-involvement is totally unrealistic and impractical.—Hokubei Mainichi
