On the cover is Beaumont Memorial Tower, constructed in 1928, a gift of John W. Beaumont, class of 1882. Restoration of the tower, carillon, and clock was completed in 1996, reviving the bells which had been silent since 1987. Beaumont Tower once again is a functioning symbol of the beauty and strength of Michigan State University.

DIPLOMAS WILL BE MAILED TO DEGREE RECIPIENTS
APPROXIMATELY ONE MONTH AFTER THE END OF THE SEMESTER

MSU is an affirmative-action, equal-opportunity institution.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

For nearly 150 years, Michigan State University has been advancing knowledge and transforming lives. MSU, one of the nation's leading land-grant universities, was founded in 1855 as the first agricultural college with only six faculty members and three buildings to provide youths with an education in farming. Today, MSU continues to strive for excellence in providing a diverse student body with a broad and rich combination of liberal and practical education.

The East Lansing campus looks quite different than it did in 1855. More than 5,200 acres of land encompass more than 400 buildings, and more than 4,000 faculty and staff are engaged in teaching, research and public service. More than 40,000 students—85 percent from Michigan—attend the University's main campus.

Our student body represents every county in the state, every state in the nation, and more than 100 nations from around the globe. Minority students comprise more than 15 percent of the campus population, and our campus includes the largest number of African American students among all Big Ten schools.

Michigan State University's commitment to diversity and multiculturalism in its student body, faculty, staff, curriculum and outreach programs is exemplified through world-wide services in numerous research, extension, and international programs. MSU's Study Abroad program, which offers 180 programs in 57 countries, is the third largest of any single-campus university in the nation.

More than a century after its agricultural beginnings, MSU has a Graduate School and 14 colleges: Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, the Broad College of Business, Communication Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Natural Science, Nursing, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science and Veterinary Medicine.

Today, three colleges represent the central academic disciplines which most universities refer to as the liberal arts and sciences: Arts and Letters, Natural Science, and Social Science. These colleges offer outstanding undergraduate and graduate degree programs with majors in traditional disciplines while also providing special programs that enable students to obtain a broad, multidisciplinary education. The College of Education collaborates with the colleges to help prepare students to become teachers in the secondary schools of Michigan as well the nation.

Our residence hall system is designed to complement and enhance the learning experiences of our students.

The Honors College, which attracts fine young scholars nationwide, enables students to waive standard graduation requirements and undertake enriched academic programs. MSU has produced 16 Rhodes Scholars, six Marshall Scholarship winners, 14 Churchill Scholarship recipients, one Mitchell Scholar, and one recipient of the Gates Cambridge Scholarship. These scholarships are among the most distinguished and prestigious academic awards a student can receive.

Multimillion dollar, sponsor-funded programs support a wide array of outstanding research activities at MSU. Major facilities include the Plant Research Laboratory, operated with the U.S. Department of Energy as a national plant biology center; and the MSU/W.K. Kellogg Biological Station, home to one of the National Science Foundation's long-term ecological sites. In collaboration with both the National Science Foundation and the U.S. Department of Energy, the National Superconducting Cyclotron Laboratory at MSU is able to study the nuclei of the heaviest elements.

The public significantly benefits from the University through University Outreach, MSU Extension Service, and the Agricultural Experiment Station which provides technical information and course work for many Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center, one of the finest hotel and conference centers nationwide, annually hosts some 500,000 adults who come to the campus for approximately 1,400 conferences and other educational meetings.

Service to the international community is equally important. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, MSU sustains educational and research assistance projects internationally. These projects have given many faculty members overseas experience and have added new dimensions to their teaching.

Michigan State University is a member of the Association of American Universities, National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, American Council on Education, American Council of Learned Societies, International Association of Universities, Association of Graduate Schools, Council of Graduate Schools, and the Committee on Institutional Cooperation.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, introduced an academic costume code which by design of gowns and hoods would indicate the various degrees, and which by colors would identify the various faculties.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctoral gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round, and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of the bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree (e.g., green and white for MSU; burnt orange and white for the University of Texas; blue and gold for UCLA). If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department of faculty to which the degree pertains.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science. Generally, the code for the velvet of the hood is the same as listed below for tassels.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

HONORARY DEGREE

Lewis W. Coleman

Known as someone who brought new ideas and energy to the world of domestic and international finance, you are now leading a major foundation dedicated to projects that will improve the quality of life for future generations.

Following a 37-year career in the banking industry, your commitment to environment, science and education led you to become the founding president of the Gordon and Betty Moore Foundation. The multi-billion dollar Moore Foundation is committed to seeking and developing outcome-based projects that will have lasting impact.

With your leadership, the foundation organized its grant making around large-scale initiatives including biodiversity and environment, higher education, and science. The Foundation generally makes a few large grants with emphasis on collaboration and clearly identified results. Specifically, the Moore Foundation's Higher Education Program is focused on funding university projects emphasizing science and technology to help develop the very best minds and to provide individuals with the skills to apply their knowledge and creativity to society's problems.

An accomplished outdoorsman, you are a board member of Conservation International, Trout Unlimited, and the California Academy of Sciences.

For your commitment to improving the environment, your service to your community, and your insightful and innovative leadership, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree, Doctor of Business, from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE

Keith Evans Crain

You are the chairman of one of the country's largest trade, consumer, and business publishing companies, the inquisitive publisher of international business magazines and newsweeklies known for their independence and excellence.

For nearly forty years, Crain Communications has been highly regarded as a company that publishes definitive and groundbreaking reports on the automotive and related industries including tires, plastics, rubber, urethanes, and even environmental waste. You have expanded the company's expertise in specialized reporting to cover the health care, wireless communications, workforce management, pensions, and television industries. Over the past thirty years, the company has grown from four titles to more than thirty with offices in nineteen cities worldwide and 1000 employees. The company was among the first to establish an employee profit-sharing plan, which has been in effect continuously since 1943. Crain was also among the first to establish life and medical insurance plans for workers.

You have steered the company through difficult economic times without sacrificing quality in the publications. You are known for the rare practice of maintaining and building quality rather than sacrificing products for short-term profits. You consider your reader the primary market for your products.

You are a hands-on publisher, writing two weekly columns that address issues and support causes that concern Detroit and the automotive industry. You are the editorial director for several other publications.

Since Crain headquarters moved to Michigan thirty years ago, you have taken a special interest in journalism education at Michigan State University, lecturing in labs and seminars, offering internships to students, and recruiting and hiring them for your publications. With the high ethical and editorial standards of Crain Communications, students and graduates expand their skills in covering stories without compromise.

You are also committed to active participation in your community, serving on the boards of United Way for Southeastern Michigan, Southeast Michigan Hospice, and American Business Media, among others.

For your commitment to the highest standards of journalism and your efforts in communicating them to students, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree, Doctor of Humanities, from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE

Bernard B. Kerik

You are known as a strong leader, skilled manager, and courageous public servant committed to protecting society. Often called a self-made man, you served in the U.S. Army and then worked in Saudi Arabia, where you honed your skills in international police work, investigation, and antiterrorism. As the youngest warden ever at the Passaic County Jail you developed the analytical, problem-solving, and management skills that would establish you as a successful leader.

But you had long wanted to join the New York Police Department, and you left corrections to patrol some of that city's most difficult neighborhoods. Promoted to detective, you became part of an undercover team that seized more cocaine and drug money over three years than any other team in NYPD history. Returning to corrections, you once more showed strong leadership and were subsequently appointed New York Commissioner of Corrections.

In August 2000 New York Mayor Rudy Giuliani named you the 40th Commissioner of the New York Police Department. You set an example that demanded discipline and accountability, and your efforts changed the department's culture and led to a dramatic drop in crime. Subsequently, New York was recognized as the safest large city in America, with law enforcement strategies that other cities emulated.

You were in your office when the first hijacked airplane hit the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001. Rushing to the site, you were there when the second plane hit and the towers fell. The attack was the greatest test of your experience and leadership, and you rose to the challenge, working with Mayor Giuliani to coordinate rescue efforts at Ground Zero and ensure the city's safety.

President George W. Bush later called on you to advise the Ministry of Interior in Iraq. The ministry is responsible for police, customs, borders, and immigration and you reorganized the services, helped create a civilian police academy system, and worked to control criminal gangs involved in kidnappings. Your leadership and experience has enabled you to again have a major impact.

For your courage and leadership, your commitment to principles of loyalty and duty, and your many achievements, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree, Doctor of Humanities, from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE

Milton E. Muelder

You are a historian with a remarkable record of scholarship, particularly in German history. You also helped shape history both on the world stage and at Michigan State University.

You began your long service to MSU as an instructor in history and political science who compensated for the department's lack of primary resources for European history by purchasing texts and making them available to your colleagues and students.

During World War II you served in the Navy and then helped make history through your work in setting up the allied sectors in post-war Germany. For your effort to prepare plans that organized the military government in the U.S. zone, you received the Legion of Merit award, established by President Franklin Roosevelt to honor members of the U.S. armed forces for exceptionally outstanding service.

MSU President John Hannah flew to Berlin to persuade you to return as a key member of the university administration, and during the next quarter century you provided crucial advice and support to three university presidents. One of your first accomplishments on your return was a formal relationship with the University of Ryukyus in Okinawa. You later oversaw programs in Vietnam, Colombia, and Brazil. You also promoted the creation of the Office of International Programs, the first office of its kind at a U.S. university.

Your service first as dean of the School of Science and Arts and then as vice president for Research Development and dean of the Graduate School advanced the university. You brought the first mainframe computer to campus, spearheaded the effort to build the National Superconducting Cyclotron Laboratory, and spurred development of the Kellogg Biological Station, the Institute for Water Research, and the School of Packaging. These efforts helped position MSU as a major research-intensive university. As executive director of the MSU Foundation, you were the architect of the plan for managing all patent and royalty income at the foundation for the benefit of the university.

Since retiring, you have continued to generously support the university's programs in music, art, history, horticulture, and sports, enhancing the lives of people throughout the region with your promotion of concerts, campus museums, lecture series, and water polo.

For your long and extraordinary commitment to MSU that has helped establish the university as an international and research powerhouse, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree, Doctor of Humanities, from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE

Frank Price

You are a leading figure in the American entertainment industry, with accomplishments that give you a significant place in the history of contemporary popular culture. As a writer, producer, and executive in both television and movies, you have contributed to both the entertainment and cultural education of millions of viewers.

Your accomplishments range from groundbreaking television shows like Rockford Files, with its combination of comedy and social commentary, to films like Gandhi and Boyz n the Hood, with their challenging representations of modern history and the African American urban experience. Such successes demonstrate vision and imagination combined with an understanding of the world. In communicating that vision to a large public, you have demonstrated that popular entertainment can provide venues for directing and acting talent, memorable stories that delight and inform, and explorations of new and significant themes.

As head of Universal Television, you helped create two new TV formats: the made-for-TV movie and the mini-series. As chairman and CEO of Columbia Pictures and chairman of the MCA Universal Motion Picture Group you had a consistent record of films that were box-office successes and won numerous Oscars. Many of your films have become classics in their genres: Out of Africa, Back to the Future, and Fletch, for example. Others have remained popular for successive generations: Groundhog Day and The Big Chill.

You are now an independent producer, chairman and CEO of your own company that has released a series of remarkable films, notably Shadowlands and The Tuskegee Airmen, which won numerous major awards.

From your days as a student at Michigan State University and on through your illustrious career, you have continued to support your alma mater. You also promote education as a member of the Boards of Trustees of the University of Southern California and Pomona College and as chairman of the Board of Councilors at the USC School of Cinema-Television. You are also a trustee of the Sundance Film Institute and the American Film Institute.

For giving the world movies of taste and distinction that reach both elite and populist audiences with stories about human courage, resiliency, and the importance of human relationships, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree, Doctor of Humanities, from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE

Deborah Ann Stabenow

During your long career in public service, you have often been a trailblazer: the first woman and youngest person to chair the Ingham County Board of Commissioners after being elected to the board in 1974. You then served in the Michigan House for twelve years from 1979 through 1990. After four years in the State Senate and four years in the U.S. House of Representatives you were the first woman from the State of Michigan elected to the United States Senate, where you have served since 2000. You have been called a Washington "powerhouse" and "a prominent national voice."

You are known as an effective legislator earning a reputation for working with colleagues on both sides of the aisle to get things done. As a state lawmaker you authored more than 50 public acts, including Michigan's landmark domestic violence law and Michigan's child car safety law, one of the first in the nation. Such early legislation helped build your reputation as an advocate for children and families. You have brought critical issues, such as the cost of prescription drugs, to the forefront of Congress. You are a leader in promoting small business development, public school reforms, and preservation of Michigan's natural resources.

Your interest in such social issues goes back at least to your time at Michigan State University, where you earned a bachelor's degree with high honors in what is now the Interdisciplinary Studies in Social Science Program and then a Master of Social Work degree. The characteristics that made you successful as a student—an inquiring mind, enthusiasm for building knowledge and understanding from various disciplines and professions, unwillingness to accept easy answers—carried into your career. You are a legislator who incorporates a broad, multidisciplinary perspective as you address the challenges and problems that face children, youth, adults, and senior citizens.

You are committed to improving education for Michigan State University students by consulting with faculty on developments and enhancements in Interdisciplinary Studies. You have also provided opportunities for MSU students to work in your legislative offices, giving them valuable out-of-classroom learning experiences.

For your commitment to public service and your support of education, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree, Doctor of Laws, from Michigan State University.

Concluding Remarks Peter McPherson, President, Michigan State University

Alma Mater M.S.U., We love thy shadows
When twilight silence falls,
Flushing deep and softly paling
O'er ivy-covered halls.
Beneath the pines we'll gather
To give our faith so true,
Sing our love for Alma Mater
And thy praises, M.S.U.
(The Band, Mr. Crane, and Audience)
