he dog days of summer are here, and what better way to beat the heat than by packing the kids and beach toys into the car and heading to the river.

Why not let the children spend the day, the weekend or a week with the grandparents? Get some tips from Audrey Thomasson's story on how to make a summer vacation at grandma's and grandpa's house at the river an all-out adventure. Go crabbing or fishing, have a pirate adventure or a girls' spa day.

Maybe you can even try the newest way to see the local waterways, stand up paddling. The paddle-boarding craze has come to the Northern Neck and Middle Peninsula and reporter Tom Chillemi tells you where to get the gear and learn the sport.

For those seeking respite from the heat in the air-conditioning, go shopping in White Stone, a little town of less than 400 residents in lower Lancaster County. Known as the "Southern Gateway to the Northern Neck," the town has some 60 businesses including antique stores, consignment shops and gift stores.

However, you choose to beat the heat in August, be sure to take The Rivah Visitor's Guide along. Use its directories to find places to go and its extensive month-long calendar to find things to do. And remember to support the advertisers that make this publication The Livan Craw We'd love to hear from you. Write us at Rivah@rrecord.com.

Spawned in Hawaii, stand up paddling (SUP) combines a large, wide surfboard and a long paddle to glide on the water.

He's the same surgeon that dentists and physicians send friends, family and patients to! Dr. Kanyon R. Keeney is a board certified Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeon who has placed thousands of dental implants. He is known locally, regionally and nationally for excellence in dental implant surgery and is a Diplomate of the International Congress of Oral Implantology.

Dental implants support teeth that can look and feel like your own. They can replace one or more teeth without affecting neighboring teeth, unlike a bridge. They also can be used to provide support for a denture, making it feel more secure and comfortable. Long-term data shows that dental implants are the most successful treatment for the replacement of missing teeth.

If you are missing one or more teeth and would like to smile, speak and eat again with comfort and confidence, then please call our office for a complimentary dental implant consultation and panorex x-ray (a $205 value).

Ort Nonsense" is the name of a home on a bluff in Urbanna overlooking the mouth of Urbanna Creek and the Rappahannock River. A story of how it got its name is often told with tongue in cheek. It usually goes something like this . . .

During some war, the British were going to attack Urbanna and the people of the town all got together and made a fake cannon out of logs and brought everyone in town to the top of the hill to give the impression there was an army and artillery awaiting the enemy. The plan worked and the British sailed away. From then on, the bluff overlooking the creek was called Fort Nonsense. Usually, the story brings laughter as there's a touch of humor in the fact regular citizens were able to outfox the British Navy—but it didn't happen quite that way.

In December of 1814, news spread like wildfire throughout Middlesex and Urbanna that "the British were coming" to burn the town. On November 30, a British flotilla comprised of eight square-rigged schooners and 13 supply ships and troop transports were observed sailing up the Rappahannock River. The Middlesex County militia under the command of Col. Edmund Beverley and a staff of several other officers were in Urbanna when the word came that the flotilla was in the river sailing toward Essex County.

A dispatcher was immediately sent to Tappahannock to warn the community that the British were on the move. Lieutenant Colonel Archibald Ritchie, commander of the Essex militia, was shaken by the news and sent for support from the King and Queen and Caroline militias. Before military support arrived at Tappahannock, however, the British were moored off of the town. The Essex militia, outnumbered and out-gunned, wisely evacuated the town.

The British entered Tappahannock and had their way with the community. "I found all the houses pillaged of everything, except some few pieces of furniture," wrote Ritchie after the British had left. "Some furniture they carried off, others of the most valuable kind, broken to pieces . . . the glass in the windows of many houses entirely broken—a poor free negro they robbed of nearly his all."

Three days later the British set sail and left Tappahannock. By then the militias from all the area counties had assembled and were following the ships along the shore as they made their way back toward the mouth of the Rappahannock.

At nightfall, the British moored off of Jones's Point at the lower end of Essex when, by moonlight, two sailors deserted the British ship and rowed to shore in a "long boat." When they reached the beach, the militia was waiting. The British sailors were dragged from the skiff and interrogated. The news was not good as the sailors revealed that the British fleet planned to enter Urbanna Creek, pillage the town and burn it to the ground. Brigadier General John Cocke was informed and ordered all militia to Urbanna. "I am in hopes before tomorrow morning to be able to concentrate at that point 900 to 1,000 men . . . with our artillery," he wrote.

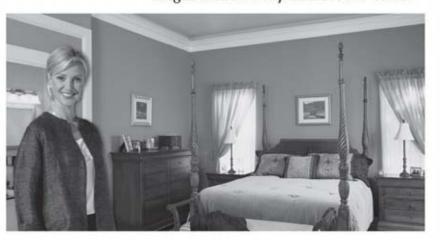

While most headed toward Urbanna, several Middlesex and Essex militiamen waited in ambush along the river in case the British came ashore again. Early that morning, 15 British sailors came ashore looking for the deserters. During a fight, most of the British were killed and wounded. After the skirmish the British boarded their ships and sailed toward Urbanna. When they arrived off the mouth of the creek, the townspeople were there along with many militiamen, standing atop the hill in clear view of the British Navy.

Perhaps there was a fake cannon atop the hill to provide a little nonsense, but for certain the strong militia force made it clear there was no nonsense—Urbanna would not be burned without a fight! Using good judgment, the British kept on going and in less than a month the War of 1812 was over.

again. The emerging sport of stand up paddle boarding has come to River Country.

Stand up paddling (SUP) combines the planing and ride of a surfboard with the glide and paddle style of canoeing. The board glides easily, pushed by a long paddle and the leverage of using the whole body. By standing, the paddler has a good view into the water and surroundings. The long, wide boards only draw about 8 inches of water, allowing nearly silent access to shallow water.

Jack Banks of Wake and his son, Hunter, built a paddle board of western red cedar and white cedar, two lightweight woods. The board can be paddled on one side and it will track fairly straight because the •f you think you've seen every board has sharp rails that keep it on type of water craft, look track. "If you have wind behind, you don't have to do much," said Jack.

The long paddle adds the leverage of the whole body and is used to help steer the board in conjunction with body position or "foot steering,"

Spawned in Hawaii

Stand up paddling originated in Hawaii in the 1940s and 50s, said Macky Hall, who operates Chesapeake Boardsports in Mathews County. Hall has a web studio for his day job, and his partner, Steve Casper, is a teacher. They share a passion for SUP.

Back then, native "beach boys" used their stand up long boards to deliver boards to tourists, Hall said. They started surfing with those same boards and soon realized they could see incoming waves better, and the long paddle could be used to steady the wave rider.

SUP disappeared for a while but resurfaced in 2004 in Hawaii. A group of surfers pushing the limits of big wave surfing were looking for alternative ways to catch the huge waves, said Hall. Jet skis had been used to pull surfers into waves that were too large to catch by paddling with just arms in a traditional manner. By using their whole body to stroke a long paddle, the boards moved fast enough to catch those big waves.

When video reached California, the sport took off.

On the Rappahannock River, the stand up paddle board allows explorers to slip into a marine environment with minimal intrusion. Hunter Banks has seen skates swimming under his board.

"It's good for eco-touring and a nice way to observe the natural environment," said Jack Banks.

And, if a wave comes along, the paddle board doubles as a conventional surfboard. See page 19.

Stand up paddling evolved from conventional paddling as in a kayak or canoe. "The reason the Hawaiians first did it was because it is easier," said Hall.

Some people who have not tried SUP worry that they won't have the balance or fitness to stand up and paddle, said Hall, who teaches SUP. "Paddleboards are wide, meaning they're easy to stand on," he explained. "Because you're standing, your body is in a more natural and relaxed position and you are comfortable doing it."

Typically, a paddleboard will have a soft rubber pad that makes it more comfortable. "It also provides a solid foot grip to make it easier to stand in both mellow and rough conditions." On her first try, a local woman was able to SUP for 30 minutes without falling.

Once people get the feeling of stand up paddling, it's hard to go back, said Hall. "We've met kayakers who've come out to try stand up paddling," he said. "After one lesson, they bought a board and haven't kayaked again."

Standing gives paddlers a new and better perspective. "You can see so much more on a paddle board. On a typical paddle, I may see rays, dolphin and any number of fish that I never even knew were there when I was in a kayak," said Hall.

Hall said the Middle Peninsula and Northern Neck areas are two of the world's best places to paddle. "You can surf, ride big-water swells, fish, or cruise backwater," he said "And, the aquatic landscape is limitless. Plus, with the number of local and regional public boat launches and water access sites, you have easy access to all kinds of great spots."

'Moments of discovery'

Por more than two years, Steve Casper and Macky Hall have operated Chesapeake Boardsports in Mathews, which offers lessons, tours, fly-fishing and gear needed to stand up paddle (SUP).

In that time they've had some great experiences on the water.

Last summer during a hurricane swell, they mapped some shoals off southern Mathews.

On the first day of the swell, they paddled out from New Point Comfort. "At an outer marker, right where we'd hoped, waves were rolling in," said Hall. "We surfed the rest of the afternoon and for four days after."

Hall believes that he and Casper were the first to catch these waves. "Paddleboards would have been the only way to reach that spot and the swells," he said.

"What makes stand up paddleboarding so special are those moments of discovery. It's like surfing was in the 60s.

You find the spots, and figure out how to use them," said Hall.

Another time, the two men were paddling in a local creek mouth and noticed rockfish feeding along the shoreline. "We went back and grabbed our fly rods, and fished past dark," said Hall. "It was a total watershed moment." And it also was the birth of stand up paddle flyfishing for them.

Of course there are SUP races. This spring Hall and Casper competed in the inaugural SUP race during Dominion RiverRock, one of the country's biggest outdoor festivals, which is held in Richmond.

They raced three miles in the canal with a pretty elite crew. "Hundreds of people lined the canal to cheer us on," said Hall, who won his class. "They were collectively blown away . . . and so were we."

To try stand up paddle boarding in Rivah Country, contact Hall at (804) 384-3534, or visit www.chesapeakeboardsports.com.

Doug Nabhan's Coming Here

Boating etiquette and skimpy bathing suits

Lyou need to know to be a guest on someone's boat? First, you should thank God that you are a guest and not the actual owner of the boat because as an owner you must be prepared for hours of work and have "boatloads" of money (where do you think that term came from), just so you can have tiny moments of great pleasure. Here are some tips to help you get through an invitation to go on someone's boat, which is the best way to go boating.

Safety. First and foremost is safety. Adults are not required to wear life jackets, but if you see the Captain jumping overboard with one on then I suggest that you follow him. If you hear the Captain talking about "May Day" and it is July, then you will also want to be concerned about your safety. Finally, if you see the Captain shooting off flares and it is not the Fourth of July, then you should be thinking about an exit strategy. Don't be too concerned, however, because most boaters have absolutely no training to operate a boat.

Apparel. What should you bring? First, if you bring a hat, there is 90% chance it will fly off and you will lose it (especially if you are on my boat.) I tell my guests that if it flies off, I will not turn the boat around to fetch it. Next, if you are a young woman, definitely wear a very skimpy bathing suit. This helps the Captain for some reason. Boats are white and shoes are black. For some reason black shoes make black marks on boats that are almost impossible to get off easily. Never wear black shoes and never bring a banana on a fishing trip. Bananas are bad luck when fishing. One Bay Captain has said that I am bad luck on a fishing trip even if I do not have a banana. Sunscreen is necessary and, unless you are a woman in a skimpy bathing suit, you should apply your own sunscreen.

Boat's Mate. Remember, there are a lot of times when boating is a very serious matter. Those would be casting off and docking. Two rules are important: Try not to laugh too hard and even if it is not true, compliment the Captain on his docking skills—unless he sinks the boat docking, at which time such a compliment would not be appropriate. Feel free to lend a hand with the ropes, if you think you can be of assistance without getting in the way.

Bathrooms. No big deal for men; big deal for women. Even if the boat has a "head," the look you will get from the Captain is not worth using it. My wife attended the "Dorothy Peesalot" school of bladder control and can now go for hours without using the bathroom. For the guys, the best idea is to find the boat's "bucket" and use that and then "flush" it by rinsing it out. Do not try to "flush" the bucket while the boat is moving and the wind is blowing. Please wait for the boat to come to a complete stop. That goes for "bucket-less" bow riders, too.

Gas. Should you offer to pay for gas? If you are on the Queen Mary the answer is "no." If you are on a friend's boat, you should offer after all he has done and, if the Captain refuses, then you should buy him a bottle of his favorite fermented beverage.

Finally, the rule that is violated on my boat the most is "stay out of the Captain's way." The Captain is responsible for the safety of everyone and not for locating your lipstick while docking. Being invited to go boating is a luxury invitation—take advantage of the invitation but not the Captain—unless you are in a skimpy bathing suit

This painting illustrating the raiding and burning of a Gloucester County home during the Civil War is on display at the Gloucester Museum of History. According to family lore, the home of Alexander Eastwood, which was near Purtan in the Signpine area, was raided, pillaged, and burned to the ground by the Yankees while the family fled down the hill and hid in the marsh. The artist, Betty Martin, is the great-granddaughter of Alexander Eastwood and she now lives in the house that was rebuilt on the old foundation.

Gloucester Courthouse has information, artifacts and pictures relating to the Indian Pocahontas, Captain John Smith and the Powhatan Indians. On display is a rock traditionally known as the one on which Capt. John Smith's head was placed when Pocahontas saved his life at Werawocomoco (Wicomico) in Gloucester County.

Chances are you have cherished childhood memories of things you did with your grandparents. For those who grew up and have become grandparents to a new generation, you may want to share those activities with your grandkids or perhaps create some new ones that will be remembered all their lives. Here are some summer-fun ideas to add to your...

o matter what they call you-Nana or Mimi, Papa or Grandpa—grandparenting really is grand....as in fun, awesome, fulfilling and loving!

As grandparents, you are no doubt always thrilled to see the arrival of those little ones. Who isn't ready to spoil them to the fullest by letting them stay up late, read favorite books, cook their favorite foods and listen attentively as they recount their dreams and experiences?

Whether you have one grandchild or a dozen, when the whole brood descends for their summer visit, here are ideas from some folks who truly revel in their grandchildren's presence and vice versa.

Their adventures may help you create memories with your g-kids that will last a lifetime. While some suggestions may need a little bit of advance planning, none require a lot of hoopla or moola to turn everyday events into exciting adventures that could become traditions they eventually share with their own children.

Camp Willowfield: Barbara and Bob Bragg

The first rule of Camp Willowfield for the Braggs' grandparenting adventure is: No Parents Allowed. Since 2008, the Braggs have turned their home into a camp retreat for the g-kids from sun-up to about 10 p.m. for up to 10 days.

"Papa (Bob) is involved in our camp the whole time," says Barbara. The couple like to wrap up the week by presenting each child with a commemorative cup, engraved with their initials, date and the "camp insignia"—a crab, "...so they can reminisce about our camp when they are adults. It's all about creating memories," she adds.

Adventure #1: Gone crabbing

The boys, 9 and 10, love to go chicken-neckin' off the pier. An old local tradition, they tie a long string around raw chicken necks, dangle them from the pier into the water and stand ready with fish nets to scoop up any crabs that come nibbling. They also put crab pots in the river and check them daily. At the end of the week, the Braggs hold a "grand crab finale." This year they steamed some 100 crabs to share with family and friends.

Adventure #2: Crafts that bedazzle or dress up the yard

Kids love crafts, and the Braggs' granddaughters love drawing designs on tank tops and T-shirts and applying studs and stones from inexpensive kits available at Walmart or craft shops. What mom wouldn't be proud to wear a jeweled neckline top created by her child?

Also available in the craft section are looms for weaving potholders—a great daily reminder of their visit to G-ma's.

Wooden birdhouses make a great afternoon painting project for both boys and girls. Hang them on the fence and add to the collection each year.

Stepping stones for your garden are easy to make and a lovely memory of their visit, says Barbara. Bob mixes up the cement, which can be poured into a form purchased from your hardware store, or use paper plates. Before the stones harden, set the g-kids footprints in them or decorate them with whatever is on hand—little stones, jewels left over from the kits, leaves, or let the g-kids draw a design with a stick.

Adventure #3: Cutting Garden/Flower stand

Here's a twist on the old favorite lemonade stand. Start a flower garden (obviously way before the g-kids visit). Teach them the importance of cleaning out the buckets with bleach before cutting flowers and placing them in the buckets of water with a little plant food, says G-ma Bragg. The g-kids then set up a flower stand on their road and sell to neighbors passing by.

Adventure #4: Tree swing

Even the old folks will enjoy an old fashioned swing crafted from a tire or board rigged to a rope and hanging from a big tree. If it swings out over the water, all the more exciting!

Adventure #5: Painting toenails

While the boys are out sailing, the Braggs' granddaughters, ages 6 and 8, are thrilled to visit a nail salon and get daisies painted on their toenails.

From the Braggs' dock, grandsons Boyd and Lewis pull up enough crabs each day to hold a feast at the end of the week.

Treasure Island: Ben and Peggy Estes

t's not just a boat ride, it's a trip to Treasure Island for the Estes clan during this year's themed event: "Pirates of the Chesapeake."

About a dozen grandkids, g-nieces and g-nephews, plus all the parents raid the place over a long July 4th weekend. Below deck (the basement) is rigged to bed dozens of little pirates (and parents).

Peggy goes overboard plundering the community library prior to the weekend to find age-appropriate books for the kids to enjoy together. This year she picked up Blackbeard, Dirty Joe and Stinky Annie, and The Gingerbread Pirate (a big hit with the four-year-old.) Not only do they get a kick out of the names, they like to draw pictures of the characters, she says.

Peggy also pre-ordered stick-on pirate tattoos, coins and "Doubloons" as hidden treasure which she found on the internet at Oriental Trading Company. She also recommends the dollar stores for hats and dress-up regalia.

"It doesn't have to be comprehensive to be meaningful," she says. "It's the image, dreaming and imagination that are important"

Ben dons his pirate hat and the "crew" of kids boards the family boat for a day's adventure to Treasure Island (it's not an actual island but a sandy spit). But the kids don't care. They attack the shore with their buckets and shovels for a day of fun.

At the end of the visit, everyone gathers to put together a book of memories and start plans for next year's grandparenting adventure.

"It's all about creating memories."

-Barbara Bragg

Adventure #6: Name the streets

Everyone gets to pick the street they want to venture down. Will it be Devil's Bottom Road? Merry Point? Good Luck? Crab Point? or White Stone beach? It's an opportunity for them to learn their way around.

Adventure #7: Community Library/State Park

You'd be amazed at the number of planned activities for children at the library or state park. Summer reading, movies, craft programs, tales of Native Americans and silly adventures, puppet shows, magic shows and ice cream parties.

Adventure #8: Collectibles

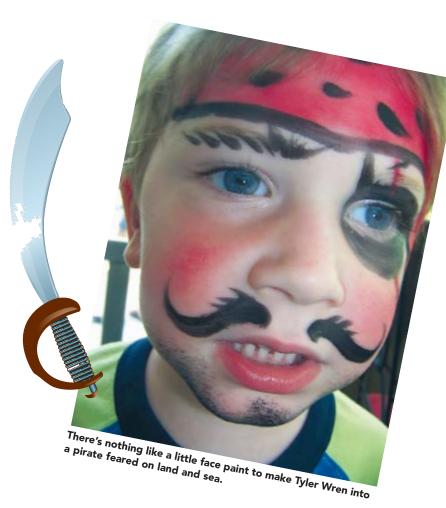

Grandchildren love to see collections. And collectors love showing off their collections. Check around the neighborhood or community—private collections abound. Little girls who love dolls will be delighted to meet a collector who might even offer to hold a doll tea party. There are also a number of artifact collectors, amateur and professional boat builders, and antique car collectors that would fascinate kids. The list is endless.

Adventure #9: Etiquette lessons/art classes

Appalled at your g-kids' lack of table manners? A four-course fun, fun, fun lesson in table manners will be presented for youngsters 7-11 on August 3, and 12-15-year-olds on August 16. Information and reservations can be obtained for this White Stone Women's Club event at 435-3046. Art leagues offer a number of art classes for kids.

Adventure #10: Local culture

Let the g-kids experience local culture by shucking corn, picking fruit, picking crabs. There are a number of opportunities in the area.

The Blandsford Sousa march is a favorite of the entire clan.

Quantity Inn: Cameron and Mickey Blandford

three times a summer their gang of children and grandchildren gather at the Blandfords'. There are nine grandkids along with nieces and nephews, ages 3 to 16.

Each evening they offer a surprise theme night—planned and executed by one of the Blandfords' children and their family. So far this year, the themes have included "Hawaiian Night," "Mexican Night" and "Survivor."

The family in charge supplies everything—enough costumes for everyone, plus food and entertainment.

Adventure #11: Everyone loves a parade

The closing day of the July 4th weekend begins when Cameron wakes up the household by blasting a John Philip Sousa march. Everyone falls out of bed, descends the staircase where Mickey hands each an American flag, each grabs a band instrument and lines up for the march...around the house, down through the basement, out the door, across the property, through the forest...well, it goes on for some time to everyone's delight. And it ends at a point of land surrounded by water where they enjoy an outdoor breakfast.

Adventure #12: Grandkidnapping

The Blandfords take a g-child out of school for a day (when the teacher thinks the child has been so good they deserve a day off). The g-kid doesn't know about it until they show up at school to go on a fun-filled day to the zoo, movie or something special just for that child.

Adventure #13: Evening bonfire

Adventure #14: Adventure walk

Pack snacks and water and go for a long walk through the woods. Or try out the area nature trails or parks.

Adventure #15: Mini-triathlon

Swim, bike, run for the gold! Substitute a sack race, if you dare. A favorite of all ages. (Don't forget the life jackets for adventures around the water).

It's hot ... go fishing!

Water temperatures are once again extremely hot and for the second year in a row migration patterns have been affected.

Last month began slowly with the number and variety of fish increasing each week.

Diversity of species is the Northern Neck's drawing card during the month of August. Throughout the bay and rivers a number of fish are available this month, including: Spanish mackerel, bluefish, cobia, spadefish, flounder, whiting, speckled trout, grey trout, spot, croaker and more.

Trolling action will continue to land bluefish in good numbers this month. Spanish mackerel fishing will also peak as they join the blues in mauling schools of shiners, bay anchovies and peanut bunker. These two species are often found schooling together in close proximity to shore. This offers an opportunity for small boat anglers to get into the action. Windmill Point, Smith Point and Coles Point are all near shore areas that hold these fish.

Powerboats catch both mackerel and blues by trolling at the mouth of the Great Wicomico River. Some folks are catching blues and mackerel while casting from kayaks.

For best trolling results, I recommend using a small #0 Drone or Clark spoon either in chrome, gold or a variety of colors including hot pink and chartreuse. Use a 15-foot long 20# leader behind either a #1 or #2 planer or light in-line sinkers to keep the baits down below the surface. You will be fishing in the 12-18 foot water table with those two planers.

If larger bluefish are encountered, I suggest increasing the spoon size or going to the old time favorite, surgical tube eel.

Bottom fishing will gather the greatest variety of fish with a simple bottom rig donning two hooks. Squid strips, shrimp and bloodworms are all good choices for bait. For those anglers that prefer jigging and casting lures, the Berkley Gulp baits are producing results on a variety of species. The swimming mullets and the jerk baits are most popular. Bloodworm offerings are yielding good numbers of spot on in-shore oyster beds. Grass beds in skinny water are the home for speckled trout, puppy drum and larger croaker. Locations holding the best populations of these fish are Mobjack Bay, both the North and East rivers, the Piankatank River, the mouth of the Rappahannock River near Gwynn's Island, Dividing Creek and Ingram Bay. Both the morning and evening hours are fish friendly when fishing in shallow water.

Flounder action has improved with The Cell, Tangier Sound, and the mouth of the rivers and creeks along the western shorelines holding nice samples of tasty flatfish. The best baits are live offerings such as tiny spot but a 4-6 inch long strip of bluefish or croaker will also draw attention.

Chumming is popular for gathering catches of bluefish, cobia and spadefish. For blues and cobia, the standard grind of menhaden chum will suffice, yet the spadefish prefer a clam chum. Blues can be found on any of the numerous artificial reefs including Windmill Point, Asphalt Pile and Northern Neck Reef. The S.W. Middle Grounds off of Smith Island holds good numbers as well. Spadefish frequent structures such as lighthouses, wrecks and reefs. Cobia are more free swimmers and can be drawn to the boat with chum and take live offerings such as spot and eels.

If you live in the Northern Neck and Middle Peninsula don't be complacent. Get out and enjoy these local waters as much as possible. One way to beat the heat of summer is to spend time on the water. The temperatures on the water are always cooler than on land. Our gentle, refreshing breeze should be patented. During August, the stinging nettles die off and many anglers split their time with other activities such as swimming, water skiing and just plain cruising.

For all of you less fortunate folks that don't live here, make the Northern Neck or Middle Peninsula your destination for a weekend.

Until next time . . . fair winds.

Rivah Fare Try Something Different

by Deborah Haynes

t Something Different ACountry Store and Deli, nothing is ever ordinary and absolutely everything is special. The brainchild of Middlesex County native Dan Gill, this small eatery's offerings range from delightful dishes that are huge on taste and easy on the pocketbook, right on up to fixing a fun feast for any kind of party function you might have in mind.

EAT IN

Yep, there are three butcherblock tables in Something Different, each with four seats fashioned from dairy crates topped with cushions. There is also a counter that seats six. Folks stand in line for these seats because Dan, his daughter Sarah, or his wife Barbara, are usually on hand to give their guests generous helpings of good conversation, along with complimentary samplings of their homemade peanut or cashew butter with chocolate syrup and one-of-a-kind ice cream concoctions.

My meal of choice was the Cuban mixto, just recently added to the store's extensive sandwich list. Said Dan, "Tony Friday, who now works our grill at Something Different, worked in Miami for 12 years as an executive chef and learned to make an authentic Cuban sandwich. In Florida and in urban areas of Cuba, sliced pork is generally used, but in more rural areas of Cuba the pork is often cooked to the barbecue stage and pulled.

Tony uses our pulled pork and this is the real deal!"

By way of explanation, when Dan refers to "our" pulled pork, he means the award-winning, pit-cooked barbecue for which Something Different become regionally famous. Yes, indeed—the pulled pork, ham, mustard and pickle on Something Different's homemade bread fried in butter make this Cuban the "real deal."

I ordered a side of tasty homemade potato salad to go with my sandwich and a glass of "Sarah's Favorite" wine, Front Porch White Zinfandel from California served in Something Different's own specially-designed wine glass, was the perfect complement to a lovely meal.

And for my husband? Well, get ready for a taste explosion and bring on the Applechains!

Dan says he doesn't remember how or when he came up with the idea of putting apple butter and mustard together on a quarter-pound kosher frank. But when he served it on a warm, homemade snuggle bun and introduced it as an Applechain on Something Different's menu, it became an instant hit. He did not invent the name, however; he adopted the word applechain from a 1961 song by the Smothers Brothers, in which they intentionally mispronounce Appalachian Mountains, an area famous for its apple butter.

Along with two Applechains, my husband enjoyed a heaping serving of Something Different's wonderful hand-cut, skin-on French fries, plus a bottomless Mason jar filled with refreshing iced tea.

It just wouldn't be right to visit Something Different and not enjoy an ice cream tasting. After explaining that their homemade ice cream contains no hormones and no antibiotics, Dan hands out at least three samples, one at

The day we were there, the first sample was Hot Chocolate with chili peppers. Yes, you read correctly, the chocolate ice cream has chili peppers in it. Dan cautioned us that we would not taste the heat until after we had swallowed the cool cream and, of course, he was correct. Believe it or not, the combination of flavors was extraordinary and for those who like spicy foods, this is the dessert for you.

Next up was Buttered Pecan, which is probably the best ice cream I've ever tasted. I bought a pint to bring home with us, and here's the information from the label: "REAL Buttered Pecan, no artificial flavoring or ingredients, milk, cream, caramelized pecans (pecans, butter, organic sugar), sugar, egg yolks, milk solids, pure vanilla extract."

Our final sampling was an adult ice cream; that is to say, there is a touch of alcohol among the ingredients. This flavor was Brandy Alexander and the taste was exactly like the famous afterdinner drink.

TAKE OUT AND CATERING

Everything on Something Different's menu is available for take out. In addition, the store's display coolers are full of deli meats and cheeses, homemade salads and desserts. On the pit on any given day you might find fare such as Kicken Chicken, Tri-Tip (the flavorful triangular muscle at the bottom end of the sirloin), ribs and brisket just waiting for you to take home for dinner.

Throughout the store, there are items to fill your gift basket. Homemade sauces, rubs, seasonings, and Something Different's premium roasted peanuts are delicious ideas, and the wine racks are well-stocked with a wide variety of nice bottles. There is a large selection of origin coffees from all around the world, sold by the pound or quarter-pound.

Go to the website at www. pine3.info and find the Something Different Country Store and Deli Party Planner. You will be amazed at how easily you can put together a function as simple as a small tailgate party or family get-together or a full-blown barbecue complete with Dan working his magic at his prized Old 97 smoker. Sarah will even use your own dishes for the presentation, like she did for the Smoked Salmon with dill sauce Something Different prepared for me last Christmas.

WORTH THE TRIP

A visit to Something Different Country Store and Deli is well worth the trip, no matter where you come from-it's fun and fine food all rolled into one! Also, make it a point to visit their interesting and informative website and be sure to find them on Facebook for seasonal specials and new menu items.

Motorists entering or exiting southern Lancaster County can't miss the town of White Stone.

Settled in 1731 and incorporated in 1953, White Stone is a bustling town of 352 residents and 60 businesses covering a square-mile.

The Robert O. Norris Jr. Bridge, built in 1957, connects Route 3 from the Middle Peninsula to the southern half of the Northern Neck. It's a two-mile span crossing 100 feet above the Rappahannock River with a view of the Chesapeake Bay in the distance. Less than a mile past the bridge is White Stone, a gateway town to Lancaster and Northumberland counties. Anyone coming from or going into Lancaster County by way of the bridge has to pass through the town, proudly known as the Southern Gateway to the Northern Neck of Virginia.

But instead of passing through, stop and stay awhile. White Stone offers a day's worth of activities, including shopping, dining and entertainment.

Dine at Willaby's at the foot the bridge, or pick up one of Jim McDaniel's famous burgers at the River Market or get a lunch-to-go from Rocket Billy's and picnic at the Village Green, a memorial garden in the middle of town.

Ladies will love all the shopping that White Stone has to offer. There's consignment bargains at Maggie's and Mosaic Consignment & Gifts, home fashions at Interior Innovations, clothes, handbags and accessories and gift items at the Box Boutique and River Birch Gifts. Emily Donofrio's FARM offers everything from paper straws to clothes, dishes and furniture.

Antique hunters can find a treasure or two at Trimbles' Tavern Antiques or L&C Owens Antiques.

Be sure to visit White Stone Pharmacy, one of few remaining locallyowned drugstores in the Northern Neck.

Crafty folks and quilters will enjoy a visit to White Stone's newest business, Blue Crab Quilting Company

If it's pampering the ladies crave, there are Beach Babes Tanning and Positive Image salons for tanning, manicures, pedicures, facials and massage.

On a hot summer afternoon visitors can cool off with some Hershey's hand-dipped ice cream or savor some melt-in-your-mouth hand-dipped fudge at the Country Cottage Ice Cream Shop and Fudge Factory.

Then end the day with dinner at The

After several lean years, the business association is enjoying a resurgence with increased membership and monthly meetings.

In the works for fall is an Octoberfest celebration on October 22.

"It'll be a fall festival with an Octoberfest theme," said association president Carrie Barrack. "We plan to have live music and lots of contests, including a scarecrow making contest and pumpkin painting. We also between the fire departments and the rescue squads. We haven't gotten all the details worked out but we're excited about it."

Octoberfest also will include food, beverages and arts and crafts vendors.

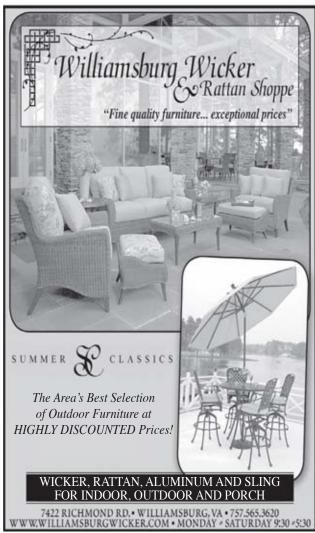

The business association also sponsors the White Stone Winter

Also in December, the White Stone Volunteer Fire Department hosts breakfast with Santa.

The fire department's big fundraiser, however, happens every spring with one of the most popular and best attended events in Lancaster County. Carvers, artists, sculptors and shoppers crowd the fire department grounds every March for the annual Rappahannock River Waterfowl Show. Held for the last 32 years, the two-day event draws well over 3,000 people.

History

Essex County's history in written form dates from Captain John Smith's visit during the winter of 1607-08, when he wrote of the "excellent, pleasant, fertile, and navigable" Rappahannock Valley.

In 1645 Bartholomew Hoskins patented the Tappahannock site, which became known at various times as Hobbs His Hole. Hobb's Hole, the shortlived New Plymouth, and the Indian name Tappahannock. The port town was to become a center of commerce during the 17th and 18th centuries, establishing a crossroads.

The county came into being in 1692 when Old Rappahannock County, which once encompassed at least 50 modern counties in Virginia and West Virginia, was divided along the river with the north side becoming Richmond County and the south becoming Essex.

During Bacon's Rebellion in 1676, armed men gathered near Piscataway Creek and defeated Governor Berkeley's cavalrymen. Later they prevailed in the Dragon Swamp, but eventually English warships and troops suppressed the uprising. Frontier patrols, however, were maintained against hostile northern Indians into the early 1700's.

The Essex County Museum and Historical Society in Tappahannock has a display that highlights Confederate Captain Edward Baird, who was the youngest member of General George Pickett's staff. Also featured is Captain Baird's family, which includes the Rouzie family of Epping Forest in Essex directly to the American Revolution, and it was in Tappahannock that one of the first confrontations occurred.

Leading merchant Archibald Ritchie, who supported the Stamp Act, was labeled as "the greatest enemy of his country." On February 27, 1766, gentlemen from nine counties gathered at Leedstown to draft the "Resolutions" The British Stamp Act of 1765 led that led Virginians to disobey Parliament. They also made plans to publicly humiliate Ritchie and the Scots merchant Archibald McCall. These events occurred seven years before the Boston

The Essex Courthouse contains the oldest records in Virginia. James B. Slaughter's history of the area, "Settlers, Southerners, Americans: The History of Essex County, Virginia 1608-1984," recounts in detail the county's 350-yearold story. The book is available at the county administrator's office.

Today Essex has a population of 9,989 and Tappahannock is one of the largest commercial centers in the region.

Gloucester County

History

Exploration of what would become Gloucester County began soon after 1607 when Jamestown, the first permanent English settlement in the New World, was started 25 miles to its south.

Gloucester County was formed in 1651 from York County. It contained Kingston Parish, which became Mathews County in 1791.

Gloucester was home to several wellknown persons including Pocahontas, daughter of Indian Chief Powhatan. According to legend, she petitioned her father to spare the life of English explorer Captain John Smith, who was one of the first white men to see the area in the early Another infamous resident was Nathaniel Bacon who, in 1676, led a force of planters against the Indians. Bacon's Rebellion defeated the Indians and then attempted to make the governor reform colonial policies. His army burned Jamestown and he briefly controlled the colony before his death ended the revolt.

Fortified during Bacon's Rebellion, Gloucester Point is just across the York River from Yorktown, site of the British surrender to end the American Revolution.

Originally called Tyndall's Point, named

Lancaster County

History

Indians occupied the Northern Neck for some 10,000 years before Capt. John Smith sailed up the Rappahannock River in 1608. The Powhatan Confederate was represented here by the Moraughtacunds and the Cuttatawomen tribes. A short 43 years later, Lancaster County was established from neighboring Northumberland.

Families of notable influence in the social, political and economic climate of the colonies built magnificent "empires" here, and family names like Carter and Ball still are prevalent today.

Robert "King" Carter (1663–1732) of Corrotoman Plantation (in Weems) was the son of immigrant John Carter. He acquired over 300,000 acres with some 1,000 slaves working his various properties.

Married twice, "King" Carter fathered 15 children. Among his descendants were eight governors of Virginia, three signers of the Declaration of Independence, two presidents, leader of the confederate armies Gen. Robert E. Lee, and a Supreme Court Justice.

Carter is buried alongside his wives at the church he built near Irvington, historic Christ Church.

The 76th annual Kilmarnock Volunteer Fire Department Firemen's Festival is under way at the KVFD Carnival Grounds off Waverly Avenue in Kilmarnock. Through August 6 (except Sundays) the festival offers rides, games, food and raffles from 7 to 10 p.m. This aerial photograph of the carnival grounds was taken in 2009 by Garnett Fisher.

The Ball family, meanwhile, established themselves at Millenbeck and Epping Forest. Mary Ball, the mother of George Washington, was born about 1708. The Mary Ball Washington Museum is located in Lancaster Courthouse and offers an extensive genealogy library.

A courthouse was established in 1698 at Queenstown on the Corrotoman River but in 1742 was relocated to a central area were the militia gathered, now known as historic Lancaster Courthouse.

Today Lancaster County, with a population of some 11,400, has one of the largest communities of retirees in the state thanks to its picturesque shoreline and temperate climate.

Mathews County

History

Mathews County was an established shipbuilding center for the Chesapeake Bay when it broke away from Gloucester in 1791 to become a separate county.

About that time, 12 sailing ships over 20 tons each were built in a single year in Mathews, which the Chiskiake Indians had called Werowocomico.

Between 1790 and 1820, approximately a third of the ships built in Virginia came from Mathews. The sharp, fast vessels, popularly known as Baltimore Clippers, were built throughout the Chesapeake Bay region. Before the War of 1812, these fast ships were simply known as "Virginia built"

From 1802 to 1844, Mathews was an official port of entry for the registration and enrollment of ships. During this period, 10,000 vessels called at the "Port of East River." The customs house stood at Williams Wharf (marker 13), which was a center of maritime activity until the steamers guit running in the 1940s.

Cricket Hill, near Gwynn's Island, was the site of one of the last naval engagements of the Revolutionary War. In June 1776, Continental forces bombarded the British fleet and encampment on Gwynn's Island. Lord Dunsmore, the last royal governor, was driven from the colony, ending British rule in Virginia.

When water was the highway, boats were the standard means of travel. The arrival of steamships at Williams Wharf with cargo from Norfolk, Newport News or Baltimore was a daily highlight.

World War II put most of the steamboat lines out of business. In 1942 the government requisitioned most of the bay and coastal steamers for service in the war effort.

The last remaining steamboat line, the Old Bay Line, stopped its York River to Baltimore run in 1942. About 20 years later, the Old Bay Line dropped passenger service between Baltimore and Norfolk. The steamers stopped for good in the spring of 1962.

Today Mathews has a population of 9,200 people. While it is the smallest county in the Northern Neck and Middle Peninsula with only 87 square miles, it has some 367 miles of shoreline and some of the area's best public access.

History

Middlesex County was formed around 1669 from Lancaster County, which makes it one of the oldest English settlements in the United States. Many plantation homes still stand from the Colonial era. The county is rich in history that spans nearly 350 years.

Bordered by the Rappahannock and Piankatank rivers and the Chesapeake Bay, much of its history centers around the water. The town of Urbanna was formed in 1680 as a center for shipping tobacco from surrounding plantations.

Urbanna was the county seat until 1852 when it was moved to Saluda, a more central location for area citizens. Throughout the county are homes built in the 1700's and wartime stories abound dating back to the Revolutionary and Civil wars. During these wars, plantations such as Providence and Rosegill were bombarded and looted.

Stingray Point near Deltaville gained immortal fame as the spot where Captain John Smith was nearly killed by a stingray.

Three centuries ago ships from London, Liverpool, Bristol and Glasgow were common sights on Urbanna Creek. Just across the creek from Urbanna is Rosegill, one of the oldest plantations in America. It was for many years a center of influence in the Colony and a power in the political and commercial life of this area. It was the home of five generations of Wormeleys, one of the most influential families in the colony. Colonial governors Sir Henry Chicheley and Lord Howard of Effingham made Rosegill their home.

During the Civil War, General George McClellan formulated a plan of attack to take Richmond by starting from Urbanna. The plan was named the Urbanna Plan, but it was never instituted.

In 1862, several Yankee warships bombarded the town but legend has it that the only thing the Yanks killed was an old hare. One of the cannonballs did hit the old courthouse, which today is the Middlesex Woman's Club building on Virginia St.

During the bombardment the townsfolk congregated on the creek bank near where the Urbanna Bridge is located today. Legend has it that an old man by the name of Montague stood at the top of the hill and whenever he saw a flash of a cannon firing he would scream "squat" and the townsfolk would squat down to the ground.

Today Middlesex County has a population of 9,600 and is home to the popular Urbanna Oyster Festival, which draws thousands to enjoy a weekend of music and mollusks every November.

The Lower Middlesex Volunteer Fire Department of Deltaville will hold its Crab Feast on Saturday, August 6, from 5 to 8 p.m. Music will be by "Flashback" from 8 p.m. to midnight. The Middlesex Volunteer Fire Department in Urbanna will hold its Crab Feast on Saturday, August 27, from 5 to 7 p.m. Music will be by the "Phun Doctors" from 7 to 11 p.m.

History

Northumberland County is called the Mother County of the Northern Neck.

Presumably settled by the English in 1640, Northumberland was officially established by an act of the Burgesses in Jamestown in 1648. It was later divided into three additional counties, Lancaster, Richmond and Westmoreland Counties.

At its heart is Heathsville, the county seat. Located between the headwaters of the Coan and the Great Wicomico rivers, in 1679 it was chosen as the site of the county courthouse. The building was completed and county justices were moved in 1681

In 1797, citizens established a 20-acre town around the courthouse square naming it in honor of citizen leader John Heath who lived just down the road at Springfield, an historic plantation mansion still standing and occupied today.

In 1992, the National Register of Historic Places designated Heathsville an Historic District, along with the original courthouse and tavern, now a restaurant, gift shop and museum. The courthouse square also includes a blacksmith shop, transportation museum, old jail and carriage house.

Northumberland was once dependent upon tobacco as its major cash crop and currency. Later, most of its residents relied on the water for their livelihoods. Today, there are many charter boat captains. And cruises, like those to Tangier and Smith Island, are major tourist attractions.

The quaint fishing village of Reedville, with its "Millionaire's Row" of Victorian homes, remains a tribute to the area's heritage. The Reedville Fisherman's Museum

Richmond County

History

Known as the Gateway to the Northern Neck, Richmond County was established in 1692 from the old Rappahannock County.

Originally explored by Captain John Smith in 1607-1608, the county was settled in 1640 when people migrated up from settlements below the Rappahannock River. It was presumably named after the First Duke of Richmond, cousin to both King William III and Queen Mary. One of the early settlers was Colonel Moore tion for Richmond County in 1916 Fauntleroy, who patented land in the county in 1650.

The first county seat was thought to be at the mouth of Little Carter's Creek, then moved to Naylors, an early river settlement. The seat moved inland in 1730 and renamed the Richmond County Courthouse. In 1831, the name was changed to Warsaw in sympathy with the Polish struggle for independence. Warsaw was incorporated as the county's only town in

The Downing Bridge was built across the Rappahannock River in 1927, connecting Richmond County to Essex and opening up travel to and from the Northern Neck. The bridge replaced 200 years of ferry service and was dedicated by Sen. Thomas Downing of the Northern Neck.

Richmond County was home of the last president elected under the Articles of Confederation. In 1788, Judge Cyrus Griffin was elected president of the U.S. Congress Assembly and held that position until the U.S. Constitution was adopted and his successor, George Washington, was elected as the first President of the U.S.

William A. Jones gained recogniwhen, in supporting self-government for all people, he authorized a bill that guaranteed independence for the Philippines. In 1926, the people of the Philippines erected a memorial at Jones' gravesite in the St. John's Episcopal Churchyard in Warsaw.

Today Richmond County has a population of 9,300. Serving as the crossroads of U.S. Route 360 and State Route 3, the county seat of Warsaw is currently the headquarters for many regional government agencies as well as a community college, vocational center and regional jail.

Westmoreland County

Fishing on the beach at Westmoreland State Park is a nice way to spend a hot August day.

History

Established in 1653 by the colonial government in Jamestown, Westmoreland County was named for a British shire. The county's most significant contributions to history include its fostering of more statesmen than any other county in the country, and for the Leedstown Resolutions.

Considered the forerunner of the Declaration of Independence, the Leedstown Resolutions were signed in February, 1766. Prepared by Richard Henry Lee, the document was signed by 115 patriots who bound themselves together "To Prevent The Execution of The Stamp Act."

Stratford Hall was the boyhood home of Richard Henry Lee and Francis Lightfoot Lee, signers of the Declaration of Independence.

General Henry "Light-Horse Harry" Lee was a Revolutionary War hero and served as one of General George Washington's most trusted officers. He is the father of Robert E. Lee.

General Robert E. Lee was born in 1807 at Stratford Hall. Lee was a colonel in the U. S. Army when the Civil War broke out. Offered the command of the Union Army, Lee declined because he "could take no part in an invasion" of his
