THE GRAND CANON, produced in digital format, renews and updates the monographic presentation of out-of-print inkprint editions of the Bibliography of the Grand Canyon and the Lower Colorado River by Earle E. Spamer (Grand Canyon Natural History Association, 1981, 1990, 1993). This is not a commercial product and is not distributed by sale. The author receives no remuneration or services for the preparation or distribution of this product. Neither the Grand Canyon Conservancy, the National Park Service, nor any of the bibliographical contributors, are in any way responsible for the production or distribution of this work. Citations or remarks that mention ®Registered Trademarks, ™Trademarks, ™Service Marks, or other protected names and identifiers are not here endorsements of those products or services. The inclusion of a citation in this work documents only its existence; views expressed therein do not necessarily represent the views of the author or any of the bibliographical contributors. Quotations from works are made as critical analyses for bibliographical identification, to corroborate and elucidate for users the pertinence of the cited work to the bibliography or to confirm subject placement within the scope of this work, and as aids for users to identify the whole of a published work that may be pertinent to their work or interests. Ascertaining the availability or accessibility of cited items is the responsibility of the user.

This publication is originally produced in a searchable-text PDF format, which requires the use of the free Adobe™ Acrobat™ Reader. It is designed as a book for screen viewing or printing. To view it in book format with opposing pages, use the appropriate PDF viewing mode so that odd-numbered pages appear on the right. Any page may be reduced or enlarged without degrading text or original image quality.

THIS LIST itemizes more than 11,600 titles of periodicals and serial publications cited in THE GRAND CANON. If anything, it certifies the extent of international interest and attention to the Grand Canyon and the Colorado River, specifically as recorded through the medium of periodicals and serials. Titles listed include a few that appear in Volume 2 (Cartobibliography).

That a title appears in the list does not imply that the entire series has been examined; in fact, this is rarely the case. Almost all titles are added to the bibliography opportunistically; many serial titles in it are limited to single or a few citations. However, some principal serials that relate almost exclusively to the Grand Canyon and the Colorado River have been canvassed in their entirety; for example (but not limited to), Boatman's Quarterly Review, Canyon Views, Colorado Plateau Advocate, The Confluence, Grand Canyon Footprints, Grand Canyon Nature Notes, O'Pioneer/The Ol' Pioneer, Plateau, and The Waiting List. Titles of older inkprint serials that have been examined only from digital copies posted to the web are listed, although their complete runs have not necessarily been seen (for example, the Santa Fe Railway's employees' journal, Santa Fe Magazine, earlier known as Santa Fe Employes' [sic] Magazine). As a rule, serials are cited in this bibliography only if they are issued weekly or greater; there are a few "daily" exceptions, such as the United States' Federal Register and The New York Times, as explained more fully in the introductory matter to THE GRAND CANON.

Titles are listed here in the format used by this bibliography. Awkward titles are as used by the organization or agency that published the serial. For titles that are a house organ that incorporates the name of the institution, organization, or agency within the serial title, the name of the originating entity usually appears first, followed by the series name, much in the way the titles will be found in most library catalogues. For example:

Proceedings of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia is cited as

Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia, Proceedings⁸⁴

Capitalization of words in serial titles is done according to English or American styles for proper names, not usually in the styles of the original languages that sometimes employ lowercase initials for various principal words (for example, in French, the adjective belge that in English is Belgian).

The list that follows is in strict alphabetical order, with the exception that leading definite articles are not alphabetized. Leading definite articles that appear in this bibliography are “The” and non-English equivalents “Das”, “De”, “Den”, “Der”, “Det”, “Die”, “El”, “Het”, “Il”, “L’”, “La”, “Le”, “Les”, “O”, “Su”, “Ta” or “To” [Greek “Ta” or “To”], “W”, and “Y”. (The non-English leading definite articles just listed reflect only those that appear in the periodical and serial titles cited in this bibliography. An exception to the exclusion of the leading definite article in alphabetizing this list is the serial El Palacio, which borrows the name of El Palacio Real de Santa Fé, the historical capitol of colonial Spanish government in Santa Fe, New Mexico.)

Non-Roman-character serials are listed by transliteration or by bilingual titles, accompanied by original orthography when such has been available.

Serial titles that are given bilingually are listed under both variants, but with the secondary language cross-listed to the primary, as indicated by “ = ”. Cross-listings are not enumerated and thus do not artificially inflate the total serial count.

For titles that change over time, individual citations in THE GRAND CANON reflect titles at the times of publication. Differences in spelling or variant uses of hyphens also reflect contemporary uses of a serial’s name, as cited. The master list that follows notes these differences.

Explanatory information, when deemed necessary for clarity—such as a means to further identify the creator of a more obscure serial, to note the place of publication of a little-known serial, or to distinguish among multiple identical serial titles—is given in (colored parenthetical italics). (The use of color is only a convenience for those who use this work in its original format, and italics so that this information will still stand out if a non-color reproduction is used.)

For a fuller explanation, see herein the section on “Citations” in the “COVERAGE AND FORMAT” part of introductory matter in this volume.

PERIODICALS AND SERIALS CITED IN THE GRAND CANON

Numerals in the left column are counters only for convenience; they are not a permanent registration of these serial titles nor do they pertain to any cross-referencing data. The numbers continually change as new titles are added to this list; thus this particular number sequence appears only in the present edition of THE GRAND CANON.
