THE VALLEY
MISSOURI VALLEY CONFERENCE

2015-16 RAMBLER BASKETBALL
MISSOURI VALLEY CONFERENCE

The Missouri Valley Conference, the nation's second-oldest NCAA Division I conference, continues to be a leader in college athletics and is one of the nation's most progressive conferences, celebrating its 109th season in 2015-16.

League members have worked together to focus on common goals and objectives, placing a high value on league harmony, while continuing to invest in athletic programs to compete at the highest level.

The Valley brand remains very strong, both regionally and nationally, and the great athletic tradition of The Valley remains a compelling force in recruiting student-athletes and in marketing all the MVC programs.

Men's basketball continues to be the engine that drives Valley athletic programs. In 2015, Wichita State (14) and UNI (11) represented the league in the final Associated Press rankings and gave the league its first same-season pair of 30-win teams in Valley history. Both teams played in the NCAA Tournament, and Wichita State reached the Sweet 16. The Valley had the nation's best post-season winning percentage (.824) as the league's five post-season qualifiers combined for a 14-3 record, which including post-season tournament championships by Evansville (CollegeInsider.com Tournament) and Loyola (College Basketball Invitational). All five teams won at least one game. Wichita State's Sweet 16 run included victories over storied programs Indiana and Kansas and marked the sixth MVC team to reach the Sweet 16 in the past 10 years.

The State Farm MVC Men's Basketball Championship - affectionately known as Arch Madness - continues to be a spectacular showcase for the league, and the MVC has extended the tournament agreement with the Scottrade Center that will keep Arch Madness in St. Louis through at least 2018. During the 2011 MVC Championship, the league surpassed 1 million in total attendance for the event, now in its 26th year in the Gateway City.

The tournament, in 2016, will be celebrating its 40th anniversary. While the success of men's basketball has received the greatest attention, the overall performance of league teams in virtually every sport continues to raise the national profile of the Conference. In women's basketball, Wichita State won a school-record 29 games en route to a third-straight NCAA Tournament berth.

The Shockers were joined by Drake (WNIT), Missouri State (WNIT) and UNI (WNIT) in post-season play. Meanwhile, the Conference remains commtted to keeping the tournament at a neutral site.

The women's tournament, tagged "Hoops in the Heartland," will compete in the iWireless Center in Moline, Ill., for the first time in 2016 as part of a multi-year agreement to conduct the league's post-season tournament at a neutral site in the Quad Cities.

In soccer, SIU Edwardsville represented the league in the NCAA Championship, winning a first-round match in its first NCAA Tournament experience since joining the Division I ranks. Illinois State, meanwhile, became the first women's team to win an NCAA Tournament match, beating South Florida to advance to the second round for a second-straight year (ISU had advanced in 2013 on PKs). Rachel Tejada earned Player of the Year honors for a fourth-straight season.

Illinois State had an historic run in volleyball, winning both the regular-season and tournament titles while posting a perfect 18-0 slate in Valley matches, becoming just the third team in MVC history to run the table in volleyball.

Indiana State won the MVC Tournament softball title for the second time in its history,and despite entering NCAA Tournament play with a losing overall record, the Sycamores won a game, ousting Louisville from the tournament.

Wichita State swept the men's and women's golf titles, and the Shocker men missed qualifying for the NCAA Finals by two strokes, finishing sixth in regional play.

In track & field, league student-athletes continue to be dominant nationally in the sport, as the MVC has now produced 17 national champions in the sport in the past nine years. Notably, 18 student-athletes from MVC schools qualified for the 2015 NCAA Outdoor Championship in Eugene, Ore. Southern Illinois' women's track & field team finished 9th in the NCAA Indoor Meet and 12th in the NCAA Outdoor Meet. Indiana State, however, won both the men's and women's MVC titles in the indoor meet and also took home the men's cross country title.

Meanwhile, the success of The Valley television package is one of the great stories of the league. The MVC Television Network has blossomed into a revenue-generating vehicle and The Valley's most visible marketing tool. Also, The Valley continues to be proactive in upgrading the production and marketing of both institutionally-produced and Conference-produced events.

The summer of 2015 yielded two major announcements on the TV front, as ESPN and the Missouri Valley Conference announced a 10-year extension to their current media rights agreement that will provide increased coverage of Conference events across ESPN platforms through 2023-24.

As part of the deal – which continues a business relatiobship that began in 1986 - ESPN, the Missouri Valley Conference and its 10 member institutions will work jointly to develop in-house production capabilities at each campus that will provide significant national coverage for multiple sports on ESPN3 and hands-on educational opportunities for students. As a result, ESPN3 will showcase a minimum of 820 events per year (a minimum of 70 men's basketball) in the final six years of the agreement on the league's co-branded network (The Valley on ESPN3).

Additionally, CBS Sports and the MVC reached a multi-year agreement to televise Valley basketball games on the CBS Television Network and CBS Sports Network. The deal, which begins this season and continues through 2019-20, is through a sublicense agreement with ESPN. CBS Sports has televised the men's basketball tournament final since 2006.

During the tenure of Doug Elgin, The Valley's ninth and longest-tenured commissioner, The Valley has been aggressive in hosting NCAA events in St. Louis. From 1998-2010, the MVC served as host for a staggering nine NCAA tournament events in that 13-year period, which has made St. Louis one of the most frequent stops on the NCAA Tournament trail. The Valley hosted Women's Final Fours in 2001 and 2009 and the Men's Final Four in 2005. In 2014, The Valley hosted an NCAA second- and third-round men's basketball event at Scottrade Center in St. Louis and, in 2013 the league hosted a second- and third-round men's basketball event in Kansas City. In 2016, The Valley will once again be hosting an NCAA event in March, as it entertains a first- and second-round men's basketball event in St. Louis.

The seeds for the creation of the Conference were planted by eight administrators representing five institutions, who met at the Midland Hotel in Kansas City, Mo., on Jan. 12, 1907. The five schools which formed the Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic Association were Washington University of St. Louis, and the state universities of Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska. Two months after the initial meeting, two more schools -- Drake University and Iowa State College -- were admitted.

In the fall of 1907, basketball became the first competitive sport. Today, the Missouri Valley Conference sponsors the following sports: baseball, men's and women's basketball, men's and women's cross country and track & field (indoor and outdoor), men's and women's golf, men's and women's soccer, softball, women's swimming and diving, men's and women's tennis, and women's volleyball.

This season, the league will conduct its 105th outdoor track and field championship, its 98th tennis championship, its 62nd baseball tournament, and its 78th golf championship for the men. Those programs, plus other current sponsored sports of cross country (57 years), indoor track (65), men's soccer (25), women's soccer (19), and swimming and diving (22), have helped solidify The Valley as one of the nation's most respected conferences.

Athletic accomplishments include four NCAA national basketball championships, 17 trips to the NCAA Final Four, a 1989 national baseball championship and 19 College World Series qualifiers. The league owns a total of 32 post-season national team championships, including two men's basketball crowns in 2015 (Evansville-CIT; Loyola-CBI). In 2001, Missouri State added to The Valley women's accomplishments, as the Lady Bears advanced to the Women's Basketball Final Four in St. Louis. Creighton (2004) and Missouri State (2005) have claimed national championships (WNIT) in women's basketball. MSU also has a 1992 NCAA Women's Final Four appearance, and Creighton (2003), Drake (1999) and Illinois State (2009) have made semifinal trips to the WNIT postseason tournament.

While the inclusion of women's sports under a comprehensive athletic umbrella is a recent development in the league's storied history, over the years, Valley student-athletes and coaches have become household names during the league's illustrious history, both during their collegiate careers and, for some, professional careers.

In fact, The Valley began honoring that tradition in the summer of 1997, when the conference began its athletics Hall of Fame. Hersey Hawkins of Bradley, Larry Bird of Indiana State, Wes Unseld of Louisville, Coach Henry Iba of Oklahoma State, Dave Stallworth of Wichita State, Ed Macauley of Saint Louis, and Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati were members of the initial induction class. Currently, more than 80 former players, coaches and alums dot the league's Hall of Fame.

Men's basketball, perhaps, has the league's most storied tradition, boasting the likes of Hall of Famers Bird and Robertson as former players, but The Valley has also produced national-caliber student-athletes in its other sponsored sports. In 2001, Missouri State's Jackie Stiles became the first Valley woman to earn the Honda-Broderick Cup, given to the nation's top female collegiate student-athlete. In the sport of track and field, Indiana State's Holli Hyche captured seven national sprint titles in the early 1990s, Southern Illinois' Darrin Plab won back-to-back NCAA outdoor high jump titles in 1991 and 1992, SIU's Brittany Riley became the World record holder in the weight throw in 2007, and Kylie Hutson of Indiana State swept both the indoor and outdoor pole vault titles in 2009 and in 2010. Southern Illinois' Jeneva McCall (three NCAA individual championships) and Illinois State's Tim Glover (back-to-back javelin championships in 2011 and 2012) and Indiana State's Felisha Johnson (indoor weight throw in 2011 and 2013) are the most recent multi-year NCAA champions in the league's highly decorated history in track & field. Meanwhile, Raven Saunders of Southern Illinois earned NCAA shot put titles in both the 2015 indoor and outdoor meets.

In the fall of 1997, Creighton's Johnny Torres was named the collegiate male soccer player of the year for a second-straight year, while SMU's Luchi Gonzalez (2001) and Tulsa's Ryan Pore (2004) have also earned a National Player of the Year honor in men's soccer. Meanwhile, league member Wichita State has produced three national collegiate players of the year in baseball, including Joe Carter (1981), Phil Stephenson (1982) and Darren Dreifort (1993).

League members include Bradley, Drake, Evansville, Illinois State, Indiana State, Loyola Chicago, Missouri State, Northern Iowa, Southern Illinois, and Wichita State. Central Arkansas and Southern Illinois Edwardsville are affiliate members in men's soccer; Dallas Baptist is an affiliate member for baseball; Arkansas-Little Rock is an affiliate member in women's swimming and diving; and Hartford, UMBC and Stony Brook compete as affiliate members in men's tennis.

STEVE WATSON

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS
BOWLING GREEN (1990)
1ST SEASON AT LOYOLA

Steve Watson is in his first full season as the Director of Intercollegiate Athletics at Loyola. Watson arrived after a successful, eight-year tenure as the Director of Athletics at St. Bonaventure University. A well-rounded, well-respected administrator, Watson has 17 years of experience in intercollegiate administration under his belt

Hired on Nov. 12, 2014, Watson began his tenure in Jan., 2015 and oversaw a tremendously successful winter and spring season for Loyola Athletics. Loyola's men's basketball team won 24 games and made its first postseason appearance in 30 years, capping its journey through the College Basketball Invitational (CBI) by sweeping Louisiana Monroe for the tournament title. Not to be outdone, the Ramblers' men's volleyball team successfully defending its NCAA Championship, knocking off Lewis in five thrilling sets to repeat as champions.

Named to his post at St. Bonaventure in 2007, athletics at the Olean, N.Y. institution thrived under Watson's leadership. The men's basketball program, under one of Watson's first hires, Mark Schmidt, enjoyed a renaissance, winning the first Atlantic-10 Conference title in school history in 2012 and returning to the NCAA Tournament for the first time in 12 years. The women's program also took off, reaching the postseason five times in seven years, including a watershed 2011-12 season that saw the team finish with a program-best 31-4 record, complete with a trip to the NCAA Sweet Sixteen. As important, the Bonnies were able to maintain a high level of competitiveness in one of the country's top basketball leagues.

While the basketball programs have taken center stage, several other programs have enjoyed a tremendous amount of success under Watson. St. Bonaventure's women's soccer team has qualified for the conference tournament in six straight seasons and its men's and women's cross country teams have enjoyed their best-ever seasons.

Academic success has come hand-in-hand with the school's on-field improvement, as St. Bonaventure's graduation rates and Academic Progress Rate (APR) numbers have continued to climb.

In addition, Watson has been instrumental in helping with facility improvements for Bonnies athletics, most notably spearheading a $2 million upgrade to the university's multi-purpose field for soccer, lacrosse and club rugby that was unveiled this fall. That project was part of St. Bonaventure's athletics strategic plan entitled "Your Teams, Our Extraordinary Future" that Watson co-chaired in 2012. He has also overseen the construction of a new $300,000 women's basketball locker room, a $200,000 renovation of the men's basketball locker room, and the unveiling of Bob Lanier Court at the Reilly Center, which featured a new court, scoreboards and sound system while also serving as a tribute to St. Bonaventure's most famous alumnus.

Watson moved into the first chair after a six-year stint (2001-07) at Eastern Michigan University, one year as Assistant Athletics Director for Facilities & Operations and five years as Associate Athletics Director for Internal Operations. While in Ypsilanti, Watson was the athletic program administrator for 12 programs while also overseeing the marketing/promotions, sports information, strength and conditioning and equipment departments.

Prior to Eastern Michigan, Watson served as the Director of Marketing & Promotions at the University of Dayton (1999-2001) after getting his start in intercollegiate athletics as a Marketing Assistant at the University of Georgia (1998-99).

Watson moved into athletic administration after a successful basketball-playing career. He played two seasons at Rutgers before transferring to Bowling Green for his final two years, after which he embarked on a seven-year professional career overseas that included stops in France, Portugal and Taiwan.

He graduated from Bowling Green in 1990 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Interpersonal & Public Communications and went on to earn a Master of Sport Administration degree from Ohio University in 1998.

A native of Franklinville, N.Y., the 46-year-old Watson and his wife, Ann, have three children; Abby (19), Allison (16) and Jackson (13).

Entering his fifth season at the helm, Porter Moser engineered one of the best single-season improvements of any Division I program last season and has the Loyola University Chicago men's basketball program firmly headed in the right direction. A native of Naperville, Ill., and a graduate of Benet Academy, Moser most recently served as the associate head coach at Saint Louis University under the late, great head coach Rick Majerus. Known as a tireless recruiter and a master game tactician, Moser has coached numerous all-conference players in his coaching career and Loyola's 24 wins last season were a culmination of his hard work recruiting and ability to put his players in a position to win games.

Loyola's 2014-15 season was a magical one, as the Ramblers were the surprise package of the Missouri Valley, exceeding expectations every step of the way in posting their best season in 30 years. The Ramblers' 24 wins were their most since 1985 and their RPI improvement of over 200 spots was third-best among Division I programs.

A well-balanced and talented roster jelled very early in the season and Loyola closed its non-conference season with wins over Texas Tech and Boise State – a NCAA Tournament team – to win the Continental Tires Las Vegas Classic. Tournament MVP Milton Doyle was sidelined for 12 conference games but the Ramblers banded together and were playing their best basketball of the season down the stretch.

A key, late-season road win at Drake thrust LU into Friday night's quarterfinals at Arch Madness and the Ramblers put together a dominant performance, leading by as many as 39 points before settling for an Arch Madness-record 28-point victory before getting tripped up the next night in the semifinals by No. 11 UNI.

The Ramblers' 19 wins earned them a bid to the College Basketball Invitational (CBI), their first postseason appearance since the team advanced to the NCAA Sweet 16 in 1985. Loyola made the most of the opportunity, their brand of efficient and unselfish basketball propelling the Ramblers to a sweep of Louisiana-Monroe in the best-of-three championship series. The championship sweep put them in select company as they are just the second team in the history of the tournament to sweep the title series, joining Shaka Smart's VCU team.

Christian Thomas, Moser's first recruit to Loyola, capped an outstanding season by earning Honorable Mention All-Missouri Valley honors. Thomas graduated as one of just 10 players in school history to rack up over 1,300 career points and over 600 career rebounds and also sits third on the Ramblers' career field goal percentage list. Despite just finishing his junior season, Devon Turk became Loyola's all-time leader in three-pointers made while Doyle came back from injury in the regular-season finale and was a catalyst for the Ramblers' postseason run.

Newcomers Montel James, Earl Peterson, Donte Ingram and Ben Richardson were all key contributors, as Moser put together a deep and versatile group of talented performers. James was a member of the MVC All-Newcomer Team while Peterson was one of the team's best clutch players and was named CBI MVP. Ingram was one of the team's biggest weapons off the bench while Richardson's savvy and tough-nosed play made him an integral part of the team's success.

Success did not come overnight but Moser and the Ramblers' success last season was due, in part, to the 2013-14 season, Loyola's first in the Valley. The leader of that group was Doyle, who became just the seventh player in Missouri Valley history – and first since Doug McDermott – to win both the MVC Newcomer and Freshman of the Year awards. Doyle was just one of three underclassmen who were big contributors that season, with Jeff White establishing himself at the point guard position and Turk continuing to provide shooting and scoring off the bench, with the sixth man earning a spot on the MVC All-Bench Team. In addition, Thomas continued to improve, putting together another terrific campaign while adding new elements to his game. As a result, Thomas was one of just three MVC players to rank in the top 10 in the league in scoring, rebounding and field goal percentage, joining Wichita State's Cleanthony Early and UNI's Seth Tuttle.

While the transition to the Valley was certainly an adjustment, Moser's Ramblers showed that they fit in very well to one of America's best basketball conferences. Loyola announced its presence with a 32-point home win over Missouri State for its first MVC win and endured a stretch in which five of its first seven losses were by single digits, with its most lopsided defeat being a 12-point setback at national power Wichita State.

Loyola then provided one of Championship Week's top moments in its first-ever game at Arch Madness, with Doyle knocking in a long, contested three-pointer at the buzzer to give the Ramblers a 74-72 win over Bradley.

Off the court, Moser's troops continued to excel, with Joe Crisman earning MVC Scholar-Athlete of the Week four different times and the Munster, Ind. native also was the only LU student-athlete selected for the school's prestigious Maroon and Gold Society.

After successfully laying the foundation for the program in 2011-12, his first season in Rogers Park, Moser steered the Ramblers to an eight-game improvement in the win column in 2012-13, the best improvement in Loyola history by a coach from his first year to his second. The eight-game improvement was also the best by a Loyola squad since the 2001-02 team won 10 more contests than the previous outfit.

During the 2012-13 season, Moser piloted Loyola to victories over a pair of BCS conference foes, giving the Ramblers multiple wins over power conference opponents for the first time since 1991-92. Loyola's 69-61 victory at DePaul was the program's first over its city rival since 1989, and a 59-51 win against Mississippi State was Loyola's first over a Southeastern Conference opponent since 2008.

Despite missing a handful of games due to injury, senior Ben Averkamp was named Second Team All-Horizon League for the second straight year and off the court, the forward became the program's first-ever Capital One Academic All-American when he earned second team recognition. Averkamp wrapped up his career as one of only 19 players in Loyola annals to accumulate over 1,000 points and 500 rebounds in his career.

Moser's tutelage also helped guard Devon Turk establish a Loyola single-season record for three-point field goals by a freshman (65), while along the way, the sharpshooter led the Horizon League in three-point field goal percentage (.633). One of Moser's greatest transformations in 2012-13 however, was the meteoric rise of forward Christian Thomas, who averaged 15.2 points and 7.5 rebounds over the final 22 contests after putting up 4.6 ppg and 4.0 rpg over the first nine outings of the year.

A firm believer in building a program and not a team, Moser, in his first season at Loyola, made huge strides in laying a foundation for future success. In 2011-12, the undermanned Ramblers suffered 11 losses by 10 points or less, including eight by seven points or less. Moser used his recruiting acumen to land a well-thought-of crop that includes Nick Osborne, Jeff White, Matt O'Leary, Devon Turk, Jeremy King, and Tanner Williams, Loyola's first Chicago Public League player since 2008, Milton Doyle.

Under Moser's tutelage, Averkamp took the next step in his progression by emerging into one of the elite players in the Horizon League. Averkamp earned Second Team All-Horizon League accolades in 2011-12 to become Loyola's first all-league selection since Blake Schilb in 2006-07. Last winter, Averkamp was one of only two players to rank among the top five in the Horizon League in both scoring (15.4) and rebounding (7.1) and he enters his senior campaign needing only 11 points and 27 rebounds to become just the 19th player in school history to top 1,000 points and 500 rebounds in his career.

However, Averkamp wasn't the only Rambler to thrive under Moser's leadership, as Walt Gibler registered personal-best averages of 12.4 points and 5.8 rebounds per contest. He wrapped up his career as one of the most prolific scorers and rebounders ever to don the Maroon and Gold, and became the 18th player in Loyola annals to total 1,000 points and 500 boards, before signing a professional contract in August to play in Germany.

In addition to their accomplishments on the court, Averkamp and Gibler were also lauded for their excellence in the classroom, with each being named to the I-AAA Men's Basketball Scholar-Athlete Team, the Horizon League Men's Basketball All-Academic Team and the National Jesuit Men's Basketball All-Academic Team. Averkamp also picked up Capital One First Team Academic All-District V recognition and a total of three Ramblers were named to the Horizon League Spring Academic Honor Roll. Gibler was also recognized by the Horizon League by earning the most prestigious award it hands out each year, the Cecil N. Coleman Medal of Honor. Awarded to a male and female student-athlete in the conference who best exemplifies the high purpose and character of the league and its membership, the Coleman Award had previously been won by a Rambler men's basketball player just one other time, by Jason Telford in 2004, before Gibler garnered the hardware in 2012.

PORTER MOSER

Named one of the top 50 assistant coaches in the country by Basketball Times in 2009, Moser was named associate head coach after spending one season as an assistant coach at Saint Louis. While with the Billikens, he helped SLU to a 69-61 overall record during his four years on the staff and the 2009-10 team posted a 23-13 overall record and reached the finals of the College Basketball Invitational before falling to Virginia Commonwealth University.

Prior to his stint at Saint Louis, Moser was the head coach at Illinois State for four years before leaving behind a championship caliber team. After the 2003-04 squad notched a 10-19 record, Moser engineered a seven-game improvement in the win column in his second season as head coach as the Redbirds went 17-13 in 2004-05 despite being picked to finish last in the league in the preseason poll. Moser's recruiting acumen helped land a talent-laden class in his final season at Illinois State, and that group was a critical component to three NIT berths in a three-year stretch from 2008-10.

At Illinois State, Moser coached three All-Missouri Valley Conference selections and produced one Academic All-America selection (Neil Plank in 2006).

Moser's first head coaching opportunity came at the University of Arkansas-Little Rock, and in three short seasons there, he steered the Trojans to a 54-34 overall record. The architect of the greatest turnaround in Sun Belt Conference history, Moser turned a 4-24 team into an 18-11 outfit in just one year.

When Moser took over the reins of the UALR program, the Trojans ranked last in several defensive categories in the Sun Belt Conference, but after that first season, finished tops in the league in field goal percentage defense and three-point field goal percentage defense, and second in scoring defense.

He began his coaching career in 1990-91 as a graduate assistant coach at his alma mater, Creighton University, then spent four seasons as an assistant coach at Texas A&M University before moving to the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee for one season. While at A&M, Moser helped the Aggies reach the 1994 NIT for their first postseason appearance in seven years. After that brief stay at Milwaukee, Moser returned to Texas A&M for two more seasons on the Aggies' bench, then served as an assistant coach under both Wimp Sanderson and Sidney Moncrief at UALR for two years.

As a player at Creighton, Moser was a two-year starter and helped the Bluejays to the 1989 Missouri Valley Conference title. He graduated in 1990 with a degree in business management.

At Benet Academy, Moser was a three-year varsity starter and was named the conference player of the year as a senior. The all-state selection was also instrumental in Benet's state record 102-game home winning streak.

Moser and his wife, Megan, and their four children – Jordan, Jake, Max and Ben – reside in Wilmette.

Veteran Bennie Seltzer is set to begin his first season on the bench as an assistant coach at Loyola University Chicago. Seltzer brings 18 years of collegiate coaching experience with him to Rogers Park and most recently served as the Director of Player Performance at Indiana after a two-year stint as the head coach at Samford.

Seltzer began his coaching career in 1997, serving as an assistant coach for nine seasons under Kelvin Sampson at Oklahoma. The Sooners averaged 25 wins per season during his time in Norman and made eight NCAA Tournament trips, including runs to the Sweet 16 (1999), Elite Eight (2003) and Final Four (2002).

Seltzer then moved to Marquette in 2006, spending a pair of seasons on Tom Crean's coaching staff. The Golden Eagles made the NCAA Tournament in both seasons and Seltzer followed Crean to Indiana, where he was an assistant coach for four years. While in Bloomington, Seltzer was instrumental in recruiting some top-level talent to help the Hoosiers' rebuilding project, bringing in Victor Oladipo and Christian Watford among others as part of a group that would form the foundation of IU's 2012-13 squad that spent 10 weeks ranked No. 1 in the national poll and earned a No. 1 seed for the NCAA Tournament.

In 2012, Seltzer returned to his hometown of Birmingham, Ala. and was named the head coach at Samford University. He unquestionably raised the talent level during his two seasons there, seeing Tim Williams (2013) and Isaiah Williams (2014) earn Southern Conference Freshman of the Year honors, while Williams matured into a First Team All-SoCon pick his sophomore year.

After his departure from Samford, Seltzer returned to Bloomington in Jan., 2015 and served as Crean's Director of Player Performance for the last six months.

In addition to his collegiate experience, Seltzer was one of four court coaches for USA Basketball's national team trials in July, 2004, conducting drills, coaching scrimmages and developing players for the group vying for spots on the 2004 USA World Championship For Young Men Qualifying Team. The eventual 12-man team went on to win the gold medal, winning all five of its games.

Seltzer entered the coaching profession after a successful playing career that began at Washington State and took him overseas upon graduation. He capped his WSU career by earning First Team All-Pac 10 honors as a senior and is still the school's all-time leader in assists while ranking sixth in scoring and steals and second in three-pointers made. In honor of his standout career, Seltzer was inducted into the Pac-12 Men's Basketball Hall of Honor this past March. After leaving Pullman, Seltzer embarked on a four-year professional career that took him to Turkey, Venezuela, Poland and Holland. He and his wife, DicQues, have two sons; Diamond (21) - who is a Private First Class in the U.S. Marine Corps - and Bennie III (14).

A Chicago native, Emanuel Dildy is set for his third season on the bench as an assistant coach at Loyola University Chicago. Dildy works with the program's guards while playing a major role in recruiting, scouting and player development.

In two seasons, Dildy has helped develop Milton Doyle, who was the 2014 MVC Freshman and Newcomer of the Year, while also working with Devon Turk, who became Loyola's all-time leading three-point shooter as a junior. On the recruiting trail, Dildy has helped Loyola keep some prime Chicago talent at home and, under his watch, Donte Ingram became Loyola's first recruit from Simeon since Tim Bankston (1986)

Dildy came to Loyola after spending the 2012-13 season as an assistant coach on Jay Spoonhour's staff at Eastern Illinois. That season, he helped forward Sherman Blanford earn Ohio Valley Conference All-Newcomer Team honors after putting up 10.5 points and 6.4 rebounds per contest for the Panthers. Prior to returning to his alma mater, Dildy served as the head coach at Kennedy-King College for two seasons (2010-12), compiling a 35-27 record, and guided the program to an appearance in the NJCAA Region IV Tournament championship game.

After his playing days at Eastern Illinois, where he averaged 15.3 ppg as a senior in 2004-05, Dildy embarked on a professional playing career that featured stops in Germany and in the IBL. He began his coaching career as an assistant at Kennedy-King in 2008.

After two seasons as the Director of Basketball Operations, former Southern Illinois standout Bryan Mullins enters his first season as an assistant coach at Loyola University Chicago. Mullins will primarily work with the team's backcourt in addition to scouting and recruiting responsibilities.

During his career at SIU, Mullins helped the Salukis to a pair of NCAA Tournament appearances, one NIT berth, and two Missouri Valley Conference championships. He was a two-time Missouri Valley Conference Defensive Player of the Year selection and earned MVC All-Defensive Team recognition in each of his four seasons with the Salukis. As a freshman, the 6-foot-2 guard led the MVC and ranked seventh in the nation in steals (2.85 spg) and was named to the Missouri Valley Conference's All-Newcomer and All-Defensive teams.

His floor leadership helped the Salukis to a 29-7 record and a NCAA Sweet 16 appearance in 2006-07. Mullins contributed a career-best 10.7 points and 2.6 rebounds and 5.0 assists per game, while connecting on a personal-best 41 percent (48-for-117) of his three-point attempts en route to Second Team All-MVC honors in 2007-08.

Off the court, he graduated with a degree in finance and a perfect 4.0 cumulative grade-point average, was a three-time All-Missouri Valley Conference Scholar-Athlete Team pick and garnered the 2009 MVC Scholar-Athlete of the Year Award. A two-time ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America honoree, Mullins was presented with the league's highest academic achievement when he earned the Missouri Valley Conference President's Council Academic Award.

In 2009, the Downers Grove, Ill., native collected the MVC's Dr. Charlotte West Scholar-Athlete Award for his academic achievement, athletics excellence, service and leadership and this past February was inducted into the Downers Grove South High School Hall of Fame.

Following his collegiate career, Mullins spent four seasons as a professional basketball player in France and during the 2012-13 campaign, averaged 7.4 ppg, 2.3 rpg, 4.1 apg and 2.3 spg while playing for Chalons-Reims.

No stranger to Porter Moser, Matt Gordon is set to begin his fifth season at Loyola University Chicago and his third as the program's Director of Basketball Operations. A Chicago native and graduate of St. Rita High School, Gordon was the director of men's basketball operations at Saint Louis University before returning to his hometown.

In his time at Loyola, Gordon has helped the program establish a foundation for long-term success and has seen the program improve from seven wins during his first season to 24 wins and a College Basketball Invitational (CBI) title last season.

Gordon has been part of a staff that helped develop forward Ben Averkamp into a two-time Second Team All-Horizon League selection and seen Milton Doyle become just the seventh player in Missouri Valley Conference history to earn both MVC Freshman of the Year and MVC Newcomer of the Year in the same season. In addition, Gordon has helped Devon Turk set Loyola's all-time, three-point field goals record with a full season to play.

Gordon, who worked with Moser for the previous five seasons as well, began his basketball career as the head manager at Illinois State University, and worked three seasons there when Moser was the head coach. While with the Redbirds, Gordon also served as the team's video coordinator. During the 2007-08 season, Gordon worked for the NBA's Memphis Grizzlies as a basketball operations intern, assisting the coaching staff with a multitude of projects including video editing.

He then worked with Moser on legendary coach Rick Majerus' staff as the director of basketball operations at Saint Louis from 2008-11, and during the 2009-10 campaign, the Billikens posted a 23-13 overall mark and reached the championship series of the CBI.

After graduating from Illinois State, Gordon took a position with Full Package Athletics in Lake Forest, Ill., where he was a head coach for AAU teams and conducted daily practices and workouts for those squads.

2015-16 RAMBLER BASKETBALL
1963 NCAA CHAMPIONS

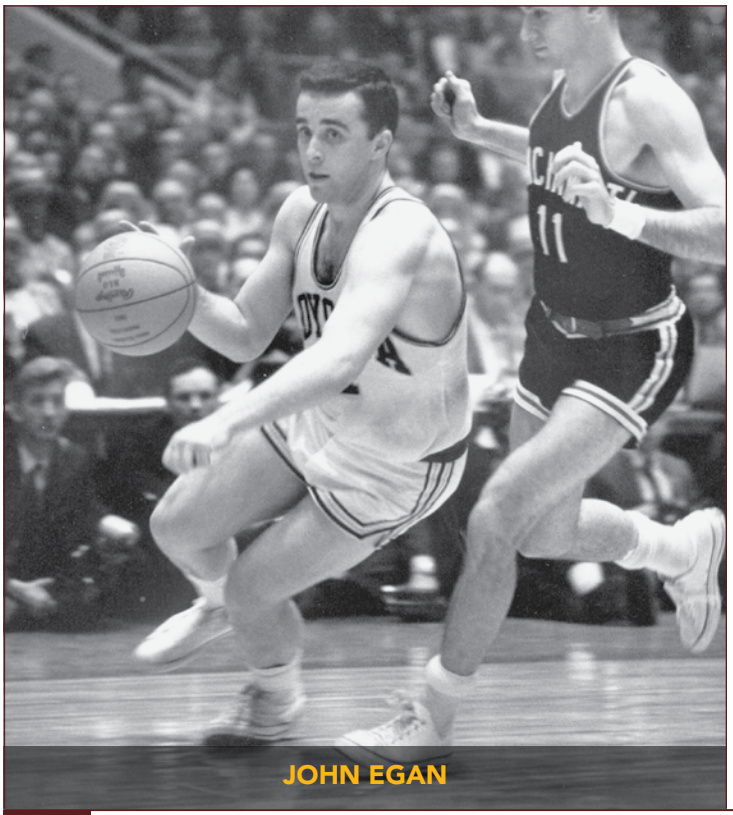
On Saturday, March 23, 1963, the odds were stacked against the Loyola Ramblers. Despite being the top offensive team in the nation -- scoring 100 or more points 11 times during the regular season -- the Ramblers were labeled as underdogs as they faced the two-time NCAA champion Cincinnati Bearcats.

Cincinnati's slow controlled style of play combined with the best defense in the country was predicted to be the antidote to Loyola's up-tempo scoring machine, which averaged 93 points per game. The tip-off would be the final chapter of a storybook season.

The road to that championship game had been long and winding. The Ramblers lost two of their best bench players to academic ineligibility, giving rise to the five Iron Men -- so nicknamed by sportswriters because coach George Ireland rarely took his starters out of games.

After starting the season ranked third by the Associated Press, the Ramblers won their first 20 games and finished the regular season with a 24-2 record. Loyola kicked off the NCAA Tournament by trouncing first-round opponent Tennessee Tech, 111-42, a NCAA record for margin of victory that stands to this day.

Its second-round opponent, Mississippi State, was a late addition because sports programs representing Mississippi schools were not allowed to play integrated teams. Coach Babe McCarthy stole his team to the tournament under the cover of darkness before an injunction could be served prohibiting the Maroons from playing the Ramblers. Loyola won the historic contest, 61-51, with a 20-point effort by All-America forward Jerry Harkness. That contest would prove to be a landmark event in the civil rights movement.



JOHN EGAN

The Ramblers then dropped Illinois, 79-64 in the Mideast Regional, which pushed them to the Final Four in Louisville, Ky. In the national semifinal, Loyola beat Duke, 94-75 behind a 29-point, 18-rebound game by Les Hunter. Thus, the stage was set for one of the most thrilling championship games in NCAA history.

As predicted, Cincinnati's style of play caused problems for the Ramblers from the tip-off. By the second half, with 13:56 left on the clock, Loyola was trailing by 15 points, 45-30. The Ramblers were so out of their normal rhythm that their star, Harkness, had not yet scored a single point.

"It was my first time on national television and all my friends and relatives were seeing me," Harkness would say later. "All I was thinking was, let's get the score close. But I didn't think we could against Cincinnati because the deficit was 15 and going up."

Against all odds, Loyola's Iron Men stormed back to pull within two points. Harkness gave the TV audience a treat, scoring 11 of his 14 points in the final five minutes. His 12-foot jumper with four seconds remaining in regulation tied the score at 54 and forced overtime.

As the compelling story of the strong-willed underdogs unfolded in Freedom Hall, the Ramblers were cheered on by fans from Duke and Oregon State, who had lost their Final Four games. Ireland later recalled, "We didn't have a band, but the Duke band got behind us."

As the game went into overtime, a Harkness layup gave the Ramblers a quick lead, but the Bearcats answered with a basket to tie the game at 56. A 20-foot jump shot by Ron Miller gave Loyola the lead. With 1:49 remaining and the game tied at 58, Ireland called a time-out to set up a play, which was forced into a jump ball by Cincinnati's Larry Shingleton.

Loyola's shortest man, John Egan, squared-off against the taller Shingleton to see who would play for the last shot in the pre-shot clock era of college basketball. To the amazement of the fans and his own teammates, Egan leapt at just the right moment to tip the ball to Miller who moved the ball up court for the last shot.

Ireland wanted his All-American, Harkness, to take the last shot, but the Bearcats' Tom Thacker was not going to let Harkness near the basket. With time running out, Harkness fed the ball to Les Hunter at the foul line. Hunter's shot spun around the rim and bounced out, but Vic Rouse, fighting through Bearcat defenders, emerged. With one second remaining, Rouse tipped the ball through the basket as the clock struck zero.

"I knew I was going to get the ball and I took my time once I was in the air," Rouse told reporters after the title game. "I never thought we'd lose it. We came too far to lose it."

The screeching buzzer ended the overtime drama and Rouse was mobbed by screaming fans and teammates. Red Rush, the voice of Ramblers radio could only scream, "We Won! We Won! We Won!" into his overworked microphone. Loyola University Chicago upset Cincinnati 60-58 in overtime and became the 1963 National Basketball Champions.

1963 NCAA CHAMPIONS

Even today, Loyola remains the only school in Illinois to have won a NCAA Division I National Championship in basketball. The five Iron Men -- Jerry Harkness, Les Hunter, Vic Rouse, John Egan and Ron Miller -- have each had their jersey numbers retired. On Sunday, March 24, 1963, the front-page headline of the Chicago Tribune provided the perfect footnote to the magical season: "Loyola Rules U.S."

A documentary on the accomplishments of the team chronicling several of the racial obstacles it faced, was produced as part of ESPN's SportsCenter Flashback series and originally aired in February 2002.

Last year, the team celebrated the 50th anniversary of its national title and was awarded a number of accolades. On November 24, 2013, the 1963 Loyola Ramblers will become the first team ever to be inducted into the National Collegiate Basketball Hall of Fame and in 2013, the squad was also enshrined in the Chicagoland Sports Hall of Fame. Last summer, the team made a trip to the White House and met President Barack Obama, and in 2013, the Ramblers' NCAA title game against Cincinnati was named the No. 1 game in NCAA Tournament history in the book The Ultimate Book of March Madness.

GAME OF CHANGE

Perhaps no game affected college basketball more than a 1963 contest between Loyola University Chicago and Mississippi State University. The historic game, which would later come to be known as the "Game of Change," was a NCAA Regional semifinal game played between the Ramblers and Maroons on March 15, 1963 in East Lansing, Mich., and was recently named the No. 12 moment in NCAA Tournament history by ESPN.com.

That contest between Loyola and Mississippi State, forever changed college basketball and civil rights. Loyola head coach George Ireland started four African-Americans and his Rambler team faced discrimination and racism during its national championship run in 1963. A win over Tennessee Tech in the opening round of the NCAA Tournament set Loyola up for a scheduled showdown with Mississippi State in the regional semifinals.

However, the all-white MSU squad was frequently denied participation in the postseason due to an unwritten Mississippi law that prohibited competition against integrated teams. Despite facing the prospect of losing their jobs, Mississippi State's head coach and president challenged the system, snuck out of town under the cover of darkness before an injunction could be served by Mississippi Gov. Ross Burnett, and allowed the team to face Loyola at Jenison Field House, in a game won by the Ramblers, 61-51.

In December 2012, Loyola and Mississippi State faced one another at Gentile Arena for the first time since that historic game 50 years ago. Several members of both the Loyola and Mississippi State teams from that 1963 season gathered in Chicago for that game in December last year.

"Now, they call it the `Game of Change.' Then, Mississippi State's 1963 game against Loyola in the Mideast semifinals was historically insignificant. In between, it lost its place, overrun by the more Hollywood-adaptable games between Texas Western and Kentucky. But the significance of the '63 game can't be overlooked. Bulldogs players and staff sneaked out of Mississippi under the threat of a state injunction to play the integrated team from Chicago.

The players simply wanted to play a game, but when flashbulbs popped at the historic handshake between African-American player Jerry Harkness from Loyola and Mississippi State's Joe Dan Gold, everyone realized that their March moment was far bigger than a basketball game," ESPN.com reporter Dana O'Neil wrote.
