Trojans Win Title; Bill Thom Honored

OMAHA, June 20 (AP)—Pitcher Bill Thom of Southern California's NCAA baseball World Series champions has been selected as the most valuable player in the tourney by votes of sports writers and broadcasters.

Thom shut out Missouri, 7-0, Wednesday night to send the tourney into an extra game and last night held the Missouri club scoreless for four-and-a-third innings in a relief role before SC shoved across a 12th-inning run to win, 8-7.

Thom lost his first start in the series to Holy Cross when Hal Dietz blanked the western club.

Blewett Hits

Mike Blewett finally broke up last night's game, driving a long hit to right field to score Rex Johnston from third with two men out.

The Trojans seemingly had put the game away in the fourth when they scored seven runs for a 7-4 lead. But Missouri got three in the top of the eighth to tie and then throttled numerous Trojan threats until Blewett belted his blow, ending the first extra-inning championship game in the history of the tourney.

Southern California became the second team to lose its first game in the double elimination tourney and then come back to win the crown. Texas did it first in 1950.

Follow Bears

The Trojan win kept the championship on the West Coast where it went last year when California won. Oddly, this marked the second time that California and Southern California followed each other as champions. California won its first title in 1947 and in 1948 Southern California was the champion.

Named by the writers and broadcasters to the All-Tournament team were four Southern California and four Missouri players along with one from Holy Cross and one from Western Michigan. . . SC choices were Mike Castanon, second base; Fred Scott, shortstop; Ron Fairly, outfield, and Thom. . . Missouri players chosen were: Booby Siebert, first base; Martin (Bo) Toft, outfield; Hank Kuhlmann, catcher, and Doug Gulick, pitcher. . . Ken Komodinski of Holy Cross was selected at third base and Marvin Winegar of Western Michigan for the outfield.

The next USC title came 10 years later when Troy went 5-1 at the 1958 CWS, losing only to Holy Cross in the opening game, 3-0. USC fought its way back through the losers' bracket to claim the crown, making it only the second team in CWS history to accomplish that feat (Texas did it previously in 1950).

The Trojans rebounded from the loss to beat Arizona, 4-0; Colorado State, 12-1; and Holy Cross, 6-2.

USC then had to defeat Missouri twice to claim the championship. In the first game, with no score entering the ninth inning, the Trojans exploded for seven runs. With the support of Bill Thom's three-hitter, USC defeated the Tigers, 7-0, forcing one final game.

Then, in one of the most exciting championship games in baseball history, USC beat Missouri, 8-7 in 12 innings, after trailing, 4-0. Third baseman Mike Blewett won the game for USC with a single to right field in the bottom of the 12th that sent outfielder Rex Johnston home from third with the winning run. Thom (the tournament MVP) pitched 4 2/3 scoreless relief innings to get credit for the win. USC first baseman Ken Guffey went 2-for-4 with two RBI.

By winning their eighth straight CIBA title (and their 12th in the past 13 years), the Trojans earned a berth in the PCC Playoffs, where they swept Oregon State in two games, then advanced to the District 8 finals, where they beat Portland twice to advance to Omaha.

1961 National Championship Team

The 1961 championship game was exciting as well. It was also notable because USC became the first school with three national titles.

USC went 5-0 in the CWS, making it only the fifth team in 15 years of the NCAA Tournament to go undefeated. To start the tournament, the Trojans beat Texas, 8-6; Boston College, 10-3; and Oklahoma State, 4-2. In the win against Oklahoma State, Larry Hankammer set a CWS record by striking out 16 batters.

In a second meeting with Boston College, the Eagles took a 3-0 lead before the Trojans rallied with two runs in the seventh and one in the eighth to send the game into extra innings. In the 10th, back-to-back-to-back singles by third baseman Tom Satriano, rightfielder Art Ersepke and catcher Larry Himes gave USC a 4-3 victory, and sent the Trojans to the championship game.

After enduring a rain delay before the final, USC squeaked out a 1-0 victory over Oklahoma State to win the national championship. With no score and one out in the eighth inning, leftfielder Mike Gillespie (the future Trojan head coach) doubled to the left-center field fence. One out later, Ersepke drove home Gillespie with a single. Trojan pitcher Jim Withers improved his record to 12-1 with the shutout, in which he gave up only four hits and struck out 13.

Five Trojans earned All-CWS honors: Ersepke, Himes, Withers, Hankammer and first baseman Bill Ryan.

Prior to the CWS, the Trojans earned a 12-4 mark in the CIBA, which was good for their 11th consecutive first-place finish and their 15th in 16 years.

Troy took two out of three games from Fresno State to win the first round of the District 8 Playoffs before sweeping Washington State in two straight to claim the District 8 championship and a trip to the CWS.

The next NCAA title came in 1963 when USC lost its first CWS game, then had to win all of its remaining games to stay alive. Troy did just that and eventually defeated Arizona, 5-2, to take the title.

The Trojans opened the CWS with an 8-3 loss to Texas. But that defeat was followed with five straight victories, avoiding elimination and earning USC's fourth championship.

The Trojans beat Holy Cross, 6-5, scoring all six runs in the seventh inning; Florida State, 4-3, assisted by a defense that threw out three runners at the plate; and Missouri, 12-3, eliminating the No. 1 team in the tournament.

USC then needed to beat Arizona twice. In the first contest, the Trojans scored five runs in the first inning en route to a 6-4 win. After a day off because of rain, USC took a 5-0 lead after five innings and held on for the 5-2 victory. Walt Peterson pitched a complete game and struck out nine while catcher Bud Hollowell and first baseman Gary Holman hit 400-foot homers.

Hollowell hit four home runs in the final four games to earn tournament MVP honors. The 1963 team was one of the youngest Trojan championship teams, with a starting lineup that included seven sophomores.

After losing the CIBA title to Santa Clara in 1962, which snapped USC's 11-year winning streak, the Trojans earned their revenge by clinching the 1963 title on the field against the Broncos. USC went on to defeat Oregon State for the District 8 championship in three games.

* Pac-8 game
District 8 Playoffs at Cal State Los Angeles
+ College World Series at Omaha, Neb.

If the mark of a good team is the ability to win close games, the 1968 USC team was very good. That team went undefeated in Omaha, though it won no CWS game by more than two runs and the team hit .221 for the series.

The road to the championship was filled with comebacks. The Trojans scored four in the seventh to break a 1-1 tie and beat BYU, 5-3; they scored three in the fourth and two in the fifth to defeat Oklahoma State, 6-5; and scored four in the seventh and one in the eighth to edge St. John's, 7-6. Bob Vaughn, pitching for the first time in a month because of injury, tossed a six-hit shutout against North Carolina State in a 2-0 win, advancing the Trojans to the final.

The championship game against Southern Illinois required another comeback. USC trailed 2-0 in the third inning but tied the game at 2-2 in the fourth frame thanks to a two-run home run by first baseman Bill Seinsoth (the tournament MVP).

Southern Illinois scored a go-ahead run in the eighth inning. Trailing 3-2 in the bottom of the ninth, USC got two runners on base with two men out. Up came pinch-hitter Pat Kuehner, hitless to that point in the CWS. He laced a triple with two strikes on him to score the tying and winning runs in the 4-3 victory.

Brent Strom earned his second CWS victory in relief. For the series, Strom pitched 9 1/3 innings, giving up only one run and three hits while striking out 13.

After winning the Pac-8 title, USC took two of three games from Cal State Los Angeles to win the District 8 Playoffs and advance to the CWS.

Two years later, USC won the first of an unprecedented five straight NCAA baseball titles, though it took many extra innings to accomplish the feat.

As in 1958 and 1963, the Trojans lost their opening game, 4-1 to Ohio, and had to win all of the rest of their games for the national title. The loss to the Bobcats snapped the Trojans' 13-game winning streak. But the Trojans came back with easy victories over Delaware, 7-1, and Dartmouth, 6-1.

Things looked bleak in the next game against Texas when the Trojans fell behind, 7-1, after six innings. But USC exploded for six runs in the top of the seventh, and the game stayed tied until the top of the 14th inning, when outfielder Jeff Pedersen singled and scored on shortstop Cal Meier's triple. Righthander Jim Barr pitched eight innings of scoreless relief in the 8-7 victory.

In an interesting situation, the remaining three teams — USC, Texas and Florida State — all had records of 3-1. The Trojans won a coin flip, giving them a bye and putting them into the final.

The championship game against Florida State was another extra-inning affair, as it took 15 innings to earn a 2-1 victory. Barr pitched another eight scoreless innings in relief on just one day's rest to earn the win.

Meier led off the bottom of the 15th inning with a walk. Third baseman Dan Stoligrosz walked and rightfielder Dave Kingman singled to load the bases with nobody out. Second baseman Frank Alfano, who already had two hits on the day, singled home the winning run.

USC won the regular-season Pac-8 title, the Pac-8 Tournament and the District 8 Playoffs before moving on to the CWS.

1971 National Championship Team

The Trojans captured their second straight NCAA crown and third in the last four years in 1971, the 25th anniversary of the CWS. USC became only the second team in the history of the tournament to win back-to-back championships (Texas was the first in 1949-50).

As they had done in previous tournaments, USC had to overcome an early defeat. Following a 5-1 victory over Seton Hall, the Trojans suffered an 8-3 loss against Southern Illinois.

But the Trojans rebounded quickly with an 8-6 win over BYU and an 8-4 beating of Tulsa.

In a rematch with Tulsa, Troy avoided defeat as righthander Mark Sogge lifted himself out of trouble. With the bases loaded in the eighth inning, his pickoff started a double play, keeping the score tied at 2-2. Sogge also singled home the game-winning run in the ninth for a 3-2 victory.

In the championship game, second baseman Frank Alfano and catcher Craig Perkins hit back-to-back homers over the left-field fence in the seventh inning of a 7-2 win over Southern Illinois, avenging the earlier loss to the Salukis. With the bases loaded in the top of the ninth, righthander Steve Busby struck out the final batter to cap his complete-game victory.

Outfielder Fred Lynn hit .467 (7-for-15) in the CWS with a home run.

USC went undefeated (17-0) in the Pac-8 season, making the Trojans the first-ever team to record an unbeaten conference season. The Trojan pitchers also set a conference record by tossing 38 1/3 consecutive scoreless innings.

The Trojans went 3-1 to win the Pac-8 Playoffs, then moved on to the District 8 Playoffs at Santa Clara. The host Broncos won the first game, but USC won the next two.

District 8 Playoffs at Santa Clara & USC

+ College World Series at Omaha, Neb.

USC won the 1972 CWS — becoming the first school to win three straight baseball titles — despite hitting only .198 for the series. But Troy had dominant pitching, which came up big in one close game after another. All five of USC's victories were by one or two runs.

The Trojans fought back from the loser's bracket for the third year in a row. USC opened with victories over Mississippi, 8-6, and Connecticut, 5-4, in 11 innings, but lost the next game to Arizona State, 3-0.

In a 10-inning thriller against Texas, first baseman Daryl Arenstein, after breaking his bat on a 2-2 pitch, borrowed one from his roommate, Jeff Port, and delivered a game-winning single to score Tim Steele for a 4-3 win.

USC then had to beat Arizona State twice for the title. First, Randy Scarbery went the distance in a 3-1 victory. The Trojans scored two runs in the second inning, ending a 33 1/3-inning scoreless streak by ASU pitchers.

Then, in the championship, Russ McQueen's heroics in relief helped preserve a 1-0 shutout of the Sun Devils for the title. He entered the game with the bases loaded and nobody out in the fifth inning, got out of the jam unscathed and gave up only one hit in five innings of work. Steele scored the game's only run on a wild pitch in the third inning and had two hits, including a double.

McQueen, the tournament MVP, pitched 14 innings without giving up a run in the CWS and earned three wins and a save. USC's strong pitching was a surprise because Troy had lost three pitchers to the pros before the season.

Prior to the CWS, the Trojans defeated Washington State twice for the Pac-8 title, then beat UC Santa Barbara twice in the District 8 Playoffs.

District 8 Playoffs at USC

+ College World Series at Omaha, Neb.

In 1973, USC again defeated Arizona State in the title game, this time behind an offense that featured outfielder Fred Lynn, shortstop Roy Smalley and third baseman Rich Dauer. It was USC's fourth consecutive championship.

Troy went undefeated en route to the championship (only the second time a CWS winner had been unbeaten since 1961). The first three victories were against Harvard, 4-1; Texas, 4-1; and Arizona State, 3-1.

The next game, and the highlight of the CWS, was USC's incredible 8-7 victory over Minnesota — one of the greatest comebacks in NCAA history in any sport. Going into the bottom of the ninth, the Trojans had been held to just one hit and were being shut out, 7-0, by Gopher pitcher and longtime major leaguer Dave Winfield. But Troy sent 11 men to the plate, coming up with eight singles, a sacrifice fly and a stolen base (as well as three Minnesota errors) to score eight runs and win the game. Pinch-hitter Ken Huizenga led off the ninth with a single and then his sacrifice fly tied the game at seven runs apiece. USC won it on outfielder Creighton Tevlin's RBI single.

That vaulted the Trojans into the championship game, where they beat top-ranked ASU, 4-3. USC took a 4-0 lead, then held on as lefthander Jeff Reinke, who was on a basketball scholarship at USC, retired the final 11 batters. Huizenga scored a run, had two RBI and made a diving catch to open the ninth inning for the Trojans.

Troy swept Washington State in two games for the second straight year to win its fourth consecutive Pac-8 championship, then defeated Loyola and Cal State Los Angeles in four straight games for its fourth consecutive District 8 title.

The last of USC's unprecedented five straight NCAA titles came in 1974 and was led by infielder Rich Dauer and designated hitter Steve Kemp, who helped the 1974 Trojans to the champion. No other team, before or since, has won more than two titles in a row.

With a win over Texas in the opening game of the tournament, 9-2, and a game two victory over Southern Illinois, 5-3, the Trojans enjoyed a 10-game CWS winning streak before a 7-3 loss to Miami (Fla.). But the Trojans made their way to the title game for the fifth straight year by defeating Texas, 5-3, and Southern Illinois, 7-2.

In the final, USC beat Miami (Fla.), 7-3, avenging the earlier loss. Trojan pitchers John Racanelli and George Milke combined to strike out 10 Hurricanes (and allowed zero earned runs) in the clincher while second baseman Rob Adolph, a backup to quarterback Pat Haden on the football team, hit a two-run home run.

Milke was named the CWS Most Outstanding Player after earning three victories.

To get to the CWS, the Trojans beat Oregon in the Pac-8 Championships and Cal State Los Angeles and Pepperdine in the District 8 Playoffs.

Dauer set an NCAA record in the opening game of the CWS with a second-inning single. It was his 102nd hit of the season, breaking Arizona State's Alan Bannister's record of 101 set in 1972. Dauer ended the season with a total of 108 hits and two other NCAA records: total bases (181) and RBI (92).

Kemp was fifth in the nation in batting average with an awesome .435, still the USC single-season record.

On March 30, 1974, in the inaugural game at Dedeaux Field, Jeff McQueen tossed a 7-0 no-hitter over California.

USC's 11th title came in 1978, as the Trojans went 54-9 overall (the best record in the country and still the school single-season record for wins) after starting out the season with a 7-4 record. The Trojans finished the season with a 10-game win streak and went 27-2 in their last 29 games.

At the CWS, the Trojans easily won their first three games by beating Miami (Fla.), 9-3; Michigan, 11-3; and Arizona State, 5-2.

It required a late-inning comeback to hold off North Carolina in a 3-2 victory. Down 2-0 heading into the eighth inning, the Trojans scored twice in the top of the eighth and got the game-winner in the top of the ninth as centerfielder John Wells' sacrifice fly scored second baseman Larry Fobbs.

Once again the Trojans beat Arizona State in the CWS final, 10-3, as first baseman Dave Hostetler hit a third-inning homer that proved to be the game-winner. Hostetler and outfielder Tim Tolman each had three hits for USC. The Trojans took a 10-0 lead and Bill Bordley didn't allow a run for the first seven innings.

Rod Boxberger was named tournament MVP.

Previously, USC's two-game sweep of Washington State in the Pac-8 Championships extended USC's conference tournament winning streak to 13 games. The Trojans then went 3-0 in the NCAA West Regional at Dedeaux Field with two wins over Arizona and a victory over Cal State Fullerton, all by one-run margins.

Bordley (12-2) and Boxberger (12-1) were two of four Trojans — including Brian Hayes (11-2) and Ernie Mauritsen (11-0) — with at least 11 wins, making NCAA history. Bordley started the 1978 season 6-0, giving him wins in 20 straight decisions. The pitching staff registered a 2.63 ERA for the season.

The 12th and most recent title came in 1998, as the Trojans put together an amazing run at the College World Series. It was the 50th anniversary of USC's first-ever baseball crown.

For the fourth time, USC was able to overcome an opening-round loss (12-10 to two-time defending champion LSU) to claim the title.

USC needed four wins in the next five days to reach the final. First, USC beat Florida, 12-10, in 11 innings. Rik Currier then shut down Mississippi State, 7-1, as he struck out 12 in eight innings.

The Trojans then had to beat LSU twice in two days, and righthanders Seth Etherton and Mike Penney were up to the task, as they pitched USC to 5-4 and 7-3 wins, respectively.

USC faced a familiar foe in the title game: Arizona State. For the fourth time, the two teams met in the final, and for the fourth time, the Trojans came away victorious in a 21-14 slugfest.

Robb Gorr opened the first with a three-run shot to left and the Trojans opened an 8-0 lead in the second on a three-run homer by second baseman Wes Rachels and Gorr's second homer of the game with a solo shot. The Sun Devils, though, answered with five in the bottom of the inning, including a grand slam by shortstop Michael Collins. USC held off Arizona State throughout the game and led, 11-8, in the seventh before one of the most dramatic moments in CWS history.

With the bases loaded and two outs, Head Coach Mike Gillespie called for a triple steal as Morgan Ensberg stole home. Rachels followed with a two-run single to give the Trojans a six-run lead. Arizona State scored five runs in the seventh, but the Trojans put the game away in the ninth on a grand slam over the center-field wall by designated hitter Jason Lane in the ninth.

Lane set CWS records for hits (15) and total bases (31). Wes Rachels, the CWS Most Outstanding Player, went 5-for-7 with a championship-game record seven RBI. Jack Krawczyk pitched the final 1 2/3 innings to earn a save and set NCAA single-season and career records.

"I was proud of our guys," said Gillespie. "We couldn't allow ourselves a week ago to think that we would be playing for the national championship. This achievement for me goes beyond my ability to describe it."

At the NCAA East Regional, the Trojans also had to come back from an early loss, but they won their final three games in a two-day period.

Trojan Baseball Heritage

The Early Years

USC played its first baseball game on Nov. 23, 1889, losing to a club team called Bonny Brae, 13-10, on a campus field. Records don't indicate another game until Feb. 20, 1892, when USC had a 14-13 win over Woodbury Business College on its way to an undefeated (5-0-1) season. There were about 20 players on the USC squad that year.

The 1893 season began prior to the calendar year with a 13-0 victory over El Monte on Oct. 29, 1892. Ten games were played that season.

Records show USC playing only a combined total of three games over the next four years. The program regrouped in 1898, going 8-3, with L.W. Umsted serving as manager and catcher.

The program wavered without distinction again until 1902 when Hall of Fame pitcher Rube Waddell, who starred for the Philadelphia Athletics and three other teams, directed the team in early-season training.

USC played a limited number of games each season thereafter until 1905, when a 12-game schedule was played (there was rarely a season with fewer than 10 games after that). USC played its first international game, losing to Waseda of Japan, 13-6.

Official statistics were first kept in 1906, when shortstop and captain Walter Bridewell hit .461.

Harvey Holmes is credited with being USC's first baseball coach, leading his team to a 17-2 mark in 1908.

On May 24, 1913, USC baseball was abolished in order to focus all springtime athletic pursuits on the track and field team.

From 1914-17, the university's law school team represented Troy on the baseball field, with the squad open to non-law students the last two years. The 1914 all-law school team played surprisingly well, going 8-2 overall and 4-1 against college teams.

Students organized one USC baseball game in 1918, a 3-2 loss to Union Oil on March 24, but other than that baseball was not played in 1918-19 due to World War I.

Baseball was brought back as a full-fledged university sport in 1920 with famed football coach Elmer "Gloomy Gus" Henderson leading the squad to a 9-4-1 record (4-1-1 versus college teams).

The 1921 team was co-coached by Henderson and Willis O. Hunter, and was also very successful: 9-3 overall, 6-1 against colleges.

Records don't indicate who coached the 1922 squad, but former major leaguer George Wheeler returned to coach USC in 1923 after previously doing so in 1914.

The rest of the 1920s belonged to Sam "Wahoo" Crawford (the Major Leagues' all-time leader in triples), who brought USC to prominence. Under Crawford's leadership, USC joined a baseball conference for the first time in 1927.

The Leagues

USC's first participation in league play was in the California Intercollegiate Baseball Association, originated in 1927. USC was one of five founding members, including California, St. Mary's, Santa Clara and Stanford. Prior to the advent of the CIBA, USC, Cal and Stanford shared a loose alliance in 1923-24 and 1926.

The CIBA ran from 1927-66, plus a brief return in 1976. USC and Cal were the only teams to participate in each of the years that the conference was in existence. In addition to the original members, other participants in the CIBA in its first 40 years were Loyola Marymount, Occidental, Pepperdine, UCLA, University of San Francisco and Whittier. In 1943, the CIBA was divided into two divisions as USC played with five other teams in the Southern Division.

In 1967, USC joined the Athletic Association of Western Universities, along with Cal, Oregon, Oregon State, Stanford, UCLA, Washington and Washington State. The AAWU changed its name to the Pacific-8 Conference in 1968. The Pac-8 was divided into Northern and Southern divisions in 1970, with USC, Cal, Stanford and UCLA in the latter.

The brief reformation of the CIBA in 1976 included the four Pac-8 Southern Division teams and UC Santa Barbara. In 1977, the Pac-8 Southern Division was restored in its original form.

In 1979, Arizona and Arizona State joined the four California Pac-8 schools in the Pac-10 Southern Division, which remained intact until the 1999 season.

Then, the three remaining Northern Division schools (Oregon State, Washington and Washington State) joined with the South's six schools to form one single division.

The Head Coaches

USC has an unprecedented tradition of coaching excellence in baseball, highlighted by Rod Dedeaux, one of the winningest baseball coaches in NCAA history. Only four other men have had the distinction of being a USC head baseball coach since 1924.

The Pre-Sam Crawford Era (1889-1923)

USC's first full-time head baseball coach was Harvey Holmes in 1908. He led Troy to a 17-2 mark for the season. Holmes also coached the Trojan footballers from 1904-07.

The next USC team with an official head coach was the 1911 squad. Curtiss Bernard, a professional player for the Pacific Coast League's Los Angeles Angels, led the Trojans to a 10-3 mark. Another PCL player, Len Burrell of the Vernon club, took over the following season.

George Wheeler, who played for the National League's Philadelphia Phillies in the 1890s, coached USC in 1914 and again in 1923. Wheeler did an amazing job in 1914 when he led the School of Law team (the only Trojan baseball team at that time) to an 8-2 record.

Ralph Glaze, the Trojan head football coach in 1914-15, took command of the baseball program in 1915.

Charles "Pat" Millikan was head coach in 1916. In 1917, Phil Koerner, a first baseman for the Los Angeles Angels, was named USC's head coach, but he was traded to San Francisco by the Angels midway through the season. So, with Koerner out of Southern California, Millikan reassumed control for the remainder of the season.

When Trojan baseball got back in gear in 1920 following the end of World War I, Elmer "Gloomy Gus" Henderson became the head coach. Henderson is probably best remembered for being the winningest football coach in USC history, losing only six games in six seasons (1919-24). He was also successful on the baseball diamond as the 1920 team went 9-4-1. Henderson co-coached the baseball squad with Willis O. Hunter in 1921.

The Sam Crawford Era (1924-29)

Crawford led USC for six years as Troy began a steady climb toward prominence. He actively sought to enlarge the schedule and improve it through tougher competition. He was a key force in the development of the California Intercollegiate Baseball Association in 1927. He had three seasons of double-digit wins and led USC to a second-place finish in the CIBA's initial campaign. Crawford was 59-46-3 in all games, 55-33 against other college teams and 19-19 in CIBA games.

The Sam Barry Era (1930-41)

Barry took the baton from Crawford in full stride. His first USC team went 25-5-1 overall, 15-2-1 in college games and 11-2 in the CIBA to take the league title. He ended up with five CIBA crowns (including two ties). Barry posted five seasons of 20-plus wins. His career marks: 219-89-3 against all competition, 133-54-2 versus college opponents and 112-52 in conference games.

The Barry-Dedeaux Era (1942, 1946-50)

In a unique situation, Barry and Dedeaux were co-head coaches for six very successful seasons. The duo led USC to CIBA championships in five of the six years, including 1948, a significant milestone year for the Trojan program. Not only did USC get its first 40-win season, but it also won its first national championship. The national champion Trojans were 26-4 against college competition, going 2-1 against Yale in the final three games of the College World Series. The final marks for the Barry-Dedeaux tandem were 170-70-3 overall (110-28 against college foes and 67-18 in CIBA games).

The Rod Dedeaux Era (1943-45, 1951-86)

When Barry joined the Navy in 1942 for World War II, Dedeaux was left as the sole head coach for the next three years and he made good on the opportunity, finishing second in the CIBA every year. Dedeaux's best work was ahead of him, though. Barry returned to his rank of co-head coach in 1946, until he passed away in the fall of 1950.

The Trojans made their first venture to the College World Series in 1948, utilizing a 16-game winning streak which included being crowned CIBA co-champions. USC defeated Yale in the first game of the CWS, 3-1, before Yale (with former President George W. Bush as the first baseman) snapped Troy's streak with an 8-3 victory. USC rallied to win their first national championship with a decisive 9-2 win against Yale, finishing the season with a 26-4 record.

Another CIBA championship and trip to the College World Series helped the 1949 squad, which finished with a 23-6 overall record.

In the next 11 years with Dedeaux at the helm, USC began an incredible streak where the Trojans won nine CIBA championships and two CIBA co-championships. The 1951 and 1955 squads reached the College World Series, but it was the 1958 squad that put another national championship trophy in USC's hands.

The 1958 Trojans went 28-3 and won the CWS in remarkable fashion after losing their first game, 3-0, against Holy Cross as Bill Thom took the loss in his first start of the series. Thom, however, would play an important role in the Trojans' title hopes. USC would battle and win its next five straight games to win the championship.

Thom threw 4 1/3 scoreless innings in relief to earn the victory in the national championship game with an 8-7 win in 12 innings against Missouri. The Trojans forced the title game after defeating Missouri earlier, 7-0. Mike Blewitt hit an RBI single to right field in the bottom of the 12th, scoring Rex Johnston from third with two outs for the victory.

In 1961, the Trojans capped their conference streak with the school's third national championship. USC went 5-0 in the College World Series, becoming only the fifth team in 15 years to go undefeated. In the second meeting of the CWS against Boston College, the Trojans rallied from a 3-0 deficit to force the game into extra innings. Three straight singles by Tom Satriano, Art Ersepke and Larry Himes produced the game-winning run in the 10th, sending the Trojans to the national championship.

A rain delay forced Oklahoma State and USC to wait before playing the title game, but it was future head coach Mike Gillespie who helped bring home the title for the Trojans. In the eighth, Gillespie, who started the game in left field, doubled to left-center and scored on a single by Ersepke in the 1-0 victory over the Cowboys. Jim Withers threw the shutout, allowing only four hits and striking out 13 to improve his record to 12-1 on the season.

The 1963 national championship found the Trojans rallying from an opening-round loss to win five straight games, having to beat Arizona twice to win it all. Walt Peterson threw a complete game while Bud Hollowell and Gary Holman hit 400-foot homers for the 5-2 victory for the national championship. Hollowell hit four home runs in the final four games to earn CWS MVP honors. The team was also one of the youngest Trojan national championship squads with a starting lineup that featured seven sophomores.

USC was 17-3 in the CIBA in 1964 and finished fourth in the College World Series. The next season was a rebuilding year, but the Trojans still went 30-15-1.

In the summer of 1965, the Trojans played a "barnstorming" tour that featured stops to Alaska and Hawaii. The Trojans were the first collegiate team to be invited to play in the eight-game Midnight Sun series with the Alaska Goldpanners. The series was climaxed with the Midnight Sun game that started at 10:30 p.m. and was completed without the aid of artificial light.

USC returned to Omaha in 1966, finishing third in the CWS. The Trojans again "struggled" in 1967, finishing third in the CIBA and going 38-13-2 overall.

Dedeaux's greatest years were still to come, beginning in 1968 with another national championship. During the 1968 College World Series, the Trojans used "little ball" as the team hit a combined .221 and registered wins by either one or two runs. Bill Seinsoth earned MVP honors, hitting a two-run homer in the championship game against Southern Illinois to tie the game at 2-2 in the fourth. Down 3-2 in the bottom of the ninth, pinch-hitter Pat Kuehner hit a two-run triple with two strikes to give Troy its fifth national title.

The following year, USC went 13-8 to finish third in league play before starting a run not likely to be seen for a long time in college baseball. The Trojans rattled off five straight national championships from 1970-74.

The 1970 College World Series opened with a 4-1 loss to Ohio, giving the Trojans an opportunity to once again winning the championship from the losers' bracket. After two straight wins, USC staved off elimination in dramatic fashion against Texas. Down 7-1, the Trojans scored six runs in the seventh and defeated the Longhorns, 8-7, in 14 innings. With three teams tied at 3-1, USC won a coin flip to earn a bye to the championship game and faced Florida State. Second baseman Frank Alfano singled home the winning run in the bottom of the 15th with the bases loaded for the 2-1 win. Pitcher Jim Barr threw eight scoreless innings of relief, allowing only three hits.

Dedeaux won six NCAA crowns between 1968-78, including five in a row from 1970-74. The "worst" year in that span came in 1969 when USC went 13-8 in league play to finish third. The best season, arguably, was 1971: the Trojans won all 17 of their conference games, went 54-13 overall and took the CWS championship (losing only to Southern Illinois, whom they rebounded to beat later in the series). USC was perfect in CWS play in 1968, 1972, 1973 and 1978, going 5-0 each year.

One of the greatest hitters in USC history, Steve Kemp, batted .435 in the 1975 season and finished with a school career mark of .397. Kemp was drafted No. 1 overall by the Detroit Tigers in the 1976 draft.

The 1973 national title produced one of the greatest CWS moments for the Trojans. Down 7-0 in the bottom of the ninth against Minnesota, the Trojans sent 11 men to the plate and scored eight runs against future Hall of Famer Dave Winfield to cap a remarkable 8-7 victory. Future major leaguers Fred Lynn, Roy Smalley and Rich Dauer contributed to the championship.

The incredible streak of five straight national titles concluded with the 1974 squad, the same year the Trojans played their first game at Dedeaux Field. John Racanelli and George Milke combined to strike out 10 Hurricanes in the national title game as USC defeated Miami, 7-3. Dauer set an NCAA record in the tournament with his 102nd hit and finished the season with three NCAA season records: hits (108), total bases (181) and RBI (92).

After starting the 1978 season with a 7-4 mark, the Trojans went on a torrid pace en route to their 11th national title and seventh in 11 years. USC used a 47-5 streak to finish the season with the nation's best record at 54-9. The 54 victories are still a school record and the pitching staff set an NCAA record with four pitchers (Bill Bordley, Rod Boxberger, Brian Hayes and Ernie Mauritson) recording at least 11 victories on the season.

During the run from 1968-78, the Trojans recorded 40 or more wins in a season nine times.

Near the end of his career, Dedeaux piloted USC to second-place Pac-10 Southern Division finishes in 1983 and 1984.

Dedeaux would also have the honor of coaching two future Hall of Famers and easily the two most recognizable Trojans: Mark McGwire and Randy Johnson.

McGwire, who broke Roger Maris' single season home run record with 70 home runs in 1998, set the school and Pac-10 single season record with 32 home runs for the Trojans in 1984. He was also a pitcher and actually put up better numbers than Johnson. Johnson played for Troy from 1983-85 and went on to win five Cy Young Awards.

When Dedeaux stopped coaching after the 1986 season to become USC's Director of Baseball, he left behind a record that may never be surpassed. He had winning seasons in 41 of his 45 years — in one stretch, USC went 37 years without a losing campaign. His 1,332 wins (with only 571 losses and 11 ties) were more than any other Division I coach in history until Texas' Cliff Gustafson eclipsed the mark in 1994. Dedeaux was a part of 11 Trojan national championships (he had 10 of his own and co-coached with Barry on the other). He developed many future professionals, including Rich Dauer, Ron Fairly, Dave Kingman, Fred Lynn, Mark McGwire, Tom Seaver, Roy Smalley and Randy Johnson.

The Mike Gillespie Era (1987-2006)

After winning 72 percent of his games as head coach of College of the Canyons (a community college in Valencia, Calif.), Gillespie returned to his alma mater, where he had played for Dedeaux from 1960-62. He brought a new style of Trojan baseball, based on sound execution of the fundamentals and an aggressiveness geared towards pressuring opponents.

It would not be until 1991 when Gillespie would lead the Trojans to their first conference title in 13 years. That year, the Trojans went 46-17-1, but fell to Hawaii at home in the NCAA Regional. USC reached the 1993 and 1994 NCAA Regional, but it was the 1995 season when the Trojans made their triumphant return to Omaha and the College World Series. After losing the first game, the Trojans made another charge with four straight wins before falling to Cal State Fullerton in the national championship game, 11-5.

In 1998, the Trojans beat South Alabama twice at the NCAA Regional to advance to the College World Series. LSU defeated USC, 12-10, in the first game of the CWS, but the Trojans used their Omaha magic with five straight wins for the school's 12th national championship. USC defeated Arizona State, 21-14, in a wild national title game that included Morgan Ensberg stealing home in a pivotal moment.

Seth Etherton set a school and Pac-10 record by striking out 182 batters that season and Jack Krawczyk posted NCAA marks for saves in a season (23) and career (49).

The 2000 and 2001 squads made back-to-back appearances in the College World Series and witnessed a special season when Mark Prior swept every national player of the year award, including the Golden Spikes Award, in 2001. Prior went 15-1 with a 1.69 ERA, breaking Etherton's school record with 202 strikeouts on the season. Prior was drafted No. 2 overall by the Chicago Cubs and became an instant sensation in the Windy City when he made his major league debut in 2002.

The 2005 squad was one win away from another trip to Omaha after a wild series at Oregon State. The Trojans made their fifth NCAA Super Regional appearance in seven years. The 2006 season represented Gillespie's 20th and final season at USC as he retired from college baseball.

Gillespie registered five Pac-10 titles and made trips to the NCAA playoffs in 15 of 20 years with his efforts helping to restore the luster and tradition of USC baseball. 28 former Trojans under Gillespie have gone on to play in the major leagues, including Barry Zito, Prior, Ensberg, Geoff Jenkins, Jacque Jones, Aaron Boone, Bret Boone and Anthony Reyes.

The Chad Kreuter Era (2007-Present)

In June 2006, Chad Kreuter became just the fourth person in 77 years to be USC's head coach, replacing his father-in-law, Mike Gillespie, who announced his retirement at the conclusion of the 2006 season. Kreuter has vowed to restore the glory and keep the USC program in the upper echelons of college baseball for years to come.

USC and the Olympics

The association between USC and Olympic baseball in the United States started back in 1964 when legendary Trojan coach Rod Dedeaux took a group of U.S. players to the Far East for a tour, and then to the Tokyo Games for an exhibition game against a Japanese team. The U.S. won, 6-2.

When baseball returned to the Olympics 20 years later, it was again Dedeaux that managed the U.S. team, leading the 1984 USA squad to a silver medal as a demonstration sport here at the Los Angeles Games.

One of Dedeaux's assistants was Art Mazmanian, an All-American at USC in 1948 and the head coach at Mt. San Antonio College. Two USC baseball players were key members of the team: pitcher Sid Akins and first baseman Mark McGwire.

Akins appeared in two games as a relief pitcher, allowing no runs and one hit in 2 1/3 innings. McGwire started at first base, and though he hit just .190 (4-for-21) in the Olympics, he batted .391 with 26 RBI in 30 games in the pre-Olympic tour.

Jacque Jones as a member of the 1996 U.S. Olympic Team

USC infielder Bret Barberie was on the USA's gold-medal winning team in the 1988 Seoul Games, the only gold medal won by the U.S. in the last four Olympics. It was once again a demonstration sport, however. Barberie came off the bench to play in four of the USA's five games and was hitless in two at-bats.

The 1992 Barcelona Games, the first time that baseball was an official Olympic sport, marked the only time in the past four Olympics that the U.S. failed to medal — and it was the only time no Trojans appeared on the roster.

Jacque Jones continued the USC-USA connection at the 1996 Atlanta Games. Jones, an outfielder, was one of the top players for the U.S.'s bronze-medal winning team. In 37 games (including the pre-Olympic tour), Jones hit .404 with a team-leading 61 hits, and knocked 15 home runs and 49 RBI. He ranked among the team's top three in nine offensive categories.

At Atlanta, Jones was second on the team with a .433 average (13-for-30), and led the USA with five home runs (tied with Warren Morris) and 13 RBI.

Jason Lane hits a grand slam in the 1998 national championship game against Arizona State

Rod Dedeaux served as head coach for the 1984 U.S. Olympic Team. Dedeaux is viewed by many as a pioneer in the international baseball community after taking his USC squads to the Far East during the 1950s and 1960s. He also helped start the USA-Japan Series in 1972.

Due to an act of Congress in 1978, USA Baseball is the National Governing Body for the sport and represents amateur baseball in America as a member of the United States Olympic Committee (USOC) and the International Baseball Association (IBAF). Virtually every major national amateur baseball organization in America is united as a USA Baseball National Member. As a result, USA Baseball governs more than 20 million amateur players in ballparks and playgrounds across the country.

The USC baseball program has a great relationship with USA Baseball as many Trojans have played for Team USA. A total of 13 Trojans have played on the U.S. National Team with five players playing in back-to-back seasons.

In a study conducted by USA Baseball, USC ranks second among collegiate programs. The study combined the number of players, total number of participations and number of years out of the total that each program produced at least one National Team member.

The list includes: Mark McGwire (1984), Sid Akins (1984), Brad Brink (1985), Bret Barberie (1988), Geoff Jenkins (1994), Randy Flores (1994), Jacque Jones (1995 and 1996), Eric Munson (1997 and 1998), Seth Davidson (1998), Mark Prior (2000), Anthony Reyes (2000 and 2001), Jeff Clement (2003 and 2004) and Ian Kennedy (2004 and 2005).

The USA Baseball National Team consists of the top collegiate baseball players in the country. The team performs on a Red, White and Blue Tour each summer - a schedule of exhibition games all across America versus the world's top baseball talent. They also take on the Japanese Collegiate All-Stars in an annual five-game series.

Jeff Clement (upper left) and Ian Kennedy (upper right) were members of the 2004 U.S. National Team. Kennedy also played on the 2005 U.S. National Team. Clement (middle left) is shown after he hit the game-winning grand slam in the bottom of the 8th inning in a 5-2 tournament semifinal win against Chinese Taipei. Team USA went on to win the FISU II World University Baseball Championship in Taiwan. Jacque Jones (bottom left) is at the plate at the 1996 Olympics in Atlanta, Georgia, where Team USA won the bronze medal. Mark McGwire (bottom right) had his number (41) with Team USA retired in a special ceremony at Busch Stadium in St. Louis, Missouri.

As the Trojans' No. 1 starter, Mark Prior turned in one of the most dominating seasons in collegiate history with the added pressure of being a top draft pick (he was drafted No. 2 overall by the Chicago Cubs). He was only the second player in history to sweep every national player of the year award and the first Trojan to win the Golden Spikes Award.

Prior accepts the Smith Award

Prior talks with ESPN's Dave Ryan at the 2001 College World Series

Prior accepts the Golden Spikes Award from MLBPA representative Phil Bradley
