Microsoft's long and tortured history in tablets
6/19/12 3:40 AM

For decades, the tablet computer was like a mirage in the technology industry. a great idea, seemingly reachable on the horizon, that disappointed as hopeful companies got closer. Microsoft has experienced this cycle of hope and disappointment many times.

Effective Dating

- The date an action is/was effective in the system.
- Allows us to know the date information changed on many elements in the student's record.
- Name and major are just two examples where we don't have an equivalent in our legacy system.
(NOTE: we will only have valid effective dates for transactions performed in Student Central.)

Academic Structure

What is Academic Structure?

---

- The most important configuration in Student Central, it is how the system knows what we offer, and from these definitions lots and lots of business processes are driven.
- It is very flexible and will allow us to capture more specific information. For example,
  - We can track degree type, not just degree level.
  - We can track multiple majors and know whether they are double majors or dual degrees.
  - We can track whether students are thesis or non-thesis, if their graduate major offers these options.

Vocabulary

-  Groups
-  Careers
-  Programs
-  Plans

Hence, the phrase “program-plan stack”

Plan

- What we currently think of as Major and Degree Type, combined
- Because of this most majors will have multiple associated plans.

Career & Group

Career

- What we currently think of as matriculation category or matriculation type.
- Academic calendars and financial aid are driven by career.
- FSU has six careers configured.

Group

- A cluster of careers; makes reporting easier.
- FSU has three groups configured.

Campus and Location

Campus and Location

How do we define campuses in our Legacy System?

- Currently we use campus and location interchangeably
- By official definition, FSU really only has three campuses
- Distance Learning isn't a campus, it's a modality

Campus and Location

How will campus and location change in myFSU Student Central?

- Campus and location have unique and specific meanings
  - Campus associated with programs (as are students)
  - Location is associated with where instruction originates; it can be online

Campus Values

- Main Campus- MAIN
- Panama City- PC
- Republic of Panama- ROP

No more numeric codes!

Location Values

---

- Tallahassee
- Panama City
- Republic of Panama
- Online
- International locations, such as London, Valencia, Florence
- ...and more

Bio-Demo & Identification

EMPLID: The number that myFSU Student Central uses to identify a person in the system.

Why Emplid?

- Not tied to SSN like FSUSN
- Uses the same identifier as OMNI HR and Financials

Person Info in sync with HR

Once Student Central is live, everyone (including students, staff, and faculty) will have EMPLID's.

If you hold multiple “roles” at FSU, your EMPLID will be the same for all roles.

Data in HR and Student Central will be synchronized.

- During conversion, hierarchy rules will be applied based on whether person was an active employee, active student, both or neither.

Student Groups

What are Student Groups?

- Attributes that can identify students for certain purposes.
- Students may belong to one or more groups.
- Cannot be viewed by the student via Self-Service.
- Many of our student groups are special program codes in our legacy system.

Why do we have them?

- Assigning enrollment appointments (aka registration windows)
- Restrict access to courses.
- Identify cost of attendance for students in special programs.
