Title:	Ted Allan Rathbun Papers
Date:	1961-2004
Identifier:	NAA.2005-08
Creator:	Rathbun, Ted A., 1942-
Extent:	26 Linear feet (53 document boxes, 4 record storage boxes, 1 oversize box, 1 folder, 3 computer disks)
Language:	English .
Summary:	This collection is comprised of the professional papers of Ted Allan Rathbun. The collection documents his career as a forensic anthropologist and educator through correspondence, publications and teaching materials. The collection includes the publications resulting from his research in South Carolina, Egypt, and Glorieta, New Mexico, as well as a small portion of his research data. His other writings that can be found in the collection include his monographs, journal articles, papers presented at conferences, and reviews he wrote for various journals and publications. The collection also includes materials relating to his consulting activities for law enforcement agencies, and military and historical organizations. Additionally, the collection contains materials related to organizations that he was a member of and his syllabi and lecture notes as a professor at the University of South Carolina. The collection also includes Rathbun's course notes when, as a student at the University of Kansas, he studied under William Bass, Ellis Kerley and other notable anthropologists. Among his correspondents were J. Lawrence Angel, Eve Cockburn, Henry Dobyms, Henry Field, T. Dale Stewart, and T. Cuyler Young.

Administrative Information

Acquisition Information

Dr. Rathbun donated his professional papers to the National Anthropological Archives in 2005. Additional files were donated in 2013 by his wife, Babette Rathbun, after his death.

Separated Materials

Biological specimens found within Series 3. Consulting Work, Subseries: Forensic Cases were transferred to Physical Anthropology Collections, National Museum of Natural History. Videos, also from the forensic case files, were transferred to the Human Studies Film Archives.

Related Materials

Rathbun's South Carolina research materials are at the South Carolina Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology. His other field research data can be found at the Field Museum in Chicago and the Penn Museum in Philadelphia.

His body was donated to the Forensic Anthropology Center at the University of Tennessee and the Physical Anthropology Collections, National Museum of Natural History.

Processing Information

The papers of Ted Allan Rathbun were received well organized and documented. The processing archivist kept most of the existing groupings and arrangement and organized the first deposit into ten series. Folder titles assigned by the archivist are placed within square brackets.

Files received in 2013 were prepared for deposit by Rathbun's colleague Michael Trinkley. Trinkley maintained Rathbun's original organization and folder titles and rehoused the files in archival folders and archival slide sleeves. He photocopied acidic notes on archival paper and transferred Rathbun's electronic files from a variety of CDs and 3.50" floppy disks onto a DVD-R. This accretion was physically added to the end of the collection, but intellectually integrated within the container list. Two series were added to accommodate Rathbun's collection of slides and electronic files.

Preferred Citation

Restrictions

Rathbun's forensic case files donated in 2013 are restricted until 2088. Two folders containing student grades have been separated and are restricted until 2055. For preservation reasons, his computer disks have been separated and restricted. Please note that the collection contains images of human remains.

Biographical / Historical

Ted Allan Rathbun (1942-2012) earned his B.A. (1964), M.A. (1966), and Ph.D. (1971) in anthropology from the University of Kansas, where he studied under anthropologist William M. Bass. He taught English as a Peace Corps Volunteer in Iran, where he became fluent in Farsi and did research for his doctorate. He conducted research on topics as wide-ranging as population growth in Iran; the physical characteristics of Woodland Indians; Coastal South Carolina paleopathology; growth rates among ancient urban states; shark attacks and human remains; social class and health; the history of African American health; and predynastic cemeteries at Hierakonpolis, Upper Egypt. Through his South Carolina field work and publications, Rathbun became noted for expanding the knowledge of Afro-American history from the colonial and Civil War times.

Rathbun was also a pioneer in establishing and expanding the use of forensic anthropology technology by law enforcement. He was licensed in South Carolina to assist coroners, law enforcement officials and medical examiners in identifying human remains. He and his students refined a process for the reconstruction of victim's faces, which were then used to assist in their identification. He served as a consulting physical anthropologist to the Charleston County Medical Examiner (1973-93); Deputy State Archaeologist for Forensics (1985-2000); and Consultant to the U.S. Military Central Identification Laboratory in Hawaii (1990-2003/2004) where he reviewed cases of military (and civilian) remains from the Vietnam, Korea, and WWII eras. He also participated in the Disaster Mortuary Operational Response Team (DMORT) efforts for identification of the victims of September 11, 2001.

Rathbun taught at the University of South Carolina for 30 years. He was a popular classroom professor and led research field trips with his students. In 1996 he received the Louise Fry Scudder Faculty Award, which recognized him for excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching, student mentoring and advising, and service contributions beyond the university. He retired from full-time teaching in 2000.

Rathbun was also a research associate of the South Carolina Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology; director of the American Board of Forensic Anthropology (1985-91); and for 15 years a member of the editorial board of the Journal of Forensic Sciences. In 2005, he was honored by the American Academy of Forensic Sciences with the T. Dale Stewart Award — its highest honor in Forensic Anthropology — for his lifetime achievements and contributions to the field.

Series 2: Field Work, 1976-1996, 2001

3.33 Linear feet

Scope and Contents: This series contains Dr Rathbun's field research in South Carolina, Egypt and New Mexico. The folders in Subseries: South Carolina are arranged by the site number or site name. The common name for a location may have more than one site number, in which case the common name is used (e.g., Folly Island, Daw's Island) as the placement in the inventory. Subseries: Egypt contains the work of Rathbun, his wife Babette, and several USC students who participated in the 1977 Hierakonpolis Expedition under the direction of Dr. Renée Friedman. Working in the excavations in the Predynastic Cemetery at HK43, they inventoried and analyzed the skeletal material from HK43. Subseries: Glorieta, New Mexico contains Rathbun's work analyzing the remains from a mass burial of 33 Confederate Soldiers who were killed March 28, 1862.

Series 3: Consulting Work, 1973-2012

7.1 Linear feet

Scope and Contents: Rathbun was noted for his expertise in the analysis of human skeletal material. At the time of his retirement he was the only Board Certified Forensic Anthropologist in South Carolina. In addition to his teaching career at University of South Carolina he was a consultant to various law enforcement agencies, the military and historical organizations. This series contains those papers.

3.1: General

Scope and Contents: SUBSERIES: GENERAL - Contains Rathbun's files from Philadelphia's Tenth Street First African Baptist Church Cemetery project, training and consulting to South Carolina judicial agencies, and his visiting lecture programs to other universities.

3.2: CILHI

Scope and Contents: SUBSERIES: CILHI --This subseries makes up the bulk of the series and contains his work as a forensic consultant to the U.S. Army's Central Identification Laboratory Hawaii (CILHI) from 1993 to 2012 and as a Visiting Scientist in 1987. He traveled to the laboratory in Hawaii frequently to consult on the cases, as well as to review progress and procedures concerning the identification of case files. The Laboratory Visit reports are at the beginning of the sequence. He also reviewed numerous cases of military (and civilian) remains from the Vietnam, Korea, and WWII eras. During this time CILHI changed its identification scheme from Case#-Year to Year-Case#. For archival purposes all case files have been sequenced in Year-Case# order. His CILHI files donated in 2013 were added to the end of the subseries and are organized by his date of involvement and not by case year.

Series 7: Professional Organizations, 1981-2011

1.5 Linear feet

Scope and Contents: This series contains organizational, administrative, and agenda information relating to conferences, meetings, symposia, and colloquiums that Rathbun participated in. Correspondence with professional organizations regarding the events is also included. The Black Bio-History Symposium (1985) and Conference on Paleopathology and Socioeconomic Change at the Origins of Agriculture (1982) are placed at the beginning of the series, denoting their importance in Rathbun's career. The remainder of the series is in alphabetical order by the name of the organization. Abbreviations used are:

AAA --American Anthropological Association

AAFS --American Academy of Forensic Sciences

ABFA --American Board of Forensic Anthropology

AAFS/JOFS --Journal of Forensic Sciences

AAPA --American Association of Physical Anthropologists

AAPA-AJPA --American Journal of Physical Anthropology

AFIP --Armed Forces Institute of Pathology

AIA --Archaeological Institute of America

MSB --Mountain, Swamp, Beach --Regional Meeting of Practicing Forensic Anthropologists

SEAC --Southeastern Archaeological Conference

SI-NMNH --Smithsonian Institution --National Museum of Natural History

Files donated in 2013 are at the end of the series.

Series 8: Grants and Publications Reviews, 1974-2000

1.25 Linear feet

Scope and Contents: This series contains Rathbun's reviews for various journals, books, and grant committees. The series is organized by the name of the publisher, book, or organization. The review forms for articles in some of the journals (and particularly the Journal of Forensic Sciences) use an abbreviated title and author format. Information has been added to the titles of Rathbun's folders for clarification.

9.2: Anthropology Department Files

Scope and Contents: This subseries is comprised of Rathbun's records of information relating to the USC Department of Anthropology from 1970-2004. During this time the anthropology department grew from being combined with the sociology department into an independent department within the university with 13 faculty members. Included in this series are documents associated with department issues, personnel, finances, and faculty meetings. Rathbun served as the Chairman of the Anthropology Department from 1982-1983 and as the Undergraduate Director from 1990-1996.
