Australian Indigenous Languages Image Bank Guide

ARC CENTRE OF EXCELLENCE FOR THE DYNAMICS OF LANGUAGE

Version 2. 2022

About Arlkeny map-akert / Australian Indigenous Languages Image Bank

Arlkeny map-akert or the Australian Indigenous Languages Image Bank (AILIB) is a dual named collection of over 1300 line-drawn illustrations.

The Anmatyerr name Arlkeny map-akert ('having many designs/pictures') was contributed by April Campbell. April's work teaching Anmatyerr language and driving the development of picture-based language resources is acknowledged here.

The illustrations in Arlkeny map-akert represent objects and concepts covering different topics or domains, and different natural and social ecologies, making it a rich collection for teaching languages and culture.

The collection has been compiled and deposited at PARADESIC with permission of the illustrators for illustrations to be used to create non-commercial learning resources and reference materials. Conditions of use, correct attribution for the illustrators and illustrators' details are set out in the following pages.

A guide to accessing illustrations from the on-line archive PARADESIC are set out on pages iv and v.

The project was completed with support from the Centre of Excellence for the Dynamics of Languages, the University of Queensland and the University of Melbourne.

Using this guide

The guide is designed to help you to find and select illustrations, and to match the item number and illustrator to each illustration. It is organised in Domains, listed alphabetically, beginning with actions, adjectives, animals, aquatic and so on.

You can search the guide by a word, for example 'kookaburra'.

In the Domain sections, you will find tables with the Description, Item number and Illustrator for each drawing.

You can also look at the thumbnail images of each picture and find its item number.

By searching the item number, you will find the illustrator's name.
