@WHRO Public Media

From the Chief Executive Officer

I don't have a lot of winter traditions, although I'm very happy to no longer live in a place that averages 140 inches of snow every winter. I am also happy to report that there are less than 50 days until spring!

We may not be that far into the new year yet, but it's already an exciting year for WHRO Public Media. I am so proud of the work we are doing locally, specifically in the area of local journalism. Over the past several years journalism at local and regional levels has been particularly hard hit which is why WHRO is focused on expanding our newsroom.

In the fall of last year, the Virginia Center for Investigative Journalism at WHRO was awarded a Local Reporting Network grant from ProPublica. ProPublica is the leading nonprofit newsroom in the U.S., regularly winning national awards for its investigations. The grant supports work by journalist Brandi Kellam, an Emmy-award-winning reporter who has produced national stories for CBS News. Brandi, one of five journalists chosen from around the country for the highly-competitive grant, will spend a year with the Virginia Center for Investigative Journalism at WHRO.

This ProPublica grant greatly enhances our mission to expand community-supported, independent local and state journalism. The award also furthers WHRO's mission to expand its newsroom and provide more quality, unbiased reporting on issues vital to the community.

I am also thrilled to share Brandi's impressive background in the world of journalism. In 2021, she was awarded a fellowship from Columbia University's Ira A. Lipman Center For Journalism and Civil and Human Rights. She has also been an instructor, leading course discussions on journalism for the S.I. Newhouse School of Public Communications at Syracuse University where she earned a master's degree in broadcast and digital journalism. She also holds a bachelor's degree in sociology from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Additionally, I am proud to announce that WHRO has been appointed as a Climate Collaborative Member Station through NPR's Climate Desk. NPR's new Climate Desk and Member Station grants are being funded by The Rockefeller Foundation. What does that mean? With the grant funds, WHRO will hire a reporter to cover local/regional climate research and stories. The reporter will work with an NPR climate editor regularly. NPR's climate editor's priority will be to train station reporters in climate journalism, and the NPR climate editor will then coordinate and collaborate with the station editor and reporter on regional coverage. Pretty cool, huh?

Have you been listening to podcasts as much as I have in this new year? An excellent podcast you should listen to if you haven't already is WHRO's Rural, produced by our friend and award-winning documentarian, Amy Drewry. Each episode explores the history, culture, benefits, and challenges of rural America. Did you know that rural America is more than 95 percent of the land mass in the United States, but fewer than 20 percent of Americans live there? It has been fascinating to learn about the complex issues that rural communities face in our nation. I highly recommend taking a listen to this new, locally produced program. To listen online visit whro.org/rural

It's an exciting time to be working in public media, and I'm so thankful for your continued support.

Take care and be well!

WHRV Celebrates Black History Month

On my living room wall, I have a copy of the wonderful classic Art Kane photograph of 57 jazz greats taken in August 1958. Just as the Supreme Court was striking down segregated schools in Brown vs. Board of Education, we see black and white musicians together in the heat of a summer day. It's a powerful statement on the power of music to break down doors and to bring people together.

It also allows one to think about the contributions of talented African Americans to jazz. We see titans of the music—Count Basie, Dizzy Gillespie, Mary Lou Williams and Sonny Rollins—standing among so many others who helped shape the genre. Throughout February, as we celebrate Black History Month, the WHRV music producers offer their own tributes to the musical geniuses of jazz, blues, and folk and look at how their artistry helped fuel a greater awareness not only of the music, but of a need for change in America.

Listen to the jazz giants on weeknights while our jazz producer Jae Sinnett offers insights into the music and the history behind its artistry. On A Shot of the Blues, Paul Shugrue will feature the African American greats of the genre. Additionally, African American spirituals, gospel, and folk music all played an important role in the Civil Rights Movement. Musicians like Bob Dylan, Joan Baez, and Pete Seeger disseminated songs to activists to motivate them. Tune in Sunday nights during February to hear the songs and the stories of the movement.

All month long, enjoy the richness of this music as we celebrate Black History Month on WHRV FM.

Gateways Radio Premieres on WHRO FM

WHRO FM is proud to highlight the work of Black composers and performers in classical music, during Black History Month and all year round. This month, we'll introduce a new 13-week series, airing Friday evenings at 9 p.m. beginning on February 3. Gateways Radio, a collaboration between the WFMT Radio Network and WXXI-FM in Rochester, NY, celebrates the performances, artists, and artistry of the Gateways Music Festival.

The Gateways Music Festival Orchestra is a 125+ member ensemble of musicians of African descent under the leadership of conductor Anthony Parnter. The Orchestra made its stunning Carnegie Hall debut on April 24, 2022, as the first all-Black orchestra to be presented by the famed venue. Gateways Radio features exceptional compositions and exquisite performances, celebrating the Gateways Music Festival's mission of connecting and supporting classical musicians of African descent and serving as a source of inspiration, enlightenment, and engagement for communities—especially communities underrepresented in classical music.

In its debut radio season, Gateways Radio features works by James V. Cockerham, William Grant Still, William Levi Dawson, Florence Price, Jessie Montgomery, Coleridge-Taylor Perkinson, Adolphus Hailstork, Carlos Simon, arrangements of traditional spirituals by Harry T. Burleigh, Hall Johnson, and more. Performers include pianists Armenta Hummings Dumisani and Althea Waites, saxophonists Branford Marsalis and Thomas Walsh, clarinetists Alexander Laing and Anthony McGill, the Imani Winds, Catalyst Quartet, Harlem Quartet, and the Gateways Orchestra with performances under the baton of Gateways' late music director Michael Morgan.

Host Garrett McQueen has been a member of several professional orchestras and holds bachelor's and master's degrees in bassoon performance. He serves on the board of the American Composers Forum and maintains leadership and advisory positions with the Black Opera Alliance, the Gateways Music Festival, and the Lakes Area Music Festival. Away from the airwaves, McQueen offers music and racial equity presentations with past collaborators including the Sphinx Organization, the Kennedy Center, the Apollo Theater, the Minnesota Music Teachers Association, and countless schools, colleges, and universities.

Tune in for Gateways Radio Friday evenings on WHRO FM!

Celebrating Black History Month

As we celebrate Black History Month, we have a variety of great programs airing on TV and online. Join us in celebrating the African American experience this month and beyond.

This Month on WHRO TV 15

Tuesdays, January 31-February 21, 9 p.m.
Fight the Power: The Story of Hip Hop

Featuring firsthand accounts from some of rap's most integral players, this program recounts the origins of this bold and revolutionary art form through the voices of those who were there at the beginning, creating an anthology of how hip hop became a cultural phenomenon against the backdrop of American history. Weaving together interconnected moments via intimate interviews and archival footage, the docuseries will explore how hip hop quickly created a provocative narrative of America.

Monday, February 6, 2023, 10 p.m.
Independent Lens: Outta the Muck

Wade into the rich soil of Pahokee, Florida, a town on the banks of Lake Okeechobee. Beyond its football legacy, including sending over a dozen players to the NFL (like Anquan Boldin, Fred Taylor, and Rickey Jackson), the fiercely self-determined community tells their stories of Black achievement and resilience in the face of tragic storms and personal trauma.

Monday, February 20, 9 p.m.
American Experience: Ruthless: Monopoly's Secret History

Discover the fascinating and unexpected history behind Monopoly, America's favorite board game.

Friday, February 24, 9 p.m.
Great Performances: The Magic of Spirituals

Glimpse behind the curtain at opera legends Kathleen Battle and Jessye Norman's famed concert at Carnegie Hall on March 18, 1990, featuring performance clips and new interviews with opera star Angel Blue, Met Opera General Manager Peter Gelb and more.

Now Streaming on WHRO Passport

If you missed these programs when they aired in January, you can watch them this month through WHRO Passport.

American Experience: Zora Neale Hurston

A new biography of the influential author whose groundbreaking anthropological work would challenge assumptions about race, gender and cultural superiority that had long defined the field in the 19th century.

Independent Lens: The Picture Taker

The vibrant life of Ernest Withers—civil rights photographer and FBI informant—was anything but black and white.

American Masters: Roberta Flack

Follow the music icon from a piano lounge through her rise to stardom. From “First Time Ever I Saw Your Face” to “Killing Me Softly,” Flack’s virtuosity was inseparable from her commitment to civil rights. Detailing her story in her own words, the film features exclusive access to Flack’s archives and interviews with Rev. Jesse Jackson, Peabo Bryson and more.

Next at Kennedy Center:
 The Roots Residency

After their sold-out performance in 2019, The Legendary Roots Crew make their electrifying return to the Kennedy Center Concert Hall. Presented as part of #KenGenHipHop's For the Culture Artist Residency program and The Bridge Concert Series.

Professional Development for Virginia Educators

Over the past year WHRO Education has provided over 50 professional learning opportunities for educators in Virginia. These sessions are typically 30 minutes to one hour in length and are conducted virtually as webinars, in person at schools, or at education conferences. Professional development topics are carefully selected by WHRO Education staff based on requests from local educators. The goal is to create and distribute content that educators can use in their classroom the next day to enhance the learning experience for students. Past sessions have covered topics such as social-emotional learning, blended learning, eMediaVA, free tech tools, and more.

Educators of all experience levels are welcome in professional development sessions hosted by WHRO. A brand-new teacher and a seasoned principal can come together to discuss blended learning strategies regardless of the amount of prior knowledge they bring. A Chesapeake Public Schools teacher who attended a training session with little background knowledge of the topic stated, "I liked the fact that it was easy to understand and that there were no assumptions that the viewer already knew how to navigate the site. Thank you!"

Discussion is a key factor in professional learning, but it's also important that learners leave with tangible items to support the implementation of the newly learned strategy in the classroom. WHRO Education professional development sessions are packed full of resources, and attendees often take these items back to share with their staff. After attending a training session, a Newport News Public Schools teacher said, "Janie did a wonderful job explaining how to use eMediaVA. I think there is a lot of information that I can take back to my school community. Thank you!"

As education rapidly evolves, it is important to stay up to date with relevant practices. WHRO Education will continue to bring high-quality professional development opportunities to support educators throughout the year. To find information on upcoming sessions, or to view recordings of past sessions, visit whro.org/professionaldevelopment. Contact Janie.Everett@whro.org for all professional learning inquiries.

Empowering lifetimes of discovery.

For 59 years, Checkered Flag has been devoted to supporting the Hampton Roads community in which we're proud to do business. Since its beginning, we've dedicated time and resources to the Virginia Aquarium & Marine Science Center, which provides research and conservation for our marine life—and education for our children. We also partner with over 65 local educators, charities and community services to create economic opportunity, equity, and a pathway to discovery for all.
