ABOUT OUR BRAND

Our brand, Passion Made Possible, celebrates the story of our island-state's ingenuity. It captures the spirit of Singapore, where people with vision and drive forge new possibilities and bring about meaningful change.

This story of Singapore is a story
of our past.

With the concerted efforts of our people, Singapore has transformed from a humble trading port to a first-world country in less than 50 years.

This story of Singapore is a story of our people.

Our founding fathers exemplify our passion. As they developed a young, independent country with limited natural resources, they also planned for green sanctuaries to be created for Singaporeans and the community. Today, Singapore is known as a City in a Garden.

This story of Singapore is a story we continue to build.

It is passion that has grown gardens into Supertrees; preserved our distinctive hawker recipes; and taken our designers from local to global. It is this same spirit that inspires our brand tagline, Passion Made Possible.

It celebrates the values of Singaporeans—from those who have achieved great heights, to the people working tirelessly and courageously to turn their dreams into reality.

This is a story for all to tell.

Beneath our glistening city, lies many stories of passionate individuals who have struggled and dedicated their lives to a dream, a cause, a passion, and brought them into reality.

We invite you to join us in sharing these Singapore stories and to bring to life the Passion Made Possible spirit, through products and experiences offered to visitors.

Where Passion & Possibilities Meet.

WELCOME TO SINGAPORE

A gateway to Asia and beyond, Singapore is a young nation full of vigour and a cosmopolitan city brimming with possibilities. We are home to a bustling Central Business District (CBD), a famous shopping street, a thriving arts and entertainment scene, lively dining and drinking spots, and many must-see attractions. Our rich culture and heritage inspire us, while the future promises to be exciting.

Beyond a vibrant city landscape, Singapore is truly a great city because of our passionate people. Our drive for excellence pushes us to chase our dreams and make waves everywhere we go. An example is Singaporean chef Malcolm Lee, who turned his lifelong passion for food into a career and now helms Michelin-starred Candlenut (see Eat & Drink, Celebrity Fine Dining, p99).

We are proud of these achievements, but even prouder of our sense of community, diverse cultures, rich heritage, and all the quirks that make us who we are. Most of all, we love being Singaporean, and we're excited to share our passion for Singapore with our visitors.

OLD MEETS NEW

IN SURPRISING WAYS

In Singapore, history is kept alive through active conservation. One example would be the Chinatown enclave (see Neighbourhoods, Ethnic Districts, p58) where early immigrants settled when they came to Singapore. Today, the area houses fresh lifestyle offerings but still bears markings of its heritage. Visitors will find a blend of old and new, where historic temples and traditional medicinal halls sit alongside hip bars and lifestyle shops.

While dining, shopping and exploring Singapore, visitors will find charming, old-school places that have been woven into the fabric of this cosmopolitan city. One-Michelin-starred restaurant Nouri (see Eat & Drink, Celebrity Fine Dining, p101) has made a quaint shophouse along Amoy Street its home, while The Fullerton Hotel Singapore, which was once a municipal building, has since been restored to accommodate travellers.

Our founding fathers had a vision to transform Singapore into a garden city, with recreational spaces, world-class attractions and skyscrapers set amid lush greenery, earning us the moniker—City in a Garden. Despite the challenges and competing priorities in the early days, they held firmly to this passion, which continues to inspire our green evolution.

An example of our passion for nature and sharing our heritage with the world is the over 150-year-old Singapore Botanic Gardens (see Attractions, Nature & Parks, p53)—our first and only UNESCO World Heritage Site, just a five-minute drive from the city centre. It features sprawling greens, unique floral and lush foliage worth a day of exploration.

Our network of parks, park connectors linking major green areas, and nature reserves add natural beauty to our living environments while providing a backdrop for leisure pursuits and family activities.

CULTURES COME TOGETHER

Aside from its Chinese, Malay and Indian heritage, Singapore is also home to other ethnic groups such as Eurasians, Peranakans (Straits-born people of Chinese and Malay/Indonesian heritage) and a growing expatriate population. All these unique and diverse cultures have made Singapore a vibrant and harmonious place to live, work and play in.

FOOD, GLORIOUS FOOD

Food is one of our greatest passions. Where to find the best eats is a common topic among Singaporeans. In fact, we love our food so much that Singapore's street food tradition is now part of UNESCO's list of Intangible Cultural Heritage.

Our strategic position as a shipping port has long enticed people from around the world to set up home here, creating a melting pot of cultures. Many have brought with them a taste of their homeland but infused local flavours, producing a vibrant culinary scene — from lip-smacking dishes by time-tested hawker heroes to scrumptious creations by award-winning homegrown chefs.

Our openness for different cuisines and culinary trends is evident by the number of food establishments across the island. Our famed hawker centres (open-air food courts) (see Eat & Drink, Hawker Centres, p108) provide a delicious crash course on our multiculturalism. Humble hawkers dedicate their lives to their craft, dishing up tasty fare in the way their forefathers taught them. In fact, some of them — like Mr Chan Hon Meng of MICHELIN Bib Gourmand Hawker Chan — went on to gain international appreciation for his craft.

Food connoisseurs will be spoilt for choice in Singapore with our dynamic and vibrant dining scene. From the hip and trendy indie cafés and craft beer bars to Michelin-starred restaurants such as Candelnut (see Eat & Drink, Celebrity Fine Dining, p99) and Odette (see Eat & Drink, Celebrity Fine Dining, p101), Singapore has it all. Not to forget, celebrity chef establishments are also aplenty like JAAN by Kirk Westaway (see Eat & Drink, Celebrity Fine Dining, p100) and table65 by Richard van Oostenbrugge (see Eat & Drink, Celebrity Fine Dining, p102).

SINGLISH THE COLLOQUIAL SINGAPORE ENGLISH

Singapore is a multicultural society made up of four main ethnic groups with four official languages—Bahasa Melayu, Mandarin, Tamil and English, which is the main language for education and business. Residents of Singapore are also bound together by one common language, Singlish (a colloquial form of English), which is an intriguing blend of words, phrases and grammar rules of the four official languages.

FAST, EFFICIENT AND CONVENIENT

Accustomed to speed and efficiency in almost all areas of life, we zip from place to place quickly and with ease. Our comprehensive and integrated network of buses, taxis and the Mass Rapid Transit (MRT) system makes for an economical way for locals and tourists to travel efficiently around the island.

SINGLISH FOR BEGINNERS

At the hawker centre or food court

Shiok: Expresses appreciation and delight.
Chope: A term used to reserve or call dibs on something.

Other common Singlish expressions

Alamak: Akin to "Oh my god!", "Alamak" is an exclamation of shock or surprise.
Bo jio?: Translated from Hokkien, it means not inviting someone along to an event or activity.
Got lobang?: "Lobang" is a Malay word that means 'hole' or 'gap'. In this context, it means opportunity or connections.
Huat ah! "Huat" means to prosper while "ah" is used for emphasis. "Huat ah!" is usually shouted out for luck.
Kiasu: This word refers to "one who is afraid to lose out to someone else".
Paiseh: A phrase of the Hokkien dialect, "Paiseh" is an expression of embarrassment in a situation.
Relax lah!: "Lah" gives stronger emphasis to a sentence. "Relax lah" is said to someone who is upset, angry or nervous.
Steady lah!: Describes someone who is calm and easy-going, or who agrees to your plans.

A SHOPPING PARADISE

We dare say whatever visitors are looking to buy, they will most likely find it here in Singapore. The best place to start is Orchard Road (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p76). Spanning almost 2.2 kilometres, the bustling shopping district has flagship maisons by luxury brands, shops by international brands and big departmental stores. There is something for everyone from products by up-and-coming local designers, souvenirs, cutting-edge fashion, precious jewellery, homeware, quirky accessories to children's toys. Visitors will score unique and reasonably-priced finds in hip shopping enclaves such as Tiong Bahru, Bugis Street (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p82 and pxx respectively) and Haji Lane (see Neighbourhoods, Ethnic Districts, p63). Shoppers can find beautiful products with thoughtful stories in the works of artisanal jeweller Carolyn Kan and her playfully, provocative jewellery label, Carrie K. Jewellery (see Shopping, Local Shopping, p142). Fashionistas will love the fusion of modern and heritage in the timeless cheongsam (a body-hugging traditional Chinese dress) designs of Lai Chan (see Shopping, Local Shopping, p131), best known for his combination of traditional techniques and modern influences.

EXCITING EXPERIENCES

There is never a dull moment in Singapore with its exciting virtual and physical events happening all year round. From intriguing online activities by The Arts House (www.theartshouse.sg) to enthralling physical exhibitions and livestreams curated by museums as well as events including i Light Singapore (www.visitsingapore.com/festivals-events-singapore/annual-highlights/i-light-marina-bay) and Singapore International Arts Festival (www.visitsingapore.com/festivals-events-singapore/annual-highlights/singapore-international-arts-festival), there are always new experiences to look forward to in Singapore.

LET OUR LOCALS INSPIRE PASSION

TALES AND LEGENDS

- According to legend, Singapore got its name when Sang Nila Utama, a prince from Palembang, Indonesia, caught sight of a lion-like creature while out hunting.
- He established a settlement on the island where he saw the animal and named it 'The Lion City' or Singapura, from the Sanskrit words simha (lion) and pura (city).

Did you know?

- Modern Singapore was founded in the 19th century by Sir Thomas Stamford Raffles, who negotiated a treaty with the local rulers and established Singapore as an entrepôt for trade.
- In 1959, Lee Kuan Yew became the first prime minister of Singapore. A nature lover, he introduced the 'garden city' vision in May 1967, earning him the official title of 'Chief Gardener' as he encouraged tree-planting, the creation of parks and green spaces islandwide. Today, we are home to more than 300 parks, four nature reserves and the award-winning Gardens by the Bay (see Attractions, Nature & Parks, p50).

From hawkers to designers, our sunny island is home to numerous individuals chasing their dreams and ambitions with passion.

Take James Quan and Winnie Chan, for example. The married couple founded Bynd Artisan (see Shopping, Local Shopping, p135), a personalised paper and leather atelier, in 2014. The brand revived the dying trade of leather crafting and has since created a community of craftsmen and artisanal collaborators. It is well on its way to become an iconic Singapore brand.

Sasha Wijidessa has also pursued her passion relentlessly. Despite her diploma in pharmaceutical science, Sarah instead chose bartending. Now that she's a veteran, she dreams of having her own space to create good cocktails with bold new flavours that sparks conversations.

These inspiring individuals are passionate about creating new possibilities. For visitors, it is not just what you can do here, but who you can be when you are here. We invite visitors to ignite and rediscover their passions through the possibilities in Singapore.

TRIBES & SEGMENTS

There's something for every visitor—no matter the age, passion or agenda. Singapore is more than a destination, we are where passion is made possible.

5 VISITOR SEGMENTS

Early Careers (aged 25–34)

Youthful travellers are sure to be captivated with the Museum of Ice Cream Singapore (www.museumoficecream.com/singapore). There are 14 enchanting installations within the compound and various Instagram-worthy spots to inspire their imagination, and to make a splash on their social media pages. Lovers of arthouse, foreign and classic films will be delighted to know they can enjoy art films screened at an eclectic indie cinema, The Projector (www.theprojector.sg). This vintage cinema is also the place to enjoy craft beers, creative cocktails, delectable burgers and grilled-cheese sandwiches.

Established Careers (aged 40–49)

The more affluent visitors can enjoy comfort, splendour, and graceful service at one of the few remaining great 19th century hotels in the world, Raffles Hotel Singapore (see Stay, p29). The storied hotel has hosted a who's who of notables—ranging from Queen Elizabeth II to Ernest Hemingway—and nothing says opulence more than indulging in a fine-dining experience at a refined establishment (Le Dame De Pic, Tiffin Room, Oshino, etc.). Visitors looking to expand their artistic sensibilities can head to Bynd Artisan (www.byndartisan.com). They will be able to personalise their perfect notebook or luxury leather products and accessories at this atelier. Beyond that, they will walk away with an appreciation of artisanal excellence as they bring home with them the knowledge of some of Singapore's greatest practicing craftsmen.

Families with Young Children (aged below 12)

Parents with young children can visit family-friendly malls such as VivoCity (see Shopping, Malls, p128) and splash around at the rooftop waterpark. The Open Farm Community (www.openfarmcommunity.com) provides a farm-to-table dining concept, along with farming and recreational activities for all ages to enjoy. In Singapore, both adults and the young ones can look forward to roving performances, Christmas street-lights and decorations, and in-mall activities during Christmas.

Active Silvers (aged 55 or above)

The active seniors can embark on a trip down memory lane with Trails of Tan Ah Huat: Singapore 1920s (see Tours, p161). This cycling trail takes them back to 1920s Singapore, where they will discover Singapore's past through a series of storytelling sessions and multimedia slideshows. They can then fuel up with Asian gourmet delights that are rooted in Nyonya and Singapore cuisine at National Kitchen by Violet Oon (see Eat & Drink, Afternoon Tea, p97). Those looking to take it easy can immerse themselves in The Melting Pot of Tea: A Tea Appreciation Cultural Tour (see Itineraries, p179). Here, they will learn about Singapore's history and heritage through four different cups of tea, as well as learn about more than 20 unique tea blends. They will even get to bring home their unique blend of tea at the end of the tour!

Business Event Visitors

(Meetings, Incentives, Conferences and Exhibitions)

Attractions that stay open late into the night and well-placed hotels allow business travellers who are pressed for time to make the most of their leisure time in the city. Visitors can opt for a luxurious stay at 5-star hotels such as The Capitol Kempinski Hotel Singapore (see Stay, p30) and The Fullerton Hotel Singapore, which are located just a stone's throw away from popular restaurants and drinking holes. NATIVE (see Eat & Drink, Cocktails & Spirits, p115), on the list of The World's 50 Best Bars 2020, is the perfect spot for business travellers to unwind while sipping on handcrafted cocktails. Travellers can also indulge in gastronomic experiences at fine dining establishments such as one-Michelin-starred restaurant, table65 (see Eat & Drink, Celebrity Fine Dining, p102) or get their retail fix at Singapore's famed shopping district, Orchard Road (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p76).

DON'T JUST PARTICIPATE, BE AN ACTION SEEKER.

Action Seekers looking for heart-pumping, recreational activities or fun-filled spectator action will discover that Singapore is Southeast Asia's premier hub for action and sports. The city houses world-class sporting infrastructure and offers unique activities for thrill-seekers to indulge in. With many activities for all ages, Action Seekers can find new and exciting ways to work up a sweat and chase excitement across the island. Families can go on aerial adventures at Sentosa Island's Mega Adventure Park—Singapore (see Attractions, Adventure & Rides, p37) or try wakeboarding at Singapore Wake Park, the country's only cable-ski park at East Coast Park. Visitors can also have a go at the 44 adrenaline-pumping treetop obstacle courses at Forest Adventure in Bedok (see Attractions, Adventure & Rides, p36).

Fun-filled outdoor activities

Take a breather and relax while soaking in the sun in our exciting outdoor spaces. Wind down at East Coast Park (see Attractions, Nature and Parks, p49), a 15-kilometre stretch of beach where visitors can cycle or jog. The Park also houses the Singapore Wake Park (www.singaporewakepark.com) which offers cable-skiing, kneeboarding, wakeboarding and wakeskating. Be enthralled by the rich ecological diversity at Pulau Ubin and Chek Jawa (see Attractions, Nature and Parks, p51). This 100-hectare wetlands, with its wide selection of flora and fauna, is the perfect getaway from the hustle and bustle of city life.

Indoor thrills

There is no better place for Action Seekers to raise their adrenaline to the next level than at Sentosa. They will discover what it's like to sail through the sky at iFly Singapore (see Attractions, Adventure & Rides, p36), a simulated indoor skydiving experience in a vertical wind tunnel. They can also get the ultimate rush by jumping headfirst on the Skypark Sentosa Bungy Tower at AJ Hackett Sentosa (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p79) by dropping 40-metre from the Giant Swing. If that's not enough, they can live out their F1 dreams at The Karting Arena (www.thekartingarena.com) - Singapore's first electric go-kart track.

DON'T JUST BUY, BE A COLLECTOR.

Singapore is a paradise for Collectors who are always on the lookouts for unique finds and curious knick-knacks. A city filled with possibilities, they are able to search for things they can identify with, and curate unique collections that are only of their own - from mega shopping malls with multi-faceted retail options to pop-up events and stores. Singapore designers have been creating everything from art and fashion to quirky accessories, which can be found in trendy malls and chic neighbourhood stores (see Shopping, p122). Singapore designers have been creating everything from art and fashion to quirky accessories, which can be found in trendy malls and chic neighbourhood stores. IN GOOD COMPANY and Carrie K. Jewellery are distinctive homegrown brands that have been making waves in the fashion scene. Collectors will love the creative artistry of Supermama's signature cobalt blue and white collection, Singapore Porcelain and other range of whimsical Singapore-themed brands.

Only in Singapore

In Singapore's multicultural environment, every Collector can take home a slice of local life. Shops in the cultural enclaves of Chinatown, Little India, Kampong Gelam and Katong/Joo Chiat (see Neighbourhoods, Ethnic Districts, p62) have unique, made-in-Singapore souvenirs ranging from food such as bak kwa (barbecued meat slices) and kaya (a traditional jam made from coconut and eggs) to modern cheongsams (a body-hugging traditional Chinese dress). For delightful fragrances that soothe the soul and nourishing body products, visit homegrown brand To Be Calm (www.tobecalm.com) at TANGS Orchard and other outlets, or become a perfumer for just a day and create a personalised perfume blend at Sifr Aromatics (www.sifr.sg). Collectors can not only bring home scarves and dresses, they can also bring home fashion pieces depicting heritage districts, nature, cultural diversity and local anecdotes from Binary Style (www.binarystyle.co).

One-of-a-kind experiences

Orchard Road (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p124), is Singapore's premier shopping belt, and home to Design Orchard (www.designorchard.sg), an integrated retail and incubation space that showcases over 90 local brands from Singapore's very own designers and emerging labels. Collectors can find everything from sustainable and ethically produced, recycled swimwear to dining accessories. They can enjoy the full experience shopping on the waters of Marina Bay, where they will find the world's first floating Apple store (www.apple.com/sg) and one of the world's largest Louis Vuitton boutique (<https://ap.louisvuitton.com>).

DON'T JUST LOOK, BE A

CULTURE SHAPER.

Culture Shapers who want to immerse themselves in arts and culture will find Singapore an inspiring locale to soak in creative energy and find new perspectives. Apart from being home to local artists who constantly push artistic boundaries across a range of mediums, the city also welcomes international artists to perform and stage shows here. Numerous arts and cultural institutions such as the National Gallery Singapore (see Attractions, Arts, Museum & Heritage, p41), Singapore Art Museum and National Design Centre can also be found in the Civic District. For an experiential look into the arts, exhibitions at the ArtScience Museum (see Attractions, Arts, Museum & Heritage, p39) are not to be missed. The inaugural ART SG in 2022 (www.artsg.com) and the annual Singapore Art Week (www.artweek.sg) has entrenched Singapore's position as a regional hub for the arts. In fact, the annual calendar is filled with a myriad of activities to keep Cultural Shapers on a packed schedule.

Distinctive activities and creative districts

Visitors can enjoy an array of arts activities that pay homage to our rich, multicultural heritage. Visit Chinatown and immerse in performances and activities inspired by Chinese culture during certain months of the year. Learn more about Little India's arts, culture, and heritage through the various tours (see tours, p160) that explore the vibrant cultural precinct. Another neighbourhood to visit is Tiong Bahru (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p82), which has drawn in artists and indie stores, including One Olive (www.oneolive.net), a bespoke bouquet and gift shop that host flower arrangement workshops. Visitors can also explore the Bras Basah Bugis neighbourhood (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p70)—peppered with art galleries, art institutions and museums.

A forum for exchange of passion for Arts

The city plays host to many signature arts and cultural activities that will appeal to Culture Shapers, as well as art practitioners from around the world. There are many engaging platforms such as ART SG (www.artsg.com) and The Arts House (www.theartshouse.sg) where passionate local and international talents can exchange their ideas and opinions on industry trends.

DON'T JUST SIGHTSEE, BE AN EXPLORER.

Explorers are constantly seeking to uncover new experiences and cultures in an organic way. As a City in a Garden rooted in multiculturalism and a rich heritage, Singapore offers many places and spaces for travellers to create their own adventure. History enthusiasts will delight in visiting museums or decoding the architecture styles of historic buildings in Singapore (see Attractions, Arts, Museums & Heritage, p39), while nature lovers can check into the wonderful green spaces that dot the city and provide respite from the hustle and bustle of the city (see Attractions, Nature & Parks, p48). Explorers looking for more unique activities may check out Singapore's many first-of-its-kind experiences including getting up-close with animals at the Night Safari (see Attractions, Nature & Parks, p51), the world's first night zoo, and the S.E.A. Aquarium™, which boasts more than 100,000 marine animals.

For the history buffs

The Singapore story—from a mangrove-filled island to a bustling metropolis—is well-told by our museums, memorials and architecture, and appeals to Explorers seeking to learn more about our city state's journey. National Museum of Singapore (see Attractions, Arts, Museums & Heritage, p42), the oldest museum in Singapore, inspires with stories of Singapore, while Civic District is the place for Explorers to see historically significant architecture that now houses a modern tenant mix of restaurants, galleries and retail shops.

For the nature lovers

Our bountiful green spaces offer Explorers a treasure trove of places to discover. Explorers can visit attractions such as the Singapore Botanic Gardens (see Attractions, Nature & Parks, p53), Singapore's first and only UNESCO World Heritage site, or the Southern Ridges, a ten-kilometre trail that connects parks along the southern ridges of Singapore (see Attractions, Nature & Parks, p54). Nature lovers can also discover the biodiversity in Sungei Buloh Wetland Reserve (see Attractions, Nature & Parks, p54) or get in touch with nature at its offshore islands such as Kusu Island, Pulau Ubin, Sisters' Islands and other Southern Islands (see Attractions, Nature & Parks, p51).

DON'T JUST EAT, BE A FOODIE.

Singaporeans are obsessed with food and there's no doubt why—the city is a gastronomic playground, with much to tickle the taste buds. Singapore is a world class Foodie destination. The influences of Chinese, Malay and Indian cultures have created a unique variety of heritage-rich flavours rooted in culture and tradition. From tasty traditional fare that locals swear by to experimental modern Singaporean ('mod-Sin') cuisine (see Eat & Drink, Modern Singapore Restaurants, p106) where homegrown chefs put a contemporary spin on local dishes, travellers can work their way through the city's delectable offerings. With a culinary landscape that has lots of local flavours, award-winning restaurants and trendy dining concepts, every foodie traveller is bound to have a feast.

Local delights / Heritage restaurants

Singapore's food scene offers gastronomic selections that cater to all budgets, dietary preferences, and foodie cravings. To savour local delights such as satay (grilled meat skewers) and Hokkien Prawn Mee (fried prawn noodles) (see Eat & Drink, local delights, p87), foodies can head down to hawker centres such as Chomp Chomp Food Centre or Lau Pa Sat (see Eat & Drink, Hawker Centres, p108). Beyond hawker centres, foodies can immerse themselves in heritage restaurants that have stood the test of time. From Samy's Curry (see Eat & Drink, Heritage Restaurants, p95), a family business that has been open for more than 50 years to Hjh Maimunah (see Eat & Drink, Heritage Restaurants, p94), a familiar name in the local Muslim community, foodies can experience the local heritage flavours with every bite.

Award-winning and celebrity chef restaurants

Travellers looking to indulge in culinary excellence can check out award-winning and celebrity chef restaurants spanning a range of cuisines. Foodies can pamper themselves at one-Michelin-starred steakhouse - CUT by Wolfgang Puck (see Eat & Drink, Celebrity Fine Dining, p100), or enjoy a taste of authentic Peranakan (Straits-born people of Chinese and Malay/Indonesian heritage) food at National Kitchen by Violet Oon (see Eat & Drink, Afternoon Tea, p97). Be inspired by the world of delectable desserts at Janice Wong Singapore (www.janicewong.online), or embark on a holistic dining experience that sparks conversations about thoughtful ways of living at Kausmo (see Eat & Drink, Unique Dining Concepts, p89).

DON'T JUST GET TOGETHER, BE A SOCIALISER.

Socialisers, who love to let their hair down and party the night away, will feel right at home in Singapore's thriving lifestyle, entertainment and nightlife scene. With parties, festivals, stand-up comedy gigs and a nightlife scene unlike any other in the world, Socialisers will have no lack of options. Those who love a good tippie can bar hop on a trail of award-winning bespoke bars in Chinatown, while clubbers can dance the night away at the hottest nightspots along the Singapore River (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p81). Immerse in distinctive and diverse entertainment, nightlife experiences, and connect with great company all in the bustling city-state.

A unique nightlife scene

Singapore's innovative and out-of-the-box bar experiences keep socialisers coming back for more. Socialisers can spend an exciting night-out with friends sipping on cocktails and playing mini golf at the Holey Moley Golf Club (www.holeymoley.com.sg). Themed retro bars such as NINETEEN80 and Rails (see Eat & Drink, Unique Dining Concepts, p90) and Level Up (www.1-levelup.com) provide bar-goers with comfortable social settings inspired by the 80s or 90s, where they can enjoy retro-inspired drinks, drinking games and music. These one-of-a-kind experiences reinforce Singapore's nightlife scene as one that is inimitable.

Acclaimed cocktail bars

Socialisers can spend the night in the city's highly acclaimed award-winning cocktail bars. Ranked on the list of Asia's 50 Best Bars 2021, bars such as Manhattan Bar and NATIVE (see Eat & Drink, Cocktail & Spirits, p115), are highly raved about by critics for their quality cocktail concoctions. Coming in 1st on Asia's 50 Best Bars 2020 and ranking on the list of the World's 50 Best Bars for 2019 and 2020, socialisers can enjoy a drink at Jigger & Pony (see Eat & Drink, Cocktail & Spirits, p115), an internationally acclaimed bar known for its diverse menu of cocktails drawing influence from international flavours.

DON'T JUST HOST OR ATTEND BUSINESS EVENTS, BE A

PROGRESSOR

CONNECT, NETWORK, GROW AND EXPAND YOUR HORIZON

Progressors looking to connect, collaborate and innovate will find that Singapore has all they need for a seamless and rewarding MICE event. As a gateway to the region, Singapore has extensive global trade and communications networks as well as access to the fast-evolving Asian region and marquee events across multiple industry sectors. Business travellers will have invaluable opportunities to network and seek business growth. With unique strengths across various areas from banking and finance to infocomm technology and media, the country is at the forefront of innovation. Furthermore, Singapore offers Progressors perfect wind-down activities such as shopping, soaking in a vibrant nightlife scene, dining at award-winning eateries and exploring quaint neighbourhoods between or after business events.

Plan business events with ease

Singapore is a global leader for business events. As the lead government agency for the business events sector in Singapore, the Singapore Exhibition & Convention Bureau™ (SECB) is responsible for helping event professionals, meeting planners and incentive organisers from around the world plan and execute successful events. The bureau provides grants and incentives for events organisers such as the Business Events in Singapore (BEIS) scheme and the Approved International Fair (AIF) scheme. Check out more information on assistance provided by SECB and a calendar of MICE events at VisitSingapore.com/mice

A seamless MICE leisure experience

Singapore offers a range of different leisure experiences to enhance one's meeting or incentive travel trip, including distinct dining experiences, a vibrant arts scene and world-class shopping venues. After a day of business meetings, Progressors can head to cultural precincts such as Kampong Gelam and Katong/Joo Chiat (see Neighbourhoods, Ethnic Districts, p62 and p64 respectively) or swanky malls in the city centre, such as ION Orchard and Raffles City Shopping Centre (see Shopping, Malls, p125 and p127 respectively) for some retail therapy or to savour delectable food offerings.

STAY

Singapore has numerous options for accommodations, each one catering to the interests, convenience and comfort of travellers.

With the vast number of options available, visitors get to choose accommodations in line with their personal preferences and interests. Staying in a cultural enclave or local neighbourhood may unveil experiences for Explorers that are not mentioned in guidebooks. Many accommodations in this city are surrounded by clubs, bars and eateries to guarantee Socialisers and Foodies unforgettable and gastronomic experiences. Culture Shapers will be thrilled to find plenty of museums and art galleries near hotels, while Collectors can look forward to getting their retail fix at malls and shopping districts in the vicinity. Please check with the respective hotels if they offer halal food.

SAFE MANAGEMENT MEASURES

In light of the COVID-19 situation, hotels are doing their best to keep visitors safe and ensure a high standard of hygiene in all their facilities. Some efforts by hotels include:

- Contactless welcome greetings
- Hand sanitisers and surgical masks available upon request
- Staff are well-trained in upkeeping hygiene standards
- Essential amenities and single-use items provided are sealed
- Periodic disinfection of the corridors, guest rooms and common areas
- Physical distancing for dine-in

For more information on Safe Management Measures by hotels, please refer to the websites of individual hotels.

GINA TOH

lyf Funan Singapore

“If you leave lyf looking forward to come back, then I know I’ve done my job!”

Gina graduated from Singapore Institute of Technology (SIT) with a degree in Hospitality Business, specialising in Events. At the time, the global pandemic had hit the events industry hard, and Gina was on the lookout for other hospitality roles that would allow her to hone her skills. Subsequently, she joined lyf Funan Singapore as a lyf Guard. In this multi-faceted role, Gina not only manages operations and guest relations, but assists with planning and executing community events for in-house residents. In her words, it’s been an experience of a lyf time!

In light of the COVID-19 situation, attraction sites are doing their best to keep visitors safe and ensure a high standard of hygiene in all their facilities. Some efforts by these sites include:

- Most attractions will be operating on limited capacity based on prevailing measures
- At least one-metre distancing is implemented between visitors from different groups
- Where feasible, at least one-metre of social distancing between individuals from different groups is enforced. Otherwise, one metre distancing is enforced between different groups with no cross-group intermingling
- Rigorous cleaning and disinfecting regimes in place, particularly for high touch elements
- Temperature checks
- Mandatory digital contact tracing
- All the attraction sites have been awarded with SG Clean quality mark to safeguard public health

For more information on Safe Management Measures by attraction sites, please refer to the websites of these attraction sites.

SAFE MANAGEMENT MEASURES

As neighbourhoods around Singapore continue to showcase their multicultural heritage, they are also taking steps to ensure that travellers remain safe. Some efforts by these neighbourhoods include:

- Digital contact tracing
- Reduction of capacity in store
- Periodic disinfection of high-touch surfaces
- Facilitating the pre-booking of activities on digital platforms
- Live streaming of ceremonies & activities
- Provision of hand sanitiser
- Physical distancing
- Encouraging contactless payment

For more information on Safe Management Measures by these neighbourhoods, please refer to their individual websites.

NEIGHBOURHOODS

Singapore is made up of a myriad of diverse neighbourhoods travellers can explore and experience.

From well-known lifestyle precincts to quaint suburbs and ethnic enclaves, each neighbourhood has its own distinct character and points of interest. Singapore's vibrant ethnic districts celebrate and showcase the city-state's multicultural heritage, where Culture Shapers can immerse in the cultures of the main ethnic groups who call Singapore home: Chinese, Malay, Indian and Eurasian. Lifestyle precincts such as Bras Basah, Bugis (see Lifestyle Precincts, p70), Marina Bay (see Lifestyle Precincts, p74) and the Civic District offer thriving hubs of activities for everyone in the family.

ETHNIC DISTRICTS: CHINATOWN

An ethnic district like no other, Chinatown is a melting pot of diverse cultures and traditions — an enclave of storied heritage mirroring the history of Singapore.

Highlights:

- Different cultures blending in harmony, just like how the Sri Mariamman Temple (see p59) sits alongside Buddha Tooth Relic Temple and Museum (see p58)
- Shopping gems that range from traditional wares to modern eco-conscious goods
- Home to some of the best dining establishments on the island, from hipster cafés to established hawker stalls and Michelin-starred restaurants (see Eat & Drink, Hawker Centres, p108 and Celebrity Fine Dining, p99 respectively)
- Award-winning supper spots

Keong Saik and Bukit Pasoh

The Keong Saik / Bukit Pasoh district is a conservation area also known as Bukit Pasoh Conservation Area. Given conservation area status in 1989, it got its name from the Ali Baba jars, the pasoh (flower pot) that were used to store rice or water in homes.

Highlights:

- Locally-inspired eats like Chendol Delight, a cake that fuses traditional chendol (traditional local dessert which includes shaved ice, green rice flour jelly, adzuki beans, coconut milk and palm sugar) ingredients with rich coconut custard, at Keong Saik Bakery (www.keongsaikbakery.com)
- Boutique hotels nestled in conservation shophouses

Masjid Jamae

Dating back to the 1800s, Masjid Jamae is a well-known mosque among Tamil Muslims and has even been referred to as periya palli ('big mosque' in Tamil).

Highlights:

- Excelling as an educational mosque, it facilitates religious activities, prayers and sermons. It also organises seminars and discussions on religious / social topics for both Muslims and Non-Muslims
- While the entrance gate is distinctively South Indian, the two prayer halls are Neo-Classical in style, typical of George Drumgoole Coleman
- The mosque is believed to be the oldest of five mosques gazetted as a national monument

ETHNIC DISTRICTS: KATONG & JOO CHIAT

The residential neighbourhoods of Katong and Joo Chiat are known for their rich Peranakan (Straits-born people of mixed Chinese and Malay/Indonesian heritage) heritage and culture. This area traces its roots to the early 19th century when wealthy English, Portuguese, French and Chinese settlers established coconut, cotton and gambier plantations here. In the early 20th century, many locals started building homes in the eastern region, which resulted in the varied styles of bungalows, shophouses and places of worship in the area.

Highlights:

- Must-visit for cool cafés and shopping
- Old-world coffee shops selling famous local delicacies such as Katong laksa (spicy coconut milk-based noodle soup; see Eat & Drink, Local Favourites, p88) and nonya cakes (nonya is a term for Peranakan women)
- Photo-worthy and heritage buildings along East Coast Road, Koon Seng Road and streets such as Joo Chiat Terrace and Joo Chiat Place
- Walking or food tours of the area (see Tours, p163)

Church of the Holy Family

Built before World War II, this church was the first Roman Catholic Church built along the eastern coastline of Singapore and is a gathering place for Eurasian residents in the area, serving the local Catholic community till today.

Highlights:

- The Church celebrates Peranakan (Straits-born people of mixed Chinese and Malay/Indonesian heritage) masses in the Baba Malay Language on the eve of Chinese New Year
- The front sculptures remain from the original church structure, while a 16-panel stained glass was imported from Italy and installed at the back of the new building

Sri Senpaga Vinayagar Temple

Dedicated to the Elephant God, Ganesha or Lord Vinayagar, this temple—established by the Ceylonese Tamils from Sri Lanka—dates back to the 1850s and is the second-oldest Hindu temple in Singapore.

Highlights:

- 21-metre high rajagopuram (an ornate tower at the entrance of a temple)
- Unique features such as the over 1.5-metre-tall statue of Lord Vinayagar, the gold-covered vimanam (cupola) and four main granite pillars with the Elephant God's 32 forms
- This is the only temple that revives and preserves the stunning murals inspired by the timeless hymn and poetry in the Thirumurais and Thevaram collections
- One of the temple's most spectacular features is a 4.5-metre musical pillar, which produces different melodic notes when tapped. It is the first of its kind in Southeast Asia. This 7,000kg structure was carved from a single piece of special grade granite from Tamil Nadu, India. It took Mahabalipuram sculptors three years to complete and cost S$200,000

Jalan Besar

Parallel to Serangoon Road, Jalan Besar is one of the oldest roads in Singapore. In recent years, Jalan Besar and the streets around it have become a hip enclave with a growing number of trendy boutiques, cafés and restaurants.

Highlights:

- Chye Seng Huat Hardware (www.cshhcoffee.com) for delicious cups of coffee
- The Butter Studio (www.thebutterstudio.com) for mouth-watering baked goods
- The Refinery (www.therefinery.sg), which houses a yakitori (grilled meat on skewers) restaurant on the first floor, a bespoke cocktail bar on the second floor and a craft workshop on the third floor

Little India Arcade

Built in 1913, Little India Arcade consists of a cluster of conserved neoclassical shophouses that house an array of boutique shops and eateries for tourists and locals alike.

Highlights:

- Handicrafts, costume jewellery, souvenirs, Indian clothing, silks and more
- Indian sweets and pastries from sweet shops along the area
- Travellers can get a henna (a millennia-old form of temporary body art) tattoo done at one of the many shops within the building

Address: 48 Serangoon Road

Website: www.littleindiaarcade.com.sg

Opening Hours: Mon–Sun 9am–10pm

Serangoon Road

Serangoon Road is one of Singapore's oldest roads and is the backbone of Little India. It was a major road that connected Serangoon harbour to the central town area. Along Serangoon Road are many terrace shophouses with designs that reflect the building structures ranging from early 1840s to 1960s.

Highlights:

- Restaurants and shops selling everything from gold jewellery and trinkets to traditional Indian clothing, incense and spices
- Affordable and good Indian curry at vegetarian heritage restaurant Komala Vilas (see Eat & Drink, Vegetarian, p111) which has been around since 1947

Sri Srinivasa Perumal Temple

Constructed in 1855, Sri Srinivasa Perumal Temple is one of Singapore's oldest temples and is dedicated to the Hindu deity, Sri Perumal, also known as Lord Vishnu.

Highlights:

B

HEARTLANDS

Visitors who wish to experience the local way of life should explore the 'heartlands'—the suburbs outside the city centre and Central Business District—where most locals live and work.

Highlights:

- Local community buzz at hawker centres, parks, minimarts and more
- Distinct characteristics in different neighbourhoods

Ang Mo Kio & Bishan

Once a rubber plantation, Ang Mo Kio started out as a hub for car repair shops in the 1970s and soon grew into a well-planned housing estate. Ang Mo Kio Town Centre in Ang Mo Kio Avenue 3 is the town's main commercial and community hub. Situated next to Ang Mo Kio, Bishan is a peaceful yet buzzing town in central Singapore.

Highlights:

- The Ang Mo Kio housing estate won the Singapore Institute of Architects' Outstanding Buildings Award in 1983 for its design
- Located on the site of a former Chinese cemetery, Bishan features a town centre, schools, public parks and communal facilities
- Bishan is located at the most central point of Singapore, and is made up of Upper Thomson, Marymount, Shunfu, Sin Ming, Bishan North and Bishan East

Nearest MRT: Ang Mo Kio Station / Bishan Station

Bedok

A housing estate in the eastern part of Singapore, Bedok was once a quiet fishing village. The town takes its name from bedoh, the Malay word for drum, which was used at the mosque in the area. Like most of Singapore's East Coast, Bedok in the old days was a vibrant coastal town popular with locals for relaxing weekends and short getaways.

Highlights:

- Bedok has extensive public housing, including Bedok North, Bedok South, Kaki Bukit, Bedok Reservoir and Kembangan. Condominiums have also sprouted in the area in recent years
- Eclectic mix of hip cafés, quirky restaurants and old-school family-run shops that add to Bedok's relaxed, charming vibe
- Bedok is the largest planning area in the Republic, being home to an estimated 289,000 residents

Nearest MRT: Bedok Station / Kembangan Station

Jurong

Jurong is a thriving town with recreational and lifestyle facilities, green spaces and commercial establishments. While it has shaken off its 'industrial town' image from the past, its manufacturing district continues to grow and is an essential part of the 'new Central Business District'.

Highlights:

- Recreational and lifestyle facilities, expansive green spaces and sizable malls
- The rapid growth and development of Jurong has led it to become one of the most densely-populated industrial areas in the city-state
- Jurong also covers several offshore islands as well, including Pulau Damar Laut and Pulau Samulun, both of which are located within the planning areas of Jurong East and Boon Lay respectively; along Jurong Island

Nearest MRT: Boon Lay Station / Chinese Garden Station / Jurong East Station / Lakeside Station

Tampines

Spread over 20.89 square kilometres, Tampines is one of Singapore's largest residential areas. It got its name from the large number of ironwood trees, or tempinis in Malay, in the area. There are only a few tempinis left today, and even less evidence of Tampines' past as a fishing village with sand quarries, orchards and coconut plantations.

Highlights:

- Developed in 1979, Tampines was the first town in Singapore under the precinct concept, which helped promote neighbourliness and a sense of belonging among residents
- Its smart neighbourhood design earned the United Nations World Habitat Award for Excellence in Housing Design in 1992
- Our Tampines Hub is a community space with amenities such as recreation centres, swimming pools and karaoke facilities built for residents of Tampines to gather, interact and bond with the community

Nearest MRT: Tampines Station / Tampines East Station / Tampines West Station

Toa Payoh

The town gets its name from toa ('big' in Hokkien and Teochew) and payoh (derived from the Malay word for swamp, paya). Its literal name, Big Swamp, is a tribute to the hard work and vision of its early settlers—plantation owners and workers in the 19th century who cleared swathes of swampland to settle here. Later on, kampongs ('village' in Malay) sprouted up in the area before finally evolving into the town visitors see today.

Highlights:

- First town designed and developed entirely by the Housing & Development Board
- Boasts a list of firsts, such as the first Residents' Association, neighbourhood police post, cooperative supermarket and MRT station, among others
- One of Singapore's most beloved landmarks, the Dragon Playground can be found here

Nearest MRT: Braddell Station / Caldecott Station / Toa Payoh Station

Yishun & Sembawang

The once-rural Yishun and Sembawang areas were home in the 1800s and the early 1900s. It was finally urbanized in the mid-1970s with the inception of Yishun New Town, which was completed a decade later. The opening of Yishun MRT station, Yishun 10 (Asia's first cineplex with ten movie theatres), and Yishun's first shopping mall Northpoint, added vibrancy to the neighbourhood.

Highlights:

- The newly renovated Northpoint, Northpoint City, is one of Singapore's largest suburban malls
- Sembawang Park is one of the few parks in Singapore that has a natural beach, the Kampong Wak Hassan Beach

Nearest MRT: Khatib Station / Sembawang Station / Yishun Station / Canberra Station

LIFESTYLE PRECINCTS: BRAS BASAH. BUGIS

Straddling Singapore's Civic District and Kampong Gelam (see Ethnic Districts, p62), the Bugis district was named after the Buginese people, seafarers from South Sulawesi in Indonesia, who settled in the area in the early 19th century before the British arrived. Now, the bustling Bras Basah Bugis neighbourhood is a historical haven and the city's nucleus of arts and culture.

Highlights:

- A large concentration of notable museums, including the iconic National Museum of Singapore (see Attractions, Arts, Museums & Heritage, p42)
- Strategic location within the Central Business District with plenty of dining, shopping and entertainment options, a lot of which are housed in converted conservation buildings and heritage shophouses

Nearest MRT: Bras Basah Station / Bugis Station / City Hall Station

Armenian Church

Built in 1835, the Armenian Church is Singapore's oldest Christian church and is dedicated to St. Gregory the Illuminator, the first Armenian monk. In 1973, the building was gazetted as a national monument and restored two decades later.

Highlights:

- The church's traditional interior—its vaulted ceiling, cupola and porticoes—consists of features central to what is regarded as a Coleman masterpiece
- Commemorative tombstone of Agnes Joaquim, the creator of the iconic Vanda 'Miss Joaquim' orchid, Singapore's national flower, in the serene Memorial Garden
- Renowned Irish architect George D. Coleman included a dome roof and bell turret in its original design, but these were subsequently removed for safety reasons. Today, the building has a pitched roof and spire

CHIJMES

This 19th century complex, gazetted as a National Monument in 1990, began life in Caldwell House as the Convent of the Holy Infant Jesus, from which it derived its name. It then became a Catholic girls' school, adding a magnificent Gothic chapel featuring intricate plasterwork, stunning archways and Belgian stained-glass windows. In 1996, after extensive restoration work, the CHIJMES complex was reopened as a converted lifestyle enclave.

Highlights:

- An exciting selection of restaurants
- The beautiful chapel, now named CHIJMES Hall, is a popular venue for weddings and events

St Andrew's Cathedral

After the original chapel on the site of the present building was destroyed by two lightning strikes in 1852, a cathedral with early English Gothic influences was built in its place. Designed by Colonel Ronald MacPherson in 1856, St Andrew's Cathedral is Singapore's largest cathedral and the most established Anglican place of worship.

Highlights:

- The cathedral's stained-glass windows on the apse pay tribute to Singapore's founder, Sir Stamford Raffles, and other British officials
- Gazetted as a national monument in 1973
- In 1942 during World War II, there were frequent Japanese air raids, and the cathedral was used as an emergency hospital

Helix Bridge

The longest pedestrian bridge in Singapore, Helix Bridge is a striking 28-metre-long steel duplex bridge that overlooks Marina Bay while connecting the City Hall to the Esplanade district and the Bayfront area.

Highlights:

- Its double-helix design is inspired by the spiralling shape of the human DNA
- When night falls, the bridge lights up in a spectrum of twinkling colours
- The bridge also acts as an outdoor gallery, displaying works by local youths

Address: Bayfront Avenue

Marina Barrage

Built across the Marina Channel, the Marina Barrage is Singapore's 15th reservoir. It acts as a flood control measure for low-lying parts of the city centre by keeping out the tidal influence. With green principles applied to its design, construction and operation, the barrage is a showpiece of environmental sustainability.

Highlights:

- An ideal venue for water and recreational activities due to the stable water surface
- Picnic and kite flying against the stunning city skyline at the barrage's Green Roof which is open 8am to 9pm daily (Last entry at 8pm)
- Sustainable Singapore Gallery (SSG), where visitors can learn about Singapore's sustainability measures. Accessibility to Sustainable Singapore Gallery is by pre-registered guided tours and numbers are capped at 20 participants per session with no more than eight in a group

Merlion Park

The Merlion Park is where visitors can admire Singapore's iconic Merlion—a must-see for tourists visiting the island. The water-spouting Merlion has a body of a fish, symbolising Singapore's humble beginnings as a fishing village, while its lion head symbolises Singapore's original name, Singapura, or lion city in Malay.

Highlights:

- The park houses two of Singapore's most well-known Merlion statues. Besides the iconic large sculpture, the park has another smaller Merlion Cub.
- It was built by local craftsman, Lim Nang Seng, and was unveiled on 15 September 1972 by then Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew at the mouth of the Singapore River, to welcome all visitors to Singapore

Address: 1 Fullerton Road

LIFESTYLE PRECINCTS: PUNGGOL

Situated in the north-eastern part of Singapore, Punggol is one of the country's oldest inhabited areas with a storied past that precedes the 1819 founding of the nation by Sir Thomas Stamford Raffles. Its earliest settlers were Malay fishermen; followed by Chinese immigrants who took up pig and poultry farming and worked in rubber plantations. In the 1970s, the pig farms were relocated, and reclamation efforts were carried out in the 1980s to cater to public housing.

Highlights:

- Singapore's Housing & Development Board has earmarked it as the nation's first sustainable waterfront town of the 21st century
- Idyllic beauty in its natural spaces with lalang (coarse cogon grass) fields and wetland reserves
- Comprises of Coney Island a popular spot for cycling and running

Nearest MRT: Punggol Station

Lorong Halus Wetland

One of Punggol's most underrated attractions, this former landfill along the eastern bank of Punggol-Serangoon Reservoir was opened to the public in 2011.

Highlights:

- Located at the eastern bank of Serangoon Reservoir, this wetland treats water passing through to prevent it from flowing into the reservoir and safeguarding quality of water in the reservoir
- White-bellied sea eagles and great egrets can be spotted across the wetland habitat

Address: Opposite Punggol Promenade Riverside Walk

LIFESTYLE PRECINCTS: SINGAPORE RIVER

For more than a century, the Singapore River was the island's centre of trade and commerce. It used to be filled with waterfront warehouses and godowns that stored cargo brought in by bumboats. Today, it is a vibrant district for dining and nightlife.

Highlights:

- The river is divided into three quays. Closest to the mouth of the river on the southern bank is Boat Quay, followed by Clarke Quay upriver on the northern bank, and Robertson Quay stretching along the same bank even further upstream
- Colonial façades and colourful five-foot-way shophouses that remain as charming reminders of Singapore's historical past

Website: www.clarkequay.com.sg / www.boatquay.com.sg

Nearest MRT: Clarke Quay Station / Raffles Place Station

HongKong Street

HongKong Street is a one-way road with a high concentration of hidden dining gems like Amò (www.amorestaurant.sg)

Highlights:

- 28HKS is an award-winning cocktail bar hidden behind a 1960's shophouse façade
- PUNCH Café (www.punch.sg) which offers creative coffee drinks
- Fitness buffs can head to CLUB yoga (www.clubgyoga.sg) for aerial, rope and wheel yoga

Mohamed Sultan Road

The shophouses that line this road were once used as warehouses to store goods taken from harbouring ships for redistribution, as well as homes for residents during pre-war Singapore. In the early 1990s, they were rejuvenated as clubs and pubs, transforming the area into a nightlife hub. Today, the shophouses are mostly occupied by restaurants and design retailers.

Highlights:

- Some prominent buildings include Seng Kee Building, Lam Ann Building and Gainurn Building at the junction of River Valley Road and Mohamed Sultan Road
- Hong San See temple incorporates Taoist and Buddhist architectural styles and has been a designated national monument since 1978

Nanyang Sauce

The oldest artisan sauce brewer in Singapore, Nanyang Sauce has been producing soy sauce traditionally through natural fermentation since 1959. The fermentation process is handmade and takes a total of nine months.

Old Hill Street Police Station

Constructed in 1934, the Old Hill Street Police Station used to house living quarters for policemen and their families. Today, it has been refurbished to house the Ministry of Communications and Information and the Ministry of Culture, Community and Youth, as well as art galleries.

Highlights:

- An instantly recognisable façade of 927 windows in rainbow hues

Address: 140 Hill Street

Website: www.mci.gov.sg/about-us/old-hill-street-police-station/purpose-and-history

Robertson Quay

A former wharf in the late 19th century, this neighbourhood is now an eclectic mix of retail shops, residential apartments, hotels, art galleries and restaurants.

Highlights:

- Restaurants with a family-friendly ambience
- The Quayside, an upscale waterfront neighbourhood with a curated mix of eateries and bars such as Super Loco (www.super-loco.com) and Wolfgang's Steakhouse Singapore (www.wolfgangsteakhouse.sg)

Nearest MRT: Clarke Quay station

KEN KOH

*Business Development Director,
Nanyang Sauce*

“My mission is to build on my grandfather's legacy and brew the best soy sauce in the world, made with love, right here in Singapore!”

Third generation owner of Nanyang Sauce, Ken Koh is well acquainted with the craft of soya sauce production, having spent his childhood days working in the family business. Up till today, the soya sauce is still made traditionally, the same way Ken's late grandfather, the founder of Nanyang Sauce, did it. Non-genetically modified soya beans are steamed before they are placed into large clay vats with salt water and wheat flour to ferment under the sun for nine months.

LIFESTYLE PRECINCTS: TIONG BAHRU

It may be one of the oldest housing estates in Singapore, but this once-sleepy residential district is now a cultural hotbed for the island's young and hip. Built in the 1930s, the neighbourhood has a look that sets it apart: low-rise buildings in the Streamline Moderne architectural style, characterised by smooth curving forms and horizontal lines.

Highlights:

- Pre-war apartments with Art Deco façades housing quirky fashion boutiques
- Trendy cafés
- Decades-old kopitiams (local coffeeshops)
- Hawker culture at Tiong Bahru Market and Food Centre (see Eat & Drink, Hawker Centres, p109)

Nearest MRT: Tiong Bahru Station

Block 78 Moh Guan Terrace

This five-storey apartment building, completed in 1940, is the largest single block of flats in the area.

Highlights:

- One section of the building also houses a civilian air raid shelter, making it the only public housing estate at the time that was built with a shelter as part of its design
- An iconic U-shape that has earned it the affectionate name of 'the horse-shoe block'

Address: 78 Moh Guan Terrace

Dancing Girl Sculpture

The district's first piece of public art—Dancing Girl—is located in Seng Poh Garden. Centrepiece of the landscaped garden, the concrete 1.2-metre-high sculpture was first commissioned over three decades ago in 1972.

Highlights:

- Sarawak-born artist Lim Nang Sang, who also created the iconic Merlion statue, is the sculptor behind this art piece

Address: Seng Poh Road near Moh Guan Terrace

Qi Tian Gong Temple

A neighbourhood fixture since the 1920s, this temple is nicknamed the Monkey God Temple since it is dedicated to the Taoist deity from the Chinese literary classic Journey to the West.

Highlights:

- More than ten statues of the Monkey God—including one that is almost a century old—can be found within the temple

EAT & DRINK

From the humble local favourites served in hawker centres to refined plates in celebrity chef restaurants, the country's culinary landscape has it all.

Foodies travelling to Singapore have an abundance of options when it comes to eating from restaurants steeped in heritage and tradition to establishments serving up contemporary delicacies in unique settings. For foodies looking for a culinary adventure, the influences of the Chinese, Malay and Indian cultures have created a unique variety of flavourful dishes. Those who fancy halal, vegan or vegetarian food will be spoilt for choice, thanks to eateries catering to diverse dietary preferences. Every meal is a chance to indulge in something different, in new atmospheres, and in new ways.

SAFE MANAGEMENT MEASURES

Restaurants around Singapore continue to emphasise on hygiene policies and strict food safety to ensure that customers have an enjoyable time dining out. Some efforts by restaurants include:

- Periodic disinfection of high-touch surfaces
- Physical distancing
- Reduction of capacity and group size
- Digital contact tracing of customers
- Provision of hand sanitisers before entering the restaurant
- Contactless payment is encouraged
- Safe food handling and preparation measures by employees wearing masks and gloves
- Cutlery are sanitised or sealed in individual cases
- Contactless delivery options available for door-step deliveries

For more information on Safe Management Measures in restaurants, please refer to the websites of individual restaurants.

LOCAL FAVOURITES

The country's reputation as a food lover's paradise is not without good reason. With its multi-ethnic makeup and key culinary influences from Chinese, Malay and Indian cultures, Singapore offers a variety of food and flavours. While chicken rice is often called the national dish, others would argue that chilli crab, which was concocted in Singapore in the 1950s, also deserves that label. Regardless of dietary or religious preferences, visitors to Singapore will have plenty of dishes to try and meals to remember.

Chicken Rice

Chicken rice consists of poached chicken and seasoned rice, served with chilli sauce and a small side of cucumber garnishes. Visitors can sample different versions of the traditional dish, where the chicken is blanched and soaked in cold water to keep the meat tender. There's also a roasted or braised style; each with a distinct taste.

Highlights:

- It can be found everywhere, from hawker centres and food courts to casual eateries and high-end restaurants
- Quality of rice and chili sauce served are important to a plate of chicken rice—the rice should be lightly oiled and fragrant, while the chilli dip should have a zing of ginger to it
- From S$5 per serving

Where to have it:

Chilli Crab

The Chilli Crab which began as a dish sold from pushcarts in the 1950s has today, become a star in Singapore's food scene. This dish is commonly made using mud crabs that are stir-fried with tomato and chilli sauce.

Highlights:

- One of the earliest versions of chilli crab is still on the menu of Roland Restaurant in Marine Parade Central
- Chilli Crab also be made with the more deluxe option of Alaskan king crabs
- A more modern recipe that is widely available these days includes sambal (chilli paste), eggs and tomato paste for a rich, umami (savory) taste
- To savour the flavour of the dish, diners can order mantou (fried or steamed buns), to dip into the gravy
- From S$30 per crab (depending on weight)

Chicken Rice

Hokkien Prawn Mee

Hokkien Prawn Mee

The yellow noodles and thick bee hoon (rice vermicelli) are stir-fried with succulent prawns, squid, pork belly strips and egg in a rich stock made from pork bones and prawn heads.

Highlights:

- This dish is often served with sambal (chilli paste) and a squeeze of fresh lime for extra zest. Some places add fried pork lard as a crunchy topping
- A big contributor to the overall taste lies in the skill of the hawker imparting wok hei—literally 'breath of the wok', a cooking technique that involves tossing food in a wok—for a fuller, bolder flavor
- From S$3 per serving

Fish Head Curry

One of the country's most iconic dishes, it aptly represents Singapore's multicultural tradition. There are Chinese, Malay, Indian and Peranakan (Straits-born people of Chinese and Malay/Indonesian heritage) versions, with each ethnic group making subtle variations to the curry sauce. One similarity is the use of the head of a red snapper, along with a mix of vegetables, such as okra (lady's fingers) and eggplant.

Highlights:

- Some variations mix in tamarind for a touch of sourness, others add coconut milk for a creamier texture, and pineapple is sometimes added for a dash of fruitiness to the gravy
- From S$25 per serving

Fried Carrot Cake

There's no carrot in this carrot cake. Instead, blocks of white radish are steamed, cut into cubes and stir-fried with garlic, eggs and chye poh (Chinese preserved radish).

Highlights:

- The affordable hawker staple gets a smoky and flavourful taste from the cooking technique, wok hei, that literally means 'breath of the wok' and involves tossing food in a wok
- From S$3 per serving

Kaya Toast

A popular breakfast item amongst locals, kaya toast is also eaten as a snack during teatime. The rich kaya spread—a traditional jam made from coconut, eggs and pandan leaves (which results in green kaya) or palm sugar (which makes brown kaya)—is slathered between slabs of cold butter and crusty bread.

Highlights:

- A local kopi (coffee) or teh (tea) pairs superbly with the sweet toast
- Many locals also eat it with two soft-boiled eggs mixed with dark soy sauce and a dash of pepper
- From S$3.50 per serving

Nasi Lemak

Visiting foodies can expect a mix of flavours and textures from nasi lemak, a popular breakfast meal with the locals. It comprises rice cooked in coconut milk—some cook the rice with pandan leaves to give it extra fragrance and a green colour—with side servings of deep-fried fish or chicken wings, otah (spicy fish paste grilled in banana leaf), fried ikan bilis (anchovies) with peanuts, eggs, cucumber slices and sambal (chilli paste).

Highlights:

- The sambal is a key ingredient; it should be robust and spiked with the flavour of shallots and ground dried shrimp
- From S$3 per serving

Rojak

The key to this unique Asian salad lies in its dark, sticky sauce—made up of fermented prawn paste, sugar, lime and chilli paste—which explains its sweet yet savoury taste. With a name that means 'eclectic mix' in colloquial Malay, rojak is made up of a variety of ingredients and textures. It has fresh cucumber, pineapple, tofu puff and you tiao (dough fritters) tossed in prawn paste, tamarind sauce and garnished with chopped peanuts.

Highlights:

- Visitors can create their own version of rojak by mixing the sauce in a large bowl, before tossing in all the other ingredients at select hotel buffets
- From S$3 per serving

Roti Prata

Roti prata is a flaky South Indian flatbread, that is crispy on the outside but soft to the bite—best eaten plain or with an egg cracked onto it. It is often served with a savoury, spicy curry (fish and mutton are popular options). Some locals also eat it with sugar, or sweet toppings such as banana and chocolate sauce.

Highlights:

- Modern renditions of roti prata sees it served with ice cream or chicken floss
- At prata stalls, diners will be able to watch stall owners skillfully twirl the dough till it is paper-thin before folding it in and cooking it on a greased griddle
- From S$1 per serving

UNIQUE DINING CONCEPTS

Dining in Singapore can be an exciting and unusual affair. From dining amidst nature to meals enjoyed on board a sightseeing bus, unconventional dining experiences await visitors.

Kausmo

Derived from the word "Cosmos"—a system of thought, Kausmo promotes thoughtful living by challenging food norms that bring about unnecessary wastage. Brainchild of co-founders Lisa Tang and Kuah Chew Shian, the concept hopes to creatively repurpose aesthetically filtered fruits and vegetables that are overstocked, over-ripened, and oddly-shaped and sized.

Highlights:

- Kausmo utilises seafood from small farming communities in the region, secondary cuts of meat which are often overlooked in favour of prime cuts, and forgotten native greens and florals
- Kausmo's menu is seasonal and features European techniques with Asian influences
- Six-course Carte Blanche Menu at S$75++ per diner and S$95++ per diner with Kombucha tasting

Address: Shaw Centre, 1 Scotts Road #03-07

NAGAJYOTHI MAHENDRAN

Director of Samy's Curry

“Running a restaurant is tough. Long hours, shortage of staff, high costs and high competition. And then a customer comes up to me and says “I love your food.” And suddenly, it makes it all worthwhile.”

It was at 19 when Nagajyothi Mahendran, fresh out of junior college, had to step up to lead her family's business—Samy's Curry. As a 3rd generation successor, she constantly worked hard to improve and innovate the restaurant's menu in one of Singapore's oldest South Indian restaurants with over 50 years of culinary heritage.

JEREMY GILLION

Chef-owner of Restaurant JAG

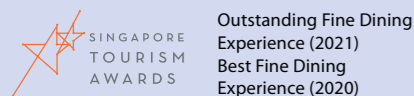

“Food to me is about sharing. International producers share their best ingredients with us, which we carefully prepare to create an unforgettable moment for our diners.”

Inspired by a herb forager who had a collection of herbs with medicinal properties from the French Alps, chef-owner Jeremy Gillion has been experimenting with these herbs in his dishes even before he opened Restaurant JAG. Now, when he creates a dish, he envisions the flavours he wishes to bring out and matches them with specific French herbs—resulting in culinary masterpieces.

HALAL RESTAURANTS

Halal food (means 'permissible' in Arabic), is food that adheres to Islamic law, which covers everything from its source to preparation. With the sizeable Muslim community in Singapore, there is no shortage of halal establishments, which are 100% Muslim-owned or are certified by Majlis Ugama Islam Singapura (MUIS; also known as Islamic Religious Council of Singapore). Travellers can find halal cafes and restaurants across the island, especially in the Muslim ethnic enclaves, such as Arab Street and Kampong Gelam (see Neighbourhoods, Ethnic Districts, p62). From café fare to Asian inspired Mexican dishes, halal food in Singapore is aplenty.

Bismillah Biryani

What began as a tiny stall in a food court, opened by Mr Arif Salahuddin, has grown into an award-winning heritage brand with four outlets. Bismillah Biryani offers authentic dum biryani (an Indian spiced rice dish with meat or vegetables cooked by steaming). The eatery has made the MICHELIN Guide's Bib Gourmand list for four consecutive years, from 2016 to 2019.

Highlights:

- Biryani (from S$6) that is cooked digitally in ovens to ensure consistent quality in its tender chunks of meat and perfectly cooked basmati (long-grain rice)
- The dish cooked in a dum (steaming) style, which involves cooking the rice and meat together evenly and allowing the ingredients to soak up the flavours and spices

MODERN SINGAPORE RESTAURANTS

Over the years, Singapore's cuisine has evolved beyond its traditional hawker dishes such as chilli crab and chicken rice (see Local Favourites, p86). Innovative chefs have reworked the rich nuances and diverse textures of these dishes in their modern-day interpretations, making their mark on the local culinary landscape. The result is a plethora of dining options offering flavours that are best described as Modern Singapore.

HAWKER CENTRES

A visit to Singapore would not be complete without a meal at a hawker centre. It is where visitors can find Singaporeans from all walks of life tucking into affordable local food in a casual setting. At these open-air food courts, the best local dishes can be sampled for under S$10. This includes delicious meals from different ethnic groups—Chinese, Indian, Malay and Eurasian—as well as halal and vegetarian options (see Halal Restaurants, p103 and Vegetarian, p110). From the hustle and bustle to the sights and smells, visiting a lively hawker centre is a sensory experience not to be missed. Though stalls may operate at different timings, hawker centres generally open from early morning till late.

Amoy Street Food Centre

Located in the heart of the Central Business District, this popular two-storey food centre is always crowded during weekday lunch (generally from 11.30am to 1.30pm).

Highlights:

- MICHELIN Bib Gourmand awardee, A Noodle Story (#01-39), which serves Singapore-style ramen fusing East-West flavours
- Chinese-style Li Xing Nasi Lemak (#02-81), which offers a S$3 set meal that often sells out before noon
- Han Kee Fish Soup (#02-129), for a bowl of thick fish slices in a delicate broth
- Third-gen hawkers such as the Coffee Break (#02-78) is a family-owned coffee shop that sells traditional coffee

Address: 7 Maxwell Road

Opening Hours: Mon–Sun 6.30am–9pm

Nearest MRT: Tanjong Pagar Station / Telok Ayer Station

Chinatown Complex Food Centre & Chinatown Food Street

Travellers can take a break while exploring Chinatown (see Neighbourhoods, Ethnic Districts, p58) to enjoy local food at these two spots.

SAFE MANAGEMENT MEASURES

Committed to providing you with an exciting and safe shopping experience, the retail scene is going the extra mile to ensure shoppers can use their space with peace of mind. Some efforts by retailers include:

- Active monitoring and tracing of shoppers
- Reduction of capacity
- Provision of hand sanitiser in store
- Periodic disinfection of high-touch surfaces
- Product enquiry through appointments and on communication platforms
- Physical distancing in store
- Provision of assistance in testing products

For more information on Safe Management Measures by these retailers, please refer to their individual websites.

ELYN WONG

Founder of Stolen

“With Stolen, it is always about opening minds and celebrating cross disciplinary creations. Fashion can be more than just a dress.”

A Visual Communications graduate and former Creative Group Head at Ogilvy & Mather, Elyn Wong's journey into fashion in 2007 was an unconventional one. Her designs takes cue from architecture and installation art—things Elyn also has passion for. This adaptation has resulted in lines of clothing featuring a structured rather than decorative form. More than a clothing label, Elyn's brand is an ode to feminine allure in all its strength and fragility.

Straits Preserves MADE WITH PASSION

Straits Preserves is Singapore's first homegrown producer of new Asian marmalades and nut butters, with flavours inspired by tropical fruit and spices, and Singapore's history and cultural diversity.

Highlights:

- This unexpected early success of the Straits Preserve inspired founder, Sharon Lee, to create more recipes using local ingredients resulting in flavours that are unique to Singapore.
- Each award-winning recipe has a unique story to tell – a cocktail invented in 1915, spices traded in the days when spices were worth more than gold, a celebration of a garden founded in 1859
- In 2017, Straits Preserves won the very first Gold award for Singapore at The World's Original Marmalade Awards competition in the United Kingdom
- The brand has also achieved numerous international food awards including The Great Taste Awards
- Its latest product Peaconut Butter puts a Singapore spin on traditional peanut butter by combining peanut with coconut and a pinch of salt resulting in a smooth and nutty butter with a distinctive coconut taste

As the gateway to Southeast Asia, Singapore is the preferred homeport in the region for numerous cruise lines. Visitors can fly into the city-state and sail out from either the Marina Bay Cruise Centre Singapore (MBCCS) or Singapore Cruise Centre (SCC) @ HarbourFront, to explore neighbouring cities with minimal hassle.

Most international cruise lines such as Royal Caribbean International and Dream Cruises offer packages that depart from and return to Singapore, so travellers can use Singapore as their port to travel around the region. Visitors may refer to the following sample cruise itineraries to check out the list of locations and packages offered by the cruise lines.

For the most updated cruise itineraries and travel arrangements, travel agents or visitors should contact the respective cruise lines. It is also advisable to check the website of each cruise line for more cruise itineraries other than the ones that are listed here.

AIDA Cruises C

AIDA Cruises is a German cruise line, that offers sailings from Singapore to destinations such as Australia, China, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Thailand and Vietnam. A special feature of its ships is the Theatrimum in the center, a circular, glass-walled space that is used as a nightclub with a 4D cinema. For dining, its ships have the included buffets as well as specialty restaurants, covering a wide variety of cuisines. One of the popular specialty offerings is Restaurant Rossini, which provides guests with an elegant and cosy atmosphere to dine in, through the atmosphere created by its sophisticated furnishings, an extensive wine list and award-winning cuisines. Passengers can also enjoy the cruise's extensive entertainment program which includes musicals, rock shows, live music bars, pool parties and comedy shows. For young children and teenagers, the Kids Club and Teens Club are sure to keep them entertained with fun themed workshops, multimedia games and more. Children under two years of age get to travel for free on AIDA. Children from 2 to 15 years of age will be able to travel for free or charged at low fixed prices in their parents' cabin during selected seasons.

CRUISE TRANSIT ITINERARIES

Depending on how much time cruise passengers have, here are some things they can do to experience a few highlights of the sunny island before they return onboard at Marina Bay Cruise Centre Singapore or the Singapore Cruise Centre. From amazing sights to culinary delights and new experiences, these itineraries bring visitors to different hotspots for a taste of what Singapore can offer. They also cater to a wide range of interests and are suitable for first-time visitors to Singapore.

General Itinerary 1: Marina Bay

Close to the Marina Bay Cruise Centre Singapore (MBCCS) is the Marina Bay district (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p74), where one of Singapore's most iconic attractions, Gardens by the Bay (see Attractions, Nature & Parks, p50) can be found. Visitors can take a 22-minute walk on foot or a 15-minute bus ride to the attraction or alternatively arrive at their destination in less than ten minutes by car.

9am: Take a walk around Gardens by the Bay (Explore)

Start the morning by exploring the grounds of Gardens by the Bay (see Attractions, Nature & Parks, p50) and admire the view of the Marina Bay waterfront and skyline. Visitors will find a range of gardens featuring plants of different species as they enjoy their leisurely walk. Admission to the Outdoor Gardens, including the Supertree Grove and World of Plants, is free.

Visitors should not miss the Flower Dome and its spectacular flower field display or the 35-metre-tall waterfall at the Cloud Forest. Admission fees to these cooled conservatories apply.

Website: www.gardensbythebay.com.sg

12pm: Lunch at The Clifford Pier (Dine)

Located within the Fullerton Heritage precinct, The Clifford Pier restaurant at The Fullerton Bay Hotel Singapore occupies the space of what was once Singapore's main landing point for maritime traders and immigrants. The restaurant keeps the hawker food culture of the 1933 pier alive with dishes like soup kambing (mutton soup infused with spices) and char kway teow (stir-fried rice noodles in dark soya sauce).

Website: www.fullertonhotels.com/fullerton-bay-hotel-singapore/dining/the-clifford-pier

1pm: Esplanade – Theatres on the Bay (Experience)

After lunch, travellers can head to the nearby Esplanade – Theatres on the Bay (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p74), affectionately known as 'The Durian' for its spiky roofs. Travellers can go on a 60-minute guided tour (fees apply) of the Concert Hall, Theatre and front-of-house facilities, to get a glimpse of the daily workings of this world-class arts venue.

Website: www.esplanade.com

2.30pm: Go on a shopping spree at Marina Bay Sands (Shop)

The Shoppes at Marina Bay Sands (see Shopping, Malls, p128) is the place to be for a wide range of luxury international brands. As Singapore's largest luxury mall, it houses 170 brands spanning across high-end fashion, luxury watch and jewellery brands as well as premium children's labels.

Website: www.marinabaysands.com/shopping.html

3pm: Visit ArtScience Museum (Explore)

The ArtScience Museum (see Attractions, Arts, Museums & Heritage, p39)—with its iconic lotus-shaped structure—houses 21 galleries spread over three stories. Travellers should not miss its permanent exhibition, FUTURE WORLD: Where Art Meets Science, which features a 1,500 sqm digital universe with interactive art installations—something travellers of all ages will enjoy.

Supertree at Gardens by the Bay

View of Sentosa from Cable Car

Hop aboard a cable car for panoramic views of Singapore high up in the sky.

General Itinerary 2: Sentosa

Just a short distance from the Singapore Cruise Centre (SCC), visitors will be able to spend a fun-filled day at Sentosa island (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p79) or a relaxing nature walk through Mount Faber Park.

9am: Cable car ride (Experience)

Hop onto a cable car at Faber Peak Singapore for a bird's eye view of the city. The journey over jungle, sand and sea will take visitors to Sentosa Island (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p79). Visitors can pick their stop at any of the three locations (Siloso Point, Imbiah Lookout and Merlion) in Sentosa to explore the island and its various attractions.

Website: www.onefabergroup.com/singapore-cable-car-sky-network

11am: Brunch on Sentosa Island (Dine)

There's an endless list of food options at Resorts World™ Sentosa (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p80). For a laidback dining experience, there are beach restaurants like Coastes (www.coastes.com) and Tanjong Beach Club (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p80), where visitors can enjoy panoramic views of the beach while savouring brunch. Travellers who prefer hawker-style dishes should head to the Malaysian Food Street. For a truly unique dining experience, visit Southeast Asia's only underwater aquarium restaurant, Ocean Restaurant™ (see Eat & Drink, Unique Dining Concepts, p90) at the S.E.A. Aquarium™. Visitors can watch captivating marine life swimming past them as they dine on hearty dishes such as beef short ribs and sea bass.

Website: www.sentosa.com.sg/explore/dining

12:30pm: Mega Adventure Park—Singapore or AJ Hackett Sentosa (Experience)

Travellers looking for a short burst of adrenaline should head to Mega Adventure Park—Singapore (see Attractions, Adventure & Rides, p37), located at the top of Imbiah Hill on Sentosa Island. At the adventure park, visitors can enjoy an exhilarating flying fox ride, navigate wobbly bridges or experience a simulated parachute landing. Alternatively, they can experience adrenaline-pumping action at AJ Hackett Sentosa (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p79) where they can fly at speeds up to 120 kilometres per hour on a giant swing or bungee jump off a 47-metre-high platform.

Website: www.sg.megaadventure.com/
www.skylineluge.com/en/sentosa

2pm: Take a break at Good Old Days (Dine)

Visitors can stop for a break at Good Old Days (www.goodolddays.com) near Siloso Beach to enjoy local dishes, such as chicken rice (see Eat & Drink, Local Favourites, p86) and laksa (spicy coconut milk-based noodle soup), and delicacies like cheng tng (a light, sweet soup with longan, barley and white fungus) and tao suan (a sweet dessert made of split mung beans).

Website: www.onefabergroup.com/good-old-days

3pm: Madame Tussauds™ Singapore at Imbiah (Experience)

Visitors can save on admission charges with a 'saver ticket' (visit website for details) for entries to Images of Singapore (see Attractions, Arts, Museums & Heritage, p41) and Madame Tussauds™ Singapore (see Attractions, Edutainment & Lifestyle, p46), a wax museum that features wax figures of famous local personalities and international stars, such as Singapore's first prime minister, the late Lee Kuan Yew and Singaporean football legend Fandi Ahmad.

Website: www.madametussauds.com/singapore

4pm: Images of Singapore at Imbiah (Explore)

It is time for a history lesson at the Images of Singapore (see Attractions, Arts, Museums & Heritage, p41), which offers visitors an interactive experience of the city-state's past through live actors, special effects and immersive themed areas. Don't miss the Spirit of Singapore Boat Ride—a simulated journey through the Lion City's historical and cultural landmarks.

VENUES

Singapore is home to many diverse locations that can play host to different types of events, meetings and parties.

Progressors with a drive to collaborate and innovate can turn their passion for growth into fresh opportunities in Singapore. Being a regional hub for business and entertainment, Singapore has constructed cutting-edge facilities to hold world-class events, exhibitions and conferences, providing Progressors with plenty of opportunities to network and upgrade themselves. Venues such as the Victoria Theatre & Concert Hall and The Arts House are located in the Civic District, where Singapore's historical, architectural and cultural heritage started. For more information and tips on organising events in Singapore, Progressors can download the Meeting Planner's Guide (www.visitsingapore.com/mice/en/tools-and-resources/guide-downloads).

*Note that the venue capacity stated for the different venues are based on numbers before Covid-19.

SAFE MANAGEMENT MEASURES

Keeping moments of connection, entertainment and interaction safe, various venues around Singapore are doing their part to ensure their visitors are provided with a safe environment. Some efforts by these venues include:

- Being SG CLEAN certified
- Physical distancing
- Reduction of capacity and zoning
- Active monitoring and tracing of visitors
- Periodic disinfection of high-touch surfaces
- Limiting of entry points

For more information on Safe Management Measures by Venues, please refer to the websites of individual venues.

USEFUL INFORMATION FOR TRAVELLERS

When is the best time for travellers to visit Singapore?

Any time of the year is a good time to visit, but peak season for travel typically falls between December and June. Singapore's calendar of events is packed with exciting activities all year round.

Are there special rates for children and senior citizens to enter attractions and establishments?

It varies depending on the attraction or establishment. Rates for children generally apply to those between the ages of three and 12 (inclusive). Senior citizen rates generally apply to persons above the age of 60 or 65 (inclusive).

What can travellers do during festive holidays in Singapore?

Most shopping malls, tourist attractions and establishments are open during major public holidays, with the exception of the eve of Chinese New Year (CNY), when some establishments may close earlier and remain closed on the first and second day of CNY. However, key attractions and some outlets in Singapore's ethnic districts are generally open during CNY.

What currency is used in Singapore, where can we exchange cash, and are credit cards widely used?

The Singapore dollar (S$) is the official currency of Singapore. Notes come in denominations of S$2, S$5, S$10, S$50, S$100, S$1,000 and S$10,000. Coins come in 5, 10, 20 and 50 cents and S$1. Foreign currencies can be exchanged at licensed moneychangers, which can be found across the city. Most banks handle travellers' cheques and foreign currency exchange. However, some banks don't handle foreign currency exchange on Saturdays. Credit cards are widely accepted, with the most common ones being American Express, Diners Club®, Mastercard® and Visa.

How wheelchair-friendly is Singapore? Can disabled travellers get around easily?

Singapore caters to the needs of elderly travellers, wheelchair users and people with hearing or visual impairment. All Mass Rapid Transit (MRT) stations are equipped with ramps, lifts and wheelchair-accessible toilets as well as two wheelchair-accessible carriages on each train. Most public buses are also wheelchair-friendly (look out for a blue wheelchair decal at the front of the bus).

Travelling by taxi is convenient too. Any foldable wheelchair can be stored in the taxi's boot at no additional charge. More information is available at www.VisitSingapore.com/travel-guide-tips/getting-around/accessibility

Destination Information

www.visitsingapore.com

STB's destination website provides up-to-date information on Singapore's attractions, dining scene, events and festivals, stay options and other useful information.

www.stb.gov.sg

STB's corporate website provides information on projects done by the Board, the latest tourism news, market reports, research statistics and press releases. Other information available on the website include statutory acts on travel agents and hotels.

www.visitsingapore.com/mice

The Meetings, Incentive Travel, Conventions & Exhibitions (MICE)-driven website offers practical information on planning events, industry news, pre- and post-conference tours, as well as supplier and venue listings.

Where can I find a list of licensed Singapore travel agents?

TRUST (Travel Related Users' System), the integrated Internet-based administration and information system, allows all licensed travel agents to refer to and update relevant corporate information online, such as the appointment and resignation of key personnel. TRUST also incorporates a public section where members of the public can get up-to-date information on licensed travel agents, access information on upcoming events and read new releases.

Where can I find a comprehensive list of halal restaurants/eateries in Singapore?

- www.halaltag.com
- www.muis.gov.sg/Halal/Halal-Certification/Certified-Eating-Establishments
- www.zabihah.com
- www.visitsingapore.com/dining-drinks-singapore/halal-guide (see Eat & Drink, Halal Restaurants, p103)

What advice should be given to visitors in relation to local practices or cultural norms?

- Singapore is a cosmopolitan city and English is widely spoken, but the language close to the heart of every Singaporean is Singlish (see Know Singapore, p11). It's a colourful slang that combines English and local dialects.
- Travellers may notice packs of tissue paper on tables at hawker centres (see Eat & Drink, Hawker Centres, p108). This is the Singaporean way of reserving a table while patrons are away to place their food orders. Refrain from picking up the pack of tissue and simply look for another table.
- Singaporeans queue for everything, so visitors can join the line and wait for their turn.
- Unless they are in a rush, visitors should always keep to the left when taking the escalator.
- Tipping is not necessary as most hotels and restaurants in Singapore impose a service charge of 10% on their goods and services provided. Most hotels and restaurants quote prices as "++", which denotes 10% service charge and 7% Goods and Services Tax (GST) on top of the total bill. Some restaurants may quote "+", which means they only impose either service charge or GST.
- The no-smoking law is enforced in most public places, including the outdoors. Travellers who need to light up should do so only in designated smoking areas, usually marked by a yellow box (see Travel Essentials, Legal Matters, p243).

ORCHARD ROAD PRECINCT NO SMOKING ZONE

Since 1 Jan 2019, all public areas within Orchard Road (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p76) have become a designated No Smoking Zone (NSZ). Designated Smoking Areas (DSAs) will be available at specified locations within the precinct. For more information, visit www.nea.gov.sg/ORNZ

ESSENTIAL INFORMATION

Travel Essentials

NEED-TO-KNOW INFORMATION TO ENSURE TRAVELLERS ENJOY THEIR VISIT TO SINGAPORE

Before ArrivalVisas and Customs

Most international visitors do not require a visa to enter Singapore. To be sure, check with the Immigration & Checkpoints Authority of Singapore (www.ica.gov.sg) for visa requirements. All visitors to Singapore must hold a passport or travel document that has a validity of at least 6 months. Immigration Officers will stamp a Visit Pass onto visitors' passports upon arrival and the period of stay will be indicated on the Visit Pass stamp.

To enjoy a more seamless travel experience to Singapore, from Jan 2020, the SG Arrival Card (SGAC) will be made available on the Visit Singapore Travel Guide App (in iOS and Android). This is a new e-service where visitors can now electronically submit their arrival cards—up to 14 days in advance before arrival in Singapore.

Dutiable Goods

Under Singapore laws, inbound travellers are required to declare and pay the duty and Goods and Services Tax (GST) to bring in dutiable and taxable goods if they exceed their duty-free concessions and GST relief. This is applicable whether the goods were purchased in Singapore or overseas:

- Intoxicating liquors (spirits, wine, beer, ale, stout, etc). Beverages and liquors consumed for health reasons, or used for cooking are dutiable if the alcoholic strength by volume exceeds 0.5% (eg. Shandy, bottled alcoholic cocktail drinks, Bénédictine D.O.M, Yomeishu and rice wine)
- Tobacco products, including cigarettes and cigars
- Motor vehicles, including motorised bicycles
- Petroleum products and motor fuel including gasoline, motor spirits, diesel products and compressed natural gas (CNG)

All goods imported into Singapore are subject to 7% GST. Payment of Duties and GST can be made via the following payment modes:

- All major credit cards (Mastercard®, Visa and American Express), mobile wallets, NETS and Cashcard at the Singapore Customs Tax Payment Office
- Visa or Master credit cards on the Customs@SG Mobile and Web Application (credit card)

Duty-Free Concessions

Liquor Products

Travellers arriving in Singapore may enjoy duty-free concessions on liquor only if the following conditions are met:

- He/she is 18 years and above
- He/she has spent 48 hours or more outside Singapore immediately before arrival
- He/she did not arrive from Malaysia
- The liquor is for his/her own consumption
- The liquors are not prohibited from import into Singapore

Travellers are given duty-free concession for liquors on one of the following options:

Option	Spirits	Wine	Beer
A	1 Litre	1 Litre	–
B	1 Litre	–	1 Litre
C	–	1 Litre	1 Litre
D	–	2 Litre	–
E	–	–	2 Litre

Note:

- The above options also apply to liquors consumed for health reasons and used in cooking such as Yomeishu, D.O.M, Samsu, Rice Wine, cooking wine, Sake and Soju.
- Duty-free concessions are granted on liquor products purchased outside Singapore as well as those purchased at the duty-free retailer.
- Duty-free concessions are granted on liquor products for personal consumption only. It is an offence to sell or give them away.
- Travellers are required to pay taxes on liquor products exceeding their duty-free concessions and on goods carried for or on behalf of other people.
- There is no duty-free concession on liquor products for people arriving from Malaysia.
- If you are bringing in more than 10 litres of liquor products, a Customs permit would be required for clearance.
- Bona fide crew members are granted duty-free concession on 0.25 litre of spirits and 1 litre of wine or 1 litre of beer

GST Relief

Travellers will be given GST relief on new articles, souvenirs, gifts and food products (excluding liquor, tobacco and goods imported for commercial purposes) brought into Singapore and intended for personal use up to the following values, depending on the number of hours spent away from Singapore:

Time spent away from Singapore	Value of goods granted GST relief
48 hours or more	S$500
Less than 48 hours	S$100

Travellers are required to pay GST on the value of goods that exceeds their GST relief. Payment should be made at the Customs Tax Payment Office or via the Customs@SG Mobile & Web Application (credit card). Travellers should ensure receipts and invoices are on hand to facilitate payment. For more information on GST relief, visit www.customs.gov.sg

There is no GST relief or duty-free concession for cigarettes and tobacco products, or for motor spirits, diesel products and compressed natural gas (CNG) in containers.

GST Refund

Tourists who have made a purchase of more than S$100 (including GST) at participating shops. They may accumulate up to three same-day invoices/receipts from retailers bearing the same GST registration number and shop name to meet this minimum purchase amount, may claim a refund on the 7% Goods and Services Tax (GST) paid on their purchases. Tourists can apply for a GST refund using the Electronic Tourist Refund self-help kiosks (eTRS kiosks) located at Changi Airport Departure Check-in Hall (before departure immigration for check-in items) and Departure Transit Lounge (after departure immigration for hand-carry items); and at Seletar Airport Immigration & Checkpoints Authority (ICA) duty office. Tourists can verify the details of their transactions by registering and logging into the eTRS e-Services at touristrefund.sg/en/index.page or via the "eTRS Singapore" app downloadable from Google Play or Apple App Store.

Currency

Travellers entering or leaving Singapore with currency (coins and printed notes) or bearer negotiable instruments (bill of exchange, cheque, promissory note, bearer bond, money order and postal order) with a total value exceeding S$20,000 (or its equivalent in a foreign currency) are required to complete the Physical Currency and Bearer Negotiable Instruments (CBNI) Report (Traveller) or NP727 form. These forms are available for download from the Singapore Police Force website or at Singapore checkpoints and police establishments. Completed forms are to be submitted at the Customs Red Channel upon arrival in Singapore and at the immigration counters on departure from Singapore. There are no restrictions to the type or amount of CBNI that travellers may take into or out of Singapore. Travellers are only required to report the amount exceeding the equivalent of S$20,000.

Getting To and Leaving Singapore

By Air

Singapore Changi Airport, or simply Changi Airport, is consistently ranked as one of the best airports in the world. It serves over 100 airlines that fly to some 300 cities in about 80 countries and territories worldwide.

Beyond a transit point, Changi Airport (see Maps, Singapore Changi Airport, p251) is a tourist destination in itself. There are hotels, numerous shops and restaurants, tropical gardens, a cinema and a swimming pool plus other unique features in each terminal to make travelling an enjoyable experience. Its latest extension, Jewel Changi Airport (see Shopping, Malls, p125), is a majestic, ten-storey nexus with over 80 restaurants and global retail labels. Free Wi-Fi is available in both the public and transit areas of Changi Airport with #WiFi@Changi. Wheelchairs are also available for rental in all four terminals and Jewel Changi Airport (see Shopping, Malls, p125).

The airport's four terminals as well as Jewel Changi Airport, includes facilities to make travelling seamless, easy and convenient. For a complete list of the airport's facilities and services by terminals, please visit www.changiairport.com

Travellers who arrive at the airport early or have long layovers need not look far for ways to pass time. Changi Airport has plenty of activities within the transit areas that can make waiting for a flight a pleasant experience.

For Travellers from Countries that Singapore has lifted the Border Restrictions

Transit time: 2–3 hours

Travellers, who arrive from countries that Singapore has lifted the border restrictions, can rest, dine, and shop within the zone of Changi Airport's B and C gates while they wait for their next flight. For those who need some stretching and fresh air, they can connect with nature at Cactus Garden – a place filled with more 100 species of cacti and arid plants from Asia, Africa and America regions. After checking out the garden, travellers can satisfy their hunger pangs with snacks, light meals, halal and vegetarian food options that are available within the zone.

Transit time: More than 5 hours

Travellers with long layover can book a stay to refresh themselves at the transit hotel, located at Terminal 1, near boarding gate D41 or Terminal 3, near boarding gates B1-4. Other resting facilities include the Plaza Premium Lounge located near Gate C1, where travellers can relax in comfort. Meals will be offered as part of the packages.

For Travellers from Other Countries

Transit time: 2–3 hours

Travellers, who arrive from restricted countries, will get to enjoy other amenities at Transit Holding Area (THA) including a snooze area, a nursing station, Internet stations and free Wi-Fi.

Transit time: More than 5 hours

Travellers with long layover can also book a stay at the transit hotel, located at Terminal 1, near boarding gate D41 or Terminal 3, near boarding gates B1-4. However, they will be escorted straight to the hotels and are not permitted to shop and dine outside of the hotel.

By Sea

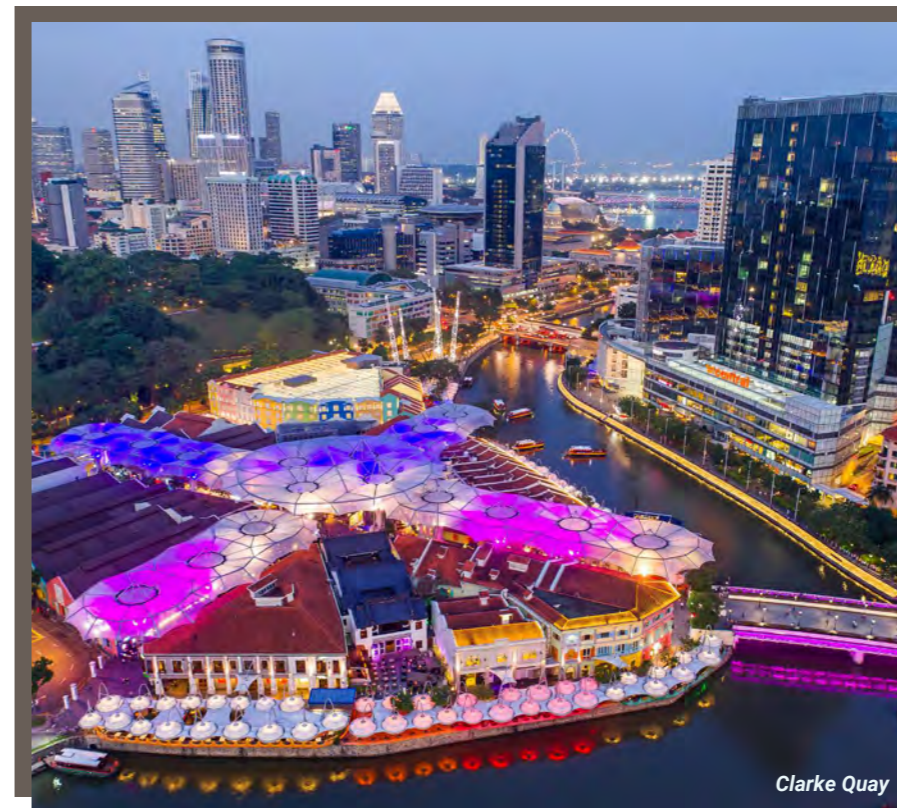

Singapore is one of the world's busiest cruise centres. Cruise operators from around the world—offering luxury, premium and contemporary excursions—dock at one of the city's two terminals, providing visitors from around the region with the option of travelling to Singapore by ferry.

Cruise Terminals

Marina Bay Cruise Centre Singapore

Marina Bay Cruise Centre Singapore (MBCCS), Singapore's second cruise terminal, was built to accommodate new-generation mega cruise vessels. The two-berth cruise facility can accommodate up to 6,800 passengers at any given time. The terminal features a spacious arrival and departure hall, as well as a large ground transportation area to ensure a smooth and seamless experience for passengers.

Its waterfront location at Marina Bay (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p74) makes it convenient for passengers to enjoy attractions in the area such as Gardens by the Bay (see Attractions, Nature & Parks, p50), Esplanade – Theatres on the Bay (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p74) and Marina Bay Sands.

Clarke Quay

CruiseFly service: Arriving cruise passengers flying off on the same day may utilise the region's first sea-to-air baggage transfer service. The service allows passengers to check-in, deposit their bags and collect their boarding passes at the cruise terminal. Airlines currently available for CruiseFly are: Singapore Airlines, SilkAir, Air China, China Eastern, China Southern, Qantas, Scoot, Eva Airways and Turkish Airlines.

Other facilities within MBCCS include a ground transfer desk, left luggage counter, visitor centre, retail shops and restaurants. Free Wi-Fi is available throughout the premises.

Connectivity:

- 16 min (6.7km) to Orchard Road (timing might vary according to peak traffic hours)
- 17 min (18.7km) to Changi Airport (timing might vary according to peak traffic hours)

Transport:

- Nearest MRT: Marina South Pier Station

SCC@HarbourFront

Singapore Cruise Centre (SCC)@HarbourFront has two terminals: the International Passenger Terminal (IPT) and the Regional Ferry Terminal (RFT), both of which are used by more than 4.5 million cruise and ferry passengers each year. The IPT, serving over one million cruise passengers from over 30 cruise lines each year, was refurbished in 2011 for a more spacious and comfortable passenger experience. Located next to HarbourFront Centre and VivoCity

(see Shopping, Malls, p128), SCC@HarbourFront is well-placed for visitors to explore Sentosa Island (see Neighbourhoods, Lifestyle Precincts, p79), Asia's favourite playground, and Mount Faber, one of Singapore's best-loved nature parks.

There are food and beverage options at IPT, plus amenities such as left luggage services, CIP Lounge services and free Wi-Fi connections. Ship crew also get their own services such as an Internet café and convenience shop within the restricted area.

The RFT has six berths to serve regional destinations in the south and west of Singapore. The destinations include:

- Batam Centre, Batam
- Harbour Bay, Batam
- Nongsapura, Batam
- Sekupang, Batam
- Tanjong Balai, Karimun
- Telok Senimba (Waterfront City), Batam

Address: 1 Maritime Square

Connectivity:

- 18 min (6.6km) to Orchard Road (timing might vary according to peak traffic hours)
- 22 min (23.5km) to Changi Airport (timing might vary according to peak traffic hours)

Transport:

- Nearest MRT: HarbourFront Station
- HarbourFront Bus Interchange for connections to various parts of Singapore

Ferry Terminals

SCC@Tanah Merah
The Tanah Merah Ferry Terminal has four berths serving regional ferries that travel to destinations to the south and east of Singapore, including:

- Batam Centre, Batam
- Bintan Lagoon, Bintan
- Nongsapura, Batam
- Pulau Lobang, Bintan
- Tanjung Pinang, Bintan
- Telok Sebang (Bintan Resorts), Bintan

Address: 50 Tanah Merah Ferry Road

Tuas Checkpoint
Travelling to and from Malaysia through this checkpoint usually takes less time due to smoother traffic in both directions. However, during festive periods, public holidays and long weekends, the traffic is expected to be heavier. Websites such as One Motoring (www.onemotoring.lta.gov.sg) provide traffic updates and real-time footage from traffic cameras of conditions on the road.

Address: 501 Jalan Ahmad Ibrahim

Woodlands Checkpoint

The Woodlands Checkpoint is at the Singapore end of the Causeway, joining Singapore and Malaysia. The 1,056m causeway links the city of Johor Bahru in Malaysia to the town of Woodlands in Singapore. Traffic is expected to be heavy during festival periods, public holidays and long weekends. Websites such as One Motoring (www.onemotoring.lta.gov.sg) provide traffic updates and real-time footage from traffic cameras of conditions on the road.

Address: 21 Woodlands Crossing
Website: www.ica.gov.sg

Woodlands Train Checkpoint

There is also a railway station and border checkpoint in Woodlands, Singapore. The railway is operated by Malaysian operator Keretapi Tanah Melayu Berhad (KTM). Since 2011, the Woodlands Train Checkpoint has been the southern terminus of the KTM Intercity service.

Travellers who do not want to drive or take the coach to and from Singapore and Malaysia have the option of using the KTM-run shuttle train service, KTM Shuttle Tebrau. The ride from Woodlands Train Checkpoint to Johor Bahru (JB Sentral) via the shuttle service takes just five minutes.

Passengers departing from Singapore are required to clear Singapore Immigration and Malaysian customs at the Woodlands Train Checkpoint before boarding the train for Malaysia. On the other hand, Singapore-bound passengers must clear Malaysian immigration at JB Sentral railway station.

Note: Tickets for the shuttle can be purchased one month in advance via:

- KTMB's ticketing website (ticket.ktmb.com.my); max six tickets can be purchased in one transaction.
- By downloading Mobile application (KTMB Mob Ticket); max two tickets can be purchased in one transaction.
- ETS/Intercity Counters stations.

The Eastern and Oriental Express luxury train also has its terminus at Woodlands Train Checkpoint.

Connectivity

There are different ways to stay in touch with loved ones and enjoy wireless connectivity.

Prepaid SIM cards: The four main telephone companies (telcos) in Singapore—M1, Singtel, StarHub and TPG Telecom—offer a wide variety of packages with bundles for local and international calls, SMSes and varying amounts of local mobile data. Prepaid SIM cards may be purchased at local convenience stores such as 7-Eleven and Cheers, currency exchange counters and telco retail counters. Travellers need to present their passport for registration when purchasing a prepaid SIM card.

Pocket Wi-Fi: Pocket Wi-Fis are available for rent at Changi Recommends counters which can be found in all four terminals at Changi Airport and Seletar Airport. Devices can be dropped off at these counters just before departure. There are other pocket Wi-Fi rental companies available in Singapore such as Y5 Buddy (www.y5buddy.sg) located at Tanjong Pagar or Klook (www.klook.com) located at various locations around Singapore.

Free Public Wi-Fi: Most restaurants, cafés and shopping malls in Singapore have their own Wi-Fi networks. The service is usually displayed prominently for customers, but do feel free to enquire directly or at the malls' information counters for Wi-Fi access.

Wireless@SG: A free public Wi-Fi service across Singapore; with hotspots available at many locations, including malls, museums, MRT stations, Changi Airport and Sentosa Island. Wherever this network is available, there will be a Wireless@SG decal on display. Travellers can look for the SSID Wireless@SG on their mobile devices. To enjoy the free Wi-Fi privilege, travellers must register for an account using their foreign mobile number at any Wireless@SG hotspot. Login details will be received through SMS. Overseas charges may apply.

Note: From 1 April 2017, all three telcos - M1, Singtel and Starhub - have ceased the provision of the previous 2G network in Singapore. Travellers are advised to bring along a 3G/4G mobile phone when visiting Singapore or they may purchase a prepaid card on arrival.

Electricity and power plugs: Singapore uses 230volts AC (50 cycles). Power plugs with three square pins are commonly used here.

Health

Singapore's healthcare system is regarded as one of the best in the world. The country's extensive network of public and private hospitals caters to different needs.

Pharmacies can easily be found across the island, with pharmacists able to provide professional advice on minor ailments.

Food and drink: Eating at food centres and hawker stalls is safe as Singapore maintains a reasonably high standard for food hygiene. Tap water throughout the island is also safe for general consumption.

Vaccinations: Prior to the trip, it is advisable for travellers to make an appointment with a doctor to determine if vaccination is required.

Other health risks: Dengue fever is a cause for concern in many countries in Southeast Asia, including Singapore. Transmitted through the bite of the Aedes mosquito, dengue may present symptoms that include a rash, fever, headaches and pain in muscles and joints. While there is currently no vaccine available for dengue, travellers can take steps to protect themselves against mosquito bites by applying mosquito repellent or sticking mosquito patches.

Getting Around Singapore

With an efficient, integrated and clean public transport system, Singapore has made it convenient for tourists to get to any part of the city. Tourists can also now use their Mastercard® and Visa contactless bank cards issued outside of Singapore for the payment of public transport fares (for travel by train and bus) in Singapore. Foreign admin fee applies, please visit TranstLink's SimplyGo website (simplygo.transitlink.com.sg) for more information.

By Train

Singapore's Mass Rapid Transit (MRT) system is probably the most efficient way of getting around the city. The extensive rail network covers most parts of the island, making Singapore's key attractions easily accessible as they are within walking distance from most MRT stations. All stations and trains are also accessible to families with strollers, wheelchair users and the visually impaired.

Travellers can buy tickets for single trips but it may be more cost efficient to buy a Singapore Tourist Pass, a special stored-value card that allows unlimited travel on trains and buses for one day (S$10), two days (S$16) or three days (S$20). Aside from Singapore Tourist Pass, travellers have other options to choose from: Singapore Tourist Pass Plus and STP Charm. Cards may be bought at the following MRT stations: Aljunied, Ang Mo Kio, Bayfront, Bedok, Bishan, Bugis, Bukit Batok, Changi Airport, Chinatown, City Hall, Clementi, Eunos, Farrer Park, HarbourFront, Hougang, Jurong East, Kranji, Lakeside, Lavender, Novena, Orchard, Raffles Place, Sembawang, Sengkang, Serangoon, Tampines, Tanjong Pagar, Tiong Bahru, Toa Payoh, Woodlands, Yew Tee, Yio Chu Kang and Yishun. They are also available at the Automated STP Kiosks at Changi Airport MRT Station (Terminal 2 and 3) near the Transitlink Ticket Office.

For a map of MRT lines and stations, visit <https://www.transitlink.com.sg>

By Bus

Travelling by bus may be the best and most economical way to explore the island's charming streets. It is also easy to travel across the island as bus routes cover most of Singapore.

Bus fares can be paid either by coins (check the distance fare board at the bus stop or ask the bus captain); an EZ-Link stored-value card; or a Singapore Tourist Pass, which is tapped on the card reader next to the driver when boarding. Travellers must tap the same card again when they alight. Buses in Singapore are air-conditioned, providing travellers with some respite from the outdoor heat.

By Taxi

For travelling door-to-door, nothing beats a taxi. Taxis in Singapore are metered, but there are surcharges depending on when, where and which taxi operator is used. Travellers can hail a cab on the streets or at designated taxi stands.

Taxi booking: Standard booking fees may range from S$2.30 to S$4.50 depending on taxi operator, the type of vehicle and peak/off-peak hours. For advance bookings of at least half an hour, there will be an S$8.00 surcharge.

Legal Matters

Drug laws

Singapore has some of the strictest laws on drug-related offences in the world. The main legislation for drug offences—Misuse of Drugs Act (MDA)—punishes offenders for trafficking, manufacturing, importation or exportation, possession and consumption of even small amounts of illegal drugs. Under the law, the prescribed penalties for possession of small amounts range from fines of up to S$20,000 to a maximum of ten years in prison, or both. The law also prescribes execution if a person is found guilty of trafficking or carrying large amounts of certain drugs. Under Singapore law, the burden of proof lies with the defendant and not the government.

Liquor laws

Under the Liquor Control (Supply and Consumption) Act, drinking of liquor is banned in all public spaces from 10.30pm to 7am. Shops are not allowed to sell takeaway liquor during this period. However, travellers may drink in licensed places such as restaurants, bars and cafés, in private homes and at outdoor events that have obtained the requisite permits.

Those holding private get-togethers in public places will need a permit if they want to drink after 10.30pm. Those who have obtained a Barbecue Permit from the National Parks Board do not require a separate Consumption Permit to consume alcohol during the validity of the Barbecue Permit.

In Geylang and Little India, which are designated Liquor Control Zones, public drinking is banned from 7am on Saturdays to 7am on Mondays. The ban also takes effect at 7pm on the eve of a public holiday to 7am after the holiday. Shops within these two areas are not allowed to sell takeaway alcohol from 7pm on weekends, the eve of a public holiday and on the public holiday itself.

Those found guilty of drinking after 10.30pm in public places, are liable to a fine of up to S$1,000. A repeat offender may face a jail term of up to three months, as well as a fine of up to S$2,000. For a similar offence within the Liquor Control Zone, the offender will face 1.5 times the penalty.

Overstaying

Visitors who overstay more than 90 days or are guilty of illegal entry into Singapore may face a jail term of up to six months and a minimum of three strokes of the cane. In lieu of the cane, certain offenders (including women and those of an age not punishable by cane) may be fined a maximum of S$6,000.

Safety

Singapore is one of the safest countries in the world, with one of the world's lowest crime rates. Even though violent criminal activity is rare, travellers are advised to take the necessary precautions as a form of prevention.

Smoking

Smoking is not allowed in all air-conditioned places such as malls and eateries. Visitors who wish to smoke may look out for areas demarcated by yellow lines designated for smoking.

List of areas where smoking is generally allowed:

- Approved smoking rooms at entertainment outlets, offices and Changi Airport. Approved smoking corners at outdoor refreshment areas of food establishments
- Designated smoking areas
- Beaches
- Residential Homes
- Private vehicles, excluding private buses
- Open spaces in residential estates
- Open public spaces
- Open spaces in town centres
- Surface carparks
- Uncovered areas at the top of multi-storey carparks
- Uncovered walkways
- Vacant land

Note: Facilities or buildings in these areas and five metres from entrances to buildings still fall within the smoking ban. Visitors should also be mindful of any additional house rules or by-laws put in place by owners/managers of premises against smoking in their premises. Refer to p226 for more information about Designated Smoking Areas (DSA) within Orchard Road.

Touting

Singapore has strict laws on touting. Touting is defined as persistently soliciting business from another person in a manner as to cause annoyance. Those who are found guilty of touting may be subjected to a fine ranging from S$1,000 to S$5,000, up to six months in prison, or both. Repeat offenders will be fined between S$2,000 to S$10,000, or face imprisonment for up to a year, or both.

Tipping

There is a 10% service charge added by most restaurants and hotels. While it is not usual practice to tip in Singapore, tips are welcomed and encouraged if travellers experience good service during their visit.

Unmanned Aircraft

In Singapore, any unmanned aircraft, with a total weight of above 250 grams must be registered before it can be operated. Other permits and requirements may also apply. Visit www.caas.gov.sg/public-passengers/unmanned-aircraft/ua-safety-guidelines to find out more.
