ALLEGHENY COLLEGE

FOREWORD

If, when the estranging influences of time and distance have gotten in their Lethean work and faces and forms of college days and college places have grown dim, this volume vitalizes once more those halcyon days at Old Alleghe, we, the editors, shall be happy. We submit to you only the skeleton of the year's activities, leaving you to invest with life and animate that whole Allegheny-personality that you know, a personality as aloof or as intimate, as noble or as sordid, as rich or as poor as you have made it for yourself.

THE ALUMNI

That glorious body of men and women who have never failed Allegheny in her crises, who tho separated from her by long gradations of time and years show no gradations in their loyal support to her,

THE KALDRON OF 1922
is affectionately dedicated.

May we, the alumni of tomorrow, be as deserving of gratitude from future classes as are the alumni of today.

A Message from the President

For 107 years Allegheny College has stood for sound education. Bentley Hall was erected before there was a railroad in the United States. Only forty other American Colleges were founded earlier than Allegheny. The Alumni of the College today hold strategic posts of leadership in the Nation's industrial and professional life and are exerting a powerful influence for good in both Church and State.

Allegheny has never been swept by any wave of educational fanaticism, whatsoever. The sons and daughters of this College are characterized by strength, poise, patriotism and a zeal for righteousness.

The Million and a Quarter Dollars pledged for the increase of Allegheny's resources last year, when paid, will advance the total capitalization of the College to three and one-half millions. It should be increased to five millions at the earliest possible date.

The most pressing needs of the College at present are:

First—An Alumni Hall, affording accommodations for administrative offices, eight class rooms, eight professors' offices, an auditorium with seating capacity of 1,000.

Second—A dormitory for freshmen men.

Third—One and one-half million dollars for additional Endowment.

The undergraduates and the Alumni of the College are equally interested to give their Alma Mater unsurpassed position among the medium-size Colleges of the Nation. Two thousand living Alumni can do for Allegheny whatever should be done. There is encouraging indication to believe they will do what should be done.

To Bentley's Worn Steps

Often do they pause to wonder,
Those who pass your way,
Of the many feet who trod you
In the far-off yesterday.

Of the hundred years you've lain here
Do you silent record keep,
Of the ones who passed above you
And whose footsteps wore you deep?

Could you tell of men of vision
In those early days who stood
Foremost in the line of workers
Laboring for other's good?

Could you tell of those who follow,
Each one great in his own way,
Teaching, hoping, praying, building,
Noble sons of yesterday?

Could you tell of men of action
Who in the dark "Sixties" went
Marching forth to save the Union
By their Alma Mater sent?

Some returned, but some had fallen
Nevermore to breathe the air
Of the Allegheny Campus
But their spirit lingers there.

Again you felt the marching footsteps
This time Khaki forms went by,
In the spirit that still lingers
For democracy to die.

Days of joy and days of sorrow,
Times that peace and war have made
Great things these that you have witnessed
That through time will never fade.

IN this, our scene section, are spots you love in the moods you love them best. Who will not always recall with delightful thrills that first stroll through the Cemetery Ravine? The intriguing chiaroscuro of dancing shadows, the charming brooklet just wide enough for you to dare to express that age-old but always welcome prerogative of man and carry Her across, and the rich songs of the birds crowding all the joys of mating and homemaking into one glorious burst of expression. How regretfully you left it all and how eagerly you sought its inviting retreat more and more frequently.

Or that first wonderful party at the Lake your freshman year, and your initiatory boat ride in the moonlight. And now your last party and last moonlight stroll along the shore path and the perfect understanding that made words superfluous and—

But here are the pictures, reconstruct them as you will.

Most of the wisdom of a world you hold,
No knowledge-seeker comes to you but finds
Those spirit-builders of your realm of gold,
Almost Life's masters—the world's most mighty minds.

When night is still do their great spirits meet,
And sages chat while gayer souls carouse?
Does Spencer bow to Horace? and Jonson greet
Again his cronies of the coffee-house?
Does Montaigne sneer and Martin Luther vow?
Does Plato, who across a thousand years,
Spoke most to those great thinkers near him now,
Commune again with visionists and seers?

Ah well, they hear it not, young hearts who come
To make of you a lover's trysting place;
The learning of a thousand years is dumb
Beside the murmurs of a college case.

The Library Walk.

The best of the world, the best of the world,
Wherever walk the two together,
And softly reigns youth's sunny weather.
Oh balcony, ballroom, or woodland way!
You echo the song of a minstrel day
Of women's lips and women's eyes,
Of Eden still in fair disguise,
An earthsong, yet it calls from us
A wordless faith in an inborn promise
Of worlds that were or worlds to be
Across some far Lethean sea;
A song still new although 'twas hid
In the scrolls of the oldest pyramid.
An old, old song those heartfelt call
Opens a gate to Eden's wall.

Cemetery Ravine.

Night--The Ravine

Above the white ravine white branches stretch
Into the dark.
The new-made hollow is a magic sketch—
A fairy park.
Where clumps of rhododendron used to grow,
White bushes lean,
And look!—A little fairy bridge of snow
Spans the ravine.

---

After Chapel

A bell rings loudly.
Over there across the ravine is the chapel.
Warm light from the windows
Stains the snow red.
The organ trembles
With newer, richer tones.

Night

The wind sweeps the snow in sheets
Up from the ravine
And lets it fall in ripples
On the library slope.
Now it is still.
He comes again
And again.
A bush snaps its glassy fingers in the night wind.
Shivering, it cracks and glitters
In the cold arc-light.

The College Ravine at Night.

When the sun is glowing faintly through the cloud's dull misty grating,
When the sharp-barked signals echo in the brisk November air,
When the stands are hushed and waiting—quiveringly tense awaiting—
Oh the mighty hope upsurging—Oh the mountainous despair!

“Fight 'em, Allegheny, fight 'em!” Loyal-hearted they who cheer you,
Loyal-hearted you who struggle in the blue and gold's stout line;
Well your deeds will be remembered and your prowess will endear you
For love of her, our college, that is ever yours and mine.

Years ahead may bring us worries in the price of coal or cotton,
Till the autumn breezes whisper of an earlier, greater day
When we faced our dearest rival—Who won? Ah, you've forgotten,
But you'll still remember how you thrilled for Alleghe.

Cussewago

What I loved best was early May
And the bliss of an ungrudged holiday,
Speak not of motors, a canoe,
Spring morning's charm, I'll take, and you.
The millrun meets the rivulet
That winds away to another world
In a vale between the hills encurled.
No class bell calls, no quizzes fret.
Ah, who has known will not forget
That trail of trails where blithely
The waters dance as Pan has played
So well to the heart of many a maid
That she has kinder been than she
In other moments meant to be.
We'll not forget! When I get my mind
Away from some livelihood's hard grind,
And Springtime mornings first are fine,
I'll come again in the land of dream
To float with you on that well-loved stream—
To float with you, old Friend of mine.

In The Gloaming on Cussewago.

The Campus--Morning

It is a new place,
A new white place of foliage
Where white branches reach into grey skies—
In lacy confusion.
When we walk beneath them
We are in a great, still conservatory
Walking beneath curious, white plants
Bending down to touch us.
We brush against white hedges
Bearing fruit like cotton;
Yet snow sifts down from them.
Here is a rustic bridge and there, a bowlder—
It must be an old place!

The campus is a jungle white
Where branches intertwine,
Luxuriant growth on left and right;
White maze of twig and vine.
The jungle is a silent place
Where breaking trees bend low;
And seeds that fall through jungle lace
Sift to the earth like snow.

The sky has dropped its burden
Upon ragged pines
Standing submissive
Beneath the white weight of it.
The sun plays upon the scene
In dazzling joy.

The Rustic Bridge.

Fare you well, our day is done!
Filled our places, set our sun.
We have finished all we started,
Fare you well, when we are parted.

Fare you well, our college cases!
Fare you well, our classroom places!
Though, indeed, 'tis somewhat checkered,
Fare you well, our college record!

Many have our ranks forsaken
Due to finals we have taken,
Fare you well, our nights of stuffing,
Fare you well, our days of bluffing!

We shall never love another,
Fare you well, our college mother!
Twilight darkens on the water,
Fare you well, dear Alma Mater!

The End of Day on Conneaut Lake.

Ode to Allegheny

A little while, your kindling spell has wrapped
Around my heart what reverence I feel;
I have not known you fully yet, nor tapped
That deeper spring the future will unseal,
The greater love the sure time brings; till now,
More like a child when at his mother's knee
In thoughtless mirth and spendthrift time he plays;
    And so did I allow
The time to slip away, as though there be
No end to youth and youth's blithe happy days.

Four years have gone—and all too fast they sped—
Four times I saw your hillside's leafy green
Fade, many-tinted of autumn's brown and red,
While the dark pines unchanging stood between,
Four times, the winter like a shepherd bring
His droves of whiteness, glistening and jeweled,
To load the pines and roof the somber halls,
    Until again the spring
Swelled the new buds and in the soft air ruled,
Pouring her sun against the vine-clad walls.

Yet, Allegheny, sweeter than your name,
Fair as your hillside in every season fair,
The memories of those who one time came
And now are gone but still your impress bear.
I cannot know of you the thousandth part
Nor see the structures that your hand has wrought,
You are not fixed upon this steadfast hill
    But in the mind and heart
Of him who loves you and has early sought
Your molding Spirit, is that Spirit still.

Students

She sweeps in like the moon goddess,
And has never studied
Her lessons; —
And when I flunk her
I feel that I am flunking Diana.

I have great faith in this boy—
He makes me think of mountains.
Every now and then
He looms in the rear of the room
Like a peak in the Andes;
But how would you like to teach
A peak in the Andes?

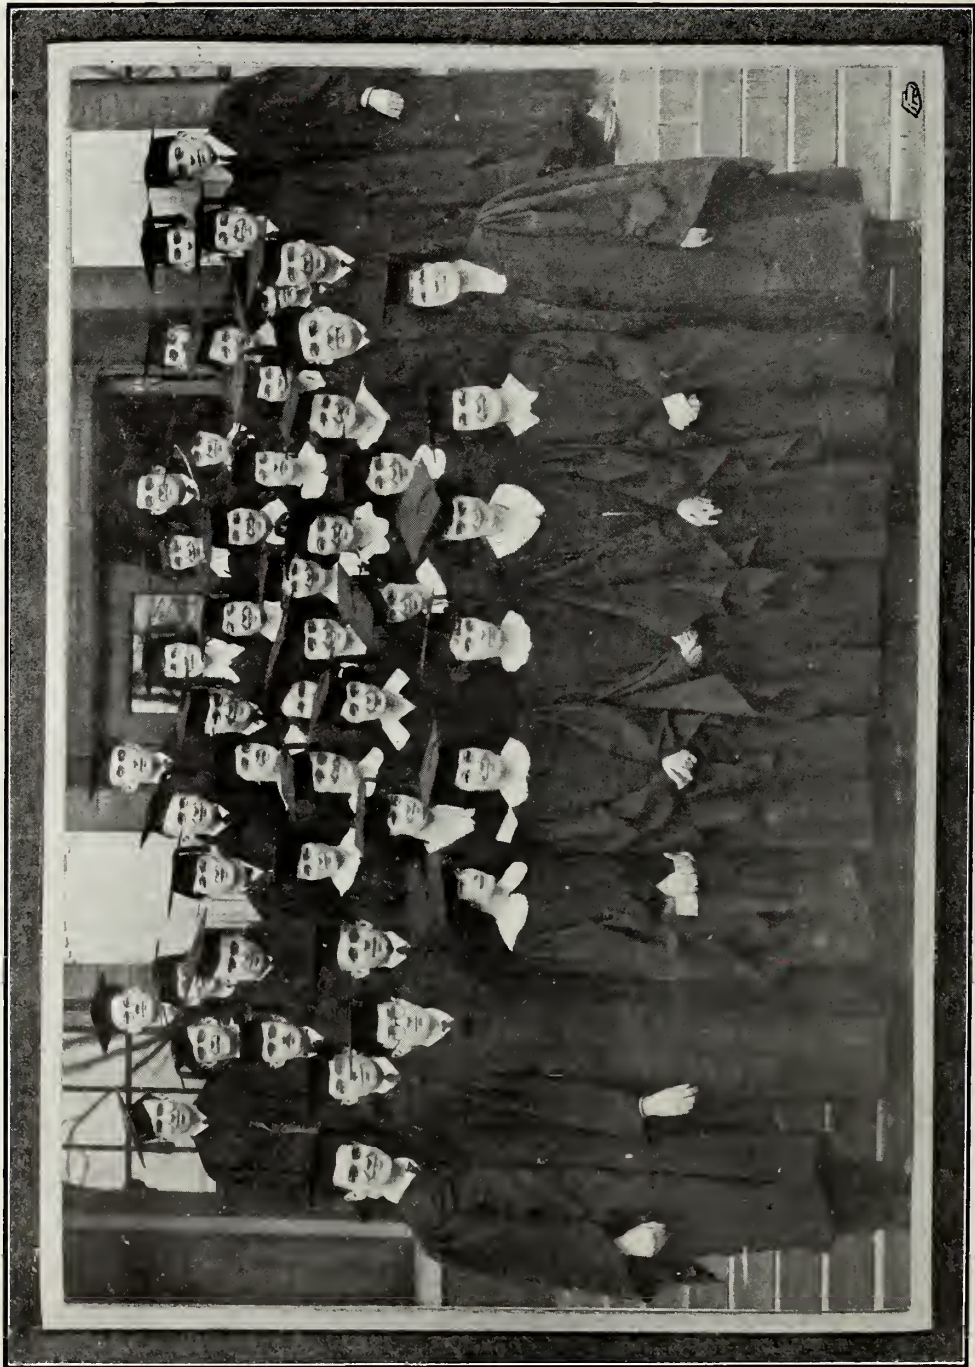

Sometimes I have nervous moments—
There is a girl who looks at me strangely
As much as to say,
You are a young man
And I am a young woman
And what are you going to do about it?
And I look at her as much as to say,
I am going to keep the teacher's desk between us, my dear,
As long as I can.

Our Yesterday's Tomorrow

So it's really over—we are through?
And not half so glad as we thought to be!
Somehow it seems more pleasant to review
These last four years of ours than to decree
(As was our wont), "When I'm through school I'm—"
Well, was going to do many different things,
No doubt some of them will work out in time,
Just now that sort of fancy has no wings.

We hate to leave, but then we've had our day,
Finish it this month,—many a class
Of fair young Galahads with us will pass
Out to the world—and hard work, I daresay.
Our dear Allegheny—we have taught her
To cherish as her most darling daughter
The class whom she must lose in twenty-two
Which represents 'most all that's good and true
In education. But our time is past;
We leave our honor to our Alma Mater,
And to her undergraduates, bombast.

Now we shall spread apart like wire strands
When the binding cable has loosed its bands
And each life current follows its own track;
Life must flow onward; memory may flow back.
Doubtless we'll read, some sentimental day,
This Kaldron over, or our A book's trash
And our wife, with a woman's taste, will say,
"There's a good-looking chap—up there—just see
The list of his activities! Where's he?"
And we'll reply: "Oh, he's all gone to smash;
Went bankrupt in some crooked kind of deal.
That fellow there? He was a handsome bird,
Big man in college too—and a real
Devil with the women. I've never heard
Much of him since; teaches, I think, somewhere.

I never liked that one—Dumb-looking? Yes.
I blackballed him because he kept his hair
Half combed. He's rich now. Some lucky guess
On the stock market, I suppose. And there
Is good old B——. Bless his homely map!
He stood beside me in the poster scrap,
I remember; and roomed with me two years.
He studied law but couldn't make it go,
Is drilling oil now in Idaho.
This homely fellow here with the big ears
Has made a name now—Yes, that's him—J. L.
He's famous; I never knew him very well,
He wasn't noticed much. There's a good head.
He made good in school and since—he was white.
And there's a fellow we all thought could write,
He's writing yet on some country paper.
This girl's a missionary. This one's dead.
Huh, that duck there pulled a funny caper
By putting Seidlitz powder in the soup
At Coch—Gracious, has that child got the croup?"

So we shall pass along and lose or win
Fat contracts at Fortune's call for sealed bids,
Re-live our faded day-dreams in the kids,
And muse a bit on what we might have been.

"Marge" hails from the "wild and woolly west," which perhaps accounts for her energetic capacity for getting things done. As Vice President of Student Government she helped bear the burdens of Hulings during the Dean's illness. But amid it all she still finds time to take those long rambles where "two's company, three's a crowd." Happily, Marge is one of those modern girls who does not believe that education is wasted in domestic life.

Forced to leave school last year on account of a serious injury received on the gridiron, Roger returned to graduate with the Class of '22. With his curly locks "Al" has been thrilling the co-eds during his course at Allegheny. We know he has thrilled one young lady and we suspicion all the rest. He is a hurdler of no mean ability and has been a mainstay in this department on the cinder track. Since he has taken courses in nearly every department of the College, it is a difficult matter to make predictions, but he does have a "broad minded education."

The task of getting the Lit out on time is responsible for the slightly melancholy stamp upon the otherwise handsome features of the young man at the left. Without it one can easily discern a likeness to Edgar Allen Poe, and David Belasco, with perhaps a trace of David Griffith. His devotion to literary pursuits is certainly amazing; even the girls do not compete. It is true that sometimes along about May when the birds sing, the flowers spring, and the lovers cling, George occasionally takes one of them up the Cussie but, as far as we can see, neither to spring, sing, or cling, but merely for exercise or perhaps to discuss a story's plot.

Genius itself could not condense a really representative sketch of this young man in the limits of a Senior write-up; we doubt if the English language would prove equal to the task; probably all its defective verbs would buckle under the strain and a grievous shortage of exclamatory adjectives would become apparent. May we say that he is an enthusiast, a faddist, an energist, a humorist, an impersonalist, a cosmopolite, and a number of other things beyond our comprehension and, we judge, largely beyond his own. However, we must admit that he makes 'em sound plausible. Another year the professors will surely miss his cheerful air of limitless intelligence and his ready, if somewhat irrelevant, answers. His was the brain behind the typewriter which edited this book, we will say, rather than the usual thing about tireless energy and indomitable resolve.

Booth knows the Hall of Chemistry so well that he is often found advising Dr. Lee as to the whereabouts of some of the lecture rooms. As Basketball Manager, he has demonstrated his business ability. The story is often told that George will take graduate work at Westminster College next year. Booth will make an admirable physician because of his natural biological tendencies. George has always been a loyal supporter of the Pitt athletic policy for which reason he fell down to a "B" in several of his Chemistry courses. Booth will die a great man with very, very few worldly goods, we fear.

"Better late than never" seems to be Elouise's motto for she invariably leaves Hulings as the last bell rings. Seldom seen on the campus without her partner. As the dashing Miss Phoebe of Quality Street she not only won the hearts of strangers, but the admiration of the school as well. Chemist, writer, actor, debater and teacher gives us an idea of "Mornie," who comes down from Greenville way. Mornie has the honor of being the only official President of Cochran Hall who actually checked the boys in and out and then reported to the senate. But more than this he has been a student of alchemy and some day we may hear of him discovering another way of making gold.

One of Allegheny's athletic mainstays, Dan has disproved the theory that "you can't mix athletics and brains." He has even gone a step further than that by proving that you can mix the departments of Chemistry and French. Always a staunch supporter of Erie, Dan can even speak a good word for the Clevelanders once in a while. We will all miss Dan next year, and whether it be business or medicine we are sure he will succeed in his line.

Fernand Noel Parent, better known as "Dutch", hails from Charleroi, and seems to be proud of it, although he never talks very much about his home town? "Dutch" has been on the basketball squad for four years, due to his playing ability and his fighting spirit. Although he did not make his letter until his last year, he has been a very valuable man and a very capable substitute. His playing during his last year was of a very high character and won him much praise. "Dutch" is going to be an M. D. and we are all sure he will be a credit to the profession.

Wine, women, and song have not left this man unscathed. He has been engaged a conventional number of times, belonged to a college quartet, and as for wine—well, he attended the Snior-Soph banquet. As for his nature, he confesses to disliking to wait in Hulings more than twenty minutes, to deposing 8 10's and Saturday classes, wishes he'd gone out for Phi Bet, likes to be listened to when speaking, and thinks that probably, all considered, college girls make the best wives—from which you see that he's pretty much like the rest of us.

"Sally Peabody of Springwater, N. Y." sounds like the title of some late novel, and indeed, Sal would make a good subject for anyone's pen. She is a regular girl—witty, kindly, sincere, and democratic. Sal says that she is going to be a dietitian. She will be much in demand of course, but no matter how much a dietitian's services may command, one feels sure that Sal's "bill" will always be taken care of.

"Peggy" decided she didn't like the class of 1921 so she stayed out a year to graduate with us. She has spent the second semester teaching English to the youths of Meadville High. She says she is going to teach thirteen years but it looks like a taxi service instead. You'll find a "Buss" there several nights a week. But whatever it is, she will make a success. The calm imperturbability of a stream whose destination is known, carefree joviality, debonair blitheness; all these and more are Richey's. Coming to college with that most brainracking and nerve-unstringing of all question, College-woman, town-girl, Cinderella, or queen (same tune as rich-man, poor-man—) all settled, Bill has been a compendium of sane advice to wanderlust-lovers. Those who know "Shrimp" well know that this singular nomenclature does not characterize the size of his heart, for his favorite avocation is helping the other fellow out of difficulties. Although his Senior year has been spent to a large degree in the service of the Northwestern, Ralph has proved himself a loyal Alleghenian by being "on deck" whenever possible. "Pancho" arrived from Mexico with a choice collection of Castillian profanity. He is another of the disciples of rest. Being a nephew of Pancho Villa he is looking forward to a great future, but it will be of the swivel chair kind instead of the bandit life. This shows what a man of science can do when he makes up his mind. Not only has Ralph demonstrated his knowledge as a biologist, being Biology laboratory assistant, but also has he been a consistent debater. Add to these facts the fact that he is a senator and that he has off all of his work for an M.S. George Washington University took "Weesie" from us last year. True, we have her back among us again, but while she seems the same busy, cheerful "Weesie" in most respects, still we all know that "Weesie's" heart stayed at George Washington.

"With the cold neutrality of an impartial judge" she has deftly and smilingly side-tracked all proffers of advance royalties on personalities which their owners thought worth producing for her approval. Super-efficiency radiates from her every gesture and into her senior thesis has gone the blood of many scores of victims. Her only inconsistency lies in pinning her faith to a career and the pin of another to her sweater.

Class History

We climbed the Hill with all the rest
Three years ago.
And now we think that year the best
—A Junior woe!—
That year we still had three years more,
But heedless, we
Spent all our time in wishing for
Our twenty-three!

Our Soph'more year we loved our school
—Old Alleghe—
And showed our love in law and rule
'Most ev'ry day.
'Twas Freshmen pranks and Freshman have Concerned us most
And banquets where our word was "Dare,"
Were all our boast.

Our Junior year we cast aside
Soph-more conceit.
And donned instead a Junior pride
That is more meet.
Activities engross us now
And haunting fear
That we must make our final bow
In one more year!

Class History

All Meadville recollects the day she gave our class the right of way and followed us around, believing that a former class had come to kneel upon the grass and bless the college ground. We looked so big and dignified that people watched us open-eyed and once we heard them say, "This is no ordinary troop; it must be some Alumni group, come back to Alleghé."

Of course the upperclassmen tried in brutal ways to crush our pride; they planned incessantly; by day they thought up bloody schemes; by night they fought with bloody dreams of what our end might be. To them our pep was something rare and never were they unaware that we knew more than they; so half in fun and half in fear, they used to lay for us all year to keep us under way. They cut the Freshman crop of hair and made our Freshmen women wear green bands around their arms; we flourished that fall and spring; survived in spite of everything (including fire alarms). We won the Freshman poster scrap and showed them we were on the map in nineteen twenty-one, and standing on their collar bones we yelled in loud and fearful tones when all the work was done. One evening in the crowded gym, each Freshman called with so much vim his great and wondrous name that everyone with all his might kept up the cheers so long that night, we couldn't have a game. Our men went out for basketball and every triumph would appall the crowd that watched them play; of nine big conflicts, we won eight; the cheering echoed through the State on every winning day.

Well knowing that our class would score, a half dozen profs or more, of perspicacity, began to talk of thesis stuff; the hints they dropped us were enough to fill the Yellow Sea. We realized the fact ourselves and resting now on storage shelves, our finished products lie; we wrote and typed them months ago and in another year or so we'll turn in our supply.

At George's birthday party too, again there came to public view the class of twenty-four and with the cream of college wit, we made ourselves informed of it a couple days before. Concerning this triumphal ball, there were no secrets left at all,—unfathomed in advance; we taught the college how to shout until they tried to put us out; we taught them how to dance.

The Freshman girls at Hulings Hall stole posters for our stunt last fall; all night they were engaged in printing what our posters said and on the stunt day had them read before the thing was staged. But happily they missed their guess; they could not bury our success by using crafty power; the audience in one accord were all convinced that we had scored and clapped for half an hour.

A little dating now and then is relished by the best of men; and every ageing Soph remembers how a year ago they saw some cases start to grow that haven't yet worn off.

The college profs appreciate the way we work; they call it great, and praise us all the time, assured that in our brilliant way we've made their job of teaching and made their lives sublime. No Sophomore has flunked a quizz; we don't know what an "E" mark is and in our shining ways, we've shown the profs that we have brains and down upon our heads there rains a constant flood of "A's." Phi Beta Kappa's sending in an order for a key-like pin for every Sophomore; it knows exactly where we stand and wants to have the pins on hand in case the prices soar. This great old School of Alleghé has never seen a brighter day; we are its very prop; and as our good name upward goes, 'tis said that only heaven knows just where our fame will stop.

Class History

Our Freshmen have not been here long and they are young and under age; we knew that it would all be wrong to even let them try this page. Assuming that it would not do to put their work on Kaldron shelves, we editors attempted to write out a first year's tale ourselves. The story of them must begin the day we watched them stand and stare, when whole car loads had just poured in from Pittsburgh and from everywhere. They stumbled up Park Avenue and bowed before Old Alleghe who gave the bunch a stiff review, swung wide her doors and let them stay. The boys were lean and lank and wild, defying all authority; the girls were small and sweet and mild and wore green tams becomingly. One night when school had scarce begun there crept up Bentley's dark old stair, the Sophs who had their banquet fun and not a Freshman girl was there. Defeated in the poster scrap, the fellows cursed their luck and frowned and then their hair blew o'er the map and many heads were slick and round. No wonder that they roused our cheers parading on the old gym floor; good naturedly they took our jeers, not knowing what the jeers were for. When Freshmen who had lost their hair were coaxing on another crop, girl barbers sprung up everywhere in Hulings Wholesale Barber Shop. Professors, in a startled way, saw half in fun and half in fright, the college girls of yesterday turned into children over night. It would not do to publish now a record of the little scraps, or we might tell the public how the girls were forced to wear their caps; or how the daring Freshmen men who tried to get around the laws, were sat on every now and then and held by upperclassmen claws. For all, they've seemed to learn all right, considering their age and size; instructors say that some are bright and some are merely—otherwise. The class is loved by Alleghe who still holds open wide the doors and in her big and hearty way invites them back as Sophomores.

KRAMER, '22

Captain Kramer, who has played his last game for the Blue and Gold, is one of the most consistent and versatile members of the 1921 eleven. Starting the season at tackle he was soon shifted to guard as the need became more imperative. Then Red Dundon and Tarzan Fuller, the only available centers, sustained permanent injuries and Abie was again moved over to fill this vacancy. It was at this position that the veteran closed his successful gridiron career at Allegheny.

McCRACKEN

The Warner system as introduced by Herbert McCracken was very successful for its first year. McCracken is a man who has won the friendship and respect of the entire student body, as well as that of the men on his team. He is a born leader and can teach football. With inexperienced material he has turned out a team that would be a credit to anyone. It is hoped that he will be given the opportunity to develop his system more fully next year, an opportunity that, on the face of this year's showing, he certainly deserves.

LOOMIS, '23

Captain-elect Loomis, playing his second year on the varsity, was one of the bulwarks of the line. He prepped at Loomis Preparatory School in Connecticut, which has considerable football reputation in the east, and played on their teams there. The lanky Southerner is a mighty hard man to get around, past, or through and next year looks extremely bright for him. He is a hard fighter and possesses those qualities necessary for leadership. Hersh is always talking it up and is ready to play a couple of more hours if the timekeeper blows the whistle when Allegheny is behind.

HAMMETT

Coach Hammett, as Director of Athletics, at last has time to develop a neglected side of athletics. Swimming, boxing, interfraternity track and basketball, and indoor track are showing real vitality under his tutelage. If things go well Allegheny will soon have a fascinating scheme of undergraduate Physical Training that will require no coercion from the office to make it successful.

"MORT" GRAHAM, '23

Playing his second year on the varsity, Graham was kept out of a number of games on account of injuries; but got back in time to play in the Dickinson game, where he scored our only touchdown on a pretty run after momentarily fumbling a triple pass. His basketball ability made him adept at snatching passes out of the air, and the opposition found him continually backing up the line.

ALEX GRAHAM, '25

Alec Graham has drawn the fullback assignment this year and has played a consistent game during the entire season. He is a Freshman and his experience is going to stand him in good stead in future years. He hits the line low and it usually gives. Although not very large, he is an extremely hard man to stop.

MORLEY, '23

Playing the quarterback position Morley was in every game of the season and displayed his ability at every instance. His steadiness in running the team was always in evidence and his good headwork was a factor in the winning of the Buffalo and Westminster contests. On the defense "Babe" was always there with superb fighting qualities. Much is expected of him in his remaining years at Allegheny.

WRIGHT, '24

Wright, the other guard, has a specialty of opening holes in the other team's line. He is a tower of strength on the defense. He is big and powerful and knows the game. Wright is a Sophomore and what was said about Braun developing into a bigger star than at present applies with equal force to Wright. At present these two guards are the best the Blue and Gold has had in many years and with each back for two more years, prospects are bright indeed.

FRAZIER, '22

Another man who played his last game for Allegheny is Frazier, who participated in enough games to win his letter. His work in the Buffalo game was especially good. He is large and powerful and his loss will be felt.

BRAUN, '24

Braun came out for football without the advantage of the pre-season training camp, but the coach couldn't keep him on the bench. He plays a guard and looks to be one of the finds of the season. He is large and fast, so is used to play a roving center on the defense. That he is wide awake can be seen from the fact that he intercepted no fewer than five forward passes during the season. Braun is a Sophomore and bids fair to develop into one of the best linemen Allegheny has ever had.

JUDD, '25

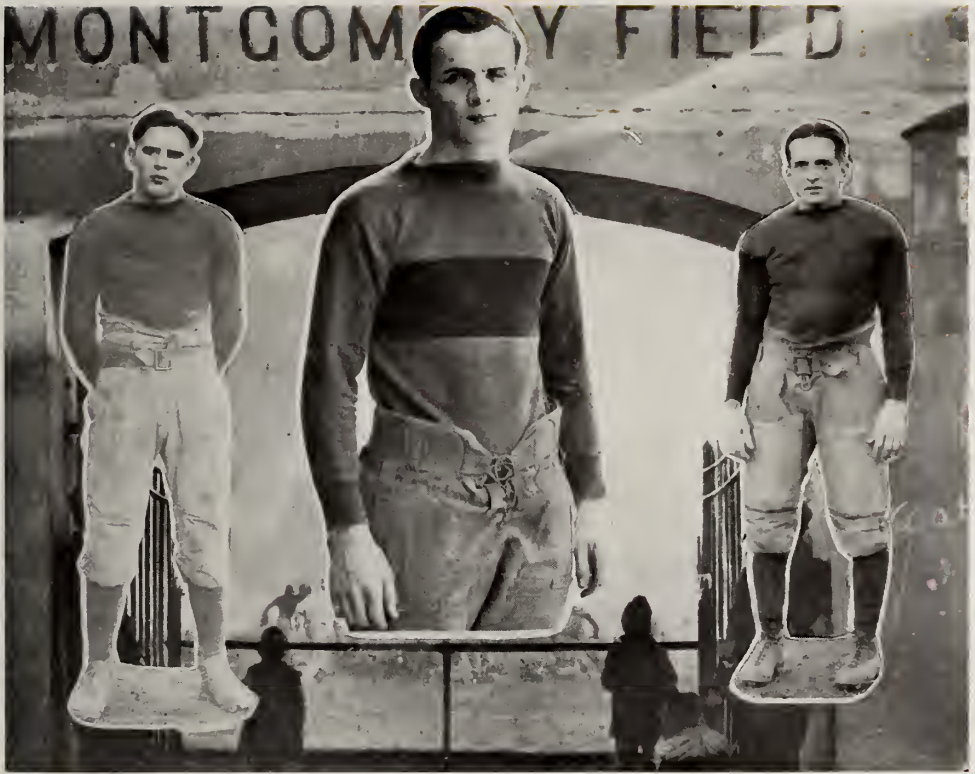

Judd, playing his first year on the squad, was good enough to break into a number of games and showed great promise in action. He is a Freshman and has three more years to play.

FULLER, '25

"Tarzan" Fuller, a big center from Ashtabula, O., broke into the lineup at center after Dundon had wrenched his knee. Charging through the line to throw the runner for a loss is his specialty.

WOLZ, '25

Buck Wolz is another freshman who can boast of a football letter as a result of his work this fall. Husky and active, while on the football field he made a fine guard when he got his chance. He has three years more to play for Allegheny.

WILLS, '23

Hud Wills broke into the line-up late in the season, but once in there was no displacing him. He carried the ball across the scoring line three times in the Buffalo game. One of the prettiest plays of that game was when Wills took the ball over on a straight line buck from the 12-yard line. He has another year in college and is one of the men around whom a fine team can be built.

REED, '25

Reed, left end, is a newcomer, this being his first year on the squad. He was good enough, however, to start every game and was seldom removed. Quiet when off the field, he was full of the old spirit and fight when the whistle blew for the game. He is a dangerous man to have on the receiving end of a forward pass for he is a good runner with the ball. With the experience gained this year he will undoubtedly be one of the most valuable men next fall.

MEYERS, '25

Rabbit Meyers is the smallest man on the team and by all odds the hardest one to catch. His running with the ball is almost uncanny. He is a sure tackler and has stopped many men after they had broken through the line. His stunt of overtaking the fleet Jimmy Robertson after that Carnegie flash had a good five yards start will long be remembered by those who saw the game. Rabbit is a Freshman and plays halfback.

MILLER, '23

"Hoppy" Miller, the fleet halfback, has proved of inestimable value to the success of this year's eleven. Indeed his pretty end runs are a sight to behold, while his punting is all that could be desired. However, "Hoppy" is very susceptible to injuries, which kept him out of the Colgate and Dickinson games. His broken field running in the Buffalo game was as good as could be seen any place and he tore off a number of pretty runs against Carnegie Tech, but was unable to cross the line on any of them. "Hoppy" has another year on the team.

HOUSER, '24

This gritty, game, easy running halfback broke into enough games to win a letter and to demonstrate that it will be impossible to keep him out of a regular berth next year. Small, but possessed of an uncanny ability to turn and dodge, and blessed with a cool, clear head, he is especially good at advancing the ball. He ought to prove a capable running mate for Hoppy next fall.

MURPHY, '22

Dan Murphy, four years letter man, is another who played his last game for the Blue and Gold. He played at tackle. Besides being a strong man in the line, he is a punter of no mean ability. He played most of the season with an injured wrist, but has been one of the most valuable men despite that.

FLINT, '22

The management of the football team this year was the duty of Wilson Flint, who, by his tireless efforts looked after the players' needs, equipment, means of transportation, lodging and meals. His task entailed hearing demands at all times.

Too much credit cannot be given to the manager for the manner in which he conducted his office. His efficiency has been measured by the business-like way in which every game was handled. Managers are chosen from competition and this method gives every man an equal opportunity for the job. The fact that Flint was first to receive the office under the new arrangement signifies his whole-hearted devotion to his labor.

HAFER. '23

"Red" Hafer stepped into the vacancy left by "Scoop" Trotter's hurried exit and has made good. After "Red" leads the cheering at a game, Smith Bros. put on night shifts to supply the cough-drop demand. Grace of movement and symmetry of gesture make his cheering a delight to the eyes.

GREENLUND, '23

Greenlund, the manager-elect, carried enough helmets and met enough trains more than his competitors to give him the managership in a walk. He is already full of enthusiasm for next year's outlook and will doubtless make a success of his work.

Resume of Football Season of 1921

Playing good football in one game and "off" in the next is the best way that the 1921 football team may be described. On the whole, however, the season may be said to have been fairly successful, if one does not think so much about the Tech game and concentrates on the Colgate, Geneva, and Buffalo games. With very little material, and much of that inexperienced, Coach Herbert McCracken built up a team that is always dangerous. The inexperience of the men was responsible for the slow start in several of the games, when a better beginning might have changed the final outcome. Allegheny has seen better years, but she has also seen much worse, and the sentiment of the school seems to be, "Watch us next year."

Although the Class B championship of the district was badly mixed up, Allegheny emerged with perhaps the soundest claim of any of the leaders. Allegheny and Grove City each won two games and dropped one. Grove City lost to Geneva and beat Allegheny by a margin of one touchdown, and Westminster on Grove City's own gridiron. This was Allegheny's only defeat in the sectional games and coming in the first part of the season should not count as much as the games at the last part of season. At the end of the season Allegheny beat Geneva 14-7 in a brilliant game and likewise won from Westminster on the latter's home field. Geneva's only defeat was the one administered by the Blue and Gold but coming as it did at the very end of the season and in the most important game, it completely eliminates the Covenanters. Geneva's 14-0 win over Grove City only serves to strengthen Allegheny's claim to the title.

After being swept off their feet in the first five minutes of play, when the big Colgate team went across for two touchdowns, Allegheny came back strong and held for the rest of the game, in the opening encounter of the year at Hamilton, N. Y., on October 1. For the remainder of the time Allegheny outplayed the Maroon warriors and were steadily marching down the field for a score when the final whistle ended the battle. The ball was in Allegheny's possession on the 10-yard line when the game ended. Allegheny made ten first downs to Colgate's six and completed two passes to Colgate's one.

Numerous fumbles and the inability to maintain a consistent offensive proved the undoing of the Blue and Gold in the first home game with Alfred on October 8. A sea of mud rendered the going hard and prevented any brilliant football. Allegheny had several opportunities to score, but the sea of mud made the ball hard to handle and Alfred invariably recovered and punted out of danger. The game ended in a scoreless tie.

Allegheny went down to a 7-0 defeat at the hands of her traditional enemy, Grove City, on October 15. Grove City scored at the start of the second half, when Allegheny was forced to kick, after being held for downs, following the kick-off. A march of 30 yards put the ball over the line. A feature of the game was the stand made by Allegheny after Grove City had been given the ball inside the five-yard line on a penalty. With only six inches to go on the last down, Jones of Grove City was stopped on a line plunge.

Allegheny beat Westminster at New Wilmington October 22, because Dishman failed to kick a goal after a touchdown had been made on sweeping end runs in the second quarter. After receiving the Westminster kick-off that followed, the Blue and Gold took the ball straight down the field in a series of line plays and after Alec Graham took it over Hoppy Miller kicked the goal that proved to be the winning point. Westminster threatened several times because of the almost perfect interference on their long runs. In the third quarter Hoppy Miller got away for a beautiful broken field run of 60 yards for a touchdown, but the officials ruled that he had stepped out of bounds and the score did not count.

The 10,000 people that watched the game at Carnegie Tech on October 29 must have caused a bad attack of stage fright, for the Tartans were able to run up a total of 56 to 0 before the final whistle blew. Allegheny simply could not get going and the Skibos were at the top of their form that day. Tech has a wonderful team this year, but the score does not indicate the comparative strength of the two teams.

A complete reversal of form marked the play of the team in the game with the University of Buffalo at Erie on November 6. In the first intercollegiate football game ever played there, McCracken's proteges outclassed the bigger Buffalo eleven by a score of 26-13. Beautiful interference paved the way for four touchdowns. The second string men were injected into the game early in the third quarter or the score might have been larger. Both of Buffalo's counters came as the result of flukes, one when a blocked punt rolled to the four-yard line and a Buffalo man recovered it, and the other when Allegheny fumbled after attempting to run with the ball after Buffalo had punted out of bounds on our two-yard line. Hud Wills and Hoppy Miller stood out in this game.

The team slumped again when a combination of hard luck and bad breaks enabled Dickinson to win 28-6 at Carlisle, November 12. Penalties and costly fumbles along with a gift of 45 yards on a grounded forward pass, when the officials claimed an Allegheny man roughed the receiver, paved the way for a Dickinson victory. Mort Graham took the ball over for our touchdown on a triple pass. Another touchdown by the same player was thrown out because he stepped out of bounds during a 40-yard run.

The high spot of the season was reached on November 19 when the Blue and Gold warriors came back strong in the second half, overtook Geneva's seven-point lead, and with five minutes to play won the sectional championship when Braun picked up a Geneva fumble near midfield and scampered forty-five yards for a touchdown. The miserable field which covered the ball and players with mud did not seem to hurt the quality of football for the game was one of the best seen here in many years. Geneva's lone touchdown came in the first five minutes when Harr blocked a punt and fell on the ball when it rolled over the goal line. Allegheny lost a third touchdown just at the end of the first half when the whistle blew as the teams were lining up on Geneva's twelve-yard line after an Allegheny advance had carried the ball half the length of the field. The first touchdown for the Blue came early in this third quarter when Krotzer's kick was blocked by Braun who followed the ball over the line and fell on it. Allegheny worked the ball to the ten-yard line in the final quarter but Geneva braced and held for downs.

Resume of Basketball Season of 1921

In summarizing the 1922 basketball season, we find that the Gold and Blue came through with seven wins and eight defeats; that the five was outscored by three points in the entire series; that with the exception of the Alfred and Niagara games, the outcome of each game was doubtful until the final whistle.

With five Varsity men, Kofford, Parker, Graham, Miller, and Wise back at the beginning of training, prospects for a winning team were very encouraging. Parent was showing up sufficiently well in practice to be considered for a forward position. Several new men were of good enough calibre to keep the older men constantly at their best.

But a team of championship fiber was needed, for the schedule that Manager Booth had prepared included the strongest teams of Western Pennsylvania and New York. However, the games were so well arranged, and the team kept in such fit form that it did not experience a relapse in the middle of the season, as so many quintettes do. In fact, from the spectator's point of view, the most interesting games were those of the middle of the season, with Grove City, with Carnegie Tech, with Geneva, and with Westminster.

In the two Grove City games did the Blue and Gold's play its best form. Although both games were lost to the sectional champions, the Crimson were at no time enough in the lead to call the game theirs. The Pitt and the Niagara games were the only ones in which the Allegheny five were outclassed; in the remainder of the floor contests, the Blue and Gold played with the spirit that has characterized Allegheny's teams for twenty years. So it can truly be said that the 1922 season was a success.

Probably the more striking feature of the season was the development of several men on the squad. At the first of the training, only two men appeared certain of their positions, Captain Kofford and Miller. There was considerable competition for the other positions, but as Parker, Parent and Wise improved their play, the quintette began to take form. As the season progressed, these men, especially, developed and a fast combination was the result. Parker proved to be a capable running mate to Kofford, and the close of the season witnessed him one of the fastest and closest guards that Allegheny has had in recent years. Parent's speed, coupled with his accuracy was enough to place him as a regular before the middle of the season. It required this year to bring Wise into an effective occupancy of the pivot position; he served as a center about which a strong offense and a strong defense could be built.

Miller and Wise remain as a nucleus for next year's team. Devney and Brownell displayed varsity form in the few games in which they were introduced; they should take care of the guard positions another winter. The forward, opposite Miller, should not be difficult to choose, from the wealth of promising material that was on the squad this season. Myers, Bates, Moore, and several others will provide ample competition for the position. Judd may be counted upon to keep Wise in the race for the center post.

So the 1923 five will need to be build up almost from the bottom. There appears to be ample material in college; with the incoming class, there will likely be a few more outstanding ones; in all, a team of Allegheny calibre will certainly be put out.

WISE, '23

Wise, a veteran of last year, has without doubt played the most consistent game of any member of the team. "Verne" can always be counted on to fight his hardest and drop in a long shot at a time when it is most needed. He consistently out-played his man this season, which is saying quite a bit, considering he was up against such star centers as Harr, of Geneva, and Leonard, of Colgate. At the close of the season he was one basket behind Miller in scoring from the field, twenty-five baskets being chalked to his credit. He was especially successful in getting the tip-off. A good floor man, an accurate passer, and a sure shot beneath the basket, he may be counted on to do his best work for Allegheny in 1923.

PARKER, '22

This makes the third year on the varsity for Parker. Breaking into the lineup his freshman year in the Great Lakes game, he played stellar ball the remainder of the season. His work this year stamps him as an efficient guard and all round floor performer of the first magnitude. In the past season he has been matched against several of the best forwards in this section, and through his hard playing and close guarding has been more than able to out-play them. His work against Smith in the Grove City game was little short of perfect, for the best that Crimson star could do was to cage a long basket from mid-floor. Participating in the entire number of games on the schedule but one, he held his opponents to 19 baskets, while he tallied sixteen points himself. The Blue and Gold will be up against a real proposition in attempting to fill his position next year, for in the Alumni contest Parker played his last game for the Gold and Blue.

BOOTH, '22

The varsity this year was fortunate in having such a capable man to handle the business end of the season as George Booth. The players are very enthusiastic in their praise of the manner in which such excellent accommodations were arranged for on the various trips. A good bit of credit for the successful season is due to Booth, for he was always on hand and worked hard to keep the affairs of the varsity in the best of condition.

PARENT, '23

"Dutch," graduating from the scrubs of the previous year, filled the forward berth left vacant by Dunbar's graduation. Parent is a hard fighter. His scrapping spirit is infectious, and many a rally has been started by him. He plays the game to the final whistle, and no one has ever seen him lay down on the job. Being light and fast on his feet, he covers the floor with agility and is a big asset either on defense or on offense. "Dutch" is a clean shot from beneath the basket, eighteen of Allegheny's two-pointers this season being credited to him.

KOFFORD, '22

As far as basketball talent goes at Allegheny, Captain Kofford stands high in the list of Gold and Blue stars. "Rink" broke into the varsity lineup his freshman year, and since then has played in every game but two. Besides, he is one of a small number of Alleghenians who have had the distinction of being honored with the captaincy for two consecutive years. His playing ability is well-known, having been mentioned by several sport critics as an all-State man.

"Rink" is a past master of the pivot turn, and had little difficulty this season in leaving his opponents in the shade. Being naturally a clever dribbler, he has brought the crowd to its feet on many an occasion by the neat way in which he took the ball from his end of the floor to beneath the basket. Kofford has tossed fouls for Allegheny the last four seasons. This year he turned 156 chances into tallies, which makes him high point man, for he also dropped in 17 field goals, making a total of 190 points.

MILLER, '23

"Hoppy," captain-elect, as running mate to Parent, has been one of the chief mainstays of the Allegheny team the last two years. Miller is an exceptionally strong floor man, and his speed, coupled with his ability to jump and pass accurately, has frequently enabled Allegheny to start her offense at the tip-off, for "Hoppy" has the uncanny habit of breaking away with the ball. He led this year in the number of field goals scored, for his shooting both from back of the foul line and under the basket is of high calibre. Much is to be expected of "Hoppy" next year, and from present indications, it seems that he will be one of the most polished players that Allegheny has ever turned out.

Allegheny, 17; Geneva, 30.

The varsity opened the 1922 basketball season by coming out of the wrong end of the horn in an exciting game with Geneva. The Beaver Falls collegians had all the advantage in the way of experience, having played Dartmouth and Syracuse during the Christmas vacation period, while this was the Blue and Gold's initial encounter. Coach Hammett made a number of substitutions in an effort to place the most effective five on the floor, consequently the majority of the squad got into the game at one time or another. Graham did the best work for Allegheny.

Allegheny, 57; Alfred, 21.

The Empire State passers were an easy mark for Allegheny for at no time during the game was the outcome in doubt. Graham and Wise ran wild throughout the game, caging ten and seven field goals respectively. As in the previous game the line up was frequently changed.

Allegheny, 28; Carnegie Tech, 22.

The Gold and Blue quintet put another dent in the old dope pail by scoring a spectacular victory over the formidable Carnegie Tech aggregation. By virtue of successive victories over Lafayette and Grove City, the Plaid was favored to win from Allegheny. However a lightning offense, combined with an impenetrable defense turned the trick and the best the smoky city five could do was to place four uncanny shots through the ring from mid floor. The visitors were kept in the running only through the excellent work of Dosey, the lanky Plaid star, at the foul line. The Gold and Blue led by Kofford, Parker and Wise displayed a brand of championship ball which made the game second only to Grove City in interest. The contest was fast and clean, and the floorwork of the Allegheny five was little short of perfect, for they passed around Tech at will.

Allegheny, 23; University of Pittsburgh, 32.

Allegheny suffered her second defeat of the season at the hands of her ancient rival, the University of Pittsburgh, by a score of 32-23. Poor shooting and lack of teamwork were the outstanding features, while the pass work was ragged throughout the game. Both teams were completely off color.

Allegheny, 32; Duquesne, 25.

To start the new semester right the varsity rolled up a seven point lead on the fast Duquesne five in a hard fought and exciting contest. During the first half both teams fought hard under the basket, but the superior pass work of Allegheny soon effected successive goals from the field by Wise, Parent and Parker. Close guarding resulted in rough playing and numerous fouls were called on both teams. That the Blue and Gold defense was the best that it had been so far is evidenced by four of the visitors' six field goals being made from mid-floor.

Allegheny, 33; Geneva, 32.

The second game with Geneva proved to be one of the best exhibitions of basketball staged by the team this season. At the final whistle the score was tied at 30 all. In the extra five minute period each team scored a field goal and Kofford was successful in a throw from the foul line. Boren had a similar opportunity but missed and the game went to Allegheny at 33-32. At the end of the first half the Blue and Gold was on the short end of a 24-17 score, but in the final period their defense tightened and the offense showed a great improvement. Kofford and Parent led the attack, while Wise put up a splendid game against Harr.

Allegheny, 24; Carnegie Tech, 26.

The hard tussle of the night before with Geneva told on the team, and Allegheny lost an easy game by only two points. In shooting the men were simply off form as many short, easy shots directly under the basket were consistently missed.

Allegheny, 24; Grove City, 29.

Close guarding and spectacular shooting enabled Grove City to defeat Allegheny on the Maroon's own floor, by a score of 29-24. Grove City obtained the lead in the first moments of play and maintained it to the final whistle, although the Blue and Gold scored more points in the second half. Coach Hammett's boys were completely off color in their shooting yet were kept in the running by Kofford's usual ability to drop the ball through the hoop from the foul line, resulting in 16 of Allegheny's 24 points.

Allegheny, 21; Westminster, 23.

Following the Grove City defeat, Allegheny dropped another to Westminster the following night. As evidenced by the close score, the spectators were kept constantly on their feet by the brilliant floor work and close guarding of both teams. During the last five minutes the score was tied several times, and it looked as though an extra period would have to be played, yet in the last thirty seconds Foster tossed a neat basket from outside his own foul line.

Allegheny, 18; Grove City, 21.

Brilliant shooting and clever floor work featured the second clash with Grove City and made it the best game that has been seen on the local court this season. The whole forty minutes were replete with thrills; wonderful defense, clever passing, dribbling, and some of the longest shots ever made in the gymnasium, kept the stands in an uproar throughout the game. Shorts and Smith were the mainstays of the Crimson quintet. Kofford played a fine floor game but had hard luck in his shooting, while Parker played Smith to a standstill, the Crimson star being able to cage but one goal from the field.

Allegheny, 21; University of Niagara, 46.

Allegheny suffered its worst defeat of the season at the hands of Niagara. At no time during the game did the Gold and Blue prove dangerous. Miller was the only one who could fathom the Niagara defense and led the locals with three field goals.

Allegheny, 30; Hobart, 21.

With Wise, Parent and Miller bearing the brunt of the attack, Hobart College was defeated by Allegheny in the second game of the eastern trip. Playing under the serious handicap of the strict New York State rulings, the locals more than offset this disadvantage by clever pass work and strong defenses

Allegheny, 23; Colgate, 31.

After forty minutes of the fastest basketball seen on the Colgate court this season, the Maroons emerged victors over Captain Kofford's quintet by a 31-23 score. Parker, Kofford, and Miller were the Blue and Gold mainstays. Kofford was especially successful from the foul line, with a total of eleven out of fourteen attempts; while Wise played a strong game at center.

Allegheny, 26; Westminster, 22.

In the last intercollegiate game of the season, Allegheny took the measure of Westminster to the tune of 26-22. Much credit is due to Captain Kofford for the victory, as 16 of the 26 points were credited to him. Playing his last intercollegiate game for the Gold and Blue, he was in every play, and displayed his old-time form as an excellent floor man and foul-shooter. Miller also played a strong game, dropping in four pretty baskets at times when they were most needed.

Allegheny, 25; Alumni, 24.

The Alumni team, as they appeared against the varsity, represented an aggregation of some of the best basketball material which Allegheny has ever turned out. But they met their equal in Coach Hammett's 1922 production, for the final score was 25-24 in favor of the under-grads. Kerr and D. Dunbar played the best game for their team, while Volk executed some of the prettiest dribbles seen on the local floor. Kofford and Parent led the attack for the varsity.

A Second Men

In the other three men on the squad who did not get into enough games to make their letter this year, Coach Hammett had some material which was of the best. These men contributed as much in the way of time, energy, and interest in the success of the varsity team as if they had been playing on the team themselves.

Brownell, '25, started his first year on the squad in fine shape. "Johnnie" is a clever shot from mid-floor. His guarding ability is well-known, for those who saw him in the Alumni game predict great things for him next year.

Judd, '25, is working hard to step into center position. Built tall and lanky, he usually manages to get the tip-off, while he plays a fast floor game for one his size and weight. Judd didn't get into many home games, but those who have watched him in practice are confident that he will be a valuable man to the team.

Devney, '25, as a substitute guard, had to witness most of the games from the side-line, but those who saw him in action realized that there is a world of possibilities in the lad. He sticks to an opponent closely and is at the same time a neat floor-man.

Tennis Season for 1921

With the close of the 1921 season it could be said that Allegheny had one of the most successful tennis teams in the history of the school. With the evening up of matches between Carnegie Tech and Allegheny at Meadville on June 6th in which Allegheny became a contender for the Tri-State Championship, it was necessary to play a deciding match which was arranged at Pittsburgh on June 17th. Allegheny lost, but gave Tech a close race, the score being 4 to 2.

Great credit must be given to Captain Cochran, '23, not only for his playing, but also for his management of the team in arranging one of the largest and best schedules the school has had. Cochran lost only two singles and one double throughout the season, always playing his consistent and brainy game. Flint and Cochran were the stars in doubles as usual. Bittner and Clark also performed brilliantly together. Coale played a good game and could always be relied upon.

Tennis for 1922

With all of last year's varsity men in school for another season everything looks bright for a record breaking season although the squad faces a greater schedule than any other Allegheny raquet squad has ever faced. Besides Captain Bittner, there are Cochran, Flint, Clark and Coale from the Tri-State contenders of last season. Beecher, a former Pitt letter man, will probably give one of the above mentioned men a hard race for a berth on the team.

Schedule for 1922

Interclass Basketball

1922 completed its last season of interclass basketball with the enviable record of having led the league for four years. Although its squad has usually had poor starts, a fast enough team was developed each year to overcome opposition and take off the honors in the last games and the series. The class has always supported its representatives, and the combination of spirit and playing has been effective.

It is noteworthy that there are eleven men graduating this year who have played on the class team at one time or another. These are Secor, Bittner, Cunningham, Booth, Murphy, Pringle, Doing, Conroe, Swanson, Frazier and Bender. Pollock, Mansfield and MacGowan have also played on the five. The competition for places has always been very strong, Secor being the only man who has played the four seasons.

Tri-State, Inter-City Tournament

Lincoln High, of Cleveland, by virtue of more fight and greater speed, captured the honors of the second annual Tri-State, Inter-City Interscholastic Basketball Tournament on March 17 and 18. This is the second cup to be taken by a Cleveland team, Central High winning the 1921 cup. The Erie representative, Central, again won second honors. Allegheny, of Pittsburgh, was victor over the Canisius High five from Buffalo.

The Cleveland quintette characterized their play with lightning passing, coupled with an almost impenetrable defense. In the final game, with Erie, but two of the latter team were able to pierce the guarding combination for goals from the floor. In the offense, Frank, the diminutive forward of the Lincoln aggregation, displayed remarkable speed and accuracy at handling the ball. Between Frank and Bennett, the heavier Erie guards had their hands full.

The Deck-Daugherty combination was enough to keep Erie in the running in the final game. Although not as fast as the Lincoln passers, the Gem City squad displayed a creditable brand of basketball in both of its games.

Large crowds witnessed the contests on both nights. Certainly as great a success as last year, it would appear that the tournament is worthy of perpetuating. The best of scholastic basketball was brought to Allegheny last Spring in the Cleveland, Erie, Pittsburgh and Buffalo champions.

The success of the 1921 track team was due to its being composed of veteran material; fifteen of last year's squad were letter men from the previous year.

Due to our weakness in running events, we lost our first meet with Carnegie Tech by a score of eighty-seven to thirty-nine. In the hurdles, weights, and jumps we more than broke even; but this advantage was wiped out in the track events.

Allegheny was represented at the Penn Relays, on April 31, by a team composed of Wimmer, Bittner, Kinney, Croasmun, and McCreary. The team distinguished itself by taking third place in the fastest collegiate relay run of the meet.

By nearly doubling the score, eighty-five to forty-six, Allegheny won from Geneva at Montgomery Field, on May 21. Capturing firsts in all events but the three distance runs, Allegheny clearly showed its superiority over her old-time rivals.

Because of a succession of bad accidents to the members of the team, Allegheny returned from the W. and J. Intercollegiate Meet with sixth place among a field of sixteen entries. Crumrine, Miller, Bittner, and Bender accounted for our sixteen tallies.

Inter-Fraternity Track Meet

The first Inter-Fraternity Track Meet to be held in the history of the college was won by Alpha Chi Rho on June the first. By capturing fifty-five points, over one-third of the total number of tallies, the Hammerschlag Track Cup was intrusted to their keeping for the period of one year. That the meet was a success was evidenced by the fact that one college record was broken and another tied; Corbett, unofficially, in the two mile clipping a few seconds from the old time, and Crumrine equalling the record distance in the broad jump of twenty-one feet, one and one-half inches.

Boxing Season 1922

With only Leffingwell, the sole survivor of last year's championship team in school, the outlook for a boxing team this year was not particularly bright, yet due to the excellent work on the part of Coach Krotzer, Allegheny now has a team which the Coach feels will be able to emerge victorious in the coming matches. The call for boxers immediately after Mid-Year Examinations resulted in the appearance of about thirty ambitious lads, as green as they were ambitious.

Results of the annual boxing tournament held May 30th in the Gymnasium were as follows:

Cross Country Track Team 1921

While cross-country track always has held a more or less prominent position in the list of minor athletics at Allegheny, the runs were usually of an inter-fraternity or inter-class character. This year the team took part in a triangular inter-collegiate meet held at Pittsburgh on November 10. After two months practice the squad was cut down to five men, Captain Kirschner, who also acted as manager, Bliss, Reams, Troup and Wimmer. Considering that the course over which the team ran in Pittsburgh was totally unfamiliar and more than a mile longer than the Allegheny course, the men did exceptionally well. Tech won the meet with Allegheny second and West Virginia a poor third. Captain Kirschner crossed the line second, only a few yards behind the winner, while Bliss took fourth place.

Next year's team should be even more successful than the 1921 team, for Captain Kirschner will be the only man lost by graduation. With Captain-elect Bliss, Troup, Reams and Wimmer supported by several new men who have sprung up recently and show promise of developing in the distance runs, Allegheny will have a team that should be a credit to the Blue and Gold.

Swimming at Allegheny

On the whole the first swimming season at Allegheny College has been very successful. With the sport practically unknown here and very few men to choose from, the team that was turned out went through the season without a defeat, which is more than can be said of any other college team thus far. It is hoped that with the introduction of the sport here it will grow and receive impetus in the way of new men in the freshmen class and some support from the athletic board in order to make it possible to meet other schools of this district.

The results of the season are as follows:

1. April 22—Allegheny, 38½; Thiel, 20½; at Greenville.
  2. April 28—Allegheny, 33; Oil City Y. M. C. A., 25; at Oil City.
  3. May 4—Allegheny, 38; Thiel, 21; at Meadville.
- Total points—Allegheny, 109½; Opponents, 66½.

Allegheny vs. Thiel at Meadville.

In the first swimming meet ever held at the Allegheny College gymnasium the Allegheny team decisively defeated the Thiel swimming team by the score of 38-21. A crowd of about 100 people witnessed the contest and all were very enthusiastic about the sport when the meet was over. With this interest in the student body it is hoped to make more progress along this line in the future. Travis was the high point man of the meet with a total of 13 points to his credit. Wright was next with 11, and Baur, of Thiel, was the star of the Greenville aggregation, having a total of 12 points. The meet was run off very well by the officials considering that it was their first attempt at the sport.

Summaries of the Meet.

1. 160 Yard Relay—Won by Allegheny, Travis, Black, Fry, Wright; second, Thiel, McCoy, Burkman, Couse, Duff. Time—1:37 1-5.
2. Fancy Dives—Won by Baur, (T); second, Fry, (A); third, Petty, (T).
3. 40 Yard—Won by Wright, (A); second, Travis, (A); third, Baur, (T). Time—21 2-5 sec.
4. 40 Yard Back Stroke—Won by Baur, (T); second, Wright, (A); third, Black, (A). Time—28 9-10 sec.
5. 200 Yard—Won by Travis, (A); second, Burkman, (T); third, Couse, (T). Time 2:39.
6. Plunge for Distance—Won by Demmler, (A); second, Duff, (T); third, McCoy, (T). Distance—43 ft., 8 in.
7. 100 Yard—Won by Travis, (A); second, Wright, (A); third, Baur, (T). Time—65 sec.

To date the best performances that have been recorded in the local pool are:

40 yards.....	20 2-5 seconds.....	Wright
60 yards.....	36 seconds.....	Travis
100 yards.....	63 seconds.....	Wright
40 yard breast stroke.....	32 2-5 seconds.....	Travis
Plunge.....	51 ft. 1 in.....	Demmler

As soon as more men become interested in the sport the above records will undoubtedly be broken, and with the talent of the incoming class and what is now in school any of the mediocre teams of this district can be met with reasonable chance of success.

So it can well be said that the prospects of establishing swimming as an intercollegiate sport at Allegheny are very bright.

Annual Indoor Interclass Meet

The annual indoor meet held in the gymnasium on April the first was won by the class of 1922 with an eleven point lead over the Juniors who were second. The first year men emerged third, while the Sophomores found themselves in a class by themselves, known as fourth place, with a grand total of five points.

Some new material was brought to light and several college records were tried. McCreary in the fifteen yard dash, and Crumrine in the high jump equalled the records in their events that have stood for over a decade. MacGowan in the shot put came within inches of breaking the record made by Dotterer in 1914.

Medals were given for first, second, and third place in each event.

The events follow:

15 Yd. Dash—First place, McCreary; second, Bittner; third, Taylor. Time, 2:2. (Equals college indoor record.)

440 Run—First place, Wimmer; second, McCreary; third, Bender. Time, 55 seconds.

Shot Put—First place, MacGowan; second, Judd; third, Ellsworth. Distance, 45 feet, 2 inches.

Pole Vault—First place, Miller; second, Moore; third, Taylor. Height, 10 feet, 2 inches.

880 Yard Run—First place, Wimmer; second, Bliss; third, Little. Time, 2:06:02.

Hurdles—First place, Bittner; second, Ellsworth; third, Bender. Time, 4 seconds.

Potato Race—First place, McCreary; second, Bender; third, Wimmer. Time, 20:2.

High Jump—First place, Crumrine; second, Judd; third, Bittner. Height (winning jump) 5 feet, 5 inches. Tied college indoor record of 5 feet, 6 inches.

The summary of events was:

Seniors, 32 points; Juniors, 21; Freshmen, 14; Sophomores, 5.

The college year book, the Kaldron, first made its appearance in 1889. It was first published by the junior class but later taken up by the fraternities. The present budget system under the supervision of the Publication Board has proved very satisfactory. The Kaldron appears once each year usually about the first of June and represents student work entirely without faculty supervision or censorship.

The Literary Monthly was instituted in 1896 to meet the evident need of a publication to encourage and foster the literary talent of the college.

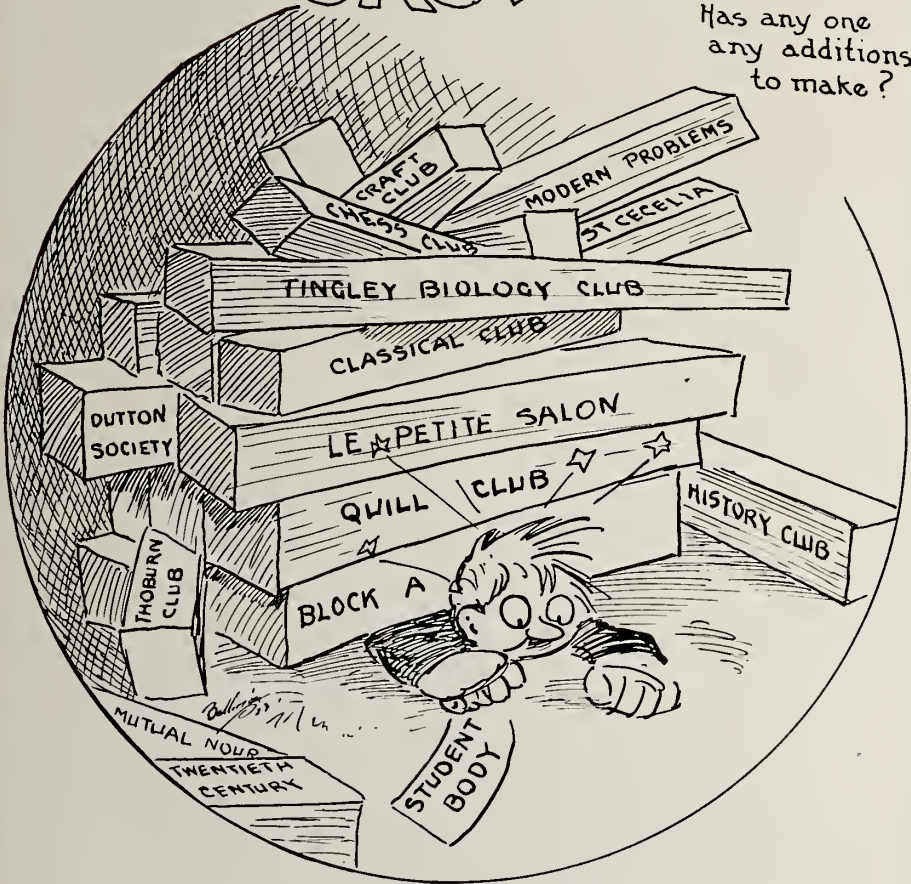

The Literary Monthly had a varied and checkered career until the adoption of the budget system by the Publication Board in 1920. Since that time it has flourished and promises to fill its place as the literary magazine of the college. The Literary Monthly appears seven times each year.

This group printed the first special football edition of the Campus in its history. Within ten minutes after the final whistle of the game the Campus was on sale with full details of the game.

In order to give the students more opportunity for self-government, the Men's Senate was formed in 1916 and approved by the faculty early in 1917. The constitution provided for a body of seven men students: four seniors, two juniors, and one sophomore. The duties of this organization are to supervise elections, enforce college rules and traditions, and to cooperate with the Faculty discipline committee in case of student discipline.

An amendment to the original constitution was passed on May 7th, 1921, which has very much improved the former system. Under the revised constitution the Senate is no longer based on class representation, but rather on fraternity groups. From each group there is nominated three juniors; one of these nominees is elected. These men compose the Senate during the following year. Should any group lack senior representatives, juniors may be substituted. During its initial year this new system has been very effective and highly satisfactory, and it is very likely that its efficiency will increase with its experience.

The Women's Senate acts in a similar capacity to the Men's Senate, and has functioned in a decidedly efficient and satisfactory manner.

This Senate not only does much to promote and maintain college customs and traditions, but also very effectively governs the conduct of the women of the college. Two representatives are sent each year to the Women's Intercollegiate Association for Student Government of which Allegheny is a member.

The Young Men's Christian Association has ranked among the organizations of the college since 1875, and has always been a great factor in maintaining a high moral and Christian attitude in student life. The Association at Allegheny, according to the expression of the founders, is "an active organization of the Christian young men of the college for purposes of personal improvement and direct assistance in religious meetings which may be held in the churches of the city or surrounding country."

The Student Manual, the Y. M.-Y. W. Reception, Americanization Work, the Lyceum Courses, and the weekly meetings are among the activities of the Association.

Bentley Hall, Ruter Hall, Ford Chapel, and finally Cochran Hall have been the successive homes of the Y. M. C. A.

The Student Volunteer Band is a branch of the Student Volunteer Movement of North America which is an organization of those students who intend to enter the foreign mission field. The Band endeavors to maintain high Christian standards in college life, to study the needs and problems confronting foreign missionaries, and to present to students the opportunity for useful Christian service.

Meetings are held each week for study, prayer, and discussion of topics of interest.

The Young Women's Christian Association is composed of women students who are interested in the promotion of religious welfare, and who endeavor to unite the women of all creeds and organizations in a combined effort to follow out the teachings and examples of Christ.

The Association fills a practical need at the college by arranging for get-togethers, hikes, and various other social events for the women students.

The Block A Club was organized for the purpose of bringing the A men of the college together in a social as well as athletic spirit. The club has done much to foster a live athletic attitude in the college, to cooperate with the college authorities in securing new equipment, and in general to take a vital interest in all phases of athletics at Allegheny. It has also stimulated inter-collegiate friendliness and good-will by giving smokers for the visiting teams after the games.

Meetings are held every month in the trophy room in the gymnasium. Only those athletes who have won their letter are eligible to membership. The emblem of the club is a gold block "A" one-quarter inch in length.

This club is the oldest departmental organization in the college, and has been for over a quarter century an incentive and outlet for classical study. Its origin and rise is a result of the efforts of Dr. Elliott, who in 1897 banded together a group of the students then interested in classical literature.

Although there are fewer students of Greek and Latin today, the club has retained its strength and is flourishing as in former years.

To the late Dr. C. M. Cobern does the Thoburn Club owe much for its growth and development. It was Dr. Cobern who stimulated interest in the Club and who gave his support at the time when the organization most needed a guiding hand. In 1907 the Club was organized for the interests of those students who were preparing to enter active service for Christ, and has ever since striven to maintain the purpose for which it was founded.

The Thoburn Club, while essentially intended to consist of students for the ministry, offers an attractive and helpful programme for all men students interested in furthering Christian principles and ideals.

Just Over the Hill

There's a lovely spot just over the hill
Where the brook curves in and out.
A grassy bank and a shady rill
Oh, a wonderful place for trout!
While there beyond just a little way
The robins have built a nest;
And people pass the whole long day
But no one has ever guessed.

Just over the hill the air is cool,
And the breeze is fragrant with flowers
Where the green grass spreads to a beautiful pool
That shines through the warm sunny hours.
When the west glows red and the shadows fall,
While the whole wide world is still,
'Tis sweet to rest on the little knoll
That lies just over the hill.

There is love and hope just over the hill
And faith in one's fellow-man;
With a beating heart that's never still
To speak as no language can.
There is rest and peace for every one,
And trust in the kindness of God,
A beauty that lies in the shining sun
To spread as it enters the sod.

"Just over the hill" is our constant cry
As we bend 'neath the weight of a pack;
And it brings a light to the tear-dimmed eye
While it keeps our feet on the track.
"Just over the hill" we cry once more;
Its promise is hopeful still.
Yes, on and on to the distant shore,
To the heaven just over the hill.

The College Band fills an important place in musical activity at Allegheny, and has won the hearty support of the student body. It not only has offered some very good music from time to time, but it has been an excellent advertising medium for the College.

During the year very attractive, white uniforms, consisting of Jersey sweaters, flannel trousers, and "gob" caps, were obtained by the members. This white uniform, with the letters "A C" in dark blue across the chest of the sweaters, has very materially enhanced the appearance of the organization when on parade.

Besides having given several concerts, the Band has played at various athletic and college functions, including Commencement programmes.

Organized to further musical interest and talent among the women students of Allegheny, St. Cecelia Club has done much to stimulate musical endeavor since its formation only two years ago. The Club is composed only of women from the two upper classes, each of whom is expected to take an active part in the programmes from time to time. The members meet every two weeks to study and discuss subjects of interest. Each year the Club gives a public programme in the nature of a recital or entertainment.

Allegheny may well be proud of this organization which has done so much to further the musical life of the college. Under the very capable direction and leadership of Prof. J. A. M. Stewart and Chase R. Gage, the Combined Club has met with much success wherever it has presented itself.

Besides having given several concerts at home, the Club has offered its excellent programme to audiences at Silver Creek, Jamestown, N. Y., Sharon, Erie, and Cambridge Springs, Pa.

Oratory AND DEBATE

at ALLEGHENY

Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest

May 3, 1922

Mortimer E. Graham, representing Allegheny College, received second place at the Twelfth Annual Contest of the Civic Oratorical League held May 3, 1922. The contest was held at the Soldiers Memorial Hall in Pittsburgh. "Hinges of Destiny" received first place, by Howard F. Lowry, of Wooster. This speech had been in preparation for over a year and has been awarded first place in several other contests.

The speakers and speeches in order of their places are:

"Hinges of Destiny," Howard F. Lowry, Wooster.

"The Parting of the Ways," Mortimer E. Graham, Allegheny.

"The Hope of the World," William Fifield Whitman, Colgate.

"Our Tariff Policy," Henry Adair McCracken, W. and J.

"A Modern Pharoah," George H. Cheney, Ohio Wesleyan.

"The Present Crisis," Gregg I. Milligan, U. of P.

The judges were: President A. A. Johnston, of Geneva College; President I. H. Erumbaugh, of Juniata College, and Prof. B. W. King, of West Virginia University.

"The Parting of the Ways" was the speech given by Mortimer E. Graham at the contest. "Revolutionary movements which rock the very foundations of our institutional life, have their roots deep in the soil of preceding ages," said Mr. Graham. The Reformation is an example of this movement. It started as a small spark, but has spread down through the ages, until now, not only our religious, but also our economic life is afire with revolt.

The Federation of Labor started in 1881 with 50,000 members; now there are four million. Last March, when President Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, said, "We will strike, and keep on striking until the future of unionism is assured," the revolutionary doctrine of national unionism was set before the people.

With the coal strike of April 1st the situation became clear. The American Federation of Labor is in absolute support of the miners. The National Manufacturers' Association is backing the operators. Thus, two classes, nationally organized, are in open conflict with each other.

The problem of siding either with the employer or the employee is the one which the people must decide. Both capital and labor have their good and bad points. This is the parting of the ways.

If the citizen follows the path of either class, then he will sell himself to the domination of that class. We must find a new way that is equally just to both classes. This way is already marked by the corporations which have rejected both capital and labor and have brought the two together in joint management of industry.

This is the true course and must be followed by the people so that our supremacy shall continue.

This is the second time in fifteen years that Allegheny has taken a second place in this contest. The last time was four years ago, when the college was awarded second honors. Wooster was also the winner of last year's contest.

Three Years' Foreign Language Required

—College Catalog.

One language is enough for me,
The one I've always used;
I do not pine for two or three—
One language is enough for me,
Tho that, I fear's abused.

I try to put my thoughts across
In English tongue arrayed;
And tho they lack in polished gloss—
I try to put my thoughts across,
And ask no foreign aid.

I care not for French parley voo,
It's too darn hard to learn;
I'd sooner die of Spanish flu—
I care not for French parley voo
As teacher's do discern.

These Latin names I cannot see;
A primrose by the river brim
Is nothing more than that to me—
These Latin names I cannot see,
And Greek is likewise dim.

One language is enough for me,
The one I now abuse;
I do not care for two or three—
One language is enough for me,
Just one to try to use.

Alpha Chi Sigma has been a very potent factor in building up the enviable reputation which the Chemistry department at Allegheny now enjoys among American colleges and universities. At all times it has sought to advance this field of science, and has always stood for high scientific attainment.

Its membership consists of men students who have demonstrated unusual achievement in the Chemistry courses, and is limited to advanced students.

The society of Pi Delta Epsilon was founded at Syracuse University, December 6, 1909; since that date it has numbered on its role of chapters nearly all of the American universities and colleges which are foremost in journalistic study. It was installed at Allegheny late in the college year 1921-22, supplanting the local honorary literary-journalistic fraternity Delta Kappa.

The purpose of the society is to encourage undergraduates to compete for positions on the editorial boards of college publications, to train them in writing, and to give dignity and standing to journalistic work and study. The membership is purely honorary in the sense that achievement in journalistic work is always an essential qualification.

This local Biological fraternity has completed its first year of activity in a most gratifying manner, and has accomplished remarkable results. Not only has it very materially strengthened its inner organization, but it has also placed itself in a very favorable position for national expansion.

Selecting its membership only from those men who are sincerely interested in the field of Biology, and who have done work of exceptional merit in this department, the fraternity represents high achievement in the Biological world.

Strong Traditions

How we would get on together,
Allegheny,
If you only had some weather,
Allegheny,
If indeed 'twere only true
As the poets sing of you
That your skies are sometimes blue,
Allegheny.

Here it is no jest to say,
Allegheny,
December is as nice as May,
Allegheny,
And your Aprils—Oo, la, la!
Quite the worst I ever saw,
Cold and wet and dark and raw,
Allegheny.

I'm a going to California,
Allegheny,
But I'll never cease to mourn you,
Allegheny,
What a nice school you would be
If your weather would agree
To adjust itself to me,
Allegheny.

You can sit right there and moulder,
Allegheny,
Like a moss-grown wind-struck boulder,
Allegheny,
The climatic agitation
Of your unsurpassed location
Is too darn much irritation,
Allegheny.

Unofficial Kaldron Calendar

SEPTEMBER

21. Let's go. Sophomores all arrive early to start the frosh off right on that tradition stuff.
22. Fuller, "Tarzan," arrives with fifty-six pieces of baggage, two pairs of socks and a deck of cards.
23. Annual poster scrap. A new record set for vileness in placards.
25. Freshmen being fleeced daily. Reserved seats in chapel, memory books, suitatorium tickets; thus it goes.
26. Fraternities pledge. Everybody happy. Each gets the best pick of the freshman class.
27. Editor of Lit. Monthly meeting all trains. Every face scanned for possible blank-versists.
28. Men form two rows in front of chapel. Girls run their first gauntlet.
30. Manager of Lit. Monthly makes his annual decision to make a jokebook of it. Something like the Panther or Puppet, you know.

OCTOBER

1. Freshmen heads shaved. College phrenologist jubilant.
2. Student senate forbids haircutting by sophs. Twenty-two frosh clipped that afternoon by anarchists.
3. Allegheny defeats Polish College 48 or 84-0. Coach Hammett immediately claims the Western Crawford County Championship.
4. Rumored that the college pressing club is renting the space back of the ironing board to the poker club.
6. Y. M. Y. W. reception. Served in the English travelling style. Everyone has his own compartment. Auto rides give modern touch.
7. Girls have indoor track meet. Sweet-potato race and the cream-puff-run won by sophomores.
8. Secor spends the day chuckling over the "Rape of the Sabine Women" in Latin V.
9. Buck Wolz scores his first success as monologist with "Such Nice People."
10. Poor lessons today. Special burlesque at Academy last night.
12. Returns from last summer's house parties coming in with every mail. See back files of Campus—"Who's Next" column.
14. Jordan's bank account again overdrawn. Tries the juggling effect of a dollar.
16. Larson dissatisfied with Hulings. Corresponding with Shaw's Matrimonial Agency.
18. Goodfellow modestly disclaims freshman encomium of "Guide, friend, and philosopher."
19. Quill Club beats the world to the door of those who can "write a better book or speak a better piece than their fellows." Takes in 12.
20. Horrors, a bat in Hulings. And we so careful. The lowest of ghoulish flappers. Dad Ling called. Heroism, expulsion, vindication, fumigation.
21. Gvatsovsky brags that he knows the Meadville police force by his first name.
22. Gvatsovsky wanders down West Street. Leaves his watch and four dollars.
23. Phi Beta Phi debutanties. Cartwright wins the first prize, a rare old King Lear limberger sandwich of quaint design.
25. Senate deciding vital problems minutely and hourly. Bingaman and Dundon souring on each other's stomachs.
27. The "A" honor students read in chapel. Didn't want it anyway. Of course they're all grinds.
29. Carnegie Tech plays the cat and mouse game with Allegheny 56-0. Everybody griping.

NOVEMBER

1. The power behind the press goes to Princeton to disarm the nations. International School of Poor Fish meet same day to limit the size of scales for next ten years.
2. Kaldron editor and his kodak off to A. L. C. Promises the band three generals and a big parade. Practicing "God Shave the King" and the "Little Tin Soldier" daily.
3. The penny-pitching champions take advantage of a mild day to hold a tournament in front of chapel.
6. Louis Braun initiated into the "Knights of the Folded Hands".
9. The editor back. Brings no generals but much loose talk about "Generals who have met me."
10. Chem. I thrills at news that the chemist is the grandest thing in nature and that ten thousand dollar positions await all who complete Chem. VI successfully.
12. Vic Wright rides in his first pullman to game. Reports a bad night. Hammock too cramped to sleep in.
13. Fraternity averages low. Committees preparing alibi information for the alumni.
15. Jerome suffers sudden acclimation to northern ice. Willing hands help in gathering the scattered books.
17. Chapel announcement. Dr. Church cannot meet classes for two days. Students draw a deep sigh, not unlike a cheer.
19. Pinkie Prather makes his daily trip to the registrar's window to fill his pen.
21. Crumrine listens for the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra over wireless phone. Hears Hell's Bells by mistake.
23. Fresh epidemic of Red Dog breaks out among the Beta Upsiloners.

We promised not to tell who.

Studying La Vernata Parkbas.

In The Lunelight.

'Peeping Tom' takes a longdistance shot at Hulings' Hall.

DECEMBER

1. Football team wins season. Nuxated Iron Co. buys their picture for advertising.
2. "Last warning" cards out for chapel-cutters. Many new faces in senior section.
3. New speed record set. Faculty meeting over in twenty minutes.
4. Binghamman refuses Buchanan even a single extra copy of the campus. Buch heside himself.
5. Sherwood Eddy shocks half-filled chapel in morning. Shocks all college and its friends in the afternoon lecture.
6. Bing sets his foot down again. One copy of the Lit and one only for its editor. Kaldron editor worried. May cause a feud.
8. Jam Stewart receives a fresh shipment of yeast vitamines. Can rise to any occasion now.
9. Dundon invents his latest "fortune in a teacup." Cuts all classes for two days.
10. Hulings spends the day inspecting the new family of "Darlingest little bunnies" in biology lab.
11. Latin III class eats. Lollypops while the Gauls storm the gates of Rome.
12. Sid Carlson talks darkly of suing the government for pension. Claims S. A. T. C. war biscuits in 1918 ruined his digestion.
13. Bob, the delat mascot, confined to his kennel with flu and fleas.
14. Miss Cotton forgets a freshman moniker for first time. Blames the Roth Memory Course for her disgrace.
15. Eskimo pies making big hit. Joe Hovis caught eating four in the classical club room.
16. Shaffer thinks himself a new battleship being launched. Breaks bottle over his hip.
18. First special edition of the Campus ever printed on sale four minutes after the Geneva game.
19. Off for home. Boy, won't we fill the old gang with tales, tho. Wow!

JANUARY

4. Getting back fast. How college does bring a man out. Charlie Tefft slapping everybody on the back.
5. Our last year here and no senior-soph banquet. Aint it hell, tho? I ask you, aint it hell?
6. Quill club room redecorated. Great interest displayed in new sofy.
7. Campus decked in white. Many Hulings faces washed in snow.
8. Sh! Hush! Mystery! Nightriders! Watch your step! Ku Klux Klan snake dance around sun dial tonight.
9. Rainy Sunday night. Most dates called off.
10. Physical Culture scout in town. Crumrine poses for his "Captain-of-Track" picture.
11. Dr. Henke chapel-talks on the "Life and Habits of the Doughtnutdoting Woolfeduff."
12. Skinner's laundry turns up at Hulings. Seems to fit on one.
13. Bugs club shocked by paper on "Birth control among guinea pigs."
15. Ruthless masterfulness of The Shick wins heart of Hulings. Movie hero, jazz artist, best seller. College lovers selling at discount.
17. Alton Packard, master cartoonist, chalk talks. Bollinger in front seat. Adds many jokes to his repertoire.
18. Ham Eaton, president of the student senate, talks of spanking any Hulings girl caught rolling 'em. He'll teach them a lesson.
20. T. N. E. turns stool pigeon. Gives clue to Kappa skeleton mystery.
21. Tech defeated 28-22 in basketball. Mort Graham quite modest.
22. Flint again bled by girls in Biology XII. 25 CC. this time.
24. No more banquets for Phi Gam seniors at Kepler until the silverware is returned. Hi Jones tries to hush it up.
25. Sophomores greatly exercised over the color of freshman socks. Show them quick.
27. Weaver incorporates for a million and organizes himself into a Teacher's Agency. Positions in stock for everyone.

FEBRUARY

1. His last noble fight. Passing of the famous Phi Psi Buck expected any moment.
4. Exams over. Everybody relaxes. Flu cases in hospital recover immediately.
5. Drugstores sell out of bromo seltzer.
6. Everybody turns over a new leaf. Phi Beta Kappa for all.
8. McClean for Glee Club. Practices his vowel sounds in chapel. AH, uh, a, a, a.
9. Cunningham, champion shot putter, back in school and attends chapel.
- Freshmen rush off orders for Milo-Bar Bells.
10. Selma Lenhart reads "Erstwähle Susan" in chapel. Henry greatly saddened because there aren't a few girls like her at Hulings.
11. Marks out. Sheep separated from the goats. Goats go home to explain.
12. Frazier signs up his usual heavy schedule, ten hours and seven dates.
14. Carl Sandburg poetizes in chapel. Quill club much impressed.
13. Chi Rhos pull down blinds, close shutters, and quietly initiate. The rude, rough Delts parade their freshmen like rowdies.
8. We defeat Diogenes. On to Paris.
15. Phi Psi's emulate Diogenes. The Freshmen all roll barrels.
16. New college catalog out. Many students outpointed by the pointless point system.
17. Senior pictures being taken. Proofs coming in. Cruel disillusionment.
18. Bittner withdraws from the common herd. A research chemist now.
20. Football team sends home for baby-pictures. Fuller can't find his and offers to pose in a bathtub.

22. Washington Birthday Banquet. Denmler learns the sad truth that freshman orators are held in low esteem.
23. Janitor sweeps up a heavy fall of biscuits from the freshman section of banquet hall.
24. Freshman discard caps. Many seniors get reputation for snobishness. Can't tell them now without the caps.
25. Senior picture in caps and gowns. Bill Severn spoils seriousness of occasion.
26. Hard luck week for basketball. Team sneaks home in dead of night.
27. Robins arriving fast. Air filled with kodak clicks. Niles overworked.
28. Band gives concert. Salome played. Played completely out.

MARCH

1. Last day for senior theses. Encyclopedias haggard from overwork.
2. Alden Hall rivals Sousa's barnyard. Vivisection and research by the thesisists at peak. Barking of mudpuppies and grunting of guinea pigs at all hours.
3. Dundon's twin hens refuse to get beri beri. Another egg. Class dismissed while they cackle (the hens).
4. Dundon hadly worried. No beri beri, no vitamins. No vitamins, no thesis. No thesis, no graduate.
5. Weaver surrounds himself with the Bible, Koran, Science and Health, and "Four Hundred Ways to Paddle a Freshman" and writes the B. U. ritual.
6. Jam's new dog, Patches, being trained for his first social appearance at a faculty tea.
7. The Shifters organized at 9:10 with six members, at 11:40 38 members, at 3:45 112 victims. Still spreading.
8. Worse than measles. An antitoxin, the Cacklers organized. Ineffective, can't check it.
9. Bingaman and Hi Jones only ones not joining. They talk of starting one of their own.
10. Henry's honor system successful. Fifteen dollars and two columns in the Campus.
11. Paul Bird takes his mother in the Shifters for ten dollars. Pays his fraternity bill.
14. Alumni becalmed in sea of faces when wind fails. Varsity sails over them to victory.
15. Sherwood Eddy back. Adjustment week. College tightens its belt.
16. Bittner and Myers launch counter offensives. Three stitches, nobody snitches.
17. Eloquence wins. Buchanan dedicates himself to solving the race, industrial, political, and international problems. Utopia just around the corner.
18. Veni-vidi-vici. We win both ends of the debate with Wooster 3-0.
19. "Over the Hill" at Academy this week. Freshmen flood the mails with letters home.
20. The debating team passes resolution to copyright their speeches, including rights of translation into the Scandinavian.
21. The B. U.'s move up one. The Allegheny Club christens itself Phi Alpha Kappa.
22. Who started this darn quotation business for senior writups anyway?
24. Jerome asserts his independence. Refuses Pinkie Prather permission to slap him on the hack.
23. Vachel Lindsey accompanies General Booth to Heaven in chapel. Dr. Schultz carried away. Declares he saw the little angels.
26. Devney has midnight visitor. Uses the slapstick end of a paddle on it. The worm or rather pseudo-kitty turned. Devney marked worse than Cain. Joins the world in hating himself.
27. Entire research force of chem. department exhausting its ingenuity in saving Devney and his wardrobe to the world.

APRIL

1. Larson signs contract with Victor Talking Machine Co. and the Pathe News Educational Films to teach his methods of debating.
2. Doggone. Jam sells his dog, Patches. Two can't live as cheaply as one. So there. Besides, Patches was too light a sleeper.
3. Eaton stalking faculty kids for Kaldron pictures. Faculty issues orders for them to appear only at night. Heirs not apparent.
4. Where's that copy. Tribune curses the editor. Editor curses the staff. The staff curses each other.
5. Embarrassing deadlock arises. Swimming team have no suits. Not at home in them. Photographer maintains he won't be at home anywhere if they don't wear them.
7. Nunc pro tunc. Extension of time on senior theses extended extensively.
8. Buds swelling fast. Spring zephyrs and all that stuff. Senior batchelors shaving every day now instead of twice a week.
18. Hoopla! Easter vacation. Ten nice long days to sleep in.
19. Shortest ten days in history. Now for that last long mile.
19. "Fit" Nichol, fearing publicity, threatens the Kaldron editor. Cunningham, heavyweight champion, added to the staff.
21. "Red" Hafer insists that we hit the locomotive for the last time.
23. Doc Henke pulls his annual to his Ethics students about when he was a boy and he and his brother let the watermelon fall downstairs. You know the rest (when father got home). "It was a terrible accident."
24. Giles tells us in organic Chem. that when hayseeds are introduced into the manufacture of strawberry jam it can truly be called adulteration.
25. The Ki Rhos order twenty pairs of knickers. Doc Skinner starts Daily Dozen shank developing exercises.
26. Lena forgets to forget; answers the hell at its first ring.
27. Judd appears without his knickers; wash day for his golt socks.
28. Hammett gives only two A's in P. T. for last semester. Hoppy and Julian get them.
29. Prexy states in chapel that twilight is the best time for some things. Everyone nods approval but Flint. He looks disgusted.
30. High winds—Shrader finds himself on the outside of the inside of a reversible umbrella,

MAY

1. The nightwatchman reports a growing congestion on the rustic bridge and the observatory steps. Always divisible by two.
2. Coach Hammett announces the swimming tournament with Thiel. The girls look wistful.
3. Dr. Lee's vindictive Marmon spoils a Cadillac demonstration. Wins by length of exhaust pipe at 74 miles an hour.
4. Julian Ross beginning to worry about his final exams already.
5. Mary Gealy and Sal McQuiston attend their second annual Phi Gam mothers' party.
6. Howard Youngs is sent home for the week end by his fraternity brothers to put new wine in old bottles.
7. Doc Skinner and Ham Eaton fine-comb the city for Thomas-cats, using latest method known to chemical science.
8. Schatz, of the Lyceum, offers thousand dollar reward for the vandals whose Thomas-cat pursuits spoiled his show.
9. Dr. Swartley advises chapel-listeners to always keep a reserve on hand for emergencies. Inner Circle chuckles at its own foresight.
10. Rush Mountsier attends chapel on Wednesday as far as the door. Gets his Campus and Saturday Evening Post and retreats in orderly fashion.
11. Seidle and Coale survey Hulings through the transit. They declare it isn't distance that lends enchantment to the view.
12. Prof. Skelton falls in step with a department tradition and carries his market basket to class.
13. Goodfellow resorts to childhoodwinking. Is sent up for ten days to inspect the world from the back side of a chicken pox quarantine sign.
14. Ralph Limber enthusiastic over his new to lesson course in "Traveling on Your Stomach to Health, or Partial Vegetarianism; viz., Part Meat and Part Vegetables."
16. Weaver and Kelly pose for the Kaldron in knickers.
17. "Pete" Eaton "hooks" most of girl's Kaldron pictures for his "A" book and to plaster the back wall of his room.
19. "Chuck" Cochran conferences with Dean Spalding on his first Hulings visit. Reports the new sunparlor is a wonderful addition to the place.
21. Dr. Henke's turn in chapel. Advises seniors to "take a little honey home with you when you return." Orange blossom, it seems it was.
22. Another red letter day. Tennis racqueteers vanquish W. & J. Mount Union debaters silenced. Our debaters close and open shop at will with unanimous approval of judges.
23. Duzer Du issues call for dramatic talent. Fifty-six applicants for leading role in Grumpy.
24. Katy Drohn chalks up date 274.
25. Report spread that Stanley Thoburn is attacked with colic in library. Highly indignant. Rumor denied. Only studying aloud for a quiz.
26. Buchanan all in. Suffers dangerous relapse after weeks of daily posing in Kaldron groups.
27. The Chem. lab. radio gives a concert. William Penn hotel kitchen-plate-clatters featured by the broadcasters.
28. At last. The Dean gives her consent and several brazen girls don knickers. Pressing shop overworked.
31. So far as this calendar is concerned time ceases to be.

JUNE

1. Kaldron out. Inner Circle meets at Saegertown for last meeting before dissolution.

Oh, dear is the lure of the gypsy trail
As it dips from the hill to the checkered vale.
Oh, sweet the relief when cares are mocking
To ride with—Lord is the engine knocking?

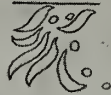

How fair is the call of the unknown road,
And it bids you cast from your mind the load,
For its cool, cool woods and green, green grass
Enchants the—Whee-e-ese—Hell, outa gas.

The gray road hints of adventure fair—
Come, gypsy-hearted, seek it there.
The nodding flowers whisper that—
The deuce! The right hind tire's flat.

Over that hill what fair land lies?
That hill may be wall to a Paradise!
A Destiny beckons across the years
To the heart—Crash! Bang! Stripped the gears.

Short Story to Order

The Hero:

Pick a handsome one whom Fate
Endowed with an athletic gait;
Dress him like a fashion plate,
Give him, this all things above,
The gift of gab in making love.
Speak about his college days,
Refer nonchalantly to
His two years in far Peru.
Anywhere at all will do
If it's off aways.

Cross-eyed, homely men, perforce,
May get married, too, of course,
But there's no romance in that.

The Heroine:

Take her from a cold cream "ad,"
One who has and always had
Charms of figure, voice and face
Combined into an elfin grace.
Let her have a scheming mother,
Let her have an erring brother,
Yet she must be pure and sweet,
Without guile or deceit.
(Fiction's often quite contrary
To all laws hereditary.)

Girls whom charms do not endorse
May get married, too, of course,
But there's no romance in that.

The Scene:

Lay it in the frozen north,
Where the Yukon issues forth;
Lay it where the sunny south
Smiles with her sun-kissed mouth;
Lay it where the ocean freight
Rides behind the Golden Gate.
If you've never seen these places
Go ahead—in many cases
'Spired scribes from Indiana
Prate of Paris and Havana
Though it's been their horrid fate,
Not to leave their native state.
But you've got to have some care,
Romance isn't everywhere.
Many men in many towns
Live and die with ups and downs,
Men whose job or habitat
Takes the romance out of that.

Football Prospects for 1923

When Doctor Lee let fall those mysterious words concerning the secret plans of the Athletic Board last fall at the Football Banquet, he did not reckon upon the sleuth-power of Allegheny editors. Through channels which even we may not divulge, we have discovered that the Athletic Board has crossed the Rubicon and cast the die indeed. We know and can prove that it has adopted a most radical innovation for next year, which may be termed, physical specialization of athletes. Furthermore the Board has scoured the country and signed up practically all of the 1923 football team. We have been able to secure photos of part of them, which photos appear on the opposite page.

After commercialism has done its utmost at producing high-grade football teams, the greater triumphs were reserved for environment, heredity and genetics. We believe that this policy will revolutionize sport. It has been easy to say hitherto that this is an age of specialization; now the time has come to try to realize it. Of what advantage can it be to a professional hand-over-hand rope climber, let us say, to be encumbered with perfect legs? Better if he have no legs at all. And what is the advantage to a football team to be composed of eleven men so alike that they are practically interchangeable?

We have not been able to learn in what positions Coach Hammett intends to use the men shown here. We would presume that Numbers 1, 3, and 7 are to be placed in the line for purposes analogous to the anchorages of suspension bridges. Certain interesting facts concerning the training of one of them, Number 7, have come to our attention. He was reared in the stockyards of Chicago and fed upon an exclusive diet of vitamins and sole leather. Ever since he was 15 years of age he has been given exercise every morning by harnessing him with a truck horse and pulling beer wagons from Milwaukee. His weight is given as 683 pounds, and his height at 4 feet, 2 inches. Arrangements have been made for a stockcar in which to haul him about on football trips.

The men numbered 4, 5, and 6 are speed kings. Number 6, we understand, is a little hard to start but amazingly fast thereafter. He is able to straddle a heap of linemen 10 feet high without missing his stride. In order to produce such a man as he, 50 lanky boys of 4 years were confined in a mangrove swamp outside of New Orleans and forced to develop or drown. We were pleased to learn that he was the only survivor, therefore the entire fruit of the experiment comes to us. Number 4 was discovered by a Tingley Biological Expedition picking cocoanuts from the palm trees of Madagascar.

Number 5 only dresses in the dark uniform shown here in order to have his picture taken, since in his regular clay-colored uniform his thinness makes him almost invisible, or capable at the most of being mistaken for a goal post. The secret of his success lies in the greased pig principle of the country fairs.

At first glance one might think that Number 2 presents a somewhat warped appearance, but in reality he is a beautiful figure upon the gridiron. He is known as the Human Hoopsnake because his peculiar development enables him to run in spirals. Opposing backfield men have often been carried from the field unconscious as a result of the dizziness produced by the sight of him.

Number 8 will be readily recognised as a left-legged punter and drop-kicker. Number 9 is a line plunger whose head and neck are exceptionally well fitted for the work. He spends his summers, we find, working for a house-wrecking company in the demolition of old buildings.

The success of the 1923 football season is assured. The Athletic Board, we feel, is to be congratulated upon their daring foresightedness. Also we are firmly convinced that we are about to look upon a mutation in collegiate sport. Finally we are happy to advance the opinion that the girls will have a harder time finding a handsome college athlete to become enamored of, which will undoubtedly be better for the rest of us.

CLUB

In the Museum

"The museum is open every Saturday from ten-thirty until noon while the college is in session." (Page 29, College Catalog.)

Without disparaging our college catalog, whose glowing pages thrilled us all that last year of ours in High School, let us ask, "Have you seen beyond the Yale lock of the museum door?" Never mind answering.

It is you who have often wondered what lay beyond that mysterious door that we, after a labyrinthine maze of red-tape, succeeded in getting inside for and bringing out of it photographs of a few random-picked but fascinating relics of Allegheny and her history.

The first relic is a photograph of Molly and Jake, the original pair of fishing worms that gave Paul Webb his start. Starting with this pair, last year Paul sold 90,000 of their descendants, each of which had to pass a rigid physical examination and endurance test before shipment.

The prognathous-jawed individual with the dishevelled hair was one of the unfortunate defectives who were common at Allegheny before the faculty raised the standards of scholarship. He was a fine fellow and a good fraternity man but as cave-manish in his wooing as the shiek.

He is especially interesting to students of evolutionary trends in college types and a portrait of a typical "C" student should be hung beside him before ever-rising standard force even the "C" men into extinction on college campuses.

The portrait of Tim Alden on his way to Bentley Chapel is a vigorous and strikingly masterful pose of that grand old founder of our college.

The nest of the fur-throated galosh, a rare Arctic bird, was found by a Tingleyite in the ravine back of the Delt house. Its great value to ornithologists lies in its four square eggs, a shape unique and confined to this species. This is the only specimen known to exist.

A sad bit of history is connected with the tall bottle of dark-colored liquid. It seems that Ponce De Leon, as you well know, thought that he had found the elixir of life but to be sure sent a sample to our chem. lab. to be analyzed. The report he received was so disappointing that Ponce tied his shoe strings together and hung himself by them. Only once has this precious relic been disturbed and then by a Phi Psi sophomore who was near-sighted and misread the label.

The blue and gold pillow with Allegheny crocheted or hemstitched into it should be an inspirational sight to all Alleghenians. It is the identical one used by Pres. McKinley upon the occasion when, as an undergraduate at Allegheny, he uttered those now famous words, "Now I lay me down to sleep."

The pair of dice shown on the opposite page are priceless bits of ivory. They were stolen by a sophomore from Booker T. Washington's other pair of pants while he was delivering a lecture in the chapel. Tuskegee Institute has a standing offer filed with the college for these baby-shoes-winning lucky stones.

The lock of hair on the family Bible was clipped from Dr. Darling in his undergraduate days, was rescued from oblivion, preserved in the family Bible and presented to the museum by Mrs. Darling in 1915.

The bountifully-laden hope chest was once the repository of its owner's dreams, hopes, prayers, and handworked linen but today it stands in a dusty corner of the museum as a standard guide of how a hope-chest should be filled and occasionally when the cares of her office slacken for a moment its owner comes to drop a salty tear on its yellowing linen folds.

Travel

Bummin' down to Pittsburgh, seven more and I
Bummin' on an ore train, not a box car there
Every darned gondola open to the sky
Drippin' rainy weather; paper called it fair.

Jumped her at the Junction thirty per and skinned
All my knuckles and a shin; heard a pant leg tear
Like a rotten main sail; didn't have the wind
To express my feelin's; couldn't even swear.

Joltin' like a shimmy queen, bouncin' like a Ford
Lurchin' like a drunkard with a wooden leg
Climbed up to the hopper from the running board
And got a most beastly cramp; thought I'd lost a leg.

Lost my pipe among the ore, all my Beechnut gone;
Wetter than a jelly fish seven fathoms deep;
Stretched out on the bottom and the others piled on,
Took me for a mattress; wouldn't let me sleep.

Stopped at every sidin', twice they broke the "air"
Then pulled out a drawhead; laid there half the night
Fin'ly hit Red Raven. Did the people stare
When they saw us comin'? Lord we were a sight.

Rambled down to Schenley, stiff in every joint
Copper stopped and questioned us, 'pearance was to blame
But we bummed the Bessemer, that's the blessed point
Hoboed it to Pittsburgh—then we lost the game.

After the Monthly Exams

I had a sweet ideal one day,
'Twas partly gold but mostly clay,
Ideals are usually that way.

It was a dream, 'twas Fancy's joke,
It was all right till I awoke.
Dreams are a form of mental smoke.

It was a vision, fair awhile,
Its ruins force a mournful smile.
Visions are full of fraud and guile.

And what it was, 'tis sad to tell
But since it's gone I may as well;
The late exams have rung its knell.

It was the hope some day to be
An honor man and wear the key
While wondering people gaped at me.

But those exams—well, as I said
Hope, dream, or vision, it has fled.
My faith in all those things is dead.

Rhyme

I wrote a little rhyme one day
Which loved too well the vain display,
Each line grew somewhat more ambitious
Which, for the rhyme, was inauspicious,
Each verse took more premeditation
To ward off indiscrimination,
It ran to incondensibility
Also incomprehensibility.

It leaves no moral here, except
Don't get beyond your proper depth.

And Now In Closing—

The editor wishes to express his heartfelt thanks to the staff who worked long and hard to satisfy the whimsicalities of a tyrant will. This Kaldron is not the book we started out to make, nor the book we would compile were we doing it again, nor the book we confidently expect another year's to be. But if, after its first burst of ephemeral popularity and its stealthy but sure progress to attics-to-be, it is occasionally brought down and the charm of the quaint old book (for it will be quaint then) rolls the clouds away for a time, helps subside the jar of nerves, or gives renewed consciousness of power from basking again in the rosy light of that college-kingdom where all were kings, this Kaldron has not been a failure.

And to Ralph C. Limber, the co-editor, whose contributions are liberally scattered through the book, and without whom this book would have been impossible, goes the hope that his verse may become as much a part of the nation's best thought as it has become of the college's.

After the Monthly Exams, 265,
Rhyme, 265,

The king was clad in his robes of state
While a poet sat at the palace gate;
The monarch was great and rich, they say,
While the poet was blind, and begged his way.

Now the years have come and the years have gone
And the throne has crumbled the king sat on,
And the king and his kingdom are called to mind,
Alone by the rhymes of the poet, blind.

So it seems that only the lasting things
Are the themes of which the poet sings,
And if you would live in the after-times
Then figure somehow in a poet's rhymes.

—T. D. K.

And for us all, this class of 1922, I can ask nothing more than that, as future classes thumb this book, it may be said of each of us as our pictures pass in review, "There is a worthy alumnus of Allegheny."

Take It From The Air

NOT only music, but news, speeches, messages of every sort, are today being picked out of the air.

“How has this come about?” we ask.

The new impetus given to radio development may be definitely associated with the development of the high power vacuum tube, for that made broadcasting possible. And the power tube originated from a piece of purely theoretical research, which had no connection with radio.

When a scientist in the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company found that electric current could be made to pass through the highest possible vacuum and could be varied according to fixed laws, he established the principle of the power tube and laid the foundation for the “tron” group of devices.

These devices magnify the tiny telephone currents produced by the voice and supply them to the antenna, which broadcasts the messages. At the receiving end, smaller “trons”, in turn, magnify the otherwise imperceptible messages coming to them from the receiving antenna.

Great accomplishments are not picked out of the air. Generally, as in this case, they grow from one man’s insatiable desire to find out the “how” of things.

Scientific research discovers the facts. Practical applications follow in good time.
