

US Airways Central Administration
Providence, Rhode Island
usairwayscontact@gmail.com
FAX: +1 (907) 313-1400

Description

The US Airways Livery will have a white Radome and upper fuselage, with the US Airways logo printed off-centered to the left of the center of the plane, with curvy gray stripes at the end of the fuselage to near the center off-centered by the right.

The vertical stabilizer and rudder will be in sapphire blue (#0E2E62) with straight darker blue stripes at a 330° angle and a thin straight dark blue strip to meet a white strip separating the red at the top of the tail. The tail will also have the US Airways US Flag logo in the middle in white.

The lower half of the fuselage is sapphire blue separated by a white and red line from the upper fuselage until near the cockpit winds when they will bend down and connect on the underside of the plane past the landing gear. US Airways offers a picture of the livery and a labeled picture of an Airbus A320.

Three US Airways official Special Liveries and proposed special liveries

US Airways has three official special liveries which are an inverted version of the main livery, and two state liveries which are the State of Nevada and the State of Arizona, and currently there are three other proposal liveries, only which 1 has an unofficial image proposal.

1. Special Liveries

2. Proposed Special Liveries

 Boston &amp; Providence Bruins Sports Livery (unofficial design)	(NO IMAGE) Rhode Island State Livery “Little Rhodney Air”	(NO IMAGE) Indiana State Livery “Hoosier Air”	(NO IMAGE) Georgia State Livery “Peach State Air”
---	---	---	---