“If your actions inspire others to dream more, learn more, do more and become more, you are a leader.”

– John Quincy Adams

William W. Busse, MD, FAAAAI served as AAAAI Foundation Council Chair from 2015-2019, and led the Foundation through a strategic shift in focus, a period of record-breaking fundraising and a remarkable increase in the number and value of awards granted. We are grateful for his vision and for his service.

Dr. Busse turned over the Chair’s gavel to Kevin J. Kelly, MD, FAAAAI during the February 2019 Annual Meeting.

Four Lives Changed

Four short years ago, the AAAAI Foundation and AAAAI leadership reorganized the focus of our funding: to support research that will help our patients. The Boards realized that the future improvements in patient care would require novel research by our young scientists, and that the AAAAI Foundation was uniquely positioned to support them.

The outstanding research, educational expertise and clinical acumen displayed by these young investigators has propelled many of them to leadership positions in A/I training programs throughout the country. In fact, 90% of AAAAI Foundation major award recipients have achieved permanent faculty positions in the years following their awards.

Thanks to the generous support of donors like you, we were able to support FOUR young investigators for the first time in 2019 – and you can read more about them in these pages. Their research careers and outlook for the future have been changed for the better because of your incredible generosity. Thank you!

Meet Our 2019 Faculty Development Award Recipients

Matthew C. Altman, MD, MPhil

University of Washington

Project: Regulatory Circuits
Between Antiviral Type I
Interferon and Th2-Type
Inflammation in Pediatric
Asthma

“Having mentors and colleagues who believe in the importance of my work, and receiving support from such a prestigious professional organization within the A/I field provides me tremendous determination. The Foundation understands how important it is to early career scientists and to our specialty to encourage and support young researchers, and I’m very grateful for that.

My project focuses on the use of systems biology approaches in both in vivo and ex vivo human asthma studies to better delineate the complex networks of these immune pathways in children with asthma, the relationships among these and other important molecular pathways, and their relative kinetics during viral illnesses, allergen exposures and asthma exacerbations. I plan to use unbiased network analyses to create better models of how these pathways interact in the context of disease. By developing a more nuanced picture of these pathways, our anticipation is that we will better understand both fundamental mechanisms of asthma pathogenesis as well as approaches to mitigate disease severity.”

Maria J. Gutierrez, MD

Johns Hopkins University

Project: Antibody Secreting Cell
Dysfunction and Infection Risk
in Rheumatoid Arthritis

“I am really honored to receive the Faculty Development Award and it has helped me in many aspects in both my research and my career. First off, this incredibly generous award will provide me with time and funds to advance my research and career. Secondly, the recognition, goodwill and support from all the people who want to see you succeed as a Foundation award recipient has been remarkably encouraging. Finally, this award represents a commitment for me to do my best work not just over the next three years, but beyond in my career.

My project focuses on investigating how dysfunction in antibody secreting cells may be responsible for overlapping autoimmune and immunodeficiency manifestations using rheumatoid arthritis as a model. In general, I am interested in understanding how diseases associated with abnormal antibody production develop and in my future research I’ll focus on those occurring during early life.”

Thank you, donors! Your support makes awards like these possible.

Paul J. Maglione, MD, PhD

Boston University School of Medicine

Project: How B Cell
Developmental Defects Shape
Manifestations of Common
Variable Immunodeficiency

“Simply put, science is expensive and grants are hard to come by. This award will help me expand in directions that are vital for a successful research program. In the short term, it will help me address fundamental questions in CVID pathogenesis that I would not otherwise have had the funding to explore. It also allows me to expand my research and have more “irons in the fire” that could develop into an RO1 or other forms of substantial research funding. I want to stay a physician-scientist involved in clinical immunology for as long as possible.

I am interested in studying human B cell biology through the lens of primary immunodeficiency. As a physician-scientist I also see patients, and my clinical focus is on antibody deficiency, which dovetails well with my research focus. One of my more longstanding interests has been the mechanisms underlying non-infectious complications of the most prevalent form of symptomatic primary antibody deficiency, common variable immunodeficiency (CVID). My most recent work has focused upon the pathogenesis of the interstitial lung disease affecting CVID patients.”

Caroline L. Sokol, MD, PhD

The AAAAI Foundation &
Dr. Donald Y. M. Leung/
JACI Editors Faculty
Development Award

Massachusetts General Hospital Allergy Associates

Project: Innate Immune Control of Th2 Differentiation

“Science is expensive and slow! The Faculty Development Award has given me the financial means to do the best and most high-impact science without having to worry about whether I can pay the bills or if I’ll need to cut the cord on a project because I can’t afford to finish it. It is allowing me to develop and grow my laboratory group at this crucial early career stage I’m in. I am dedicated to being worthy of this investment.

The goal of my research is to figure out how the allergic immune response is initiated. Between 30 and 40% of the U.S. population suffers from allergic diseases that are driven by immune responses to simple, non-infectious environmental proteins. Why is that? We don’t know the answer, partially because we don’t know how allergens are recognized by the immune system or even what cells of the immune system are responsible for this recognition. It’s our goal to elucidate these early recognition and activation steps so we can better understand how to treat and prevent allergic diseases.”

The second Dr. Donald Y. M. Leung/JACI Editors Faculty Development Award was presented to Dr. Sokol at the 2019 Annual Meeting. This award was named for Dr. Leung and the JACI Editors in honor of significant contributions to the AAAAI Foundation.

Ongoing Awards and Research

During 2019, the AAAAI Foundation will support 12 ongoing grants with payouts over $680,000. The support for these multi-year awards is possible through continued support from our donors.

2018 - Lori Broderick, MD, PhD
UC San Diego
Project: "Molecular Mechanisms of Immunodysregulatory Disorders"
Award Term: July 2018 - June 2021

2017 - Kirsten Kloepfer, MD, MS
Indiana University
Project: "Microbial Influence on Airway Function and Inflammation"
Award Term: July 2017 - June 2020

2018 - Sarah E. Henrickson, MD, PhD
Children's Hospital of Philadelphia
Project: "Defining Exhaustion and Immunometabolic Alterations in Primary Immunodeficiency"

2018 Grant Impact Study Results

The AAAAI Foundation is a valuable link to the future of our specialty. The Foundation supports the development of young investigators who, through their discoveries, will advance the understanding of our specialty and the care of our patients.

90% of our major awardees have achieved permanent Allergy/Immunology faculty positions.

$4,700,000 has been granted as major awards since 1993.

$66,000,000 MORE has been granted to our awardees after Foundation provided initial support.

2019 Named Lectureships and Awards

The AAAAI Foundation provides the opportunity to honor individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the Allergy/Immunology field with Named Lectureships and Awards.

These Lectureships and Awards were announced at the 2019 Annual Meeting in San Francisco and will be presented for the first time at the 2020 Annual Meeting in Philadelphia:

Richard F. Lockey, MD, MS, FAAAAI & University of South Florida Lectureship and Faculty Development Award
Term: 2020 - 2034

Bench to Bedside:
K. Frank Austen, MD, FAAAAI & Albert L. Sheffer, MD, FAAAAI Lectureship
Term: 2020 - 2024

Michael M. Frank, MD, FAAAAI Lectureship
Term: 2020 - 2024

Allen P. Kaplan, MD, FAAAAI Lectureship: Creating Knowledge for Our Future
Term: 2020 - 2024

Harold S. Nelson, MD, FAAAAI Lectureship: Investing Together in Our Future
Term: 2020 - 2024

David S. Pearlman, MD, FAAAAI Lectureship: Contributing to Discovery and Education
Term: 2020 - 2022

The AAAAI Foundation thanks AstraZeneca for their generous support of the 2019 Lectureship Series

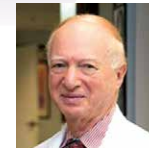

These established Named Lectureships were delivered during the 2019 AAAAI Annual Meeting:

I. Leonard Bernstein, MD, FAAAAI Memorial Lectureship: 3rd year
 • 2019 Lecturer: Jonathan I. Silverberg, MD, PhD, MPH

Phil and Barbara Lieberman and Friends Lecture: Investing Together in Our Future: 5th year • 2019
 Lecturer: Cecilia Berin, PhD

AAAAI Foundation and Sheldon L. Spector, MD, FAAAAI Memorial Lectureship: 2nd year • 2019
 Lecturer: Maureen George, PhD, RN, AE-C

Bettina C. Hilman, MD Lectureship: 2nd year • 2019
 Lecturer: Emma Guttman-Yassky, MD, PhD

Louis M. Mendelson Lectureship: Investing Together in Our Future: 3rd year • 2019
 Lecturer: Cathryn Nagler, PhD

AAAAI Foundation Heritage Lectureship: Inaugural Year • 2019
 Lecturer: Linda Herbert, PhD

Phillip E. Korenblat, MD, FAAAAI Lectureship: Investing Together in Our Future: 2nd year • 2019
 Lecturer: A. Wesley Burks, MD, FAAAAI

Gary S. Rachelefsky, MD, FAAAAI Lectureship: Investing Together in Our Future: 2nd year • 2019
 Lecturer: Anuradha Ray, PhD

Dennis K. Ledford, MD, FAAAAI & University of South Florida Allergy & Immunology Division Lectureship: Inaugural Year • 2019
 Lecturer: Sergejs Berdnikovs, PhD

William T. Shearer and Lynn Des Prez Lecture: Investing Together in Our Future: 5th year • 2019

2019 AAAAI Annual Meeting Special Events

Benefit

The 2019 Foundation Benefit was held at the Park Central San Francisco. It featured the presentation of our four Faculty Development Awards as well as a seated dinner, live music, a photo station and caricature artists. All proceeds from the event will support future awards.

Thank you to all who purchased Benefit tables and individual seats; we greatly appreciate your support.

5K Run/Walk

The 5K Run/Walk is an opportunity for AAAAI Annual Meeting attendees to get out of the convention center, enjoy some fresh air and support research. Over 600 people supported this year's Run/Walk. The race route started at AT&T Park, home of the San Francisco Giants, and ran along the scenic Embarcadero.

In San Francisco fashion, runners took historic motorized cable cars to the starting line and our grand marshal was Giant's mascot, Lou Seal.

Congratulations to our winner, Bob K. Miyake, MD and his impressive time of 17:41.

Here are our winners, first place (middle) Bob K. Miyake, MD, second place (left) Luis Costa and third place (right) Duane R. Wesemann, MD PhD

The AAAAI Foundation thanks Shire (now Takeda) for their generous sponsorship of our 2019 5K Run/Walk

3rd Annual RSL Challenge Your Society Could Win Free CME

The winner of the 2018 RSL Challenge Free CME Prize is the Alabama Society of Allergy and Immunology.

“With a very small budget and increasing costs for CME accreditation, we are very appreciative of the prize from the AAAAI Foundation, and thank donors from the Southeast region for helping us win.

We look forward to working with the AAAAI and the Foundation again in the future as this is a partnership that benefits both physicians and ultimately the patients we treat. Thank you for making this gift possible!”
