Up And Down The Main Drag

By The Ad Staff

City employees made the Christmas season official Wednesday morning when they hoisted the 80-foot tree into position in front of the court house. The tree is decorated with a string of lights and a white star. Other decorations planned by the Chamber of Commerce include criss-crossed lights at the Ash street and Jefferson avenue intersections and the Maple street and Jefferson avenue intersection.

"Merchants won't be asked to set trees out in front of their stores this year," Chamber of Commerce President Ray Perkins stated. "The tree holes are set so close to the street line that the branches scratch cars and the cars break the light bulbs."

However, Perkins said, that many businesses have second floors which face the street and small trees can be secured on the window ledges.

"We'll be doing that at the hardware," Perkins said.

The chamber plans to decorate the west side business district, too, the president explained.

Members of the decorating committee are Glen Coon, Earl Upphart and Nelson Brown.

Mason stores will be open every night beginning December 17 and ending December 22. The stores will close at the regular time Christmas Eve, according to Perkins.

Denmark Pays Homage To Hans Anderson—Santa's Best Helper

LAST YEAR a festival in Denmark paid tribute to one of the greatest helpers Santa Claus ever had. He was Hans Christian Andersen, fairy tale writer, and composer of many Christmas stories.

His works have sold more copies than any other book, except the Bible, and have been translated into 35 languages, including Arabic, Hebrew, Chinese, Japanese, and Greenlandic.

Since 1875, the year that he passed away, visitors from all parts of the world have come yearly to the town

Of Odense to see the home of the writer of such tales as "The Little Match Girl," and "The Ugly Duckling."

Anderson's fairy tales, released just before Christmas each year, brought him money, fame and the attention of princes, as well as the admiration of children.

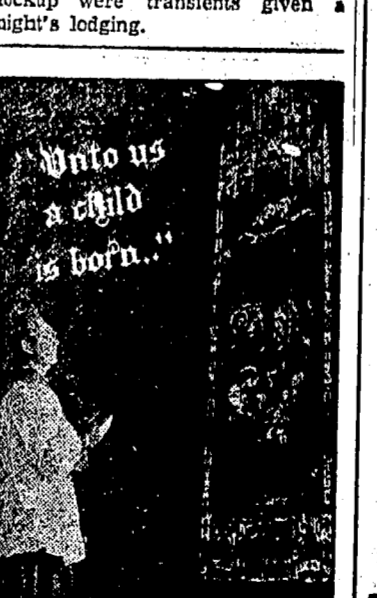

Once he received a United States dollar bill, enclosed in a letter written by a young American girl. It said: "Papa says that the dollar is my own, that he does not suppose you are in particular need of money, but I owe you this and a great deal more. He thinks it proper that I should send it to you."

Ancient Church Bells Still Summon Village

A pair of ancient church bells, brought to Frankenthum, Mich., from Bavaria shortly after Frankenthum was founded as an Indian mission, has been calling the congregation of St. Lorenz to Christmas eve services for more than 100 years.

Frankenthum has never had a crime of violence, and, as far as residents can remember, no one has been jailed over a period of 25 years. The only visitors to the lockup were transients given a night's lodging.

Economist Flays Special Interests

Speaking on the topic of "Who Stole the Dime from the Capitol," State Senator William Adams of Michigan State college pointed his finger at "special interests." Dr. Adams is professor of economics in the college school at Michigan State college. He spoke before the Mason Kiwanis club Tuesday night.

According to Dr. Adams, the federal budget can not be materially cut because of defense needs. He took-poached the charges that mint coins and Deep Freezes are the root of the trouble in Washington. The main trouble, Dr. Adams declared, lies with special interests which pressure congress into granting them special favors.

Dr. Adams declared that the present proportionate tax schedules are unfair to those at the bottom of the economic scale. He urged higher rates for the top and middle brackets. He declared that newspapers cover up subsidies to the press by the postoffice department, subsidies to air lines and grants to other big business. He flayed congress for adopting the Mason amendment.

Surviving him are two sisters, Mrs. Agnes Hoover of Aurelius road and Mrs. Neva Ducas of Grand Rapids.

Legion Auxiliary Plans for Events

Plans for events set for the first two weeks of December were discussed at a regular meeting held Tuesday evening by Browne-Cavender American Legion Auxiliary No. 148 of Mason.

Mrs. Grace Ankney and secretary of the local group, were elected delegates to attend the meeting of the sixth district association to be held in Howell Sunday, December 2. They were also chosen to represent the unit at the mid-winter conference of the Legion and Auxiliary which is to convene at the Hotel Olds in Lansing on December 8 and 9. Several other members of the Mason organization also plan to attend these meetings.

The annual Christmas party of the Mason post and auxiliary has been set for December 13. Tentative plans include a family night supper, an informal program by the children and young people, and a visit from Santa Claus, with the customary tree and gifts. Square dancing will complete the evening. Those who wish to contribute articles of food or clothing to the Mason Clearing House may take them to the Christmas party.

Mrs. Ankney has also announced that during December the Mason unit will fill an "A" box of warm clothing and shoes to Korea.

"Realizing as we do," said Mrs. Ankney, "that specific gifts which will bring even a small measure of comfort to that war-torn country are one of the best ways to show our good-will, Browne-Cavender Auxiliary will welcome contributions for this project from all members of the Community."

In Memoriam
WIELAND—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Robert Wieland, who passed away November 28, 1948, three years ago—
Though time heals all sorrow
And helps us to forget,
But time has only proved
How much we miss you yet.
We often think of the happy days
When we were all together,
Your loving smile and cheerful ways,
Will live in our hearts forever.
'Tis joy to know we'll meet again,
Where parting is no more,
But what it meant to lose you,
Bob,
No one will ever know.
Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Wieland and daughters. 48wtf

IN MEMORIAM—In grateful memory of Robert Karl Derby, who died in the service of his country on November 29, 1950, in Korea. He stands in the unbroken line of patriots who have dared to die that freedom might live, and grow and increase its blessings. Freedom lives and through it, he lives in a way that humbles the undertakings of most men.
Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller and family. 48wtf

Tradition Says Tree Originated in Egypt
The Christmas tree, now almost a universal symbol, probably came to America from Germany, although tradition has it that Christmas trees originated in Egypt. The palm tree is supposed to put forth a branch every month, and a spray of this tree, with 12 shoots on it, was used in Egypt.
German writers mention the tree as early as 1065. The German prince Albert, consort of Queen Victoria, introduced the Christmas tree in England when he had a tree for his daughter.

Ingham Sheriff Gives Warning On Accidents

"Winter is moving in fast, and unless drivers and pedestrians adjust their traffic habits, the usual seasonal upswing in traffic can be expected."

This warning, given by Sheriff Willard P. Barnes was based on the traffic accident experience of past Novembers, the month that consistently shows a sharp increase in traffic fatalities over other months of the year.

"Last year 800 pedestrians met death on Michigan streets and highways because someone failed to adjust his driving or walking to fall winter's deadly tricks," said Sheriff Barnes.

The first snow, Sheriff Barnes pointed out, usually is the most dangerous of the season. Many motorists are caught off guard psychologically and mechanically, forgetting that extra alertness and caution are necessary to meet the additional hazards of winter driving.

"Reduced visibility and slippery roads," Sheriff Barnes said, "are two of winter's traps for thoughtless drivers. The National Safety Council's figures show that the driver's vision was found to have been obstructed in one out of five fatal accidents during an average year. Of these obstructions about two-fifths were rain, snow or sleet on the windshield."

"National Safety Council records also show that wet, muddy, snowy or icy roads figure in one out of seven fatal accidents. In one out of five accidents the weather was rainy, foggy or snowy."

"We can expect the kind of weather responsible for such conditions from now on," Sheriff Barnes warned, "and the wise motorist will protect himself and his fellow citizens by being prepared."

He advised all motorists to check the safety equipment on their cars now, emphasizing particularly the following factors: Equalized brakes, good tires, tire chains, bright, well-aimed lights, defrosters and heater.

Patient Passes After Long Stay In Sanatorium

George Donald Sigler, 37, died at the Ingham tuberculosis hospital on Thanksgiving night. He had been a patient at the hospital for 16 years.

Tuberculosis waged a bitter battle with Sigler but the victory was in sight when a heart attack took the man's life. In the fight against tuberculosis, surgeons removed one lung, a kidney and all the ribs on one side. Tests taken a few weeks ago indicated that tuberculosis had finally been arrested and Sigler was looking forward to going home for Christmas.

Mason Was Mighty Proud of It's Band 50 Years Ago

Back at the turn of the century Mason had a band which turned out on all important occasions. The city, not the school, supported the band.

This picture is from the Roy Adams collection. He is unable to identify three of the musicians.

Woodhouse, E. D. Lee, Grover Whitmore and Jack Fowler.

Standing in the rear row, from left to right, are Charlie Saraw, two who remain unidentified, George Mosher (the big man with the big horn), Capt. J. G. Snook (with the whiskers), Fred Lee, Harry J. Bond, and the third unidentified man.

Who are the three musicians unnamed? The Ingham County News will present a Dart rule to the first person who makes the identification.

Implement Dealer Buys Building

Francis Platt has bought from John Angell the East Lansing Sand and Gravel building on US-127 and Pryor road.

Platt is the Mason Minneapolis-Moline implement dealer. The East Lansing Sand and Gravel Co. is closing down its gravel operations at the Mason pit and developing residential areas.

A year ago Platt acquired the Minneapolis-Moline franchise. He has operated the business at his farm, 623 North College road. Before January 1 he expects to be set up at the new location.

With the building Platt bought two acres of land. The deal also includes a house, which will be used by Duward King, the service man in Platt's employ.

Present plans for relocating US-127 call for the new trunkline to run southeast from Pryor road for several roads before swinging south to pass Charlie's Barn on the west.

Platt has frontage on both US-127 and Pryor road. The building was erected five years ago to house trucks and other equipment and to serve as an office for the East Lansing Sand and Gravel Co.

Former TB Chief Dies Suddenly
Dr. George C. Stucky, 62, for 17 years the director of the Ingham tuberculosis sanatorium, died Monday in Charlotte. He left the Ingham sanatorium in 1938 to serve as medical chief for the Kellogg health center in Eaton county.

On Sunday morning Dr. Stucky had a cerebral hemorrhage. He was taken to the Hayes-Green-Beach hospital and died there Monday night.

Dr. Stucky became head of the Ingham sanatorium in 1921 when the county began a serious fight against the disease. He developed the sanatorium into one of the outstanding TB hospitals in the state.

Surviving Dr. Stucky are the widow, Juliette; two sons, Harry Stucky of Dexter and George Stucky with the army in Germany, and three daughters, Mrs. Jack Foster of Hastings, Mrs. Mark Griffin of Ann Arbor and Betsy at home.

Dr. Stucky held membership in the Michigan State Medical society, the American Medical association, the Michigan and National Trudeau society, the Michigan Health Officers association, and was a fellow of the American College of Physicians, the American Public Health association, and a former director of the National Tuberculosis association.

People Sign Up For TV Studies
More than 1,400 registrations have been received for Telecourses, offered by the University of Michigan over Detroit television station WWJ-TV every Sunday.

During the six courses offered on television last year the university had more than 2,000 students registered. A fee of $2 for 15 weeks courses and $1 for seven weeks courses is charged for supplementary material mailed to students each week.

Drunk Is Jailed After Accident

C. A. Manigold of Jackson was arrested last Wednesday night near Leslie as being the cause of an accident. The charge was being drunk, to which he pleaded guilty Friday before Justice of the Peace Roy Adams of Mason. The judge assessed Manigold $27.50 in fine and costs.

According to officers, Manigold passed out while sitting in his car at the intersection of US-127 and Fitchburg road east of Leslie. His car, officers said, was parked on the cutoff between the trunkline and Fitchburg road.

Richard W. Stone of Jackson and his aunt, Dr. Florence A. Stone of Waukegan, Illinois, were driving on US-127 with the Jackson man at the wheel. He said he was blinded by the bright lights which Manigold had left on his car. Stone told officers that because of the lights on the parked car he did not see the curve until too late. Then his car rolled over. Dr. Stone was tossed 20 feet down the road. Both Dr. Stone and her nephew were taken to a Jackson hospital.

SAND MAKES PEARLS
Pearls occur in oysters when a foreign object—perhaps a tiny grain of sand—gets between the shell and the body. Successive layers of a material called nacre, which consists of calcium carbonate, is secreted around the object.

Displaced Persons Must File Reports
Displaced Persons must file semiannual reports to the Displaced Persons Commission in Washington, D. C. The report is due any time after December 15 and before January 1. Those persons who arrived in the United States between November 2, 1949, and the present time are required by federal law to file a total of four reports with the commission. The head of the family reports for himself and his spouse, and children who are unmarried, dependent and under 21 years of age at time of immigration. The Displaced Persons Act requires four reports over a two-year period for each displaced person who immigrates to this country under that act.

The form for reporting is provided by the government. It is available from now on until January 1, 1952, at the main desk in the YWCA building, 217 Townsend street, Lansing. After completing the form, it is to be mailed direct to the Displaced Persons Commission, c/o Statistical Section, Immigration and Naturalization Service, Washington 25, D. C. Willful failure to file a report or C. Willful failure to submit an accurate report, upon conviction thereof, is subject to a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment for not more than six months.

Advice Is Offered On Social Security
The pamphlet "Do You Work for Yourself?" has arrived from the government printing office, advised W. Scott Hamlin, manager of the Lansing office of the Social Security Administration.

Since August, 1950, when the Social Security Act was amended extending coverage, his office has had numerous letters and telephone inquiries from self-employed persons. In business for themselves, as sole owners or partners, they wanted pamphlets explaining how the recent amendments would affect them. This new pamphlet is the answer. It explains who of the self-employed are covered, amount of net-income that is taxable, how and when to report self-employment earnings, how to become insured, and describes the various types of retirement and survivors payments.

Coverage of the self-employed became effective January 1, 1951.

Ice Results in Three-Car Crash

Ice on US-127 on the curve north of Harper road at 1:15 Monday morning resulted in a three-car crash.

A car driven by William Bogan of Flint skidded off the pavement on the east side. Carl Wing of Jackson stopped his truck to give aid to Bogan. He was headed south, John A. Poppie of Wellston, Ohio, a student returning to Michigan State, was headed north. When he saw the situation he applied brakes to his car. It skidded and struck the Wing truck head-on.

Wing suffered a fractured left hand and his forehead was cut. Harrison H. Wing, 50, riding with Carl Wing, was cut and bruised about his face. Poppie fractured his left thigh.

Michigan Bell Balks at Ruling

The Michigan Bell telephone company is prepared to contest an order of the public service commission completely denying the company's application for a rate increase, the company announced.

Confident with every company virtually rejected every company contention, John A. Greene, Michigan Bell president, termed the order "entirely unrealistic" and said it was "extremely disappointing and discouraging to this company."

"The commission," Greene said, "fails to recognize that inflation has hit the telephone industry just as it has all business."

"Michigan Bell revenues through rate increases have been raised only 21 per cent since the war against an 85 per cent increase in the overall cost of living. Without jeopardizing a great public service, telephone rates cannot be held at such a low level while the cost of everything that goes into telephone service—wages, materials, taxes in skyrocketing."

"The commission claimed it had made 'generous allowances' in its order but admitted that no allowance had been made for the new 62 per cent federal corporation income tax. Although the tax was made effective as of last April 1—a month before Michigan Bell filed its application—the commission said that consideration of the tax increase would have been 'premature.'"

"The order was signed by Chairman John H. McCarthy and Commissioner John M. Vesie, Maurice E. Hunt, newly-appointed commissioner, did not participate in the case.

Downing St., traditional home of England's prime minister, was named for Sir George Downing, who had been educated at Harvard college in the United States.

Farmer Peck's Wife

Women's hose is a racket! Suzy and Sally hang on the ceiling. Sunday school children ate at our house.

Pete says women's hose is a racket! He thinks we ought to quit buying for awhile until they make some that would wear better. I've been sputtering about how much I spend for them and felt guilty. In fact, I've put myself on a stocking budget—no new hose until January first—and if something happens to these two new pairs I have—guess I'll have to stay home or go you-know-how.

I've tried everything to make them last. I always buy two identical pairs at a time, 60-gauge as they seem to resist snags better. I always wash new ones before wearing to tighten the threads and prevent a runner from zipping like mad the whole length. I wear gloves when putting them on because sometimes my hands are not as smooth as the hose. I never wear them out to tend the chickens—but in spite of all these precautions I have runs.

They just don't seem to last like they used to. It can't be all me or US as I know other women have these troubles, too. A while ago I was on the radio how to freeze them in a refrigerator tray, then let them thaw at room temperature and they would last longer.

So now I am adding freezing to what I do in an effort to make them last. Long skirts make it easier as we don't snag them on chairs. Well, what are we going to do about it? Or doesn't that need for economy rile you?

Mrs. Fisher has a new "Believe It Or Not." She says she is positive that woodpeckers eat hickory nuts. There is a tree of them in Mr. Fenner's yard and she says a woodpecker will fly down and pick me up, fly up in the tree and pick what's inside. Maybe you knew about this kind of behavior. In fact, I never heard of it before. In fact, I'm just repeating what she said. I didn't see it. I'd appreciate it if someone would write to this newspaper and say so if he has.

Last night the girls had their balloons stuck all over the walls and ceiling. This is how you do it: Rub the balloon gently but fast across your arm or davenport or anything else smooth then it will stick to anything smooth you attach it and since they do it every time they get a balloon. They are popular around here and last a long time. Sally has kept one for five months and plays with it much of the time. Now why couldn't rubber be put into hose so they would wear like that?

We had to laugh at Suzy last night. When Pete was sticking the balloons to the ceiling, he grabbed her and rubbed her up and down his chest. Then he put her on the ceiling and how she begged to get down. He said she would probably stick just like the balloons. Then Sally had to be stuck to the ceiling, too.

She is getting to be quite an armful and he said this was the last time he could ever do it. She likes to climb and the idea of hanging from the ceiling delighted her. The balloons stayed there all night, so if you are planning a party I think that would be a good decorative idea and if your group hasn't heard of how to do it it would look like a bit of magic.

Sunday my Sunday school class came home with me for a Thanksgiving dinner. Pete and I enjoyed it. They are 12 to 14 and there are six of them, seventh and eighth graders.

Bruce kept everyone laughing especially as they ought to turn out a good record of how much fun we had. We were serious, too, and had a devotional period and organized a little Christian club, received rings and help in living closer to God. I think all of us were comforted with the need and comfort we received from daily prayer.

You know sometimes on Sunday morning I feel kinda lazy and almost decide not to get around and go to Sunday school. But after last Sunday I want to go more than ever and the next time I feel like lagging behind and just going to church I want to picture those six happy, serious, young, hopeful and inspiring faces and get out and go.

Next week I want to give you my applause cake recipe which I make into a simple fruitcake by adding nuts, raisins and dates.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barnhill and Merrill and Mrs. Collar entertained as their guests for Thanksgiving Mrs. Cornelia Waggoner and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Barnhill. Mrs. Ida Witt is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cavender.

Mr. and Mrs. William Field of Kansas City, Missouri, formerly of Cypress, near Italy, visited Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Karn Tuesday. The Karns spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jarvis of Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lay entertained at dinner Thanksgiving Day Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lay and family of Leslie and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Freeman and Mrs. Robert Denismore and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Werner spent Thanksgiving Day with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gravelin of Grand Rapids.

My Day by Schatzi . . .

The Camera-Clicking Dachshund

My day gets busier and busier. Getting from the phone to the doorbell—to the studio—to the darkroom is not so easy on my short legs either. Still it's Christmas in the portrait business—and I love it!

Now is the time everybody calls to make appointments—and we make evening appointments too—because lots of people who want us to do their portraits, can't get in during the day. Evenings seem to be better for family groups too—and we have special holiday rates on them.

And nobody has to worry about getting his pictures in time for Christmas. We've added to our staff this year—and with Helen and Ruth and Mildred working with Letta and I day and night—we'll be taking pictures up until December 20th—and getting them delivered by Christmas Eve.

But remember—the sooner the better—Your picture is the gift that only you can give—it's appreciative, it's inexpensive, and you can do all your Christmas shopping in one sitting!

Call now and make your appointment!

... there were certain Greeks among them that came... saying, Sir, we would see Jesus." (John 12:20, 21.) Read Matthew 5:13-16.

In visiting once in a high school biology laboratory, I saw a number of tin lamps placed on the desks. All were connected with a common source of power overhead. The teacher explained that sometimes the room was darkened in order to show a film or lantern slides. Then the desk lamps were

As I listened to the explanation, the thought occurred to me that at all times, but especially when the world is darkened by the misery and the horror of war, Christians everywhere make use of the power and light found in the person of Jesus Christ. They live by the light of His truth, the comfort of His love, the power of His presence.

But Christians do not bask selfishly in their faith. They seek to share it with others. They witness to Him. They shine as lights. As in Jesus' day, many people are saying today "We would see Jesus." They, too, long to share in the life-giving knowledge, love, and faith to be found in the risen Christ.

PRAYER

Our Father, Thy divine love has called us to a newness of life. Grant that Thy power in us may become a beacon light for the souls of many. Use us in the creation of a changed world through changed men. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Christ calls us to bear witness to Him.

Thanksgiving Is Thanksliving

We hope you had a wonderful Thanksgiving Day. Did you think of the millions of our fellowmen who had little or nothing to eat? If it were possible, would you have invited a war orphan or a refugee to your table?

There are millions of them in Korea, Japan, Germany, Austria, Italy, Greece, Palestine and elsewhere. Many of them are victims of Nazi and Communist brutality and war. We have no idea of the dark tragedy and appalling misery of these helpless people.

The Communists are deliberately trying to perpetuate this misery and increase it. They hope to create world chaos and revolution. We can fight them with friendship and good given in the name of Christ to those in need. We are enjoined to love our neighbor and to help him in his need, like the Good Samaritan.

All of us can do this by contributing a few bushels of farm produce, or its equivalent in money, to CROP, the Christian Rural Overseas Program, which is sponsored by all Christian churches. The program is going to be conducted in this county this week and next. Contribute liberally and make it possible for some helpless, wretched fellow human to thank God for Christians in the U. S. A.

STICKY PROBLEM—Using a long-pronged pole to pluck prickly pears from their thorny plants, a Sardinian peasant girl of Cagliari harvests one of the crops that grow in overabundance on that primitive island. The fruit, used as a table serving on the mainland, is according to restriction, used only as livestock feed by the islanders.

Christmas Seals Helped

A new gold strike, assaying $400-$700 a ton, has skyrocketed the little California mining town of Sutter Creek out of its recent $17-a-ton doldrums. The strike was made at the nearby historic Central Europa mine which began operations in 1869.

Using original designs, Miss Muriel Hulce, of Battle Creek, learned to hand paint men's neckties while she was a patient at the Arthur S. Kimball tuberculosis sanatorium. Tuberculosis Christmas Seal dollars thus helped ease and shorten the 90 minute hours spent in bed, she said.

YOU and the FUTURE

Are You an INDIVIDUALIST?

How do you score as an individualist? Do you have what it takes to stand firmly for what you think is right regardless of what others may think, using good judgment of course, or do you shrink at the thought of "being different," if necessary?

As hard as the words may be, do you know that if you ever make the grade to eternity and the new earth—you will have to be considerably "different"?

"Enter by the narrow gate," Jesus said; "for wide is the gate and broad the road which leads to ruin, and many there are who enter by it." Why are there so many who enter the gate to ruin? "Because narrow is the gate and contracted the road which leads to Life, and few are those who find it." Matthew 7:13, 14 (Weymouth).

It is a little harder to take the strain of the eternal road. Far too many people take the easy road. They hate to be "different." The esteem of fellow men is here and now. The gentle ridicule of neighbors is so keen and real. Eternity is so far away, it seems, and so unreal. Too often we decide to fall in with the crowd, and bury our convictions. It is an easy way, a soothing way; but it is an insidiously deadly way!

The true way, the right way, has never been distinguished by its popularity. Too few people are willing to forfeit the favor of visible men, if necessary, for that of an invisible God. The one is here, but they seem to wonder about the other.

"Woe unto you, when all men shall speak well of you!" Jesus warned. To accept Christ's way when He was on earth was to be ruthlessly cut off from society! It was terribly embarrassing to Peter; he actually swore in denial that he had ever known Jesus.

What was true then is true today. The winners of eternal life will be all of those who determine to be "different" enough to find that strait gate to that inheritance in the new world. God's last people Remnant? on this earth, all who walk honestly before Him, are called a "remnant" . . . which keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ." Revelation 12:17.

It is not enough merely to profess to know Christ, as some think. "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Matthew 7:21.

Do you have what it takes to be "different" enough to do the will of God; to keep all of His Commandments in Christ? To live the life of Jesus before your neighbors? Your eternal future depends upon this determination—and this alone! (Next: Will You Live After You Die?)

This is No. 9 of a series, telling briefly of the beliefs and hopes of 750,000 of your Seventh-day Adventist neighbors and friends.

School Districts Merge Operation

At a special meeting of the Holt board of education Tuesday night, the Holt district board of education completed the transfer of property, assets and liabilities to the Holt school district. It was the last step in the process of an annexation which began several months ago. Among the items turned over to the Holt board were two deeds to the Holt school property, one dated 1877 and the other, 1931; records of various funds; a check for $2,425.92 for the general fund and another check for $3,292.27 for the building and site fund.

The Holt board passed a resolution relieving the Holt board of any further responsibilities and duties. The Holt board approved Mrs. Mary Alexander as teacher to fill the third grade vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Mary Spence; it approved the superintendent's attendance at the annual meetings of the American association of school administrators in St. Louis in February. The board also approved the senior class vote to return to the traditional type of commencement program and the student council's plan to have a new trophy case built near the entrance to the gymnasium. The board agreed to purchase more first grade furniture at the Midway school and more armchairs for the high school.

Fire Prevention and Civil Defense Go Hand in Hand

Fire prevention is an important part of civil defense. If an enemy attacks this country, his bombs, whether they be atomic, high explosive, or incendiary, will cause more damage by fire than they will by blast. Hence, anything done to make it hard for fires to start is a step towards preparing our community to protect itself if war comes.

The majority of all fires start in attics, basements, or stored odds and ends that accumulate around the house. Closets, attics, and cellars are the main source of home fires, and plain ordinary good housekeeping is a strong line of defense against them.

Clean out your storage places. You will be surprised at how many burnable odds and ends are really useless to you. Don't let them make your home a fire hazard. Get rid of them. If local welfare agencies can't use them, call the junk man.

Don't stop when you've cleared out the inside of your house. Go after rubbish in your back yard, in alleys and in vacant lots near your home. Collect the rubbish and burn it. Don't leave it around to burn if an enemy bombs your city. Be sure to burn rubbish in metal containers.

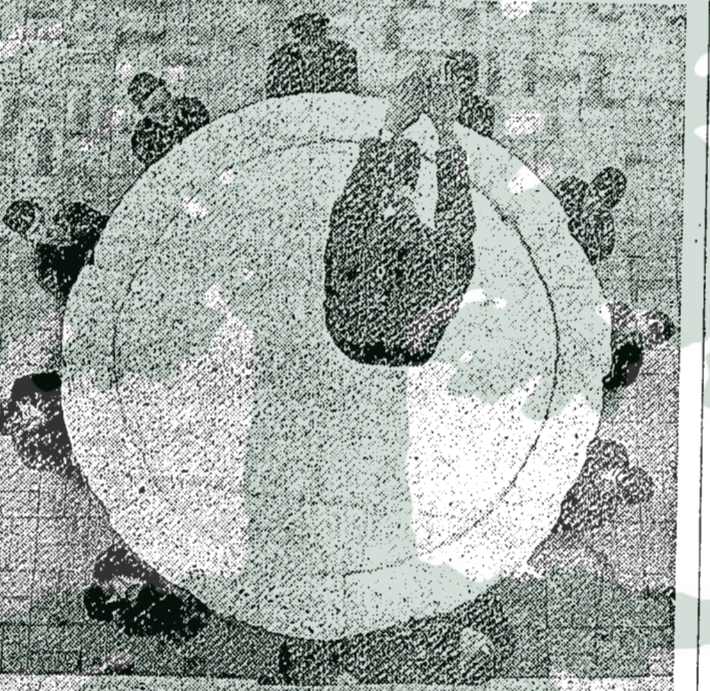

Take a look at your electrical system. Buy new plugs and cords if you are worn. Get advice from an electrician if your fuses blow frequently. They may be dangerously overloaded. His advice may prevent a bad fire.

Every winter costly fires are started by faulty furnaces, stoves, and other heating plants. Some result from too much soot in chimneys. Others are caused by rusted or cracked pipes and fittings. Look over your heating system now. If your chimney needs it, clean it out. If the furnace pipes and connections are cracked and rusted, replace them.

Teach your family not to put magazines, papers, or clothing on radiators or near open flames. Don't hang flimsy curtains near your kitchen stove. Don't allow lamp shades to come in contact with things don't have to touch flames to burn. They will catch fire simply because they are too close to the heat for too long.

Gasoline, kerosene, naphtha, and similar fluids should never be used indoors. When mixed with air, their vapors can be ignited by the spark of a light switch or an electric fan, or the tiny flame of a pilot light. Keep such fluids in tightly closed metal containers outside your home.

And remember: oil-soaked rags, especially rags that have been used to spread quick-drying liquids such as turpentine, paint thinners, and some furniture polishes, can catch fire by themselves. Oily rags should be stored in air-tight metal containers. It is best to keep them outside the house.

HEY, FELLAS, DON'T WALK AWAY—YET!—Showing perfect form, an Italian fireman drops toward the center of a round elastic mattress held tight by his comrades. The jump was part of the regular training schedule at the firemen's barracks in Rome. According to authorities, a modern Nero wouldn't have a chance in the Italian capital today.

SHORT STORY

Farm Girls

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

BEULAH and Candida had met in the New York office of Morlimer and Brown, attorneys. They became fast friends because they found something in common. That something was a desire to live on a farm in the country.

They talked about it incessantly. Then Beulah came through with the great idea.

"Let's work hard and save for a year. Then let's pool our resources, make a down payment on a small farm and—and live there!"

"But we don't know a thing about farming. We've both lived in the city all our lives. We couldn't make it pay."

"We could," Beulah said. "If we wanted to badly enough. There are books on how to do everything these days."

So for a year the two girls worked and saved. They spent evenings on end at the library reading books on small scale farming.

When spring came they drove up into the country and called on the farmers who had offered their homes for sale. "The second place they visited proved exactly what they wanted. It was a small, white, ten-shaded house with a big barn, a henery containing a flock of ten birds, a cow, a horse, a pig and several cultivated acres.

It was a swell idea. Best of all, they made a profit. The enterprise would likely have developed into something lasting, had it not been for Barnaby Xerxes.

He was a radio singer suffering from a nervous breakdown. He had come to Hillside to recuperate. Beulah met him one day on a deserted section of country road. He was walking and she gave him a lift back to town in the delivery truck.

BEULAH was thrilled. During the days that followed she hated going off evenings and leaving Candida home alone, but, obviously, Barnaby and she couldn't take the other girl everywhere with them.

Beulah was wondering how, when Barnaby proposed marriage and she accepted him, she was going to break the news to Candida.

Two nights later Beulah delivered a half dozen fowl to the village church for its semi-annual supper, and was returning home earlier than she was expected. Lights were on in the front room and through the window she saw Barnaby holding Candida in his arms, kissing her.

Beulah was furious. She stormed into the house. Candida tried to be calm and explain that she and Barnaby had loved each other all along. They hadn't had the courage to tell Beulah.

"You—you vivent!" Beulah shrieked.

A week passed. The girls went about their duties without speaking.

"But we don't know anything about farming," Candida said. "We've both lived in the city all our lives."

Both knew that sooner or later they would have to come to some agreement about the farm.

So in the end Beulah made arrangements with Lawyer Stearns and one evening the girls set out in the delivery truck for his law office to write the final chapter in their adventure.

They were silent on the drive to town. Even when the car lights went out for no explainable reason neither of them said anything. Silently Beulah got out, lifted the hood, discovered a fuse was blown, and having no spare, tried to produce a makeshift from a halpkin. It began to leak as though there was nothing to do but continue on foot, when suddenly the connection was made and the lights flared up.

In the glare of the headlights a man and a woman, evidently having come up in the darkness without knowing of the truck's presence, were standing in close embrace.

The man was Barnaby Xerxes. Nobody said anything for a moment; then Barnaby turned and began walking swiftly away. The girl followed him.

Beulah got into the truck. She started the motor. She looked at Candida. Candida looked at her.

"Oh, shucks!" said Beulah presently. "let's go back and milk the cow and call it a day."

"Oh, let's!" cried Candida.

Ingham County League Cagers Will Start Firing Friday

November 29, 1951

THE INGHAM COUNTY NEWS

Section 3

Ingham County league basketball gets off to a flying start Friday night. The Ramblers, last year's champion, will take on the Williamstons on the Ramblers floor. Haslett, the other co-champion will open the season against the Pinn's Aggies at Danville, Stockbridge will tangle with Pincetney in a non-league contest. Okemos will start play at Leslie, and Fowlerville will take on Penton.

Tuesday night Leslie will entertain Mason and Haslett will journey over to Bath.

Holt looks like the team to beat again this year. The Ramblers have a lot of good men back from last year's team and also have a lot of talent coming up from a powerful reserve squad.

Haslett lost its first five men from the high-scoring starters of last year but still are in good shape. Jim Howe, Rod Wilson and Don Gillette saw plenty of action as reserves last year and should come up with good ball this year. Plus the three veterans, Coach Olin Dunckel has some reserve giants on the varsity for the first time. Bill Haskins is counted on to hold down the center job. He is 6 foot, five inches tall. Along with Haskins, Fred Schindley, Darwin Hart and Car Brooks give the Lakers four men over the six-foot mark.

Other men slated for action are Ken Mitchell, John Metro and Herb Hagenbuch.

Williamston is looking for a better season than the one the Hornets went through last year. The rest of the county league ran over the Hornets for victory after victory. Williamston ended the year with a record of only two victories and 13 big losses.

Coach Bob Baker has some veteran talent on hand this year. The Hornets will have good team height, too. Glen Lounsbury, will be at center with Jim Doolney and Jim Reese at forwards. Wes Exley and Wayne Sobers will get the not at guard.

Other Hornets who will see plenty of action before the season is over are Jim Eckman, Bill Snyder, Roland Anderson, Chuck Miller and Bob Tyler.

John McCarger faces a tough season at Leslie. The Bulldogs have only two veterans back. Dick Hecksel will probably be better than ever and lots of help is expected from Bill James.

Other members fighting for starting jobs are Monte Spaulding, Terry McFarland, Howard Howe, Bob Klingler, Forrest Wingert, Dick Price, Gary James, Robert Farley and Chuck Farley and Chuck Young.

Okemos is on the way back up the ladder this year after several dark seasons and prospects are a little brighter over at Danville.

Fowlerville has another giant Butler, to replace big Tom Berger, one of the league's top scorers for two years. Jim is just as tall as his big brother and should develop into quite a player. The rest of the Fowlerville squad is rated slightly better than last year.

Cyrano de Bergerac Will Play at Fox

Tyrone Power and Susan Hayward, just about the most popular movie starring duo, head the cast of the western suspense drama, "Rawhide," which plays Saturday at the Fox Theatre. The supporting cast includes Hugh Marlowe, Dean Jagger, Edgar Buchanan and Jack Palance.

"Rawhide" purports to take a new twist on western drama fiction, relating the story of a young man left by circumstances to defend a lonely frontier station of the Overland Mail back in the 1880's. His only company is a beautiful young woman with her orphaned niece, and his enemy, a hard of outline led by a crazed murderer. This desperate situation in which the conflict is viewed within the miniature world of the frontier outpost, of Rawhide, is enacted by Power, Miss Hayward, Hugh Marlowe as the killer and Jack Palance as a maddened henchman.

scrutiny of the sharp eye of the camera. The final product was arrived at after an expenditure of $5,000.

No expense was spared by the producer in re-creating the Paris of Cyrano's day. Director Michael Gordon worked on eight vast sets which, broken down into units, served as 36 distinct backgrounds.

Fishing Fury
Wayne Morris and the film company making his latest starring picture for Monogram were all at sea during production of the film. The romantic drama, "Yellow Fin," is a story of one of the boats of the great Southern California tuna fishing fleet.

"Yellow Fin" will appear at the Fox theatre Thursday and Friday, with Adrian Booth co-starring with Wayne Morris and Gloria Henry heading the supporting cast in the romantic lead.

In the story Morris and his father, played by Dan O'Flynn, are the owners of the tuna fishing vessel which undergoes a series of profitless trips and accidents, in one of which the father is badly injured. Morris, convinced that the craft is jinxed, announces his determination to sell it. How eventually he is dissuaded and his father brought to recovery, and how he fits one woman who is pursuing him and gains the love of another, is the general thread of the story.

Plans Completed for Holiday Cage Tourney

The Christmas holidays is usually a dull period for high school basketball. There will be plenty of action this year though.

The fourth annual Greater Lansing holiday basketball tournament will be run off at the Boy's Vocational school field house December 26, 27 and 28.

Eight teams have entered the race for the greater Lansing title. St. Mary's, Resurrection, Boys Vocational and Everett will represent the Lansing suburbs. Grand Ledge, Okemos, Sunfield and DeWitt will also take part.

Everett has won the tournament every year so far.

Charles Sweeney, Everett coach, is in charge of the tourney.

Capital Circuit Is Ready to Start

Don Carey, Mason high school basketball coach, has one more week in which to sharpen the teeth of the Mason Bulldogs. Mason will swing into action over at Leslie in a non-circuit contest Tuesday night.

The rest of the Capital Circuit will get the jump on Mason. On the Friday cage card Charlotte will entertain Hastings. Everett will play at Ionia. Hillsdale will be at Eaton Rapids and Grand Ledge will start out at St. Johns. All are non-circuit games.

On Tuesday Howell will play Fowlerville on the Highlander court. No other Capital Circuit teams have games scheduled for Tuesday other than Howell and Mason.

The following Friday the Capital Circuit teams will get down to the long chase for the cage crown. Mason and Everett will square off in the game that should be a long way toward determining the strongest team of the conference.

Everett has a good team back this year. Martin Maurer and Gerry Bentley are regulars back for action and Tom Moon, Art Smith and George Price are last year's varsity reserves who will probably round out the Viking starters.

Other team members are John Terberg, Paul Powers, Melvin Barlow, Ron Wilson and Bruce Brooks.

Mason has gone through two scrimmage sessions with area schools this last week. The Bulldogs worked out against Danville on the Mason floor and then Friday took on the Trojans over at East Lansing. Mason's starting lineup for the first game against Leslie will probably have Bob Jewett at center, Doug Aldenmier and Jim Roggow at forwards and Chuck Willis and Herb Hovey at the guards.

Lou Lori, the coach of the Mason reserve team, has his hands full polishing up the reserve team. Those players set for plenty of action this year are Danny Hancock, giant center, Bob Scofield, midleg guard, Danny Menovske, Art Wirek, Bruce Collins, Garth Disenroth, Jody Roe, Stan Stolz, Chuck Merindorf and Mansil Raymond.

The reserves will play a full 16-game schedule.

Mason's football banquet was bigger and better than ever. The testimonial dinner was held Monday night at the Legion Memorial building. Coach Bill Kelly of the Central Michigan Chippewas was the main speaker. He brought along pictures of the Central Michigan homecoming game.

Coach Lou Lori presented the team with the trophy the Bulldogs won as co-champions of the Capital Circuit conference. Howell won the other half of the crown. Lori also handed out monograms to 17 men on the championship team.

Those earning a letter this year were Bob Thomas, Bill Wasper, Don Lyon, Jim Heathman, Lyle Snider, Lyle Newman, Bob Jewett, Jim Blauvelt, Dale Burgess, Phil Parisian, Jim Roggow, Norm Osburn, Dick Laxton, Bob Scofield, Ralph Ellison, Aaron Hyde and Jon Davis.

Out of the seventeen men six of them, Thomas, Wasper, Parisian, Snider, Newman and Roggow, will be lost for next year.

Lori also announced the balloting of the team for the captain and most valuable player awards. Phil Parisian was the man the team picked for captain and Bob Thomas received the nomination

MASON COULD USE SMITH
Mason basketball coaches have a right to grieve a little bit. Jim Smith, who played on the reserve team for Mason as a freshman four years ago has set what is thought to be a Michigan high school scoring record at Ellsworth up near Traverse City. Smith dumped in 35 baskets in the first game of the season for a grand total of 70 points. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, former Danville teacher and now principal at Ellsworth.

Easy Living

The rollicking story of a bread-winning secretary with a yen for a rich husband, and a playboy radio announcer who inherits two million dollars, "A Millionaire For Christy" comes to the Fox theatre Sunday and Monday.

With the veteran film favorite Fred MacMurray in the role of the playboy, the comedy introduces lovely Eleanor Parker, an Academy Award candidate this year for her performance in "Caged," in a comedy role that has critics comparing her with the late Carole Lombard.

Cyrano de Bergerac

For the first time at popular prices, a continuation performance of "Cyrano de Bergerac," will come to the Fox Tuesday and Wednesday through United Artists release, with Jose Ferrer—the academy award winner—portraying the title role of the gallant, poet-swordsman-philosopher who made his name in 17th century France. Kramer used the famous Brian Hooker translation of Edmond Rostand's play.

A beautiful newcomer to the screen, Mala Powers, was chosen for the role of Cyrano's much-beloved Roxane. Ralph Clanton, who hails from the Broadway stage, essays the important role of the Comte De Guiche, Cyrano's lifelong enemy. Lloyd Corrigan, famous Hollywood director-writer-actor, drew the role of the baker-poet, and Morris Carnovsky plays his faithful friend, Le Bret. Virginia Farmer, who played the important role of the nurse in "The Men," plays Roxane's diuenna in "Cyrano," and William Prince was cast as Christian.

Another piece of meticulous casting by Mr. Kramer and his permanent staff, which includes Associate Producer George Glass, Associate Director Gordon and writer Carl Foreman, was the selection of the proper nose for Ferrer to wear in his screen portrayal of "Cyrano," as the unusual size of this nose is the very essence of the character. As Cyrano himself says, when chafed: "Know that I glory in this nose of mine, for a great nose indicates a great man... genial, courteous, intellectual, virile, courageous..."

A team of artists and makeup men labored for weeks to design and construct a nose that would stand up to stress, strain and the

Not a Sparrow Falleth

There might have been a time back in horse and buggy days when bounties on sparrows appeared justified. Once there might have been an apparent need for bounties on rats.

In spite of bounties, the sparrow population continued increasing until the automobile age. Then the decline was rapid. Sparrows are no longer a nuisance. The only nuisance is that of fooling with bounties, the nuisance of a few boys shooting a few birds and taking them to city and township clerks to be counted and then buried.

Once the rat population was controlled by the Pied Piper or the old woman with a carving knife, or maybe that was just for mice. But with rat poisons on the market today there is no need for bounty payments. In fact, to get enough rats to trap for bounties trappers must have hundreds more. Only the unwary rat is trapped. The others escape. Again the rat nuisance is in the taking of rat tails to township and city clerks for counting and disposal.

So far this year Ingham county has paid out $355.60 for dead rats and $81.74 for sparrows. In 1950 the total on rats and sparrows was $580.74; in 1949 it was $382.84. Those are small sums. They are so small they indicate how ineffective the bounty system is. It is merely a nuisance.

A fraction of even that small amount of money invested in rat poison would do far more toward rat control than bounties; and there is no need to shoot or poison sparrows. They're gone because the horses have gone.

The bounty payments are a nuisance. They should be abandoned.

The Government Will Provide

This theory that the government will provide has seeped into just about every line of endeavor.

There is a great need for scrap metal. The best source of supply outside of heavy industry is on the farm.

The Ingham County News has been running advertising for junk dealers. They make a handsome profit off the scrap metal. But they are not going to pay for their advertising anymore. In fact, they aren't going to advertise.

"We have been asked to lay off advertising for farm junk," a Lansing dealer said, "because the government is going to spend either one or two million dollars on a junk program which will get this farm junk into our yards. That's the way they want to do it."

Sure, that's the way "they" want to do it.

The government will provide.

Life at Hard Labor

There isn't a newspaper reporter, or scarcely a newspaper reader, in Michigan who doesn't know that solitary confinement and hard-labor have no place in Michigan's prison system.

Yet every time sentence is passed on the perpetrator of some brutal crime there appear newspaper screams about life sentences in solitary confinement and at hard labor.

Here's what Clint Wilkinson sobbed in the Detroit Free Press last Friday about the slayers of the Ann Arbor nurse: "William Morey III and Jacob Max Pell, both 18 and both of Ypsilanti, were sentenced to Jackson prison for the rest of their lives at hard labor in solitary confinement. There can be no parole."

Yes, the two slayers were sentenced to life imprisonment. A life sentence in Michigan means about 16 or 17 years. There will be no solitary confinement except for infractions of prison rules. There will be no hard labor. As lifers the two can not be paroled but, as has happened in hundreds of other cases, their sentences can be commuted and then they can be paroled.

Three years ago the prison gates were opened for James Shannon. He was doing a life term for murder. He and a woman poisoned a 12-year-old boy so they could collect on a $3,000 life insurance policy. A governor commuted Shannon's life term and he was paroled. Two weeks ago he was taken back to prison after conviction on a disgusting charge here in Ingham county.

The next time you see "solitary confinement at hard labor without hope of parole" pity the ignorance of the newspaperman who wrote it or the staff which let it get into print.

The Other Senator Acts

With the reams of publicity being ground out for Senator Blair Moody, maybe a line or two should be devoted to Michigan's other senator.

Senator Homer Ferguson learned of the long delay in the naturalization case of Mrs. Herman Kurschner of Leslie. Three years ago, after carrying up an appeal, Herman Kurschner, the husband, won his American citizenship. The case of the wife dragged. For a year the justice department never found the time to investigate the loyalty of the wife. The senator became interested. He asked that a report on her status be made. It was. A few weeks ago she, too, became an American citizen.

No, a senator shouldn't be sent to Washington to do odd jobs. But to a man and woman anxious to become American citizens the most important thing is that citizenship. That's the way Senator Ferguson saw it. That's why he acted.

Political Campaigning Starts Early

By Vernon J. Brown

At church Sunday morning the minister was pointing to what he believes is the unseemly haste in setting the scene for the Christmas selling season. To the preacher, there appears to be too much Santa Claus business and not enough about the lowly birth in the manger at Bethlehem and the purpose of the life there began.

There is absolutely no connection between Christmas and politics and campaigns and election issues but after church as I was reading the Sunday papers, I was struck with a certain parallel between the two far remote fields of thought.

Election 11 Months Away
More than 11 months will elapse between this day and the day the voters of America will be called upon to express themselves at the polls in the general elections of 1952. This early there is never a radio or TV broadcast heard that the commentator does not include something of national political significance.

Here in Michigan few issues of the daily or the weekly newspapers appear that do not carry a story or article prepared by some wiseacre giving that individual's views on what will be the issues next summer and what the public is likely to think or be led to believe. Neither do the national magazines overlook the field of politics in their contributions to the reader's mental fodder.

So last Sunday I took time to read carefully what appeared in a single Detroit daily and to carefully measure it. And to wonder how it is assayed by the average voter. Frankly I have a feeling that the average voter pays little attention to all this but I tried my best to believe some here and there might read and listen and ponder. How will he like the dishes prepared for him? That was what I tried to figure out.

The Governor's Wealth
First there was a double column spread under the byline of one of Michigan's most astute and perhaps one of the most read political writers. This had to do with how much money our governor G. Mennen Williams has or may have as the result of some of his forebears being smart enough to discover and develop and market a toilet powder and some soap. Just what this has to do with the fitness of any man to be a governor is quite beyond the pale of my intellect.

I do have to admit however that this well known political writer was not the first to raise the question. That was done in a course of an exchange of compliments between the governor and one of his chief opponents, himself the scion of a wealthy family whose forebears were equally wise when they invested in the virgin forests of their day. The occasion was one of the kettle calling the pot black and deserves little more than a passing paragraph.

Fund-Raising Dinners
My next stop as I wandered down the back alleys of partisan politics was at a story of a forthcoming Democratic dinner where the faithful will fork out $70 apiece for a plateful, or less than full, of food, probably nondescript if not actually unpalatable. At any rate, reference was made to a recent Taft dinner for which his followers dug down for $100 a plate to build a campaign fund for the promotion of Taft for president.

Reference was also therein made to certain complimentary remarks by the president on his recent brief stay in Washington. It was concerning what Truman called contributions by "special interests" to the Taft senatorial campaign funds of 1950. All this builded up to add to the political prejudices of 1951 but none of it added to the facts upon which elections ought to be won and lost—but are not.

Only A Smile Needed
So then I turned to another column written by another well known and astute Associated Press writer. Here again there were references to the comparative wealth of the two Grosse Pointe families, the Williams family versus the Alger family, and in respect to their respective social status. According to this writer, our incumbent governor, seeking election to a third term, will rely heavily on what he has done or attempted to do for Michigan. Some of his admirers claim he needs no issue except his hearty handshake and ready smile, it was reported. Be that as it may, this article enumerated a list of shortcomings of the present governor which the Republicans might use.

Among these are found such weighty matter as the wretched fund-raising social status committee hack, the parole of a laborite and the more remote (so far as the governor is concerned) matter of widespread scandals in national official circles.

Big Issues Are Buried
From this I turned in some perturbation to other columns in the vain hope I might read something of real interest and perhaps some consequence. I found it easily. It is of great consequence. It has to do with the decision of a Michigan Public Service Commission on an appeal from the Michigan Bell Telephone company for an increase in rates. The altered political significance pointed to, this time under another by-line by another well-known capital correspondent, lies in the fact that (1) the petition is sternly denied and (2) it is done well ahead of election so that the governor can use it as campaign material.

Facts not mentioned by the writer were: (1) no hearing on merits of the petition has ever been held; and (2) the two members of the commission joining in the decision were appointed by the present governor solely on the basis of their walk-in rates. They're knocking against all utility corporations. I hold no brief for higher rates, but commissions such as Michigan's PSC are intended to be quasi-judicial bodies and are expected to base their decisions on evidence, not prejudice. In the face of the foregoing and as my contribution to what might constitute worthy campaign material, I now crave indulgence while I submit the following for 1952 campaigning:

National Campaign Issues
(1) The recent vapid remark of President Truman, intended to reassure the public concerning the flood of corruption now being unearthed among federal employees. The president declared 95 per cent of all government employees are honest. If that be true, then that means that of the 2,500,000 people now on federal payrolls about 225,000 can be counted as crooks. Credit men in business insist only about one-tenth of one per cent of the general public cannot be trusted and students of corrupt city administrations state that one-tenth of the population make up the racketeering gangs. This then all spells out to the fact that if the president is right then government payrolls are at least 10 times as dishonest as the worst of our general run of citizens.

(2) Again keeping to the national levels, I would keep talking about the most recent figures compiled by actuaries in the employ of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Here I learn that since July 1, 1945, and including November 10, 1951, the Truman administration has collected in taxes from the people of the United States slightly more than eight billion dollars more than all the presidents from George Washington to and including Franklin Delano Roosevelt dared ask the people to pay. I would further point out that since last July 1 this year, the Truman government has spent so much money that if taken in equal amounts from each family it would have amounted to a drain of $464 from each household in these United States. That gets the otherwise stupefying totals.

(3) I would go still further and tell the people that notwithstanding that stupendous tax total, this is not by any means the end. The government now owes in public debt a staggering $258 billion dollars and that too, if split evenly among the families of the USA, would put a mortgage of almost $4,000 against every family in America.

Who cares how much money the Williams family has or may get? Whatever it may amount to, no one has ever accused the present governor of having earned any of it. The same goes for the Alger fortunes. Like the Williams family, the Alger are decent people and among them are found some pretty high class folks who in their day made fine contributions to the development of Michigan and this nation. What counts is what can be expected of the individual who seeks our support and our votes. What has he or she done? For what does he stand? What sort of people does he train with? Who are his supporters and what do they want?

These ought to be the issues the people are asked to decide.

Down by the SYCAMORE

Subversive activity is a peril only because of subversive inactivity.

Vernon Smith, pastor of the Holt Presbyterian church, is out delivering a warning on subversive inactivity. He credits a Baptist preacher with the inspiration for the thought. I credit Brother Smith for the inspiration to deliver the message. Because there's no market for undelivered telegrams or undelivered letters or undelivered messages of any kind. And especially with a speech or a sermon, delivery counts a lot.

What good is a song unless someone listens? What good is a picture unless someone looks? What good is a speech unless someone hears? And acts?

That's where Brother Smith comes in with his speech on subversive inactivity. He points out that subversive inactivity is far more deadly to the church than subversive activity. The church is not harmed by its few avowed enemies. It's harmed by the inactivity of men and women who call themselves Christians but don't do anything about it. Sure, they want to live in a town with churches, and if there isn't anything else planned, they may send their youngsters to Sunday school occasionally. But they won't work in the church or they won't contribute much. The Holt preacher pointed out. The inactivity is subversive.

In community affairs subversive activity is also deadly. Only 45 or 50 turn out for annual school elections. City elections are almost by default. Even by whipping up about half of us turn out every four years for presidential elections. A handful, maybe not more than 200 subversives have wormed their way into high governmental posts. They couldn't get anywhere, they wouldn't have a chance, if it were not for the millions of men and women guilty of subversive inactivity.

That's what is wrong with us, all the way from the township and school district level on up through national affairs.

Poor old Harry. Even such a fair-minded man as Vernon J. Brown is hammering Harry this week for spending more money in the last six years than was spent altogether by the federal government in all previous administrations from 1789 through June 30, 1945, from Washington to and including FDR.

Who authorized the president to spend that money? We did by our subversive inactivity. Who told our senators and congressmen to let the president go ahead with his spending? We did, by our subversive inactivity.

Brother Smith has a potent topic. And nobody in Holt ever accused him of being inactive.

Yes, Vernon Smith is delivering his address on subversive inactivity. Somewhere in Maine or Connecticut is a half-million of eager jell which can't be delivered because of an incorrect address. A man in Lisbon Falls, Maine, hankered for some of Cleo Swift's older jell. I got the jell and sent it, but to Beacon Falls, Maine. There isn't any Beacon Falls in Maine. There is a Beacon Falls in Connecticut. The jell has been gone two weeks and I don't know where it is.

Finder oil is like finding Mrs. Jones. Anyone can find out where Mrs. Jones lives. But you have to go to the door and knock to learn whether she is home.

That's why there is another crew of oil prospectors cruising around Ingham and adjoining counties. They know where Mrs. Jones lives. They're knocking again to see whether they can find her home.

If operators gave up on their first hole there would be no oil wells in Texas or California, or in Iran or Arabia.

Eighteen Mason men stood on Mrs. Jones' porch when the drillers knuckled in 1937. That fact was mentioned last week and four people have demanded the name to add to their sucker list. Six of the 18 have died. They were Floyd W. Harkness, Walter S. Root, George H. McArthur, James Sevine, W. G. Grow and Leo L. Kelly. The 12 still available for right touches are Gus Kean, Reno R. Root, Dr. D. B. Lethbridge, L. R. White, E. A. Densmore, J. B. Dean, C. H. Hall, D. Lee Ware, W. O. Hall, Jim Dart and Vernon J. Brown and, I must confess, his second son.

When the robins return next spring to the wood in which the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert DesChamps nestles in Dansville road, they'll chirp even more joyously. Because the DesChamps so loved the robins they named their daughter Robin Lynn. She was born Thanksgiving Day in Lansing—at the Sparrow hospital.

Some of the non-fiction, such as THE MAGNIFICENT CENTURY, by Thomas B. Costain, is as thoroughly enjoyable as any novel. This is the second of his series called THE PAGEANT OF ENGLAND, in which Costain is rewriting history in a readable, accurate and yet thoroughly interesting manner. It is history at its best; history written by an author who combines love of his subject matter with an understanding of the customarily overlooked fact that real events make the most fascinating tale of all. It is possible for the average reader to get more understanding of early English history from THE MAGNIFICENT CENTURY and its predecessor, THE CONQUERORS, than from most other sources.

This volume picks up England after the Magna Carta, and covers the 13th century beginning with the accession of Henry III to the comier service and air rescue missions.

Twenty Models of Other Makes of Cars Cost More!

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

There are literally hundreds of thousands of people who should be intensely interested in what we are writing here.

They are the people who paid more for their cars than a Cadillac costs—and still didn't get a Cadillac.

You see—there are five manufacturers of motor cars who produce a total of twenty models which actually cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac. And hundreds of thousands of people have taken title to these higher-priced models.

Surely, a large percentage of these owners did not understand how comparatively little a Cadillac can cost. They assumed that a Cadillac must cost more —because of its reputation. So they paid for a Cadillac—and still failed to get the things a Cadillac provides.

They failed to get the irresistible performance of its great master high-compression engine . . . so smooth and quiet that the car seems almost to move by automatic propulsion.

They failed to get the soft, gliding Cadillac ride that makes every road a better road, and makes the longest journey a day of pleasure and relaxation.

They failed, of course, to get the wonderful prestige which marks the owner of the Cadillac car, throughout the civilized world, as a man distinctly apart.

And they failed to get the priceless personal satisfaction of owning the "Standard of the World"—the car which, for fifty years, has been built to the highest standards it is practical to attain.

Surely, they won't want to miss all this again. It's a lot to lose—especially when it costs no more to have it.

If we already have your order for a Cadillac—please be assured that you have made a wise decision—and stand firm until your car is ready for delivery.

But if we don't have your order—better come in and see us today. We are certain you don't want to pay the price of a Cadillac—and still not get one!

Colored Lights Helps Cullers in Cherry Canneries

Use of colored lights to detect small but important defects in fruits and vegetables to be processed in a new technique developed in the agricultural engineering department of Michigan State college.

Culling work in cherries and many other fruits and vegetables presents two problems for picking house workers. First, the fruit must be viewed on all sides by the inspectors. Second, a type of light must be used that will readily reveal defects in the fruit.

G. M. Peterson, former graduate assistant in agricultural engineering, and W. M. Carleton, research agricultural engineer at the Michigan agricultural experiment station, studied the use of lights in culling cherries. Preliminary work was done at Michigan State college and field work done in 12 Michigan processing plants which cooperated in checking lights.

Opinions of experienced sorters were sought in the tests. Efficiency of sorters working under colored lights was checked and a comparison made with the efficiency of sorters under existing white fluorescent lights.

Blue fluorescent lights increased the ability of sorters to see defects, particularly brown spots which seemed the same as in natural daylight. Efficiency under blue lights increased 10 to 30 per cent over sorters working under white lights.

Use of red fluorescent light indicated an increased average sorting efficiency of 64 per cent over white fluorescent light. Red light increased ability of the sorter to spot cul cherries.

Color of the background on which cherries rest is important, the researchers stress.

SATURDAY'S HERO—It's never been made clear whether the "Saturday bath" is a gag or a custom in this country. The Saturday football season, here, an unidentified grader of Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., visits the water bucket—not for a drink, but to clean the mud off his hands—during a game with Lehigh College. The game's action was understandably slow, Lehigh finally coming out a 3-2 victory.

Rate of Growth Varies Widely in Youngsters

People should not expect all children of the same age to reach the same level of growth, Prof. Wilford C. Olson of the University of Michigan school of education said.

Parents and teachers need to understand that the child's level and rate of growth are just as important as his individuality when it comes to accounting for the different ways in which he will measure up to their expectations.

Recent extensive case studies carried on at the university by Professor Olson and Prof. Byron Higgins cast light on the growth patterns of children along with their social relations and emotional life.

Some children meet the expectations of their parents and teachers easily while others of the same age become confused, worried, successful, disturbed and resentful, the educator said. He pointed out that this dilemma is not always well understood by parents and sometimes is not allowed for by teachers.

Professor Olson emphasized that a child's emotions and social adjustments have important relationships to his rate and pattern of growth. In general, Professor Olson stated that the slow-growing child seems to receive a greater impact of things which are detrimental to his social and emotional state. This arises from the conflicts between what he can give and what is expected from him by those about him. The process starts very early with the child before he ever comes to school, and is often rubbed in further by parents who wisely emphasize the differences among children, Olson declared.

He urged that parents and teachers should have tolerance for differences and should be willing to take each child at the stage of development he has arrived at and help him grow in a direction which is socially desirable.

"Assuming that the best guarantee of a normal maturity will be a normal immaturity," he said, "there should be freedom throughout from expecting too much too soon."

Here's what Michigan doctors prescribe to ease the cost of illness!

They prescribe BLUE CROSS - BLUE SHIELD to protect your family against the costs of hospital and surgical care! These health-care plans, developed by Michigan hospitals and doctors, are known, respected and welcomed in every part of Michigan! NEARLY 2 1/2 MILLION MEMBERS MEANS GREATER BENEFITS — MORE SECURITY!

The last to recover from an accident or illness in your family is always your pocketbook! That's why it, too, deserves expert medical help. That's why it gets this kind of help from Michigan hospitals and doctors who pooled their intimate knowledge of your problems to set up and direct the BLUE CROSS - BLUE SHIELD health-care plans.

All this simply means that BLUE CROSS - BLUE SHIELD are known and accepted in every part of Michigan. A great advantage in times of emergency... a great advantage at any time because it means you can get into and out of a hospital without annoying red tape, without the need for filing any claims. BLUE CROSS - BLUE SHIELD pay hospital and doctor directly.

Benefits as high as $8,058 have been provided!

BLUE CROSS - BLUE SHIELD have provided hospital and surgical benefits totalling as much as $8,058 in a single hospital stay. There are hundreds of cases on record in which benefits have amounted to $2,000 or more.

MICHIGAN BLUE CROSS - BLUE SHIELD have paid out more than 211 million dollars in health-care benefits in the past twelve years. This fact alone is striking evidence of the service rendered by these great plans.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield have millions of friends!

BLUE CROSS - BLUE SHIELD also offer advantages that money alone cannot buy. For one thing, they are Michigan Hospitals' and Doctors' own health-care plans. And there are over 2,400,000 BLUE CROSS - BLUE SHIELD members in the State of Michigan.

Here's What These Plans Do!

Blue Cross Comprehensive Group Hospital Plan covers up to 120 days of hospital care in ward or semi-private room, according to the service for which you enroll. Unlike plans that pay fixed amounts for hospital care, this plan covers hospital bills IN FULL for a wide range of certificate benefits when you are admitted to a Blue Cross participating hospital. No cash limit for drugs, for operating room, for anesthesia, and for many other hospital services.

Blue Shield Medical-Surgical Plan pays generous stated amounts to your doctor for more than 480 medical-surgical procedures. And it pays towards your doctor's visits to the hospital in non-surgical cases.

Chances are 1 out of 4 that your family will be faced with hospital and medical bills this coming year. And with today's hospital and surgical bills often running into thousands of dollars, it's easy to see how the protection these plans provide is worth many times the little you pay.

MSC Experts Call the Card on Meat Prices for 1952

Demand for meat will stay high next year, according to the Michigan Farm Economists bulletin. However, meat supplies will be greater and these larger supplies will retard most of the upward pressure on meat prices.

Government controls are expected to continue on livestock and meat prices. Chances are good (4 in 5) that price increases will be granted the livestock and meat industry during the next year.

There will be plenty of feed grains and roughage for livestock production in 1952. Feed grain stocks will be reduced again and the prices of these grains can be expected to increase slightly.

BEEF CATTLE—Prices of feeder cattle are high and are expected to remain high. Prospects for profits from prices margins in 1952 are very dim. Profits will be made on pounds of grain; so, produce pounds efficiently.

Cattle numbers are at an all-time high and are expected to increase more in the next year, but prices appear to be more favorable for cattle than for either hogs or sheep.

Lower grade slaughter cattle prices under O. P. S. ceilings are higher relatively than the prices of the top grades. Because of this, the large lower grade cattle appear to be good bets for feeding. However, high quality calves will return a profit if they are fed good quality roughage before being placed on grain feed.

With price ceilings in force, buyers tend to pay the same price for all cattle in one grade. Feed from the bottom of a grade rather than the top—but be sure to make the grade.

HOGS—Lower profits are ahead for Michigan hog producers. The hog-corn ration in Michigan for 1951 will average slightly under 13 to 1. A lower ration can be expected in 1952, about 12 to 1.

With hog prices becoming less favorable due to increased supplies and a demand for pork which has not increased as much as the demand for beef, efficient production will be necessary. Try to save an extra pig per litter at farrowing time instead of keeping extra sows. Obtain economical gains.

Peak prices for hogs can be expected in February and in August. Plan to send hogs to market during these months if top prices are the aim.

Lard prices can be expected to fall in 1952 unless a larger war develops. The output of fats and oils in 1952 will be much greater than in 1951, and a larger supply depresses lard prices.

With lard prices lower the price differential between light and heavy butcher hogs will widen. Watch the markets and feed for the biggest profit.

SHEEP—Sheep producers are building up their flocks. The lamb crop in 1951 was larger than in previous years, but lamb and mutton production in 1951 will be about the same as last year. Slaughter in 1952 should be a little larger.

High wool prices made all sheep prices good in 1951. Wool prices have fallen and are not expected to reach 1951 levels in 1952. However, production of lambs and wool should be profitable during the next year.

Profits from lamb feeding will not be as large next year. Feed grain prices will be higher and pelts will be lower. Lamb and mutton prices are expected to remain about the same in 1952.

BROILERS AND FRYERS—Prices of broilers and fryers will average about the same in 1952 as in 1951. Wholesale prices in Detroit for live broilers and fryers will generally range between 30 and 35 cents a pound. The effects of anticipated increases in commercial broiler production will be overcome by an increased demand resulting from relatively high prices of red meats and improved marketing methods for handling poultry meat.

TURKEYS—The largest turkey crop on record is indicated for 1951. The effect of the large supply in 1951 will for the most part be counteracted by a greater demand for turkey. Although there has been some discussion regarding ceiling prices on turkeys, it is not likely that producer prices for the 1951 crop will go above the level at which ceilings can be imposed. Turkey prices in the fall of 1952 are expected to be higher than this fall, although comparable increases in feed costs are also likely.

DAIRY COWS—In Michigan, the comparative advantage of dairying over other enterprises on the majority of farms still is so great it is not recommended that dairymen switch to other enterprises. The beef, hog, and cash grain areas further west have more reason to shift from dairying than does Michigan. Milk egg numbers in the state in 1952 will likely remain at the 1951 level.

Net income from dairying in the next few years will increase from present levels but probably will not increase as much as net income from many alternative enterprises. Dairymen over the nation as a whole may not maintain present numbers of milk cows. All of the increase in cattle numbers in recent years has been in beef.

The relationship of milk prices to feed prices (milk-feed ratio) will be approximately the same as in 1951. The feed concentrate supply will be only slightly less per animal unit than in the past year. The hay supply will be ample, though much of it is not of very high quality. Dairymen with poor quality hay should buy more protein supplement.

With veal prices so high, it may pay most dairymen with large herds to veal their calves instead of selling them as deacons. It is a good time for dairymen with good breeding stock to raise heifers for sale.

High wool prices made all sheep prices good in 1951. Wool prices have fallen and are not expected to reach 1951 levels in 1952. However, production of lambs and wool should be profitable during the next year.

Profits from lamb feeding will not be as large next year. Feed grain prices will be higher and pelts will be lower. Lamb and mutton prices are expected to remain about the same in 1952.

Hydes Buy Top Ram Lamb

Aaron and Dallas Hyde of Alaedon have added this prize Hampshire ram lamb to their flock of 69. The brothers bought the animal from Delmont Chapman at the Chapman farms at Rockwood two weeks ago. The ram placed first among ram lambs and was grand champion Hampshire ram at the state fair in Detroit last fall. It was sired by the ram lamb which placed third at the 1949 International livestock show in Chicago. Aaron is on the left in the picture with Dallas behind the prize ram.

Country & Town

By JIM BROWN

Woodlot owners ought to take in the tree management demonstration next week before they start hacking at their own timber. Elton Twork, Ingham's farm forester, knows all the tricks of beating the brush. He will tell all at the demonstration in Dr. O. K. Pauley's woods a mile east of Mason on Columbia road Tuesday. The demonstration will start at 10:00 in the morning and last until the axes get dull or Twork loses his wip.

There's more to managing a woods than grazing it, picking up an occasional piece of fire wood or picking wild flowers in the springtime, according to Twork.

Managing implies planting the right trees in the right place and harvesting the right timber. That can be learned by experience or by tree management instruction. According to Twork, it's a lot more profitable to learn by watching.

If my shoulders are rounded where they should be square and if my knuckles drag on the ground, it's only because I'm a victim of faulty tree-management. I grew up with a water bucket in each hand. The managing editor of the Brown family bought a piece of barren land (part of a worked-to-death orchard) on Higgins lake in Roscommon county back in 1932 or '33. Operation Tree started at once. We planted Norway and Scotch pines and Spruce trees. The skeptics laughed. So we planted more trees. We planted so many trees the "forest" looked like a lawn.

Each tree required two pails of water a day. Like I said, I have round shoulders.

But worse than lugging Higgins lake over to the few hundred pines is the cutting down of some of the pines because they were planted too thick. Tree-management with an eye to knowing what and how many to plant should turn out to be a good investment.

Timber values are not standardized as the price of a dozen eggs or a pound of nails. An Ingham farmer had four offers $500 apart for his timber last summer. Twork estimated the woodlot and recommended that he ought to get the highest price. He got it. Lumber is a valuable crop. Worked right, it can be a steady income year after year, according to the farm forester.

Attempting to make a steady cash crop out of well-managed woodlots is a relatively new idea. For years farm woods were considered a waste of land. They have been grazed, burned, cut—everything but managed. Twork and other conservation-minded men hope to have a few more managed woodlots in the county after the demonstration Tuesday.

New Cattle Need Consideration

Feeder cattle are like baby chicks, except that they are larger and more expensive, according to W. L. Finley, of the department of animal husbandry at Michigan State college.

He explains that feeder cattle, like baby chicks, are new tenants on the farm. Like baby chicks, getting them started off right is essential for top profits.

Before the cattle arrive, the accumulated litter and manure should be removed. Wet, muddy places should be filled or drained. Feed bins, hay racks and especially the water tank should be carefully cleaned. The tank should be re-filled with clean, fresh water. A liberal supply of clean fresh bedding and plenty of rest will help the cattle regain their vigor, he explained.

Put the cattle on their regular feeding program as rapidly as possible. For the first week give them each a pound or two of whole oats per day. Sprinkle on a small quantity of trace mineral salt, and then add a little bright, first-cutting hay. They may be moved up to a full grain ration in 14 to 21 days.

New cattle often will avoid the barn if possible. It may be a good idea to keep them in it for a few days, leaving the doors open so they can get lots of fresh air—but avoid cold, damp drafts.

Finley warned that new cattle should not be mixed with others on the farm until they have been there for 21 to 28 days. Watch for tired, sick cattle. In case of sickness, call the veterinarian at once, remove the questionable steer from the herd and encourage him to eat and drink.

More Fertilizer Will Be Used on Farms in 1952

More than 20 million tons of commercial fertilizer will be used on American farms in 1952 to produce urgently needed food, feed and fiber.

This forecast by the Fertilizer Review magazine is based on the following assumptions:

That the present Korean conflict will not spill over into China and that no new conflagrations will start.

That the pattern of distribution of fertilizer materials will not be disturbed beyond reason.

That the plant-food content of a ton of fertilizer will remain fairly stable.

That current plant construction and expansion projects, now under way, are completed on schedule.

That the nation will not be seriously handicapped by labor or transportation difficulties.

If these conditions are met, there is an excellent chance that fertilizer consumption next year will be at least five per cent greater than the 1951 estimated consumption of 19.5 million tons. This gigantic increase is in spite of a scheduled 10 per cent cut in 1952 superphosphate production.

In spite of the likely increase in total fertilizer production and consumption, it is entirely probable that estimated demand will far exceed the supply.

Nitrogen Prospects Good—Reactivation of army ordnance works will be the leading factor in increased nitrogen production in 1952. The re-opening of the Morgantown plant, one of the largest in the world, is expected and at least three private plants are under construction in the final projection stages. Probable availability of nitrogen for agricultural use, including imports, will be at least 350,000 tons greater next year than the one million tons consumed in 1950, and the estimated 1.25 million tons during the present year. Additional nitrogen will be shipped in quantity from new plants and from plants with expansion projects now nearing completion before the end of next year, thus offsetting somewhat our current nitrogen shortage.

Come Right Away!

It happened in a farming community, according to a report in a journal of veterinary medicine. A near-hysterical woman phoned the local veterinarian to tell him that her cow was suffering from severe bloat and from choke caused by a chunk of feed that had lodged in the throat. To make matters worse, the cow had swallowed a section of broomstick used in an attempt to dislodge the feed. She excitedly insisted that the veterinarian "come right away," then hung up before telling him who or where she was.

LIME AND FERTILIZER

Lime and fertilizer workers who do business in Michigan will meet together for the first time at their lime and fertilizer conference at Michigan State college, December 13 and 14. They will hear latest research results in their fields, take part in panel discussions on how they can better serve Michigan farmers and take a look at the college farms, according to Ed Longmeyer, of the college soil science department. Workers including truckers, salesmen and processors, are expected to attend the conference.

DANGER IN RINGWORM

Self-protection is urged for farmers who handle ringworm-infected cattle. In a report from Atlanta, Georgia, Dr. James H. Steele of the American board of veterinary public health says that farmers appear to be in much greater danger of getting this disease than statistics indicate. Best advice is to wear rubber gloves while handling ringworm-infected animals, being sure to wash and sterilize the gloves after use. During use, the gloves should not be allowed to come in contact with unprotected parts of the wearer's body.

MSC Plans 2 Farm Idea Conferences

Various phases of seed production in small grains, corn, potatoes and small seeds such as flowers, will be covered at the third annual two-day meeting of the Michigan Seed Producers at Michigan State college, December 11 and 12.

All persons interested in any phase of seed production of any crop are invited to attend. Producers of certified and uncertified seed, seed dealers and processors all are expected to be on hand to swap ideas and hear speakers discuss latest developments in the seed production business. One of the featured speakers will be Russell Billings, Buffalo, N. Y., who will discuss clover seed production.

The farm crops department of Michigan State college and the Michigan Crop Improvement association will sponsor the meeting. The Michigan Crop Improvement and Michigan Foundation Seed associations will hold their annual business meetings during the conference.

THIS FARMING BUSINESS
BY CARL COLLIN

Efficiency will determine farm profits. Butter prices have stayed high without government support. Lard consumption may rise this year and next.

Farm production costs this year are about 12 per cent above 1950. Next year they seem likely to go up another five per cent.

Food prices probably will be higher because of the large number of livestock being raised; current prospects are for a relatively tight feed situation later on. Both fertilizer prices and use are increasing. Farm machinery will at least continue at present high prices. Building materials, seeds and pest killers will continue high in early 1952. Farmers may buy more goods and services and pay more for them, in the opinion of USDA economists.

Rising costs these past few years have forced many farmers to be more cautious. Cut costs wherever possible. Operate the farm as efficiently as possible. The margin between costs of things farmers have to buy and what they get for the things they produce is shrinking. Efficient operation may pay well in the year ahead.

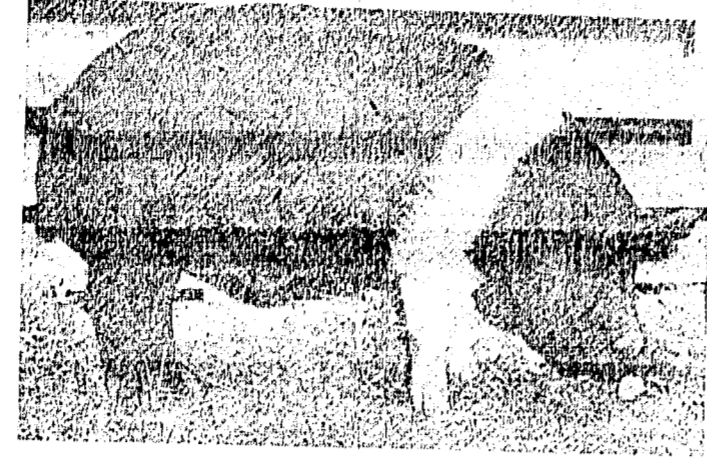

At the current rate of population increase, we will have 25 per cent more people in this country in less than 20 years. That means a need for at least 25 per cent more food.

Secretary Brannan made some interesting comments recently on probable food needs by 1975 when our population may reach 150 million people. We would need as much more milk as we are turning out now in New York, Wisconsin and Michigan. Egg production would have to be increased 25 billion. Pork demand would be 15 billion as much more as the entire pig crop of Iowa and Nebraska last year. In terms of pork, beef, veal, lamb and mutton, we would need 5.5 billion pounds more than current output.

To increase farm output in line with probable food demands in 1975 we would need another 100 million acres of land. That's roughly the combined farming land of Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio. But where would we get that much new land? Probably considerable acreage could be put into use by irrigation. Maybe some worn-out land could be rebuilt by that time. The big hope is application of science to problems of plant breeding, better care of livestock and less waste of food and feed from the animal harvested until it's used, either by consumers or on farms for livestock production.

We will use around 23.5 million Christmas trees this year. About nine million of these come from Canada. There's a big waste of pine trees each year. Most any sales lot will have trees left over after Christmas. Most are left after very poor quality and not suitable for decorating. These poorly shaped trees never should have been cut in the first place. Foresters say that with a little prun-

Mason Breeders Buy Boar Grass and Corn Differ Widely In Energy Content

With all the current emphasis on grass silage, Donald Curry, county agricultural agent, points out the difference between grass silage and legume-grass mixtures.

In short, hay crop silage is low in total digestible nutrients and is not energy giving as well as corn silage on a dry matter basis. This is because corn silage contains a large amount of grain. This difference may be largely offset by the fact that most hay crop silage has higher protein content than corn silage. Legume-grass mixtures, therefore, are needed when legume silage is fed. Protein supplement is required when hay silage is fed.

Because grass or legume silage is lower in energy than corn silage, it is not energy giving as well as corn silage on a dry matter basis. This is because corn silage contains a large amount of grain. Cows may be finicky about eating the grass mixtures at first, but it is not a matter of habit. Silage and farmers shouldn't expect grass silage to disappear from the front of the herd as fast as corn silage, Curry said.

Speaking About Goose Feathers

BY INK WHITE
Clinton County Republican-News

If you went out and wrung the neck of your own turkey for Thanksgiving dinner this year, that's all right with the government. But if you happened to decide to pluck a festive goose, you'd better be careful what you do with the feathers, or else the policeman may come knocking at your door.

Goose-plucking is a matter of great import to the defense of our country and the National Production Authority has decreed that henceforth it shall be planned, regulated and controlled by the Federal government.

No person, other than an officially regulated processor, can separate down from any waterfowl feathers, and even processors may do so only for the purpose of filling a DO order or to meet specifications of the Department of Defense, the United States Coast Guard or the General Service Administration.

You can stuff the dressing in the goose, but once the feathers are separated from the fowl you can't stuff them in the boiler without a ticket from Washington.

You don't avoid this by having someone give you the feathers "except delivery" even as a Christmas present. The only way to get ing and more growth they could have become useful Christmas trees. Tree producers are beginning to pay more attention to the shape and size of pines cut for holiday sales. By better forestry practices they not only make more from their tree harvest but also serve large numbers of trees.

Up to November 1 less than 1/4 of the 113.5 million bushel apple crop had moved into storage. The total amount stored was 2 million bushels. This was substantially less than a year ago when 11 million bushels of the 123 million bushel 1950 crop was reported in storage. In the four midwestern apple producing states—Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, about 2.5 million bushels of the 1951 apple crop was stored by November 1.

Butter prices have been strong enough so USDA hasn't made very heavy purchases to help support prices. But the end of September found 221 thousand pounds of butter had been purchased by the CCC. Total production for the year to October 1 was more than 796 million pounds.

Butter output this year has been running behind that of a year ago—about 15.5 million pounds for the first nine months of the year. Total milk production also fallen off from a year ago. However, more milk has been used for bottled sales rather than for manufacturing butter. The trend is expected to continue. Total milk production is expected to be 190 billion pounds by the end of this year.

Eggs in cold storage are just about a third of what they were a year ago. Chickens produce their part. They laid an estimated 19 billion eggs in October. But people are just eating more eggs.

Butter output probably will continue lower than a year ago. There were about three per cent more chickens on farms November 1 than a year ago. And there were 10 million chickens more than a year ago which still had to be raised to lay. So in spite of the greater demand for eggs, we should have an ample supply of eggs during the next few months of normally heavy laying.

Lard may get a break. Cotton production is down below expectations. Considerable soybean acreage got caught in the early November snow unharvested. These two farm products—cotton and soybeans—are the major sources of vegetable oils in the country. They produce the main competitor for lard.

What About Pinkeye?

Q: Does pinkeye affect only cattle?
A: No, sheep are susceptible, too. This contagious eye infection appears mostly during the warm months.

Q: What causes it?
A: Certain types of germs. There is a variation between the germs affecting cattle and sheep.

Q: Will it spread from cattle to sheep?
A: Usually there is no spread from cattle to sheep or from sheep to cattle.

Q: What are warning signs of pinkeye?
A: Suspect pinkeye when healthy cattle show swelling of or discharge from the eyes, or if the white-colored eye membrane is reddened. It pays to keep a close watch over cattle on summer pastures.

Q: What are best precautions to prevent an outbreak?
A: Spray cattle to prevent flies from spreading germs from eye to eye. Provide plenty of shade. Avoid dusty, weedy pastures. Keep newly-purchased animals from home herd; they may be pinkeye carriers.

Q: What if cattle do get pinkeye?
A: Isolate cattle with normal eyes from those that are affected. Confine pinkeye cases to a dark barn out of the sunlight. Have the veterinarian outline proper nursing and treatment of the affected eyes. Do not use any irritant drugs in the eyes.

Q: What about pinkeye in sheep?
A: The same principles apply as in cattle.

Michigan 4-H Club Winners Selected In Three Programs

THREE state winners in national 4-H Club award programs have been announced by the 4-H Club Department at Michigan State College.

They are Janice Spencer, 17, Vandana; Loraine Hildebrand, 17, Berlin Springs; and Shirley Cullitt, 17, Sandusky.

Janice Spencer has been awarded a state medal of honor in the national forestry project by the American Forest Products Industries, Inc., Washington, D. C. She says her interest in trees began when, as a little girl, she liked to gather leaves and learn what kind of trees they came from.

When she bought a 4-H Club member she bought seedlings from Michigan State College and planted them on the family farm. Some of them were later transplanted in landscaping the farmstead, some became windbreakers and some were sold as Christmas trees. She says her 4-H forestry project was "both profitable and enjoyable."

Loraine was named state 4-H Club citizenship winner by state 4-H Club leaders.

She has served as reporter of the county 4-H Club organization, held offices in her local club, given demonstrations to a total of 45 persons, served as a junior leader for 4 years and helped her club clean up the roadsides in her area.

During her 4-H Club career she also has made 43 gifts, preserved 562 quarts of food and grown flower and vegetable gardens every year. She also has been active in church and school activities. The citizenship award program is sponsored by Chicago Civic leaders in honor of Mr. Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago, for his outstanding contribution to the 4-H club program.

Shirley's award was made for her activities in the recreation and rural arts program, sponsored by the United States Rubber Company, New York, N. Y.

She has received practical experience in recreation and rural arts through 4-H Club activities.

Shirley Cullitt She was chairman of the program committee for 4-H county 4-H Service Club party sponsored by her Sanilac county group. Shirley served as a counselor at the 1951 Sanilac county 4-H camp and helped with recreational activities and developed a recreation program for her local club of which she is junior leader.

Foresters Plan To Cut Woodlot For Demonstration

Foresters who want to learn how to handle the important timber crop may get a few ideas at a timber harvest demonstration Dr. O. Keit Paul's woodlot east of Mason on Columbia road. The demonstration will last from 10:00 a. m. until 4:30.

Tractor and saw demonstrations will demonstrate equipment for handling forest crops. Dick Johns will operate his portable saw mill as part of the demonstration.

Mallards Fly 60 Miles an Hour

If census takers could count every duck in North America, it likely that they would find more mallards than any other kind. There are some on farms and in old ones living in most parts of the continent.

Wild Mallards spend their summers from Alaska to Greenland and south as far as California and Virginia. In the winter, they live in the southern half of the United States, and down into Mexico and Central America.

With the change of seasons, vast flocks of them take to the air. They make good time on their journeys, according to the National Wildlife Federation, because they can fly up to 60 miles an hour.

While beating their strong wings, they watch for pools of water where they can land to get a live and find food. In the water they get mosquito larvae, insects, snails and shellfish. Around the edges they feed on the seeds and stems of plants.

Among the weeds and bushes near the water, the Mallards build nests of leaves and grass, with things of dark gray down. When the nesting place is ready, the female lays from six to 13 large eggs. The eggs may be light greenish or gray-brown.

After she sits on them for 26 to 28 days, the eggs hatch. The baby ducklings, covered with soft yellow down, quickly learn to walk and swim.

As they grow, the young birds begin to look more and more like

How to make old roads seem NEW

PICK a road that you know by heart. Not too good a road. One that has some bumps—some unbanked turns—a tough hill or two.

Then get in touch with us, and let us put you behind the wheel of a Buick, with Dynaflo Drive.*

Now you're all set for a new experience. You'll find out this:

Those bumps seem to lose their bobble. You just take them with a smooth and level stride.

Those unbanked turns don't seem so sharp, and those hills seem almost to flatten out.

How come? Well, a lot of things are different when you travel in a Buick.

You're riding on big, soft coil springs that let every wheel dance beneath you, without passing on the jolts to you in the car.

You're driving a car that's plenty inches broader than it is high—a sure-footed road-hugger if there ever was one.

And you're riding behind a Fireball Engine—Buick's time-tested version of a high-compression valve-in-head—engine that packs more power than most people ever need to use.

With this power—and Dynaflo Drive*—you don't have to "rush" a hill at the bottom to soar serenely over the top. You just feed the power as you need it—climb with a sure, steady swoop without buck or bobble all the way up.

There's a lot more that we could tell you about a Buick. But such things as room, and comfort, the confident way it steers, and the way it shortens the miles are things you can best discover from personal experience.

So why not follow the routine already suggested? You supply the road—we'll supply the car—and let it speak for itself.

*Equipment accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. †Standard on 1951 Buick Wildcat, optional at extra cost on other Buicks.
