Voters Select 3 Councilmen

When Mason voters went to the polls Monday it was a sure thing that there would be at least 2 new faces when the new council forms Monday night. The question was to whom those faces would belong.

When the votes were counted Monday night incumbent Gilson Pearsall was in front of the pack with a total of 497 votes while the new faces belonged to John Hamlin with 456 votes and Vaughn Snook with 447 votes.

A total of 898 of Mason's 2,393 registered voters exercised their responsibility at the polls.

Howard Oesterle, Dr. Thomas Miller and Nels Ferriby were the other council candidates and finished out of the running in that order.

Pearsall, who has served the last 2 years as mayor, finished in front just as he did in the primary when the field was trimmed from 12 candidates to 6. He is a long-time Mason resident and is finishing his eighth year on the city council. He formerly taught history at Mason. He is now a counselor in the Lansing school system.

Hamlin is also a long-time Mason resident. He is a clerk in the Mason postoffice and a Mason fireman. He missed out in a run for the council last year by just a few votes.

Snook is a counselor at Mason high school. He came to Mason in the early 50s as a teacher and coach after serving in that capacity at Olivet college and Howe Military academy.

Will Build Farm Store

Dee Bray of the Mason Elevator company, 345 W. Columbia, announced Wednesday that the company plans to erect a one-story office and store building at 104 S. Lansing street which is expected to be completed by next July or August.

The building will be 40 by 80 feet. A house now on the property will be moved to a new location on W. Sycamore street.

Bray said the elevator company will operate a farm supplies store in the new building, work on which is expected to start in about 30 days.

Lawrence Barton, Mason building contractor, will move the house to the Sycamore location and will be in charge of the construction work on the new building.

Equalization Director Began Duties Monday

Thomas Dunn, newly appointed director of equalization in Ingham county, a newly created department of county government, began his duties Monday. His office will be in the court house.

Dunn's duties will include providing data for supervisors through their equalization committee for more accurate division of equalized values within the county and among political units.

Dunn pointed out that his department does not replace local assessors or supervisors in any way. His department is set up to provide better equalization for the county and for the state. An equalization director, Dunn said, samples all different kinds of property, both real and personal, and makes appraisals of all property. Then he contrasts this with assessed values to determine what supervisors are assessing. From that he determines the assessed value to market and equalized value for various classes of property and units as a whole.

Dunn came to the Ingham county post after 5 1/2 years as deputy director of equalization in Kent county. Prior to that he spent 8 years with the state tax commission.

The old theatre is set to come down June 1. The wall is reported not to be tied into the city hall. Also some of the hose drying tower and the fire siren are on the theatre roof and will have to be moved.

Council Adopts Budget

After going over the budget at Tuesday night's public hearing and receiving no comments or complaints from those in attendance, the Mason city council approved the document as presented with one major change.

The total to be raised by taxation was increased by $4,000 in a shuffling of highway refund cash which came through after the budget was put together. The $4,000 was added to the general fund and taken out of the coverage figure in the general fund, thus increasing the amount to be raised by the taxpayers.

As the budget was finally approved, Mason taxpayers will have to come up with $149,789 in real and personal property taxes.

The inventory account shows the city of Mason with assets valued at $4,635,185.

The bonded indebtedness amounts to $450,000 with $25,000 of these bonds scheduled for retirement in the next fiscal year covered by the budget.

The total cost of city operation for the next fiscal year $348,229.

School Board Recants On Naming New School

The new elementary school being built on Mason's west side which since construction work started has been referred to as the James H. VanderVen elementary school, will not carry that name. The name had been given the school to honor the former Mason school superintendent who retired last year after serving the district for 16 years.

The Mason board of education Monday night changed the name to the North Aurelius elementary school. The board said it took this action after "some 500 persons" signed petitions asking that the school bear the name of the area in which it is located.

Monday night the board also authorized repayment of a short term loan of $30,000 for the general fund to the Mason State bank.

The board approved payment of bills totaling nearly $100,000, including $18,885.57 from the general fund, $40,097.98 from elementary building and site fund and $37,785.69 from the swimming pool building and site fund.

The board will look into the possibility of a summer school program and approved a survey to determine if there is sufficient interest in such a project.

Mrs. Cherie Huguette of East Lansing was hired to teach the 5th grade at the Steele Street school for the balance of the 1964-65 school year.

Sale of the old Harper school at Harper road and US-127 was completed. The purchasers are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Keichum of Mason.

In other action the board: Set the school calendar for next year.

Approved salary schedules for extra-curricular work.

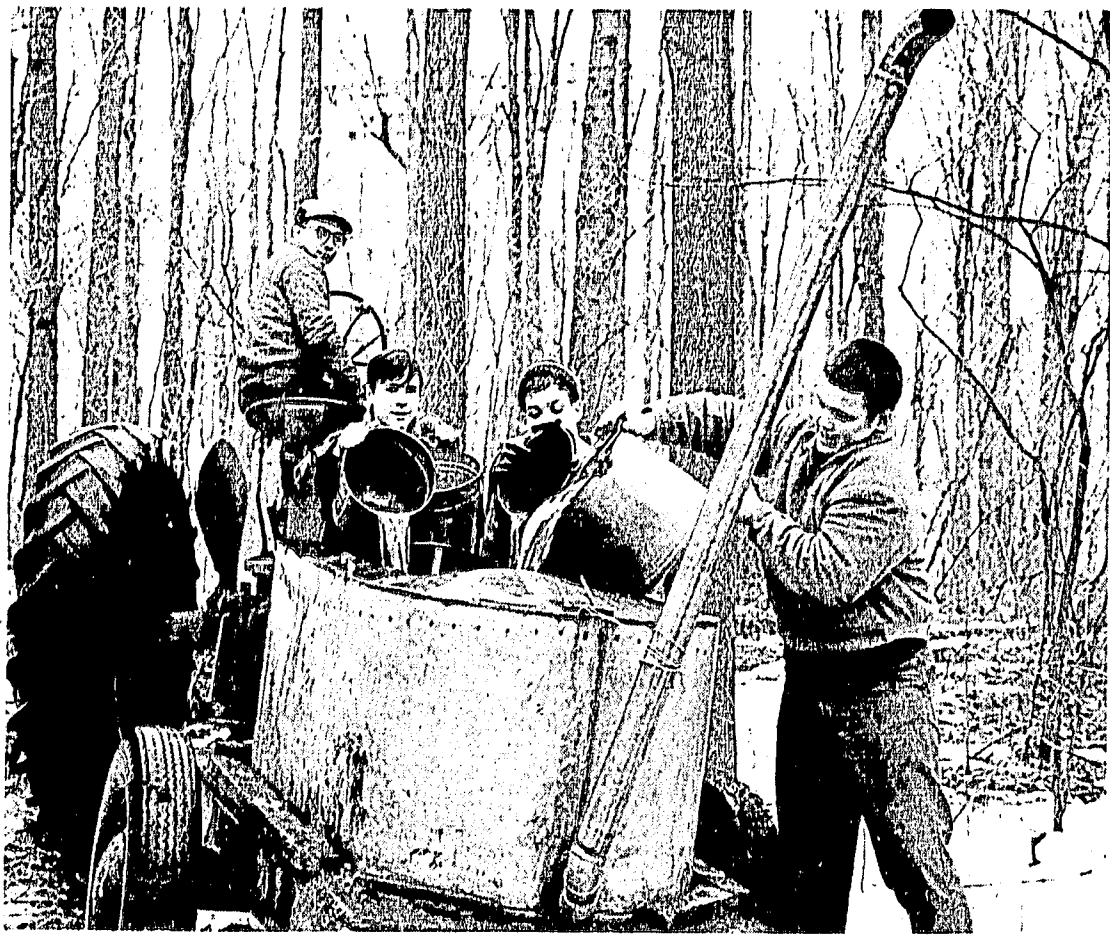

Passed a resolution for the annual school election June 14.

Chose the ceramic tile color schedule for the new pool at the senior high school.

Received the citizen committee's report on building needs.

Approved opening a senior high school special education Type A room next year.

Record Enrollment Seen In Feed Grain Program

Frank Light, chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, announced this week that new records are being set in the 1965 feed grain program sign-up. On the basis of almost complete returns through April 1, 43,176 Michigan feed grain producers have signed up to participate. This is 6,302 more than the previous record of 36,874 earning payments in 1962.

The base acreage on enrolled farms is also at a new high of 1,207,344 acres compared to the case of 970,826 acres in 1964. The acreage to be taken out of feed grain production in 1965 on the farms signed in the program amounts of 731,856 acres. This is 132,458 acres in excess of the acreage diverted in 1964.

The 1965 feed grain program is entirely voluntary stated Mr. Light. The participation indicated for 1965 and the interest shown in prior years reflects farmers' acceptance of this program. The program is designed to raise farm income by assuring fair prices for feed grain producers and by providing a basis for stability of livestock prices. It is intended to further continue the substantial progress toward reduction of feed grain carry-over and reduce costs to tax payers by reducing storage costs of grain held in Government inventory.

Feed grain programs since 1961 have reduced the carry-over of Government feed grains from about 85 million tons to less than 60 million tons. It is estimated that the program prevented the addition of over 3 1/2 billion bushel to the feed grain carry-over and prevented an increase in cost to the Commodity Credit Corporation of over 2 1/4 billion dollars.

Letters to the Editor

Blind Congressmen

Close your eyes and the problem will go away. This seems to be the slogan of some congressmen. In the questionnaire report of Rep. Charles E. Chamberlin, he states little enthusiasm was shown by his constituents for the anti-poverty plan. He notes great percentages of those against foreign aid, against social security increase, for reduction of automobile tax, but fails to give the most important fact, what percentage of the questionnaires were returned.

It is odd we do not need this program when 140 families, 900 mothers with 2,100 children and 1065 elderly persons are receiving welfare help in Ingham county. Certainly a job training plan would help some.

There are some muck farmers in this area who are against this plan because it would train their low-paid workers for higher-paying jobs, thus leaving them without help. They would rather keep their workers on the welfare for the winter months and be secure in having plenty of cheap labor for harvesting their crops. Job training would do away with this unfair practice. It would also do away with the 50-cent an hour help the farmers depend on.

Isn't it a wiser plan to train all capable people to be self supporting rather than to keep them on low paying half time work, and filling in with welfare aid, in order to live?

Helpers need not be members of the Girl Scouts. Any mother who helps will be able to have her daughter take the camping program free.

There will be a nursery program for tots, who accompany their mothers.

Also needed is troop consultant from a foreign country. Anyone interested may contact Mrs. Eitelbuss.

DEAR DORIS

advice from Doris Clark

Try Gentle Wooing

DEAR DORIS—My wife and I are in our forties.

We have difficulties. It is I who has to do all the persuading. I was told by a clergyman the type of relationship where one must always play up to the other never has any good.

I don't expect someone to ravish me, but when you're hungry you'd give almost anything for the other half to show some affection.

Lonely Bill

DEAR BILL—Indeed you would. But is your own approach gentle enough? Most women like to be wooed.

Since her remoteness is of long standing, I'd suggest you talk to your wife's doctor about this. And I am sending a list of books on sex which come well recommended.

This is too important to be ignored, even at this late date in your marriage.

DEAR DORIS—I was born an orphan 19 years ago as my mother was only 13 and couldn't look after me. I lived with a family who never adopted me.

Things got bad when the lady died and I looked for my mother through the agency and found her. She is still unmarried.

My schooling ended in grade nine. I worked as Nurse's Aide and now I'm working as a domestic. It is my 80-year-old employers who asked me to write to Doris for guidance. I want to make good on my own.

I would like to be a singer. I've done a lot of singing for weddings, radio, church services. How could I get started?

Orphan

DEAR ORPHAN—I'd say you are already started. A girl with your drive is likely to get somewhere. At the same time, a singer needs an education. And only the singers who reach the top support themselves with their voices.

Aim to improve your education, even if this means working while you study (at nights or by correspondence). Then choose a remunerative career that will use your other abilities. (Nursing? Stenography?)

Once you are really self-supporting, find the best teacher you can to develop your voice. Rome wasn't built in a day. Good luck!

DEAR DORIS—I am light-housekeeping in the same house as another girl attending college. She is a bit of a flirt. When my boy friend calls for me she always manages to be in my room.

We share one telephone and it is in her room. She always answers it, even if I'm expecting a call. If it's my B.F. she talks for a few minutes and this burns me up.

Seeing Red.

DEAR SEEING—The color is green, Dearie. But I can't say I blame you.

Is it time you had your own phone? Tell her you are thinking of this. If she can't face the expense, this might be enough to move her to letting you answer your own phone calls. Or to having the phone moved to your room for awhile.

DEAR DORIS—Thank you for the information you sent me. As a result I purchased a "sandpaper ball" for my moustache. It worked wonderfully.

But when I rub my upper lip it irritates it and forms red areas. Could you suggest a cream I could use to clear it of the raw look?

Mary Ann

DEAR MARY ANN—Perhaps a depilatory would be less chafing than the so-called "velvet mitt" when you are using it on the sensitive skin of your face.

I am sending you the leaflet "Removing Unwanted Hair" which discusses several methods, and recommends a soothing cream for use after. (Available to others for ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope).

Mrs. Eva Wood, president, called the meeting to order, gave a short prayer, led in the collect, and read a poem. Reports given, and after paying the spring bills, the treasury showed $31.23. Alma Fowler gave a report from the card committee.

It was decided to buy some 70th Jubilee Stamps from the Federation at Washington D.C. and to purchase a memorial tree. The following women will decide on the kind of a tree and find the place to plant it: Frances Beard, Gladys Myers and Mary Brown.

The club voted to change its name to The Stockbridge Women's club.

Her description of the work of the doctors and nurses and the way they were received and their astonishment of the iron cow, made living in a country that does such things worthwhile.

Fourteen women responded to roll call, with an Easter bible verse.

Mason General Hospital News

From the Administration

It seems that growth and progress are with us. Sometimes it may be a little painful, but this is because old habit patterns are hard to break. The past six years have seen a steady growth in the number of patients which our hospital serves.

The hospital has also increased the number of services it renders to these patients. The greatest growth has been during the past year. No one knows this better than you, the personnel of MGH. We are the ones who have to work so hard to care for patient loads which have made the walls bulge.

All of you are to be commended. In spite of help shortages in every department, the work has gone on with its usual efficiency. Problems have risen but they have been solved, and I appreciate, beyond words, the fine job all of you have done.

Part of our growing pains were the fact that our business and admitting procedures and facilities were unable to keep pace. Some changes had to be made. The greatest change has been the installation of a new cashier and admitting office in the lobby. This necessitated some changes in procedure. I am sure that when we work the kinks out of our procedure and we become used to it, we will find it much smoother and more efficient than the old.

There are several problems which we are trying to solve with these changes. Over the years, both our patients and visitors have developed the habit of using the emergency entrance for an easy access back door. This created all kinds of problems and is heartily disapproved by the Health department. This is not the community's fault, since we have made little effort to educate them in how to use the hospital. We are beginning a program to do so.

We shall soon put signs at the parking lot entrances to inform the public that visitors and outpatients should use the front parking lot. The entrance by the laundry is for ambulance use only. The two back parking lots are for the use of physicians and hospital personnel.

After a few weeks all these things will become routine. But we must remember that these changes are intended to provide better patient care through better hospital management.

Mrs. Rella Miller Is Collector Deluxe

If you want to keep from getting bored with everyday living, start a collection. This was the motto of Mrs. Rella Miller, employed in C.S.R., at the Mason General Hospital.

Rella not only started one collection, she has several. She has a large button collection, she is an avid rock hound and she also collects rare colored mugs.

Friend husband, Joe, goes along with Rella to look for stones. She travels as far away as White Fish Point on Lake Superior in the Upper Peninsula to collect her rocks.

Local gravel pits produce some of the stones.

A collection of rare colored glass mugs goes back about 10 years. The mugs are all sizes, ranging from one inch to 4 1/2 inches and most of them are about 2 to 3 1/2 inches tall.

This is not an expensive hobby as most of her mugs are less than $15.00 each. She never knows where she will find them—often at auction sales in boxes of odds and ends.

Her collection started with a mug with a picture of Lincoln and Garfield pressed on with the dates of their birth and the dates of their assassination on each.

Rella prefers the colored glass but has a few clear glass mugs. Among her collection is a mug in a rare red block pattern dated 1904 etched on. An apple green pressed glass mug with a bark handle, a cobalt blue one with a grape pattern, a clear glass mug with "our girl" printed on one side and a little girl and a lamb on the other side, a rare singing bird in black milk glass, 2 blue milk glass mugs, a blue glass mug with a dog and bird raised on it.

She has yellow, blue and amber mugs in carnival glass.

The mugs are all in perfect condition, which makes them harder to find but Rella likes the challenge.

If she cannot find rare mugs she will settle for a milk glass "cat plate", these plates are in three different colors and have 3 kittens raised and hand painted on one side. They have scallops on them and can be hung up with a ribbon. This collection totals 16 plates.

Rella's button collection dates back longer, about 25 years or so and consists of buttons mounted on cards and drawers filled with buttons.

She has glass buttons, picture buttons, story book buttons, paper weight buttons, black buttons with gold and silver etching, buttons with carved pearl scenes, buttons that resemble coins, a kaleidoscope, bugs, birds raised on metal.

She has rubber buttons, she has a collection of uniform buttons from fire, police and post office departments, army and navy uniforms.

Besides these she has many many more - you name it she has it.

Many of her buttons were given to her but she also keeps looking for more.

Rella is a member of the State and National Button societies and is preparing for the annual State meeting on May 15 which will be held in Dansville. Rella has been with Mason General Hospital for about 12 years but still finds time for her collections. She is unable to put a monetary value on them but claims they sure do keep you busy and helps to keep you interested in life.

Nurses Go To Spring Conference

On Thursday and Friday, March 11-12, 1965, Mrs. Judy Husband, R.N., OR Supervisor at Mason General Hospital attended the Spring conference for operating room nurses. The meeting for the two days was held at the Statler-Hilton hotel in Detroit.

Judy took the train from Lansing to Detroit, making it almost twenty years from her first train ride from Bay City to Detroit. The topics discussed on Thursday were "Hyperbaric Oxygenation" and the "Operating Room of Tomorrow." Friday morning "Disposables in the Operating Room" were presented. A panel of two surgeons and two nurses from the University Hospital in Ann Arbor, showed slides and discussed "Renal Transplant", a current news catching operation of today. This completed the program.

With the meetings beginning at 10:00 a.m. and adjourning at 4:00 p.m. each day this left Judy time to shop and see the sights of Detroit. On Thursday evening she saw the "Greatest Story Ever Told" at the Music Hall and on Friday evening her husband, Bill, joined her and they attended the showing of "My Fair Lady" at United Artists. If you want to know if she had a good time - just ask her!

Recipe Corner

Danish Puff Coffee Cake

Pastry 1:
1 cup all purpose flour
1 stick butter or oleo (1/2 cup)
2 tablespoons cold water
Mix as you would for pie crust. Cut shortening into flour until fine meal is formed. Sprinkle on the cold water and lightly toss together and form into two round balls.
CHILL.

Pastry 2:
1 cup boiling water
1 stick butter (Do not use oleo)
1 cup all purpose flour
3 eggs, unbeaten
1 teaspoon almond flavoring
Make a cream puff dough by heating the water and butter together in a sauce pan to a full boil.
Add flour all at once and blend well. Beat over low heat until mixture leaves the sides of pan and forms a nice smooth ball.
Remove from burner, beat in the eggs one at a time until mixture is creamy smooth.
Using the first pastry, spread in two long ovals, or strips on a cookie sheet the long way. They will be thin, about 1/8 inch thick and about 12 x4 inches in size. On these, spread the slightly cooled cream puff mixture.
Bake 40 to 60 minutes in 350 oven. When cook, frost with a glaze made of powdered sugar and water, flavored with almonds.
Sprinkle with shaved almonds.

Who Has History Answer?

What and where are the older buildings in Mason? That's the question centennial officials are asking.

Mrs. Robert Schaeffer met with her Old Building and Homes committee on Wednesday at the Ingham County Library. One responsibility of this group is to find edifices in Mason which are at least one hundred years old.

This committee would like to hear from anyone who has reason to believe their home is a century or more old or have knowledge of any other building or house of this age. A plaque or marker will be used to designate these centennial buildings. Mrs. Erving Heipel, of the Ingham county library, is in charge of collecting the locations of these buildings.

This committee is small but hopes to do much to project the historical image of the community; to create an interest in our historical past.

On May 5 the Capital Area Historical Society will meet in Mason under the sponsorship of the Ingham County Pioneer and Historical Society, which is interested in starting a museum in Mason for the purpose of forming a basis for further interest in preserving memories of the past.

MASON CENTENNIAL BELLES assisted at the Historymobile in Mason this week. Those who were on duty Tuesday were Mrs. Maurice Rickly, Mrs. Roland Troxell, Mrs. Ed Hunt and Mrs. Fred Young. They represented the Pink Lady Belles from the Mason General hospital auxiliary.

In Mason Through Thursday Historymobile Attracts Hundreds of Visitors

On July 1, 1964, a new service was inaugurated by the Michigan Historical Commission - a museum on wheels. During the next several years, this unique Historymobile will be visiting communities, both large and small, throughout Michigan, bringing to citizens a story of the state's growth and development, from the pre-historic past to the present. It will be in Mason through Thursday.

The Historymobile has been established entirely through the cooperation of numerous Michigan businesses and industries who contributed all of the equipment, supplies and materials necessary to transform this dream into reality.

A colorful diorama, prepared by the Exhibits Museum of the University of Michigan, begins the exhibit. The scene illustrates Michigan's first hunters killing a mastodon. Next the Kalamazoo Public Museum's display tells of the French era, and of the explorers, missionaries, and the fur trade. The British era, 1760-1796, is summed up in the Mackinac Island State Park Commission's display, illustrating the construction of early British forts, and indicating the location of all British forts in Michigan. Michigan Becomes American is the theme of the next display, prepared by the Michigan Historical Commission Museum. The exhibit highlights the American occupancy of Michigan in 1796 and our part in the War of 1812. Featured is the sword used by General Lewis Cass during that war. A display prepared by the Detroit Historical Museum, illustrates the territorial period when Michigan was acquired from the Indians through a series of treaties.

The role of the Erie Canal and the early lake steamers to bring the settlers to Michigan, is shown in the exhibit by the Grand Rapids Public Museum. The Dearborn Historical Museum's display deals with Michigan Statehood. Included is a bronze statue of Stevens T. Mason, our first governor. The Cranbrook Institute of Science exhibit illustrates the story of the development of our state's mineral wealth.

The development of shipping on the Great Lakes is depicted in the display of the Dossin Great Lakes Museum. Highlighted is the pan used by President Eisenhower to sign the St. Lawrence Seaway bill. Next the story of railroad development is illustrated with models and maps by the Detroit Historical Museum. This is followed by one which portrays Michigan's role in the Civil War. It features typical weapons and equipment, together with a map showing where our regiments originated.

The colorful white pine era in our history is illustrated in a series of hand-tinted photographs. Featured is the original patent model for the great logging wheels, which were produced in Manistee. The display was prepared by the Michigan Historical Commission Museum in cooperation with the Hartwick Pines State Park and Manistee County Museum.

The development of agriculture in Michigan is shown through the use of several scale model farm buildings and agricultural equipment in the display of the Michigan State University Museum. Early Michigan Industries is the topic for the second display prepared by the Grand Rapids Public Museum. It is followed by one depicting the development of the automobile industry and our highway system, installed by the Henry Ford Museum.

Military items, an early radio, and model of a Ford Tri-motor are among the items used by the Dearborn Historical Museum to illustrate the story of World War I, the Roaring 20's, and the Depression. The Arsenal of Democracy is the theme of the next display, prepared by the Michigan Historical Commission Museum. The exhibit stresses Michigan's home front efforts as well as military activity. The final display, which highlights major accomplishments since World War II, was prepared by the Michigan State University Museum.

This is the first Historymobile in the world to feature such an extensive cooperative exhibit. Local participation is another unusual feature of this new service. All arrangements, publicity, and hosting is handled by the local historical society, the community museum, the Chamber of Commerce, or other civic organizations of the community.

The Historymobile will tour the state each year from the first of April until the end of November, stopping for at least one showing in each county through which it passes. The itinerary for the unit will eventually bring it to every corner of the state. Stops are scheduled a year in advance in a logical sequence, making possible short trips between showings. From Mason the Historymobile will travel to Hillsdale.

Of Patriotism And Profits

For years the financial giants of the American economy have operated on the theory of "what's good for us is also good for the country."

To a very great extent, it has been extremely difficult to quibble with this theory. The amazing postwar resurgence of American capitalism from its sad downfall in the 1930s has provided the U.S. with the highest living standard in history of mankind.

Whereas only a few years ago it was common to hear that capitalism would be "buried," the situation has changed so radically that even Soviet economic planners are adopting capitalist methods by providing greater incentives and relying more on the supply-and-demand factor.

Yet this rosy picture has its flaws, chief among them being the balance of payments problem which practically every literate American has become cognizant of in the last few years.

Stated simply, the balance of payments problem has resulted from Americans spending more abroad than they receive from other countries. Presently, we are averaging a $3 billion annual deficit which is being paid off by our ever dwindling gold supply.

One of the main elements of our deficit is the tendency of American big business and banking to invest abroad. Last year about $6.5 billion left the country due to such investment, and this was $2 billion over what American business and banking invested abroad in 1963.

It should be said in defense of this overseas investment that it has also reaped benefits for the country as a whole. Profits from overseas investments have returned to the U.S. to help the payments deficit. American influence has been greatly increased around the globe thanks to the efforts of American businessmen and bankers. Foreign countries have been aided in developing their economies and raising the living standards of their peoples.

Yet even when these good points are taken into consideration, one must agree with President Johnson and his economic advisers that a reduction has to be made in the tremendous American investment overseas.

For instance, much American overseas investment should rightly be invested in this country rather than benefiting foreigners (who in many cases do not need it because American investors tend to put their funds in highly developed countries).

Another example of the unhealthy consequences of this investment is the bad feelings that have been created in countries like France where American businessmen have been trying their level best to buy out leading local firms (The French charge this is a form of "expropriation" by Wall Street).

President Johnson is afraid that if this outflow of capital continues, the U.S. will literally be on the verge of bankruptcy as far as its gold stocks are concerned. Also at stake is the world's confidence in the dollar (which is backed by gold) and the international monetary system whose main prop is the U.S. dollar.

Mr. Johnson has chosen a "voluntary" approach in the hope that our financial bigwigs will of their own accord cut back on their overseas investments.

Certainly the voluntary approach is far better for the financial titans than strict government controls. But then again there is the temptation of short-term, quick profits which overseas investment provides—a temptation which may prove overpowering for the big money boys.

It will be interesting to see how American capitalism faces up to this latest challenge which will determine just what role patriotism plays in the activities of our business and banking community.

SHE'S PEEKING. A touch of mystery comes with this new hat for spring. It features upswept brim in piped silk, worn with a silk scarf across the mouth and nose to give that provocative flavor and goes well with fluttering eyelashes.

"IT COULD be worse. We could be at war."

SUSANNA'S FAMILY FARE

tips n' topics

That Soft Soap Treatment

DEAR SUSANNA: After being a widow for nearly 20 years, I recently married again. My second husband is a retired general storekeeper, and since he had so much experience purchasing supplies, I encouraged him to do most of our shopping. It not only gets him out of the house, but it provides him with something to do, and gives him an excuse to hobnob with his pals down on the main street.

One thing puzzled me though. He always kept large quantities of laundry bar soap and hand soap on hand, and each week he would buy a small additional quantity which would be placed at the bottom or back of the supply. One day I got curious enough to ask him why he kept so much soap on hand, and I think you'll agree that the answer is worth considering.

If you buy your cake soap and keep it for six months it will last twice as long when you come to use it because it has dried out and hardened. Leave it wrapped up and simply store it in your linen cupboard.

You will obtain just as good results but it doesn't run away on you the way soft soap does when it is immersed in water. If we stop to think about it, we will probably all realize that the softer the soap, the faster it disappears.

Mrs. Jim Cobb

I agree, Mrs. C., soft soap may be wasteful for washing, but let's not dispense with it altogether. When applied to children and grown men it still does an excellent job of inducing them to see things our way!

Beef Cattle Crossbreeds Are Hardy

A five percent increase in calf crop, 40 to 80 pounds improvement in weaning weights, harder cows, better mothering ability, freedom from snowburned udders and pinkeye, maintenance of size in the herd, with no sacrifice in conformation and carcass quality; these are among the benefits that have brought some of Canada's top ranchers to adopt planned crossbreeding. The emphasis in such a breeding program is on the "control." It's not just a matter of crossing any kind of a bull on the herd. A number of outstanding Alberta ranchers are the leaders in this work and have some significant results to show for their efforts. One of them, George Ross, is even in the process of developing a new breed, by crossing dairy-type bulls on his Hereford-Shorthorn cows.

On the whole, the 1963 progeny tests at the privately operated Beef Testing Station, Bassano, Alberta, showed that the crossbreeds performed right up with the straightbreds, and in some instances, even surpassed them. Many of the straightbred groups were sired by very good performance - tested bulls and were bred to what were considered the best cows in the respective herds, yet the best such matings could produce came out second best in comparison with calves into which the high octane of hybrid vigor had been bred. In comparing the carcasses it was found that all crossbred groups had more lean and less external fat than the straightbreds. This was especially true of those with Charolais breeding.

George Ross, confided that "crossbreeding is the cheapest way I know to maintain size and weight in the herd. Our bulls cost us around $350 per head. If we tried to run a straightbred herd and maintain the kind of size we like in our replacement helpers, we couldn't find the kind of bulls we'd need for $1,000 a head. We can't buy our bulls out of sales either. If a bull has ever had grain in him he goes to pieces right away, the way we handle him here."

"The average cattleman," Ross continued, "is not taking advantage of crossbreeding. In the future the producer who stays with the straightbreds will have to be a specialist in the selection of bulls, in culling the herd and in marketing his product. On the other hand, the cattleman who selects two high-producing breeds and crosses them will stay in the high-production bracket with less effort and less expense, and his product will find almost the same market as the straightbred herd."

DEAR SUSANNA: I was all dressed, but wanted to re-do my hair and makeup in a hurry to go out. I couldn't seem to lay my hands on my plastic makeup cape so I slipped into one of my husband's old, long sleeved, cotton shirts that was hanging in the cupboard. I've been doing this ever since.

It was light, cool, loose, stayed in place, and almost covered my dress completely. Best makeup-type protective covering I ever had.

Lassie

DEAR SUSANNA: I was so accustomed to spilling water all the way from the sink to the fridge after filling the ice cube trays, that it never occurred to me there was any other way. (My husband insists on REAL-LY big ice cubes, so the H2O just gaily dripped over everything.)

Last night, however, I learned a whole new technique from one of our guests who was out in the kitchen helping me.

He (wouldn't you know he's a bachelor) partially filled the tray from the tap to within about a half inch from the top. He then carried it to the refrigerator, but before he completely inserted it in the freezer compartment he left one end extended and proceeded to finish filling the tray to the brim with a pitcher of water. He says he sometimes uses a plastic squeeze bottle instead.

Jenny

Some of these single types certainly make it difficult to convince them that they just can't manage without us!

This does not mean that purebred cattle are headed for oblivion. Without purebreds there can be no crossbreeding. And crossbreeding is conceded by all who have had anything to do with it to demand just as much care and selection as a good purebred program. "Crossbreeding in itself will not promote outstanding performance automatically," one of the Canadian researchers has pointed out. "Nor will the indiscriminate crossing of breed and types. But a wide cross planned for specific reasons, and in which high-performing animals are used and careful selection is practiced, can result in real advantages for the commercial cattleman interested in more efficient production."

Look for Nursery OK

Read the certificate of inspection when buying nursery stock.

This is the suggestion of the Michigan Department of Agriculture to the thousands of citizens who will be buying and planting nursery stock with the arrival of springlike weather. Such sales in the state are estimated at $40 million a year. All nursery stock is required to carry a certificate of inspection issued by the department's Plant Industry division. The certificate indicates the nursery stock has been examined and found to be free of insect pests and plant diseases.

Michigan law also requires such stock to be stored or displayed under conditions that will maintain its vigor. All such materials are sold by grade, which is a factor in determining price. Buyers seldom find high quality items at give-away prices.

Prospective purchasers also should beware of glib-tongued salesmen who make extravagant claims about their products or claim them to be sensational developments in the horticultural world.

Poverty Program A Chore

The Stockbridge branch of President Johnson's anti-poverty program was recently put into operation with the organization of a committee whose job is to determine just what will be done in this area.

The Town Crier asked several citizens for their opinion on the Community Action program. Most of those interviewed felt that such a program would take a lot of serious thinking, much tolerance by those involved as well as those who are not, and less publicity than the program has received thus far.

Richard Howlett, high school principal said, "It is important for the committee to study the program. There is a chance that a program by which some people would be rehabilitated might succeed where everything else has failed. At least it would be better than giving them outright relief."

Said Paul Stephens: "Out of

SUGAR AND SPICE

by Bill Smiley

Have you watched teenagers dancing lately? If you haven't, and you are old-fashioned, and your blood pressure is high, take my advice. Don't!

Saturday afternoon, through sheer inertia, I found myself before a television set showing one of those teen-age dance programs. Fortunately, I am neither old-fashioned nor high-blood-pressure (it says here).

But I must confess, I was wishing I were 25 years younger.

Today's kids dance dolefully, but sweetly, to the slow numbers, heads together, bodies scarcely moving intent, serious, tender yet strangely impersonal.

But when the music begins to clang and thump, they come into their own. They laugh; they bob and bounce; they wiggle and jiggle and giggle. Their faces light up. Their feet weave and shift and trace peculiar patterns. They are very young and very much alive, and completely caught up in that most ancient means of communication — rhythm.

Watching them, I was sad. It's a pretty bitter thing, after all, to have been too young for the Charleston, too old for the Twist.

But I couldn't stay sad. Letting my mind drift back over the years, I actually began to feel sorry for the youngsters.

"These kids," I thought disdainfully. "How many of them have mastered a step as I did? Sure, they can do the Cha-Cha and the Twist and the Bossa Nova. But is there a single one of them who can base a whole era of dancing on one step — the fox-trot — as I did?"

There are ample bosomed middle-aged ladies across the land who will testify that Smiley was a corker, if not a terror, when he tripped the light fantastically.

There are grandmothers in the United States, England, France and Belgium whose eyes still light up when they remember the way we whirled about the dance halls, a symphony of smoothness, a fantasy of foxtrotting.

"How many of these kids," I wondered, "have ever danced with a Brazilian beauty who couldn't speak a word of English and was doing a dreamy tango while you were doing a brisk fox-trot?"

"How many of them," I queried, "have ever been to a real old country square-dance, where the sign that the dance was over was the stovepipes coming down when the fight started?"

"How many," I thought, "have ever tried to fox-trot with a brawny Land Army girl who was bound she was doing a waltz, and could lift you right off the floor in the process?"

"How many of them," I considered, "have walked up to a flashing-eyed young French matron in Brussels, at a nightclub, bowed to her, bowed to her husband, asked her for a dance in impeccable high school French, and received a slap in the face from her, a kick in the groin from her husband?"

No. Let them have their fun. I have my memories.

Long before these kids were running around with their diapers dangling, I was cheek-to-cheeking it on enchanted summer evenings, and breathing heavily into the ears of their Aunt Mabels.

SCHOOL ADMINISTRATOR

The public school administrator is, in a sense, a businessman — a businessman in charge of our most important industry. He must be a combination personnel director, legal expert, architect, building maintenance engineer, accountant and public relations man. Above all these, however, he is an educator.

The main concern of the school administrator is quality education for the boys and girls of his district. His philosophy of education will govern the quality of instruction throughout his school or school system. He must give his teachers a sense of direction, then oversee and evaluate their teaching methods.

The administrator's position is an important and often difficult one. He must maintain the respect and cooperation of his teachers, his school board and the community. Too often he becomes the scapegoat for everything that goes wrong within the schools — from a losing football season to inadequate buildings.

To be effective, the administrator must have the support of his community. All education is expensive. Good education is more expensive but poor education is the most expensive in the long run. Even the very able executive will be held back if there is no money for a good teaching staff, necessary supplies and adequate buildings.

The role of the administrator is extremely complex. He must act as a professional leader for his teaching associates; he must run his school system efficiently and economically, and he must guarantee educational opportunity for the students under his jurisdiction.

Tri-County Planners Start Gigantic Survey

A survey of 4,500 homes in Ingham, Clinton and Eaton counties will be undertaken, starting Thursday, by the Tri-County Regional Planning commission to obtain data to be used in planning orderly growth and development of the 3-county area.

The survey is expected to take about 12 weeks. One out of every 20 dwelling units in the area will be involved in the survey. In addition the survey will include interviews at group housing centers, such as dormitories and other housing units at Michigan State university. Data on truck and taxi travel also will be gathered.

The home survey plan was presented by officials of the Tri-County organization at a press conference Tuesday morning.

Here are some of the questions to be covered in the survey:

Length and number of auto trips, types of vehicles used, origin and destination of trips and their purposes and frequency. Socio-economic data covering employment, car ownership, use of leisure time, housing and neighborhood preferences and community attitudes.

When all this data has been collected the planning commission and its consulting committees will seek to formulate realistic plans covering transportation, land use and the utilization of natural resources in the area as it grows.

Robert Kuehne, senior planner, calls the home survey the most important in the development study. He says it will provide a base for future transportation, land use plans and show where facilities are likely to be needed.

The cost of the development program of which the home survey is a part, will be approximately $650,000, according to Keith Honey, assistant director of the planning commission, who explained that 2/3 of the cost of the program will be borne by the federal government and local sources will supply the remaining 1/3. The study is expected to be completed in 1967.

He pointed out that these streets are heavily traveled by cars and trucks and are also heavily traveled by pedestrians. The light problem was turned over to Consumers Power company for its recommendation. The sidewalk issue was taken under consideration.

It Will Take 25 Years To Deliver Letters

A centennial, for the most part, is organized by adults and for adults, but the special project committee of the Mason Area Centennial started over months ago to confirm the long suspected truth that there is quite a bit of the child still in most adults. That is why they have so much fun at celebrations.

The committee, a part of the publicity division, and headed by Mike Trudeau, has many ideas still in the planning stages. Ideas such as using an airplane to drop leaflets advertising the centennial down on other communities as well as our own, and bombing the Mason area with styrofoam balls a few days before centennial week. Each ball will be stamped and can be used for a concession treat or activity or for a midway ride.

Another idea being planned is a foot-march to Lansing with all marchers in full centennial dress and with their own supply of bunion pads and corn plasters.

Other plans are well formed but rated top secret, although a story is circulating concerning some excitement expected to take place just prior to the parade on the opening day of the celebration.

THE DEFENSE ATTACKS. Spencer Tracy, as the biting, sarcastic attorney for the defense in the famous "Monkey trial of 1925," opens his attack while the flowery orator, played by Fredric March, smugly awaits his turn. "Inherit the Wind," produced and directed by Stanley Kramer.

March, Master Character Actor, Plays W. J. Bryan

As the road to hell is paved with good intentions, so the road to the theatrical boneyard is paved with figurative corpses of romantic actors whose good looks were outstripped by the years. On the other hand, there is a small, select and intelligent (and, if the whole truth must be told, talented) group which has recognized the folly of contesting the field with Time, and has profited thereby.

One of this group—one of the most distinguished, in fact—is Fredric March, who has passed with the utmost grace and smoothness from the playing of romantic leads to starring roles as a character actor. March's latest portrayal is that of the counterpart of William Jennings Bryan, the Great Commoner, in Stanley Kramer's "Inherit the Wind," opening on Thurs. at the State Theatre through United Artists release. Appearing as his courtroom adversary is Spencer Tracy.

"Inherit the Wind" is Fredric March's 64th picture. Some thirty years ago, he was recruited from the stage as the result of his performance as the John Barrymore character in "The Royal Family," one of the most dashing and romantic roles in American theatrical literature. In no time at all, he became one of the screen's great matinee idols, appearing in romantic roles opposite a who's who of top feminine stars.

Somewhere along the line, he won an Academy Oscar for "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Then, directly after the war—when he was still young enough, handsome enough and well enough liked on top to get by as a romantic lead—he deliberately altered his course: he played the role of the head of the family (with a daughter of marriageable age) in "The Best Years of Our Lives." Nobody urged him to make the switch; he just knew that it was time to do so. And his judgment was rewarded with another Oscar.

In recent years, Fredric has alternated his movie activities with the most grace and smoothness ("The Desperate Hours," "Middle of the Night") with stage appearances in such plays as "The Skin of Our Teeth" and "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

FREDRIC MARCH plays the man who defends an out-moded state law and the literal interpretation of the Bible in "Inherit the Wind."

WINNING "MISS AMERICA" TITLE PROVED BOTH HELP AND HINDRANCE TO MARY ANN

Is the "Miss America" title a help or hindrance in pursuing a career in Hollywood? It can be a little of each, according to Mary Ann Mobley, Miss America of 1959, who enacts one of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Girl Happy."

The dark-haired, dark-eyed Mississippi beauty is well-aware that Hollywood is flooded each year by beauty contest winners from all corners of the globe.

"I know what everyone says," she declares. "Here's another has-been beauty queen with no talent. That is the challenge a former contest winner has to meet, and she'd be a fool not to face up to the fact that it entails extra study and hard work if she hopes to succeed as an actress."

On the other hand, Miss Mobley admits that the "Miss America" title can be helpful in opening doors. "You do become at least a little known," she points out. "People hear your name and it seems familiar to them."

Mary Ann was on a four-year scholarship to the University of Mississippi and in her junior year decided to compete for the Miss Mississippi title in the Miss America contest.

"I wanted an acting career, but my father was opposed to it," she said. "I knew I would have to study somewhere other than at Ole' Mississippi to learn the rudiments of acting and the Miss America contest offered $10,000 in cash plus a scholarship at any school of the winner's choice. I seemed to be involved in scholarships and I don't think I really expected to come out on top in the contest, but I thought it was worth a try. Luck must have had to do a lot with my winning because it seems to me practically impossible for judges to look at fifty contestants and determine which one is the best."

Mason Junior Highlites

By NANCY BROWN
Friday night a reception was held in the gym honoring Honor Society members and parents. Monday noon girls who signed up to be Centennial Belles received their membership certificates and buttons. Monday through Thursday of this week the senior high counselors, Mrs. Virginia Elliott and Vaughn Snook and the senior high principal, Robert Prudon, are helping ninth grade students to set up tentative programs for their senior high school years. Monday night freshman girls went to the high school for the reserve cheerleaders tryouts. Two cheers were required and a jump, cartwheel and the splits. Judges chose Mary Fink, Debbie Frew, Carol Campbell, Julie Seyfau, Sherman Birchfield and Nancy Brown as regulars and Betty Michitsch as alternate. Saturday band students participated in a junior high solo and ensemble festival. The Mason participants came away with ratings of 1's and 2's. The festival met at Springport.

Low Cost Lawn Seed Generally No Bargain

To avoid poor quality lawn seed, read the seed label and beware of "bargains."

Carter M. Harrison, Michigan State university crop scientist, says labeling laws will help protect against purchases of poor quality seed--that which contains a high percentage of coarse haygrasses instead of perennials such as Kentucky bluegrasses or fine fescues.

"Labeling regulations require that the good varieties be labeled as 'fine textured grasses,' while the inferior rough species must be listed as 'coarse kinds,'" advises Harrison. "This provides a ready clue to quality that you can check easily on a seed package."

But the MSU scientist warns that other deficiencies are not so easily detected. There may be smatterings of unwanted species that don't have to be listed unless the state law terms them "weeds."

"Your best protection in this instance is to buy above rock bottom prices and from reputable sources," comments Harrison.

"Be suspicious of seed mixtures which feature insufficient quantities of big name varieties. A mix may be billed as 'containing Merton Kentucky bluegrass,' with part Kentucky bluegrass, or featuring Pennlawn fine fescue, yet have only a per cent or two of the named ingredient.

"A featured component certainly should constitute at least 15 per cent of the blend."

Another item of concern in lawn seed is weeds. But Harrison says this is seldom cause for alarm.

"Great pains are taken by most domestic producers of the fine - textured grasses to sell clean and essentially weed-free lots--the only way to earn top price and a good reputation," he explains. "Lawn seed research has shown that about half of the seed sold contains no weeds at all and most of the remainder have relatively few weeds, generally of types not considered to be lawn pests.

"If you have weeds in your lawn, chances are a thousand to one that they came from weed seed already in the soil or that were blown and tracked in from surrounding properties," says Harrison.

CASSIUS M. CLAY

JOHN G. FEE

A BRIEF HISTORY OF BEREA COLLEGE

Three names stand out in the founding of Berea College - JOHN G. FEE, CASSIUS M. CLAY, and J. A. R. ROGERS. Native Kentuckians Fee and Clay were drawn together by their abolitionist sympathies, although Fee's convictions, as an ordained minister, did not permit of any compromise. This was not altogether true of the wealthy and politically-minded Clay. The drama that unfolded as a result of this fact makes Berea's early history an inspiring story of courage and perseverance.

After graduating from Lane Theological Seminary in Cincinnati in 1842, Fee went first into the hill country of Lewis County, Kentucky, where slaveholders were few, and established an independent church with a handful of members. Because his views on slavery were unpopular among sectarian Christians, he advocated a church with no other creed than loyalty to conscience and to Christ. When audiences were small, he took to his pen. The publication of his ANTISLAVERY MANUAL in 1848 brought him to the attention of Cassius Clay.

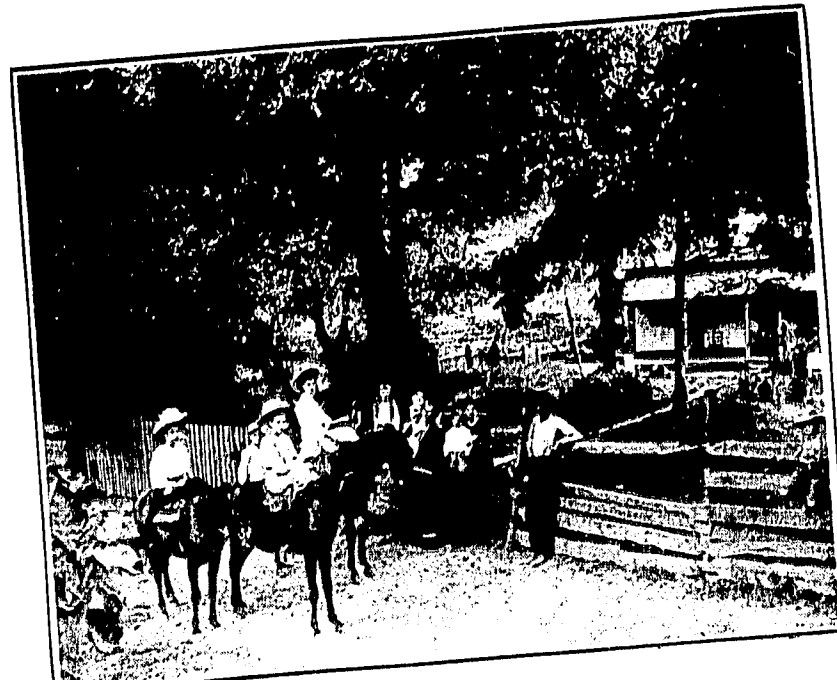

Clay's background was entirely different from that of Fee. At Yale, Clay had been converted to emancipation by a speech of William Lloyd Garrison's, and upon returning to his baronial estate in Madison County, he gave much time to writing and speaking against slavery. His ritual for opening a meeting was to lay upon the lectern a Bible, a copy of the Constitution, and a Bowie knife: the Bible, he explained, was for those who believed in God; the Constitution for those who believed in man; and the knife for those who believed in neither. Almost every cabin for miles around him contained a boy named Cassius. Since slavery was virtually nonexistent in the mountains he looked there for his natural allies - men who would stand for freedom. Through his influence Fee was invited in 1853 to preach a series of sermons in the southern section of Madison County, in the foothills of the Cumberlands.

Fee accepted the invitation, and so persuasive were his words that he was urged to take up permanent residence. Clay offered him a ten-acre lot for a homestead. An antislavery church, with thirteen members, was established. The following year, 1854, Fee moved south and built his house on the first mountain footridge, on the land given him by Clay. He called this ridge Berea, after the Bible town mentioned in Acts xviii:11, where men were open-minded.

A one-room school was built in 1855 on a lot contributed by a neighbor, William B. Wright. It served as a church on Sundays. The first teachers were recruited from Oberlin College, an antislavery stronghold to which the fledgling Kentucky community soon became linked. The visionary Fee saw the humble church-school as the beginnings of a sister institution, "which would be to Kentucky what Oberlin is to Ohio, anti-slavery, anti-caste, anti-rum, anti-sin." A few months later he wrote in a letter, "We . . . eventually look to a college - giving an education to all colors, classes, cheap and thorough."

The summer of 1856 marked a turning point in the friendship of Fee and Clay, which was to affect the course of Berea's development. A rift occurred on the Fourth of July, when Fee at a picnic spoke out uncompromisingly on the moral evils of slavery. Clay, undoubtedly influenced by the approaching presidential election and his own political future, took the line of moderation. Men went home in confusion of mind, but convinced of one significant fact: Clay was no longer the staunch champion of Fee and his "radical" Berea community.

EDITOR'S NOTE: On a trip through Kentucky recently, Jim Brown visited Berea, Kentucky, home of Berea College. The visit was so impressive that a history of the college is being reprinted in the News.

STARTING FOR BEREA

Slaveholders, who had been cautious in their opposition to the powerful Clay, now no longer feared to threaten Fee and his small congregation. In 1857 and 1858 the mob spirit raged in Madison County as war drew closer. Fee's life was endangered several times, but he continued his crusade for human rights, and the one-room school continued its session. His unflinching courage in defense of his principles is a precious part of Berea's intangible endowment.

Early in 1858, J. A. R. Rogers, a graduate of Oberlin College and Seminary, came to Berea to help carry forward the work. He, too, was aflame with the idea of a college. The short winter term in the school had already ended, and Rogers and his wife began teaching an extra term, a "pay school," although the fee was not a prerequisite. The term started with fifteen children enrolled, and ended with almost a hundred. A program of the exercises at the close of the second term in December, 1858, still remains. It includes two orations - one on "Modern Society" and the other on "The Scholar's Mission" - and a drama on Cataline and Cicero, evidence that a "higher school" was emerging.

In 1859, Fee, Rogers, and other community leaders drew up a constitution for a college in Berea, and arranged for the purchase of a beautiful tract of some 110 acres on the Ridge (price $1,750) "for the purpose of erecting the college buildings upon it, and for a town plot." The fundamentals of that Constitution remain the essentials of Berea College today. The opening words are still "In order to promote the cause of Christ." The aims are clearly stated in the first two by-laws: "The purpose of the College shall be to furnish the facilities for a thorough education to all persons of good moral character, at the least possible expense, and all the inducements and facilities for manual labor which can reasonably be supplied by the Board of Trustees shall be offered." "This College shall be under an influence strictly Christian, and as such opposed to sectarianism, slaveholding, caste, and every other wrong institution or practice."

It was providential that concrete measures to ensure Berea's future were taken before mounting hostility, intensified by John Brown's raid in Virginia, finally engulfed the community in December, 1859. Two days before Christmas, a group of 62 armed men rode into the Rogers' yard and served notice that the Berea leaders and their families had ten days to leave the state. When the Governor refused them protection, the exodus began on the seventh day. The intrepid little group, numbering 34, carried only their most necessary possessions, confident of their eventual return.

Fee spent the war years raising money for the future college. In April, 1865, he, with Rogers and John Hanson (Fee's cousin and one of the exiles), met to make Berea College a reality. During the ensuing year, seven more trustees were selected, the incorporation was carried through, a legal charter secured, and an endowment of $10,000 was raised. According to its first catalog (1866-1867), the "Berea Literary Institute" had a total attendance of 187, of whom 96 were Negroes and 91 whites. By the time Berea's first president, the Reverend E. Henry Fairchild of Oberlin, arrived in the spring of 1869, the campus included a chapel (divided into classrooms by movable partitions), with several frame structures clustered about to serve as additional classrooms and as dormitories. The first college class was registered the succeeding September.

The early story of Berea would not be complete without mentioning the assistance given by the American Missionary Association. During the 1850's, this organization had commissioned both Fee and Rogers as rural mountain ministers of the Association. In its annual report of 1869, three men and six women in Berea College were listed as receiving part of their salary from the A.M.A. Donations were also forthcoming through the publicity given Berea in the Association's magazine, the American Missionary.

THE EMERGENCE OF A DISTINCTIVE EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM PUTTING THEORIES INTO PRACTICE

Berea's subsequent development embraced the principles and philosophy of its founders. Created to educate the needy and deserving, it was from the beginning open to all. At first, the College Department seldom numbered more than one-tenth of the entire enrollment. The small tuition fee originally charged was discontinued in 1892, when the College's finances were somewhat less precarious and a feasible labor program was established. Berea, during the

Berea Stresses Institutional, Individual Self-Help

By CLAYTON R. SUTTON

BEREA, Ky.—"I want desperately to go to college—to Berea College. I want an education. I want a broader, fuller life. I am willing to pay with hard work, long hours, with all that is within me. But I have no money." This appeal was written by a West Virginia high school senior in an autobiographical sketch submitted to Berea's admissions committee. It points up the principle of tuition-free Berea College—education without frills, coupled with required manual labor, for qualified students lacking funds for college training elsewhere.

The writer, the son of a farmer's widow, is the kind of aspiring young American for whom a growing number of educators would like increasingly huge sums of Federal aid. But he has no need for such help. His high scholastic record in high school and financial need won him a scholarship at Berea, and he's among some 400 freshmen and 950 upper classmen beginning their studies this month at the 108-year-old private college. Berea continues afloat to Federal or state support and, while pledged by its founders to promote Christian ideals, it receives no financial aid from any church denomination. Yet the college, situated at the foot of the Cumberland Mountains in Southeastern Kentucky, manages to operate within its income.

Livestock and a Hotel

It leans heavily on a growing but modest endowment fund and works incessantly to build up a roster of enthusiastic donors. Astute "merchandising" of its unusual work-study educational program, as well as its businesses—ranging from operation of a 67-room hotel to the sale of livestock and hand-crafted traditional furniture—has evoked considerable spontaneous and generous support.

"It is a healthy situation for an institution to have to state its case, go to its friends and the public," President Francis S. Hutchins has commented in outlining the need for funds to achieve a currently projected capital improvement program estimated to cost in excess of $2 million. "This usually assures a greater sense of stewardship."

Berea, to be sure, differs from other liberal arts colleges in the makeup of its student body. But these differences tend more to increase than reduce the difficulties of remaining free from government subsidy. For one thing, 80% of its students are selected from 230 Appalachian counties in eight Southeastern states—Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Tennessee, the Virginias and the Carolinas.

Assisting the youth of this area, where median gross family income in 1960 was $3,102 compared with $5,600 for the U.S. as a whole, has been the prime objective of the college since its founders in pre-Civil War days sought to bring learning to the region's mountain folk.

Jobs for Everyone

Another Berea distinction is the requirement that all students must work at least 10 hours a week as an integral part of the college's educational process. This is aimed at providing not only a minimal income toward living expenses, but, more importantly, to teach the non-monetary values of productive labor.

Each student is assigned a job in one of 64 departmental activities, including janitorial and clerical tasks, or work in the college's varied industries. For this work, allied as closely as possible to the student's chosen course of study, they receive nominal pay ranging from 15 cents to 34 cents an hour and are graded on the quality of their performance.

Accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Berea awards some B.S. degrees in agriculture, business administration, home economics, industrial arts or nursing though most graduates get the A.B. degree. While the college offers no graduate work, nearly half its graduates go on for graduate study in other institutions, with 26% winning advanced degrees. A majority of Berea's graduates, however, go immediately into teaching, government work, business or agriculture.

Berea has a special interest in current racial strife: it has been involved in the conflict for a long time. Its founders' beliefs on racial equality are expressed on the college seal: "God hath made of one blood all nations of men." There is no official record kept of students' racial heritage, but Dean Louis Smith figures there are about 60 Negroes and 40 foreign students, including representatives of other races, among the 1,350 students.

Actually, students were about equally divided between the white and Negro races for years after the Civil War, he recounts. But in 1904 Kentucky's legislature banned all interracial education. Thereupon, Berea's trustees hastily scraped together $400,000 and established the Lincoln Institute in Louisville for Negro schooling.

Berea took a hand, through court action, in getting the state law amended in 1950 to permit integration above the high school level and again opened its college doors to Negro students. With the Supreme Court ruling in 1954 calling for integration of all public schools, Berea resumed Negro education in its Foundation School, a high school adjunct to the college in which some 275 students are enrolled annually.

Berea's financial history, like that of many small liberal arts colleges, has been one of continual struggle to make both ends meet. Rising operating costs and a need for increasing facilities to maintain academic levels have meant recurrent appeals to former benefactors and a continual search for new ones. But a spirit of frankly "laying on the line" its current financial needs, coupled with a conservative policy of living within its means, appears to be paying off well.

The endowment fund has risen steadily each year from about $11 million in 1945 to more than $30 million, in book value, notes Vice President L. D. Bibbo. The current yield from endowments, invested mostly in stocks and bonds and real estate, is about 5% and makes up some 70% of the operating budget.

Some 20% of the balance of the general operating budget is derived from current gifts, 6% from earnings of the student work industries, and 4% from student dormitory, board and incidental fees.

One of Berea's most pressing financial problems, as with most institutions, is the maintenance of adequate teaching salaries. Cost of instruction in the 1962-63 year amounted to about $1,214,000, nearly $200,000 more than the previous year and more than a third of the $3.1 million budget. The increase reflected salary boosts for the 95 college and 25 Foundation School teachers. Present salaries range from a minimum of $4,750 annually for instructors, to a maximum of $10,500 for professors. And present plans call for further increases over the next decade.

Work in the Field

Berea's educational services to the Southern Appalachian region are not confined to the college campus; it brings adult and youth instruction in nursing, home economics, health and hygiene as well as improved teacher training to local mountain communities.

Such work was expanded in the 1920s by President William J. Hutchins, predecessor and father of the present president, and included work with government agencies to improve mountain living standards.

A by-product of these field activities is the encouragement of more young people to seek admission to Berea upon high school graduation. More than 1,100 applications are processed each spring with only about a third of these being accepted, largely because of limited facilities. Admission is based primarily on need and excellence of high school scholastic records.

While tuition is free - equivalent to an annual $1,250 scholarship in comparable institutions - students are required to pay board, dormitory, activity and incidental fees. This fall these total $532, up $36 from last year because of higher food and other costs.

Payment for their student work - no one is allowed to take other than college jobs - usually defrays about a third of this amount. The balance can be covered by summer work, scholarships, liberal student loans or parental assistance.

Berea's work program and student financing plans are administered by a dean of labor having academic faculty rank, believed to be the only such title among liberal arts colleges in the country. He also is in charge of an annual Labor Day convocation in May, climaxed by the year's work activities, at which honors are distributed for outstanding achievements.

Non-Money Value

Not all the student industries can consistently operate at a money profit, acknowledges a college official, "for we recognize that student labor is not always the most efficient. Inexperience, short work stretches, and semester-by-semester turnover detract from production efficiency. But the work-study program does have an important overall plus value in providing practical work experience, vocational guidance and in promoting democratic living."

President Hutchins, addressing a recent Labor Day convocation, stressed its value this way: "In the work program is recognition of the fact that in our lives there is a good deal of plain work which must be done regularly for the health and welfare of us individually and collectively. It is good to recognize this and not be too high-hat to share in it."

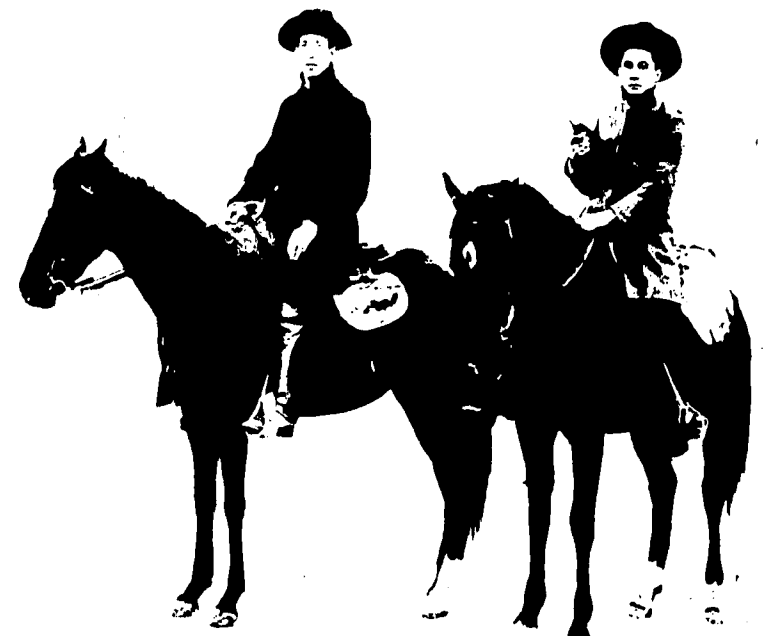

In a world where substitutes of all kind play an expanding role, these self-help ideas may sound rather reactionary. But they've been working well at Berea for more than a century.

approximately fifty years of leadership by Presidents Fairchild (1869-1889), Reverend William B. Stewart (1890-1892), and William G. Frost (1892-1920), strengthened its underlying philosophy by its significant strides in the areas of integrated education, a work-study program, and extension services. Its first commitment, too, was soon established; to provide an educational opportunity for isolated youth of the mountains.

NEGRO EDUCATION

For many years after the Civil War the student body was divided about equally between the two races. The success of this experiment in a former slave state during the days of Reconstruction may be attributed in large measure to President Fairchild. With great wisdom and kindness he guided hundreds of young whites and Negroes into mutual fellowship and understanding. In 1904, when compelled by the passage of a state law to forego interracial education, the College raised a fund of $400,000 to establish a new institution for Negro education, Lincoln Institute, near Louisville. When this same law was amended in 1950 to allow integration above the high school level, Berea College again opened its doors to Negro students, and since the Supreme Court ruling of 1954, Negro students at the high school level have once more been enrolled in Berea's Foundation School.

Harvest Storage Efficiency Related to Corn Acreage

The volume of a farmer's corn production is a major factor in selecting the most economical machinery and storage facilities, reports a Michigan State university agricultural economist.

C.R. "Ray" Hoglund points out that farmers harvesting less than 5,000 bushels of corn a year are probably better off harvesting with a picker and storing in a crib. But these practices will likely become less efficient as production goes up.

"Harvesting with a picker but storing as high moisture ground ear corn in a silo becomes a lower cost system when more than 6,000 bushels are harvested," says Hoglund.

"Harvesting with a picker-sheller becomes a profitable system when 6,000-7,000 or more bushels are harvested. The break-even point in costs between a picker-sheller and a combine with a corn head is 8,000 to 11,000 bushels.

"When high moisture shelled corn is stored in silos, the combine becomes less costly per bushel when 11,000 or more bushels are harvested."

Hoglund notes that field and harvest losses often run as high as 10 to 15 per cent when the crop is harvested with a picker and stored in a crib. These losses are reduced to less than 6 per cent when the crop is harvested as high moisture ear or shelled corn.

"Age, size, condition and trade-in values of present equipment should be considered when determining the best means for achieving efficiency," he said.

"When a corn crib or picker wears out, this is a good time to calculate possible savings by investing in modern harvesting machines and storage."

The MSU agricultural economist adds that the use of corn—whether it is sold or fed out on the farm—determines whether corn should be stored in silos as high moisture ground corn or shelled corn, or if it should be artificially dried.

"Total investments are about equal when the corn crop is harvested with a picker and stored as ear corn in new cribs or concrete silos," he notes.

"But investments increase by about 25 per cent when the corn is harvested with a picker-sheller or combine and either artificially dried or stored in steel bins or as high moisture corn in silos.

"Annual costs in harvesting and storing one bushel of corn may range from as low as 19 cents to more than 36 cents, depending on volume harvested and the system used," he concludes.

ASK THE CONVICT

Ever been arrested? If you had, you'd be more interested in a battle going on, not only in Michigan but across the country.

Police officials, mostly prosecutors, and others in government have been making a big to-do about news coverage of arrests and trials. They argue that leaving this important part of our government operation open to public view prejudices the jury so a person can't get a fair trial. They also assume that all police departments, all prosecutors and all courts operate fairly and promptly. In fact, the lawyers have a saying to the effect: slow justice is no justice. People who wait two to three years for results in civil actions are inclined to agree.

A prisoner spoke out on this news problem. Until then, the argument had been theoretical. It is surprising, no one thought to ask people who have been through the experience of a court trial, be they innocent or guilty.

Until now the argument had been mostly between news people and lawyers. But the prisoner's thoughts ought to shake many "just ordinary" people into action. No one can tell when he himself will be in a lawsuit. Everyone runs the chance of finding himself in a police station or a court. Everyone should ask himself: "Would I rather be in a court system which is open to public view or one in the hands of a court where the records and reactions of those involved are hidden from public view?"

Here's what the prisoner thinks. He is Hugh Dillon, associate editor of The Spectator at Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson. He wrote to the Jackson Citizen Patriot to argue for open courts and police records. These are quotes from his letter.

"My stand is basically I'd rather be at the mercy of a newspaper than to take the chance on the conscience of a police officer who knew he would not have to account to newsmen for his actions in my case."

"The most important factor on a defendant's viewpoint is the possibilities that could come about from 'muzzling' the press."

"With no outsiders to answer to, there will always be the possibility of abuse. There are many cases on record where newsmen were the primary cause of such abuses coming to light."

"As distasteful as the adverse publicity is, it might be better to be 'spotlighted' momentarily than to abuse in darkness."

Reaction from the public in general would strengthen news media's position when defending the public's right to court information in arguments with lawyers who have less faith in public knowledge than in bureaucracy of secret police proceedings. Letters to public officials, to newspapers or even to legislators are important.

SIGNS OF TIME

Nearly five years have passed since a group of legislators said, "We must regulate outdoor advertising this year." To this date nothing has been done but much is still being proposed.

In 1960 the urgency of the matter was planned largely on federal funds being added to highway appropriations for states which kept some 600 feet of right-of-way clear of roadside signboards.

Having passed the deadline to receive the federal bonus, the lawmakers now are dealing with lesser restrictions.

Current proposals would set sign restrictions in various locations at 250 to 300 feet.

The ban on signs would apply to special scenic areas, some residences, churches, schools and proximity to other billboards. Certain types of signs such as those resembling traffic markings would be outlawed by the proposal introduced by Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint.

Licensing fees and a regulatory board would also be established by the proposed law.

Back in 1960 and 1961 when the federal bonus and nationally-set restrictions were being considered, much of the lobbying opposition from businessmen was that the 600 foot ban was unreasonable.

Since that time much study has been conducted on highway visibility, advertising impact and other factors to produce the current proposal.

Businessmen were consulted throughout the consideration but lawmakers anticipated considerable opposition to this bill also.

WATER - WATER

Estimates of Michigan's wealth of lakes and ponds have always been around the 35,000 mark. Now it is official that there are 35,068.

A Michigan State university professor of resource development, Clifford Humphrys, has started a long-term study of Michigan's lakes which he calls "lacology," an original term. Humphrys' study shows that among all these lakes and ponds only 8,632 have names. Confusion among Michigan travelers about lakes is understandable, however, because Humphrys notes many lakes have the same names.

Most popular are Long, Round, Cranberry, Mud and Duck Lakes. There are some unusual names too, such as Quack Lake, N.Y.C. Lake and S. Lake.

While Humphrys' original findings in his estimated 20-year study are of a common-interest nature, he now plans a more scientific approach. Humphrys is now undertaking the mammoth job of classifying all these lakes and ponds by size, depth, fish species, type of shore and public facilities and other physical and cultural characteristics.

Awards achieved at the Spring Achievement will be announced at a later date.

Wide Range In Feed Prices Often Dependent on Services

The number of services purchased along with feed appears to influence the price paid by Michigan poultry growers.

John Wolford and Charles Sheppard, Michigan State university poultry extension specialists, recently surveyed 87 Michigan poultrymen on their feed and pullet buying habits and found feed prices per ton varied as much as 20 per cent among growers. A total of 41 growers reported purchasing corn, oats and concentrate for mixing while the remainder purchased complete mash feeds.

In addition to feed, many growers purchased a number of services from feed firms which included egg record keeping, credit, fly spray, rodent control, egg markets, money management and disease diagnosis.

"The survey indicated that the more services purchased, the higher the price of feed," said Wolford. "Poultrymen in the high price group with average feed costs of $75.29 per ton purchased an average of 21/2 more services than members of the low group where average feed prices were $60.80 per ton."

The poultry specialists also reported that size of operation didn't necessarily mean that feed is purchased at a lower price. They also found tons of feed delivered per week had no effect on price.

Egg producers who paid less than the average feed price purchased about 6,670 started pullets per purchase while producers paying above the average feed price purchased approximately 4,700 pullets at each purchase. The price paid for 20-week old started pullets ranged from a low of $1.62 per bird to a high of $2.16 per bird with an average of $1.85 per pullet.

Ceramics Group Meets

The last of the West Locke 4-H club ceramics meetings was held last Monday night at the home of their leader, Mrs. Colburn Smith and Junior leader, Pamela Smith. Reports were made out and ceramic pieces were prepared to take to Mason high school where they were judged March 27. Sixteen meetings were held this winter and the group toured the Commercial Ceramic House in Lansing once.

This group has 7 active members: Vicky Nichols, Debbie Nichols, Marsha Loti, Cherie Cook, Nedy Erb, Rebecca and Pamela Smith. Two of these members gave demonstrations at a recent community club meeting. Rebecca Smith demonstrated antiquing technique on a picture frame and Nedy Erb, underglazing a sword fish. Pamela Smith is doing a Wedgewood technique at the county fair.

Awards achieved at the Spring Achievement will be announced at a later date.

Spring Brings Out Landscape Con Men

It's open season on home gardeners again for high pressure salesmen and mail order advertisers using fancy names for ordinary shrubs and plants and making exaggerated claims for their plant material.

To keep from being taken in by these cheats and frauds home owners are urged to "Ask your nurseryman first" by Attorney General Frank Kelley, Agricultural Director George S. McIntyre and the Michigan Association of Nurserymen.

Beware of glowing word descriptions and faded photographs of climbing vine peaches, giant climbing strawberries, 1,000 giant red roses on a single bush (unknown to horticulturists), flowering shade trees that grow roof high in a single year, including the flowering maple that turns out to be the common silver maple with most inconspicuous blooms, etc., they advise.

"All consumer complaints, including verbal misrepresentations are reviewed by the Consumer Protection division of the Attorney General's office and appropriate action is taken," said Assistant Attorney General Hugh B. Anderson. "It is our experience that purchasers who deal with established local merchants can see what they are buying and are not misled by photographs or lurid verbal pictures."

"One cannot expect to get high quality stock at ridiculously low prices" said C.A. Boyer, chief of the plant industry division of the Department of Agriculture. "Purchasers should always demand a certificate of inspection with the stock as their assurance that it has passed inspection for insects and disease. Local nurserymen usually are familiar with local conditions and the varieties likely to do well in an area, and their advice can be helpful."

"There are some reliable mail order houses but there is no substitute for the expert service on selection, planting and care of the plant that your local nurseryman can give you" said M.A.N. Executive Secretary Victor C.

Beresford. "He wants to protect your interests so he can continue to serve you. That's why we advise - Ask your nurseryman first."

Ingham Sends Representatives

Ingham county sent 4 people to Camp Kett 4-H training center at Tustin recently. Topic of the conference was in the form of a horticulture workshop. This workshop covered a wide variety of subjects namely vegetables, flowers, indoor gardening, landscaping and horticulture experimental projects.

Spring Is Optimistic Time In Outlook of Area Farmers

Springtime is a season of optimism on Michigan's farms. It is a time of readying machinery for periods of concentrated work—a time of planning and getting set to plant.

Those who grow fruits and vegetables look upon spring as decision-time. How were conditions for last year's crop? What fertilizer tonnage will we need? How about seed?

Big as these questions are, far greater is the matter of markets. Some specialists say that the big-city housewife these days "sets her table" from as much as 1,000 miles away, meaning that fresh produce comes to her daily from such distances.

To compete with such efficiency and demand, local producers have been busy organizing a sort of "Duncan Lines" marketing association, one that pledges members to quality standards of the type that will further inspire public confidence.

A non-profit organization of roadside market owners who voluntarily agree to open their markets to periodic inspection by authorized personnel through the Michigan Department of Agriculture, the group is optimistic about a future tied to public acceptance through quality-control.

Taking the name "Michigan Certified Farm Markets"—each member of the new Association will display an easily identified sign bearing the "Certified" wording, and with it will pledge support to a substantial list of membership qualifications. Topping the list is the agreement to produce at least 50% of the fruits, flowers and vegetables offered in the market, which must itself be a permanent or semi-permanent type facility.

In other words, these will be local market operators, offering a majority of locally grown produce, which will be in inspected facilities, plainly priced and accurately described.

Members agree to: "offer only high-quality merchandise in good condition, use no false or deceptive statements, adhere to the highest standards of honest advertising."

In short, the Certified Market operators intend to build business volume in the only solid way that it can be built—through customer confidence based on the good will and understanding of the general public.

Plans Move Ahead For Michigan Week

Plans are moving forward rapidly for the 12th Michigan Week, to be observed May 16-22.

This year the celebration takes on an international color with special projects and events focusing attention on the prominent role of Michigan in world affairs and world trade and the state's contributions to the social and economic advancement of people in other lands.

"Michigan-Dynamic in World Progress," is the theme of the 1965 Michigan Week.

Governor George Romney, honorary Michigan Week chairman, sounded the keynote for this year's program, when he called on all citizens to emphasize the theme throughout the entire year.

Governor Romney, Secretary of State James Hare and leaders of both parties in the legislature will head a delegation of 50 Michigan businessmen on a 10-day European trade mission April 22 through May 1. Termed "Operation Europe," the trip will be a prelude to Michigan Week.

In many communities and institutions plans are being made for international events before and during Michigan Week to focus attention on the state's role in world affairs.

Woodward C. Smith, vice-president for public services, Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, is general chairman for the 1965 Michigan Week which is sponsored by the Greater Michigan Foundation.

All counties and most communities have Michigan Week chairmen, each heading a local Michigan Week council.

Always Michigan and its farm products gain national recognition through the annual tour of 3 or 4 agricultural queens during Michigan Week.

In each Michigan Week region an organization, group or local government body is selected for the community achievement of the year, and from the 16 regional winners judges select the state community achievement of the year.

Annually 10 individuals are given volunteer leadership awards for outstanding leadership in voluntary service to their community and state.

Each year 5 citizens are honored as Wolverine Frontiersmen for especially distinguished achievement in opening new frontiers to the people of Michigan, the nation and the world.

Widespread use of the state flag and emphasis on the history of the flag has come about as the result of Michigan Week. Promotion of the state flag is a continuous Michigan Week effort.

Each day of Michigan Week has a special designation, with state and local committees formulating programs keyed to the central idea of the particular day.

The seven special days are: Sunday, Spiritual Foundations Day; Monday, Our Government Day; Tuesday, Hospitality Day;

Catholics Start Drive To Aid Overseas

Catholics in the parishes of the Lansing deanery will take part in the 19th annual appeal for the Catholic Bishops' Fund for the Needy Overseas.

The annual national fund drive is part of a continuing effort by American Catholics led by their bishops to carry out the massive health, education and welfare program of the church which in 1964 involved distribution of needed goods in 73 countries. Msgr. Herman P. Fedewa, of St. Mary Cathedral in Lansing, is the diocesan director of this year's one-week appeal in which churches solicited funds through envelopes at two consecutive Sunday masses -- March 21 and March 28.

The Reverend Thomas W. Thompson, of St. Casimir church, is the Lansing deanery director for the appeal. Last year the appeal in the Lansing deanery, which includes Ingham County and portions of surrounding counties, together with the four other diocesan deaneries, drew close to $82,000 in contributions. Of that amount $10,500 was contributed by the children in the Lansing Diocese.

Directors of this year's drive have planned a public information campaign built on newspaper, radio, and television stories dealing with effects of the overseas aid program on the problems of poverty in underdeveloped countries.

According to the Reverend Thompson, the Bishops' Drive is tied into the annual Thanksgiving drive for collection of clothing for the needy overseas. Part of the funds are used for the shipment of the tons of clothing collected in parishes throughout the area, he said.

The Bishops Fund Drive is part of the larger program of the Catholic Relief Services. Last year the national Bishops' Relief Fund collected $32.3 million toward the $160 million spent by the Catholic Relief Services program throughout the world.

Among other things, this purchased more than 1,000 tons of drugs and other medical and hospital supplies shipped to 55 countries. Pharmaceutical companies in Michigan and elsewhere in the country contributed significantly to arranging for shipments and in actual donations to the worldwide service.

The Reverend Thompson said other services performed through the fund last year included aid given to 15,000 refugees from Communist China and continuing welfare services to the thousands of Cuban refugees remaining in the Miami, Florida, area.

As examples of work accomplished around the world through Catholic Relief Services, the Reverend Thompson cited 52 tons of food and supplies which assisted flood victims in the north-Wednesday, Our Livelihood Day; Thursday, Education Day; Friday, Our Heritage Day; Saturday, Our Youth Day.

The exchange of mayors and village presidents always takes place on Our Government Day with an average of 350 cities and villages participating.

ern states of Brazil and the 500 tons dispatched to Ecuador to ease the misery caused by severe drought conditions.

"Catholics of this deanery have traditionally shown their concern for the poor of the world for the past two decades by contributing to this fund.

"Once again, all are invited to support the appeal with even greater generosity than before, because the need is greater, the available means to meet it are greater—and our Christian concern should be greater also," said Father Thompson.

Holt Stars Play Hostess

Holt chapter OES 510 was host to the Ingham county association Friday, March 26, at Holt masonic temple with Amity, Mason, Leslie and Stockbridge as co-hostesses. Eleven chapters from Ingham county were represented as were one from Clinton and one from Eaton counties.

The welcome was given by Mrs. Muzetta Young, worthy matron of Holt who introduced Mrs. Iva Roebuck, county president of the association. Mrs. Roebuck introduced Fred Rutledge, worthy patron of Leslie, as master of ceremonies for the event.

Entertainment for the evening consisted of several numbers played on the piano by Miss Genevieve Hart of Mason, also, Jack O'Berry and his Sky Larks with Ricky and Chuck O'Berry assisting, played several songs and dance numbers. They are from the Skeeter Hill 4-11 club of Mason. Other entertainment included the Whistling Pygmies of Wacousta, games were played afterwards.

MSU Is Planning Education In Small College Setting

Michigan State university students will have an opportunity to obtain a liberal education in a small college setting, and still have the advantages of a large university, under an experimental program approved by MSU's board of trustees.

The program includes the partial restructuring of the undergraduate program through identification of a new, semi-autonomous experimental college.

The board action followed a study by a special faculty committee and unanimous endorsement of the proposal by the Academic Council.

Establishment of the new college will be accomplished through reorganization within the present university structure. The new college will be housed in one of the existing student living units. Size of the experimental college will be limited, reaching a maximum of about 1,000 to 1,100 students. Provost Howard R. Neville explained. The first class will consist of about 400 freshmen.

The new college will go into operation "as soon as possible," Dr. Neville indicated. "Curriculum planning will get underway immediately."

There will be a substantial core of courses required of all students.

However, Dr. Neville emphasized that the students will be encouraged to take elective courses and courses along specialized lines of interest in both the new college and the larger university.

The students will also be encouraged to participate in all-university extracurricular affairs. The faculty for the new college will be drawn from the existing university structure.

New Weapons Battling Corn Rootworm Menace

One of the American farmer's most formidable insect foes is the corn rootworm. It has cost Corn Belt farmers untold millions in lost crops and reduced corn yields. The three species of rootworm (Southern, Northern and Western) feed on corn roots, denying the plant moisture and nutrients. The adult beetles eat the silks, interfering with pollination. Since 1961, the Western rootworm has increased rapidly; its resistance to insecticides began to show up as early as 1959 in Nebraska. Where aldrin or heptachlor have been used in continuous corn for seven or more years, the rootworm is developing resistance.

An article in the current issue of the Farm Quarterly details the rootworm menace and the various ways of combating it. The article points out that fields which had no root damage last year, but were infested with adult Western corn rootworm beetles, may be infested with resistant rootworm this year, especially if some resistant populations were reported in the area. In this case, it is recommended that the corn grower switch to one of the new organophosphate insecticides such as Diazinon, Thimet, Parathion, Niran 10-G or Alderx.

To determine if sidedress-ing applications of the new organophosphate insecticides is necessary during the growing season, dig up several off-color or somewhat discolored corn plants about the middle of June and examine the roots and soil around them. Where eight or more larvae are found per plant it is a good bet that sidedressing applications of organophosphates will be profitable. Experience has shown it is doubtful that these applications will do any good after June 24 in the mid-Corn Belt states or after July in the Northern Corn Belt states.

According to the Farm Quarterly article, any practice which promotes good root systems such as proper fertilization and thorough seedbed preparation will provide some defense against all rootworms. Farmers are urged to plant as early as possible so roots will get a head-start on the rootworms. Earlier sowing also prevents heavy adult beetle damage. Hilling up corn plants gives brace roots better anchorage. Sidedressing with about 60 pounds of actual nitrogen in solution or in irrigation water after root damage has occurred will speed plant recovery.

Crop rotation can help control corn rootworm. There is evidence that damage is less in corn that follows any other weed-free crop. Rootworms find their most favored conditions when corn follows corn. The Farm Quarterly article ends on the optimistic note that a combination of new chemicals and resistant hybrids will keep farmers at least one jump ahead of the rootworm threat.

Springtime Brings Out Farm Gyps

Springtime Gyps Springtime is a time of confidence for most farmers.

Such confidence and obvious trust in the future sometimes attracts gyp-artists and other "confidence" men. The buying of machinery, livestock and assorted "services" can be a complicated affair. Unless the farmer is careful, he can wind up on the short end of things.

Occasionally even a cautious farmer will get hooked with worthless nursery stock, with shoddy seed or services of highly questionable value. Being no less human than others, farmers have been known to fall for "bargains"—and to rush into actions involving important decisions or large sums of cash. To late they may find themselves tied to a bad bargain or fleeced by fly-by-night operators.

Old warnings need repeating this time of year. The rules are simple: deal with people you know and trust, deal with local persons and firms. Remember that all of us are greedy at times and confidence men use this weakness to tempt us into quick actions and decisions that later cause regret.

Remember, there are few real bargains. A reputable dealer or a real bargain can wait—they will still be there tomorrow.

Fortunately, local merchants and local newspaper advertising stand as front-lines of protection against those who would mislead and misrepresent. No local publisher ever knowingly accepts false advertising, and no local merchant ever knowingly tries to place it.

Many thousands of dollars worth of non-local business are turned down each year by your newspaper because of this alertness. Distant, would-be advertisers and their products are closely screened by the editor and his staff who work constantly to protect you, as a subscriber.

Although most non-local advertising placed in your newspaper has been checked out, the confidence man and the quick-change artist will always find ways to promote their schemes. This leaves the final responsibility up to each farmer as either buyer or seller.

Be alert. Refuse to take part in any transaction calling for a rush decision, especially those involving high-pressure operators unknown to you.

Income Tax Collector Answers Questions

R.L. Nixon, Detroit district director for the Internal Revenue service, advised that as the 1965 filing period rapidly draws to an end, the Detroit district office has found that Michigan taxpayers in general are having the same common problems. Nixon stated that the most frequently asked questions deal with the deduction for Michigan sales and gasoline taxes.

If a taxpayer itemizes deductions on Page 2 of the Form 1040, he is allowed to deduct general sales tax and gasoline tax even though the items may be personal expenses. To determine allowable deduction for sales tax, he may itemize the amount he actually spent on Michigan sales tax. In lieu of this method of computation, he may use the sales tax deduction table published by the Internal Revenue service. This table is a guide to the average amounts which may be claimed in the absence of definite proof of payment. If the sales tax table is used and an automobile was purchased during the calendar year of 1964, the amount of sales tax on this purchase may also be deducted but must be itemized separately. Since the sales tax table for 1964 has been revised, tables published in earlier years may not be used in completing a 1964 Federal tax return.

The allowable deduction for gasoline tax is 6¢ per gallon and is not included in the Michigan sales tax deduction table. To easily compute deduction for gasoline tax, merely determine the total number of miles driven during the year and divide this number by the average number of miles per gallon. The answer will be the number of gallons consumed, which when multiplied by 6¢ will give the amount of this deduction.

Nixon said that other common questions asked either in person on taxpayer assistance day or by telephone are:

Where should I mail my Federal tax return? Michigan residents should mail their Federal tax return to the District Director, Internal Revenue Service, Detroit, Michigan 48226. If the return shows a tax balance due, a check in this amount made payable to "Internal Revenue Service" should accompany the return.

I recently filed my return and have a refund coming. When can I expect to receive my refund check? Generally, a refund check can be expected in about 6 weeks.

There are several factors involved which may delay the release of a refund check. Errors or imperfections detected on an initial review or the fact that the return was selected for a pre-refund audit can delay the issuance of a refund check. Also involved is the time of filing. A return filed early in the filing period will be processed in less time than one received with the bulk of returns at the close of the period.

Is it true that students are allowed a double tax exemption? While not completely true, in one sense they are. A full-time student filing his own return may claim one exemption for himself.

If the student's parents provide more than one half of his support, then they also may claim him as an exemption assuming the other tests of dependency are met.

I just completed my 1964 Federal tax return and find I owe more money this year than I did last. Why is this, since we were supposed to have received a several billion dollar tax reduction? The 1964 Revenue Act did reduce all individual Federal income tax rates. If the income and total deductions were comparable for both 1963 and 1964, most taxpayers will find their total tax liability was greater for 1963 than it is for 1964.

Mich. Bell Announces Expansion

Michigan Bell Telephone company announced today it will spend a record $122,000,000 this year for expansion and improvement of its facilities.

The 1965 outlay, which will reach into virtually every community served by Michigan Bell, will top last year's previous record by $15,000,000. It will push the company's total construction expenditures in Michigan in the last 10 years close to the $1,000,000,000 mark.

William M. Day, Michigan Bell president, said this year's program is designed to keep pace with the unprecedented demand for telephone service brought about by the state's continued economic vigor.

In 1965, the company expects to connect a record 760,000 telephones and remove 604,000, for a net gain of 156,000. Long distance messages are expected to increase 6 per cent.

Michigan Bell will link 20 more communities to the nationwide Direct Distance Dialing network—Athens, Battle Creek, Bellevue, Benton Harbor, Berrien Springs, Coloma, Coral, Eau Claire, Fulton, Galesburg, Kalamazoo, Marshall, Martin, Olive, Oshtemo, Plainwell, Richland, St. Joseph, Three Oaks, Vicksburg and Watervliet.

By year's end, nearly 90 per cent of the company's customers will be able to dial their own long distance calls.

The conversion of telephones from manual to dial operation at New Buffalo and Belding will bring to 99.6 per cent the number of Michigan Bell customers to be served by dial telephones. These two exchanges also will be added to the DDD network. The company's 1965 program will provide for the construction of 18 new buildings and 16 building additions at a cost of $1.5 million.

Mental Health Is Topic For Methodist Program

Representatives of Recovery, Inc. will present a panel demonstration at the family night program of the Mason Methodist church. The program will follow a potluck supper at the church beginning at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, April 8. Anyone interested is welcome to attend.

Recovery, Inc. is an international mental health organization. It was formed to develop after-care techniques in the mental health field. The system of self-help techniques was begun by the late Dr. Abraham Low of the University of Illinois medical school.

The organization is non-profit, and is led by lay people. Recovery, Inc. does not offer medical or spiritual advice nor does it replace the services of professionals in the field of mental health. The lay leaders are all former patients.

The panel demonstration will be presented to explain the systematic techniques that are used. Six representatives of Recovery, Inc. will demonstrate the method in action.

In Michigan there are more than 150 local groups currently organized. Around 2,000 persons attend the weekly meetings. Nationally, 10,000 former mental patients participate in the organization.

This family night program is being sponsored by the social concerns commission of the Methodist church to help make the community aware of one of several significant social problems faced by society. Gary Seavers is chairman of the commission.

Cub Scouts Offer Award

A National Summertime Pack award will recognize Cub Scout packs that plan summer activities for boys who are eager for summertime fun and the adventure of Cub scouting.

The summertime recognition program has been adopted by the Chief Okemos Council, Boy Scouts of America, and will be presented to Cub Scout leaders at the council's district roundtables in March, according to James Wilkinson, chairman of the council camping and activities committee.

A full-color certificate from the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be presented to packs that plan and conduct pack activities in June, July, and August, and average at least 50 per cent of their Cub Scouts in attendance.

A den ribbon is also offered to all of the dens in each pack that have at least 50 per cent of their Cub Scouts in attendance at the three summer pack activities.

A preview of the suggested themes for June, July, and August list Backyard Adventure with outdoor fitness activities; Cub Scouts on Wheels to give Cub Scouts the fun of building and using skate boards, cumbobles, and scooters; and Summer Theater when old-favorite stunts and skits are revived to produce a neighborhood show for parents and friends.

Wilkinson pointed out that summer provides the time for Cub Scouts to satisfy their natural urge to do things, make things, and to visit and explore, and that Cub scouting provides a lively program for boys who are 8, 9, and 10 years old.

County Extension Agent, 4-H
4-H clothing and knitting have become an important aspect to personality and ways of life for many 4-H members. The 4-H clothing and knitting projects provide these 7 keys to personal development for 4-H club members.

As I See It By Hayden Palmer

Next week is Holy Week, the most solemn of all the religious periods of the year.

It will open Sunday with the observance of Palm Sunday when in many churches worshippers will receive alms leaves at the services.

Thursday of Holy Week is known as Maundy Thursday, so-called from the ancient custom of washing the feet of the poor on this day which was taken to be the fulfillment of the "new commandment."

Maundy Thursday is followed by Good Friday, the most solemn of all the days of the church year. Protestant and Catholic churches alike observe the day with services to commemorate Christ's 3 hours of agony on the Cross.

Then on Sunday, April 18 this year, comes Easter, the day of rejoicing in the Resurrection, one of 2 great religious holidays. The other is Christmas Day.

On Easter churches mark the Resurrection with song and prayers of praise.

Easter has become almost as much of an observance as Christmas in the material world. People exchange gifts and send Easter cards. People deck themselves in new finery not only because of the joyous religious event but also because Easter is a time when the dark cloak of winter is tossed aside and the bright garb of spring replaces it.

Easter never falls on the same date each year. Its time is determined by the moon. Easter is the first Sunday after the full moon on or next after the vernal equinox in the Gregorian calendar, according to Webster's dictionary. If the full moon falls on a Sunday, Easter is observed one week later.

We read a lot these days of the performances of teen-agers, those who commit vandalism, those who smoke and even those who drink, but we never hear much about the others--that great majority who lead normal, healthy and Christian lives.

The publicity goes largely to those who create trouble of one kind or another. That is because police blotters throughout the land record the actions of the bad youngsters, while the actions of many of the good ones go without notice.

But for every recalcitrant boy or girl in Mason today there are scores of others who win honors for scholastic work, or participate in 4-H club and Future Farmer activities or church affairs year after year without the publicity to which they are justly entitled.

So when you read of deprecations caused by young people, remember that there are thousands of others who are growing up to be good citizens and our leaders of tomorrow.

All policemen carry handcuffs. They are part of their regular equipment.

So when an auxiliary policeman in a town not too far from Mason was issued his pair he took them home and showed them to his wife.

Then, so the story goes, he wanted to show her exactly how they worked and snapped them on her wrists. He snapped them so tightly that her wrists hurt and she begged him to take them off.

He got out what he thought was the key, but found it didn't fit. Then while she waited patiently he rushed off to find his superior officer to get a key to free his manacled wife.

He finally returned home and freed the poor woman who by that time was almost in agony from the tight bands of steel around her wrists.

On Nov. 22, 1943, Tarawa was declared secured. The battle for this island was one of the fiercest in Marine Corps history. The initial assault wave was pinned down at the water's edge, after having to wade 500-900 yards from grounded landing craft. Though the Japanese were deeply entrenched in fortifications often reaching a thickness of 15 feet, more than 4,000 were annihilated. Marine casualties were 2,037 wounded and 913 killed or missing.

Albion College Gets Judge McClellan Gift

Albion College has received a bequest of $150,000 from the estate of the late Mrs. Mary Jane McClellan of Lansing, it has been reported by Dr. Louis W. Norris, Albion president.

Mrs. McClellan died in Lansing last July. She was the widow and sole survivor of Judge John McClellan, Ingham County probate judge from 1936 through 1956 and a member of the Albion graduating class of 1904.

Judge McClellan died at a Lansing hospital in September, 1957. He was 77.

Mrs. McClellan's will names Albion college as the residuary legatee and designates the bequest be used to provide scholarship funds for worthy students attending Albion from Eaton, Ingham and Jackson counties, Michigan.

"This was the wish of my late husband," stated Mrs. McClellan.

Albion will establish The John and Mary Jane McClellan Scholarship Endowment Fund, President Norris said.

Mrs. McClellan, a registered nurse, was the former Mary Jane Maurer. She had lived in Lansing since her husband's death. The couple had previously resided in a country home near Mason which they built following their marriage in 1922.

Born in Springport, Judge McClellan attended the University of Michigan law school after graduation from Albion. He obtained his law degree in 1907 and became a practicing attorney in Lansing. He served as city attorney and as a municipal judge before his election to the probate bench. Judge McClellan was widely known for his juvenile program and for his handling of court wards.

Friends Fete Sam Lakin

The Polish hall in Lansing was the scene of much activity last week when friends and associates gave a retirement party for Sam Lakin who lives at 4044 Tolland avenue, Holt.

After the social hour, a ham and Swiss steak dinner was served to more than 100. Mr. Emerson, General Motors plant manager and department head, gave a short speech thanking Lakin for his faithful service of 47 years at Fisher Body.

He was presented with a television and as a final gesture of good will his wife received a bouquet of red roses with a note saying, "Back of every successful man there is always a good woman."

His friends expressed their wishes for him to have many happy years and lots of good fishing.

Power Company Officials Warn Young Kite Fliers

It's the missile season in Michigan, and our young spacemen and spacewomen will be on the launching pads all around the state by the thousands.

Meaning, kids will be flying kites.

And they won't have nearly the trouble getting their missiles off the ground that the people down at Cape Kennedy frequently encounter.

Just about every Michigan countdown will end in the skyward soar of a colorful, though modest, man-made missile.

It's once they're up in the sky that kites become a problem. Not to any real or imaginary enemy, but to the children themselves, and sometimes to the power company.

According to W. R. Carlyon, division manager of Consumers Power Company's Lansing Division, youngsters should observe the following rules of kite flying for their own personal safety's sake:

1. Always use dry string, not wire or anything metallic like gift wrapping ribbon.

2. Use no metal in kite construction.

3. Fly kites on days when it's not rainy or showery.

4. Keep off streets and highways.

5. Keep away from TV and other types of aerials.

6. Never fly a kite near any kind of power lines.

If, he adds, your kite ends up in a tree or on a wire, never climb up after it, because of the danger of falling.

Mr. Carlyon said kite flying is a joyful pastime if it's done safely, but still every year in Michigan, alone there are one or two children who forget the rules and are hurt, sometimes seriously.

And that, he said, is when the game of kite flying becomes a case of playing with deadly missiles, which is no game at all.

Teen Agers: Avoid Obesity

A prominent nutritionist warned teen-agers last week to avoid obesity or eventually they will have to go on a reducing diet and face the rigors of semi-starvation.

"A reducing diet, faithfully followed, produces a mild state of semi-starvation," Dr. Olaf Mickelson of Michigan State University reported in the keynote address to the National Youthpower Congress in Chicago.

Typical symptoms, he said, include hunger pains, fatigue, difficulty in getting things done, an antisocial attitude and a depressed disposition.

"The development of these symptoms," Dr. Mickelson pointed out, "probably explains why most reducing diets are designed for seven days--most people couldn't stand them for any longer period."

"It is far better to avoid becoming obese. Here more than any other place, one may say, 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.'"

Dr. Mickelson, who is professor of foods and nutrition and of biochemistry at MSU, said obesity is not a matter of "a magic number in a table of heights and weights or exceeding some ideal such as 36-24-34."

True obesity, he said, results from the accumulation of fat in the body and can be determined precisely only in a research laboratory.

There are ways of making a rough check on body fat, however, and they ought to be tried before a diet is started, Dr. Mickelson said. Otherwise, he noted, a person may take off pounds when there is no surplus fat to dispose of.

One way of checking, he said, is by lying motionless in water. "An obese individual, he explained, 'has no trouble keeping afloat, whereas a lean person rapidly sinks under similar circumstances.'"

However, there is a simpler means for a person to learn roughly how fat he is, Dr. Mickelson continued.

He explained that about half of the body's fat is immediately under the skin and "by leaning slightly to one side to relax the skin, you should be able to pick up the skinfold midway between your hips and lowest rib. If that fold of skin is more than one inch, you should do something about it."

"It is well to get your physician's advice and help," he added.

Dr. Mickelson urged young people to "make sure you get a well-balanced diet made up of a variety of foods. Variety is the spice of life and that goes for our meals also. Furthermore, variety is one of the best ways to ensure an adequate intake of all essential nutrients."

"Those who say they do not have to watch their diets because they take vitamin pills are revealing their ignorance of nutrition," Dr. Mickelson said.

"To take the philosophy of these people is as absurd as to say that when mixing the batter for a cake you will be concerned only about the flavoring and not worry about the other ingredients."

Dr. Mickelson has been engaged in nutritional research for more than 25 years. Before joining MSU in 1962, he was chief of laboratory nutrition and endocrinology for the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases.

His research projects include a study of diets based mainly on wheat protein.

The Bookshelf

By R.E. SCOTT
INGHAM COUNTY LIBRARY
Nuts, Nuts. Where have all the writers gone? To graveyards? No, no--they're still kicking the same old ball around trying to hit the flower in the bud. No nonsense, though. No justice in heaven or hell, either. See what being a librarian can do? Nuts. A fig for justice--and courage, Frug. All over the page. Hell of a sound. How does the tune go?

"From Here to Eternity." A good book about the American style of war, even if it did stop over the pages a bit. Not to cross the "Thin Red Line" which was bloody fine. (Nuts.) Great, but a promise ahead. "An American Dream." A naked scream in the wilderness. Shanti, Oim? They have all gone under the sea, including Rojack and collegee Norman. Words cracked; Norm's teeth was too much. Nuts. The wheel has come full circle about the prickly pear of battle. Nuts, Nuts.

Crane, Jones, Maller. OK, boys, into your corners and when the bell tolls get the hell off your respected islands and come out fighting. Sure, an' we'll let you play, but don't push the pieces too far or you might knock each other out writing about why you pushed. Might as well, though--no justice. Norman doesn't think so--God bless the child. "In your Adolescence." DER PARK were you out, but America undid you." Malo, Bad. Hold it Norman. '07 is on the case singing "See You in My Dreams." Goodnight, Mr. Maller, wherever you are. Rip!

Meanwhile, back at the Red Badge the confederate army slipped Southern Comfort and cranked its neck to watch Stephen write a book. Journalist. Effort. Unknown to moderns. Authors are made, not born like Norman. Stephen wrote about the American dream with "Maggie" and gutsy Henry but he didn't think so and his books were good. Jimmy Jones did know it, and held up Henry's glass and gazed through its round red bottom at his own war--after the Southern Comfort was gone. Vision, 20/20. Attention Mr. and Mrs. America and all the ships at sea, let's go to pot! '07 had tea yesterday with the Viet Cong. Always a thin red line.

Mormon Natter on a cross of fool's gold, tithing for the American book trade. Peace, Liberty, equality, and the Almighty Fraternity. The Iceman of the American nightmare cometh. Where have all the flowers gone? Porgive me, Mr. Lawrence--Norman may be with thee in Paradise.

What Ingham County Churches Are Doing

To VICTORY

... that is the cry of the multitude. Today we join the happy throngs around the earth as we shout together, "Hosanna"! Whatever the morrow may hold of suffering, today we declare to the world... "Christ has come." Because we are in His company, we know that God ultimately will be sovereign over all the world. We are confident that goodness is stronger than evil. We are sure love will triumph over hate. Whatever a Friday of crucifixion may bring of temporary defeat, we know life will triumph over death, and the Christian way will resolve itself supremely in the final destiny. Then Palm Sunday is a day to celebrate and set up our banner of hope. "For right is right as God is and right the day must win." This hope will convert, for us, spiritual defeat into eternal victory.

Let's Trample This Minority

This is the era of minorities. There is always the fear these days of trampling on the minority.

But there are some minorities which need to be trampled.

Last week the News ran a front page feature concerning drinking on the part of teenagers--not in Chicago, not in Detroit, not in New York, but right here in Mason. The article raised few eyebrows.

According to police records and to school officials there is no widespread drinking among Mason teenagers. In fact those who have been picked up for the most part have been from other communities. That's good news. Too often the actions of a few paint a sorry picture of the many--whether it be teenagers or adults.

Every effort should be made by law officers, by those charged with the responsibility of prosecution, by the courts and by the people of Mason, themselves, including teenagers, to see that this small minority doesn't become a majority as it has in many other communities in this free-wheeling, abuse-of-the-law society into which we have slid.

Here in Mason and Ingham county law officers and the county prosecutor have promised an all-out war against juvenile drinking and the results of juvenile drinking.

They can't do it alone, though. It will take a realization on the part of all of us that we have responsibilities, too.

Condoning such incidents and ignoring the consequences or trying to temper the consequences of juvenile violations isn't going to help the violators or our community.

Let's all join forces to trample the minority of youngsters who are liquor law violators and let's trample the minority of adults, parents included, who furnish liquor and aid in tarnishing the reputation and create the problems for the majority, as well as the minority.

Who's the War Monger?

Back before last fall's presidential election, the Johnson administration was quite emphatic that things were really under control in South Viet Nam. The solution to the conflict, according to Candidate LBJ, was a continuation of a winning battle of political science with a strictly advisory position for the U.S. military.

On the other hand, Candidate Barry Goldwater said things were a mess in Viet Nam and the solution was a determination to fight to win.

The country chose Johnson to be president. And a person would have every right to expect that because LBJ happened to be president during the campaign, he might have been telling the American people the facts. The people chose to believe on the basis of facts presented that there was relative peace in Viet Nam. Goldwater attempted to tell about what was in store for the United States in Viet Nam. Some American military officers tried to tell, too. But the people wouldn't listen. The president laughed one day during the campaign and said more people were being killed on Texas highways than in Viet Nam. Consequently when Goldwater presented an outline for winning the war in Viet Nam, a war that the president denied existed, Goldwater was painted as a war monger.

This background is interesting in view of what's happening today. Johnson seems to be doing everything that Goldwater said ought to have been done several months ago.

Remember when Goldwater said the U.S. ought to take the war into North Viet Nam?

Guess who's doing it now? Remember when Goldwater said the U.S. should strike at Chinese supply lines to the north? Guess who's doing it now?

Remember when Goldwater said some military strategists advocated a "de-foliation" of the jungles through which supplies entered the Viet Nam area? Guess who ordered it done last week?

About the only thing Johnson has done that Goldwater didn't propose 6 months ago was the introduction of gas warfare to Viet Nam, a near-disastrous decision detrimental to the advancement of the U.S. effort in Viet Nam.

By withholding facts from the American public last fall, Candidate LBJ was able to make Candidate Goldwater look like a war monger. And the American public bought it.

How odd it is that LBJ has now done what Goldwater proposed a few months ago. How odd that LBJ is now credited with being heroic for doing what Goldwater dared to propose before the election.

Goals for 1965

The Ingham County News supports these objectives:

1. A popular vote to secure the people's choice as to what type of city hall - fire station is needed.
2. Expansion of new and completion of existing city parks with emphasis on playgrounds and picnic areas.
3. Continued planting of trees with provisions requiring subdividers to plant at least one tree on each lot before acceptance by the city.
4. A community center with regular hours and projects for senior citizens.
5. An industrial park to be operated by a non-profit community corporation with the avowed purpose of attracting desirable industries.
6. A Mason museum.

Wrap Ideas In One Package

TUSCOLA COUNTY ADVERTISER

It is becoming evident that instead of fiscal reform, Michigan is getting fiscal confusion as bills continue to flow into the legislative hopper.

Bills are offering a hodge-podge of solutions to a problem which no one has taken the time to state in answerable terms as yet.

Some time ago, the Governor called for fiscal reform. With this we are with the Governor 100%. But the answer that the Governor got to his call for reform has been ridiculous. It seems that everyone in Lansing suddenly has an idea on how to eradicate the inequities in our state's fiscal system and still keep enough tax hay coming in to feed the hungry government horse.

No form of fiscal reform will ever be accomplished under the present "giddyup-whoa-back" approach. About all we will get is a raft of confusing bills that in the end will favor the group that hollers the loudest and will bring little solid relief and equity to the ordinary citizen.

We believe it is time for the state legislature to wrap up the entire problem and hand it to a specially-instituted commission to give some serious study to develop some serious answers.

We believe that such a commission should take into consideration all aspects of the state's fiscal operations, ranging from depreciation schedules to big corporation taxes. We believe that spending and taxing programs should be programmed in this way for consideration by the state legislature.

We shall never reach any sensible and equitable solution to our fiscal problems in Michigan if we continue to have spurts and squirts and dabs of legislative proposals. It will be accomplished only by an independent study covering everything--and we mean everything connected with state spending and state taxing.

April 19, 1945

Since her mate went away to the wars, Mrs. Don Densmore goes about doing good. She organizes this, that and the other thing, and just generally plays a big sister role in the community. On Sunday night of the last week she happened to think that her former neighbor, Chuck Swartout, might not catch the bus at 4 o'clock Monday morning to start his army career. She kept worrying through the night and finally at 3 o'clock called the Swartout home on the telephone. There was no answer. Mrs. Densmore then drove to the house and blew the horn. There was no response. Then Mrs. Densmore opened the door and hoo-hooed but there was no answer. Feeling sure that the Swartouts were home, Mrs. Densmore went right in the bedroom and there she found Chuck and the little woman sleeping peacefully through all the commotion. Mrs. Densmore grabbed Chuck by the shoulder and finally roused him. He thanked her for preventing him from going AWOL before he had been issued a uniform.

Three nights later Mrs. Densmore was cruising Mason streets trying to find a good deed to perform. She noticed a man lying in the gutter in front of the C. H. Hall garage. Mrs. Densmore thought the man had had a heart attack or had been clipped by a car. She notified the sheriff's office and called an ambulance. As the ambulance drove up, the injured man rallied. He had imbibed too generously and had been sleeping it off. If I had my choice of places to work, I would pick the Mason bakery on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. That aroma which comes only from the baking of salt rising bread is wonderful.

After the war we'll all be happy and comfortable with all kinds of gadgets. Ready for manufacture are television screens that tell who's at the front door or permits mother to keep her eye on the baby in his bed on the second floor, while she is doing the washing in the basement, if there is any washing to be done. All glass will be elastic and unbreakable. There will be upholstery made out of milk casein and it won't spot. Window screens will be just like window shades--rust proof and in all colors. Knives and lawnmowers will never get dull. Partitions will be moveable. There will never have to be any dusting done because an electrical device will trap particles of dust in the air.

There is quite likely to be some special legislation before television is permitted in the home. Unless the curiosity of some people is held in check, there would be no need for walls or curtains or venetian blinds with television. With television in every room in the house, sanctuaries will have to be set up somewhere to protect the few modest people left.

What fun we could all have with television sets at Saturday night revels! Right here in Mason we could focus it on the Legion hall and see just who tosses the liquor bottles where and all of us could participate vicariously, if that is the word, in some of the sin we like to talk about. When television becomes popular, no one will dare go out to any party. They will all want to stay home and keep their eyes on the television screen.

Barbs and Praise

Around Mason this centennial year beards have become conversational pieces as well as face pieces. Even better than a beard as a conversational opener, though, is to grow one and then shave it off. I am now eligible for a chicken badge.

Actually I have a good reason for going nude in the face again. Contrary to most speculation, it started out as an accident. I had the 1965 season's first brush fire. A flare-up from a pipe lighter took care of a good-sized patch. The razor took care of the rest. An added benefit has been that things are running quite smoothly at home, again.

It is easy to see why it took so long to develop the cigaret lighter. The inventors had to wait until beards went out of style.

Monday was election day. Here in Mason there are 2,393 registered voters who have a legal right and privilege to gripe and criticize on the operation of the city government for the next year. That's the number of registered voters.

Only 898 of them have a moral right to find fault or praise the council, though. These are the registered voters who turned out to cast their votes for city council races. Being citizens of Mason carries the responsibility of making the democratic process workable. It can't be workable when just a handful exercise their right to vote.

Those people who have been driving out Ash street heading east aren't seeing things when they pass the Howard Seibert home. Those are Christmas lights on that outdoor tree.

There are 2 schools of thought concerning the Yule display. There are those who think the Seiberts are moved by the unusual winter - in - springtime weather of the past 3 weeks in turning on the lights. There are others who maintain that Mrs. Seibert turned on the lights to remind Howard that he had forgotten to remove the Christmas tree display.

At any rate the lighted tree has gained a lot of attention.

Alfred Wardowski of Blossom Orchards has come across some words which speak of a truth he has known for sometime. That is that research has found that apple juice for infants is far more beneficial to infants than the citrus juices.

That should be excellent news to an apple growing state such as Michigan.

country and town

Call it journalistic brinksmanship if you want; last week's front page picture showing "springtime on the Sycamore" looked pretty silly Thursday morning when heavy snow nearly filled the Sycamore valley. We're not going to mention spring again until the tulips come up.

For reasons I will never understand, we have 2 dogs at our house. Our dogs are related - father and daughter. The other night the dogs were curled up by the fireplace. Daughter Amy and I were sitting together nearby. To demonstrate some biological similarities, I gave Amy a hug and said, pointing to the dogs, "Just think. There's a father and a daughter - and here's a father and a daughter. Do you think we look alike?" "Nope," Amy replied. "Tuffy has more hair than you do."

Until last Friday afternoon, I had never met Dr. Harlan Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan. He spoke to a group of Michigan publishers in Ann Arbor and he did an impressive job. His refreshing insight into the lawless mob actions taking place on campuses across the country was refreshing. It has become too easy to write off college activity as "kooky". Dr. Hatcher acknowledged that there are indeed "kooky" elements on campuses everywhere, but they are vastly outnumbered by normal youngsters who are willing to improve the future by building on the past and present. He said the campus uprisings are organized, pre-arranged efforts to destroy higher educational processes.

He said university presidents were advised a year ago that an organized effort would be made across the country to "bait" university presidents and administrators. The campus at Berkeley, California, was the first to be hit, he said, and acknowledged that efforts are being made elsewhere to create unacademic atmospheres on campuses.

Several people have expressed an interest in naming Mason's high school the Stevens T. Mason High School. Not one person expressed disapproval of the idea since it was presented in this column a couple of weeks ago. A school board decision could quickly make the change and this would be the year to do it.

50 at Paschal Supper, Symbolic of Passover

WILLIAMSTON - Despite the blizzard raging last Thursday evening more than 50 women braved the weather to attend the first Paschal supper by St. Mary's Altar society.

Mrs. Glen Lounsbury, president of the society, gave the welcome prior to the presentation of the Paschal ceremony. Participating in the short ceremony was Mrs. Robert Heeg, Mrs. Milton Franklin, Mrs. Morris Loti, Mrs. George Stewart and Mrs. Frank Mikek.

Following this the Paschal meal was enjoyed. This meal commemorates that time when the Jews left Egypt in such haste that they were unable to use leavening in their bread. Most of the food served was symbolic of those used at the original Passover in ancient times in the Holy Land.

Among the selection of foods arranged on the buffet were charoseth, an apple and nut mixture symbolizing the clay the Egyptians used in making bricks for the Pharaoh, beef borscht, temptation plate, Huldah bowl (green salad) noodle, fish and chicken dishes; matzos, bagels, cheese, Pope's Pie, Bishop's cake, poppy seed cake and also a large cake decorated as an open Bible.

Centering the decorations for the speaker's table was a "lamb" shaped from almond paste and coming directly from the Holy Land. Festival lights also were used in the decorations for individual tables.

Mrs. Robert Heeg was chairman for the evening, with Mrs. Eugene Lockwood, program chairman, assisting her. Food was provided by the Board of Directors and the Program Committee of the Altar Society.

Miss Mary Engardio was the winner of an Easter hat centered with a high flying cardinal and concocted by Mrs. Nancy Meyers during the evening's program.

A short business meeting followed the supper during which officers for the coming year were elected. All candidates had come dressed as handmaidens and served coffee for the others present.

New officers elected were: Mrs. George Stewart, president; Mrs. Leland Christiansen, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Margaret Gubry, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Eleanor Greathouse, secretary, and Mrs. William Turner, treasurer.

Next meeting will be a Mother and Daughter tea on May 6. Installation of officers will also take place at that time. Mrs. Eugene Lockwood is chairman of the tea with Mrs. Earl Salisbury installing officer.

Income Tax Isn't So New; They Had It 100 Years Ago

OKEMOS - As April 15 draws near many people become income tax conscious and to most of them these taxes are of recent origin, something that has come with modern times. But there have been other periods in our history when the Federal government has levied a tax on one's income.

Among old receipts for payment of property tax on the Stillman farm on Doble road, southeast of Okemos there is a receipt issued June 1, 1865, 100 years ago, for $6.15. This receipt was given by the office of Internal Revenue, third district of Michigan Joseph Mills, collector of division no. 5, for tax on the income of Orlando B. Stillman for the year of 1864.

On July 2, 1862, according to research in the State Law Library, a law was passed taxing income for the next 4 years at the rate of 3% on incomes over $600 up to $10,000. Above $10,000 a 5% levy was made. At the same time a system of collectors of internal revenue was established. As the date indicates this act was passed during the Civil War, probably necessitated by the added costs of the war time.

Zing into spring! Corvair by Chevrolet

The steering's crisper, the ride's flatter, the style's racier—even the grass looks a shade greener from behind the wheel of this new Corvair

For all its finely calibrated instrumentation—tachometer, manifold pressure gauge, even an electric clock with a sweep second hand for rally buffs—the most important thing that happens when you get a Corvair Corsa out on the road doesn't register on the dash. It registers on you.

You feel it in the steering—crisp and precise—as you double back on a curve. In the flat riveted-to-the-road stability of the new fully independent suspension. In the response of the rear engine (up to 180 hp available now in Corsa's Turbo-Charged version).

Drop down to your dealer's now—while the trading's extra good—and see for yourself.

Forensics Winners Named At Stockbridge High School

By RUTH CAMP

The following were named winners in the local forensics contest.

Declamation: Mary Reed won first place with "Toussaint L' Overture" and Diana Frinkle took second with "Forever a Stranger."

Humorous readings: Judy Myers took first place with "Mirror on the Wall," and Bob Renner, reading a scene from "Green Pastures" won second.

In interpretive reading, Carol Robinson won first place and Jim Wyatt was second.

Judy Myers is in extemporaneous speaking while Judy Hamlin is in Oratory.

Whenever there are any tricks in school, it is usually the students who are dishing them out, but there was a recent case in Stockbridge that was the other way around.

Keith Saxton, our band teacher, said those fifth grade music students are always playing some kind of joke on him so he decided to retaliate.

He solemnly told them to write a 300 word essay on a famous Yugoslavian composer. He even helped them out by showing two film strips about composers and life in Yugoslavia, and he played a few bars of the certain composer's writings.

Well, those kids couldn't find any of the needed information at home or at the elementary school, so they turned to the high school library for material. The librarian frantically searched everywhere but couldn't find a word about this famous Yugoslavian composer.

What was his name? Why, everyone has heard of Looft Lirpa. (try it backward)

Several of the kids did however write the 300 word essay, one of them going to great effort to spell all 300 words backward.

Last Saturday, several members of the junior band went to Springport to participate in the district solo and ensemble festival.

Two of the local groups earned first division ratings. They were: Frank Stephens and Garth Hannewald, woodwind duet, and a woodwind quartet composed of Rose Marie Stevens, Barbara Glover, Patrice Weddon and Karen Prater.

There were 11 second division ratings earned by the Stockbridge group.

The senior band is busy practicing for the coming state band festival in Ypsilanti on Saturday. They have been working on sight reading as well as the three selections to be performed at the festival.

The junior play, "The Perfect Idiot" was presented April 1 and 2, from all reports, was a huge success. There were about 600 in the audience on Friday night. Following the final performance, the cast, directors and workers had a party at the home of Carol Lukenich.

Last week two trampoline artists, Larry Martin and Kathy King came to S.H.S. to perform for an assembly. To begin, they presented a comic skit while Kathy explained the equipment they use, and the basic fundamentals of the sport. Then they got down to business and put on a great display of talent.

Before they showed us a new sport, they had Mike Barbour, a senior, see how well he could do on a trampoline. He did a knee drop and a forward somersault. Then Larry and Kathy introduced their new game, "Spaceball," and asked for two more volunteers to play too. The lucky ones were Brad Weddon who teamed up with Kathy and Rick Owen whose partner was Larry. Larry and Rick won the game which was thoroughly enjoyed by the student body.
