A Message from our District Administrator

Some of you may know Sheila Posthuma, the amazing leader of our elementary school office. In case you haven't had the pleasure of meeting Sheila, you should know that she is a daily breath of fresh air. She is kind and positive, serves as the "school mom" for hundreds of students, and shares funny and inspirational messages. One of her recent messages really resonated with me. It said "IT IS NOT HAPPY PEOPLE WHO ARE GRATEFUL, IT IS GRATEFUL PEOPLE WHO ARE HAPPY". So often in life we chase happiness by looking for the next thing that we can get, whether that's a higher paying job, the next cool gadget, or some other thing that will help us "keep up with the Joneses" (or should we now say "the Kardashians" 😊)

I hope that you have been able to take a moment over this Thanksgiving season to reflect on the things for which you are grateful. I'd like to take this opportunity to share some things I am grateful for as they relate to my work here at CFSD.

I am grateful for a great team of district office staff and school leaders. Deb Merwin, Pam Drews, Wyatt Tramburg, Deb Torrison, and Ashtyn Gutzman are amazing people who are such a pleasure to work with. I feel blessed every day that they are my colleagues.

I am grateful for our teachers who show up every day to face the challenges of not only managing a group of students larger than most people could handle, but also helping those students learn and grow into amazing members of our community; and to our counselors who help guide our students through life's challenges.

I am grateful for our instructional assistants who help in so many different ways, whether by working with an individual student one-on-one, providing additional support to small groups of students, shuttling students between schools, or the myriad other things they do on a daily basis.

I am grateful for the amazing food service staff who not only keep us fed, but do so with a smile on their faces and a sprinkling of love in every dish. It is easy to take food service for granted when it is as delicious and nutritious as it is here at CFSD.

I am grateful for the Child Enhancement Center staff who take such good care of our youngest community members. So many of us are overwhelmed caring for a single infant or toddler, and they embrace entire groups of them every day! They are such a positive influence on our next generation of students.

I am grateful for all of the other staff who often toil in the background keeping everything running, like Brad DeYoung in maintenance, Janet Peters (the "Queen of Clean") and her team of custodians, Pam Hendrickson, Michelle Vant Hoff, and Sheila Posthuma who keep our school offices running smoothly, or various folks from CESA 5 who share several days a week with us, like Dave Van Spankeren, Katie Bortz, Ramon Tafolla, Austin Tafolla, and Amy Hauge.

I am grateful for all of the staff and members from the community who serve as coaches, mentors, club sponsors, and for so many other things they do for our students; and for Katelin York, our fearless Athletic Director.

I am grateful for our school board members who are courageous enough to put themselves out there to be elected by their peers, to devote considerable time to representing the community's needs and wants, and to put students first even when doing so can sometimes make for very difficult decisions. I feel blessed to have such a great group of seven "bosses" to work for.

Finally, I am grateful for the students and their families for trusting us with the education and development of our next generation. We take our work extremely seriously and recognize the importance of helping our students become all that they can be.

While I have probably missed some groups or individuals for which I feel grateful, my gratitude is present nonetheless. I feel truly honored and blessed to have this opportunity to serve as steward of this school district on behalf of the greater Cambria-Friesland community. Thank you to everyone who makes what we do possible. The gratitude that I know I, and many others, feel brings great happiness and for that I am thankful.

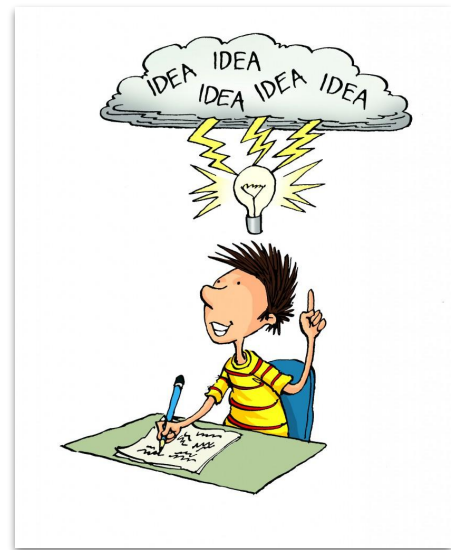

Gratefully yours,
David

ORIGINALITY VS. GRIT

The concept of student “grit” and its impact on student success has gained some popularity in recent years. The concept was introduced in 2007 with research by Angela Duckworth. Originally, “grit” was defined as perseverance and passion for long-term goals. While perseverance of effort has continued to show great consistency in predicting student success, the second half of the equation - the passion or consistency of interest has not.

In fact, the concept of “grit” does show great impact for students who also have the time and financial resources to pursue their passions and interests. For students who may have challenges or barriers to success, encouraging them to display “grit” is not effective. When disabilities, financial status, or other factors make things more difficult, it often takes “grit” just to show up and keep trying, but it doesn’t necessarily correlate with success. Students today need skills in collaboration, creativity, problem-solving, and critical thinking to be successful.

The type of persistent focus associated with “grit” can actually undermine some of these skills. Sticking with the same course of action rather than stopping and reassessing can put some students in a downward spiral. Self-regulation and self-efficacy can be stronger keys to success.

This is where originality or creativity comes in. The phrase identified by Shannon Audley and Maleka Donaldson in their research is, “When to grit and when to quit.” There is something to be said for recognizing when what you are doing isn’t working and persevering in doing the same thing is not going to yield better results. While it rhymes nicely, “quit” may be a bit misleading. In reality, it’s the ability to recognize something isn’t working, stop, and assess why that may be the case. Then, coming up with an original or creative strategy to try and accomplish the task is critical.

Simply stopping and giving up is not going to be effective. But, coming up with a new approach can be a challenge. It’s this skill that actually helps all students, regardless of challenges or barriers to success. Some barriers are out of our control and some we create ourselves, but regardless of their source, it’s original thinking that will help us succeed.

This could be mean changing something small like the time of day and place where a student studies or completes school work to changing the entire way they approach completing academic tasks.

December Character Trait of the Month: Respectful

At the beginning of December students were taught a school wide lesson on the importance of being respectful. This includes respect for others, for things, and for ourselves. When it comes to respect for ourselves, that includes what we are putting into our minds and bodies. The food we eat, the exercise we get, the way we talk, and the media/entertainment we consume all reflect on how we show respect for ourselves. Often, what we are putting in is a reflection of what comes out so the importance of being mindful of what you are consuming is highlighted.

Elementary School Report Card

Every year the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction publishes "report cards" for every public school in the state of Wisconsin and some private schools that choose to participate. These report cards offer a "grade" for individual schools and districts to see how they are doing. The primary metrics used to create this report are scores from the Wisconsin Forward Exam and "On Track for Graduation Indicators" such as Attendance and 3rd grade literacy. Some schools are graded more heavily on their academic achievement in math and English/Language Arts. Some schools are graded more heavily on their "academic growth" i.e. how students are closing the gap if they are behind or moving up in percentile as compared to their peers. Our score this year, from 2021-2022 data was a 67.6 which "Meets Expectations" and is 2.4 points short of "Exceeds Expectations". Our math achievement scores were 7 points above the state average and our ELA achievement scores were right at the state average. I take these measurements with a grain of salt as the Wisconsin Forward Exam measures one moment in time and at our size, a student have a bad day can significantly impact these scores, however, I also believe that our students and staff have what it takes to consistently exceed expectations. In school, we will continue to evaluate our teaching practices and curriculum to best help our students grow and learn. At home we ask that families continue to make a push for reading, early and often. Finding books that students are interested in and carving out time for reading such as bedtime routines or trips to the library can help promote lifelong literacy and achievement in the classroom. If you have any questions about the Wisconsin State Report Card please feel free to contact me here at school.

We have Trailways Counseling on site at school. If you are interested in having your child meet with a mental health counselor while at school, please reach out to myself, Mr. Tramburg at (920) 248-5135 ext 275 or send me an email at wvatt.tramburg@cambria-frieslandschools.org. Looking forward to a great school year filled with challenges and success!

Notes from the Nurse

I get many questions about viruses going around this time of year. Below is a list of common respiratory viruses and some helpful information for each one. I hope you and your family have a healthy & enjoyable holiday season. – Nurse Katie

Virus Type	Symptoms	Treatment	Additional Information
Respiratory Syncytial Virus (RSV)	Fever, cough, irritability, wheezing, decreased appetite Primarily affects the lungs	Home Care - see below Severe cases may require hospitalization, airway suctioning, and oxygen	Premature Infants, children < 2 underlying heart/ lung issues, immunocompromised most affected Lives on surfaces for longer than other viruses
Adenovirus	Has the widest range of symptoms including: sore throat, pink eye, cough, diarrhea, bladder inflammation, fatigue (fevers are rare)	Home Care - see below	Can also be transmitted in feces or water (pools) Those with pre-existing heart or lung problems have an increased risk
Influenza	Affects primarily the respiratory tract - nose/throat/lungs: Non productive cough, severe body aches, chest discomfort, headache, fever Often exacerbates asthma	Home Care - see below Anti-viral medication is most effective if given within 48 hours of symptom onset Severe cases may need IV fluid, supplemental oxygen or mechanical ventilation	Can lead to severe/life threatening complications An annual influenza vaccine reduces your chance of getting the flu and prevents severe complications
Rhinovirus	Sore throat, runny nose, body aches, sneezing, ear infections; exacerbates asthma	Home Care - see below	Many people will have 2-3 rhinovirus infections a year

Home Care: Drink plenty of non-caffeinated fluids, rest, alternate Tylenol and Ibuprofen every 3 hours for fever and pain control, cough drops, patience (viruses are expected to last 7-10 days)

When to seek medical care: The ill person has underlying medical conditions or is immunocompromised,, breathing is labored/skin sucks into the ribs when breathing (retractions); severe chest pain, fever is sustained over 102 despite using Tylenol or Ibuprofen, no urine/wet diapers for > 8 hours

Rock Wall

Exciting New Opportunity

The Cambria-Friesland School District would like to share with you a new opportunity for our students and community. In the next few years we are looking to install a new climbing wall in the district. Mr. Buechel has been gathering information and talking to climbing companies to find a great option for our students K-12. This new edition would be something which could enhance learning in all grade levels and has the potential to be a community resource as well. After looking into information, Everlast Climbing company comes highly recommended and with many options to choose from. They have sent us over some designs of what our new rock wall could potentially look like.

Why Rock Climbing:

Climbing is a beneficial activity that encourages the physical, mental, social and emotional growth of each participant.

1. Climbing is a lifelong activity that is attractive to a wide range of people.
2. Climbing offers versatility. Walls come in a myriad of shapes, sizes and surfaces.
3. The activity of climbing satisfies people of all interests and needs
4. Climbing contributes to overall physical fitness.
