$6 MILLION

Toyota has committed an additional $6 million to expand Buckle Up for Life.

92 PERCENT

Participating families in one pilot city are now buckling up their children 92 percent of the time.

ABOVE | Buckle Up for Life provides parents with instruction on how to install and use car seats.

MAKING AN IMPACT

TOYOTA

There's nothing more important to Toyota than insuring all families travel safely. So they partnered with Cincinnati Children's to establish a multigenerational program that focuses on the importance of car seats, educating families about the dangers of texting and driving, as well as safe behaviors for adults.

Together, we created Buckle Up For Life — a program that stresses the importance of buckling up every time you get in the car and providing parents with instruction on how to properly install and use car seats. The six-week course meets families where they are and addresses the cultural, financial and educational obstacles that prevent at-risk families from buckling up their kids. At the culmination of the course, families are eligible to receive new car seats, car seat installation from a certified child passenger safety technician and instructions on how to properly install them.

Buckle Up For Life is working. After participating in the program, families in one pilot city reported they were buckling up their children 92 percent of the time, compared with just 32 percent prior to the course.

Buckle Up For Life has been so successful that Toyota is eager to see it grow. The corporation recently committed to an additional $6 million gift to expand the program, and its impact, to even more cities across the country. Phoenix, Memphis and Long Island City will join San Antonio, Houston, Los Angeles, Orange County, Las Vegas, Chicago, Philadelphia and Cincinnati as Buckle Up For Life cities.

“This increased funding will allow us to continue our expansion into new cities while also providing online child passenger safety resources for anyone, anywhere,” says Latondra Newton, Chief Corporate Social Responsibility Officer at Toyota Motor North America, Inc. “The Buckle Up For Life program will help make sure that parents are doing the right things for their children every time they put them in a vehicle . . . whether or not it's a Toyota.”

SCHIFF FAMILY

 A two-time cancer survivor and her family contribute to support research and help others fighting cancer.

The Schiff family has a longstanding commitment to local philanthropy. Through the Robert and Adele Schiff Family Foundation, they have made an impressive impact on education and children's health issues. As a two-time cancer survivor, Beth Schiff, and her husband Jim, were eager to support the Cancer Survivor Center at Cincinnati Children's through a gift to the Cincinnati Cancer Center.

Beth survived a battle with Hodgkin's lymphoma when she was 17 years old. As a pediatric cancer survivor, Beth was eligible to be treated in the Cancer Survivor Center at Cincinnati Children's. "It was one of the most amazing experiences. I was surrounded by an enclave of medical professionals who had a complete understanding of my medical experiences and health issues," Beth shares.

It's that complete understanding that helped guide Beth's treatment during her bout with breast cancer, which many pediatric Hodgkin's survivors face.

"As a longtime survivor, I feel so fortunate to be the beneficiary of the type of work being done by Cincinnati Children's," Beth says. "So much progress has been made in curing and treating pediatric cancers, but there is so much more work that needs to be done. It's an honor and a privilege to support the important research at Cincinnati Children's."

TERRY TRANTER

$30,000

To thank the stranger who saved his life, Terry Tranter has given nearly $30,000 for life support training programs.

Terry and Virginia Tranter came to support Cincinnati Children's through an extraordinary set of circumstances. Five years ago, Terry was in the security line at the San Francisco International Airport when he began to feel dizzy. Within seconds, he was in sudden cardiac arrest. Fortunately for Mr. Tranter, the person behind him was Cincinnati Children's anesthesiologist Nancy Hagerman, MD, who immediately began CPR and assisted two other bystanders in using the airport's wall-mounted portable defibrillator — saving Terry's life.

He wanted to thank the stranger who saved his life, and after a little digging, Terry was able to uncover the identity of his guardian angel. "When I found Dr. Hagerman, I was impressed that she worked for a nonprofit with a great mission, and the more I learned about Cincinnati Children's, the more impressed I became."

To show his gratitude to Dr. Hagerman, Terry has donated nearly $30,000 to support the Advanced Cardiac Life Support (ACLS) and the Pediatric Advanced Life Support (PALS) programs at Cincinnati Children's — programs that train people to step in and change the outcome in situations just like Terry's.

"I have two framed pictures of Dr. Hagerman — one at home and one at work. Every time I see them, I am reminded that the only reason I am able to be where I am today, or any day, is because of Dr. Hagerman. I will never forget her gift of life."

MAKING AN IMPACT

DSM DOWNS

$600,000

The Thomas family has committed an additional $600,000 to expand services for children with Down syndrome.

G. Richard “Dick” Thomas is a Cincinnati native, local businessman and generous philanthropist who has always had a strong commitment to supporting his community. When his granddaughter, Emily, was born with Down syndrome in 1995, Dick and his wife, Jane, turned to the experts here at Cincinnati Children’s to improve the outcome for not only his family, but for all families who have a child with Down syndrome.

In 1995, Dick and Jane gave the initial donation to create the Emily Ann Hayes Down Syndrome Research Fund. The fund has fueled important research on the effects of Down syndrome. However, research is just a piece of the puzzle, so the Thomas family partnered with Cincinnati Children’s once again to establish the Jane and Richard Thomas Center for Down Syndrome. This center provides a wide range of medical care, therapeutic services and support to children with Down syndrome, coordinated through a single, comprehensive program.

The next generation of the Thomas family is continuing their parents’ legacy in making a significant impact for the Down syndrome community. Through their family foundation, DSM Downs, the Thomas children — Sally Thomas Hayes, Margo Thomas Steinbaugh and David Thomas — recently made an additional $600,000 commitment to expand the services the Thomas Center provides.

“While so much has been achieved since Emily was born, there is still so much more that needs to be done in the areas of research and treatment for those with Down syndrome,” Sally, Emily’s mother, says. “Supporting the Thomas Center will help make those advances.”

AUXILIARIES

United by a common interest in supporting the medical center, Cincinnati Children's auxiliaries have been essential to our success. If you would like more information about our auxiliaries, or if you wish to join in their important work, please call 513-636-0293.

THE COOPERATIVE SOCIETY

GIFT $548,000

PRESIDENT Nancy Sorg

Our first auxiliary, the Cooperative Society has served Cincinnati Children's for 130 years. In addition to financial contributions, members of the Cooperative Society also give generously of their time. Members volunteer for the Division of Child Life and Recreational Therapy, the Mayerson Center for Safe and Healthy Children, and the sewing room.

KINDERVELT OF CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL MEDICAL CENTER

CITY PRESIDENT Charlotte McBrayer

Our largest fundraising auxiliary, Kindervelt is widely recognized as one of Greater Cincinnati's outstanding volunteer organizations. With nearly 1,000 members in groups around the region, linked by a citywide board of trustees, Kindervelt truly lives its mission to "have fun while raising funds" for the patients and families of Cincinnati Children's. In its more than 40-year history, the women of Kindervelt have contributed over $16 million to the medical center.

JUNIOR CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY

GIFT $305,450

PRESIDENT Kathy Cassady

Established in 1910, the Junior Co-Operative Society operates and staffs the Gift Shops at Cincinnati Children's Burnet and Liberty campuses. The Gift Shops are filled with a wonderful selection of toys, games, cards and books to lift the spirits of hospitalized children. All proceeds from the Gift Shops are donated to the medical center. Their dedicated volunteers live by their motto, "the more you shop, the more we give."

ASSOCIATION OF VOLUNTEERS

GIFT $37,195

PRESIDENT Jeane Elliott

The Association of Volunteers has supported the Convalescent Hospital for Children, an affiliate of Cincinnati Children's, for more than 40 years. To raise funds, the association sponsors the Cincinnati Arts & Antiques Festival each year. This four-day antique show, held in October, is one of the largest and finest in the country.

FUNNY COMPANIE CLOWNS

GIFT $12,569

PRESIDENT Donald Bachmann

Since 1983, the Funny Companie Clowns have been delighting children and adults throughout the community, while raising money for Cincinnati Children's. The 25-member volunteer auxiliary performs at holiday parties, company picnics, birthday parties and festivals, and has raised nearly $200,000 for the medical center.

SPECIAL EVENTS AND COMMUNITY ORGANIZATIONS

Special events bring people together to benefit our young patients, while building awareness of the medical center and children's health issues. Cincinnati Children's thanks each and every volunteer and supporter who gave time, talent and resources for an event that benefited the medical center. Those events that raised $1,000 or more are listed here.
