

Buyers Up • Congress Watch • Critical Mass • Global Trade Watch • Health Research Group • Litigation Group
Joan Claybrook, President

What's a $250,000 Cap on Medical Malpractice Damages Worth: Compensation for a Lifetime of Pain or a CEO's Annual Bonus

What is the value of $250,000?

Is it the price of living with pain and disfigurement for 25, 30 or 50 years? Is it worth being unable to bear children? Is it the price tag on a childhood stolen away as the result of medical malpractice?

Or is it just a rounding error in a CEO's paycheck.

It may be all of the above. But if $250,000 is not enough to compensate a company's chief executive officer for one year, is it enough to compensate for "pain and suffering" a permanently injured survivor of medical malpractice for the rest of his or her life?

To a 20-year-old survivor of medical malpractice who lives to age 77, a pain and suffering award of $250,000 equals about $12 a day ($8 a day after the typical attorney's fee). That could be the maximum compensation for managing a lifetime of pain and suffering – for confinement to a wheelchair, permanent disfigurement and other significant losses.

To one medical malpractice insurance company executive, Jay S. Fishman of the St. Paul Companies, who received $9.8 million in 2001, a $250,000 cap was worth less than 10 days of work. And to the average medical malpractice insurance company CEO, a multi-million dollar salary equals about $5,200 a day.¹ That is compensation for managing a company – for attending board meetings, wooing investors and trying to boost a profit margin.

What's a CEO Worth?

The following are salary and bonuses paid to chief executives at 10 major medical malpractice carriers. In all, these 10 CEOs collected $18,952,844 in 2001. (See attached table for more details on executives' pay.) That yearly pay is equal to the maximum amount of lifetime compensation that 75 survivors of medical malpractice could receive if pain and suffering damage awards were capped at $250,000. "Pain and suffering" damages compensate survivors for physical and mental injuries, aches and pains, limitations on mobility and a potential shortening of life.

- Jay S. Fishman, Chairman and CEO of St. Paul Companies, received $9,767,985 in 2001 (hiring bonus included). That yearly pay is 39 times the capped amount that could go to a survivor of medical malpractice to compensate him or her for a lifetime of pain and suffering.

Ralph Nader, Founder

215 Pennsylvania Ave SE • Washington, DC 20003 • (202) 546-4996 • www.citizen.org

- Jack O. Bovender, Jr., Chairman and CEO of HCA Inc., received $2,402,698 in annual compensation in 2001. (Health Care Indemnity is an indirect subsidiary of HCA Inc.) That yearly pay is nearly 10 times the capped amount that could go to a survivor of medical malpractice to compensate him or her for a lifetime of pain and suffering. In 2001, Bovender was granted 400,000 shares of stock options at an exercise price of $37.32. HCA shares closed at $40.87 on Jan. 28, 2003 – a paper gain of $1,420,000. (The options vest in four equal annual installments.)
- Bernard L. Hengesbaugh, Chairman of the Board and CEO of CNA insurance companies, received $1,900,000 in annual compensation in 2001. That yearly pay is nearly eight times the capped amount that could go to a survivor of medical malpractice to compensate him or her for a lifetime of pain and suffering.
- Martin D. Feinstein, Chairman and CEO of Farmers Group, received $1,188,333 in annual compensation in 2001. That yearly pay is nearly five times the capped amount that could go to a survivor of medical malpractice to compensate him or her for a lifetime of pain and suffering.
- M.R. Greenberg, Chairman and CEO of American International Group, received $1,085,500 in annual compensation in 2001. That yearly pay is more than four times the capped amount that could go to a survivor of medical malpractice to compensate him or her for a lifetime of pain and suffering.
- John R. Byers, President and CEO of FPIC Insurance, was paid $651,710 in 2001. That yearly pay is 2.6 times the capped amount that could go to a survivor of medical malpractice to compensate him or her for a lifetime of pain and suffering.
- Donald J. Zuk, President and CEO of SCPIE Holdings, received $637,367 in annual compensation during 2001. That yearly pay is 2.5 times the capped amount that could go to a survivor of medical malpractice to compensate him or her for a lifetime of pain and suffering.
- A. Derrill Crowe, Chairman and CEO of ProAssurance, was paid $624,620 in 2001. That yearly pay is nearly 2.5 times the capped amount that could go to a survivor of medical malpractice to compensate him or her for a lifetime of pain and suffering.
- Patricia A. Costante, President and CEO of MIIX Group, received $382,283 in annual compensation in 2001. That yearly pay is 1.5 times the capped amount that could go to a survivor of medical malpractice to compensate him or her for a lifetime of pain and suffering.
- R. Ray Pate, Jr., President and CEO of NCRIC Group, received $312,346 in annual compensation in 2001. That yearly pay is 1.2 times the capped amount that could go to a survivor of medical malpractice to compensate him or her for a lifetime of pain and suffering.

Executive Compensation in 2001 at Leading Medical Malpractice Insurance Companies

Executive	Salary	Bonuses	Other Compensation	Total
St. Paul Companies
Jay S. Fishman, Chairman and CEO	$203,846	$9,327,657 ²	$236,482	$9,767,985
HCA Inc. (Health Care Indemnity is an indirect subsidiary of HCA Inc.)
Jack O. Bovender, Jr., Chairman and CEO	$1,027,526	$1,171,576 ³	$203,596	$2,402,698
CNA Financial Corp. ⁴
Bernard L. Hengesbaugh, Chairman and CEO of CNA insurance companies	$950,000	$950,000	-	$1,900,000
Zurich/ Farmers Group
Martin D. Feinstein, Chairman, President and CEO	$1,033,333	-	$155,000	$1,188,333
American International Group
M.R. Greenberg, Chairman and CEO	$1,000,000	-	$85,500	$1,085,500
FPIC Insurance
John R. Byers, President and CEO	$440,000	$174,636	$37,074	$651,710
SCPIE Holdings
Donald J. Zuk, President and CEO	$581,062	$50,000	$6,305	$637,367
ProAssurance
A. Derrill Crowe, Chairman and CEO	$463,375	$161,245	-	$624,620
MIIX Group
Patricia A. Costante, President and CEO	$259,038	$117,900 ⁵	$5,345	$382,283
NCRIC Group
R. Ray Pate, Jr., President and CEO	$290,000	-	$22,346	$312,346
Subtotal for 10 CEOs				$18,952,842

Source: Public Citizen analysis of company filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Endnotes

¹ This is the average daily compensation for the ten insurance company CEOs included in this study. In all, the ten CEOs were paid $18,952,842 in 2001, which comes to an average of $1,895,284 per year and $5,193 per day.

² Part of Fishman's recruitment and hiring package.

³ In the form of a stock award.

⁴ Laurence A. Tisch, CEO of CNA Financial Corporation, does not receive a salary from the company. He was reimbursed $78,977 for travel and other services.

⁵ In the form of a stock award.