INDIA EXACTS PAK VENGEANCE

12 days after Pulwama, IAF jets bomb JeM camps in Pak, kill 300 ultras

Forces keep eyes peeled for raids

RAHUL DUTTA ■ NEW DELHI

Twelve days after Pakistan-based Jaish-e-Mohammad (JeM) carried out a deadly terror attack in Pulwama killing 44 CRPF men, Indian fighter jets on Tuesday pre-dawn executed pin-pointed punitive strikes deep inside Pakistan territory against terror groups' training camps eliminating around 300 of their cadre.

India termed the action as "pre-emptive" and "non-military" to deter JeM from carrying out suicide attacks in the country. It was not clear whether JeM chief Maulana Masood Azhar's brother-in-law Maulana Yusuf Azhar, alias Ustad Ghouri, was killed in the IAF attack.

Precision guided ammunition and missiles were used to destroy the JeM's biggest terror camp in Balakot in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Province (KPK) located at the tri-junction of Pakistan Punjab and KPK. Using air power for the first time since the 1971 war with Pakistan, India conducted "intelligence-led" operation. In fact, the IAF was not allowed to cross the Line of Control (LoC) even at the height of the Kargil war in 1999.

The punitive strikes were carried out by at least 12 Mirage-2000 jets at 3.40 am. The terror camp in Balakot is located about 60km as the crow flies from the LoC in Uri in Kashmir, sources said.

The actual bombing at the terror camp was over in 90 seconds and at least five to six Mirages were in Pakistani territory for not more than six to seven minutes. The entire operation including the Mirages taking off from various locations close to the LoC to confuse the Pakistan Air Force (PAF) lasted about 20 minutes and all the aircraft landed back safely.

The Pakistan Army alleged the strike was futile. "Indian aircraft intruded from Muzafarabad sector. Facing timely and effective response from PAF, they released payload in haste while escaping which fell near Balakot. No casualties or damage," said Major General Asif Ghafoor, Director General of Inter-Services Public Relations (ISPR), which is the media wing of the Pakistan Army.

Sources said at least two Mirages flew in a loop after radars picked them up in order to confuse Pakistani defences. Two other Mirages flying at low level slipped through the radar net and targeted the terror camp, sources said.

The Mirages also used electronic warfare to jam the enemy radars to enter Pakistani

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

After the IAF successfully carried out the mission to destroy terror camps in Balakot on Tuesday, the Indian defence establishment is on guard to thwart any retaliation from across the border.

Officials said the next 48 hours are most crucial as Pakistan might be forced to carry out some action in a "tit for tat" to assuage its domestic audience, which is questioning the lapses in Pakistan defences to detect the fighter jets which penetrated deep inside the country.

In the fast evolving scenario post Balakot attack, the Cabinet Committee on Security (CCS) chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi took stock of the situation and defence preparedness to meet any challenge from Pakistan.

Since India does not have any terrorist camps, Pakistan can resort to airstrike only by targeting military or civilian targets. This could be an open declaration of war, which Islamabad could ill afford given its global isolation and miserable economic situation. Given that constraint, Pakistan will try to ramp up pressure all across the 750km Line of Control (LoC) in Jammu & Kashmir and International Border stretching from Jammu to Punjab, Haryana, Rajasthan and Gujarat. All these States are now on high alert.

The Army is on alert across the LoC as it is the first line of defence there. All the airbases of the IAF are also following the drills to prevent any aerial attack. Reports indicated that many high value targets like fighter jets were shifted to underground hangars to avoid detection by Pakistani satellites.

Most of these airbases are in Punjab, Haryana, Rajasthan, Gujarat and Jammu & Kashmir, sources said. Also, the IAF has taken all offensive measures to respond in case Pakistan violates Indian airspace from any direction, they said.

Jaish Balakot safe haven proves mirage, vanishes

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The terrorist training camp in Balakot was targeted by India after intelligence indicated that scores of terrorists of Jaish-e-Mohammad (JeM) and other terror groups had shifted there after the Pulwama attack to escape any action by the Indian security forces.

Earlier, these fifteen and fighters were lodged in launch pads close to the Line of Control (LoC) to infiltrate from multiple points in Jammu & Kashmir through South and North of Pir Panjal mountain ranges.

Elaborating upon the reason for zeroing in on Balakot, located at the junction of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa (KPK), Pakistan's Punjab and Balochistan, officials in the security establishment said this camp is the main centre of JeM and some other terrorist organisations. The camp is headed by JeM chief Maulana Masood Azhar's brother-in-law Maulana Yusuf Azhar. However, it is not yet confirmed if he was present in the camp when the IAF targeted it, sources admitted.

Balakot is located in a hill-top forest far away from civilian population and military establishments and therefore a "sitting duck target", for the Indian forces to avoid collateral damage for punitive action, they said.

At least 325 terrorists and 25 to 27 trainers were at the camp when the Indian fighter jets attacked and it was the biggest camp operated by the Pakistan-based JeM which had claimed responsibility for the February 14 suicide attack on a CRPF convoy in Pulwama that martyred 44 jawans.

In fact, JeM chief's son Abdullah had also undergone training in militancy at the same camp, they said adding new recruits are imparted training in handling weapons.

Pictures of the Balakot camp show where JeM terrorists were trained, staircases plastered with the flag of the UK, the US and Israel, and banners of the terror group

Today's strong action shows the will and resolve of a New India. Our New India will not spare any acts of terror and their perpetrators and patrons

I salute the bravery of Indian Air Force pilots who have made us proud by striking terror targets in Pakistan...in view of prevailing India-Pak situation, I am postponing my upwas for full statehood of Delhi. We all stand as one nation today

I salute the pilots of the IAF

Imran threatens retaliation, asks Pak to prepare for eventualities

PTI ■ ISLAMABAD

Pakistan on Tuesday strongly rejected India's claim of targeting terrorist camp in the country and causing heavy casualties even as it vowed to respond "at the time and place of his choosing" and raise the issue at the United Nations and other international forums.

At a hurriedly called special meeting of the National Security Committee (NSC) hours after India's airstrikes inside Pakistan, Prime Minister

Imran Khan asked the armed forces and the people of his country to remain prepared for "all eventualities."

"The forum (NSC) strongly rejected Indian claim of targeting an alleged terrorist camp near Balakot and the claim of heavy casualties. Once again Indian Government has resorted to a self-serving, reckless and fictitious claim," said a statement issued after the NSC meeting in Islamabad.

The country's top civil and military brass "concluded that India has committed uncalled for aggression to which Pakistan shall respond at the time and place of its choosing" it added.

It also invited the world media to see the facts on ground and proposed a visit to the site. Citing sources, Geo TV reported that Pakistan will raise the issue of India's "violation" of the LoC at the United Nations, the Organisation of Islamic Cooperation and other international forums.

Country is in safe hands: Modi after IAF's Pak strikes

Churu (Rajasthan): In his first public address after airstrikes on terror camps in Pakistan, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday said the country is in safe hands and that he will not let the country down.

The PM stressed that nothing was above the nation. "Today is a day to pay homage to India's bravehearts. Today, from the land of Churu, I want to assure the people of the country that the country is in safe hands," he said at a public rally here. The PM, however, did not make a direct reference to the strikes.

Recalling his address at the 2014-Vijay Shankhnad Yuva Sangam, the Prime Minister said today was the day to reiterate the sentiments.

MEA briefs nations about pre-emptive strike need

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

India on Tuesday reaches out to world powers on its airstrike on the Jaish-e-Mohammed's (JeM) biggest terror training camp at Balakot in Pakistan and briefed envoy of 12 nations about its "pre-emptive measure".

Top sources said External Affairs Minister Sushma Swaraj also spoke to her counterparts in the US, China, Singapore, Bangladesh and Afghanistan and briefed them on the airstrike on the JeM training camp.

In her telephonic conversation with US Secretary of State Mike Pompeo, Sushma explained the reasons behind the strike and conveyed that the action was specifically targeted at the JeM camp. She also spoke to Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi and apprised him of the "non-military, preemptive airstrikes", the sources said. Sushma is scheduled to brief the Chinese Foreign Minister and Russian Foreign Minister on Wednesday.

Foreign Secretary Vijay Gokhale and other Secretaries have been briefing separately to foreign envoys, including envoys of the P-5 countries — the United States, Russia, China, France and the United Kingdom. Envoys of Sri Lanka, Australia, Maldives, Afghanistan, Bhutan, Turkey and Indonesia were also briefed about the airstrike.

Australian Foreign Minister Marise Payne also issued a stern warning to Pakistan saying that Pakistan take "urgent and meaningful" action against terrorist groups in its territory, including Jaish-e-Mohammed which has claimed responsibility for the 14 February bombing, and Lashkar-e-Tayyeba.

Six Punjab border districts on high alert after IAF strike

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Six border districts of Punjab have been put on high alert in the wake of the Indian Air Force's strikes on a Jaish-e-Mohammed terror camp in Pakistan.

As part of the state's preparedness to deal with any contingency in view of the IAF strike, Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh on Tuesday chaired a high-level law and order review meeting and ordered a spate of measures.

The Chief Minister himself will camp in the border areas of Punjab as part of the confidence-building measures undertaken by the state government in the wake of the strikes across the Line of Control.

The meeting arrived at the conclusion that there was no need to panic and decided against evacuating the border areas, an official spokesperson said.

IC-814 hijacker headed camp targeted by IAF

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The terror "facility at Balakot" that was struck by Mirage fighter jets at 3.30 am on Tuesday was headed by Maulana Yousuf Azhar or Mohammed Salim, the brother-in-law of Jaish-e-Mohammed chief Masood Azhar.

Maulana Yousuf Azhar is believed to be one of the hijackers of Indian Airlines Airbus IC-814 in December 1999, which led to the release of Masood Azhar and two other terrorists by New Delhi in exchange for passengers' safety after a seven-day crisis.

The Balakot camp of JeM was a joint training camp of the Pakistan Army's terror proxy that also trained some fighters for al-Qaeda and some of the recruits of East Turkistan Islamic Party which is active in the Xinjiang province of China. Many of these fidayees and recruits are also suspected to have been killed in the deep strike by the Indian Air Force.

Yousuf Azhar, who headed the Balakot-based Jaish-e-Mohammed terror camp, is wanted by the CBI in the IC-814 hijacking case with a pending Interpol red corner notice (RCN) against him since 2000, officials said.

Air strikes across LoC

Give solace to martyrs' families from Punjab

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

The pre-dawn air strikes by the Indian Air Force (IAF) at Balakot terror camps across the LoC on Tuesday have given "solace" to the families of four CRPF jawans from Punjab killed in Pulwama terror attack along with 36 others.

Darshan Singh, the father of CRPF jawan Kulwinder Singh of Rupnagar district expressed satisfaction over the Indian Air Force strikes at terror camp in Pakistan. "It gave solace to the family," he said.

He, however, said had this action been taken before the Pulwama attack, the lives of 40 CRPF jawans would have been saved. He said it is "very satisfying" that killers of his son were punished.

Harbajan Kaur, mother of martyr Sukhjinder Singh from village Gandwinda from Tarn Taran said, "Today the IAF's befitting reply has given relief to my heart. It is a suitable revenge by the Indian forces."

Singh's father Gurmail Singh said, "The attack by the Indian forces is fully justified. It was the need of the hour. The IAF action would encourage youths to join Indian Army to serve the nation".

Gurjant Singh said, "The moment I came to know that Indian Government has taken the revenge for my brother's killing, it gave me great solace".

"I understand my brother Sukhjinder would never come back but at least, his killers were given a befitting reply that would also uplift the morale of our forces," he said.

Satpal Attri, father of martyr Mandeep Singh of Dinanagar in Gurdaspur district said such strikes should be carried in future as well if Pakistan does not mend its ways.

Praising the Government, he said it was a revenge taken by the armed forces for the martyrdom of soldiers in the Pulwama terror attack.

Moga's Jaimal Singh's father Jaswant Singh said the air strike by the IAF has given solace to his family members.

Four CRPF personnel from Punjab were among the 40 security personnel who attained martyrdom in the Pulwama terror attack.

Jaimal Singh from village Kot ise Kham (Moga), Sukhjinder Singh from village Gandwinda (Tarn Taran), Kulwinder Singh from village Rauli (Anandpur Sahib) and Maninder Singh Attri from village Arya Nagar (Gurdaspur) attained martyrdom in the terror attack on convoy of the Central Reserve Police Force.

Capt Amarinder writes to Centre seeking Chandigarh's inclusion under open sky policy

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Bangkok, Hong Kong and Kuala Lumpur.

Punjab Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh on Tuesday sought inclusion of Chandigarh in the list of cities notified for operation of airlines of ASEAN (Association of Southeast Asian Nations) countries under the Government of India's Open Sky Policy.

Capt Amarinder, in a demi-official letter to the Union Civil Aviation Minister Suresh Prabhu, said that the International Civil Terminal at SAS Nagar (Mohali) had been functioning for the last three years and was now set to launch 24x7 operations for wide-bodied aircraft with upgraded Code 4E status from April 1, 2019.

"The airport caters not only to the population of the tri-city of Chandigarh but also to international passenger traffic from the States of Punjab, Haryana, Himachal Pradesh and even parts of Uttarakhand," he said adding that the Punjab Government would take all possible steps to support the growth of civil aviation and to harness its benefit for the overall development of the region.

He said that presently, the Airport is unable to operate direct flights to international destinations in ASEAN countries, such as Singapore, Bangkok, Hong Kong and Kuala Lumpur.

As a result, passengers from this region have to travel to New Delhi for taking flights to such countries, which is not only time consuming but also cause hardship in the form of extra travel by road, Capt Amarinder has pointed out in his letter.

Under the Centre's Open Sky Policy for ASEAN countries, 18 cities have been notified for operation of airlines in the country. Presently, Chandigarh does not feature in these 18 cities notified by the Government of India. Pursuant to its scheduled upgradation to Code 4E, it becomes eligible for notification under the Open Sky Policy, he added.

Urging the Union Minister to take cognisance of these facts, the Chief Minister has requested him to issue necessary directions to notify forthwith the International Civil Terminal at SAS Nagar (IXC) under the Open Sky Policy for operation of airlines to ASEAN countries from April 1, 2019.

"This would not only help in reducing the travel time of the passengers from the region to such countries and connecting destinations, but would also help in boosting tourism, economy and attracting investments in the region," he stressed.

Six border districts on high alert, Capt to camp in border areas

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Sounding a high alert in the border districts of Punjab, Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh has decided to camp in the border areas as a part of the State Government's confidence-building measures in the wake of the Indian Air Force (IAF) surgical strikes across the Line of Control (LoC) in the wee hours on Tuesday.

The Government is also in constant touch with the Union Home and Defence Ministries to stay abreast of the volatile situation, arising from the strikes, undertaken by India as a retaliatory measure in the aftermath of the Pulwama terror attack.

The Chief Minister, who reviewed the situation at a high-level meeting with the top brass of the police and civil administration, has decided to stay in the sensitive border region for on-ground assessment of the situation.

As per official statement, the Chief Minister will leave for Pathankot on Wednesday morning, and will travel by road to villages in border areas of the district and Amritsar, where he will stay the night.

The next day, he will visit the Tarn Taran region and spend the night at Faridkot. Capt Amarinder will return to Chandigarh on Friday after visiting the border areas of Ferozepur district, said his Media Advisor Raveen Thukral.

Thukral, who was present at the review meeting, disclosed that the Chief Minister had ordered a spate of measures as part of the State's preparedness to deal with any contingency in view of the latest developments at the LoC. "Deputy Commissioners and Senior Superintendents of Police (SSPs) of the border areas have been asked to put in place all contingency plans to ensure the protection and safety of the citizens," he said adding that the meeting found no need for panic and decided against any move to evacuate the residents of the border areas.

The Chief Minister discussed all aspects of the current situation with the top brass of the police and civil administration, and directed the officials to monitor the situation closely and not let down their guard under any circumstances.

The Chief Minister, who spoke to Union Home Minister Rajnath Singh, on the situation, earlier tweeted his full support for the surgical strikes. "Great job by the #IndianAirForce. The #IAFstrikes have sent the terrorists harbouring —don't think you can get away with acts like the #PulwamaAttack. Bravo to the #IAF men and my full support for the action," he wrote.

Immediately after the deadly Pulwama attack on a CRPF convoy, Capt Amarinder, a former Army captain, had made it clear that he was in favour of strong retaliatory action and that the Congress would support any course of action decided by the Central Government.

HIGH ALERT ON THE BORDER

With the entire nation hailing the Indian Air Force's non-military pre-emptive strike in Balakot targeting the biggest terror camp of Jash-e-Mohammad, a high alert has been raised alongside the Indo-Pak international border, including Punjab.

Apprehending retaliation by Pakistan, the State Health Department has cancelled the leave of all doctors and paramedical staff have been cancelled, besides strict instructions to remain alert and all prepared for any eventuality.

An alert has been sounded on the State's air bases at Adampur, Halwara, Bathinda, and Pathankot. Besides, the State police force has also swung into action deploying extra force, commandos, especially around the air bases.

If reports are to be believed, the locals along the Indo-Pak border have witnessed the movement of artillery division in the wee hours. However, no one has confirmed the development.

In Ludhiana, Punjab police has deployed commandos around the Halwara Air Base. In addition, a round-the-clock patrolling is being done by the Punjab police around the air base. "We have issued special instructions to the cops not to let traffic stuck outside the air force station. We have also set up special nakas on all roads," said a senior police official.

Around 40 Punjab police commandos have been deployed around Bhisiana air-base in Bathinda. "We have to remain alert. And, thus, we have intensified the security around refinery, railway station, army cantonment and also oil depots," said the official.

In all districts, the local civil and police administration held meetings with the army and air force officials to discuss regarding the security measures.

A senior Government official maintained that Amritsar's Sri Guru Ram Das Jee International Airport is already classified as hyper-sensitive considering its location. For Amritsar airport, special security procedures are always in place, but we would ensure additional security cover," said the official.

It has been learnt that Gurdaspur Deputy Commissioner has also held an emergency meeting with the Army, Border Security Forces officials at Tibri Cantonment. Heavy force has been deployed around Pathankot ammunition dump and Air Force station.

Besides, Patiala police has received orders for co-ordination with the Army. "We have received the directions to ensure easy and unperturbed passage to all vehicles of the Army. Continuous police patrolling has also been ensured around all military areas with police control room (PCR) vans," said the officer.

Apprehending the worse, the Punjab Health Department has cancelled the leave of its all employees including doctors and para-medical staff and directed them to be available round the clock by keeping their phones constantly on.

They have also been directed to keep the emergency medical kit ready. Besides, the chief pharmacist has been directed to ensure availability of all essential medicines.

Haryana Assembly appreciates IAF and Modi

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

As the entire country hailed the Indian Air Force (IAF) for the airstrikes carried out against Jash-e-Mohammad camps in Balakot, Pakistan, the sentiment of jubilation and triumph also echoed in Haryana Assembly with its legislators, passing a resolution praising the Narendra Modi Government and IAF on Tuesday.

Amid the chanting of slogans "Bharat Mata ki Jai" and "Vande Mataram" by treasury benches, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Ram Bilas Sharma moved the resolution praising the BJP led Central Government and the armed forces for the "surgical strike" across the Line of Control, which, was unanimously passed by the House.

While congratulating the Modi Government, Ram Bilas Sharma said, "We must appreciate the Modi Government and defence forces for the air strike and showing bravery and valour."

The opposition also heaped praise on the Central Government and the defence forces.

Former Speaker and Congress MLA Kuldeep Sharma said, "The entire country is today praising the action taken. We have political differences but on the issue of national security, the Congress is with the BJP Government."

"Surgical strike was required after the Pulwama terror attack. I congratulate the defence forces on behalf of my party. Such surgical strike should be taken again to teach a lesson to Pakistan," the Congress leader said.

Adding to this, INLD legislator Zakir Hussain, while speaking on behalf on his party said, "We support the resolution. Such stern action was needed against Pakistan. Surgical strike should be conducted again to eliminate terrorism."

Following this, the 90-member Haryana Assembly unanimously passed the resolution.

Earlier, the outspoken Haryana Minister Anil Vij also hailed the Central Government and defence forces for the air strike.

"Prime Minister Narendra Modi has shown his 56-inch chest. What Modi says, he does. He has shown that terrorism cannot be tolerated... Pakistan has been taught a lesson, we have hit them inside their home," Vij said while speaking in the House.

"This is called 56-inch chest. This is called a lion's chest," Vij said while praising the Prime Minister.

Last week, the State Assembly had also passed a resolution, strongly condemning the terrorist attack in Pulwama district and urged the Central Government to give a befitting reply to the enemy for the ghastly act.

Meanwhile, the Chief Minister Manohar Lal while hailing the defence forces on Tuesday said that it was necessary to give Pakistan which harboured and helped terrorists, a befitting reply.

"After today's action by our Defence forces, the people of the country feel satisfied that Pakistan has got what it deserves," he said while talking to the media-persons about the Indian Air Force strike on terrorist camps in Pakistan.

The Prime Minister Narendra Modi, had made it clear that the armed forces had been given a free hand to take action at any place or time they felt appropriate. Now, that the Defence forces have taken the action, the people of the country are satisfied with it, he added.

Opposition lashes at Budget, calls it "jugglery of statistics" and "a bundle of lies"

NISHU MAHAJAN ■ CHANDIGARH

BUDGET SESSION: HARYANA

Terminating the fifth and last Budget presented by the Manohar Lal Khattar Government in Haryana as "jugglery of statistics" and "a bundle of lies", the opposition—Indian National Lok Dal and Congress—on Tuesday said that the Budget estimates 2019-20 painted a grim picture of State's economy with staggering debt liability and high revenue deficit.

Both INLD and Congress legislators flayed the Budget as "anti-people" and "anti-farmer", while the treasurer benches hailed the announcement of new schemes in the Budget for farmers and workers in unorganised sector in the State.

The State Government also faced the opposition's ire for evading tabling the Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG) for the year ending March 31, 2018 before presenting Budget estimates for 2019-20 in the ongoing Assembly Session of Haryana Vidhan Sabha.

Criticising the Government for burgeoning debt liability, Leader of Opposition and INLD's senior leader Abhay Singh Chautala said that every child in the state is now born with ₹1 lakh debt on his head.

"During the INLD's tenure in Haryana, the debt liability was ₹23,319 crore while in Congress' tenure, it stood at ₹70,931. But now, the debt liability is projected at over Rs 1.79 lakh crore for fiscal 2019-20. Also, the revenue deficit is projected at ₹12022.49 crore, Chautala said while alleging that the Government has also failed to elaborate on how it will bring down the staggering debt.

While speaking during the debate on Budget estimates, he also accused the Finance Minister Captain Abhimanyu of neglecting key sectors of agriculture, education, health, rural development, power and transport in the Budget.

Lashing out at the State Government for reducing the Budget outlay of key sectors, Chautala said that 10.31 percent of the total Budget is proposed for agriculture sector in 2019-20 while it was 12.22 percent in fiscal 2018-19.

At one point of time, the Congress legislators pointed out that the Finance Minister Captain Abhimanyu and other Ministers are not present in the House during discussion on the budget.

Former Minister and Congress MLA Geeta Bhukkal said, "The Leader of Opposition is speaking, but Chief Minister is not present, the Finance Minister has also gone away, other Ministers are also not there and even in the officers' gallery, most officers are not present."

eyeing ensuing polls had on Monday presented more than ₹1.32 lakh crore Budget for fiscal year 2019-20 with no proposal of any fresh taxes quota stir telling them that they were responsible for "burning Haryana".

Attacking the Congress, Goel said, "You are responsible for hatching a conspiracy to burn the State of Haryana."

While speaking during the debate on Budget estimates, he also accused the Finance Minister Captain Abhimanyu of neglecting key sectors of agriculture, education, health, rural development, power and transport in the Budget.

Lashing out at the State Government for reducing the Budget outlay of key sectors, Chautala said that 10.31 percent of the total Budget is proposed for agriculture sector in 2019-20 while it was 12.22 percent in fiscal 2018-19.

At one point of time, the Congress legislatures pointed out that the Finance Minister Captain Abhimanyu and other Ministers are not present in the House during discussion on the Budget

However, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Ram Bilas Sharma, who was present in the House assured the legislators that the Finance Minister will give reply to all the queries raised by the Opposition during the discussion on budget estimates.

While participating in the debate on budget estimates, senior Congress legislator Raghuraj Singh Kadian targeted the government for not announcing loan waiver for farmers of the state.

"This Government claims to be a pro-farmer but there is no mention of subsidy, loan waiver, implementation of Swaminathan report in the budget for the welfare of farmers of Haryana, Kadian said.

Responding to the allegations, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Ram Bilas Sharma claimed that the CAG report was tabled and provided to the MLAs on Monday alongwith other budget related reports in a bag.

Soon after, former Chief Minister Bhupinder Singh Hooda told the Cabinet Minister that there were statistical reports, economic survey document in the bags but CAG report is missing.

"We know that elections are near and you have things to hide, which is why you have not followed the precedence of tabling CAG report before the budget debate," Hooda told the treachery benches.

Following this, the INLD legislators too joined in and showed the files provided to the MLAs a day before. INLD legislators Parminder Singh Dhull and Naseem Ahmad while waving the files in the House, said that the CAG report was not tabled.

Finance Minister, while and populist announcements like financial and social security cover to small farmers and workers in unorganised sector and rebate to artisans in power bill.

BJP, CONGRESS BLAME GAME OVER JAT QUOTA STIR 2016

The State Assembly witnessed heated arguments between the ruling BJP and the opposition Congress benches over the violent Jat reservation agitation in 2016 in the state.

Trouble began when the BJP MLA Aseem Goel, who opened the Budget debate in the House on Tuesday, targeted the Congress for the Jat

Agriculture Minister OP Dhankar too joined in to attack the Congress and said that Rohtak, Jhajjar, Beri was burnt (during the February 2016 agitation) because of you.

"People are waiting to teach you a lesson for your misdeeds," Dhankar told Congress legislators.

Following this, a verbal duel ensued between legislators of ruling and opposition Congress on the Jat agitation issue.

Former Minister and Congress MLA Geeta Bhukkal took a jibe at the ruling BJP MLAs, saying that on every issue they put the blame on previous Congress government.

WAR OF WORDS OVER MARTYRS

During the Zero Hour, Finance Minister Abhimanyu and independent MLA Jai Prakash had heated exchange when the latter claimed that the Government has not taken care of a martyr's dependents in the State.

Jai Prakash said, "The family of martyr Rajesh, belonging to Gulha village is still awaiting financial aid and a job announced by the Government.

This Government does not care about the martyrs." Retorting, Capt. Abhimanyu said, "I have served in the armed forces, I know the pain of the soldiers."

"But we don't do dirty politics like you do on the issues of martyrs," he told Jai Parkash.

Tuesday said that his Government will give ₹500 monthly financial aid to the eligible people under the new scheme.

The new scheme will cover families of cultivating farmers in possession of land upto five acres and for the families of workers in unorganized sector within the family income of less than ₹15,000 per month.

Two categories of age group 18-40 years and 40-60 years have been created for the implementation of the scheme, said the Chief Minister while speaking during the fourth day of ongoing budget session of Haryana Vidhan Sabha.

The Chief Minister said that modalities under the scheme for age group above 60 years of age would be worked out later.

"An outlay of Rs 1500 crore is made in budget estimates for this schemes and if required more funds would be provided," he said.

Elaborating about the scheme, Manohar Lal said that the beneficiaries will get Rs 500 per month or Rs 6000 annual.

He said, "For the first category, there will be four options to avail the financial assistance. Under first option, they can receive Rs 6000 every year, which will be deposited in three equal installments of Rs 2000 in the bank account of head of the family. Under second option, the family has to nominate a member of the family to avail the benefit and he will get Rs 36000 after completion of five years."

Under option third, the nominated beneficiary will get pension of Rs 3000 to Rs 15000 per month after attaining the age of 60 years, which would depend upon the age of the beneficiary at start of the scheme. Under option four, the nominated beneficiary will get Rs 15,000 to Rs 30,000 after five years, which would depend upon the option selected by the nominated beneficiary, the Chief Minister said.

The nominated beneficiary could opt for options of insurance cover under the current scheme, the premium of which would be paid by the State Government. These scheme included insurance of Rs two lakh on natural death, insurance of Rs two lakh for accidental death, insurance of Rs two lakh for permanent disability and insurance of Rs one lakh for partial disability. Besides this, if nominated beneficiary is also covered under Pradhanmantri Shram-Yogi Maandhan, in such a situation the beneficiary after attaining the age of 60 years would be eligible for pension of Rs 3000 per month, the premium of which would be paid by the government.

In the second category, if the age of nominated beneficiary is between 40 to 60 years, they can receive Rs 6000 every year, which will be deposited in three equal installments of Rs 2000 in the bank account of head of the family.

In the second option of this category, the nominated beneficiary would get Rs 36,000 after every five year, Manohar Lal said.

The Chief Minister also announced that Parivar Pachan Patra ID would be given to the families in Haryana.

Details related to members, their occupation etc will be included in the family ID and it would act as a real-time census in Haryana, he said.

PDA reaches consensus on 9 seats in Punjab

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Leaving the Shiromani Akali Dal (Taksali) out, the Punjab Democratic Alliance (PDA) comprising Punjab Ekta Party, BSP, Lok Insaaf Party and Punjab Manch, has reached a consensus on its candidates for nine seats, out of total 13 in Punjab for the ensuing Lok Sabha elections.

The decision was taken at a meeting in Jalandhar on late Monday wherein Punjab Ekta Party's chief Sukhpal Singh Khaira, LIP's Simerjeet Singh Bains, Punjab Manch's Dr Dharamvira Gandhi, BSP's Rashpal Raju, among others were present.

As per the decision, BSP will contest Anandpur Sahib, Jalandhar and Hoshiarpur Lok Sabha seats, leaving Bathinda and Faridkot for Punjab Ekta Party; Ludhiana, Amritsar and Fatehgarh Sahib for Lok Insaaf Party and Patiala for AAP's "suspended" MP Dr Gandhi.

Khaira said that it was unfortunate that the Akali Dal (Taksali), a breakaway outfit from Shiromani Akali Dal, unilaterally announced their candidate for the Anandpur Sahib seat while deliberations were still underway on seat sharing.

"PDA strived for complete unity of the opposition ranks. We urge the Akali Dal Taksali leaders to withdraw their candidate from Anandpur Sahib and join the alliance in the larger interest of Punjab," he said.

Notably, SAD (Taksali), headed by Khadour Sahib MP and former Akali leader Ranjit Singh Brahmputra, with former MP Rattan Singh Ajnala and former Minister Sewa Singh Sekhwan as its members, had recently announced former Congress leader Bir Devinder Singh as its candidate from Anandpur Sahib seat.

"We have reached a consensus on fielding candidates on nine out of 13 Lok Sabha seats in the state to provide a clean third alternative to the corrupt traditional parties," said Khaira, adding that the remaining four seats to be contested by the alliance would be decided shortly.

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Punjab State Scheduled Castes Commission has sought a detailed report within 10 days from Ludhiana police commissioner regarding the alleged outrage of modesty and subsequent suicide committed by an SC girl of Sangowal village in Ludhiana district.

Punjab State SC Commission chairperson Tejinder Kaur said that after taking strict note of a fresh complaint received in this context by the Commission, Ludhiana Commissioner of Police has been asked to submit entire report regarding SC girl being compelled to commit suicide due to non-registration of a case against the accused and denial of justice to the victim.

Setting 10-day deadline, the Commission has sought the said report by March 7.

It has been reported in the complaint received by the Commission that an SC girl and her family of Sangowal village were engaged for cleaning the house of a farmer in the village and to assist in farming.

Opp backs IAF at all-party meet

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

The Centre on Tuesday briefed all the political parties over the pre-dawn strike by the Indian Air Force on terror camps deep across the Line of Control (LoC) following which the leaders cutting across party lines congratulated the IAF on its operation targeting terrorist camp in Pakistan.

The Congress said that it will support security forces in their endeavour to finish terrorism coming into India from outside. Earlier, Congress president Rahul Gandhi too had tweeted, "I salute the pilots of the IAF."

After the Government's briefing, Congress leader Ghulam Nabi Azad said the opposition parties extended "full support" to the government and security forces in the fight against terror.

External Affairs Minister Sushma Swaraj briefed the leaders, who included CPI(M)'s Sitaram Yechury, TMC's Derek O'Brian, Omar Abdullah of National Conference and Bhartruhari Mahtab from BJD, on the air strike carried out in the early hours. NCP's Praful Patel, BSP's Satish Mishra and BJP ally Ramdas Athawale also attended the meeting.

Union External Affairs Minister Sushma Swaraj convenes an all-party meeting at Jawahar Lal Bhawan in New Delhi to brief leaders on Indian Air Force's pre-dawn strike on JeM camp in Balakot on Tuesday. PTI

Union Ministers Rajnath Singh and Arun Jaitley, both members of the Cabinet Committee on Security like Swaraj, were also present. Swaraj also briefed the opposition leaders about her telephonic conversation with US Secretary of State Michael Pompeo over the Indian air strikes on JeM terror camps in Balakot.

Azad while talking to media after the meeting said that political parties lauded the IAF strikes to destroy terror camps in a "clean" operation as there were no civilian casualties. "We will support our security forces in their endeavour to finish terrorism coming into India from outside. The good part was that it was a very clean operation," he said. "We have appreciated the efforts by the forces, they always have our support to end terrorism. Another good thing is that it was a clean operation in which no civilian died and terror camps were specifically targeted," said Azad. Swaraj said, "I am happy that all parties in one voice praised the security forces and supported the Government's anti-terror operations." In the last all-party meeting also, convened in the wake of Pulwama attack, the opposition parties had said they backed the government calling upon to take all necessary action in the aftermath of the terror attack killing at least 40 CRPF soldiers.

For India's security we'll go to any extent: Shah

New Delhi: Sending out a huge message to Pakistan, BJP president Amit Shah on Tuesday said surgical strikes after Uri and now air strikes in self-defence, both have given the message to the world that for the security of the country, India's soldiers and Government can go to any extent. "Pure desh ko sukoon dene wala samachar aaj subah hi aya hai, ye maang pure desh bhar ki samvedna thi ki aisi karyawahi honi chahiye ki dobara Pulwama jaisi ghatna karne se pehle dus baar sochna pade." (The news that provided relief to the entire nation was delivered this morning. It was the appeal of the entire nation that a befitting reply must be given, so that anyone should think twice before carrying out an attack such as Pulwama)," Shah said at a public rally in Ghazipur.

Earlier, Shah congratulated the Indian Air Force (IAF)'s team which carried out the airstrike across the Line of Control (LoC). "I congratulate and salute the bravery and valour of our armed forces. Today's action further demonstrates that India is safe and secure under the strong and decisive leadership of PM Narendra Modi," Shah said on Twitter. Union minister Prakash Javadekar was the first prominent voice from the government to react on the strike. "This was a necessary step for the security forces. The entire country is backing the forces now". The BJP president said "New India" under the prime leadership of Narendra Modi "will not spare any acts of terror, their perpetrators and patrons." Today's strong action shows the will and resolve of a New India. Our New India will not spare any acts of terror and their perpetrators and patrons," Shah said.

BJP general secretary Ram Madhav also lauded both the political leadership as well as the forces for the operation. "Every Indian who had d (the pain n (and) anguish of d (the martyrdom of our forces is greatly relieved and delighted this morning. Salute to d (the Air Force for a meticulous operation. Our forces r (are) world class anyway. It is d (political will of our PM n (and) team that made all d (the) difference," he tweeted.

Former Madhya Pradesh chief minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan hailed the air strike by the Indian armed forces on terror launch pads in Pakistan. Chouhan, said, "The drive to eliminate terrorism has begun.

Anybody with ill intention against India will meet the same fate as the Jaish terrorists".

Union Minister Gajendra Shekhawat was also quick to post his reaction. His tweet was more political. "This is Modi's Hindustan, it will not only enter your house but will strike at you (Ye Modi ka Hindustan hai, ghar mein ghusega bhi aur maraga bhi). Air Force carried out aerial strike early morning today at terror camps across the LoC and Completely destroyed it...every drop of blood will be accounted for. This is just a beginning... will not let the country down (Ek ek katra khoon ka hisab hoga. Yeh toh ek shurut hai, ye desh nahi jhukne dunga)," he tweeted.

Minister of State for External Affairs VK Singh tweeted saying that India will retaliate "harder and stronger" every time it gets attacked.

In the Maharashtra Assembly, Chief Minister Devendra Fadnis passed an unanimous resolution congratulating the IAF for carrying out the air strike on terror launch pads in Pakistan. For its part, the Haryana Assembly congratulated Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the armed forces for the "surgical strike" across the Line of Control. PNS

All praise for Indian Air Force

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Leaders across the party lines came forward and hailed the Indian Air Force for striking the JeM terror camp in Pakistan. Several Opposition leaders even took to social media to express themselves over the airstrike development.

NCP Chief Sharad Pawar said any retaliation by Pakistan will prove that it provides shelter to terrorists. The former defence minister lauded the Indian Air Force for the strikes, adding India's defence forces have made citizens feel proud.

It would not be proper to politicise the air strikes, Pawar said. Targeting Prime Minister Narendra Modi, he said the IAF had carried out such strikes earlier also, but there was no politicisation (of the same).

"The credit always went to the Army. Now if the credit is being given to Prime Minister Modi, then credit should also be given to RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat," he said. "Being a former defence minister, I was sure that those who committed the dastardly attack in Pulwama would have to pay for their actions soon," Pawar said. He said the IAF took precautions to ensure the air strike was done in such a way that there was no international backlash.

Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, Karnataka CM HD Kumaraswamy, Madhya Pradesh CM Kamal Nath, Congress leader Shashi Tharoor and RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav were among the opposition leaders, who extended support to the armed forces. Kejriwal postponed his indefinite hunger strike call in view of the prevailing Indo-Pak situation. "In view of prevailing Indo Pak situation, I am postponing my upwas for full statehood of Delhi. We all stand as one nation today," the Delhi CM posted on Twitter. Earlier, Kejriwal saluted the pilots of the IAF after it carried out the strikes in Pakistan.

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee also hailed the IAF for carrying out air strikes in Pakistan. "IAF also means India's Amazing Fighters. Jai Hind," Banerjee tweeted.

Congress leader and Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh hailed it as a great job by the Indian Air Force. "The IAF strikes have sent the much needed signal to Pakistan and the terrorists it's harbouring — don't think you can get away with acts like the Pulwama Attack. Bravo to the IAF men and my full support for the action," he said.

India needs to be on guard as Pak may retaliate: Ex-Air chief

PNS/PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Defence experts on Tuesday hailed the IAF's pre-dawn air strike on a Jaish-e-Mohammed's terror camp in Pakistan with some saying "the message had been communicated strongly", while a former Air Chief said India needs to be on guard as Pakistan might react soon.

The operation drew reactions from various defence experts including retired officers in the armed forces.

Former military secretary Lt Gen (retd) Syed Ata Hasnain termed the operation "an appropriate response (delivered) with a sense of proportionality".

It was a nonmilitary, preemptive strike and "we have gone deep", so no scope for denial from Pakistan side, he said.

"We have only targeted a terror camp. No civilian area or military installation were touched by us. Also, our measure is such that onus of escalation will now be on the Pakistani side," he told PTI.

"Besides, the international community will continue to stand by us for the same reason and the traction gained from diplomatic and other means will continue to have impact," said the former general officer commanding for the 15 and the 21 Corps.

Lt Gen (retd) Ajai Singh, former colonel of the Poona Horse, an over 200-year-old regiment, had mixed feelings about the air strike.

"It is like a double-edged sword. While the action has aroused our nation and fostered a sense of patriotism, by this strike, we have alerted Pakistan," he told PTI.

The 84-year-old veteran said, he has participated in 1962, 1965 and 1971 wars.

"The message has been sent to them, but we have alerted Pakistan, and now they will get cautious," he said, adding, "We need a master plan to handle the situation."

Former IAF chief, Air Chief Marshal (retd) S Krishnaswamy complimented the government for taking the stand, but cautioned there might be "reaction" from the Pakistani side.

"It is a natural to have a reaction (from Pakistan). I'll be surprised if Pakistan doesn't react in the next 48 hours...They cannot resist certain temptation of a tit-for-tat," he said.

The former chief of air staff also said that there is "nothing called absolute safety, and we need to be on guard".

All you need to know about Mirage that smoked out Jaish

RAKESH K SINGH ■ NEW DELHI

The Mirage 2000 aircraft deployed for conducting deep strike on Pakistan's deep state i.e. the camps of terror group Jaish-e-Mohammed in Pakistan was chosen due to its lethality and precision in the strikes.

As per the lethality count of Mirage 2000, 30 to 100 people can be killed every 30 seconds and a conservative estimate here suggests about 400 people could have been liquidated in the raids including two IC 814 hijack case masterminds, 25 terror commanders and trainers, some of whom are suspected to have been former Army officers besides 325 to 350 trained fidiayees being trained for hitting Indian interests.

The Mirage 2000 are the strategic bombers capable of delivering an array of bombs and missiles including nuclear and laser-guided ones with capability to hit long-range targets with "pin-point" accuracy.

India inducted the Mirage jets about three decades back and the fleet is undergoing upgradation and enhancements with a budget of Rs 20,000 crore. The multi-role, single engine jet is a single-pilot fighter with a range of about 1,500 km.

The Dassault-manufactured jet can travel at more than twice the speed of sound at Mach 2.2 (2,336 kmph). It is capable of flying at an altitude of 59,000 ft. A commercial jetliner usually flies at 35,000 to 40,000 feet.

Interestingly, the Rafale, manufactured by the same Dassault, is now in the midst of a massive controversy even as the Mirage 2000 is garnering lavish praise from all quarters.

The aircraft was preferred over other options as it is capable of conducting long-range engagement of targets and the assessment of success was estimated to be 100 per cent, sources said.

The Mirage also is fitted with the state-of-the art radar system, control system and flight navigation system with virtual display of the functions to aid the pilot.

The Indian Air Force has about three squadrons of Mirage 2000 fighter jets manufactured by HAL under licence from French aerospace major Dassault Aviation, the manufacturer of Rafale multi-role fighters being procured by India.

A number of equipment and platforms of the IAF were also used in the deep operation, first inside Pakistan after the 1971 Indo-Pak war.

The Mirage 2000 was first commissioned into the IAF in 1985, when it was christened as Vajra (thunderbolt). India initially bought 36 single-seater Mirage 2000 and 4 twin-seater Mirage 2000 after US supplied F-16 fighters manufactured by Lockheed Martin.

Modi makes veiled reference of air strike at public events

PM seeks apology from audience for being late

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Despite his public appearances throughout the day on Tuesday, Prime Minister Narendra Modi only made indirect references to the aerial surgical strikes by the Indian Air Force (IAF) against the JeM in Pakistan — first at an event at Rashtrapati Bhawan, then at his rally in Churu and later at an event at ISKCON here.

Early in the day, he sought an apology from the audience at the Rashtrapati Bhawan for being late as he was "busy" with "some other work". He had chaired a meeting of the Cabinet Committee on Security at his official residence around 10.00 am before rushing to the Rashtrapati Bhawan, where President Ram Nath Kovind conferred the Gandhi Peace Prize for 2015-2018.

The event at the Rashtrapati Bhawan was to begin at 11.00 am, but started a little late.

"First of all, my apologies or being late. The programme started late as I reached here (Darbar Hall of Rashtrapati Bhawan) late. I was busy in some other work and I was late," he said while addressing the gathering.

During the day at a rally in Churu in Rajasthan, the Prime Minister again made an indirect reference to the action across the border by the Indian Air Force.

"Today is a day to pay homage to India's bravehearts. Today, from the land of Churu, I want to assure the people of the country that the country is in safe hands," he said.

The Prime Minister began the address by asking the people to raise slogans of 'Bharat Mata ki Jai' and said he understood very well the sentiment, excitement and enthusiasm of the people present here.

Later in the day, at Delhi's ISKCON temple, he said, "Manavta ke dushmano se dharti ko bachane ke liye prabhu ki shakti humare saath hamesha rehti hai. Yahi sandesh hum poori pramaanika ke saath dusht aatmayon, asuro ko dene ka prayas kar rahe hain."

Twitter turns into Indo-Pak virtual battleground

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Within hours of confirmation of an Indian aerial surgical strike inside Pakistan, microblogging site Twitter turned into a virtual battlefield with both Indians and Pakistanis taking on each other using memes, Bollywood references wit and humour and even some serious tongue lashing. It was the Indians, however, who fired thicker and faster.

In no time, hashtags like #surgicalstrike2, #indias-trikespakistan, #indiastrikesback were topping the trending list. Memes, videos and one-liners came thick and fast.

One of the most popular tweets from India was a tweaked version of a dialogue from the Bollywood film "Uri: The Surgical Strike". "How's the Jaish?/Dead Sir," several twitter users wrote and many others retweeted. The oft-quoted dialogue from the hit film is, "How's the josh? High Sir?"

A tweet by Pakistan Defence posted Tuesday midnight -- "Sleep tight because PAF is awake. #PakistanZindabad" -- also became the butt of jokes for India's twitterati. "PAF: Sleep tight because PAF is awake. Reply from IAF: 3:30am, Jaag ke kya ukhaad liya? (What did you achieve by being awake?) #Surgicalstrike2."

Even politician Omar Abdullah couldn't help but join in. Retweeting Pakistan Defence's post, he wrote, "This one will be filed under 'tweets we wish we hadn't put out but can't delete now'. Don't worry we all have them just not on this scale perhaps."

Some tweets also took a jibe at Pakistan's rejection of India's claim over destroying a terror camp. "When America killed Osama, they claimed that Osama wasn't in Pakistan. When India killed the terrorists of 26/11 attack, they claimed that they were not Pakistanis. When India took surgical strike, they claimed/claiming that nothing has happened. #surgicalstrike2," a tweet read.

Famous scenes from Bollywood films also came in handy for Twitterati who used them as memes to express their pride and excitement over the IAF's achievement.

A tweet by Aam Aadmi Party's handle shared an iconic scene from "Border" where Sunny Deol is seen giving a thumbs up to pilot Jackie Shroff flying the fighter aircraft. Users also posted a scene from the Salman-Govinda starrer "Partner" to convey their "itni khushi" — a famous dialogue in the film.

Videos of celebrations in Kolkata and Gujarat showing people distributing sweets and bursting crackers were doing the rounds on social media.

Pakistanis mocked India's claim that the strikes in Balakot allegedly killed around 350 terrorists. Many tweets circulated pictures of bombing shared by Major General Asif Ghafoor, director general of the Inter-Services Public Relations (ISPR), the media wing of the Pakistan Army, captioned, "Payload of hastily escaping Indian aircrafts fell in open."

According to these tweets, what the Indian Air Force bombed was not a terror camp but simply trees.

"My name is tree and I am not a terrorist. #Surgicalstrike2," a tweet read. Sharing the same images, a user wrote, "#SurgicalStrike2 my foot Indian's April Fool day."

Another post read, "Are you sure! that..these trees are t e r r o r i s t . . . ? ? ? ? ? #Surgicalstrike2."

Border tense, Army alert in J&K

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU

Hostilities between India and Pakistan peaked on Tuesday along the Line of Control in Jammu & Kashmir, following fresh exchange of firing at different locations, in Rajouri and Poonch sectors shortly after fighter jets flattened 'terror factories' deep inside Pakistan in punitive strikes. The jawans of the Indian Army, already in a state of high alert, maintained tight vigil to prevent any strike by the Pakistan action team of the Pakistan army in the forward areas.

After the Pulwama terror strike security of all the vital defence installations in the region was beefed up and high alert was sounded to prevent any strike by heavily armed terrorists in the region.

According to ground reports, Pakistan army violated ceasefire agreement at five different locations in the last 24 hours in twin border districts.

Five Army soldiers were injured and two houses damaged as Pakistani army resorted to heavy mortar shelling on 55 forward areas in Jammu, Rajouri and Poonch districts on Tuesday, officials said, hours after IAF jets struck a JeM terror camp across the LoC.

Situation along the International border across Jammu frontier remained peaceful even as local residents were cautioned to stay alert and exercise caution in the wake of prevailing security situation.

Defence PRO, Lt-Col Devendra Anand, in Jammu said, "Pakistan army initiated 'unprovoked' firing in Baba Khori and Sunderbani areas of Rajouri early Tuesday morning."

He said the firing continued for over two hours between 5 to 7.30 a.m. in the forward areas. Indian army retaliated strongly and effectively, he added.

In Poonch, similar incident of firing reported between 1.20 a.m and 2.30 a.m in Gulpur and Deegwar sectors.

Lt-Col Anand said, fresh firing sparked off tensions in the region Tuesday evening as Pakistan army shelled mortars targeting forward Indian posts.

"At about 5.30 p.m Pakistan initiated unprovoked ceasefire violation by heavy shelling with mortars and firing of small arms along LoC in Akhnora, Nowshera and Krishna Ghati Sectors". He said, Indian army retaliated strongly and effectively. Earlier in the morning, large number of border residents, living in the direct line of fire in frontier Poonch district, woke up to 'bizarre' sounds of fighter jets hovering over the skies.

Initially, these border residents could not make out what was going on in the forward area but at day break they realised Indian fighter jets were returning after carrying out the successful operation.

Waqar Younis, a resident of Shahpur village in Poonch said, "I woke up around 3.30 a.m after listening to loud sounds of fighter jets".

"I had no idea what was going on in the area. I felt little scared as we are not used to listening to such 'bizarre' sounds".

He said, "in the morning when I came to know Indian Air Force jets had launched an operation to target terror camps of Jaish-e-Mohammad terrorist outfit inside Pakistani territory I could relate the things".

Another resident of Poonch city Advocate Sanjay Raina said, "We are used to border skirmishes in the area but the sound I heard early Tuesday morning was different. I could not sleep properly as jets kept hovering over the Poonch skies for longer duration. It was very unusual. We are used to movement of helicopters in the area but haven't seen fighter jets in our area in the recent times."

Despite mounting tension in the area cross LoC trade went on smoothly via Chakan-Da-Bagh crossing point along the Poonch-Rawalakot trade route.

According to official sources, "35 truck loads of food items including Tomato, fresh fruit were dispatched to Pakistan and 15 truck loads were received at the Trade facilitation centre in Poonch".

Deputy Commissioner, Poonch Rahul Yadav said, "we are monitoring the situation on ground zero on hourly basis. He said, as of now no specific advisory has been issued to the border residents to relocate to safer places in the wake of escalating tensions between India and Pakistan". Rahul Yadav said, "we follow standard drill in the event of escalating tensions during cross border firing. He said, "we have already identified several places to accommodate border residents".

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Hours after Indian fighter jets pounded Jaish-e-Mohammed terror-training camps at Balakot deep inside Pakistani territory decimating one of the biggest terror bases in that country and killing several hundred terrorists including some of their top commanders, Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Tuesday came out in open praise for the "amazing fighters" even as her party leaders

Conferring a new appellation on the Indian Air Force pilots for their exceptional bravery in penetrating deep into the neighbouring country to eliminate a highly potent terror training facility of the JeM funded and run by the Pakistani armed forces, Banerjee wrote on the Twitter IAF was another name of India's Amazing Fighters.

"IAF means India's Amazing Fighters. Jai Hind", Banerjee tweeted in the wake of the pre-dawn strike at Balakot where terrorists from JeM, Lashkar-e-Toiba and Hizbul Mujahideen were being trained since 2000.

About a dozen fighter Mirage 2000 fighter jets pounded terror targets deep inside Pakistan in the small hours of Tuesday.

Reacting to the Tuesday's "pre-emptive strike" a senior Trinamool Congress and also a State Minister said, "such an action was long overdue", adding the Narendra Modi Government should have been more alert so as to avoid the attack on a convoy of Central forces at Pulwama in Kashmir killing 41 personnel on February 14.

"One hopes Pakistan will retrace its steps in future before aiding such terror strikes in India," the leader said echoing however the Chief Minister's earlier statement that there was no need to drum up a war-chorus. "War-mongering and reacting to a situation are two different things," the leader said.

The Chief Minister had earlier attacked the Modi Government for "playing with the blood of martyrs of Pulwama" why the CRPF jawans were not sent by air in view of intelligence reports.

Mehbooba goes berserk after plethora of reactions on twitter

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU

Hours after Indian fighter jets bombed Jaish-e-Mohammad-run terror camps in Balakot area of Pakistan, PDP Chief and former State Chief Minister Mehbooba Mufti went berserk while reacting to the news break on her twitter timeline.

"Today's IAF strikes were followed by mass war hysteria on twitter & news channels. Most of these people are ignorant who have suspended the use of common sense. But its disconcerting that educated privileged people are cheering on at the prospect of a war. This is true jahaalat", Mehbooba wrote inviting sharp reactions from her followers.

She maintained she will continue to bat for peace than sacrifice countless lives to satisfy collective egos and misplaced sense of pride and patriotism.

"If my aversion to unnecessary retaliation & subsequent war makes gullible people question my nationalism then so be it. I would rather bat for peace & save lives than sacrifice countless ones just to satisfy collective egos and misplaced sense of pride & patriotism", Mehbooba tweeted.

In another tweet Mehbooba went on to claim that Pulwama attack has undoubtedly vitiated the nation's atmosphere. "Pulwama attacks has undoubtedly vitiated the nation's atmosphere. People are baying for blood & want revenge. But lets not forget violence begets violence. Having said that in which part of the world does advocating peace and not wanting senseless violence make one a traitor?"

Another mainstream Kashmiri politician Omar Abdullah initially raised question marks over the IAF strikes but as the day progressed he analysed it in perspective.

"If this is Balakote in KPK it's a major incursion & a significant strike by IAF planes. However if it's Balakote in Poonch sector, along the LoC it's a largely symbolic strike because at this time of the year forward launch pads & militant camps are empty & non-functional" Omar tweeted.

People come out on streets across country to celebrate airstrike

New Delhi: Jubilant people came out on streets and marches were held on Tuesday as the news of the IAF's strike on a JeM terror camp in Pakistan was welcomed across the country, with political leaders as well as general public lauding the armed forces for the action which came in the aftermath of the dastardly Pulwama attack.

The sentiment echoed in State Assemblies with the legislatures in Haryana, Maharashtra and Chhattisgarh passing resolutions praising the IAF action.

In Jammu & Kashmir, youths came out on the streets to celebrate in Kathua, Samba, Poonch, Rajouri and Udhampur.

"I feel this action will give peace to the martyred soldiers... I salute the Indian armed forces," said Kalavathi, whose husband H Guru from Karnataka was among the 40 CRPF jawans who died in the February 14 terror attack in Jammu & Kashmir. PTI

Maha: From politics to Bollywood hail airstrike

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Maharashtra's political leaders, organisations and Bollywood celebrities on Tuesday joined the nation in applauding the strikes by the Indian Air Force against biggest training camp of Jaish-e-Mohammad in Balakot area in Muzafarabad in retaliation for the Pulwama terror attack.

Welcoming the IAF's strikes on terror camps in Pakistan, Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnis said: "By launching a successful strike on the terror camps operating from the Pakistani soil, the Indian armed forces have displayed their might. The retaliation that was on the mind of each and every Indian since the Pulwama terror attack has happened". Stating that PM Modi had kept his word that the sacrifices of the jawans killed in the Pulwama attack would not go in vain, Fadnis congratulated the IAF for its strikes on terror camps in Balakot. "I am proud of Indian armed forces. They have proved that the sacrifices made by the jawans in Pulwama will not go waste".

Finally, martyred CRPF personnel get solace

PTI ■ JAIPUR/CHANDIGARH/BENGALURU

Family members of the CRPF personnel, who lost their lives in Pulwama attack, on Tuesday said they have found some solace in the airstrike against Jaish-e-Mohammed terrorists but pressed for efforts to wipe out the menace of terrorism "once and for all".

"We were expecting a strong response to Pakistan from India and this has been done now. Our loss is irreparable but we are satisfied with what has been done," said Mahesh Gurjar, a cousin of slain CRPF soldier Narayan Lal Gurjar.

Narayan Lal, a native of Binol village of Rajasmand district, is survived by wife and two minor children. He was among the five victims from Rajasthan who lost their lives in the February 14 attack by Jaish-e-Mohammed.

Vikram, younger brother of another victim Jeet Ram, said, "A step has been taken but we want that the menace of terrorism should be ended once and for all." Hailing from Sundarwali of Bharatpur district, Jeet Ram has two young daughters.

In Shahpura town of Jaipur district, people burst crackers at the cremation site of CRPF soldier Rohitash Lamba, who was bid a tearful adieu by thousands of mourners less than two weeks back.

"There is satisfaction among the people of the country. Government's decision is appreciable as the action was within 13 days of the terror attack," said Jitendra Lamba, younger brother of Rohitash.

Slain CRPF jawan H Guru's native village Gudigere in Mandya district, about 100 km from here, too burst into jubilation on hearing about the Indian Air Force's early morning attack on the JeM terror camp.

Villagers took out a march and a tricolour was unfurled atop his house as a mark of respect. "We have been insisting on peace but peace is not a solution anymore. They have to be completely destroyed. My son will rest in peace only if they are wiped out entirely," said Guru's father Honnaiah.

With tears in her eyes, Guru's wife Kalavathi told reporters: "I salute the Indian armed forces. I am happy with this action. I feel that this action will give peace to the martyred soldiers. I am proud of my Indian armed forces."

Darshan Singh, father of CRPF jawan Kulwinder Singh of Rupnagar district in Punjab, said the IAF action "gave solace to the family".

He, however, said had this action been taken before the Pulwama attack, the lives of 40 CRPF jawans would have been saved. PTI

FROM THE SUPREME COURT

Political parties asked to give mediation a chance

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Tuesday asked the contending parties in the politically sensitive Ram Janambhoomi-Babri Masjid land dispute in Ayodhya to seriously consider mediation for a permanent solution even if there is "one per cent chance" of success.

Observing it was looking at the possibility of "healing relations" between the parties, a five-judge constitution bench headed by Chief Justice Ranjan Gogoi also said it would pass an order on March 6 on whether to refer the dispute to a court-appointed mediator.

The suggestion for another round of mediation, however, drew a mixed response from the parties to the decades-old dispute.

The proposal was mooted by one of the judges, Justice S A Bobde, during the hearing when both the Hindu and the Muslim litigants were sparing over the veracity of documents related to the case which were translated by the Uttar Pradesh Government and filed with the apex court registry. "We are considering it (mediation) very seriously. You all (parties) have used the word that this matter is not adversarial. We would like to give a chance to mediation even if there is one per cent chance," said the bench, also comprising Justices D Y Chandrachud, Ashok Bhushan and S A Nazeer.

"We would like to know your (both parties) views on it. We do not want any third party to make a comment to jeopardise the entire process."

"This, we have done keeping in mind that the period of eight weeks that we have allowed to the parties to go through the translations of the oral and documentary evidence could be effectively utilised to try and resolve the issues in the manner indicated above," the bench said.

DISPUTE

"We have suggested to the parties that during the interregnum a court appointed and the court monitored mediation with utmost confidentiality could be initiated to bring a permanent solution to the issues raised in the cases," it observed.

The bench noted in its order that lawyers representing the legal heirs of original litigants M Siddiq and Mohd Hashim and Nirmohi Akhara are "in broad agreement" with the suggestion of the court about mediation while counsel appearing for Sri Ram Lalla Virajman, Mahant Suresh Das and Akhil Bharat Hindu Mahasabha have "not concurred" with it.

"Do you seriously think that the entire dispute for so many years is for property? We can only decide property rights but we are considering the possibility of healing relations," it said.

"Keeping in mind that the mediation suggested by the court is in terms of the mandate under section 89 of the CPC and in an appropriate case it will always be open for the court to invoke its power, we deem it proper to observe that the mediation suggested is only to effectively utilize the time of eight weeks that would be taken to make the cases ready for hearing," the bench said in its written order.

Senior advocate Rajeev Dhavan, appearing for M Siddiq, said they were agreeable to the "very important suggestion" of mediation but said the court should fix a time frame for mediation as the dispute was a "knotty issue".

"We will also have to fix the time frame after talking to the mediator," the bench said.

Senior advocate C S Vaidyanathan, appearing for Ram Lalla Virajman, said they did not agree for "another round of mediation" as such attempts have failed in the past.

"In the earlier mediation, it was accepted that Lord Rama was born in Ayodhya but not at this (disputed) site. Mediation has been tried not once but several times," he said. Senior advocate Ranjit Kumar, appearing for one of the parties, said things have not worked during earlier round of mediation and "everybody wants that the matter should be decided by the Supreme Court".

"Mediation is not possible so this court should decide the matter," Kumar said.

Dhavan referred to the mediation held between 1991-93 and said, "In the larger interest, this court is saying do it (mediation) again. From our side, we are agreeable".

At the outset, the apex court said it can proceed with the hearing if there is consensus among the parties with regard to the veracity of the translated documents. The bench referred to a report filed by the secretary general of the apex court on the status of documents pertaining to the case which said that "the record consists of 38,147 pages of which 12,814 pages are in Hindi, 18,607 pages are in English, 501 pages are in Urdu, 97 pages are in Gurmukhi, 21 pages are in Sanskrit, 86 pages are in other language scripts, 14 pages contain images and 1,729 pages are in combination of more than one language script".

SC to hear pleas seeking review of Rafale verdict in open court

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Tuesday agreed to hear in open court the petitions seeking review of its December verdict that dismissed pleas challenging the deal between India and France for procurement of 36 Rafale fighter jets.

A bench of Chief Justice Ranjan Gogoi and Justices S K Kaul and K M Joseph, in its chamber hearing, allowed the prayer of former Union ministers Yashwant Sinha and Arun Shourie as also activist lawyer Prashant Bhushan that the review pleas be heard in open court.

"The prayer for open court hearing is allowed," said the bench which also considered the review petition filed by AAP MP Sanjay Singh through lawyer Dheeraj Singh.

Besides two review petitions, the top court is also seized of some applications including the one filed by Sinha, Shourie and Bhushan seeking perjury prosecution of government officials for allegedly misleading the court on the issue of pricing and procurement process.

A day after the December verdict, the Centre had moved the apex court seeking correction in the judgement where a reference was made about the Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG) report and Parliament's Public Accounts Committee (PAC), saying "misinterpretation" of its note has "resulted in a controversy in the public domain".

Kalburgi murder probe transferred to SIT

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Tuesday transferred the probe into the killing of rationalist M M Kalburgi to the SIT investigating the murder case of journalist-activist Gauri Lankesh after Karnataka Government said there were common links in the two cases.

Kalburgi, a former vice-chancellor of Hampi University and well-known epigraphist, was shot dead at his residence in Kalyan Nagar in Dharwad, Karnataka, on August 30, 2015.

Born in 1938, he was a Sahitya Akademi award-winning writer of old Kannada literature.

The state Crime

Investigation Department was probing Kalburgi's killing and the SIT was investigating the murder of Lankesh in September 2017 in Bengaluru.

During the hearing, the top court said the SIT probe into Kalburgi's killing will be monitored by the Dharwad bench of the Karnataka High Court.

A bench of justices R F Nariman and Vineet Saran said if killings of Kalburgi, Lankesh and social activist Govind Pansare and rationalist Narendra Dabholkar are linked, it should be probed by one agency and monitored by one High Court.

HUA Will not stop at just 100 smart cities, says Puri

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs (HUA) has spent six times the money used for urban rejuvenation in the 10-year UPA rule and asserted that it is not going to stop at just 100 smart cities. As many as 15 smart command and control centres (SCCC) worth ₹2,771 crores in 15 smart cities have been completed and work orders for setting up 31 integrated command and control centre have been issued. In 18 cities, it is under tendering process. Due to this, crime rate has been decreased in these smart cities.

According to HUA, smart roads in 21 cities worth ₹795 crore have been completed, work orders amounting to ₹7,626 crore have been issued in 54 cities and tendering worth ₹5,942 crore is under progress in 40 cities under smart city mission (SCM). As per latest data, smart waste water projects in four cities worth ₹326 crore have been completed, work orders amounting to ₹5,342 crore have been issued in 41 cities and tendering worth ₹3,860 crore is under progress in 23 cities.

"Similarly, smart water projects in 20 cities worth ₹1,135 crore have been completed, work orders amounting to ₹9,382 crore have been issued in 49 cities and tendering worth ₹4,239 crore is under progress in 29 cities. Impactful projects in 18 cities worth ₹232 crore have been completed, work orders amounting to ₹4,610 crore have been issued in 37 cities and tendering worth ₹3291 crore is under progress in 20 cities, the HUA Minister said.

Earlier, addressing the "Second National Apex Conference of CEOs of Smart Cities", the Union HUA minister Hardeep Singh Puri said the amount spent on urban rejuvenation in the 10-year UPA rule, from 2004 to 2014... It's around ₹1.5 lakh crore. The money spent between June 2015 and February 2019 is six times that amount. It's around ₹8.6 lakh crore.

Puri said that the rapid rate of progress of the mission is an answer to the "cynics and naysayers who doubted what we are doing". "Till September 2017, projects worth ₹21,500 crore were tendered. The value of the projects tendered since then is ₹1.22 lakh crore," he said and claimed that India's Smart City Mission is one of the fastest implemented projects in the world.

"This is only the beginning. As we become a $10-trillion economy by 2030, we are not going to stop at 100 cities, we cannot. These 100 cities will become the template that this is how you do it," Puri said.

On the Swachh Bharat mission, Puri said the Government achieved the target of constructing five lakh community and public toilets well before the October 2, 2019 deadline.

The Minister added that the goal of constructing 67 lakh individual household toilets would be accomplished by next month.

"We were told one crore additional dwelling units were needed to be built under the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana by 2022. As of February 2019, we have sanctioned 79 per cent of them," Puri said.

He also stressed the need for people to make behavioural changes, saying smart cities need smart citizens.

"Smart cities at the end of the day need smart people and smartness in terms of people depends on behavioral changes," he said while expressing disappointment over commuters not using a helmet in smart cities like Surat and Rajkot.

Residents in Pak's Balakot thought earthquake jolted them from sleep

Islamabad: Residents in the quake-prone Balakot town in Pakistan's Khyber-Pakhtunkhwa province on Tuesday said they were woken by "loud explosions" and thought a fresh tremor must have hit the region when Indian Air Force jets pounded a large terror training camp.

Balakot town in Pakistan's north-western Khyber Pakhtunkhwa province was destroyed during the 2005 Kashmir earthquake and was rebuilt with assistance from Saudi Arabia.

Residents in the mountainous area town told BBC Urdu they were woken by loud explosions.

Residents in several towns near Balakot reported hearing explosions early on Tuesday.

Mohammad Adil, a farmer in Jaba village, said he and his family were woken at about 03:00 by "a huge explosion".

He said they thought an earth quake must have hit the region.

"Then we heard jets flying over. We went to the place in the morning. There was a huge crater and four or five houses were destroyed," he said. In a pinpointed and swift air strike that lasted less than two minutes, India pounded Jaish-e-Mohammed's biggest training camp in Pakistan early Tuesday, killing up to 350 terrorists and trainers who were moved there for their protection after the Pulwama terror attack in Jammu & Kashmir that killed 40 CRPF soldiers.

The pre-dawn operation, described as "non-military" and "preemptive", struck a five-star resort style camp on a hill-top forest.

Pakistan Army spokesman Major General Asif Ghafoor, however, said the strikes caused no casualties. He tweeted that Pakistani jets were scrambled and forced the Indian fighter planes to make a "hasty withdrawal", dropping their payload in an open area.

India strikes back

Pre-emptive action on Jaish camp in Pakistan shows that India's counter-terrorism template has shifted quite a bit

Enough is enough. For far too long, since the Kandahar hijacking, terrorism has cost us too much blood, muscle and trade-offs, hit after hit. For far too long, since 2004, we have been providing reams of dossiers to Pakistan on terrorist havens operating in its territory though it dismissed them as non-state actors. For far too long, we have desisted from smashing terror bases on foreign soil though there have been precedents by the US no less of doing so for protecting American civilians, wondering if we would be on the right side of law and fearing a hitback. So yesterday's pre-emptive air strike on a Jaish-e-Mohammed camp deep inside Pakistan, killing a "very large number" of terrorists, trainers and senior commanders of the outfit, was more than just decisive and proactive. It meant that India had freed itself of a psychological baggage. It meant that India had broken the curse of coercion and would ensure that terror would be met with equal counter-terror. It also showed that it would now stare down at Pakistan by denting its missile shield and the frontline of the proxy war — namely UN-proscribed terrorists like Jaish chief Masood Azhar. That it would henceforth keep an eagle eye on every terrorist camp Pakistan hosted, be it on a hilltop or forest, and strike with precise brute force when needed. And do it intelligently. So within hours of the strike, India launched an equally precise diplomatic offensive, briefing envoys and telling the world that the "intelligence-led operation" on Jaish's biggest training camp in Balakot became "absolutely necessary" as it was planning more suicide attacks in India. It calibrated its response, emphasising there weren't any civilian casualties or collateral damage, that it stayed clear of human habitation and Pakistan Army facilities and, hence, had stayed clear of an "act of war." More so, by mentioning that the camp was run by none other than Jaish chief Masood Azhar's kin, Yousuf Azhar, it pin-pointed that it went after a man who was on the global watchlist and was jumping a lookout notice. Which is why international reaction has been tepid, too, with even a China not going beyond asking both countries to "exercise restraint" henceforth. Clearly, we have the tacit support of the US, France, Israel, Russia and Iran.

In short, post Uri and Pulwama, there is a new template for our counter-terrorism approach. For there was a number of firsts. This was the first aerial attack where IAF jets evaded Pakistani air defences and dropped 1,000 kg bombs deep inside, showing that the whole of Pakistan was easily under India's attack arc, that it could jam even US radar systems that our neighbour prided in. By choosing a hidden away terror training camp, the IAF proved that it could smoke out the toughest targets. India even called the frequent nuclear bluff of Pakistan, which has claimed the right of escalation, but on paper is limited in its ability and funds to do so. Finally, we have successfully included the phrase "non-military, pre-emptive strike" into our lexicon, which leaves us with many options to beat non-state actors that Pakistan has used to needle and provoke us. However, the airstrikes have also meant that hereon, there can be no lowering our guard and preparedness given an unpredictable Pakistan. It does have Chinese jets and F-16s with upgraded avionics. And with Jaish linked to Taliban, which is increasing its political footprint in the region, Pakistan will but have to yield to pressure to react. Back home, the Modi government definitely has got some firepower prior to the general elections, positioning itself as a deliverer versus the pusillanimous leadership of decades, avenging Kandahar by targeting key plotter Yousuf Azhar and attempting some salve for Pulwama. As for the Opposition, the strikes certainly take the fizz out of the Rafale debate considering Mirage 2000, its precursor, is also made by Dassault and its capability has only reinforced why we need these jets. And though mahagathabandhan leaders saluted the IAF, fact is they will have trouble coming up with another emboldening, nationalist narrative.

Charging up policy

Several agencies want to set up charging stations in Delhi. But will that be enough to encourage electric vehicle sales?

There can be no doubt that the future of personal mobility inside urban areas will be electric. The only doubt is: How long will that take? And there is also the chicken and egg problem. What should come first? The electric cars or charging stations? Well, while some electric cars have already made it onto Delhi's roads, some charging stations are also being set up. Now, the New Delhi Municipal Corporation (NDMC), the Delhi Government and the Energy Efficiency Services Limited (EESL), an entity owned by India's power public-sector units, are establishing several charging stations across the heart of the capital. This is a good start that must be celebrated and indeed emulated by other Indian cities. But now, it is the time for Indian car-makers to step up to the plate and start selling electric vehicles that buyers want to buy. It is public knowledge that both Maruti Suzuki and Hyundai Motor Company, the country's two largest car manufacturers, are going to launch proper electric vehicles this year that might entice buyers — an electric version of WagonR and the Hyundai Kona. Unlike some electric vehicles on offer in India today, these vehicles should be able to assuage buyers that they will have enough range. At the same time, work by the Urban Development and Power Ministries on encouraging home-owners to upgrade their infrastructure to allow charging at home through new policies is also being undertaken.

But we should not underestimate the scale of the challenge. Even with new charging stations across the capital, Delhi will have around a hundred charging points, whereas Beijing, where the Government has been building charging stations for a few years, will have four million for its fleet of electric vehicles. Also, more encouragement has to be given to electric two-wheelers across the country as these would be cheaper and an easy goal to implement. Work also remains to be done on improving India's electric grid infrastructure that can support electrification of vehicles, thanks to work over the past few years. India already produces enough and more power. But that leads to a different set of questions given that much of our power remains thermal and is not extremely clean. Electrification will just transfer the pollution problem from cities to rural areas. While much work has been done on renewables, the Rajasthan desert is now dotted with thousands of wind-power generators. We cannot make electrification a situation of 'emissions elsewhere' but thankfully, some serious thought is being put into the problem by every level of Government. At the same time, electrification should not become the single answer for curbing vehicular pollution. Other alternatives such as increased gasification, waste-to-energy solutions and hydrogen-fuelled vehicles must not be forgotten just because electricity leads the way.

What Pak stands to lose

There was a basic difference in the approach of Pakistan and India vis-à-vis keeping the river waters issue alive. Pakistan was the downstream riparian state in a weaker position

PRAFULL GORADIA

In 1948, Pakistan's Ambassador to the United Nations, Sir Muhammad Zafarullah Khan, declared that on April 1, 1948 India turned off the water of the Indus river which used to flow into Pakistan... India exercised this control upon the waters of rivers flowing through its territory... India turned off every drop of water which Pakistan had formerly received.

Surprisingly, no one in the audience had the presence of mind to ask how can the flow of rivers be suddenly switched off like a tap in the kitchen? The Indus river system issue was, thus, raised first with a thunderous lie. Negotiations between India and Pakistan began thereafter but years were wasted in wrangling as to where, between officers of what qualifications and rank should be involved in the talks.

The river waters issue was dramatically articulated again by former Prime Minister of Pakistan, Huseyn Shaheed Suhrawardy, in 1957. In his words, quoted from the Dawn by Prof Shashi K Gulhati in his book, The Untiring Indian, "Canal waters and Kashmir are the two prongs of India's grip on us. There is nothing we can do. India is so powerful that everybody wants to be its friend, including America. If Bharat decides to cut off water, Pakistan would be within its rights to fight for water supply but stopping of water will be greater aggression than our fighting."

The distinctive feature of irrigation development in this basin, during about 100 years preceding the Partition, was that a development of 26 million acres of intensive irrigation, by far the largest irrigated area on any one river system in the world, had been based entirely on the run-of-the-river with no storage at all, rightly earning the compliment of being one of the proudest achievements of human endeavour. The first four years after Partition had been marked by abortive bilateral discussions between India and Pakistan, leavened with threats and recriminations. Then major developments took place in 1952. First, the World Bank, interested in the economic well-being of both countries, offered to serve as a mediator to help solve the dispute.

A working party of engineers of India, Pakistan and the World Bank was constituted. The World Bank team consisted of Lt General Raymond Albert Wheeler, former Chief of the US Army Corps of Engineers, Pakistan nominated Mohammad Abdul Hamid and representing India were Ajudhiya Nath Khosla, Chairman of the Central Water and Power Commission, and ND Gulhati, who assisted him.

The working party had begun its work long before. Everyone agreed on its ultimate objective. In the words of General Wheeler, it was to develop a comprehensive long-range plan for the most effective utilisation of the total water resources of the Indus river system for the development of the region. Pakistan wanted the discussions to be limited to the three eastern rivers only, keeping the three western rivers totally for itself; India wanted to consider the flow in all the six rivers. The Pakistani plan comprised largely a statement of its irrigation requirements, which added up to three times the total supply of the system.

On February 5, 1954, General Wheeler presented the World Bank's proposal. But not necessarily from the same source as before. It divided the six rivers into two parts. All the water of the three eastern rivers would be for the exclusive use of India. And all the water of the three western rivers (Indus, Jhelum and Chenab) would be for Pakistan except for some specific withdrawals allowed to India.

The World Bank proposal presented in February 1954, stipulated that: (1) The entire flow of water of the three eastern rivers would be for the exclusive use and benefit of India after a brief transition period during which Pakistan will construct link canals that would bring water from the western rivers to replace the water then being supplied to its canals by the eastern rivers and India would contribute funds for the construction of these link canals; and, (2) the flow of water of the three western rivers would be largely for the use and benefit of Pakistan.

Six years later, when the Indus Waters Treaty was signed, India could irrigate annually 70,000 acres from the Indus, 400,000 acres from the Jhelum and 231,000 acres from the Chenab, over and above the uses as on April 1960, and, according to Gulhati's book, could impound, for specified purposes, 3.0 million acre feet on the tributaries of the western rivers and 0.6 MAF on the Chenab main, apart from storage in small tanks and for flood control in the Jhelum main. This is the maximum quantity of water India's latest decision can cause Pakistan to lose.

Pakistan never wanted that a solution to the Indus waters dispute should emerge through negotiations. It was not inclined to view the problem as a technical one. It wanted to take the issue to the International Court of Justice and seek adjudication. If not that, then it would try to push India into seeking a solution through arbitration. India, however, did not wish anyone or a group, least of all those who were not familiar with the technicalities of river basin development, to thrust a solution upon it.

It soon became apparent, however, that bilateral dialogue with Pakistan was not making any progress and so when the World Bank offered its good offices to assist the two countries to negotiate a settlement, it accepted that offer.

The key point in accepting the Bank's offer was that it would serve as a good officer that is a facilitator and not assume the role of an arbiter. The World Bank most admirably stuck to this role for many years and went through very difficult times. Even when it seemed that negotiations were on the verge of a breakdown, it urged the two sides to continue the dialogue. After six years of playing such a role, in early 1960, the Bank began to see the light at the end of the tunnel.

There was a basic difference in the approach of Pakistan and India vis-à-vis keeping the issue in the public eye. Pakistan was the downstream riparian state; rivers flowed into it from India. It was, thus, in a weaker position. It felt necessary to arouse sympathy for itself from the international community by maintaining a public posture of a country that was at the mercy of India. From the very outset, it established a publicity front, one that followed its leaders' populist stance of making little distinction between, on the one hand, an Indian action actually taken or planned and, on the other hand, the extremes to which India, as an upper riparian, might go.

After the Treaty had been signed, some leaders felt that in signing it, India had appeased Pakistan by yielding too many concessions; that the division of waters was much to the advantage of Pakistan. In a reply in the Lok Sabha, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru asked: "How is this House now to judge the quantum of money to be given? I confess I cannot judge it off-hand. I am distressed that a matter of this importance, an issue that concerns not only the present but the future should be treated so lightly and casually and in such a narrow minded spirit."

SOUNDBITE

I swear by my land I won't let my country be destroyed. I will not let the country stop. I will not let the country bow down.

Prime Minister — Narendra Modi

Pakistan has a long history of harbouring terrorists and America should not give aid to Pakistan until it stops harbouring terrorists.

Former US envoy to UN — Nikki Haley

We hope the two countries (India and Pakistan) can keep restraint and do more to improve bilateral relations.

Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson — Lu Kang

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Payback time

Sir — Now that the Indian Air Force has given a befitting reply to Pakistan by carrying out air strikes on the biggest Jaish-e-Mohammed training camp at Balakot inside Pakistan, killing a large number of terrorists over there, all diplomatic and economic relations with Pakistan must end till the country stops assisting terror groups.

Forest land claims

Sir — Three orders passed by the Supreme Court in 2016, 2018 and 2019 do not question the three-tiered verification process that forest rights claims undergo as part of the 2006 Forest Rights Act. On January 29, 2016, a three-judge Bench held that "if the claim is found to be not tenable by the competent authority, the result would be that the claimant is not entitled for the grant of any patta or any other right under the Act, but such a claimant is also either required

Imran Khan must read the message on the wall

Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan has been asking India to "give peace a chance." Ironically, it is not the latter but the former that should show on ground that it is serious about giving peace a chance. When our jawans are being killed due to Pakistan-sponsored terrorism, can India cry for peace? The surprise air strikes by the Indian Air Force across the Line of Control was a timely and effective response. If Khan really wants relations between both countries to improve, his Government must go on an offensive to track down terrorists and break their backbones. Annihilation of terrorists lock, stock and barrel can assure peace.

Khan is no different from his predecessors in being complacent to let terrorists use Pakistani soil for designing nefarious attacks against India. Khan has been insisting for actionable intelligence to go after perpetrators of crime on India. The flames of distrust between India and Pakistan cannot be doused unless the likes of Hafiz Saeed and Masood Azhar are handed over to India to face trial. Wars are waged for peace but are not desirable. If war has to be averted, Pakistan should plunge into action and take action against terrorist leaders. The world knows that Pakistan has been harbouring them. It cannot always rely upon China's support for survival. If China's reputation nosedives, it will not hesitate to pull the plug from its fair-weather friend.

Save our forests

Sir — The major fire that broke at the Bandipur Tiger Reserve in Karnataka is worsening with no signs of let-up. With butterflies in the officials' stomachs of the forest department, an all-out effort had been made to douse the fire but to no avail. Even as the department was grappling in the dark to check the raging fire, it received a shot in the arm with the state government sending out an SOS to the Indian Air Force to deploy choppers to douse the fire. It is distressing that pristine forest landscapes are being reduced to ashes. It is true that the hot summer wave has caused verdant vegetation to go dry. This may have accelerated due to the spread of fire. Elsewhere in the country also, sporadic cases of wildfire are being reported. The forest departments of respective State Governments must be prepared to deal with wildfires. Swift action can avert greater catastrophes and save our forests.

Gayle's milestone

Sir — West Indies batsman Chris Gayle must be congratulated for breaking the long-standing record of Pakistani cricketer Shahid Afridi of the highest number of sixes in international cricket. He did so in West Indies' first one-day international against England in Barbados. He has now 477 sixes across all formats, while Afridi has 476. Moreover, Gayle achieved this feat in his 444th match while Afridi did so in 524 games. Gayle is the kind of player who chips away his opponents' chance to win the longer he stays at the crease. One hopes that he plays international cricket for years to come.

Give other half the right to live

Being migratory workers, those in the informal economy have been denied their due. It's time the Government takes note of this valuable social capital

VK BAHUGUNA

The 16th Lok Sabha's five-year tenure came to an end on February 13 and political leaders said goodbye to each other in a rare bonhomie and are now getting ready for the Parliamentary elections scheduled to be held in May. The Indian polity remained embroiled in the Rafale deal and other superficial issues for most part of the year; though the NDA Government did give some parting gifts in the interim Budget to the farmers and the poor people, who largely constitute a work force in the unorganised sector. It's time to discuss what major political parties like the BJP and the Congress are going to offer to the unorganised workers, who constitute about 90 per cent of the work force and according to the National Commission for Enterprises in the Unorganised Sector, contribute 50 per cent to the GDP. India is the fifth largest economy of the world today and is poised to climb further to the third position. But did our planners think about the plight and acute hardship this group of people faces almost everyday? They constitute a solid vote bank of more than 45 crore and are mostly engaged in agriculture, construction and other such activities. Of these, the condition of migratory construction workers is very pitiable.

This writer had recently interacted with migrant workers from Madhya Pradesh during an extremely cold day in January. The workers said that they had to suffer from cold while living in plastic huts and that they had been cooking and bathing in the open for the past two months. They were working for the Noida Authority's civil works department and their wages varied from ₹400 to ₹500. Their condition reflected the lack of application of mind and a gross uncaring attitude to human welfare while planning for developmental activities. The construction industry plays a major role in the economic growth of the nation and occupies a pivotal position in its developmental plans, valued as it is at around ₹9 lakh crore. These are the people who toil hard to make big mansions, beautiful roads, swanky offices and posh residential colonies but themselves lead a precarious life under the open sky.

Largely being migratory workers, they are denied voting rights. They are either landless or small farmers, who come to urban areas with their children in search of a better livelihood, seasonal employment but get trapped. Most of them are vulnerable to diseases. Around 30 per cent of the construction workers in India are women, mostly working as head loader or unskilled worker. Many are even unaware about their legal rights during an accident at work, which has become a regular phenomenon now. Several cases of deaths and injuries are reported due the laxity of contractors and unscrupulous builders, many of whom are spurious and play with human life in their greed for money. Yet another group of people are the mine workers. The gory incident in Meghalaya, where 15 coal miners were trapped in a rat-hole mine, must be our conscience call. It was such a horrific incident that the miners' bodies could not be retrieved. In a recent report, the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Labour highlighted the plight of the unorganised sector workers. It is high time that political parties take cognisance of this most valuable social capital of the nation. They are much more in numbers than all the unions members put together but they have no voice.

It is essential to discuss issues that concern the livelihoods of these people. The Government must first classify the unorganised sector by occupation — agriculture, construction (rural and urban), service or manufacturing and nature of employment among others. It must then scrutinise the problems for each category. The most important issue is their exploitation due to poor wages, which is compounded with low productivity compared to the formal sector. They have seasonal jobs and are absent from social security systems due to poor human capital base in terms of education, skill and training. It would be in the fitness of things that the Government announces a separate national programme for different segments, particularly agriculture, construction and ones who are self-employed. New laws must be devised if existing laws do not support providing them basic necessities of life.

The skill development programme must include these segments with an emphasis on personality development. Laws must have the provision for a decent shelter with basic civic amenities like clean water, sanitation, protection from extreme heat and cold in their living space, proper medical facilities, child care and legal remedies. Insurance companies can be roped in. It would be worthwhile to provide earmarked housing on nominal rental basis for seasonal workers for which the Government should take action. To give a fillip to their welfare, a national commission on unorganised sector should be constituted to suggest a road-map for social security at par with the organised sector, structure welfare modules and review legal redress mechanisms.

When cash is the king

Since cash flows are important for the smooth running of businesses, one should focus on improving and managing them and develop strategies to counter emergencies

HIMA BINDU KOTA

When it comes to business, be it small or large, cash is the king, always. Whether a business is growing or struggling, managing cash flow effectively is absolutely essential and for many, it's the key to business survival. The importance of cash can be understood from the fact that over 60 per cent of businesses that fail are still profitable but they just ran out of cash.

On overusing the working capital, a business can witness a cash crunch that can prevent payments to its suppliers, purchase of raw materials and salary payments to its employees. Delay between the time when a business pays to its suppliers and when money is received from the customers is the problem. This requires effective cash flow management to survive and grow. Therefore, maintaining a level of working capital, that allows a business to make it through crunch times and continue operating the business, is crucial. Simply put, cash flow management means delaying outlays of cash as long as possible while encouraging customers to pay as quickly as possible.

So, what is cash flow? It's basically the movement of funds in and out of one's business. Typically, businesses track cash flow either weekly, monthly or quarterly. Essentially, there are two kinds of cash flows: A positive cash flow occurs when cash entering into the business from sales, accounts receivables and so on is more than the amount of cash leaving the businesses through accounts payable, monthly expenses and employee salaries. A negative cash flow is just the opposite situation and occurs when the cash outflow is greater than incoming cash. This generally means trouble for a business.

It is not possible, however, to look at the profit and loss statement (P&L) and get a grip on cash flows. Many other financial figures feed into factoring cash flows, including accounts receivable, inventory, accounts payable, capital expenditures, and taxation. Effective cash flow management requires a laser focus on each of these drivers of cash in addition to profit or loss. Rules of accounting define profit simply as revenue minus expenses. However, a smart business owner understands the fact that whether one earned profit or not is not the same as knowing what happened to your cash. An astute businessman should know when the business will become profitable, not because it will affect the cash flow — because it won't — but because it gives one an early goal to strive for and a ready-made target for projecting future cash flow. Negative cash flow and negative profits make for a grim combination. Focus your efforts on managing cash flow with an eye towards reaching that moment when you realise your first profits.

Since cash flows are very important for the smooth running of any business, one should always focus on improving and managing cash flow and develop strategies to manage problems:

Short-term financing: This type of business financing such as a line of credit can be used to make emergency purchases or to bridge the gap between payables and receivables. Many banks issue business credit cards that can be used to pay vendors.

Long-term financing: Large asset purchases such as equipment and real estate should usually be financed with long-term loans rather than with working capital. This allows a business to spread payments over the average life of the asset.

“WITHOUT CASH, PROFITS ARE MEANINGLESS. MANY PROFITABLE BUSINESSES ON PAPER HAVE ENDED UP IN BANKRUPTCY BECAUSE THE AMOUNT OF CASH COMING IN DOESN'T COMPARE WITH THE AMOUNT OF CASH GOING OUT. FIRMS THAT DON'T EXERCISE GOOD CASH MANAGEMENT MAY NOT BE ABLE TO MAKE THE INVESTMENTS NEEDED TO COMPETE, OR THEY MAY HAVE TO PAY MORE TO BORROW MONEY TO FUNCTION”

Speed up recovery of receivables:

The main mantra of any business should be to bill early and collect quickly. To guard against late payments, bill as early as possible and make those invoices as clear and detailed as possible. Instead of waiting until the end of the month, generate an invoice as soon as the goods or services are delivered. For big orders, one can consider progressive invoicing while the goods are manufactured or services delivered. It's easy to lose track and then neglect to follow up on an overdue account. Experience shows that the longer one remains out of contact with a customer, the less likely he/she is able to recover the amount owed. One can even incentivise customers who pay their bills rapidly by offering discounts.

Liquidate cash tied up with assets:

Does your business have equipment that is no longer in use or inventory that's becoming obsolete? Consider selling it to generate quick cash. Idle, obsolete and non-working equipment takes up space and ties up capital, which can be used more productively. Equipment that has been owned for a longer period will usually have a book value equal to its salvage value or less. So, a sale might result in a taxable gain. Excess inventory can quickly become obsolete and worthless as customer requirements change and new materials are introduced. Consider selling any inventory, which is unlikely to be used over the next 12 months, unless the costs to retain it are minimal and the proceeds from a sale would be negligible.

Delay your payables:

This may sound obvious but is often neglected. Unless there's a worthwhile incentive to pay early, figure out how late you can pay your vendors without risking late fees or harming your relationship. This keeps the cash in your account and out of your vendor's until it absolutely has to be there.

Identify business risks and prepare in advance:

There are many risks involved in running a business. Serious challenges should be expected at some point in the future. You need to consider a number of scenarios such as "What if a big order suddenly comes in?" "What if a big order is cancelled?" or "What if that important client goes missing while still owing me money?" This kind of risk analysis should become a part of the cash flow budgeting process.

Monitor inventory efficiently:

Analyse inventory movement to determine which items are selling and which ones are duds that soak up working capital. Try to keep inventory levels lean so that working capital isn't tied up unproductively and unprofitably.

Always keep buffer money:

Once the break-even point is found, one must ensure that the business has enough cash to fund working capital needs. It's advised to keep three months worth of outgoings in the bank for a rainy day. That may be a thing of the past but if that's the case, make sure you have a buffer of some sort, either personal funds available or overdraft or revolving credit facility.

Implement better systems to manage cash flow:

Many businessmen procrastinate to invoice customers. Some do not invoice as soon as they deliver the product or services or do it just at the month end. Many do not even know how much is owed to them by their customers or how much they owe to suppliers.

If you are one of them, it's time to start implementing an efficient process to manage cash flow. You can use a simple spreadsheet or an accounting software. But its important to have some systems in place.

Cut costs, control cash outflows:

The best way to control cash flow is to stay on top of expenses. When we start making profits, we often tend to ignore cost-cutting opportunities. Unmanaged outflow could be a silent business killer.

Do not focus on profit but on cash flow:

It has been found that 90 per cent of SMEs do not have a cash flow plan from day one, despite having forecasts of profit margins for years ahead. This is a common reason for early business failure. If cash flow is in order, profit will be in order. A lot of businesses do not make it past six months. They might have been a profitable business eventually but they need to have good cash flow to survive.

Young businesses should work with reliable, quick-paying clients initially, even if it means smaller clients and slimmer profits margins. Small business owners should learn one principle early in the life: Cash is king. Building and keeping an adequate stockpile of cash provides maximum opportunity and flexibility to any business while enabling its owners to sleep soundly at night.

Without cash, profits are meaningless. Many profitable businesses on paper have ended up in bankruptcy because the amount of cash coming in doesn't compare with the amount of cash going out. Firms that don't exercise good cash management may not be able to make the investments needed to compete, or they may have to pay more to borrow money to function.

The unending battle for statehood

Arvind Kejriwal has, perhaps, chosen a wrong time to press for full statehood for Delhi as wounds of the Pulwama attack have not healed yet. It would be better if he highlights his achievements in health, education and power sectors

KALYANI SHANKAR

Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal is back with his old game of street-level confrontation with the Union Government as a part of his political strategy. This time, his indefinite fast — that was supposed to start from March 1, but has been postponed — is to get full statehood for Delhi. Can he achieve this objective? It looks difficult because no party at the Centre wants to give full statehood to Delhi.

In the last two decades, both the BJP and the Congress have promised statehood to the capital city but when they came to power at the Centre, the issue took a backseat. Delhi being a special State, its land and law and order come under the purview of the Union Home Ministry. The Chief Minister wants them under his Government's control but the Centre will never part with these powers as there are several hiccups — financial and political.

Like West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, Kejriwal is best at confrontational politics. There has been a constant tussle between him and the Centre ever since the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) Government came to power in 2015. Earlier in his first term, he went on dharna and even held Cabinet meetings near the Rail Bhavan on the pavement.

Last week, Kejriwal declared in the Assembly: "From March 1, I will begin a hunger strike. I am going to fast till we get statehood. I am ready to face death." The demand was one of the promises made by AAP in the run-up to the 2015 Assembly polls. "Ab aar ya paar ki ladai hai" (this is going to be a decisive battle)," the Chief Minister said, announcing his decision. Prior to that, Kejriwal had declared in public meetings that if the AAP got seven out of seven seats in the Delhi Lok Sabha battle, his party would ensure that Delhi got statehood within two years.

Kejriwal is also prodding the people of Delhi to come to the streets to participate in the agitation for statehood.

The immediate provocation for this decision was the Supreme Court's verdict last week, which held that the Centre and not the Delhi Government had the power to order investigations against corrupt officers in the capital. The court also left the decision to a higher Bench as to who should control the officers. Prior to that, in July last year, a five-judge Constitution Bench ruled that Delhi cannot be accorded the status of a State but said schools and universities.

Though Delhi is going for polls in 2020, Kejriwal's compulsion is to raise the issue now because of the parliamentary polls. AAP has performed well on sectors like health, education, water, electricity and unauthorised colonies and is quite sure of support from the lower middle class and poorer sections but Kejriwal is not sure about prospects in the Lok Sabha poll. What better way than sit in dharna on behalf of the people. This way, he can impress on the people that he is the only one who is taking care of their interests.

Second, Kejriwal may also need a face-saving formula at some point of time later if he continues with the fast. He knows he can expect Banerjee and Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Chandrababu Naidu, with whom he is on excellent terms, to come to Delhi and persuade him to end the indefinite fast. Are they not together in the proposed mahagathabandhan? He has come much closer to them and this is a part of taking on the Centre. They are all equally interested in embarrassing the Modi Government.

Kejriwal is not the only one fighting the Centre as Puducherry Chief Minister V Narayanasamy, too, has been locked in a turf war with Lt Governor Kiran Bedi over the latter's negative attitude towards various proposals of his government. He had been sitting in dharna since February 13, outside the Raj Bhavan, demanding that the Lt Governor approve his cabinet's proposals.

Kejriwal should realise that confrontational politics will not get him anywhere. The country is tense after the Pulwama terror attack and he has chosen a wrong time to press for his demands. What happens if a limited war with Pakistan starts before that? What is important is governance and this is where he is weak though he puts the blame on the Centre for his failures. Pressing for Delhi's statehood is something that cannot happen in a day. Kejriwal should realise the difficulties on the road to it. As a Chief Minister, his mantra should be governance first.

STOP BEATING THE DRUMS OF WAR

It is dangerous to think nuclear-armed nations can engage in a tit-for-tat spiral. The greatest risk is a miscalculation by India or Pakistan. Delhi ought to resist the urge to respond militarily, not least because of the chance of escalation. Pakistan, for its part, ought to move decisively against terrorist groups which despite being banned operate with impunity on its soil. Both need to seek a way out of confrontation. Fiscal deficit touches 121.5% of full-year target

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Fiscal deficit touched 121.5 per cent of the full-year revised target of ₹6.34 lakh crore at the end of January on account of lower revenue collections, Government data showed on Tuesday.

The fiscal deficit, or the gap between the Government's expenditure and revenue, stood at ₹7.70 lakh crore during April-January of the current financial year ending March.

At the end of January 2018, the deficit was 113.7 per cent of the Revised Estimate (RE). The Government had budgeted to cut the fiscal deficit to 3.3 per cent of GDP or ₹6.24 lakh crore in 2018-19, from 3.53 per cent in the previous financial year.

However, in the Interim Budget 2019-20, the fiscal deficit was revised upwards marginally to 3.4 per cent of GDP or over ₹6.34 lakh crore, on account of additional outlay of ₹20,000 crore for funding income scheme for small farmers.

According to the data released by the Controller General of Accounts (CGA), the revenue receipts of the government totalled ₹11.81 lakh crore or 68.3 per cent of RE till January in 2018-19, compared with 72.8 per cent during the same period last fiscal.

According to RE, the Government expects to mop up ₹17.29 lakh crore revenue during the current fiscal, from ₹17.25 lakh crore budgeted originally.

Tax revenue was 68.7 per cent of RE, compared with 76.5 per cent in the comparable period of the previous year.

According to the CGA data, the total expenditure of the Government at January-end was ₹20.01 lakh crore or 81.5 per cent of RE. The total expenditure for the current fiscal has been raised to ₹24.57 lakh crore in the RE, from the budgeted ₹24.42 lakh crore.

Mukesh Ambani breaks into global rich list as Anil with $1.9 bn fights bankruptcy

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Reliance Industries chairman Mukesh Ambani has broken into the top 10 richest list globally with a networth of $54 billion, while his younger brother Anil has paled into the oblivion having lost over 65 per cent of his networth, according to a report.

The Hurun Global Rich List 2019 is topped by Amazon chief Jeff Bezos for the second year in a row, while the senior Ambani is placed 10th with a networth of ₹3.83 lakh crore, thanks to a rally in RIL shares, which had topped the ₹8-lakh-crore-mark last month. Ambani owns almost 52 per cent in Reliance.

Anil Ambani, held in contempt of court by the Supreme Court last week for not paying up ₹540 crore, has lost over $5 billion, from $7 billion seven years ago to $1.9 billion this year, even though both the brothers got off with more or less same amount of inherited wealth.

"Having started off similarly after the break-up of the family wealth, Mukesh added $30 billion to his wealth in the past seven years, while Anil has lost over $5 billion during the same period," says the Hurun report.

The other wealthiest Indians are Hinduja group chairman SP Hinduja with networth of $21 billion, Wipro chairman Azim Premji is at third with a networth of $17 billion, says the report released Tuesday.

Cyrus S Poonawalla, chairman of the Poonawalla group that run Serum Institute, with a networth of $13 billion is not only ranked as the fourth richest Indian but also breaks into the top 100 global ranking.

Steel giant ArcelorMittal's Lakshmi Mittal stands at fifth position, followed by Kotak Mahindra's Uday Kotak ($11 billion), Gautam Adani ($9.9 billion) and Sun Pharma's Dilip Shanghvi ($9.5 billion).

Cyrus Pallonji Mistry and Shapoorji Pallonji Mistry, both with wealth of $9.5 billion each come in the ninth and the 10th position, respectively, thanks to their 18.4 per cent holding in the country's largest conglomerate Tata group.

According to the list, Smita Crishna, a third-generation heir of the Godrej family, tops the female billionaire list with a networth of $6.1 billion, while Kiran Mazumdar Shaw of Biocon is the richest self-made female entrepreneur ranked 671 with a wealth of $3.5 billion.

"Since 2012, this is for the first time that India has slipped to the fifth rank in the Hurun Global Rich List. An underperforming rupee and a lackluster stock market resulted in the country losing one-third of the list," Hurun Report India managing director and chief researcher Anas Rahman Junaid said.

RBI to infuse ₹12,500 cr through OMO on Thursday

PTI ■ MUMBAI

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) Tuesday said it would infuse ₹12,500 crore into the system through open market operations.

The RBI said it has decided to conduct purchase of certain Government securities under open market operations (OMOs) for an aggregate amount of ₹12,500 crore on February 28 through multi-security auction using the multiple price method.

The decision on OMO is based on an assessment of prevailing liquidity conditions and also of the durable liquidity needs going forward, it added.

"There is an overall aggregate ceiling of ₹125 billion for all the securities in the basket put together. There is no security-wise notified amount," RBI said.

It further said the eligible participants should submit their offers in electronic format on the RBI Core Banking Solution (E-Kuber) system before noon on Thursday.

The result of the auction will be announced on Thursday and payment to successful participants will be made during banking hours on the following day.

Trai to decide on rules for Internet calling, messaging firms soon

PTI ■ BARCELONA

Telecom regulator Trai will release its recommendations on the regulatory framework for over-the-top (OTT) services in couple of months, its chairman R S Sharma said Tuesday.

"We already have a paper on OTT (over-the-top). We will come out with appropriate recommendations and regulations in near future. Couple of months from now," Sharma told PTI at the Mobile World Congress 2019 here.

The telecom sector at MWC has been displaying technology and sharing their plans around 5G services. The business of 5G will be dominated by data-related business which is expected to blur differences between services provided by Internet companies and telecom service providers.

The sector has been talking about same set of rules for companies providing similar services. Last week, global industry body GSM Association

Director General Mats Granryd said globally telecom companies should be regulated at par with Internet firms as they are planning to move beyond providing just connectivity to adopt data-centric business model with "intelligent connectivity" with 5G coming in.

He said India is the only country that has announced to gradually end mobile call termination rates — a move that will end price arbitrage between online players providing calling and messaging service and telecom operators.

Talking about evolution of new technologies and impact on regulatory jurisdictions, Sharma said, "Regulatory systems will continue to develop as technology develops. Our approach is regulator should not become hindrance."

Besides this, Sharma said all telecom operators will have to put in place blockchain based system to curb pesky call and messaging menace from March 1 and no extension will be granted to them.

IWAI, Indian Oil ink pact on fuel needs of national waterways

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

To address issues regarding fuel requirement of National Waterways, Inland Waterways Authority of India (IWAI) and Indian Oil Corporation Ltd (IOCL) have inked a pact, the government said Tuesday.

The Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) will provide for an understanding over general modalities of mutual cooperation leading to addressing futuristic demand of any form of energy for Inland Waterways and associated services.

"IWAI and IOCL signed an MoU today for jointly developing infrastructure for fuels, lubricating oil, LPG, Natural Gas and any other related fuel and gas for meeting the requirement of National Waterways," the Ministry of Shipping said in a statement.

The MoU covers development of infrastructure for receipt, storage, dispensing and supply of fuels, lubricating oils, Liquefied Petroleum Gas (LPG) (for domestic & commercial use), Natural Gas (NG) and any other related fuel and gas.

In addition, the MoU will also cover infrastructure development for setting up Consumer Pump (for supplying fuels to vehicles, locomotives, machinery and equipment etc) and Retail Outlets (for fuel & gas) at Terminals/ Multimodal terminals, the statement said adding, this will further lead to development of business activities along the National Waterways.

"IWAI and IOCL have agreed to conduct techno-economic feasibility studies for preparation of detailed land requirement, storage facilities and other supporting infrastructure with details of the cost," the statement said.

These studies will be based on the traffic potential, proximity to the local industries and waterways and its connectivity to rail heads.

MSMEs present an additional $70 bn lending opportunity to banks

PTI ■ MUMBAI

The micro, small and medium enterprises (MSME) sector provides the banks with a lending opportunity of $70 billion, says a report.

The MSME sector has been down in the dumps since the note-ban and the soon-to-be implemented implementation of the uniform tax regime GST, forcing millions of units to down shutters causing huge job losses.

This has made the government force the Reserve Bank to offer a special dispensation last month under which the banks were allowed to recast stressed MSME loans under Rs 25 crore outside the NCLT route.

"Small and medium units together have a potential of taking $70 billion in formal credit from banks," industry lobby ASSOCHAM and Ashvin Parekh Advisory Services said in a joint report Tuesday.

RBI proposes tight relief norms for private, foreign banks

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Seeking to curb excessive salary pay-out practices, the Reserve Bank has proposed strict compensation norms for senior officials of private as well as foreign banks, including minimum 50 per cent variable component and money clawback provisions.

Floating a discussion paper, the central bank has also proposed that variable pay of CEO and whole-time directors, among other key personnel, should be "capped at 200 per cent of fixed pay". Earlier variable pay was capped at 70 per cent of fixed pay but did not include Employee Stock Option Plan (ESOP).

High pay packets and excessive risk-taking ways in the banking industry have been under the scanner ever since the global financial crisis of 2008. Employees were too often rewarded for increasing short-term profit without adequate recognition of the risks and long-term consequences for their organisations.

The latest discussion paper proposing changes to compensation norms comes more than seven years after the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) issued such guidelines for private and foreign banks. "These (2012) guidelines are being reviewed, with an objective to better align with FSB (Financial Stability Board) Principles and Implementation Standards, based on experience and evolving international best practices," the RBI said.

Apart from CEOs and whole-time directors, the proposed changes in compensation would be applicable for "material risk takers and control function staff".

It has also been suggested that ESOPs should be included as a component of variable pay.

The proposed guidelines also said minimum 50 per cent of variable pay is to be via non-cash component while mandating a compulsory deferral mechanism for variable pay, regardless of quantum of variable pay.

"It should be ensured that there is a proper balance between fixed pay and variable pay. The total variable pay shall be limited to a maximum of 200 per cent of the fixed pay (for the relative period).

"Within this ceiling, at higher levels of responsibility, the proportion of variable pay should be higher. The deterioration in the financial performance of the bank should generally lead to a contraction in the total amount of variable compensation paid," the discussion paper said. Further, the paper said banks are required to put in place appropriate modalities to incorporate "malus/ clawback mechanism" in respect of variable pay, taking into account relevant statutory and regulatory stipulations as applicable.

"Wherever the assessed divergence in bank's asset classification or provisioning from the RBI norms exceeds the prescribed threshold for public disclosure, the bank shall not pay the unvested portion of the variable compensation for the assessment year under 'malus' clause," it added.

A malus arrangement permits a bank to prevent vesting of all or part of the amount of a deferred remuneration. A clawback, on the other hand, is a contractual agreement between the employee and the bank in which the employee agrees to return previously paid or vested remuneration to the bank under certain circumstances.

In case of divergence (difference between bad assets declared by bank and assessed by RBI), no proposal for increase in variable pay (for the assessment year) should be entertained, it added.

Comments have been sought on the discussion paper till March 31.

In the discussion paper, the RBI said compensation practices, especially of large financial institutions, were one of the important factors which contributed to the global financial crisis in 2008.

"These perverse incentives amplified the excessive risk taking that severely threatened the global financial system. The compensation issue has, therefore, been at the centre stage of the regulatory reforms," it said.

The Financial Stability Forum (later the Financial Stability Board) in 2009 brought out a set of Principles and Implementation Standards on sound compensation practices.

The guidelines have been proposed for private sector banks, including Local Area Banks, Small Finance Banks and Payments Banks. For the foreign banks operating in India by way of Wholly Owned Subsidiary structure, the guidelines would be same as that for private sector banks in the country.

Sensex ends 240 pts lower on rising India-Pak tension

PTI ■ MUMBAI

The benchmark BSE Sensex Tuesday ended 240 points lower as investor sentiment weakened after the India carried out air strikes on a terrorist camp in Pakistan.

Weak cues from global equities and selling pressure on financials and realty stocks too weighed on market mood here. After cracking nearly 500 points, the 30-share Sensex pared some losses but ended 239.67 points, or 0.66 per cent, lower at 35,973.71. It hit a low of 35,714.16 and a high of 36,172.52. The gauge surged 342 points in Monday's trade. The 50-share Nifty also fell 44.80 points, or 0.41 per cent, to 10,835.30 after hovering between 10,729.30 and 10,888.75. Losses were more pronounced in banking, realty and PSU counters.

"Indian indices traded lower mainly due to two factors - first, the indications of weakness from all major Asian markets since their opening; and second, the strike carried out by the Indian Air Force against terrorist camps located inside Pakistan," said Joseph Thomas, Head Research, Emkay Wealth Management.

While the former may be considered reflective of the evolving broader global perspective, the latter may have limited or transient impact on the market direction, he said, adding that markets may remain quite volatile in the coming days, especially, in the light of the fast approaching general elections.

The Indian Air Force struck Jaish-e-Mohammed's (JeM) biggest camp in Pakistan early Tuesday in a major "reemptive" action, killing a large number of terrorists and trainers of the Pak-based terror group preparing to carry out suicide attacks in India. The move came 12 days after JeM carried out the Pulwama attack in Kashmir.

Meanwhile, the rupee which depreciated 38 paise to 71.35 against the US dollar in early trade, recovered partially to quote at 71.06 in late afternoon trade at the forex market, and was still trading 9 paise lower over its previous close of 70.97.

INDIAN E-COMMERCE MARKET TO TOUCH USD 84 BILLION IN 2021

New Delhi: The fast growing e-commerce market in the country will touch USD 84 billion in 2021 from USD 24 billion in 2017 on account of a healthy growth in organised retail sector, a report said on Tuesday. A fast growing economy and robust demographics provide a positive outlook to the consumer businesses in India, the report by Deloitte India and Retail Association of India said. These factors will fuel the retail market growth in the country, making India the third largest retail market in Asia and fourth largest in the world, it said. The retail market in India is expected to grow to USD 1.2 trillion by 2021 from USD 795 billion in 2017, it said. "Further, as the internet penetration in the country increases and more international retailers start operating in India, the share of organised retail market is expected to increase from 12 per cent in 2017 to 22-25 per cent by 2021. "This will also be driven by the growth of e-commerce market from USD 24 billion in 2017 to USD 84 billion in 2021," the report said. The report titled "Unravelling the Indian Consumer" said increasing online shopping, smartphone usage and internet penetration across semi-urban and rural segments would help boost the sales. "India continues to hold a strong position as far as its market potential is concerned and is on its way to becoming the third largest consumer market in the world, poised to grow close to USD 1.2 trillion by 2021," Anil Talreja, Partner, Deloitte India said. Given the strong retail and consumer outlook, India is expected to witness redefining trends in the consumer market which will shape the future of the retail industry, the report said. It added that consumer experience will be the key focus of the companies. "Against the backdrop of the Indian and global economies that set the stage for achieving globalisation, innovation, M&A activity, and increased digitalisation, consumer companies are likely to continue to reinterpret traditional levers to stimulate growth in a competitive business environment," it said.

JIO TO BECOME NO.1 TELECOM OPERATOR THIS YEAR: REPORTS

New Delhi: Billionaire Mukesh Ambani's telecom venture Reliance Jio will this year become India's No.1 telco in terms of both subscriber base and revenue, brokerages Bernstein and Credit Suisse said in separate reports on Tuesday. Jio, which stormed into the sector in 2016 by offering free voice calls and dirt cheap data on mobile phones, is reporting net profit and a positive return on invested capital was due to "non-standard depreciation metrics" and subsidies on selling bundled JioPhones being booked through Reliance Retail, Bernstein said. "Our high-level attempt to normalise these factors points to a potential loss of ₹ 15,000 crore in FY2019. Far worse than Bharti's or Vodafone Ideas," it said. Jio using non-standard depreciation and amortisation has been reported previously as well and the regulators have found nothing wrong with such a reporting. Bernstein said it is making this point only to highlight that Reliance will ultimately want to make a positive return on its investment which will require a reduction in handset subsidies and a boost in subscriber revenue. "We expect average revenue per user (ARPU) to eventually start to rise to enable this," it said.

China calls for 'restraint' after IAF hits Pak

PTI ■ BEIJING

China on Tuesday urged India and Pakistan to "exercise restraint" and asked New Delhi to carry out its fight against terrorism through international cooperation, hours after Indian fighter jets struck Jaish-e-Mohammed's biggest camp in Pakistan in a pre-dawn attack.

When asked for China's response to India's air strikes on terrorist camps in Pakistan, Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Lu Kang told the media here that "we have taken note of the relevant reports."

"I want to say that India and Pakistan are both important countries in South Asia. A sound relationship and cooperation between the two serves the interests of both the countries and peace and stability in South Asia," he said. "We hope that both India and Pakistan can exercise restraint and do more to improve their bilateral relations," he said. India bombed and destroyed Jaish-e-Mohammed's biggest training camp in Pakistan early Tuesday, killing a "very large number" of terrorists, trainers and senior commanders, officials said in New Delhi.

On India's assertion that it was a "non-military pre-emptive strikes" directed against training camps of the terrorist groups who are carrying out violent acts in India, Lu said, "as for India's claim on taking action against terrorism, well fighting terrorism is a global practice."

"It needs necessary international cooperation. India needs to create favourable condition internationally for the same," he said. To another question, he said Pakistan Foreign Minister Shah Muhammad Qureshi has spoken to his Chinese counterpart Wang Yi on the Pulwama terror attack in Jammu and Kashmir. "During the phone call, Wang listened carefully to Pakistan foreign minister's notification and proposals on the issues and reaffirmed his opinion that the two sides need to advance their cooperation in the counter terrorism for peace and stability in the region," the spokesman said.

Pak Army confirms Indian jets dropped 'four bombs'

PTI ■ ISLAMABAD

Pakistan Army confirmed that Indian fighter jets dropped "four bombs" during an operation on Tuesday but downplayed its significance, saying the Indian attack was repulsed and while going back the aircraft "jettisoned their payload."

Army spokesman Maj Gen Asif Ghafoor also said that Pakistan will "surprise" India with its response that will be in all domains including "diplomatic, political and military." "Prime Minister Imran Khan told the army and the people that get ready for any eventuality. Now it is time for India to wait for our response. We have decided. Wait for it," Ghafoor said.

Pak summons India's diplomat over 'violation of its territorial sovereignty'

PTI ■ ISLAMABAD

Pakistan on Tuesday summoned India's acting High Commissioner here and condemned the "violation of its territorial sovereignty" by Indian fighter jets.

In a statement, the Foreign Office said that "approximately 02.54 hours (local time), 8 Indian aircraft were effectively intercepted by the Pakistani Air Force jets and forced" to return.

The Indian jets "randomly released their ordinance which landed in an uninhabited remote area," it added.

"The Acting Foreign Secretary summoned the Indian Acting High Commissioner and strongly condemned the Indian violation of Pakistan's sovereignty and territorial integrity," it said.

It said that the "baseless, reprehensible Indian claims of targeting a large terrorist camp and resultant casualties to placate Indian domestic audience and electioneering were strongly rebutted."

The Acting Foreign Secretary categorically stated that Indian "aggression was a threat to regional peace and stability and would get a befitting response by Pakistan at a time and place of its choosing."

The official also condemned the "baseless" Indian allegations against Pakistan's involvement in the Pulwama terror attack.

Kim, Trump arrive in Hanoi ahead of nuclear summit

AFP ■ HANOI

North Korean leader Kim Jong Un and US President Donald Trump arrived in Hanoi Tuesday, ahead of a second summit closely watched for concrete steps to dismantle Pyongyang's nuclear programme.

After an initial historic meeting in Singapore in June that produced only a vague statement about denuclearisation, analysts say the second date must deliver more in the way of tangible progress.

The summit itself is shrouded in secrecy and there was still no official word even on the venue when Trump touched down in Air Force

One late Tuesday. The two leaders were expected to have an informal dinner on Wednesday before more formal talks on Thursday.

Trump made no comment to reporters on his aircraft but had previously tweeted his hopes for a "very productive" meeting, reiterating that North Korea could enjoy economic riches if it gave up its nuclear weapons.

"With complete Denuclearization, North Korea will rapidly become an Economic Powerhouse," tweeted Trump. "Without it, just more of the same."

GLOBE TROTTER

US HOUSE TO VOTE ON BLOCKING EMERGENCY

Washington: US House lawmakers on Tuesday are expected to pass a Democratic measure annulling President Donald Trump's declared emergency on the southern border, an effort that appeared to earn growing support among Senate Republicans. Trump's February 15 emergency declaration gives him access to billions of dollars to construct his wall on the Mexican border, beyond the nearly $1.4 billion that Congress allocated for construction of border barriers.

BOMB KILLS 3 IRAQI WORKERS IN FALLUJAH

Baghdad: Police say 3 Iraqi workers are killed in a roadside bomb explosion in the western city of Fallujah. A local officer says the blast occurred Tuesday when a device exploded near a vehicle carrying construction workers in the Naimiya district.

UK asks India, Pak to find diplomatic solutions

London: The British Government has called on India and Pakistan to pursue diplomatic solutions in the wake of the Pulwama terrorist attack in J & K. UK Foreign Secretary Jeremy Hunt held telephonic conversations with External Affairs Minister Sushma Swaraj and Pakistan Foreign Minister Shah Mehmood Qureshi on Monday, the UK Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) said in a statement.

"He encouraged Pakistan and India to improve cooperation and find diplomatic solutions that will create greater stability and trust in the region," the FCO said hours before Indian fighter jets struck Jaish-e-Mohammed's biggest camp in Pakistan in a pre-dawn attack.

The Indian Air Force (IAF) bombed terror camps at multiple locations across the Line of Control (LoC) on the Pakistani side in a pre-dawn strike, 12 days after the Pakistan-based terror group Jaish-e-Mohammed (JeM) carried out the Pulwama attack in Kashmir. PTI

EU urges 'maximum restraint' from India, Pak after airstrike

AFP ■ BRUSSELS

The EU on Tuesday called on New Delhi and Islamabad to exercise "maximum restraint" after Indian warplanes attacked a militant camp in Pakistan, sending tensions soaring between the nuclear-armed arch-rivals.

"We remain in contact with both countries and what we believe is essential is that all exercise maximum restraint and avoid further escalation of tensions," EU spokeswoman Maja Kocijancic told reporters.

India said its warplanes attacked a militant camp where Pakistan-backed fighters were preparing suicide attacks on its cities, killing a "very large number" of militants from the Jaish-e-Mohammed (JeM) group.

Oz asks India, Pak to 'exercise restraint' & engage in dialogue

PTI ■ MELBOURNE

Australia on Tuesday urged India and Pakistan to "exercise restraint" and engage in dialogue to ensure issues are resolved peacefully even as it asked Islamabad to take "urgent and meaningful" action against terrorist groups including JeM operating from its soil.

Australian Foreign Affairs Minister Marise Payne's statement came hours after Indian fighter jets struck Jaish-e-Mohammed (JeM)'s biggest terror camp in Pakistan in a pre-dawn attack.

The Indian Air Force (IAF) bombed terror camps at multiple locations across the Line of Control (LoC) on the Pakistani side in a pre-dawn strike, 12 days after the Pakistan-based terror group JeM carried out the Pulwama attack in Kashmir.

The Australian government is concerned about the relations between India and Pakistan, Payne said.

"Australia urges both sides to exercise restraint, avoid any action which would endanger peace and security in the region and engage in dialogue to ensure that these issues are resolved peacefully," she said.

"The Australian government is concerned about relations between India and Pakistan following the horrific terrorist attack in Jammu and Kashmir on 14 February, which Australia has condemned."

Taliban hopeful on deal amid new round of talks with US

AP ■ DOHA

The Taliban and Washington's peace envoy are close to reaching an agreement on US troop withdrawal from Afghanistan, a spokesman said Tuesday amid a new round of talks with the United States.

Suhail Shaheen, the spokesman, said the deal will also include guarantees that Afghanistan will not be used again as a staging arena for anti-American attacks.

His remarks came during the second day of talks in the Qatari capital of Doha with US envoy Zalmay Khalilzad who has been trying to negotiate a resolution of the 17-year war in Afghanistan, America's longest.

Iran's Foreign Minister hopes resignation empowers diplomats

AP ■ TEHRAN

Iran's foreign minister said Tuesday he hoped his sudden resignation would reinforce the position of his fellow diplomats, hinting at a dispute with the security apparatus and hard-liners over the conduct of the country's foreign policy.

Mohammed Javad Zarif's resignation sent shockwaves through Iran, where tensions are already running high over America's withdrawal from the nuclear deal he helped negotiate with President Hassan Rouhani.

The Tehran stock market dropped 1,927 points Tuesday, down some 1.16 percent. The Iranian rial, which has rapidly depreciated amid uncertainty over the deal's future, stood around 135,600 rials to $1. It had been 32,000 to the dollar at the time of the deal.

The state-run IRNA news agency said Zarif told colleagues his resignation would aid in "restoring the ministry to its legal position in foreign relations." The remark appeared to be aimed at other bodies within Iran's government. Zarif was not present for a meeting with Syrian President Bashar Assad on Monday.

Assad was warmly received by Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei as well as Gen. Qassem Soleimani, the commander of an elite unit of the Revolutionary Guard.

Later on Tuesday, and without mentioning the resignation, Rouhani praised Zarif as well as Oil Minister Bijan Zanganeh and Central Bank chief Abdolnasser Hemmati as soldiers on the battlefield against US pressure.

Business school predictions for the last two years have already sung paeans to emerging technologies such as artificial intelligence, internet of things and virtual reality in modern classrooms and the disruptions they bring to education. 2019 has already recognised those trends and given them their due pedestal. What is new in 2019 is that there is renewed focus on the MBA degree's relevance to society and whether it has become out of sync with current industry practices.

Pursuing an MBA requires considerable personal and financial commitment. One of the most obvious questions that today's generation asks a B-school is that when college-droppers can go on to become billionaires why should one need an MBA?

A recent employer survey in the US reveals that employers search for five key skills in their target managerial personnel — ability to work with a variety of different people, ability to build, sustain and expand networks of people, ability to solve complex problems, ability to understand the impact of digitalisation on business and the ability to prioritise and deliver time-bound results. As can be seen, these are typical soft skills which rarely form part of business curricula and are difficult to teach in classroom environments or even simulations.

Some of the expectations around an MBA are patently unreasonable. For example, a number of students have been led to believe that an MBA is a golden ticket to a high-paying job, which it isn't. The fact remains that your career will depend on the body of work you are able to present to a prospective employer. Employers are looking to hire people with not only the relevant skills and competencies when they hire an MBA but also one who has demonstrated success in management through relevant experience. And only a handful of business schools will give you real-world laboratories to practice and hone skills ancillary to your core competencies.

Given below are the top trends that MBA programmes will be looking to deliver in 2019.

■New disciplines to take center-stage: Entrepreneurship, analytics and design-thinking are predicted to be the 3 top areas in which demand will increase manifold this year. Digital media and luxury management are other emerging areas where specialisation is a key requirement for entry. As per naukrihub.com, a quality control manager's salary ranges between ₹5,49,320 to ₹8,77,720. A pharma product manager earns from ₹4,47,620

Manage the Future

With the evolution in MBA programmes in the last few years, ASHEESH GUPTA tells you the top trends to look out for to ₹1,051,550 and that for a business analyst, between ₹5,02,830 to ₹9,45,630.

■Business schools will be more responsive to society: Social upheavals in today's environment continue to question established institutions and their relevance to social realities. Business leaders too, being an inherent part of the community, will be pressed to become more responsive and responsible to needs such as environmental regulation, CSR and other collaborations. Industries ranging from pharmaceuticals and energy to FMCG and fashion, all are being pressed to prove their involvement and contribution to the society at large. Adequate training and preparation will be called for those roles.

A quality control manager's salary ranges between ₹5,49,320 to ₹8,77,720. A pharma product manager earns from ₹4,47,620 to ₹1,051,550

■Increasing relevance through collaborations with Government and industry: In addition to continued globalisation on one side with ease of mobility and inter-connectedness of joint academic and student exchanges worldwide, while on the other side, some countries have started to look inwards towards nationalisation. This has led to changing trading relations, resulting in redesigning operations and strategies for many businesses. MBA programmes, therefore, will be required to respond to such needs, where understanding the governments and the industry will be imperative.

■Despite the presence of technologies such as AI and digital twinning, personal interactions will continue to trump digital interactions as the things that make a business relationship sustainable are still developed over lunch or face-to-face cues. Negotiations and transactions will have the best chance of success over technically enhanced face-to-face interactions.

■Embedding technology in the classroom: Apart from these new trends, classrooms are already being supplemented by digital lectures, notes, AI-enhanced assessments that personalise the learning pace according to the comprehension capacities of individual students, VR-powered simulations model what would happen if decisions were to be implemented. Automation, robotisation and blockchain skills are invaluable to the evolution of industry 4.0 and those possessing such skills will be at a distinct advantage.

The MBA degree has not lost relevance despite its being overused and non-uniform standard of education in India. As Professor, Dr Jyoti Prakash Naidu, Dean of Research & Development, JKLU's Pinnacle MBA program, says, "The crucible of experience in a comprehensive MBA program teaches one the language of business and should cultivate in the learner the ability to inspire others to action." The skills and capabilities the MBA offers to society and business are still generating great impact and will continue to do so in the coming future.

'Foreign education facilitates impactful journeys'

SAURABH SABHARWAL gives reasons why foreign education is important for students

Holistic approach in modern education has become quintessential for students across the world. The days of the stereotype education system and limited subject study are long gone. Today, it is important for students to observe, study and explore different facets of society and cultures for their all-round development. The inclusion of foreign educational trips in educational curriculums not only nurtures humanitarian qualities in students but also brings forth their expertise and develops new skills.

Educational trips to the diverse nations give students exposure to new landscapes, wildlife, and topography. More than that, the act of philanthropy, volunteering for underprivileged ones, volunteerism, volunteer tourism, or voluntourism during these foreign educational trips facilitate a 'socially impactful journey' for students.

Some of the key benefits, which make these foreign educational trips and volunteering activities an integral tool for all-round development of students are:

■Adapting to foreign cultures facilitates creativity and builds perspective: Volunteerism during the educational trips isn't just an attempt to make a difference, in fact, it also helps students to understand and adapt to foreign cultures and learn their traditional values by helping them in creating a better life. The experience of cultural immersion creates a new perspective of life in students and gives wings to their creativity in a longer run. A chance to spend time with natives and indulging in humanitarian activities create awareness of underlying connections and build new associations.

■Invokes curiosity and facilitates idea flexibility: Curiosity can lead to a generation of revolutionary ideas and change the way of life. Foreign educational trips instill great qualities in students and open a new horizon for them to explore. This gives curious ones a chance to explore their interest areas and develop their expertise.

■Kickstarts an interest in new career avenues: What can be better than realising your true potential and exploring possible career avenues during your educational trips? By taking a step out of the comfort zone and finding your true strengths and weaknesses, you can become a better human and a successful person in the future. The process of skill development and upskilling during volunteering activities help students in molding a better future.

■Teaches the skill of networking and opportunity to learn multiple languages: Embarking on foreign educational trips efficiently breaks the myth of language barriers. Apart from gaining better command in English, the global lingua franca, students also get a chance to learn native languages of their host countries. It turns into one of the best practical exercises for students to interact with speakers of different languages and learn more about their cultures, to realise the dream of a global family.

■Increases understanding of working as a team: Apart from skill enhancement and diverse cultural experience, one of the important lessons that an educational trip brings is — benefits of working as a team. When people from different cultures and backgrounds come together to work for the underprivileged in unison, the enthralling adventures turn into life's most memorable experiences. Students working in teams, collectively stepping towards one motive to benefit others and serving society help in their evolution into more humble and compassionate human beings.

Engineering is the most preferred professional course among students — the right choice of engineering discipline can help you to reach the top of your career. The engineering industry is vast and there are plenty of niches among which students can decide, based on their interest and passion.

This is the reason why students are more desirous to pursue streams in engineering which are always in demand. Civil engineering is one such discipline which is 'evergreen' and versatile. Students can pursue different roles such as quantity surveying, nuclear engineering, waste resource management, structural designs and others.

In short, civil engineering is an innovative career choice. A degree in civil engineering helps the students to secure well-paid jobs in this particular sector.

Civil engineers with their great technical skills, core-knowledge of the discipline and understanding of concepts are always in-demand.

According to research conducted by the Royal Institute of Chartered Surveyors (RICS), India is expected to face a demand of approximately 4 million civil engineering professionals. With steady urbanisation and modernism, we can expect an enhanced career scope for civil engineering students in India.

After procuring a degree in civil engineering, the individual is capable of working in top multinational companies like Larsen & Toubro, Gammon, HCC. Civil engineers can look for international projects in countries like the USA, UAE, China where the demand is considerably high.

Why civil engineers are here to Take the civil route

Civil engineering is an innovative career choice. SUDHIR G ANGUR tells you more stay?

Presently, the civil sector is experiencing a huge boom, hence it is highly sought-after. A significant increase in the number of private players and the need for unique infrastructure and management of resources has created immense employment opportunities for skilled civil engineers.

The global value of the civil engineering market is $7.84 trillion for the year 2017. It is expected to rise further by 5.6 per cent between the year 2018 to 2025. The rise in urban population is the key factor which boosts the civil industry.

This is the best time to pursue civil engineering as the construction industry of India is on the rise. Globalisation has created a drastic civil upturn in developing nations. As per the World Bank estimation, urban population in India is expected to grow further. This, in turn, has put pressure on the civil sector, facilitating extremely demanding numbers for civil engineers in the country.

In conclusion, civil engineering remains the fastest growing, competitive engineering discipline, whose demand continues to grow year after year with a consequent rise in urbanisation.

Should you still sit for SAT?

The SAT/ACT is no longer necessary for taking admission in over 800 US colleges and universities. ABHISHEK SINGHAL tells aspirants if the exam is still valid

The Chicago University recently announced that its international students do not have any mandatory requirements to report SAT or ACT scores. Many other universities have eased out the SAT requirements over the years, and we expect that in another three-five years it would mostly be done away with.

As it is, SAT/ACT scores are not an important criterion when it comes to admissions in top universities in US. While most universities say that they do not have a recommended range of SAT scores and many good universities have varied SAT/ACT scores among their successful student applicants, going down to even extremely low scores like 1200/1600. Plus, SAT is one among the many parameters that a university judges an applicant upon. A case in point is MIT, among the most rigorous selection process. The MIT engineering applicants get selected from a range of criterion ranging from a research project, makers portfolio, humanities and art portfolio, academics over a four-year time horizon, SAT/ACT scores, co-curricular and extracurricular activities including leadership positions, sports and athletic ability, etc. All of them (and some more) coalesce to create the unique story for each of the applicant which gets you in. Clearly, SAT is a very small portion of this story and as such should not be over-emphasized. Chicago University's decision is just another validation of the point that is veering US universities away from generalised tests like SAT/ACT.

There are some definite advantages of a generalised test score like SAT/ACT for a university. Clearly, not all boards or marking philosophies are similar. IB, A levels, different boards corresponding to countries/states — there are so many variations that it is extremely hard for someone to assess a student on a common yardstick. In such a scenario, generalised test scores provide a ready escape and give universities a common way of assessing a person's academic capability. To that extent, as a common platform to assess students across variety of parameters, SAT/ACT scores remain a meaningful mechanism.

However, SAT/ACT testing suffers from the same problems that any test suffers from. It captures a student's performance on a given day which may not capture his potential/capacity correctly because of a number of reasons. Poor or exceptional test taking ability (not potential), it being a bad/good day, the test itself are amongst the many variables that leave the outcome from the test circumspect and indicative at best! Universities are cognizant of this and a blip in the form of SAT/ACT performance on a given day as opposed to a different story in your overall academic profile would not get undue weightage. Additionally,

THE NARRATIVES DETERMINE YOUR ENTRY TO A UNIVERSITY AND NOT YOUR SAT/ACT SCORES. THESE ARE VALUE ADDITIVE AS THEY MAY SUPPORT YOUR STORY BUT NOTHING MORE THAN THAT

SAT/ACT allow you multiple opportunities to improve your score so the performance on a given day would not determine your future.

An entrance system which is holistic has anyways been assessing performance and potential across a range of parameters for a very long period of time. Giving the assessors one less variable (SAT/ACT scores) would not impact their ability to judge. A good example is the ability of the same assessors to validate the narratives and applications of 'home-schooled' students. In these cases, application-assessors don't have access to much of standardized data that any normal school students have. Despite that they have been able to successfully assess and roll-out offers to many of these students. In fact, Stanford, Cornell and many of the top IVYs have rolled out record number of offers to home-schooled students. Again, this is clearly indicative of the fact that schools will judge your capability with or without SAT/ACT scores.

Many of our students have been very adventurous with their SAT scores. Some of the flat-out refused to take the SAT tests - one of them shared the link of the business that she had created (a 5 MM $ business at the time of her application), another posted the code of a successful algorithm that he had sold to Airbnb. In each of these cases (and many more), the application was extremely powerful (notwithstanding the lack of SAT/ACT scores.) Consequently, these students received admits from some of the top universities including Stanford, Cornell, UPenn, MIT and Princeton.

Apart from Engineering, if you look at Economics and Design applications, the relative value of SAT/ACT scores become increasingly clear. While it can be argued that in the case of design applications, there is an art portfolio that gives a sense of the student's capability; that is not the case with Economics/Business applications. Most students do not take subject SATs and while many still take the general SAT/ACT, it seems counter-intuitive to think that SAT/ACT scores determine entry. More so, when many of the top scorers receiving as high as 1580/1600 were denied admission.

In summary, we posit that your narrative determines your entry to a university and not your SAT/ACT scores. These scores are value additive in so much as they (may) support your story but nothing more than that.

Our general advice, therefore is to focus on building your story — something which is more durable and harder than getting better SAT/ACT scores. That is what shall get you into a great university.

Changed face of designing

The design industry provides a magnificent backdrop and inspiration for those looking to understand and study modern design, says SANJEEVANI AYACHIT

According to a report by the British Council, over the years, the Indian design industry has grown exponentially. It's estimated that by 2020, the design market is expected to be at ₹188.32 billion. Yet, only a fifth of the market has been tapped into at this time. However, slowly but surely the country is starting to embrace design outside of tradition. Today, designers are backed by a strong educational background. This makes Indian designers a mix of talent, insight, and experience.

Since the growth in the industry, many organisations have also started realising the importance of good design. According to Brand Recruitment, a marketing recruitment solutions company, the design industry is categorised into three different sections: In-house design; design businesses and freelancers

Today, a large number of businesses have in-house design teams. These organisations are the ones that soak up most of the talent from the talent pool of designers. Design businesses have also managed to scale up, and a lot of designers choose to work alongside them to help the business scale even higher. Yet another set of designers decide to work as freelancers. These freelancers could work with anybody from an in-house design team to designers working with design businesses. At the end of the day, a freelance designer is essentially a single person organisation.

However, every designer working in big in-house teams, small design business, or as a freelancer needs to possess a certain set of skills. Let's take a look at a few that monster.com recommends for designers:

Communication: designers express ideas with the help of text and image. Consequently, communication skills are crucial to the job. However, communication is essential in design in other ways too. Designers have to connect their ideas to organisations, clients and employers. It commands effective public speaking skills for presentations and writing skills for proposals. Designers must also be able to communicate with clients and employers via phone, email, and sometimes through a video call.

Sanjeevani Ayachit
Officiating Director, Symbiosis Institute of Design

Creativity: Designers need to be creative masterminds. They have to communicate ideas through text and image creatively. They have to create solutions for their clients with creative means; for instance, they may have to promote an organisation's mission within a website or design an illustration that encourages the sale of a product. All of this requires creativity, as well as creative problem-solving skills.

Time management: Digital Arts online, UK says that most designers are continually balancing various projects at once. Because this is such a standard part of the job, it's essential that they possess strong time management skills. Designers should be able to multitask, juggle multiple tasks over long periods, and meet all set deadlines.

According to a report published by Confederation of Indian Industry, India is embracing design like never before. With the increase in design education, it has brought about a radical transformation in the industry. The youth also is willing to develop their skills and translate them into a successful career since their talent can now be backed up by prestigious educational institutes.

Shine.com has revealed its latest report mapping key HR trends that will dominate the Indian jobs landscape in 2019. Conducted across multiple corporate sectors and Government departments, with a major share of respondents with over 15 years of experience in the HR domain, the survey urged HR professionals to share their major focus areas for 2019. It also sheds light on the biggest trends that will impact jobs and business operations in the current year.

A major focus area for HR teams in 2019, will be to enhance talent acquisition management as a process. To that end, 61% HR professionals plan to focus on better talent acquisition policies in 2019. To further enhance the talent acquisition process, over 53% of HR professionals are planning to redesign employee/HR interface using technology.

Focusing on current and anticipated industry disruption, the Shine.com survey also highlighted the extent to which technology is expected to impact business processes. Around 47.16% of HR professionals plan to adopt technology-driven HR tools such as AI tools, Virtual Reality and hiring tools within their organisations in the coming 12 months.

Additionally, 36.75% of HR professionals surveyed foresee some kind of disruption in their industry in next 2-3 years. This technological convergence is also expected to significantly transform existing profiles and responsibilities and give rise to new job roles, apart from replacing low-value jobs. Other trends that are slated to dominate the HR landscape include the adoption of flexible HR policies and working hours, growth of digitisation, and an uptick in freelance workers. Trends such as flexibility and a digital experience will further help organizations to bring down attrition rates and increase employee retention.

In a bid to increase employee retention by offering growth opportunities, over 46% are also looking to improve L&D programs for employees. As nearly half the HR professionals predict a skills shortage in 2019, organizations will look to bridge the gap internally through robust training programs. Moreover, in order to flourish in the ever-evolving business landscape of today, targeted L&D programs that cover futuristic skills are becoming more indispensable than ever before.

Speaking about the survey, Zairus Master, CEO, Shine.com, said, "The objective of our survey was to understand HR trends for 2019. It was no surprise that we found digitization and technology will be impacting the HR function most across sectors. With the skills shortage predicted, talent acquisition focus will be very high for HRs and at Shine, we are geared to cater to this demand. We anticipated this and launched our skilling platform — ShineLearning.com last year to ensure that our candidate base, which is the second largest in the country, is geared up for future job requirements by upskilling. We look forward to partner with HR Managers as they map the new talent acquisition reality."

While a majority of HR professionals have prioritized reskilling and upskilling of the employed workforce for better organisational progress, there are fair shares of challenges that come with it. Apart from employee attrition which is the most pertinent challenge. Performance evaluation tools, time management, career management and healthcare benefits are some of the practices that HR professionals want to invest into in the coming years.

The survey was conducted across various industries including IT, E-commerce, FMCG, Pharmaceuticals, Telecom, Media & Entertainment, Education & Training, and Automotive among others. The insights uncovered cast a light on the directions the present trends will take in the future, which organisations can leverage to offer better resources and facilities to HR workforce.

JAPANESE CULTURAL WORKSHOP

Home language learning is an integral part of the mainstream education that Lancers International School offers to every member of our diverse community. Keeping this in mind, in a very interactive event that was organised where parents from the Japanese expat community came together to give a session on basic cultural aspects of Japan like their geography, media, dressing, calligraphy and customs. The students at the programme actively participated during the session.

YK Sindhvani, Head of School, Lancers International School said: "We are happy that we were able to add this kind of cultural activity for our students. We are willing to integrate more activities which cross the cultural, regional, racial and linguistic barriers and bring everyone together. We thank the parents who took out time to make it a successful event."

MENTORSHIP SERIES

Underlining its focus on fostering entrepreneurial fervour among students, Management Development Institute Gurugram has helped connect over 20 early-stage start-ups and entrepreneurs with more than 10 investors. As a part of a mentorship series — MDI Megaminds — was launched by MDI Gurugram alumni.

Dr Nakul Gupta, coordinator, Centre for Entrepreneurship, MDI said: "The start-up market is teeming with ideas, energy, and enthusiasm. For every unicorn that emerges, there are thousands of start-ups that start and end in oblivion, some of them with truly innovative ideas. But what they don't get is timely or adequate guidance, mentorship, and funding. This series aims to provide worthy early-stage start-ups the chance to connect with mentors to help them get their ideas off the ground."

PARTNERSHIP IN DESIGN

An Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) was signed between the School of Design at the University of Limerick, Ireland and the National Institute of Design (NID), India, in order to develop current research and teaching activities and to facilitate the exchange and mobility of staff members, researchers and students.

The agreement aims to provide a further study pathway for UG design students to further their studies while learning from each other's sociocultural contexts in India and in Ireland. It also aims over time to build a shared design research capacity through joint supervision of research, exchange of faculty and researchers.

The focus remains firmly on the World Cup but India would also be desperate to ensure that a home series does not slip out of their grip when they take on Australia in the second and final T20 International on Wednesday.

The below-par 126 with the bat at Vizag on Sunday denied bowlers a decent shot at securing a win even though the Jasprit Bumrah-led attack did all it could to keep the home team in the game till the final over of the match.

India skipper Virat Kohli has already said that his squad composition for the World Cup in May-July is "more or less sorted" but has not ruled out rewarding standout performances over the course of two T20s and five ODIs.

Considering the captain's current frame of mind, both K L Rahul and Rishabh Pant are likely to feature in most of the games against Australia.

India rested opener Shikhar Dhawan to give game time to Rahul, who grabbed the opportunity with both hands by smashing 50 off 36 balls in his comeback game.

With the series on the line, it remains to be seen if Dhawan is brought back into the side to open alongside Rohit Sharma or the team retains the opening combination which featured in Vizag.

"Anything is possible now. We want to give game time to Rahul and Pant to figure out what we need to do in the World Cup," Kohli said after the first T20.

While Bumrah showed his class after coming back from a break, the other pacer in Umesh Yadav leaked runs and was not able to defend 14 in the final over.

India could replace Umesh with Siddharth Kaul or bring in all-rounder

CUMMINS PRAISES 'FAST AND ACCURATE' BUMRAH

PTI ■ BENGALURU

In-form Australian pacer Pat Cummins on Tuesday could not help but praise another fast bowler on the top of his game —

Jasprit Bumrah, saying the Indian's pace and accuracy has made him a serious threat in all three formats.

Cummins has been Australia's standout fast bowler over the last 12 months and has even made some useful contributions with the bat, including in the first T20 against India in Vizag on Sunday, when he got a crucial four and a double on the final two balls to pull off a three wicket win for his team.

Bumrah, on the other hand, brought back India into the game by taking two wickets in the 19th over in which he conceded just two runs. In his comeback game, he showed how invaluable he has become for India in all three formats.

"He is obviously a class act. Two of the basics he does really well is that he bowls fast and he bowls accurately. Anyone who does that in world cricket will pose a real challenge for the batsmen."

media) but really happy with how my game is going at the moment. So many things have fallen into place. Playing quite consistent cricket has helped," Cummins said.

"I have not played too much white ball cricket, so looking forward to more of it. It is a bigger challenge with the ball not swinging as much as the red ball."

He has also been involved with some tense finishes including the one in the last game. Though he doesn't consider himself as a proper batsman yet, Cummins relishes the challenge of closing out games.

"I am pretty happy batting down at 8 or 9. I think my role in the team is just to survive and bat extra time. Hopefully, I have got a batsman at the other end who can really cash in, especially in Tests. I might have big shots like a lot of other batsmen, and I have really enjoyed it," he said.

"Anyway, you can't just prepare for a game as a bowler, you got to prepare for everything."

Australia are a game away from a series win in India and if that happens, "it will be a huge result", feels Cummins.

"(Leading a series) has not happened for us in a while in an overseas series. Especially in a place like India which is so foreign to Australian conditions, against one of the best sides in the world. It will be a huge result for us, yeah. But we know will have to really play well to beat them tomorrow."

PITCH EXPECTED TO BE BATTING-FRIENDLY

PTI ■ BENGALURU

After a low-scoring thriller in the first T20 International between India and Australia at Visakhapatnam, the second and final game at the Chinnaswamy promises to be a run-feast, a KSCA official said on Tuesday.

Though the wicket at Chinnaswamy has slowed down over the years, the game is expected to be a high-scoring affair unlike the series opener in which Australia chased down 127 on the final ball of the innings.

"The surface may not be as high scoring as an IPL game but will have plenty of runs. We are using a wicket which has not been used for more than two months, it was last used in Vijay Hazare Trophy," a KSCA official said.

"Around 180 should be a par score on this surface," he added.

The last T20 International was played here in February 2017 when India beat England by 75 runs after amassing 202 for six.

Barca gear up for Double Clasico

AFP ■ BARCELONA

Clement Lenglet describes it as the fixture that "freezes time" and believes this week's Clasico double-header could still define the seasons of both his own Barcelona, and Real Madrid.

The two clubs will meet twice in four days at the Santiago Bernabeu, on Wednesday in the second leg of their Copa del Rey semi-final and then on Saturday, in a battle of first against third in La Liga.

Even victory is unlikely to project Madrid back into the title race but for Santiago Solari's side, momentum is at stake, their steady, if not unwavering, resurgence poised for a potential double boost ahead of the campaign's decisive months.

Barcelona's priority may be the Champions League and their hold on La Liga too tight to shake off but it says something for the magnitude of the Clasico that Lenglet still feels its significance.

"This month is pivotal," he says.

"There is the Champions League and these two games against Real, when we can qualify for a cup final and then gain or lose points on them in the league.

"We have to manage them properly. It could be pivotal for the rest of the season." Madrid hold a slight advantage in the cup, having taken a creditable 1-1 draw from the opening leg last month at the Camp Nou.

Barca were without Lionel Messi, whose stunning hat-trick against Sevilla on Sunday was surely one of his best, but Madrid's showing confirmed their transformation from the broken team that were thrashed 5-1 by the Catalans in October.

"The dynamics are completely different now," says Lenglet.

"These are the European champions. They have turned the tide."

GREATEST GRUDGE MATCH

Madrid and Barca look under threat in the Champions League from the likes of Manchester City, Liverpool, Paris Saint-Germain, Juventus and Atletico. Yet in terms of quality, the Clasico remains football's greatest grudge match.

"As players, we are in our little bubble but when we come out, we realise it is a different game from the others because of the power it has around the world," Lenglet said.

"It's a game that seems to freeze time."

Lenglet is in a position to appreciate it more than most. Only three seasons ago, the 23-year-old was playing for Nancy, the French club where he was first given his chance.

He spent 18 months at Sevilla, enough to persuade Barca to pay his 35.9 million-euro ($40.6 million) buy-out clause last summer.

"I could never have imagined I'd come so far so quickly," he says. "I went to Seville, and for me that was a big jump.

"No disrespect to Nancy, but they were worlds apart. To then be at Barcelona a year and a half later, I could never have imagined it."

He has been thrown in at the deep end, with Samuel Umtiti only just recovering from a knee injury, allowing Lenglet to be fast-tracked into the role of Gerard Pique's partner-in-chief.

Many are predicting a call-up to the France squad next month.

"We live with the best players in the world and that makes you learn quickly," Lenglet said.

"I'm more thoughtful now about when to release the ball, when to clear and when to keep it, when to be more patient. It's about managing the game."

It helps to have Messi too, Barcelona's captain fresh from scoring his 50th career hat-trick last weekend.

"I remember when I first arrived, he said hello, gave me a little hug — I felt immediately at ease," Lenglet said.

Messi may not play both games against Madrid, after being disrupted recently by a thigh strain, but his influence on youngsters like Lenglet is total.

"He is a technical leader," said Lenglet.

"On the field he makes the difference so often, in almost every game. He's a leader through his experience. He watches football, knows all types of football and has mastered it to perfection."

There's only one Messi and when he gives advice, you listen."

Guardiola forced to juggle at Man City

AFP ■ MANCHESTER

Manchester City bagged the first silverware of the season by winning the League Cup final against Chelsea but manager Pep Guardiola will be cautious about the midweek league encounter with his predecessor Manuel Pellegrini.

Mid-table West Ham are the visitors to the Etihad Stadium on Wednesday as City return to league action following their penalty shootout win at Wembley.

But celebrations after a highly satisfactory Sunday afternoon for Guardiola, with title rivals Liverpool only managing to pick up a point in a draw at Manchester United, were muted by the post-match news from the City dressing room.

Brazilian midfielder Fernandinho (groin) and central defender Aymeric Laporte (hamstring) both collected injuries at Wembley that Guardiola said would sideline them for several weeks.

Even allowing for the depth of a City squad assembled for vast sums, it would be hard to pick two less replaceable performers for the manager to lose at such a pivotal stage of the campaign, with his side chasing an unprecedented quadruple.

Fernandinho, in particular, has become one of Guardiola's most dependable lieutenants at the Etihad, one of the few players whose name is guaranteed to be in City's starting XI every week.

Since his arrival in 2013, City have won more than 70 percent of the games in which he has played, a percentage that drops below 60 in his absence.

Most recently, when City suffered shock consecutive defeats against Crystal Palace and Leicester, Fernandinho, 33, was absent.

Ilkay Gundogan and Fabian Delph are logical potential replacements in the defensive midfield role but, despite their status as international players, they cannot match Fernandinho's poise and tackling ability.

Daniilo played in that role with Real Madrid and is another potential replacement while Guardiola has even spoken about playmaker Kevin De Bruyne playing in a deeper position.

FERNANDINHO FACTOR

Fernandinho's all-round excellence even saw him selected at centre-half by Guardiola for the recent home win over Arsenal and the loss of Laporte adds to the manager's concerns in that department.

Veteran Vincent Kompany has struggled for fitness and form for much of the season although John Stones is close to returning from his own injury lay-off.

The fixture list before the international break in mid-March looks benign, with City facing Bournemouth, Watford and German side Schalke after Wednesday's visit of West Ham.

Yet, with City still active in so many high-stakes games at this stage of the season, Guardiola can scarcely afford any more injury concerns. De Bruyne described the relentless demands on the players.

"I feel all right, you know. It's tough but it's tough for everybody with the amount of games coming up," said the Belgian.

Empathy pivotal to Mourinho's next destination

AFP ■ LONDON

Jose Mourinho wants his next club to be one where "internal empathy" exists and not "internal conflict" he told the Daily Telegraph on Tuesday.

The 56-year-old Portuguese — sacked by Manchester United on December 18 after a series of bust-ups with senior players and poor results — said the club where he had felt this the most was Serie A side Inter Milan.

He guided them to a Champions League, two league titles and an Italian Cup in two seasons there from 2008-10.

Mourinho said money is not the priority admitting since he left United he had turned down a lucrative offer from an unnamed club because "I want high-level football and ambitions at the highest level".

However, he says that comes second on his list of ingredients for taking a job.

"I don't want an internal conflict," said Mourinho, who has down the years earned a reputation for confronting senior players at clubs he has managed.

"I want internal empathy. And then your conflict is on Sunday on the pitch when you play against somebody who wants to steal your three points."

"That's the moment of the conflict."

Mourinho, who enjoyed a good first season with United landing the Europa League and League Cup before things turned sour winning nothing last year, says structural empathy is obligatory for him.

"I want to work with structural empathy. A club is a structure, a complex structure where the manager is an important part of that structure but he is not the structure."

"I want to work with people that I love. People I want to work with, that I am happy to work with, with whom I share the same ideas."

Injuries open way for Sanchez and Lukaku to shine for Utd

AFP ■ MANCHESTER

Alexis Sanchez and Romelu Lukaku must both take their opportunity to impress as an injury crisis cuts through Manchester United's squad, Ole Gunnar Solskjaer says.

Both players have struggled for form for much of the season, with Sanchez having started just one Premier League match in 2019, and Lukaku having gone 10 matches without scoring.

The two forwards were heralded as major signings when they arrived at Old Trafford, but neither would now be considered an automatic starter.

However, United's squad is stretched to the limit as they prepare for Wednesday's Premier League trip to Crystal Palace, with 10 players either unavailable or doubtful because of injury.

That list includes four frontline forwards, Anthony Martial, Jesse Lingard, Marcus Rashford and Juan Mata. Lingard and Mata both had to be substituted during the first half of Sunday's 0-0 draw to Liverpool, while Rashford played to the finish despite an ankle injury caused by Jordan Henderson's challenge early on.

France forward Martial missed the game with a groin problem. Caretaker-manager Solskjaer, though, is confident Sanchez and Lukaku have the quality to impress if given a sustained run in the team.

Sanchez did little to impress after replacing Lingard, but Lukaku did make an impact after being moved from a central position to a wide role in order to reduce the injured Rashford's workload.

"It's a chance for them to play to their potential. Reputation is one thing, but potential is high," said Ole. "The two are good mates and they link up well together, so this might be a chance for those two together to find some form and give us a selection headache for when everyone gets fit.

"Rom created our two biggest chances against Liverpool. It's a different position for him, but Rashy's injury meant we had to leave him standing up there and running in behind. He couldn't do too much defending work."

"Rom's attitude and workrate were fantastic. Hopefully Alexis and Rom can step up."

Solskjaer confirmed Martial would not be risked against Palace, although he could return for Saturday's Premier League home match against Southampton Club captain Antonio Valencia, meanwhile, is several weeks away from a return after aggravating a calf injury.

United also have Matteo Darmian, Phil Jones, Nemanja Matic and Ander Herrera on the sidelines so Solskjaer has called up academy graduates Angel Gomes, Tahith Chong and James Garner for the Palace trip.

Kepa fined, apologises for mutiny

AFP ■ LONDON

Chelsea goalkeeper Kepa Arrizabalaga has been fined a week's wages by the club after defying manager Maurizio Sarri and refusing to be substituted during the League Cup final on Sunday.

"Although there was a misunderstanding, on reflection, I made a big mistake with how I handled the situation," Kepa said in a statement on Chelsea's website which announced the fine.

The club simultaneously published a statement from Sarri in which the manager said the pair had spoken following the row, which occurred in extra time of the match which Manchester City won on penalties.

"He has apologised to me, his team-mates and the club," said Sarri.

"It is up to the club if they want to discipline him according to the club rules, but for me this matter is now closed."

Sarri, who reacted furiously when Kepa refused to be substituted after needing treatment in the closing stages, said the incident had been a "misunderstanding".

"There was a misunderstanding yesterday but (Kepa) realises he made a big mistake in the way he reacted.

"The team performance as a whole was extremely positive and it is a shame to see how this incident has overshadowed our efforts in what was a very competitive cup final."

Kepa, the club's record 71 million ($ 93 million) signing from Athletic Bilbao, refused to leave the field to be replaced by Willy Caballero. Sarri then stormed off down the tunnel in anger before returning.

"I wanted to take the time today to apologise fully and in person to the coach, to Willy, my team-mates and to the club," said Kepa, 24, whose fine will be donated to the Chelsea foundation.

"I have done this and now I want to offer the same apology to the fans. I will learn from this episode and will accept any punishment or discipline the club decides is appropriate."

Sarri is under increasing pressure with Chelsea losing four of their past seven games in a run that has seen them drop to sixth in the Premier League, crash out of the FA Cup and lose the League Cup final.

There is little time for Sarri and his team to regroup with third-placed London rivals Tottenham Hotspur visiting Stamford Bridge on Wednesday in the Premier League.

Meanwhile, Mike Dean has been removed from fourth official duties at the Bridge to avoid further conflict with Tottenham manager Mauricio Pochettino.

Pochettino marched across the pitch following Saturday's defeat at Burnley to confront Dean in a heated exchange that earned him an improper conduct charge from the Football Association.

From Drag-flicks to 'Tiki Taka': Harendra plans football coaching stint

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

There is "nothing left in hockey" for him, says former India men's coach Harendra Singh, who is now planning to shift loyalties to football as he finds "The Beautiful Game" quite similar to his "first love".

The seasoned coach was last month removed after India's less than impressive performance in the World Cup. He was urged to take charge of the junior squad but Harendra refused to accept that position.

"Hockey will always remain my first love. Whatever I am today is because of hockey. But now I have nothing in hockey, so I decided to enhance my knowledge and what better than in my second love football," Harendra said.

The 50-year-old said he is a big football fan and admires the "Tiki-Taka" short passing style of Spanish football, which according to him is quite similar to the Indian hockey team's tactics. The Spanish team won its maiden World Cup title back in 2010 relying heavily on the "Tiki Taka" style of play.

"I am big soccer fan. I closely follow Arsenal and Manchester United (in the English Premier League). Spain is my favourite international team because their style of play with short passes is very close to Indian hockey," he said.

The junior World-Cup winning coach has already approached Delhi Soccer Association President Shaji Prabhakaran to help him in his new pursuit.

"Hockey and football coaching are quite similar and I feel it is ideal for both hockey and football coaches to share their knowledge. I want this break to develop my coaching skills in football."

"I want to start from the scratch so I have decided to obtain the 'D' license of AIFF (All India Football Federation) and in this regard, I have sought help from Shaji Prabhakaran," he added.

Harendra cited the examples of former hockey coach-turned-football manager Bernhard Peters, the legendary Ric Charlesworth and Roelant Oltmans — all of whom tried their hands at more than one sport.

Peters had a successful career as a hockey coach in the German League and also went on to win the World Cup with Germany in 2002 and 2006 before switching to football where he was the Sporting Director of Bundesliga clubs like Hoffenheim and Hamburg.

Charlesworth was a former first-class Australian cricketer and High Performance Manager of New Zealand Cricket. He also had a glorious playing career with the men's hockey team before coaching both the women's and men's teams. He guided both the teams to World Cup and Olympic medals.

In between Charlesworth plied his trade in Australian Football League as Performance Consultant with Fremantle Football Club, while until 2002 Oltmans was the Technical Director of Dutch football team NAC Breda.

"Who knows what happens in future? You might see me exploring options in football. In Europe, switching from hockey to football coaching and vice versa is quite common. You have Bernhard Peters, Charlesworth and Oltmans for example," Harendra said.

HI to conduct online test for umpires and technical officials

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

In a bid to raise the standards of umpiring and officiating in the country, Hockey India on Tuesday announced it will conduct an online test on March 29.

The online Test is designed as part of a program for professional development of the umpires and technical officials.

It will help them enhance their skill-based and knowledge-based expertise. It is also expected to illustrate the officials' knowledge levels of International Hockey Federation (FIH) rules and regulations.

The online test will focus on testing the practical and theoretical knowledge of the FIH Rules of hockey.

It is mandatory for any candidate appearing for this test to be registered with a Hockey India Permanent/ Associate State Member Unit.
